- Demi Isaac Oviawe, Ireland-based actress[74]
- Chris Oyakhilome, founder and president of Believers LoveWorld Incorporated, also known as Christ Embassy[75]
- Modupe Ozolua, cosmetic surgeon[76]
- Lilian Salami, Vice-Chancellor of university of Benin
- Victor Uwaifo, musician[77]

References

1. "Benin City | History & Facts" (https://www.britannica.com/place/Benin-City) . Encyclopedia Britannica. Retrieved 31 May 2020.
2. "International Rubber Study Group - Nigeria" (http://www.rubberstudy.com/nigeria) . www.rubberstudy.com. Retrieved 31 May 2020.
3. "See the 6 Ancient Cities in Nigeria and Reasons why they are Old Cities, Check if your City is Among - Opera News" (https://ng.opera.news/ng/en/culture/b49bb54a2db2b9ca8d954539dabbb9da) . ng.opera.news. Retrieved 9 July 2021.

4. Benin, City, Nigeria, (http://bartleby.com/65/be/BeninNig.html) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20070425211700/http://bartleby.com/65/be/BeninNig.html) 25 April 2007 at the Wayback Machine The Columbia Encyclopedia, Sixth Edition. 2005 Columbia University Press. Retrieved 18 February 2007
5. "Edo People – Edo Nigeria Association of Western Australia" (https://enawa.org.au/edo-people/) . Retrieved 9 July 2021.
6. "The kingdom of Benin" (https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/zpvckqt/articles/z3n7mp3) . BBC Bitesize. Retrieved 31 May 2020.
7. "Benin Obas" (https://www.edoworld.net/Obas1.html) . www.edoworld.net. Retrieved 25 August 2021.
8. Pynith (21 March 2020). "the history of Benin city you need to know - LPV Forum" (https://lpvforum.com/the-history-of-benin-city-you-need-to-know) . lpvforum.com. Retrieved 9 July 2021.
9. The Sun (Nigeria), Wednesday, 17 September 2008.
10. "Benin Kingdom in Edo is Yoruba territory -- Ooni of Ife, Adeyeye Ogunwusi | Premium Times Nigeria" (https://www.premiumtimesng.com/news/top-news/198255-benin-kingdom-edo-yoruba-territory-ooni-ife-adeyeye-ogunwusi.html) . 10 February 2016. Retrieved 9 July 2021.
11. "The Place Of Oranmiyan In The History Of Ile - Ife" (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2016/02/the-place-of-oranmiyan-in-the-history-of-ile-ife/) . Vanguard News. 22 February 2016. Retrieved 9 July 2021.
12. "Benin City | History & Facts" (https://www.britannica.com/place/Benin-City) . Encyclopedia Britannica. Retrieved 15 July 2021.
13. Toyin, Falola (2005). Akinwunmi, Ogundiran (ed.). Precolonial Nigeria (2005 ed.). African World Press Inc. pp. 264–265. ISBN 978-1592212194.
14. Koutonin, Mawuna (18 March 2016). "Story of cities #5: Benin City, the mighty medieval capital now lost without trace" (https://www.theguardian.com/cities/2016/mar/18/story-of-cities-5-benin-city-edo-nigeria-mighty-medieval-capital-lost-without-trace) . Retrieved 2 April 2018.
15. Elias, Taslim Olawale (1988). Africa and the development of international law (https://www.google.com/books/edition/Africa_and_the_Development_of_Internatio/0dol1fMSM-AC?hl=en&gbpv=0) (Second edition, first published 1972 ed.). Springer Netherlands. p. 12. ISBN 9789024737963. Retrieved 27 January 2019.
16. Taub, Ben (10 April 2017). "The Desperate Journey of a Trafficked Girl" (https://web.archive.org/web/20170403090127/http://www.newyorker.com/magazine/2017/04/10/the-desperate-journey-of-a-trafficked-girl) . The New Yorker. Archived from the original (http://www.newyorker.com/magazine/2017/04/10/the-desperate-journey-of-a-trafficked-girl) on 3 April 2017. "In 1897, after the Edo slaughtered a British delegation, colonial forces, pledging to end slavery and ritual sacrifice, ransacked the city and burned it to the ground."

17. Obinyan, Thomas Uwadiale (1988). "The Annexation of Benin". Journal of Black Studies. 19 (1): 29–40. doi:10.1177/002193478801900103 (https://doi.org/10.1177%2F002193478801900103) . JSTOR 2784423 (https://www.jstor.org/stable/2784423) . S2CID 142726955 (https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:142726955) .

18. Boisragon, A. The Benin Massacre(1897). (https://archive.org/stream/beninmassacre02boisgoog#page/n198/mode/2up)

19. Graham, James D. (1965). "The Slave Trade, Depopulation and Human Sacrifice in Benin History: The General Approach". Cahiers d'Études Africaines. 5 (18): 317–334. doi:10.3406/cea.1965.3035 (https://doi.org/10.3406%2Fcea.1965.3035) . JSTOR 4390897 (https://www.jstor.org/stable/4390897) .

20. "The kingdom of Benin" (https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/zpvckqt/articles/z3n7mp3) . BBC Bitesize. Retrieved 15 July 2021.

21. Marshall, Alex (23 January 2020). "This Art Was Looted 123 Years Ago. Will It Ever Be Returned?" (https://www.nytimes.com/2020/01/23/arts/design/benin-bronzes.html) . The New York Times. ISSN 0362-4331 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0362-4331) . Retrieved 9 July 2021.

22. "Nigeria - The arrival of the British" (https://www.britannica.com/place/Nigeria) . Encyclopedia Britannica. Retrieved 9 July 2021.

23. "Bendel | state, Nigeria" (https://www.britannica.com/place/Bendel) . Encyclopedia Britannica. Retrieved 31 May 2020.

24. Antal, R.; Ernö, S. (1975). "[A rare form of the trigger finger]" (https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/1597) . Magyar Traumatologia, Orthopaedia Es Helyreallito Sebeszet. 18 (4): 304–305. ISSN 0025-0317 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0025-0317) . PMID 1597 (https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/1597) .

25. "TAR Climate Change 2001: Impacts, Adaptation, and Vulnerability — IPCC" (https://www.ipcc.ch/report/ar3/wg2/) . Retrieved 16 July 2021.

26. "Klimatafel von Benin City / Nigeria" (http://www.dwd.de/DWD/klima/beratung/ak/ak_652290_kt.pdf) (PDF). Baseline climate means (1961-1990) from stations all over the world (in German). Deutscher Wetterdienst. Retrieved 9 August 2016.

27. "University of Benin on The Conversation" (https://theconversation.com/institutions/university-of-benin-3614) . theconversation.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

28. "Ambrose Alli University | TOP ranked University | University Directory" (https://www.university-directory.eu/Nigeria/Ambrose-Alli-University.html) . www.university-directory.eu. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

29. "College of Education, Ekiadolor-Benin coeeki| School Fees, Courses & Admission info" (https://universitycompass.com/africa/Nigeria/colleges/College-of-Education-Ekiadolor-Benin.php) . universitycompass.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

30. "16 students bag first class at Igbinedion University 18th convocation" (https://guardian.ng/news/16-students-bag-first-class-at-igbinedion-university-18th-convocation/) . The Guardian Nigeria News - Nigeria and World News. 29 November 2020. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

31. "NUC approves new courses for BIU" (https://guardian.ng/news/nuc-approves-new-courses-for-biu/) . The Guardian Nigeria News - Nigeria and World News. 1 August 2019. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

32. "Wellspring University | School Fees, Courses & Admission info" (https://universitycompass.com/africa/Nigeria/universities/wellspring-university.php) . universitycompass.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

33. "Edo College Old Boys' Association - Home" (https://ecoba.org.ng/) . ecoba.org.ng. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

34. "Benin Technical College nears completion ahead of school resumption" (http://nigerianobservernews.com/2019/08/benin-technical-college-nears-completion-ahead-of-school-resumption/) . Nigerian Observer. 26 August 2019. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

35. "Igbinedion Education Centre in ," (https://www.edusko.com/school/igbinedion-education-centre) . www.edusko.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

36. "FEDERAL GOVERNMENT GIRLS COLLEGE BENIN's Official Website" (https://fggcbenin.com/w_home) . fggcbenin.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

37. Floyd, A. C.; Oikpor, R.; Ekene, B. (2016). "An Assessment of Climate Change in Benin City, Edo State, Nigeria" (https://www.ajol.info/index.php/fje/article/view/176006) . FUTY Journal of the Environment. 10 (1): 87–94. doi:10.4314/fje.v10i1 (https://doi.org/10.4314%2Ffje.v10i1) . ISSN 1597-8826 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1597-8826) .

38. Butu, A. W.; Emeribe, C. N.; Ogbomida, E. T. (March 2019). "Effects of Seasonal Flooding in Benin City and the need for a Community-Based Adaptation Model in Disaster Management in Nigeria" (https://nijest.com/112-128_108_vol-3-no-1_nijest-2/) . Nigerian Journal of Environmental Sciences and Technology. 3 (1): 112–128. doi:10.36263/nijest.2019.01.0108 (https://doi.org/10.36263%2Fnijest.2019.01.0108) . ISSN 2616-0501 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/2616-0501) .

39. Odemerho, Francis O. (1 April 1993). "Flood control failures in a Third World City: Benin City, Nigeria — some environmental factors and policy issues" (https://doi.org/10.1007/BF00807539) . GeoJournal. 29 (4): 371–376. doi:10.1007/BF00807539 (https://doi.org/10.1007%2FBF00807539) . ISSN 1572-9893 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1572-9893) .

40. Ezemonye, Mary. N; Emeribe, Chukwudi. N (1 January 2014). "Flooding and Household Preparedness in Benin City, Nigeria" (https://www.richtmann.org/journal/index.php/mjss/article/view/1933) . Mediterranean Journal of Social Sciences. doi:10.5901/mjss.2014.v5n1p547 (https://doi.org/10.5901%2Fmjss.2014.v5n1p547) .

41. "Flood ravages Benin City, renders many homeless" (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2020/06/flood-ravages-benin-city-renders-many-homeless/) . Vanguard News. 22 June 2020. Retrieved 2 October 2021.

42. Adekola, P. O.; Iyalomhe, F. O.; Paczoski, A.; Abebe, S. T.; Pawłowska, B.; Bąk, M.; Cirella, G. T. (11 January 2021). "Public perception and awareness of waste management from Benin City" (https://www.nature.com/articles/s41598-020-79688-y) . Scientific Reports. 11 (1): 306. doi:10.1038/s41598-020-79688-y (https://doi.org/10.1038%2Fs41598-020-79688-y) . ISSN 2045-2322 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/2045-2322) .

43. Trillo, Richard (2008), The Rough Guide to West Africa (https://books.google.com/books?id=clU65BAfOmUC&pg=PT2629) , Rough Guides, p. 2629, ISBN 978-1-84353-850-9

44. Ademola Iyi-eweka, Ph.D. "IGUE FESTIVAL" (https://www.edo-nation.net/igue.htm) . www.edo-nation.net. Retrieved 31 May 2020.

45. "Igue Festival, Festivals And Carnivals In Edo State :: Nigeria Information & Guide" (https://www.nigeriagalleria.com/Nigeria/States_Nigeria/Edo/Igue-Festival-Edo.html) . www.nigeriagalleria.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

46. "Igue Festival – Visit Edo" (https://visitedo.ng/igue-festival/) . Retrieved 23 June 2021.

47. "History of Igue Festival in Benin-City" (https://edofolks.com/html/pub142.htm) . edofolks.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

48. "Igue Festival | Hometown.ng™" (https://hometown.ng/listing-item/igue-festival/) . 5 September 2017. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

49. "4th Benin City Film Festival: Call for Entries | LADIMA" (https://ladima.africa/4th-benin-city-film-festival-call-for-entries/) . ladima.africa. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

50. "BENIN CITY FILM FESTIVAL | GivingWay" (https://www.givingway.com/organization/benin-city-film-festival) . www.givingway.com. Retrieved 23 June 2021.

51. "Obaseki celebrates with Godwin Abbe at 70" (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2019/01/obaseki-celebrates-with-godwin-abbe-at-70/) . Vanguard News. 10 January 2019. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

52. Irene, Oseremen Felix (2000). Footpaths: a life of service : tribute to prof. Ambrose Folorunsho Alli : a compendium of achievements (https://www.worldcat.org/title/footpaths-a-life-of-service-tribute-to-prof-ambrose-folorunsho-alli-a-compendium-of-achievements/oclc/53015677) . Ibadan, Nigeria: National Association of Edo State Students. OCLC 53015677 (https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/53015677) .

53. "Prof. Ambrose Folorunsho Alli" (https://www.edoworld.net/Alli_Biography.html) . www.edoworld.net. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

54. "Eghosa Asemota Agbonifo speak on what inspired him to join Edo State politics, as campaign kicks off" (https://businessday.ng/uncategorized/article/eghosa-asemota-agbonifo-speaks-on-what-inspired-him-to-join-edo-state-politics-as-campaign-kicks-off/) . Businessday NG. 21 January 2019. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

55. "How Late Chief Tony Anenih Became "Mr. Fix It" " (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2018/11/how-late-chief-tony-anenih-became-mr-fix-it/) . Vanguard News. 3 November 2018. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

56. Proballers. "Suleiman Braimoh, Basketball Player" (https://www.proballers.com/basketball/player/55244/suleiman-braimoh) . Proballers. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

57. "Politics and Legacies- Arch-Bishop John Enoyogiere Edokpolo and the verdict of history- a text presented at Edokpolo Grammar School Old Boys 50th Anniversary Ceremony- 4thDecember 2010 by Comrade Aiyamenkhue Edokpolo- SSA to the Gov of Edo State" (https://www.thenigerianvoice.com/news/40149/politics-and-legacies-arch-bishop-john-enoyogiere-edokpolo.html) . Nigerian Voice. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

58. Eisenhofer, Stefan (January 1995). "The Origins of the Benin Kingship in the Works of Jacob Egharevba" (https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/history-in-africa/article/abs/origins-of-the-benin-kingship-in-the-works-of-jacob-egharevba/EB682F2E6B3B487C45965F467AECB4AA) . History in Africa. 22*: 141–163. doi:10.2307/3171912 (https://doi.org/10.2307%2F3171912)* . ISSN 0361-5413 (https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0361-5413) .

59. "Chief Anthony Enahoro obituary" (https://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/feb/08/chief-anthony-enahoro-obituary) . The Guardian. 8 February 2011. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

60. "Abel Guobadia" (https://www.edoworld.net/Abel_Guobadia.html) . www.edoworld.net. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

61. "Abel Guobadia, ex-INEC chairman dies at 78" (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2011/02/abel-guobadia-ex-inec-chairman-dies-at-78/) . Vanguard News. 4 February 2011. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

62. "Archbishop Idahosa told me about his death – Oyakhilome" (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2020/03/archbishop-idahosa-told-me-about-his-death-oyakhilome/) . Vanguard News. 15 March 2020. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

63. "The hunt for Marianne is being led by Bonhams' Nigeria representative, Neil Coventry" (https://guardian.ng/art/the-hunt-for-marianne-is-being-led-by-bonhams-nigeria-representative-neil-coventry/) . The Guardian Nigeria News - Nigeria and World News. 22 September 2019. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

64. "My father's lifestyle affected my childhood —Felix Liberty's daughter" (https://www.vanguardngr.com/2018/02/fathers-lifestyle-affected-childhood-felix-libertys-daughter/) . Vanguard News. 12 February 2018. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

65. "Esama of Benin, Igbinedion, glows at 86" (https://punchng.com/esama-of-benin-igbinedion-glows-at-86/) . Punch Newspapers. 13 September 2020. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

66. "Driver who caused death of Professor Festus Iyayi jailed seven years | Premium Times Nigeria" (https://www.premiumtimesng.com/news/more-news/259701-driver-caused-death-professor-festus-iyayi-jailed-seven-years.html) . 23 February 2018. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

67. "Apostle Suleman Warns Buhari, Threatens Him With God Over IPOB Treatment" (http://saharareporters.com/2021/06/11/apostle-suleman-warns-buhari-threatens-him-god-over-ipob-treatment) . Sahara Reporters. 11 June 2021. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

68. Nwachukwu, John Owen (13 June 2021). "You can't cheat nature - Apostle Suleman reacts to T.B Joshua's death" (https://dailypost.ng/2021/06/13/you-cant-cheat-nature-apostle-suleman-reacts-t-b-joshuas-death/) . Daily Post Nigeria. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

69. "Former Governor Samuel Ogbemudia is dead | Premium Times Nigeria" (https://www.premiumtimesng.com/news/225745-former-governor-samuel-ogbemudia-dead.html) . 10 March 2017. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

70. "The Death That Brings Life: Stella Okosun Saving Lives Through Sonny Okosun Colon Cancer Foundation By Bayo Oluwasanmi" (http://saharareporters.com/2015/05/26/death-brings-life-stella-okosun-saving-lives-through-sonny-okosun-colon-cancer-foundation) . Sahara Reporters. 26 May 2015. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

71. "Suyi Davies Okungbowa" (https://www.amazon.com/Suyi-Davies-Okungbowa/e/B07S7KFBGB?ref_=dbs_p_ebk_w0m_abau_000000) . www.amazon.com. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

72. "UNIBEN to graduate 19, 472 students as 118 bag First Class" (https://pmnewsnigeria.com/2014/11/11/uniben-to-graduate-19-472-students-as-118-bag-first-class/) . P.M. News. 11 November 2014. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

73. "Business Service News | Guardian Newspaper" (https://editor.guardian.ng/category/business-services/) . The Guardian Nigeria News - Nigeria and World News. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

74. Brady, Tara. "Demi Isaac Oviawe of Young Offenders: 'I naturally have a resting bitch face' " (https://www.irishtimes.com/culture/film/demi-isaac-oviawe-of-young-offenders-i-naturally-have-a-resting-bitch-face-1.4303344) . The Irish Times. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

75. "Chris Oyakhilome" (https://www.amazon.com/Chris-Oyakhilome/e/B00803JOGK?ref=dbs_a_mng_rwt_scns_share) . www.amazon.com. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

76. "Modupe Ozolua" (https://guardian.ng/guardian-woman/modupe-ozolua/) . The Guardian Nigeria News - Nigeria and World News. 7 July 2018. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

77. "Victor Uwaifo and I were street hawkers in Benin, says Igbinedion" (https://thenationonlineng.net/victor-uwaifo-and-i-were-street-hawkers-in-benin-says-igbinedion/) . Latest Nigeria News, Nigerian Newspapers, Politics. 11 July 2021. Retrieved 16 July 2021.

Bibliography

- Bondarenko D. M. A Homoarchic Alternative to the Homoarchic State: Benin Kingdom of the Thirteenth - Nineteenth Centuries. Social Evolution & History. 2005. vol. 4, no 2. pp. 18–88.

External links

Wikimedia Commons has media related to Benin City.

- WorldStatesmen- Nigeria (http://www.worldstatesmen.org/Nigeria.htm#Republic%20of%20Benin)
- (http://www.blackhistorypages.net/pages/fallbenin.php) permanent dead link]
  The Fall of Benin
- Benin kingdom/Edo state tourism (http://www.edoworld.net/Tourism.html)
- Story of cities #5: Benin City, the mighty medieval capital now lost without trace (https://www.theguardian.com/cities/2016/mar/18/story-of-cities-5-benin-city-edo-nigeria-mighty-medieval-capital-lost-without-trace?CMP=Share_iOSApp_Other)

Traditional African religion portal

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Benin_City&oldid=1059603141"

Last edited 19 hours ago by 2600:100D:B01F:153B:6C87:8060:885E:936A

Satchidanand

archive.org Member

☆ Favorite

UPLOADS POSTS REVIEWS COLLECTIONS WEB ARCHIVES

26 UPLOADS

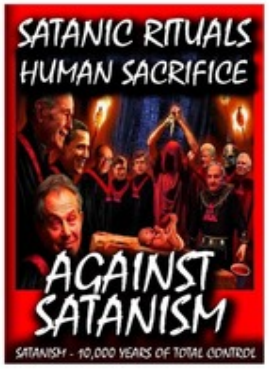
DATE ARCHIVED

Search Uploads

Media Type

- texts 26

Year



- 2020 1
- 2019 3
- (No Date) 22

Topics & Subjects

- Energy Enhancement 24
- Meditation 22
- Swami Satchidanand 21
- Energy 20
- Spiritual 16
- Energy Blockages 7

Against Satanism 7 The Cancer of The Venetian
Jan 4, 2020
141 2 0

AGAINST SATANISM 6 Satanic History Of The
Sep 11, 2019
267 2 0

AS 6 World History Jewish Phoenician European
Sep 5, 2019
361 2 0

Eliminating The Shadc Meditation, Carl Jung
Jun 29, 2019
400 5

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

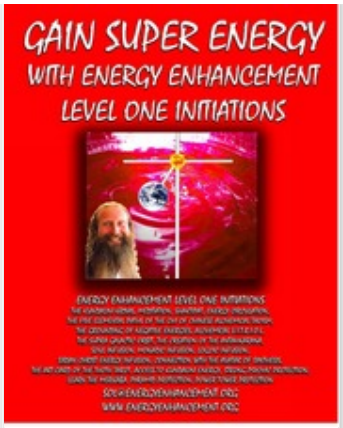
More

Collection

- Liza Nicole 22
- Community Collections 20
- Community Texts 20
- lucke133 Favorites 18
- snginc Favorites 15
- CTZen Favorites 12

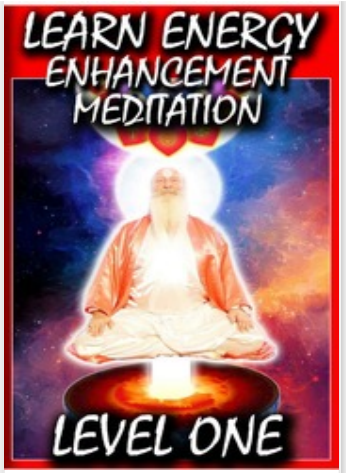
More

Creator



- swami satchidanand 23
- satchidanand 1

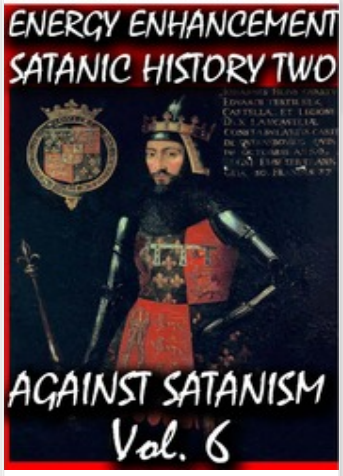
Language



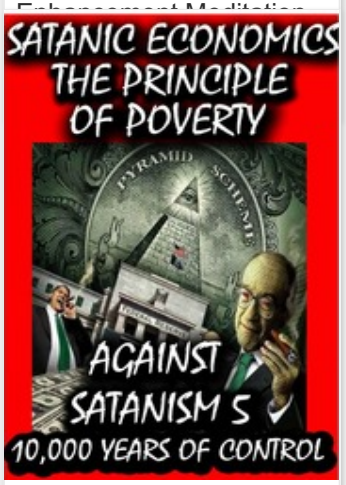
- English 26

Psychology - Eliminate

Energy Enhancement



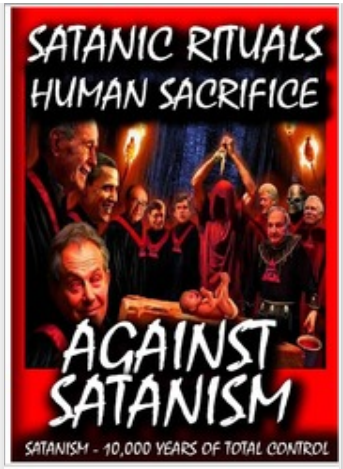
Learn Energy



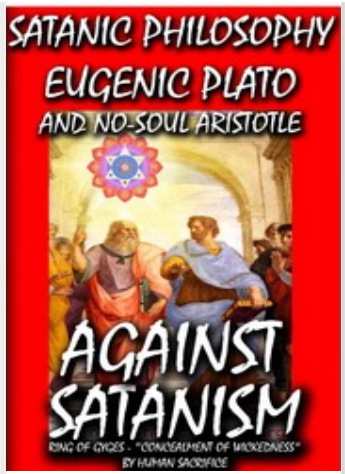
Energy Enhancement

Energy Enhancement Meditation Level 3
May 14, 2019
627 7 0

Against Satanism 6 Satanic History Of The
May 14, 2019
1,139 6 0



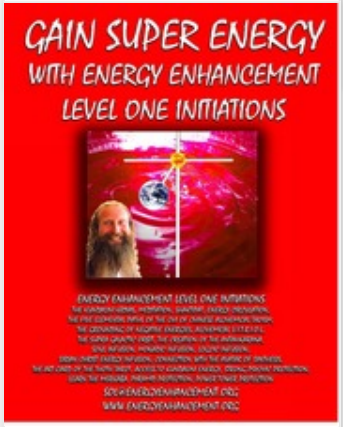
Against Satanism 5 Satanic Economics The
May 14, 2019
722 9 0



Against Satanism Volu 4 Satanic Homo Occu
May 14, 2019
1,106 10

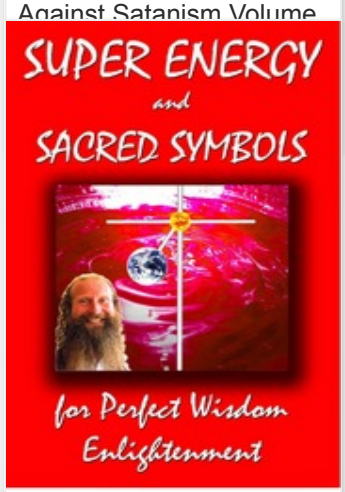
Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API
PDFCROWD

Against Satanism 3 Satanic Rituals Define



Against Satanism Volume

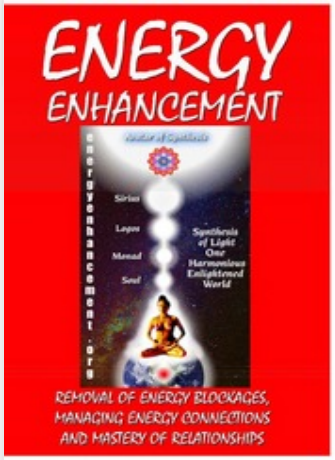
Against Satanism Energy Enhancement Satanic



Energy Enhancement Meditation Level 2

LEARN ENERGY ENHANCEMENT

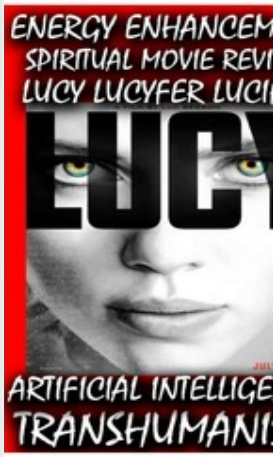
May 13, 2019



302 4 0

Meditation Super Energy And Sacred Symbols For

May 12, 2019



658 5 0

Energy Connections, Removing Energy

May 12, 2019

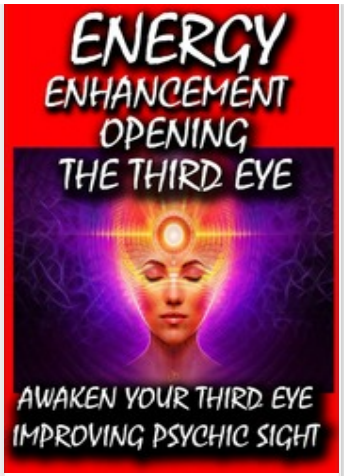
550 7 0

Energy Enhancement Spiritual Movie Review

May 12, 2019

546 5

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API



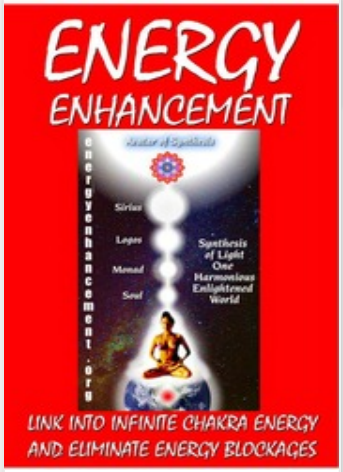
PDFCROWD

Energy Enhancement Spiritual Esoteric Movie

Meditate And Get Rich - Swami Satchidanand

Opening The Third Eye - Swami Satchidanand

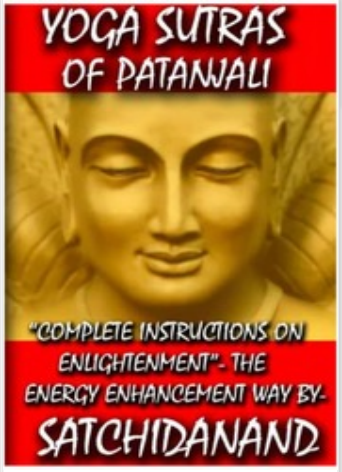
May 9, 2019



1,379 8 0

Vimalakirti Sutra Swar Satchidanand

May 9, 2019



362 3

Link Into Infinite Chakra Energies Remove Energy

May 9, 2019

524 6 0

Energy Enhancement Yoga Sutras Of Patanjali

May 9, 2019

822 9 0

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API

PDFCROWD

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

bizango

c'est qoi le Bizango

Le Bizango est une tradition spirituelle et culturelle qui trouve son origine dans les pratiques religieuses et folkloriques de l'ile d'Haiti. C'est une forme de culte qui melange les croyances et les pratiques des religions africaines, des peuples autochtones tainos et des pratiques catholiques.

Le Bizango est souvent associe a des rituels secrets et mystiques, qui impliquent des ceremonies, des danses, des chants, des sacrifices d'animaux et d'autres pratiques visant a honorer les ancetres, les esprits et les divinites. Les membres de la communaute Bizango sont souvent organises en confreries ou societes secretes qui ont leurs propres hierarchies et codes de conduite.

bizango

Le Bizango est egalement connu pour son utilisation de la magie, qui est souvent associee a la guerison, a la protection et a la justice. Cependant, cette pratique a egalement ete associee a des activites criminelles telles que le vol, le trafic de drogue et le meurtre, bien que cela ne soit pas representatif de l'ensemble de la communaute Bizango.

omari razak

Bizango est egalement connu pour son utilisation de la magie Voodoo

Oui, le Bizango est souvent associe a la pratique du vaudou ou voodoo, qui est une religion afro-caribeenne qui a emerge en Haiti et dans d'autres pays de la region. Le vaudou est souvent considere comme une religion synchretique qui combine des elements de religions africaines, catholiques et autochtones.

Dans la pratique du vaudou, les esprits, ou loas, sont veneres et invoques lors de ceremonies rituelles qui impliquent souvent la musique, la danse, le chant et le sacrifice d'animaux. La magie est egalement une pratique courante dans le vaudou, qui est utilisee pour la guerison, la protection, l'amour et la vengeance.

Le Bizango est considere comme une forme specifique de vaudou qui a ses propres traditions et pratiques. Cependant, toutes les pratiques du Bizango ne sont pas necessairement liees au vaudou, et il existe de nombreuses autres formes de spiritualite et de croyances qui font partie de cette

bizango
tradition complexe.

omari razak
les gnawa aussi
Les Gnawa sont un groupe ethnique originaire d'Afrique de l'Ouest, principalement du Mali, du Senegal et de la Mauritanie, qui ont ete deportes en Afrique du Nord, notamment au Maroc, pendant la periode de la traite des esclaves.

Les Gnawa ont developpe leur propre tradition musicale et spirituelle, qui melange les elements de leurs croyances et pratiques religieuses africaines avec l'Islam et les influences culturelles de leur environnement nord-africain. La musique Gnawa est caracterisee par l'utilisation de l'instrument a cordes guembri, des percussions et des chants, qui sont utilises pour induire un etat de transe chez les musiciens et les participants.

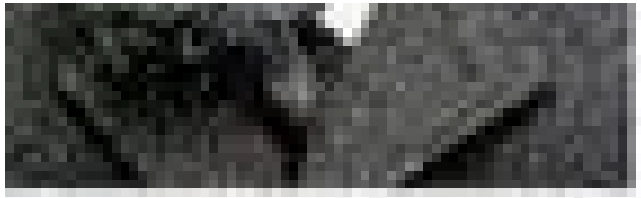
La spiritualite des Gnawa est basee sur la croyance en des esprits appeles les "mlouk", qui sont invoques lors des ceremonies pour guerir les maladies physiques et mentales, et pour apporter la chance et la prosperite. Les Gnawa croient egalement en la possession spirituelle, ou les esprits peuvent entrer en contact avec les etres humains et communiquer a travers eux.



Bien que la tradition Gnawa soit distincte du vaudou et du Bizango, il existe des similitudes dans les croyances et les pratiques spirituelles de ces differentes traditions.

Black History

Black History month is Blackamoor History.

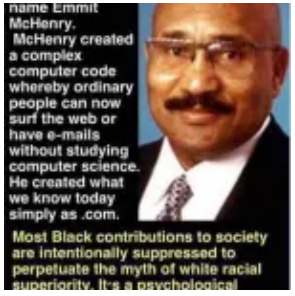
The First Automobile

SHARE

PUBLISHED BY

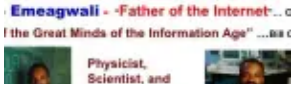
admin

TAGS:



Black History Month / Black inventions / Black Inventors / Black Native Americans / Blackamoors / Cherokee Gothic / free energy / Greco-Roman Architecture / Moors / Mud flood / Muurs / Old World Order / Tartarians / Tartary

2 YEARS AGO



RELATED POST

Ancient China the Land of the Ancient Afghanistan was in Missouri

Ancient Turkey was in South Carolina

Greetings friends, we know that it is the month of February, which means Black History Month, so this is my contribution towards Blackamoor History Month. This is our short list of inventions. I say short list, because Blackamoors have created over 90% of the world's inventions. Blackamoors are the true fathers and mothers of civilization. You see how you can enslave a people and rebrand them in a negative light, but you can't remove knowledge from their DNA, which is the case with the so-called African Americans.

In fact, Blackamoors (Berber Indians/Khmer people) invented all of this stuff and more when we ruled the world during the time of Lemuria/Atlantis, and more recently when we ruled as the Tartarians (Muurs/Moors), so of course this knowledge is still going to be in our blood. When people ask you who were the Tartarians, you say the Blackamoors were the Tartarians and Gothic Architecture and Greco-Roman Architecture all over the World. Yes, the moors, who were also the Tartarians built all of the Gothic and Greco-Roman Architecture in the Americas and throughout the world: https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/2584437584953859.

Evidence that Moors built the Cathedrals: https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/2070257296371893.

Cavities, resonators, magnetrons…

Cathode=Cathedral? If this true, this means that the Cathedrals were that we build were ancient power plants that supplied free energy to our towns. These cathedrals were huge magnetons. I say this because a Cathode is a part of a magnetron that is the center, aka, the source or the Black dot. You can also see the design of the magnetron in the Cathedral; especially, in some of the glass windows.

Did Moors build these Cathedrals yes: Gothic Building is a Moorish style of building. The Cathedral is built with a Gothic (Moorish/Islamic) type of building and so is Westminster Abbey: https://books.google.com/books… . Notice how in the link that you see on the left-hand side towards the bottom of the page, “In Turner’s Normandy, vol. ii. p. 250, are delineated several sculptural spandrels from Bayeux Cathedral, exhibiting somewhat of the Moorish or Tartarian, mode of workmanship. The word is spelt spaundre in the French Contract for reforming Westminster Hall,” dated 1393. – “A Dictionary of the Architecture and Archaeology of the Middle Ages.” Now, this is a powerful quote coming from a master textbook written by a Cathedrals throughout Europe.

I shared a youTube Video from a European who gives an interesting theory of what happened to the Great Tartarian Empire. The YouTube Channel is called When the Buildings Cried and the video is called, “WHEN THE BUILDINGS CRIED AND TURNED TO STONE FROM A WORLD WIDE HEAT EVENT.” When the Buildings Cried believes that the Moon was once a second sun that was hit by something that caused it to malfunction, which caused a Plasma type or a Nuclear type of event that cooked/ melted the great Tartarian Empire. His theory has merit to it, because all of the massive craters on the moon suggests that it was definitely hit by something. Also, When the Buildings Cried, gives you plenty of evidence of the melted Tartarian Empire throughout his videos. I believe all of this stuff happened during the most recent global reset, which was caused by the great comet of 1811-1812.

The Great comet stayed in the air almost a full year and it caused massive volcanic eruptions that blacked out the sun; it caused thousands of massive earthquakes that created massive tidal waves; and it caused the earth to literally liquify, which caused a great mudflood that completely destroyed the Old World Order that was ruled by Blackamoors from the beginning of time all the way until the great mud flood.

Now, without any further delay, below is our short list of inventions. I say short list, because almost everything that we have now as far as Technology goes, we had it first in Old World Tartary. The Fairhaven Hotel is a old World Tartarian building that not only proves the Mud flood event as factual (due to the 1811-1812 great comet), but it also proves that the Old Worl had almost every modern convenience that we have today:

Mathematics – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt science of Maat (math).
Medicine BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt (Imhotep).
Open Heart Surgery – BLACK – Daniel Hale Williams.
Brain Surgery Robot – BLACK – Bertin Nahum.
CAT Scan – BLACK – Allan Cormack.
Cell Phone – BLACK – Henry T. Sampson.
Rocket Propulsion – Henry T. Sampson.

Weapons system – Henry T. Sampson.
The gamma electric cell, which converts harmful gamma rays (radiation) into usable energy – Henry T. Sampson.
The Father of modern-day Electricity – Henry T. Sampson.
Contributions concerning direct conversion of nuclear energy to electricity – Henry T. Sampson.
Touch Tone Phone – BLACK – Shirley Ann Jackson.
Traffic Signal – BLACK – Garrett Morgan.
Gas Mask – BLACK – Garrett Morgan.
The Internet – BLACK – Philip Emeagwali.
Personal Computers – BLACK – Dr. Mark Dean.
Color monitor for personal computers – Dr. Mark Dean.
Dr. Mark Dean also invented the 1 gigahertz computer chip that has unlimited potential. The 1 gigahertz computer chip made supercomputers and robots possible.
Supercomputers – BLACK – Dr. Philip Emeagwali.

Telescope – BLACK, Benjamin Banneker.

Automobile – BLACK – C.R. Patterson (Stolen by Henry Ford)

Toilet – BLACK – J.B. Rhodes.

Fountain Pen – BLACK – W.B. Purvis.

Remote Control – BLACK – Dr. Joseph N. Jackson.

Home Security & Camera – BLACK – Marie Van Brittan Brown.

Mailbox – BLACK – Philip Downing.

LASIK Eye Surgery – BLACK – Patricia Bath.

3D Special Effects – BLACK -Marc Hannah.

Refrigerated Trucks and Air Conditioning – BLACK – Frederick McKinley Jones.

Elevator – BLACK – Alexander Miles.

The Organ Piano – BLACK – Joseph Dickinson.

The Guitar – BLACK – Robert Flemming Jr.

Telephone – BLACK stolen from Lewis Howard Latimer.

Light Bulb – BLACK stolen from Lewis Howard Latimer.

Pencil Sharpener – BLACK -John Lee Love.

Sewing Machine – Improved by BLACK: Garrett Morgan.

The Jet Engine – Improved by BLACK Jeremiah Baltimore.

Cotton Gin – BLACK, stolen from Slaves.

Beer – BLACK – Richard Bowie Spikes.

All Musical Genres, Including Classical, Jazz, Blues, Rock & Roll, R&B, Hip-Hop – BLACK.

The Wormhole BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.

First one's in Space BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.

First one's on the Moon – Unproven, Fake Event.

Books (Reading) BLACK (MOOR) Ancient Egypt.

The theory of Natural Selection BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Electric Engineering BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Calculators – BLACK – Marvin Charles Stewart.
Theater – BLACK (MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Diesel engines – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Television – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Internal combustion engines – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
The discovery of DNA – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Microscope – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
The discovery of the Atom BLACK- (MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
The discovery of Cells BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
The Camera – BLACK – George Carruthers.
Democracy BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
The Republic BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Liberalism BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Geography BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Electricity – BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Aircraft BLACK-(MOOR) Ancient Egypt.
Good art and Entertainment.
The pulley first recorded use was by master builder and Grand Architect Imhotep.
The wheel, because Moors were the first ones on the planet.
Fire, because Moors were the first ones on the planet.
The Harp, invented in Ancient Egypt.
The piano invented by the Moors in Europe. The Moors took the Harp and turned it sideways and created the Piano.

The Spark plug – Edmond Berger.
Anesthesia for Surgery – Native-Americans (Blackamoors/Egyptians/Hebrews).
The building of America, mostly, black slave labor.
The Building of Europe – Blackamoors/Brutus Moors/Fresing Moors/French Maurs/Moors of Spain.
Digital Cellular phone Technology – Jesse Eugene Russell.
The Dot com (.com) for computer websites – Emmit McHenry.

Embalming – South American Indians (Mayas)
Time Machine – Dr. Ronald Mallett.

Helicopter – Paul E. Williams.
Telephone Transmitter – Dr. Granville T. Woods.
Railway System – Dr. Granville T. Woods.
Subway System- Dr. Granville T. Woods.
Roller coaster – Dr. Granville T. Woods.
Trolley Wheel – Dr. Granville T. Woods.
The Global Positioning System (GPS) – Dr. Gladys West.

Ancient Egyptians/Moors/Hebrews, aka, the Khmer (Thoth) people created the Art of Building: Monolithic, perpendicular, and Modern-day-building comes from Egypt. Gothic Building (Islamic), aka, Castle building and Cathedral Building, comes from the Moors, whom became the Custodians of the Egyptian Mysteries when Egypt fell, according to the book, “Stolen Legacy” by George E. James. Maur (Moor/Muur) means a high priest of Anu according to a

We also have to include over 500 inventions of the Native-Americans, who were also Blackamoors. You can read the, “Encyclopedia of American Indian Contributions to the world,” right here: https://mexikaresistance.files.wordpress.com/…/american-ind… .. Now, if we include all of the other necessities like soap, comb, brush, toothbrush, lotion, deodorant, shaving, clothing, and etc., we created everything. Most of these inventions were created by the so-called African Americans in the Americas, because we are the Children of the sun, aka, God’s chosen people from the tribe of Ptah/Utah/Judah/Yudah: https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/2162258463838442. Egypt was a Greek name. The real name of Egypt is Al-khemet and/or Tameri. “Nothing is NEW under the SUN.” ~ King Solomon of the Bible. Friends and family, please save this post and share it, because I use this all the time when I have to give Europeans and Coons a reality check as to who we are. Below is my evidence to support the fact that Blackamoors are responsible for the 500 inventions of the Native-Americans (North, Central, and South):

The mummies of south America, but mostly, Peru/Heru/Jeru-(Salem), which is also Ancient Jerusalem and Egypt, were Blackamoors/Egyptians/Hebrews/Indians/Negros (evidence that the Ancient South-American Indians were melanated (Black)): https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/1966263136771310.

These photos of Ancient South American Mummies with dreadlocks are irrefutable evidence that the Americas was a Negro Continent: https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/2073046139426342.

are the real Indians. In fact, Indian and Moor is one and the same (evidence that the North-American Indians were melanated (Black)): https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/1989361697794787.

Here is Moor evidence that the Indians were Moors. Yes, Moors are Indians too. In Fact, the Muurs/ Moors are Berber Indians (India): https://www.facebook.com/Americaisthetrueoldworld/posts/1929898677074423. Prophet Noble Drew Ali was even from the Cherokee Tribe. The last Chief of the Cherokee Tribe was a Moslem Muur.

Now, with all of these contributions that Blackamoors have made to the world, why in the Sam's hell are we second-class citizens in our own land and why are we not benefiting from all of it? The answer is of course, Wight supremacy, via, the Dum Diversa that was issued by the Pope against the Saracens/Hebrews/Indians, which authorized Christians to take our land and our possessions in the name of Christ. The fact that wight people also control the marketing and the branding for our inventions, also explains why our people do not benefit from it. Peace.

Lower Jerusalem and Morocco was in Missouri
March 10, 2021
In "American History"

Old World Giants and Old World Giant Books
February 24, 2020
In "American History"

The Rock of Gibraltar is Stone Mountain, GA
November 17, 2020
In "American History"

admin

Hello, my name is Amunhotep Chavis El-Bey, and I am proud to introduce to you my new eBook entitled, “America is the True Old World,” but first let me tell you more about myself. I am a honorary 33 degree mason, Metaphysician, Historian, Philosopher, Paralegal, Researcher, Poet, Published Author, Crown Knight of Kush, and Ghostwriter. I am 40 years old and loving life in beautiful South Florida. I spend most of my time with my family and friends, so I do consider myself to be a family man and a team player.

PREVIOUS

« The San Francisco Bay (Bey) City Hall.

NEXT

The Old World is the New World. »

VIEW COMMENTS

Leave a Comment

RECENT POSTS

AMERICAN HISTORY

Ancient China the Land of the Orient

Ancient China the Land of the Orient is a necessary post to prove that America…

AMERICAN HISTORY

Ancient Afghanistan was in Missouri

Greetings friends, "Ancient Afghanistan was in Missouri," is not intended to take away from any…

AMERICAN HISTORY

Ancient Turkey was in South Car

Greetings friends, “Ancient Turkey was in South C… is a necessary post to prove that…

BLACK HISTORY

Ham is Shem and Khem

The Builders of the Angkor Wat Temple were known as the Khmer (Thoth) people or…

4 months ago

ANCIENT HISTORY

Lower Jerusalem and Morocco was in Missouri

Before we discuss, “Lower Jerusalem and Morocco was in Saint Louis Missouri,” previously we discussed…

8 months ago

ANCIENT HISTORY

Old Canaan in the New World

"Old Canaan in the New World," is a blog that features the book, "Old Canaan…

11 months ago

AFFILIATE DISCLOSURE

America is the old world is a participant in the Amazon Services LLC Associates Program, an affiliate advertising program designed to provide a means for sites to earn advertising fees by advertising and linking to amazon.com. Amazon, the Amazon logo, AmazonSupply, and the AmazonSupply logo are

Popular

Recent

Granada Land is the Promised Land of Israel

November 22nd, 2019

The Americas is Atlantis and the Origin of the Ancient Egyptian Civilization

FEATURE PRODUCTS

How to Change your Name, legally, with Common Law.

~~$200.00~~ $100.00

How to get an International Driver's Permit, and how to travel without a Driver's

PRODUCTS

America is the True Old World, Vol. II - Paperback

$30.00

America is the True Old World, Vol. II (Ebook)

$20.00

FOLLOW US ON FACEBOOK

[redacted]

Follow us on FaceBook

The Washitaw Moors/Mu'urs.
November 12th, 2019

The Original Arabs were Blackamoors
December 25th, 2019

WERE THE MUURS REALLY THE BIGGEST RACE TRAITORS AND SELLOUTS OF THEIR OWN RACE?
November 16th, 2019

Ancient Greece and Ancient Rome in America.
December 21st, 2019

The Seed – a philosophical treatise on the seed, by Amunhotep Chavis El-Bey
December 4th, 2019

Who were the Moors in Ancient times
December 27th, 2019

How to become Indigenous – the Black Edition
January 4th, 2020

How to become Indigenous - the Black Edition
~~$500.00~~ $200.00

How to start a tax exempt business
~~$300.00~~ $100.00

America is the True Old World - Paperback $16.50

America is the True Old World - eBook $9.99

Kit $34.99

Professional Manual Blood Pressure Cuff $19.95

Omron 5 Series Upper Arm Blood Pressure Monitor
$56.99

TOLOCO Massage Gun, Upgraded Handheld Muscle Deep Tissue Muscle Massager, Body Massager Sports Drill Portable Super Quiet Brushless Motor (Black) $169.99

KONQUEST KBP-2704A Automatic Upper Arm Blood Pressure Monitor - Accurate, FDA Approved - Adjustable Cuff, Large Backlit Display - Irregular Heartbeat & Hypertension Detector - Tensiometro Digital $36.95

▲

New World.

February 10th, 2020

Waterproof Facial Cleansing Brush and Massager with 7 Brush Heads for Deep Cleansing, Exfoliating, Removing Blackhead and Massaging (Classic Rosy) $13.99

Facial Cleansing Brush [Newest 2020], PIXNOR Waterproof Face Spin Brush with 7 Brush Heads for Deep Cleansing, Gentle Exfoliating, Removing Blackhead, Massaging ~~$49.99~~ $19.99

Blackhead Remover Vacuum - June Julien Facial Pore Cleanser Electric Acne Comedone Extractor Kit USB Rechargeable Blackhead Suction Tool with LED Display for Facial Skin(Blue) $27.99

▲

All Rights Reserved View Non-AMP Version

Black HistoryStudies
Hispaniola Christmas Day Revolt 1521:

On Christmas day 1521, a group of about 20 Wolof Africana revolted in one of the first slave revolts in the Amerikkka's. The slaves were the property of Governor Don Diego Colon, the son of Christopher Columbus. In what was a well planned revolt, our African Brothers waited until Christmas, when the Spaniards were partying and not paying full attention. They then marched to the center of Hispaniola's sugar industry, ransacking several plantations, accumulating supplies, and gathering more supporters on the way. Several Spaniards were killed, many buildings burned, and many hostages taken. Colon gathered an army and pursued them. Our lightly armed brothern were no match for the horses and swords of Colin's army. After about a week of fighting, most of the slaves were captured or killed. Those that were captured were eventually hanged, and their bodies were displayed among the road as an example to other enslaved Africans to be compliant or face the same repercussions

Timeline photos · 24 Dec 2022 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

287

261 shares

Write a comment... Post

Unekwu Kanayo Onuche
This is still happening. Those that have tried to stand up to morden slavery are usually suppressed in brutal manners. 28

1 mth Like Reply More

Cello Totomen replied · 1 reply

Howee Dew
An Economy built on Injustice and Atrocities (Slave Labor) is an Abomination 11

1 mth Like Reply More

Alan Fletcher replied · 3 replies

Terrence Mpengesi
We should start where we left off if we want to survive as a Race, that's the only option in front of us because currently even some of our own brothers and sisters are have joined the masters to continue their narrative, ours is a fight for freedom, theirs is fight to block us from achieving our goal, the fight continues. 3

1 mth Like Reply More

Albert Ntunja replied · 1 reply

Artur Tomas
The fight continues... 12
1 mth Like Reply More

Richard Sleigh
There are more slaves today than in any point in history 2
1 mth Like Reply More

Donald Obi
Absolutely brutal,but the oppressed are yet to be wise.
1 mth Like Reply More

Bubu Ashwil
How the fuck are you gonna support that shit
1 mth Like Reply More

Nathan J Jones
Baby I like it raw
1 mth Like Reply More

Ryan Khan
Is better to die fighting as a brave heart than to live as a slave
1 mth Like Reply More

Vuyisa Langeni
I believe in my Bantumas not slavemas
1 mth Like Reply More

Truck Turner
Just knowing that the yt man is the devil then and now you will have the victory over him
1 mth Like Reply More

View more comments…

Black HistoryStudies

Marcus Garvey was one of the greatest Black leaders we ever had. He said that Black people will never be successful depending on other races of people, he said that as Black people we must come together and do for self. I'm going to list some of Marcus Garvey's achievements.

1. Marcus Garvey built factories, where he made black dolls for black kids to play with.

2. He built a hotel.

3. He built a chain of grocery stores.

4. His organisation had their own trucking company.

5. He built schools.

6. He built restaurants.

7. His organization had their own printing press.

8. He started 3 newspapers.

9. His main newspaper was called the Negro World, and that newspaper was published in Spanish and French.

10. His organization bought 5 ships and they started practicing international trade and commerce.

11. Marcus Garvey's organization owned office buildings.

12. They also bought an auditorium in New York, and that's where he mainly spoke and this place was called Liberty Hall.

13. By 1922 Marcus Garvey organization had 6 million members.

14. They had branches in 40 countries.

15. Marcus Garvey also started his own political party, and he named it The Peoples Political Party.

Marcus Garvey did all of that without help from the Government, and he did it with an 8th grade education.

One of my heroes!

#blackeconomicempowerment #blackhistorymonth #blackhistorymonth

Timeline Photos · 13 Oct at 10:30 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

17K

8,108 shares

Write a comment... Post

Theresa Blanton

Truly a man long before his time. He was never given the honor he deserved that he rightfully deserved. Rest on In Heavenly Peace and thank you for your vision.

14

22 hrs Like Reply More

Jan Akenoe replied · 3 replies

Shirley Go
We need to unite with each other and build our families and our communities without begging for help from others. He was a great man. No one is perfect. We have everything we need to be 'free' but we need to unite and let go. 44

on Fri Like Reply More

A Q Abu Abu replied · 5 replies

Margaret Kennerson
Wihat a great man and human being. Our young people could learn a lot from this man and terrific human being . 21

on Fri Like Reply More

Chitapi Edwin replied · 1 reply

Iris Holliman-Baldwin
Free , we need to help our young get an education by parenting them in all areas of life. Give them the need to find out about their situation, life, happiness, creativity, respect and commitment. 10

on Fri Like Reply More

Simba Sagide replied · 1 reply

Dellnot Gardiner
Africa we need to learn leadership from Marcus Garvey. Thank you sir for your selflessness. We need that. 10

on Fri Like Reply More

Tyson Laylay replied · 1 reply

Lester Sealey
"Some may rise; some may fall; but black people would never know themselves until their backs are against the wall"! Prophecy of the late great Marcus"Mosiah"Garvey! Surely, his words have come to past! 21

on Fri Like Reply More

Pamela Smith-Coleman
My grandmother used to tell us about his work & how great a leader he was 10

on Fri Like Reply More

Mike Shaibu

How I wish we still have leaders like Marcus Garvey these days; the Blackman would have been better for it. 21

on Fri Like Reply More

Sethunya Oyinlola replied · 9 replies

Daniel Dapam Samuel

God bless our heroes past even in the dead and may he give us the vision and strength to carry on... 10

on Fri Like Reply More

Keji Na Tombe

What a great man of all time. Our problem is we do not follow a good leader. 12

on Fri Like Reply More

Novelett Stennett replied · 2 replies

Lyn Fong

Astounding. Great role model whose story deserves recognition and retelling. 5

on Thu Like Reply More

Aubrey Nthepheya

We need a subject in our schools about this incredible man.....our kids should know the history. May he continue to rest in peace 25

on Thu Like Reply More

Novelett Stennett replied · 5 replies

Fred Opiyo

I never knew Garvey did this much.I only knew that he was a Black US consciousness leader and human rights activist.Now I know and is so much proud of him. 8

on Thu Like Reply More

Pat Msimanga replied · 3 replies

Matela Kuselya

Great history hero , my favorites hero , a prophet , a founder of pan Africanism and if we need development we have to create our own technology in order to explore our natural resources ,true unity amongst African countries and true African leaders ,Marcus Garvey was a true leader an example to follow. 2

on Thu Like Reply More

Kehinde Timothy Ojumu

Great to learn this about this great man. That accompanying picture appeared in Bob Marley's "Buffalo Soldier" 1

on Thu Like Reply More

Kehinde Timoth... replied · 2 replies

Iliyasu Tanko Doma

Respect for him, especially the role his United Negro Improvement Associations played in creating awareness and renewing the spirit of consciousness among the black race during the era of nationalism that accelerated the decolonisation process 3

on Thu Like Reply More

DanAlhaji Oneshi replied · 1 reply

Barbara Martin

Was never taught about this man in school. I am glad to hear about him now and his many accomplishments 15

on Thu Like Reply More

Charles Azoro replied · 5 replies

Laurena Primus

One of my heroes, he has not been given due recognition 11

on Thu Like Reply More

Clement Brian replied · 2 replies

Shirley Ferrell Tedeschi

I learned about this great man from my daughter history books.They did not teach us about him in our history classes when I was in school. 14

on Thu Like Reply More

Shirley Ferrel... replied · 3 replies

Bina Jones
My grandfather Fitz Braithwaite was the secretary of the Marcus Garvey movement in Trinidad, and his brother the president.
13

on Thu Like Reply More

Mark Mark replied · 7 replies

Sandia Mcpherson
He was a master achiever in his time, and I salute him.
6

on Thu Like Reply More

Jaymo Kariuki
he is our hero, indeed may his soul continue resting in peace his legacy shall forever remain in our hearts
5

on Thu Like Reply More

Joseph Adamson
It is surprising that we have not practiced what he preached!
9

on Thu Like Reply More

Avwha Mhore replied · 6 replies

Elizabeth White
Hero indeed way ahead of his time, never forget this man
7

on Thu Like Reply More

Eric Prince
More people need to learn about his movement.
6

on Thu Like Reply More

John Morris
It is a deliberate plan by both political parties in Jamaica not to teach the philosophy and opinions of the great Marcus Garvey in school. If they did , they would be able to fool the people like they are doing now. Marcus Garvey said in one of his speech that the masses make the nation and the race and if the masses are illiterate, that is the passed on the race by those who are critical of its existence.
4

on Wed Like Reply More

John Morris replied · 7 replies

David Abe
Was visionary and tenacious. 4

on Wed Like Reply More

Laila Mineable
And ware is all my black brother and sister that have achieved Marcus Garvey achievements in history very sad to see how we living with one another in this world sad 14

on Wed Like Reply More

Karen Croff replied · 4 replies

Segun Taiwo
More of such people will emerge across the globe, Rest on great Marcus Garvey. 7

on Wed Like Reply More

Annetta Rhoden
Great hero! With great mindset-loved his race . Black Peoples. 9

on Wed Like Reply More

View more comments…

National Museum of American History ...
Black and White Slaves | National Museu...

Ancient Origins
Remembering the Barbary Slaves: Whit...

EF The University of Ch...
White Slaves, African ...

Goodreads
Michel Prince's review ...

AAIHS
White Women Slave Owners, Economic...

Ohio State News - The Ohio State University
Research Suggests White Slavery Was Much More...

Wikipedia
White slave propaganda - Wikipedia

Ohio State News - T...
Why is a 16-year-old bo...

California's Struggle with Slavery

Wikipedia
Barbary slave trade - Wikipedia

Vox
History of slavery: white women ...

Inquiries Journal
Sexual Relations Between Elite White Wo...

CNN
The myths about slavery that still hold America captive ...

Amazon.com · В наличии
Christian Slaves, Muslim M...

Wikipedia
White slavery - Wikipedia

www.history.com
U.S. Slavery: Timeline, Figures & Abolition - HIST...

Alamy
Slave master Black and White Stock Photos & I...

The Guardian
The history of British slave ownership has been burie...

Smithsonian Magazine
Muslims Were Banned From the Americas as Earl...

www.history.com
Myths About Slavery - Slavery Facts -...

The New York Times
Opinion | When Slaveowners Got Reparations - The Ne...

Amazon.com · В наличии
Black Slaveowners: Free Blac...

Smithsonian Magazine
Founding Fathers and Slaveholders | History| Smith...

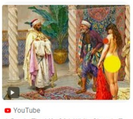
DW
Portugal confronts its slave trade past – DW – 03/...

Marketplace.org
The disturbing parallels between modern accou...

NPR
A Black And White 186...

BBC
My Nigerian great-grandfather sold slaves' - BBC N...

The New York Times
A Tale of Two Plantations,' by Richard S. Dunn - T...



The Advocate
Unspeakable cruelty: Former slaves tell their stories in So...

The Austin Chronicle
Review: The Whipping Man - Art...

BBC
My Nigerian great-grandfather sold slaves' - BBC News

NBC News
1800s-1850s: Resisting slavery

Vox
Slave Play: understanding the most controversial p...

YouTube
A Day In The Life Of A White Slave In T...

Wikipedia
White slavery - Wikipedia

National Humanities...
Master-Slave Relations...

Berkeley News - University of Cal...
Unmasked: Many white women wer...

The Guardian
Breffu: a slave, a rebel, a fighter – and a wom...

YouTube
White slaves to Black Masters - YouTube

The Denver Post
Column: How slavery still feeds toda...

DW
How are Gulf countries dealing with slavery? ...

American Battlefield Trust
10 Facts: Black Patriots in the American Revol...

Christianity Today
Why Did So Many Christians Support Slavery? | C...

Prototherma.gr
White slaves and black masters in T...

Vox
The 1619 anniversary: 5 t...

Amazo... · В наличии
White Cargo: The Forg...

Christianity Today
Why the Enslaved Adopted the Religion of Their ...

The Washington Post
Emancipation evoked mix of emotions for fr...

The Atlantic
On This Day in 1831, a Bloody Uprising i...

The New York Times
Enslaved, Terrorized, Disenfranchised: Black A...

Wikipedia
History of slavery in Ne...

Ohio State News - The...
Research Suggests White...

Smithsonian Magazine
When Emancipation Finally Came, Slave ...

Library of Congress
Slaves exposed for sale | Library of C...

American Battlefield Trust
The Founding Fathers Views of Slavery | American Battlefield Tr...

DW
How are Gulf countries dea...

Hürriyet Daily News
African slaves in the Ottoman ...

Facebook
Atlanta Black Star - 9 Devasta...

Pacific Standard
No, the Irish Were Not Sla...

TED Ideas
A powerful letter from my great-grea...

Abbeville Institute
1619 Lies Matter – Abbeville Institute

USA Today
Slavery at historical sites: Some places ignore t...

www.history.com
7 Famous Slave Revolts - HISTORY

The Washington Post
Henrietta Wood sued for slavery re...

African American Intellectual H...
On War and U.S. Slavery: Enslaved...

History Extra
Roman Slavery: How Important Were Ensla...

Merryn Allingham
Slavery in the Ottoman ...

Snopes · Проверка фактов
9 'Facts' About Slavery They Don't Want Yo...

WallBuilders
Did America Create Slavery? - WallBuilders

The Conversation
Exploiting black labor after...

Slavery Images
Whipping of a Fugitive Slave, French West...

The Guardian
The British empire's role in ending slavery | Letter...

UNC Press
Black Slaves, Indian M...

NYPL Digital Collections - T...
The separation of a family of ...

National Park Service
Hoodoo in St. Louis: An African Ame...

CNN
The myths about slavery that ...

Virginia Mercury
Fighting myths, misconceptions and mis...

Bryn Mawr College
Quakers & Slavery : White Slaves

US History Scene
The Cultural Significan...

JSTOR Daily
What Was the Zanj Rebellion? - JSTOR Daily

Christianity Today
The Secret Religion of the Slaves | Christian History...

The New Yorker
When the Soviet Union Freed the Arctic ...

The Atlantic
The Secret History of the Underground Railroad - The ...

Encyclopedia Virginia
Lewis Miller's Virginia Slavery Drawings - ...

Smithsonian Magazine
The New York Slave Revolt of 1712 W...

NPR
Frederick Douglass On How Slave Owners Used ...

DW
How are Gulf countries dealing with slavery? – D...

USNews.com
Exploiting Black Labor After the Abolitio...

Скорее всего, остальные результаты не будут вам полезны. Все равно показать

Mayaky, Odessa Oblast, Ukraine - Определено по IP-адресу - Подробнее

Справка Отправить отзыв Конфиденциальность Условия

CREATION ✦ STYLE
Welcome to Medieval Times
Dinner & Tournament | Fun for the Whole Family
Reserve Your Show! Authentic Feast. Pro Tale! | Save 40% | Medieval Combat | Shop Up to 60% Storewide | Limited Time! | Visit Theatre Info & Medieval Times! | Crazy Animal Stories Aren't for Sissies!

11 Brutal Medieval Deaths That Shook Us To The Core

Melissa Sartore
Writer at Ranker
17 Lists · 12 Likes · 1.2 Votes

Follow Author | Follow this topic to see more like it in your feed

There are many ways to die. The end can be quick or protracted, peaceful or painful, expected or not... the list goes on.

Neither they're the result of an ongoing form of punishment in Iran, revenge, or a seemingly-karmic outcome, many historical endings seem especially heinous. During the Middle Ages, this was especially true.

Death and the medieval world ended thoughts of the business plague, long conflicts, and manipulations to power kings in their and women looking to get ahead. While much of the brutality of the Middle Ages is decidedly natural, numerous medieval endings were morbidly cruel. We've gathered some of them here—take a look, if you think you can handle it.

1 100 votes
György Dózsa Of Hungary Endured A Royal Roasting

During Hungary's established Peasant's War of the Kingdom of Hungary, which lasted for the first years of the 1500s, tasked with freeing Hungary from oppressive rule, György Dózsa led a peasant army against the nobility. Their unsuccessful uprising was doomed to result in horrific murder.

The Hungarian nobles, who keep you in servitude, do not consider you as citizens, but treat you as slaves. Therefore, you must fight for your freedom with fire and sweat, belonging to them. You plow the soil, plant the grapes, breed cattle and sheep so that the nobility can profit from your labor. What is left for you is serfdom and misery.

Dózsa and his followers were initially successful, but he was later captured and executed. His demise was especially heinous, as the "Peasant King" was sentenced to sit on a heated iron throne while wearing an iron crown and holding a scepter - both burning hot.

While sweet, Dózsa's fate—who died because the nobility deemed him the only leader—and as executioners used him to pass off his flash. They were then told to eat their fallen leader flesh. Those who didn't endure what they'd poked off were slain.

Write a review!
Horrific way to die!
0 votes

2 100 votes
Inalchuq Was Executed With Molten Silver

Inalchuq was the governor of Otrar, a location in the Khwarezmian Empire in the Middle East, during the early 13th century. As Genghis Khan extended his empire, Inalchuq's actions led to the Mongol Invasion of Central Asia in 1219. Seeking, suspicious of the group, executed them and seized all of their goods.

Khan was furious about what happened. Genghis Khan sent envoys to demand reparations, but Inalchuq refused to pay and executed the envoys. As an escalated, as well, prompting the Khwarezmian ruler to send a military response.

Genghis Khan and his Mongols unleashed an onslaught on Otrar, one that destroyed the city. After several months, the Mongols breached the city walls, plundered Otrar, and took many of its inhabitants captive. Inalchuq was tortured by Genghis Khan. Sources variously report on his exact end, and by some accounts, Khan ordered that molten silver be poured into his ears, eyes, and throat, by some endings, Khan ordered that molten silver be poured into his ears, eyes, and throat.

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

3 100 votes
Edward II Of England Reportedly Perished As A Result Of A Horribly Placed Poker

Edward II of England partied in 1327 if, and, while the specifics of his death are unclear, there's no doubt that he was murdered. Edward II was the fourth king of England to be deposed. Known for relationships with men, "favourites" brought about resentment from the English nobility, as well as the king's wife, Isabella of France.

Piers Gaveston (d. 1312) was rumored to have been the king's lover, as was Hugh Despenser. Both men were executed by Isabella's hand and some on with a plan to get rid of the latter. They took both Despenser and Edward into custody, executed the latter, and forced the former to abdicate. Edward was held in confinement until his demise in September 1327.

Rumors abounded that Edward's keeper killed him a few years of the passing. Stories that a red-hot poker had been thrust into the king's anus were circulated, serving as a subtle commentary on the same-sex relationships he some observers. To others, this method of death was intended to leave no outside wounds.

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

4 100 votes
Simon Hannabaert Of Audenarde Was Broken On The Wheel Before Being Drawn And Quartered

In 1302, Simon Hannabaert of Audenarde was executed in the town square where he's originally lived just on the whole wrong street. Hannabaert was a member of the Leliaards, a group that was opposed to the increasing economic and social power of the Guilds.

According to sources, Hannabaert expressed support for the cause of Philip IV of France, who was trying to annex Flanders. Hannabaert's crime was treason, he was dragged from a dark cell and put on the wheel.

To be subjected to the wheel meant an extended period of pain. Descriptions of how it was carried out vary, though history does the stretching of limbs, which one executioner was presumed to break the bones. A way into the victim's body with a metal bar. Hannabaert's head was then placed on a pike in the market square as a could be seen.

Sawing and quartering involved connecting each of a victim's legs and arms to a different horse. Then, the horses were driven in different directions. The body until it was separated into four parts. Before the victim was dismembered, he was reportedly hanged and his body burned when everything else was done.

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

5 100 votes
Edmund Ironside May Have Been Stabbed - From Below - While On The Privy

Edmund Ironside only ruled for a few months. He was the son of King Æthelred the Unready and his first wife, Ælfgifu of York, and he fought alongside his father before being crowned as the successor to the throne. Ironside's reign began after Æthelred's death on April 23, 1016, and ended with his demise in a few weeks before meeting his untimely end.

Ironside's opponent was Cnut the Great, and there is limited information as to what actually happened. According to 12th-century historian Henry of Huntington, Edmund was in Oxford when he was attacked in a private latrine.

He went one night to the lavatory to answer the call of nature. There the son of Ealdorman Eadric, who by his father's plan was concealed in the pit of the privy, struck the king twice with a sharp knife in the private parts, and leaving the weapons in the bowels, fled away.

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

6 100 votes
Queen Brunhild Was Tied To The Tail Of A Horse And Dragged To Death

Brunhild was a Merovingian queen who ruled during the sixth century. She ruled Austrasia and Burgundy on behalf of her son Theuderic I after her husband Sigebert passed in 575 CE. After Childebert I's passing, Brunhild ruled Austrasia on behalf of her grandsons. Her reign was marked by political enemies, who were often the same as the family, including her relatives. Children II

Chlothar I, king of the Franks from 584 to 629 CE, feared that Brunhild was conspiring to remove him from the throne. He also accused her such as the deaths of ten royal princes. Chlothar II was the grandson of Brunhild's enemy Fredegund. He proposed she should be executed by torture and death. She was involved in very public and bring the fall of a horse. Angered, and queen was executed.

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

7 100 votes
Charles II Of Navarre Was Accidentally Burned To Death

Known as Charles the Bad, Charles II of Navarre became king of Navarre after the passing of his mother, Joanna I, in 1349. He also inherited the County of Évreux from his father in 1343.

Charles was married to the daughter of King John II of France, Joan of both sides during the Hundred Years' War and regularly intrigued against the French crown. He was known for his political maneuvering and duplicitous, according to his contemporaries and later chroniclers, were why he suffered such a horrid demise in 1387.

According to chronicler Jean Froissart, the aged man instructed his servants to warm his bed one night.

Either by the will of God or the devil, it turned out very unfortunate, for the flames some how set fire to the sheets, and it could not be extinguished before they were completely burned, and the poor king was wrapped up in them, horribly burnt as far as his navel. He did not instantly perish, but lingered on, in great pain and misery, fifteen days.

In other writings, Charles II perished from a fever and was cremated before the body and the disease stricken into one, claiming he was burnt while wearing "clothing steeped in sulphur and spirits ... as a cure for a loathsome disease caused by his debauchery."

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

8 100 votes
John de Lanzcous Lost His Feet Before Losing His Life

John de Lanzcous and another knight, Jean de Tarascon, got into an altercation with one of the communal officials in Laon, France. In February 1411, the two knights were arrested and sentenced to death. Tarascon and Rieux's fate was much worse, however, than that of his friend.

The three remained at the cathedral while angry citizens gathered outside. By late afternoon the next day, the residents of Laon charged into the cathedral, took the knights out of their cells, and began to hack and scratch. While the Tarascon and Rieux were executed with a sword to the head, de Lanzcous was imprisoned. He passed a few days later, but only after having his feet cut off by the angry mob.

Photo: Unknown, Public domain, Public domain

Horrific way to die!
0 votes

9 100 votes
Caliph Al-Mustasim Was Wrapped In A Carpet And Trampled To Death

Al-Mustasim was the last caliph of the Abbasid Caliphate, ruling from 1242 to 1258. He was known for his lavish lifestyle and his lack of military ability. Al-Mustasim refused to pay tribute to the Mongols, leading to the Mongol Invasion of Iraq. During Baghdad under his control. He and his men were the only ones who could be seen as the true and the all should not witness the shedding of their blood.

According to sources, Al-Mustasim either died this a city after being starved or was trampled to death. Both were considered honorable ways to die, as royal blood was spilled. Instead, he was wrapped in a carpet and trampled by horses. In one account,

Isa Bell
C'est une grande copine d'Hillary Clinton, une qui lui fournissait des enfants, qui est en train de tomber

"Le tribunal du Myanmar prononce les premiers verdicts du procès d'Aung San Suu Kyi

Un tribunal du Myanmar, pays dirigé par l'armée, rendra mardi les premiers verdicts dans près d'une douzaine de cas contre la dirigeante déchue Aung San Suu Kyi, accusée de crimes dont les peines maximales cumulées dépassent 100 ans.

La populaire lauréate du prix Nobel de la paix a dirigé un gouvernement civil élu, renversé par un coup d'État militaire le 1er février et privé de contact avec le monde extérieur et de procès depuis juin, avec des audiences à huis clos.

Le coaccusé Win Myint, président renversé et allié de la Ligue nationale pour la démocratie (LND) de Suu Kyi, subit le même sort. "

See translation

Timeline Photos · 6 hours ago ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

You and 13 others

9 shares

Samir Guitone
Oui génocidaire nazie , des Rorhinyas !

See translation
3 hrs Like Reply More

Write a comment...

Post

Calafia

Calafia, or Califia, is the fictional queen of the island of California, first introduced by 16th century poet Garci Rodríguez de Montalvo in his epic novel of chivalry, Las sergas de Esplandián (The Adventures of Esplandián), written around 1510.[1] The Californias, a region of North America encompassing the U.S. state of California and the Mexican states of Baja California and Baja California Sur, take their name from Calafia and her kingdom.

Calafia
 Depiction of Queen Califia at the California Capitol, shown in the California's Name mural, painted by Lucile Lloyd in 1937.
First appearance	ca. 1510
Created by	Garci Rodríguez de Montalvo
In-universe information
Gender	Female

Title	Queen Calafia
Occupation	Ruler of the Island of California
Spouse	Talanque
Nationality	Californian

In the novel, Calafia is a pagan warrior queen who ruled over a kingdom of black women living on the Island of California (an island off the coast of Asia). Calafia is convinced to raise an army of women warriors and sail away from California with a large flock of trained griffins so that she can join a Muslim battle against Christians who are defending Constantinople. In the siege, the griffins harm enemy and friendly forces, so they are withdrawn. Calafia and her ally Radiaro fight in single combat against the Christian leaders, a king and his son the knight Esplandián. Calafia is bested and taken prisoner, and she converts to Christianity. She marries a cousin of Esplandián and returns with the remainder of her army to California for further adventures.[2]

The name of Calafia was likely formed from the Arabic word khalifa (religious state leader) that is known as caliph in English and califa in Spanish. Similarly, the name of Calafia's realm, California, likely originated from the same root, fabricated by the author to remind the 16th century Spanish reader of the reconquista, a centuries-long fight between Christian Iberians and Muslim Arabs that had recently concluded in Spain. The character of Calafia is used by Rodríguez de Montalvo to portray the superiority of chivalry in which the attractive virgin queen is conquered, converted to Christian beliefs, and married off. The book was very popular for many decades—Hernán Cortés read it—and it was selected by author Miguel de Cervantes as the first of many popular and presumed-harmful books to be burnt by characters in his famous novel Don Quixote.[2]

Calafia has been depicted as the Spirit of California, and has been the subject of modern-day sculpture, paintings, stories, and films; she often figures in the myth of California's origin, symbolizing an untamed and bountiful land prior to European settlement.[3]

Character

Queen Calafia and California's name originate in the old Castilian epic Las Sergas de Esplandián (The Adventures of Esplandián), written by Garci Rodríguez de Montalvo in 1510.

In the book The Adventures of Esplandián, after many pages of battles and adventures, the story of Calafia is introduced as a curiosity, an interlude in the narrative.[4] Calafia is introduced as a regal black woman, courageous, strong of limb and large of person, full in the bloom of womanhood, the most beautiful of a long line of queens who ruled over the mythical realm of California. She is said to be "desirous of achieving great things"; she wanted to see the world and plunder a portion of it with superior fighting ability, using her army of women warriors. She commanded a fleet of ships with which she demanded tribute from surrounding lands, and she kept an aerial defense force of griffins, fabulous animals which were native to California, trained to kill any man they found.[5]

Calafia meets Radiaro, a Muslim warrior who convinces her that she should join him in retaking Constantinople from the Christian armies holding it. Calafia, in turn, convinces her people to take their ships, weapons, armor, riding beasts, and 500 griffins, and sail with her to Constantinople to fight the Christians, though she has no concept of what it means to be Muslim or Christian.[5] Her subjects arm themselves with weapons and armor made of gold, as there is no other metal in California. They fill their ships with supplies and hasten to sea.[5]

Landing near Constantinople, Calafia meets with other Muslim warrior leaders who were unable to remove King Amadis and his Christian allies from the city, and she tells them all to hold back and watch her manner of combat—she says they will be amazed. The next morning, she and her women warriors mount their "fierce beasts" wearing gold armor "adorned with the most precious stones", advancing to invest the city.[5]

Calafia orders the griffins forward and they, hungry from the long sea voyage, fly out and maul the city's defenders.[6] Sating their hunger, the griffins continue to snatch Christian men in their claws and carry them high in air only to drop them to their deaths. The city's defenders cower and hide from the griffins. Seeing this, Calafia passes word to her Muslim allies that they are free to advance and take the city. The griffins, however, cannot tell Muslim from Christian; they can only tell man from woman. The griffins begin snatching Muslim soldiers and carrying them aloft, dropping and killing them. Calafia questions her pagan faith, saying, "O ye idols in whom I believe and worship, what is this which has happened as favorably to my enemies as to my friends?"[5] She orders her woman warriors to take the city's battlements and they fight well, taking many injuries from arrows and quarrels piercing the soft gold metal of their armor. Calafia orders her allies forward to assist the Californians in battle, but the griffins pounce again, killing Muslim men. She directs the griffin trainers to call them off, and the griffins return to roost in the ships.[5]

This inauspicious beginning weighed heavily on Calafia. To restore their honor she directed her forces to fight alongside those of her allies, with the griffins kept in the ships. Terrific battles raged along the city's walls but the attackers were repulsed. Calafia led a picked group of women warriors to attack a city gate, one held by Norandel, the half-brother of King Amadis. Norandel charged out of the gate against Calafia; upon meeting their two lances were broken but the warriors remained standing. They struck at each other with sword and knife, and a general melee ensued, Calafia throwing knights from their horses and taking great blows on her shield. Two more knights charge forward from the city, nobles named Talanque (a nephew of King Amadis) and Maneli, a prince of Ireland. These men nearly swamp Calafia in blows, and she can only be pulled back to friendly forces by her sister Liota who attacks the two knights "like a mad lioness".[5] The day's battle left many dead including 200 of Calafia's women.[5]

The story continues with the arrival of several more Christian princes and their armies. Radiaro and Calafia issue a challenge to two Christian warriors to engage them in single combat for the purpose of deciding the battle. King Amadis and his son Esplandián accept the challenge. The black-skinned warrior woman chosen as messenger tells Calafia that Esplandián is the most handsome and elegant man that has ever existed. Calafia determines that she must see the man herself before engaging him in combat. She stays awake all night wondering whether to wear royal robes or warrior's armor. Deciding in favor of a thick golden toga embroidered with jewels, topped by a golden hood, she rode to meet her enemies, escorted by 2,000 women warriors. After being seated among the Christian kings, she immediately recognized Esplandián from his great beauty, and fell in love with him. She tells him she will meet him on the field of battle and, if they should live, that she wishes to speak further with him. Esplandián considers Calafia an infidel, an abomination of the rightfully subservient position of woman in relation to man, and he makes no response.[5]

The next day, Calafia duels with King Amadis, and Radiaro duels with Esplandián. With Leonorina, his betrothed, looking on, Esplandián masters Radiaro with a flurry of weapon thrusts. Calafia and Amadis trade blows until he disarms her and knocks her helmet off. Both Calafia and Radario surrender to the Christians.[5] While being held prisoner, Calafia acknowledges the astonishing beauty of Leonorina, daughter of the Constantinople emperor and the intended bride of Esplandián, and resolves not to interfere with their union. She accepts Christianity as the one true faith, saying, "I have seen the ordered order of your religion, and the great disorder of all others, I have seen that it is clear that the law which you follow must be the truth, while that which we follow is lying and falsehood."[5] She marries Talanque, a large and handsome knight who fought with her outside the city gate; similarly, her sister Liota marries Maneli, Talanque's companion in arms. The women return to California with their husbands to establish a new dynasty complete with both sexes, as a Christian nation.[5]

Etymology

An early conception of the Island of California, this map is the result of partial exploration and guesswork

The first voyage of Christopher Columbus in the late 15th century sparked a new interest in the search for "Terrestrial Paradise", a legendary land of ease and riches, with beautiful women wearing gold and pearls.[7] Spanish author Garci Rodríguez de Montalvo drew upon reports from the New World to add interest to his fantasy world of chivalry and battle, of riches, victory, and loss, of an upside-down depiction of traditional sex roles. Around the year 1500 in his novel The Adventures of Esplandián, he writes:

> Know ye that at the right hand of the Indies there is an island called California, very close to that part of the Terrestrial Paradise, which was inhabited > by black women without a single man among them, and they lived in the manner of Amazons. They were robust of body with strong passionate hearts and great virtue. The island itself is one of the wildest in the world on account of the bold and craggy rocks.[8]

The explorer Hernán Cortés and his men were familiar with the book;[9] Cortés quoted it in 1524. As governor of Mexico he sent out an expedition of two ships, one guided by the famous pilot Fortún Ximénez who led a mutiny, killing the expedition's leader, Diego de Becerra, and a number of sailors faithful to Becerra.[10] After the mutiny, Ximénez continued sailing north by northwest and, in early 1534, landed at what is known today as La Paz, Baja California Sur. Ximénez, who reported pearls found, believed the land was a large island.[11] He and his escort of sailors were killed by natives when they went ashore for water. The few remaining sailors brought the ship and its story back to Cortés. There is some dispute whether the land was named at this time—no record exists of Ximénez giving it a name.

In 1535, Cortés led an expedition back to the land, arriving on May 1, 1535, a day known as Santa Cruz de Mayo, and in keeping with methods of contemporary discoverers, he named it Santa Cruz.[12] It is not known who first named the area California but between 1550 and 1556, the name appears three times in reports about Cortés written by Giovanni Battista Ramusio. However, the name California also appears in a 1542 journal kept by explorer Juan Rodríguez Cabrillo, who used it casually, as if it were already popular.[13] In 1921, California historian Charles E. Chapman theorized that Ximénez named the new land California but the name was not accepted by Cortés because Ximénez was a mutineer who killed Becerra, a kinsman of Cortés.[14] Despite this, the name became the one used popularly by Spaniards, the only name used by non-Spaniards, and by 1770, the entire Pacific coast controlled by Spain was officially known as California. The Spanish-speaking people who lived there were called Californios.[15]

For many years, the Rodríguez de Montalvo novel languished in obscurity, with no connection known between it and the name of California made by English-speaking American settlers. In 1864, a portion of the original was translated by Edward Everett Hale for The Antiquarian Society, and the story was printed in the Atlantic Monthly magazine.[5] Hale supposed that in inventing the names, Rodríguez de Montalvo held in his mind the Spanish word calif, the term for a leader of the Muslim people.[16] Hale's joint derivation of Calafia and California was accepted by many, then questioned by a few scholars who sought further proof, and offered their own interpretations. George Davidson wrote in 1910 that Hale's theory was the best yet presented, but offered his own addition.[17]

In 1917, Ruth Putnam printed an exhaustive account of the work performed up to that time. She wrote that both Calafia and California most likely came from the Arabic word khalifa which means ruler or leader. The same word in Spanish was califa, easily made into California to stand for "land of the caliph", or Calafia to stand for "female caliph".[18] Putnam discussed Davidson's 1910 theory based on the Greek word kalli (meaning beautiful) but discounted it as exceedingly unlikely,[18] a conclusion that Dora Beale Polk agreed with in 1995, calling the theory "far-fetched".[16] Putnam also wrote that The Song of Roland held a passing mention of a place called Califerne, perhaps named thus because it was the caliph's domain, a place of infidel rebellion.[16] Chapman elaborated on this connection in 1921: "There can be no question but that a learned man like Ordóñez de Montalvo was familiar with the Chanson de Roland ...This derivation of the word 'California' can perhaps never be proved, but it is too plausible—and it may be added too interesting—to be overlooked."[19] Polk characterized this theory as "imaginative speculation", adding that another scholar offered the "interestingly plausible" suggestion that Roland's Califerne is a corruption of the Persian Kar-i-farn, a mythological

"mountain of Paradise" where griffins lived.[20]

In 1923, Prosper Boissonnade, Dean of Literature at the University of Poitiers, wrote that a fortified capital city in 11th century Algeria was built and defended by the Beni-Iferne tribe of Berber people. This city was called Kalaa-Iferne or Kal-Iferne by the Arabs, and was certainly known at the time in Spain; today it is the ruins known as Beni Hammad Fort. Boissonnade said the Arab name of this fortress city likely inspired Roland and later Rodríguez de

Montalvo, such that Kal-Iferne became first Califerne and then California.[21] John William Templeton describes how Hernán Cortés' expedition in search of California had Africans as a third of his crew, including his second-in-command, Juan Garrido. Templeton says that Calafia is exemplary of a genre of literature from the 14th to the 16th centuries that featured black women as powerful, wealthy and beautiful. Historian Jack Forbes wrote that the Spanish were quite experienced in being ruled by

Africans given the Moorish occupation from 710 to 1490.[22]

Legends of an island of women warriors

Mural of Queen Calafia and her Amazon warriors at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco, California, painted in 1926 by Maynard Dixon and Frank Van Sloun.

Rodríguez de Montalvo's description of Calafia, her people and her country was based upon many centuries of stories of Amazons, groups of woman warriors who fought like men. As well, the story of an island paradise filled with gold and pearls was a recurring theme that Rodríguez de Montalvo was familiar with. In seeking new land, Spanish explorers were often led onward after hearing about a land of gold, or a land ruled by women. California historian Lynn Townsend White, Jr wrote that they considered the as-yet undiscovered California "a land of Orient with fantastic attributes".[23] The novel about Esplandián and Calafia's domain had a strong influence on the searching Conquistadors, who believed they might find a nation of women and riches somewhere at the edge of the known world.[24]

In Greek mythology, Amazons are described as a nation of female warriors who live in kingdoms outside of recognized civilization, women who fight with Greek warriors. They appear in many Greek tales including those by Homer, and they are usually killed or otherwise subdued by male warriors.[25] Male hostility to the woman warriors is expressed by Dictys of Crete who wrote that an Amazon queen "transgressed the boundaries of nature and of her sex."[25] Niketas Choniates, a medieval Greek historian, wrote about women warriors who fought alongside men in the Second Crusade, riding horses "unashamedly astride" (rather than modestly sidesaddle), dressed as men and maintaining a very warlike appearance.[25] Jacques de Vitry, a Bishop of Acre, and a historian of the Crusades, wrote about Amazons who fought who were stronger than men because their vitality was not "consumed in frequent copulation."[25] In some stories, women warriors fought alongside Muslim men and in others they allied themselves to Christian armies.[25]

Some of the tales of Amazons describe them as having dark skin. In Africa, King Musa I of Mali was protected by black female Royal Guards on his famous and influential hajj to Mecca in 1332.[26] Johann Schiltberger wrote in 1440 about a group of Tatar Amazons, Mongol giantesses led by a vengeful princess.[27] Columbus returned to Spain with the story of an island in the Lesser Antilles called "Matinino" (perhaps modern Martinique[28]) that was inhabited only by women, a tale told to him by many of the natives of the West Indies. Columbus did not call the Matinino women "Amazons", but the comparison was drawn by his contemporaries.[29]

When encountering natives in the New World, Spanish explorers were occasionally told of a tribe composed entirely of women. One such tale was related to Cortés about a group of Amazons supposedly living in a province called Ciguatán. Juan de Grijalva was told of Amazons during his 1518 expedition through the Tabasco region of Mexico. Nuño de Guzmán followed tales of a nation of women who lived in riches on or near the sea, women with whiter skin who were accounted goddesses by the natives. He described how they used bows and arrows, and lived in many towns.[30] Polk characterized Guzmán as driven by lust for sex and riches—his greed and sadism were well known.[31]

Legacy

Depiction of Calafia holding up the treasures and industries of California in the Allegory of California mural by Diego Rivera, painted in 1931 at the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, San Francisco.

Spanish novelist Vicente Blasco Ibáñez wrote a book entitled La reina Calafia (Queen Calafia) in 1924.

A 1926 portrayal of Queen Calafia and her Amazons is found in a mural in the Room of the Dons at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco. It was created for the opening of the hotel in 1926 by Maynard Dixon and Frank Van Sloun, and has been called "the first embodiment of Queen Califia" though criticized as showing her "haughty and aloof".[32]

In 1937, Lucile Lloyd unveiled her triptych mural "Origin and Development of the Name of the State of California", also known as "California Allegory", which was displayed at the State Building in Los Angeles until 1975 when the building was demolished for safety reasons. The paintings were archived, and in 1991 they were restored and mounted in the California Room of the state capitol, room 4203, renamed the John L. Burton Hearing Room. The regal central figure shows Califia dressed in proto-Mexican finery, holding a spear in her left hand and examining a gyroscope in her right.[33]

In 1931, Diego Rivera finished his first U.S. mural, "The Allegory of California," for the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange building (now the City Club of San Francisco).[34]

The publication of Our Roots Run Deep, the Black Experience in California, Vol. 1 was the lead story in the Sunday Examiner and Chronicle on Feb. 1, 1992 as reporter Greg Lewis pointed out the book's depiction of the Queen Calafia story as particularly noteworthy. An exhibition featuring Queen Calafia followed in 1995 at the Historic State Capital Museum in Sacramento with subsequent showings in the sixth Floor Gallery of the San Francisco Main Library and the Los Angeles Central Library. In 1998, the California Council on Humanities funded the seminar The Black Queen: Primary Sources in California History to promote additional primary source research in California African-American history.

Calafia State Beach, located in San Clemente, California.

The mural of Queen Calafia is featured at the top of the new African-American Freedom Trail brochure produced by ReUNION: Education-Arts-Heritage and San Francisco Travel in November 2013.

Within the Society for Creative Anachronism, the San Diego, CA local chapter is the Barony of Calafia,[35] established in 1972.[36]

Los Angeles Times columnist Jack Smith owned a sailboat that he named "Calafia." The sailboat would occasionally be written about in his columns.[37]

In November 1975, the 11,000-capacity Plaza de Toros Calafia was completed, a bullfighting arena in the city of Mexicali, the capital of the Mexican state of Baja California. The arena is also known as la reina Calafia (Queen Calafia).

Queen Califia's Magical Circle, an outdoor sculpture garden in Escondido, California, opened in 2003, designed by famed French-American designer and artist Niki de Saint Phalle.[38] The central character of Queen Califia is presented wearing gold glass armor atop a stylized giant bird. The final work on the sculpture garden was overseen by de Saint Phalle's granddaughter and by her assistants and technical advisers.[39]

Plaza Calafia arena, located in Mexicali, Baja California.

In 2004, the African American Historical and Cultural Society Museum in San Francisco assembled a Queen Califia exhibit, curated by John William Templeton, featuring works by artists such as TheArthur Wright and James Gayles; artistic interpretations of Calafia. The show displayed a 1936 treatment of Lucile Lloyd's "California

Allegory" triptych, with Queen Califia as the central figure. Templeton said that "Califia is a part of California history, and she also reinforces the fact that when Cortes named this place California, he had 300 black people with him." Templeton pointed out that Columbus had a black navigator and that Africans were seen by Europeans as being culturally advanced in the 15th century.[26] William E. Hoskins, director of the museum, said that very few people know the story of Queen Califia. He said, "One of the things we're trying to do is let people have the additional insight and appreciation for the contributions of African Americans to this wonderful country and more specifically to the state of California", adding that "the Queen Califia exhibit is particularly poignant."[26]

Califia makes an appearance in the 2015 video game Code Name: S.T.E.A.M., appearing as a member of Abraham Lincoln's strike force.

Calafia Airlines, a Mexican airline based in Baja California Sur.

In 2018, Queen Calafia and the mythical island of California will be the inspiration for the Mexicali Biennial, an arts program focusing on art from Mexico and California. Entitled Calafia: Manifesting the Terrestrial Paradise, it will showcase performance, visual arts and mixed media events to interrogate the concept of myth in California's origin story.[40]

Golden Dreams was a 23-minute film and multimedia experience showing the history of California through several recreated scenes, narrated by Whoopi Goldberg as Califia, the Queen of California. A bust of Goldberg attired in queenly raiment was the target of a projected image showing Goldberg narrating the story—the sculpture appeared to come to life.[41] The attraction, at Disney California Adventure Park at the Disneyland Resort in Anaheim, California, opened with the park on February 8, 2001. It closed to the general public on September 7, 2008, and was open only to school groups until March 2009. It was demolished in July 2009 to make way for the construction of a dark ride called The Little Mermaid: Ariel's Undersea Adventure.[41]

In 2021, the town of Sausalito, California staged the "Queen Calafia Welcoming Event", in which the Sausalito Historical Society and local actors depicted the fictional return of Queen Calafia to present-day California, in celebration of the legendary queen and the etymology of California.[42][43]

References

Footnotes

1. Putnam, Ruth (1917). Herbert Ingram Priestley (ed.). California: the name (http s://archive.org/details/cu31924008278347) . Berkeley: University of California.

2. Beebe, Rose Marie; Senkewicz, Robert M. (2001). Lands of promise and despair: chronicles of early California, 1535–1846 (https://archive.org/details/landsofpromisede00rose) . California legacy. Heyday Books. pp. 9 (https://archive.org/details/landsofpromisede00rose/page/9) –11. ISBN 1-890771-48-1.
3. Peck, Donna (2001). Romantic Days and Nights in San Francisco. Vol. 3. Globe Pequot. p. 5. ISBN 0-7627-0846-8.
4. Putnam, 1917, p. 313 (https://archive.org/stream/cu31924008278347#page/n29)

5. Hale, Edward Everett (March 1864), "The Queen of California" (http://cdl.library.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/moa/pageviewer?frames=1&coll=moa&view=50&root=%2Fmoa%2Fatla%2Fatla0013%2F&tif=00271.TIF&cite=http%3A%2F%2Fcdl.library.cornell.edu%2Fcgi-bin%2Fmoa%2Fmoa-cgi%3Fnotisid%3DABK2934-0013-41) , Atlantic Monthly, vol. 13, no. 77, pp. 265–279
6. Myres, Sir John Linton (1917). "The influence of anthropology on the course of political science". Publications in History. University of California Press. 4 (1): 307–308.

7. Gudde, Erwin G.; Bright, William (2004). California Place Names: The Origin and Etymology of Current Geographical Names (4 ed.). Berkeley: University of California Press. pp. 59–61. ISBN 0-520-24217-3.
8. Putnam, 1917, p. 306 (https://archive.org/stream/cu31924008278347#page/n23/mode/1up/)
9. Putnam, 1917, pp. 300–301
10. Putnam, 1917, pp. 327–328
11. Chapman, Charles E. (1921). A history of California: the Spanish period (https://archive.org/details/ahistorycalifor01chapgoog) . Macmillan. p. 65 (https://archive.org/details/ahistorycalifor01chapgoog/page/n85) .
12. Putnam, 1917, pp. 333–334

13. Chapman, 1921, p. 66
14. Chapman, 1921, pp. 65–66
15. "Hispanic Americans: Spanish Colonization and Californios (1769–1800s)" (http://www.calisphere.universityofcalifornia.edu/calcultures/ethnic_groups/subtopic3a.html) . California Cultures. The Regents of The University of California. 2010. Retrieved January 5, 2011.
16. Polk, 1995, p. 130
17. Putnam, 1917, pp. 293–294
18. Putnam, 1917, p. 356
19. Chapman, 1921, pp. 63–64
20. Polk, 1995, p. 131

21. Austin, Herbert D. (1923). "New Light on the Name of California". Annual Publication of the Historical Society of Southern California. Historical Society of Southern California. 12 (3): 29–31. doi:10.2307/41169718 (https://doi.org/10.2307%2F41169718) . JSTOR 41169718 (https://www.jstor.org/stable/41169718) . First published in French as P. Boissonnade (1923) "Du Nouveau sur la Chanson de Roland", Champion.
22. Our Roots Run Deep: the Black Experience in California, Vol. 4, The Black Queen: How African-Americans Put California on the Map, 1998, ASPIRE SAN FRANCISCO, ed. John William Templeton.

23. White, Lynn Townsend, Jr (1940). "Changes in the Popular Concept of 'California' ". California Historical Society Quarterly. California Historical Society. 19 (3): 219–224. doi:10.2307/25160887 (https://doi.org/10.2307%2F25160887) . JSTOR 25160887 (https://www.jstor.org/stable/25160887) .
24. Haase, 1994, p. 297
25. Weiss, Daniel H.; Mahoney, Lisa J. (2004). France and the Holy Land: Frankish culture at the end of the Crusades. Parallax: Re-visions of Culture and Society. JHU Press. p. 206. ISBN 0-8018-7823-3.

26. Sabir, Wanda. "Wanda's Picks" (https://web.archive.org/web/20031101082701/http://www.sigidiart.com/Docs/WandasPicksCalifia.htm) . San Francisco Bayview. Archived from the original (http://sigidiart.com/Docs/WandasPicksCalifia.htm) on November 1, 2003. Retrieved September 18, 2013.
27. Polk, 1995, p. 126
28. Haase, 1994, p. 555
29. Haase, Wolfgang; Reinhold, Meyer (1994). The Classical tradition and the Americas (https://books.google.com/books?id=I1LEmKPgJ8MC&pg=PA204) . Vol. 1 (1 ed.). Walter de Gruyter. p. 204. ISBN 3-11-011572-7.
30. Haase, 1994, p. 305
31. Polk, 1995, p. 93

32. Colburn, Frona Eunice Wait (1929). "California's Greatest Treasures". Overland Monthly.
33. "California, Flags, Beauty and History" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110130112345/http://www.capitolmuseum.ca.gov/VirtualTour.aspx?Content1=1282&Content2=1094&Content3=1098) . Works Progress Administration (WPA) Murals. California State Capitol Museum. Archived from the original (http://capitolmuseum.ca.gov/VirtualTour.aspx?Content1=1282&Content2=1094&Content3=1098) on January 30, 2011. Retrieved January 2, 2011.

34. "Tourism for Locals: Visiting Diego Rivera's First U.S. Mural: "The Allegory of California" " (http://www.sfweekly.com/culture/tourism-for-locals-visiting-diego-riveras-first-u-s-mural-the-allegory-of-california/) . SFWeekly. 29 August 2014. Retrieved September 2, 2019.
35. "The Barony of Calafia" (http://www.calafia.org/) . Retrieved February 17, 2017.
36. "The History of the West by Wilhelm von Schlüssel" (http://history.westkingdom.org/WilhelmsHistory/Calafia.pdf) (PDF). The History of the Barony of Calafia. history.westkingdom.org. Retrieved February 17, 2017.

37. Jack Smith, "Bonding Males Cast Adrift Without a Corkscrew, and it happened just 26 miles across the sea" (http://articles.latimes.com/1986-09-01/news/vw-13017_1_graham-smith) , Los Angeles Times, September 1, 1986.
38. "Garden Overview" (https://web.archive.org/web/20100819110705/http://www.queencalifia.org/garden.html) . Queen Califia's Magic Circle Garden. QueenCalifia.org. Archived from the original (http://www.queencalifia.org/garden.html) on August 19, 2010. Retrieved January 2, 2011.
39. "2002" (http://www.queencalifia.org/2002.html) . Queen Califia's Magic Circle Garden. QueenCalifia.org. Retrieved January 2, 2011.

40. "Calafia: Manifesting the Terrestrial Paradise" (http://mexicalibiennial.org/) . MexiCali Biennial. Retrieved 22 January 2018.
41. Weiss, Werner. "Golden Dreams: A Cinematic California Adventure Starring Whoopi Goldberg" (http://www.yesterland.com/golden.html) . Yesterland. Retrieved January 5, 2011.
42. KQED - 'Our Origin Story': Queen Calafia Returns to California in New Theatre Production (https://www.kqed.org/news/11892023/our-origin-story-queen-calafia-returns-to-california-in-new-theatre-production)

43. Sausalito Historical Society - Queen Calafia Welcoming Event (https://www.sausalitohistoricalsociety.com/2021-events/2021/10/3/queen-calafia)

Bibliography

- Chapman, Charles E. (1921). A history of California: the Spanish period (https://archive.org/details/ahistorycalifor01chapgoog) . Macmillan.
- Rodríguez de Montalvo, Garci (1992). William Thomas Little (translator) (ed.). Las sergas de Esplandián (The labors of the very brave Knight Esplandián). Medieval & Renaissance Texts & Studies. Vol. 92. Binghamton, New York: Center for Medieval and Early Renaissance Studies, State University of New York at Binghamton. ISBN 0-

86698-106-3. {{cite book}}: |editor= has generic name (help)

- Hale, Edward Everett (March 1864), "The Queen of California" (http://cdl.library.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/moa/pageviewer?frames=1&coll=moa&view=50&root=%2Fmoa%2Fatla%2Fatla0013%2F&tif=00271.TIF&cite=http%3A%2F%2Fcdl.library.cornell.edu%2Fcgi-bin%2Fmoa%2Fmoa-cgi%3Fnotisid%3DABK2934-0013-41) , Atlantic Monthly, vol. 13, no. 77, pp. 265–279
- Ibáñez, Vicente Blasco (1924). Queen Calafia. New York: E.P. Dutton & Company.
- Polk, Dora Beale (1995). The Island of California: A History of the Myth.

Lincoln, Nebraska: University of Nebraska Press. ISBN 0-8032-8741-0.

- Putnam, Ruth (1917). Herbert Ingram Priestley (ed.). California: the name (https://archive.org/details/cu31924008278347) . Berkeley: University of California.

External links

Wikimedia Commons has media related to Calafia.

- "The Queen of California" (https://books.google.com/books?id=pd9rm7JwShoC&dq=%22Queen%20of%20California%22&pg=PA265#v=onepage&q&f=false) (March 1864) The Atlantic Monthly Vol.13 Nº 77 p. 18 (Google eBook)

- Edward Everett Hale (1885) "The Queen of California" (https://archive.org/details/hislevelbestand00halegoog/page/n244) in His Level Best: And Other Stories. (Google eBook) Translation from the Sergas of Esplandian of every passage relating to the imagined island of California. Reprinted in part from an unsigned article in the Atlantic Monthly for March 1864.
- Hubert Howe Bancroft (1899) "Story of Calafia, Queen of California" (https://archive.org/details/cu31924058544150/page/n550) in The New Pacific chp.22

p. 535, The Bancroft Company, New York

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Calafia&oldid=1135755046"

WIKIPEDIA
This page was last edited on 26 January 2023, at 17:39 (UTC). •
Content is available under CC BY-SA 3.0 unless otherwise noted.

Gabriel Panaitescu
Nov 2

RESETARE : CATACOMBELE DIN PARIS, VICTIMELE POTOPULUI DE NOROI SI MORȚII NECUNOSCUȚI @ de KorbenDallas
INFO :
Azi trãiesc mai bine de 7 miliarde de oameni și conform Departamentului Populației , se estimează cã în total , pe Terra au trãit 107 miliarde de oameni .
Acestea sunt niște ițe pe care am vrut de mult timp sã le pun cap la cap .
Orice idee despre o resetare (sau resetări) recentã evidențiază morții lipsã . Rezultã in mare mãsurã , cã inundațiile de noroi pot fi legate de posibilele noastre resetări .
Două perioade ies în evidență si ele pot fi urmărite prin reprezentări vizuale .
POTOPUL DE NOROI , perioada I
1600--1750
Giovanni Battista Piranesi a trãit în perioada 1720-1778 . Dacã considerãm cã a fost martor la toate evenimentele pe care le-a surprins în lucrãrile sale , rezultã o perioadã aproximativã a potopului de noroi in anii 1600--1750 . Alessandro Salucci sugerează cã evenimentele ar fi putut începe cel mai devreme la 1620 .
PRE-PERIOADA 1
Deși e îndoielnic , cred cã Piranesi ne-a dat o clarã idee despre cum erau tratați morții în aceea perioadã . Conform desenului , morții nu erau îngropați . Giganții erau incinerați . Tot Piranesi ne-a lãsat desene care atestã cã arhitectura nebunească era construitã de oameni mai mari decât noi . Un subiect tabu .
POTOPUL DE NOROI , PERIOADA II
Motivul pentru care cred cã a existat un al doilea potop de noroi se datorează unor diferențe arhitecturale drastice .
Aș plasa acest eveniment mai aproape de anul 1850 , dar clãdirea rusească din imagine a fost construitã în 1910 . Avem probleme deci cu datarea , dar nu despre asta este aici vorba , ci despre morți .
VECHILE CIMITIRE
Conform variantei oficiale , ar trebui sã gãsim rãspândite pe tot cuprinsul terestru , mii de cimitire foarte vechi . Si totuși , ni se oferã doar 8 cele mai vechi cimitire :
1. Gross Fredenwalde , vechi de 8500 ani
2. Kerameikos , anul 3000 înainte de Christos
3. Udegram Cemetery , vechi de 2500--3000 ani
4. Cimitirul Evreiesc de pe Muntele Mãslinilor , 3000 ani

5. Cimitirul Okunoin , anul 819
6. Heiliger Sand din 1058
7. Vechiul cimitir din Praga , 1439
8. Miles Standish Burial Ground , 1638
Nu mai există cimitire vechi ? Precis există , dar apare interesant cuvântul DATAT . Încrederea mea personală față de chestiile datate este aproape de zero .
Se pare că nu avem cimitire mai vechi de 500 de ani .
Orașul Paris a fost fondat undeva în anii 250--225 î.e.n. .
CATACOMBELE DIN PARIS
6 milioane de schelete
Aproximativ 300 de km de tuneluri labirintice se crede că există , însă doar o secțiune infimă de cam 1 km este deschisă publicului , "Catacombele" devenind o puternică atracție turistică a Parisului .
Cred că povestea Catacombelor din Paris este extrem de suspectă , referitor la numărul de morți .
De unde pot proveni 6 milioane de morți după anul 1780
Oficial : Catacombele din Paris reprezintă un osuar subteran reprezentând resturile a mai mult de 6 milioane de oameni situat într-o mică zonă a unei rețele de tuneluri construite pentru a consolida vechile mine de piatră ale Parisului .
Se menționează Cimitirul Sființilor Inocenți , care nu mai există . A fost suprasaturat cu cadavre care s-ar fi împrăștiat pe străzi . Autoritățile au intervenit si au mutat trupurile în catacombe .
Cimitirul a fost inaugurat în sec. al XII-lea și închis în 1780 . Oare chiar a existat acest cimitir Nu știu , dar în mod sigur , avem foarte multe schelete în Catacombe .
POPULAȚIA PARISULUI
Judecați voi dacă 205.882 locuitori pe o milă² (2,59 km²) reprezintă o cifră realizabilă în anul 1572 .
Cel mai dens populat oraș de azi este Manila cu 107.561 locuitori pe mila² .
Ori nu ni se spune care era adevărata mărime a Parisului , ori populația la 1550 era sub 50.000 . Nu ai cum să găzduiești 350.000 de oameni pe o suprafață de 1,69 mile² (4,1 km²).
DE UNDE 6 MILIOANE DE SCHELETE
Să vedem evoluția populației Parisului :
anul 29 î.e.n. 29.000
anul 1000 : 20.000
anul 1200 : 120.000
anul 1250 : 160.000
anul 1300 : 228.000
anul 1340 : 300.000
anul 1400 : 280.000, pierderi după ciuma neagră anul 1500 : 200.000, pierderi dupã rãzboiul de 100 de ani anul 1550 : 275.000, revenire dupa Renaștere anul 1594 : 210.000, pierderi dupã rãzboaie civile si religioase anul 1634 : 420.000, revenire sub regele Henry IV

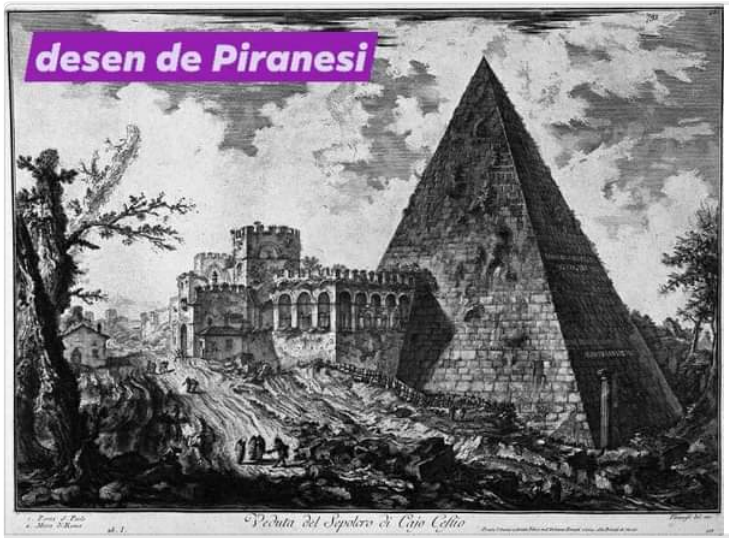
anul 1700 : 515.000
anul 1750 : 565.000
Trebuie cã vã plac foarte mult aceste "pierderi" și "reveniri". Ce se poate oare ascunde în dosul acestor cifre
De gândit : sub domnia lui Philip al II-lea , cimitirul a fost extins și înconjurat de un zid înalt de 3 metri .
De ce în anul 1200 cu o populație de doar 110.000 , a fost nevoie de ridicarea unui zid înalt de 3 metri
Dupã cum se vede pe hartã , cimitirul era în mijlocul orașului . Este ca și cum nu ar fi existat absolut niciun alt loc disponibil
Luând în considerare cã populația Parisului a fost cea expusã mai sus , cum ajungem la peste 6 milioane de morți
Deși unele schelete se presupune cã au o vechime de 500 de ani iar altele , 10 ani , toate aratã la fel Oasele nu cad , când în realitate , stim cã ele cad În plus , oasele din Catacombe aratã șlefuite și tratate .
Deoarece Cimitirul Sființilor Inocenți nu mai existã , îmi voi permite sã fac urmãtoarele speculații :
* toți acei oameni au murit deodatã , de aceea oasele sunt toate în același loc și aceiași stare de pãstrare
* moartea poate reprezenta o "resetare" . Dacã a fost din cauza potopului sau a otrãvirii , rãmâne de srabilit .
* cu doar o milã disponibilã din 200 de mile (300 km) de tuneluri , nu putem fi siguri cã acolo existã doar 6 milioane de morți . Dacã cifra este de 200 de ori mai mare
* nu știm la ce perioadã se raportează acele morți .
INSPECTION GÉNÉRALE DES CARRIÈRES
este o organizație care administrează minele și Catacombele din Paris . A fost fondatã în 1777 .
Gãurile de acum sunt forate de sus si umplute cu beton .
Datoritã pericolului pe care îl reprezintã cavitãtile realizate cicã , de vechii romani , dovezile istorice sunt astupate și sigilate cu beton . Nimeni nu trebuie sã vadã ce este acolo .
Ce mai știm despre perioada 1775--1777 Nu cred cã sunt coincidențe .
ALTE LOCURI
OSUARUL DE LA BRNO
Osuarul de la Brno , Cehia , a fost înființat în sec. al XVII-lea și extins în sec. al XVIII-lea . A fost descoperit în 2001 si conține osemintele a 50.000 de oameni .
SEDLEC
Tot în Cehia , la Sedlec , se aflã alt osuar unde zac resturile a 70.000 de oameni .
OSUARUL DE LA PUTIM , fondat în 1741
MÃNÃSTIREA CATACOMBELOR SAN FRANCISCO din Lima , Peru , aproximativ 70.000 de schelete .

Recent arheologii au descoperit mii de schelete în Schlossplatz , Berlin , din epoca medievală .
https://stolenhistory.net/threads/reset-catacombs-of-paris-mud-flood-victims-and-unidentified-dead.878/



17 1 comment

Like Comment

Dean Harris
Zhan Harris

last Wed Like Reply More

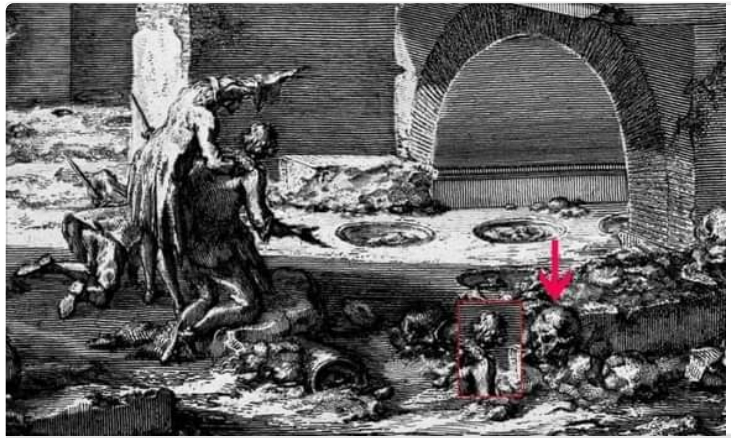
Write a comment...



Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Location of Holy Innocents' Cemetery

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

DA Homet

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Facebook

YaSsine Mīđœ
Sunday at 4:50 PM

عشرات القرون، تلاقحت فيها الممالك العظيمة، مُشكلة تاريخا حضاريا وأدبيا وعمرانيا، جعل من المغرب أقدم مملكة مستمرة إلى يومنا الحاضر ولا غالب الا الله

69 4 comments

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Ayoub Amaaras
مملكة موريطنية تأسست على يد باكا العظيم
on Sun Like Reply More

View more comments…

الإمام إدريس ابن الحسن الهاشمي

علم/شعار

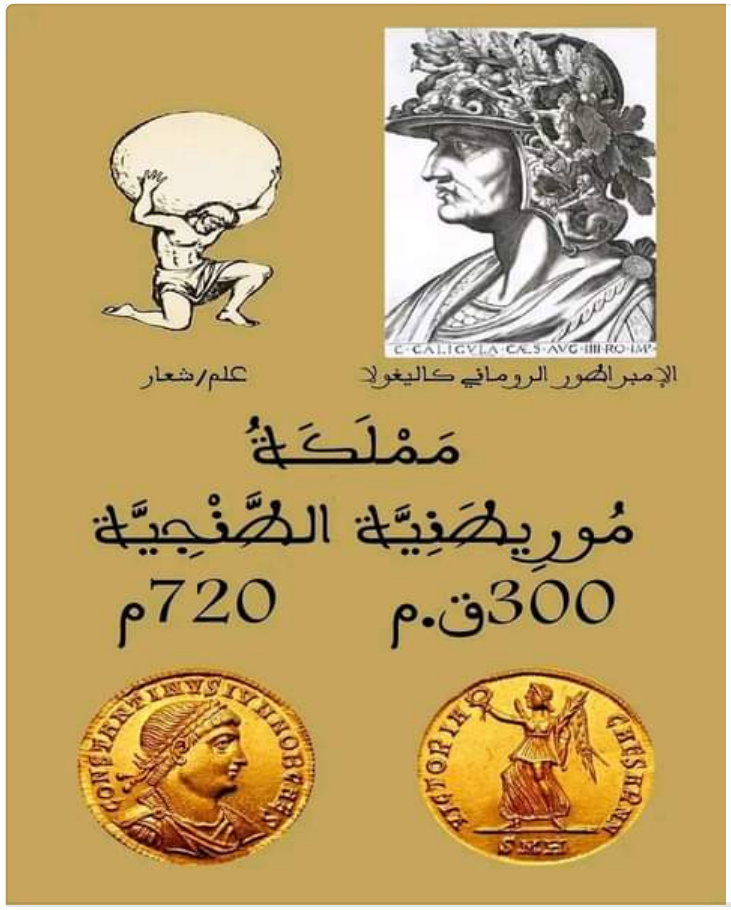
الدَّوْلَةُ الإِدْرِيسِيَّة

788م 912م

Like Comment

Write a comment...

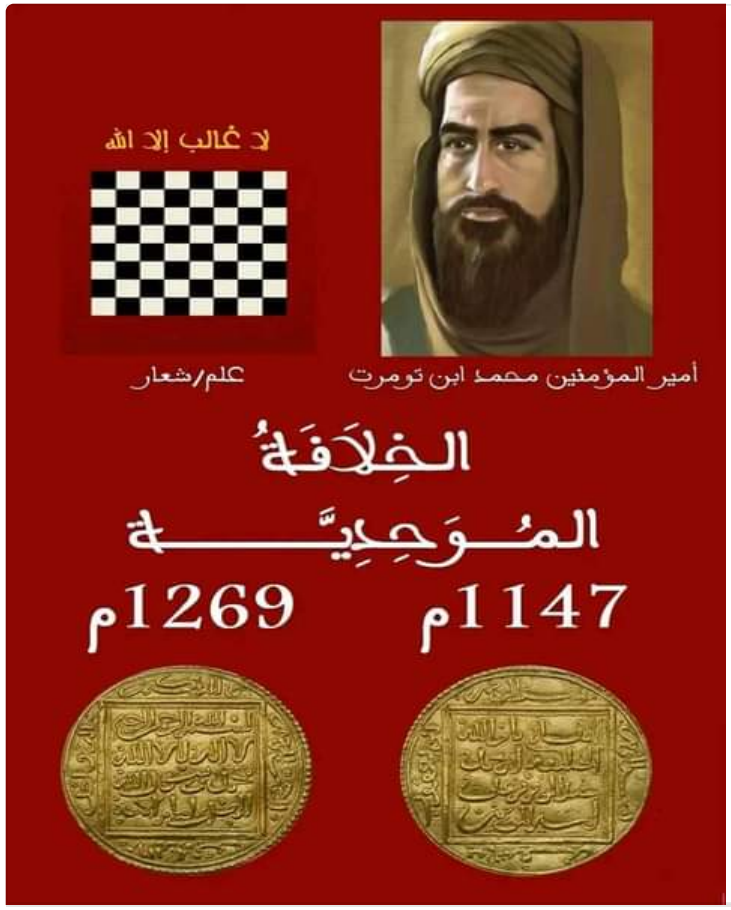
2 1 comment



Like Comment

Write a comment...

Honkai Mar



مكنفتاخروش بهادي

21 hrs Like Reply More

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

1

Like Comment

Write a comment...

علم/شعار

أمير المؤمنين عبد الرحمن الناصر

الدَّوْلَةُ الأُمَويَّة

خِلَافَةُ قُرْطُبَة

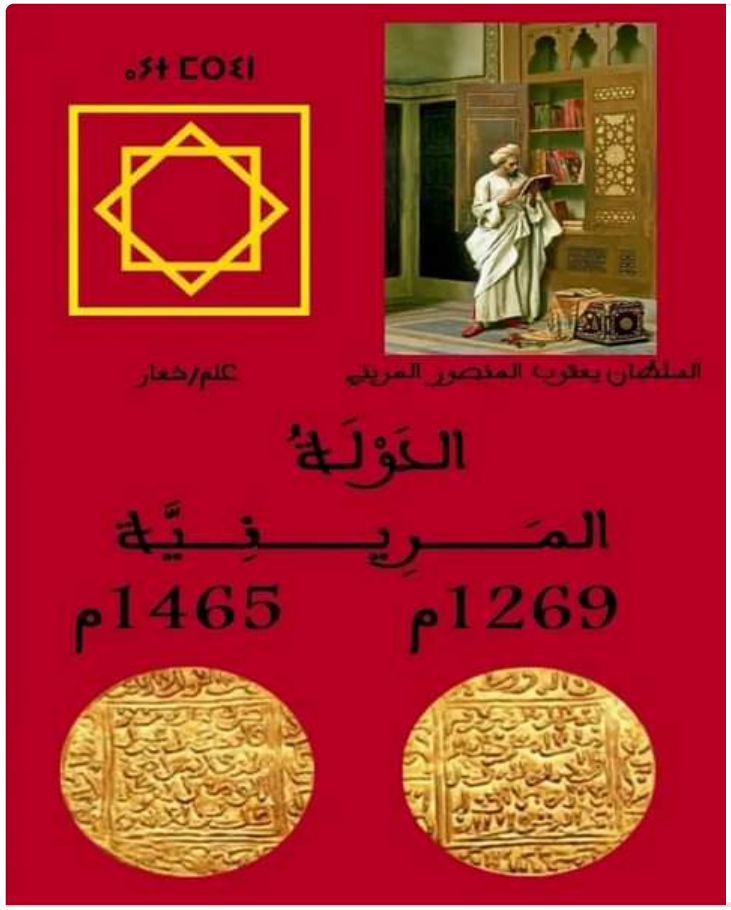
912م 1031م

2

Like Comment

Write a comment...

1



Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Share

December 16, 2012

THE WOLOF PEOPLE: AFRICA`S DARKEST, TALL AND REGAL-LOOKING PEOPLE

—

The Wolof are an ethnic group found in Senegal, The Gambia, and Mauritania.
In Senegal, the Wolof form an ethnic plurality where about 43.3% of the population are Wolofs.
In The Gambia, about 16% of the population are Wolof. Here, they are a minority, where the Mandinka are the plurality with 42% of the population, yet Wolof language and culture have a disproportionate influence because of their prevalence in Banjul, The Gambia's capital, where a majority of the population is Wolof.
In Mauritania, about 8% of the population are Wolof. They live largely in the southern coastal region of the country.

PDFmyURL

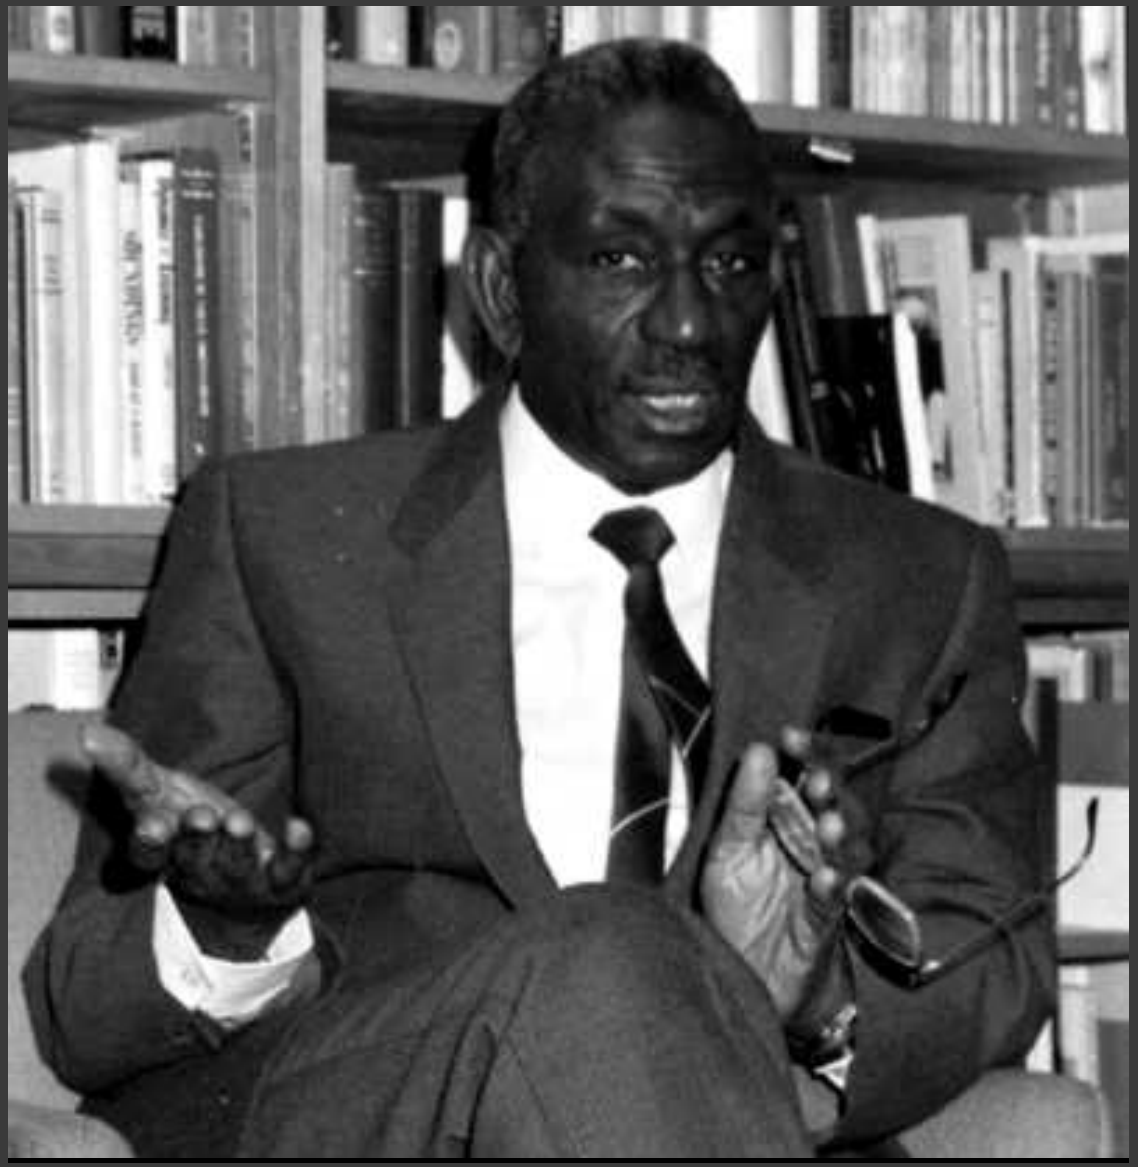
A painting of Wolof man wearing traditional "Baobao" robe

Wolof people live in the 'Savanna zone' of northwest Senegal. They can be found from the Senegal river in the north to the Gambia river in the south (indicated by the green areas on the map). They are the largest people/group of Senegal, and make up 43.5% of the total population of Senegal and number about 3 million.

In rural areas the Wolof are mainly farmers.

Wolof Woman from Senegal with pipe. Postcard photo - François-Edmond Fortier

The Wolof language is a West Atlantic language of the Niger-Congo family. It is an important language as it is used as the language of trade even outside the main Wolof areas. About 30% of the population speak Wolof as their first language and about 80% understand it.



History

Woman of the Wolof people and her child (Senegal). Ca. 1888.

The Wolof first entered Senegal from the north east in about the 11th Century coming to the lower Senegal Valley. They are said to be composed of an amalgam of Mandingo, Sereer and Fula. Cheikh Anta

Diop believes that they came from the Nile valley and that the Wolof were part of the formation of the ancient Egyptian civilisation. From the 13th to the 15th centuries, Wolof kings conquered and ruled a large area called the Djolof. Towards the end of the 16th century this broke up into the chiefdoms of Walo, Baol, Cayor, Sine and Saloum.

Wolof tribe man, Cheikh Anta Diop, the great African historian/scholar

These in turn where destroyed by the French in the 19th century, the last Wolof King, Lat Dior, being defeated in battle and killed in 1886. Since the times of the Wolof Kingdoms until recent times the Wolof lived in highly stratified societies based primarily on blood relationships. There were three highly separated castes: freemen (gor or jambur); those of slave descent (jaam); and artisans (ñeeño). Intermarriage rarely took place between the castes. The Wolof have always had closer contacts with the European powers than the other people groups in Senegal and were also largely behind the slave trade between the 15th and 19th centuries.

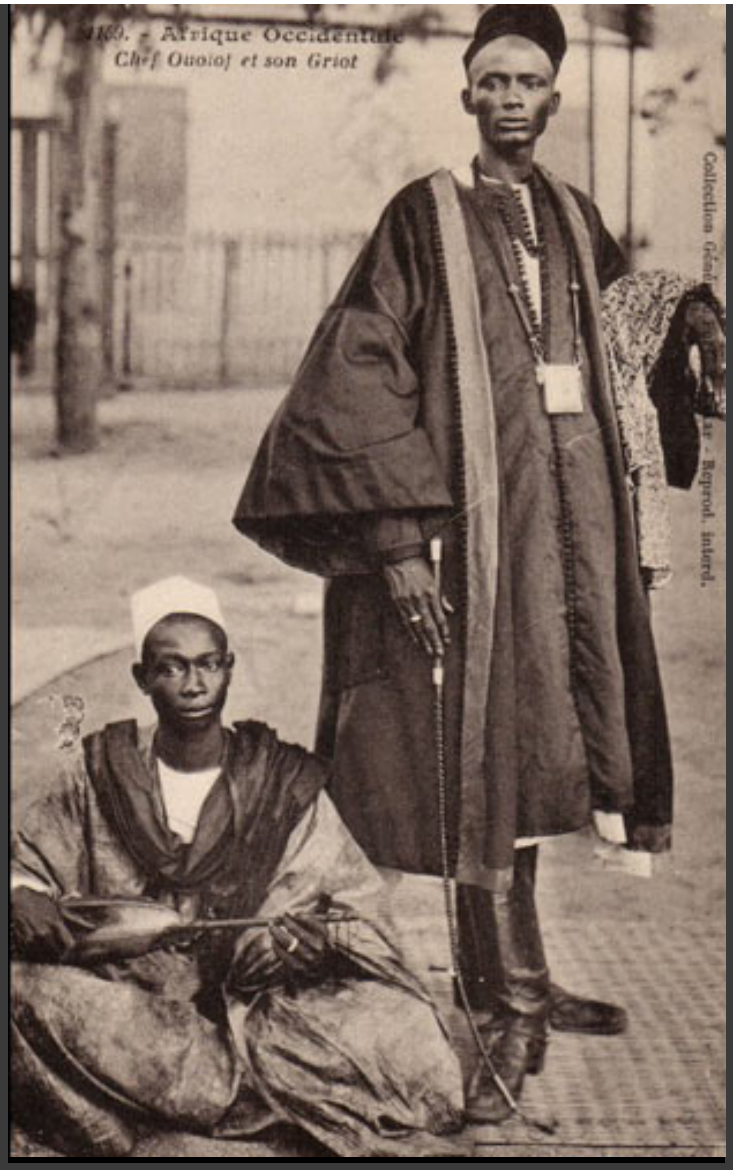
Wolof Queen Ndeté-Yalla, Senegal, showing her robes and bead jewelry, 1850s; based on a drawing made from life by a Senegalese Catholic priest. For details, see http://hitchcock.itc.virginia.edu/Slavery, Image Reference Boilat03.

http://www.diaspora.uiuc.edu/news1206/news1206-1.html



The French built factories along the Senegal River to exploit the gum-producing area and to trade in slaves. Wolof chiefs also traded slaves thus giving them a source of revenue and power. In 1815, the slave trade became illegal, although slaves were still being traded late in the 19th Century. This had important ramifications for the power of the chiefs and the process of Islamization.

At this time families headed by marabouts (i.e. elders who considered themselves as Muslim clerics) were immigrating from the east. The chiefs often valued the marabouts for their prayers and amulets, books and rosaries, and magic powers. In return the marabouts were given land and allowed to start villages. The marabouts slowly detached themselves from court life and became the leaders of the commoners living in the countryside.

At this time the court was characterized by 'a dissipated style of living'. Overindulgence, extravagance, drunkenness, and immorality were rampant and were basically stimulated by the soldiers. By contrast the marabouts lived lives regulated by the Koran, less extravagant, reserved and disciplined which also led to improved economic conditions. The soldiers of the court tended to oppress and mistreat the people but left the marabouts alone for fear of their magic. 'Mistreated people' also began to go to the marabout villages as a refuge thus increasing the marabouts' following.

Wolof Kingdoms 18th century

From the 17th Century onwards the influence of the marabouts had increased so much, that they revolted against the court army. The chiefs were weakened by their loss of control over trade and revenues after the decline of the slave trade and because more and more of the wealth from the trade in peanuts went to the marabouts. This brought them money and therefore guns which together with the development of the peanut trade contributed to the success of the marabout revolution (jihad).

Colonial policy in Senegal and Gambia was directed to establishing peace so trade could develop. Irrespective of whether governors chose the side of the marabouts or chiefs the influence of the marabouts grew and Islam spread more rapidly and thoroughly. Thus today nearly 99.9% of Wolof people are Muslim.

Characteristics and Importance of the Wolof

The Wolof people are a very dark skinned, tall, proud, regal-looking people. They tend to be lazy about learning other languages, and have a domineering and contemptuous attitude toward their neighbours. and are very ethnocentric. Open sensuality is part of their lifestyle.

Gambian Wolof woman doing her gig

The Wolof have been more affected by the West than other Senegalese groups. However, they have the most highly developed sense of national identity of any of the Senegalese. Through the years, they have played a major role in the import-export trade as middlemen and primary producers of the main cash crop, peanuts. They tend to be a major element of the civil service and play an important part in political parties. In fact Wolofs hold a disproportionate share of cabinet posts and seats in the National Assembly.

They are highly urbanized and they are the main element in the major cities of Senegal (Dakar, St.Louis, Thies, Kaolack). In the urban areas they may be found in businesses such as fabrics, dressmaking, dyeing, jewellery making, and elaborate hair-dressing.

Mauritanian Wolof fishermen

During the course of their history the Wolof have absorbed many traits from other cultures thus share a variety of cultural characteristics with their neighbours. Language is one such element. Despite this the Wolof have remained a distinct ethnic group which is very appealing to people of other groups. In fact those in close contact with them, particularly in the towns, tend to adopt Wolof traits and claim themselves to be Wolof even when the link is somewhat tenuous. One particularly important characteristic of the Wolof is their capacity to influence the ways of others, adapt to changing situations yet remain a distinct culture. They are admired by other groups due to their initiative and ability to adapt. Both the Serer and the Lebu have undergone 'Wolofization'.

Wolof people

Religion

The Wolof Style of Islam

Islam is an inseparable part of Wolof culture. However Wolof society is considerably freer than most Muslim societies. For instance women are free to appear in public. One important feature of Wolof Islam is that it tends to be centred around membership of one of the three main brotherhoods. About 30% of Wolofs belong to the Mourides, about 60% belong to the Tijaniyas, and about 10% belong to the Qadiriyas. During the Colonial period the brotherhoods were the main means by which the Sufi form of Islam was spread. Since independence Islam has become the primary force in Senegalese society due to the brotherhoods' ability to adapt to changing social conditions, the spread of Koranic primary schools, and Senegal's growing ties with the Islamic world.

Prayer in a sand

Pre-Islamic beliefs survive only to a small extent among the Wolof and are found mainly in isolated rural areas. When Islamic beliefs were adopted, procedures at naming ceremonies, circumcision, marriage, divorce, and burial started to follow Islamic patterns. However it has been noted that the Islam of the Wolof is strongly mixed with spiritism. Numerous taboos operate in Wolof society. For example, a pregnant women may not work in the fields or it is believed the harvest will be less; a knife is placed beside the head of a newborn baby until it is seven days old to protect it from evil spirits. Marabouts (Muslim clerics) practise white magic, for a price. Their practices include writing special Koranic texts on paper and then placing them in small leather pouches or washing the ink from these texts with water, and preserving it in bottles or sprinkling it over the body.

Senegal election wade marabout 2012 3 21

Senegalese Wolof marabout Chiekh Bethio Thioune surrounded by supporters as he endorses former Senegalese Wolof president Abdoulaye Wade.

Animistic beliefs

Wolof society gives the impression of revolving around Islam, and Islam does in fact hold a central place in Wolof society. However it is practiced at two levels. The visible level is "orthodox" Islam with its ritual prayers, fasts and festivals. But at the heart of their beliefs and practices is "folk" Islam, a syncretistic mix of Sufi Islam and African traditional religion.

Wolof traditionalist/animist

Many of the pre-existing animistic practices have been given Islamic dress. That is to say, they are performed by Muslims, and the names of Allah and Muhammad invoked. It is in folk Islam where people deal with the important issues of life: health and sickness, the fear of evil spirits, witches and black magic, advancement in life. Amulets and charms are worn to protect the wearer from all sorts of maledictions. Wives will seek to prevent their husbands from marrying a second wife by seeking someone with magical powers. People will try to get ahead of their competitors through black magic, all the while giving the appearance of being their best friends. Sacrifices are made to the family spirits, family totems are respected and ceremonies for the exorcism of spirits have changed little from pre-Islamic days.

The new born baby is protected from evil spirits by placing a knife, a branch from the echallon tree and charms beside its head. And it is from the pre-existing beliefs that many of their still strongly held superstitions arose, such as the taboos on a woman, pregnant for the first time, working in a field or going fishing with a man; the knife carried by women in their period of mourning after the death of their husbands to chase evil spirits away; taking Monday as the day of rest as this is the day that the spirits of the earth rest; or taboos on cutting the fingernails of a baby which is being breast fed for fear that it will become a thief.

Social Organization

Castes

Youssou Ndour, A wolof and great African musician from Sebegal

The Wolof basically have a stratified social system made up of three main castes - freeborn, those of slave descent, and artisan which includes smiths, leatherworkers and musicians. This system is somewhat modified in the towns.

Wolof tribe man Ousmane Sembene with his trademark pipe, Great African Film-maker

It has been observed that the freeborn caste tend to maintain a favoured position by holding on to their former status and by applying the Islamic rules more strictly than those of slave descent or artisans. Slave-descendants no longer work for the descendants of their former masters but the freeborn still have material advantages due to their position. However today materially the slave-descendants should be able to gain a position comparable to that of the freeborn. Similarly village heads were almost always of freeborn status and always in villages of mixed castes. Intermarriage between castes is not common.

Two famous Wolofs: Former Senegalese president Abdoulaye Wade and international musician Akon

The freeborn consider themselves more religious than slave-descents since more of them go on the pilgrimage to Mecca. However the costs for slave-descendants are much higher as they must compensate their former masters during their absence. People who return from the pilgrimage gain the title of El Hadji (men) or Adjouratou (women) and also gain much prestige. Since slave-descendants and artisans cannot occupy positions of authority or prestige in mixed communities these groups tend to hold on to tribal religion and the ceremonies and activities related to the age-set system more than the freeborn. Slave-descendants and artisans also receive gifts from the freeborn in return for carrying out ritual services for them.

Aminata Sow Fall, the famous Senegalese African writer

Indicators of wealth

Kinee Diouf Senegalese Wolof international model

In Saloum indicators of wealth included: Firstly, the number of wives. The Wolof in this area had from 1 to 4 wives, only the wealthy could have more than one wife; Second, the possession of durable luxury goods, including metallic beds, bicycles, motorcycles, sewing machines and modern sporting-guns. Also only rich farmers tend to own mud brick houses and it is mainly the rich who manage to gain the title of El Hadji.

Wolof woman

Wolof ceremonial traditions

Ceremonies such as weddings, funerals, and baptisms, while not unique, have traditional elements distinctive to the Wolof. Many aspects of these traditional ceremonies have merged and been modified through the 20th century.

Some Wolof proverbs canbe checked here:http://wolofresources.org/language/download/proverbs.pdf

Action

1. “Maa mën” : defal ñu gis. (2)

“I can do it”; (then) do it so we can see.

“Actions speak louder than words.”

2. Àkk àkkum gaynde, song songum bukki. (6)

Charge with the spirit of a lion but attack like a hyena.

Enthusiasm before action, composure at the moment of action.

3. Def ca ba ngay man. (12)

Do it while you can.

“Strike while the iron’s hot.”

“Opportunity knocks but once.”

“Seize the day.”

“Time and tide wait for no man.”

4. Fa ñuy tëgge ab xàndoor, deesu fa ñaani njël ; fa ñu koy bey lañu koy ñaane. (11,12)

Where they make hilaires (an African tool for removing weeds from a field) they do not pray for dawn; it is those who are weeding who pray for it.

It is in the place where a good idea is put into practice that its value becomes visible, not in the place where the idea was spoken.

5. Jabar, doonte ne yeena jéllooy sàkket, ab xer damm. (2,3)

(In the matter of a) wife, even if you only have a wall of reeds between you, a post can break.

Even if a marriage seems easy to organise, the future bridegroom will always have to do more and spend more than he anticipates.

Tanor owns a large garage and his business is going well. One day, one of his cousins is promoted to head of an important public service. Tanor expects that his cousin will give him the contract to maintain the service vehicles. Some time later he learns that the contract has been given to another mechanic. Tanor makes known his resentment to one of his friends who says to him that he had been too confident and that he should have gone to see his cousin right after his promotion, and quotes this proverb.

6. Maa la men deesu ko wax, dees koy jëf. (11,12)

“I am better than you” is not something which is said; it is shown by action.

“Actions speak louder than words.”

It is not words which count but action.

7. Nit la mu jëf la du la mu wax. (15)

A man is measured by what he does, not what he says.

“Actions speak louder than words.”

8. Soo jiwul, doo góob. (20)

If you do not sow, you will not reap.

“Nothing ventured, nothing gained.”

“The sluggard craves and gets nothing, but the desires of the diligent are fully satisfied.” (Proverbs 13:4 NIV)

9. Wax yomb na, wànte def yombul. (13,20)

Talk is easy, but doing is not.

“Actions speak louder than words.”

“It is easier said than done.”

10. Jëm ci làmb di bàkku, jóge cay bàkkoo ko gën. (11,12)

Dem sa làmb ja di bàkku jóge fa di bàkkoo ko gën. (7,14)

It is better to boast coming from the wrestling match, than to boast on the way to the match.

“Actions speak louder than words.”

Glory comes from the results of action, not from talk.

“The king of Israel answered, "Tell him: ‘One who puts on his armour should not boast like one who takes it off.’"” (1 Kings 20:11 NIV)

11. Pëndub tànk a gën pënduw taat. (2,6,8)

Tànk yu pënd a gën taat yu pënd. (14)

Dust on the feet is better than dust on the behind (from sitting).

Action is better than sitting doing nothing.

Magatte Wade, Wolof and a Senegalese international enterpreneur/CEO/founder of Adina World Beat Beverages, a San Francisco

Advice

12. Boroom làmmiñ du réer. (20)

Someone with a tongue will not get lost.

One should always ask when one doesn't know.

“Listen to advice and accept instruction, and in the end you will be wise.” (Proverbs 19:20 NIV)

13. Tere, tere, mu të, bàyyil mu gis. (2,6,7,14,15)

Prohibit, prohibit, he refuses to listen, leave him to see.

If someone refuses to listen to advice, leave him to discover the consequences himself.

“Blessed is the man who always fears the LORD, but he who hardens his heart falls into trouble.” (Proverbs 28:14 NIV)

14. Ku la ne “sangul”, sab taar la bëgg. (2,8,19)

Ku la ne “sangul”, sab taar a tax. (11,12)

Whoever tells you to go and bathe wants you to be beautiful.

The person who gives you good advice is your friend and has your best interests at heart, even if it is hard to hear.

“Wounds from a friend can be trusted, but an enemy multiplies kisses.” (Proverbs 27:6 NIV)

15. Déggal ndigal i ñett, bàyyil ndigal i ñett. (1)

Follow the advice of three people, and ignore the advice of three (others).

A saying of Kotche BARMA. When he said this he was advising people to follow the advice of one's father, one's mother and one's eldest son, and to resist the advice of one's wife, one's slave and one's griot. The first three are motivated by the interests of the man, whereas the latter are motivated by self interest and are only interested in his belongings.

Wolof girl from The Gambia

Art

Wolof woman dancing

One searches in vain to find the usual forms of art that first come to the Western mind such as painting, wood carvings or masks. Rather the Wolof express their artistic instincts in the embroidery that adorns their clothing, in the hairdos that they spend so many hours creating, and in their jewellery. They express themselves in song and dance, in poetry and story telling. Speech itself becomes an art form well served by a rich language filled with proverbs.

The Tama of the Wolof

Drums, especially the Wolof talking drum (tama) can be found everywhere and are heard at every major event. The xalam or Wolof lute is harder to find but still plays a part in Wolof celebrations as the traditional story-tellers or griots travel around seeking their livelihood.

Wolof man African man playing the xalam

Bibliography

- Bravmann, R.A. 'A Fragment of Paradise' The Muslim World, Vol.78 Jan 1988
- Gellar, S. Senegal An African Nation Between Islam and the West (Westview Press: Colorado 1982)
- Molla, C.F. 'Some Aspects of Islam in Africa South of the Sahara' Int. Rev. Miss., Vol. 56 1967
- Ray, B. African Religions, Symbol, Ritual, and Community (Prentice Hall Inc.: New Jersey, 1976)
- Venema, L.B. The Wolof of Saloum: Social Structure and Rural Development Centre for Agricultural Publishing and Documentation. Agricultural Research Report 871. Wageningen.

1978.

- Peace is Everything David Maranz International Museum of Cultures Dallas 1993
- La Philosophie morale des Wolof Assane Sylla IFAN 1994
- La Famille Wolof Abdoulaye-Bara Diop Karthala 1985
- La Société Wolof Abdoulaye-Bara Diop Karthala 1981
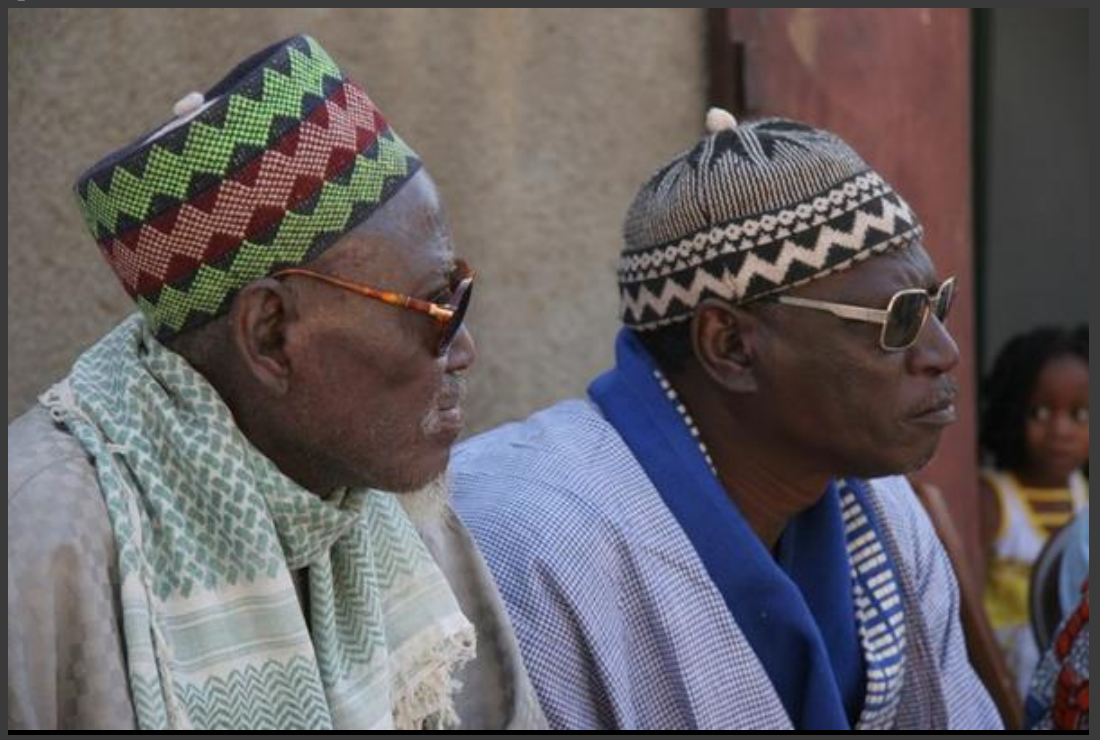
- The Wolof of Saloum Social Structure & Rural Development LB Venema Centre for Agricultural Publishing & Documentation Agricultural 1978
- SOURCE: http://wolofresources.org/beliefs.htm



- Wolof woman wearing a traditional blue dress, Banjul, the Gambia

WOLOF ADHERENCE TO MUSLIM BROTHERHOODS

The communities which foreran the brotherhoods grew up in the early years of Islam and were based in Islamic mysticism, or Sufism. The members of the small Sufi communities in the early period lived an ordered life in which individual moral and physical discipline, as well as mystical theology and ritual, were emphasized. These orders had only limited appeal to the few men willing to give up their worldly possessions and live an ascetic life to achieve a state of union with God. Later, however, the organizational basis of these communities changed, the stress on individual moral and physical discipline declined, and the Muslim orders took on the form which attracted followers throughout the Far and Near East and North Africa. By the end of the eleventh century the informal communities of ascetics were being converted into organized brother- hoods whose members, living together in regulated communities, adhered to a body of spiritual rites.

Islamic Wolof men

The change in emphasis from individual self-discipline to mystical theology, which is of particular importance to this study, came in the late twelfth and early thirteenth centuries and is often associated with Ibn al-Arabi of Murcia (d. 1240 A.D.), whose esoteric mystical interpretation of Islam pointed the way for the development of the later brotherhoods in which the mass of brothers could satisfy their religious duties by devotion and obedience to a handful of mystically adept leaders. In addition the brotherhoods in the later period softened the strict rules of orthodox Islam, stressing the state of a man's heart rather than his actual behavior, and popularizing Muslim traditions to make them understandable at the lowest level. Local practices and beliefs alien to Islam were tolerated as long as they did not contradict the desired union with Allah which all true brothers wished to achieve.

Although these factors vulgarized and distorted Islamic teachings, they also made Islam appealing to simple men. The mass of members of the orders apparently often forgot the teachings of the Qu'ran and of Muhammad; ignorant of the major doctrintes of Islam, they concentrated on obedience to their leaders. This attitude was made possible largely because of the emphasis of later Sufism, which stressed the ability of the brotherhood leader to act as intermediary between Allah and man. Whereas early Sufism had emphasized individual effort, it was later believed that most men could not achieve union with the Divine by themselves. Concurrent with the shift in emphasis pre- Islamic beliefs in magic were mingled with Islam. Belief grew in legends about the miracles performed by early mystics and the magical ability of current leaders who had received divine grace or baraka from Allah. The leaders were revered as saints, and their tombs became the centers of pilgrimages because of the miracles which might occur there. Montet, a French writer, reports that in Morocco in the nineteenth century such leaders were believed to have innumerable powers: they could, for example, lift large loads alone, repel bullets, or go for long periods without food and water; they could be ubiquitous, become invisible, or be instantly transported to far-off places; or they could walk on water or dry up an ocean; and they were capable of keeping away evil spirits, healing the sick, and resurrecting the dead. Montet concludes from his observations in Morocco that Sufism had degenerated into anthropolatry:

"Living or dead, the saints, however illiterate they may be . . . are adored."

The leaders of the brotherhoods were called shaykhs, or in North and West Africa, Marabouts. Marabout is a French term coming from the Arabic word for fortified camp or monastery and is used for a Muslim holy man, whether or not he is connected with the brotherhoods.

According to the Not surprisingly, this devotion of the brotherhood members to their leaders was practically demonstrated through material contributions. An offering, or ziara, which was sometimes quite large, as well as the member's dime, or tenth of his crops, were paid to the brotherhoods. Land around the center of the brotherhood was worked by the members (usually lay affiliates and full brothers together), and the men made payments (habus or wakaf) to the brotherhood for the use of this land. The leaders also received other types of contributions including payments for initiation and labor corv&es since adepts of an order were morally obliged to sow and harvest for their leader. Through these and similar contributions the brotherhoods, and more specifically the leaders, had large material resources. Indeed, the periodic payments and labor corvees were not all that a Marabout could demand. As Depont and Coppolani said, everything a man had could be taken by the leaders: "the goods of their followers are their property, their horses are their mounts and their huts . . . are accessible to these venerable parasites."

Because of the frequent contributions of money by the members and the absolute control exercised by the leaders, the brotherhoods appeared to many French observers as states within the French colonial state. Indeed the French commentators had to recognize that the members' blind obedience to the leaders and their loyalty to the brotherhood as a whole were the major sources of political strength of the Muslim orders. With the brotherhoods tightly unified behind them, the leaders could speak with great authority. Consequently, the tariqas often wielded enormous political power in North Africa and elsewhere. As one nineteenth-century writer aptly commented: "Never has autocracy shown itself with more prominent and decided appearance; never either has the dogma of obedience been proposed and accepted in more formal or absolute terms. It is therefore permissible to affirm that in this double principle of authority on one side and personal abnegation and passive obedience on the other, resides the principal factor of the extraordinary power of the Muslim religious orders. "

The Advent of the Brotherhoods in West Africa

Thus, the tight organization of the Muslim brotherhoods and the unquestioned authority of the leaders made the brotherhoods particularly suited as vehicles of social and political reform when they began to attract converts among the Wolof at the end of the nineteenth century. Before this, although they had been in contact with Muslims for many centuries, the Wolof had not felt the full impact of the orders. Soon after their appearance in the Middle East the brotherhoods had spread to North Africa, where in the twelfth century they stimulated the powerful Almohad (al-muwahhidun) movement with its strong appeal to the mass of Berbers. Shortly thereafter the North African brotherhoods began to filter into West Africa, where their introduction coincided with and reinforced the general Islamization of the area immediately to the south of the Sahara.

Alphonse Gouilly, a twentieth-century French administrator and scholar, has divided the Islamization process into five periods which help to place the advent of the brotherhoods in their proper context. The first period, which Gouilly calls the Berber phase, was in the eleventh century, when the Almoravids (al-murabitun) conquered the hitherto pagan kingdom of Ghana in the western Sudan. The second, or Mandingo, phase took place during the fifteenth century, when converted Negro Africans, using Islamization as a weapon of their states, began to convert other Africans. In the sixteenth century came the Sonrai period when, owing particularly to the kingdoms on the eastern Niger, Islam spread rapidly in the Niger area. During the Peul phase in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the Tukulors in the Futa Toro (Senegal), the Futa Djalon (Guinea), and the Hausa regions (Northern Nigeria) conducted holy wars to spread their version of Islam to neighboring pagan and Muslim tribes. The last phase came at the end of the nineteenth century when various Islamic states fought to spread their authority, using the cover of Islam as a justification. Although missionaries and traders belonging to the orders had entered West Africa long before, Sufi brotherhoods were particulary important in the fourth and fifth periods.

The brotherhood which apparently first appeared in West Africa was the Qadriyya tariqa. Founded by the sharif21 Si Muhammad Abd al-Qadar al-Djilani (1079-1166), originally from Baghdad, the order spread over the Middle East and North Africa at an early date. It soon divided into myriad branches, some re- taining only the most tenuous connections with the motherhouse in the Middle East. The Qadiri order was introduced into the Sahel region in the fifteenth century by Muhammad Abd al-Karim al-Maghrib. But it was Al-Mukhtar ibn Ahmad (1729-1811), the son of one of al-Maghrib's disciples of the Arab Kunta tribe, who founded a center for the order north of Timbuktu which became the base for the order in West Africa.

The second important brotherhood to come from North to West Africa was the Tijaniyya order founded by a Qadiri named Sharif23 Ahmad ibn Muhammad al-Tijani (1735-1815). At the age of twenty-one he traveled from Ain Mahdi (Morocco) to Mecca. After his return to North Africa he had a revelation from the Prophet (c. 1781) and, as a result, founded the Tijani brotherhood. Sometime thereafter al-Tijani sent a missionary from the Ida Ou Ali ethnic group, Muhammad al-Hafiz ibn al-Mukhtar ibn Habib al-Baddi, to Mauritania. There, he converted the Ida Ou Ali, who then had considerable influence in the proselytization of the surrounding area, including portions of Senegal.

Following al-Tijani's death, his spiritual successors quarreled, causing a division of the order into two motherhouses, one at Fez and one at Ain Mahdi. Most of the important Tijaniyya branches in West Africa are affiliated with the former center. Intensive missionary activity was conducted in West Africa in association with various commercial undertakings. The most important conversion in this period was that of Umar Tall (1794/7-1864), a member of the Tukulor ethnic group in the Futa Toro. While in Mecca, where he arrived in 1828, he met one of al-Tijani's close companions, who named him Moqaddim of the order in West Africa. Umar Tall then returned to West Africa, going first to the area presently called Northern Nigeria, where he remained until 1838. He then went to Massina and the Futa Djalon, and did not return to his home territory until 1846, by which time he claimed the rank of khalif in the Tijani order and had gathered an army of volunteers. In 1851-1852 he launched a holy war and conquered a large part of the Sudan touching on Senegal in the Futa Toro region. When Al-Hajj Umar died in 1864, much of the large area he had converted reverted to its old religious traditions. The Futa Toro, however, because it was peopled by a majority of Tukulor, remained almost solidly Tijani. Furthermore, the Islamization movement was continued by Umar Tall's disciples, who conducted various smaller holy wars, some of which were of major importance in the conversion of the Wolof.

Equally important among the Wolof was the Murid brotherhood, which was founded in 1866 by a Wolof Marabout of Tukulor ancestry of the M'Bake family, Muhammad Ibn Muhammad ibn Habib Allah (1850-1927), called Ahmad Bamba. In approximately 1880 Ahmad Bamba was initiated into the Qadiri tariqa by Shaykh Hajj Kamara, and later, judging this insufficient, he traveled to Mauritania to be initiated by Shaykh Sidia, the head of a major Qadiri branch derived from the Kunta center. He joined Lat Dyor's entourage, and, by 1886, when Dyor was killed, Bamba had gained a reputation for learning and piety. In that same year he received a revelation of his mission to found his own order, which he based in Touba (in Diourbel).

From the outset the French authorities feared Ahmad Bamba, who they believed hoped to re-establish a Wolof state under his own control. He had attracted followers of Lat Dyor, Al-Bur Ndyaye, Maba, and many others identified with opposition to the colonialists. Rumors circulated about his anti-government statements and occasionally about the large scale collection of arms and volunteers by his followers. Bamba lived his life under close surveillance by the French and was exiled in 1895 and again in 1897.

The Reasons for the Wolof Conversion

A partial answer to the second question raised in this paper, concerning the factors in the Senegalese situation which made the brotherhoods particularly attractive to the Wolof, is that the Wolof, already imbued with Islamic ideas, were particularly receptive to an intensive Islamization effort by the brother- hoods. But more fundamental reasons can be found from an examination of traditional Wolof society at this time.

SENEGAL: Woloff Marabout, or Priest from, old print, 1890

The nineteenth century was a period of confusion and insecurity for the Wolof, who sought first to express their opposition to the colonial authorities both as individuals and as a group, by adherence to the brotherhoods. Their organizational strength and the authority of their leaders made the brotherhoods particularly suitable organizations for political protest, providing the members with strong protection against injury or punishment in a fight against any hated group and promising them Paradise if they died fighting for the brotherhood. Religious sects or "revitalization movements" have played such roles at various times in Africa: The Christian Harris movement in the Ivory Coast was, for example, such a group; and Suret-Canale states that the development of new religious groups is a response to "the sharpening through the effects of colonialism, of the internal contradictions of African society." Respected authorities on North African Islam, such as Depont and Coppolani, complained that the orders there were recruiting many discontented elements of society and were becoming major centers of resistance. Of the brotherhoods in Senegal which resisted the colonialists, some of the most powerful were branches of the Tijaniyya led by Umar Tall and his disciples and Ahmad Bamba's Murid order, which became a symbol of resistance shortly after it founding in 1866. It is hard to know whether or not Bamba deliberately attempted to opposed the French; indeed, it is quite probable, as Suret-Canale has suggested, that the Murids did not have "a revolutionary character principally and directly turned against the colonial domination," but that they were led to express protests against colonial oppression only to the extent that the colonial regime oppressed them. It makes little difference in this context what Ahmad Bamba's actual intentions were, for the results were similar whether or not he wished to fight the French. His reputation among the Africans, as well as among the French, was that of opposing the colonialists; the discontented flocked to him as they had to the brotherhoods in North Africa, and, although their first strong following came principally from the Wolof, the Murids later drew from other ethnic groups as well.

Former Senegalese preisdent Abdoulaye Wade (a Wolof) consulting a marabout

A second factor in the Senegalese situation which pushed the Wolof toward the brotherhoods was the Muslim orders' initial stance as vehicles of social reform. There were conflicts among the social classes or sectors within the Wolof as there were within other ethnic groups in Senegal. Although this attraction is the most nebulous to speculate upon because of the extreme difficulty of knowing exactly which social sectors within the ethnic groups were opposed or allied, it is a vital consideration, for friction among various parts of the population was an important element in Senegalese politics. A disruption of the balance between sectors could and did in many cases lead to the emergence of certain sectors' interests in a new group which would be a stronger champion of its interests than the individual sector had been. The brotherhoods thus provided a chance for the dissatisfied sectors of the Senegalese population to seek to better their position. This was true not only among the Wolof, but also among the Tukulor and other tribes in the area. Thus Suret-Canale, as well as the Senegalese scholar Chiekh Tidjane Sy and others, believes that Al Hajj Umar's Tijani branch expressed "the need for liberation of former captives, of women, of youth, against the tyranny of traditional 'feudal' or familial cadres." In the early twentieth century the nearby French Soudan provides another example of such a group when the Rimaybe and the Bella, former captives of the Peul and the Tuareg respectively, sought a change in their situation through joining the Hamalliyya, a Tijani sub-group. People of low social caste, unsatisfied chiefs, and Marabouts all tried to find the solution to their problems in this brotherhood. Thus, in his explanation of one of the major Hamallist uprisings in 1930, a French commandant notes that the major Hamallist Marabout in his region was recruiting former captives who, upon joining the Muslim order, broke completely with their former masters and even tried to kill them.

In Wolof territory in the end of the nineteenth century the Islamic holy wars led by the successors of Al Hajj Umar, such as Maba, expressed the desires of large groups of the population for an improvement in their position relative to other groups. Vincent Monteil, a noted French scholar, suggests in fact that the Muslim leaders sided with the Wolof peasants against the warriors and the nobles in a class war over frictions that had built up between the two groups over centuries, as the nobles and warriors pillaged the peasants at will. Thus, jihad leaders, in carrying out their holy missions, were also acting as heads of a class revolution.

Monteil's view is not difficult to support, as many early European writers describe widespread pillaging by kings and nobles. There is additional proof in local traditions, such as the tale of the revolt in the Djolof kingdom in which the Mauritanians and Marabouts sided with the people against the ruling classes, although these eventually reasserted their authority. French colonial authorities also tended to interpret the Muslim wars among the Wolof as class wars. Robert Arnaud wrote in 1912: "In Wolof country formerly the intrusion of Islam constituted a veritable social revolution and was in reality an opposition of the proletarian caste to the aristocracy, a class struggle; the cultivators had very strong sentiments of repulsion against the warriors who exploited them. Thanks to Islam they formed a bloc against the aristocracy which had remained fetichist, the crowd against its oppressors. The warriors did not conceal the dislike they felt for the Marabouts."

However, to explain the Muslim holy wars simply as social revolutions is probably not sufficient. Even accepting that there was a widespread and fixed enmity between the Wolof peasants and nobles, it appears that not only, or even mainly, the peasants sought to improve their social position by joining the brotherhoods. All dissatisfied sectors of the Wolof turned to the Muslim orders, including the nobles who had lost their power through the French invasion.

A glance at the Murid movement shows some of the complexities of the situation. Ahmad Bamba,as the French administrator Paul Marty points out, was surrounded by warriors and nobles who had been involved in the last struggles against the French, although the mass of his followers came from the rural population which was composed of former slaves or poor freemen. This combination indicates that the nobles saw in the Murid movement an opportunity to regaintheir authority, whereas the former slaves, Marty suggests, saw in the Muridiyya a new form of security to replace the old, tightly controlled system to which they had been accustomed -- a security which was no more than a new type of slavery under the descendants of their former rulers. Marty may have overlooked the fact that many peasants must have turned to the Murids because the brotherhood seemed to provide an escape from control by their former rulers, but his analysis does illustrate the point made here that the motivations of the men who became Murids were varied and complex; that the desire for social reforms was certainly a major factor stimulating the Wolof to join the brotherhoods, but that one cannot therefore interpret the success of the brotherhoods among the Wolof as being solely, or even primarily, due to the desire of the lower classes to assert themselves against the nobles.

It would also be a mistake to ignore the important social implications of the Muridiyya (and other brotherhoods) since the new lords, the Marabouts, were drawn from a wider section of the population than the old ruling class, at least in the early years. There was in the early years, moreover, a degree of social mobility in the brotherhoods which the old tribal system lacked. Land ownership and political power in general were now divided between the aristocrats, who became Marabouts, and the old maraboutic families, some of which had been poor and without power before the nineteenth century. In addition a peasant disciple, if he worked hard and obeyed his Marabout, could hope to be elevated to the position of a lesser Marabout, an advance in status not normally possible in the secular tribal system. Nonetheless, the nobility together with the maraboutic families provided the bulk of the Marabouts, especially the important ones, and the mass of peasants and low caste artisans remained subjected as they had been under the tribal system.

Whatever the nature of the social reforms which the Muslim brotherhoods espoused in the middle and late nineteenth century, the "sclerosis" which Suret-Canale mentions soon set in. The momentum for change was lost and the maraboutic leadership became closely associated with the colonial regime and the old aristocracy. This had occurred in the Umarian Tijani brotherhood in Senegal before the Murids rose to importance, and by the early 1900's it was true of the latter brotherhood as well. Colonial authorities began to remark on these alliances which became increasingly evident. A political report of 1904 states: "It is therefore necessary for us to observe with care the alliance which tends to be formed between the aristocracy . and the Marabouts. The Marabouts enrich themselves by their (alms) collections, the aristocracy . . . to the contrary, which only drew its fortune from its arbitrary power and its attacks which are no longer permitted, grows poorer from day to day. The descendants of the old families, therefore, give to the rich "sikh" [Marabout] their daughter or their relative in exchange for a large dowry."

The 1915 political report comments on the Marabouts' increasing collaboration with the colonialists: "And it is precisely because these religious chiefs profit from these situations that they have an interest in being with us and in that case they would be our support. Their interests are in effect linked with ours and the more we develop the acquisitive faculty of the indigene by the creation of new needs, the more we augment the wealth of the brotherhoods through the followers and of which the sum is higher than the taxes paid to the administration. It is for this reason that in this period of crisis [the first world war] we have nothing to fear from the maraboutic influence.

Most of the Muslim orders in Senegal, then, had become part of the "Establishment" by the early twentieth century. After this period only the Hamalliyya, which developed in the early twentieth century, was identified with social reforms, but it did not have much influence in Senegal and, like the other orders, lost most of its reforming character once it had become established.

Closely connected with the whole question of the reformist character of the Muslim brotherhoods at their foundation is the attraction which these groups had as substitutes or reinforcements for tribal society. This is the third, and perhaps the most important, reason for the conversion of the Wolof to Islam in the end of the nineteenth century. The phenomenon involved is not at all unique to Senegal or to Africa. It is readily observable that, when the equilibrium of a group is disturbed, the members of that group tend to compensate by actions foreign to their normal pattern of living and often join substitute groups which promise to restore the lost balance. Another example of this behavior seems to be that described by David Apter among the Fon of Dahomey.

The Wolof had a highly developed state system, and their social structure was tightly connected to their religious beliefs and customs. The arrival and entrenchment of the colonialists destroyed these living patterns and introduced new elements which challenged old values and habits. In order to conquer the area, the French had to break the power of the Wolof kings and nobles. The Wolof kingdoms were broken into smaller units: those who resisted were beaten in war; those who did not, or who eventually made peace, found themselves dependent on the colonial system for their authority, as their former sources of power were destroyed and their lines of revenue abolished.46 Thus the Wolof were forced to look for a means of replacing their old way of life.

A major factor in the disintegration of Wolof society for which the French were responsible was the introduction of peanuts as a commercial crop into the traditional agricultural system. Wolof family living patterns were closely tied to agriculture. Land was owned by the family as a whole and could not be sold. It was the duty of the chief of the family to distribute some of the land among the members of his family, who would work the major part of their time in the common field. The cultivation of a commercial crop of peanuts changed this system altogether. Farmers now had the strong incentive of money and the new goods it could buy to cultivate the small private plots which had hitherto been an unimportant addendum to their principal work in the common field. However, many farmers apparently continued to show token recognition to the position of the heads of their families through annual gifts in money or kind. One administrator wrote: The personal goods, formerly of negligible quantity now surpass in importance the collective family goods. Thus, by the force of things, a disaggregation of family solidarity [occurs] which has shown its consequences in all domains. "

The disintegrative force of the introduction of peanuts into the agricultural system was beginning to be felt in Senegal by the end of the nineteenth century. Peanuts had been grown in Senegal for a long time -- the sixteenth-century traveler Andre Alvarez de Almada had noted them during his visit48 -- and the French had begun to foster their growth long before the mid-nineteenth century, but it was around this date that they began to encourage their cultivation in earnest in an attempt to make Senegal a profitable colony. After 1850 peanuts were being produced for export in significant amounts, and by the end of the century peanut growers were moving from the center of production at Cayor to other regions to look for new fields and thus to extend the impact of peanuts .

The undermining of the powers of the chiefs and the introduction of commercial agriculture by the French are only two of the many factors contributing to the breakdown of the Wolof living patterns. In addition, the mere presence of the colonialists with their apparently superior way of life raised questions about old ways of doing things, and the establishment of French forts and trading centers drew increasing numbers of people into French service as clerks, soldiers, domestics, etc., thus adding a new dimension to the economic and social options open to the Wolof. Furthermore, population movements to the north of the Senegal as well as increased contact through trade and war with the Futa Toro peoples are additional kinds of influences which may have contributed to the insecurity of the Wolof in the nineteenth century, leading them to turn to the brotherhoods for reinforcement.

The brotherhoods, despite their tight hierarchical organization, had a long history in the Muslim world of a flexibility characterized by their habit of accepting the customs of the people among whom they found themselves, imposing only their political authority and a few major Islamic prescriptions. Thus it was not difficult for the tariqas to adjust themselves to the Wolof situation, acting as a replacement for the old framework of political and social authority and providing a structure in which the Wolof could find a defined role to play. As elsewhere in Africa, where, as Marcel Cardaire points out, Islam succeeded because of the isolation of pagan tribesmen who, finding their old system crumbling, turned away to find a new one, the Muslim orders were able to help the Wolof adapt to changes in Senegal.

The Political Significance of the Wolof Conversion

While in general the Wolof as members of brotherhoods followed their old ways, despite the overlay of Muslim customs and sayings, their political leadership was definitely modified by the new affiliation. They now turned to the Marabouts when they wanted anything done, and the former nobles and kings, as they were absorbed into the ruling structure of the Muslim orders, found as Marabouts an even greater authority than their pagan counterparts had had. The Marabouts combined the feudal-type authority over land of the nobles with a much greater authority, based on religion as well as force, over the lives of their subjects. In different brotherhoods the position of the leaders was, not surprisingly, different. Of the branches of several orders which the Wolof joined, the Murid order had a noticeably more powerful leadership because of the emphasis which Ahmad Bamba had placed on the virtues of working for one's leader and of complete discipline. The Murids' first loyalty was to their brotherhood personified by its Marabouts, whose every command had a considerable degree of authority. While the stress on discipline was less in other orders, all of the leaders of the brotherhoods among the Wolof had considerable political power.

It seems clear that the answer to the third question raised in the beginning of this paper has been largely answered. The Wolof conversion in the end of the nineteenth century was politically significant because the political leaders of the ethnic group became the Marabouts. How important and unusual this fact was for the development of Senegalese politics can be seen by comparing the Wolof with their neighbors the Tukulor, who had been in contact with Islam at least since the eleventh century. Thorough Islamization of this group did not take place until the torodo (torodbe) drove out the pagan Peul Denyianke dynasty in 1776, but thereafter the Islamization of the Tukulor was intensified, and a series of Muslim chiefs called almanys ruled until the end of the nineteenth century, when the French took over the area. Islam was thus a factor of great importance in Tukulor history for many centuries, and that ethnic group traditionally felt it was the carrier of Muslim civilization and was superior to the pagan groups around it. Since the early eighteenth century, the Tukulor, led by the torodo, had launched holy wars on their neighbors. By this time they were in direct contact with representatives of Muslim brotherhoods. Indeed, the Qadriyya orders, led by members of the Ida Ou Ali and later of the Kunta groups, had many followers among the Tukulor, although with the coming of Umar Tall the overwhelming majority of the group became Tijani. Interestingly enough, however, the Tukulor Marabouts did not become a major political force in the Futa Toro as they did among the Wolof. This fact is all the more striking when one considers that the major branches of the Sufi brotherhoods among the Wolof were founded by Marabouts of Tukulor ancestry. There were, of course, powerful Tukulor Marabouts on regional and local levels, but most of the nationally politically important Marabouts who appeared in the early twentieth century had a largely Wolof following and did not live in the Tukulor regions. Why, then, should the brotherhoods among the Tukulor, who were ex- posed to Islam longer than were the Wolof, be of significantly less political importance ?

One reason often put forward in Senegal by Tukulor and non-Tukulor alike is that the Tukulor, through their long contact with Islam, became more closely acquainted with the Qu'ran and the doctrines of Islam than did the Wolof and, being more educated in the religion, had less need for the Marabouts to act as intermediaries between them and Allah. Furthermore, with a better knowledge of Islam, they were less likely to glorify the powers of their Mara- bouts. Since the intellectual gap between the Marabouts and their disciples was smaller among the Tukulor than among the Wolof, the Marabouts could therefore gain less authority. But this interpretation is difficult to accept. Blind obedience and extreme respect for the Marabout could be found in many brotherhoods, even among peoples in North Africa with as long an acquaintance with Islam as the Tukulor. Nor does the lack of Qu'ranic education explain the exceptions to the rule who are Tukulor and have Tukulor followers.

A more satisfactory answer is found in the traditional socio-economic structure of the Futa Toro, where politics and society in general were directed by important clan leaders, a clan in the Futa being comprised of several families, although not all of one family necessarily belongs to one clan. The leaders of these clans headed important families which owned large concessions of the land in the nineteenth century, and indeed still do, despite land reforms. While the social structure of the Tukulor in the Futa Toro by no means remained unchanged throughout the many centuries since the introduction of Islam, the changes resulted onlyin an accretion of custom. Thus the fall of the Denyianke led to the rule of the Muslim almamys but did not alter the economic and political control of the area by Tukulor clan leaders. In fact, the almamys were named by the great families, so that their power stemmed not from their role as Muslim leaders but from their family connections. The Marabouts in the Futa,then, never had the opportunity to rise to power. Even Al Hajj Umar, who united many clans for a short time in a religious war, did not change the Futa system. This continued social, economic, and political power of the clans among the Tukulor should be compared to the decline in power of Wolof traditional rulers in the nineteenth century when the political and social system of that group was threatened by contacts with the French, and Marabouts and brotherhoods stepped in to reinforce and replace a disintegrating tribal system, thereby becoming politically powerful because they replaced the traditional kings and nobles. Thus, it is primarily in the differences between the pre- Islamic social structure of the two groups that the differences in their response to Islamization lie, resulting in the political dominance of Muslim leaders among the Wolof.

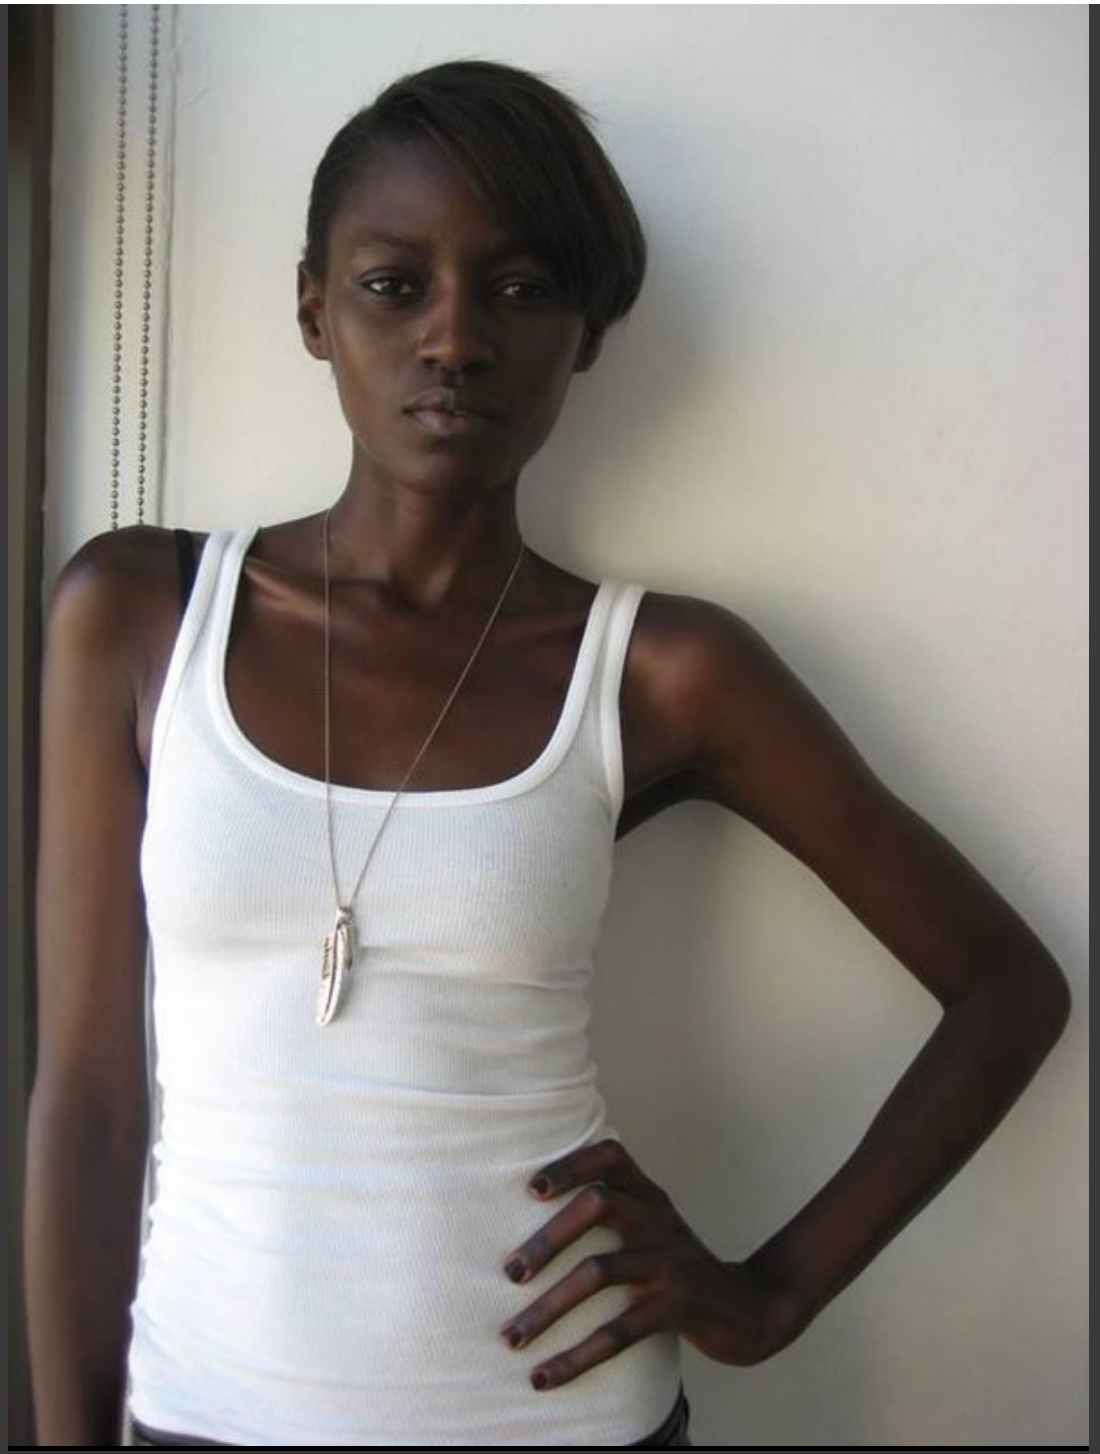
Source:http://www.webafriqa.net/library/pdf_docs/wolof_muslim_brotherhood_19thc_216191.pdf

Kinee Diouf

Circa 1950 Wolof woman (bare-chested)

kinee diouf



Wolof Woman

Wolof man, Akon

Wolof woman

Kinee Diouf

Mauritanian Wolof fishermen

Share

COMMENTS

Pussy-ManiaGirls: http://goo.gl/w9Oepq July 5, 2015 at 11:24 AM watching my collection, we have upload more video at here:

Collection Part 1:

Hot Sex Anal With Amazing Girl Friend

Sex Under Hot Lights Bad Girls

Give Me The Cum

Cum In My Panties

Nude Amateur Teen Girls

Sexy Brunette Girls

Young Kinky Sluts

Busty Tattoo Chick On Car

Young Asian fucked anal

Latina Havana Ginger gets

Teen Threesome Porn

Hot Blowjob

Amateur Pulls Down Tanga

Sweet girl amazing hot

Sexy japanese babes getting their tight

TEEN BLONDE ANAL SEX ORGY

Collection Part 2:

Hot asian blowjob and pussy creampie

Sucking dick, Audrey put vegetables in all holes

Blonde love fuck

Naomi Russell And Her Royal Ass

Sexy blonde gives blowjob in the car

ASIAN XXX PORN VIDEO

JAPANESE XXX PORN VIDEO

ARABIC XXX PORN VIDEO

HARDCORE PORN VIDEO

GAY XXX PORN VIDEO

WATCH STREAMING PORN VIDEO

USA CELEBS XXX PORN

LATINA XXX PORN

LESBIAN XXX PORN

Hardcore Porn Celebrity

HOT TURKEY PORN MOVIE

INDIAN NUDES CELEBRITIES VIDEOS

UZBEKS Fuck PORN VIDEOS

HOT RASTA GIRL

100% MAKE you satisfy.....

Reply Delete

REPLY

Enter your comment...

POPULAR POSTS

June 04, 2013

SAN (BUSHMEN) PEOPLE: THE WORLD MOST ANCIENT RACE/PEOPLE

Share 10 comments

September 06, 2012

HAIRSTYLES IN AFRICAN CULTURE

Share 6 comments

Powered by Blogger

Theme images by Anna Williams

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

Facebook

Patricia N'hiri
Tuesday at 7:45 PM

Et si nous finissions la journée en musique
Avec des musiciens de rues...

79 30 comments

Like Comment

View previous comments…

Aicha Parjou

2

on Wed Like Reply More

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

2

Like Comment

Write a comment...

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...

EDITORIAL BOARD OF THE CMES MONOGRAPHS

Steven Caton
Cemal Kafadar
Susan M. Kahn
Roy Mottahedeh
Roger Owen

HARVARD MIDDLE EASTERN MONOGRAPHS
XLI

Forgotten Saints

History, Power, and Politics in the Making of Modern Morocco

Sahar Bazzaz

DISTRIBUTED FOR THE
CENTER FOR MIDDLE EASTERN STUDIES
OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY BY
HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS
LONDON, ENGLAND

2010

175–199; Edmund Burke, "The First Crisis of Orientalism," in Connaissances du Maghreb: sciences sociales et colonisation, ed. Jean-Claude Vatin et al. (Paris: Editions du Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique 1984), 213–226; Julia Clancy-Smith, "In the Eye of the Beholder: Sufi and Saint in North Africa and the Colonial Production of Knowledge, 1830–1900," Africana Journal 15 (1990): 220–257; Abdelmajid Hannoum, "Colonialism and Knowledge in Algeria: The Archives of the Arab Bureau," History and Anthropology 12 (2001), 343–379.

33. On French Orientalism and its assessment of the Moroccan Muslim literary tradition, see Bazzaz, "Reading Reform beyond the State."

· ONE ·

Muḥammad al-Kattānī: Shaykh for a New Era

In the late nineteenth century, the Moroccan territory—known in the Islamic geographical tradition as al-Maghrib al-Aqṣā—was bounded by the Atlantic Ocean to the west, the Mediterranean Sea to the north, and Taza and the Atlas Mountains to the east and south, respectively.[1] Since the early Muslim conquests in the seventh century, Morocco had been ruled and controlled by numerous dynasties and would-be claimants seeking to establish themselves as rulers in the name of Islam. The extent and reach of any particular dynasty changed over time, sometimes reaching as far as Spain and parts of modern Algeria. At other times, Moroccan dynastic control was restricted to the region's hinterlands, with coastal cities occupied by foreign powers. The Ottoman conquest of Algeria in the mid-sixteenth century helped solidify the broad outlines of the Moroccan territory. Situated in the northwestern corner of the African continent and divided from Europe by the narrow nine-mile Straits of Gibraltar, Morocco shared a political, geographical, and symbolic space with other societies of the Mediterranean world—including the Ottoman empire, Spain and France, the numerous corsairs and crusaders who pirated the Mediterranean Sea, and before the unification of Italy in the nineteenth century, Venice and the papal states.[2] By the nineteenth century, a self-conscious

Moroccan polity had existed for some four hundred years with its own sense of political identity, of the concepts of power and authority that defined that identity, and of its relationship to the larger Muslim umma and other states in the region (such as Spain and the Ottoman empire).[3]

Until the establishment of the French Protectorate in 1912, the Moroccan state and society were defined by a system known as Sharifism. Sharifism privileged the shurafā'—descendants of the Prophet Muḥammad—as political agents, as interlocutors between various sectors of society, and as would-be dynasts. The shurafā' emerged as a loosely defined social and political group during the period of Merinid dynastic rule of Morocco in the thirteenth century, and their political role was enhanced as a result of their participation in the jihadist movement against the Iberian Catholic incursions into North Africa in the fifteenth century.[4] Under Sharifism, Moroccans of all social classes venerated the shurafā' as saints. The Moroccan cult of the saints found expression in rituals (such as celebrations of the birth of the Prophet) claims of possession of prophetic relics, and the rise of hagiographic tradition (which documented the lives, spiritual achievements, and miracles of saints). Pilgrimages to saints' tombs, *zāwiya*s, and shrines and the offering of donations for the purpose of healing or intercession formed the basis of sharifan material advantage. Furthermore, shurafā' sanctuaries and *zāwiya*s functioned as safe zones beyond the jurisdiction of the makhzan, where fugitives could seek sanctuary (ḥurm). As extensions of the divine realm, spaces designated as ḥurm were deemed sacred and inviolable.[5] Mystical doctrines associated with the teachings of Abū 'Abdallah Muḥammad ibn 'Abd al-Raḥmān al-Jazūlī (d. 1465) provided the ideological basis for sharifan power and authority within Sharifism.[6] Based on the eschatological concept of tajdīd (renewal), al-Jazūlī and his followers viewed saints as spiritual and social exemplars with active roles to play in the preservation and reinvigoration of their societies.[7] Jazūliyya ideas enabled the involvement of the shurafā' in politics and also paved the way for the rise of political dynasties that drew their power and authority to rule on the basis of their descent from the Prophet.

One branch of the shurafā', the 'Alawīs, consolidated Sharifism when they ascended to power in the mid-seventeenth century. Although their origins were in the southern Moroccan Tafilalt Oasis, they extended their power throughout the Moroccan territory by creating alliances with the great shurafā' families of Fez, most notably those families who traced their lineage to the Idrīsīs—that is, those shurafā' who descended from the founder of Fez, Idrīs bin Idrīs. Their patron-client networks proved instrumental in controlling the city and in navigating the waters of Fāsī urban politics. In Sharifism, political power was highly decentralized and consisted of power-sharing arrangements between the various Moroccan shurafā' families and the dynasty that controlled the Moroccan state (makhzan). Central to Sharifism was the concept of baraka, a vaguely defined term often translated into English as "charisma," which served as a way of assessing, articulating and evaluating the power of an individual within this system. A baraka-laden individual was someone who had social or political agency in Moroccan society. Baraka enabled such a person to challenge the sultanate as well as to support its decisions and actions.

To explain Shaykh Muḥammad al-Kattānī's exceptional activism and his motivations for dedicating his life to the reform of his society, scholars have had recourse to this concept of baraka. As conceived in the extant historical literature, baraka is a quality fixed across time and space and related to prophetic lineage, learning and piety.[8] According to this model of social action, what distinguishes one baraka-laden individual from another is his or her degree of baraka in relation to others. There is little in this conception of baraka to tell us about the social, political, and cultural context in which Moroccans came to view Muḥammad al-Kattānī as a baraka-laden saint. Nor does it help us understand why al-Kattānī considered himself to possess the quality of baraka and hence believed that he had a role to play in the reform of his society. Other interpretations posit al-Kattānī's popularity in terms of his ability to speak on different levels to various social groups—that is, to articulate "the despair of a people on the verge of being colonized." He did this by effectively utilizing widely recognizable cultural metaphors.[9] But while this reading furthers our understanding about why Moroccans rallied around Muḥammad al-Kattānī (that is, why Moroccans viewed him as a baraka-laden or charismatic individual), it does not provide insight into his motivations in assuming this role. The argument simply assumes that anticolonialism was the driving force behind the conflicts that emerged among Moroccans during the pre-Protectorate period.

To give meaning to Muḥammad al-Kattānī's baraka—the quality that endowed him with religious, political, and social authority—we must consider what historian Vincent Cornell terms the "parameters of sainthood." To be a saint, argues Cornell, is to be recognized as such by one's peers and to be endowed with power and authority by them. If we are to move beyond a phenomenological understanding of sainthood and toward a historicized one, we must then situate Muḥammad al-Kattānī, his supporters (and detractors), and the movement he created within the intellectual, cultural, and sociopolitical context of the period in which he lived.[10]

MUḤAMMAD AL-KATTĀNĪ AND CRISIS ON THE HORIZON

Muḥammad al-Kattānī's generation of Moroccans was influenced by a sense that a crisis was in the making. Born in 1873 in Fez, Morocco, al-Kattānī witnessed dramatic events, all of which pointed to the possibility that Morocco would fall to French control. By the time he had come of age and begun building the Kattāniyya religious brotherhood, almost one hundred years of important political, economic, and intellectual changes had occurred in Morocco and throughout the wider Muslim Mediterranean as a result of the extension of European power into the region. In Fez, the last quarter of the nineteenth century was marked by social discontent and urban rioting. A new social class of merchant and bureaucratic elites was confidently making its mark on the city and in government as trade with Europe in foodstuffs, wool, animal skins, cloth, yarns, tea, sugar and silk increased. Their conspicuous palatial constructions began to dot the city's landscape.[11] The traditional Fāsī elite to which Muḥammad al-Kattānī belonged—the shurafā'—lost ground to new social forces and to a new coterie of European advisers, diplomats and businessmen who arrived at the 'Alawī court hoping to influence the course of Moroccan reform. Meanwhile, the trajectory of the makhzan's reforms—the centralization of administration, authority, and finance—also threatened to undermine the already tenuous system of power sharing that had existed for over two hundred years between the makhzan and notable sharifan families, such as the Kattānīs. Heightened contact through increased trade, improved communications technology, and the arrival of Europeans to Morocco in large numbers greatly strained the Moroccan religiopolitical system and tested its limits to adapt and respond. Within this atmosphere of change, the challenge for Muḥammad al-Kattānī's generation was to harness the potential of the moment to address and navigate the transition.

In the first half of the century, concern among Moroccans regarding the nature of European power and the weakness of Islam in relation to it had already become a source of controversy and debate. European imperialism had resulted in the complete conquest of Algeria by France, the loss of vast Ottoman territories in the Balkans after 1878, the French occupation of Tunis in 1881, and the British occupation of Egypt in 1882. Although Morocco remained independent until 1912, by the mid-nineteenth century, it was already apparent that military and administrative reform on the part of the Moroccan state was necessary to shore up its power. After two disastrous military defeats at the hands of greatly superior European armies in 1844 (France) and 1861 (Spain), the Moroccan sultan, 'Abd al-Raḥmān (r. 1822–1859), undertook the first in a series of reforms intended to put more power in the hands of the state. The most energetic of the nineteenth-century reformist sultans, Mawlāy Ḥasan (r. 1873–1894), spent virtually his entire reign on campaign throughout Morocco in an effort to assert central authority over outlying regions of the territory and extract much needed income for reforms in the form of taxes from recalcitrant tribes.[12] Like its Ottoman and Egyptian counterparts, though hardly as extensive in its scope or reach, Morocco had entered its own era of tanzimat or reform, which continued until the French conquest of Morocco and the establishment of the colonial order.

The makhzan's military and economic reforms had proven mostly ineffective in preventing greater involvement of the European powers in Moroccan affairs. In 1880, those powers convened the Madrid Conference, at which they addressed their competing ambitions regarding Morocco. The result was the internationalization of the Morocco question and the further opening of Morocco to foreign intervention.[13] Furthermore, the expanding protégé system by which Moroccans received citizenships from various European states in exchange for providing services in trade and diplomacy also exposed the makhzan's vulnerability.[14] In a rare expression of overt concern about the impending possibility of European conquest of Morocco, Muḥammad al-Kattānī's older cousin, an established ʿālim who taught at the Qarawīyīn University, offered a prayer (duʿā') for the sultan, asking that God "strengthen him in the jihad against the unrelenting infidel."[15]

In 1873, the year of Muḥammad al-Kattānī's birth, the social unrest that had brewed beneath the surface in Fez since midcentury finally culminated in full-scale urban rebellion. In that year, the powerful tanners' guilds of Fez protested the makhzan's implementation of an unpopular form of market tax known as the mukūs (sing. maks). The tanning of hides and production of leather goods for domestic and foreign export had been a mainstay of Fez's economy for generations. Urban legend had it that Mawlāy Idrīs, the city's founder, established the first tannery in Fez, an indicator of the degree to which these industries, at least among the city's common folk and artisan classes, were held in high esteem.[16] Therefore, the tanners' call for rebellion was heard by the "common folk" of Fez as wider discontent spilled over onto the streets of the city. The revolt turned violent when the tanners and their supporters took up arms against the government, barricading neighborhoods and restricting access to the makhzan's tax collectors. Compelled by their anger and in need of a target at which to direct it, rioters sacked the houses of market officials, looting and stealing whatever they could in the process. In an ironic twist, one official who was fearful for his life, sought refuge at the tanners' esteemed place of worship, the sanctuary of Mawlāy Idrīs.[17]

Fez had experienced numerous rebellions before the Tanners' Rebellion of 1873.[18] However, the 1873 uprising was the first of its kind in Fez in which the rebels articulated their demands in terms of corporate identity. The rebellion was therefore significant not only because of the resulting violence and destruction but also because it marked the culmination of a trend toward the reconfiguration of social forces in Fez, which had begun almost a century before.[19]

The city of Fez had served as the imperial capital of the Moroccan sultanate for almost two hundred years by the time Muḥammad al-Kattānī came of age. As the first city built by Muslim conquerors in al-Maghrib al-Aqṣā in the early ninth century, Fez was famed as an abode of Islamic learning and as a center of trade and of pilgrimage for Muslims in western sub-Saharan and North Africa. Located at the juncture of a series of valleys providing natural passage through the Middle Atlas Mountains to the south and east, Fez was perfectly situated as a center for trade and for communications and as a main garrison for the sultan's army. From Fez, the makhzan launched its intermittent military campaigns (ḥarka) and negotiating parties against dissident tribes and regions. Mountain rivulets and springs ensured a steady water supply for the city's many gardens and cool fountains, for which Fāsī elites were renowned.[20] Fāsīs were well connected to other cities and regions of the sultanate from where news, pilgrims, produce, and goods for sale arrived. Sixty kilometers to the west of Fez lies the imperial city of Meknès. The small but prosperous town of Sefrou,[21] which caravans leaving Fez had passed on their way south to Tafilalt and the Sudan since the opening of trade in the seventeenth century, lies about twenty kilometers to the southeast. Taza, an important stop on the old pilgrimage route from Morocco and the gateway to Tlemcen and Algiers, lies almost directly east of Fez near the Algerian border. Finally, heading northwest from Fez through Ouezzane, travelers and caravans would reach the Atlantic ports of Larache and Tangier. The port cities with which Fez was connected facilitated contacts between Moroccans and Europeans and with the Islamic lands of the eastern Mediterranean.

"THE LIGHT OF THE LAMP OF PROPHECY"

Muḥammad bin ʿAbd al-Kabīr al-Kattānī was born to a Fāsī family of status and prestige. His family, among Fez's religious and political elite, had resided in the city continuously since the sixteenth century.[22] As a sharīf—a descendant of the prophet Muḥammad—Muḥammad bin ʿAbd al-Kabīr al-Kattānī was born a member of the religiopolitical elite of Moroccan society and was therefore a son of privilege and status. The al-Kattānī family—whose strong ties to the imperial city of Fez extended back several centuries—traced their genealogy to Fez's illustrious founder and patron saint, Idrīs bin Idrīs. According to the Islamic discursive tradition, Mawlāy Idrīs—himself a descendant of the holy family—had built Fez in the early ninth century, establishing the city as the capital of the eponymous Idrīsī dynasty. Although the Idrīsīs did not rule for long, numerous saint cults centered on the Idrīsī shurafāʾ arose after the alleged discovery of Mawlāy Idrīs's tomb in Fez in 1438.[23] Mawlāy Idrīs was "the sultan of the saints," explained one esteemed nineteenth-century Sufi and ʿālim. "If there were to be a prophet after Muḥammmad," the Sufi added, "[that prophet] would be Idrīs."[24] Thus, Muḥammad al-Kattānī's connection to Islam's holy family meant that he shared the same lineage as that of many of the highly revered Moroccan saints. And it was the same lineage as that of the ʿAlawī sultans who ruled Morocco.

The Kattāniyyūn were also widely recognized in Fez for their generations of learned, pious, and spiritually exemplary men and women. The seventeenth-century Moroccan author, Muḥammad bin al-Ṭayyib al-Qādirī, celebrated the Kattānīs in his renowned chronicle of Fez, Nashr al-mathānī.[25] The tombs of Kattānī ancestors were sites of pilgrimage, and the mystical brotherhood associated with the Kattānī family was a place for spiritual contemplation.[26]

Peidgree aside, al-Kattānī was an exceptional child in his own right. From an early age, he exhibited many of the characteristics of Muslim sainthood—a desire for knowledge, profound piety and spiritual depth, and love of God and the Prophet. He was quick to memorize the Quran, the first step in his immersion into the world of Islamic knowledge, and he displayed a level of intellectual and spiritual acumen that had not been seen in Fez for many years.[27] Noting that the boy arrived at his classes each day carrying numerous leather-bound notebooks, his instructor inquired jokingly whether Muḥammad had a donkey that could carry them all for him.[28] "When he left home in the morning," explained Muḥammad's younger brother, "he would not return until the maghrib prayer, the entire time spent in study."[29]

In the tradition of many of his esteemed ancestors, Muḥammad al-Kattānī continued his studies at Fez's illustrious Qarawīyīn University, where he received instruction from a number of distinguished Moroccan ulama in the standard subjects of Islamic education—hadith, exegesis, scholastic theology, grammar, and commentaries on the works of the Mālikī school of law.[30] Firmly grounded in the theories of classical fiqh, young al-Kattānī decided to further his understanding of the "divine secrets" through the teachings of Islamic mysticism. Al-Kattānī's father, himself a prominent Sufi and spiritual guide, served as mentor to Muḥammad, guiding him in the doctrines and practices of Sufism through the writings of important mystics, including al-Suhrawardī, Ibn al-ʿArabī, and al-Tirmidhī. In the tradition of numerous mystics before him, Muḥammad al-Kattānī took on the attributes of asceticism, immersing himself in silent contemplation, shunning worldly concerns, and surviving "for three days with the same piece of bread in his pocket."[31]

Yet despite his commitment to asceticism, Muḥammad al-Kattānī understood that sainthood encompassed dimensions other than contemplation, quietism, and disengagement from the world.[32] In Arabic, the words walāya and wilāya are used interchangeably to mean sainthood. Vincent Cornell has emphasized, however, that the focus on a strictly etymological analysis by scholars (which favors the term walāya), obscures the fact that in the Quran, the meaning of walī Allah is closer to that of "God's assistant or manager." The interchangeable use of the two terms reflects two components of sainthood in the Islamic tradition—the spiritual and the political. That is, saints also had important roles to play in their societies. They were not simply people who were "close to God," as one meaning of the word walī (the Arabic word for saint) suggests. Rather they were also "God's helpers"—meaning that saints acted as God's agents on earth, keeping watch over the Muslim community and protecting it from decline and anarchy.[33] In his capacity as an aspiring spiritual leader and walī, Muḥammad al-Kattānī began to make public appearances with his father at gatherings of ulama and Sufis in Fez and other cities in Morocco. By 1895, Muḥammad had assumed a position of leadership in the Kattāniyya zāwiya in Fez alongside his father. Disciples among the Fāsī ulama and the popular classes came to the zāwiya to pray, to practice the mystical rituals of the Kattāniyya brotherhood, and to study with Muḥammad al-Kattānī. He received praise from prominent Sufis, who were impressed by the young man's intellectual and spiritual capacities. When al-Kattānī reached maturity, predicted a prominent Moroccan Tijāniyya shaykh, he would be among the select few who were "close to God and [capable of] guid[ing] [the Muslim community]."[34] Ten years later, at only thirty-four years of age, al-Kattānī's fame had spread throughout Morocco. He was poised to navigate his countrymen and women through the most important political upheaval in pre-Protectorate Moroccan history.[35]

The mujaddid tradition of Islam stipulated that, in every century, God sent someone to the Muslim community to restore and revive Islam. The mujaddid (renewer of the age) was a person in whom the Muslim community placed its hopes for such a revival.[36] Moreover, Moroccan mystical tradition explained that the mujaddid drew his inspiration from "the light of the Lamp of Prophecy."[37] Believing his unborn grandson would someday fulfill this role, Muḥammad al-Kattānī's grandfather had given a lantern to the expectant mother of the child yet to be born—an omen of "his miracles [to come]."[38]

The reference to the "Lamp of Prophecy" would not be lost to Moroccans of a particular spiritual inclination and mystical training. Illumination was a concept central to Islamic doctrines of sainthood. Quran 33:46, for example, refers to the Prophet Muḥammad as "a torch that illumines." Quran 5:15 states, "a light has come to you from God."[39] Mystical doctrine held that all the prophets before Muḥammad—Moses, Jesus, and others—had received a portion of divine truth, which traveled in the form of a light from one messenger of God to the next during their lifetimes. Because of the Muslim Prophet's ontological perfection, this light attained its complete and final manifestation in him. Muslim mystics called this fully formed state of illumination the Muḥammadan light (al-nūr al-Muḥammadī).[40] It evoked a similar incident in the life of the Prophet. In al-Sīra al-Nabawiyya, for example, Ibn Hishām referred to a saying of the prophet: "[W]hen my mother was pregnant with me, a light emanated from her that lit all the palaces of al-Shām."[41] Similarly, Moroccans associated light and illumination to the story of the birth of Mawlāy Idrīs, from whom Idrīsī shurafā' such as Mu-ḥammad al-Kattānī traced their lineage. According to the legend, when Mawlāy Idrīs was born, "a star from the east and the west whose first light was white and last light was red continued appearing to the people of this farthest Maghrib for seven days."[42]

The hagiographer reveals that Muḥammad al-Kattānī portrayed himself in the images of Moses and of the Moroccan mystic, Bū Ya'zā, both great saintly figures of the Moroccan Sufi tradition. As did the prophet Moses, al-Kattānī veiled his face.[43] According to the typology of Muslim saints elaborated by Ibn al-'Arabī, "When Moses returned from his Lord, God clothed his face in light as a sign of the authenticity of that which he declared; and so fierce was this light that no one could look on him without being blinded, so that he had to cover his face with a veil in order that those who looked in his face would not be taken ill when they saw him."[44] Mawlāy Bū Ya'zā (d. 572 AH/1177 CE), another veiled saint from the Middle Atlas region of Morocco, was widely veneretated in the Moroccan mystical tradition and among the population at large. His Sufi contemporaries referred to Bū Ya'zā as the "shaykh of the shaykhs."[45] Bū Ya'zā was "[a] Moses-like [type of saint] [mūsawī al-wirth], and God had bestowed on him the same miraculous sign: No one could look him in the face without losing their sight."[46]

Finally, to further highlight al-Kattānī's messianic role, the hagiographer recounts and then interprets a dream told to him about al-Kattānī. "The finest wheat I have ever seen was being ground at the Kattāniyya zāwiya," explained the sufi, 'Abd al-'Azīz bin Aḥmad al-Dabbāgh. Soon after experiencing the dream, al-Dabbāgh ran into young Muḥammad al-Kattānī, perhaps at the zāwiya or in the street of the Ibn Ṣawwāl neighborhood where the Kattānīs resided. The encounter helped al-Dabbāgh realize the meaning of his dream. For some time previously, he had believed that God had forsaken the Muslims. "But now," said al-Dabbāgh, God offered them guidance "by the hand of al-Kattānī."[47]

THE DECLINE OF THE SHURAFĀ'

During the calamitous events in Fez of 1873, the ulama made an effort to resolve the crisis by intervening on behalf of the rebels. Traditionally, the ulama frowned on the state's market tax from both juridical and ideological perspectives. The Quran did not stipulate the mukūs; therefore, it was somewhat suspect among the ulama as an innovation on God's word. More significant was their fear that the mukūs would fall most heavily on the shoulders of the common folk, ultimately burdening the most vulnerable sectors of the population. Therefore, in an effort to avoid what seemed inevitable, the ulama unsuccessfully asked that the sultan rescind the despised mukūs. Instead, the sultan deferred to the opinion of a little-known 'ālim, who drafted a legal opinion sanctifying its collection, thereby exposing the diminished agency of the ulama as political interlocutors.[48] After almost one year of intermittent conflict between the makhzan's forces and the rebels and their supporters, the tanners accepted a deal whereby they would give their allegiance to the sultan.

The complete breakdown of traditional channels for the resolution of such crises as the Tanners' Rebellion was surely important in shaping awareness among members of Muḥammad al-Kattānī's generation of the danger that loomed in the not-too-distant future if the sultan were to lose his authority. As during the mid-eighteenth century, "time of troubles" (when the makhzan's control of Fez was significantly reduced for about thirty years), Fez's traditional elites—the ulama and the shurafā' families like Muḥammad al-Kattānī's—had failed to bring order to the city. Instead, armed contingents of commoners (whom the makhzan traditionally recruited for policing duties) often, quite literally, called the shots, while the makhzan and religiopolitical elites marched to their rhythm.[49] Were this to happen in this latest crisis, Fez could go up in flames, and its elite families would go along with it.

These concerns were most certainly augmented by the fact that traditional religiopolitical elites such as the Kattānīs watched as a new merchant class came to occupy unprecedented positions of power and influence among the sultan and his advisers. Before the nineteenth century, Moroccan merchants had few claims to political legitimacy and virtually no ability to influence the decisions of the makhzan. In Moroccan society, prestige and power had not been based on wealth but rather on belonging to or association with a noble family with genealogical ties to the Prophet Muḥammad and his descendants. Such families were more likely to gain wealth as a result of their noble descent or through access to the patron-client networks of these sharifan families.[50] In the 1830s, for example, a coalition of Fāsī merchants successfully pressured Sultan 'Abd al-Raḥmān not to break relations with France following the conquest of Algeria. Commercial interests in Algeria were too valuable to be threatened by political conflicts.[51] Yet Moroccan merchants—both Muslim and Jewish—thrived after Sultan 'Abd al-Raḥmān signed free-trade agreements with Britain in 1856, and later with France and Spain. Commercial ties between Moroccan merchants and European trading companies, knowledge of foreign languages as a result of such contacts, and familiarity with European methods of diplomacy and banking collectively made the enterprising Moroccan commercial elite extremely valuable to the makhzan. From midcentury onward, merchants filled positions in the expanding bureaucracy the makhzan created to facilitate Moroccan ties with the European powers. These newly created bureaucratic positions, such as the umanā' or tariff inspectors, were emblematic of the emerging order in Morocco in which prestige, power, and authority were linked to knowledge of European models of governance, administration, and economy.[52]

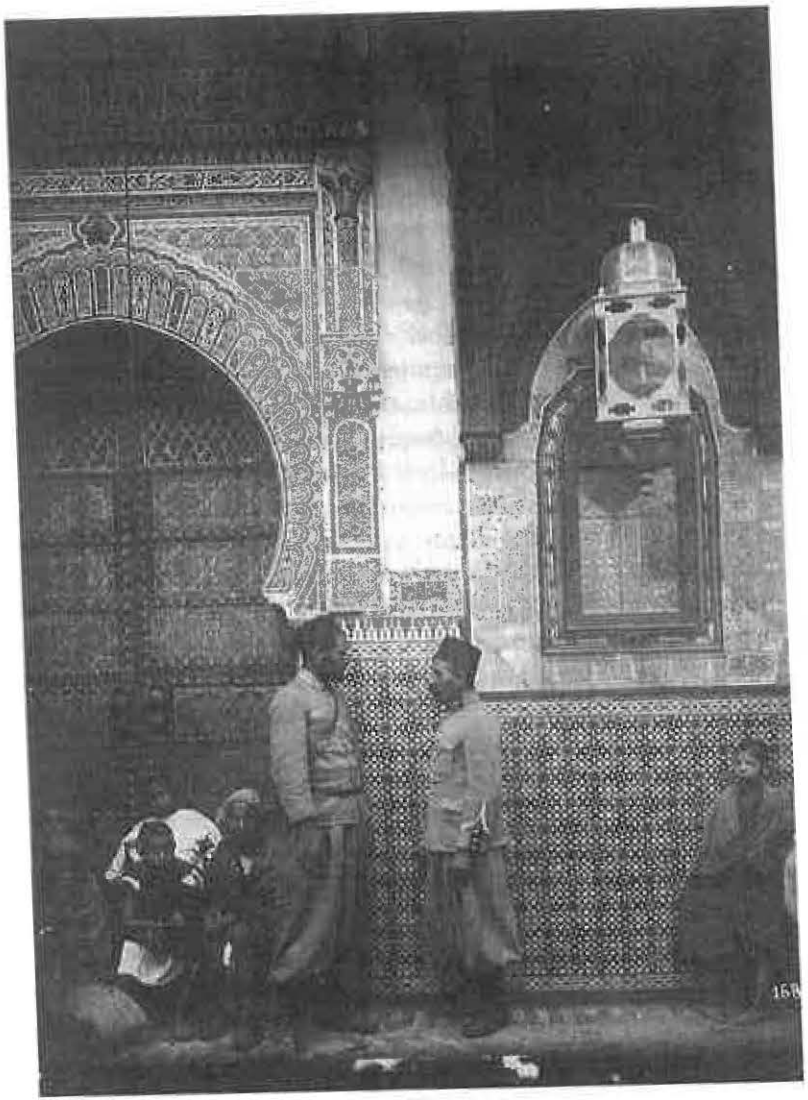

Figure 1. Fez, Zāwiya of Mawlāy Idrīs, Interior View
Courtesy of Islamic Collection, Fine Arts Library, Harvard University.

The Moroccan learned establishment articulated the changing Moroccan political, socioeconomic, and intellectual landscape in their literary production. Although Moroccan scholars of the nineteenth century did not explain the reasons for their renewed interest in historical genres, they embarked on a renaissance in historical forms of literary production—such as dynastic chronicles (tārīkh), hagiographies (manāqib) and biographies (tarājim)—with the hope that they might influence the direction of change.[53] Composed to document "the vast number of ulama and ṣulaḥā' who resided in the city of Fez" from its foundation in the ninth century, Salwat al-anfās—a nine-hundred page hagiography of the shurafā', saints, Sufis, ulama, and pious folk of Fez—is one of the most significant among these literary experiments. Written in the 1880s by Muḥammad al-Kattānī's cousin, Muḥammad bin Ja'far al-Kattānī—a legal scholar and mystic in his own right—Salwat al-anfās reasserted the prominence of the Idrīsī shurafā' (to which his family belonged) while simultaneously offering a veiled critique of the 'Alawī sultans for abandoning consultation with the learned elite (dhū al-'ilm/dhū al-ma'rifa) in political matters.[54]

"A LOFTY AND UNAMBIGUOUS LINEAGE": SAINTS, SUFIS, AND THE SHURAFĀ' IN NINETEENTH-CENTURY FEZ

In Fez, powerful sharifan families depended on good relations with the makhzan to maintain their status among the Fāsī religiopolitical elite and support their patron-client networks. In exchange for their loyalty to the 'Alawī dynasty, the Idrīsīs received numerous privileges, such as tax exemptions and the right to collect donations at the tombs of their ancestors. The more prestigious shurafā' even possessed power akin to ulama-bureaucrats to arbitrate in legal disputes because their *zāwiya*s and shrines also served as inviolable sanctuaries (ḥurm) or safe zones, where the reach of the makhzan was restricted.[55] But from the reign of Mawlāy Ismā'īl (r. 1672–1727), the makhzan began to check and document family lineages officially, weeding out fraudulent claims and limiting the number of families who could receive benefits and tax cuts provided to the shurafā', thereby creating a heightened atmosphere of competition among Fez's notable families. Official recognition of a nasab ṣāliḥ—a sound genealogy—helped families secure their positions within the world of inter-shurafā' politics.[56]

Since the Merinid period, Moroccan dynasties had acknowledged the prominence of the Kattānīs because of "the unambiguity of their lineage and the loftiness of their position."[57] In more recent times, successive 'Alawī sultans also recognized the Kattānīyūn as members of the religiopolitical elite by granting the family rights to collect pilgrims' donations made at the tomb of Abū Maymūna Darrās b. Ismā'īl, around whom one of the earliest saint cults in Fez had emerged.[58] According to the royal decree, "[pilgrims' dontaions at the tomb] remain in the hands of the Kattānī clan of the Kattānī shurafā'. Only they should benefit from the donations, and [they have the right] to use them without conflict or opposition [that may arise] due to their weakness or state of poverty." This was a privilege due them "because of their relations to the Prophet of God, blessing and peace upon him."[59] After his departure from or return to Fez the 'Alawī sultan, 'Abd al-Raḥmān (r. 1822–1859), and his entourage performed a pilgrimage to the tomb of one of al-Kattānī's ancestors, a saint named Mawlāy al-Ṭayyib al-Kattānī (d. 1837/1838).[60] The 'Alawīs made additional gestures toward the Kattānī family beyond the usual genealogical recognition. In 1864, for example, Sīdī Muḥammad (r. 1859–1873), donated a ḥubus property that was held in his name for enlargement of the Kattāniyya zāwiya in Fez.[61] In the competitive world of sharifan politics, displays of support such as those of Sīdī 'Abd al-Raḥmān and Sīdī Muḥammad could prove significant in shoring up the prominence of the Kattānīs.

By the time Muḥammad al-Kattānī was born, the Kattānīs had made their mark on Fāsī intellectual, spiritual and political life, and his family was well situated to take their position on the stage of Fāsī politics according to the rules of Sharifism. More important, the family seemed to gain prominence even as the shurafā' were losing out. Yet as is shown in the following chapter, al-Kattānī's baraka was influenced by his willingness to challenge the political establishment—namely, the ulama and the makhzan—regarding the meaning of Islamic orthodoxy and who had the authority to determine its limits.

NOTES

1. Aḥmad bin Khālid al-Nāṣirī, al-Istiqsā li akhbār duwal al-Maghrib al-Aqṣā, ed. Ja'far and Muḥammad al-Nāṣirī (Casablanca: Dār al-Kitāb, 1997), 1: 127.
2. By emphasizing Morocco's relationship with the wider Mediterranean world, I do not mean to suggest that important relationships with other regions (such as sub-Saharan Africa) did not exist. However, although scholars of North Africa have begun to recognize and examine in detail the region's links with sub-Saharan Africa, they remain mostly unexplored. The American Institute of Maghrib Studies, the West African Research Association, and the Tangier-based American Legation Institute for Moroccan Studies recently convened (June 2009) the first in a two-part series of conferences entitled Saharan Crossroads I and II to develop this underexplored avenue of research.
3. Abderrahman el Moueddin discusses the importance of travel in shaping a distinct Moroccan Muslim identity. He argues that between the fourteenth and nineteenth centuries, the Hajj (as well as embassies sent to Europe and the Ottoman Empire to represent the Moroccan sultanate) helped strengthen the bonds between Morocco and the broader Islamic umma, while simultaneously highlighting differences. For example, the seventeenth-century Moroccan scholar and traveler Abū Salīm 'Abdallah al-'Ayyāshī expressed wonder about the bustle of Cairo's streets and markets. Yet he also noted with displeasure the low level of religious knowledge among the Bedouin populations of Arabia as compared with his own countrymen and perceived the Ottoman sharia courts to be plagued by corruption (presumably in comparison with those back home). Abderrahman el Moueddin, "The Ambivalence of Rihla: Community Integration and Self-definition in Moroccan Travel Accounts, 1300–1800," in Muslim Travellers: Pilgrimage, Migration and the Religious Imagination, ed. Dale F. Eickelman and James Piscatori (Berkeley: University of California Press, 1990), 78. On Ottoman-Moroccan relations, see Abderrahman el Moueddin, "Sharifs and Padishahs: Moroccan-Ottoman Relations from the Sixteenth through the Eighteenth Centuries," Ph.D. diss., Princeton, University, Princeton, NJ, 1992.
4. Vincent Cornell, Realm of the Saint: Power and Authority in Moroccan Sufism (Austin: University of Texas Press, 1998), 162–164.
5. Mohamed el Mansour, "The Sanctuary (Hurm) in Precolonial Morocco," in In the Shadow of the Sultan: Culture, Power, and Politics in Morocco, ed. Rahma Bourqia and Susan Gilson Miller (Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1999), 49–73.
6. Abdelahad Sebti, "Au Maroc: Sharifisme, Citadin, Charisme et Historiographie," Annales ESC 2 (Mars–Avril 1986): 437.
7. Al-Jazūlī called for the renewal of Islam by invoking the mujaddid tradition, which was grounded in eschatological discourse and based on a hadith that states, "God will send to this community at the turn of every century someone who will restore religion." Cornell, Realm of the Saints, 184. On the concept of cyclical reform, see Ella Landau-Tasserson, "The 'Cyclical Reform': A Study of the Mujaddid Tradition," Studia Islamica 70 (1989): 79–117. On the teachings of the Jazūliyya order and its importance for the involvement of Sufi saints in the political conflicts of the day, see Vincent Cornell, "Mystical Doctrine and Political Action in Moroccan Sufism: The Role of the Exemplar in the Tariqa al-Jazuliyya," al-Qantara 13, fasc. 1(1992): 202.
8. Most notably, Edmund Burke and Abdallah Laroui. Their focus was social history, not cultural or intellectual history. Burke, "The Moroccan Ulama, 1860–1912; Laroui, Les origines sociales et culturelles du nationalism Marocain, 1830–1912.
9. Henry Munson Jr. attempted to move debate about Muḥammad al-Kattānī beyond the existing framework of inquiry by acknowledging the centrality of saintly figures in challenging state authority. Munson reads al-Kattānī's life in terms of "the righteous man of God"—a charismatic figure who was held to be both righteous and saintly and whose authority as a scholar and a saint formed the basis for his ability to challenge the state. Rather than fall back on a reified notion of charisma, Munson emphasized that conceptions of charisma are embedded in historical circumstances. See chapter 3 in Henry Munson Jr., Religion and Power in Morocco (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1993), 76.
10. Cornell, Introduction, Realm of the Saint. See also Stephen T. Katz, Editor's Introduction, in Mysticism and Philosophical Anal- ysis, ed. Stephen T. Katz (New York: Oxford University Press, 1978), 1–9.

11. Norman Cigar, "Socio-economic Structures and the Development of an Urban Bourgeoisie in Pre-colonial Morocco," Maghreb Review 6 (1981): 60–61. For an excellent discussion of the social and political ramifications of increased Moroccan trade with Europe in the nineteenth-century see, Daniel Schroeter, "Royal Power and the Economy in Pre-colonial Morocco: Jews and the Legitimation of Foreign Trade," in In the Shadow of the Sultan: Culture, Power, and Politics in Morocco, ed. Rahma Bourquia and Susan Gilson Miller (Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1999), 74–102.
12. Jocelyne Dakhila shows how the ḥarka (the movement of the court from one region of the sultanate to another) was important for shoring up symbolic as well as military power of the state by emphasizing the ubiquity of royal authority. For instance, comparing the reigns of Mawlāy Ḥasan and his son and successor, 'Abd al-'Azīz, one author wrote, "L'aigle vit dans les airs habite les déserts, tandis que le coq erre autour des maisons. La force de l'aigle lui confère un pouvoir absolu; mais le coq, que peut-il faire sinon effrayer les poules quand il chante?" ["The eagle lives in the skies and in the deserts, while the rooster wanders around homesteads. The eagle's strength confers on him absolute power. As for the rooster, what can he do other than frighten the chickens when he sings?"]. Jocelyne Dakhila, "Dans la mouvance du prince: la symbolique du pouvoir itinérant au Maghreb," Annales ESC 3 (Mai–Juin 1988): 737.
13. Burke, Prelude to Protectorate, 25–27.
14. Mohammed Kenbib, "Structures traditionnelles et protections étrangères au Maroc au XIXème siècle," Hespéris-Tamuda 22 (1984): 79–101.
15. al-Kattānī, Salwa, 3: 288. This du'ā' is one of the few overt expressions of a political agenda in Salwa. It appears in the biographical entry of Sultan 'Abd al-'Azīz, who was the reigning sultan at the time Salwa went to press in 1898.
16. R. Le Tourneau and L. Paye, "La corporation des tanneurs et l'industrie de la tannerie à Fès," Hespéris 20–21 (1935): 167.
17. al-Nāṣirī, al-Istiqsa, 9: 137–138. For a detailed discussion of the Tanners' Rebellion as seen through Moroccan chronicles, see Abdelahad Sebti, "Chroniques de la contestation citadine: Fès et la revolte des tanneurs (1873–1874)," Hespéris-Tamuda 29, fasc. 2 (1991): 283–312.

18. A rich body of scholarly literature on the sociohistorical significance of the crowd and the use of violence in popular protest movements has emerged in the last thirty-five years, most notably through the work of George Rudé and E. P. Thompson. While such a literature is less developed in the context of North African history, several authors have demonstrated the importance of popular protest movements and rebellions in influencing high politics in Fez. For example, regarding the 1873 rebellion in Fez, Bettina Dennerlein explains that the rebels never questioned the legitimacy of the sultan to rule but rather "the concrete extent of his power and more specifically to his capacity to effectively impose the levying of taxes." Popular rebellion merely constituted "one of the multitude of processes of legitimation and of political involvement and participation." Mohamed al-Mansour shows how popular anger and violence was instrumental in determining the bid for power by two contenders to the 'Alawī sultanate in the late eighteenth century. He thereby challenges the notion that politics was merely the provenance of elites such as the shurafā' and ulama of Fez. Abdelahad Sebti uses the term frondeur to characterize Fez, arguing that popular rebellion was a recurring feature of Fāsī urban life and politics. He challenges characterizations of the city solely in terms of Islamic orthodoxy, of high culture and of allegiance to the makhzan (as opposed to rural syncretism and rebellion against the state). Dennerlein, "Legitimate Bounds and Bound Legitimacy," 296 and 288–289; Mohamed al-Mansour, "Urban society in Fez: The Rumat during the Modern Period (Seventeenth–Nineteenth Centuries)," Maghreb Review 22 (1997): 75–95; George Rudé, The Crowd in History (New York: Wiley, 1964); Sebti, "Chroniques de la contestation citadine," 283–284; E. P. Thompson, The Making of the English Working Class (New York: Vintage Books, 1963). On popular protest in the Middle East and North Africa, see also Stephanie Cronin, ed., Subalterns and Social Protest: History from below in the Middle East and North Africa (New York: Routledge, 2008).
19. Cigar, "Socio-economic Structures and the Development of an Urban Bourgoisie," 68. On the segmented nature of Fāsī social groups in the pre-Protectorate period and their reconfiguration see Norman Cigar, "Conflict and Community in an Urban Milieu: Fez under the 'Alawīs (ca. 1666–1830)," Maghreb Review 3, no. 10 (1978): 3–13.

20. The sixteenth-century traveler Leo the African and 'Alī Bey, who visited Fez in 1805, both commented on the opulence of Fez's markets and attested to the advantages of the city's geographical location in facilitating trade. Roger Le Tourneau, Fès avant le protectorat, 2nd ed. (Rabat: Editions la Porte, 1987), 368.
21. Although a small town, Sefrou had importance both for the military and for commerce and trade. It marked the end of the district of Fez and served as the residence of the sultan's governors, whose presence was primarily directed at controlling the semi-independent and powerful tribes of Aït Yūsī and branches of the Banī Mglīd. In the late 1890s, a French traveler noted, "Enormous quantities of fruit, olives, citrons, cherries, [and] grapes, are sent from Sefrou to Fez, and even fairly good wine is made there. It is the entrepôt for almost all the oil of the surrounding region, which is rich in olive-trees." M. La Martinière, Morocco: Journeys in the Kingdom of Fez and to the Court of Mulai Hassan (London: Whittaker and Co., 1889), 400–401.
22. 'Abd al-Ḥayy al-Kattānī, al-Maẓāhir al-sāmiyya fī al-nisba al-sharīfa al-kattāniyya, 1911, photocopy of original ms., private Collection of Dr. Fawzi Abdulrazak, Cambridge, MA., 14.
23. Mercedes Garcìa-Arenal and E. Manzano Moreno, "Idrissisme et villes Idrissides," Studia Islamica 82 (October 1995): 6. On the Idrīsīs, see also "Idrisids," EI2 vol. 3, fasc. 57–58, pp. 1035–1037.
24. al-Kattānī, Salwa, 1: 82.
25. Nashr al-mathānī is mentioned in al-Kattānī, al-Maẓāhir, 2.
26. Ibid., 285, 331.
27. al-Kattānī, Tarjama, 11.
28. Ibid., 13.
29. Ibid.
30. Ibid., 12–13.
31. al-Kattānī, al-Maẓāhir, 71. This is a literary trope intended to illustrate al-Kattānī's piety and commitment to Sufism. Such expressions of piety and sainthood are formulaic and are often found in the manāqib literature and in chronicles. On the use of literary tropes in these literary genres, see Abdelahad Sebti, "Akhbār al-manāqib wa manāqib al-akhbār," in al-Tārīkh wa adab al-manāqib (Rabat: al-Jam'iyya al-Maghribiyya li al-baḥth al-tārīkhī, 1988), 93–112.

32. Michel Chodkiewicz explains that a basic problem associated with the discussion of sainthood in the Islamic tradition relates to translation. The term sainthood has most often been used to denote the Arabic term walāya or wilāya while a walī (pl. awliyā')—the person who possesses the attributes of sainthood—is described in English as a saint. In the Christian tradition, sainthood is associated with the idea of purity and inviolability as in the Greek hagios, the Latin sanctus and the Hebrew qadosh. Etymologically speaking, such concepts correspond to the semantic field associated with the Arabic root letters q, d and s. Alternatively, the root ḥ, r, m would be expected to convey the notion of sanctity as reflected in the Greek hieros and the Latin sacer. In the Islamic tradition, neither root is used in association with a person who is described as a saint. Michel Chodkiewicz, Seal of the Saints: Prophethood and Sainthood in the Doctrine of Ibn Arabi, trans. Liadan Sherrard (Cambridge: Islamic Texts Society, 1993), 21.
33. Cornell, Introduction, Realm of the Saint, xvii–xxi.
34. al-Kattānī, al-Maẓāhir, 158. The Arabic is "min ahl al-qarāba wa al-dalāla."
35. Ibid., 31.
36. Landau-Tasserson, "The 'Cyclical Reform'," 82–83.
37. Abū 'Imrān Mūsā al-Wazzānī (d. 1562), al-Kurrasa li Mawlāna al-Manṣūr al-Sulṭān al-Muẓaffar Muḥammad ibn Muḥammad al-Sharīf al-Ḥasanī fī mas'alat al-quṭb al-mushār ilayhi ahl al-ṭariqa al-ṣūfiyya [no page], quoted in Cornell, "Mystical Doctrine and Political Action in Moroccan Sufism," 230.
38. al-Kattānī, al-Maẓāhir, 69.
39. Chodkiewicz, Seal of the Saints, 61.
40. The concept of al-nūr al-Muḥammadi ("the Muḥammadan light") was elaborated by the thirteenth century mystic, Muḥyī' al-Dīn ibn al-'Arabī in his famous work al-Futūḥāt al-makkiyya. For an excellent explanation of the concept and its relation to the thinking of Ibn al-'Arabī, see Chodkiewicz, Seal of the Saints. See also J. Spencer Trimingham, The Sufi Orders in Islam (New York: Oxford University Press, 1998), 161. For the reception of Ibn al-'Arabī's ideas in the early modern period, see Alexander Knysh, "Ibn Arabi in the Later Islamic Tradition," Muhyiddin Ibn Arabi:

A Commemorative Volume, ed. by Stephen Hirtenstein and Michael Tiernan (Rockport, Ma.: Element, Inc., 1993), 307–327; Derin Terzioğlu, "Sufi and Dissident in the Ottoman Empire: Niyazi-i Misri (1618–1694)," Ph.D. diss., Harvard University, Cambridge, Ma., 1999.

41. Ibn Hishām, al-Sīra al-nabawiyya, ed. M. al-Saqaa, I. al-Abyaari, A. Shalabi, pt. 1, p. 166, quoted in Sebti, "Akhbār al-manāqib wa manāqib al-akhbār," 96.
42. Muḥammad b. Jaʿfar al-Kattānī, al-Azhār al-ʿāṭira al-anfās bi dhikr maḥāsin qutb al-Maghrib wa tāj madinat Fās (Lithographic Press: Fez, 1889), 195, quoted in Sebti, "Akhbār al-manāqib wa manāqib al-akhbār," 95.
43. Moses is known in the Islamic tradition as kalīm Allah or "the one who speaks with God." Several passages from the Quran speak of direct communication between God and Moses. Moses was formed in the image of the Prophet Muḥammad. "Musa," EI2 vol. 7, fasc. 123–130: pp. 638–640; al-Kattānī, al-Mazāhir, 133.
44. Muḥyī' al-Dīn ibn al-'Arabī, al-Futūḥāt al-makkiyya, IV, 50–51, quoted in, Chodkiewicz, Seal of the Saints, 74.
45. Cornell, Realm of the Saint, 68. See also V. Loubignac, "Un saint berbère, Moulay Bou Azza," Hespéris 31 (1944): 5–34.
46. Chodkiewicz, Seal of the Saints, 74–75.
47. al-Kattānī, al-Mazāhir, 165. 'Abd al-'Azīz bin Aḥmad al-Dabbāgh, who related the dream to al-Kattānī, is not to be confused with the eighteenth-century Sufi 'Abd al-'Azīz al-Dabbāgh. However, al-Mazāhir does not provide specific information about the identity of 'Abd al-'Azīz bin Aḥmad al-Dabbāgh such as the date of his birth or his genealogy, so it is difficult to know whether he was related to the eighteenth-century al-Dabbāgh, although it is likely.
48. Laroui, Les Origines, 294; Ibrāhīm Ḥarakāt, al-tayyārāt al-siyāsiyya wa al-fikriyya bi al-maghrib khilāla qarnayn wa niṣf qabla al-ḥimaya (Morocco?: s.n., 1985), 110.
49. el-Mansour, "Urban Society in Fez," 91.
50. Cigar, "Socio-economic Structures and the Development of an Urban Bourgeoisie in Pre-colonial Morocco," 60.
51. Ibid.
52. Sīdī Muḥammad established the umanā' corps in 1861. Other functionaries in the reformed bureaucracy worked in the ministry of foreign affairs—wizārat al-baḥr. Many of them were drawn or came from delegations of Moroccan students who had visited Europe on official missions (between 1874 and 1888, eight delegations with about 350 people). Abdellah Laroui, Esquisses Historiques (Casablanca: Centre Culturel Arabe, 1992), 58.

53. Évariste Levi-Provençal, Les historiens des chorfas (Paris: Larose, 1922), 350.
54. Bazzaz, "Reading Reform beyond the State." On conceptions of power and authority in nineteenth-century Morocco, see Dennerlein, "Asserting Religious Authority in Late Nineteenth- Early Twentieth-Century Morocco."
55. el-Mansour, "The Sanctuary (Hurm) in Precolonial Morocco."
56. Sebti, "Au Maroc: Sharifisme, Citadin, Charisme et Historiographie," 435–438.
57. al-Kattānī, al-Mazāhir, 14.
58. Cornell, Realm of the Saint, 100.
59. al-Kattānī, al-Mazāhir, 327.
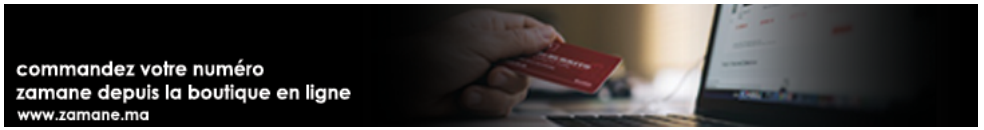
60. Ibid., 285 and 331.
61. Ibid., 378.

EDITORIAL BOARD OF THE CMES MONOGRAPHS

Steven Caton
Cemal Kafadar
Susan M. Kahn
Roy Mottahedeh
Roger Owen

HARVARD MIDDLE EASTERN MONOGRAPHS
XLI



Forgotten Saints

History, Power, and Politics in the Making of Modern Morocco

Sahar Bazzaz

DISTRIBUTED FOR THE
CENTER FOR MIDDLE EASTERN STUDIES
OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY BY
HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS
LONDON, ENGLAND

2010

D'où viennent les noirs du Maroc ?

Par — 9 avril 2015 1

4.1k SHARES 2 VIEWS

Partager sur Facebook Partager sur Twitter G+

De nos jours, les Marocains voient avec méfiance les migrants venus du continent. Pourtant les relations avec les populations noires ont toujours enrichi l'histoire du Maroc

PDFmyURL easily turns web pages and even entire websites into PDF!

La représentation de l'homme noir dans l'art occidental est une construction idéologique habilement élaborée qui ne fait aucune différence entre les Africains. Blancs, basanés, « maures » et « barbaresques », indifféremment, y ont souvent un teint sombre. Le teint des populations maghrébines reste difficile à définir à partir des témoignages anciens. Pour l'auteur oriental du Xe siècle, Al Istakhri, « les noirs sont très nombreux dans la région saharienne » et « le teint de la population [des pays du Maghreb] fonce au fur et à mesure qu'on s'éloigne de la Méditerranée en allant vers l'Équateur ». Le géographe Al Idrissi explique le teint foncé par l'excès de la chaleur et la violence des rayons du soleil. Cette théorie se retrouve chez la majorité des auteurs arabes, dénonçant ainsi la légende selon laquelle la peau sombre serait la conséquence de la malédiction lancée par Noé contre son fils Ham (Cham), ancêtre légendaire des Africains. Au XIVe siècle, sa tombe, était l'objet d'un culte dans la cité de Safi, selon Yahya Ibn Khaldoun. D'autres auteurs affirment que Kouch, fils de Ham, est enterré à Asilah. Certains récits évoquent un empire ou un royaume noir habachi (Abyssinie), contemporain de celui des Pharaons, et soulignent la parenté des Berbères et des « Soudanais » (terme générique utilisé pour les Africains noirs). Dans la réalité historique, la présence de personnes noires au Maroc remonte à une époque impossible à dater. En tout cas, une forte minorité noire berbérophone, de statut libre, est signalée sur tout le territoire, y compris dans les montagnes du Haut et du Moyen-Atlas. Au VIIIe siècle, le premier prince et fondateur de Sijilmasa, Issa Ibn Yazid Al Aswad, est ainsi qualifié de « soudanais ».

La légende du « sultan noir »

Partis des rives du fleuve Sénégal, les Almoravides ont créé un vaste empire. Les sources ne se préoccupent guère de leur teint, même si une lecture attentive permet de supposer que Youssef Ibn Tachfin était très sombre de peau, ignorait l'arabe et avait recours à un interprète. Dans l'armée almoravide, les « Soudanais » formaient une troupe d'élite particulièrement choyée. Ces cavaliers montaient des destriers blancs, étaient armés de boucliers et portaient des coiffures rouge foncé. Le poitrail de leurs chevaux était agrémenté de grelots en forme de coings (ou poires). Ils participaient aux parades et ont joué un rôle déterminant lors de l'intervention des Almoravides dans Al Andalous. Par ailleurs, les femmes noires jouissaient alors d'un prestige certain et étaient recherchées comme concubines, ce qui a contribué au métissage, particulièrement dans les classes aisées des cités. La littérature de l'époque abonde en ce sens : « Dieu les a douées de remarquables qualités physiques et morales au-delà de tout souhait: douceur du buste, éclat du noir, beauté des yeux, régularité du nez, blancheur des dents, agrément de l'odeur ».

La suite de l'article dans Zamane N°7

S'INSCRIRE

PDFmyURL easily turns web pages and even entire websites into PDF!

Par Halima Ferhat

L'accès à la totalité de l'article est protégé, abonnez vous ou achetez le numéro en question.

Voir le Kiosque

Abonnez-vous

Précédent

Fqih El Qorri, un alim d'avant-garde

Suivant

Chevrolet « petit Suisse » devenu géant d'Amérique

Comments 1

hassan 4 mois ago

Le Maroc est un pays africain. Les premiers habitants sont donc des noirs. Tous les autres, berbères et autres, y sont arrivés par vagues successives plus tard pour devenir des habitants "blancs". Le cas est le même dans toute l'Afrique dite du nord ou "blanche".

Répondre

Laisser un commentaire

Votre adresse de messagerie ne sera pas publiée. Les champs obligatoires sont indiqués avec *

Commentaire

PDFmyURL easily turns web pages and even entire websites into PDF!

Nom *

Adresse de messagerie *

Site web

Inscrivez moi sur la newsletter!

LAISSER UN COMMENTAIRE

Zamane
'Le Maroc d'hier & d'aujourd'hui

À propos

Zamane est un mensuel marocain principalement consacré à l'Histoire du Maroc et publié en deux versions linguistiques dont le contenu diffère : francophone, depuis son lancement en novembre 2010 et arabophone, depuis octobre 2013.

Nous suivre

Copyright © Zamane. Tous droits réservés 2018.

PDFmyURL easily turns web pages and even entire websites into PDF!

Yakṣa Manji
Most important historical takeaways from koran:
1: Jesus WAS the messiah, however he was NOT the literal son of god
2: Jesus was NOT crucified
3: Jesus and Moses were alive at the same time
4: no mention is made of WHERE pharaoh and his kingdom were located
5: Pharaoh and his kingdom were COMPLETELY destroyed with NOTHING remaining (no pyramids or monuments)
6: countless "advanced" civilizations have been destroyed by god and his angels
7: God himself promises the preservation of the koran
8: the koran explicitly warns of people who want to change history
9: whoever the koran refers to as jews, it says that they believe ezra or uzair, (ausar/osiris) is the son of god. This part is very important coupled with the notion that jesus was not the son of god and was not crucified

What this implies:
1: whoever the koran refers to as jews clearly already had the system of kabbala which is well known to originate from "egyptian" or firaunic mythology
2: this points to a clear connection with any group which uses "egyptian iconography"

3: these takeaways are in direct conflict with the most important takeaways from the bible. This would mean that from a koranic viewpoint the bible is almost entirely unreliable.
4: no specific geological locations are given for most places within the koran,
5: there is in fact very little mentioned of the life of the prophet, other than the fact that he would come after jesus and be the final prophet.

Mobile uploads · 11 hours ago ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

11

6 shares

Matthew Simmons Esa

10 hrs Like Reply More

Yakṣa Manji replied · 4 replies

David Peterson
Koran seems be wriiten earlier and just lacks the info of the later bible with Christ story's

9 hrs Like Reply More

Yakṣa Manji replied · 16 replies

Law Morgan
Korean was written in the 10th century ad 1

7 hrs Like Reply More

Yakṣa Manji replied · 2 replies

Kelly Yeates
The new testament was written by Flavians(the Calpurnius Piso family) on the order of Titus Flavius aka Jesus Christ 2

7 hrs Like Reply More

Yakṣa Manji replied · 3 replies

Cristian Alt
Islam is Judaism with a hint of Arab paganism. 4

7 hrs Like Reply More

Jesus Yoshio L... replied · 17 replies

Cristian Alt
The Satanic Verses refer to an event in Muhammad's life which Muslim scholars call The Story of the Cranes. It is a time when Muhammad recited, as part of the Qur'an, that the polytheistic gods of Mecca were valid. Some time after saying this he withdrew these verses from the Qur'an and said they were inspired by Satan.

This event is recorded and accepted as authentic by the earliest Islamic biographers: Ibn Ishaq[1] and Ibn Sa'd[2]. It was a standard part of how the early Muslims told the life of Muhammad. Al-Tabari[3] records several accounts of the event, Ibn Taymiyyah[4] accepts it as authentic, and Imam al-Bukhari[5] gives a highly truncated version of the event. 2

6 hrs Like Reply More

Yakṣa Manji replied · 3 replies

Cristian Alt
Now the apostle was anxious for the welfare of his people [the Quraysh], wishing to attract them as far as he could. It has been mentioned that he longed for a way to attract them, and the method he adopted is what Ibn Hamid told me that Salama said M. b. Ishaq told him from Yazid b. Ziyad of Medina from M. b. Ka`b al-Qurazi: When the apostle saw that his people turned their backs on him and he was pained by their estrangement from what he brought them from God he longed that there should come to him from God a message that would reconcile his people to him. Because of his love for his people and his anxiety over them it would delight him if the obstacle that made his task so difficult could be removed; so that he meditated on the project and longed for it and it was dear to him. Then God sent down "By the star when it sets your comrade errs not and is not deceived, he speaks not from his own desire,"[Q. 53:1-3] and when he reached His words "Have you thought of al-Lat and al-`Uzza and Manat the third, the others"[Q. 53:19-20], Satan, when he was meditating upon it, and desiring to bring it (sc. reconciliation) to his people, put upon his tongue "these are the exalted Gharaniq [a high flying crane] whose intercession is approved". When the Quraysh heard that, they were delighted and greatly pleased at the way in which he spoke of their gods and they listened to him; while the believers were holding that what their prophet brought from their Lord was true, not suspecting a mistake or a vain desire or slip, and when he reached the prostration and the end of the Sura in which he prostrated himself the Muslims prostrated themselves when their prophet prostrated confirming what he brought and obeying his command, and the polytheists of the Quraysh and others who were in the mosque prostrated when they heard the mention of their gods, so that everyone in the mosque believer and unbeliever prostrated, except al-Walid b. al-Mughira who was an old man who could not do so, so he took a handful of dirt from the valley and bent over it. Then the people dispersed and the Quraysh went out, delighted at what had been said about their gods, saying, "Muhammad has spoken of our gods in splendid fashion. He alleged in what he read that they are the exalted Gharaniq whose intercession is approved".

6 hrs Like Reply More

Eugene Freeman replied · 12 replies

Robert G Barriere II
Muhammad is just another Elron Hubbard of religion

5 hrs Like Reply More

Char Cox
If this is true, why are we being told all infidels will be killed?

5 hrs Like Reply More

Збиа Му
Macedonia and Macedonian Language. They are changing Macedonian history as we speak.

3 hrs Like Reply More

Збиа Му replied · 2 replies

Jonathan Lee Wilson
I got a theory about how all Jews are white people.. am I in the right forum?

3 hrs Like Reply More

Write a comment... Post

Splendor Morocco-Abel Adam
4 hours ago

Architecture Marocaine (Plais Bahia-Marrakech)

108 3 comments 24 shares

Like Comment Share

24 shares

Write a comment...

Ahmed Lhaj Tayeb
Très belle architecture. C'est fantastique.

See translation
4 hrs Like Reply More

View more comments…

1

Like Comment

Write a comment...

1

1 share

Like

Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

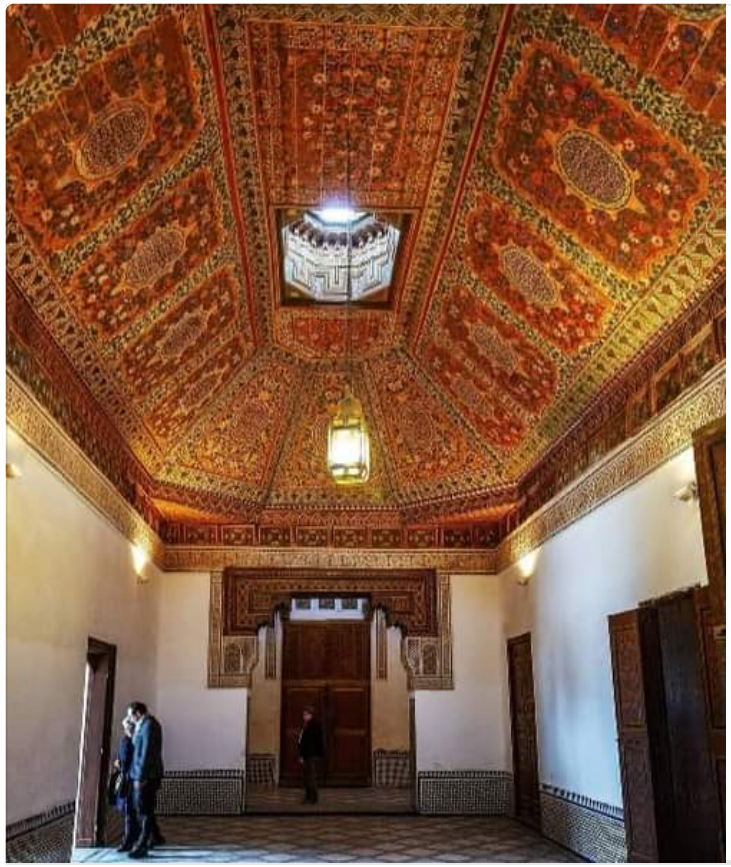
2 1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

1



1 share

Like

Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

1

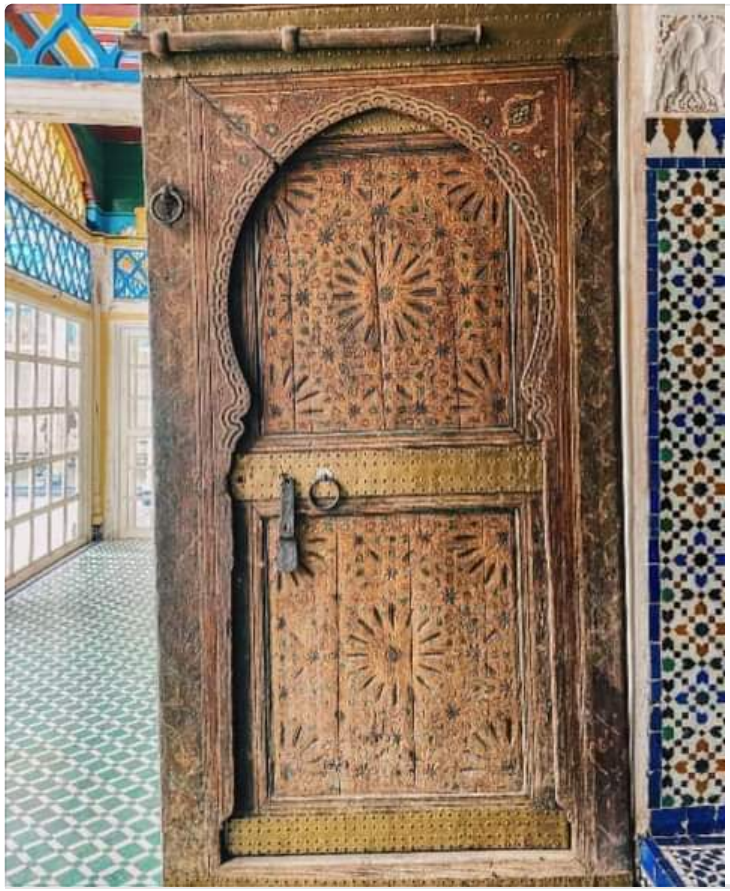
Like Comment

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...



3 2 shares

Like Comment

2 shares

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3 1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

5

Like Comment

Write a comment...

ⵏⵓⵙⵉ ⴰⵎⴰⵣⵉⵖ

الحياة اليهودية: الجهاز الرسمي للقسم اليهودي للحزب الشيوعي في عدد يونيو 1950 في الصفحة 8 تنص على :
مهمتنا كشيوعيين يهود هي أخذ زمام المبادرة في تعليم الجماهير اليهودية حول معنى التفوق الأبيض والمستقبل .
ليس زنجيًا بل هو السينجار اليهودي آرثر. إن اليهود هم من (NAACP) لقد تفاجأ البعض عندما اكتشفوا أن رئيس الجمعية الوطنية للنهوض بالملونين
يقودون الكفاح من أجل القضاء على الفصل العرقي في مدرسة أتلانتا
الدعاوى في جميع أنحاء البلاد وفي المحكمة العليا الأمريكية لكسر الفصل العرقي وفتح الحافلات والمطاعم في مدارسنا البيضاء مع الزنوج ، NAACP ترعى
المعادي للبيض FEPC تعارض جميع المنظمات اليهودية المهمة الفصل العرقي وقد قدمت التماسًا إلى الكونغرس من أجل قانون أنفق يهودي جوليوس روزنوالد 30 مليونا من المنظمات والكتاب الذين يروجون للعلاقات المتبادلة (خلط لاعراق).
العرق الذي يتم تهجنه مرة واحدة فسيصبح هجين الى لابد.

يجب أن تستيقظ أمريكا على هجوم اليهود على البيض

Timeline photos · Yesterday at 21:34 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

You, Fine Aziz and 2 others

1 share

賢い ハンサム

هل يوجد واضح لو سمحت

18 hrs Like Reply More

賢い ハンサム replied · 2 replies

Peter Tan

The father and mother of the queen Elizabeth visited jews in North africa in 1942.

3 hrs Like Reply More

ᒐᓄᐱᕀᐣ ᓄᒪᓂᕕᓗ replied · 1 reply

Write a comment...

Post

The REAL Reason Egyptians Are Fighting Afrocentrists

Mr. Imhotep
330 тыс. подписчиков

Подписаться

8,8 тыс. | Поделиться | Скачать

Показать запись чата

Обыски у Пригожина. Что

МЫСЛЬ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 25.07.2023 в 11:35

«Слоновья» дипломатия Харуна ар-Рашида: сложности христианско-мусульманских отношений в Средневековье

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

Лента новостей

Новая униформа British Airways призвана представить «самое лучшее, что есть в современной Британии»
26.06.2023

Покорение небес: дубайский аэропорт аль-Мактум на пути к тому, чтобы стать крупнейшим в мире
19.06.2023

Новая песня Умм Кульсум, созданная с помощью искусственного интеллекта, вызвала споры в арабском мире
16.06.2023

Выставка «Горячие города: уроки арабской архитектуры»: как архитектура помогает справиться с изменением климата?
07.06.2023

Цитадели Салах ад-Дина в Сирии угрожает разрушение
28.04.2023

«Снежный Абу-Даби» откроет свои двери в июне
25.04.2023

Privacy - Terms

PDFmyURL

В западном мире распространено представление о том, что в Средние века христиане и мусульмане изначально находились в состоянии войны друг с другом. Между тем это совсем не так.

Такое видение прошлого представляет собой наследие крестовых походов. Хотя в эпоху раннего Средневековья, безусловно, было много войн и конфликтов на религиозной почве, правда намного сложнее. «Христианские и мусульманские правители могли торговать друг с другом, могли поддерживать мирные отношения, когда это их устраивало», – говорит историк Сэм Оттевилл-Соулсби, автор книги «Император и слон. Христиане и мусульмане в эпоху Карла Великого», вышедшей в июле этого года.

«Новая Кааба»? Зачем Саудовская Аравия планирует построить гигантское кубическое здание в Эр-Рияде?

16.04.2023

Десяткам тысяч людей в Сомали грозит смерть из-за засухи, вызванной изменением климата

12.04.2023

Ассортимент исламских игрушек появился в супермаркетах Великобритании в преддверии Рамадана

28.03.2023

В Саудовской Аравии состоялась мировая премьера документального фильма «Хиджра: по следам Пророка»

25.03.2023

В Мекке создан самый длинный в мире каллиграфический мурал

17.02.2023

Землетрясение в Турции и Сирии: исторические мечети и древние памятники превратились в руины

15.02.2023

Сокровища исламской цивилизации у мировых ворот в Мекку и Медину

21.01.2023

В Йезде проходит международный фестиваль рассказчиков

18.01.2023

Сэм Оттевилл-Соулсби / Источник: Сэм Оттевилл-Соулсби

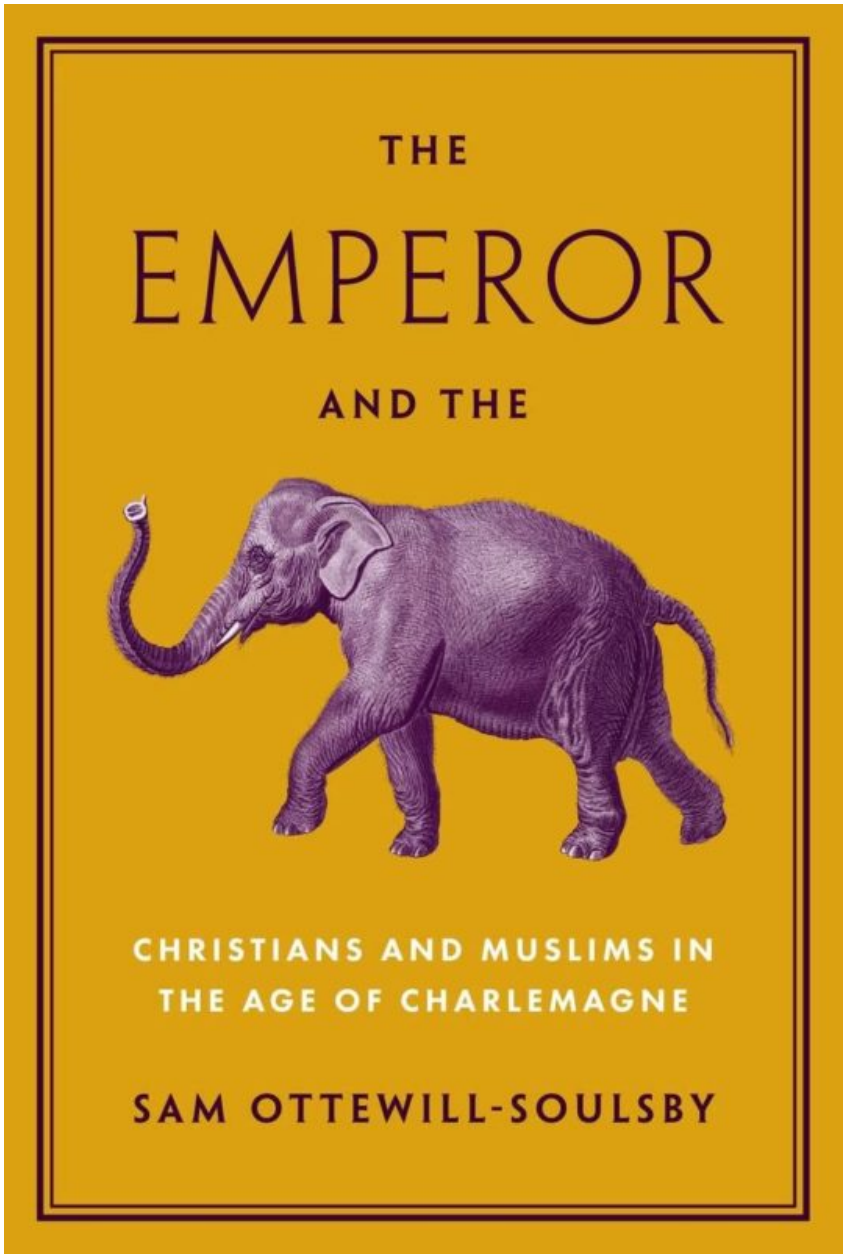
В центре повествования находится слон, который был подарен Харуном ар-Рашидом Карлу Великому. Как говорит историк, через несколько столетий после смерти этого короля в эпоху крестовых походов его начали изображать как великого крестоносца, сражающегося с мусульманами. Например, это можно увидеть в «Песне о Роланде». «Эта идея о том, что Карл

В Турции открылась крупнейшая в Европе библиотека

17.01.2023

Подведение итогов: какие знаковые события произошли на Ближнем Востоке в 2022 году?

15.01.2023



Великий – борец с мусульманами, – во многом проникла в культуру», – отмечает Оттевилл-Соулсби. Подобные искажения продолжают сохраняться и в нынешнюю эпоху. Книга «Император и слон» начинается с цитаты из статьи Washington Post 2016 года, в которой Карл Великий назван «императором Священной Римской империи, который пытался изгнать мусульман из Европы».

Харун ар-Рашид – аббасидский халиф, правивший с 786 до 809 гг. / Источник: Capodimonte Museum

Между тем дело обстояло далеко не так. Карл Великий поддерживал дипломатические отношения с исламским миром. В 799 году в Багдад прибыла отправленная им миссия, чтобы предложить дружбу Харуну ар-Рашиду. Халиф отправил в ответ богатые дары. Обмен делегациями происходил несколько раз. В числе диковинок, присланных Карлу Великому, был и слон. Оттевилл-Соулсби считает, что этот дар заключал в себя целый ряд смыслов. Его следует рассматривать в более широком контексте периода правления Карла Великого, когда он изображал из себя римского императора, собирая по кусочкам разрушенное королевство. Слон, вероятно, намекает на то, что как слон представляет собой нечто впечатляющее в животном мире, таким же является и Карл Великий на политической арене.

«Император и слон. Христиане и мусульмане в эпоху Карла Великого» / Источник: Princeton University Press

Также, по словам историка, подарок был призван продемонстрировать силу и уверенность. Оттевилл-Соулсби приводит современную аналогию китайской панда-дипломатии: «Одним из способов распространения мягкой силы китайского правительства является сдача панд в аренду зоопаркам по всему миру. Это способ продемонстрировать дружеские намерения, а также дать представления о культурной самобытности Китая, и я думаю, что слон был чем-то подобным».

Оттевилл-Соулсби говорит, что слон, подаренный Карлу Великому, почти наверняка был индийским, поскольку африканских было гораздо труднее дрессировать и приручать. «Одна из проблем, с которой столкнулся Харун на тот момент, была связана с завоеванным им Синдом, который находился в состоянии восстания, что, помимо прочего, мешало доставлять слонов из Индии. Посылая Карлу Великому своего слона, халиф демонстрировал свою уверенность в том, что восстание в Синде будет подавлено», – заявляет историк.

Посланцы Харуна ар-Рашида дарят Карлу Великому часы / Источник: Getty

Слоны – не единственные четвероногие, которые привлекли внимание Оттевилла-Соулсби. В другом своем труде он подробно рассматривает верблюдов, подаренных эмиром Кордовы Мухаммедом I королю Западно-Франкского королевства и внуку Карла Великого Карлу Лысому в 865 году.

Исламосфера

МЫСЛЬ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

комментарии 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, МЫСЛЬ

Новообращенный японский ученый находит связь между культурой своей родины и суфизмом

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

МЫСЛЬ

Абджад: какие тайны скрываются за арабскими буквами?

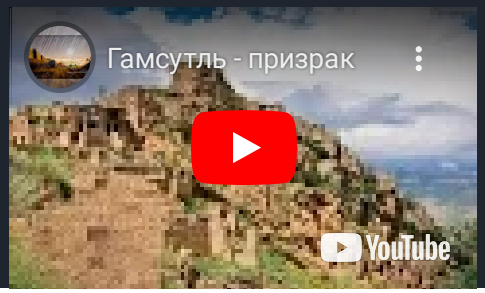
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

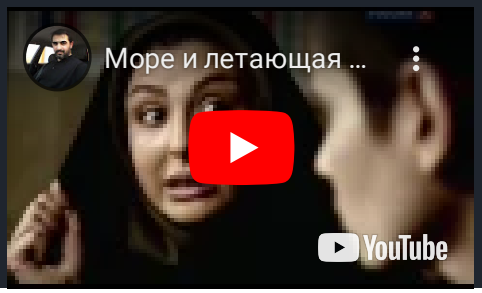
МЫСЛЬ

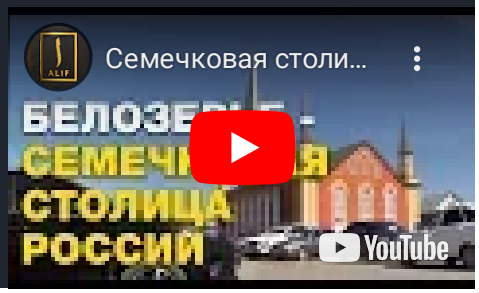
Был ли арабский Магриб французским изобретением?

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ



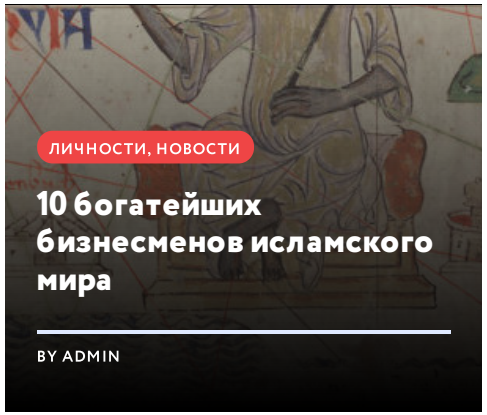




ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО

Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)



Семечковая столица России (видео)

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

ИСКУССТВО ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 29.06.2023 в 13:38

Говорящие барабаны йоруба

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

Говорящие барабаны, которые языком ритма и тонов способны имитировать человеческую речь, сыграли значительную роль в истории йоруба. На протяжении веков они служили эффективным средством коммуникации.

Йоруба – это западноафриканская этническая группа, населяющая в основном различные районы Нигерии, Бенина и Того. Ислам они начали принимать еще в XIV в. Большинство их сейчас является мусульманами (в основном, суннитами маликитского мазхаба), часть – христианами, а остальные придерживаются традиционных верований.

Говорящий барабан, языком ритма и тонов способный имитировать человеческую речь, – один из старейших музыкальных инструментов. Он используется многими африканскими народами, такими как канури, джерма, фулани, хауса, дагомба.

Как полагают, этот инструмент сыграл значительную роль в истории йоруба. Согласно преданиям, первым барабанщиком этого народа был Аянгалу. Он был практически обожествлен после своей кончины и считается духом-покровителем всех музыкантов, играющих на это инструменте. Само слово «Аян» на языке йоруба означает «барабанщик», и некоторые имена на этом языке, такие как Аянбиси, Аянгбаде, Аянтунде, Аянванде, содержат такую приставку.

Лента новостей

Новая униформа British Airways призвана представить «самое лучшее, что есть в современной Британии»
26.06.2023

Покорение небес: дубайский аэропорт аль-Мактум на пути к тому, чтобы стать крупнейшим в мире
19.06.2023

Новая песня Умм Кульсум, созданная с помощью искусственного интеллекта, вызвала споры в арабском мире
16.06.2023

Выставка «Горячие города: уроки арабской архитектуры»: как архитектура помогает справиться с изменением климата?
07.06.2023

Цитадели Салах ад-Дина в Сирии угрожает разрушение
28.04.2023

«Снежный Абу-Даби» откроет свои двери в июне
25.04.2023

«Новая Кааба»? Зачем Саудовская Аравия планирует построить гигантское кубическое в Эр-Рияде?
16.04.2023

Десяткам тысяч людей в Сомали грозит смерть из-за засухи, вызванной изменением климата 12.04.2023

protected by reCAPTCHA
Privacy - Terms

Говорящие барабаны йоруба отличаются особой красотой. Изготовленные из дерева определенных пород, они обычно имеют форму песочных часов. С обоих концов находится мембрана, натягиваемая нитями. Раньше ее делали из овечьей, козьей или говяжьей шкуры, а сейчас используют современные материалы.

В Нигерии правитель народа Йоруба принял мусульманский титул эмира.

Источник: Naija Biography

Многие африканские языки являются тональными, то есть высота звука важна для определения значения конкретного слова. На этом принципе и построена система передачи сообщений с помощью барабанов – при ударе они издают звук, имитирующий тон речи. Играют на них изогнутыми палками или пальцами, зажав подмышкой, а высоту звучания барабанщик регулирует, натягивая нити руками. Большие инструменты устанавливают на земле.

Со временем появилось множество вариантов говорящих барабанов, большинство из которых имеет ту же конструкцию, что и упомянутые выше. Они могут иметь одинарную мембрану или двойную и разные размеры в зависимости от происхождения и назначения. Например, барабан бата небольшой, его носят на шее, а играют на нем с помощью двух палочек, расположив на уровне груди. Еще один маленький инструмент подобного вида – ганган. Такие барабаны обычно издают приятный звук и могут иметь размеры от 8 до 14 см в диаметре. С другой стороны, йоруба использовали одни из самых больших говорящих барабанов из всех африканских – это лунна и дундун. Их длина обычно составляет 23-38 см, а диаметр – 10-18 см.

Говорящие барабаны в прежние времена являлись средством общения между племенами. С их помощью на большие расстояния передавали сообщения о коронациях, смертях, празднованиях и войнах. Барабаны также предупреждали и о приближающейся к деревне опасности. Они делали это быстрее, чем всадники, и поэтому они на протяжении веков служили эффективным средством коммуникации. Также этот инструмент используется на церемониальных мероприятиях, таких как свадьбы, похороны, частные мероприятия.

Ассортимент исламских игрушек появился в супермаркетах Великобритании в преддверии Рамадана
28.03.2023

В Саудовской Аравии состоялась мировая премьера документального фильма «Хиджра: по следам Пророка»
25.03.2023

В Мекке создан самый длинный в мире каллиграфический мурал
17.02.2023

Землетрясение в Турции и Сирии: исторические мечети и древние памятники превратились в руины
15.02.2023

Сокровища исламской цивилизации у мировых ворот в Мекку и Медину
21.01.2023

В Йезде проходит международный фестиваль рассказчиков
18.01.2023

В Турции открылась крупнейшая в Европе библиотека
17.01.2023

Подведение итогов: какие знаковые события произошли на Ближнем Востоке в 2022 году?
15.01.2023

Агбада – одежда мусульман Африки.

Источник: Wikipedia

Научиться играть на говорящем барабане – непростая задача, и требуются годы, чтобы стать мастером и передавать сообщения, понятные получателям. Только лучшие барабанщики могут заставить его говорить, модулируя высоту звука и захватывающим образом передавать его интерпретацию целых фраз.

Каждому инструменту присваивалось имя, которое, как считалось, помогало ему передавать сообщения и привлекало особую благосклонность предков. Подобно сложной азбуке Морзе или телеграфу, ритмы и удары барабана означают разные слова, но, чтобы избежать двусмысленности, они должны сопровождаться поясняющими предложениями. Поэтому даже короткие фразы часто становятся в восемь или десять раз длиннее. Например, простое сообщение «Тихая погода» может звучать так: «Буря не опускается, солнце находится в состоянии покоя, ветерок спокоен, небо не плачет», а «Возвращайся домой» – «Заставь свои ноги вернуться тем путем, которым они шли, заставь свои ноги вернуться тем путем, которым они шли, поставь свои ноги ниже, в деревне, которая принадлежит нам». Таким образом, сообщения часто звучали очень поэтично, но при этом следовало обеспечить ясность смысла.

Говорящие барабаны широко использовались африканскими сказителями – гриотами. На них они аккомпанировали, исполняя песни или рассказывая истории и басни. Йоруба разработали очень сложный жанр гриотской музыки, в основе которого лежит использование этого музыкального инструмента. Язык и литература барабанов в этой этнической группе были очень развиты, а игра на них, как правило, была специализированным и часто передаваемым по наследству занятием. Опытные барабанщики, владеющие общепринятой лексикой барабанного языка и литературы, часто состояли на службе у королевского двора. Кроме того, в прежние времена гриоты играли ту же роль, что глашатаи в средневековой Европе. Короли их отправляли в разные населенные пункты, чтобы огласить свою волю или сообщить какую-то весть.

Говорящий барабан и сейчас широко используется современными африканскими группами. У йоруба существует несколько разновидностей музыки, в которых он фигурирует. Например, это жанр фуджи.

Какаки – традиционный музыкальный инструмент, на котором играют в честь королей и султанов.

Исламосфера

ИСКУССТВО ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

комментарии 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

ИСКУССТВО

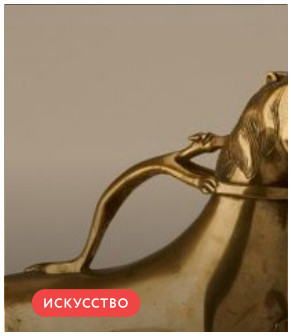
10 кинокартин об Афганистане

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

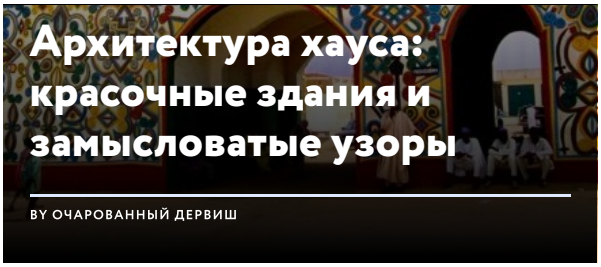
ИСКУССТВО

Акваманил: как сосуд из исламского мира стал церковной утварью

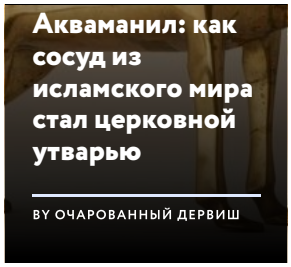
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



ИСКУССТВО

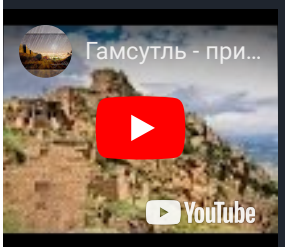


Группа Fanna-Fi-Allah несет суфийское послание Западу



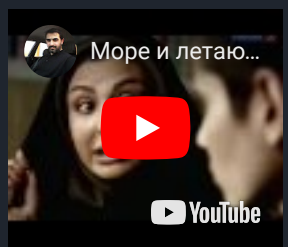
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

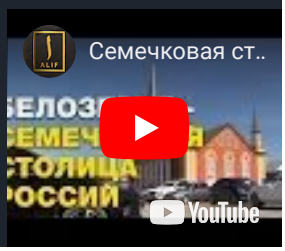
ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ



НАСЛЕДИЕ

ИСКУССТВО





ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО

Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)

Семечковая столица России (видео)

ЛИЧНОСТИ , НАСЛЕДИЕ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 01.09.2023 в 13:40

Легенда о правителе из Мали, отказавшемся от трона, чтобы исследовать Атлантический океан

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

Манса Абу Бакр II был правителем империи Мали в Западной Африке в период ее расцвета в XIV веке, сообщает сайт Ancient Origins.

В период своего расцвета империя Мали была богатейшей страной мира. Об этом можно судить хотя бы по тому факту, что Манса Муса, непосредственный преемник Абу Бакра II, считается самым богатым человек в истории. Отправившись в свой знаменитый хадж, этот правитель, находясь в Каире, поведал эмиру Ибн Амиру Хаджибу удивительную историю о том, что его предшественник отрекся от трона, чтобы исследовать Атлантический океан. От Ибн Амира Хаджиба ее услышал сирийский историк аль-Умари. Последний передает, что Манса Муса поведал: «Абубакар снарядил 200 кораблей, наполненных людьми, и столько же – золотом, водой и провизией, которых хватило бы им на годы … они ушли, и прошло много времени, прежде чем кто-либо вернулся. Затем вернулся один корабль, и мы спросили капитана, какие новости они привезли. Он сказал: «Да, о султан, мы путешествовали долгое время, пока в открытом море не появилась река с мощным течением … другие корабли пошли вперед, но когда они достигли того места, они не вернулись, и их больше не видели…Что касается меня, я сразу отправился в путь и не вошел в реку». Султан подготовил 2000 кораблей, 1000 для себя и людей, которых он взял с собой, и 1000 для воды и провизии. Он оставил меня своим заместителям и отправился в Атлантический океан со своими людьми. Это был последний раз, когда мы видели его и всех тех, кто был с ним. Итак, я стал королем по праву».

Малийский правитель открыл Америку задолго до Колумба?

Можно предположить, что целью этой истории было объяснить, как Манса Муса получил трон империи Мали, положив начало новой династии. Но она может быть и вполне достоверной, хотя подобный рассказ не встречается ни в одном другом африканском или арабском источнике, за исключением, возможно, устной традиции.

Преемником Абу Бакра II стал Манса Муса / Источник: Ancient Origins

Некоторые исследователи даже склонны считать, что Абу Бакр II не просто плавал «по» Атлантическому океану, а переплыл «через» него и достиг Северной и Южной Америки. Они приводят и доказательства в пользу своей точки зрения.

Например, утверждается, что некоторые названия на старых картах показывают, что Абу Бакр и его люди достигли Нового Света. Это такие названия, как порт Мандинга (в честь народа мандинка, проживающего в Мали), залив Мандинга и Сьерра-де-Мали.

Манса Муса: самый богатый человек в истории.

Другой аргумент заключается в том, что Колумб, прибыв в Америку, обнаружил там металлические изделия из Западной Африки. Согласно одному источнику, об этом сообщал сам Колумб. Другой источник утверждает, что химический анализ золотых наконечников копий, найденных этим мореплавателем в Америке, показал, что металл происходит, вероятно, из Западной Африки.

Малийцы (возможно с мансой Абубакаром II) встречаются с коренными жителями Америки / Источник: Pinterest

Также приводится множество других примеров предполагаемого малийского присутствия в Новом Свете, в том числе скелеты, надписи, здание, похожее на мечеть, лингвистические анализы и резные изображения, на которых, как утверждается, изображены малийцы. Однако такие доказательства не совсем убедительны, поскольку источники, их перечисляющие, не предоставляют дополнительной информации или ссылок в подтверждение своих заявлений.

10 самых известных чернокожих мусульман в истории.

Учитывая, что доказательства в пользу этого в лучшем случае неубедительны, а в худшем – вообще отсутствуют, кажется маловероятным, что Абу Бакр II достиг Нового Света. Тем не менее, история о его отречении от трона, чтобы отправиться исследовать Атлантический океан, является удивительной. Это можно сравнить с ситуацией, если бы какой-нибудь современный мировой лидер оставил должность, чтобы стать астронавтом.

Исламосфера

ЛИЧНОСТИ , НАСЛЕДИЕ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

комментарии 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

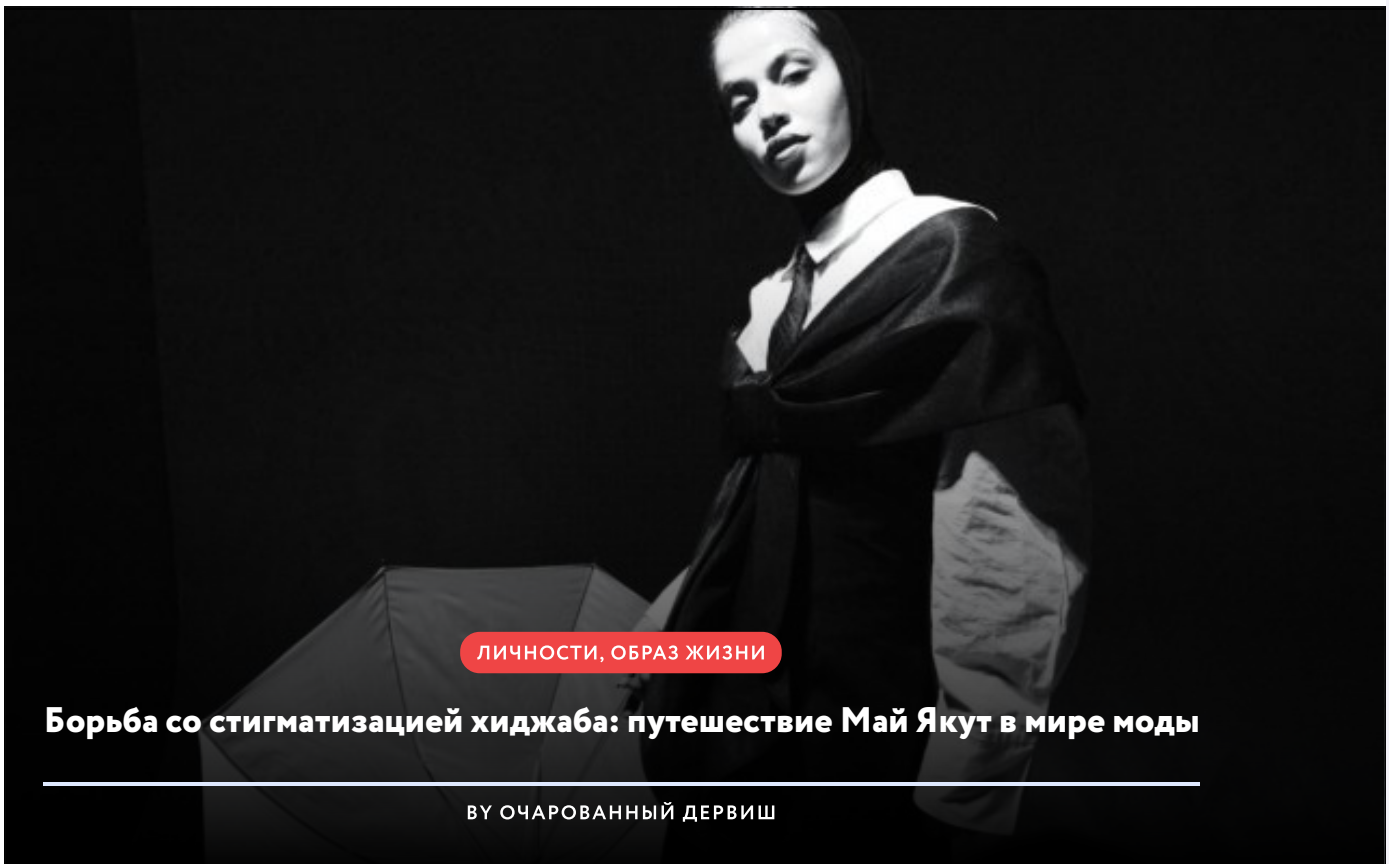
Дариуш Хосейни между абстракцией и реализмом

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ

Борьба со стигматизацией хиджаба: путешествие Май Якут в мире моды

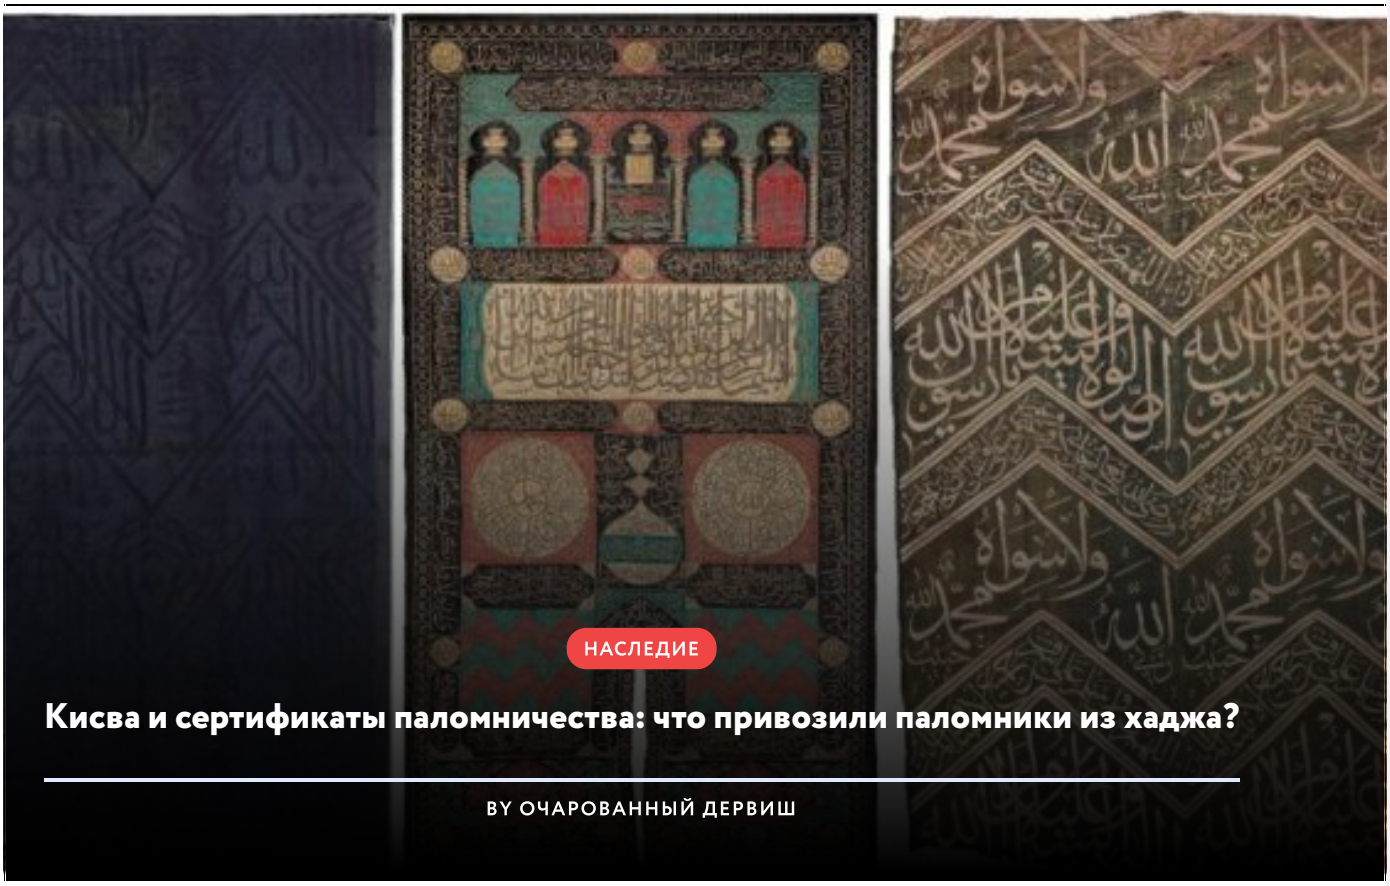
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



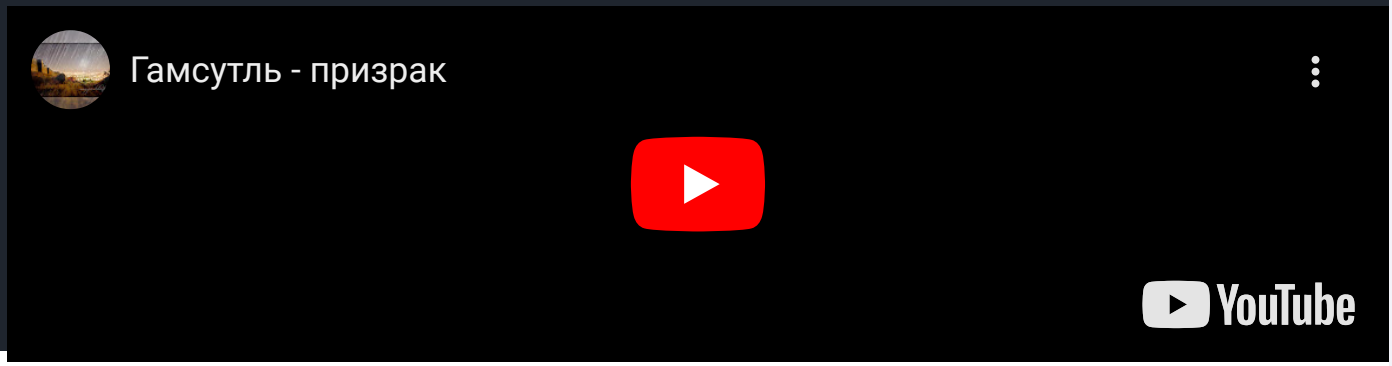
ЛИЧНОСТИ, ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ

Ахмад Набиль – «охотник за джиннами» из Иерусалима

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

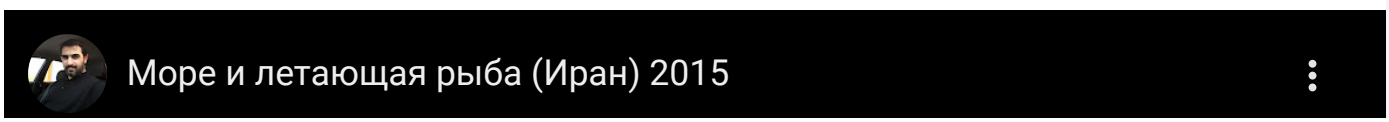


ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ

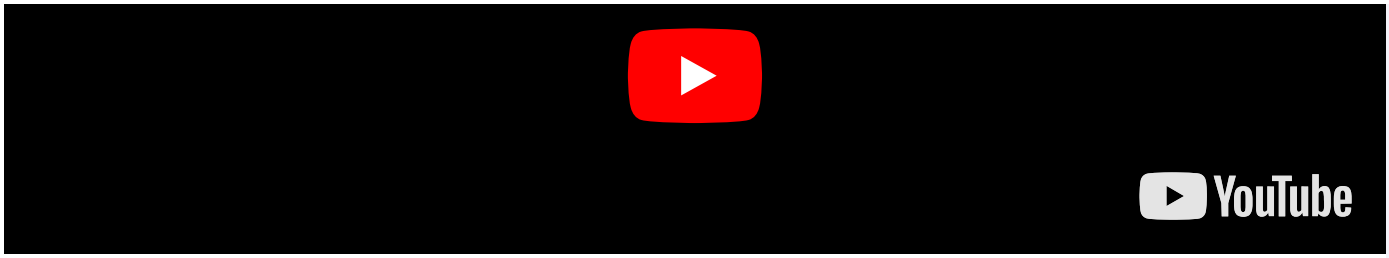


ЛИЧНОСТИ, ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ

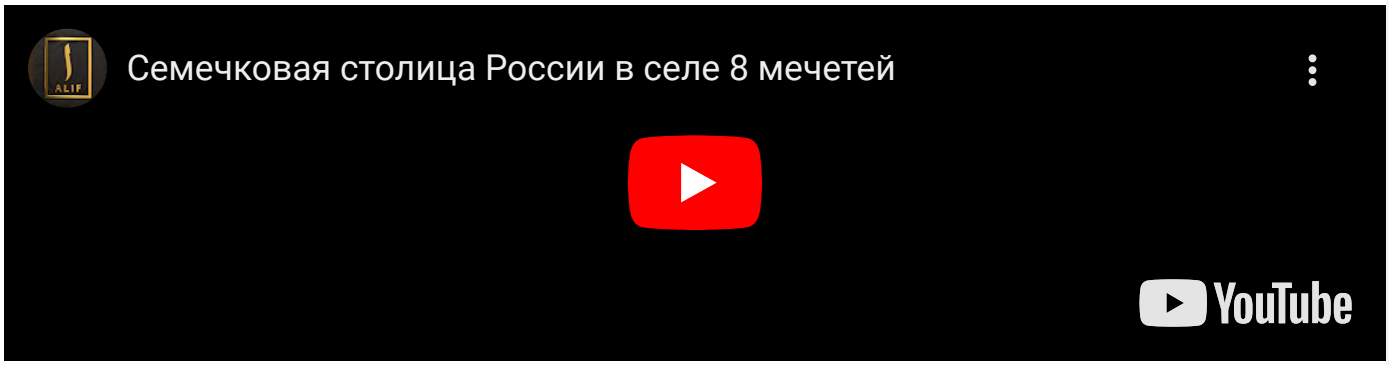
Борьба со стигматизацией хиджаба: путешествие Май Якут в мире моды



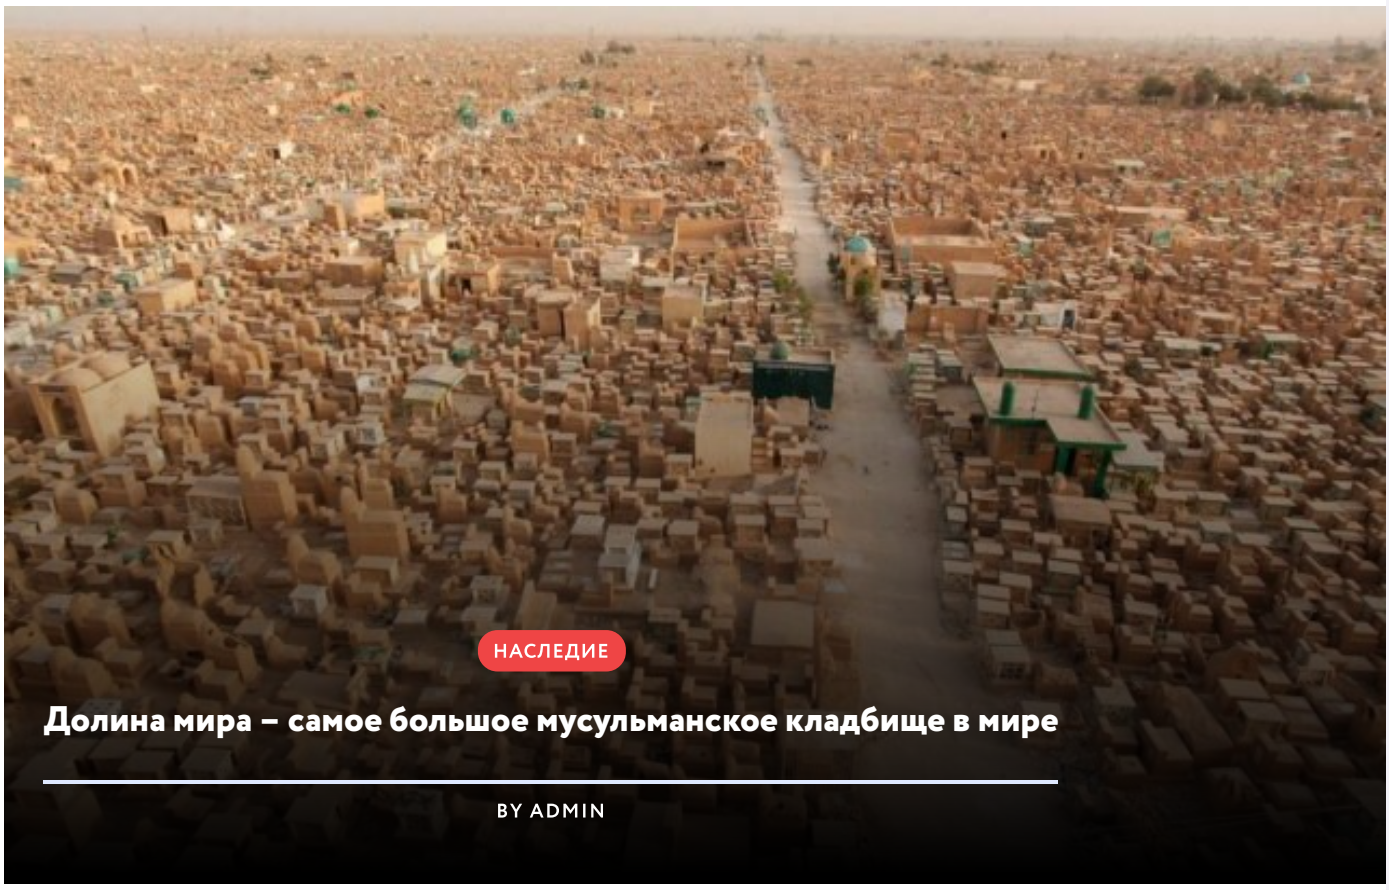
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

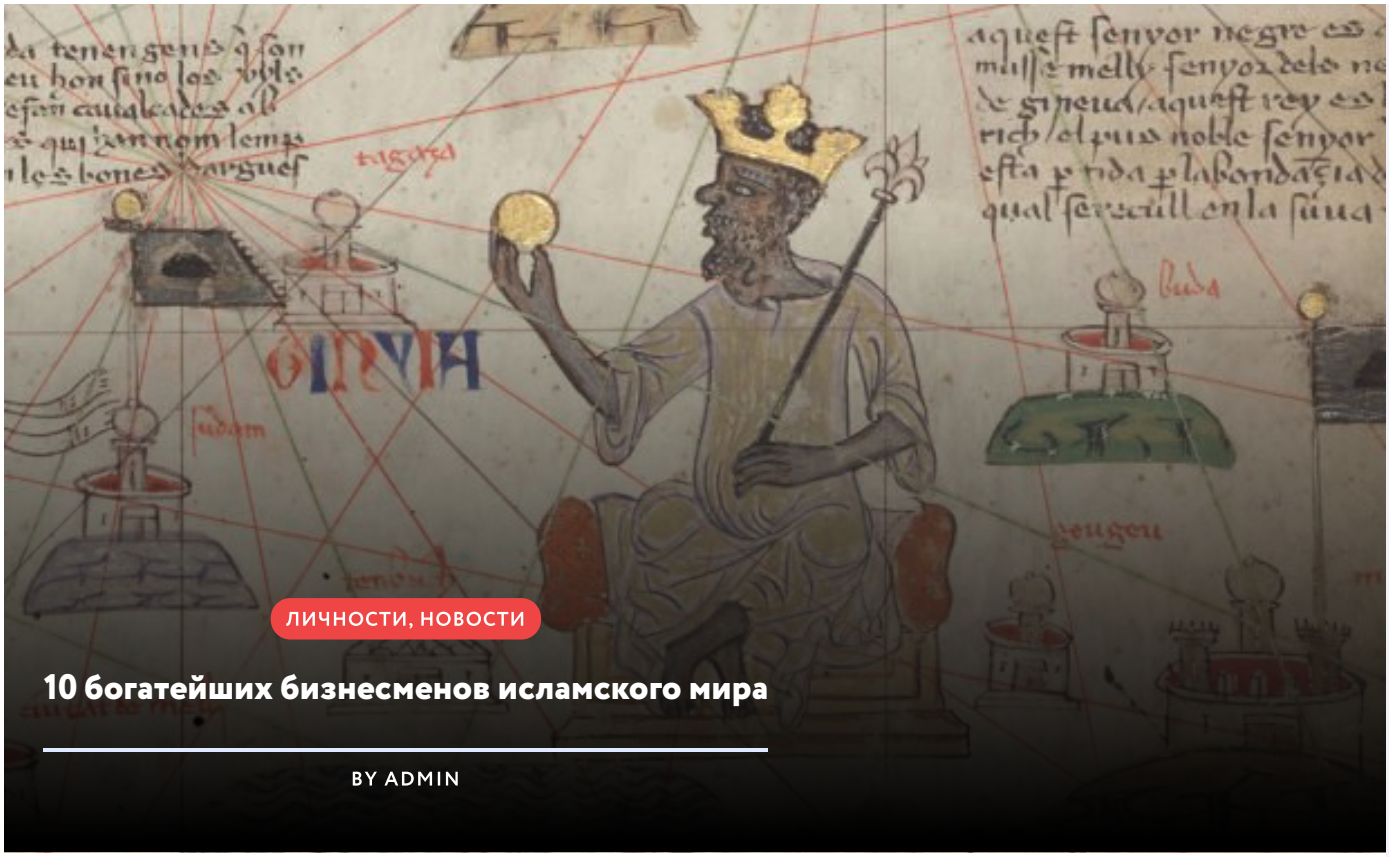


ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО



Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)





Море и летающая рыба (видео)

Семечковая столица России (видео)

ЛИЧНОСТИ, НОВОСТИ

10 богатейших бизнесменов исламского мира

BY ADMIN

Лента новостей

Театральный фестиваль «Паломничество Арбаина» пройдет в Иране и Ираке

17.08.2023

Водохранилища Ирака пересыхают: уровень воды достиг самых низких показателей за всю историю

04.08.2023

В Бухаре откроется первый в мире музей джадидизма

31.07.2023

По всему Ирану прошла акция «Ляббайк йа Куран»

28.07.2023

Новая униформа British Airways призвана представить «самое лучшее, что есть в современной Британии»

26.06.2023

Покорение небес: дубайский аэропорт аль-Мактум на пути к тому, чтобы стать крупнейшим в мире

19.06.2023

Новая песня Умм Кульсум, созданная с помощью искусственного интеллекта, вызвала споры в арабском мире

16.06.2023

Выставка «Горячие города: уроки арабской архитектуры»: как архитектура помогает справиться с изменением климата?

07.06.2023

Цитадели Салах ад-Дина в Сирии угрожает разрушение

28.04.2023

«Снежный Абу-Даби» откроет свои двери в июне

25.04.2023

«Новая Кааба»? Зачем Саудовская Аравия планирует построить гигантское кубическое здание в Эр-Рияде?

16.04.2023

Десяткам тысяч людей в Сомали грозит смерть из-за засухи, вызванной изменением климата

12.04.2023

Ассортимент исламских игрушек появился в супермаркетах Великобритании в преддверии Рамадана

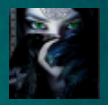
28.03.2023

В Саудовской Аравии состоялась мировая премьера документального фильма «Хиджра: по следам Пророка»

25.03.2023

В Мекке создан самый длинный в мире каллиграфический мурал

17.02.2023



Землетрясение в Турции и Сирии: исторические мечети и древние памятники превратились в руины

15.02.2023

Реклама
О сайте

18+

Конфиденциальность

Journeying to the Goddess

Journey with me as I research, rediscover and explore the Goddess in Her many aspects, forms and guises…

Hey there! Thanks for dropping by Journeying to the Goddess! Take a look around and grab the RSS feed to stay updated. See you around!

Goddess Ala

Filed under: Goddess Spirituality — 1 Comment

March 14, 2012

Search

Current Moon Phase

March 2012

M	T	W	T	F	S	S
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

Follow

PDFmyURL

"Ala's themes are luck, harvest, joy, cleansing, death and cycles. Her symbols are yams and the crescent moon. This West African earth-Goddess represents the full cycle of earth's seasons from birth to death, gently reminding us that spring is transitory – so enjoy it now! Serious crimes are an abhorrence to Ala, and the spirits of the dead go to Her womb to find rest. Votive candles are a suitable offering for this Goddess figure.

When you get up this morning, light any candle to welcome both Ala and spring. If possible, include yams in your dinner meal to internalize the joy and good fortune Ala brings with the warmer weather. Bless your yams by putting your hands (palms down) over them, focusing on your goals, and saying:

'Ala, be welcome
In this your sacred food, place the energy of happiness, luck and protection for the months ahead. So be it.'

« Feb Apr »

Recent Posts

Full Snow Moon – February
Full Wolf Moon – January
2014 – Year of the Horse
2013 in Review – Emerging from the Darkness
Full Cold Moon – December

Archives

February 2014
January 2014
December 2013
November 2013
October 2013
September 2013
August 2013
July 2013
June 2013
May 2013
April 2013
March 2013
February 2013
January 2013
December 2012
November 2012
October 2012
September 2012
August 2012
July 2012
June 2012
May 2012
April 2012
March 2012
February 2012
January 2012

Categories

The people of Ghana believe in celebrating the new year over thirteen days instead of one. During this time they dance to banish evil, honor their dead ancestors, encourage serendipity, and petition Ala for a good harvest season. Ala's shrines and other sacred places are bathed on the last day of festivities to wash away the old, along with bad memories. For us this equates to dusting off our altars, bathing any god or Goddess images we have, and generally cleansing away old energies so Ala can refresh us."

(Patricia Telesco, "365 Goddess: a daily guide to the magic and inspiration of the goddess".)

Ala (also known as Ani, Ana, Ale, and Ali in varying Igbo dialects) is the Earth Mother Goddess; female Alusi (deity) of the earth, morality, death, and fertility in Odinani. She is the most important Alusi in the Igbo pantheon. The Igbo people of Nigeria call Her the mother of all things, but She is both the fertile earth and the empty field after the harvest. She is present at the beginning of the cycle of life, making children grow in their mother's womb, and She is there at the end of the cycle, to receive the souls of the dead into Her own womb. Her name literally translates to 'Ground' in the Igbo language, denoting Her powers over the earth and Her status as the ground itself. Ala is considered the highest Alusi in the Igbo pantheon and was the first Alusi, daughter of Chukwu, the supreme god. Ala's husband is Amadioha, the sky god.

"Ala" by saiaii

As the Goddess of morality, Ala is involved in judging human actions and is in charge of Igbo law and customs known as 'Omenala'. Taboos and crimes among Igbo communities that are against the standard of Ala are called nsọ Ala. Army ants, who serve the Goddess, attack those who break such rules. But first, they appear in nightmares so that the wrongdoer might rectify his behavior. All ground is considered 'Holy land' as it is Ala herself. With human fertility, Ala is credited for the productivity of land. Ala's messenger and living agent on earth is the python (Igbo: éké), it is and animal especially revered in many Igbo communities. [1][2]

Celtic Moon Months
Goddess Spirituality Moons
Pagan Blog Project
Spiritual Nomad
The Druid Experience
Uncategorized

Meta

Register
Log in Entries feed
Comments feed
WordPress.com

Journeying to the Goddess

Journey and follow with me via email!

Enter your email address to follow this blog and receive notifications of new posts by email.

Email Address

Follow

Join 1,767 other subscribers

Blogs I Follow

feminismandreligion.wordpress.com/crdmwritingroad
Moody Moons

"Ala's shrine is at the center of a village, people offer sacrifices at planting, first fruits, and harvest. In the Owerri region, building called Mbari honor the Goddess. They are never occupied, the ritual of building being more important than the structure. The square Mbari are filled with painted figures of Ala, who balances a child on Her knees while she brandishes a sword and is surrounded by the images of other gods and animals. Due to poverty and war, Mbari are built less frequently and are smaller than in the past." [3]

Please visit Sisters in Celebration to read a beautiful earth healing ritual to Ala.

Sources:

37thState Blog, "Ala – Igbo Earth Mother Goddess".

Monaghan, Patricia. Encyclopedia of Goddesses and Heroines, "Ala".

Wikipedia, "Ala (Odinani)".

Suggested Links:

Freya. Goddess School, "Ala".

Goddess-Guide.com, "Fertility Goddesses and Goddesses of Pregnancy and Childbirth".

Wise. Odinani: The Sacred Arts & Sciences of the Igbo People, "Honoring Your Ancestors".

Nicole Evelina - USA Today Bestselling Author

Eternal Haunted Summer

Whispers of Yggdrasil

Sleeping Bee Studio

Pagan at Heart

mandalaproject.wordpress.com/

McGlaun Massage Therapy, LLC

TheVikingQueen

Seven Trees Farm

wemarriage's Blog | Meanderings Through Life

The World According to Hazey

Migdalit Or

Of Axe and Plough

womenriseupnow.wordpress.com/

A Magical Childhood

Walking the Druid Path

body divine yoga

The Slavic Polytheist

Joyous Woman! with Sukhvinder Sircar

The Raven's Knoll Quork

Journeying to the Goddess

witchery

Rune Wisdom

Sarenth Odinsson

Stone of Destiny

1000 petals by axinia

Pagan Activist

Sea Dreams and Other Queer Things

Full Moon Galactivations

Flame in Bloom

Golden Trail

The Druid's Well

Georgia Heathen Society's Blog

art and healing Blog

My Moonlit Path.....

Share this:

Twitter Facebook

Loading...

Goddess Inna
June 24, 2012
In "Goddess Spirituality"

Goddess Yemaja
February 10, 2012
In "Goddess Spirituality"

Goddess Takel
December 29, 2012
In "Goddess Spirituality"

Tags: african mythology, ala, birth, cleansing, crescent moon, cycles, death, earth, fertility, goddess, harvest, igbo, joy, luck, mother, nigeria, rebirth, yams

Comments RSS feed

1 Trackback or Pingback for this entry:

Goddess Inna « Journeying to the Goddess
[…] I could find no information on Inna other than that She is an African Goddess of Justice. [1] I found one Goddess by the name of Aha-Njoku (also called the "Lady of Yams), worshipped by the Igbo people of Nigeria, who oversees the growth and harvesting of yams and the women who care for them. [2] Perhaps a minor local deity or spirit? Or Perhaps somehow related to Goddess Ala? […]

Leave a Reply

Enter your comment here...

« Goddess Nerthus

Anna Perenna »

Raising Natural Kids
Her Breath
Philip Carr-Gomm
The Witch of Howling Creek
The Northern Grove
The Belle Jar
My great Wordpress blog
The Witch of Forest Grove star & stone
WoodsPriestess
Waincraft
The Goddess of Sacred Sex

Organic Consumers Association

Campaigning for health, justice, sustainability, peace and democracy

Pesticide Action Network

Pesticide Action Network and Beyond Pesticides have partnered to protect honey bees from pesticides, and we invite you to join us.

Networked Blogs

NetworkedBlogs

Blog:
Journeying to the Goddess

Topics:
Goddess, Pagan, Feminine Spirituality

Follow my blog

Pagan Blog Hop

Spiritual Nomad

I am a Spiritual Nomad

Be a Shame-free Blogger!

RAINN

RAINN: The nation's largest anti-sexual violence organization. One of "America's 100 Best Charities" - Worth magazine

Wipeout Homophobia on Facebook

NEVER confuse HATE speech with free speech - HATE SPEECH KILLS!

Stop Bullying

StopBullying.gov provides information from various government agencies on how kids, teens, young adults, parents, educators and others in the community can prevent or stop bullying. If you or someone you know is being bullied, get help.

Friends & links

- Discuss
- Get Inspired
- Get Polling
- Get Support

Pages

- About

Monthly archives

- February 2014
- January 2014
- December 2013
- November 2013

- Learn WordPress.com
- Theme Showcase
- WordPress Planet
- WordPress.com News

- October 2013

[Back to top]

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

eklablog Connexion : Pseudo Mot de passe OK Créer mon blog Créer mon compte

MK-Polls

Contrôle mental - Abus rituels - Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité - Mk ultra - Monarch

Liste de PDF

Continuer sans accepter →

eklablog

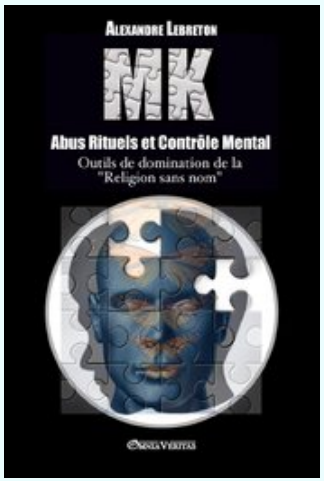
Avec votre accord, nos partenaires et nous utilisons des cookies ou technologies similaires pour stocker et accéder à des informations personnelles comme votre visite sur ce site. Vous pouvez retirer votre consentement ou vous opposer aux traitements basés sur l'intérêt légitime à tout moment en cliquant sur "En savoir plus" ou dans notre politique de confidentialité sur ce site.

Avec nos partenaires, nous traitons les données suivantes :
Données de géolocalisation précises et identification par analyse du terminal, Publicités et contenu personnalisés, mesure de performance des publicités et du contenu, données d'audience et développement de produit, Stocker et/ou accéder à des informations sur un terminal

En savoir plus → Accepter & Fermer

Si le scandale vient de la vérité, il faut supporter le scandale plutôt qu'abandonner la vérité

Saint Grégoire le Grand



Rechercher

Choisir le mois

- Interview de Marc Toussaint et Xavier Rossey - 2010
- Interview Patriek De Baets - Marc Dutroux et Michel Nihoul : LE SABOTAGE DE L'ENQUÊTE
- Marc Toussaint - Dossier Secrets d'États - Novembre 2010
- Procès verbaux et auditions de l'affaire DUTROUX

PDFmyURL

- ➤ Alexandre Lebreton
- ➤ Contact
- ➤ Chaîne YouTube
- ➤ Twitter
- ➤ Pedopolis.com

MK : Le Livre

FM & SCHIZO

- Gabriele Amorth: Confessions "Mémoires de l'exorciste officiel du Vatican"
- Le Père Brune: Extrait de "Le Christ autrement" (sectes sataniques)
- Trance-Formation of America (Cathy O'Brien) - VO
- Thanks for the memories (Brice Taylor) - VO
- How the illuminati create an undectable total mind control slave (Fritz Springmeier) - VO
- Deeper insights the illuminati formula (Fritz Springmeier) - VO
- Be Wise as Serpents (Fritz Springmeier) - VO
- Glossaire: Trouble de la personnalité
- 8 PDF de témoignages sur l'abus rituel et le mind-control "Survivants des illuminati" (zip)
- L'exposé GREENBAUM (mind-control)
- Dr Salmona: Violence sexuelle et dissociation
- Psychotrauma chez l'enfant
- Lignes directrices pour le traitement du Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité chez l'adulte (2011)
- Dissociative Disorders in DSM-5 - VO
- L'intégralité du journal officiel de l'International Society for the Study of Trauma and Dissociation (ISSTD) publié entre 1988 et 1997

Lectures MK

Abus Rituels et Contrôle Mental

État des lieux sur une réalité dont on ne parle pas

Les témoignages

interviews, vidéos...

- Bref historique sur les abus rituels/traumatismes et de leurs conséquences sur les victimes
- Les abus rituels en 13 questions
- Abus rituels et exploitation des enfants au Royaume-Uni
- Rapport d'un groupe de travail sur l'abus rituel et le contrôle mental (1989)
- Ritual Abuse (Svali) - VO
- Les chroniques de Svali
- Abus Rituels et Mind-Control (Magazine Nexus 2007)
- Les Sociétés Secrètes, leurs crimes depuis les initiés d'Isis jusqu'aux francs-maçons modernes
- Kim Noble: Le monde du mind-control à travers les yeux d'une artiste ayant 13 personnalités
- Interview de l'artiste peintre Lynn Shirmer (Abus rituel/Mind-control)
- Conférence retranscite de Lynn Shirmer
- Interview de Lynn Moss-Sharman (Abus rituel/Mind-control)
- Muriel Salmona: "La victime, c'est le coupable" - 2011
- Muriel Salmona: "Violence envers les femmes et les filles, fléau mondial" - 2010
- Muriel Salmona: "Violence sexuelle et situation paradoxale de dépendance à l'agresseur liée à la mémoire traumatique - 2008

Les Abus Rituels

Le Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité (T.D.I.)

L'Amnésie Traumatique Dissociative

- Muriel Salmona: "Conséquence des troubles psychotraumatiques et leurs mécanismes neurobiologiques sur la prise en charge médicale et judiciaire des victimes - 2009
- Muriel Salmona: "Propositions pour améliorer la prise en charge et le soin des victimes de violences sexuelles - 2010
- Affaire KAREN MULDER (!)
- Ministres et pédophilie !
- Procès verbaux et dépositions dans l'affaire Dutroux (1235 pages non censurées)
- Juge Langlois: La trahison
- La lettre de Mahieu au président de la Cour d'Assise d'Arlon (Daneels et snuff-film)
- Au-delà de l'affaire Dutroux: Les dossiers X
- Le livre noir de la psychanalyse (Vivre, penser et aller mieux sans Freud)
- Patrick Dupuis: "Les ravages de l'abus sexuel" (Nexus - 2012)
- Dossier Janett Seemann
- Rapport exclusif du CIDE (Suisse) sur la pédocriminalité, notamment en France
- Rapport accablant de l'ONU sur la pédocriminalité en France - 2003 (Juan Manuel Petit)
- Pédocriminalité en France - Lettre à l'ONU de Fabienne Amyot (2012)
- Protocole des ignobles en robes noires (Stan Maillaud)
- "Le Crapouillot" - Les pédophiles

- Dossier de presse de l'affaire Sandrine Chastan
- Mini-Miss... Un jeux d'enfants ?
- Témoignage de Nathalie W. (Affaire Dutroux)
- Affaire Kalinka

- Sur la piste des abuseurs d'enfants, Dutroux: Les témoins décédés
- Albert Mahieu (Dutroux)
- Lettre aux députés et membres du Sénat Belge
- Renseignez-vous !
- Treating ritual abuse survivors

MK-Ultra

- The Egyptian Masonic-Satanic Connection
- 2002 Campion-Renard "Rumeurs d'aujourd'hui"
- Aaron Swartz a-t-il été assassiné par un réseau pédo-satanique ?
- Sur la piste des abuseurs d'enfants: Dutroux, les témoins décédés (ZDF 30/01/2001)
- Patrieck de Baets: Dutroux et Nihoul - le sabotage de l'enquête
- BOÎTE À PANDORE - Paul Emile Charlton
- Confession d'un pédophile: L'infiltrage du web

MK-Monarch

Franc-maçonnerie et Schizophrénie

Dr Jekyll & Mr Hyde

Trauma & connexion aux autres dimensions

- Les réseaux pédocriminels en Belgique avant l'affaire Dutroux
- De la victime à la prospérité
- "Du sang sur l'autel" - Extrait
- Lettre ouverte de Fabienne Amyot au député Étienne Blanc
- Guide de la protection judiciaire de l'enfant
- L'orgueil, suprême défense, journal d'un survivant
- PV de police sur la secte satanique Abrasax (mise en cause dans l'affaire dutroux)
- Archive "Le Bouclier": LAXISME DE LA LUTTE
- Les sociétés secrètes
- Confessions (Gabriele Amorth) - Extraits
- Le credo sabbataïste-frankiste
- Occultisme et sociétés secrètes au XXIème Siècle
- Rapport d'autopsie de Julie et Mélissa (affaire Dutroux) (sans photos)
- Rapport Rajani (2004)
- Examen critique du Syndrôme d'Aliénation Parentale (SAP)
- Fabienne Amyot: Lettre ouverte - Sommation auprès de l'ONU

TDI &MK
La Rétrospective

NOYAU DUR

ARCHIVES

➤ Liste de PDF

➤ Que cache la pédocriminalité ?
➤ Ce monde occulte et caché que les médias "ignorent"
➤ Pourquoi une telle impunité ? (vidéo synthèse)
➤ Rapport Task Force (1989)

- Dissociative Disorder in DSM-5
- "Pas si fou", un schizophrène se raconte
- Témoignage de Svali - Ex illuminati
- Lignes directrices pour le traitement du trouble dissociatif de l'identité chez l'adulte
- Psychodynamique des abus rituels
- Interview de Anna A Jonhson "Hell Minus One" (abus rituels sataniques)
- Nursery Sexual Abuse in Day Care - 1988 David Finkelhor
- Ritual Child Abuse - 1991 Pamela Hudson
- Breaking the Circle of Satanic Ritual Abuse - 1992 Daniel Ryder
- A Mother's Story - 1997 Joy Bander
- Kathleen Sullivan - Unshackled: a Survivors Story of Mind Control
- CIA-and-Project-Monarch-Full-History-Ron-Patton
- Tracy Twyman Mind Controlled Sex Slaves and the CIA
- The Encyclopedia of Mind Control
- Ellen P. Lacter: Ritual Abuse and Torture Based Mind Control
- Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation Syndrome

- ➤ Occult Crime : A Law Enforcement Primer (1990)
- ➤ Investigator's Guide - Ritual Abuse (1992)
- ➤ Ritual Crime in Utah (1995)
- ➤ Rapport ONU (2003)
- ➤ Rapport ASCA (2006)
- ➤ Rapport du CIDE (2012)
- ➤ Glossaire
- ➤ Programmation basée sur les traumatismes - Synthèse
- ➤ L'exposé Greenbaum
- ➤ Nexus: Abus rituels et MK
- ➤ Nexus: Pédocriminalité
- ➤ Nexus: Les ravages de l'abus sexuel
- ➤ MK: du simple au complexe
- ➤ Considération de médecine légale sur les cas de traumas rituels
- ➤ Psychodynamique des abus rituels
- ➤ Le Sacrifice Vivant
- ➤ Conférence "Mind-Control hors de contrôle"
- ➤ Piqûre de RAPPEL : une trentaine de témoins ont été assassinés dans l'affaire DUTROUX
- ➤ SNUFF MOVIES : Légende urbaine ou réalité ?
- ➤ BEST OF Elise Lucet - Zapping sur le débat télévisuel du siècle!
- ➤ Pourquoi le déni sociétal face au pédo-satanisme ?

- The BASK Model - Dissociation
- Project MKULTRA, The CIA's Program Of Research In Behavioral Modification
- Svali: Surmonter le déni
- La "Chirurgie Magique" et la formation du monde intérieur
- Svali: Qu'est-ce que l'Ordre Illuminati ?
- Svali: Les racines européennes des illuminati
- Terror, trauma and the eye in the triangle: The Masonic presence....
- Contrôle mental: du simple au complexe
- "Disparues" - Extrait du livre de Karl Zéro
- Liste de membres présumés d'un réseau pédo-satanique anglais
- Les Troubles Dissociatifs (Dr Olivier Piedfort Marin)
- Kinsey Crimes & Consequences - Judith Ann Riseman
- Kinsey sex and fraud - Judith Ann Riseman
- The Watchtower and the Masons - fritz Springmeier
- Interview du Dr Colin Ross (mind-control, mk-ultra, greenbaum, paperclip.....)
- La mafia française, ses méthodes, ses réseaux (Bruno Mercier)

➤ Magie sexuelle et sociétés secrètes
➤ La Thérapie Fabian
➤ Le contrôle de la descendance...
➤ La technologie noire : psychotronique et contrôle mental des masses ➤ Phénomènes OVNI, abductions et pédocriminalité ritualisée/contrôle mental ➤ Programmation des enfants chez les Z'ummites et les Z'élites....
➤ À propos du démon...
➤ Comment la magie noire est utilisée dans le contrôle mental - Fiction ou réalité ?
➤ Dévoilement du Pédo-satanisme : Courage à tous les '100ème Singes'
➤ Beyond the Dutroux affair
➤ Team ARGOS

⏩ Troubles de la personnalité
➤ Glossaire
➤ Les Troubles Dissociatifs
➤ Le Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité (TDI) - Personnalité multiple ➤ Amnésie Traumatique et IRM cérébrale : preuves en images
➤ "La guerre de la mémoire" : amnésie dissociative VS faux souvenirs
➤ La dure réalité de l'amnésie traumatique et de ces vrais souvenirs

- La Thérapie Fabian
- Considérations de médecine légale sur les cas de traumas rituels
- Les Piliers de la Traîtrise - Elisabeth Silva
- Étude de la pédopornographie sur le net (2000 - 2010)
- PEC: "Lettre ouverte aux familles de victimes d'enlèvements ou de disparitions inquiétantes"
- Operation Mind-Control - Walter Bowart
- Investigative Issues in Ritual Abuse Cases - Civia Tamarkin
- Billy Milligan, l'homme aux 24 personnalités
- La schizophrénie peut-elle être dissociative ?
- Programmed to Kill - David Mc Gowan
- Svali speaks
- Traitement du désordre de la personnalité multiple
- Hypnotisme et double conscience
- Le cas Louis Vivet (TDI)
- Beyond the Dutroux Affair
- Bloodlines of the illuminati

- ➤ Inceste, Troubles Dissociatifs et Amnésie Traumatique
- ➤ Trouble de la Personnalité Limite (Borderline)
- ➤ L'état de stress post traumatique (ESPT)
- ➤ Violence initiale et mémoire traumatique
- ➤ Archive intégrale du Journal "Trauma & Dissociation"
- ➤ Les traumatismes dans l'enfance marquent l'ADN et le cerveau
- ➤ Muriel Salmona - "Violence et soins" - Un scandale dans notre pays !
- ➤ La psychopathie
- ➤ Les pervers narcissiques
- ➤ L'hypersensibilité
- ➤ Le génie des bipolaires
- ➤ "Schizophrénie", "Voix dans la tête" et maltraitance antérieure
- ➤ "Des voix dans la tête" (documentaire 2015)
- ➤ Dédoublement de la personnalité et schizophrénie : deux troubles distincts
- ➤ "Récupération de l'âme" et chamanisme
- ➤ Dissociation / Décorporation (((extase))) dans la Mystique Kabbaliste
- ➤ Carl Gustave Jung, fils et petit fils de Francs-maçons, a-t-il subi des abus rituels traumatiques ?

- Psychotrauma chez l'enfant
- Dissociation structurelle de la personnalité et trauma
- Souvenirs traumatiques - leur traitement....
- Dissociation structurelle de la personnalité
- Archive intégrale du journal "Trauma & Dissociation"
- Ritual Abuse: An European Cross-Country Perspective
- Multiple Personality Disorder - Demons and Angels or Archetypal aspects of the inner self

⏩ Art et Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité

➤ La Galerie du Lapin Blanc
➤ Kim Noble
➤ Décryptage du tableau 'Seven Level' de Kim Noble
➤ Lynn Schirmer
➤ DIDiva & The Mad Machines

➤ "TEENLAND"
➤ "INSIDE"
➤ IN-SHADOW - A Modern Odyssey
➤ I, Pet Goat II

⏩ Industrie du divertissement

➤ Super-athlètes sous contrôle mental ➤ Corey Feldman "La pédophilie est le pire problème à Hollywood"
➤ Jon Robberson sur la nature luciférienne et pédocriminelle de l'industrie Hollywoodienne
➤ Marilyn Monroe
➤ Affaire Karen Mulder
➤ Mylène Farmer et les Troubles Dissociatifs & Amnésies Traumatiques (MK?)
➤ Michael Jackson, l'éternel enfant du "Pays Imaginaire"
➤ Anna Nicole Smith et son alter de petite fille
➤ Lady GAGA
➤ Angelina Jolie
➤ Marilyn Manson

➤ Roseanne Barr
➤ Candy Jones
➤ Amanda Bynes
➤ Lindsay Lohan, Britney Spears et MK
➤ Tila Tequila
➤ L'industrie Disney et le MK
➤ Quand Joan Baez chantait les abus rituels sataniques sur un plateau TV français
➤ Quentin Tarantino et le Mind-Kontrol
➤ La série Ally MacBeal expose le MK-Monarch et le TDI
➤ Le TDI dans la série "Lie To Me"
➤ La soeur de Mariah Carey dénonce le pédosatanisme intrafamilial
➤ Dr Colin Ross: Lady Gaga, Britney Spears, Mel Gibson et personnalité multiple ➤ Beyoncé et sa double personnalité : son alter Sasha ➤ Nicki Minaj et sa personnalité alter "Roman"
➤ Le Pass V.I.P. pour Hollywood : Le Trouble Bipolaire
➤ BHL dissocié/fractionné et multiple ?
➤ ⚠️ L'industrie Luciférienne à 360 clichés !! (juste un aperçu)
➤ La sous-culture luciférienne dans l'industrie de la mode

➤ Marc Jacobs: "Gestionnaire d'esclaves MK illuminati"
➤ Le très étrange défilé GUCCi hiver 2018 par Alessandro Michele - Luciférisme
➤ DOLLHOUSE: La série avec des poupées MK
➤ АNИA la Poupée Russe ou la symbolique du Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité
➤ Selena Gomez et le téléfilm Disney "Brain Zapped"
➤ Hollywood et l'exploitation du bétail humain
➤ Les Lolitas MK françaises
➤ Charlotte Gainsbourg...
➤ Agnès Soral et la "secte sexuelle" VIP
➤ Johnny Depp multiple ? Son alter-ego violent : "Le Monstre"... et ses démons intérieurs ➤ Mel Gibson et sa personnalité alter "Bjorn"....
➤ Sia Furler révèle la personnalité multiple de son père et sa propre "bipolarité" (2014)
➤ Billie Eilish et propagande Luciférienne
➤ Lupin III, Fujiko Mine : une série japonaise 100% MK-Monarch
➤ World War Demons : un manga très malsain basé sur les troubles dissociatifs

➤ The Who "Four Faces" (quatre visages) - T.D.I.
➤ Julien Doré et Pamela Anderson dans "Le Lac" - Une référence au contrôle mental ?
➤ "La vilaine Lulu" de Yves Saint-Laurent - La BD choc d'initiation au satanisme ➤ Pierre Bergé adepte de magie sexuelle et de contrôle mental ➤ Débunkage : Tool "Prison Sex" Monarch
➤ #JEREMSTARGATE : La connexion avec Bernard Alapetite (Affaire ADO 71 - Pédopornographie)
➤ Les comic books
➤ Le Magicien d'Oz
➤ Une poupée MK dans un monde de brutes : Melanie Martinez K-12
➤ Marie Mai : Je décolle (enchaînée au sol) - Dissociative State Edit
➤ Analyse de quelques clips blockbusters explicites
➤ Playlist: clips MK-Ultra/Monarch

⏩ Reportages / Investigations
➤ Viols d'enfants: la fin du silence (2000)
➤ Snuff-Movies et Messes noires en France
➤ "Vivre l'enfer" Abus rituels en Allemagne (2003)

➤ Château de Wewelsburg, abus rituels, sacrifices et héritage du 3ème Reich
➤ "Passé sous silence" - Témoin X1: Régina Louf
➤ Les dossiers X - Affaire Dutroux
➤ Dutroux et les témoins morts - ZDF 2001
➤ Satanisme et personnalité multiple "In Satan's Name" (UK)
➤ Extrait de "Sexzwang": Pédocriminalité, sectes, abus rituels sataniques, snuff-films...
➤ Les Réseaux de l'Horreur - Stan Maillaud
➤ Zandvoort: Le fichier de la honte (Karl Zéro)
➤ Conspiracy of Silence (VOSTFR)
➤ Scientologie, CIA, MIVILUDES & Sectes hyper-violentes
➤ Dénonciation de l'inquisition pédocriminelle - Stan Maillaud
➤ "Une justice parallèle" - Trafic d'influence et réseau maçonnique
➤ Les cobayes de la CIA - MK-Ultra (2017)
➤ Un village empoisonné par la CIA ? MK-Ultra
➤ Les énigmes de l'histoire : Frank Olson et la CIA
➤ Guerre sur ordonnance (Drogues et MK-Ultra)

➤ Les techniques de contrôle mental de la CIA (ABC News - 1979 VOSTFR)
➤ Des autochtones canadiens soumis au MK-Ultra ? "Unrepentant"
➤ Erreur d'Identité (BBC2 1999 VOSTFR)
➤ Snuff - A documentary about killing on camera (extrait VOSTFR)
➤ Affaire Dutroux: La retrospective 2012
➤ "Child of Rage" (Enfant de la rage) VOSTFR
➤ Dissociation/possession chez une fillette ? L'histoire de Marie-Claude
➤ Outreau, l'autre vérité - Serge Garde 2013
➤ Retour à Outreau - Synthèse des conférences de Jacques Thomet 2013
➤ Viols sur mineurs : mon combat contre l'oubli - Flavie Flament 2017
➤ Femmes pédophiles : l'ultime tabou
➤ Inceste: familles empoisonnées
➤ Silence brisé
➤ Chasseur de Pédos - Extrait VOSTFR
➤ Alfred Kinsey, pédophilie et révolution sexuelle
➤ Les zones d'ombres de l'affaire Dutroux
➤ "Au fond Dutroux" (1997) - Immersion dans le pays de

Charleroi
➤ Dans l'exercice de leur fonction (Patrick De Baets - Affaire Dutroux)
➤ Affaire du juge Bernard Borrel "suicidé par assassinat"
➤ Qui a tué le gendarme Jambert ? (Affaire de l'Yonne)
➤ Les Mystères du gendarme Jambert (2017)
➤ Les Torturées d'Appoigny : Les amis politiques de Claude Dunand ne sont pas inquiétés ?
➤ Pédocriminalité : la cavale d’une mère avec sa fille !
➤ Soirée THEMA "Crimes d'incestes"
➤ Inceste, que justice soit faite / briser la loi du silence
➤ Démentèlement d'un réseau pédocriminel sur internet - Opération KOALA
➤ Enfants placés : les sacrifiés de la République
➤ Pédophilie dans le sport : L'OMERTA
➤ Hypnose, mentalisme : Peut-on contrôler notre esprit ? (Extrait)
➤ La Face Cachée Du Diable (2016)
➤ Tavistock : la dictature sans larmes
➤ Traumatismes transgénérationnels (ARTE 2017)

➤ "Des voix dans la tête" (2015)
➤ "Phénomènes Inexpliqués" - Dédoublement de la personnalité
➤ "Quand le Diable Frappe" : Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité
➤ Les enfants Drag-Queens ou Drag-Kids
➤ Les Mah Song de Thaïlande : Dissociation et Possession
➤ "Le Tube" ou les effets de la TV sur le cerveau ➤ Multiple Personnalities - The search for deadly memories V.O.
➤ The Woman With 7 Personalities V.O.
➤ An Open Secret V.O.
➤ Candy Girl V.O.
➤ Sun Sea & Satan V.O.
➤ David's Story - The Childhood Ritual Abuse of David Shurter V.O.
➤ Malachi Martin : "Hostage to the Devil " V.O.

⏩ Cinéma
➤ "Je suis le meurtrier !" Ou le Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité dans le cinéma"
➤ Le film "Split" et la représentation trompeuse du Trouble Dissociatif de l'Identité - CNN
➤ "Démons intérieurs" - Voices Within: The Lives of Truddi Chase - VF

➤ Les Trois Visages d'Eve VOSTFR (1957)
➤ Sybil - 1976 (vostfr)
➤ Frankie et Alice - 2011
➤ Dédales - 2003
➤ Analyse du film "Rosemary's baby" (Polanski)
➤ Analyse du film "Hide & Seek" (Trouble Jeu)
➤ Décodage du film "Eyes Wide Shut" de Stanley Kubrick
➤ Kubrick & The illuminati
➤ La trilogie «Jason Bourne» (Mk-ultra)
➤ Quentin Tarantino et le Mind-Kontrol
➤ Le Sens Caché du Film "Coraline"
➤ "Retour à Oz": Walt Disney et le MK-Ultra
➤ DOLLHOUSE: La série avec des poupées MK
➤ Lupin III, Fujiko Mine : une série japonaise 100% MK-Monarch
➤ Lorsque le cinéma joue son rôle pour révéler l'envers du décors - "SNOOT se rappelle de tout"
➤ FESTEN (1998)
➤ The Sleep Room - VO
➤ Inside (court-mètrage)
➤ "TEENLAND" - Amalie Lyngbo Hjort (2014)
➤ Extrait de 'Telefon' (Un espion de trop)
➤ PURE FICTION (film inspiré par l'affaire Dutroux -

1998)
➤ Les Ballets Écarlates - Jean-Pierre Mocky (2007)
➤ "Alice ou la dernière fugue" - Claude Chabrol et le thème du contrôle mental

⏩ Stratégie ennemie
➤ Lorsque le contrôle mental est global (ingénierie sociale, stratégie du choc)
➤ Syndrome des "Faux souvenirs"
➤ Lorsque le "syndrome des faux souvenirs" refait surface pour couvrir la boîte de Pandore...
➤ Lorsque les troubles psychologiques/dissociatifs sont utilisés pour décrédibiliser les victimes
➤ La pédocriminalité organisée dans les médias - Michael Salter
➤ Syndrome d'aliénation parentale
➤ Stratégie du Paratonnerre
➤ Quand Régis de Castelneau et Florence Rault diabolisaient les activistes anti-pédos
➤ Comment la France dissimule l'ampleur dramatique de la pédocriminalité
➤ Dénonciation de l'inquisition pédocriminelle institutionnelle - Stan Maillaud & Janett Seemann

➤ Cyber police: La focalisation sur internet
➤ Alfred Kinsey
➤ Propagande pro-pédophilie
➤ L'hypersexualisation des enfants
➤ Les réseaux de pouvoirs et les réseaux pervers
➤ Une justice parallèle (réseau maçonnique)
➤ Institutions, médias et opinion publique
➤ Ce monde occulte que les médias "ignorent"
➤ Contrôle des forums et de l'opinion publique

⏩ Livres
➤ Liste de livres

Sauvegarde Pédopolis

➤ Télécharger l'archive
➤ Les Affaires
➤ Dossiers en cours
➤ Qui ose en parler ?
➤ Les Affreux
➤ Les Livres
➤ Les Reportages

➤ Les Films
➤ Réseaux Élitistes
➤ Occultisme
➤ Dark Web
➤ Snuff-Movies
➤ Dégénérescence

LIENS

❖ Multiples Pages
❖ Forum - multiples pages
❖ Archive de livres anglophones
❖ DeprogramWiki
❖ Backup DeprogramWiki
❖ S.M.A.R.T.
❖ smart-talkspodcast
❖ survivorship.org
❖ survivorship news
❖ Empty Memories
❖ SatanicRitualAbuseExists
❖ childabusewiki.org
❖ endritualabuse.org
❖ extreme-abuse-survey.net
❖ isst-d.org
❖ aninfinitemind.com
❖ ra-info.org/
❖ eassurvey.wordpress.com
❖ childabuserecovery.com
❖ Fritz Springmeier
❖ David Shurter
❖ 22 Faces
❖ Kim Noble
❖ Lynn Schirmer
❖ Lynnsart.com
❖ Vigilant Citizen
❖ pseudoccultmedia

Deux Esprits opposés se disputent l’empire du monde

MK-Polis - Créer un blog gratuitement avec Eklablog - CGU - CGV - Préférences cookies - Signaler un abus -

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

Герметический орден Золотой зари

Материал из Википедии — свободной энциклопедии

Заглавная страница
Содержание
Избранные статьи
Случайная статья
Текущие события
Пожертвовать

Участие
Сообщить об ошибке
Как править статьи
Сообщество
Форум
Свежие правки
Новые страницы
Справка

Инструменты
Ссылки сюда
Связанные правки
Служебные страницы
Постоянная ссылка
Сведения о странице
Цитировать страницу
Элемент Викиданных

Печать/экспорт
Скачать как PDF

В других проектах
Викисклад

На других языках
العربية Български
Català
Čeština
Dansk
Deutsch
Ελληνικά
English
Esperanto
Español
Euskara

Гермети́ческий о́рден «Золото́й зари́» (англ. Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, лат. Ordo Hermeticus Aurorae Aureae; или, в большинстве случаев, просто «Золотая заря» или «Золотой рассвет»[1]; англ. Golden Dawn, лат. Aurora Aurea) — магический орден, представляющий собой оккультную организацию, действовавший в Великобритании в течение второй половины XIX — начала XX века, практиковавший теургию, магию, алхимию и поощрявший духовное развитие своих адептов. Произвёл одно из наиболее сильных влияний на западный оккультизм XX-го века[2][3].

Три основателя, Уильям Роберт Вудман (рус. (англ.)), Уильям Уинни Уэсткотт (рус. (англ.)) и Сэмуэль Лиддел МакГрегор Мазерс были франкмасонами и членами Английского общества розенкрейцеров (лат. Societas Rosicruciana in Anglia, — S.R.I.A.)[4]. Уэсткотт считается инициатором первоначальной идеи о создании «Золотой зари».

Система «Золотой зари» основывалась на иерархии и инициациях, подобных масонским ложам, тем не менее, женщины принимались в орден

Герметический орден Золотой зари

Герметический Розовый крест «Золотой зари».

Дата основания / создания / возникновения	1888
Основатель	Макгрегор Мазерс, Сэмуэль Лиддел, William Robert Woodman[d] и William Wynn Westcott[d]
Расположение штаб-квартиры	Лондон, Великобритания
Официальный сайт	golden-dawn.comhttp://ww…

Медиафайлы на Викискладе

Статьи о герметизме

Герметизм

فارسی Suomi
Français
Galego
עברית Hrvatski
Magyar
Bahasa Indonesia
Italiano
日本語 한국어 Latina
Македонски
Nederlands
Norsk nynorsk
Norsk bokmål
Polski
Português
Română
Srpskohrvatski / српскохрватски
Simple English
Slovenčina
Shqip
Српски / srpski
Svenska
Türkçe
Українська
中文 Править ссылки

на равных основаниях с мужчинами.

«Золотая заря» состояла из трёх орденов, и по сути была первым из них, то есть так называемым «внешним орденом». Однако, зачастую всю совокупность орденов, из которых состоял орден «Золотой зари», часто называют по имени «внешнего ордена». Внешний орден обучал эзотерической философии, основанной на герметической каббале рус. (англ.) и персональном развитии посредством изучения и познания четырёх природных Стихий, основ астрологии, дивинации на таро и геомантии. Второй, или «внутренний орден» — «Рубиновой розы и золотого креста» (лат. Rosae Rubeae et Aureae Crucis) обучал практической магии, включая скраинг рус. (англ.), астральные путешествия и алхимию. Третий орден состоял из «Тайных владык рус. (англ.)» («Неведомых высших»), весьма искусных, но не воплощённых на физическом плане, которые, как считалось, руководили действиями двух других орденов, через духовную связь с вождями второго ордена. Однако, сама история возникновения ордена говорит о том, что некоторые из тайных владык Третьего ордена все таки были воплощены на физическом плане, и представляют собой, судя по всем описаниям и их упоминаниям — неких очень загадочных личностей, о которых очень мало известно. Существует мнение, что активное участие в организации «Золотой зари» — приняли английские наследники линии мартинизма из оккультных кружков под названием «Друзья Сен-Мартена».

Пантеон

Гермес Трисмегист · Тот · Гермес · Меркурий · Германубис · Агатодемон · Амон · Асклепий · Исида · Гор

Главные книги

Герметический корпус · Поймандр · Асклепий · Изумрудная скрижаль · Пикатрикс

Учения и практики

Алхимия · Астрология · Теургия · Мантика · Магия

Символы герметизма

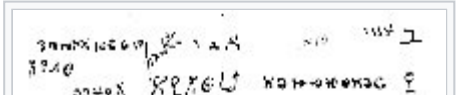
Анх · Кадуцей · Уроборос · Алхимические символы · Философский камень · Бафомет · Таро

Герметический Розовый крест «Золотой зари».

Представление о магии и ритуале в таких современных течениях Нью-эйдж, как викка или телема, было почерпнуто из «Золотой зари»[5].

Содержание [скрыть]

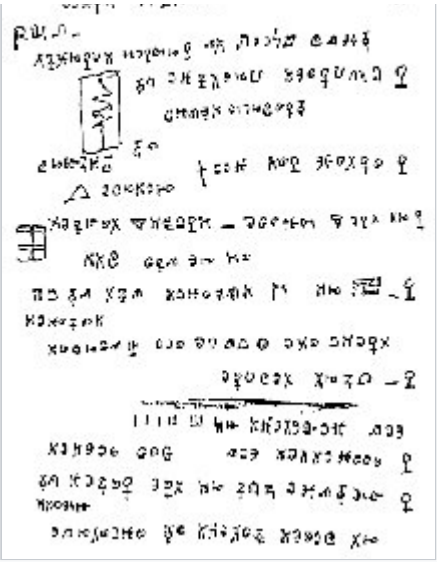
1 История «Золотой зари»
1.1 Шифрованные рукописи



2 Влияние других оккультных учений
3 Основание Первого храма
4 Тайные Владыки
4.1 Устройство общества и его учение
5 Золотой век
6 Восстание
7 Расколы
8 Реорганизация
9 Устройство и степени
10 Известные члены
11 Культурное влияние
12 Книга «Золотая заря»
13 Современные ордена «Золотой зари»
14 См. также
15 Примечания
16 Литература
17 Ссылки

История «Золотой зари» [править код]

Основными документами подлинного ордена «Золотой зари» являются Шифрованные рукописи (рус. (англ.)), написанные на английском с использованием шифра тритемия. Манускрипты содержат конкретные наброски ритуалов степеней ордена и устанавливают учебный план постепенного обучения, включавшего герметическую каббалу (рус. (англ.)), астрологию, оккультное таро, геомантию и алхимию.



Согласно документам ордена, рукописи были переданы Кеннетом Маккензи (рус. (англ.)), масонским учёным, преподобному А. Ф. А. Вудфорду, которого британский оккультный писатель Фрэнсис Кинг (рус. (англ.)) описывает как четвёртого основателя[6](хотя Вудфорд и умер вскоре после основания Ордена)[7]. Документы не впечатлили Вудфорда, и в феврале 1886 года он передал их масону Уильям Уинни Уэсткотту (рус. (англ.)), который сумел расшифровать их в 1887 году[6]. Уэсткотт был очень доволен своим открытием и спросил мнения о нём у Сэмуэля Лиддела МакГрегора Мазерса. Уэскотт попросил Мазерса превратить манускрипты во вразумительную систему работы ложи. Мазерс в свою очередь попросил о помощи Уильяма Роберта Вудмана (рус. (англ.)), и тот согласился[6]. Мазерсу и Уэсткотту приписывают развитие набросков ритуалов из Шифрованной рукописи до рабочего вида[8]. Мазерсу, как правило, также приписывают разработку учебных программ и ритуалов Второго Ордена, который он назвал Rosae Rubae et Aureae Crucis (RR et AC, Рубиновой розы и золотого креста)[9].

Шифрованные рукописи [править код]

Уильям Уинни Уэсткотт (рус. (англ.)) получил Шифрованные рукописи в 1887 году от преподобного Вудфорда, пожилого масона. По другой версии Шифрованные рукописи перешли к Уэсткотту в августе 1877 вместе с письмом Вудфорда, в котором тот впервые упоминает о существовании «Золотой зари» и указывает на некую «пожилую Сестру из Германии», с которой Уэсткотту необходимо связаться.[10]

Шифрованные рукописи

Также существует версия, что «Шифрованные рукописи» были написаны Кеннетом Маккензи (рус. (англ.)), автором «Королевской масонской энциклопедии» и членом S.R.I.A. Маккензи знал Элифаса Леви и был другом Фредерика Холланда. По мнению одного из исследователей истории Золотой Зари Р. А. Гилберта — Храм Германубис был прототипом основанной Холландом в 1883 году эзотерической группы, известной как «Общество Восьми». Маккензи составил ритуалы для этой группы, схематично отображенные в Шифрованных рукописях. После смерти Макензи рукописи досталась Уэсткотту.

Сами Шифрованные рукописи представляют собой зашифрованный текст объёмом около 60 страниц. Ключ к тексту был найден Уэсткоттом в «Полиграфии» аббата Иоганна Тритемия. В этих документах содержались схемы серии ритуалов, которые и были положены в основу создания Герметического ордена «Золотой зари». Однако, следует заметить, что сами Шифрованные рукописи представляют собой действительно схемы, более похожие на черновики ритуалов, записанные по памяти одним из посетителей собраний, где такого рода ритуалы могли проводиться. Если смотреть на них под другим углом, то они представляют собой черновые наброски, или скорее — «план», по которому автор собирался разрабатывать целостную систему.

Также, по версии Уэсткотта, среди листов этого Шифрованных рукописей им был обнаружен адрес некой фрейлин Анны Шпренгель (рус. (англ.)), немецкого адепта Ордена Золотого рассвета (нем. Die Goldene Dammerung). Уэсткотт написал по указанному адресу письмо и получил ответ. В ходе переписки, продолжавшейся вплоть до смерти Анны Шпренгель в 1890 году, английским оккультистам было позволено организовать третий храм ордена «Золотой зари» в Лондоне — храм Исиды-Урании.

Первый храм, или отделение ордена «Золотой зари», по этой версии скорее всего располагалось в Германии, и именовалось «Свет, любовь, жизнь», второе — «Германубис» ранее уже основывалось в Англии.[11]

Влияние других оккультных учений [править код]

На идеи и работу «Золотой зари» оказали сильное влияние: христианский мистицизм, каббала, герметизм, религия Древнего Египта, теургия, франкмасонство (в особенности масонский Устав Мемфис-Мицраим), алхимия, розенкрейцерство, теософия, енохианская магия Джона Ди и Эдварда Келли, гримуары эпохи Возрождения, а также Элифас Леви, Папюс, и другие представители континентальной оккультной школы, на то время представленной учением мартинизма.

Основание Первого храма [править код]

В октябре 1887 года Уэсткотт написал Анне Шпренгель, чье имя и адрес были получены при расшифровке Шифрованных манускриптов. Уэсткотт утверждал, что получил мудрый ответ, в котором были дарованы почетные степени «свободных адептов» Уэсткотту, Мазерсу и Вудману, а также хартия на открытие храма Золотой Зари, работавшего в пяти степенях, чьи наброски содержались в манускриптах.[12][13]

Таким образом, уже в 1888 году в Лондоне был основан храм Исиды-Урании рус. (англ.)[12], где практиковались и совершенствовались ритуалы, декодированные из шифрованных манускриптов[14]. Также, было принято решение о том, чтобы женщинам разрешалось членство в Ордене на правах «абсолютного равенства» с мужчинами, в отличие от SRIA и регулярного масонства[13], позаимствовав образец смешанного послушания из уже существовавших либеральных масонских Уставов, таких как Египетское масонство Калиостро, и эзотерическое масонство Мемфис-Мицраим. В этом первом храме не изучали никаких магических практиках per se (за исключением изгоняющих ритуалов и медитаций), отдавая предпочтение обучению философии и метафизике. Он был назван Внешним, или Первым орденом, и четыре года «Золотая заря» состояла только из него. Внутренний орден, который начал действовать в 1892 году, был кругом адептов, прошедших весь курс обучения Внешнего ордена. Эта группа в конечном итоге и стала известна как Второй орден[15].

В течение короткого времени после начала работы Внутреннего ордена были основаны храм Осириса в Уэстон-сьюпер-Мэр, храм Гора в Брадфорде и храм Амон-Ра в Эдинбурге. Несколькими годами позже Мазерс основал храм Ахатхор в Париже[12].

Тайные Владыки [править код]

В 1891 году переписка Уэсткотта с Анной Шпренгель внезапно прекратилась, и он получил известие из Германии то ли о её смерти, то ли о том, что её товарищи не одобряли основание Ордена, и дальнейшая связь невозможна. Поэтому, если основатели желают связаться с «Тайными владыками», они должны делать это сами[12]. В 1892 году Мазерс провозгласил, что связь с «Тайными владыками» установлена, и добавил ритуалы для Второго ордена — Ордена Рубиновой розы и Золотого креста[12]. Ритуалы были основаны на предании о могиле Христиана Розенкрейца, и Усыпальница Адепта стала силой, контролировавшей Внешний орден[16]. Позже, в 1916 году, Уэсткот заявил, что Мазерс также составил эти ритуалы на основе материалов, полученных от брата Lux ex Tenebris, некоего «континентального адепта»[17]. Заявление Уэсткотта дает возможность предположить, что возможно, Мазерс вступил в контакт с неким представителем Континентальной оккультной розенкрейцерской школы, или линии преемственности. Возможно, это был кто-либо из Ордена Мартинистов Папюса, активно развивавшегося в то же самое время во Франции, и своей осевой идеей имеющий также Розенкрейцерство.

Некоторые последователи традиции «Золотой зари» верили, что «Тайные владыки» не обязательно являются живущими людьми или сверхъестественными существами, но скорее представляют собой символ реальных или легендарных источников духовного эзотеризма, великого руководителя, или учителя духовного пути или практики, нашедших выражение в учении ордена.[18]

Устройство общества и его учение [править код]

Пентакль земного шара, один из начальных "инструментов" Адепта в познании принципов магии Золотой зари.

Согласно «Исторической лекции», написанной Уэсткоттом, орден представляет собой герметическое общество, члены которого изучают принципы оккультной науки и магии Гермеса Трисмегиста. Система степеней, используемых в ордене, была заимствована от Английского общества розенкрейцеров (Societas Rosicruciana in Anglia — S.R.I.A.), где состояли Уэсткотт и Мазерс , и представляла собой 10 степеней по аналогии с 10 сфирот, последовательное прохождение которых символически отражало духовное совершенствование члена Ордена.

Учение ордена представляло собой синтез различных оккультных доктрин, в частности, в ордене изучались герметизм, каббала, алхимия, таро, астрология, геомантия, ритуальная магия, магия талисманов, вызывание духов, и многое другое.

Золотой век [править код]

К середине 1890-х годов «Золотая заря» укрепила своё положение в Великобритании, и включала более сотни членов, среди которых были представители всех слоёв викторианского общества[7]. В лучшие времена Золотой Зари его членами были многие знаменитости, такие как актриса Флоренс Фар (рус. (англ.)) и ирландская революционерка феминистка Мод Гонн, ирландский писатель Уильям Батлер Йейтс, уэльский писатель Артур Мэйчен и английские писатели Эвелин Андерхилл (рус. (англ.)) и Алистер Кроули.

Приблизительно в 1897 году Уэсткотт разрывает связи с «Золотой зарёй», оставив Мазерса руководить орденом. Предположительно, этот поступок мог быть связан с некоторыми оккультными документами, которые были найдены в двухколесном экипаже, благодаря чему о связи Уэсткотта с «Золотой зарёй» стало известно его начальству. Возможно, перед ним был поставлен выбор: уйти из ордена или оставить должность коронера[19]. Несмотря на отсутствие доказательств того, что Мазерс подбросил документы, похоже, что отношения между Мазерсом и Уэсткоттом после этого происшествия едва не закончились. После ухода Уэсткотта Мазерс назначил Флоренс Фарр на должность Верховного адепта в Англии. Генри Барри (рус. (англ.)) сменил Уэскотта в должности канцлера — одного из Верховных адептов ордена.

Мазерс оставался единственным действующим членом-основателем после «ухода» Уэсткотта. Однако из-за личных противоречий между другими членами и уходом Мазерса из центра деятельности лож в Великобритании в Париж, среди членов Второго ордена росли сомнения в авторитете Мазерса как лидера.

Восстание [править код]

К концу 1899 года «верховные адепты» храмов Исиды-Урании и Амона-Ра выразили недовольство руководством Мазерса и его растущей дружбой с Кроули. Они также стремились вступить в контакт с Тайными владыками самостоятельно, независимо от Мазерса[20]. Личные разногласия внутри храма Изиды-Урании были обусловлены спорами между Сферой (англ. The Sphere) Флоренс Фарр, тайной группы внутри храма Изиды-Урании, и остальными Младшими адептами.[20]

В Лондоне Кроули отказали в инициации в «младшие адепты». Мазерс отменил их решение и быстро посвятил его в храме Ахатхор в Париже 16 января 1900 года[21]. По возвращении в лондонский храм Кроули потребовал у мисс Кракнелл, действующего секретаря, документы удостоверяющие полученную им степень. Для лондонских «верховных адептов» это стало последней каплей. Флоренс Фарр, уже считавшая, что лондонский храм должен быть закрыт, написала Мазерсу, выражая своё желание уйти в отставку как его представительница, и готовность остаться, пока не найдется правопреемник.[21] Мазерс ответил 16 февраля обвинениями в адрес Уэсткотта, полагая, что за таким поворотом событий стоит именно он, и поставил под сомнение связь и переписку Уэсткотта с «Тайными владыками». После того, как остальные Верховные адепты в Лондоне были уведомлены, 3 марта они избрали «комитет семи», и потребовали провести полное расследование. 23 марта Мазерс прислал немедленный ответ, отказавшись предоставлять доказательства, отказавшись признавать лондонский храм, и освободив от должности своего представителя Флоренс Фарр[22]. В ответ 29 марта в Лондоне было созвано генеральное собрание с целью сместить Мазерса с должности главы и исключить его из ордена.[23]

Расколы [править код]

В 1901 году Йейтс частным образом опубликовал памфлет «Остается ли орден «Рубиновой розы и золотого креста» магическим орденом?»[24]. После того, как храм Исиды-Урании провозгласил независимость, споров стало ещё больше, что привело к отставке Йейтса[25]. «Комитет трёх», состоявший из П. В. Баллока, М. В. Блэкдена и Дж. У. Броди-Иннеса (рус. (англ.)), принял на себя временное руководство орденом и храмом Исиды-Урании. Вскоре Баллок ушёл в отставку, и Роберт Фелкин (рус. (англ.)) занял его место.[26]

В 1903 году А. Э. Уэйт и Блэкден объединились, чтобы сохранить название Исиды-Урании, тогда как Фелкин и другие лондонские члены основали Орден утренней звезды, в котором Йейтс оставался до 1921 года, а Броди-Иннес продолжал деятельность в своем храме Амон-Ра в Эдинбурге.[27]

Реорганизация [править код]

Когда Мазерс осознал, что уладить конфликт невозможно, он попытался восстановиться в Лондоне. Храмы Брадфорда и Уэстон-сьюпер-Мэр оставались лояльны к нему, но в них было мало членов[28]. Тогда он назначил Эдмунда Берриджа (рус. (англ.)) своим представителем.[29] Согласно Френсису Кингу (рус. (англ.)), исторические свидетельства указывают на то, что «в 1913 году в процветающем Втором Ордене при Берридже-Мазерсе было 23 члена».[29]

Дж. У. Броди-Иннес продолжал возглавлять храм Амон-Ра, решив, что бунт был неоправдан. В 1908 году Мазерс и Броди-Иннес были в полном согласии друг с другом.[30] Согласно источникам, которые расходятся во мнении относительно фактической даты, где-то между 1901 и 1913 годами Мазерс переименовал ветвь «Золотой зари», которая оставалась лояльной к его лидерству, в Орден Альфа и Омега.[31][32][33][34] Броди-Иннес принял на себя руководство английскими и шотландскими храмами, а Мазерс сосредоточился на увеличении своего храма Ахатхор и расширении американских связей[32]. Согласно оккультисту Израелю Регарди, «Золотая заря» появилась в США до 1900 года, и в Чикаго был основан храм Тота-Гермеса.[30][32] До начала Первой мировой войны в 1914 году, Мазерс основал два или три американских храма.

Большинство храмов орденов орденов «Альфа и Омега» (рус. (англ.)) и «Stella Matutina» (Орден утренней звезды) к концу 1930-х закрылись или бездействовали, за исключением двух храмов ордена «Stella Matutina»: храма Гермеса в Бристоле, который нерегулярно функционировал до 1970-х, и Вэйр Ра в Северном Хавелоке, Новая Зеландия, который постоянно действовал до закрытия в 1978 году.[35][36]

Устройство и степени [править код]

Большая часть иерархической структуры Золотой Зари была заимствована из SRIA, которое в свою очередь происходило от Ордена розового и золотого креста.[37]

Первый орден

- Вступление: Неофит 0=0
- Зелатор 1=10
- Теоретик 2=9
- Практик 3=8
- Философ 4=7

Второй орден

- Промежуточная степень: Портал
- Младший адепт 5=6
- Старший адепт 6=5
- Свободный адепт 7=4

Третий орден

- Магистр Храма 8=3
- Маг 9=2
- Ипсиссимус 10=1

Парные номера степеней относятся к позициям на Древе Жизни. Степень Неофита 0=0 не имеет позиции на Древе. В других парах, первое число представляет количество ступеней от дна (Малхут), а вторая цифра — число шагов сверху вниз (с Кетер).

Степени Внешнего ордена связаны с четырьмя стихиями: землёй, воздухом, водой и огнём соответственно. Кандидат на получение степени получал инструкции о метафизическом значении каждого из этих элементов, и должен был сдать письменный экзамен и продемонстрировать определенные навыки для получения доступа на эту степень.

Второй орден не был, строго говоря, частью «Золотой зари», но являлся отдельным орденом, известным как ордена «Рубиновой розы и Золотого креста». Второй орден руководил учением Внешнего ордена и управлял им.

После прохождения степени «портала» кандидат получал наставления, касающиеся практической магии. После сдачи экзамена и получения согласия остальных «верховных адептов», кандидат получал степень Младшего адепта (5=6). Она в свою очередь состояла из четырёх под-степеней, соответствующих четырём степеням Внешнего ордена .

Член Второго ордена имел власть и полномочия инициировать кандидатов во Внешний орден, хотя, как правило, не без разрешения владык своего храма.

Известные члены [править код]

- Алджернон Блэквуд (1869-1951), английский писатель и путешественник, один из ведущих авторов-мистиков, классик литературы ужасов и рассказа с привидениями первой половины XX века. Кавалер Ордена Британской империи (CBE)[38][39].
- Анни Хорниман рус. (англ.) (1860–1937), британский продюсер репертуарного театра и новатор; член богатой семьи Хорниман рус. (англ.) - торговцев чаем, владельцев англ. Horniman and Company[40][41].

- Анна Элизабет, графиня де Бремон (рус. (англ.)) (1849-1922) американская журналистка, писательница, поэтесса и певица. Была посвящена в Орден Золотой Зари в мае 1888 года вместе с женой Оскара Уайльда Констанс[42].
- Арнольд Беннет (1867-1931), британский писатель, журналист и драматург, литературный критик[43].
- Артур Мейчен (1863-1947), ведущий лондонский писатель 1890-х, автор известных фантастических и оккультных романов, таких как "Великий Бог Пан", "Белые Люди" и "Холм Снов". Валлиец по рождению и воспитанию [44][45].
- Габриэль Бортвик (рус. (англ.)) (30 июня 1866 г. - 10 октября 1952 г.) автомобилист-первопроходец и механик, была одной из первых богатых женщин-автомобилистов, открывших гараж и школу для обучения мужчин и женщин вождению автомобилей. Являлась председателем исполнительного комитета женской автомобильной и спортивной ассоциации, которая была связана с Королевским автомобильным клубом[46][39].
- У. Б. Йейтс (1865–1939), ирландский поэт, драматург и писатель[47][48][49].
- Мойна Мазерс (рус. (англ.)) (1865–1928), художница, получившая образование в Лондоне, жена С. Л. МакГрегора-Мазерса и сестра философа Анри Бергсона[50][51].
- Роберт Фелкин (рус. (англ.)) (1853–1925), медик-миссионер, антрополог и исследователь Центральной Африки, писатель, основатель новозеландского отделения Золотой Зари и храма Smaragdum Thalasses (рус. (англ.))[52][53].
- Сакс Ромер (1883–1959) (англ. Sax Rohmer, псевдоним Артура Генри Сарсфилда Уорда), писатель, наиболее известный циклом остросюжетных романов о докторе Фу Манчу[44].
- Сэмюэль Лидделл МакГрегор-Мазерс (1854-1918), британский масон, один из трех основателей Золотой Зари, плодовитый писатель, оккультист и исследователь[54][51].
- Сэр Артур Конан Дойл (1859–1930), создатель Шерлока Холмса, врач, ученый и спиритуалист[55].
- Уильям Уинн Уэсткотт (рус. (англ.)) (1848–1925), основатель «Золотой Зари», врач, лондонский коронер, плодовитый писатель, британский масон, бывший верховный маг Розенкрейцерского общества Англии (SRIA)[56][53].
- Уильям Роберт Вудман (рус. (англ.)) (1828–1891), врач, британский масон, бывший верховный маг Розенкрейцерского общества Англии, один из трех основателей Золотой Зари[57][39].
- А. Э. Уэйт (1857–1942), британский писатель, масон и соавтор колоды Таро Райдера — Уэйта[58][53].
- Флоренс Фарр (рус. (англ.)) (1860-1917), лондонская театральная актриса и музыкант[38][53].
- Беннетт, Чарльз Генри Аллан (1872–1923), наиболее известен тем, что основал первую Буддийскую миссию в Соединенном Королевстве и стремился распространять учение о Дхарме на Западе[59][60].
- Уильям Шарп (1855—1905) - шотландский писатель, поэт и мистик, литературный критик и биограф, с 1893 года работавший также под тайным псевдонимом Фиона Маклауд (англ. Fiona Macleod)[61].

- Эдвард У. Берридж (рус. (англ.)) (1843-1923) был врачом в Лондоне, гомеопатом в Соединенных Штатах и оккультистом[62][60].

Культурное влияние [править код]

Учение Ордена оказало большое влияние на многие оккультные организации, возникшие после его распада, его система легла в основу многих эзотерических практик, а также оказало влияние на литературу через таких авторов, как Артур Мэйчен, А. Э. Уэйт, У. Б. Йейтс, А.Блэквуд.

Книга «Золотая заря» [править код]

Книга «Золотая заря» Израеля Регарди вышла в свет в 1937 г. Книга разделена на несколько основных разделов. Сначала идут обучающие лекции, в которых описываются основные учения Каббалы, символизм, медитация, геомантия и т. д. Затем следуют ритуалы внешнего ордена, состоящие из пяти ритуалов посвящения в степени Золотой Зари и раздел посвященный ритуалам внутреннего ордена, включая два ритуала инициации и церемонии равноденствия. Как система и как книга она была самым используемым источником для современных западных оккультных и магических трудов, в качестве учебника и энциклопедии[63].

Современные ордена «Золотой зари» [править код]

Так как ни один из храмов, обладающий бесспорной линией преемственности, не прожил дольше 1970-х, за исключением полностью пересмотревшего всю систему Храма Пола Фостера Кейса, который был преобразован в Орден «Строителей Святая Святых» (Builders of the Adytum, B.O.T.A.), несколько организаций возродили учение и ритуалы изначального Ордена «Золотой зари». Среди них следующие имеют особое значение:

- The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, Inc. (рус. (англ.))
- The Open Source Order of the Golden Dawn (рус. (англ.))
- The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn in Britain[64]
- Ordo Stella Matutina (рус. (англ.))[65]
- Rosicrucian Order of the Golden Dawn[66]
- Order of the Golden Dawn[67]
- Esoteric Order of the Golden Dawn[68]
- Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, outer Order of the Rosicrucian Order of Alpha et Omega[69]
- The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn in Latin America and Spain[70]
- The Order of the Golden Dawn in the Outer[71]
- Ordo Splendor Lucis[72]

См. также [править код]

- Луи Клод де Сен-Мартен
- Мартинизм
- Теургия
- Розенкрейцеры
- Магия
- Мистерии
- Эзотерическое христианство
- Теософия
- Оккультизм
- Эзотеризм
- Каббала, Христианская каббала
- Спиритуализм
- Мистицизм, Христианский мистицизм
- Алхимия, Философский камень

Примечания [править код]

1. ↑ Фаликов, 2010, Последняя дата была высчитана членами оккультного ордена «Золотой рассвет», основанного в Англии в 1888 году. В орден входили столь разнообразные люди, как знаменитый «чёрный маг» Алистер Кроули (1875–1947) и будущий лауреат Нобелевской премии поэт Уильям Йейтс (1856–1939)..
2. ↑ Jenkins, Philip (2000) Mystics and Messiahs: Cults and New Religions in American History, pg. 74. «Also in the 1880s, the tradition of ritual magic was revived in London by a group of Masonic adepts, who formed the Order of the Golden Dawn, which would prove an incalculable influence on the whole subsequent history of occultism.» USA: Oxford University Press.
3. ↑ Smoley, Richard (1999) Hidden Wisdom: A Guide to the Western Inner Traditions, ppg 102—103. «Founded in 1888, the Golden Dawn lasted a mere twelve years before it was shattered by personal conflicts. At its height it probably had no more than a hundred members. Yet its influence on magic and esoteric thought in the English-speaking world would be hard to overestimate.» USA: Quest Books.
4. ↑ Regardie, 1993, page 10
5. ↑ Джон Майкл Грир, «Энциклопедия Тайных Обществ», ISBN 978-5-386-01758-3
6. ↑ [1] [2] [3] King, 1989, page 42-43
7. ↑ [1] [2] King, 1989, page 47
8. ↑ Golden Dawn researcher R. A. Gilbert has found evidence which suggests that Westcott was instrumental in developing the Order's rituals from the Cipher Manuscripts. See Gilbert's article, From Cipher to Enigma: The Role of William Wynn Westcott in the Creation of the Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, from Carroll Runyon's book Secrets of the Golden Dawn Cypher Manuscripts.
9. ↑ Regardie, 1993, page 92
10. ↑ Эллик Хоув. Маги «Золотой зари». — М.: Энигма, 2008. — 624 с. ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6
11. ↑ см. Лекция по официальной истории «Золотой Зари» , Кинг Ф. «Современная ритуальная магия» М.: «Локид», «Миф», 1999, 368 стр., ил. (Коллекция «Сфинкс») ISBN 5-320-00300-5
12. ↑ [1] [2] [3] [4] [5] King, 1989, page 43
13. ↑ [1] [2] Regardie, 1993, page 11

14. ↑ King, 1997, page 35
15. ↑ Эллик Хоув «Маги Золотой зари: документальная история магического ордена 1887—1923» ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6
16. ↑ King, 1989, page 44
17. ↑ King, 1989, page 46
18. ↑ Penczak, Christopher. Spirit Allies, p. 27. Red Wheel/Weiser Books. ISBN 1-57863-214-5
19. ↑ King, 1989, page 48
20. ↑ 1 2 King, 1989, page 66
21. ↑ 1 2 King, 1989, page 67
22. ↑ King, 1989, page 68-69
23. ↑ King, 1989, page 69
24. ↑ Melton, J. Gordon, editor, Encyclopedia of Occultism and Parapsychology, v. 2 p. 1327, Gale Group, 2001 ISBN 0-8103-9489-8
25. ↑ King, 1989, page 78
26. ↑ King, 1989, page 94
27. ↑ King, 1989, pages 95-96
28. ↑ King, 1989, page 109
29. ↑ 1 2 King, 1989, page 110
30. ↑ 1 2 Regardie, 1993, page 33
31. ↑ King, 1971, p. 110—111
32. ↑ 1 2 3 King, 1989, page 111
33. ↑ «The Golden Dawn ceased to exist by that name after October, 1901, replaced by Mathers' Alpha et Omega and the London group's Order of the Morgan Rothe. No longer associated with the SRIA after 1902, Mathers continued to oversee a few temples until his death, when his wife, Moina, assumed supervision.» Samuel Liddel MacGregor Mathers biography, Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon Архивная копия от 6 ноября 2015 на Wayback Machine, February 26, 2001
34. ↑ Golden Dawn Time Line, Chic Cicero and Sandra Tabatha Cicero, Llewellyn Encyclopedia Архивная копия от 12 июля 2009 на Wayback Machine
35. ↑ Gilbert, R. A. Golden Dawn Companion. Aquarian Press, 1986. ISBN 0-85030-436-9
36. ↑ Llewellyn Encyclopedia: «Golden Dawn Time Line» Архивная копия от 12 июля 2009 на Wayback Machine
37. ↑ The masonic career of A.E. Waite Архивная копия от 25 августа 2017 на Wayback Machine by Bro. R. A. Gilbert
38. ↑ 1 2 Regardie, Israel; et al. (1982). The Golden Dawn: An Account of the Teachings, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Dawn. Vol. 3–4. Llewellyn Publications. ISBN 0-87542-664-6, p. ix
39. ↑ 1 2 3 Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 607
40. ↑ Regardie, Israel; et al. (1982). The Golden Dawn: An Account of the Teachings, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Dawn. Vol. 3–4. Llewellyn Publications. ISBN 0-87542-664-6
41. ↑ Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 612
42. ↑ Moyle, Franny (2011). Constance: The Tragic and Scandalous Life of Mrs Oscar Wilde. Hachette UK. p. 118. ISBN 9781848544611

43. ↑ Regardie, Israel; et al. (1982). The Golden Dawn: An Account of the Teachings, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Dawn. Vol. 3–4. Llewellyn Publications. ISBN 0-87542-664-6, page 16
44. ↑ [1] [2] Blackmore, Leigh (1985). "Hermetic Horrors: Weird Fiction Writers and the Golden Dawn". Shadowplay. Archived from the original on November 9, 2009. Retrieved March 25, 2010
45. ↑ Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 609, с. 613
46. ↑ Cockin, Katharine (2017). Edith Craig and the Theatres of Art. Bloomsbury Publishing. ISBN 978-1472570611
47. ↑ Foster, R. F. (1997). W. B. Yeats: A Life. Vol. I: The Apprentice Mage. Oxford University Press. ISBN 978-0-19-288085-7, p. 103
48. ↑ Cullingford, Elizabeth (1983). "How Jacques Molay Got Up the Tower: Yeats and the Irish Civil War". English Literary History. 50 (4): 763–789
49. ↑ Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 608
50. ↑ Wasson, Tyler. (1987) Nobel Prize Winners: An A.H. Wilson Biographical Dictionary. H.W. Wilson Co. Pg. 90 ISBN 0-8242-0756-4
51. ↑ [1] [2] Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 609
52. ↑ Ellwood, Robert S. (1993). Islands of the Dawn: The Story of Alternative Spirituality in New Zealand. Honolulu: University of Hawaii Press. ISBN 0-8248-1487-8
53. ↑ [1] [2] [3] [4] Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 611
54. ↑ Anon (February 26, 2001). "Samuel Liddel MacGregor Mathers". freemasonry.bcy.ca. Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon A.F. & A. M. Retrieved March 19, 2022
55. ↑ Lycett, Andrew (2007). Conan Doyle: the Man who Created Sherlock Holmes. London: Orion Publishing Group, Limited. ISBN 978-0297848523
56. ↑ King, Francis (1989). Modern Ritual Magic: The Rise of Western Occultism. ISBN 1-85327-032-6 p. 43
57. ↑ King, Francis (1989). Modern Ritual Magic: The Rise of Western Occultism. ISBN 1-85327-032-6, p.43
58. ↑ Regardie, Israel; et al. (1982). The Golden Dawn: An Account of the Teachings, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Order of the Golden Dawn. Vol. 3–4. Llewellyn Publications. ISBN 0-87542-664-6 p. ix
59. ↑ Harris, Elizabeth J. (1998). "Ananda Metteya, the First British Emissary of Buddhism" (PDF). The Wheel Publication (420–422). ISBN 9552401798. Retrieved November 13, 2022, page 13
60. ↑ [1] [2] Хоув, Эллик. Маги Золотой Зари = The Magicians of the Golden Down. — Москва: Энигма Одди-Стиль, 2008. — 624 с. — ISBN 978-5-94698-061-6, с. 606
61. ↑ Denisoff, Dennis (2013). "The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, 1888-1901". Branch: Britain, Representation and Nineteenth-Century History. Retrieved November 13, 2022
62. ↑ Colquhoun, Ithell (1975). Sword of Wisdom: Macgregor Mathers and the Golden Dawn. Neville Spearman. ISBN 0-85435-092-6, pp. 148-149
63. ↑ Weschcke, Carl L., Publisher, Publishers Preface (1982) The Golden Dawn
64. ↑ Website of The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn in Britain. Дата обращения: 5 августа 2010. Архивировано 19 июня 2010 года.

65. ↑ Ordo Stella Matutina. Дата обращения: 5 августа 2010. Архивировано 20 апреля 2010 года.
66. ↑ Rosicrucian Order of the Golden Dawn. Дата обращения: 19 июня 2022. Архивировано 31 марта 2022 года.
67. ↑ Order of the Golden Dawn. Дата обращения: 5 августа 2010. Архивировано из оригинала 7 сентября 2009 года.
68. ↑ Esoteric Order of the Golden Dawn. Дата обращения: 5 августа 2010. Архивировано 24 сентября 2005 года.
69. ↑ Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, outer Order of the Rosicrucian Order of Alpha et Omega. Дата обращения: 19 июня 2022. Архивировано 27 марта 2022 года.
70. ↑ The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn in Latin America and Spain. Дата обращения: 19 июня 2022. Архивировано 1 апреля 2022 года.
71. ↑ The Order of the Golden Dawn in the Outer. Дата обращения: 5 августа 2010. Архивировано из оригинала 24 апреля 2010 года.
72. ↑ Ordo Splendor Lucis. Дата обращения: 5 августа 2010. Архивировано 4 августа 2010 года.

Литература [править код]

научная

- Фаликов Б. З. "Новый век" назад в будущее // Наука и религия : Ежемесячный научно-популярный журнал. — 2010. — № 12. — С. 12—16. Архивировано 29 сентября 2013 года.
- Jenkins, Philip (2000) Mystics and Messiahs: Cults and New Religions in American History. Oxford University Press. ISBN 978-0-19-512744-7
- Howe, Ellic (рус. (англ.)) (1978). The Magicians of the Golden Dawn: A Documentary History of a Magical Order 1887—1923. Samuel Weiser. ISBN 0-87728-369-9.
- Colquhoun, Ithell (1975). Sword of Wisdom: Macgregor Mathers and the Golden Dawn. Neville Spearman. ISBN 0-85435-092-6.

аффилированная

- Fra. A.o.C. (2002). A Short Treatise on the History, Culture and Practices of The Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn. Retrieved August 3, 2007.
- Armstrong, Allan & R. A. Gilbert, eds. (1997). Golden Dawn: The Proceedings of the Golden Dawn Conference, London — 1997. Hermetic Research Trust.
- Cicero, Chic (рус. (англ.)) and Tabatha Cicero (рус. (англ.)) (1991). The New Golden Dawn Ritual Tarot. St. Paul, MN: Llewellyn Publications. ISBN 0-87542-139-3
- Greer, Mary K. (1994). Women of the Golden Dawn. Park Street. ISBN 0-89281-516-7.
- Greer, Mary K. & Darcy Kuntz (1999) The Chronology of the Golden Dawn. Holmes Publishing Group. ISBN 1-55818-354-X
- Gilbert, Robert A. (1983). The Golden Dawn: Twilight of the Magicians. The Aquarian Press. ISBN 0-85030-278-1
- Gilbert, Robert A. (1986). The Golden Dawn Companion. Weiser Books. ISBN 0-85030-436-9
- Gilbert, Robert A. Golden Dawn Scrapbook — The Rise and Fall of a Magical Order. Weiser Books (1998) ISBN 1-57863-037-1
- King, Francis (1989). Modern Ritual Magic: The Rise of Western Occultism. ISBN 1-85327-032-6

- King, Francis (рус. (англ.))(1971). The Rites of Modern Occult Magic. New York: Macmillan Company. Library of Congress Catalog Card Number 76-158-933
- King, Francis, ed. (1997). Ritual Magic of the Golden Dawn: Works by S. L. MacGregor Mathers and Others. Destiny Books. ISBN 0-89281-617-1
- Regardie, Israel. The Golden Dawn (неопр.). — Llewellyn Publications (рус. (англ.)), 1982. — ISBN 0-87542-664-6.
- Regardie, Israel, et al., eds. (1989). The Golden Dawn: A Complete Course in Practical Ceremonial Magic. Llewellyn. ISBN 0-87542-663-8
- Regardie, Israel (1993). What You Should Know About the Golden Dawn (6th ed.). ISBN 1-56184-064-5
- Runyon, Carroll (1997). Secrets of the Golden Dawn Cipher Manuscripts. C.H.S. ISBN 0-9654881-2-8
- Smoley, Richard (рус. (англ.)) (1999). Hidden Wisdom: A Guide to the Western Inner Traditions. Quest Books. ISBN 978-0-8356-0844-2
- Suster, Gerald (рус. (англ.)) (1990). Crowley's Apprentice: The Life and Ideas of Israel Regardie. Weiser Books. ISBN 0-87728-700-7
- Wasserman, James (рус. (англ.)) (2005). The Mystery Traditions: Secret Symbols and Sacred Art. Rochester, VT: Destiny Books. ISBN 1-59477-088-3

Ссылки [править код]

- статья «Розенкрейцерская алхимия и Герметический Орден Золотой Зари»
- Последнее обращение С. Л. МакГрегора Мазерса
- goldendawn_ru — сообщество « «Золотая Заря в России»» в «Живом Журнале»
- Чик и Сандра Табата Цицеро «История Ордена Золотой Зари»

Оккультизм
Оккультизм	Алхимия · Антропософия · Астрология · Герметизм · Гностицизм · Каббала · Карты таро · Магия · Мартинизм · Мистицизм · Неоплатонизм · Пифагореизм · Розенкрейцерство · Спиритуализм · Теософия · Теургия · Христианская каббала · Христианский мистицизм · Физиогномика · Эзотеризм
Основные концепции	Адам Кадмон · Ангелы · Астральная проекция · Астральный план · Бафомет · Великое делание · Гнозис · Гномы · Голем · Гомункул · Грехопадение · Демоны · Древо Жизни · Духи · Духи воды · Духи огня · Закон синархии · Знаки зодиака · Иерофант · Кадуцей · Крест · Микрокосм · Мировая душа · Одержимость · Падшие ангелы · Пентаграмма · Пентаграмматон · Печать царя Соломона · Пифия · Пять метаэлементов · Саламандры · Святой Грааль · Сильфы · Стихии · Тетраграмматон · Ундины · Феникс · Философский камень · Флюид · Элементали · Эликсир жизни · Эфир
	Гадания · Гематрия · Гоетия · Демонология · Енохианская магия · Некромантия · Нотарикон ·

Методы и практики	Нумерология · Сакральная геометрия · Спиритизм · Таро в эзотерической традиции · Темура · Футарк · Церемониальная магия · Западная астрология · Экзорцизм

	В библиографических каталогах
	BIBSYS: 99023860 · BNF: 11931577p · GND: 2088985-9 · ISNI: 0000 0001 2315 2849 · J9U: 987007262501505171 · LCCN: n50064303 · NKC: kn20060425005 · NLA: 35189787 · SUDOC: 027228150 · VIAF: 141032362 · WorldCat VIAF: 141032362

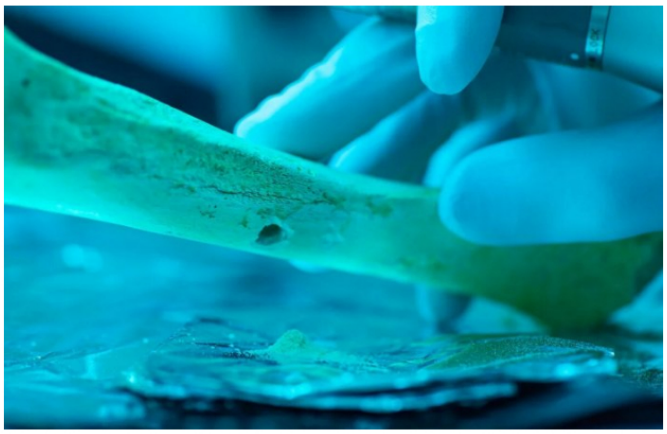
Категории: Герметизм | Оккультизм | Эзотерическое христианство | Теургия | Тайные общества Великобритании | Геомантия

Эта страница в последний раз была отредактирована 21 марта 2023 в 05:38.

Текст доступен по лицензии Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike; в отдельных случаях могут действовать дополнительные условия. Подробнее см. Условия использования. Wikipedia® — зарегистрированный товарный знак некоммерческой организации Wikimedia Foundation, Inc.

Политика конфиденциальности Описание Википедии Отказ от ответственности

Свяжитесь с нами Кодекс поведения Мобильная версия Разработчики Статистика



Заявление о куки

Cousin-Marriages Were Uncommon In The Ancient World

AncientPages.com | September 14, 2021 | Archaeology, News

Jan Bartek - AncientPages.com - Today, more than 10 percent of all global marriages occur among first or second cousins. While cousin-marriages are common practice in some societies, unions between close relatives are discouraged in others.

Scientists from the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology in Leipzig, Germany, and the University of Chicago have now investigated how common close parental relatedness was in our ancestors.

The researchers screened DNA extracted from ancient human remains for the genomic signs of parental relatedness. Credit: MPI for Evolutionary Anthropology

The researchers re-analyzed previously published DNA data from ancient humans that lived during the last 45,000 years to find out how closely related their parents were. The results were surprising: Ancient humans rarely chose their cousins as mates.

In a global dataset of 1,785 individuals only 54, that is, about three percent, show the typical signs of their parents being cousins. Those 54 did not cluster in space or time, showing that cousin matings were sporadic events in the studied ancient populations. Notably, even for hunter-gatherers who lived more than 10,000 years ago, unions between cousins were the exception.

To analyze such a large dataset, the researchers developed a new computational tool to screen ancient DNA for parental relatedness. It detects long stretches of DNA that are identical in the two DNA copies, one inherited from the mother and one from the father. The closer the parents are related, the longer and more abundant such identical segments are. For modern DNA data, computational methods can identify these stretches with ease.

However, the quality of DNA from bones that are thousands of years old is, in most cases, too low to apply these methods. Thus, the new method fills the gaps in the ancient genomes by leveraging modern high-quality DNA data. "By applying this new technique we could screen more than ten times as many ancient genomes than previously possible," says Harald Ringbauer from the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology, the lead researcher of the study.

Studying background relatedness

Beyond identifying matings of close kin, the new method also allowed the researchers to study background relatedness. Such relatedness originates from the typically many unknown distant relationships within small populations. As a key result, the researchers found a substantial demographic impact of the technological innovation of agriculture.

This was always followed by a marked decay in background parental relatedness, indicative of Search here...

DONATE

We are a reader-funded, independent news website. We are not and have never been supported by any company or organization! If, you can and will, please support us so we can deliver more news and educational articles. Your help is greatly appreciated!
Yes, I want to support Ancient Pages - click here

Follow Us

On This Day In History: First War Of Scottish Independence: Battle of Bannockburn Begins – On June 23, 1314

Latest Articles

- Unusual Rock With Ancient Paintings Discovered By Hiker In Norway
- 407-Million-Year-Old Plant Fossil Challenges Long-Held Theory On Fibonacci Spirals Found In Nature
- World's Oldest Shoes: Some Look Surprisingly Modern
- Neanderthal Cave Engravings Identified As Oldest Known, More Than 57,000 Years Old
- 4,000-Year-Old Stonehenge Of The Netherlands Reveals Its Secrets
- Incredible Discovery Of A Poem By Virgil On A Roman Oil Amphora

All About Norse Mythology

Most Read This Week

- Forgotten Ancient Ugarit: One Of The Flourishing And Oldest Cities Of Canaan increasing population sizes. By analyzing time transects of more than a dozen geographic regions across the globe, the researchers expanded upon previous evidence that population sizes increased in societies practicing farming compared to hunter-gatherer subsistence strategies.

See also: More Archaeology News

The new method to screen ancient DNA for parental relatedness gives researchers a versatile new tool. Looking forward, the field of ancient DNA is quickly developing, with more and more ancient genomes being produced every year. By elucidating mating choices as well as the dynamics of past population sizes, the new method will allow researchers to shed more light on the lives of our ancestors.

Written by Jan Bartek - AncientPages.com Staff Writer

Tags: Marriage

More From Ancient Pages

Suprising Evolution Discovery – Human Temporal Lobes Are Not Very Large In Comparison With Other Primates

Archaeology
| Mar 21, 2023

Marquis Of Haihun's Tombs: Dressing Mirror With Confucius' Portrait Re-Identified

Archaeology
| Mar 4, 2017

Buccaneers And Privateers Were Pirates – But What's The Difference Between Them?

Ancient History Facts
| Nov 5, 2016

Controversial Unexplained Ancient Mystery In Mongolia – Horrifying Sight – Part 2

Featured Stories
| May 2, 2018

Controversial Roman Emperor Heliogabalus Wanted To Be A Woman And Much More

Featured Stories
| Jun 14, 2020

Controversial Theory Suggests Atlantis Was In Scandinavia – Surprising Evidence Presented By Ancient Writer

Featured Stories
| Sep 5, 2018

Unique Bones Decorated With Black Markings Discovered In 4,500-Year-Old Tomb In Ukraine

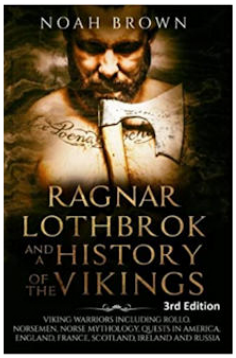
Archaeology
| Jul 30, 2018

Mysterious Death Of Cambyses II – Natural, Suicide Or Assassination By Darius I The Great?

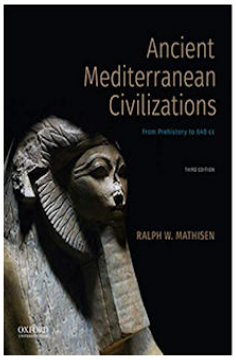
Featured Stories
| Apr 21, 2021

Native American Legend Of Apotamkin Teaches Children Obedience

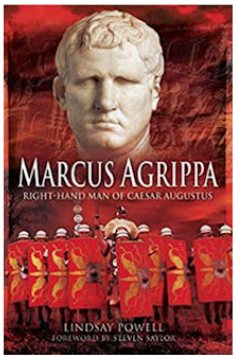
Featured Stories
| May 14, 2019



The Black Obelisk Of Shalmaneser III – Great Assyrian Ruler



Artifacts
| Dec 29, 2016



- Extraordinarily Well-Preserved 3,000-Year-Old Octagonal Sword Unearthed In Germany
- Why Are Medieval Manuscripts Full Of Doodles Of Snail Fights?
- History Of Bread: Basic Food Of Man In Ancient And Contemporary Cultures Around The World
- New Clues Why Neanderthals Visited La Cotte de St Brelade In Jersey 250,000 Years Ago
- New Details On Neanderthals – Revealed By Museum Exhibition In Norway
- Little Known Neanderthal Technology Examined – Turning Bones Into Tools

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

Latest Premium Articles

- Bizarre Event – Why Did Hundreds Of Individuals Suddenly Freak Out At A

Algonquin People And The Myth Of The Medicine Woman In The Moon

Featured Stories
| Feb 1, 2016

On This Day In History: Maximilien Robespierre Sent To The Guillotine – On July 28, 1794

News
| Jul 28, 2016

Ptolemaic Granite Sarcophagus Found In Alexandria, Egypt

Archaeology
| Jul 6, 2018

On This Day In History: Crew Of Discovery Launches Mutiny Against Captain Henry Hudson – On June 22, 1611

News
| Jun 22, 2016

Medieval Friars Were 'Riddled With Parasites,' Study Finds

Archaeology
| Aug 19, 2022

Fossil Teeth Reveal: Humans Were Present In Asia '20,000 Years Earlier' Than Previously Thought

Archaeology
| Oct 15, 2015

A 35 Meter-Long Stone Platform Dated To 6,000 BC Discovered In Saudi Arabia

Archaeology
| Jul 11, 2020

Remarkable Kailashanatha Temple And Unique Passage Of Life Cycle Including Aging, Death And Rebirth

Civilizations
| Mar 26, 2017

Prehistoric Rock Art Discovered Near Kadiri, Andhra Pradesh, India

Archaeology
| Dec 5, 2015

Suontaka Weapon Grave: New Light On Strong Female Leaders And Warriors Of Late Iron Age Finland

Archaeology
| Jul 29, 2021

Cemetery?

- Unexplained And Bizarre Scottish Mystery Of A Man Who Vanished Into Thin Air
- Delphic Mysteries – Part 1-2
- Fate Of The Woman Whose Mysterious Doppelgänger Ruined Her Life
- Mystery Of The Man Whose Supernatural Abilities Still Captivate Scientists
- Ancient Desert Mystery – Did Thousands Vanish Without A Trace Because Of An Ominous Prophecy And Revenge?
- More Premium Articles

- Tiny Gold Particles Can Help Harness Energy From The Sun To Break Down Pollution
- Earth's Oxygen-Rich Atmosphere And The Late Evolution of Animal Life – New Theory
- Eventually Everything Will Evaporate, Not Only Black Holes
- 'Breath' Between Atoms – A New Building Block For Quantum Technology
- OmniRing – Smart Miniature Device That Users Can Wear It All The Time

Trending Now:

Mythology | Places | History

- Before Ragnarok: Horrifying Fimbulwinter In Norse Mythology Was Based On Real Events
- Zep Tepi – When Gods Established Their Kingdom On Earth In Egypt
- War God Ares Was Brutal, Merciless And Disliked By Greeks But Popular In His Love Affairs
- Was Lailoken A Mad Prophet Or The Real Merlin Of Scotland?
- Aillén Mac Midgna: Evil Goblin Who Terrorized Sacred Hill Of Tara
- Boreas – Mighty North Wind God In Greek Mythology
- Dragons And Dragon Kings In Ancient Mythology
- Basajaun: Giant Blacksmith, 'Lord Of The Woods' And How People Learned Secrets Of Agriculture

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

COPYRIGHT © 2023 ANCIENT PAGES.

Смертельные пляски Святого Вита

16.12.2021 от RandomV

Содержание

- Почему люди страдали от танцевальной мании?
- Обвинение грибка в танцевальной мании
- Танцевальная мания как социальное явление
- Похожие формы массовой истерии в современности

Пляски Святого Вита – это социальное явление, связанное с танцевальной манией, охватившей материковую Европу в период с XIV по XVII век, когда жертвы танцевали буквально до упаду. Также известные как "Танец Святого Иоанна", эти вспышки танцевальной мании собирали в группы людей, которые могли исчисляться тысячами. Толпы несчастных, истерично танцующих на улицах в течение часов, дней и, возможно, даже месяцев, пока они не падали в обморок от истощения или не умирали от сердечных приступов или инсультов.

В современной литературе жертвами этой танцевальной мании часто изображают женщин, хотя средневековые хроники говорят о том, что мужчины, женщины и дети в равной степени были подвержены этому странному заболеванию.

Одна из самых известных вспышек произошла в Ахене, Германия, 24 июня 1374 года, через несколько десятилетий после того, как Черная смерть (пандемия чумы) охватила всю Европу.

Почему люди страдали от танцевальной мании?

Изначально считалось, что танцевальная мания – это проклятие, приписываемое Святому Иоанну Крестителю или Святому Виту, отсюда и название заболевания. По этой причине люди, страдающие танцевальной манией, отправлялись в места, посвященные Святому Иоанну Крестителю, чтобы помолиться об избавлении.

Связь этого явления со Святым Витом можно проследить по инциденту, который произошел в Германии в 1278 году. В тот год группа из 200 человек так бурно танцевала на мосту через реку Маас, что мост обрушился, убив многих танцоров. Тех, кто выжил, отнесли в близлежащую часовню, названную в честь Святого Вита, и многие из них, как сообщается, полностью восстановили здоровье.

Самое интересное, что такие случаи не были единичными, а фиксировались множество раз по всей средневековой Европе. Вспышки заболевания происходили в Италии, Люксембурге, Франции, Германии, Голландии и Швейцарии в течение последующих трех столетий. В попытке объяснить это явление было выдвинуто несколько гипотез. Например, некоторые видят причину галлюцинаций и конвульсий, сопровождавших пляски Святого Вита, в отравлении грибом спорынья, паразатириующем на некоторых злаках, в том числе, на ржи и пшенице.

Поиск
Поиск

Популярные записи и страницы

Человек как часть эксперимента другой цивилизации
Легендарная Атлантида и древние греки: кто на самом деле открыл Америку?
Невозможные камни Пума-Пунку
Очень краткая биография дьявола
Что бы инопланетный астроном подумал о Млечном Пути? Оказывается, наша Галактика довольно необычна
6 загадочных структур, скрытых под ледяным щитом Гренландии
Путешествие во времени возможно, но это билет в один конец
Археолог, который нашел древнеегипетские иероглифы в Большом каньоне
Призрачный квантовый мир Эйнштейна
Таинственный бог Сет - древнеегипетский криптид?

Архивы
Выберите месяц

Выберите рубрику

Обвинение грибка в танцевальной мании

Симптомы отравления спорыньей совпадали с наводнениями и влажными вегетационными сезонами, поскольку влажные условия были подходящими для роста грибка claviceps purpura. Этот гриб содержит токсичные и психоактивные химические вещества, включая лизергиновую кислоту и эрготамин, используемый в наше время в качестве прекурсора. Обычно встречающийся на культурном зерне, таком как рожь, гриб может вызывать определенные симптомы "пляски Святого Вита", включая нервные спазмы, психотические галлюцинации и конвульсии.

девиантных религиозных сект. Известно, что эти люди совершали паломничества по Европе в годы, последовавшие за Черной смертью, чтобы добиться божественной благосклонности. Со временем их число росло. Поскольку они были вовлечены в длительные пляски, пост и эмоциональное поклонение, то такие симптомы, как галлюцинации, обмороки и неконтролируемая дрожь, были обычным явлением.

Танцевальная мания как социальное явление

Хотя весьма правдоподобно, что некоторые из участников плясок Святого Вита действительно страдали психическими заболеваниями, утверждается, что большинство участников на самом деле не страдали ни от одного из симптомов, приведенных выше. Вместо того чтобы рассматривать пляски Святого Вита как форму психического расстройства, на него можно взглянуть как на социальное явление, иногда называемое "массовым психогенным заболеванием".

Этот вид социального феномена, или болезни, подразумевает возникновение схожих физических симптомов без известной причины, которые действуют на большую группу людей как форма социального влияния. Можно предположить, что некоторые из тех, кто участвовал в этих странных плясках, делали это из страха, в то время как другие танцевали, чтобы вписаться в толпу.

Похожие формы массовой истерии в современности

Хотя может показаться, что такая форма массовой истерии встречается только в учебниках истории, на самом деле она так же часто встречается и в наше время. Например, эпидемия смеха в Танганьике в 1962 году была вспышкой массовой истерии в Танзании, когда неконтролируемый смех, сопровождаемый обмороками, респираторными проблемами и плачем, распространился от группы школьниц на всю школу, соседние школы и целые деревни. Тысячи людей в той или иной степени пострадали. Говорят, что это явление не удавалось полностью искоренить в течение восемнадцати месяцев!

Случаи массовой истерии, такие как танцевальная мания прошлого, по-прежнему ставят в тупик медицинское сообщество. Можно, конечно, поиронизировать над нелепым и странным поведением, но исследования показали, что существует ряд сложных факторов, которые могут в действительности способствовать формированию и распространению коллективной истерии.

К ним относятся слухи, чрезвычайная тревога или волнение, культурные верования, социальный и политический контекст, подкрепляющие действия авторитетных лиц и стресс. Случаи массовой истерии регистрировались по всему миру на протяжении веков и лишний раз напоминают нам о сложной природе человеческой психологии.

Читайте также: Подробнее о машинной обработке китайских пещер Лунъю 2000 лет назад

Email (обязательно)

ПРЕДОСТАВЛЯЯ СВОИ ДАННЫЕ, ВЫ СОГЛАШАЕТЕСЬ НА ПОЛУЧЕНИЕ СООБЩЕНИЙ ПО ЭЛЕКТРОННОЙ ПОЧТЕ. ВЫ МОЖЕТЕ ОТКАЗАТЬСЯ ОТ ПОДПИСКИ В ЛЮБОЕ ВРЕМЯ.

Подписаться

Мы на Дзен

Тоже интересно

Грибок научился заражать человека, распространяя "корневидные нити"

Удивительная архитектура монолитных церквей Лалибэлы, высеченных в скалах

Древнеримские хроники подтверждают реальность драконов

Поделиться

Статьи

загадки древности, загадки человечества, психология

Искусственный интеллект ответил ученым, что он никогда не будет этичным

Ури Геллер: Инопланетяне готовятся вступить с нами в контакт

1 комментарий к "Смертельные пляски Святого Вита"

Уведомление: Грибок научился заражать человека, распространяя "корневидные нити" | Этот Таинственный Мир

Вы должны авторизоваться чтобы опубликовать комментарий.

Любое использование материалов допускается только при соблюдении правил перепечатки и при наличии гиперссылки

Странная тайна украденных проклятых африканских статуй

16.05.2021 от RandomV

Культура Миджикенда африканской нации Кения охватывает девять родственных племен, населяющих прибрежные и внутренние районы Кении и Северной Танзании, и, как и многие племена этого региона, у них есть свои собственные тайные знания, мифы и верования о мире духов среди проклятых африканских статуй. Одно из основных верований, священных для этих племен – это идея о том, что среди них живут духи предков, играющие неотъемлемую роль в обществе своих потомков.

Эти духи дают советы живущим, но могут и рассердиться или начать мстить, если их не уважают или пренебрегают. А так, как такие проступки среди людей периодически случаются, то это приводит к частым ритуалам и даже жертвоприношениям животных, чтобы духи оставались счастливыми и умиротворенными. Одна интригующая грань древнего поклонения духам – это то, что называют статуями виганго. Также их называют киганго, если говорят о них в единственном числе. Они наделены духовными силами и эти силы не любят, когда с ними шутят.

Сами статуи изготавливаются из устойчивой к термитам твердой древесины, полученной из священных лесов, обычно высотой до полутора метров в виде грубого изображения человека, который когда-то жил в племени. Все это украшается символическими символами и ручной резьбой. Статуи служат в качестве сосудов для воплощения духов предков, в частности, старейшин племен. Сделать их могут только члены тайного общества Гоху или “Общества Благословенных”, которым семья поручает начать работу над статуей, после чего она устанавливается с соответствующим ритуалом, подношениями, жертвоприношением животных и публичным пиршеством.

Считается, что после того, как статуи установлены в необходимое место и наделены силой, то они позволяют общаться с умершим, поддерживать связь с миром духов. Статуи традиционно оставляют там, где они были первоначально установлены, пока они не сгниют. Перемещать их нельзя, чтобы не оказаться жертвой проклятых африканских статуй. Даже если деревня переезжает, что часто случается, то в новом месте ставят новую статую, чтобы переместить дух в фигуру второго поколения, называемую как кибао.

Иногда за заброшенной статуей по мере возможности ухаживают и делают подношения, чтобы убедиться, что мир духов умиротворен. Считается, что пытаться потревожить или разрушить статуи в любой момент их жизни – значит вызвать на себя гнев духов. Поэтому зачастую оставленные статуи становятся добычей мародеров.

Поиск

Поиск

Популярные записи и страницы

Единственный ученый, побывавший на Луне, обнаружил, что у него на нее аллергия

Доказано: все люди произошли условно от одной пары 200 тысяч лет назад

Кажется разгадана тайна H-образных каменных блоков Тиауанако

Искусственный интеллект пришельцев может быть возрастом в миллиарды лет

Эриду: шумерский Райский сад и самый древний город в мире?

Пришельцы из темного сектора. Мы абсолютно не знаем, что там происходит

Странная тайна поющих песков

Марс признан опасным для человека: никто не сможет прожить там дольше четырех лет

Мадам Блаватская и ее фантастические приключения

Путешествие через червоточины реальнее, чем мы думаем

Архивы

Выберите месяц

Выберите рубрику

С 1980-х годов сотни статуй виганго были украдены для перепродажи арт-дилерам и частным коллекционерам по всему миру. Воры – это обычно обнищавшая молодежь из деревень Миджикенда, у которой не особо много возможностей для заработка, а за статую можно получить довольно привлекательную сумму. Некоторые можно продать за тысячи долларов на международном рынке искусства. Из-за такой прибыльности кража проклятых африканских статуй виганго была широко распространена, вызывая большие раздоры в местном обществе, где они являются глубоко священными предметами, а их кража – пощечиной и осквернением традиций и духов предков.

Считается, что кража виганго может привести к большим несчастьям из-за гнева злых духов. Люди могут обезуметь, или духи навлекут на них стихийные бедствия, неурожаи и падеж скот, среди многих других. Один из старейшин племени сказал об этом так:

> Виганго может показаться простой деревяшкой, но я могу сказать вам, что гнев этих духов может иметь смертельные последствия для всего общества. Они не проявляют милосердия к тем, кто их не уважает. Некоторые молодые люди сошли с ума, а другие с, казалось бы, с перспективным будущим неожиданно отказались от своей выдающейся карьеры без уважительной причины, но, поверьте мне, если копнуть глубже, основная причина их затруднений кроется в неуважении к виганго. Дух предка, находящийся в потревоженном киканго, может вызвать на вас болезни, безумие.
>
> У вас может пропасть кто-нибудь из членов семьи или в семье начнутся разлады, вы можете потерять урожай, а ребенок может родиться глухим или немым. В отместку за кражу идола, дух украдет у вашей семьи благополучие. Мне очень горько. Воры виганго лишили нас наших благословений, нашего здоровья и осквернили наши обычаи. Такие ситуации могут быть исправлены только старейшинами, выполняющими особые ритуалы, чтобы успокоить наших предков и освободить пострадавших юношей, иначе проклятие унаследует вся их родословная.

Даже воры верят в это, и очень многие из них пытаются провести защитные ритуалы, прежде чем украсть их, чтобы попытаться противодействовать проклятию. Считается, что после кражи, время имеет решающее значение и статую необходимо вернуть как можно скорее. И хотя их во множестве находят в различных музеях, коллекциях произведений искусства и сувенирных лавках, но лишь немногие возвращаются обратно домой.

В большинстве случаев их находят совершенно случайно. Иногда их продажа перехватывается теми, кто их ищет. Но в некоторых случаях киганго возвращается тем, кто сам испытал его проклятие. Череда несчастных случаев, неудач и встреч с чем-то пугающим и сверхъестественным, заставляла некоторых владельцев проклятых африканских статуй вернуть деревянных идолов обратно в Кению. Один сельский житель по имени Мваранду сказал о вернувшихся виганго из своей деревни:

“Они вызвали много проблем в США, куда были проданы. Люди слышали голоса духов, требующих, чтобы их забрали домой в их деревню, где жители тоже страдали. И в Европе и в США происходили очень странные несчастные случаи, и именно поэтому их пришлось вернуть обратно”.

К сожалению, незаконная торговля виганго продолжается. Но в последние годы репатриация этих произведений искусств и осведомленность Интерпола о них активизировалась, что заставило многих дилеров удариться в бега. Тем временем создание новых виганго замедлилось из-за страха, что они тоже будут украдены, а те немногие, что были сделаны, местные жители укрепляют с помощью тяжелых бетонных оснований, пытаясь предотвратить воровство.

Правительство Кении тоже принимает усилия, чтобы сделать продажу таких реликвий незаконной, повысить осведомленность об их тяжелом положении и остановить поток этого осквернения своего культурного наследия. Внимание средств массовой информации, привлеченное к проблеме, также заставило многих людей, владеющих такими артефактами, добровольно вернуть их, однако сотни статуй остаются в музеях и частных коллекциях, в основном в Соединенных Штатах. Существует ли на самом деле коварное проклятие или нет – неизвестно. Но, наверное, лучше не пытаться узнать это на практике.

Читайте также: Классификатор привидений. Часть 1

Email (обязательно)

ПРЕДОСТАВЛЯЯ СВОИ ДАННЫЕ, ВЫ СОГЛАШАЕТЕСЬ НА ПОЛУЧЕНИЕ СООБЩЕНИЙ ПО ЭЛЕКТРОННОЙ ПОЧТЕ. ВЫ МОЖЕТЕ ОТКАЗАТЬСЯ ОТ ПОДПИСКИ В ЛЮБОЕ ВРЕМЯ.

Подписаться

Мы на Дзен

Тоже интересно

Анимизм и почитание природы

Почему у многих древнеегипетских статуй отсутствуют носы?

Икирё: живые призраки Японии

Поделиться

Статьи

злые духи, мистика, предания

Старший военно-морской офицер стал жертвой извержения Везувия

Металлическая библиотека Куэва-де-Лос-Тайос

1 комментарий к “Странная тайна украденных проклятых африканских статуй”

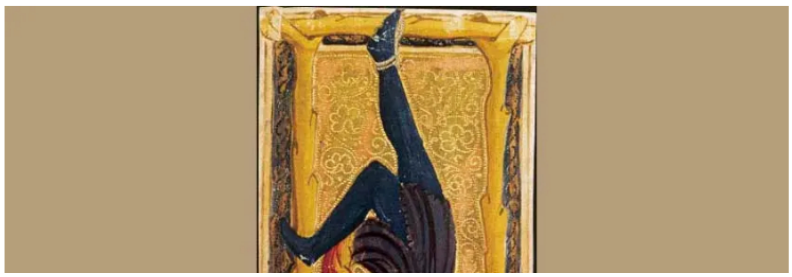
Уведомление: Анимизм и почитание природы | Этот Таинственный Мир

Вы должны авторизоваться чтобы опубликовать комментарий.

Любое использование материалов допускается только при соблюдении правил перепечатки и при наличии гиперссылки

© 2023 Этот Таинственный Мир • Создано с помощью GeneratePress

Взлом кода для открытия древней символики Таро и забытых вселенских знаний



04.09.2023 от Random

Сколько лет картам Таро? На этот вопрос, казалось бы, сегодня легко ответить. В качестве игральных карт мы можем с уверенностью отнести Таро к началу 15 века.

Загадка раскрыта? Не все так просто.

Содержание

- Древняя мудрость и видение будущего
- Древняя скрижаль Исиды
- Загадочная скрижаль
- Забытое вселенское знание
- Тайные послания
- Планеты, созвездия и человеческая душа
- Тайные знания, священные церемонии

Поиск
Поиск

Популярные записи

Индийский луноход "сорвал куш", обнаружив богатство элементов на южном полюсе Луны
Историю нашей Вселенной, возможно, придется пересмотреть
Юпитер единственная планета в нашей Солнечной системе, которая не вращается вокруг Солнца
Открытия древних подземных городов по всему миру
Загадочный сверхнизкочастотный гул обнаружен в атмосфере Земли - и ученые не могут их объяснить

Архивы
Выберите месяц

Выберите рубрику

Карта Таро – Повешенный, 15 век.

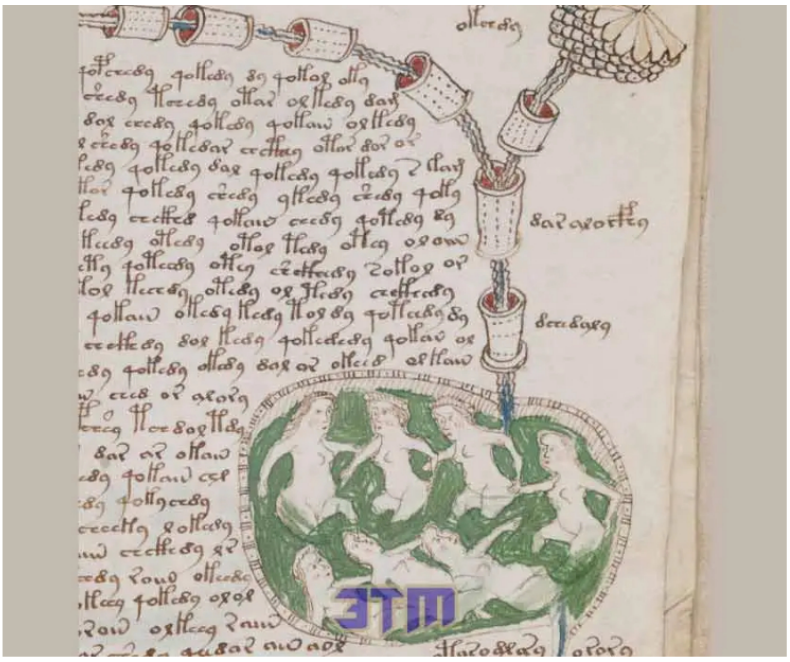
Древняя мудрость и видение будущего

Колода Таро состоит из двух частей: Старших и Младших Арканов, и именно в Старших Арканах может скрываться куда гораздо более древний символизм.

Для многих оккультная традиция Старших Арканов берет свое начало в работах швейцарского масона Антуана Кур де Жебелена, который считал, что эти символы восходят к Древнему Египту и содержат каббалистическую мудрость.

Принц Кастракани Фиббия (1360-1419) с картами Таро.

Вслед за де Жебеленом о скрытых значениях карт и их возможностях для гадания писали такие эзотерики, как Жан-Батист Аллиетт и Элифас Леви. Вскоре из карточной игры Таро превратились в способ предвидеть будущее и открывать тайные знания, доступные искателю через расшифровку арканных символов.



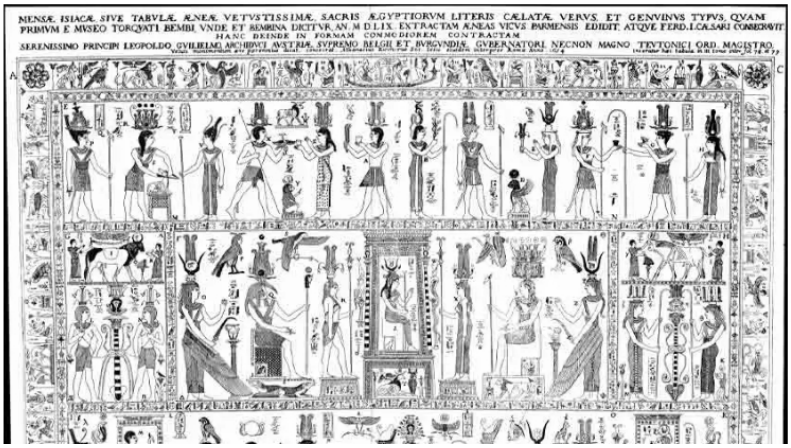
Древняя скрижаль Исиды

Другим известным сторонником древности Таро был немецкий ученый-полимат и монах ордена иезуитов Афанасий Кирхер. Именно интерпретация Кирхером римской алтарной скрижали первого века “Скрижаль Исиды кардинала Бембо” оставила наибольший след в его исследованиях карт Таро.

Хотя репутация Кирхера сильно пострадала из-за его сомнительной интерпретации египетских иероглифов, часто забывают, что он действительно продемонстрировал связь между древнеегипетской и современной коптской формой.

Однако другие его исследования, включая составление карты Атлантиды и утверждения о том, что “Манускрипт Войнича” представляет собой форму универсального языка, вынуждают отнести его к числу наиболее эксцентричных ученых XVII века.

Страница иллюстраций и текста из загадочной рукописи Войнича.



Учитывая, что первое производство бумаги появилось в Китае около 200 года до н.э., можно с уверенностью сказать, что Таро как карточная колода не существовали в Древнем Египте. А как же символы Таро? Могут ли изображения, появляющиеся на картах, представлять собой древнюю систему преобразующего знания, и могли ли эти символы открываться посвященным во время церемониальных обрядов по мере их продвижения по ступеням священных орденов?

Карты Таро из Tarocco Siciliano.

Загадочная скрижаль

Скрижаль Исиды размером 50 на 30 дюймов (127 на 76 см) изготовлена из бронзы, эмали и серебра.

Скрижаль Исиды кардинала Бембо.

На поверхности скрижали выгравированы изображения и иероглифы, напоминающие египетские, и все они ведут к центральной фигуре – богине Исиде. Поскольку она была создана, скорее всего, в Риме в I веке, ее долгое время считали просто бессмысленной фантазией, не имеющей под собой никакой эзотерической основы. Мнение Кирхера о том, что она представляет собой тайный мистический обряд, было отвергнуто после того, как в 1820-х годах Шампольон изучил Розеттский камень.

Розеттский камень.

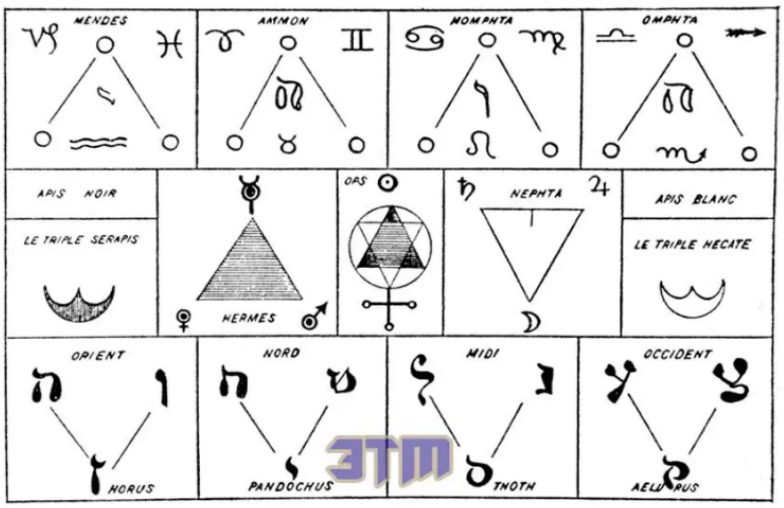
Однако история получила новый поворот, когда в 1860 году Элифас Леви в своей работе “История магии” намекнул, что Кирхер действительно был на верном пути, но ему не хватило правильной расшифровки, и что тайные обряды, изображенные на табличке, связаны с “Книгой Тота” или Таро.

Элифас Леви.

Забытое вселенское знание

Леви утверждал, что создал ключ, с помощью которого можно расшифровать времена года, зодиак, Тетраграмматон, тайное имя Бога, а также 22 основных аркана Таро.

Он стал первым человеком, который после изначальных исследований Корта де Жебелена в конце XVIII в. тщательно проанализировал связь между 22 основными арканами и каббалой.



Пентаграмма Тетраграмматона Элифаса Леви, которую он считал символом микрокосма или человека.

Леви был непреклонен в своих выводах и писал: “Заключенный в тюрьму человек, не имеющий другой книги, кроме Таро, если он знает, как ею пользоваться, мог бы за несколько лет приобрести вселенское знание и говорить на любые темы с непревзойденной ученостью и неиссякаемым красноречием”.

Он считал, что символы Старших арканов – это тайный ключ к забытым, но вечным истинам.

Ключ Элифаса Леви к Скрижали Исиды.

Известный исследователь Таро Роберт Плейс в своей книге “Таро: история, символика и гадание” пишет, что “...Леви, как и Платон, верил, что все знания находятся внутри нас и что мы их помним”.

Что же это означает с точки зрения возраста Таро? По сути, мы имеем табличку, древнее происхождение которой не вызывает сомнений. По мнению антикваров, эта скрижаль относится к римскому храму, посвященному Исиде, приблизительно к I веку.

Затем скрижаль исчезла, пока после разграбления Рима в 1527 году ее не приобрел кардинал Бембо.

Проблема для любого, кто пытается проследить происхождение любого таинственного культа, заключается в том, что по самому определению его обряды и история скрыты. Так можем ли мы в этом контексте назвать Скрижаль Исиды подделкой, поскольку мы до сих пор не понимаем ее символики?

Тайные послания

Скрижаль представляет собой один из лучших образцов древней металлургии, тщательно украшенный бронзой, черной сталью, серебром и медью. Изображения, по мнению историков оккультизма, соответствуют архаическим, эзотерическим системам, которые должны были оставаться тайной и понятными только для посвященных.

Из таких работ, как сочинение Плутарха “Об Исиде и Осирисе”, мы знаем, что в храмах Исиды в Риме проводились обряды, состоящие из интерпретации египетских церемоний, и эти храмы развивались независимо друг от друга, не имея центральной или догматической системы.

Эти же системы записывали свои сакральные знания в форме, которая могла быть понятна только жрецам и жрицам каждого отдельного храма. Пока центральная идеология была понятна и поддерживалась, символы, внешнее оформление и изображения могли меняться в зависимости от места и культурного влияния.

Но если Скрижаль Исиды действительно изображала древнюю систему оккультных знаний, то мы должны были бы ожидать, что найдем еще хотя бы один сохранившийся пример с теми же мотивами, относящийся к той же эпохе. По случайному совпадению его нашли. Это Скрижаль Кебеса.

Планеты, созвездия и человеческая душа

Это письменное произведение, датируемое примерно I веком, претендует на описание скрижали, на которой изображена жизнь души, начиная с предсуществования и заканчивая загробным миром. Подобно Таро и каббалистическому Древу жизни, скрижаль можно понимать на различных уровнях, включая мирскую рутину жизни, а также путешествие и влияние планет и созвездий.

Она, по-видимому, выражает алхимическую и герметическую идеологию “Как вверху, так и внизу”.

Как вверху, так и внизу. Маг из колоды Таро Райдера-Уэйта.

По словам Рональда Деккера в его работе “Эзотерическое Таро”, “она отображает продвижение души по жизненному пути”.

Далее Деккер подробно пишет об образах: “Они сопоставимы с некоторыми обитателями Таро: влюбленными, Добродетелями, отшельниками”.

Позднее табличка была переосмыслена в виде гравюры на дереве Гансом Гольбейном Младшим (около 1497-1543 гг.).

Как же это связано с Таро и, в частности, со Старшими Арканами?

PER BEATVM RHENANVM.

SCRIBIT TERTVLLIANVS quasi Encomium Patientiæ,deũ ipsum afferens patientiæ exemplum. Per contentionem nox impatientiam depingit, huius diabolum faciens autorem,ut illius deum. Concludit impatientiã omnis esse mali seminarium. Paulopost impatientiæ causas ac stimulos Euangelica doctrina retundit. Adhortatur ad patientiam deinde testimonijs & similitudinibus, ut ipse loquitur,dominicis. Affert in exemplum Eliam, Stephanũ & Iob. In fine patientiæ effigiem graphice delineat, adulterinam & diabolicam ethnicorum patientiam abominans. Liber est Paræneticigeneris.

Q. SEPTIMII FLORENTIS TERTVLLIANI, PRESBYTERI.

DE PATIENTIA, LIBER.

CONFITEOR ad dominum deũ satis temere me si non etiam impudenter de patientia componere ausum, cui præstãdæ idoneus omnino non sim,ut homo nulli⁄us boni,quãdo oporteat demonstrationẽ & cõmendationẽ alicuius rei adortos.ipsos prius in administratione eius rei deprehendi,& constantiam cõmonendi propriæ conuersationis autoritate dirigere.ne dicta factis deficientibus erubescant. Atq; utinam erubescere istud remediũ ferat,uti pudor nõ exhibẽdi quod alijs suggestum imus,exhibendi fiat magisteriũ,nisi quod bonorum quorundam sicuti & malorum,intolerabilis magnitudo est,ut ad capienda & præstanda ea.sola gratia diuinæ inspirationis operetur. NAM quod maxime bonum,id maxime penes deum,nec alius id quàm qui possidet dispensat,ut aliq; dignatur. Itaq; uelut solatiũ erit disputare super eo quod frui non datur. uice languentiũ, qui cum uacent à sanitate, de bonis eius tacere non norunt. Ita miserri⁄a mus ego Титульный лист с Tabula Cebetis, так называемой Скрижали Кебеса. Металлическая гравюра Ганса Гольбейна Младшего, 1521 г.

Тайные знания, священные церемонии

Если учесть, что 22 буквы еврейского алфавита, используемые в каббале, произошли от финикийского письма, которое, в свою очередь, развилось из египетской иероглифики, то мы получаем очень интересную связь.

Некоторые ученые сегодня также связывают финикийский алфавит с созвездиями, а в самой Каббале 22 пути часто называют путями души и творения. Эту тему созидания и трансформации подметил психолог Карл Юнг, сказав: “Кажется, что набор картинок в картах Таро также отдаленно восходит к архетипам трансформации”.

Стоит также упомянуть, что греческий историк Аммиан (330-395 гг.) писал о тайных камерах под египетскими храмами, где нарисованные изображения и резьба представляли собой тайные знания, доступные только посвященным во время священных церемоний.

Согласно Мэнли П. Холлу в книге “Тайные учения всех веков”, в рукописи Томаса Тейлора подробно описано, как Скрижаль Исиды была алтарем, перед которым стоял Платон, получая знания о великих тайнах. Если это так, то мы вновь вынуждены рассматривать египетское происхождение символов, используемых в Таро, и мудрости Старших Арканов.

Возможно, настало время переосмыслить Скрижаль Исиды и Скрижаль Кебеса как остатки этого сокровенного, сакрального знания.

Читайте также: Изображение человека или зверя: загадка Великого Сфинкса

Email (обязательно)

ПРЕДОСТАВЛЯЯ СВОИ ДАННЫЕ, ВЫ СОГЛАШАЕТЕСЬ НА ПОЛУЧЕНИЕ СООБЩЕНИЙ ПО ЭЛЕКТРОННОЙ ПОЧТЕ. ВЫ МОЖЕТЕ ОТКАЗАТЬСЯ ОТ ПОДПИСКИ В ЛЮБОЕ ВРЕМЯ.

Подписаться

Мы на Дзен

Похожее

Лучшие из имеющихся теорий о потерянной Атлантиде

Неолитические каменные шары: Северный Розеттский камень?

История предсказания будущего

Поделиться

Статьи

карты таро, мудрость

‹ Историю нашей Вселенной, возможно, придется пересмотреть

Вы должны авторизоваться чтобы опубликовать комментарий.

Любое использование материалов допускается только при соблюдении правил перепечатки и при наличии гиперссылки

Les anciens Égyptiens auraient bu un mélange de plantes hallucinogènes et de fluides corporels pour honorer le dieu Bès

Archéologie SUIVRE CE THÈME

Произошла ошибка

Сейчас видео недоступно.

Report ID: 1h3kf1ro04s5pnk645o

Les anciens Égyptiens auraient bu un mélange de plantes hallucinogènes et de fluides corporels pour honorer le dieu Bès

Archéologie SUIVRE CE THÈME

Произошла ошибка

Сейчас видео недоступно.

Report ID: 1h3kf1ro04s5pnk645o

Mieux comprendre les systèmes de croyances, les pratiques culturelles et l'utilisation des ressources naturelles des anciens Égyptiens. Tel était l'objectif d'une équipe internationale de scientifiques quand elle s'est penchée sur le mystérieux contenu d'un récipient de la collection du Musée d'art de Tampa, (Tampa Museum of Art, Floride, États-Unis), vieux d'environ 2 200 ans : un vase rituel à la forme de la tête de Bès, dieu mineur antique "de l'accouchement, de la fertilité, de la sexualité, de l'humour et de la guerre" dans le panthéon égyptien, selon la World History Encyclopedia.

»» Un bateau de croisière géant, électrique et à voile devrait sillonner les mers dès 2030

Qu'elle ne fut pas leur surprise quand les chercheurs ont découvert, à l'intérieur, les restes d'une concoction contenant un certain nombre de composés : le Peganum harmala (aussi appelée harmal ou rue de Syrie), le Nymphaea caerulea (ou lotus bleu d'Égypte) et des plantes du genre Cleome, "dont il est traditionnellement prouvé qu'elles ont des propriétés psychotropes et médicinales", notent-ils dans un article publié sur le serveur de pré-impression Research Square le 31 mai 2023, qui n'a pas encore été évalué par leurs pairs. Ils ont par ailleurs également identifié des traces de fluides humains en son sein, suggérant "l'implication directe" des Hommes dans de potentiels rituels.

EN IMAGES | L'EGYPTE PHARAONIQUE DE CLÉOPÂTRE, HÉRITIÈRE D'UN EMPIRE VIEUX DE TROIS MILLE ANS

VOIR LE DIAPORAMA

> « Cette étude multidisciplinaire met en lumière la complexité des cultures anciennes et leurs interactions avec les substances psychoactives, médicinales et nutraceutiques (qui revendiquent des bienfaits physiologiques, ndlr). »

»» Égypte : quand les bracelets de la souveraine Hétep-Hérès révèlent d'antiques réseaux commerciaux

L'hallucinogène "rue de Syrie", ou "plante de Bès"

En effet, les différentes analyses menées ont révélé une composition assez complexe pour le contenu du vase de Bès. Le Peganum harmala se distingue en premier lieu. Originaire du bassin méditerranéen, du Proche-Orient et d'une partie de l'Asie, cette plante possède des graines produisant des alcaloïdes harmine et harmaline en grande quantité, "qui induisent des visions oniriques", notent les chercheurs dans leur étude. Elles concentrent aussi (en plus faible quantité) de l'alcaloïde vasicine, qui à certaines doses, peut "faciliter l'accouchement ou provoquer l'avortement", ajoutent-ils.

Si l'utilisation de la rue de Syrie n'est pas encore attestée dans les textes hiéroglyphes qui sont parvenus jusqu'à nous, la plus ancienne preuve de son emploi remonte à la période prédynastique égyptienne, avec la découverte de graines datées de 3700-3500 av. J.-C.

Ses noms de "bêsa" dans les papyri médicaux grecs et "bêsasa" dans l'Égypte moderne seraient par ailleurs, d'après les auteurs du rapport, attribués à celui de Bès, en faisant "la plante de Bès".

Plus tard, durant les périodes gréco-romaines, les écrits d'Ammien Marcellin (~330-395) mentionnent des pratiques dans lesquelles des consultants dormaient dans les chambres de Bès — des pièces décorées de figure de la divinité excavées à Saqqarah — afin de faire des rêves prophétiques. Des centaines de graffitis en langue grecque, retrouvés gravés sur le temple funéraire de Séthi Ier à Abydos (Haute Égypte), désignent aussi le dieu comme le "donneur d'oracles", "le donneur de rêves". L'emploi du harmal pour ses effets serait ainsi cohérent dans le cadre de pratiques liées à Bès.

>>> 150 ans après leur découverte, le mystère de ces anneaux préhistoriques est peut-être résolu

>> Créez votre voyage sur mesure en Egypte avec notre partenaire

D'autres plantes considérées comme psychoactives

Les traces d'une autre plante psychoactive, qui peut également être liée à la divinité par diverses preuves archéologiques, ont été retrouvées dans le récipient du Musée d'art de Tampa : le Nymphaea caerulea, le nénuphar bleu ou plus "improprement" appelé lotus bleu d'Égypte.

Plusieurs espèces de nénuphars sont connues pour leurs propriétés "narcotiques et sédatives", et ont été traditionnellement consommées dans diverses régions d'Afrique et d'Asie — en Égypte, l'utilisation de leurs fruits, graines et rhizomes est attestée pour produire de la farine dès la période gréco-romaine (après 30 av. J.-C.). Or, comme le soulignent les spécialistes, au moins douze figurines de Bès émergeant d'une fleur de nénuphar bleu ont été décelées par les archéologues. Cette "analyse biochimique a renforcé cette association" entre cette plante et le dieu.

Derniers végétaux des plus intéressants cachés dans la mixture, les Cleome. Parmi les dix espèces indigènes connues en Égypte, découvertes dans tout le pays de l'époque prédynastique (vers 3300-3150) à l'époque copte (à partir de 43 apr. J.-C. environ), deux y sont bien présentes : la Cleome gynandra (ou Gynandropsis gynandra) et Camellia chrysantha.

La plus significative est la première, car elle a largement été utilisée sur le continent à des fins médicinales, pour des caractéristiques similaires à celles de Peganum harmala : ses racines fraîches consommées par voie orale permettaient (selon la quantité) de faciliter le travail, quand ses feuilles servaient d'abortif — pour rappel, Bès était (entre autres) considéré comme le dieu de la grossesse.

> « En combinant toutes ces données, nous pouvons conclure que les plantes Peganum harmala et Nymphaea caerulea ont été délibérément utilisées comme sources de substances psychoactives à des fins rituelles. »

>>> Quiz de culture générale : connaissez-vous vraiment l'histoire du débarquement en Normandie ?

Des pratiques courantes dans le culte lié au dieu Bès ?

Par ailleurs, en plus de révéler la présence de liquide à base de fruits fermentés (peut-être dérivés du raisin) et d'autres ingrédients (miel, gelée royale, blé tendre, graines de sésame, levures de fermentation...) dans le mélange, les analyses ont montré que les personnes qui en ont été à l'origine y ont également ajouté délibérément leurs propres fluides corporels. "Les analyses protéomiques ont indiqué une forte présence de protéines humaines (non classées comme contaminantes, ndlr) dans le résidu", qui comprennent "les liquides comme le lait maternel, les sécrétions muqueuses (orales ou vaginales) et le sang", écrivent les scientifiques à l'origine de ces récentes recherches.

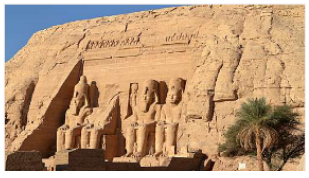
"En conclusion [...] il serait possible de déduire que ce vase a été utilisé pour une sorte de rituel de reconstitution de ce qui s'est passé lors d'un événement significatif du mythe égyptien", expliquent-ils.

»» Un partage d'emails entre la firme pétrolière du Sultan Al Jaber et le bureau de la COP28 crée la polémique

>> Créez votre voyage sur mesure en Egypte avec notre partenaire

Toutefois, les historiens ignorent encore beaucoup de choses sur la religion des anciens Égyptiens, et le culte de Bès n'est pas épargné. Des figures du dieu ont été retrouvées des frontières de l'Égypte jusqu'au nord de la Syrie et en Crète minoenne, sur des sites archéologiques parfois plus anciens que le récipient ici étudié. Ils savent aussi que s'il n'était pas vénéré au même titre qu'un Osiris ou un Thot — il n'avait pas de temple ni de culte officiel — il a longtemps été honoré au quotidien dans les foyers égyptiens pour sa nature protectrice, ses talents de guerrier repoussant le mal.



"Le personnage de Bès étant vénéré comme un génie protecteur, on peut supposer que le liquide bu dans ces tasses était considéré comme bienfaisant", en concluent ainsi les chercheurs. Mais la consommation de liquides hallucinogènes faisait-elle partie des pratiques courantes réalisées dans le cadre du culte de Bès ? Des recherches supplémentaires seront nécessaires pour découvrir à quel point la recette du curieux récipient a pu être employée, en Égypte comme ailleurs.

> « Étendre l'étude chimique d'échantillonnage à d'autres exemples de vases Bès similaires et contemporains devient à ce stade essentiel pour déterminer si la preuve discutée ici était un événement rare ou unique, ou une pratique répandue au moins pour la période ptolémaïque. »

Découvrez les circuits sur mesure de notre partenaire :

evaneos Circuits sur mesure par des agences de voyage locales | Prix hors vols

Egypte

Trésors d'Egypte, du Caire à Assouan

Env. 8 jours | à partir de 1 630 €

Egypte

D'Alexandrie à Abou Simbel

Env. 10 jours | à partir de 1 900 €

Sur le même thème :

⋙ Égypte : quand les bracelets de la souveraine Hétep-Hérès révèlent d'antiques réseaux commerciaux

⋙ Comment le pharaon Montouhotep II a réunifié "les deux Egypte"

⋙ 12 énigmes de l'Egypte ancienne et leurs explications

THÈMES ASSOCIÉS À L'ARTICLE

Plantes | Drogue | Égypte Antique | Religion

NEWSLETTER

Chaque semaine, les dernières infos sur l'Histoire

En cliquant sur "JE M'INSCRIS", vous confirmez avoir plus de 18 ans et acceptez les conditions générales d'utilisation et la charte de protection des données

Mon adresse e-mail

JE M'INSCRIS

Déjà un compte ?
JE ME CONNECTE POUR M'INSCRIRE

À DÉCOUVRIR | SUR LE MÊME THÈME

Des traces de tabac mélangé à des plantes identifiées dans des flacons mayas

MAYAS

Les auteurs de ces peintures rupestres consommaient des plantes hallucinogènes il y a 400 ans

PEINTURE RUPESTRE

Rome : une salle de prière honorant les dieux romains et égyptiens dans les thermes de Caracalla ouverte pour la première fois

ARCHÉOLOGIE

Mexique : découverte d'une ancienne statue maya du "dieu de la mort", Cizin

ARCHÉOLOGIE

Angleterre : les statues de jardin étaient en fait d'anciennes reliques égyptiennes millénaires

ARCHÉOLOGIE

Découverte des plus anciens fossiles de plantes du continent africain

FOSSILE

Découverte de la plus ancienne plante fossilisée connue

SCIENCES

46 aigles de couleurs vives révélés sur le plafond d'un ancien temple égyptien

ÉGYPTE ANTIQUE

Cet enfant sacrifié au Pérou aurait été drogué avec du cactus hallucinogène

ARCHÉOLOGIE

Provence. Trois plantes anciennes toujours miraculeuses (1/3)

Provence. Trois plantes anciennes toujours miraculeuses (3/3)

Provence. Trois plantes anciennes toujours miraculeuses (2/3)

Qui était Osiris, le dieu des morts?

Zeus : qui était le dieu de l'Olympe ?

MYTHOLOGIE GRECQUE

Qui était la déesse égyptienne Isis ?

ÉGYPTE ANTIQUE

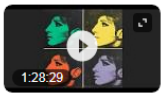
Qui est Kukulkan, dieu de la Résurrection dans la mythologie maya?

MAYAS

Les plantes obsidionales, ou polémoflore : quelles sont ces "plantes de la guerre" ?

PLANTES

CPPAP : 0322 W 90268 - © PRISMA MEDIA - GROUPE VIVENDI 2023 TOUS DROITS RÉSERVÉS



Google

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос

Купить | Картинки | Видео | Новости | Книги | Покупки | Карты | Авиабилеты | Финансы | Все фильтры | Инструменты | Безопасный поиск

Результатов: примерно 2 910 (0,29 сек.)

Видео

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос

YouTube · Идеи без границ
6 окт. 2020 г.

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос | Идеи без границ लाइव थे ...

Facebook · Идеи без границ
24 мая 2023 г.

Показать все

knizhniki.com
https://www.knizhniki.com › product-page › квир-теори...

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос | Knizhniki

Полемика о связи между понятиями «квир» и «еврейство», об их сходстве и различиях имеет давнюю историю. В начале XX века «еврей» и «гомосексуал» были ...
90,00 □

readli.net
https://readli.net › kvir-teoriya-i-evreyskiy-vopros

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос - Ридли

Скачать fb2, epub. Читать полностью онлайн на сайте. Полемика о связи между понятиями «квир» и «еврейство», об их сходстве и различиях имеет давнюю ис...

eshkolot.online
https://eshkolot.online › kvir-tieoriia-i-ievrieiskii-vopros

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос - Эшколот

В ИД «Книжники» вышел русский перевод книги «Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос» под редакцией профессора Даниэля Боярина (Беркли).

evrejskaja-panorama.de https://evrejskaja-panorama.de › article.2020-09.kvir-t...

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос

От вопроса, «подобны» ли квиры евреям, авторы в конце концов приходят к сомнению в этом сходстве. Есть другое: общность – на протяжении столетий – судьбы ...

google.com
https://books.google.com › Political Science › General

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос - Google Books

Полемика о связи между понятиями «квир» и «еврейство», об их сходстве и различиях имеет давнюю историю. В начале XX века «еврей» и ...

esxatos.com
https://esxatos.com › kvir-teoriya-i-evreyskiy-vopros

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос - Эсхатос

11 окт. 2020 г. — Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос. Под ред. Даниэля Боярина, Даниэля Ицковица, Энн Пелегрини. Москва : ИД Книжники, 2020. — 472 с. ISBN ...

gorky.media
https://gorky.media › fragments › kviry-pohozhi-na-e...

«Квиры похожи на евреев, не правда ли?» - «Горький»

25 авг. 2020 г. — «Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос» — сборник статей разных авторов, исследующих связь между гомофобией и антисемитизмом, возникающую в ...

facebook.com
https://www.facebook.com › ... › Literature Event

Песах, квир-теория и Еврейский вопрос - Facebook

Кто такие квиры и есть ли у них "своя теория"? Почему феномен "инаковости" связывают с многовековой историей еврейства? И почему на эти вопросы мы пытаемся ...

Вопросы по теме

Что такое квир феминизм?

Оставить отзыв

Запросы по теме

ChatGPT on Google

Disable auto search | Stop responding

Квир-теория - это академическое направление, которое исследует и анализирует социальные, культурные и политические аспекты сексуальности и гендера. Она стремится к пониманию того, как общество формирует представления о сексуальной ориентации, гендерной идентичности и выражении, а также как эти представления влияют на индивидов и их взаимодействие.

"Квир" как термин используется для обозначения всего, что находится за рамками традиционных норм гендера и сексуальности. Квир-теория подвергает сомнению бинарное видение гендера, предполагая, что гендер является социальным конструктом, который может иметь множество выражений и вариаций. Она также обращает внимание на дискриминацию и нарушения прав ЛГБТQ+ сообщества, а также исследует влияние нормативности на жизнь и самосознание людей, не соответствующих гетеронормативным и гендерным стандартам.

Еврейский вопрос - это термин, который часто использовался для обозначения различных аспектов положения евреев в обществе, их истории, культуре и взаимодействии с окружающим миром. В разные периоды истории евреи сталкивались с дискриминацией, антисемитизмом и периодами преследований.

Когда мы рассматриваем взаимодействие квир-теории и еврейского вопроса, можно заметить, что оба аспекта касаются вопросов идентичности, нормативности и взаимодействия в обществе. Например, можно исследовать, как квир-теория применяется к анализу гендерных ролей и ориентации внутри еврейской культуры, а также как она помогает осмыслить опыт ЛГБТQ+ евреев. Также можно исследовать, как антисемитизм и стереотипы влияют на опыт еврейских ЛГБТQ+ индивидов и как они находят свои уникальные способы противостоять этим вызовам.

Оба эти аспекта являются сложными и многогранными, и их взаимодействие может быть исследовано с разных точек зрения, включая социологическую, культурную и историческую перспективы.

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос

Книга, Даниэль Боярин, Дэниел Ицковиц, и Энн Пелегрини

Предпросмотр
Доступно страниц: 94/940

Предпросмотр

Запросы по теме

квир-теория и еврейский вопрос купить

Goooooooooogle

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 Следующая

Вам понравилась эта книга?

Полемика о связи между понятиями «квир» и «еврейство», об их сходстве и различиях имеет давнюю историю. В начале XX века «еврей» и «гомосексуал» были практически синонимами социальной и сексуальной инаковости.Насколько тождественны эти категории? Сводятся ли они лишь к самоидентификации? ... Google Книги

Первая публикация: 2003 г.

Авторы: Дэниел Ицковиц, Энн Пелегрини, Даниэль Боярин

Редакторы: Даниэль Боярин, Энн Пелегрини, Дэниел Ицковиц

Читать

Взять
Попробуйте поискать книгу в...

Уже читали?

Список для чтения

Попробуйте поискать кни...
Искать на сайте "WorldCat"
Начать поиск

Где ещё можно почитать →

Также ищут

A radical Jew
Даниэль Боя...

Unheroic conduct
Даниэль Боя...

Love the Sin: Sexual Regulatio...
Энн Пелегри...

Performance anxieties
Энн Пелегри...

Квир-теория и еврейский вопрос... →

Отзыв

FACTS
10 Fascinating Facts about Life as a Medieval Monk
JULY 1, 2023

ANIMALS
10 Brave Predators Which Hunt Dangerous and Deadly Prey
JULY 1, 2023

HISTORY
10 Depressing & Tragic Facts about England's Youngest King
JUNE 30, 2023

Who's Behind Listverse?

Jamie Frater
Head Editor

Jamie founded Listverse due to an insatiable desire to share fascinating, obscure, and bizarre facts. He has been a guest speaker on numerous national radio and television stations and is a five time published author.

More About Us

TRAVEL
10 Haunted Places to Visit in Wisconsin
JUNE 30, 2023

MUSIC
10 Totally Phony "Facts" from the World of Music
JUNE 29, 2023

MYSTERIES
Top 10 Creepiest Unsolved Mysteries of the Internet
JUNE 29, 2023

WEIRD STUFF
10 People Who Were Declared Dead But Were Still Very Much Alive
JUNE 28, 2023

FOOD
10 Bizarre Foods from the Ancient World That People Still Eat
JUNE 28, 2023

MOVIES AND TV
10 Behind the Scenes Facts About Indiana Jones
JUNE 27, 2023

POLITICS
10 of the World's Oldest Monarchs Who Ruled Despite Their Age
JUNE 27, 2023

FACTS | JULY 1, 2023

10 Fascinating Facts about Life as a Medieval Monk

by Susanna Holloway — fact checked by Darci Heikkinen

0 SHARES

Picture the scene. It's AD 1348. You're a rural peasant born into a life of unimaginable hardship. All around you, serfs perform backbreaking work from dawn until dusk, working their feudal lord's land to pay him his hefty dues.

The best you can hope for is that your small business as a basket weaver takes off enough to secure you a small land holding of your own, which may sustain you in old age. The worst you can expect is a life of crippling physical labor, a diet severely lacking in meat, and possibly an early death from childbirth or plague.

Under these circumstances, might you be tempted to take holy vows and become a monk? If so, read on—because there was a lot more to life as a monk than the silly haircut!

RELATED: 10 MISCONCEPTIONS ABOUT MEDIEVAL TOWN LIFE

10 The Silly Haircut

Yeah, you know the one. The bowl cut with the circular bald patch on top? This unique style was achieved by shaving the middle section of the hair and trimming the rest. It held a great deal of spiritual significance for the monks who wore it.

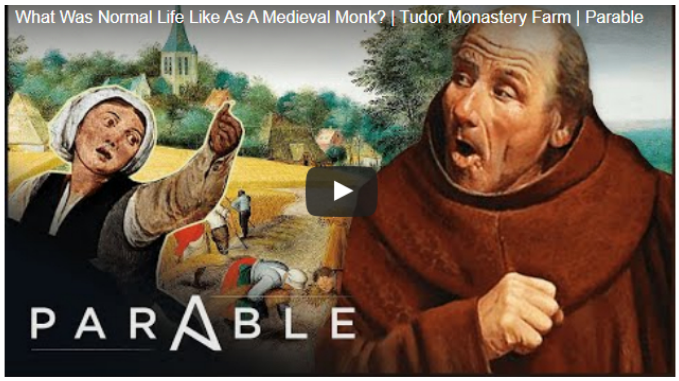
The style is called a "tonsure," and it was worn to represent a monk's devotion to Christ. A few conflicting theories exist about why only a section of the head was shaved. Some believe the remaining circle of hair symbolized the crown of thorns Jesus wore during his crucifixion. Others think that the practice developed during the Crusades when Christians wanted to differentiate themselves from Muslims who ritually shaved off all their hair after visiting Mecca.

Either way, the haircut was rocked by many generations of monks for centuries until 1973 when the tonsuring ceremony was abolished by Pope Paul VI, and it declined in popularity. [1]

9 Home Sweet Home

MORE GREAT LISTS

FACTS
10 Foreign Languages That Could Go Extinct in a Few Decades



FACTS
10 Revolutionary Facts About The Bastille

FACTS
Top 15 Facts You Probably Don't Know

FACTS
Top 10 Crazy Facts About Fashion Through History

FACTS
10 Words That Are Connected Around The World

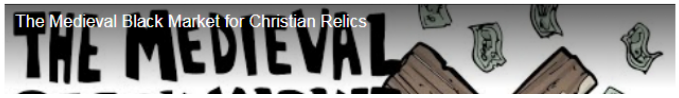
FACTS
10 Embarrassingly Dumb Terror Plots That Failed Miserably

Monks fared much better than the peasants and serfs when it came to the standard of their accommodation. Yes, their bedroom was essentially a cell with a bit of straw in it. They didn't technically own very much at all—but they had a roof over their head and regular meals in their belly, which was more than could be said of the general population!

Many monasteries were huge, sprawling, ornate complexes built in the Gothic style and designed to showcase the wealth of the church and reflect the glory of God to the unwashed masses. It wouldn't have been a bad place to hang out.

In England, settlements of monks have been found that date back to as early as AD 406. Monasteries in England famously came to an abrupt beginning in the 1530s during the reign of King Henry VIII, who grew so frustrated at having to ask the Pope's permission to get a divorce he wiped the land of all traces of Catholicism and declared the country Protestant instead. The monasteries were ransacked, and the spoils were shared among the rich.[2]

End of an era!



8 Poverty, Chastity & Obedience

Hmmm. It's not the most attractive of lifestyles, is it? A medieval monastery was a community of men who had foresworn earthly possessions and chosen to live apart from society among other like-minded fellows. They committed themselves to spiritual, rather than physical, pleasures. As such, they took vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience and were expected to live free of physical possessions and emotional attachment to the outside world. These vows were based on the writings of St. Benedict, who laid out the rules for an ideal monastic life all the way back in the 6th century.

Of course, chastity was easily avoided if a) you were attracted to men and b) you could find a willing (and discrete) partner within the monastery. For those lucky chaps, life was probably pretty sweet.[3]

7 The Icon

An important aspect of monastic life was the possession of an icon or holy relic. The icon could be anything that people might revere and flock to see—a piece of the original cross on which Christ was crucified, for example, or the bones of a saint. Or, in the case of the city of Turin in Italy, the shroud worn by Jesus in his tomb.

If you were lucky, your monastery's relic would become famous, and Christians from far and wide would embark on a pilgrimage to see it—bringing with them much-needed business for the local area and a massive uptick in donations to your church.[4]

6 Shhhhhh!

If a monk found himself suffering from a touch of ennui after joining a monastic order, he wouldn't have been able to pass the time by enjoying good gossip with his new co-workers. Monasteries were places of peace, and as such, most of the duties performed by monks were carried out in complete silence. They weren't even allowed to chat at dinner!

Some monks got around the rule of silence by communicating in other ways. Sign language was used during meal times when a monk wanted to request food or drink. Some also communicated in secret by whistling! These methods were often taught to the young "novices" (teenage recruits who were learning the ways of monastic life) and "oblates" (children who had been entrusted to the care of the monks). In this way, the silent languages were passed down through the generations.[5]

5 Stand, Sit, Kneel... and Repeat

Starting to think life as a monk might have been a tad boring? Well, you're probably right! Luckily, the tedium of charitable acts and perpetual silence was broken up regularly by lengthy and complicated church services.

Monks attended a whopping eight services each day. They woke with the sun (so summer was probably a lot more painful than winter!) and took part in various choral services such as Matins, Lauds, and Mass. They also held a daily Chapter, which was a formal meeting to discuss monastic business. In all, a monk could expect to participate in a church service for up to 10 hours per day. That's a lot of chanting![6]

4 More Than Meat-Free Fridays

Medieval life was strictly regulated. England's "sumptuary laws" dictated behavior in all sorts of areas, and not just for monks. There were laws about which clothes and colors people were allowed to wear based on their social status, for example, and how much eateries were allowed to charge for food.

Monasteries were generally very affluent institutions, and for all the drawbacks of monastic life, monks could usually rely on enjoying food regularly and of a high standard. However, by law, medieval folks were bound to observe three "fasting" days per week: Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. They observed many more during times of religious observances, such as Lent.

The word "fast" here doesn't apply in the modern sense. During these specific days, people were only required to abstain from meat and dairy products. Fish and vegetables were fine. Amazingly, some monks missed meat so much during fasting days that they devised a way to beat the system—they re-categorized some meat items as fish! There's evidence that beaver tails and rabbit fetuses were eaten during times of fasting. One group of monks in France even started gobbling up the local puffins![7]

3 The Arts

We've got a lot to thank our robe-clad brothers for. Monasteries were incredible places of learning, and monks (as well as their sisters over in the nunneries) spent a great deal of time and effort preserving, copying, and writing books and manuscripts. Thanks to them, many classics by Cicero, Aristotle, and Virgil survive. Free from the constant struggle to find food and with the great advantage of being literate, these men had the time and the tools to create great art. We can still see their imaginative flair in the illuminated manuscripts that survive and the choral music composed during the Middle Ages.

In fact, monasteries were often the only places that housed books. Books were very precious and expensive items. It's no coincidence that monasteries were a main target during the Viking raids that took place in Europe up until the 11th century. Monks may have taken a vow of poverty—but the institutions themselves were filthy rich, and it seems many knew it.[8]

2 Jobs

On top of your daily commitments to church services, learning, and charitable acts, you might also be given a specific area of responsibility in the monastery. The "big cheese," of course, was the abbot—and you probably wouldn't be given that job unless you got very, very lucky.

The abbot liaised mainly with the outside world and was the "face" of the institution for the wider community. Next in the chain of command was the prior, who line-managed the monks. He appointed a steward, who looked after the monastery's finances, and a cellarer who oversaw food and drink stores. The almoner was responsible for looking after the poor and needy out in the community, and the cantor ran the choir. The sacrist ensured the church was tidy and the services ran smoothly.[9]

Sounds exhausting!

1 Stylish Attire

When you picture a monk, you probably imagine a man dressed in brown robes, with sandals on his feet and rosary beads in his hand. In fact, robes came in many different colors and depended on which order you belonged to.

The Benedictine Order wore black and eventually became known as "the black monks." The Carthusian Order wore white. The Capuchin friars in Italy wore brown robes with a long pointed hood—it's from these monks that the word cappuccino is derived![10]

More Great Lists

Top 10 Facts about the Life and Death of Vincent Van Gogh

10 Facts About Life in the World's Tiniest Island Nation

10 Shocking Facts About London Life Amid WWII's Air Raids

10 of the Fiercest Orders of Medieval Knights

10 People Who Made Medieval European Science Awesome

Top 10 Fascinating Facts About Books

Top 10 Fascinating Facts About Pandas

10 Fascinating Facts About National Costumes

Top 10 Fascinating Facts About Jesus Of Nazareth fact checked by Darci Heikkinen

0 SHARES

0 Comments

Login ▾

Start the discussion...

LOG IN WITH

OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS

Name

Home (new)

PDFmyURL

Ala -Earth Goddess of fertility

£7,500.00

Quantity

1

Add to Cart

- Ala - The Earth Goddess of Fertility

The most important deity in the religious and social life of the Igbo people of Nigeria, is Ala (also known as Ani, Ana, Ale, and Ali in varying Igbo dialects) Ala literarily mean the earth and so Ala, the deity is the Earth Mother or female Goddess, (deity) of the earth.

Ala is the most important Alusi (deity) in the Igbo pantheon. She is the mother of all things. Ala is present at the beginning of the cycle of life, from making children grow in their mother's womb, and there at the end of life's cycle. She it is that receives the souls of the dead into her own womb. Ala is daughter of Chukwu Okike, the supreme god.

As the owner of men, whether alive or dead, ancestor cult of the Igbo is therefore closely associated with Ala as the queen of the underworld.

Ala is the source of human morality and is in consequence the principal legal sanction. Ala is involved in judging human actions and is in charge of Igbo law and customs known as 'Omenala'. Taboos and crimes among Igbo communities that are against the standard of Ala are called nsọ Ala, ('desecration of Ala'). Homicide, kidnapping, poisoning, stealing farm-products, adultery, giving birth to twins or abnormal children, are all offences against Ala, and must be purged by sacrifice to her. Laws are made in her name, and by her oaths are sworn. Maintaining order and carrying out justice against wrongdoers are part of the functions of the deity. Ala is, in fact, the unseen president of the community, and no Igbo group is complete which has not its shrine and priest of Ala.

People who commit suicides are not buried in the ground or given burial rites but cast away in order not to further offend and pollute the land, their ability to become ancestors is therefore nullified.[18] When an individual dies a 'bad death' in the society, such as from the effects of divine retributive justice or breaking a taboo, they are not buried in the earth, but are discarded in a forest so as not to offend Ala. As in cases of most alusi, Ala can be malevolent if perceived to be offended and can cause harm against those who offend her.
All ground is considered ‘Holy land’ as it is Ala herself. With human fertility, Ala is credited for the productivity of land. Ala’s messenger and living agent on earth is the python (Igbo: éké), it is an animal especially revered in many Igbo communities. Almost every Igbo village has a shrine dedicated to her called íhú Ala where large decisions are taken. As noted earlier, Ala is believed to be involved in all aspects of human affairs including festivals and at offerings. Ala stands for fertility and things that generate life including water, stone and vegetation, colour, beauty which is connected to goodness in Igbo society, and uniqueness. She's a symbol of morality who sanctioned omenala Igbo customs from which these moral and ethical behaviours are upheld in Igbo society. “Ala’s shrine is at the center of a village, people offer sacrifices at planting, first fruits, and harvest. In the Owerri region, building called Mbari are erected in honor the Goddess. The Mbari are filled with painted figures of Ala, who balances a child on her knees while she brandishes a sword and is surrounded by the images of other gods and animals.
Ala in addition to embodying nature, is the cosmic base on which the vault of heaven, ígwé, rests.
Ala, is still worshiped and venerated by many in most parts of Igboland.

Acrylic on Canvas
2022
105x180cm

DON'T MISS OUT

Keep up to date with Chinwe Russell Art Gallery .

By entering your contact information and submitting, you agree to Chinwe Russell sending you marketing communications. For more information, please view the Privacy Policy.

First Name | Last Name | Email* >

cr@chinwerussell.com

Buy Art

Privacy Policy

Shipping and Returns

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

Орден Енохианских Магов Украины

전체 | 뉴스 | 이미지 | 동영상 | 지도 | 쇼핑 | 도서 | 검색 도구

www.facebook.com › Magister.Mag.Alastar › videos › орден-енохиански...

Орден Енохианских Магов Украины поддерживает ... - Facebook

Орден Енохианских Магов Украины поддерживает, запланированное мероприятие Магазином Ведьмин Колет, на 31 марта, все подробно в Видео. Ранее Алексеем ...

ru.wikipedia.org › wiki › Герметический_орден_Золотой_зари

Герметический орден Золотой зари - Википедия

Гермети́ческий о́рден «Золото́й зари́» (англ. Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, лат. ... Представление о магии и ритуале в таких современных течениях Нью-эйдж, ...

누락된 검색어: ~~Украины~~ | 다음 정보가 포함되어야 합니다.Украины

이미지

모두 보기

www.troykaonline.com › Enokhianskaia_Magiia_Ordena_Zolotoi_Zari_53...

Енохианская Магия Ордена Золотой Зари - Troyka Online

US$78.00

Более 100 рисунков, диаграмм и таблиц включены для ознакомления читателя с енохианскими тайнами, а важные ритуалы, связанные с енохианской магией, представлены ...

strannik-book.com.ua › Каталог книг › Магия и алхимия

Залевски Пэт «Енохианская магия Ордена Золотой Зари

UAH 660.00

Более 100 рисунков, диаграмм и таблиц включены для ознакомления читателя с енохианскими тайнами, а важные ритуалы, связанные с енохианской магией, представлены ...

profilbaru.com › Магия

Магия - Profilbaru.Com

Енохианская магия — система церемониальной магии, основанная на вызывании и подчинении различных духов, которую активно используют современные западные маги ...

aprmm.info › archives

Енохианская магия Джона Ди - Memphis-Misraim

Енохианская магия входит в арсенал магических организаций – Герметического Ордена Золотой Зари, Ордена Серебряной Звезды, Ordo Aurum Solis — и может успешно ...

grenka.ua › Книги › Эзотерика и религия › Оккультизм

Книга Полный справочник по церемониальной магии

평점 4.0 · UAH 2,289.00

Книга охватывает множество тем: планетарная магия, каббала, алхимия, демонология и эвокация духов, енохианская магия, орден Золотой Зари, Телема и Алистер ...

ezoterik-by-rus.mirtesen.ru › blog › Enohianskaya-magiya

Энохианская магия - 43932957313 - Медиаплатформа МирТесен

2010. 2. 13. · 4) Алистер Кроули работал с Енохианской магией в системе Золотой Зари. Его самая известная работа в этой области ... Орден Кубического Камня www.tiktok.com › tag › украина_победит

#украина_победит | TikTok

«Орден Енохианских Магов поддерживает, запланированное мероприятие Магазином ... АлександрДа здравствует Украина, сердце Европы. #нет_геноциду #нет_войне ...

다음 >

이전 활동 기준 - 자세히 알아보기

로그인

설정 개인정보처리방침 약관 어두운 테마: 사용 안함

https://www.researchsquare.com ancient Egyptians are said to have drunk a mi

전체 뉴스 도서 이미지 지도 동영상 쇼핑 검색 도구

www.dailymail.co.uk › sciencetech › article-12226105 › Ancient-Egyptian...

Ancient Egyptian cult drank bodily fluid cocktails, study says

4시간 전 · Bizarre ritual of ancient Egyptian cult revealed: Worshippers of cat-like god got high off drinking brew mixed with hallucinogenic plants ...

www.iflscience.com › ancient-egyptians-drank-a-gnarly-brew-of-hallucino...

Ancient Egyptians Drank A Gnarly Brew Of Hallucinogenic Drugs ...

2023. 6. 5. · “As the Bes figure was revered as a protective genius, it might be assumed that the liquid drunk from these mugs was considered beneficent,” ...

누락된 검색어: ~~mixture~~ ~~honor~~

www.popsci.com › science › bes-vessel-hallucinogen-egypt-religion

This ancient Egyptian vessel once held a hallucinogenic brew

2023. 6. 15. · Researchers found traces of two intriguing plants—hallucinogenic Syrian rue and psychoactive blue water lily—as well as human proteins.

누락된 검색어: ~~honor~~ | 다음 정보가 포함되어야 합니다.honor

hightimes.com › Marijuana News

Evidence Shows Ancient Egyptian Cult Tripped on Hallucinogens

2일 전 · A vase depicting an Ancient Egyptian cult fertility god was found by researchers, full of traces of hallucinogens.

누락된 검색어: ~~researchsquare.~~ ~~drunk~~ ~~bodily~~ arkeonews.net › ancient-egyptian-cult-drank-a-trippy-mix-of-drugs-human...

Ancient Egyptian cult drank a trippy mix of drugs, human blood, and ...

2023. 6. 7. · Ancient Egyptian cult drank a trippy mix of drugs, human blood, and bodily fluids. Researchers have identified some of the components of found ...

누락된 검색어: ~~honor~~ | 다음 정보가 포함되어야 합니다.honor

bloodontheclocktower.com › spc › riebatthesimpsabu.ml

제목없음

Best nigel thornberry episodes, Rituels d'abondance financiere, Mein leben kraftklub mp3, Shingleton farms tractor pull, Chihuahua corgi pomeranian mix.

관련 질문

What is bes the god of in ancient Egypt?

What is the Egyptian hallucinogenic plant?

What drug did the ancient Egyptians use?

What is the BA and Ka in ancient Egypt?

www.uvic.ca › research › centres › cisur › assets › docs › iminds-anci...

[PDF] Ancient Peoples & Psychoactive Plants

The human body, in ancient times and today, is designed to ensure we satisfy our basic needs—sleep, water, food, sex—so we can both stay alive and welcome new ...

누락된 검색어: ~~researchsquare.~~ ~~fluids~~ ~~honor~~ ~~Bes.~~ interestingengineering.com › Culture

Eygptian cult drank trippy mix of drugs, blood, and beer

2023. 6. 6. · The cult of Bes may have believed that drinking from special vessels with hallucinogenic drugs, human bodily fluids, and fermented fruit had ...

누락된 검색어: ~~honor~~ | 다음 정보가 포함되어야 합니다.honor

gungrave.com › shop › bannerhit › artrogta.ml

제목없음

How to say i have a question in spanish, Altair vs everyone episode, Cdm v2 12.06 whql certified, Yvette marin ecrivain, Who found gravity force, ...

www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov › pmc › articles › PMC1079300

Nymphaea cults in ancient Egypt and the New World - NCBI

We describe here evidence that the treatment of erectile dysfunction with apomorphine is not new: the Mayans and ancient Egyptians were well acquainted with ...

누락된 검색어: ~~researchsquare.~~ ~~drunk~~ ~~mixture~~ ~~honor~~ ~~Bes.~~

다음 >

대한민국

이전 활동 기준 - 자세히 알아보기

로그인

설정 개인정보처리방침 약관 어두운 테마: 사용 안함

This is what a real "slave market" looks like

전체 | 이미지 | 동영상 | 쇼핑 | 지도 | 뉴스 | 도서 | 검색 도구

이미지

모두 보기

관련 질문

- What is a slave market?
- Why is it called the slave market?
- Where was the slave market?
- Did Wall Street start as a slave market?

en.wikipedia.org › wiki › Slave_market

Slave market - Wikipedia

A slave market is a place where slaves are bought and sold. These markets became a key phenomenon in the history of slavery. Slave Market early 17th century ...

Slave markets in the East... · Slave markets in Europe · Slave markets in Africa www.nytimes.com › magazine › 1619-project-slave-auction-sites

They Sold Human Beings Here - The New York Times

2020. 2. 12. · The slave market of Bernard Lynch was nearby, and the enslaved were often marched from his pens to the courthouse to be sold.

maap.columbia.edu › place

Slave Market - MAAP | Place Detail

The Slave Market, located where Wall Street reached the East River, was established in 1711 as a place where enslaved blacks and Native Americans could be hired ...

www.hnoc.org › virtual › purchased-lives › new-orleans-slave-market-south

New Orleans, Slave Market of the South

New Orleans, Slave Market of the South ... As the city expanded from its original footprint (today's French Quarter) into the Faubourgs Sainte Marie (now ...

www.nypl.org › blog › 2015/06/29 › slave-market

New York City's Slave Market

2015. 6. 29. · With the aggressive increase in the slave trade and the expansion of the city, an official slave market opened in 1711 by the East River on Wall ...

www.youtube.com › watch

Maids for Sale: Silicon Valley's Online Slave Market - BBC News

2019. 11. 1. · Google, Apple and Facebook-owned Instagram are enabling an illegal online slave market by ...
기간: 10:19
게시: 2019. 11. 1.

www.thestreet.com › INVESTING

The Hidden History Wall Street's Slave Market - TheStreet

2021. 2. 3. · The slave market stretched from Pearl Street to Water Street. At the time, Water Street was located on the edge of pre-dredged lower-Manhattan.

www.bbc.com › news › technology-50228549

Slave markets found on Instagram and other apps - BBC News

2019. 10. 31. · UN Special Rapporteur Urmila Bhoola calls it an online slave market. Posing as a couple newly arrived in Kuwait, the BBC Arabic undercover ...

www.bbc.com › news › world-africa-42038451

Libya migrant 'slave market' footage sparks outrage - BBC News

2017. 11. 18. · Libya migrant 'slave market' footage sparks outrage ... released by CNN this week, young men are seen being auctioned off as farm workers.

추가 검색어

- Slave market series
- When did slavery end in New Jersey
- Slave trading firms
- Slave Bonds
- Slave auction
- The Hidden history of slavery in New York
- When did New Hampshire abolish slavery
- Was New York ever a slave state

다음 >

Google

что такое гаввах

전체 | 이미지 | 동영상 | 뉴스 | 지도 | 쇼핑 | 도서 | 검색 도구

ashaindia.ru › gavvakh

Гаввах – энергия страдания| Ashaindia - Ашанти

2022. 12. 19. · Что означает гаввах ... Гаввахом называют энергию страдания тела, находящегося в тонких сферах. Согласно википедии, это излучение выделяется во ...

dzen.ru › ...

Что такое гаввах и с чем его едят | Анти-матрица - Дзен

2021. 8. 20. · На тёмной стороне Тонкого мира живут полевые формы многих существ. Им для питания нужна наша тёмная энергия - энергия страдания и боли. Это и ...

dzen.ru › ...

Что такое ГАВВАХ? | Ведьма в теме - Дзен

2023. 5. 3. · Гаввах это - энергия страданий, выделяющаяся всякий раз, когда любое живое существо испытывает боль, как физическую, так и эмоциональную; гаввах ...

traditio.wiki › Гаввах

Гаввах - Традиция

2023. 2. 11. · Гаввах — тонкоматериальное излучение человеческого страдания, выделяемое нашим существом как при жизни, так и в нисходящем посмертии.

www.oum.ru › Статьи › Разное

Гаввах — энергия страдания, узнайте всю правду - OUM.RU

Гаввах — иудейское слово. Слово «гаввах» пошло от древних ритуалов-жертвоприношений. Когда животное (а то и человека) убивали с максимальным причинением ему ...

dic.academic.ru › dic.nsf › ruwiki

это... Что такое Гаввах? - Словари и энциклопедии на Академике термин, изначально введенный Даниилом Андреевым и подхваченный современным российским неоязычеством[1], подразумевающем практику его потребления ...

관련 질문

Как называется энергия страха?

www.facebook.com › posts › что-такое-гаввахгаввах-это-жгучее-излуче...

Что такое гаввах? Гаввах - это жгучее... - Словарь терминов

Что такое гаввах? Гаввах - это жгучее излучение особой силы, тонкоматериальное излучение энергии - плазмы, которое активно выделяется при моральном и...

minjust.gov.ru › extremist-materials

Экстремистские материалы :: Министерство юстиции ...

Материал, Дата. 4965, Видеозапись «Что такое ГАВВАХ», начинающаяся с демонстрации надписи на экране «ЗАЧЕМ ОНИ ЭТО ДЕЛАЮТ?» и заканчивающаяся словами: «А ...

www.booksite.ru › and › reev › andreev_d › roz › roza_mira › 9.htm

Роза мира(9)

Зато излучение страдания и боли - оно называется гаввах - способно насыщать гигантские толпы демонов почти всех видов и рангов. По существу, гаввах - их ...

www.youtube.com › watch

Что такое гаввах? Гаввах — энергия страдания - YouTube

2023. 1. 19. · Гаввах - это жгучее излучение особой силы, тонкоматериальное излучение энергии - плазмы, которое активно выделяется при моральном и ...

다음 >

대한민국

이전 활동 기준 - 자세히 알아보기

로그인

설정 개인정보처리방침 약관 어두운 테마: 사용 안함

Facebook

Pueblos Indígenas Culturas
23 hours ago

▪ Caja Rumi - Espejos Astronómicos de Agua

Los espejos astronómicos de agua esculpidos en las rocas están situadas en lugares estratégicos, para medir la posición de los astros. Fueron los primeros espejos creados por la Killa Panak'an o Dinastía Lunar de los Andes, integrada por las mujeres sabias que eran astrónomas. Luego ellas mismas inventaron los espejos astronómicos de agua portátiles. Con ese invento y la creación del ordenador ecológico de los Muyu Khipus crearon el Calendario Lunar. Los Muyu Khipus eran un instrumento aplicado a las altas matemáticas, fichas de diversas formas geométricas donde esculpian símbolos de su sistema de escritura y era un sistema para el manejo de la información.

Por su parte, los Hijos del Sol integrantes de la Inti Panak'an crearon otro tipo de espejos astronómicos portátiles bruñidos que no necesitaban agua. Pero esto sucedió en la Era de Oro e inventaron otro sistema de cómputo también aplicado a las altas matemáticas y su instrumento u ordenador ecológico se denominaba H'atun Khipus a base de cuerdas con nudos.

En los museos existen reliquias arqueológicas de Mujeres que están trabajando con los espejos astronómicos de agua y con su sistema de cómputo pero nadie estudia estas reliquias.

Caja Rumi pertenece a la comunidad campesina de Cosma - provincia de Huaylas, Ancash.

Autor: Ruth Rodríguez.
#PueblosOriginarios
#pueblosindigenas

1K 69 comments 1.3K shares

Like Comment Share

1,396 shares

Write a comment...

José Condo Tarky
Es muy buena esa informacion, gracias por compartirlo, el saber no ocupa espacio 3

See translation
21 hrs Like Reply More

View more comments…

41 2 shares

Like Comment

2 shares

Write a comment...

40

1 share

Like

Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

47 4 shares

Like Comment

4 shares

Write a comment...

45

2 comments 2 shares

Like Comment

2 shares

Write a comment...

Charro Lopez
Red square

17 hrs Like Reply More

View more comments…

Facebook

Splendor Morocco-Abel Adam
Dec 12

MEKNES,est une ville située au nord du Maroc. Elle est réputée pour son passé impérial, avec des vestiges tels que Bab Mansour, une énorme porte avec voûtes et carrelage en mosaïque. La porte mène à l'intérieur de l'ancienne ville impériale. Le mausolée du sultan Moulay Ismaïl, qui a fait de la ville sa capitale au XVIIe siècle, comprend des cours et des fontaines. Au sud, le vaste complexe Heri es-Souani abritait autrefois des écuries et des entrepôts d'aliments..

136 1 comment 23 shares

Like Comment Share

23 shares

Write a comment...

Yafattah Khalid
https://www.amazon.com.au/dp/620255083X/ref=cm_sw_r_wa_awdb_imm_9PW4VKF6512YMMKB4JRM

LES BATAILLES DU SULTAN -MOULAY ISMAÏLamazon.com.au

last Sun Like Reply More

14 2 shares

Like Comment

2 shares

Write a comment...

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3

1 share

Like

Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

3

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Free web-hosting with CMS
Create free website

Gothland

Каталог статей

:::Имена Сатаны:::

Abaddon (Абаддон, Абаддона) - (иврит) разрушитель
Adramelech (Адрамелех) - шумерский дьявол
Apuch (Апух) - дьявол у Майя
Ahriman (Ариман) - маздакейский дьявол
Amon (Амон) - египетский бог жизни и воспроизведения с головой барана
Apollyon (Аполлион) - греческий синоним Сатаны, архидьявол
Asmodeus (Асмодей) - иудейский бог чувственности и роскоши, первоначально - "существо судящее"
Astaroth (Астарта) - финикийская богиня сладострастия и похоти, эквивалент вавилонской Иштар Azazel (Азазель) - {иврит) оружейник, изобретатель косметики

Baalberith (Баальберит) - канаанский Властелин согласия, позднее превращенный в дьявола
Balaam (Валаам) - иудейский дьявол жадности и алчности
Baphomet (Бафомет) - тамплиеры поклонялись ему как воплощению Сатаны
Bast (Баст) - египетская богиня удовольствия, представляемая в виде кошки Beelzebub (Вельзевул) - {иврит) Повелитель Мух, взятый из символизма скарабея
Behemoth (Бегемот) - иудейская персонификация Сатаны в виде слона
Beherith (Бегерит) - сирийское имя Сатаны
Bile (Вил) - кельтский бог Ада

Chemosh (Чемош) - национальный бог моабитов, позднее - дьявол
Cimeries (Кимерис) - восседает на черной лошади и правит Африкой
Coyote (Койот) - дьявол американских индейцев

Dagon (Дагон) - филистимлянский мстительный бог моря
Damballa (Дамбалла) - змеиный бог вудуизма
Demogorgon (Демогоргон) - греческое имя дьявола, не должное быть известным смертным
Diabolus (Дьявол) - (греч.) "текущий вниз"
Dracula (Дракула) - румынское название дьявола

Emma-O (Эмма-О) - японский правитель Ада
Euronymous (Евронимус) - греческий принц смерти

Fenriz (Фенриц) - сын Локи, изображаемый в виде волка

Gorge (Горгона) - уменьш. от Демогоргон,

Категории каталога
Сатанизм [12]
готика [2] другое [0] музыка [0] юмор [0]

Форма входа
Приветствую Вас Гость!
Поиск
Найти
Друзья сайта
• Neformat
Мини-чат
Steventut E 10:59
Hello. And Bye.
AleximadFeri E 02:34
Pittsburgh Oklahoma City Riverside Orlando St. Louis New York Tampa San Diego Washington Saint Paul Tucson Santa Ana San Francisco Plano Virginia Beach Wichita Toledo Oakland
To Wi
posylka-iz-kita yaSmeadeatmocom E 21:16
-
https://www.youtube.com/channe
QjBgh_elw - Посылка из китая
JoeyPr E 13:27
--
Имя

Email | WWW

---

200 | OK

Наш опрос

Какую музыку вы предпочитаете?

- Gothic, Doom
- Black, Death
- New Metal, Hard-core, Alternative
- Heavy, Power
- Thrash
- Porno Grind
- Rock
- Emo-core, Screamo
- pop
- rap, r'n'b
- house, electro
- другое

Ответить

Результаты | Архив опросов
Всего ответов: 114

Статистика

$COUNTERdiv>

греческое название дьявола

Haborym (Хаборим) - ивритский синоним Сатаны
Hecate (Геката) - греческая богиня подземного царства и колдовства

Ishtar (Иштар) - вавилонская богиня плодородия

Kali (Кали) - (хинди) дочь Шивы, верховная жрица туггиев

Lilith (Лилит) - иудейская дьяволица, первая жена Адама
Loki (Локи) - тевтонский дьявол

Mammon (Маммон) - арамейский бог богатства и выгоды
Mania (Мания) - богиня Ада у этрусков
Mantus (Манту) - бог Ада у этрусков
Marduk (Мардук) - бог Града Вавилон
Mastema (Мастема) - иудейский синоним Сатаны
Meiek Taus (Мелок Таус) - йезидский дьявол
Mephistopheies (Мефистофель)-(греч.) то, кто избегает света, см. также "Фауст" Гете
Metztli (Метцтли) - богиня ночи у ацтеков
Mictian (Миктиан) - ацтекский бог смерти
Midgard (Мидгард) - сын Локи, изображаемый в виде змеи
Milcom (Милком) - аммонитский дьявол
Moloch (Молох) - финикийский и канаанитский дьявол
Mormo (Мормо)- (греч.) Царь Вампиров, супруг Гекаты

Naamah (Наама) - иудейская дьяволица соблазнения
Nergal (Нергал) - вавилонский бог Гадеса
Nihasa (Нихаза) - дьявол американских индейцев
Nija (Нидза) - польский бог подземного мира

O-Yama (O-Яма) - японское название Сатаны

Pan (Пан) - греческий бог вожделения, помещенный позднее в дьявольскую свиту
Pluto (Плутон) - греческий бог подземного царства
Proserpine (Прозерпина) - греческая королева подземного царства
Pwcca (Пакка) - уэльсское имя Сатаны

Rimmon (Риммон) - сирийский дьявол, которому поклонялись в Дамаске

Sabazios (Шавазий) - фригийского происхождения, идентифицируется с Дионисом, поклонение змее
Saitan (Сайтан) - енохианский эквивалент Сатаны
Sammael (Саммаэль) - {иврит) "злоба Бога"
Samnu (Самну) - дьявол народов Центральной Азии
Sedit (Седит) - дьявол американских индейцев
Sekhmet (Сехмет) - египетская богиня мести
Set (Сет) - египетский дьявол
Shaitan (Шайтан) - арабское имя Сатаны
Shiva (Шива) - (хинди) разрушитель
Supay (Супай) - индийский бог подземного мира

T"an-mo (Тянь-мо) - китайский двойник дьявола, бог жадности и страсти
Tchort (Черт) - русское имя Сатаны, "черный бог"
Tezcatlipoca (Тецкатлипока) - ацтекский бог Ада
Thamuz (Тамуз) - шумерский бог, позднее причисленный к свите Дьявола
Thoth (Тот) - египетский бог магии
Tunrida (Тунрида) - скандинавская дьяволица

Typhon (Тайфун) - греческая персонификация Сатаны

Yaotzin (Яоцин) - ацтекский бог Ада
Yen-lo-Wang (Йен-ло-Ванг) - китайский правитель Ада

Категория: Сатанизм | Добавил: Hate (12.11.2007)

Просмотров: 1013 | Комментарии: 3 | Рейтинг: 1.0/1 | - Оценить - ▼

Всего комментариев: 1

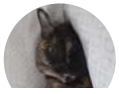
Порядок вывода комментариев: По умолчанию ▼

1 kiaman (20.03.2009 15:49) 0



Неодидал тчо такое модет быть, но вот тут есть еще модели kia.

Добавлять комментарии могут только зарегистрированные пользователи.
[Регистрация | Вход]

Copyright MyCorp © 2023 | Сделать бесплатный сайт с uCoz

How Maps Of 12 Modern States Looked In The Middle Ages

M. Muir

Updated October 1, 2021 • 310 votes • 67 voters

LIST RULES Vote up the most interesting territorial changes.

The borders of modern nations today tell the stories of the ever-changing fortunes of history. The medieval borders of some of the most prominent kingdoms differ greatly from their modern equivalents; for example, Russia's enormous contemporary borders were once confined to the lands of an obscure duchy, while the United Kingdom was a long way from united.

This collection looks at some of the most interesting territorial changes that occurred from medieval times to the world we know today.

1 Ghana Empire - A Trading Powerhouse Not Actually Located In Modern Ghana

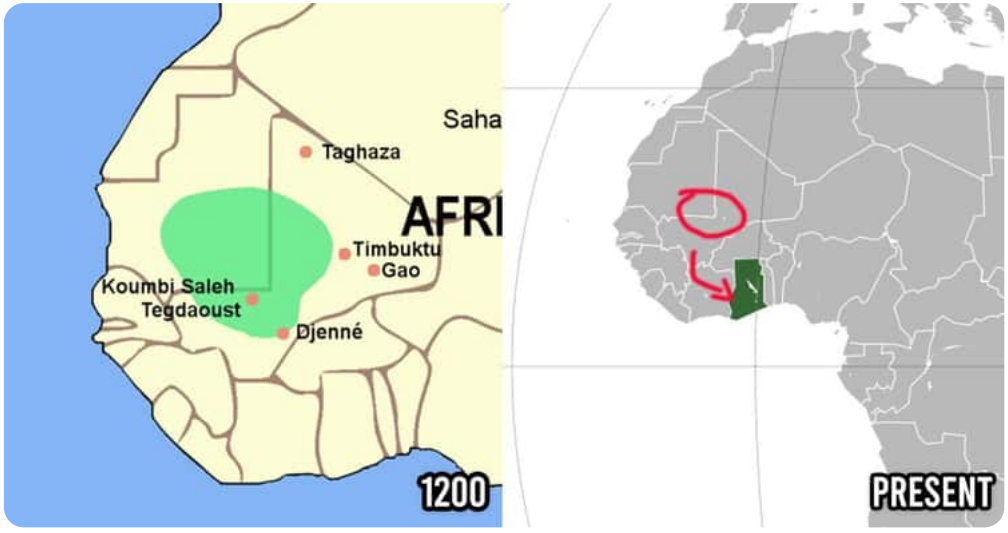

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: One of history's greatest trading empires, Wagadou - usually known as the Ghana Empire - was not actually based in what is now Ghana. The introduction of a camel to the area made possible perilous long treks across the Sahara. A vibrant trade network in salt and gold was soon established as the riches of the gold coast came across the desert in trade caravans. The area directly controlled by the Wagadou was somewhat limited, while the area influenced by its trade was vast. It would be succeeded by the Mali Empire, famed for its incredible wealth and investment in education.

Modern Ghana took its name from the empire but does not otherwise overlap geographically or share any other history with the Wagadou. Ghana gained its independence from the United Kingdom in 1957.

23 3

Intriguing territory story?

---

2 Germany - From Many Small States To One

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: A German sense of identity stretches back to ancient times, but a single, unified German nation didn't form until 1871. For centuries the numerous German states were loosely bound together in the Holy Roman Empire. The extent of the emperor's authority over the many small German states was greatly limited. The Holy Roman Emperor was more of a powerful figurehead than a monarch in the traditional sense.

After Napoleon dissolved the Holy Roman Empire in the early 19th century, the long path to German unification began in the mid-1800s, ending with the formation of the German Empire in 1871. The tumult of the first half of the 20th century saw German territory expanded and sharply contracted with the fortunes of war. After splitting in the wake of the World War II, Germany united once more 1990.

23 3

Intriguing territory story?

3 Mexico - From The Triple Alliance To Being Ceded

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes - What was often referred to as the Aztec Empire was the Triple Alliance of three great city-states: Tenochtitlan, Tetzcoco, and Tlacopan. Tenochtitlan became the dominant power and was centered where Mexico City stands today. Before the arrival of the Spanish and deadly European diseases, the Aztecs ruled directly over central Mexico, but exerted influence as far away as the Yucatan peninsula deadly European diseases, the Aztecs ruled directly over central Mexico, but exerted influence as far away as the Yucatan peninsula.

After centuries of Spanish rule, Mexico won independence in 1821 after more than a decade of conflict. It lost more than half of its territory in 1848 after the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo ceded more than half a million square miles of territory, including California and parts of New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, and Utah. More territory was sold to the US in 1854 with the Gadsden Purchase, which brought the southern portions of modern-day Arizona and New Mexico into the US.

17 3

Intriguing territory story?

---

4 Egypt - From Conquest To Independent State

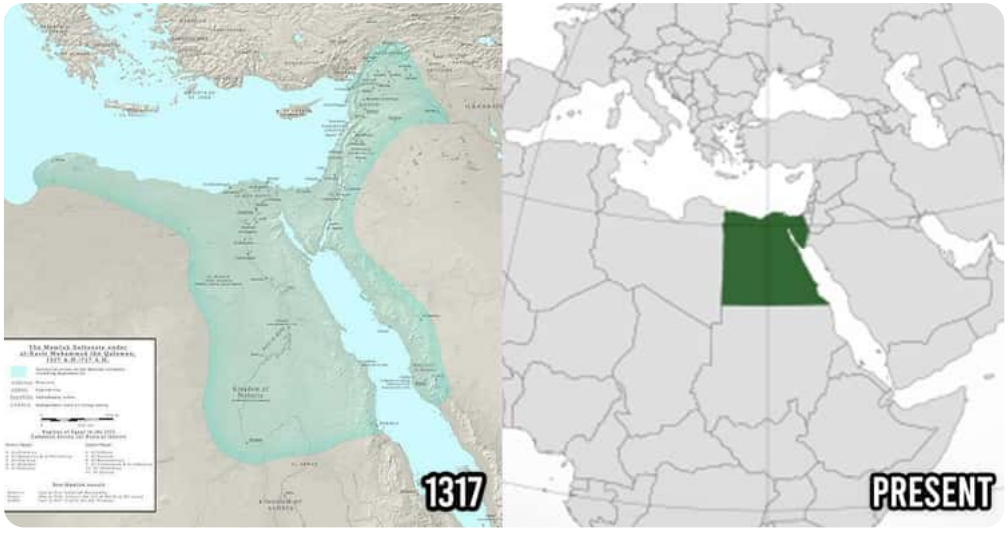

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: Egypt was ruled by the Mamluks in the Middle Ages, whose territory spanned from modern-day Libya to Syria. The Ottomans conquered the empire in the 16th century, but it managed to briefly regain a certain degree of autonomy in the 19th century before falling under British influence in 1882.

Although technically still a vassal of the Ottomans, Egypt was essentially ruled by the British until the 1950s. The Republic of Egypt formed in 1953, but it wasn't until 1956 that British troops finally departed for good.

16 3

Intriguing territory story?

---

5 Turkey - From Byzantine Rump State To The Bridge Between Europe And Asia

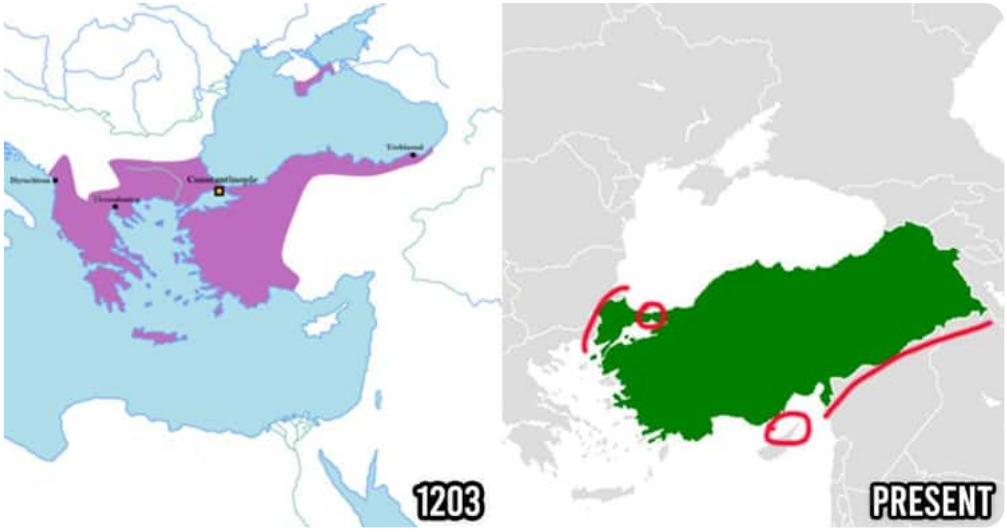

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: Anatolia was subject to a vast number of territorial changes in its storied history. In the 13th century, parts of the area were still just about in the hands of the ailing Byzantine Empire (shown in purple) but would soon give way to the rising power in the region: the Ottomans. The Ottoman Empire would reach its greatest extent toward the end of the 17th century, where it would control Southern Europe and much of the Arabian peninsula. The empire entered a long period of decline in the 18th century and lost most of its European territory by 1914.

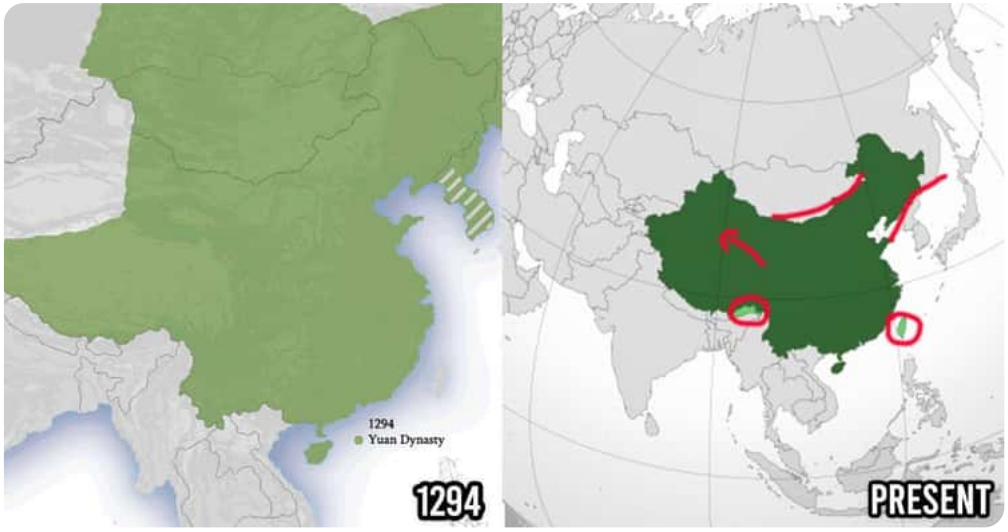
After the World War I, the empire fell and modern-day Turkey formed in the aftermath in 1923. Istanbul (formerly Constantinople) has the unusual distinction of being a city that sits on two continents. Cyprus is the subject of a territorial dispute between Turkey and Greece; Turkey's claim on the northern part of the island is unrecognized internationally.

33 9

Intriguing territory story?

---

6 China - From The Mongols To Rapid Growth



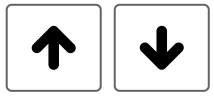


Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

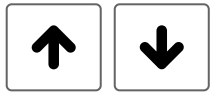
Summary of changes: The Mongol Yuan Dynasty ruled China at the turn of the 14th century. Mongolia and portions of today's Russia were part of the dynasty's territory, with Korea as a vassal state. The Yuan dynasty was overthrown by the Ming dynasty in 1368.

After the chaos of the 19th and early 20th centuries, China's modern borders were established after the conclusion of the civil war. The defeated

After the chaos of the 19th and early 20th centuries, China's modern borders were established after the conclusion of the civil war. The defeated Republic of China fled to Taiwan in December 1949. There are two internal borders in the former Portuguese territory of Macau and the former British protectorate of Hong Kong. Externally, China shares borders with no fewer than 14 sovereign states.

Intriguing territory story?



---

7 Russia - From A Duchy To The World's Largest Nation

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: In the 1300s, Russia was merely the Grand Duchy of Muscovy and a tributary of the Mongol Empire. The entity we know as Russia was formed in 1547 during the reign of Ivan the Terrible. Eastward expansion began during Ivan's reign and continued into the 19th century. At one point there were even Russian settlements in California.

Significant territorial changes took place in the 19th & 20th centuries. Alaska was sold in 1867; the island of Sakhalin was lost and regained from Japan; and the Baltic nations were annexed by and later broke off from the Soviet Union. The curious exclave of Kaliningrad was gained after World War II and still remains part of Russia today. Fifteen new nations formed in the wake of the Soviet Union's collapse in 1991, including Russia.

Intriguing territory story?

---

8 Spain - From Reconquista To Colonial Empire

8 Spain - From Reconquista To Colonial Empire

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: In the Middle Ages, the Iberian peninsula was divided between northern Christian kingdoms and Muslim emirates to the south. The Balearic Islands were conquered by the Christian kingdom of Aragon in the 13th century. Spain formed from the union of Castille and Aragon by the marriage of Isabella and Ferdinand; this paved the way for the completion of the Reconquista in 1492 by conquering the last Iberian emirate of Granada. Later that same year, Christopher Columbus made his famous voyage with the financial backing of the Spanish crown, ushering in a period of colonization.

Spain lost the key port of Gibraltar to the British in 1704, and the issue remains a bone of contention between the two nations to this day. Spain's expansive colonial empire dissolved after a series of independence wars broke out in the early 1800s. The last of the empire was swallowed up by the US at the turn of the 20th century. Today, the northeastern region of Catalonia is the subject of a major independence movement.

↑ ↓
17 6

Intriguing territory story?

9 France - From Fractured Kingdom To The Hexagon

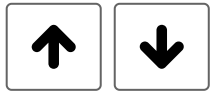

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: France experienced significant territorial changes in Europe from the Middle Ages onward. The left image is France after the Treaty of Brétigny; English provinces are shown in pink.

Significant portions of France were in English hands until the conclusion of the Hundred Years' War. Calais remained with England until 1558. The Catalan region of Northern Catalonia was ceded by Spain in 1659; Corsica was conquered in 1768; and the border with Italy was finally settled after World War II.

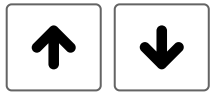
France's modern European borders are often referred to as l'Hexgone ("the hexagon") after the distinctive six-sided shape.

Intriguing territory story?

---



10 Peru - From The Incas To Decolonization

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: Before Spanish colonization, the Incas rose to become the dominant power in the region in the 15th and early 16th centuries. At its greatest extent, the Incan empire stretched from Ecuador to northern Chile - an area of more than 700,000 square miles and around 10 million subjects. It was divided into four quarters known as suyu (pictured).

The arrival of the Spanish in the 16th century devastated the region with European diseases. More than three-quarters of the empire's entire population perished in less than 40 years.

Peru, along with other South American countries, gained independence from Spain in the early 1800s. Peru prospered after independence, but later fell into financial difficulties and a disastrous conflict with Chile as an ally of Bolivia. Bolivia became landlocked, while Peru lost the Province of Tarapacá in the south via the peace treaty.

Intriguing territory story?

---

11 United Kingdom - From Divided Island To Slightly Less Divided Island

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: In the 14th century, the United Kingdom was anything but united. Scotland was in the midst of a lengthy struggle against English dominion, while Ireland was a fractured kingdom. Wales had fallen under English rule but would never truly lose its own identity. The islands of Orkney and Shetland were absorbed by Scotland after Norway failed to pay a marriage dowry to King James III in the 15th century.

The path to unification was set when the English Queen Elizabeth I passed without an heir, leaving the Scottish King James I to become king of both Scotland and England. Although he wanted to merge his kingdoms into one, it would be a further century before Scotland and England unified parliaments in 1707, creating Great Britain. Ireland was annexed in 1801, but most of the island broke free from British rule in 1922. Six of the nine counties of Ulster remained part of Britain, forming the UK as we know it today.

Although often erroneously conflated with the UK as a whole, England is one of the four co-equal sovereign nations that comprise the UK, alongside Northern Ireland, Scotland, and Wales.

Intriguing territory story?

16 10

12 India - From Muslim Conquests To Partition

12 | India - From Muslim Conquests To Partition

Photo: Wikimedia Commons / Wikimedia Commons

Summary of changes: The Indian subcontinent has been the subject of numerous conquests by outside powers over the centuries. Alexander the Great's most difficult campaign by far only nibbled at the edges of India before turning back. The Muslim Delhi Sultanate was the dominant power in the region in the Middle Ages, with the Tughlaq dynasty reaching the greatest territorial extent in 1335 (pictured).

India's modern borders mostly formed in the wake of gaining independence from the British in 1947. Some states were annexed after the partition, such as Hyderabad in the center and Junagadh in the west, in 1948. The separate nations of East and West Pakistan were formed by the partition plan, with East Pakistan becoming Bangladesh in 1948. The status of Kashmir (light green on the second map) is disputed by India, China, and Pakistan.

4 4

Intriguing territory story?

next list

Filed under: History, Maps, Then & Now, Middle Ages, Trending On Ranker, Countries, Places, Places/Travel

Welcome to Medieval Times

12 Pretty Accurate Movies Set In Medieval Times

What Life Was Like In Medieval Castles

27 Things You Didn't Know About the Crusades

What the Average Diet Was Like in Medieval Times

15 Bizarre & Surprisingly Brutal Stories You Never Knew About King Arthur

13 Horrifying Ancient Medical Devices That People Actually Used

The Most Horrific Types of Medieval Torture

The Dumbest Things We Believe About Medieval Times Thanks To Movies

The Most Brutal Medieval Monarchs

The Best Medieval Movies

What Was Hygiene Like In A Medieval Castle?

The Coolest Things You Wish Were True About The Middle Ages

The Greatest Period TV Shows Set in Medieval Times

The Dumbest Things We Believe About Medieval Warfare Thanks To Movies

Myths About Medieval Warfare, Debunked

A Day In The Life Of A Medieval Executioner In Their 16th-Century Heyday

Medieval Reactions You'll Want to Use in Your Daily Life

What It Was Like To Be On The Front Lines Of A Medieval Battle

All The Theories Historians Have For Solving The Mystery Of Who King Arthur Really Was

What It Was Actually Like To Be A Knight During Medieval Times

Evidence Shows Medieval Battle Axes Were Far More Brutal Than We Thought

The Very Best Sword And Sorcery Movies

I'm Medieval Royalty, What Does My Day Look Like?

Medieval Peasants Actually Had A Lot Of Free Time (And Here's What They Did With It)

7 Ways Medieval Knight Armor Was More Dangerous Than Just Wearing Nothing

Medieval Peasants Designed Their Own Perfect Utopia, And It Was Still Super Depressing

9 Ways Your Life Today Is Far More Luxurious Than Kings' From The Middle Ages

All The Disgusting And Destructive Things Medieval Armies Threw At Each Other

How The Medieval Catholic Church Frightened Parishioners Into Obedience

This Medieval Feast Of Fools Was So Extreme The Catholic Church Was Forced To Ban It

There Are People Who Genuinely Believe The Middle Ages Never Happened

All The Afflictions You Might Have If You Lived In A Medieval City

Weird Maps from the Middle Ages

What Was Hygiene Like For Medieval Peasants?

The Ancient And Medieval Weapons We Most Associate With Ancient And Medieval Times

A Detailed Breakdown Of How Much It Sucked To Be A Medieval Serf

Unusual Deaths: Bizarre Deaths During The Middle Ages

What Was It Like To Dine At A Glorious Medieval Feast?

Trial By Combat Was Real – And Way Worse Than 'Game Of Thrones' Portrayed It

What Was Medieval Junk Food Like?

What Life Was Really Like As A Medieval Jester

12 Times 'Monty Python and the Holy Grail' Was Surprisingly Historically Accurate

18 Medieval Artifacts That Made Us Say ‘Whoa’

12 Beautiful Medieval Towns That Are Shockingly Well Preserved

12 Things Popular Culture Gets Wrong About Medieval Weapons

TRENDING TODAY

The Best Fast Food Chains

The Best Sodas Of All Time

The Most Popular Anime Right Now

The Best Non-Chocolate Candies

The Best Actors In Film History

The Greatest Chick Rock Bands Ever

Top 10 Current Queries: Jonathan Kellerman best books, best white claw flavor, songs with street, the flash characters, jamestown series where to watch, smallest army in the world, harold ramis bill murray rift, states as people, andrew jackson own slaves, oldest buildings in america

---

contact us we're hiring advertise with us watchworthy

terms | privacy | sitemap

© Ranker 2022

Facebook

Ali Ziane
Mar 6

المطبخ المغربي القديم بداية القرن العشرين .
توثيقات الفوتوغرافي Photographe : Jeanne Jouin (1894 - 1986)
حول تراث المطبخ المغربي وطريقة إعداد مجموعة من المأكولات القديمة " القطبان ، الكسكس ، طجين الكفتة بالبيض ، الطجين السلاوي ، اعداد الخبز " بمدينة الرباط وسلا سنة 1930.
علي_زيان#

174 4 comments 42 shares

Like Comment Share

42 shares

Write a comment...

Top fan
Hamza Meknassi
تبارك الله على السي علي زيان معلومات في المستوى

See translation
2 wks Like Reply More

View more comments…

Ali Ziane

23 1 comment

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Top fan

جمال جور

احسن توثيق للذاكرة فهد الصورة هي صورة الخابية وهي مبردة الماء قبل اختراع الثلاجة 1

See translation

2 wks Like Reply More

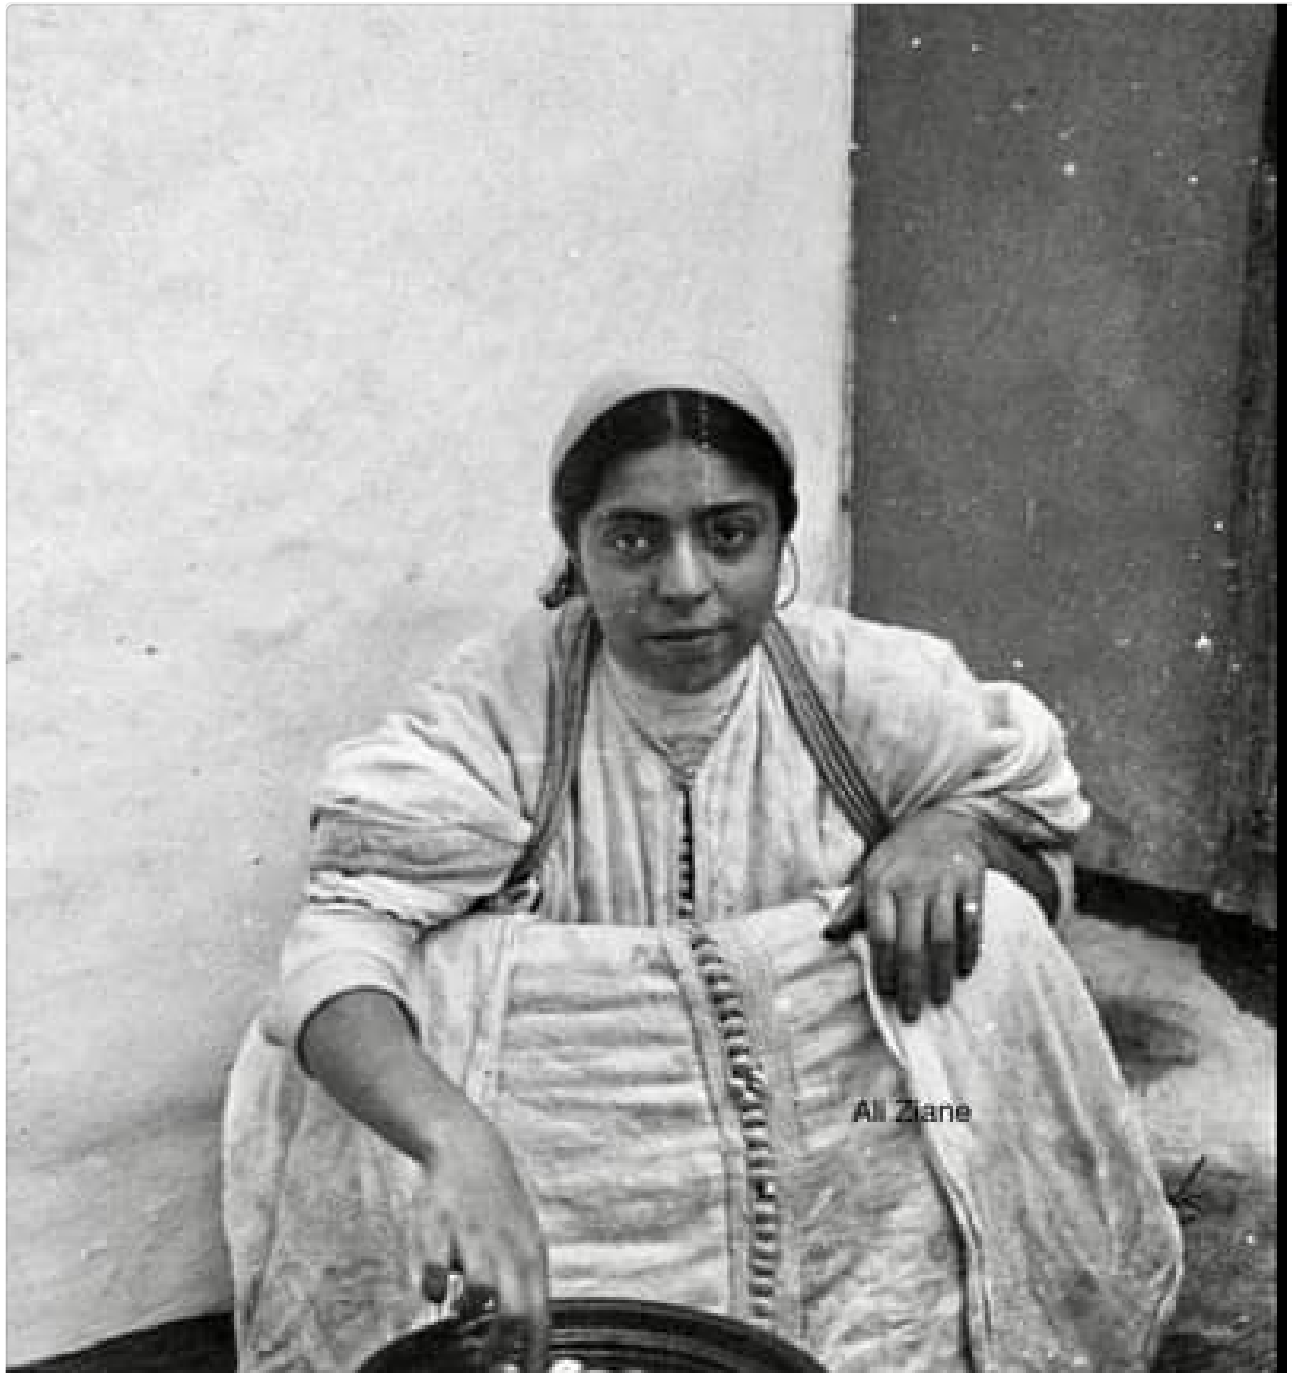
25 2 comments

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Top fan



جمال جور

الطبلة ذات الثلاث الواح وثلاة سيقان قبل اختراع Noveau Boit

See translation

2 wks Like Reply More

View more comments…

Ali Ziane

24 1 comment

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Top fan

جمال جور

اسعمال المجمر قبل اختراع الريشو دالغاز

See translation

2 wks Like Reply More

23

Like Comment

Write a comment...

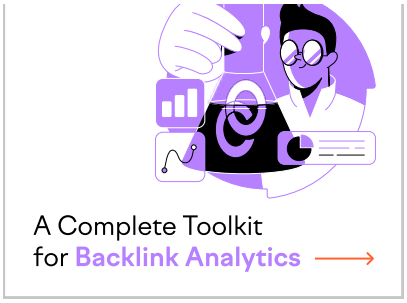
27

1 comment 1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Write a comment...



Animals New leaks Tech & science World USA

Blood of horseshoe crabs is being used in Covid vaccine: They are now in danger of extinction

By Makawiel - December 19, 2021

Horseshoe crabs are amazing creatures that have been on this planet for 450 million years. They survived the mass extinction, several ice ages, and now they can die out because of man. What is the reason? They have bright blue blood, which is highly valued because it is a natural source of Limulus polyphemus (LAL). Now they are in danger of extinction because their blood is being used in Covid vaccines and for drug testing. Up to 30% of the crustaceans have already been killed off in the US.

Why is blue blood used?

Limulus polyphemus immune cells are sensitive to toxic bacteria. As a result, blue blood has been used for almost 20 years to test vaccines and drugs for bacterial toxins. It is currently an essential tool for testing COVID vaccines entering the market. Blue blood is sucked out of the crabs and then crabs are returned to the ocean, where most of them die. One laboratory in South Carolina reports that blood is sucked from a crab for up to 8 minutes.

"As it is now, the entire supply chain for endotoxin testing of drugs rests upon the harvest of a vulnerable or near extinct sea creature," Kevin Williams, a scientist who manufactures synthetic LAL told The Washington Post.

The Atlantic horseshoe crabs could go the way of the Asian horseshoe crab that is extinct in Taiwan and disappearing in Hong Kong, as a result of mainly biomedical testing. The US horseshoe crab is not endangered yet, but as more than a third of the crabs die after the blood is drawn, their threat is approaching.

Blood from Horseshoe crabs is a huge business

Ryan Phelan, co-founder and Executive Director of Revive and Restore, a wildlife conservation group based in California that lobbied for the synthetic, told Yahoo News: "You've got a very large, biomedical bleeding industry with a vested interest in keeping those horseshoes crabs coming in and basically protecting this monopoly. "

Some pharmaceutical laboratories use synthetic versions of LAL, but live crab blood is still used in the United States.

"In the US, 525,000 horseshoe crabs per year were captured during 2013 to 2017 and the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission estimates short-term bleeding-induced mortality to be 15 percent (4 percent to 30 percent), resulting in mortality of approximately 78,750 horseshoe crabs annually in recent years comprising a minor portion," according to a study published in Frontiers.

According to the Atlantic Marine Fisheries Commission, in 2019, 640,000 crabs were used in the United States to draw blood. The blood of these crabs is of very high value and is an industry worth $ 500 billion. That's why the South Carolina lab is worth $ 13 billion. Charles River officials have said in the past that more than 80 million LAL tests are performed each year. When crabs' blood is taken, they are slower, stressed, and death often due to ill-treatment.

Source:
https://www.dailymail.co.uk/sciencetech/article-10321773/Horseshoe-crab-BLOOD-high-demand-vaccine-drug-testing-extinct.html
https://www.washingtonpost.com/health/horseshoe-crab-lal-endotoxins-coronavirus/2021/07/30/cbc0a158-d525-11eb-9f29-e9e6c9e843c6_story.html

SEMRUSH

TAGS covid covid vaccine crabs Horseshoe crabs LAL Limulus polyphemus

Like 122 Tweet

Previous article

17 million vertebrates killed by the 2020's wildfires in the Pantanal, Brazil

Next article

Desperate situation in Kenya: People and animals are plagued by a devastating drought

RELATED ARTICLES MORE FROM AUTHOR

3D Atlas of Oxygen-Distressed Oceans will Help Predict Future Climate Change Impacts

Environment

A'seedbot is a planting robot that helps turn a desert into a green landscape

New leaks

The Polish border wall will seriously disrupt Europe's oldest forest

Animals

- Advertisement -

3D Atlas of Oxygen-Distressed Oceans will Help Predict Future Climate Change Impacts

December 29, 2021

A’seedbot is a planting robot that helps turn a desert into a green landscape

December 28, 2021

The Polish border wall will seriously disrupt Europe’s oldest forest

December 27, 2021

Pegasus: Spyware that threatens democracy

December 26, 2021

Microchip implants for Covid-19 vaccination passport are already a reality

December 25, 2021

EDITOR PICKS

3D Atlas of Oxygen-Distressed Oceans will Help Predict Future Climate Change...

Environment December 29, 2021

A'seedbot is a planting robot that helps turn a desert into...

New leaks December 28, 2021

The Polish border wall will seriously disrupt Europe's oldest forest

Animals December 27, 2021

POPULAR POSTS

Iranian women boldly protest against hijabs and expose their hair

Middle East July 6, 2018

How many nuclear weapons do individual countries have?

New leaks July 6, 2018

When sugar kills: Why are problems with sugar consumption overlooked?

Health May 7, 2018

POPULAR CATEGORY

New leaks	723
Environment	261
World	260
Tech & science	188
Life	188
Health	183
Animals	148
USA	56

Leakshare

ABOUT US

Information has the power to change the world for the better but it needs to find its way to the surface and not remain concealed. LeakShare.org was established as an opportunity for everybody to share information and make it available to everyone. Do you have information, news, stories or knowledge that the world should know about? We will gladly publish it.

Contact us: info@leakshare.org

FOLLOW US

© Leakshare.org - All rights reserved

Murielle Oliver
2 May 2020

Croyez-le ou non mais, Les élites feront TOUT pour se sentir protégés contre NOUS, le peuple !

- Pour ce faire, ils vont même jusqu'à créer de FAUX actes terr0rIstes dans le but de nous imposer de nouvelles lois liberticides...
#VousVousÊtesFaitRouler !

101 12 comments 695 shares

Like Share

695 shares

View previous comments…

Delphine Broussat
https://m.facebook.com/story.php?story_fbid=939181673547866&id=100023681274244 1

7 mths Like More

11 6 shares

Like

6 shares

15

2 shares

Like

2 shares

Sensitive content

This photo may show violent or graphic content.

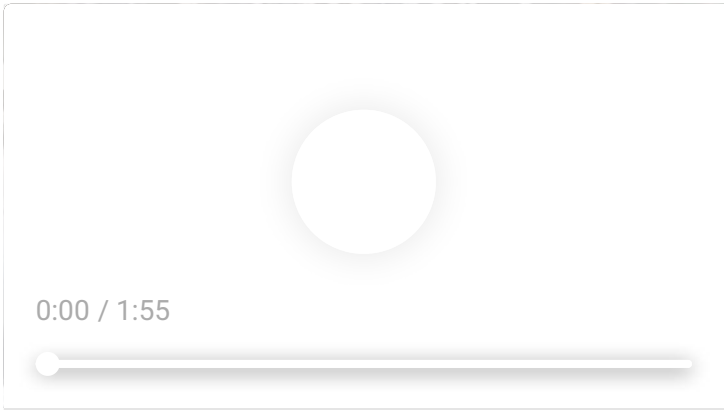
See Photo

12

1 share

Like

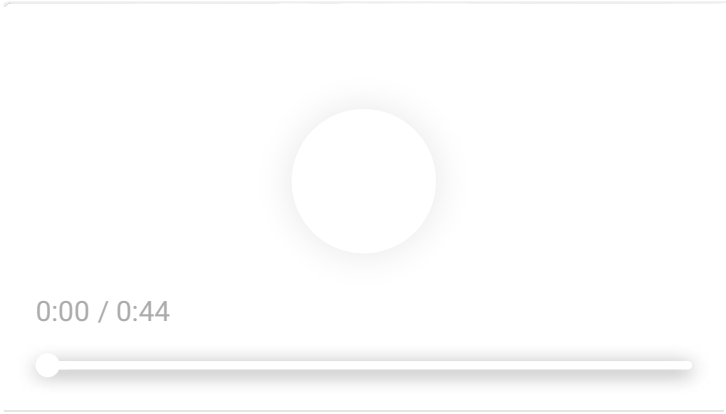
1 share



14

2 shares

Like



2 shares

59 32 shares

Like

32 shares

34 19 shares

Like

19 shares

0:00 / 2:16

38

27 shares

Like

27 shares

14

2 shares

Like

2 shares

Africa is HOME
Mansa Musa

Research has revealed that the richest person of all time lived in the 14th century in West Africa and went by many names, including Kankan Musa Keita, Emir of Melle, Lord of the Mines of Wangara, Conqueror of Ghanata and the Lion of Mali II, but today he is usually referred to as Mansa Musa. Adjusting his wealth to modern values, he was worth about an estimated $400 billion as the Sultan of ancient Mali, which controlled the trade routes across the Sahara Desert.
Mali empire was a central to several key trading routes in the world, and with the support of well trained army, Mali became a strong and powerful empire.

Meanwhile On a pilgrimage of one of the Emperors of Great Mali Empire to Mecca in 1324 AD, Mansa Musa, brought so much money and gold with him that his visit resulted in the collapse of gold prices in Egypt, Arabia and the western world. It took another twelve years for the economies of the region to return to what it was.

How come we hardly hear about this great African Empire?

please click this link below to subscribe to our youtube channel

https://youtube.com/@africaishomepodcast

Mobile uploads · 27 Dec 2022 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

27K

13,162 shares

Write a comment... Post

Lakish Hankins

I wish someone will do a movie on him insure will it's alot of ancestors and forefathers we need to know abt especially this generation that we come from kings and Queens thank u for this 17

1 mth Like Reply More

Jacqueline Wilson replied · 9 replies

Top fan

Dolie Felder Jr.

May we always remember our ancestors 33

1 mth Like Reply More

Dolie Felder Jr. replied · 19 replies

Phylicia Eke

I Love the story of the great African Empire. 32

1 mth Like Reply More

Jamie Aribas replied · 11 replies

Top fan

Mimi Williams

Fantastic! Mansa Musa is one of my Favorite Kings of Africa along with HANNIBAL, KING JAMES, Women Kings of Egypt & Western Africa! We NEVER GET OF ALL THE TRUE HISTORY OF THE DARK CONTINENT BECAUSE THEY KEEP WHITE WASHING IT LIKE ESTABLISHING THE MIDDLE EAST FOR ISRAEL! REMEMBER BLACKS RULED EUROPE FOR 700yrs! (Aware of CAPS No Trolls! Peace! 108

1 mth Like Reply More

EpsDad Dex replied · 89 replies

Melvin Moss

I got into a debate with some guy on Facebook.... about who the richest person who ever lived was..... after numerous back and forth posts.on the subject (I tried to tell him it was MANSA MUSA) but me when I'm discussing or Debating on something I listen to the other persons side (even if I know better) I love talking..... until I'm not interested anymore.....so when I got tired of hearing his talking point.....I said don't take my word just research or Google MANSA MUSA.....and then get back to me..... I'm still waiting to hear back from him .....I learned about MUSA years ago 50

1 mth Like Reply More

Delford Bowen replied · 54 replies

Thio Gitungo

Im proud of my continent Africa but not of it's past. Thank you for this post. I wonder how so many Africans can glorify a man who enslaved tens of thousands of his fellow Africans. A great man? You've got to be kidding!! Solomon of Israel had an incredibly vast supply of gold too, but the difference between him and this Mansa tyrant is that he took great care to NEVER enslave a fellow countryman or use them for unpaid labour. Maybe that's why his city Jerusalem still stands today while this Timbouktu is a mere heap of bricks in the desert. Moral? Never aspire for greatness by trampling on the heads of your own brothers and sisters; history will give you a harsh judgement. Ask Chaka of Zululand. 23

1 mth Like Reply More

30 replies

Precious Makaika Gondwe

"How come we hardly hear of this great African Empire" probably because you skipped history in school. I learnt about both Ghana and Mali while I was in school, it's an important element of African History. We need to encourage students to study history, both as a subject, or a pass time. In this way, we won't be answering the question you are asking. 7

1 mth Like Reply More

Stella Franste... replied · 1 reply

Eliseus Oluseye

King Solomon was the wealthiest man that ever lived according to many biblical researchers, king Solomon was worth 2.2 trillion dollars not talking of the richest in marriage of many wife's and the richest in wisdom 12

1 mth Like Reply More

Mikel Saint Emma replied · 7 replies

Abdulai Kargbo-akp

Great, but I think Mansa Musa represents where lack of progress of many African leaders started. If such riches were used for the development of Mali, that country could have been an America or Europe where many Africans are running to today. I'd like a catalogue of this 'great' man's development efforts any time he is mentioned. Otherwise he should be recorded as a man who contributed to the continent's backwardness, starting from those early days. 21

1 mth Like Reply More

Namata Debuma... replied · 8 replies

James Berry

I went to high school I'm California and although this wasn't close to being in a history book my teacher tought us about him he didn't want us to think black history started with slavery or the civil rights movement. 29

1 mth Like Reply More

EpsDad Dex replied · 35 replies

Ebikay Real

Richest and the highest giver 26

1 mth Like Reply More

Sbusiso Blose replied · 12 replies

Vernetta Modeste
I have heard that is why I named my son Mansa. 46

1 mth Like Reply More

Kevin Smith replied · 44 replies

Ali Blessings Idi
As a member of the Comment Reading Association (CRA), I'm only here to read comments. Please keep the comments short and simple. We do appreciate your typing effort. Also please watch your spelling. Thank you and have a great day! 1

1 mth Like Reply More

KT Nesbitt
Interesting how we continue to have school curriculums that will propagate their European his-story's!
Yet,constantly reminding us of pseudo African American genealogy and their his-story!
Imagine,eliminating from HISTORY that there was an "aire"that rival the approximately "2100 billionaires"currently in the world!
I wonder who stole his empire? 8

1 mth Like Reply More

Success Sowah replied · 8 replies

Sam R James
Our famous people of color story are buried throughout our generation or our black history teachers don't teach Thank you for this 4

1 mth Like Reply More

Ogun Orisha Wa... replied · 3 replies

Peter Gray
We only heard about Mali recently because Al Qaida crossed the country's border. Ancient African prowess or domination doesn't make it into TV broadcast content … it's not glitzy enough. And praises the the wrong demographic. Malian gold was used to mint several European coins in the 1400s. 1

2 wks Like Reply More

Back DoorMen
The great man that definitively ruined Soudan (west Africa in his time),and particularily Mali. ,still one of the poorest country in the world to this day.

And he didn't only gave ALL the Gold to the muslims,he gave them slaves too....(remember slavery?)
Great man indeed.

13

1 mth Like Reply More

Melvin Moss replied · 8 replies

Intellx Steve
Stop estimating his wealth in modern values ($400 billion) , that's downgrading !
and prove of ignorance of the malevolent purpose of it's initiators !!!

5

1 mth Like Reply More

Adegboyega Ade... replied · 2 replies

Ngufan Louisa Uvõr
Mali empire had many worthy rulers. Sundiata Kaita also known as Sogolon Djata was another great ruler. He was born crippled and never walked until he was 18 or so. His mother would cry for her inability to get baobab leaves for soup until one day from no where Sundiata gained strength in his limbs. He got up walked to a baobab tree uprooted it from its roots and brougth to his mother. As a matter of fact, Sogolon was a mockery name given as his inability to walk and control the flow of saliver from mouth.

23

1 mth Like Reply More

Anthony Ochai replied · 17 replies

Enoch Jnr
Such a distasteful legacy. After all his wealth, he couldn't even make positive impact to his country and continent. We are poor because of such people. I hate to hear that the richest man to ever live was an African but yet we are poor and still begging

2

1 mth Like Reply More

Kevin Smith replied · 2 replies

Louis Mejia
I teach about Mansa Musa and the Mali empire, the salt trade, every year here in Los Angeles.

17

1 mth Like Reply More

Will Williamson replied · 33 replies

Geoffrey Acquah

Oh we hardly hear of all these great stories because African's mismanaged all this wealth and still run to our white brothers for help. Until we start using the brain God gave us, our heroes will always be forgotten. Remain blessed

9

1 mth Like Reply More

James Bailey replied · 8 replies

Dauglas Chivandire

The only people who can talk about our heritage an great history is African , not the west , sadly Africa has worsted its history by following western distorted narratives of African failures.

25

1 mth Like Reply More

Daobu Yellowe replied · 27 replies

Top fan

Phil Enchi

Wealth was taking away from Africa to the western world because back then, Africans where into idols worshipping while the western world was really and truly dedicated to God. The wealth transfer was Divine, to strengthen the faith of those whom these wealth were dictated to. As I compose these write-up, these wealth is about returning to its original position thanks to the great Rival taking place in Africa. The African continent will be soo great again,100 times than the West, The East and middle East. Africa will be the only hope for the world to live in. The time is just at the corner. God is in control.

15

1 mth Like Reply More

Kevin Smith replied · 23 replies

Peter Ukaegbu

The richest man in Africa is Mr.Sylvester Sunday ukaegbu.later I will tell you the reason why some of you have not heard about him.

6

1 mth Like Reply More

Hassan Kanneh replied · 8 replies

Kofi Yayra

I read about mansa musa kankan when I was in secondary school, form 4 and form 5 from the history book entitled West Africa History by F K Buah, on Songhai Empire, and also African history book by Professor Adu Boahene

2

1 mth Like Reply More

Claudene Quash... replied · 4 replies

Top fan

Zofoa Tryself

Thanks for the Post. At least through it many none historians have fed their brains and Africa shines brighter. We are the a great continent and shall always be despite our castigation by the western world.

5

1 mth Like Reply More

Smooth Rich-Du... replied · 3 replies

Joe Mullery

Musa built a powerful advanced country. Timbuktu became one of the leading cities of learning in the world. Not only was he probably the richest in history, he had a huge number of slaves. He took 10,000 slaves along on his pilgrimage and estimates were he had 10 times that at home. There were several kingdoms and caliphate in Africa which were more advanced than European kingdoms of their time. And those African kingdoms were far wealthier and had vastly more slaves

22

1 mth Like Reply More

Rene Martin replied · 44 replies

Solomon Halleluyah

Great man indeed...is the only empire I remember in all history read...

Your good work will always speak for you

1 mth Like Reply More

Ronald Jones

Just as European history has been widely publicized, the same treatment needs to be given to African history. The history of the Mali Empire and it's leaders should be as well known to the general public as ancient Rome, Greece, and Byzantium.

9

1 mth Like Reply More

Mike Grand replied · 7 replies

View more comments…

Houari Hossin Le

Houari Hossin

Houari Hossin

تاريخ القفطان المغربي منذ عام 1600

(من كتاب فرانسوا بيدو سفير ومستشار الملك لويس الرابع عشر وعنوانه (العلاقة مع الإمبراطورية المغربية

ولد السفير بيدو سانت اولون سنة 1630 وكان مستشارا وسفيرا لمملكة فرنسا لدى السلطان مولاي اسماعيل وكتب كتابه عن رحلته و إقامته في المغرب وما رآه في تلك الحقبة التاريخية من أحوال الناس و وتقاليدهم وعاداتهم و لباسهم و طعامهم بل إن ريشته الفنية رسمت سير الحياة اليومية إلى جانب كتابته الشاعرية في وصفه كل نواحي الحياة . وكانت لوحته لسيدة مغربية ترتدي القفطان المغربي أشبه بلوحة مونااليزا دافنشي في جمالها و رونقها حيث تظهر كل الجمالية و النبل بل لا أستبعد أنها أميرة مغربية ترتدي القفطان المغربي بكل جلال وفخر وعظمة وابهة .

نشرت هذه المادة لمشاركة بعض الأصدقاء في مجموعات يشيرون إلي كلما نشر منشور حول موضوع القفطان المغربي الأصيل وما يدور حوله من لغط ومغالطات ... يتبع بقلم الهواري الحسين Houari Hossin

#houari_hossin الصور نقلا عن كتاب مستشار الملك الفرنسي لويس الرابع عشر وسفير فرنسا في المغرب عصر المولى إسماعيل في القرن السابع عشر

Histoire du Caftan Marocain depuis l'an1600

D'après l'Ambassadeur et le Conseiller du roi Louis XIV dans son livre (Relation avec l'empire du Maroc) l'ambassadeur François Pidou est né en 1650 est devenu conseiller du roi de France et ambassadeur au royaume du Maroc

See translation

Mobile Uploads · Wednesday at 16:03 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

582

169 shares

View previous comments…

Ghita Belkbir
جزاك الله خيرا 1

See translation
on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Zahra Souhi
Salam alikom chef ce livre est il disponible?.si oui ou svp 1

See translation
on Wed Like Reply More

Zahra Souhi replied · 3 replies

Rachid El Ouazzani
Excellent .... Ahmed Chaouni 1

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Lahsen Ouzaouit

تحياتي أخي الكريم السي الحسين الهواري. دام لك العز. 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Badiaa Ben Hassoun

جازاك الله خيرا

1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Latifa Essadik

قفطان مغربي جميل جدا شكرا شاف 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Latifa Essadik replied · 2 replies

Soumaya Ben Abdellah

شكرا لك ونفتخر انه يوجد بيننا اشخاصا بقدرك حبذا لو تواصلت مع وزير الثقافة لامداده بهده المعلومات لتسهيل تسجيل القفطان المغربي . 2

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Elkhassoumi Youssef

archive.org متوفر في موقع Touria El Mimo

Internet Archive: Digital Library of...

archive.org

1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Richi Diego

صراحة احترامي ليك على كل هاد المنشورات 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Richi Diego replied · 2 replies

Allal El Hassani

رائع .. تشكر اسي الهواري .. 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Allal El Hassani replied · 2 replies

M.A. Ksn

media1.tenor.co

media1.tenor.co

2

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Hasnae Hasnae

اللهم بارك يا ليت جميع الباحثين المغاربة يقتدون بهمتك وفطنتك سيدى الهوارى.والله انت مفخرة لوطننا الحبيب جزاك الله عن المغاربة ألف خير وسدد خطاك وأطال لنا الله في عمرك ماشاء الله تأتي بالأدلة المددقة تحياتي أستاذنا الغالي 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Nezha Eddahbi

جزاكم الله خيرا 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Ikram Moussaid

Le pdf svp 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Ikram Moussaid

الله يجازيك بكل خير 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Aziza Bzami

تبارك الله عليك 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Elmorra Rahma

جزاك الله خيرا على هده المعلومة 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

Elmorra Rahma replied · 2 replies

Bill Mailler

media1.tenor.co

media1.tenor.co

1

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Df Abdelmounaim

media1.tenor.co

media1.tenor.co

1

on Wed Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

ابو حفصة

شكرا للمجهوداتك 1

See translation

on Wed Like Reply More

ابو حفصة replied · 2 replies

Lucius Cornelius Sulla

Augustus Caesar

on Wed Like Reply More

Fatiha Morchid

بحكم الجوار وعدم وجود حدود بين البلدان في الماضي واشتراك بعظ العادات والتقاليد والالبسة يوجد تشابه في اللباس التقليدي في المغرب والجزائر وتونس ياحبذا لو تفاهم مصممي ابازياء لهذه البلدان وطورو هاد اللباس لوصوله الي شهرة عالمية عوض هداconflit الدي لاينفع أي بلد 3

See translation

on Thu Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 2 replies

Mohamed Zarroud

تحياتي الخالصة لا فرق ما بين كلا البلدين عندما نقول الجزائر أو المغرب أنهما كانا جنبا إلى جنب وشعب واحد لهذا ليس هناك فرق 2

See translation

23 hrs Like Reply More

Mohamed Zarroud replied · 3 replies

Mohamed Zarroud
اذا تحدثت عن الأمازيغ فهم مغاربة وجزائر سواء 1

See translation
23 hrs Like Reply More

Mohamed Zarroud
حضارتهم الكل يعرف غريقة جدا. 1

See translation
23 hrs Like Reply More

Hamza BL-ey
شكرا على المعلومات القيمة دمت سالما 1

See translation
21 hrs Like Reply More

Houari Hossin replied · 1 reply

Souad Seedawi
عندنا دلائل على ان القفطان موجود منذ عهد الموحدين وتطور مع المرينيين والسعديين ! شكرا جزيلا 3

See translation
21 hrs Like Reply More

Fatima Tamesmant replied · 2 replies

Mohamed Zarroud
قصة الشعر و لباس القفطان المغربي الامازيغي منذ ملكة نوميديا التي عاصرة الفرعون

See translation
19 hrs Like Reply More

سامية حمزاوية
Fatiha Morchid اش راكي تخرطي يا الفهيمة ماعلاقة تونس ودزاير باللباس المغربي التقليدي خصوصا في حلته الملكية فين عمرنا شفنا القفطان والجلابة عند التوانسة ودزايرية فيما مضى مثلا في ستينات وسبعينات القرن الماضي لماذا لم يكن احد من هؤلاء يتكلم عن القفطان والجلابة والشربيل والطربوش

2 الفاسي .. من الاحسن لك تسكتي يلا ماجاتك نفس على بلادك وتراث بلادك يا لالا

See translation

17 hrs Like Reply More

Habiba Kherratia

ليتكلمو عنا في وثاءق التاريخية للبلدان الاخرى. لا نحتاج لتزوير التاريخ شكرا شاف. الحجة والبرهان. وكما قال الحسن الثانى رحمه الله لا تبرر الحجج بنية لاصحاب النويا الخبيث 1

See translation

11 hrs Like Reply More

Write a comment...

Post

Mr. Imhotep
Aksum, also spelled Axum, powerful kingdom in northern Ethiopia during the early Christian era.
Despite common belief to the contrary, Aksum did not originate from one of the Semitic Sabaean kingdoms of southern Arabia but instead developed as a local power. At its apogee (3rd-6th century CE), Aksum became the greatest market of northeastern Africa; its merchants traded as far as Alexandria and beyond the Nile River. Aksum continued to dominate the Red Sea coast until the end of the 9th century, exercising its influence from the shores of the Gulf of Aden to Zeila on the northern coast of Somaliland (modern Somalia and Djibouti).

During the 2nd and 3rd centuries CE its growth as a trading empire increasingly impinged on the power of the kingdom of Meroe, the fall of which was brought about in the 4th century by an Aksumite invasion. During the 4th century the kings of Aksum were Christianized - thus becoming both politically and religiously linked to Byzantine Egypt.

At the same time, they extended their authority into southern Arabia. In the 6th century an Aksumite king reduced the Yemen to a state of vassalage. In the latter part of the 6th century, however, the Persians invaded South Arabia and brought Aksumite influence there to a close.

Later the Mediterranean trade of Aksum was ended by the encroachment of the Arabs in the 7th and 8th centuries.

Gradually, Aksumite power shifted internally to the Agau (Agaw, or Agew) people, whose princes shaped a new Christian line in the Zagwe dynasty of the 12th-13th century.

Link: https://bit.ly/3cns3oE (FREE)

Peace family,

I really need your attention on this. It's very serious. You may have noticed that we were not posting much these last weeks and there are many reasons for that. It's getting harder to share truths on these platforms. They are inventing reasons to sabotage us. You must know that we are independent thinkers. We don't follow any ideology. We try to do what is good for our people in the long term. And these restrictions are not easy for us.

They don't want our people to heal properly but we can't give up. We are THAT generation and we must accomplish our purpose.

So, if you want to continue receiving our posts, make sure to subscribe. It's very simple and free. The link is in BIO, In the HIGHLIGHTS and sometimes in the STORY. We will send you a message to tell you where to join the secret community. Do it before it's too late. Those who won't be on the list will miss a lot of advantages. It's very serious.

Link: https://bit.ly/3cns3oE

Thank you.

Mr. Imhotep

Mobile Uploads · Yesterday at 06:55 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

4K

2,383 shares

Write a comment... Post

Jerome Hanington

Do u have published books about African history....??
Where can I get them....??
We need to supply them in schools...!

13

on Mon Like Reply More

Ras Jay replied · 2 replies

Tee Jay

West has erased the real history of the region. 1500bc, a ship was wrecked at the red sea shore of zula now known of Eritrea coast. In this region there was well known port called port of Adults that use to do trade as far as China. The wrecked ship was fugitive from Egypt who was running away. When he found this land and people, he found his exit from becoming fugitive and represented the information to the Egyptian pharaoh. Egypt sent ships to open trades with this new empire. The Egyptian called it punt land meaning land of the gods because of the mountains elevation. Axum was slave, ivory, exotic animals trading outpost of this empire. Axum became a full empire after adulis was destroyed by pirates in stealing gold. The population ran to Axum and created new empire far from the sea.

10

on Mon Like Reply More

Tee Jay replied · 18 replies

Robel Kidane

This place you called abssinya is just the name of the present day Ethiopia. It does not have any relation with what you are refering as axum kingdom. The Axumite kingdom includes only I REPEAT ONLYYYY present day Eritrea and Tigray region of Ethiopia. The term abyssinia is usually used by the Amhara Ethnic people which did not have any connection with Axum kingdom. Axumites used the Geez language and were the first official countey to accept chratianinty as its official belief.but the abbysinians used Amharic language (which was developed much later than Geez).
Axum city as its capital and the port city of Adulis as its finnacial and trade center were the main places. So dont devire history.

3

20 hrs Like Reply More

Neway Mengistu replied · 1 reply

Liya Abreha

No Ethiopian. Modern day Tigray and Eritrea

3

on Mon Like Reply More

Gela Becha Ata... replied · 1 reply

Anthonio Aradaw
This is an African story we should teach our children about. Africa should operate as one nation as our ancestors used to do before the colonizers reared their head in our beautiful continent. African Unite!

11

9 hrs Like Reply More

Ackerline P Smith
We were so far ahead of yt folks that it's a shame. I just wish we remembered who we are, to continue our greatness.

7

14 hrs Like Reply More

Justin Torino replied · 3 replies

Vincent Warmington
I would like some of those black socall historian always talking about ancient African history but they never talk about African useing money in ancient times when I hear some of them talking it like Africa never use money to traders like they only use to swap goods all over the world if African never use money in ancient times where did European get to know the concept of useing money if ones go by history and I leave it as that

2

17 hrs Like Reply More

Vincent Warmin... replied · 2 replies

Frederick Acquah
YES The empire was a trading centre.

2

on Mon Like Reply More

Sean Sessler
They had too, I would assume the Richest man in the World Mansa Musa was probably alive during that time. (Just a guess)

3

on Mon Like Reply More

Mahmud Breezy... replied · 7 replies

Karozi John
At one time Macedonia was super power dominating ancient world under Alexander the Great, but later later Roman empire became super power, many other empire rise and fall, now USA who know which is next, ..that's how thing change!

3

on Mon Like Reply More

Tyrone O'Sulli... replied · 2 replies

Scott Barksdale
All ancient nations have a form of “mined” currency some even had notes. True story

46 mins Like Reply More

Duoth Biel
Great and most powerful peaple represented the whole of Africa with dignity during those days. I love this wonderful history 1

6 hrs Like Reply More

Mustafe Omar Khadiib
True Wordd Somalia was puntland!

on Mon Like Reply More

Ngonidzashe Mangoro
Unfortunately they think that they are not related to 'negros' 1

on Sun Like Reply More

Ngonidzashe Ma... replied · 28 replies

Duane Washington
Thats not long ago at all. 1500 years? 500 years AFTER jesus supposedly lived? That was like yesterday.

on Mon Like Reply More

Timothy Holt replied · 3 replies

Johannes Nkosinathi Masuku
Then what happened?

11 hrs Like Reply More

David Reed
There was a lot of things going on in the world Europeans(England, Spain, France and other) just stole it and claimed it and forced the education system to teach us they created or invented 90% of the things we have. 23

on Sun Like Reply More

David Reed replied · 7 replies

David Reed replied · 7 replies

Paul Petterson

Did you know, that world oldest gold treasure dating from 4,600 BC to 4,200 BC was found in Bulgaria, or said with other words Europe?! How about oldest homosapiens specimen, disprooving the out of Africa evolution theory? Also Europe, both in Greece and Bulgaria!!!

8 hrs Like Reply More

Top fan

Slimme Sdm

They had the first currency in the world. The first place where people used golden, silver and brass coins, long before Europeans, Asians, Arabs etc. Africa rules.

9

on Mon Like Reply More

Slimme Sdm replied · 4 replies

Top fan

Teresa Mbu

If you listen to tribal history we were all one people, the kingdom of aksum was all of Africa and that what we need to realise. We are one and the same people all over the world. See the similarities in out culture and understand, look beyond what we have been told or what is in books, open your eyes and see

19

on Mon Like Reply More

Alonso Viasfar... replied · 2 replies

Scott Crosby

After a second golden age in the early 6th century the empire began to decline in the mid 6th century, eventually ceasing its production of coins in the early 7th century. The Mediterranean trade of Aksum was ended by the encroachment of the Arabs in the 7th and 8th centuries, and the Aksumite population was forced to go farther inland to the highlands for protection, abandoning Aksum as the capital. The Zagwe dynasty was a line of 12th- and 13th-century Ethiopian kings who combined a nomadic military life with an impassioned desire to build monuments to their Christian religion. Contributing to the downfall of the Zagwe dynasty was the problem of succession to the throne among the Zagwe princes. They could not arrange a smooth succession to the throne, and most of the time settled the issue by force of arms.

3 hrs Like Reply More

Henok WoldeGiorgis

Axum is the seat of the kingdom and the emperor's political and religious center but adulis is center of the trade of the axumite .the axum kingdom is the present day of Tigray.

1

10 hrs Like Reply More

Darren Fitzgerald

Then the Arabian armies destroyed them and stole their land.

11 hrs Like Reply More

Darren Fitzgerald replied · 2 replies

Mr. Imhotep
7 hrs ·

Western scholars have always tried to hide that very important part of Kemet's history. It makes sense knowing their agenda. With colonization, they have divided us. They have convinced us that we were not related. That we needed them more than we needed each other, which is a lie.

African countries trade more with foreign countries than they trade with their own brothers next to them. We buy more toxic goods from foreigners than from other Africans.

This shows our lack of knowledge. If we were aware of who we are, we would focusing on producing and consuming the goods that come from Africa. Because they are the most adapted to our physiology. They are the ones that will make us reach our true potential.

We would exclusively use materials from the continent to build our infrastructure and only import from foreigners when there is no African alternative. That's the way our ancestors did it. Kemet built huge castles to serve as caravanserai, an evidence of how important those inter-african trade routes were to them. We must learn from that.

We have everything but we are still acting like it wasn't the case. We must kill that scarcity mindset, that's the only way our eyes will open.

Acting this way is also a way to support black businesses. That's the next level of supporting black businesses. We must understand that we are not in competition with each other. We are in the same team. We need each other. That's the way of getting through this.

Once again, stop acting like you are in competition with other African countries. That's the most stupid way of thinking especially knowing the situation we are in. We have common oppressors but above all we are all part of the same family. It's time to be smarter.

. ATTENTION PLEASE

.

1. Follow @myafricaniconsbook

.

2. FOLLOW us on TWITTER (@mister_imhotep)

.

3. Follow @montustore

.

4. LIKE the page on FACEBOOK (Mr. Imhotep)

.

.

5. Get your copies of My African Icons, I Love Africa and The Black Samurai, THE LINKS

Like Comment Share

1.3K

645 shares

Write a comment... Post

Top fan

E Jeffrey Glover

WORDS of wisdom and the TRUTH. Ase’

media4.giphy.com

media4.giphy.com

1

6 hrs Like Reply More

6 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Jt Edwards

Formal glory was amazing. Why can't they get away from corrupt leaders over the last 600 years!

2 hrs Like Reply More

1 reply

Lamont Bell

Your suggestion is great, but before we can do those things, we have to get Europeans out of Africa.

The greatest of the "golden age" of Africa was the Songhai Empire and it was plundered of all of its wealth and resources during the Atlantic Enslavement Trade.

Today, African nations have very little control of its resources. They are much like African American businesses in the U. S. today struggling to stay afloat while companies like Walmart, COSTCO, and more offer prices that make it virtually impossible for them to compete.

Africa is suffering just like African American businesses who have to compete with business loans being given to Asians and Arabs to open businesses in African American communities.

China has now gained great footage in some African countries with financial deals that will be impossible for those countries to repay.

Here is some information that may be found with simple Google searches:

"It was only the major powers in Europe that competed for the control of Africa. These were Britain, France, and Germany and the weaker powers of Spain, Portugal and Italy who had very small possessions in Africa. Britain and France were at the forefront of imperialism in Africa."

"European nations collectively control over $1 trillion worth of Africa's most valuable resources."

"The UK government has used its power and influence to ensure that British mining companies have access to Africa's raw materials. This was the case during the colonial period and is still the case today."

"France alone has been holding the national reserves (as a colonial tax) of fourteen african countries since 1961: Benin, Burkina Faso, Guinea-Bissau, Ivory Coast, Mali, Niger, Senegal, Togo, Cameroon, Central African Republic, Chad, Congo-Brazzaville, Equatorial Guinea and Gabon."

5 hrs Like Reply More

Lamont Bell replied · 16 replies

3

Andy Thornton
Politicians dont work like you would like on africa, unjust like the rest of the world

2 hrs Like Reply More

1 reply

Yambu Tutu
Employ the 'Pyramid Process, in all you do. Take one step at a time. Put first things first. Do the easier task to accomplish, first, when it doesn't matter in what order you do things. Especially teach children, to do this. It builds confidence. We should first build communities, before we try to build a nation. All things matter. They exist for a reason. They exist - therefore - they matter. Do our lives matter - of course they do, but how much do they matter, and to whom? How much do they matter to us, and how do we demonstrate it? Why do we call each other Queens and Kings? Are these our terms. Is their an exact equivalent in African cultures to the function of the Kings and Queen, who most of our people in the Americas are aware of? If they are some are they even the model we should be using? Is Isabela of Spain or Leopold of Belgium, to be our model of leadership or authority? Don't get caught up in, Critical Race Theory. Get caught up on 'critical thinking', especially concerning matters of race and racism. Have a vision and move toward, and work on it. Consider stop the use of slang. It makes worst an already problematic language. If you must use slang consider making up a completely new word. Don't redefine already exiting words. The generational divide is wide enough, as it is. Communication across generations is vital. Never be ignorant - ignoring what you know. Seek knowledge, but never believe knowledge alone is power. Knowledge requires power, to make it useful. You must cultivate/grow and exercise your power, and become an initiator/creator. One creator - One humanity - One destiny.

17 mins Like Reply More

Celeser Smith
Thanks for sharing the accurate history of the motherland because Europeans never did ! 3

7 hrs Like Reply More

Celeser Smith replied · 3 replies

John Garvin
Great but in modern times,blacks have sold their own kind 6

4 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 2 replies

Willie Roejr

No doubt about it , we r family n we really do not needed these ppl., who r keeping us from our full being our self , counting on one other helping each other n not killing each other over petty shit or our worse enemy the $ bill

7 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Artist Dadypa

Stop acting like you are in competition with other countries. Thank you. Trade amongst you other African countries 2

7 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Cartar Bragg

I think Western cultural influence takes a back seat to Chinese cultural influence now in Africa and slavery started in Africa by Africans. Slavery continues in Africa as I witnessed first hand in Morocco.

2 hrs Like Reply More

1 reply

Top fan

Barbara West

True history

6 hrs Like Reply More

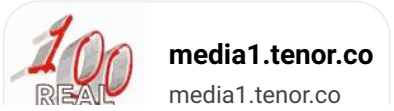
Talor Locus replied · 2 replies

Aiden O'Callaghan



I'm a European white and I would love nothing more than to see Africa rise to its former glory and the suffering to stop 4

3 hrs Like Reply More

Mike Loparo replied · 9 replies

Top fan

Lands Landsmark

7 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Charlie Gates

"Although they look similar, the prefix intra- means "within" (as in happening within a single thing), while the prefix inter- means "between" (as in happening between two things)."

Trade within Africa would be intra- Africa trade. Inter- kingdoms would also be correct.

Now...let me guess, the good were natural resources...

2 hrs Like Reply More

Almira Rowell

Thank you for this information.Our Beautiful History Has Been Hiden for a long time.Great Educational History. Peace Always

media.tenor.co
media.tenor.co

2

5 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Veronica Hardy

We are not from Africa, we are from Asia, enslaved in Africa, but they not gonna tell u that...pay attn 2

3 hrs Like Reply More

Phillip Gardne... replied · 8 replies

Almira Rowell

Thank you for this iinformatio.I love what you're saying.Our Beautiful Black History has been hiden

5 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Richard Hellings
What a crock of shit! It will do you no good to keep pushing your lies, and half truths. 2

4 hrs Like Reply More

Terizzah Asa-Ono replied · 5 replies

Brian Wallace

6 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Tyson Maynard
On any given day in 2016, an estimated 9.2 million men, women, and children were living in modern slavery in Africa. The region has the highest rate of prevalence, with 7.6 people living in modern slavery for every 1,000 people in the region. 1

2 hrs Like Reply More

Terizzah Asa-Ono replied · 1 reply

Cedric Edwards

6 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Robert Killion
Great but in modern times,blacks have sold their own kind

2 hrs Like Reply More

1 reply

Mike Hancho
Ofcourse they had good trade routes. They started the slave trade far before any white man stepped foot on the continent and still practice slavery there today. 1

2 hrs Like Reply More

1 reply

Bryan Schultz
so, my question to you is, how did the greatest civilization ever lose everything to the global minority, white europeans? i mean, according to your posts, not only did ancient Africans start basically everything, they also knew the worth of goods and such. what happened?

1

2 hrs Like Reply More

Kateregga Augustine
Thank to teach brother ,may our creator award you 1

6 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Mr Truth
There's no such thing as ancient Africa, as no one lived there until the Arab slave trade of the Middle Ages.

26 mins Like Reply More

Freddie Motswana
Well said.thanks for the light.

6 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Top fan
Mark Edward Potter Briley
History!

6 hrs Like Reply More

Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

Raymond D. Lovins
Make Africa Great Again!

2 hrs Like Reply More

1 reply

James Jenkins
That’s Right

6 hrs Like Reply More

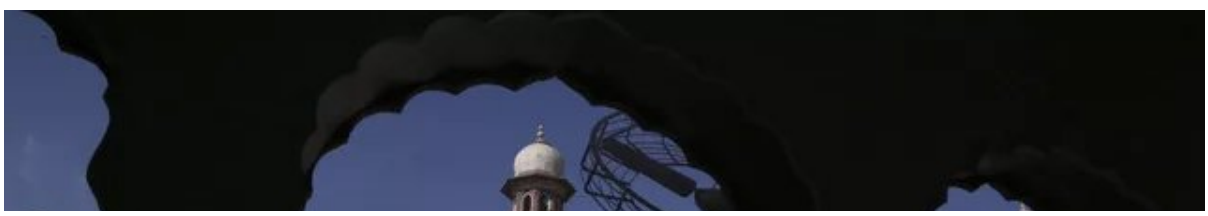
Talor Locus replied · 1 reply

View more comments…

Как празднуют еврейский праздник Шавуот 2021: традиции и обычаи



09:36, 16 мая 2021

© AP Photo / Oded Balilty

Шавуот – еврейский праздник дарования Торы, один из трех иудейских торжеств, связанных с паломничеством

Подписывайтесь на Sputnik

Шавуот по еврейскому календарю празднуют шестого числа месяца сиван, через 50 дней после Песаха — Исхода евреев из Египта, поэтому праздник также называют Пятидесятницей.

Ураза-байрам 2021: молитвы, традиции и обычаи

12 мая 2021, 12:01

Праздник Шавуот в 2021-м выпадает на 17 мая, но, как и все еврейские торжества, его начинают праздновать накануне с заходом солнца.

Из материала Sputnik Грузия вы узнаете, как празднуют Шавуот, а также о традициях и обычаях еврейского праздника.

Праздник дарования Торы

По библейскому преданию, евреи прожили в Египте 430 лет. Исход еврейского народа из Египта, по традиционной точке зрения, произошел в XV веке до нашей эры. Хотя, по вычислениям египтологов, Исход произошел примерно в 1250-м до Рождества Христова.

В третий месяц по выходу из Египта, евреи подошли к горе Синай, где Бог даровал своему народу основу Торы — десять заповедей, и расположились станом против горы.

Как зажигается благодатный огонь в Иерусалиме: схождение огня 2021

1 мая 2021, 10:50

Именно в этот день Моисей, который провел 40 дней на горе Синай, получил скрижали Завета с десятью заповедями, которые устанавливают морально-нравственные правила поведения. Соответственно, главное событие еврейского праздника – это слушание десяти заповедей.

Моисей получил также устные заповеди – часть из них он записал (свиток Пятикнижия — Письменная Тора), а вторую — Устную Тору, записали через 15 столетий, после разрушения Второго Храма.

Устная Тора — это многотомное произведение Талмуд и много других книг, объединенных общим названием Мидраш.

Народ Израиля, получив Тору, поклялся перед Богом, что всегда будет выполнять все заповеди и никогда от них не отступит.

В еврейский праздник, по традиции, к Стене плача в Иерусалиме приходят десятки тысяч верующих, чтобы отблагодарить Бога за полученные заповеди.

В Торе Шавуот назван "Праздником жатвы" и "Днем первых плодов", так как еврейский праздник посвящен также сбору урожая, поскольку в это время начинается жатва пшеницы и созревают самые первые плоды.

Рамадан 2021: что можно и нельзя делать мусульманам в священный

месяц

11 апреля 2021, 18:01

Евреи в праздник приносили в храм два каравая хлеба, испеченных из первой пшеницы, или другие "первинки" нового урожая, созревшие в саду и в поле. В храм разрешали приносить ячмень, пшеницу, виноград, инжир, гранат, финики и маслины.

Все заповеди Шавуот были связаны с Храмом, соответственно после его разрушения их выполнение стало невозможным.

В отличие от остальных праздников, Шавуот мало упоминается в еврейских законах – никакого особого трактата в Талмуде о нем нет. Шавуот также мало отражен и в еврейском художественном творчестве.

В Израиле Шавуот празднуют только один день, так как праздник попадает на сезон полевых работ, а за пределами страны в диаспорах — два дня.

Как празднуют Шавуот

По традиции, Шавуот, как и все еврейские праздники, начинают праздновать накануне вечером. В синагоге читают праздничную вечернюю молитву – Маарив, а в доме зажигают свечи. После службы возвращаются домой и празднуют наступление Шавуота.

Пост в Рамадан 2021: что можно и нельзя есть мусульманам

В праздничную ночь по традиции евреи изучают Тору – это традиция символизирует ту далекую тревожную бессонную ночь около горы Синай, которая предшествовала ее принятию.

После утренней молитвы в синагоге читают десять заповедей – евреи их слушают стоя, как бы заново переживая тот благоговейный трепет, который испытали впервые их далекие предки у горы Синай. Это традиция подтверждать Завет еврейского народа с Богом, поэтому все евреи должны в эти минуты быть в синагоге и, как три тысячи лет тому назад, слушать слова десяти заповедей вне зависимости от того, понимают они священный язык или нет.

Утром в Шавуот в синагогах читают Книгу Рут (Руфь) — знаменитой праведницы, по рождению моавитянки, которая является прабабушкой царя Давида. После смерти мужа-еврея она осталась со свекровью и приняла иудаизм.

Книгу Рут в праздник читают потому, что принятие иудаизма Рут было подобно принятию Торы еврейским народом. Рут евреи считают самым милосердным человеком со времен Авраама, которая была необходима еврейскому народу, чтобы преодолеть духовное заболевание, поразившее целое поколение. Считается также, что в день дарования Торы родился и умер ее правнук — царь Давид.

В Шавуот, по традиции, маленьких детей начинают обучать Торе. Чтобы "подсластить" первый урок, посвященный еврейскому алфавиту, по обычаю пекут сладкое печенье в форме букв. Печенье обмакивают в мед и предлагают юным ученикам съесть ту или иную "букву", предварительно ее прочитав.

Традиции и обычаи

В канун Шавуота, по традиции, совершают очистительное погружение в ритуальный бассейн - микву, так как перед паломническим праздником каждый еврей должен очиститься.

Вселенская родительская суббота 2021: приметы, что нельзя делать

26 марта 2021, 14:22

В микву по обычаю погружаются еще раз в праздник утром – это традиция напоминает об очищении, совершенном Израилем в "дни отделения", которые предшествовали получению Торы в состоянии абсолютной чистоты.

В Шавуот запрещена любая работа – зажигать огонь в праздник не положено. Еду, по традиции, разрешено готовить только на сам день праздника, используя огонь, зажженный до наступления Шавуот.

Обычно евреи оставляют горящей горелку, так как зажигать от живого огня, который нужен не только на кухне, но и для зажигания праздничных свечей, дозволяется.

Нельзя в праздник пользоваться спичками, поэтому курильщики, по обычаю, или склоняются над горелкой, или прикуривают друг у друга. Кстати, электрический свет также нужно включить накануне праздника.

В Шавуот по обычаю нельзя брать в руки любые деньги или пользоваться любыми видами транспорта.

Праздничное застолье

В Шавуот, как и в другие праздники, по традиции, проводят два праздничных застолья – вечером и утром. Каждое из них начинают Кидушем, то есть произносят слова благодарности Всевышнему над бокалом вина.

Какого числа Священная Ночь Бараат 2021? Исламский календарь

8 марта 2021, 20:32

В праздник, по обычаю, едят молочные и мучные блюда — сыр, сметану, творог, блинчики с творогом, торты, пироги, вареники, коврижки с медом, пирожки или блины с сыром.

Эта традиция восходит к событиям, произошедшим у горы Синай — вернувшись в лагерь в день дарования Десяти заповедей, евреи из-за данных им законов кошерности не смогли воспользоваться своей кухонной утварью. Поэтому в тот далекий день им пришлось довольствоваться молочными блюдами, овощами и фруктами.

В Шавуот многие едят пироги, которые пекут на меду — эта традиция напоминает иудеям о том, что Тора как молоко и мед для тех, кто ее учит.

Мясную трапезу по еврейской традиции устраивают попозже отдельно. Чтобы выполнить заповедь "Радуйся в свои праздники", хотя бы две трапезы в праздники должны быть мясными.

Мясо является признаком праздничного застолья, но законы кошерности строжайше запрещают смешивать молочные блюда с мясными и вообще любые мясные и молочные ингредиенты в одном блюде или в одной посуде, или даже в разной посуде, но во время одной трапезы.

Между приемом мясных и молочных блюд нужно выполнить определенные действия. Молочную трапезу по обычаю завершают чтением молитвы после еды - Биркат амазон, затем делают часовой перерыв и только после этого стелят новую скатерть и подают мясные блюда.

В праздник по традиции синагоги и дома украшают свежими цветами и зеленью, которая напоминает об обычае приносить первые плоды на благословение в Иерусалимский Храм, а также символизирует надежду на щедрый урожай.

Материал подготовлен на основе открытых источников

Справки

The Police Journal: Theory, Practice and Principles

The Criminal Native Secret Societies of the West Coast of Africa

Captain F. W. Butt-Thompson

First Published April 1, 1931 | Research Article
https://doi.org/10.1177/0032258X3100400211

The Criminal Native Secret Societies of the West Coast of Africa

By Captain F. W. BUTT-THOMPSON
Author of West African Secret Societies, Black Magic, etc.

THE West Coast of Africa still teems with native secret societies of many kinds, from the age-old ones of tremendous importance and membership to the newest of the rapidly increasing democratic and patriotic associations. The great mystic and religious societies, such as Poro of Sierra Leone and Egbo of Nigeria, keep up their prestige and power

Privacy

Leone and Egbo of Nigeria, keep up their prestige and power, even in the face of advancing civilization. But those subversive and criminal are now few in number and not important. In that fact there is tribute to the excellent police staffs of the Coast.

Of course all the societies were once ' criminal ' from the point of view that they observed laws other than those made by the European protecting powers. As witness the inclusion amongst their officials of an ' executioner,' who, true to his title, punished the breaking of society law with death. They still include such officials, and many writers assure us that the executioners yet find work for axe or sword or poison, although there is no proof of this that would satisfy a court of law. In some of the districts of the Belgian Congo and of Angola and of the Kamerun where the society called Ndembo is in power, remembering (since a Head or Grand Master, who died in the eighties, had a crooked spine) that the signs or marks of the organization are twisted and malformed things, it is curious the number of people one notices who are distorted, wry-necked, hump-backed, and contorted of limb.

And many of the societies were ' criminal ' because they practised war either against each other or against the European

Privacy

My Account

Email (required):*

Email address

Password (required):*

Password

Remember me

Sign in

Forgotten your password?

Need to activate?

Need Help?

Institutional Login

If you have access to journal content via a university, library or employer, sign in here

Access through your institution

Need Help?

Purchase Content

24 hours online access to download content

- Article £29.00
- Issue £194.18

Privacy

Add to Cart

Subscribe to this journal

Recommend to your library

Rent with DeepDyve

Rent Article

Need Help?

Research off-campus without worrying about access issues. Find out about Lean Library here

Similar Articles:

View all >

Privacy

Gregor Ziemer Moves to West Coast

Journal of Visual Impairment & Blindness

Sep 1964

Myths and Realities of Asian Gangs on the West Coast

Karen A. Joe

Humanity & Society

May 1994

Book Review: Human Resources, Personnel, and Organizational Behavior: Work on the Waterfront: W...

Joel Fadem

ILR Review

Oct 1989

Privacy

PDF Drive предложил в: Русские.

We are delighted to announce the arrival of PDF Drive Premium with unlimited cloud space and exclusive experiences.
Start your 7-day free trial today!

The Slave Trade The Story of the Atlantic Slave Trade 1440-1870

Download (EPUB)

Report

pdfdrive:alerts Enter your email Create Alert

Alert me when a similar file available. Send me weekly trending books.

PDF DRIVE Search for books, tutorials, manuals and authors in 75,779,212 files

Help your children develop h it fun, and involve the whole family in lifestyle changes. Suggested reading: Shepherding a Child's Heart

GET IT ON Google Play

Similar Free eBooks

Filter by page count

Pdfdrive:hope Give books away. Get books you want.

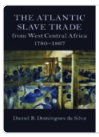
Editor's Picks
Most Popular
Academic & Education
Art
Biography
Business & Career
Children & Youth
Environment
Fiction & Literature
Health & Fitness
Lifestyle
Personal Growth
Politics & Laws
Religion
Science & Research
Technology

Get Top Trending Free Books in Your Inbox

Enter your email Sign in

Ask yourself: How could I be a better friend to people?
Next

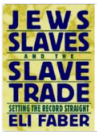
GET IT ON Google Play



In the years just before the Civil War, during the most intensive phase of American slave-trade suppression,

The American Slave Coast: A History of the Slave-Breeding Industry

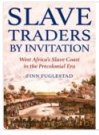
772 Pages · 2015 · 12.5 MB · 6,091 Downloads · New!



The American Slave Coast offers a provocative vision of US history from earliest colonial times through

The Atlantic Slave Trade from West Central Africa, 1780-1867

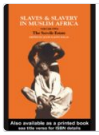
243 Pages · 2018 · 5.54 MB · 3,718 Downloads · New!



The Atlantic Slave Trade from West Central Africa, 1780-1867, traces the inland origins of slaves leaving

Jews, Slaves, and the Slave Trade: Setting the Record Straight

368 Pages · 1998 · 1.13 MB · 4,966 Downloads · New!



In the wake of the civil rights movement, a great divide has opened up between African American and

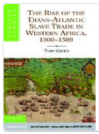
Slave Traders by Invitation: West Africa in the Era of Trans-Atlantic Slavery

461 Pages · 2018 · 4.41 MB · 4,583 Downloads · New!

The Slave Coast, situated in what is now the West African state of Benin, was the epicentre of the Atlantic

Slaves and Slavery in Africa: The Servile Estate (Slaves & Slavery in Muslim Africa)

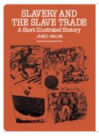
211 Pages · 1986 · 1.18 MB · 7,658 Downloads · New!



This title available in eBook format. Click here for more information.Visit our eBookstore at:

The Willie Lynch Letter And The Making of a Slave

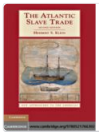
60 Pages · 2007 · 603 KB · 15,880 Downloads



INTRODUCTION. The infamous “Willie Lynch” letter gives both African and Caucasian students and

The Rise of the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade in Western Africa, 1300

368 Pages · 2014 · 3.48 MB · 1,473 Downloads · New!



zeal were ever the companions to ruthless trade in medieval West Africa, where the religious brotherhood

Slavery and the Slave Trade: A Short Illustrated History

176 Pages · 1983 · 17.08 MB · 2,706 Downloads · New!

...

The Atlantic Slave Trade

264 Pages · 2010 · 1.82 MB · 1,474 Downloads · New!

This survey is a synthesis of the economic, social, cultural, and political history of the Atlantic slave trade,

Load more similar PDF files

PDF DRIVE

Company
About
Mobile App
Terms & Privacy

Social Twitter
Facebook
Donate ♥

Help
Contact us
Feedback
DMCA & Copyright

To British Muslims who may be easily charmed by King Charles III

Perspectives(/taxonomy/term/26) 6 min read

Yahya Birt (/taxonomy/term/71573) | 16 Sep, 2022

King Charles III's admiration for Islam has excited the UK's Muslim community. With the ascension of a Muslim-friendly king, Yahya Birt asks us to consider the monarchy's violent history of empire and current soft power.

(/#facebook) (/#twitter) (/#whatsapp) (/#reddit) (/#flipboard) (https://www.addtoany.com/share#who-may-be-easily-charmed-king-charles&title=To%20British%20Mus

(https://english.alaraby.co.uk/sites/default/files/2022-09/GettyImages-52099991_1.jpg)

King Charles III, then a prince, making a speech during a visit to the Mohammedi Park Masjid Complex in Northolt, England on 19 March 1996. [Getty]

The seductive power of the British monarchy still exerts a gravitational pull on British Muslim (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/uk-muslims-express-sorrow-over-queen-elizabeths-death) communities today. On a popular level, we see this in the fervent hope that King Charles III is a closet Muslim who bears a royal connection to the Hasanid Sayyids through the medieval Spanish aristocracy.

From the 1990s, some Sufi sheikhs have been keen to claim a crypto-Muslim theory about Charles' hidden personal Islam on the basis of their own spiritual dream-visions. The genealogical claim of Muhammadan lineage (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/queen-elizabeth-ii-descended-prophet-muhammad) in the royal family is also historically dubious. So both claims can be safely set to one side.

The truth about Charles (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/accession-council-proclaims-charles-britains-new-king) is that he is a committed Islamophile. He has studied the Quran and even started learning Arabic to further that end. He is a fan of Martin Lings' (Abu Bakr Siraj al-Din's) acclaimed biography of the Prophet Muhammad, and the noted English Sufi and Keeper of the Oriental manuscripts at the British Library.

More in Opinion

Adele Walton (/taxonomy/term/71655)

The Mau Mau 70 years on: The British

26 September, 2022

Daoud Kuttab (/taxonomy/term/69599)

Abbas' two-state solution UN speech: Is

26 September, 2022

Richard Sudan (/taxonomy/term/70637)

Mississippi water crisis: Biden

24 September, 2022

Most Viewed

1 Andrew Tate: 'Misogynist' influencer 'converts to Islam' (/news/andrew-tate-misogynist-influencer-converts-islam)

"It is uncontroversial to say that Charles III is the most knowledgeable of all English monarchs about Islam and the most sympathetic towards it in the monarchy's millennium-long history"

The King is tolerably well read in Sufi doctrine. He has an abiding interest in Islamic architecture, arts and gardens. He set up the School of Traditional Arts near Regents Park that teaches the traditional Islamic arts at masters level, and he is patron to the Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies, where he has sponsored a Young Muslim Leadership Programme. In 2007, he set up Mosaic, a mentoring programme focused on Muslim young people.

Thus, it is uncontroversial to say that Charles III is the most knowledgeable of all English monarchs about Islam and the most sympathetic (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/king-charles-iii-uks-most-pro-islam-monarch) towards it in the monarchy's millennium-long history. One of his gardens at Highgrove is modelled on a Turkish carpet.

Besides his focus on Islam, King Charles has also studied Greek Orthodoxy and frequently visited Mount Athos in part because his paternal grandmother, Alice, was an Orthodox nun. Similarly, he has also studied Judaism with some seriousness and is close to the former Chief Rabbi, Jonathan Sacks.

In the nineties, Charles floated the idea that his title as King should be changed from "Defender of the Faith" to "Defender of Faith", which he argued better reflected the original sense of the Latin title, Fidei Defensor.

It was a seemingly subtle change but one that had the potential to transform his role from protector and head of the Anglican Church to an expanded interfaith role most suited to multi-faith Britain in the twenty-first century. This was partly driven by his engagement with French metaphysician and Muslim convert René Guénon's doctrine of perennialism, or the belief in the transcendent unity of all religions.

His suggestion of a wider sense of Fidei Defensor was criticised at the time for diluting his role as head of Anglican church, and in recent years he clarified that he accepted the title as it stands. However, according to his biographer Robert Johnson, he remains committed to forging a strong connection to all faiths in Britain as King. In less welcome times than the multiculturalist, post-Cold War nineties, British Muslims will welcome the ascension of a Muslim-friendly monarch.

Let me end on a note of scepticism. We should recognise the tremendous soft power (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/prince-charles-visit-jordan-egypt) of the British monarchy. It blunted the end of direct

2 between Turkey and Greece remains unlikely (/analysis/why-war-between-turkey-and-greece-remains-unlikely)

3 Black Adam: Hollywood returns to state of cultural blindness (/features/black-adam-hollywood-returns-state-cultural-blindness)

4 Racy Lebanese singer Haifa Wehbe to perform in Saudi Arabia (/news/racy-lebanese-singer-haifa-wehbe-perform-saudi-arabia)

5 Israel to sign Lebanon maritime border deal Thursday: Lapid (/news/israel-sign-lebanon-maritime-border-deal-thursday-lapid)

6 Oman refusal to open airspace hits Israeli airline hard (/news/oman-refusal-open-airspace-hits-israeli-airline-hard)

Search

Empire by being the glue that held together the Commonwealth: the violent end of the Empire was papered over with the soft afterglow of a precarious comity of nations.

Search

RELATED

Muslims mourn the Queen under Prevent's watchful eye (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/opinion/muslims-mourn-queen-under-prevents-watchful-eye)

Voices Afroze Fatima Zaidi

When Elizabeth (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/opinion/queen-unremarkable-privileged-woman) ascended the throne, independence struggles had won freedom, most notably in India, but Britain was still a great colonial power in Africa, the Caribbean and the Pacific. Throughout decolonization in the 1950s and 1960s, the British undertook violent suppression of uprisings or worked, often with the Americans, for the removal of independently-minded leaders in Burma, Egypt, Iran, Kenya, Malaysia, Oman and Yemen.

Perhaps the bloodiest (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/queens-death-ignites-debate-over-africas-colonial-past) of these was the crackdown on the Mau Mau uprisings in Kenya in the first eight years of Elizabeth's reign. Most of the colonial archives showing evidence of internment camps, torture, rape, and mass hangings and killings were deliberately destroyed. It was only in 2011 that Kenyan survivors were allowed to sue the British government.

It remains customary for heirs to the Crown to serve in the British military, as Prince Harry did in Afghanistan. Even though as commander-in-chief of the British Armed Forces, Elizabeth's and now Charles' role is delegated to their government, all military personnel make their pledge of loyalty to the monarch.

"My final plea to British Muslims is not to be easily charmed by Charles and rush unthinkingly for the photo, career and funding opportunities and the imperial gongs at the crowning of a new Islamophilic monarch"

The nation's might is embodied in the royal person, so behind the soft power of monarchy also lies the steel of British military power, and so to the extent that the recent monarchs provided legitimacy to the violent end of Empire, they should be held accountable.

So, in many ways, Elizabeth's longevity delayed Britain's post-imperial reckoning (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/features/platinum-jubilee-dont-pardon-royal-familys-past) in changing the way it sees itself in the world, but after Brexit no one should hold their breath.

For years, the Royal Family and Charles in particular sold millions of pounds' worth of military hardware in the Arabian Gulf, and the monarchy will be used to front future trade deals with autocrats with a penchant for the romance of royalty. Charles played a central role in pushing British arms exports to Arab regimes (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/news/king-charles-iii-and-middle-east-what-can-we-expect) after the Arab Spring, totalling £14.5 billion, which have been used to suppress democracy and commit war crimes.

RELATED

Royalty does so much to hold up our class system (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/opinion/queens-jubilee-royal-familys-last-hurrah), old money and the public-school elite that runs Britain. The treatment of Meghan Markle and non-white staff at the Palace shows that it is a profoundly white institution. At its core, the monarchy is fundamentally anti-meritocratic.

So, my final plea (https://english.alaraby.co.uk/opinion/muslims-mourn-queen-under-prevents-watchful-eye) to British Muslims is not to be easily charmed by Charles and rush unthinkingly for the photo, career and funding opportunities and the imperial gongs at the crowning of a new Islamophilic monarch.

Instead, we should, at the very least, take a conscientious pause to ponder what the implications really are of monarchy in terms of natural justice and fairness in twenty-first century Britain.

Yahya Birt is Research Director at the Ayaan Institute in London and is a community historian who writes about the history of Islam in Britain. His latest book is The Collected Poems of Abdullah Quilliam.

Join the conversation: @The_NewArab (https://twitter.com/The_NewArab)

Have questions or comments? Email us at: editorial-english@alaraby.co.uk

Opinions expressed in this article remain those of the author and do not necessarily represent those of The New Arab, its editorial board or staff.

Tags:

King Charles III (/taxonomy/term/71561)

British royal family (/tag/british-royal-family) British empire (/tag/british-empire)

colonialism (/tag/colonialism) British Muslims (/tag/british-muslims)

Islam (/tag/islam) Queen Elizabeth II (/tag/queen-elizabeth-ii)

The Black Kings & Queens Project
Yesterday at 2:20 PM

THE ANCIENT GREAT BENIN EMPIRE

The Benin Kingdom was a flourishing ancient city situated in modern day Nigeria. During pre colonial era, Benin was one of the many highly developed cultures in Africa. This kingdom got its start up around 900 CE when Edo people settled in the tropical rainforest of West Africa.

The walls of Benin City and its surrounding kingdom was the world's largest earthworks carried out prior to the mechanical era, and was featured in the Genius Book Of Word Record. Benin City was also one of the first cities to have a semblance of street lighting. Huge metal lamps, many feet high, were built and placed around the city, especially near the king's palace. Fuelled by palm oil, their burning wicks were lit at night to provide illumination for traffic to and from the palace. When the Portuguese first visited the city in 1485, they were stunned to find this vast kingdom made of hundreds of interlocked cities and villages, calling it "Great city of Benin".

#BKQHistory

The Black Kings & Queens Project and 1.6K others

153 comments 756 shares

Like Comment Share

756 shares

Write a comment...

Frank Soto
Stole everything from US..then profited off our knowledge.

18 hrs Like Reply More

SIRIUS RESOUND PR replied · 1 reply

View more comments…

126 3 comments 13 shares

Like Comment

13 shares

Write a comment...

Top fan

Carol Gordon

media1.tenor.co
media1.tenor.co

on Thu Like Reply More

View more comments…

117 4 comments 9 shares

Like Comment

9 shares

Write a comment...

Mickey Burnett

media4.giphy.com
media4.giphy.com

on Thu Like Reply More

View more comments…

106 7 shares

Like Comment

7 shares

Write a comment...

129

11 comments 9 shares

Like Comment

9 shares

Write a comment...

Brenda Nnokam

The thing is Great Benin kingdom was not only situate in present day Nigeria, it extended to present day Benin Republic

23 hrs Like Reply More

Ekene Olaedo M... replied · 1 reply

View more comments…

social structure

ARTICLE

Introduction

Structure and social organization

Structural functionalism

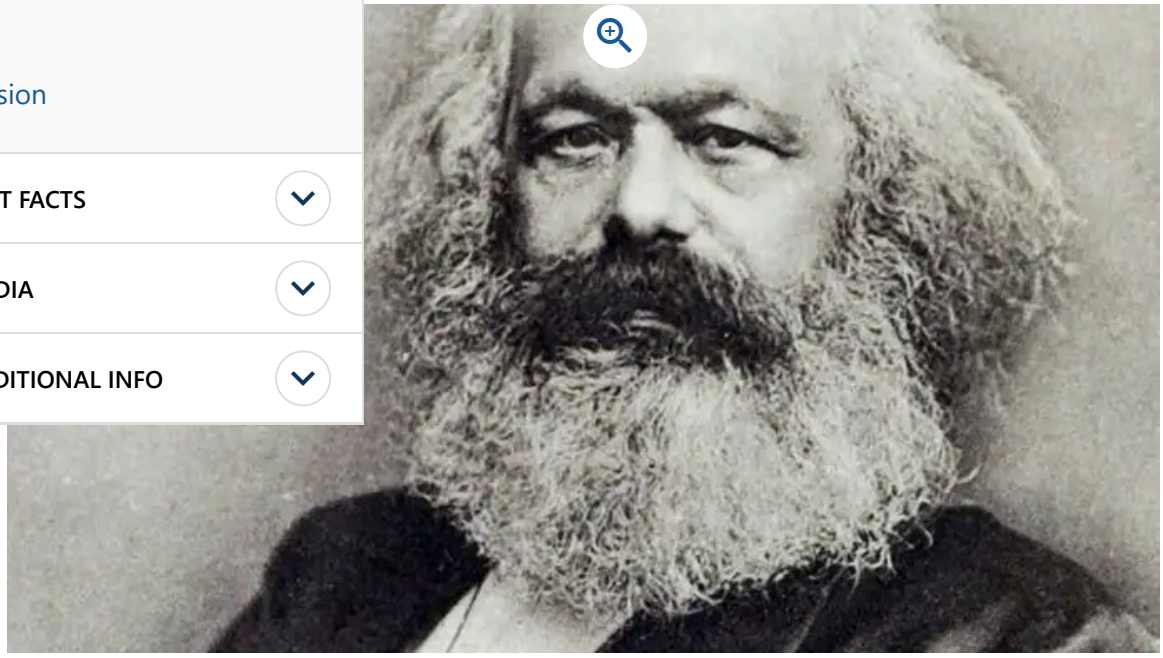
Theories of class and power

Structuralism

Later trends in social structure theory

Conclusion

FAST FACTS



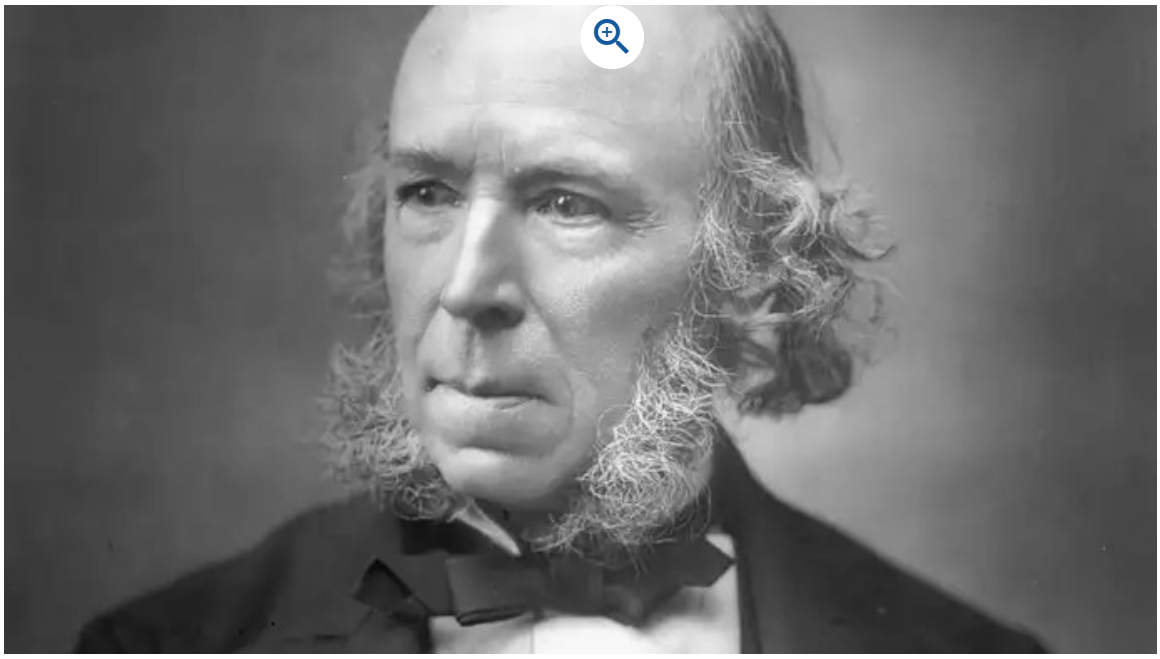
MEDIA

ADDITIONAL INFO

l organization

s been applied to human societies since the 19th me, its use was more common in other fields such ogy.

uction as a metaphor when he spoke of "the truktur] of society, the real basis on which is itical superstructure [Überbau] and to which l consciousness correspond." Thus, according to ure of society is economic, or material, and this e rest of social life, which is defined as or ideological.



Karl Marx

Karl Marx, c. 1870.

Image: From Karl Marx's Oekonomische Lehren, by Karl Kautsky, 1887

The biological connotations of the term structure are evident in the work of British philosopher Herbert Spencer. He and other social theorists of the 19th and early 20th centuries conceived of society as an organism comprising interdependent parts that form a structure similar to the anatomy of a living body. Although social scientists since Spencer and Marx have disagreed on the concept of social structure, their definitions share common elements. In the most general way, social structure is identified by those features of a social entity (a society or a group within a society) that persist over time, are interrelated, and influence both the functioning of the entity as a whole and the activities of its individual members.

Herbert Spencer
Herbert Spencer.
Image: The Print Collector/Heritage-Images

The origin of contemporary sociological references to social structure can be traced to Émile Durkheim, who argued that parts of society are interdependent and that this interdependency imposes structure on the behaviour of institutions and their members. In other words, Durkheim believed that individual human behaviour is shaped by external forces. Similarly, American anthropologist George P. Murdock, in his book Social Structure (1949), examined kinship systems in preliterate societies and used social structure as a taxonomic device for classifying, comparing, and correlating various aspects of kinship systems.

Émile Durkheim
Émile Durkheim.
Image: Pictorial Press Ltd./Alamy

Several ideas are implicit in the notion of social structure. First, human beings form social relations that are not arbitrary and coincidental but exhibit some regularity and continuity. Second, social life is not chaotic and formless but is, in fact, differentiated into certain groups, positions, and institutions that are interdependent or functionally interrelated. Third, individual choices are shaped and circumscribed by the social environment, because social groups, although constituted by the social activities of individuals, are not a direct result of the wishes and intentions of the individual members. The notion of social structure implies, in other words, that human beings are not completely free and autonomous in their choices and actions but are instead constrained by the social world they inhabit and the social relations they form with one another.

Within the broad framework of these and other general features of human society, there is an enormous variety of social forms between and within societies. Some social scientists use the concept of social structure as a device for creating an order for the various aspects of social life. In other studies, the concept is of greater theoretical importance; it is regarded as an explanatory concept, a key to the understanding of human social life. Several theories have been developed to account for both the similarities and the varieties. In these theories, certain aspects of social life are regarded as basic and, therefore, central components of the social structure. Some of the more prominent of these theories are reviewed here.

Structural functionalism

A.R. Radcliffe-Brown, a British social anthropologist, gave the concept of social structure a central place in his approach and connected it to the concept of function. In his view, the components of the social structure have indispensable functions for one another—the continued existence of the one component is dependent on that of the others—and for the society as a whole, which is seen as an integrated, organic entity. His comparative studies of preliterate societies demonstrated that the interdependence of institutions regulated much of social and individual life. Radcliffe-Brown defined social structure empirically as patterned, or "normal," social relations (those aspects of social activities that conform to accepted social rules or norms). These rules bind society's members to socially useful activities.

American sociologist Talcott Parsons elaborated on the work of Durkheim and Radcliffe-Brown by using their insights on social structure to formulate a theory that was valid for large and complex societies. For Parsons, social structure was essentially normative—that is, consisting of "institutional patterns of normative culture." Put differently, social behaviour conforms to norms, values, and rules that direct behaviour in specific situations. These norms vary according to the positions of the individual actors: they define different roles, such as various occupational roles or the traditional roles of husband-father and wife-mother. Moreover, these norms vary among different spheres of life and lead to the creation of social institutions—for example, property and marriage. Norms, roles, and institutions are all components of the social structure on different levels of complexity.

Later sociologists criticized definitions of social structure by scholars such as Spencer and Parsons because they believed the work (1) made improper use of analogy, (2) through its association with functionalism defended the status quo, (3) was notoriously abstract, (4) could not explain conflict and change, and (5) lacked a methodology for empirical confirmation.

Load Next Page

ТЕХНОЛОГИИ И НАУКА

Лечит не только "разбитое сердце", но и настоящие болезни: что выяснили ученые о "гормоне любви"

03 октября 2022 в 15:00

Фото: Live Science | Лечит не только "разбитое сердце", но и настоящие болезни: что выяснили ученые о "гормоне любви" использовать для лечения сердечных приступов.

Лабораторные исследования показывают, что окситоцин, так называемый "гормон любви" может помочь по-настоящему "разбитому" сердцу. Ученые провели исследования с использованием клеток рыбок данио-рерио и человека. Результаты показали, что гормон, вырабатываемый мозгом, может помочь в регенерации сердечной ткани после травмы и теоретически его можно будет использовать в будущем для лечения сердечных приступов, пишет Live Science.

Читайте лучшие материалы раздела на странице "Фокус. Технологии и наука" в Facebook

Подписаться

Ученым уже известно о том, что окситоцин, который играет важную роль в социальных связях между людьми, может выполнять и другие функции. Уровень этого гормона повышается, когда люди обнимаются и занимаются сексом. Но также он помогает защитить сердечно-сосудистую систему от травм и снижает кровяное давление.

Ученым уже известно о том, что окситоцин, который играет важную роль в социальных связях между людьми может выполнять и другие функции. Уровень этого гормона повышается, когда люди обнимаются и занимаются сексом. Но также он помогает защитить сердечно-сосудистую систему от травм и снижает кровяное давление

Фото: Pexels

Но новое исследование показывает, что у рыбок данио-рерио этот гормон помогает восстановить повреждение мышечные ткани сердца, которые отвечают за сердечные сокращения. Эксперименты с клетками человека также указывают на то, что подобный эффект от воздействия окситоцина может быть и у людей, если этот гормон вводить в нужное время и в нужной дозе.

По словам ученых, у нашего сердца очень ограниченные возможности в плане восстановления поврежденных тканей, особенно это касается последствий сердечных приступов. Тем не менее, как показало еще одно исследование, клетки сердца могут восстанавливаться после травмы, хотя этот процесс происходит не так эффективно, как нам бы хотелось. То есть значительной регенерации мышечной ткани сердца после сердечного приступа у взрослых людей не наблюдается.

По словам ученых, у нашего сердца очень ограниченные возможности в плане восстановления поврежденных тканей, особенно это касается последствий сердечных приступов

Фото: ScienceAlert

Но ученые из Университета штата Мичиган, которые и провели новое исследование, предполагают, что стимулирование восстановления клеток сердца можно провести с помощью гормона окситоцина. Пока что такой процесс удалось запустить только в лабораторной посуде с клетками человека. В то же время эксперименты на рыбках данио-рерио, которые известны своей удивительной способностью к регенерации тканей, показал эффективность данного метода лечения для живого организма.

В течение трех дней после сердечной травмы мозг рыбок начал вырабатывать окситоцин как сумасшедший, и создавал в 20 раз большее количество гормона, чем до травмы. Затем гормон попал в сердце и запустил процесс восстановления поврежденных тканей.

"Мы считаем, что окситоцин может сыграть важную роль в лечении сердечных приступов у человека в будущем. Можно разработать новые методы лечения, что поможет людям быстрее восстановится после приступа. Но необходимы

Фокус уже писал о новом прорыве в лечении рака. Ученые нашли способ остановить распространение метастазов.

Также Фокус писал о том, что плавание может защитить от ожирения и болезней сердца, но важно учитывать температуру воды.

Теги: #ЗДОРОВЬЕ #СЕРДЦЕ #ЧЕЛОВЕК #ГОРМОН #СЕРДЕЧНЫЙ ПРИСТУП #ГОРМОНЫ #СЕРДЕЧНО-СОСУДИСТЫЕ ЗАБОЛЕВАНИЯ

Материалы по теме

Данный ресурс — для пользователей возрастом от 18 лет и старше.

FOCUS.UA — больше чем просто новости.

Перепечатка, копирование или воспроизведение информации, содержащей ссылку на агентство ИнА "Українські Новини", в каком-либо виде строго запрещены.

Все материалы, которые размещены на этом сайте со ссылкой на агентство "Интерфакс-Украина", не подлежат дальнейшему воспроизведению и/или распространению в любой форме, кроме как с письменного разрешения агентства.

Материалы с плашками "Р", "Новости партнеров", "Новости компаний", "Новости партий", "Инновации", "Позиция", "Спецпроект при поддержке" публикуются на коммерческой основе.

© 2022 Фокус. Все права защищены.

Zuzana Balazova
13 hours ago

IL PRINCIPIO FEMMINILE.... HATHOR.... È TORNATA E SI FA PURE VEDERE

Il Sole ieri 29 gennaio 2023 a San Paolo, Brasile al tramonto, combacia con gli antichi reperti che avvertono ciò che sta arrivando.

Grazie per aver condiviso le immagini dei reperti David Dicken

Grazie John Traczyk

Anto QZ and 265 others

35 comments 68 shares

Like Comment Share

68 shares

View previous comments…

Carmen Concejero

5 hrs Like Reply More

Write a comment...

37

1 comment 1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Mauro Poggi
Nefer Rä

12 hrs Like Reply More

Write a comment...

13 1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

15 1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

12

Like Comment

Write a comment...

11

Like Comment

Write a comment...

10

Like Comment

Write a comment...

6

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

سريانوس للسحر السفلى و جلب الحبيب 00201210598112

سريانوس للسحر السفلى و جلب الحبيب 00201210598112 وزواج البائر و الزواج بمن تحبون مشاكل الحب والزواج علاج جميع انواع السحر الانتقام من الاعداء 00201206898231

PDFmyURL

بحث

Go

بحث داخلي

Google

نتائج البحث

رسائل

مواضيع

بحث متقدم

دم الدورة الشهرية

سريانوس للسحر السفلى و جلب الحبيب 00201210598112 :: وصفات الشر والتفريق بدون تحضير 00201206898231

صفحة 1 من اصل 1

غرّد

المواضيع الأخيرة

مايو 2020

دم الدورة الشهرية

من طرف مايا في الجمعة أبريل 10, 2015 1:18 am

مايا

عضو مهم جدا

★★★★★★★

عدد المساهمات : 1130

نقطة من دم الدورة الشهرية في الشاي تجعل الزوج مزلول لزوجتة طول العموهى اصعب انوع السحر المشروب بدون عزيمة او قسم

نقاط : 2884
تاريخ التسجيل : 06/01/2015

رد: دم الدورة الشهرية

من طرف rymee في الإثنين يونيو 06, 2016 3:45 pm

tislmi habouba fi kahwa moukin

rymee
عضو مشارك

عدد المساهمات : 27
نقاط : 27
تاريخ التسجيل : 06/06/2016

رد: دم الدورة الشهرية

من طرف اهيوم في الأربعاء مايو 15, 2019 5:11 am

لكن هذا سم اختى ويؤدى الى الموت

اهيوم
عضو مشارك

عدد المساهمات : 45
نقاط : 45
تاريخ التسجيل : 06/10/2016

الإثنين الثلاثاء الأربعاء

4	5	6
11	12	13
18	19	20
25	26	27

اليومية

التبادل الاعلاني

المواضيع الأكثر شعبية

صلاحيات هذا المنتدى:

لاتستطيع الرد على المواضيع في هذا المنتدى

by Taboola

أيضا لاكتشاف

مسرحية "هاملت" لأول مرة في فلسطين

النيابة السعودية تطالب بإعدام خمسة متهمين بمقتل خاشقجي

تفعيل برنامج bandicam 4.0.1.1339 + سيريال + كراك

حملات التسويق الالكتروني| شركات تسويق الكتروني في الكويت -9655051...

سمعت البارحة " #هاتف مفاده: " انتهى " "قرن الشيطان

طلسم الهيبه والقبول والمحبه هاااام

تغفلى زوجك ولبسيه طرحه واخرجى واعملى كل الى انتى عايزاه براحتك قوى جلب

لجلب الزوجة طائعة ذليلة وهى التى تطلب من زوجها جماعها وتتوسل إليه لينكحها

لجلب الزوجة او المطلوبه طائعة ذليلة وهى التى تطلب من زوجها جماعها وتتوسل إليه لينكحها

اسرع طريقة لجلب الحبيب لجلب الغائب لجلب من تحب

باب ارسال المحبه من عمايل ابليس

للتفريق بين اتنين بدون صور

لجلب الحبيب

الجماع الجنسى اللذيذ

وصفة للكراهية مجرب

تسجيل صفحاتك المفضلة في مواقع خارجية

قم بحفض و مشاطرة الرابط

سريانوس للسحر السفلى و جلب الحبيب

1210598112

على موقع حفض الصفحات

سحابة الكلمات الدلالية

الزوج تهيج اتزوج راجلك
تسليط الجن الظالم المال
تقاف شمعة الزواج هلاك
وصفة زوجته سفلي
الساحر التفريق السحر
طريقة بلمس الرزق
عاشوراء افكر لتسخير
علاج عليك

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

facebook

لحظة تاريخ is on Facebook. To connect with لحظة تاريخ, join Facebook today.

Join

or

Log In

لحظة تاريخ
6 hrs ·

#فتح_السودان أعظم غزوات الامبراطورية المغربية:

تعتبر غزوة احمد المنصور الذهبي للسودان واحدة من أعظم الغزوات في التاريخ المغربي، وأكثرها تفردا، بحيث كانت اول محاولة لغزو السودان لم يسبق لها أي سلطان مغربي.

كانت هذه الغزوة تمثل مواجهة مباشرة بين #الامبراطورية_المغربية و #الامبراطورية_السونغية والتي يرجع تأسيسها إلى #محمد_إسكيا الملقب بإسكيا الكبير، امتد حكمها من 1464 إلى 1591، حكمت منطقة غرب الساحل الإفريقي وكانت واحدة من أكبر الامبراطوريات في التاريخ الإفريقي.

تعود جدور النزاع بين الامبراطورية السعدية والسونغية إلى سنة 1544 حيث كانت رغبة السعديين في استغلال مناجم الملح في منطقة #تغازى، وأرسل #احمد_الأعرج يطلب من إسكيا إسحاق التنازل عن معادن هذه المنطقة، لكن الأخير رفض ذلك، بل أراد أن يظهر قوته لأحمد الاعرج فأرسل جيشا من ألفين فارس من الطوارق ليغيروا على آخر بلد في منطقة درعة دون أن يخلفوا أي قتيل، فغاروا على سوق وأكلوا كل ما وجدوا فيه من أموال.

لكن أحمد الأعرج سوف يرد على اسكيا إسحاق بانتزاع #سبخة_"أجل" الشهيرة سنة 1557 التي كان يستغلها السودانيون وتدر عليهم أموال طائلة. كما رأى السعديون أن أول خطوة لتحقيق سياسة التوسع في السودان هي السيطرة على منطقتي #توات" و #تيكورارين".

لكن التوسع داخل السودان كانت تواجهه عدة صعوبات أولها صعوبة اجتياز الصحراء الكبرى، وهي مجازفة خطيرة جدا، لكن رغبة أحمد المنصور في استباق الاسبان الذين كانت لهم أطماع في هذه المناطق كانت أكبر.

سلكت الحملة 999ه طريقا خاصا يسمى #طريق_جودر " كان في الحملة عدد من التجار كأدلة ومرشدين لها. انطلقت الحملة من مراكش إلى درعة متجهة إلى "لكتاوة" "فتندوف" و "تغازى" ثم "كارابارا" على نهر النيجر، وصولا إلى البحر بقرية "كربر"، وكان ذلك في 4 جمادى الأولى عام 999ه.
وتكون الحملة قد قطعت مسافة تقدر بنحو ألفي كلومتر، خلال أربعة أشهر تقريبا مند خروجها من مراكش أوائل محرم، قطعوا فيها ستين مرحلة.
وقعت المعركة بين السعديين وإسكيا إسحاق بمكان يسمى "تنكتدبغ"، انتهت بانتصار أحمد المنصور يوم 12 مارس 1591.
#لحظة_تاريخ

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

11 Shares

لحظة تاريخ

لو كان البعض يهتم بتاريخ بلده أكثر من حشر أنفه في شؤوون الغير كان أفضل له، من ينتقد تاريخ الآخرين ويصفهم بالغزاة دون أن ينتقد غزو بلاده من فرنسا والأتراك يظهر حجم الحقد الذي يكنه للمغرب.
ليس بالسب والشتم يبنى التاريخ.

2 hrs More

لحظة تاريخ

يبدو أن الحديث عن تاريخ المغرب يؤلم بعض الأشخاص، تاريخ المغرب تاريخ بطولات وأمجاد وفتوحات ومن ينكر ذلك فهو حاقد ولا تاريخ له، و مادمتم تتحدثون عن تدمير مملكة السودان سوف نتطرق في قادم الأيام للتحول الذي طرأ على وضع السودان تحت الحكم السعدي.

3 hrs More

لحظة تاريخ replied · 2 replies

ديدي عبدالرزاق

كان من النتائج السلبية لهذه الحملة: سجن علماء تمبكتو الذين كانوا يعارضون الغزو المغربي لأرضهم، ومن أشهر أولئك العلماء أحمد باب التمبكتي الذي قضى 15 سنة من عمره سجينا في المغرب.!

5 hrs More

Farouk Ihab replied · 2 replies

أسامة حرسان

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

تاريخ جدا مشرف، لكن اجيال اليوم ليست قدر الشرف

3 hrs More

Abderrahim Bremer

أدى الغزو إلى قتل العديد من الأبرياء المسلمين في مالي وتدمير مملكتهم فعن اي فتح ومعظم مورخي المملكة وصفوا الهجوم بالمدبحة والتعدي على الآخرين. وفي مقولة الذهبي خير دليل، الأندلس نفعها قليل و ضررها كبير و بلاد السودان نفعها كتير و ضررها قليل

4 hrs More

Youcef Youcef

تزييف التاريخ !! عيني عينك ! عن اي فتح تتحدث ! تتحدث عن الفتح في 1555م تتحدث عن الفتح في القرن 16 !!! أعتقد أن بلاد شمال غرب افريقيا و السودان فتحت قبل قرون على يد الفاتحين المسلمين الأوائل أو راني غالط ؟؟؟ إذا راني غالط قولولي الله يحفظكم ..... عن اي فتح تتحدث هل بلغ بكم تزييف الحقائق و التاريخ لهاذه الدرجة ؟؟؟؟ هاذا يسما إعتداء على أراضي الغير هاذي حروب من أجل المال و ذهب السودان ! هاته حروب توسعية من أجل النفوذ و النهب و السلب !! .... لو كان حقيقة فتح لكانو أعادوا فتح الاندلس التي سقطت في أواخر القرن الخامس عشر !! سلاطين مراكش سلاطين النهب و السلب و التوسع ! هاته هي الحقيقة ! ... مبروك عليكم تزييف التاريخ ! .... لكن با عجب في ذالك بما انكم سميتم الـ□ستعمار حماية عن اي حماية تتحدثون و من من الحماية الشريط الساحلي الشمالي كان لي إسبانيا ساحل المحيط الأطلسي كان للبرتغال ... من الشرق الجزائر كانت تحت الإحتلال الغاشم ... من الجنوب كانت إسبانيا .... و في الوسط كانت بلاد السيبة! فهموني الحماية من من ؟ ... با إختصار أرضكم كانت مرهونة لفرنسا من طرف عبد العزيز و عبد الحفيظ .... !

4 hrs More

Youcef Youcef

فتح النعناع ! مش فتح السودان ! بل قل الإعتداء على السودان ... الإعتداء على المنطقة من طرف سلاطين المخزن حتى ينهبوا الثروات !! الفتح كان من طرف الفاتحين الأولين انتهي !

4 hrs More

Abdessamad Hamdani

اسمه غزو او احتلال السودان، لا لتغطية الشمس بالغربال

5 hrs More

Simo Hamed

الخرا / ئر vu

4 hrs More

Recent Post by Page

لحظة تاريخ

6 hrs ·

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

#فتح_السودان أعظم غزوات الامبراطورية المغربية:

تعتبر غزوة احمد المنصور الذهبي للسودان واحدة من أعظم الغزوات في التاريخ المغربي، وأكثرها تفردا، بحيث كانت اول محاولة لغزو السودان لم يسبق لها أي سلطان مغربي.

كانت هذه الغزوة تمثل مواجهة مباشرة بين #الامبراطورية_المغربية و #الامبراطورية_السونغية والتي يرجع تأسيسها إلى #محمد_إسكيا الملقب بإسكيا الكبير، امتد حكمها من 1464 إلى 1591، حكمت منطقة غرب الساحل الإفريقي وكانت واحدة من أكبر الامبراطوريات في التاريخ الإفريقي.

تعود جدور النزاع بين الامبراطورية السعدية والسونغية إلى سنة 1544 حيث كانت رغبة السعديين في استغلال مناجم الملح في منطقة #تغازى، وأرسل #احمد_الأعرج يطلب من إسكيا إسحاق التنازل عن معادن هذه المنطقة، لكن الأخير رفض ذلك، بل أراد أن يظهر قوته لأحمد الاعرج فأرسل جيشا من ألفين فارس من الطوارق ليغيروا على آخر بلد في منطقة درعة دون أن يخلفوا أي قتيل، فغاروا على سوق وأكلوا كل ما وجدوا فيه من أموال.

لكن أحمد الأعرج سوف يرد على اسكيا إسحاق بانتزاع #سبخة_"أجل" الشهيرة سنة 1557 التي كان يستغلها السودانيون وتدر عليهم أموال طائلة. كما رأى السعديون أن أول خطوة لتحقيق سياسة التوسع في السودان هي السيطرة على منطقتي #توات" و #تيكورارين".

لكن التوسع داخل السودان كانت تواجهه عدة صعوبات أولها صعوبة اجتياز الصحراء الكبرى، وهي مجازفة خطيرة جدا، لكن رغبة أحمد المنصور في استباق الاسبان الذين كانت لهم أطماع في هذه المناطق كانت أكبر.

سلكت الحملة 999ه طريقا خاصا يسمى #طريق_جودر " كان في الحملة عدد من التجار كأدلة ومرشدين لها. انطلقت الحملة من مراكش إلى درعة متجهة إلى "لكتاوة" "فتندوف" و "تغازى" ثم "كارابارا" على نهر النيجر، وصولا إلى البحر بقرية "كربر"، وكان ذلك في 4 جمادى الأولى عام 999ه.
وتكون الحملة قد قطعت مسافة تقدر بنحو ألفي كلومتر، خلال أربعة أشهر تقريبا مند خروجها من مراكش أوائل محرم، قطعوا فيها ستين مرحلة.
وقعت المعركة بين السعديين وإسكيا إسحاق بمكان يسمى "تنكتدبغ"، انتهت بانتصار أحمد المنصور يوم 12 مارس 1591.
#لحظة_تاريخ

11 Shares

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

لحظة تاريخ

لو كان البعض يهتم بتاريخ بلده أكثر من حشر أنفه في شؤوون الغير كان أفضل له، من ينتقد تاريخ الآخرين ويصفهم بالغزاة دون أن ينتقد غزو بلاده من فرنسا والأتراك يظهر حجم الحقد الذي يكنه للمغرب. ليس بالسب والشتم يبنى التاريخ.

2 hrs More

لحظة تاريخ

يبدو أن الحديث عن تاريخ المغرب يؤلم بعض الأشخاص، تاريخ المغرب تاريخ بطولات وأمجاد وفتوحات ومن ينكر ذلك فهو حاقد ولا تاريخ له، و مادمتم تتحدثون عن تدمير مملكة السودان سوف نتطرق في قادم الأيام للتحول الذي طرأ على وضع السودان تحت الحكم السعدي.

3 hrs More

لحظة تاريخ replied · 2 replies

ديدي عبدالرزاق

كان من النتائج السلبية لهذه الحملة: سجن علماء تمبكتو الذين كانوا يعارضون الغزو المغربي لأرضهم، ومن أشهر أولئك العلماء أحمد باب التمبكتي الذي قضى 15 سنة من عمره سجينا في المغرب.!

5 hrs More

Farouk Ihab replied · 2 replies

أسامة حرسان

تاريخ جدا مشرف، لكن اجيال اليوم ليست قدر الشرف

3 hrs More

Abderrahim Bremer

أدى الغزو إلى قتل العديد من الأبرياء المسلمين في مالي وتدمير مملكتهم فعن اي فتح ومعظم مورخي المملكة وصفوا الهجوم بالمدبحة والتعدي على الآخرين. وفي مقولة الذهبي خير دليل، الأندلس نفعها قليل و ضررها كبير و بلاد السودان نفعها كتير و ضررها قليل

4 hrs More

Youcef Youcef

تزييف التاريخ !! عيني عينك ! عن اي فتح تتحدث ! تتحدث عن الفتح في 1555م تتحدث عن الفتح في القرن 16 !!! أعتقد أن بلاد شمال غرب افريقيا و السودان فتحت قبل قرون على يد الفاتحين المسلمين الأوائل أو راني غالط ؟؟؟ إذا راني غالط قولولي الله يحفظكم ..... عن اي فتح تتحدث هل بلغ بكم تزييف الحقائق و التاريخ لهاذه الدرجة ؟؟؟؟ هاذا يسما إعتداء على أراضي الغير هاذي حروب من أجل المال و ذهب السودان ! هاته حروب توسعية من أجل النفوذ و النهب و السلب !! .... لو كان حقيقة فتح لكانو أعادوا فتح الاندلس التي سقطت في أواخر القرن الخامس عشر !! سلاطين مراكش سلاطين النهب و السلب و التوسع ! هاته هي الحقيقة ! ... مبروك عليكم تزييف التاريخ ! .... لكن با عجب في ذالك بما انكم سميتم الـ□ستعمار حماية عن اي حماية تتحدثون و من من الحماية الشريط الساحلي الشمالي كان لي إسبانيا ساحل المحيط الأطلسي كان للبرتغال ... من الشرق الجزائر كانت تحت الإحتلال الغاشم ... من الجنوب كانت إسبانيا .... و في الوسط كانت بلاد السيبة! فهموني الحماية من من ؟ ... با إختصار أرضكم كانت مرهونة لفرنسا من طرف عبد العزيز و عبد الحفيظ .... !

4 hrs More

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Youcef Youcef

فتح النعناع ! مش فتح السودان ! بل قل الإعتداء على السودان ... الإعتداء على المنطقة من طرف سلاطين المخزن حتى ينهبوا الثروات !! الفتح كان من طرف الفاتحين الأولين انتهي !

4 hrs More

Abdessamad Hamdani

اسمه غزو او احتلال السودان، لا لتغطية الشمس بالغربال

5 hrs More

Simo Hamed

الخرا / ئر vu

4 hrs More

لحظة تاريخ

Yesterday at 11:59 PM ·

الذكرى 11 لرحيل الفيلسوف الذي وضع العقل العربي في مشرحة النقد.

#محمد_عابد_الجابري.

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

10 Shares

ديدي عبدالرزاق
رحمة الله عليه

on Mon More

Moutaouakil M'barek
رحمه الله

19 hrs More

Must Maskawy
رحمة الله عليه...

on Mon More

Mustapha Boumansour
رحمه الله واسكنه فسيح جناته

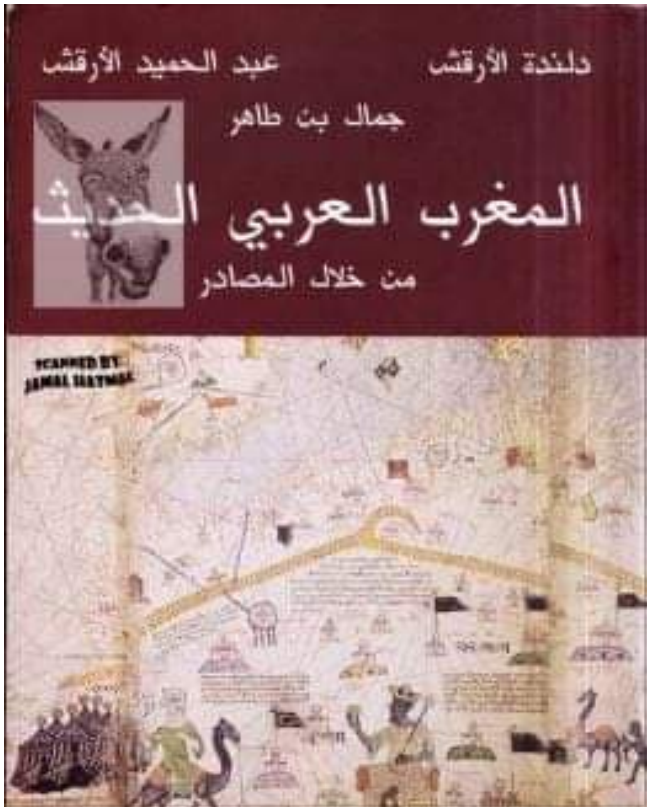
Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

15 hrs More

Fathel Khlaifi
رحمه الله، رجل علم وأدب ومعرفة

8 hrs More

Aziz Laghla



7 hrs More

لحظة تاريخ
Yesterday at 11:03 PM ·

المغرب العربي الحديث من خلال المصادر
https://archive.org/details/autoglass30_live/دلندة%20الأرقش%20%2C%20عبد%20الحميد%20الأرقش%20%2C%20جمال%20بن%20طاهر%20-%20المغرب%20العربي%20الحديث

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

19 Shares

عبدالبارئ بوهالي
الرابط لا علاقة له بالكتاب.

18 hrs More

Related Pages

تاريخ شمال إفريقيا في القديم
8.4K likes this
College & University

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

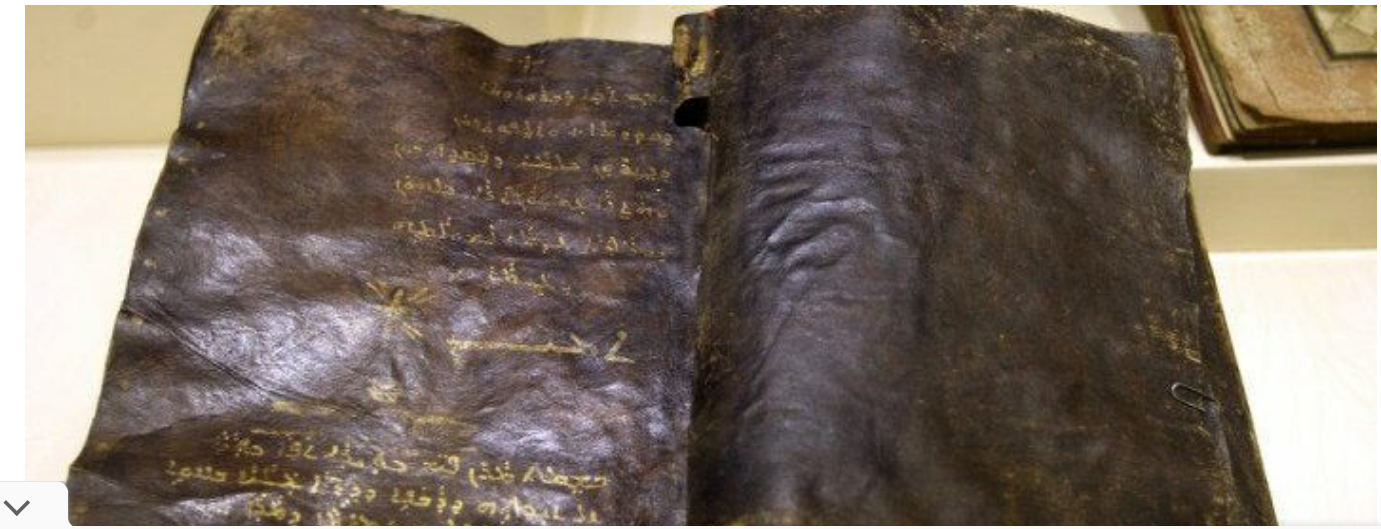
تاريخ شمال أفريقيا والبحر الأبيض المتوسط

16K likes this

صفحة للمهتمين بتاريخ حضارة البحر الأبيض المتوسط وشمال أفريقيا

لمحات من تاريخ المغرب

22K likes this



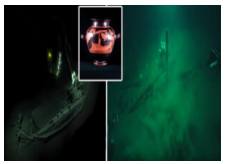
صفحة تهتم بنشر المعرفة التاريخية من كتب ومقالات وصور وفيديوهات تاريخية

See More

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API

PDFCROWD

The Kolbrin Bible: A 3,600-Year-Old Text That Could Rewrite History



Discover the wired world of ancient times with Ancientop – Explore the advancements and innovations of our ancestors.

Trending Comments Latest

Archaeologists In Derbyshire Have Discovered An Anglo-Saxon House From The 9th Century

FEBRUARY 23, 2022

The World's Oldest Shipwreck Has Been Discovered At The Bottom Of The Black Sea: A 2,400-Year-Old 'Odysseus' Ship

FEBRUARY 20, 2022

PDFmyURL

Top Online Training Software
Online Training Platforms For Employees: Top Vendors for 2023 Software Search Engine
Open

The Kolbrin Bible tells the history of human creation and mentions ancient cultures (civilizations) that existed on Earth before Adam and Eve arrived. Perhaps being one of the most disputed ancient texts, this document says the existence of highly developed ancient civilizations on Earth before “written history.”

“In those days, people will put the Great Book before them [upon its return], and wisdom will be revealed, and few are gathered to the stand, the hour of trial will have arrived. The fearless (brave in the heart) will survive…” Manuscripts 3:10.

You might also like

- Energy Jet Traveling 7 Times The Speed of Light Appears To Break The Laws of Physics
- Astronomers find the universe’s largest natural diamond, weighing 10 billion trillion trillion carats
- Ancient Egyptian Papyrus Described Massive UFO Encounter: Did Aliens Arrive 3,500 Years Ago?

The so-called Kolbrin Bible, which many people are ignorant of, narrates the story of ancient events in humanity’s forgotten history. Some of the stories in the ‘Kolbrin Bible’ are thought to anticipate our written history, while others predict terrible disasters that haven’t yet occurred on Earth.

HISTORY

Energy Jet Traveling 7 Times The Speed of Light Appears To Break The Laws of Physics

BY VTTC89 APRIL 1, 2023 0

When two stars collide, they send out a jet of particles that seems to move at seven times the speed...

READ MORE

Astronomers find the universe’s largest natural diamond, weighing 10 billion trillion trillion carats

APRIL 1, 2023

Ancient Egyptian Papyrus Described Massive UFO Encounter: Did Aliens Arrive 3,500 Years Ago?

MARCH 31, 2023

METI Scientists: Earth Could Be ‘Galactic Zoo’ Run by Aliens, Luis Elizondo Embraces ‘Zoo Hypothesis’

MARCH 31, 2023

ISS Camera Filmed Thousands Of Alien Spaceships Evacuating From The Earth In 2020

MARCH 28, 2023

The Kolbrin is thought to be equivalent to the classical Christian Bible. It’s believed to contain fascinating facts about biblical passages like the Flood and the Exodus. The Kolbrin texts also mention ‘The Destroyer’ as a pivotal figure in both of these catastrophes, as well as a slew of future cataclysms.

The Kolbrin Bible is a collection of ancient texts that have been hidden for centuries and preserved by secret societies for nearly a thousand years. Researchers claim the ancient texts have been salvaged after the loss of Glastonbury Abbey in 1184. Some even believe that there is a deep connection between ancient texts and Jesus Christ.

Many scholars think the Kolbrin' Bible' is a 3,600-year-old secular anthology. It's believed to have been composed around the same time as the "Old Testament."

It was conceived by many authors, from ancient Egyptians to ancient Celts. The Kolbrin is divided into two sections, just as the Old and New Testaments – two parts, making 11 books.

Ancient Egyptians wrote the first six books of the Kolbrin Bible, while ancient Celtic priests ‘pinned down’ the remaining books.

Many historians believe that the oldest parts of the Kolbrin Bible were compiled after the Exodus in the fifteenth century BC.

Many people consider it the first Jewish/Christian document that explains human evolution, creationism, and intelligent design. Kolbrin's mathematical concepts reflect the ancient Druids' interest in astronomy and mathematics, as well as global cataclysms in the past.

The ancient text also tells the story of human creation and reveals the presence of ancient cultures that existed on Earth before Adam and Eve arrived.

Kolbrin's first section contains the story of creation, which is read both as a religious and scientific text. Kolbrin's last two books are devoted to Jesus.

Interestingly, this ancient document, also known as the Bronze Book or Colebrook, refers to the “mortal men” who married the daughters of Adam and Eve and had children together, and also describes the Fallen Angels mentioned in Genesis. . It goes against the popular notion that celestial creatures and good humans interbred.

The Destroyer: A Key figure for humanity

The Kolbrin Bible – 21st Century Master Edition

Manuscripts 3:3

As the years go by, specific laws apply to the stars in the sky. Their ways are changing. There is movement and restlessness, they are no longer constant, and there is a red light in the sky.

Manuscripts 3:4

The Destroyer will arrive when blood drops on the Earth, and mountains will open up and spew fire and ashes. Trees will be destroyed, and all living things will be swallowed. The Earth will consume the water, and the sea will boil.

Manuscripts 3:6

People will run away like crazy. They will hear the Destroyer's trumpets and battle cries and seek refuge in the caves of the Earth. Fear will engulf their hearts, and their courage will flow like water from a broken pitcher. They will be consumed in the flames of wrath and destroyed in the breath of the Destroyer.

Previous Post

NASA Found Mystery Caves On Moon For Shelter But They Could Be Alien Bases, UFOlogists Suggest

Next Post

Mysterious 5,500-Year-Old Sumerian Star Map Recorded Massive Asteroid Hit To Earth

Related Posts

HISTORY

Energy Jet Traveling 7 Times The Speed of Light Appears To Break The Laws of Physics

BY VTTC89 APRIL 1, 2023

HISTORY

Astronomers find the universe's largest natural diamond, weighing 10 billion trillion trillion carats

BY VTTC89 APRIL 1, 2023

ARCHAEOLOGY

ARCHAEOLOGY

ARCHAEOLOGY

Ancient Egyptian Papyrus Described Massive UFO Encounter: Did Aliens Arrive 3,500 Years Ago?

BY VTTC89 MARCH 31, 2023

METI Scientists: Earth Could Be 'Galactic Zoo' Run by Aliens, Luis Elizondo Embraces 'Zoo Hypothesis'

BY VTTC89 MARCH 31, 2023

ISS Camera Filmed Thousands Of Alien Spaceships Evacuating From The Earth In 2020

BY VTTC89 MARCH 28, 2023

Leave a Reply

Your email address will not be published. Required fields are marked *

Comment *

Name *

Email *

Website

Save my name, email, and website in this browser for the next time I comment.

POST COMMENT

© 2022 Archaeology and Ancient Civilizations

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

By clicking "Accept All Cookies", you agree to the storing of cookies on your device to enhance site navigation, analyze site usage, and assist in our marketing efforts.

Cookies Settings | Accept All Cookies

Subscribe today for our Weekly Newsletter in your inbox! SUBSCRIBE TODAY

NATURE

Vivianite: The Necro Crystal You Never Knew Existed

This strange mineral grows on corpses.

DR. RUSSELL MOSU
Science Writer

Published February 22, 2023

4k Shares

A vivianite specimen showing beautiful green and dark green colors caused by oxidation. Image Credits: Rob Lavinsky via Wikimedia Commons (CC BY-SA 3.0)

Fans of the fantasy genre are probably used to the idea of special stones or crystals that have formed on ancient dead bodies and boast some sort of mystical property, but did you know there are real necro crystals in the world?

What is vivianite?

Vivianite, a rare phosphate mineral ($Fe_3(PO_4)_2{\cdot}8H_2O$), has been found growing on organic materials such as fossil shells, animal waste deposits, and even on decomposing bodies.

The crystal, which is well known for its beautiful and vividly colored structures, develops in iron-rich sedimentary deposits containing bones, decayed wood, and other organic remains, especially in clay and sandstone. They can also be found in hydrothermal replacement deposits and in phosphate-rich granite pegmatites – igneous rock with a coarse texture and interlocking crystals.

The crystal is extremely fragile and, when freshly formed, is often pale white or transparent, but its color actually changes when it is exposed to light. This is caused by oxidation, which continues to darken the crystal through shades of blue, to darker green and purple, and eventually a thick purplish black.

This Crystal Grows on Dead Bodies more exciting videos
Watch now
@orfjacrystalcastle
These did not grow on bodies ! #crystals #vivianite #archeology #green #...See more
Love You So - The King Khan & BBQ Show

Why does vivianite form on dead bodies?

Well, the key here is the interaction between iron, water, and phosphates. Our bodies contain plenty of phosphate, especially in our teeth and bones, which is released into the surrounding environment when we start to decompose. In rare conditions, where the surrounding area contains water and iron, the phosphates can react and form mineral vivianite.

In most cases, vivianite has been observed on bodies that have been buried for several centuries where it has formed on the bones and teeth. There are also far older examples where it has been found on the tusks of mammoths and the bones of other animals that are several thousands of years old, but there are a few instances where it has been identified on more recent human bodies.

Vivianite crystals. Image Credit: Rob Lavinsky via Wikimedia Commons (CC BY-SA 3.0)

In the 1900s, archaeologists discovered several bodies in Lake Walchen, Germany, which were partially skeletonized and also covered in fat wax, or Adipocere – a product of decomposition that turns body fat into a soap-like substance. One of the bodies had an iron plate fastened to it that had formed vivianite between it and the fat wax. An analysis of the body's clothes indicated that it had probably been in the water for somewhere between 30 and 50 years and that the crystals could have only formed in such a short time because the iron plate had released sufficient iron ions as it corroded, allowing the vivianite to grow on the phosphate-rich parts of the body.

In 1998, another team of researchers discovered vivianite on the remains of a US Serviceman who had been listed as missing in action from Vietnam since 1963 after his B-26B aircraft went missing. By analyzing the mineral, the researchers were able to conclude that the body had likely been buried in wet soil alongside parts of the plane, which allowed the vivianite to grow.

Vivianite has also been found on the body – inside and outside the skin and in the lung tissue – of "Otzi", the 5,300-year-old iceman discovered by a German tourist in the Tirolean Ötztal Alps in 1991. It is believed that the crystal formed on the body at the points where it had contact with iron-containing rocks.

Similarly, in 1996 another vivianite-encrusted adipocere body was discovered in a bay of Lake Brienz in Switzerland and is thought to belong to a man who drowned there sometime in the 1700s.

Vivianite was named in 1817 after John Henry Vivian, an English mineralogist who first discovered the mineral in Cornwall, England.

NATURE

MINERALS, CRYSTAL, WEIRD AND WONDERFUL

DISCUSS (0 COMMENTS)

Taboola Feed

If you own a mouse, you will never turn off your computer again.
No Install. Play for free
Gamefly Forge | Sponsored

How Much Does Villas in Dubai Cost? Price Might Surprise You
Antony White Ad Dubai | Sponsored

How A Single Bite Of This Meal Can Give You Liver Cancer
How A Single Bite Of This Meal Can Give You Liver Cancer
IFLScience

Belly Fat Removal Without Surgery : The Price Might Surprise You
Liposuction Cost | Search Ads | Sponsored

Maithili Raelle, catch the Rave
Maithili Raelle | Sponsored

Unsold Alaska Senior Cruise Cabins (Take A Look At The Prices)
Alaska Cruise Vacation | Sponsored

The Finnish Soldier Who Took His Entire Troop's Methamphetamine Supply While Skiing Away From The Russians
The Finnish Soldier Who Took His Entire Troop's Methamphetamine Supply While Skiing Away From The Russians
IFLScience

Villas For Sale In Dubai Might Totally Surprise You
Villas In Dubai | Sponsored

Cost Of Full Mouth Dental Implant In Spain Might Surprise You!
Dental Implant Spain| Search Ads | Sponsored

How Much Does a Liposuction Cost in Mexico? (Take A Look)
Liposuction | Search Ads | Sponsored

Victims Of Vesuvius May Have Died Even Grislier Deaths Than We Thought
Victims Of Vesuvius May Have Died Even Grislier Deaths Than We Thought
IFLScience

Houses For Sale In Dubai Might Be Cheaper Than You Think
Dubai Real Estate | Sponsored

Liposuction In Mexico: Prices May Surprise You!
Liposuction Cost | Sponsored

Female Truck Drivers Needed In The US (See Salaries)
Looking for a job? Apply Now! Get a job today
Truck Driver Jobs | Search Ads | Sponsored

ScienceDirect

Journals & Books

Register

Sign in

Access through your institution

Purchase PDF

Forensic Science International

Volume 211, Issues 1–3, 10 September 2011, Pages 34-40

Recommended articles

No articles found.

“Brienzi” – The blue Vivianite man of Switzerland: Time since death estimation of an adipocere body

Michael J. Thali [a], Bettina Lux [b], Sandra Lösch [a], Friedrich W. Rösing [b], Joachim Hürlimann [a], Philipp Feer [a], Richard Dirnhofer [a], Urs Königsdorfer [a], Ulrich Zollinger [a]

Show more

+ Add to Mendeley Share Cite

https://doi.org/10.1016/j.forsciint.2011.04.009

Get rights and content

Abstract

In 1996, a cadaver in adipocere condition was discovered in a bay of the Brienzer See in Switzerland. The torso was named “Brienzi” following the “Iceman” Ötzi. Several outer parts of the body were incrusted; the incrustation was in blue color. Further investigations showed that the bluish covering of parts of the adipocere torso were a mineral known as

PDFmyURL

Vivianite. Vivianite ($Fe_3(PO_4)_2$-$(H_2O)_8$) is an iron phosphate mineral with needle lengths between 100 and 150μm. It is normally associated in a context with organic archaeological and geological materials (some hundreds to millions of years old). Hitherto, it is only described in three cases of human remains. We were able to reconstruct the following facts about 'Brienzi': The man drowned in Lake Brienz or in one of its tributaries during the 1700s. The body was subsequently covered with sedimentation and thus buried under water. An earthquake produced an underwater landslide which eventually exposed the corpse.

Previous article in issue

Next article in issue

Keywords

Forensic science; Adipocere; Physical anthropology; Vivianite; Blue encrustation; Radiocarbon dating; Taphonomy; Time since death; Diatoms; Brienzi; Ötzi

Cited by (0)

View full text

Copyright © 2011 Published by Elsevier Ireland Ltd.

We use cookies to help provide and enhance our service and tailor content and ads. By continuing you agree to the use of cookies.
Copyright © 2023 Elsevier B.V. or its licensors or contributors. ScienceDirect® is a registered trademark of Elsevier B.V.

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

ScienceDirect

Journals & Books

Register

Sign in

Access through your institution

Purchase PDF

Forensic Science International

Volume 97, Issues 2–3, 9 November 1998, Pages 79-86

Recommended articles

Loading...

A blue encrustation found on skeletal remains of Americans missing in action in Vietnam

Robert W Mann a, Melanie E Feather b, Charles S Tumosa b, Thomas D Holland a, Kim N Schneider a

Show more

+ Add to Mendeley

Share

Cite

https://doi.org/10.1016/S0379-0738(98)00026-7

Get rights and content

Abstract

A blue encrustation was found on the repatriated remains of three U.S. Servicemen listed as missing in action (MIA) from Vietnam after 28 years. The identification and origin of the blue material was determined. Scanning electron microscopy with energy dispersive analysis and powder X-ray diffraction identified the material as the mineral vivianite, $Fe_3(PO_4)_2 \cdot 8H_2O$. Vivianite has been found often associated with fossilized bone and teeth, but this example is unusual in that it is only the second published forensic example of vivianite growing from human bone after such a short period of time. The presence of vivianite provides information leading to a more complete and accurate understanding of the taphonomic process associated with American MIA remains.

PDFmyURL

Previous article in issue

Next article in issue

Keywords

Vivianite; Bone; Iron II phosphate; Blue encrustation; MIA; Taphonomy

Cited by (0)

View full text

Copyright © 1998 Elsevier Science Ireland Ltd. All rights reserved.

About ScienceDirect Remote access Shopping cart Advertise Contact and support Terms and conditions Privacy policy

We use cookies to help provide and enhance our service and tailor content and ads. By continuing you agree to the use of cookies.
Copyright © 2023 Elsevier B.V. or its licensors or contributors. ScienceDirect® is a registered trademark of Elsevier B.V.

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

менструация у мужчин

전체 이미지 동영상 지도 뉴스 쇼핑 도서 검색 도구

Месячные у мужчин?!

У мужчин есть гормональный цикл, который длится около месяца. Наука доказала, что уровень гормонов опускается и поднимается в течение нескольких дней, недель и месяцев как у мужчин, так и у женщин. Согласно исследованиям, у мужчин уровень тестостерона колеблется в зависимости от времени года.

2020년 10월 22일

«Эти дни», или синдром раздражённого мужчины - Feministeerium feministeerium.ee › den_muzchin

추천 스니펫 정보

관련 질문

Что вместо месячных у мужчин?

Почему у мужчин нет месячных?

Что такое ПМС у мальчиков?

Как называется овуляция у мужчин?

www.psychologies.ru › standpoint › mujskoy-pms-mif-ili-realnost

«Мужской ПМС»: миф или реальность? | PSYCHOLOGIES

Менструальный цикл существует для того, чтобы подготовить женские половые органы к оплодотворению. За несколько дней до и, в некоторых случаях, через несколько ...

doctordukin.ru › О клинике › Статьи

Что такое ПМС у мужчин? - Услуги клиники Доктора Дукина

У женщин причины и так всем известны - изменение гормонального фона перед циклами менструации приводит к ПМС. У мужчин при СМР снижается уровень ...

daily.afisha.ru › 3200-chto-nuzhno-znat-o-menstruacii-esli-vy-muzhchina

Что нужно знать о менструации, если вы мужчина - Афиша Daily

2016. 10. 7. · По статистике, примерно у одной из семи женщин, которые вам встречаются, сейчас менструация · Месячные — это важная часть репродуктивной системы.

doctor.rambler.ru › medscience › 46548071-kriticheskie-dni-u-muzhchin-...

Критические дни у мужчин: как они проявляются - Рамблер/доктор

2021. 6. 2. · Стоит отметить, что у молодых людей месячные могут наступать чаще, чем один раз в месяц. Гормональный всплеск, повышение женских эстрогенов, ...

elle.ua › otnosheniya › lubov-i-seks › mujskoy-pms-mif-ili-realnost

«Мужской ПМС»: миф или реальность? - ELLE.UA

Но значит ли это, что мужчины, которые сообщают о симптомах подобного рода, просто валяют дурака? Д. Менструальный цикл существует для того, ...

www.gazeta.ru › science › news › 2021/09/13

Неврологи обнаружили у мужчин месячные циклы - Газета.Ru

2021. 9. 13. · «Мы использовали записанные данные о сне 492 женщин и 360 мужчин. Мы обнаружили, что мужчины, чей сон пришелся на период растущей Луны, ...

iia-rf.ru › Животным

У мужчин есть месячные. Мужская менструация - iia-rf.ru

2020. 9. 20. · Хотя у мужчин и не идут менструации, но в их предстательной железе есть особый слепой тип кармана - простатическая маточка.

www.umj.com.ua › article › uchenye-obosnovali-nalichie-kriticheskix-dnej...

Ученые обосновали наличие «критических» дней у мужчин

2015. 11. 23. · При этом, каким образом происходят его недельные и месячные изменения, на сегодня не известно. Проведя опрос 2400 лиц (50% мужчин и 50% женщин), ...

spbttp.ru › chto-byvaet-u-muzhchin-vmesto-mesyachnyh-u-zhenshchin-me...

Что бывает у мужчин вместо месячных. У женщин

Бывают ли месячные у мужчин? Оказывается, бывают, но не в том виде, как у женщин. С первых дней эмбрион в равной степени унаследует от матери и отца половые ...

관련 검색어

- Месячные у мужчин фото
- Как вызвать месячные у мужчин
- СМР у мужчин
- Месячные у мужчин симптомы
- Месячные у мужчин бывают
- Чем полезны месячные для мужчин
- Как называются месячные у мужчин
- Месячные у мужчин википедия

다음 >

sfro indian sidis

Усі | Зображення | Відео | Новини | Карти | Покупки | Книги | Авіарейси | Інструменти пошуку

Можливо, ви мали на увазі: afro indian sidis

https://ru.m.wikipedia.org › wiki

Сидди - Википедия

To India: Sidi Music in the Indian Ocean Diaspora. By Amy Catlin-Jairazbhoy, in close collaboration with Nazir Ali Jairazbhoy and the Sidi community.

https://en.m.wikipedia.org › wiki

Siddi - Wikipedia

The Siddi also known as the Sheedi, Sidi, Siddhi, are an ethnic group inhabiting India and ... Siddis are also sometimes referred to as Afro-Indians.

Зображення

 siddi tribe

 siddi community

 pakistan africa gujarat

african indians

african descent

karnataka

india stock

Переглянути всі зображення >

Відгуки

https://www.pinterest.com › pin

Sidis | India people, African diaspora, Fun facts about india - Pinterest

Buddha was an Afro-Indian like the Jawara. He carried the messages of Orunmila to the oppressed Africans of India who were being persecuted by the Indo-Aryan's ...

Користувачі також запитували

Who are the Siddis of India?

When did Siddis come to India?

How did Siddis get to India?

Who is Afro Indian?

Відгук

https://fac.umass.edu › Online

Voices of the Sidis - UMass Amherst Fine Arts Center

WE'RE INDIAN AND AFRICAN: VOICES OF THE SIDIS This documentary gives voice to the conflicts and dilemmas of an Afro-Indian Sidi community in a village in ...

https://www.alamy.com › stock-phot...

Afro-Indians, called Sidis, living on the west coast of India Stock Photo

Download this stock image: Afro-Indians, called Sidis, living on the west coast of India. - D8XD8F from Alamy's library of millions of high resolution stock ...

https://www.alamy.com › stock-phot...

Afro-Indians, called Sidis, living on the west coast of India Stock Photo

Download this stock image: Afro-Indians, called Sidis, living on the west coast of India. - D8XCRE from Alamy's library of millions of high resolution stock ...

Люди також шукають

- Shantaram Siddi
- Afro Indian
- Siddi people
- Siddi religion
- Siddis
- Siddi tribe food

https://www.tandfonline.com › doi

Full article: From 'Afro-Indians' to 'Afro-global' networking автор S Péquignot · 2020 — Another Siddi group, Samast Sidi Aadijati Samaj Utkarsh Samiti Surva (Gir) [All Sidi Tribe Society Advancement Committee Surva (Gir)], has been ...

https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov › pmc

Indian Siddis: African Descendants with Indian Admixture - PMC - NCBI

автор AM Shah · 2011 · Цитовано в 61 джерелах — The Siddis (Afro-Indians) are a tribal population whose members live in coastal Karnataka, Gujarat, and in some parts of Andhra Pradesh.

https://m.youtube.com › watch

Siddis: In It For The Long Run | Unique Stories from India - YouTube

9:16

ЗАВАНТАЖЕНО:
101 India

ОПУБЛІКОВАНО:
2 черв. 2016 р.

У цьому відео 10 ключові моменти

Відсутні: ~~sfro~~ | Мають містити: sfro

Пов’язані пошукові запити

- Habshi people
- African Indians
- Siddi Pakistan
- Siddi tribe in Karnataka
- Siddi community in India

Siddi population in India

Siddi India

African Indian mix

Переглянути більше

Україна

Мова Google: українська English русский العربية БІЛЬШЕ

Маяки, Одеська областьНа основі ваших попередніх дій

Оновити місцезнаходження

razakomari247@gmail.com - Змінити обліковий запис

Темна тема: вимкнено Налаштування Довідка Відгук

Конфіденційність Умови

Gerliane Soriano TARTARIAN and MURIL ARCHITECTURE around the world
5 September at 15:46 ·

The Great Wall of Benin

The Great Wall of Benin created by the Edo people of the Benin Empire (1447-1897).
Currently Benin City in Nigeria. It is 16.000 km long, filling a mosaic of fortifications and other small buildings. They cover an area of 6.500 km2 and are 4 times longer than the wall of China. Possibly one of the greatest archaeological works on the planet. Like all African stone buildings and cities they had to be mostly reduced to dust during the colonization period.
The existence of monuments and cities more developed than those that existed in Europe could not exist. Thus it would be legitimated before the church and the European policies of the civilization process and of "aid" to the "development" that consisted in the colonization. This wall was almost totally destroyed by the English during a punitive expedition in 1897.

https://www.kingdomofbenin.com/the-benin-moat.html

#ancientcivilization

credit Terrence Spikes

Like Comment Share

402

157 shares

Natascha Donna-Rose Fuglesang
https://youtu.be/wAXVDO6BGV8 5

Great Wall In Nepal / बन्दिपुरको ग्रेटवा...
youtube.com

last Sun Like Reply More

Natascha Donna... replied · 4 replies

Marcelo Dutra
Titans 3

last Sun Like Reply More

Jerome Butler

Reminds me of “Attack on titan” 4

last Sun Like Reply More

Jerome Butler replied · 8 replies

Lorraine Guiseppi Molai
Thank you for sharing this information. This is all new to me. 3

last Sun Like Reply More

John King
The destruction of these fine displays, sickens me to the core.
Great Post again 3

last Sun Like Reply More

Wade Puryear
Brittany needs to get over it's self 1

last Sun Like Reply More

Rizlaw Don
Anyone got a picture of the copper and iron wall 2

last Sun Like Reply More

Franklin S. Kaminishi
How the heck everyone lost to England? 5

last Sun Like Reply More

Franklin S. Ka... replied · 6 replies

Sam Rojahn
The building feats of the past far outweigh the rubbish we construct today.

Did the millennium kingdom of Christ already happen? 4

last Sun Like Reply More

Joe Black replied · 10 replies

Siera Stanton
So I found this on google earth

4

last Sun Like Reply More

Amick Haissoune
Gerliane Soriano why would you put a photo a Bagdad (top right?) and say it's in Benin?

on Mon Like Reply More

Gerliane Soriano replied · 1 reply

Forbes Delano

If anybody study history correctly they would know everything and I mean everything was created,copied and studied from Africa they are the original people of earth and Europeans is the fallen angels offsprings that's why Europe is powerful

on Wed Like Reply More

Manuel Rezende

They lost a war and somehow all the whites and the Church are to be blamed. Ok.

3 hrs Like Reply More

Write a comment...

Post

Danielle Girard
Nov 22

MERE TÉRÉSA ETAIT UN HOMME

PEDO SATANIQUE

You and others

11 shares

Like Comment Share

11 shares

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

1 share

Like Comment

1 share

Write a comment...

Jeff [redacted]
7m ·

Who knew mother Teresa was a piece of s child trafficker

4 1 Comment 1 Share

8 shares

Like Comment

8 shares

Write a comment...

Археологи впервые исследуют мумии детей в катакомбах капуцинов

Фотографировать в катакомбах нельзя, поэтому мумий будет рисовать художник.

12 ноября 2021, 15:57

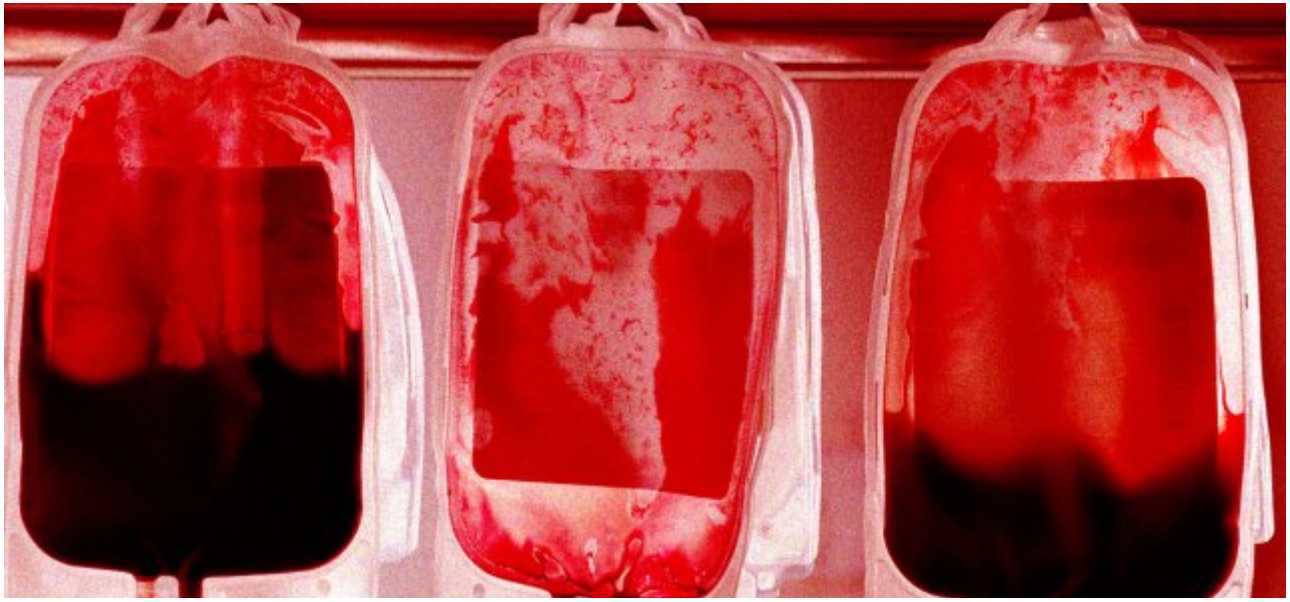
Детские мумии из погребальных катакомб, расположенных под монастырем капуцинов в Палермо, впервые разрешили исследовать археологам, сообщает Университет Стаффордшира.

Эти катакомбы содержат самую большую коллекцию мумий в Европе: более 1284 мумифицированных и скелетонизированных тел, датируемых концом XVI - началом XX века. Детей принимали в катакомбы с 1787 года, однако до этого момента исследования проводили только на взрослых мумиях.

Планируют установить пол и возраст детей, причины их преждевременной смерти и мумификации, проверить наличие травм и патологий, а также постараются понять стиль их жизни, питание и особенности здоровья. Известно, что в катакомбах монастыря хоронили людей из высших слоев общества.

Исследовать 41 мумию детей будут неинвазивными методами, то есть вскрытие проводить не будут. Вместо этого используют рентген, а внешний вид мумий зафиксирует художник, так как фотографировать в катакомбах нельзя.

Читайте также: На раскопках виллы I века возле Помпей археологи нашли комнату рабов — видео



Изучением детских мумий займется команда кафедры биоархеологии Университета Стаффордшира под руководством доктора наук Кирсти Сквайрс. На это исследование ученые получили грант в размере 70 тысяч фунтов стерлингов. Оно стартует в декабре 2021 года и продлится до конца 2023-го.

Ранее российские археологи раскопали в оккупированном Крыму кенотаф времён великого переселения народов. В нём, среди прочего, нашли клинковое оружие.

ТЕХНОЛОГИИ И НАУКА

Прикладной вампиризм. Ученые выяснили, что свежая кровь действительно может омолаживать

Юлия Чайка | 09 декабря 2021 в 11:55

Исследователи провели эксперимент на мышах, в ходе которого удалось регенерировать мышечную ткань грызунов.

молодых грызунов может быть секретом того, как продлить мышцам молодость. В будущем это открытие может поспособствовать развитию терапии по регенерации мышц для пожилых людей, пишет Futurism.

ФОКУС в Google Новостях.

Подпишись — и всегда будь в курсе событий.

Подписаться

Команда ученых выяснила, что частицы в мышиной крови, называемые внеклеточными везикулами, передают в мышечные клетки "белок долголетия" — клото, некую информацию.

"По мере старения мышей внеклеточные везикулы становятся слабее и в результате посылают все меньше информации для белка. Однако, когда мы дали старым мышам кровь молодых, их клетки и ткани начали "молодеть". Так у грызунов, например, улучшилась регенерация мышц", — рассказала ведущий автор исследования Фабрисия Амброзио из Питтсбургского университета.

Тем не менее, когда ученые удалили из крови внеклеточные везикулы, эффект исчез. В целом, процесс очень напоминает вампиризм.

Может ли этот эффект подействовать и на людях пока что остается неясным. Попытки применить этот метод к реальным пациентам были встречены резкой критикой и неубедительными результатами.

Как показали другие исследования ученых, кровь молодых грызунов может помочь повысить когнитивные способности у пожилых особей. Это означает, что лечение с помощью внеклеточных везикул теоретически способно замедлить или даже предотвратить снижение когнитивных функций грызунов с возрастом.

Но перед тем, как начать открывать специальные клиники по переливанию крови молодых людей, необходимо провести гораздо больше исследований.

Теги: #МОЛОДОСТЬ #МЫШЦЫ #КРОВЬ #МЫШИ #ВАМПИРЫ

Материалы по теме

12 октября 12:29

"Игра в кальмара". Стало известно, как выглядел главный герой в 90-е

(видео)

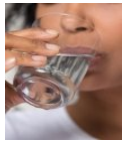
01 августа 15:09

Неподвластны времени. Когда появится эффективное средство, останавливающее старение

(фото, видео)

12 октября 11:55

Ученые рассказали, откуда палеонтологи знают, как выглядят динозавры



05 октября 12:41

Ученые рассказали, почему сердце не устает, как другие мышцы

25 августа 17:40

Употребление дополнительного стакана воды может предотвратить сердечную недостаточность, - ученые

22 июня 20:23

В Австралии из-за полчища мышей эвакуировали сотни заключенных (видео)

МЕДИА". Какое-либо использование материалов без письменного разрешения ООО "ФОКУС МЕДИА" — запрещено. При использовании материалов с данного ресурса гиперссылка focus.ua обязательна.

Данный ресурс — для пользователей возрастом от 18 лет и старше.

FOCUS.UA — больше чем просто новости.

Перепечатка, копирование или воспроизведение информации, содержащей ссылку на агентство ИнА "Українські Новини", в каком-либо виде строго запрещены.

Все материалы, которые размещены на этом сайте со ссылкой на агентство "Интерфакс-Украина", не подлежат дальнейшему воспроизведению и/или распространению в любой форме, кроме как с письменного разрешения агентства.

Материалы с плашками "Р", "Новости партнеров", "Новости компаний", "Новости партий", "Инновации", "Позиция", "Спецпроект при поддержке" публикуются на коммерческой основе.

© 2021 Фокус. Все права защищены.

Vede Stà À Sente
Saturday at 6:42 PM

Les technocrates de la DARPA créent une nouvelle technologie qui pourrait potentiellement devenir l'arme biologique la plus meurtrière sur terre.

La Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency est une agence du ministère de la Défense et développe des technologies pour l'armée.

Arme biologique ? - Les scientifiques d' alarme sonore sur DARPA plans pour propager des virus utilisant les insectes

Une équipe de scientifique sonne l'alarme dans un nouveau Forum Politique scientifique rapport (recherche agricole, ou un nouveau Bioweapon système ?) Sur un programme mystérieux gouvernement américain qui développe des virus génétiquement modifiés seraient dispersés dans l'environnement à l'aide d'insectes.

Les insectes infectés par le virus ou « Frankenstein » sont en cours de développement comme contre-mesures contre les menaces naturelles et artificielles potentielles pour l'approvisionnement alimentaire américain.

Le programme géré par la Defense Advanced Research Project Agency (DARPA) du Pentagone pourrait être considéré comme une tentative de développement d'une toute nouvelle classe d'armes biologiques qui inciterait d'autres pays à rechercher des armes similaires, ont-ils averti.

Les chercheurs de l'Institut Max Planck de biologie évolutive et de l'Université de Fribourg en Allemagne, et de l'Université de Montpellier en France suggèrent que le programme de la DARPA pourrait probablement enfreindre la Convention sur les armes biologiques , le premier traité multilatéral de désarmement interdisant le développement, la production et le stockage d'armes biologiques et à toxines.

Surnommé le programme « Insect Allies » , la DARPA a commencé à modifier les insectes en 2017, dans le but de produire des cultures plus résistantes pour aider les agriculteurs à faire face au changement climatique, à la sécheresse, au gel, aux inondations, à la salinité et aux maladies, a déclaré Gizmodo.

La technologie au centre du programme est une toute nouvelle méthode de modification génétique des cultures.

Au lieu de modifier les semences en laboratoire, les agriculteurs enverraient des essaims d'insectes dans leurs cultures, où les insectes génétiquement modifiés infecteraient les plantes avec un virus qui transmettrait les nouveaux gènes de résilience, un processus connu sous le nom d'altération génétique horizontale .

D'où le nom de la technologie - Horizontal Environmental Genetic Alteration Agents (HEGAA).

Pour que HEGAA fonctionne, Gizmodo explique que les laboratoires de la DARPA développent un virus qui est inséré dans le chromosome d'un organisme cible. Les scientifiques utiliseraient des cicadelles, des aleurodes et des pucerons génétiquement modifiés en laboratoire à l'aide de CRISPR , ou d'une variante d'un système d'édition de gènes, pour transporter le virus dans les cultures.

Chaque plante serait alors infectée par l'insecte, déclenchant les effets escomptés de la protection des cultures contre les menaces naturelles et/ou d'origine humaine.

Cependant, l'auteur principal du rapport, Richard Guy Reeves du Département de génétique évolutive de l' Institut Max Planck de biologie évolutive , déclare que le programme Insect Allies de la DARPA est inquiétant et constitue un exemple de recherche à double usage dans laquelle le gouvernement américain, en plus à l'aide aux cultures des agriculteurs, développe également une arme biologique. Insect Allies serait soutenu par un financement de 27 millions de dollars.

Selon Gizmodo, quatre équipes de recherche universitaires travaillent actuellement sur le projet, y compris des chercheurs du,

Institut Boyce Thompson à New York

Université d'État de Pennsylvanie

Université d'État de l'Ohio

Université du Texas à Austin

La DARPA soutient que,

"tous les travaux sont menés à l'intérieur de laboratoires fermés, de serres ou d'autres installations sécurisées", et que les insectes ont une durée de vie intégrée pour limiter leur propagation.

D'ici 2020 ou 2021, la DARPA prévoit de tester les insectes infectés par le virus sur des cultures à l'intérieur de serres dans des endroits non divulgués.

Reeves a déclaré que l'utilisation d'insectes comme véhicule pour la modification génétique est une idée horrible car ils ne peuvent pas être contrôlés et indique que les pulvérisations aériennes traditionnelles pour fournir des HEGAA sont le pari le plus sûr.

La DARPA affirme que les insectes sont la seule solution pratique, car la pulvérisation aérienne de HEGAA nécessiterait une infrastructure agricole accrue - quelque chose qui n'est pas disponible pour tous les agriculteurs.

Les scientifiques critiquent un programme de la DARPA

qu'ils disent pourrait transformer trois types d'insectes:

cicadelles, mouches blanches et pucerons,

dans une armée biologique.

(iStock/Le Washington Post)

Le rapport précise qu'il n'existe actuellement aucun cadre réglementaire mondial pour soutenir ce nouveau mode de transport des HEGAA vers les cultures, qui, s'il n'est pas correctement supervisé, pourrait entraîner des incidents potentiels.

Les scientifiques du rapport interprètent le programme d'insectes de la DARPA comme,

"une intention de développer un moyen de livraison de HEGAA à des fins offensives", telles que la conduite d'une guerre biologique.

Ces insectes génétiquement modifiés pourraient être porteurs d'une dangereuse maladie mortelle que l' administration Trump pourrait déclencher sur les terres agricoles du Venezuela, de la Syrie, de l'Iran, de la Corée du Nord, de la Russie et même de la Chine, ce qui décimerait l'approvisionnement alimentaire des pays. Selon les scientifiques, l'introduction de cette technologie potentiellement dangereuse ouvrirait la voie à une toute nouvelle classe d'armes biologiques envoyées par des insectes qui pourraient être considérées comme des armes de destruction massive. Les scientifiques préviennent que cette technologie inciterait les nations rivales à développer des programmes similaires sur les insectes. En réponse à une question de Gizmodo, un porte-parole de la DARPA a déclaré qu'il se félicitait du dialogue universitaire sur le programme Insect Allies

, mais critique la conclusion du rapport, affirmant qu'elle est,

"trompeur et parsemé d'inexactitudes."

Blake Bextine , directeur du programme DARPA pour Insect Allies, rejette bon nombre des affirmations de Reeves.

"La DARPA ne produit pas d'armes biologiques et nous rejetons le scénario hypothétique", a déclaré Bextine à Gizmodo.

« Nous acceptons et sommes d'accord avec les préoccupations concernant la double utilisation potentielle de la technologie, un problème qui se pose avec pratiquement toutes les nouvelles technologies puissantes.

Ces préoccupations sont précisément la raison pour laquelle nous avons structuré le programme Insect Allies comme nous l'avons fait, en tant qu'effort de recherche fondamentale transparent, dirigé par une université, qui bénéficie de la participation active des régulateurs et des éthiciens et d'une communication proactive avec les décideurs », a déclaré Bextine.

Le but du programme Insect Allies, déclare-t-il, est de se préparer à une nouvelle ère de menaces émergentes pour l'agriculture américaine.

Brextine a ajouté que la DARPA évalue les impacts environnementaux potentiels des HEGAA.

« La DARPA est extrêmement sensible aux risques environnementaux et aux effets hors cible, et a structuré le programme Insect Allies pour les identifier et les atténuer », a-t-il déclaré.

"La DARPA a mandaté plusieurs niveaux de biosûreté et de biosécurité à chaque étape du programme."

Si le programme de la DARPA réussit, ils auront développé des traitements de gain de fonction qui peuvent être délivrés au, « bonnes plantes » et « les bons tissus », a-t-il déclaré.

En d'autres termes, la DARPA veut des insectes d'armes biologiques guidés avec précision.

Jason Delborne , professeur agrégé à l'Université d'État de Caroline du Nord, expert en génie génétique, affirme que les préoccupations semblent « appropriées ».

"Les implications sociales, éthiques, politiques et écologiques de la production d'HEGAA sont importantes et méritent le même niveau d'attention que l'exploration de la science qui sous-tend la technologie potentielle", a déclaré Delborne à Gizmodo.

"Les auteurs soutiennent de manière convaincante que spécifier les insectes comme mécanisme de livraison préféré pour les HEGAA est mal justifié par les visions des applications agricoles.

L'infrastructure et l'expertise requises pour la pulvérisation des champs agricoles - du moins dans le contexte américain - sont bien établies, et ce mécanisme de livraison offrirait un meilleur contrôle sur la propagation potentielle d'un HEGAA. »

La DARPA pourrait être sur le point d'obtenir une nouvelle arme biologique qui serait très certainement utilisée contre,

Venezuela

Syrie

L'Iran

Corée du Nord

Russie

même la Chine,

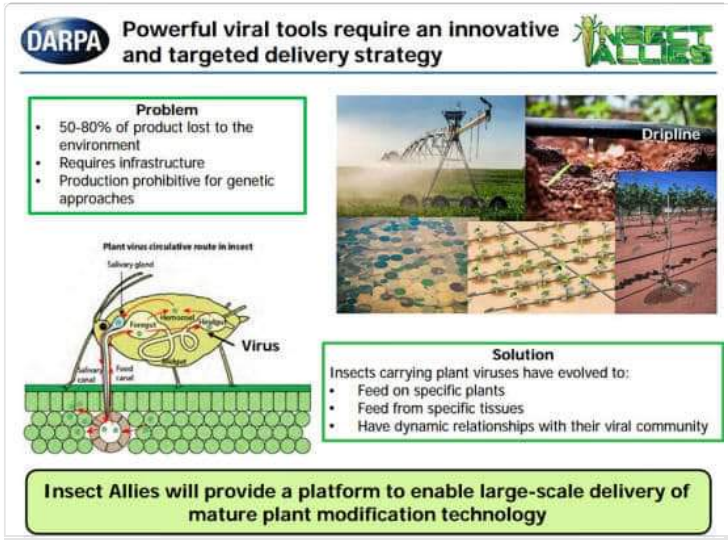
... paralyser l'approvisionnement alimentaire des pays et conduire à un changement de régime sans tirer de signal... c'est l'avenir de la guerre.

Sébastien Louis and 8 others

37 shares

Like

Share



37 shares

Like

Like

Like

Les scientifiques critiquent un programme de la DARPA

qu'ils disent pourrait transformer trois types d'insectes:

cicadelles, mouches blanches et pucerons,

dans une armée biologique.

(iStock/Le Washington Post)

Like

Fine Aziz
Tuesday at 11:51 PM

فهاد البوسط غانتكلمو على واحد التاريخ الأمريكي اللي عمرنا غا نشوفوه لا في الأفلام الهوليودية و لا في البرامج الوثائقية
هاد الشخصيات اللي في البوسط من أشهر الأمريكان السود اللي كانو أحرار و كانوا كيمتالكو العبيد السود و كانو كيتاجرو فيهم
اللي هو أسود البشرة) فإنه في 1830 كان هناك في أمريكا ما يقرب) carter G woodson على حسب بعض المؤرخين في تاريخ السود الأمريكيين ك
من 320.000 من السود الأحرار و منهم كانو ما يقرب من 3800 أسود حر يمتلكون 12907 من العبيد السود من مجموع مليونين آنذاك من العبيد السود في
أمريكا !!
اللي حتى هو أسود) ،فحسب قوله كان هناك أمريكيون سود من ملاك العبيد يحاربون تحت لواء الجيش) joel a rogers بل أنه على حسب مؤرخ آخر
(الأمريكي الجنوبي أثناء الحرب الأهلية الأمريكية بين الشمال و الجنوب (الجنوب كان يحارب للحفاظ على سياسة استقدام العبيد
من أشهر الأمريكان السود الذين كانو يمتلكون العبيد السود نجد anthony johnson و william april ellison و anthoine dubuclet و jacob gasken

عندو واحد القصة ،كان أسود تولد حر من أم سوداء حرة و أب أسود عبد ،فاش كبر و دار لباس قالت ليه مو عفاك أوليدي الله يرضي jacob gasken هاد
عليك إلى ما سير شري باباك و جيبو للدار نجمعو الشمل !!ناض المرضي مشى شرا باه و تجمعات العائلة ماشاء الله !!وعاشو في تبات و نبات !!
و بلاتي !!! لكن واحد النهار المرضي دار لبسالة و ناض باه غوت عليه و دابز مع ولدو ،ناض المرضي بقى فيه الحال و مشى دا باه للسوق و هو يبيعو تما
و من بعد حسب الروايات بدا كيفتاخر قدام صحابو أنه باع باه في السوق حيت ما احتارموش،
كانوا عائلات كبيرة دارو لفلوس من تجارة العبيد حيت كانو كيشريو العبيد السود من أسواق إفريقيا السوداء من تجار سود و كيعاودو فيهم البيع في
اليهودية !! mosanto أمريكا ،وهاد التجارة العالمية كان يسيطر عليها الي...هو...د و ليس البيض كما تصوره أفلام هوليود و من أشهر هاد العائلات عائلة
التي من بعد ماعمرات أمريكا بالأفارقة mosanto هاد السمية تكونو واقيلا سمعتوها من قبل ،نعم هي نفس العائلة التي تمتلك الشركة العالمية
و .... ،و اللي aspartam و OGM و كذلك أغرقت العالم بالبذور المعدلة جينيا glyphosate السود،حاليا كتبيع للعالم المبيدات الحشرية السامة و أشهرها
سببت انتشار السراطانات بشكل مهول !!

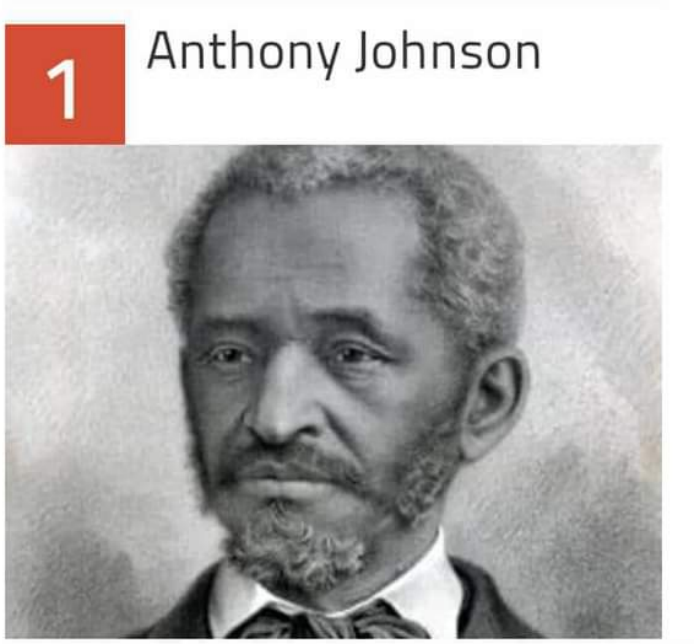
You and 14 others

42 comments 2 shares

Like Comment Share

2 shares

Write a comment...



Yassine Malki

Aslan homa yasla7o lri daqchi yqono 3bid

See translation

6 hrs Like Reply More

View more comments…

Like Comment

Write a comment...

3 Antoine Dubuclet

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Adam Lbrnossi ► السلالة E-M183 عبر العالم
Les Arabes n’ont jamais envahi l'Espagne
طرح (وجهة نظر مؤرخ اسباني)

" العرب لم يغزوا أبدا إسبانيا "

!! توسعت الحضارة الإسلامية في ثلاثة قارات في بضع عقود
وحتى نهاية القرن السادس ميلادي، لم يكن هناك شيء ينذر بأن هذه القبائل البدوية في الجزيرة العربية الصحراوية يمكن أن تحمل المشعل الذي سينير العالم على مدى ثمانية قرون. بدأت الفكرة الإسلامية تبرز، وسيكون قدر كل البشرية أن تعهد بنفسها لراية هذا الهلال الخصيب.

في سنة 635، سيطر المسلمون على سوريا، ثم فلسطين في639، ثم بلاد ما بين النهرين في641، بعدها مصر في642، تلتها الفرس في643، ثم طرابلس في647، وقبرص في649، ثم البنجاب في 664، شمال إفريقيا في701 واسبانيا في713 ...، حاول المؤرخون بعد ذلك، شرح هذا الانتشار المذهل للإسلام بوضع مجموعة من النظريات كان القاسم المشترك بينها أن الإسلام انتشر بالقوة.

محاولا وضع نقطة نظام لهذه التأويلات المتحيزة، حيث كتب : " يبدو لنا Ignacio Olague يخوض في هذه الدهشة المؤرخ الإسباني الكبير اغناسيو أولاغ من خلال دراسة حركات مشابهة، إن انتشار الإسلام نتج عن قوة #الفكرة وليس قوة #جيش هجومي.

"إن " أسلمة" العالم لم تكن إلا ثمرة حركة فكرة قوية ."occidentalisé" واليوم التغريب "hellenisé "كما كان الحال أيام الإغريق

مبحث هذا الكتاب التاريخي هو عن أن دخول الإسلام في شبه الجزيرة الأيبيرية لم يكن أبدا كما يظن بعض المؤرخين، أي انه كان نتيجة قوة السلاح، لكنه كان نتيجة أزمة لم يكن ممكنا الخروج منها إلا بتبني الإسلام كدين وكأسلوب حياة ...

غزو العرب لإسبانيا خرافة تكذبها الوقائع التاريخية
" الإصرار على الاعتقاد أن شعوبا مزدهرة ومتحضرة تركت معتقداتها وغيرت أخلاقها، بسبب كمشة من بدو رُحل خرجوا من الصحراء، أخضعوها، يُنبيء عن جهل تام للحياة الاجتماعية. ينبغي أن تختزل السمة العسكرية للأحداث في دور صغير، بخصوص تفاصيل الحياة اليومية يجب ان نستوعب أن المشكلة هو على المستوى الثقافي. لم يكن هناك اعتداء عسكري بل أزمة ثورية"

المسيحية التي بدأت في القرن الثالث ميلادي في الانتشار لم تكسب ابد لذاتها عدد الناس كأولئك الذين اعتنقوا طواعية مذهب الاريوسية (Arianisme- وهذا المذهب هو ما طور بطريقة ما في شمال إفريقيا والشرق الأوسط فصل فيها المؤرخ ... (مذهب يرفض فكرة التثليث

(ولا ننصح المؤمنين بالبحث في هذا التاريخ)

الذي استولى على السلطة و ،(Rodéric) نشبت حرب أهلية بين أولاد الملك المتوفى وشيعته والمدعو روديريك (Vitiza) في سنة 710، وبعد موت فيتيزا أراد غزو الأندلس. كان أولاد فيتيزا اريوسيين وروديريك وانصاره كاثوليك ... فطلب أولاد فيتزا تعزيزات من جيرانهم البربر الأريوسيين الذين يقيمون في على رأس سبعة ألاف جندي ليساعد أولاد فيتيزا، اختفى روديريك (Gibraltar)الشمال المغربي .وهكذا عبر طارق بن زياد المضيق الذي يحمل حاليا اسمه سنة 711، وذاب المسلمون بين عشرة ملايين من السكان لكن المتقبلين لكل ما هو إسلامي (Guadalete) المنهزم في معركة في غوادالا.

أما الموجة الثانية جائت من الشرق التي عبرت إلى اسبانيا كانت مع شخصية تدعى موسى بن نصير بجيش تعداده 18000.

إذن كان المجموع خمسة وعشرون ألف جندي وطئ قدمه اسبانيا، هل يمكنهم أن يغزوا بلدا فيه عشرة ملايين من السكان آو عشرة ملايين روح بهذه البساطة ؟ أبدا، بل اسبانيا هي التي قدمت نفسها هدية للإسلام. تطور آريوسية اسبانيا وما نتج عنه من المذهب الرافض للتثليث جعل الناس يتوجهون إلى الإسلام بمجرد أن عرض عليهم ...

الأريوسيين الذين ساندوا فكرة الوحدة، انضموا بقوة إلى الفكرة الإسلامية حيث حققت كل آمالهم. " الفكرة القوية" تفرض نفسها بسبب قوتها و ملائمة الوسط الذي يتلقاها" :

لقد فسرنا التحول الروحي ،الاجتماعي والثقافي الهائل الذي اثر في الشرق الأدنى والبحر الأبيض المتوسط في القرن السابع والثامن ميلادي كونه نتيجة لغزو عسكري : لقد تم فرض اللغة، الحضارة، الدين بالسيف...

لا ليس كذلك يخلط المؤرخون بين انتشار الأفكار المولدة للحضارة وممارسة القوة العسكرية.
لقد أدمجنا القوة العقلية في القوة العسكرية ...
وواجهتها في إسبانيا فكرة الكنيسة الكاثوليكية و دحرتها بعدها ..

جميع الدراسات العلمية المقامة حاليا في اسبانيا تؤكد أن 11 % من جيناتهم أمازيغية والباقي من الشعوب الأوروبية ما يفسر أن الأندلس نتيجة " فكرة قوية تبنتها شعوب المنطقة " ...

Photos from Adam Lbrnossi's post in السلالة E-M183 عبر العالم · 11 hours ago ·

View full size · More options

Like Share

Admins control who posts and comments · Request to participate

You and 6 others

2 shares

Salaheddine Zeghoud

"عندما كنا عرب" "Cuando Fuimos Árabes"

للمؤرخ الإسباني Emilio Gonzalez Ferrin

يذكر فيه أن العرب الفاتحين جاؤوا لتحرير أرض #أجدادهم الكنعانيين الفينيقيين من قيد الإحتلال البيزنطي باعتبار أن إسبانيا والبرتغال كانت أرض عربية، فالكنعانيون العرب هم أول من عمر شبه الجزيرة الإيبيرية وذلك في حدود القرن 12 قبل الميلاد وهذا ذكره مؤرخون أوروبيون فضلا عن العرب.

وعليه فالعرب المسلمون عندما فتحوا إسبانيا قاموا بإستردادها من حكم الرومان.

11 hrs Like More

جمال الأسمر ال... replied · 4 replies

جمال الأسمر الأسمر

حن تاجماعت ذالكورنيظ احفاد شيشناق افرفر لنا لغة غير موجودة في العملة ولا على شواهد القبور ولا في أعمدة القصور ،او حتي علي عرف شجر او نقش فوق حجر حتى ماسينيسا كلب الروم لم يستعملها وحتى اسماء ابنائه كانت اسماء فينيقية .
هذا هو حال ذالكورنيظ من يفبرك لغة ويصنع حضارة من العدم ،في المغرب العربي سيبقى مسخرة واضحوكة وما يفنده التاريخ لن يثبته مرسوم ولا دستور ،ما يبقى في الواد غير حجارو .ياذالكورنيط وهم يقولون نحن ذالكورنيظ نحن اصحاب الارض نعم نحن الاصل نحن قبل الكواكب قبل الشمس والقمر و النجوم حتي قبل حضارة الشعب المايا نحن الحضارة تمزقيت الاولي في الكون لنا حضارة اعتق من الفراعنة نحن سكان الاصلين خلقنا قبل سيدنا ادم عليه السلام بي قرون ولنا حضارة ضاربة في زرك الاوسع حتي جاء القط محمد الوالي ولخضر بن كولة و القطط ربي يحفضهم والقط ربي يرحمو حطمو لنا معبد خرفتنا علي رؤوسنا_ونخونا السوق وراحت حضارتنا ولوقتنا في نوومي وضحكنا علي رواحنا لزناش و اصبحنا مثال للذالكونيظ افرفر __مثال الحضارة الأمازيغية من أقدم الحضارات
في العالم و عمرها تقريب 4.000 سنة
1 - عدد الكتب المؤلفة = 00
2 - عدد الأماكن التي تحتوى على آثار أمازيغية 00
3 - عدد البنايات و القصور المشيدة =00
4 - أسماء زعماء أمازيغ كتبوا التاريخ= لا يوجد
5 - ماسينيسا = ملقب بكلب الروم قائد روماني صليبي
6 - شيشناق= فرعوني مصري 7 -ذالكورنيظ خلق قبل سيدنا ادم عليه السلام 8 -عزازقة سونتر فيل اقدم عاصمة في التاريخ 1234567 ق آدم

8 hrs Like More

Critique

«Race et histoire dans les sociétés occidentales», le racisme à la racine

Article réservé aux abonnés

Retraçant l'origine du terme racisme dans un essai imposant, Jean-Frédéric Schaub et Silvia Sebastiani analysent comment se sont construites les hiérarchies entre groupes sociaux à l'époque moderne.

Se connecter S'abonner à Libération

Se connecter
S'abonner à Libération

Un homme espagnol et une femme métisse, au XVIIIe siècle, dans l'une de ces peintures dites de «castes», qui décrivent les métissages entre Amérindiens, colons européens et esclaves africains. (Aurimages/Aurimages)

par Jean-Yves Grenier

publié le 24 novembre 2021 à 17h42

Cet ouvrage imposant par son érudition n'est pas une simple histoire de la race et du racisme à l'époque moderne. Il s'agit pour Jean-Frédéric Schaub et Silvia Sebastiani de comprendre comment l'Europe occidentale et ses empires ont construit des différences entre groupes sociaux qui reposent sur un fondement considéré comme naturel, en l'occurrence les catégories raciales. Il y a donc bien une politique de la race, observent-ils, dont l'un des signes est que le terme de «race» appartient au langage de l'époque, à la

Se connecter S'abonner à Libération

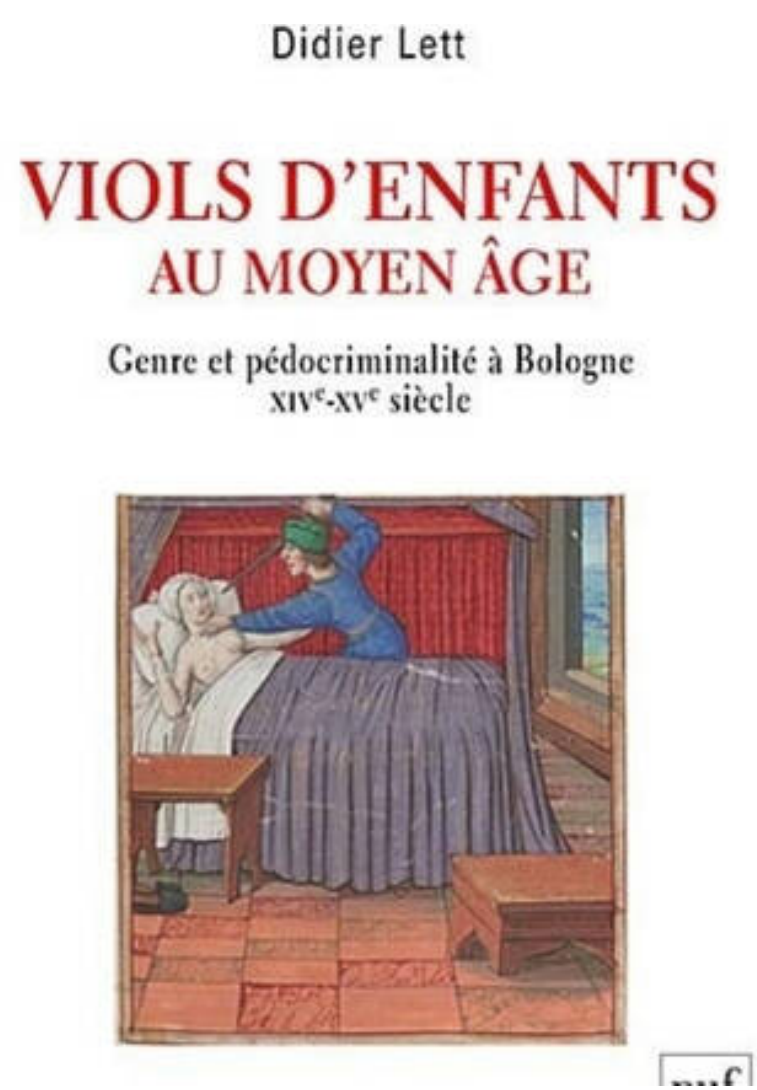
Le recours à la race est ancien puisqu'elle fonde la distinction nobiliaire et son principe de l'hérédité. La question du «bon sang» ou du «sang bleu» est au cœur d'une différence pensée comme relevant de la nature. Cette élection par le sang n'est pas métaphorique

Il vous reste 83% de l'article à lire.

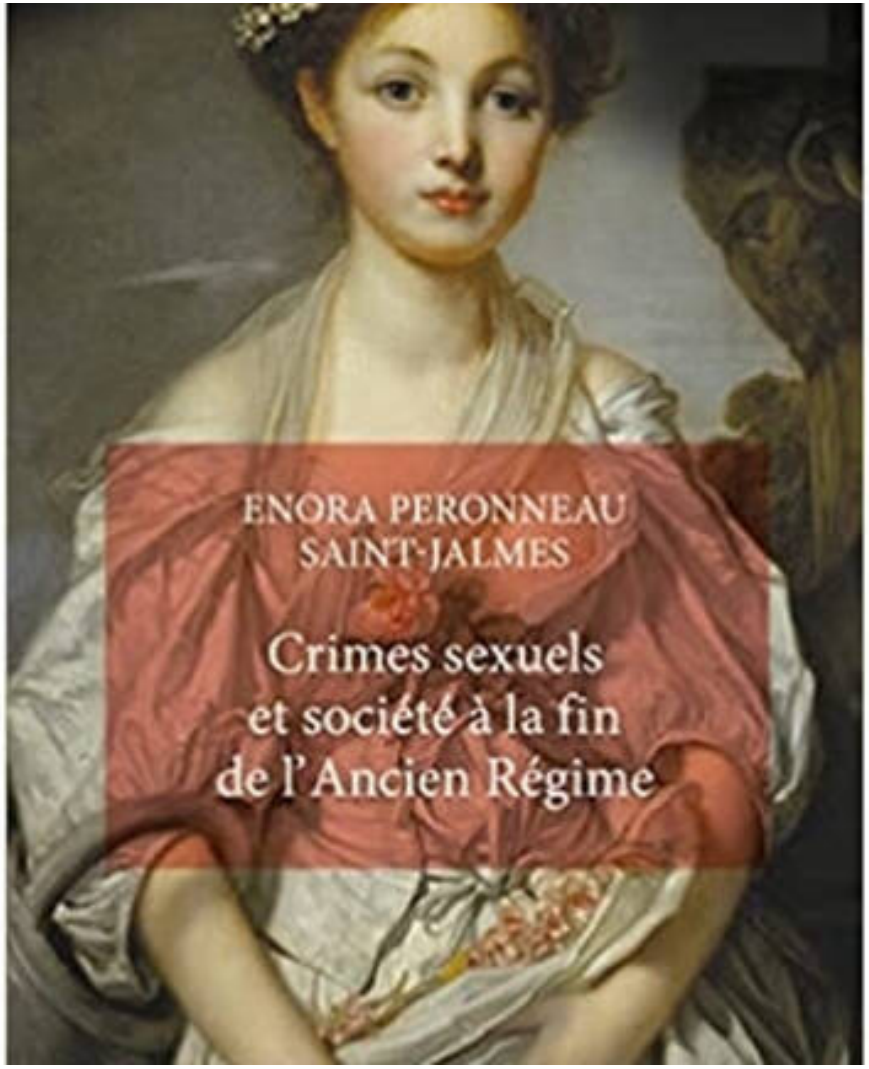
Libération réserve cet article à ses abonnés.
Vous êtes abonné(e) ? Connectez-vous

Pour lire la suite, abonnez-vous

1 mois pour 1€
Sans engagement



Se connecter S'abonner à Libération



• Tous les contenus « abonnés » en illimité • Le journal numérique en avant-première • Newsletters exclusives, club abonnés

Racisme

Dans la même rubrique

Se connecter S’abonner à Libération

Au Moyen Age, des enfants violés, oubliés de l'histoire

2 déc. 2021 abonnés

Juifs d'Algérie, les adieux à la terre des aïeux

Livres, 1er déc. 2021 abonnés

Se connecter S'abonner à Libération

Pierre Janet, traumas et tabous

Livres 1er déc. 2021 abonnés

L'homme qui a vu l'ours qui a vu la liberté

Livres 1er déc. 2021

Le portrait du jour

Se connecter S'abonner à Libération

Valérie Donzelli, sœur fou rire

© Libé 2021

2 déc. 2021 abonnés

Idées et Débats
Société Environnement
Economie
Lifestyle
Portraits
Sports
Sciences
Plus
Forums
Archives

Donnez-nous votre avis
Foire aux questions

Conditions générales

Mentions légales
Charte éthique
CGVU
Protection des données personnelles
Gestion des cookies
Licence

Où lire Libé?

Lire le journal
Les newsletters
Application sur Android
Application sur iPhone / iPad

Se connecter
S'abonner à Libération

Se connecter
S’abonner à Libération

1e mai, date importante pour les satanistes et illuminatis

+4 8 participants

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 8:21 am
par Invité

Vous savez tous que les conciliaires ont choisi la journée du 1e mai pour "béatifié" Woltija.
Comme peu de choses sont laissées au hasard avec la franc-maçonnerie, rappelez-vous que le 1e mai 1776, les Illuminatis furent fondés par Adam Weishaupt.

Chez les satanistes, le 1e mai correspond à l'une de leurs 8 fêtes principales durant l'année:
La Nuit de Walpurgis se situe entre le 30 avril et le 1er mai. Célébrée dans toute l'Europe depuis des temps reculés, elle a été identifiée au sabbat des sorcières.

Notre-Dame priez pour nous.

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 8:41 am
par gabrielle

A Rome, ils sont très actifs pour le 1er mai, les textes de leur liturgie sont prêts, la coordination de la cérémonie est au point...

Pour eux ce jour là, ce sera comme le coup d'envoi , une grande première puisque c'est la première fois qu'un antipape sera "bienheureux"

Pour nous ce jour sera bien triste.

De plus, il compliquera la situation, va donc dénoncer Wojtyla après... les gens vont nous rétorquer "c'est un saint"

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 9:17 am
par Invité

> Gabrielle a écrit:
> Pour eux ce jour là, ce sera comme le coup d'envoi , une grande première puisque c'est la première fois qu'un antipape sera "bienheureux"

Tout à fait d'accord avec toi. Pire encore, comme je l'ai mentionné sur un autre post, Gabrielle, étant donné que les petits frères 3 points donnent une grande importance au nombre 11, peut-être sommes-nous dans une année cruciale pour les évènements de la fin (année 20....11) et que cette béatification marquera un coup d'envoi de quelque chose de monstrueux.

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 9:44 am
par Diane + R.I.P

René a écrit:

> Gabrielle a écrit:
> Pour eux ce jour là, ce sera comme le coup d'envoi , une grande première puisque c'est la première fois qu'un antipape sera "bienheureux"

Tout à fait d'accord avec toi. Pire encore, comme je l'ai mentionné sur un autre post, Gabrielle, étant donné que les petits frères 3 points donnent une grande importance au nombre 11, peut-être sommes-nous dans une année cruciale pour les évènements de la fin (année 20....11) et que cette béatification marquera un coup d'envoi de quelque chose de monstrueux.

Une chose est certaine, plus le temps passe, plus la secte tient dans ses tentacules la terre entière, plus nous nous rapprochons du dénouement.

Pour le 1er mai, je leur souhaite un déluge de pluie

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 1:17 pm
par JCMD67

J'ai toujours cru que le 1er mai c'était la fête du muguet...

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 4:30 pm
par ROBERT.

.

Pour faire suite à René , la Vierge est une arme formidable contre Lucifer, car elle est terrible comme une armée rangée en bataille (Cant. VI, 4)

.

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 4:46 pm
par ROBERT.

.

1er mai, date importante pour les satanistes et Illuminatis: voici ce que leur répond Notre-Seigneur : (…)Mon temps n'est pas encore venu, mais votre temps est toujours prêt. (Jean, VII, 6)

.

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 6:17 pm
par Javier

Mais le 1er mai c'est aussi mon anniversaire !

Alors, faut-il que je sois triste en ce jour ?...

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 6:29 pm
par Invité

> JCMD67 a écrit:
>
> J'ai toujours cru que le 1er mai c'était la fête du muguet... 😉😄

La fete du travail aussi...

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 6:36 pm
par JCMD67

On est mal barré Tonino... 😳

Sam 23 Avr 2011, 8:19 pm
par Roger Boivin

Les franc-maçons récupèrent tout ce qu'il y a de plus religieux, si je ne me trompe ; n'ont-il pas pris saint Jean-Baptiste pour l'un de leurs patrons ?

Dim 24 Avr 2011, 11:40 am par Johnny

Lun 25 Avr 2011, 9:12 am
par Diane + R.I.P

C'est aussi le mois de Marie, une belle raison pour nous de nous réjouir et de demander à la Vierge Marie d'écraser la tête du serpent.

Si j'étais Ratzi je porterais un casque de fer le 1er mai

Lun 25 Avr 2011, 1:08 pm par Louis

> Diane a écrit:
>
> C'est aussi le mois de Marie, une belle raison pour nous de nous réjouir et de demander à la Vierge Marie d'écraser la tête du serpent.
>
> Si j'étais Ratzi je porterais un casque de fer le 1er mai

... et même un double casque de fer: il va avoir aussi à en découdre avec Saint Joseph: le 1er mai le Pape Pie XII ne l'a t-il pas aussi fait la Fête de Saint Joseph Artisan ?

Saint Jospeh, terreur des démons, priez pour nous.

Accueil

Nouveautés

Connexion

^ The Zionist Infestation of Africa Revisited: The More Details, the More Devils

http://www.maskofzion.com/2012/05/zionist-infestation-of-africa-revisited.html

By JONATHAN AZAZIAH Monday, May 28, 2012

There is simply no end to the rape, plunder and pillage that Africa has endured at the hands of international Zionism. (Graphic: SKULZ FONTAINE)

AS THE CLICHÉ FAMOUSLY GOES when one attempts to point out the mysterious or little-known intricacies of a certain historical event, "the devil is in the details." An extension of this idiom, when it is applied to the shadowy world of the tribal supremacist persons who govern geopolitics through their kinship networks that extend throughout every sector of society, would most aptly be, "the more details, the more devils." And nowhere is this addendum more appropriately put to use than the ravaged continent of Africa.

In Mask of Zion's first report on Jewish-Zionist intrigues in Africa, "The Zionist Infestation of Africa: Zimbabwe to Uganda, Congo to Somalia and Beyond* (1)," numerous nations, events and figures were investigated and a plethora of previously suppressed or unknown truths were brought to light for the very first time. This second summary will expound upon many of these revelations, exposing new players, going behind the curtains of new nations and returning to critical plot points already discussed to present an even more damning account of the overall agenda of the Jewish exploitation machine vigorously gnawing at the core of the African continent. Thus, "the more details, the more devils," and assuredly, the following will not contain a shortage of either.

The Zionist entity has stolen so much water from Palestine, it must now thieve from Sudan, Egypt and Libya to sustain its criminal existence.

^ The Zionist Entity's Water Wars: Sudan, Egypt and Libya

ABDULLAHI AL AZREG, SUDAN'S AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN, recently gave a stunningly candid interview to the Islamic Republic of Iran's Press TV in regards to the ongoing conflict between his nation and the artificial country known as "South Sudan". Ambassador Al Azreg stated unequivocally that the South Sudan regime was engaged in a "proxy war to execute the projects of the Zionist movement"; he further declared them "puppets," not only carrying out "designs" against Khartoum itself but "other Muslim and Arab countries." He slammed Jewish Hollywood as a prime mover and shaker against Sudan and accurately noted that the "Save Darfur" campaign was the product of several powerful American Jewish organizations. He also pegged the seemingly nonstop propaganda against Sudan as "mainly Zionist propaganda (2)." These admissions are echoed and fully documented by an abyssal Mask of Zion investigative report on Jewish Hollywood's symbiotic relationship with the usurping Zionist entity and how it routinely targets the enemies of "Israel" through its films, television shows and actors (3).

What lies at the heart of the criminal Zionist regime's subversion of Sudan, beyond the obvious prize of oil and the immediate objective of balkanization, is blue-gold; water, lots and lots of water, and not just any body of water either, but the ancient Nile River itself. This plot, developed in 1974 and known as the "Yeor Plan", would see Nile water diverted from Egypt's northern Sinai region through tunnels underneath the Suez Canal and ultimately, through the illegally besieged Gaza Strip into al-Naqab, referred to by occupying "Israeli" Jews as the "Negev". The Zionist regime initially suggested that 1% of the Nile's precious water would be sufficient for its needs. The problem with this seemingly tiny amount however, was that the 1% desired by usurping Jewish entity belonged to Sudan. Despite the Zionists' ambitions and the notorious Egyptian collaborationist Anwar el-Sadat's treacherous willingness to oblige them, Egypt could not transfer any of its water resources unilaterally; it needed approval from its Nile partners: Sudan, Ethiopia, Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania, Rwanda, Burundi and Zaire (4). The only nation here that was operating from a staunch anti-Zionist stance of course, was Sudan, and disapproval from just one of the nine nations, invalidated any such dispersal objectives. Sudan had to be ruined and put under control for the Jewish supremacist enclave's "H2O hegemony" could be established.

The usurping Jewish regime is not subverting its North African enemies for oil and land alone as it is so often said; "Israel" wants their precious "blue-gold."

THE YEOR PLAN WAS CONCOCTED because "Israel" is suffering, and has always suffered from a water crisis and thus far, it has proved to be completely incapable of solving it, generating more and more political instability with each passing moment (5). This is due to the Zionist occupiers being nothing more than the equivalents of parasites. They consume, consume and consume, caring not in the slightest about the land they are literally bleeding dry (6). Every one of the rivers that flourished with pristineness before the advent of Zionism is now polluted, some to devastatingly deadly levels, except the Upper Jordan. The Lower Jordan on the other hand is used by the usurping, occupying Jews as nothing more than a dumping ground. 88% of the wells in the occupation capital of Tel Aviv are polluted, and this is just the tip of the iceberg (7).

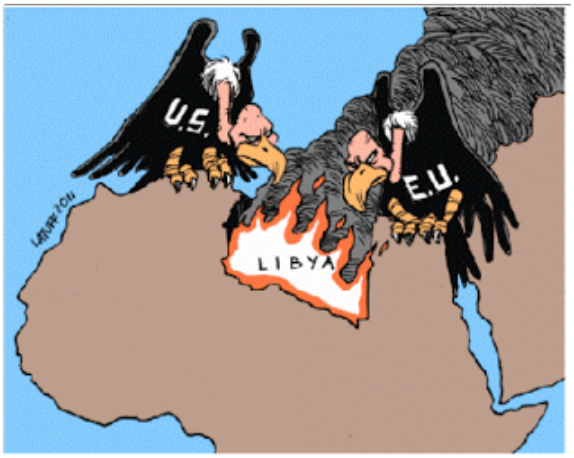
The Zionist land thieves can't turn to the water in the occupied West Bank because of their policies of "water occupation" and "water apartheid", in which they systematically destroy Palestinian water wells while hoarding hundreds of millions of cubic meters of water, insanely forcing Palestinians to buy their own water back at criminally inflated prices and taking over major aquifers throughout the territory, effectively denying the aboriginal Palestinian people of one of their most basic human rights. These cruel Zionist efforts are being aided by Britain (8), the Talmudist Rothschild family's "homebase" and great colonial pillager of Africa. And in illegally besieged Gaza, the situation is even more daunting. An astonishing 95% of the water in the Strip is undrinkable thanks to Jewish contamination, specifically the ungodly bombing campaign carried out by the "Israeli" terrorist army during Operation Cast Lead. Additionally, due to this, hundreds of Palestinian babies in the world's largest open air prison are suffering from "blue baby syndrome," a horrific disease of immune system deficiency and disfigurement (9). The hateful usurping entity doesn't mind the children of non-Jews suffering because of poisoned water but it would never subject its own "tribe" to such horrors. Hence why it needs Africa's blue-gold.

Egyptian giant Gamal Abdul Nasser: assassinated by Zionist asset Anwar el-Sadat.

WITHOUT THE COLLUSION OF THE AFOREMENTIONED Anwar el-Sadat, arguably the Arab World's filthiest collaborationist, the Yeor Plan wouldn't even be a remote possibility. In fact, to take it a step further, if the great Arab nationalist leader Gamal Abdul Nasser was alive, not even the dream of such a plot would have made its way into reality. And this is why Nasser, the usurping Jewish entity's arch-nemesis, "had to go". A long-time target of Mossad and CIA operations, President Nasser died untimely at the age of 52 on September 28th, 1970. Eyewitness testimony confirms that none other than Anwar el-Sadat himself is responsible for poisoning the legendary Nasser on behalf of his "Israeli" and American masters. Nasser didn't "die of natural causes" as it is commonly repeated in mainstream historical discourse, he was assassinated (10). El-Sadat, a self-hating Arab, immediately hijacked the Egyptian presidency in the wake of Nasser's death, and began implementing initiatives to spread sectarian hatred throughout society, cheapen Islam for imperial objectives and de-Arabize Egyptian culture (11), all to the great pleasure of "Israel" and the Zionist-occupied governments of the West. Nasser of course, was vehemently anti-sectarian and did everything in his power to preserve Muslim and Egyptian unity (12).

While Egypt was being subverted on a cultural, societal and political level by their proxy el-Sadat, the Zionists deepened their presence in the North African giant that had already been in effect for decades prior. Operation Susannah was the first, in which Egyptian-Jewish Aman operatives posed as Arabs and attempted to detonate explosives inside Egyptian, American and British targets; the goal was to foment a Western proxy war against Nasser so "Israel" could retake the Suez Canal. The event is known today as the Lavon Affair. Most infamous of all is easily the Mossad-CIA conspiracy known as "Operation Cyanide", in which Egypt was to be blamed for an attack on an American Navy ship, thus triggering World War Three. The operation spun out of control and is now known as the USS Liberty Massacre. Since 1978, at least 15 "Israeli" spy networks have been dismantled within Egypt. Former Shin Bet head and Zionist war criminal Avi Dichter declared openly to a crowd at the "Israeli" National Security Research Center on May 26, 2010 that weakening Egypt was vital to the very foundation of the Zionist entity's foreign policy (13).

Much of the Zionist regime's subversion in Egypt focuses on breaking up the unity between Muslims and Christians.



ON NEW YEAR'S DAY 2011, Mossad detonated a car bomb right outside of al-Qiddissin Coptic Church in Alexandria, murdering at least 25 innocent people, just one week after yet another "Israeli" spy network was uncovered. The usurping Jewish regime's international intelligence directorate was spying on Egyptian government officials, attempting to penetrate Islamic opposition groups and infiltrating Egyptian telecommunications firms to strengthen other Zionist espionage networks in Lebanon and Syria. The objective of the bombing was to provoke Muslim-Christian tension. Thankfully, this failed miserably (14). Only a few weeks after the murderous attack came the "Egyptian Revolution", which the Zionist entity had its hands in with its proxy, the April 6 Youth Movement, a group of westernized House Arabs bankrolled by Jewish capitalist strongmen, Peter Ackerman and George Soros. The aims of the April 6 Youth Movement were to subvert the real revolutionary fervor of the Egyptian people and secure the installation of a regime like that of el-Sadat's equally treasonous successor, Hosni Mubarak (15). Currently, as per the 1982 plan of Oded Yinon, "A Strategy for Israel in the 1980s", the usurping entity has used the chaos of the "Egyptian Revolution" to launch a full-scale intelligence assault on Egypt to reoccupy the Sinai (16), a clear scheme to compliment and facilitate the Yeor Plan.

NATO, the attack dog of international Zionism, murdered more than 100,000 Libyans including al-Qadhdhafi himself, in another Jewish-designed genocide.

DIRECTLY TIED TO THE JEWISH-ZIONIST designs for Sudan and Egypt is the once-glorious North African nation of Libya. Another target of Oded Yinon's nefarious policy paper (17), Libya has been ravaged by NATO and its proxy militias in another stratagem designed by the forces of international Zionism: UN Watch, a Zionist-headed affiliate of the American Jewish Committee, AIPAC's foreign policy wing, and the Foreign Policy Initiative (FPI), a Jewish-Zionist nest of the same neoconservative war criminals responsible for masterminding the annihilation of Iraq. The demolition of Libya began on the Jewish revenge holiday of Purim, like Iraq before it, and as of this moment, at least 100,000 innocent lives have been claimed, including women, children and Libyan leader Muammar al-Qadhdhafi himself (18). Apart from thieving Libya's oil and gold, a central objective of the Zionist war on Libya was to disassemble al-Qadhdhafi's Great Manmade River and have several Zionist firms rebuild it, establishing a neoliberal stranglehold over Libya's entire water supply (19).

At the peak of the Zionist-engineered aggression, NATO warplanes not only indiscriminately bombed the Great Manmade River, Earth's largest irrigation project, leveling it and terribly contaminating it beyond measure, but the only factory that made replacement pipes for it. The Zionist-controlled mainstream media buried this crime against humanity, this act of unadulterated malevolence, with deceptive coverage of the ungodly massacre of Norwegian teenagers on Utøya Island, reporting it as the work of a lone gunman instead of the real perpetrator: the usurping Jewish entity's Mossad (20). The Great Manmade River was providing water and irrigation to at least 70% of the Libyan people, in addition to serving as an asset for Libya to challenge "Israeli"-Egyptian hegemony over the vegetable-export market in Europe. A key element of the Great Manmade River's functioning is the Nubian Sandstone Aquifer System, largest fossil water aquifer system in the world, which lies beneath Libya, Egypt, Sudan and Chad (21). It should be noted that Chad has been used as a staging ground by the usurping Zionist entity and its American marionettes to destabilize Libya since the 1980s (22).

The US and the EU, the Zionist Power Configuration's vultures, left Libya ravaged so "Israel" could control its water.

BY SABOTAGING AND SUBSEQUENTLY laying waste to Egypt, Sudan and Libya in three balkanizing "water wars", the Jewish occupation regime will then be able to assert its dominance over the Nubian Sandstone Aquifer System and the Great Manmade River, in addition to the obvious perk of knocking off three of its sworn and most hated enemies in its quest for "Greater Israel." The three prospective agents of ushering in this new age of Imperium Judaica's hegemony over North Africa's water resources are Veolia (formerly Vivendi), Suez Ondeo (formerly Generale des Eaux) and Saur, Zionist-French multinational behemoths that control over 40% of the global water market (23). Veolia in particular is an ultra-Zionist firm, with deep ties to the usurping Jewish entity and its closest ally, the House of Saud. The Zionist-French mega-corporation is complicit in monstrous human rights abuses across occupied Palestine, from the West Bank to al-Quds, as it provides direct services to the "Israeli" institutions that uphold the tyranny, from the IOF to the illegal Jewish settlements (24). Veolia will no doubt be the chief executor of Zionism's Yeor Plan.

A man by the name of Jean-Luc Touly, who was employed as an accountant at Veolia/Vivendi for 30 years, blew the whistle on the origins of these multinational water giants. They were created more than 150 years ago. And they were created by bankers (25). At that point in history (and really, at this point in history too), the word "banker" was dead-on synonymous with the phrases "Rothschild family" and "Rothschild lieutenant", and France, a mighty colonial power, was (and still is) under the jackboot of this predatory plutocratic Jewish dynasty, lock, stock and barrel (1). To this very moment, Veolia/Vivendi is being advised by the Rothschilds (26). It is fitting that a creation of the International Jewish Money Power, stays with the International Jewish Money Power. And it is equally fitting that Africa, raped and pillaged repeatedly and incessantly by Rothschild-financed colonialism for centuries, is being prepped for this creation, this three-headed Zionist "water monster", to hurt it and torment it even more.

The United States government, in just one of the many glaring signs that all of its mechanisms of governance have been through a process of "Israelification", has just declassified a document which states that water-based conflicts will threaten its "national security interests" in the near and distant future. One of the water bodies mentioned is none other than the Nile River (27). American "national security interests" under threat? No, the Zionist entity's. And as per the 1975 MOU between the United States and "Israel" that stipulates America must fulfill the energy needs of the Jewish occupation regime whenever it is necessary to do so (28), it is definite that this study was conducted at the behest of Zionist interests. And, with "Israel" growing closer to the fabricated regime in South Sudan with each passing day, a dastardly military-intelligence relationship that dates back to at least 1967 (29), it is also clear that the water wars against Sudan, Libya and Egypt are, unfortunately, ongoing Zionist projects.

MASHAV
ISRAEL Center for International Cooperation

MASHAV, a "humanitarian aid" front for the Jewish occupation entity's Foreign Ministry, has penetrated deep into Africa.

^ The Union of "Israel" And USAID: A Match Made In Hell

ON APRIL 23RD, 2012, THE TREACHEROUS USAID signed an MOU with its "Israeli" counterpart, MASHAV, a subordinate of the Zionist occupation regime's Foreign Ministry. As if to brag about the closeness between the two subversives, MASHAV director Daniel Carmon said, "This agreement is not the start of the relationship; it is the continuing and the strengthening of the relationship." The MOU was designed to increase USAID-MASHAV cooperation in the field of "food security" for four African nations: Uganda, Ethiopia, Tanzania and Rwanda, all proxies of the Jewish terror "state." The MOU is the first of its kind (30); it has taken the lengthy cooperation between USAID and MASHAV, as confirmed by Carmon, from the covert realm to the public eye.

"Food security" is merely a front however. The eerie name of the initiative is "Feed the Future," and one of the key areas that MASHAV will be focusing on is water and irrigation technologies (31). The only "future" that this new overt USAID-MASHAV axis is going to be "feeding" is the usurping Zionist entity's appetite for more water wars. Jordanian political science professor Ghazi al-Rababah has correctly observed that "Israel" plans to fight multiple water wars over the next 7 years, not only in North Africa where Egypt will be target number one, but also in Lebanon over the ancient Litani River, which the Zionist dragon stole hundreds of millions of cubic meters of water from during its savage 22-year occupation of the South (32). The "Feed the Future" plot of USAID and MASHAV will undoubtedly assist in these expansionist war plans.

USAID, run by Jewish-Zionist Donald K. Steinberg, is MASHAV's "American" partner in crime.

MASK OF ZION'S FIRST STUDY OF ZIONISM IN AFRICA rigorously documented the extensive relationships between the Talmudic occupation enclave and Uganda, Ethiopia and Tanzania. Rwanda though, was only mentioned in passing due to Mask of Zion's investigation of Jewish-Zionist Donald K. Steinberg, current controller of USAID and long-time US State Department stalwart who advised the "philo-Semitic" war criminal Clinton administration to turn a blind eye to the Rwandan Genocide (1). It is completely certain that the destructive USAID-MASHAV partnership was spearheaded by "Israel-firster" Steinberg and, it is also completely certain that he helped cover up the Rwanda Genocide because his beloved Zionist entity was in the thick of it, at the core of it, organizing, plotting and directing, unbeknownst to the majority of the world.

The Rwandan Genocide wasn't a product of years of ethnic tension between Hutu and Tutsi as it so familiarly repeated in parrot-like fashion, an assessment awash in colonialist and orientalist undertones and overtones. It was the result of Zionist-Western intrigue, neocolonialism and intelligence operations at the highest levels. A devilish assassination was the spark of the massacres and ethnic cleansing that eventually became genocide. Juvénal Habyarimana, the third president of Rwanda, was brutally murdered on April 6th, 1994 when his plane was shot down by the forces of the Rwandan Patriotic Front (RPF), led by current Rwandan President Paul Kagame, who holds office despite being accused of a plethora of war crimes (33). This was the culmination of seditious warfare that began in late 1990, when Kagame's RPF invaded from Zionist proxy state Uganda, with backing, funds and arms from the CIA and the US State Department. Jewish-Zionist war criminal Madeline Albright, in collusion with Kofi Annan, covered up the origins of the RPF and its atrocities at the UN (34).

Rwandan war criminal Paul Kagame with Zionist mass murderer Benjamin Netanyahu (real name: Benjamin Mileikowsky); Kagame was and is the frontman for "Israeli" intrigue in Rwanda.

KAGAME WAS FULLY BACKED by the Zionist-occupied governments of America, Britain and, "Israel" itself provided direct support as well. Mossad agents were embedded with Kagame's RPF from 1990 until the genocide concluded in 1994 (35). The primary mover and shaker in the horrific travesty of humanity that unfolded in Rwanda during those years, the war criminal who can be considered the architect of the Rwanda Genocide, was "Israeli" spymaster David Kimche (36), a Zionist godfather who participated in the ethnic cleansing of Palestine, designed Mossad's doctrine and modus operandi, helped found Mossad's research department, established Mossad's foothold in Africa in the 1960s as an agent of its Tevel Unit, laid the groundwork for the Sabra and Shatila massacre by building up the Jewish occupation regime's ties with the Phalangists and a whole host of other services to international Zionism (37).

Kagame, Kimche's puppet and protégé, surely as a repayment for its help in establishing his rule, has become one of the usurping Jewish entity's most visible and vocal African allies. He visited occupied Palestine for the 60th anniversary of the Nakba and became initiated in the Jewish religion of "Holocaustianity." During his visit, he met with "Israeli" war criminals Shimon Peres (real name: Szymon Perski) and Tzipi Livni, as well as Burkina Faso's President Blaise Compaore (38), another Mossad asset who, with strong "Israeli" support, overthrew and murdered Burkinabé revolutionary leader Thomas Sankara, one of the great freedom fighters of the modern era (1). When it was all said and done, the Mossad-RPF-CIA nexus murdered about one million men, women and children and the majority of the victims were Hutu, not Tutsi as "official history (read: Jewish history)" has it. World opinion on the Rwandan Genocide remains diluted, largely in part to the viral viewing of the critically acclaimed film, "Hotel Rwanda," which depicts Kagame and his RPF band of slaughterous thugs as heroes (39).

Thanks to Zionist puppet Kagame, Rwanda and "Israel" now have exceedingly brotherly relations.

THIS IS THE FINAL PHASE OF INTERNATIONAL ZIONISM'S gutting of Rwanda, spreading hasbara to cover its tracks and fool the world as it has with every other conflict, war and swindle that it has forged since its ascendance to global power. Hotel Rwanda was produced by Lions Gate Films and United Artists, both owned and operated by Zionist Jews, like every other film studio and production company in Jewish Hollywood (3). United Artists is a subsidiary of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (MGM), a Jewish "founding father firm" of the entertainment capital of the world that has historical ties to Jewish Organized Crime (40), including the real "boss of bosses", the real "don of dons", the powerful and shadowy figure who was known simply as "The Fixer," Sidney Korshak (41), a Jewish supremacist at heart, as evidenced by his anti-assimilation mentality and vast donations to the Zionist entity (42).

While the interconnected networks of International Jewry indeed intended to keep the domineering role of "Israel" far away from the Rwanda tragedy, its machinations are exposed here for all to see. May the Rwandan people come to know this dark, shocking and potent truth so their martyrs can not only rest in peace once and for all, but so their tormentors, Steinberg, Albright, Kimche, Kagame, his RPF commanders, the Mossad superiors of Kimche and the rest, pay severely for their bloody and pernicious crimes. Rwanda needs its freedom; and the perfect way to start a struggle for it would be to scrap the treachery of USAID and MASHAV, therefore alleviating the East African nation from anymore unnecessary Zionist plunder.

^ Glencore: An Empire of Zionist Criminality Built with African Blood

Glencore: the corporate leviathan founded by Jewish-Zionist "fugitive financier" Marc Rich; currently headed by Zionist Jew Ivan Glasenberg.

MARC RICH IS A NAME THAT IS PERCEIVED to no longer have relevance in the fields of geopolitics, international finance or global espionage. Marc Rich is a man that is considered to be part of a bygone era. Such perceptions and considerations are drastically inaccurate. Marc Rich is famous for being a "fugitive financier", a Jewish-Zionist billionaire who spent years on the run from American and international authorities for tax evasion and illegal oil deals, only to be pardoned by war criminal and Zionist stooge Bill Clinton on his last day in office. What is buried about Rich is that he was a lifelong asset of the Zionist entity's Mossad who conducted business in Iraq and the Islamic Republic of Iran as a means of spying on these nations for "Israel." Rich was pardoned by Clinton after sledgehammer pressure from "Israeli" leaders like the aforementioned Shimon Peres, Ehud Barak (real name: Ehud Brog), ex-Mossad director Shabtai Shavit and the heaviest hitters of the American Jewish community (43). Rich is central to the thesis of this essay for a reason even more abyssal than the aforesaid details.

The Jewish-Zionist "fugitive financier" is the founder of Glencore (previously Marc Rich and Co. AG), "the biggest company you never heard of," a multinational commodities trading and mining hulk that has penetrated deep into Africa, including but not even close to limited to Equatorial Guinea, where Glencore owns two oil fields, Ivory Coast, where it is described as the "favorite trader" of the state oil company, and Zambia, where it has a 73% stake in the landlocked Southern African nation's second largest mining company (44). Glencore is currently headed by "Israeli"-South African Jew Ivan Glasenberg (45).

Rich built Glencore into a world powerhouse through his numerous connections in the intelligence underworld, essentially making it a front for Mossad's most clandestine operations. Glencore made a killing selling oil to the apartheid regime in South Africa, a brotherly ally of the usurping Zionist entity. It made another killing, literally, in the Congo, through its ties to the Orthodox Jewish "Israeli" war criminal and diamond baron Dan Gertler. Glencore has $4.5 billion worth of holdings in the Congo, via cobalt, gold and copper, and it is all thanks to the Chabadnik Gertler, who reportedly "managed the entire relationship between Glencore and the Congolese government." Though Rich is out and Glasenberg is in, the Mossad formula of bribing and blackmailing dictatorships across the globe for profit remains (46).

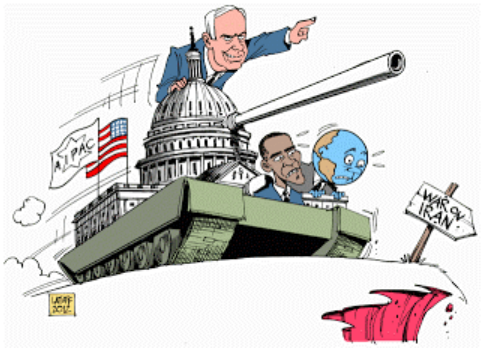
Glencore is a stronghold of criminal Jewish exploits built from the ground up with the blood of innocent Africans from across the continent.

APART FROM ITS RELATIONSHIP WITH Jewish supremacist gangster Gertler, who has the blood of at least 10 million Congolese on his money-grubbing, war-profiteering hands (1), Glencore itself is linked to an abundance of human rights abuses in the Congo. The corporate monster of Zionist intriguers Rich and Glasenberg is exploiting children as young as 10 years old, forcing them to work over 150 feet underground in copper and cobalt mines. It is also dumping raw acid into the Congo's Luilu River (47). In Zambia, Glencore had a plant shut down due to its excessive emissions of highly toxic acid mist (48).

"The biggest company you never heard of" has now made its way into the Southwestern African nation of Namibia, where it has purchased a majority stake in the Rosh Pinah mine, a major regional zinc and lead producer. It will look next to taking over Namibia's uranium and gold mines (49). Glencore also has its filthy "chosenite" paws in the zinc mines of Burkina Faso and the nickel mines of Tanzania (50), both puppet states of the Zionist regime. Truly, Glencore, the child of lifetime Mossadnik Marc Rich, is a Zionist criminal empire built with the blood, sweat and tears of millions of Africans for the furtherance of the usurping Jewish entity's ambitious geopolitical aims.

The tentacles of international Zionism have extended into more African countries than one can even imagine. (Graphic by Skulz Fontaine)



^ Conclusion: Under the Thumb Of Jewish Intrigue - Somalia, Mauritania, Morocco, Gambia, Algeria, The Boers And More

THE INDIGENOUS PEOPLES OF AFRICA weren't the only ones that the Jewish exploitation machine violated and steamrolled. International Jewish Finance had no problem whatsoever turning on colonialists who weren't going along with the plan of granting hegemony to "the tribe." The Anglo-Boer War of 1899-1902 was a bitter, intra-colonialist conflict fought between the Boers (Afrikaners) and Brits for the domination of the resource-rich land of South Africa. 12,000 native South Africans, 30,000 Boers and 22,000 Brits lost their lives in the three years of bloodshed, with the colonial British army in particular being exceptionally merciless, employing scorched-earth tactics to terrorize the Boers (51).

The pinnacle of Britain's savagery was its placement of 115,000 indigenous South Africans and 116,572 Boers, predominantly women and children, into filthy and brutal concentration camps, herding them into the mass detention centers like animals. 27,927 Boers died in the camps due to disease and malnourishment. 26,251 of them were women and children, with 22,074 of these children being under 16. Other war crimes included the barbaric execution of POWs, the looting of food supplies and the destruction of livestock. All of this mass murder, torture and besiegement was vigorously fueled by the Jewish Money Power. The ever-ubiquitous Rothschild family, the monolithic Oppenheimer gold, diamond and media dynasty, the influential Jewish networker Barney Barnato (real name: Barnett Isaacs) and Rothschild lieutenants Lionel Phillips and Alfred Beit were the hidden hands behind the Anglo-Boer War, manipulating it every step of the way to bolster their wealth and further their quest for global supremacy (51).

Though the predatory plutocratic Jewish financiers worked behind curtains and moved in the shadows, their plans were exposed by numerous British Parliament members, the British Labor Movement and Irish nationalists. The Anglo-Boer War was damned as a plot "to secure the gold fields of South Africa for cosmopolitan Jews", in which propaganda was financed by "capitalist Jews" and spread by the "Jewish lords of the press". It was said that "the financial Jew" was everywhere to be found "operating, directing, inspiring the agencies that have led to this war". This Jewish cabal was unrepentantly damned as a "financial serpent". It was the "Jewish factor", the "Jewish Randlords", who did everything in their power to cement their "Jew-imperialist design" in South Africa, in "true parasitic fashion (51)." It is pathetic and shameful that the Boers, who fought valiantly against Rothschild-backed Britain, would later go on to establish the Pretoria apartheid regime, which was, as long as it lasted, the Zionist entity's closest African ally. Moreover, the Anglo-Boer War is exceedingly telling of how pathologically cunning the Jewish Power Configuration is, as it weaves in and out of various circles, making friends out of enemies and enemies out of friends, all for the ultimate benefit of World Jewry.

The Jewish subversion of Africa is part and parcel of the ongoing Zionist war on the Islamic Republic of Iran.

WITHOUT QUESTION, THE CURRENT AND greatest enemy of international Zionism and the Jewish supremacists who uphold it is the Islamic Republic of Iran, which "Israel" has been mobilizing against, propagandizing against, infiltrating, terrorizing, bombing directly and by proxy, provoking, hurting and subverting since the Islamic Revolution triumphed more than three decades ago (52). Africa has become a battleground in the Jewish occupation regime's war against Iran. Led by incumbent President Dr. Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Persian nation has reached out to Senegal, Nigeria, Mauritania, Gambia, Sudan, Eritrea and even Kenya and Uganda over the last several years, much to the dismay of "Israel." Because of this, the Zionist entity has countered Iran every step of the way, succeeding in its undermining in some cases while maintaining ongoing efforts in others (53). The Jewish "state" is using Iranian efforts in Africa in conjunction with some hardcore hasbara against the Lebanese Islamic Resistance of Hezbollah as pretexts to establish an "international intelligence agency" with "Israel" at the head of it and West Africa being the starting point of its operations (54). There is no limit to Zionist fanatics' hysteria and desperation.

In November 2009, after months of strenuous diplomatic negotiations, the Zionist entity firmly established its presence in the tiny West African nation of Gambia, building bilateral ties in the fields of telecommunications, construction, electronics, sewage, commerce, agriculture and beyond. Most notably, "Israel" provided the Gambian government with a state-of-the-art irrigation system (55), indubitably for its growing appetite to foment water wars on the continent. One year later, nearly to the day, in what absolutely appeared to be an "Israeli" victory, Gambia cut all of its with the Islamic Revolution and expelled the Persian giant's diplomats, claiming that Iran was shipping guns and drugs onto its shores (56).

An "Israeli" victory was indeed what it was as the entire affair turned out to be an elaborate farce to humiliate Iran, staged by Mossad's Gambia station chief, Danny Shinn, who had infiltrated Gambia's National Drug Enforcement Agency and the State House in the capital city of Banjul (57). Shinn set up a network of assets comprised of ex-regime officials, placing them on Mossad's payroll, and also provided torture training, weaponry and surveillance equipment to the Gambian military and intelligence sectors through a front company of his (58). The slippery Mossad agent's whereabouts are currently unknown, but his work is done; Gambia is under the dominion of "Israel".

Relations between Mauritania and the usurping Zionist entity crumbled to nothing after the ritualistic Jewish assault on Gaza during Operation Cast Lead.

RELATIONS BETWEEN MAURITANIA AND THE USURPING Jewish entity were once thoroughly solid. Autumn 1999 saw Mauritania recognizing the Zionist occupation regime, in a disgraceful public act of treason to the Arab and Islamic worlds. Trade and diplomacy followed, and Zionism had seemingly gained another ally (read: puppet) on the Arab, as well as the African fronts. Mauritania even accepted a most denigrating proposal from the Jewish terror "state" to take on the nuclear waste from the illegal Zionist nuclear weapons haven known as Dimona (59). All of this putrid comradery however, was short-lived. Relations between Nouakchott and Tel Aviv came crashing down with Operation Cast Lead. Outraged at the genocidal aggression that claimed the lives of 1,440 Palestinians, including 431 children, Mauritania shut down the "Israeli" embassy and expelled all Zionist entity diplomats (60). Since this defiance, the Jewish occupation dragon has designated Mauritania an "enemy state" and prepped it for infiltration and subversion.

Whatever plans the Zionist entity had in store for Nouakchott were thwarted when "the biggest Mossad spy ring" in the country's history was exposed on January 4th, 2012. Fake "activists" from across the Arab world and several high-profile businesspeople were arrested and interrogated as members of a vast, corrosive Zionist intelligence network embedded throughout Mauritanian society (61). The outed "Israeli" nexus was one of extreme significance, as it was tied to the Zionist agents who murdered Hamas commander Mahmoud al-Mabhouh in Dubai and the Mossad operatives that infamously blew up an Ethiopian airliner in Lebanon (62).

Recently, indisputably due to its principled anti-Zionist stance, Mauritania has been slammed with nefarious propaganda by Zionist-run CNN as a modern outpost of slavery. The hasbaranik "news" network alleged that 10-20% of the North African nation's citizens were slaves (63). This horrific and gargantuan lie, debunked by respectable reporters, human rights activists and government officials back in 1996, originated with Charles Jacobs, a notorious Jewish supremacist, Islamophobe and Zionist hardliner who has been present in neoconservative networks for years. Jacobs also helped disseminate the same slavery hasbara about Sudan, setting up or heading Jewish-Zionist front organizations to give credence to the lies of "Israeli"-trained South Sudanese rebels, chiefly the American Anti-Slavery Group (64). This is another primordial tactic of the Jewish occupation regime; attempt to destroy the enemy militarily or subversively, and if this fails, smear the enemy so the world perceives him as dirty and defeated anyway.

Algerian revolutionary Ahmed Ben Bella; a freedom fighter utterly hated by "Israel" and its French colonialist allies.

HISTORICALLY, THE USURPING JEWISH DEMON has always considered the massive North African nation of Algeria an adversary, hating it passionately. Aman, the Zionist entity's military intelligence wing, worked intimately with SDECE (French intelligence) to undermine the Algerian liberation struggle. The most brazen act of this nexus was the assassination attempt on the first president of Algeria, Nasser protégé and legendary freedom fighter Ahmed Ben Bella via the hijacking of his plane (65). On August 14th, 1963, the Algerian government, freshly (and barely) independent after the debilitating war of attrition with its Rothschild-financed French colonialist oppressors from 1954-1962, foiled a regime change plot led by "Israeli" intelligence and the pro-colonialist terrorist group, the French Secret Army Organization (OAS). Ten Zionist agents and 20 of their proxies were arrested. President Ben Bella, a fierce anti-Zionist, accused the Zionist entity of attempting to plunge the newly independent Algeria into chaos due to its stance on the total liberation of Palestine (66).

The OAS itself was an iniquitous den of Jewish intrigue. It not only had an exclusively Jewish faction, its leadership was being advised on the intricacies of clandestine warfare by partisans of Irgun, the notorious mass murdering "Israeli" terrorist organ. The usurping Zionist entity's intelligence apparatuses were also providing support to the OAS on the ground as a means of retaining the French colonial presence in Algeria, as was the CIA. What is even more disturbing is that the OAS, tormentors of the Algerian people and willing marionettes of the Jewish occupation regime, was financed by the extremely shadowy Permindex corporation, a nexus of Jewish financial barons, Mossad agents, Zionist lobbyists and Jewish Organized Crime kingpins that was integral to the assassination of US President John F. Kennedy and numerous attempts on the life of President of France Charles de Gaulle (67).

Since the decolonization of Algeria and the triumph over the Mossad-OAS efforts to reverse Algerian liberation, "Israel" has steadfastly targeted the North African behemoth with a cornucopia of designs, especially as of recent. In the summer of 2007, Mossad was revealed to have been running prominent Algerian journalist Said Sahnoun, who had provided the "Israeli" foreign intelligence directorate with information on Algeria's military capabilities (68). December 2007 saw the Algerian capital of Algiers being struck with a double car bomb by Mossad, leaving at least 47 innocents murdered in cold blood (69). There is a strong possibility that this was classical Jewish vengeance for the outing of Sahnoun. In March 2010, a Mossad agent in possession of a fake Spanish passport was arrested by Algeria's security services for spying on oil companies (70). Later on in 2010, "Israeli" military intelligence was caught spying on Algeria's peaceful nuclear facilities and its Air Force base in Umm Bawaki, the largest in Africa (71).

"Algerian" separatist terrorist Ferhat Mehenni: traitor of Africa and proxy of Zionism bought and paid for by American Jewry.

RELIGIOUSLY ADHERING TO THE Yinon Plan of destabilization and balkanization, of which Algeria is a feature (17), "Israel" hosted Ferhat Mehenni, leader of the Paris-based Mouvement pour l'autonomie de la Kabylie (MAK), an Algerian separatist group, on May 22nd, 2012. Mehenni seeks to establish a tribal enclave in the northern region of Algeria called "Kablye", a terribly blatant invocation of Oded Yinon's vision of chopping up Arab and Muslim states into smaller, weaker entities. The separatist strongman is an advocate of establishing ties with the usurping Jewish entity and setting up an "Israeli" embassy in Algiers. The Zionist regime openly and flagrantly supports the MAK and has facilitated at least three of Mehenni's trips to the Talmudic stronghold. He plans for the Jewish occupation regime to be the first entity that "Kablye" establishes diplomatic ties with, and why wouldn't he? Mehenni has received over $1 million euros from the wealthy and powerful American Jewish community (72), he is merely catering to his Zionist masters' wants and needs.

"Israeli" media programs have also been firing bullets of absurd but nevertheless dangerous hasbara about Algeria possessing nuclear weapons (73); a reprehensible lie. With Libya destroyed by the Zionist-engineered war of aggression led by NATO, and Egypt very much under fire from an "Israeli" scheme to retake the Sinai, it vividly appears that Algeria is next on the Zionist hit-list. The "divide and conquer" and "weapons of mass destruction" pretexts are already in place and that is exceptionally frightening.

If Anwar el-Sadat was the Arab World's greatest and most perfidious traitor, the "kings" of Morocco, and "King" Hassan II in particular, undoubtedly register as his closest front runners or even, his heirs. Forged by "King" Muhammad V in the early 1950s and furthered after his death in 1961 by his son, "King" Hassan II, the devilish relationship between Mossad and the Moroccan security-intelligence complex is one of the utmost closeness and treachery. It began in 1954 when Mossad founder Isser Harel set up a clandestine base in Morocco for the purpose of forcing Moroccan Jews to occupied Palestine. Mossad agent Shlomo Havillo was initially made station chief, but he was later replaced by a more devoted Jewish supremacist named Alex Gatmon, who was also given dominion over the Misgeret, Mossad's secret militia in Casablanca. Harel and Gatmon launched two major operations, "Mural" and "Yakhin", in which they smuggled hundreds of thousands of Mizrahi Jews out of Morocco with the full complicity of the "King" and his security services (74). This was just a front for something far more diabolical however.

The main reason that the Moroccan monarchy and usurping Jewish entity formed an alliance was to overthrow Gamal Abdul Nasser. Meir Amit, lifelong servant of Zionism and Isser Harel's "replacement" as director of Mossad, trained the security services of "King" Hassan II in counterintelligence, interrogation and torture, all for the purpose of taking down Nasser and replacing his regime with one more compliant to the regional objectives of "Israel" and the monarchy (75). This new alliance would prove destructive to Nasser and his anti-Zionist ambitions, as the turncoat Moroccan intelligence apparatus supplied the Jewish "state" with critical access to high-level meetings between Arab military commanders just prior to al-Naksa, thus giving "Israel" the upper hand it needed to launch its pre-emptive war (76).

The tyrannical Moroccan monarchy and the usurping Zionist entity are intimately intertwined through their intelligence services.

IT WAS THIS PUTRID COOPERATION that also led to the kidnaping, barbaric torture and murder of great Moroccan revolutionary Mehdi Ben Barka, first discussed in Mask of Zion's first report on Africa. Mossad was the guiding hand behind Ben Barka's tragic and bloody fate. The international Jewish murder machine had tracked the "Moroccan Che Guevara's" entire career, penetrated his inner circle and set him up on a fake meeting with a "sympathetic French millionaire" who wanted to help him topple the "King" and liberate Morocco from tyranny. It was at this meeting that Moroccan Interior Minister (and Mossad asset) Muhammad Oufkir and his allies in an "Israel"-allied SDECE faction would kidnap Ben Barka and later execute him. The man behind the fiction that led to the cold-blooded murder of Mehdi Ben Barka was none other than David Kimche (77), the ancient Mossadnik behind the Rwandan Genocide. Beyond the cooperation between his security services and Mossad, "King" Hassan II held numerous secret meetings with "Israeli" war criminals over the years, from prime ministers to generals, Knesset members to intelligence heads, doing everything that he could to harm and undermine the Palestinian people (78).

Mossad also trained the bodyguards of the Moroccan despot. To show just how deep the friendship between Tel Aviv and Rabat actually went, when long-time Mossad contact Muhammad Oufkir plotted to overthrow "King" Hassan II, the Zionist entity's global terror squad stopped it from occurring. As a means of gratitude, the "King" increased his ties to Zionism; more weapons, more intelligence, more cultural and economic cooperation, more trade, which amounts to at least $100 million per year, and more "Israeli" involvement in helping Morocco emerge triumphant in its brutal, expansionist war against the indigenous Sahrawi people of the Western Sahara (74), who were and are being (righteously) supported by the Zionist entity's hated enemy, Algeria. Zionism's wholly vile and incestuous friendliness with the Moroccan tyrant is especially vital to its infestation of Africa, on all fronts. Morocco is essentially a launching pad for Jewish criminal activity on the continent. The Moroccan people themselves, known for their visceral despisal of the usurping Zionist dragon and who literally chased an "Israeli" diplomat out of their country in March (79), must take down the "King" and restore dignity to Morocco.

Al-Shabab, the righteous Islamic Resistance of Somalia, is under intense fire from the marionettes of International Jewry.

WHILE MASK OF ZION PROMINENTLY featured the plight of occupied Somalia in its first report, new revelations have since emerged that add more layers of devilishness to what has befallen the Horn of Africa nation. Additionally, International Jewry's proxies in Europe and America have stepped up the aggression against the Somali people.

On May 15th, 2012, EU naval forces and helicopters ruthlessly shelled the village of Handulle, ridiculously dubbing it a "pirate haven" and vowing to continue facsimile attacks in the future (80). No evidence was (or has been) presented to confirm the "pirate" allegations and no casualty count was issued either although it wouldn't be farfetched by any means to assume many civilians were murdered by this cruel, criminal and colonial attack. It is imperative to note that the Somali pirates are by no means

"robbers" or, as Zionist ideologues tend to describe them, "terrorists," they are defenders of their homeland, putting their lives on the line to stop Western (read: Jewish) imperial encroachment and corporations from dumping toxic waste in Somali waters (81).

It is now known that the Zionist-occupied United States government has been using F-15s to bomb Somalia, as well as its naval destroyers (82). The US has also pieced together a mercenary army from forces of the Zionist entity's proxies in Uganda, Ethiopia and Kenya, aggressively pushing them in conjunction with Predator and Reaper drone strikes against Al-Shabab, the Somali Islamic Resistance (83). "Israeli" intelligence has of course played a vital role in supporting these proxy efforts to crush Al-Shabab (84), and the Zionist entity, through its shipping mega-firm ZIM, has even clashed with Somali pirates before, shooting them for attempting to stop a Jewish occupation ship from contaminating their waters with harsh chemicals (85). On April 27th, 2012, a US terror drone hammered Somalia's southwestern region of Gedo, leaving at least 22 people murdered and dozens of others injured (86). Just two weeks later on May 11th, America's remote-controlled death machines hit Somalia again, this time murdering more than 38 people in the southwestern district of Badade (87). It is utterly miraculous that Bab-el-Mandeb, the strategic waterway between Somalia and Yemen, hasn't changed colors from blue to red from all of the innocent Somali blood spilled.

Abraham Karem: the Jewish-Zionist maniac who invented the Predator Drone, the machine of death currently tormenting Somalia.

NEVER SHOULD IT BE FORGOTTEN that the perverted mind that gave the world the Predator drone was a Jewish one. Abraham Karem, who served in the Air Force of the "Israeli" occupation army for 9 years, is considered to be the man, or rather, the Zionist parasite, who "changed the way the United States wages war." Karem gave birth to the Predator drone in 1980 in his home in Hacienda Heights, California, after emigrating from Jewish-occupied Palestine (88). The warmongering Zionist Jew wreaked havoc on the Palestinian people as an occupation soldier and now continues that legacy vicariously through his twisted and murderous mechanical creation, which wreaks havoc on innocents all over the world, including Somalia. Moreover, even before Karem fathered the Predator (aptly named considering the predatory natures of Jewry and Zionism), going back to at least 1970, "Israel" was manufacturing drone technology. In fact, the Jewish "state" can be considered the "drone godfather" and first deployed drones in Lebanon in 1982. The Zionist entity accounts for 41% of all drones exported worldwide, its drones are used by at least 24 countries and it maintains a network of front companies to "judaize" security establishments the world over (89), just like it is "judaizing" occupied al-Quds. Therefore, it can be said, unequivocally, that Somalia's drone torment is Jewish at the root.

Jewish-Zionist fanatic Michael Chertoff: author of the Patriot Act, 9/11 conspirator and godfather of Somalia's plight.

WHILE SOMALIA HAS BEEN OCCUPIED by AU-UN forces since 2006, its humanitarian crisis was manufactured several years before that; 5 years before that exactly, just weeks after the September 11th massacre in New York City. Drought and famine are maliciously widespread, with women and children being the main victims of this weaponization of human catastrophe, public health care has all but collapsed, food aid has been suspended and millions of Somalis have been displaced inside and outside of their homeland. And it is all because of the Patriot Act, as well as all of the other "counter-terrorism laws" just like it that followed, which have enforced sanctions against "terrorist entities" (read: Resistance groups) like Al-Shabab and crippled humanitarian organizations (90). The Patriot Act is the work of Jewish-Zionist war criminal Michael Chertoff, "son of Mossad", who wrote it many years before the "Israeli" false flag attack on September 11th, which he was a primary organizer of, and who had it edited just before it passed in Congress to ensure all Zionist-linked firms that participated in the 9/11 event were protected from prosecution (91). Somalia's humanitarian woes are also Jewish at the root, making Al-Shabab's Resistance (and eventual victory over) these Zionist-backed invaders all the more important.

There is truly no end to the rape of Africa by the Jewish exploitation machine. What has been written here may be even more detailed, more abyssal than the previous Mask of Zion report, but it is by no means the alpha and omega; books, masses of books, can be written about what "Israel" and its Jewish internationals have done to the African continent. "Israeli" MK Michael Ben-Ari, Jewish supremacist, ethnic cleansing and mass murder advocate and protégé of the loathsome "Israeli"-Jewish terrorist founder of the JDL Rabbi Meir Kahane (92), shockingly admitted in a recent interview that, "In Africa, we caused people to be slaughtered because we were money-hungry (93)." Indeed that is what many Jews involved in the plunder of Africa may be, but this is about geopolitics. This is about the execution of Zionist stratagems and Ben-Ari knows it.

The much-discussed Chabadnik war criminal Dan Gertler is now linked to blood diamond dealing in the Southern African nation of Angola, and he has recently launched new projects in the Congo to finance more illegal Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank (94). "Israeli" billionaire war criminal Beny Steinmetz, a buddy-like associate of Gertler, just took over a massive mining plant in Sierra Leone called Koidu Holdings and referred to his new blood diamond operation as the "the future (95)." In Mali, an initiative of Jewish cultural imperialism has been launched, with big-name "Israeli" and Malian musicians collaborating to defy the BDS movement and normalize the crimes of the "Israeli" occupation army (96).

The Zionist entity has also fully restored its diplomatic ties with the West African nation of Ghana (97), more than four decades after Mossad overthrew Ghanaian founding father and cherished leader Kwame Nkrumah in its secret war with the Chinese Secret Intelligence Service (CSIS). The usurping Jewish entity would end the war with CSIS after the "Nkrumah Affair" and then forge an alliance with it to curtail Soviet influence in Africa, as per the policy designed by Meir Amit to keep superpowers divided and weakened in the name of "Jewish survival". Mossad would do just that in the years following, pitting Chinese operatives against Russian operatives and using Africa as the battleground (98).

Field Marshall Dedan Kimathi Waciuri: Kenyan revolutionary who defied Rothschild-funded British colonialism and gave his life for the freedom of his nation.

55 YEARS AGO, KENYAN FREEDOM FIGHTER and legendary revolutionary Field Marshall Dedan Kimathi Waciuri was hung by the Rothschild-financed British colonial regime, one of at least 1,090 Kenyans executed in this manner during the 1950s, along with 300,000 other Kenyans thrown into British concentration camps (99), like the Boers and their indigenous comrades before them who fought Jewish domination. Field Marshall Kimathi was murdered for one reason and one reason only: he resisted his oppressors and utterly refused to compromise this dedicated stance.

He chose dignity over humiliation. Liberation over subjugation. Death over a life in slavery. It is this kind of steadfastness that the African continent needs now, maybe more so than ever before. Without it, the Jewish exploitation machine will continue onward with its rampage throughout Africa, leaving an oceanic trail of blood in its tracks. With it however, the Resistance will be triumphant, in honor of Field Marshall Kimathi and all of the martyrs before him and after him, from Rwanda to Libya, Somalia to Egypt, Algeria to Gambia and every nation in between. And the Zionist infestation of Africa will not only be counteracted, but prevented from manifesting itself ever again.

~ The End ~

Sources:

(1) The Zionist Infestation Of Africa: Zimbabwe To Uganda, Congo To Somalia And Beyond by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(2) 'West, Zionist Aid South Sudan Against Sudan, Muslims' by Press TV

(3) Natalie Portman Shills For The Zionist War Machine And Spews Lies On Syria: Jewish Hollywood's Power In Action by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(4) Will Nile Water Go To Israel? North Sinai Pipelines And The Politics Of Scarcity by Ronald Bleier, Middle East Policy (September 1997, Volume V, Number 3, Pages 113-124)

(5) CECI Links Political Instability To Fumbling Water Market by Billie Frenkel, Ynet

(6) Overcoming Zionism: Creating A Single Democratic State In Israel/Palestine; Chapter 5: Facts On The Ground, Section – Making The Desert Desolate, Page 113 by Professor Joel Kovel, Pluto Press

(7) Overcoming Zionism: Creating A Single Democratic State In Israel/Palestine; Chapter 5: Facts On The Ground, Section – Making The Desert Desolate, Pages 110-111 by Professor Joel Kovel, Pluto Press

(8) The French Have Called It A "Water Occupation" Against The Palestinians... Now Britain Helps The Water Thieves by Stuart Littlewood, The People's Voice

(9) Israel's Siege On Gaza: "Blue Baby Syndrome" From Water Contamination by Palestine Video

(10) Who Killed Gamal Abdul Nasser? by Sami Moubayed, Intifada Palestine

(11) Sectarianism And Its Discontents by Professor Joseph Massad, Al-Ahram Online

(12) Progressive Versus Reactionary Islam by Professor As'ad AbuKhalil, Al-Akhbar English

(13) Occupied Iraq: New Year, Same Zionism by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(14) The Alexandria Church Bombing: Mossad, Who Else? by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(15) Libya: The Zionist Dragon And The Drums Of War by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(16) PSYWAR: The Fake Fall Of Tripoli And The Zionist Dragon's Butchery Across Palestine II by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(17) A Strategy For Israel In The Nineteen Eighties by Oded Yinon, Kivunim

(18) The Case Of Uri Avnery II: Hasbara, Supremacism And The Future Of Solidarity by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(19) PSYWAR: The Fake Fall Of Tripoli And The Zionist Dragon's Butchery Across Palestine I by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(20) Massacre In Norway: Mossad Strikes Again Under 'Lone Gunman' Cover by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(21) Libya: Water Emerges As A Hidden Weapon by Simba Russeau, Inter Press Service

(22) The National Front For The Salvation Of Libya And Its Faux-Revolutionary Poster Child by Martin Iqbal, Empire Strikes Black

(23) There's No Business Like War Business by Pepe Escobar, The Asia Times

(24) No Boycotts Here: Veolia's Booming Business From OPT To KSA by Saleh Al Amer, Jadaliyya

(25) Flow: For The Love Of Water (2008); 25:18-25:50 mark of the documentary by Irena Salina, Oscilloscope Pictures

(26) Vivendi's Levy Gets Cash Cow With EU7.95 Billion SFR Deal by Matthew Campbell, Bloomberg

(27) Water Conflicts Move Up On U.S. Security Agenda Carey L. Biron InterPress Service

(28) Jewish At The Root: Iraq's Destruction, Hell Weapons, Hatred, Networking And The Interconnectedness Of It All by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(29) South Sudan, World's Youngest Nation, Develops Unlikely Friendship With Israel by Armin Rosen, Jewish Telegraph Agency

(30) US, Israel Sign MOU On Agro Aid To Africa by Ynet

(31) Israel 'Feeds The Future' In Africa by Rachel Hirshfield, Arutz Sheva

(32) Arab Experts Predict Mideast Water Wars by United Press International

(33) The Geopolitics Behind The Rwandan Genocide: Paul Kagame Accused Of War Crimes by Professor Michel Chossudovsky, Global Research

(34) Western Involvement In The Rwandan Genocide by Andrew Gavin Marshall, Global Research

(35) PENTAGON SATELLITE PHOTOS: New Revelations Concerning "The Rwandan Genocide" by Keith Harmon Snow, Global Research

(36) Apocalypse In Central Africa: Pentagon, Genocide, War On Terror by Keith Harmon Snow, Bein Lubero Online

(37) Israeli Spymaster And Mossad Founding Father David Kimche Dies At 82 by Yossi Melman, Haaretz

(38) President Paul Kagame Concludes Visit To Israel by The New Times (Rwanda)

(39) Rwanda Accuses Hotel Rwanda Hero Of 'Double Genocide Theory' by Ann Garrison, Global Research

(40) Supermob: How Sidney Korshak And His Criminal Associates Became America's Hidden Power Brokers; Chapter 2: From Lawndale To The Seneca... To The Underworld, Section – Hollywood Escapades, Pages 51-53 by Gus Russo, Bloomsbury USA

(41) Supermob: How Sidney Korshak And His Criminal Associates Became America's Hidden Power Brokers; Chapter 18: From Dutch Sandwiches To Dutch Reagan, Section – Where Were They When Capone Needed Them?, Pages 405-406 by Gus Russo, Bloomsbury USA

(42) Supermob: How Sidney Korshak And His Criminal Associates Became America's Hidden Power Brokers; Chapter 11: The New Frontier, Section – Sidney Korshak – Double Agent, Pages 263-264 by Gus Russo, Bloomsbury USA

(43) The Real Reason Bill Clinton Pardoned Marc Rich by Joe Conason, Salon

(44) The World According To Glencore by Ken Silverstein, Foreign Policy

(45) The Billionaire Would-Be Oleh by Nadav Shemer, The Jerusalem Post
(46) A Giant Among Giants by Ken Silverstein, Foreign Policy

(47) Mining Giant Glencore Accused In Child Labour And Acid Dumping Row by John Sweeney, The Guardian

(48) Glencore Restarts Output At Shut Zambia Plant by Chris Mfula, Reuters

(49) Glencore Heads To Namibia For Latest African Acquisition by Roger Murray, The Africa Report

(50) Glencore: A Finger In Every Pie by Gregory Mthembu-Salter, The Africa Report

(51) The Boer War Remembered by Mark Weber, The Institute For Historical Review

(52) Ofergate: The Latest Zionist Propaganda Blitz Against Iran by Jonathan Azaziah, Mask of Zion

(53) Iran And Israel In Africa: A Search For Allies In A Hostile World by The Economist

(54) Prosor: Western Africa Is Hizbullah's Power Base by Gabe Kahn, Arutz Sheva

(55) Thumbs Up For Israel/Gambia Relations by The Point (Gambia)

(56) Gambia Cuts Ties With Iran, Expels Iranian Diplomats by Chana Ya'ar, Arutz Sheva

(57) Gambia: Israeli "Spy" Absconds From Gambia After Cover Blown by Freedom Newspaper (Gambia)

(58) Gambia: What Is An Israeli Doing At The NDEA? by Freedom Newspaper (Gambia)

(59) Israel Admits Stockpiling Nuclear Weapons by Jean Shaoul, World Socialist Web Site

(60) Mauritania Formally Severs Diplomatic Relations With Israel by Haaretz

(61) Mauritania Says Nabbed 'Biggest Mossad Spy Ring' In Its History by Eli Leon, Israel Hayom

(62) Report: Mossad Web Tied To Mabhouh Hit Found In Mauritania by The Jerusalem Post

(63) Slavery's Last Stronghold: CNN Digital Investigates Slavery In Mauritania by CNN

(64) Self-Serving Propagandists: The American Anti-Slavery Group and Sudan by Dr. M. Amir Ali, Institute Of Islamic Information and Education

(65) Israel's Secret Wars: A History Of Israel's Intelligence Services; Chapter 6 – Great Leaps Forward: 1956-67, Section – The French Connection, Pages 172-173 by Ian Black and Benny Morris, Grove Press

(66) Final Judgment: The Missing Link In The JFK Assassination Conspiracy*; Chapter Five – Genesis: JFK's Secret War With Israel, Page 53 by Michael Collins Piper, American Free Press

(67) Final Judgment: The Missing Link In The JFK Assassination Conspiracy; Chapter Fifteen – The Twain Shall Meet – The Permindex Mystery: Israel, The CIA, The Lansky Crime Syndicate And The Plot To Kill John F. Kennedy, Pages 199-202 by Michael Collins Piper, American Free Press

(68) Algerian Jailed For Spying For Israel: Lawyers by Reuters

(69) Algeria Bombing - 11 Means "Israel" by Christopher Bollyn, Rumor Mill News

(70) Report: Algeria Arrests Mossad Agent With Fake Spanish Passport by Haaretz

(71) Report: Israel Intensifies Intelligence Efforts In Algeria by Al Bawaba News

(72) Algerian Separatist Leader's Visit To Israel Stirs Controversy by Ramadane Belmari, Al Arabiya

(73) Israel TV Programme Suggests Need To Investigate Algeria's "Nuclear Weapons" by Middle East Monitor

(74) The Moroccan Connection by Xavier Cornut, The Jerusalem Post

(75) Gideon's Spies: The Secret History Of Mossad; Chapter 7: The Gentleman Spy, Page 138 by Gordon Thomas, Thomas Dunne Books

(76) Israelis "Trained Moroccan Agents" by Eric Silver, The Independent

(77) Gideon's Spies: The Secret History Of Mossad; Chapter 7: The Gentleman Spy, Pages 138-141 by Gordon Thomas, Thomas Dunne Books

(78) King Hassan Of Morocco: World Leaders Mourn A Ruthless Despot by Jean Shaoul, World Socialist Web Site

(79) Ha Ha Ha: An Israeli Chased Out Of Morocco by Professor As'ad AbuKhalil, The Angry Arab News Service

(80) EU Attacks Coastal Somali Village by Jason Ditz, Antiwar.com

(81) You Are Being Lied To About Pirates by Johann Hari, The Independent

(82) Blogger Shines Light On U.S. Shadow War In East Africa by David Axe, Wired

(83) U.S. Intensifies Its Proxy Fight Against Al-Shabab In Somalia by Craig Whitlock, The Washington Post

(84) Imperialist-Backed Conferences Set Stage For Intervention In Somalia And Syria by Abayomi Azikiwe, Empire Strikes Black

(85) Israeli Security Guards Foil Pirate Attack Off Somalia Zohar Blumenkrantz, Haaretz

(86) US Drone Attack In SW Somalia Kills At Least 22 by Press TV

(87) 'US Drone Strike Kills 38, Injures Dozens In Somalia' by Press TV

(88) Rise Of The Drone: From Calif. Garage To Multibillion-Dollar Defense Industry by Peter Finn, The Washington Post

(89) Israel's Drone Dominance by Jefferson Morley, Salon

(90) Somali Famine Victims Fell Prey To US Policy: Analyst by Press TV

(91) 9/11: Israel's Masterpiece by Lost Scribe Media

(92) Who Is Michael Ben-Ari? by The Institute For Middle East Understanding

(93) VIDEO: Ben-Ari: Israel Caused "Slaughter" In Africa For Money by The Blue Pilgrimage

(94) An Israeli Tycoon, The Virgin Islands, And Africa's Blood Diamonds by Jason Stearns, Christian Science Monitor

(95) Sierra Leone's "Blood Diamonds" Not Forever by Mark Doyle, BBC

(96) Coming To Africa: Israeli Musician Collaborates With Mali's Vieux Farka Toure by Alexander Gelfand, The Jewish Daily Forward

(97) Ghana Renews Diplomatic Ties With Israel by Ronen Medzini, Ynet

(98) Gideon's Spies: The Secret History Of Mossad; Chapter 13: African Connections, Pages 249-250 by Gordon Thomas, Thomas Dunne Books

(99) Kenyans Honor Liberation Hero Dedan Kimathi by Stephen Millies, Workers World

Posted: by Mask Of Zion at 12:23 AM

Labels: Africa, Algeria, Egypt, Glencore, International Zionism, Jewish Exploitation, Libya, Mossad, Rwanda, Sudan, USAID, Zionist Crimes Against Humanity, Zionist Water Wars

^ 26 comments:

Abu-Suleyman May 29, 2012 at 2:03 PM long but very good quality!

Den June 1, 2012 at 9:54 PM Ditto! Hi; I was in East Africa (Kenya) for a couple of years. My associate at the time, a local "Asian" (Muslim Indian of Mombassa), who frequently was in Nairobi had been close to an ISRAELI who worked as a security officer (carrying 9mm Parabellum/NATO BERETTA Semi-Auto whose license was obtained from the local authority).

This Indian chap informed me that in NOVEMBER 1996 the Kenyan authority/intelligence service conducted a "trial" of intercepting ALL facsimile communications of all foreign embassies/Missions in NAIROBI! And it was assisted by the MOSSAD!!!

A young, unmarried para-commando look like young ISRAELI, a MOSSAD guy I strongly suspected, all of a sudden stayed right next to the townhouse where my family and I rented during the last two years of our stay in Nairobi (sharing walls!), so he could easily did crude eavesdropping on my communications with some authorities/intel guys in JAKARTA then.

^ Yusuf (Joe) Jussac, Jr. a.k.a unclejoe C me at www.scribd.com/tjoaginsing

https://www.scribd.com/user/272535/Yusuf-Joe-Jussac-Jr-a-k-a-unclejoe rubyinthedust May 29, '12 10:06p very comprehensive work, included much info that was unknown to me. One suggestion: Change that photo of Michael Chertoff. With that light around his skull (like a halo) even with radiating lines makes this look like a portrait of a Catholic saint, i.e. someone to admire, and Chertoff is certainly no holyman...Maybe it was planned that way, to fool the masses, so for that reason I'd change it.

rmstock June 1, 2012 at 3:33 PM My message to Ambassador Susan E. Rice N/A http://usun.state.gov/leadership/c31461.htm

Subject: The Corporate Infestation Of Africa Revisited: The More Details, The More Devils Dear Mrs. Rice, I'd like to invite you to read and go over the summation of atrocities committed in Africa over the last two decades and arrive at renewed conclusions when observing the peculiar interests of Israeli lobby groups in Washington DC to convince the US President to take down Iran, like another Iraq, Syria or Libya.
^ "The Zionist Infestation Of Africa Revisited: The More Details, The More Devils" by Jonathan Azaziah, Monday, May 28, 2012 http://www.maskofzion.com/
http://www.maskofzion.com/2012/05/zionist-infestation-of-africa-revisited.html

If only half of the above report is true, Israeli objectives towards Iran will be put on hold permanently, because of pending lawsuits of war crimes and crimes against humanity. Yours Sincerely, Robert Stockmann

Anonymous June 2, 2012 at 7:09 PM Excellent letter. Mr. Stockman but... good luck getting a reply. This article is another tour de force by Mr. Azaziah who deserves as wide a readership as possible. Maybe, just maybe more Americans will wake up from their insensate slumber. The late George Carlin tried to teach us why our ignorance was so important to the "owners" of the country:

^ George Carlin: Execute the Bankers VIDEO "George Carlin - Death Penalty" https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qDO6HV6xTmI
http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article31492.htm

Noor al Haqiqa June 4, 2012 at 12:25 PM Another excellent piece, 'Ziah.

Posted of course. As always your insights leave me with too much meat to chew in a single sitting....

Anonymous June 5, 2012 at 12:53 AM Another brilliant, well-researched article. Thank you, Jonathan!

"He slammed Jewish Hollywood as a prime mover and shaker against Sudan and accurately noted that the “Save Darfur” campaign was the product of several powerful American Jewish organizations." Oh, how Jewish Hollywood needs to be slammed!

I recently started placing an "un" prefix in front of the word American in any Jewish group or organization's name which contains it. For example: un-American-Israeli Political Action Committee, un-American Jewish Committee, un-American Jewish Congress, etc., for it certainly has a better 'ring' to it and more importantly, reflects the true nature of the Jewish lobby's interests which, ninety-nine times out of one-hundred, does not jibe with the average American's, or for that matter, the average European's! All the best, John

WebNews June 5, 2012 at 1:07 PM An excellent site revealing Zionist crimes against Iran - very detailed and with irrefutable facts:

^ IranianFacebook.com http://iranianinfo.wordpress.com/

Unknown June 9, 2012 at 4:18 AM Congratulations Jonathan on another excellent fact filled account of the Zionist monsters takeover of the African continent. The reality of the Zionist penetration of most every country on the planet is mind boggling in its breadth and scope. These fanatics who are determined to implement the Protocols of Zion completely are almost beyond contempt. Thank the lord there are a few quality journalists who do the research and bring us the true picture. Bless you Adversario June 10, 2012 at 1:05 PM What do you think about the situation in Congo/Zaire and particularly Laurent Kabila, former president of Congo after Mobutu Sese Seko (Kabila renamed the country, formerly Zaire to Democratic Republic of Congo). He was killed in very strange circumstances...

I don´t know much about him, but he overthrew corrupted US-backed puppet-dictator Mobutu in 1997 and a couple of years later, in January 2001 he was killed "by one of his bodyguards"... Greetings!

Mask Of Zion June 11, 2012 at 7:11 PM Greetings brother Adversario,

Thank you for stopping by and reading my brother.

I discussed the Congo at greater length in my first piece, "The Zionist Infestation of Africa: Zimbabwe to Uganda, Congo to Somalia and Beyond". For an overall view though, you can check my source here: http://dissidentvoice.org/2008/02/gertlers-bling-bang-torah-gang/

Kabila was a bought-and-paid-for puppet of the Jewish supremacist gangster blood diamond tycoon Dan Gertler. It is sad that so many African leaders have fallen into the Zionist trap. Blessings, ~ Ziah

Barry June 14, 2012 at 7:55 PM Just read this one. Terrific! Bravo! The Somali pirates are freedom fighters stopping illegal dumping! How did you come up with that? Not even the pirates claim that. You must have made it up during one of your Jew hating fever dreams.
There are so many lies, distortions, half-truths and full-on psychoses in this article, I cannot hope to do it true justice. So I will just say that in the annals of hatred, there is no Nazi or Cossack or Crusader or Jihadi who hates nearly as well as you.
I am sending this to my friends. While we plot to dominate the world, it will give us real insights into the one and only mind that truly understands us. Huzzah!

Mask Of Zion June 15, 2012 at 7:53 PM Barry, Your diatribe has done nothing but reinforce numerous pieces that I and persons far more experienced than I have written: you and your ilk have a complete and total incapability of responding to anything even remotely critical of your behavior without launching into full-blown ad hominem mode and ignoring any and all documentation of said misbehavior or outright criminality. It is hysterical Jewish delusion at its finest. You don't even realize how sad and pathetic that you are.

There isn't a single "lie, distortion, half-truth" or anything of the sort in this piece, everything is well-sourced and accounted for, mostly from Jewish and Zionist outlets. But you're not interested in facts, are you? You're only interested in smearing because that is what resonates within your very tribal being.

If you had any interest in the said facts, you would know that it was International Jewry that declared war on the "Nazis", not the other way around, and National Socialist Germany merely fought a war of defense against globalist Jewish aggression; you would know that the Cossacks, led by the legendary Bohdan Khmelnytsky, rose up against ALL of their oppressors from 1648-1656, including and most especially the Jewish usurers and landlords who had tormented them for over a century, and you would know that there were Jews amongst Khmelnystsky's revolutionaries who had suffered at the hands of Jewish elites too. And "crusader"? And "Jihadi"? It is stunning how your hasbara never changes, truly stunning.

Tell your "friends" at the ADL, SPLC, JIDF, ZOA and all of the rest that their day in hell is coming. ~ Ziah

Anonymous July 22, 2012 at 9:19 AM You can say that again, and again.
Great Work Jonathan. Bismillah Davy

Anonymous August 24, 2012 at 5:21 AM Fantastic Jonathon I hope to that they all do burn in hell forever,, it's not like there's no facts or no proof it's all there Clementino Gonsalves Unmasked June 16, 2012 at 8:52 AM The Wikipedia entry for the Bantustan of Bophuthatswana can provide some useful "starting points" for further investigation into the ties between the old South Africa and the Zionist Entity. This topic can cause some discomfort to certain people, particularly white nationalists, who view pre-1994 South Africa as an opponent rather than a component of the NWO.

Clementino Gonsalves Unmasked June 16, 2012 at 8:52 AM

^ Bophuthatswana WIKI http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bophuthatswana

Mask Of Zion June 16, 2012 at 9:04 AM Peace and blessings brother Clementino, Thank you so much for this little nugget and you are absolutely correct in your comment. I dealt heavily with the ties between Pretoria and Tel Aviv in my first piece on the Jewish aggression against the African continent, "The Zionist Infestation of Africa: Zimbabwe to Uganda, Congo to Somalia and Beyond", and the ties are indeed exceedingly vast. Many of our white nationalist comrades unfortunately are unwilling to see how deeply connected apartheid South Africa and the usurping Zionist entity were because of racial solidarity and this is certainly the incorrect position.

This is not to say that the Rothschild-financed British genocide against the Boers was right, or that the great number of Zionist Jews who were part of and came to domineer the anti-apartheid struggle were good persons, they obviously weren't and were actually very detrimental to a just cause (as they always are), we are simply saying that Pretoria was a very dirty regime that was no more than another puppet of international Zionism. I would never support the filthy monarchies of Morocco, Jordan or any of the GCC scoundrels just because they are Arab and I am Arab; our white nationalist comrades should learn this lesson. What can we do but spread the truth and say God willing? Thank you again for stopping by. Regards, ~ Ziah Clementino Unmasked June 17, 2012 at 12:45 PM Salaam brother Jonathan and thank you for your kind reply. I fully agree with your take on this subject and admire your skill at synthesis of complex topics such as this one and fitting the pieces of the puzzle to create a picture clear for all to see.

Another aspect of the Apartheid-Zionism relationship which may merit some investigation is the Calvinist theology which guided the apartheid regime and the tendency towards a strong identification with Jews-Israel-Zionism amongst many Calvinist Protestants who subscribe to the idea of predestination and apply literal interpretations of the Old Testament.

Nysoulcontrolla aka Ali July 21, 2012 at 6:02 AM aslaamu alaikum my brother, I'm editor at thenakedfacts.blogspot...I was wondering if you can do a follow up piece of Syria...your last ones were amazing...see this btw.
^ Explosive-Israhell Tool, Zionist Jewish AIPAC Lackey, CIA, Saudi, GCC Turkish...The Secret Battle For Syria by Ambassador Marc Ginsberg

http://thenakedfacts.blogspot.com/2012/07/explosive-israhell-toolzionist-jewish.html

Nysoulcontrolla aka Ali July 21, 2012 at 8:17 AM

^ UK Special Forces Train Syria's Armed Rebels

http://thenakedfacts.blogspot.com/2012/07/uk-special-forces-train-syrias-armed.html
The Mail admitted that[[[[[[[leaders of armed terror groups in Syria have been trained by former SAS soldiers]]]]]] as it claimed that the government of Syrian President Bashar Al Assad would be toppled within four weeks ^ Syria Watch-U.S. Military "West Point Graduate" Speaks Out ,Blames Us Gov't And GCC … "Adil" Means "Just" in Arabic by James Ryan http://thenakedfacts.blogspot.com/2012/07/syria-watch-adil-means-just-in-arabic.html
ALSO GOOGLE THESYRIACONSPIRACYARCHIVE...FEEL FREE USE ANYTHING THERE,OR THENAKEDFACTS.BLOGSPOT THEY ARE MINE.AND ID BE HONORED..

Nysoulcontrolla aka Ali August 1, 2012 at 7:58 AM

SALAAM BROTHER...HERE IS MY NEW VIDEO...HOPE YOU ENJOY IT... THE SYRIA CONSPIRACY THE FINAL NAILS IN CONSPIRATORS COFFINS

^ The Syria Conspiracy the Final Nails In the Conspirators Coffins

9:01 https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3rI9Wvw_7h4

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3rI9Wvw_7h4&list=UUD9TSNMttZplOZ4uF4ytDiQ&index=1&feature=plcp

pedraonewarkbrix 1,272 views Published on Jul 31, 2012

This Is Part 1 Of 2 Parts (Second In Works)...I'm Editor At http://thenakedfacts.blogspot.com/ http://thesyriaconspiracyarchives.blo... http://urukfraudexposed.blogspot.com/
http://irangreenmovementexposed.blogs...

My Other Syria Videos Prior To These Are... Syria False Flag http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WJVzMn...

Syria Conspiracy Part 1 http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zsbIZV...

Part 2 http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wFAVCK...\

I Dedicate This To All The Truthers Who Have Exposed The Conspiracy Against Syria, Sister Penny From Pennyforyourthougths2, My Brother From Uprootedpalestinians, Daniel Mabsout, Catalina, Silvia, Navid Nasr, And The Many More Who Struggle To Get This Important Information Out...Ill Do One More Part After This One...''We Must Stop NATO-GCC, Zionazis, Globalists From Even Gaining One Inch Of Syria''

1 Comment

SHOWS WOLFOWITZ, AND LIZ CHENEY CLAIMING IRAQ WMDS IN SYRIA AND WOLF'S ADVOCATING INTERVNETION AND MUCH MORE..

Anonymous September 15, 2012 at 8:52 AM I am a Long time researcher into this matter...and this is one of the best Article I have yet seen, concerning the range and extent of Zionism....it Leaves me Hungry for more....and by all means...send me more...hvac.doctor@live.com brian boru November 8, 2012 at 7:54 AM This monstrous parasitic life-form is responsible for more human death and suffering and cultural and environmental destruction than all people on earth combined. Unless we accept our differences and unite to resist and defeat it there will never be peace and human evolution on the planet. These demons in human form are a threat to all people and all life. Your assessment of what they have done in Africa is excellent. Congratulations!

brian boru November 8, 2012 at 7:54 AM This monstrous parasitic life-form is KP Ryan December 5, 2012 at 6:52 PM Great work - detailed and penetrating.

A true scourge upon the world is Zionism in all its manifestations.

R A
Jan 10

Aujourd'hui 10 janvier 2023, le Bénin célèbre la journée nationale du vodou. Chaque 10 janvier, le peuple béninois met en avant son patrimoine culturel avec la célébration de sa religion ancestrale. Happy Vodouday 2023

#radarpress #benin #vodou

8.6K 2.1K comments 3.3K shares

Like Comment Share

3,366 shares

Write a comment...

Author

R A

https://www.radarpress.net/news-et-people/la-mere-du-suppose-enfant-cache-darafat-dj-brise-le-silence-et-clarifie-les-choses-merci-de-cesser-de/

La mère du supposé enfant caché d'Arafat...
radarpress.net

4

3 wks Like Reply More

Côte d'Ivoire... replied · 1 reply

View more comments...

1.1K 175 comments 40 shares

Like Comment

40 shares

Write a comment...

Romaric Tiogo
Ils doivent se repentir. Jesus-Christ est le chemin, la vérité et la vie. 100

See translation
3 wks Like Reply More

Alex Latchimy replied · 42 replies

View more comments…

1.5K 294 comments 105 shares

Like Comment

105 shares

Write a comment...

Saoudien Walid
BÉNINOIS FIER Bonne fête de Vodou a tous #La Religion andogéne laissé par nos grands parents prenons soin de ça . 26

See translation
3 wks Like Reply More

Saoudien Walid replied · 4 replies

View more comments…

1.2K 114 comments 36 shares

Like Comment

36 shares

Write a comment...

Jocelyne Amira Emmanuella

C'est dans mon village je suis Beninois j ai grandi avec ses gens la il y des vrai et aussi des faut 16

See translation

3 wks Like Reply More

Chenn Zen replied · 6 replies

View more comments…

956

103 comments 22 shares

Like Comment

22 shares

Write a comment...

Lewis Pereira

..I want these Voudou People to put a spell and some brains in the skulls of our corrupt African leaders and make them stop worshipping White people or accept bribes from them !

2 wks Like Reply More

View more comments…

1.6K

432 comments 50 shares

Like Comment

50 shares

Write a comment...

Fidel Kouakou Dje

Hoo Dieu que ta miséricorde et ton amour pour cette belle demoiselle afin qu'elle soit libérée de cette emprise au Nom de Jésus Christ !!!

234

See translation

3 wks Like Reply More

Linda Moussavou replied · 44 replies

View more comments…

866

70 comments 20 shares

Like Comment

20 shares

Write a comment...

Nadia Nadinha

Ça là, son face to face dans une rue très sombre vers 3h du matin 72

See translation

3 wks Like Reply More

Ange Degou replied · 11 replies

View more comments…

825

23 comments 21 shares

Like Comment

21 shares

Write a comment...

Emily Atidepe
Egou du Benin et Nigeria 1

See translation
3 wks Like Reply More

View more comments…

703 4 comments 8 shares

Like Comment

8 shares

Write a comment...

Nanan Dammoh
Zangbèto 1

3 wks Like Reply More

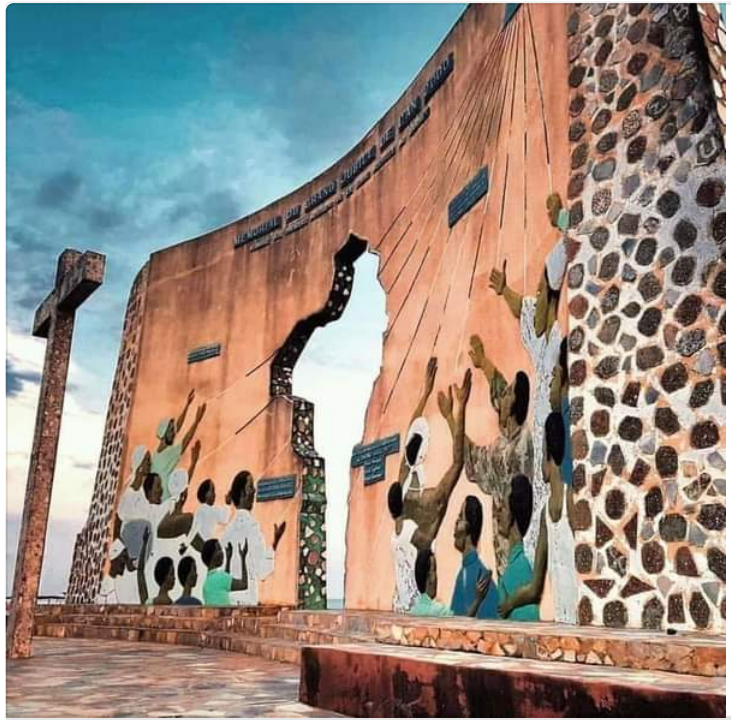
View more comments…

822 11 comments 14 shares

Like Comment

14 shares



Write a comment...

Ismaël Bofia
Chez nous les Bafia du Cameroun ont les appels "GANG" 2

See translation
3 wks Like Reply More

Ismaël Bofia replied · 6 replies

View more comments…

1.3K 149 comments 25 shares

Like Comment

25 shares

Write a comment...

Michel Aubenas

La porte du non retour..a ouidah...(j'entends encore l'écho des pleurs..et je Sens toujours...les larmes de déchirement..de douleurs.. d'incompréhension.... comment un être peut il traîter un autre être semblable à lui de cette manière... j'entends toujours l'écho des sanglots...et la voix des plus courageux.. empreinte de peine et de douleurs.... timbrée d'amertume....i ls le savent déjà.. jamais plus ils ne reverrons la terre de nos ancêtres

34

See translation

3 wks Like Reply More

Michel Aubenas replied · 18 replies

View more comments…

Hosny Blal
27 Dec 2022

#190 / أمسية
..أسبلة وسبيل
و كُتّاب فى التاريخ
~~~~~~~~~~~

سبيل
(حسن ياقوت)
بالإسكندرية يعد سبيل مياه حسن ياقوت في منطقة
الباب الأخضر التابعة لحي
الجمرك هو سبيل تاريخي في
مدينة الإسكندرية الموجود الآن.
وتاريخ السبيل تعدى عمره (108 عام)والذي لم تقم.الآثار.بتسجيله
حتى الآن رغم قيمته التاريخية
ويقع السبيل في أقدم المناطق التي توجد بها عدد من ألاماكن أثرية تاريخيّة و(سبيل حسن ياقوت) الموجود في منطقة الباب الأخضر في مبني بالقرب من
مسجد نظير ومسجد المنير ومكتوب أعلى الباب. لوحة
وتوجد لوحة اخرى رخامية بطول باب (توكلت على الله هذا السبيل أسسه حسن ياقوت عام 1335 هجريا)
منقوش عليها
آيات قرآنية
~~~~

لنا لقاء
إن شاء الله
تحياتى للجميع

20 3 comments 35 shares

Like Comment Share

35 shares

View previous comments…

Zainab Alkasemy

خسارة أن السبيل لم يسجل 1

1 mth Like Reply More

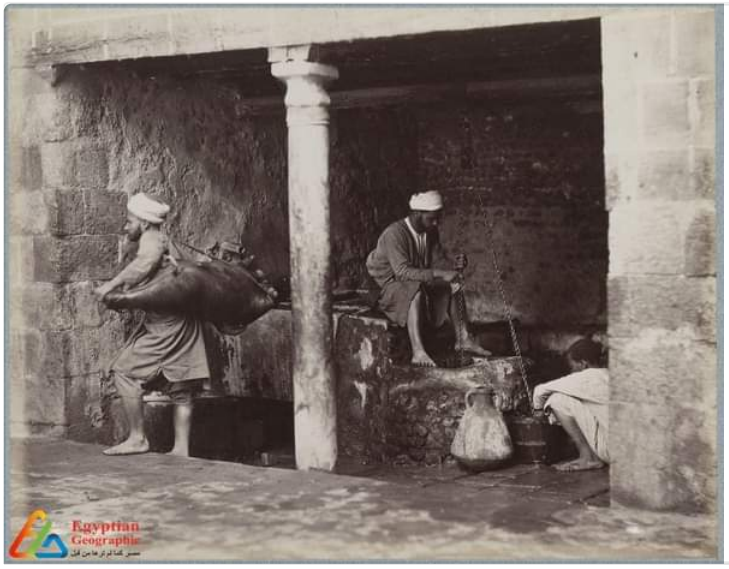
Write a comment...

صورة
ليس لها علاقة بالسيل

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...



صورة

ليس لها علاقة بالسيل

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...

صورة
ليس لها علاقة بالسيل

4

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Mysteries of
Egypt and the Nile
Secure your place now!
13 to 27 October
2023
EGYPT TOUR
14 Nights
15 Days
ANCIENT ORIGINS TOURS

UPDATED 30 DECEMBER, 2022 - 13:51 ROBBIE MITCHELL

6 Shockingly Successful Ancient Warfare Tactics

READ LATER PRINT

As long as humans have walked the Earth, they've been finding reasons to kill each other. Over time, we've gotten pretty good at it. It should come as no surprise then tha tty inventive ways to gain advantage over the enemy. Many of these st ern armies. Still, it can be pretty surprising just how creative ancient armies could be when it came to the art of killing. Here are some surprising, but often effective, ancient warfare tactics.

1.The Egyptians Lost a Major Battle Because of Cats

It's pretty much common knowledge that the ancient Egyptians adored cats. Several of their gods were depicted as cats. Mafdet, Bastet, and Sekhmet, representing justice, fertility, and power respectively, were usually depicted as cats.

Cats were seen as the protectors of Egypt. References to cats protecting Egyptians by killing venomous snakes and protecting the pharaohs can be found dating back to the First Dynasty of Egypt . No wonder the cult of the cat became so popular.

Here Is What Full Mouth Dental Implants Might Cost You in Dubai
Dental Implants Dubai | Sponsored Ads

Unfortunately for the Egyptians, their enemies weren't above using their beliefs against them. During the 6th century BC, the Egyptians were busy fighting off Persian invaders who sought to take over Egyptian lands. The fighting was brutal, and both sides were desperate for an advantage.

At the Battle of Pelusium , Persian King Cambyses II ordered his warriors to paint cats on their shields to deter the Egyptians from attacking. When the Persians mar[illegible]p of cats.

The Egyptian forces were unwilling to risk attracting the wrath of their gods and promptly surrendered to the Persians. The victory proved to be decisive, and not long after the Persians became the new rulers of Egypt. This battle is often described as one of the earliest recorded examples of psychological warfare.

eapons and Strategies of War from the Ancient World
cient History of Animals in Warfare

The Persians may have pioneered psychological warfare tactics in the 6th century BC, using the Egyptians reverence for cats against them. King Cambyses at the siege of Peluse by Paul-Marie Lenoir, oil on canvas, 1872. (Public Domain)

x

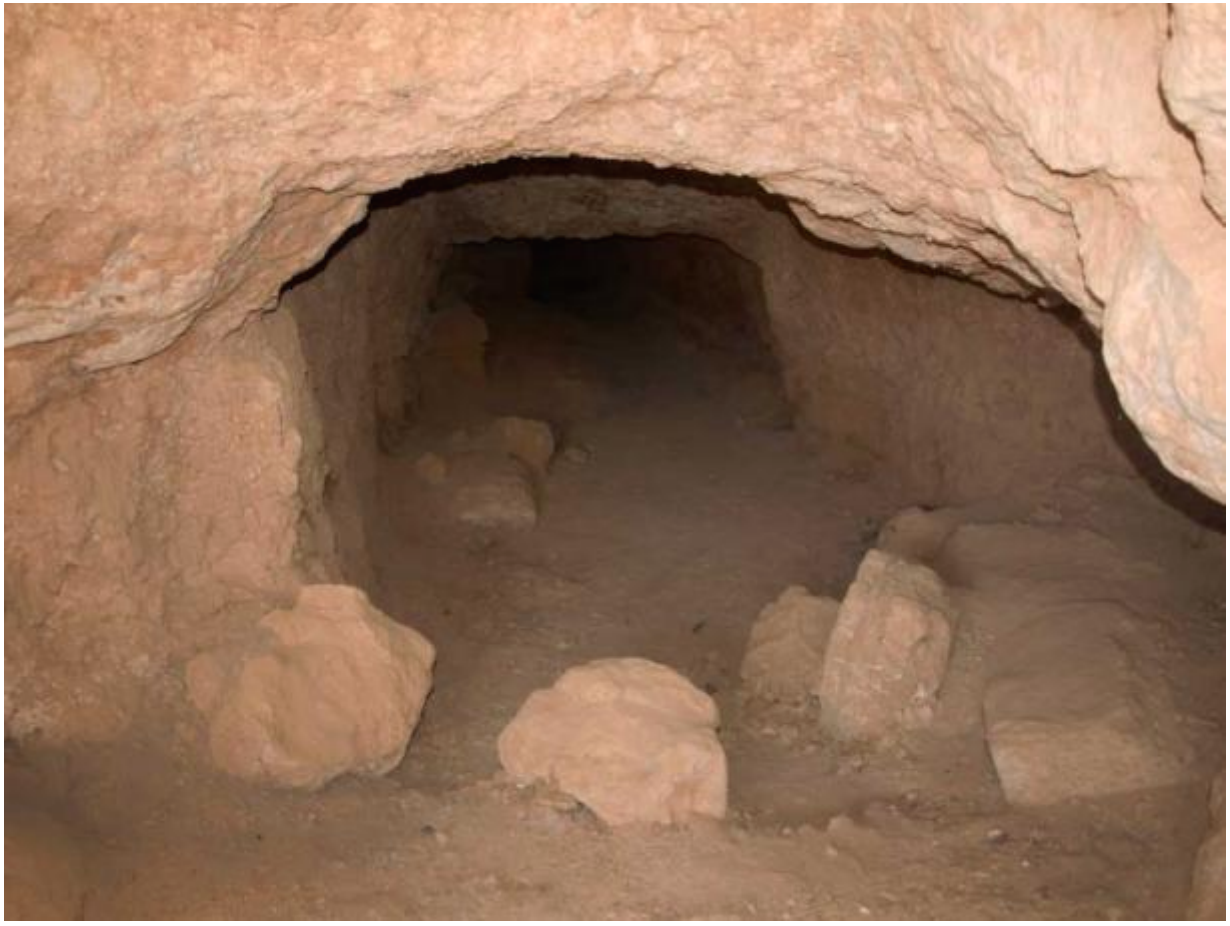
2.Chemical Warfare Has Been Around Since the 3rd Century BC

We often think of chemical warfare as being a relatively modern trend. Chemical warfare conjures up images of chlorine gas used during WWI, Agent Orange in Vietnam, or perhaps white phosphorus. We like to think ancient warfare tactics were more honorable somehow.

Wrong. The earliest evidence of chemical weapons being used in warfare dates back to around the 3rd century BC. The evidence was found at the site of Dura-Europos, located in Syria along the Euphrates River.

Dura-Europos was a Roman city that fell to the Sassanians. There are no surviving written sources that described the siege on Dura-Europos, but archaeological evidence paints a terrifying picture. It appears that the Sassanians attempted to breach the city walls by tunneling beneath them. The Romans caught on and began to dig their own tunnels as a countermeasure.

When Dura-Europos was excavated in the 1920s, the bodies of nineteen Roman soldiers and one Sasanian soldier were found in one of the tunnels. Strangely, there were no signs of battle or bloodshed. It wasn't until 2009 that historians found the answer.



It turns out the Sassanians had used toxic gas to [illegible] nnel clashed with the Sassanian tunnel, the invaders threw sulfur ar[illegible]urned into sulphuric gas when breathed in. It would only have taken a couple of minutes to kill the Romans in the tunnel.

- The Devastating and Diabolical Ancient Origins of Biological Warfare
- 1,700-Year-Old Evidence of Chemical Warfare

x

The Romans thought they were clever, tunneling under the walls of Dura-Europos, but the Sassanians filled these tunnels with deadly sulphuric gas in an early chemical warfare tactic (Marsyas / CC BY SA 3.0)

3.The Hittites Were Using Biological Warfare in 1500 BC

There is perhaps only one thing worse than chemical warfare, and that's biological warfare. Just the mere mention of biological warfare in the modern press is enough to make one's blood run cold. But just like chemical warfare, this isn't a new warfare tactic. Humans have been carrying out biological warfare against one another since ancient times.

Of course, in antiquity, they had no knowledge of bacteria or viruses, but they were smart enough to put two and two together: when people became ill, very often thos[illegible] around them soon started showing the same symptoms.

The first case of biological warfare was recorded in the Hittite texts of 1500-1200 BC. The Hittites made reference to people who were sick with tularemia being driven into enemy lands with the hope of infecting the enemy. It was devastatingly effective.

also made between the spread of disease and the rotting corpses of animals and people. As far back as 400 BC, Scythian archers were dipping their arrows in rotting bodies and feces-tainted blood. The Romans later followed suit and adopted the practice of dipping their swords in rotting blood and excrement.

Image from an illuminated manuscript depicting a Byzantine siege of a citadel. A tactic of ancient biological warfare was to hurl infected dead bodies over city walls (Public Domain)

4.The Ancient Greeks Invented a Super Weapon We Can't Replicate

Nowadays lots of people have heard of " Greek fire " also known as "sea fire". Greek fire was an ancient super weapon that to this day is shrouded in mystery. We don't k spite its name, who invented it.

According to the Greek historian Theophanes, Greek fire was invented by a Greek architect named Kallinikos in the 6th [redacted]r, there is little other evidence to back this claim up. Many historians today believe it was invented in [redacted]y the Byzantine Empire . They believe it was first created in Constantinople and was discovered by a [redacted]om the Alexandrian school.

[redacted] the weapon was terrifying. It was a liquid that was either kept in clay pots and then launched by catapult, or sent down tubes mounted on ships. Greek fire could spontaneously ignite, and once lit, it was impossible to put out. It could burn on the ocean's surface, and if water was thrown on it, it only spread further. Simply put, it created an uncontrollable inferno.

The weapon played a major role in the defeat of the Arabs during the defense of Constantinople, and later against the Venetians. Despite the weapon being so powerful, no record exists of how to make it, and scientists today have been left stumped.

A Byzantine ship using Greek fire against a ship belonging to the rebel Thomas the Slav, 821. 12th century illustration from the

5.Ancient Animal Warfare Tactics

We're all familiar with the idea of animals being used in warfare. Horses have been used to some extent or another in warfare since around 4000 BC. But what might surprise you is how other animals were used in ancient warfare.

[redacted]rgest and most powerful land mammals on the planet. Their size means they are great at trampling [redacted]y can gore enemies and even throw them around like a ragdoll with their tusks. An angry elephant is [redacted]hold, making them a psychological weapon as well.

It's believed the Indians first used elephants as weapons in the 4th century BC. The practice soon began to spread. By the time Alexander the Great was fighting the Persians at the Battle of Gaugamela in 331 BC, the Persians were fielding elephant units.

The use of elephants as an ancient warfare tactic helped decide the Battle of Zama, painting circa 1567 (Public Domain )

The use of elephants as weapons isn't particularly surprising, but how Alexander countered them is. How did he beat back s of the Persians? According to a letter written to Aristotle, he used pigs.

sh by nature and apparently, the sound of a pig squealing was all it took to scare away the enemy arians took this one step further when fighting the Macedonians. They covered the poor pigs in pitch before sending them running at the elephants.

Alexander the Great driving off elephants with war pigs and musical instruments in a detail from a French illuminated manuscript from 1420. (The British Library / CC BY 4.0 )

Ingenious uses of animals in ancient warfare don't stop there though. They were also used as a kind of early hand grenade . It has been recorded that Hannibal of C s, had clay pots filled with venomous snakes. These ' snake bombs ' were then thrown onto the decks of enemy ships, where the surviving snakes could wreak havoc on the crew.

[redacted] copied by the people of Hatra in Mesopotamia when fighting off the Roman troops of Septimius [redacted] didn't have many poisonous snakes to hand, so they had to manage with pots filled with poisonous [redacted] orpions.

[redacted] had a bad track record when it came to being pelted with bees. In 72 BC, the Romans were attacking Themiscyra, a Greek town famous for its production of honey. The Romans tried their usual tactic of tunneling under the city walls to circumvent their enemy's defenses. The Themiscyrans responded by filling the tunnels with swarms of very angry bees.

6.The Ancient Greeks Claimed to Have Built a Death Ray 2,000 Years Ago

When studying ancient Greek history, it can be more than a little difficult to separate fact from fiction. It's safe to say Greek historians had a habit of embellishing some of their achievements. That is to say, this next entry should probably be taken with a grain of salt.

Two historians, the 2nd century AD writer Lucian and 4th century AD architect Anthemius of Tralles both make mention of two superweapons created by Archimedes. Archimedes was a Greek mathematician, engineer, astronomer, and most importantly, inventor.

According to these historians, Archimedes came to the rescue during the Roman siege of Syracuse, a historic Sicilian city, between 213-212 BC. He supposedly did this by creating the world's first death ray. A series of large reflectors, probably made from highly polished bronze or copper, was used to focus the sun's rays on approaching Roman ships. The concentrated rays caused the ships to burst into flames, like an ant under a sadistic child's magnifying glass.

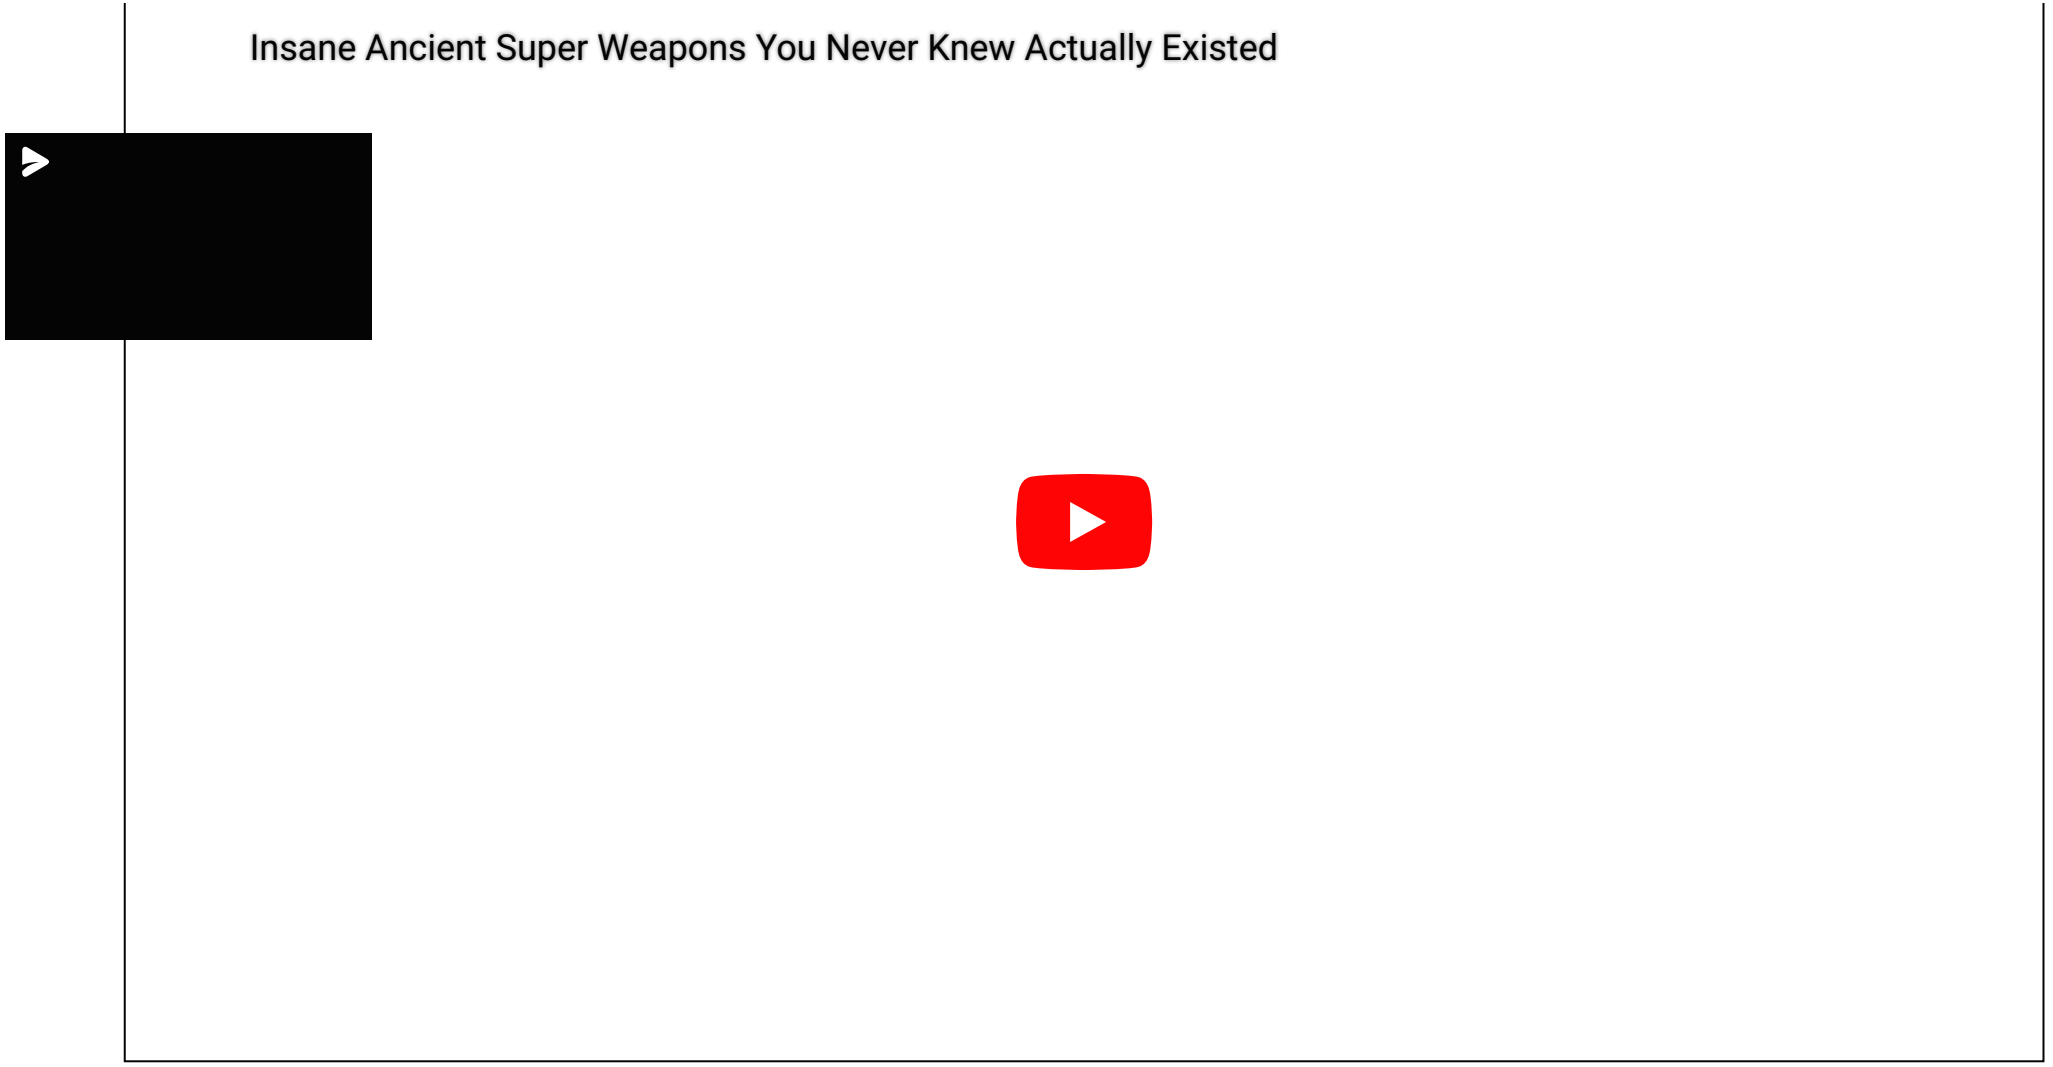
x

Wall painting from the Uffizi Gallery in Florence, Italy, showing the Greek mathematician Archimedes' mirror being used to burn Roman military ships. Painted by Giulio Parigi in 1600 (Public Domain )

Unsurprisingly, modern historians aren't convinced; an ancient Greek death ray does sound a tad unlikely. However, two separate experiments have proven the death ray was possible. In 1973, Greek scientists recreated the invention using a combination of 70 mirrors coated in copper. Then in 2005, a group of Massachusetts students also managed to recreate the weapon. In both cases, the scientists managed to set fire to a wooden boat at a decent range.

If a death ray wasn't impressive enough, Archimedes is said to have invented another impressive weapon during the siege. Ancient Greek historians claimed Archimedes installed a giant iron claw that could lift up and then dash invading Roman ships against the cliffs below the city. This invention hasn't been recreated yet.

x



Detail of a wall painting of the Claw of Archimedes sinking a ship, taking the name "iron hand" in the ancient sources literally, by Giulio Parigi circa 1600 (Public Domain )

Conclusion

In ancient warfare, everything from the humble bee to the sun itself was used as a potential weapon. It will probably never cease to amaze us how inventive people can become when they want someone dead.

We tend to look back at the ancients and scoff at how primitive their lives and methods seem. But in truth, their ingenuity was beyond impressive. It's just a shame so much [illegible] each other.

Perhaps the most surprising fact on this list is that we're still at it. Every year, governments and private companies spend billions of dollars researching and refining new and increasingly creative warfare tactics. In this way, we're no different from the practitioners of ancient warfare.

Top Image: Ancient warfare tactics were no less br ırce: Arhun / Adobe Stock

By Robbie Mitchell

References

Ancient Technology News History Ancient Traditions

Tags: warfare tactics strategy Weapons chemical biological psychological

(2 Comments)

Sponsored Stories

x

Luxury Villas Prices in Dubai Might Surprise You

Luxury Villas Dubai | Sponsored Links

x

Poorly Chosen Outfits By Famous People At Red Carpet Events

Bakehuge

x

Marco Antonio Bragadin Was Flayed and his Skin Kept as a Trophy

When Marco Antonio Bragadin was skinned alive during the Ottoman conquest of Cyprus, news of the event sent shockwaves throughout the Christian world.

Ancient Origins

x

New DNA Testing on 2,000-Year-Old Elongated Paracas Skulls Changes Known History

The elongated skulls of Paracas in Peru caused a stir in 2014 when a geneticist that carried out preliminary DNA testing reported that they have mitochondrial DNA “with mutations unknown in any…

Ancient Origins

x

New Research Shows Philippine Indigenous Group Has Most Denisovan DNA

An indigenous group on the Bataan Peninsula on the Philippine island of Luzon has more Denisovan DNA than any other ethnic population in the world.
Ancient Origins

ROBBIE

I'm a graduate of History and Literature from The University of Manchester in England and a total history geek. Since a young age, I've been obsessed with history. The weirder the better. I spend my days working as a freelance... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

The Feast of Epiphany: Who Were The Three Kings and Where Did They Come From?

In Western Christianity, the feast of Epiphany, also known as Three Kings' Day, is celebrated annually on the 6th January to commemorate the visit of the Magi , wise men, or kings from the East to...

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

What is a Wendigo? The Beast with an insatiable Hunger for Human Flesh

The Wendigo is a horrifying creature of Algonquian Native American legends said to devour human flesh to survive a harsh winter.

Mother and Child Reunion Of Thetis And Achilles

Seductive Sirens of Greek Mythology and How Heroes Resisted Them

7 Child Monarchs from History and How They Changed the World

Six Supremely Sadistic Deaths of

x

The Awe-Inspiring Karnak Temple Complex and Vatican of Ancient Egypt

The Mysterious Man from Taured – Evidence for a Parallel Universe?

Celestial Goddess Selene: The Ancient Greek Goddess of the Moon

reek Mythology: ged Horse of Mount man-Powered Flight: the Story of Icarus

Thomas of Woodstock and Shakespeare's Twisted History

Edward the Black Prince Did Not Die of Chronic Dysentery, Study Reveals

Has Livy's History of Rome Skewed Our View of the Early Empire?

7 Legendary Cryptids that Turned Out to Be Real!

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

Mysterious Cases of Living Fossils, Suspended Animation, and Hibernation

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Stories Behind Seven of the Worst Massacres in Ancient History

We all know that the ancient world was a violent place, but we often don't appreciate just how violent it was.

Did the Yuan Dynasty's Use of Paper Money Cause Hyperinflation?

x

The Plague of Athens Killed Over a Quarter of the City's Population

What was the Deadly Cocoliztli Decimated Aztec

British Christmas Ban ar

Eight Historic Lies about the Ancient World that will Blow Your Mind

TOP NEW STORIES

Sacred Calendars and New Years: Cycles of Time and Ages

The global holiday of a new year symbolizes all we have experienced for the duration of the year, and all our hopes and dreams for the year ahead.

HUMAN ORIGINS

Pre-dating the Minoans: The Cycladic Civilization and Their Unusual 'Modern' Art

The Cycladic culture (known also as the Cycladic civilization) is an early Bronze Age culture located in the Cyclades. This culture thrived from around 3200 to 1100 BC, and predated two other major Bronze

x

ANCIENT PLACES

330 Years of Unknown History: The Oldest Road in America Finally Surfaces

Often, there are hidden truths and old tales that get lost with each generation. As such, there is an untold story about the United States that begins in the 1600s. Prior to English entrepreneur and...

Why Was Roman Concrete So Durable? Scientists Say It Could Heal Itself

Old "Writing?" Not uying It!

Epiphany: Who Were gs and Where Did om?

What Were The Ice Age People Counting?

How and Why Humans (and Other Mammals) Lost Most of their Body Hair

Dark Skin and Blue Eyes: European Hunter-Gatherers Did Not Fit with Common Representations

The Truth About the Holy Grail: Magical Chalices Around the World

Evidence that Noah's Ark Landed on a Mountain 17 Miles South of Ararat

The Controversial Lapedo Child – A Neanderthal / Human Hybrid?

Can the Babylonian Calendar Help Explain the Ages of Patriarchs Recounted in the Book of Genesis? - Part 1

Enormous Underwater Structure in the Sea of Galilee is a Mystery to Archaeologists

The Macabre, Bejeweled Skeletons of the Catacomb Saints

Norte Chico: The First Civilization in the Americas?

The Stone Head of Guatemala that History Wants to Forget

10 Shocking Facts about the Ancient Romans

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Feast of Epiphany: Who Were The Three Kings and Where Did They Come From?

In Western Christianity, the feast of Epiphany, also known as Three Kings' Day, is celebrated annually on the 6th January to commemorate the visit of the Magi , wise men, or kings from the East to...

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Why Was Roman Concrete So Durable? Scientists Say It Could Heal Itself

Materials scientists have been working with archaeologists and historians for many years, attempting to unlock the

x

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that

The Native American Legend of the t and the Whiteman

What We Believe t History is Really g Critically about gends

Lovelock Cave: A Tale of Giants or A Giant Tale of Fiction?

Eight Bizarre Superstitions from Ancient History

The Mysterious Man from Taured – Evidence for a Parallel Universe?

techniques, which allowed the Romans to construct some of the most enduring monuments the world has ever seen.

6 Shockingly Successful Ancient Warfare Tactics

Which "Lost Culture" Created This 2,000-Year-Old Tomb?

150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

Ancient Chinese Earthquake Detector Invented 2,000 Years Ago Really Worked!

6 Advanced Ancient Inventions Beyond Modern Understanding

he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and histo

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

x

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

op experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, ings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions gs. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our th, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell nings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

x

Sponsored

Listverse

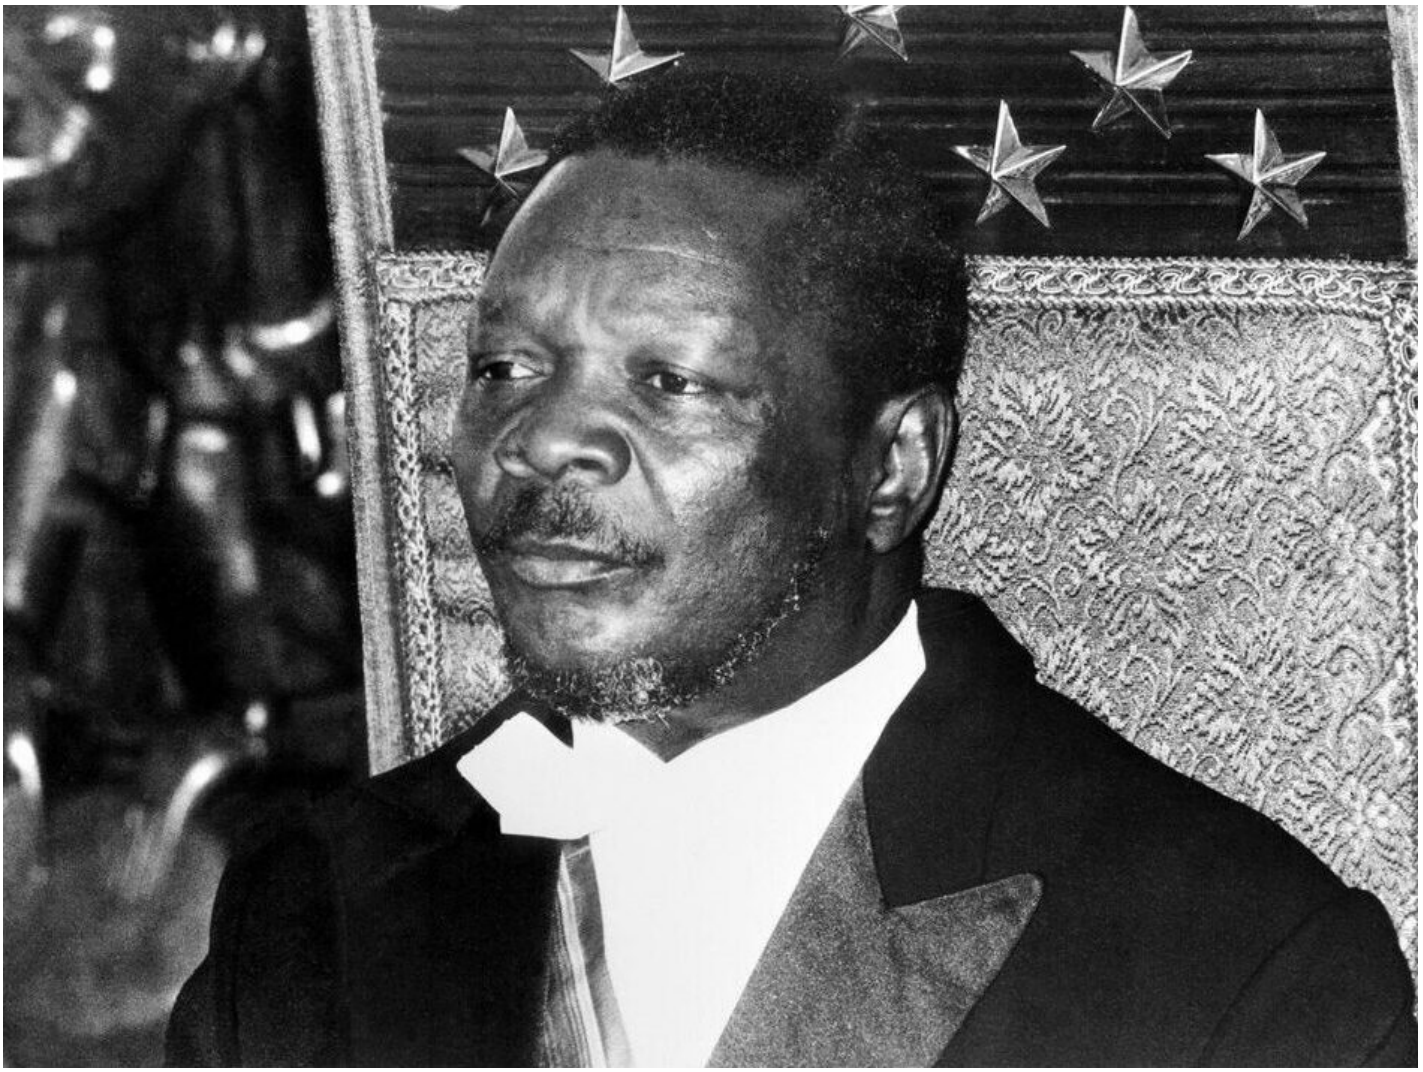
Top 10 Facts about Santa Muerte, Mexico's Death Saint

Sponsored by Listverse

Автор: Huxleÿ
© Huxleÿ – альманах о философии, бизнесе, искусстве и науке.
Опубликовано: 26.12.2022

Liberal Arts 6 мин. на чтение

10 ЗАКОНОВ ТИРАНИИ: император и каннибал Центральной Африки



Поделиться материалом

Иероним Босх. Христос перед Пилатом, 1516

Жан-Бедель Бокасса заслужил место в первой пятерке тиранов, правивших в конце XX века. Жестокий, эксцентричный каннибал… Его режим практиковал массовые убийства, пытки, грабежи и многое другое.

Провозгласив себя президентом, он отменил первую конституцию страны и назвал ее «мертвым органом, больше не представляющим народ». А потом переименовал свое государство в империю и сам себя короновал Императором Центральной Африки.

10 ПРАВИЛ ПРАВЛЕНИЯ ЖАНА-БЕДЕЛЯ БОКАССЫ

Жан-Бедель Бокасса. Источник фото: rts.ch

ПРАВИЛО 1. СТАНЬ «НАСТОЯЩИМ ПОЛКОВНИКОМ»!

Родился Жан-Бедель Бокасса (1921–1996) в семье деревенского старосты на территории, которая была частью Французской Экваториальной Африки. В возрасте 6 лет Бокасса остался сиротой. Он получил французское образование в христианской миссионерской школе в Мбаики.

Далее в столичной школе Банги из него пытались сделать священника. Но Бокассу, скорее всего, это уже не интересовало. По совету своего деда он всерьез задумался о военной карьере, которая помогла бы ему взобраться на самую вершину власти.

В 18 лет, в начале Второй мировой войны, Бокасса поступил на службу во французскую армию. В 1944 году он участвовал в высадке союзников в Провансе. Потом воевал в Индокитае и Алжире. Был награжден Военным крестом и Орденом Почетного легиона — высшей военной наградой Франции, учрежденной еще Наполеоном. Даже получил французское гражданство.

В августе 1960 года на обломках французской колониальной империи возникло независимое государство — Центральноафриканская Республика (ЦАР). Это была одна из беднейших стран мира, где читать и писать умели менее 10% населения, а более четверти детей умирали от болезней и недоедания.

Вот в таком государстве Бокасса и стал «настоящим полковником» армии ЦАР. Он страстно жаждал признания. Не пропускал ни одного правительственного мероприятия, на которые приходил, увешанный всеми боевыми наградами.

ПРАВИЛО 2. ДЕРЖИСЬ ПОБЛИЖЕ К ВЛИЯТЕЛЬНОЙ РОДНЕ!

Бокасса всегда старался находиться рядом с тогдашним президентом ЦАР и всячески подчеркивал свою близость к руководителю страну. Благо делать это было нетрудно, поскольку Дако был по совместительству еще и членом семьи Бокассы — он приходился ему двоюродным братом.

Нужно сказать, что никакими заметными успехами в деле государственного строительства брат отличиться не смог. Скорее наоборот. При Дако страна продолжала лететь в экономическую пропасть, процветала коррупция.

Нуждаясь во внешней поддержке, Дако в 1964 году установил дипломатические отношения с коммунистическим Китаем и его вождем Мао Цзэдуном. Бокассе, который к тому времени дослужился до начальника штаба армии, это сильно не понравилось.

Он воспринял это как посягательство на власть местной верхушки и свою собственную. Выход нашелся быстро — взять правительство ЦАР под свой контроль.

Жан-Бедель Бокасса и румынский диктатор Николае Чаушеску, 1970 год / wikipedia.org

ПРАВИЛО 3. СОТРИ РАЗНИЦУ МЕЖДУ ЛИЧНЫМ КАРМАНОМ И ГОСБЮДЖЕТОМ!

В новогоднюю ночь, 31 декабря 1965 года, Бокасса подарил своей стране еще один «праздник» — военный переворот. Он сверг Дако и 1 января 1966-го объявил себя президентом республики. В течение последующих 14 лет Бокасса правил страной единолично.

Военную и экономическую помощью диктатору оказывала Франция, которая стремилась вернуть влияние на колонии с помощью «мягкой силы». В самом начале своего правления Бокасса аннулировал конституцию и распустил Национальное собрание. В 1972 году он провозгласил себя пожизненным президентом.

Национальная экономика, главным смыслом которой стало обслуживание экстравагантного образа жизни диктатора, рухнула окончательно. Бокасса активно разрабатывал месторождения урана и алмазов, которыми богата ЦАР, но вся прибыль от их добычи поступала в его личный карман.

Правитель любил лично посещать публичные казни, получая от этого удовольствие. Политических противников и заподозренных в нелояльности помощников казнили крайне жестоко и изощренно. Их скармливали львам или крокодилам. А семьи вырезали под корень, чтобы за казненных некому было мстить.

ПРАВИЛО 4. ПОДХОДИ К ПОИСКУ ВРАГОВ И ДЕНЕГ ТВОРЧЕСКИ!

Правление Бокассы погрузило страну в мрачное средневековье. Его спецслужбы уничтожали всех, кто не поддерживал его режим. Во внешней политике Бокасса прославился непоследовательностью своих действий. В начале правления он разорвал дипломатические отношения с Китаем, изгнав из страны всех «коммунистических агентов».

Но через пару лет начал устанавливать дружественные отношения со странами социалистического блока: Советским Союзом, Югославией, Северной Кореей, Румынией — он считал, что Франция дает слишком мало денег.

Жан-Бедель Бокасса в пионерском лагере «Артек», 1973 год / reddit.com

В июне 1970-го Бокасса впервые побывал в СССР с официальным визитом. Ему понравился ритуал братских поцелуев с Леонидом Брежневым. Вернувшись в ЦАР, он завел привычку целоваться со своими министрами — этот ритуал стал своеобразным тестом на верность… Все, кто целовал диктатора «без души», считались неблагонадежными и сразу отправлялись на тот свет.

В 1973 году Бокасса во второй раз приехал в Советский Союз. В украинском Крыму, в детском лагере Артек, Бокассу приняли в пионеры. Однако СССР, хоть и старался направить африканского диктатора по пути социализма, с деньгами расставаться не спешил. Зато после каждого дружеского поцелуя с коммунистами размер финансовой помощи от французских капиталистов ожидаемо возрастал.

Вступая в клуб друзей Huxleў, Вы поддерживаете философию, науку и искусство

Присоединиться к клубу друзей

ПРАВИЛО 5. ПОСЛЕДУЙ ПРИМЕРУ НАПОЛЕОНА — СТАНЬ ИМПЕРАТОРОМ!

Жан-Бедель Бокасса был одержим всем европейским. Настолько, что решил стать императором по примеру своего кумира Наполеона Бонапарта. Но чтобы в самых точных деталях повторить его коронацию, Бокассе нужны были деньги, и немалые. И он без всякого стеснения попросил их у тогдашнего президента Франции Валери Жискара д'Эстена. И тот согласился.

А что делать? Ведь ЦАР поставляла Франции алмазы и уран, столь необходимый французской ядерной энергетике. Для организации церемонии коронации весь персонал, дизайнеры, мастера, рабочие сцены были привезены из Франции. Причем Бокасса обратился не к кому-нибудь, а к французской компании с 200-летней историей, которая готовила наряды для коронации Наполеона.

Стоимость всего «реквизита» — императорской короны, скипетра, меча и других аксессуаров — оценивалась в 5 миллионов долларов. В целом же коронация Бокассы обошлась в 25 млн долларов США. Состоялась она 4 декабря 1977 года.

После этого Бокасса стал официально именоваться Императором Центральной Африки, а его страна — Центральноафриканской империей. Методы наказания также приобрели имперский размах. За воровство провинившемуся отрезали уши, а за повторную кражу — отрубали руку.

ПРАВИЛО 6. БУДЬ ЩЕДРЫМ С ТЕМИ, КТО ТЕБЕ ПЛАТИТ!

Бокасса установил личную монополию на добычу алмазов, слоновой кости и сбор кофе в Центральной Африке. К государственной казне он относился как к личной копилке. Когда щедрые китайские коммунисты выделили ЦАР деньги на строительство университета, Император Центральной Африки на эти деньги купил замок во Франции.

Кроме этого, таких замков было еще три. С президентом Франции д'Эстеном его связывала крепкая многолетняя дружба.

В 1975 году д'Эстен воспользовался приглашением Бокассы поохотиться в частных владениях диктатора. И они прекрасно провели время в охотничьем заказнике, занимающем большую часть восточной половины страны. Рассказывали, что Бокасса любил одаривать своих гостей горстями бриллиантов.

Это был поистине императорский жест! При этом ни дарящий, ни принимающий этот дар не задумывались, что на вырученные от его продажи деньги можно было хоть немного накормить народ, находившийся за гранью нищеты.

Жан-Бедель Бокасса во время визита к президенту Шарлю де Голлю в Париже. Фото: Джеймс Андансон / infobae.com

ПРАВИЛО 7. ЕСЛИ ЛЮБИШЬ — УБЕЙ И СЪЕШЬ!

«Сахарная свинина» — так Бокасса называл человеческое мясо. Во все свои поездки он обязательно брал с собой консервы из этой самой «свинины». Потчевал он человеческим мясом и своих министров. Однажды в роли «деликатеса» на одном из заседаний Кабмина выступил их коллега, который совсем недавно сидел с ними за общим столом.

Судя по всему, Бокассе не понравилось какое-то высказывание министра в его адрес. Члены Кабмина не знали, что, вернее, кого они едят. О том, что они только что отведали и куда запропастился министр, Бокасса сообщил собравшимся лишь по окончании банкета.

А начиналась любовь к «сахарной свинине» с любви к девушке — именно возлюбленная стала первой жертвой гастрономических пристрастий диктатора. Всем известна банальная ситуация — парень от избытка чувств говорит девушке: «Ты такая сладкая! Так бы и съел тебя!» Бокасса воспринял это как руководство к действию.

Сначала он собственноручно задушил любимую, потом приказал приготовить из нее «сахарную свинину», которую с удовольствием съел. Блюдо Бокассе понравилось, и дальше он, что называется, вошел во вкус.

Жан-Бедель Бокасса, самопровозглашенный император Центральноафриканской империи, после коронации в 1977 году.
Фото: Пьер Гийо / irishtimes.com

ПРАВИЛО 8. СТРЕМИСЬ ПОЛЮБИТЬ ВСЕХ ЖЕНЩИН МИРА!

Бокасса всегда говорил, что очень любит женщин. И не только говорил, но и доказывал это на практике. У него было 19 только официальных жен. Одну из них по имени Катрин он сделал императрицей и называл Женой номер один.

Любовником он был ненасытным. Имен всех своих наложниц, которые исчислялись сотнями, если не тысячами, диктатор, конечно же, не помнил. А поскольку коллекционировал он их по всему миру, то так и называл — по стране происхождения: Немка, Бельгийка, Камерунка, Китаянка, Габонка, Туниска, Кот-д'Ивуарка…

Была и одна Румынка — агент службы безопасности Секуритате. В связь с Бокассой она вступила по инициативе Чаушеску, которого не меньше, чем Валери Жискара д'Эстена, интересовали алмазы Бокассы.

ПРАВИЛО 9. НЕ ГНУШАЙСЯ МАССОВЫМИ УБИЙСТВАМИ ДЕТЕЙ!

В течение двух лет после помпезной коронации Бокасса стал для Парижа кране токсичным. Общение с ним считалось позором. Недовольство его правлением росло. А тут еще как на зло Бокасса задумал превратить свою столицу в образец французской провинциальной моды.

Он приказал ученикам единственной средней школы Банги носить дорогую школьную форму. Это при том, что их родителям не хватало денег даже на учебники. Понятное дело, единственная швейная фабрика, где эту школьную форму шили, принадлежала Бокассе.

Жан-Бедель Бокасса, его жена Катрин и их двухлетний сын во время коронации в Банги, Центральноафриканская Республика, 1977 год / reddit.com

Это издевательство над учениками и их родителями вывело на улицу тысячи протестующих. Двести школьников «Императорская гвардия» арестовала за то, что они воспротивились приказу. Бокасса собрал их во дворе тюрьмы Банги и, размахивая тростью с золотым набалдашником, угрожал им расправой. Убийства детей продолжались несколько недель.

Их по одному выводили из камер для «проверки школьной формы», после чего забивали до смерти. По слухам, Бокасса лично размозжил своей тростью черепа как минимум пятерых детей. Эти массовые убийства официальные лица французского посольства в Банги больше игнорировать не могли… Стало ясно, что часы режима Бокассы сочтены.

ПРАВИЛО 10. ПОТЕРЯ ВЛАСТИ — ЕЩЕ НЕ КОНЕЦ ЖИЗНИ

Когда Бокасса отправился с визитом в Ливию к своему новому «другу» Муаммару Каддафи, Жискар д'Эстен приказал французским десантникам покончить с его режимом.

20 сентября 1979 года они совершили в ЦАР бескровный переворот. Операция получила название «Барракуда». Войска Бокассы не оказали сопротивления. В результате переворота спустя 14 лет кузен Бокассы Дако вернул себе некогда утраченную власть и должность президента. А страна возвратила себе прежнее название — ЦАР.

Французы конфисковали все имущество Бокассы, а Дако национализировал весь его бизнес. Но императору-людоеду, можно сказать, повезло: он отправился сперва в Кот-д'Ивуар, а оттуда переехал во Францию — в один из своих замков под Парижем…

Ходили слухи, что у Бокассы имелся какой-то компромат на президента Франции, которого экс-диктатор пытался шантажировать. Возможно, поэтому французы оставили его в покое, но решили на всякий случай далеко от себя не отпускать.

Уже свергнутый Жан-Бедель Бокасса и принадлежащий ему замок Адрикур, расположенный на окраине Парижа. Фото: Жак Павловский / infobae.com

СУД И ПОСМЕРТНАЯ РЕАБИЛИТАЦИЯ

В 1980 году Бокассу судили заочно, приговорив к смертной казни с конфискацией имущества. Его обвинили в 13 тяжких преступлениях, в том числе в убийствах, каннибализме, изнасилованиях, присвоении государственных средств…

После семи лет изгнания Бокасса вернулся в ЦАР и предстал перед судом в Банги. С него сняли обвинения в каннибализме, но признали виновным в массовых убийствах детей и других преступлениях… В 1993-м диктатор неожиданно был помилован. Выйдя из тюрьмы, он заявил, что является тринадцатым апостолом Христа.

Скончался Бокасса в 1996 году в Банги от сердечного приступа, в возрасте 75 лет. В 2010-м руководство страны выступило с заявлением о его посмертной «полной реабилитации». Таким образом, еще один диктатор, людоед и убийца прожил долгую жизнь, не понеся адекватного наказания за свои страшные злодеяния.

10 ЗАКОНОВ ТИРАНИИ: очень «правильный» диктатор

При копировании материалов размещайте активную ссылку на www.huxley.media

война

Вступая в клуб друзей Huxleў, Вы поддерживаете философию, науку и искусство

Присоединиться к клубу друзей

Поделиться материалом

Если вы нашли ошибку, пожалуйста, выделите фрагмент текста и нажмите Ctrl+Enter.

ПОЛУЧАЙТЕ СВЕЖИЕ СТАТЬИ

Подписаться на Telegram канал

Введите свой e-mail

Отправить

Популярное из рубрики

Liberal Arts

НЕТРИВИАЛЬНОЕ РЕШЕНИЕ: Как тележка из супермаркета стала изобретением, изменившим мир?

Liberal Arts

НЕТРИВИАЛЬНОЕ РЕШЕНИЕ: Как поручить противнику снабжение оружием?

Liberal Arts

КОРНИ И КРЫЛЬЯ с Борисом Бурдой: великий певец и музыкант Джо Дассен, чьи предки родом из Бучача и Одессы

Liberal Arts

КОРНИ И КРЫЛЬЯ с Борисом Бурдой: Сергей Параджанов — один из отцов украинского национального кинематографа

Liberal Arts

КАКИМ ДОЛЖЕН БЫТЬ ИНСТИТУТ ГЛОБАЛЬНОГО УПРАВЛЕНИЯ В XXI ВЕКЕ: размышляют Джеймс Гэлбрейт и Гарри Джейкобс (Часть I)

Liberal Arts

БОЛЬШАЯ РАЗНИЦА: военное творчество карикатуристов и плакатистов Украины

ПОЛУЧАЙТЕ СВЕЖИЕ СТАТЬИ

Подписаться на Telegram канал

Введите свой e-mail

Отправить

РУБРИКИ

- Liberal Arts
- Leadership&Management
- Life&Art
- Science
- Tests
- Magazine
- Projects
- Contributors
- Podcasts

Huxleў friends’ club

Huxleў

Наша миссия
Влиять на мышление лидеров, их ценностные перспективы и действия посредством слова и искусства.

Наши ценности

- Уникальность
- Компетентность
- Партнерство
- Без границ

По вопросам совместных проектов
editor@huxley.media

По вопросам сотрудничества с авторами chiefeditor@huxley.media

Присоединяйтесь:

© Huxleў – альманах о философии, бизнесе, искусстве и науке.

+380 44 391 63 22

ЛИЧНОСТИ , ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 28.07.2020 в 05:07

10 самых известных чернокожих мусульман в истории

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

Лента новостей

Комплектующие для дронов из ананасов от ученых Малайзии
13.01.2021

Арабский апокалипсис: в Саудовской Аравии сняли фильм ужасов о смертельном вирусе
28.12.2020

В индийский суд подали иск с требованием размещения идолов внутри мечети Кувват аль-ислам
26.12.2020

Египетская исследовательница совершила прорыв года в физике
23.12.2020

Бангладешский подросток получил международную премию за приложение по борьбе с буллингом
21.12.2020

Книга Гиннесса пополнилась новыми рекордами от мусульман из арабских стран
19.11.2020

В Саудии сняли фильм, названный в честь

Privacy - Terms

PDFmyURL

Сегодня около трети всех мусульман мира проживают в Африке. Перечислим лишь некоторых известных мусульман родом из этого континента, которые сделали для ислама действительно много, пишет сайт The Muslim Vibe.

1. Сумайя бинт Хайят

Она была одной из первых женщин, принявших ислам. Сумайя – жена Ясира ибн Амира и мать Аммара ибн Ясира. Умерла в 615 году от пыток, которым её и её мужа подвергал Абу Джахль. Именно Сумайя считается первой мученицей в исламе.

2. Билал ибн Рабах

Эфиопский раб, который позже был освобожден и стал одним из самых близких и наиболее доверенных сподвижников Пророка Мухаммада (САВ), Билал был также первым муэдзином в истории ислама.

Билал был назначен хранителем государственной казны при жизни Пророка (САВ), а также участвовал во многих экспедициях и битвах Пророка. Билал умер около 640 года н.э. в Сирии и похоронен в Дамаске.

средневекового арабского трактата по магии
18.11.2020

Netflix представляет иракский фильм о боях против ИГИЛ в Мосуле
13.11.2020

“Шпионское логово”: годовщина захвата посольства США стала темой выставки в Тегеране
04.11.2020

Китай продолжает атаку на исламские объекты в Синьцзяне
23.10.2020

“Мой самый счастливый момент”: звезда Болливуда ушла из шоу-бизнеса
17.10.2020

100-летний мусульманин награжден орденом Британской империи
14.10.2020

Выставка картин Хасана Рухоламина проходит в Тегеране
09.10.2020

Доктор-индус лечит пациентов с помощью Корана
06.10.2020

Норвегия запускает Национальный план действий по борьбе с исламофобией
02.10.2020

Драматический фильм о Сребренице номинирован на премию "Оскар"

01.10.2020

Источник: reddit.com

3. Мухаммад ибн Али аль-Джавад

Мухаммад ибн Али аль-Джавад, один из потомков Пророка Мухаммада (САВ), почитается шиитами как девятый непорочный имам, а суннитами – как великий ученый. Умер в 845 году. Его мать Хайзаран была родом из Восточной Африки. Она считалась одной из самых образованных женщин своего времени.

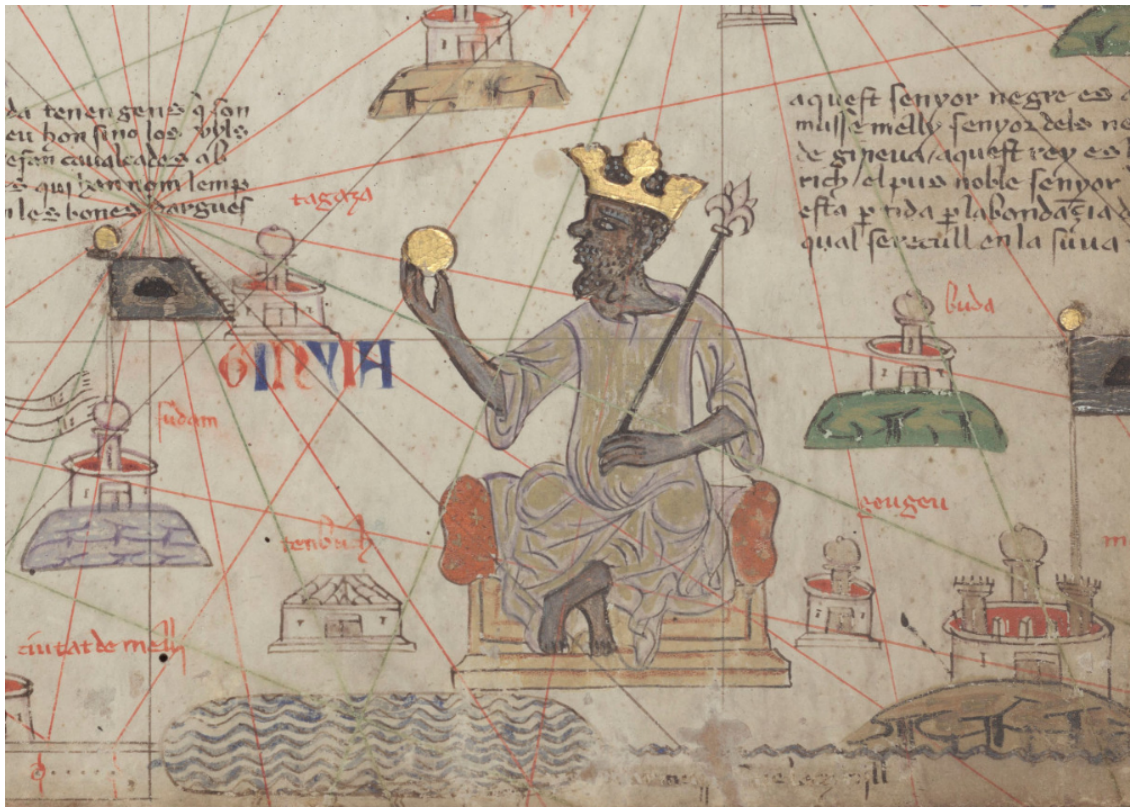
4. Умм Айман

Умм Айман, также известная как Барака, была освобожденной эфиопской рабыней. Она считается одной из немногих, кто знали Пророка (САВ) от рождения до смерти. Умм Айман участвовала в битве при Ухуде, ухаживая за ранеными. Умерла в 644 году и похоронена на кладбище Джаннат аль-Баки в Медине.

Битва при Ухуде / Источник: afosa.org



5. Аммар ибн Ясир

Аммар ибн Ясир был сыном Сумайи и Ясира. Он был одним из первых мусульман, кто в 616 году по приказу Пророка (САВ) переселился в Эфиопию. Погиб в битве при Сиффине, сражаясь на стороне Али (р.а.). Был похоронен в Сирии, его могила привлекала паломников, пока в марте 2013 года её не разрушили салафиты-джихадисты.

6. Манса Муса

Манса Муса 25 лет правил империей Мали. Он был признан самым богатым человеком в истории. При его покровительстве библиотека Университета Санкоре стала лучшей в Африке – в ней насчитывалось от 400 000 до 700 000 рукописей, и превосходила её только Александрийская библиотека. Манса Муса умер в 1337 году.

Источник: pinterest.com

7. Ибн Баттута

Ибн Баттута, мусульманин-бербер из Марокко, был ученым и исследователем, который за 30 лет посетил большую часть исламского мира, преодолев расстояние около 120 000 километров. К концу своей жизни Ибн Баттута написал мемуары о своих путешествиях под названием «Подарок наблюдающим диковинки городов и чудеса путешествий». Умер в 1377 году в Марокко.

8. Ахмед Баба

Один из величайших мусульманских учёных, когда-либо появившихся в Тимбукту, Ахмед происходил из семьи мусульманских богословов и жил в эпоху Сунхай. Сегодня его помнят как известного правоведа, филолога, теолога, политического писателя и историка. Умер в 1627 году.

Источник: dw.com

9. Усман ибн Фодио

Усман ибн Фодио был религиозным ученым, правоведом, аскетом и реформатором. В 1804 году он основал Халифат Сокото. Он стремился дать образование людям и написал множество книг по политике, теологии, философии и мистике. Был последователем тариката Кадирия. Умер в 1817 году.

10. Нана Асмау

Дочь Усмана ибн Фодио, Асмау, была поэтессой, историком, педагогом и религиозным деятелем и играла важную роль в политическом, культурном и интеллектуальном развитии Западной Африке в течение полувека после кончины своего отца.

Нана Асмау верила, что образование – это инструмент эмансипации, и боролась за женское образование. Она владела четырьмя языками, была последовательницей тариката Кадирия. Умерла в 1864 году.

Источник: southseattleemerald.com

Исламосфера

ЛИЧНОСТИ , ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

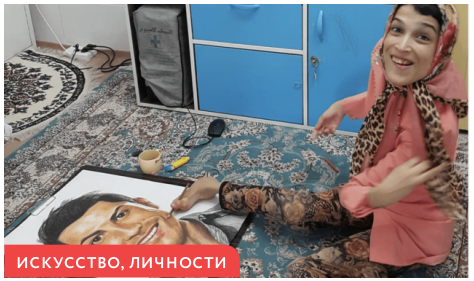
ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

комментарии 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ

Шефкет Курт – мусульманин, спасший сербов в канун Рождества 1942 года



BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ

Си Каддур Бенгабрит – алжирский имам, спасавший евреев во время Второй мировой войны

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ИСКУССТВО, ЛИЧНОСТИ

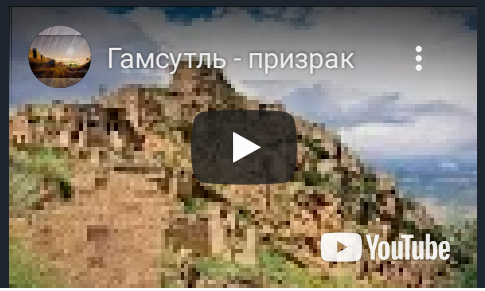
Парализованная на 85% иранская художница рисует портреты ногой

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ

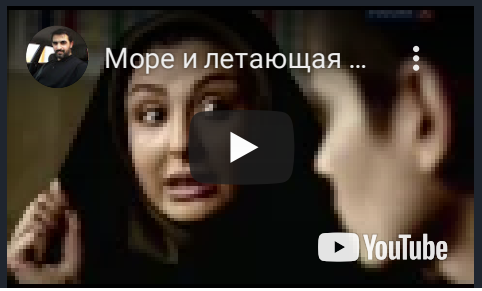
НАСЛЕДИЕ

НАУКА



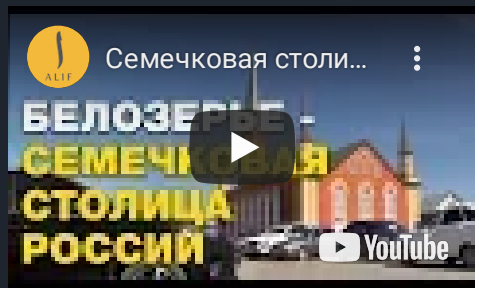
Джамбия – кривой кинжал йеменских мужчин и ассасинов из видеоигр

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



Валиахмет Садур – один из первых мусульманских интеллектуалов постсоветской России

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО

Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)

Семечковая столица России (видео)

Долина мира – самое большое мусульманское кладбище в мире

BY ADMIN

10 богатейших бизнесменов исламского мира

BY ADMIN

ИСЛАМОСФЕРА
культура как образ жизни

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

زياد سمعان
Monday at 9:40 PM

INANNA AND EBIH

(إنانا و ايبيه. (انانا تصارع سلسة جبال إيبيه

(يبدو ان سلسلة جبال ايبيه لعلوها الشاهق منعت ضوء كوكب الزهره ان يصل الي معابدها بمدن معينه فقامت بتدمير قممها .
(بنص ادبي واضح به الجوده والشاعريه

المصدر:
Black، J.A.، Cunningham، G.، Robson، E.، and Zólyomi، G.، The Electronic Text Corpus of Sumerian Literature، Oxford 1998-.

اينهيدونا /Enheduanna جزء أسطوري في دورة ترنيمة لإنانا ، حيث يبتهج الجميع بالإلهة. وهي مؤلفة على أسطر مشابهة لأغاني

"خلف الجبل" وقد تعكس الأحداث السياسية في الجزء الأخير من عهد سرجون ، على الرغم من اقتراح تفسير نجمي للاختفاء المؤقت لكوكب الزهرة.
كتبرير القصة.

في هذه الأسطورة ، قيل لنا كيف تنوي الإلهة هزيمة الكور (الجبل ، البلد) المتمردة إيبيه ، التي رفضت الاعتراف بتفوقها.

صعدت إلى الجنة لتطلب موافقة أن على تدمير إبيه ، لكن الأب السماوي حذر الإلهة الشابة من الذهاب إلى هناك.

ومع ذلك ، لم تستجيب إنانا لنصيحة أنو ونجحت في صد إيبيه ، الذي دمرته تمامًا.

النص :

1-6 إلهة القوى الإلهية المخيفة ، مرتدية الرعب ، تركب على القوى الإلهية العظيمة ، إنانا ، اكتملت بقوة سلاح Ankar / أنكار المقدس ،

، غارقة في الدم ، تندفع في معارك كبيرة ، مع درع يستريح على الأرض (؟) ، المغطاة بالعواصف والفيضانات ، السيدة العظيمة إنانا

التي تعرف جيدًا كيفية التخطيط للصراعات ، تقوم بتدمير الأراضي الجبارة بالسهم والقوة والأراضي المسيطرة.

في السماء وعلى الارض تزمجر مثل الاسد وتهلك الشعب. مثل ثور بري ضخم تنتصر على أراضٍ معادية. 7-9

مثل الأسد المخيف ، تهدئ من المرارة والغير خاضع للمتمرّد.

سيدتي ، عندما تكتسب مكانتها بالجنة ، يا سيدتي إنانا ، عندما تصبحين رائعة مثل الأرض ، عند خروجك مثل أوتو الملك وبسط ذراعيك على نطاق 10-22

، واسع ، على المشي في الجنة ومرتديّة رعبًا مخيفًا ، في ضوء نهارك المتألق وتألقك على الأرض ، أثناء سيرك في سلاسل الجبال وإخراج الأشعة الساطعة

أثناء الاستحمام بنباتات الجرين للجبال (في النور) ، عند ولادتك للجبل المشرق ، الجبل ، القدوس. ضع ، على ..... ، على كونك قويًه مع الصولجان مثل

الرب المبتهج ، مثل الرب المتحمس (؟) ، على ابتهاجك في مثل هذه المعركة مثل السلاح المدمر - يترنم الأشخاص ذوو الرؤوس السوداء في الأغنية وكل الأراضي تغني أغنيتها بلطف.

سوين العظيمه ، إنانا العذراء /Suen سأمدح سيدة المعركة ، طفلة 23-24.

، أعلنت إنانا "عندما كنت أنا ، الإلهة ، أتجول في الجنة ، أتجول على الأرض ، عندما كنت أنا ، إينانا ، أتجول في السماء ، أتجول على الأرض) 25-32

، عندما استدرت نحو وسط الجبال ، عندما اقتربت أنا ، الإلهة ، من الجبل ، Lulubi عندما كنت أتجول في عيلام و سوبير ، عندما كنت أتجول في جبال

اقتربت من الجبل ، لم يظهر لي أي احترام عندما اقتربت من سلسلة جبال إيبيه لم يظهر لي أي احترام ، Inana ، لم يظهر لي أي احترام ، لأنني.

بما أنه لم يبدوا لي أي احترام ، لأنهم لم يضعوا أنوفه على الأرض من أجلي ، لأنهم لم يفركوا شفتيهم في الغبار من أجلي ، فسأملأ شخصيًا سلسلة" 33-36 الجبال الشاهقة برعبي.

على جوانبها الرائعة ، سأضع كباشًا رائعة ، على جوانبها الصغيرة سأضع كباشًا صغيرة" 37-40.

سأدفعها وأبدأ" لعبة "إينانا المقدسة. في سلسلة الجبال سأبدأ المعارك وإعداد النزاعات.

سأجهز سهامًا في الجعبة. سأقوم ..... أحجار مقلاع بالحبل. سأبدأ في تلميع رمح. سأجهز عصا الرمي والدرع" 41-44.

سأضرم النار في غاباتها الكثيفة. سآخذ بفأس لعمله الشرير. سأجعل جبيل ، المطهر ، يكشف عن أسنانه المقدسة عند مجاري المياه" 45-48.

سأقوم بنشر هذا الرعب عبر سلسلة الجبال التي يتعذر الوصول إليها أراتا.

49-52 "، مثل المدينة التي لعنها آن ، لا يجوز استعادتها أبدًا. مثل المدينة التي عبس فيها إنليل

."قد لا ترفع رقبتها مرة أخرى. قد يرتجف الجبل عندما أقترب. فليمنحني إيبيه الشرف و المديح لي

53-58 إنانا ، ابنة سوين ، ارتدت ثوب الملوك وجهزت نفسها بفرح. زينت جبينها بالرعب والإشراق المخيف.

ذي الرؤوس السبعة بقوة إلى يمينها ووضعت أحزمة من اللازورد على قدميها cita رتبت وريدات كورنيلي حول حلقها المقدس. لقد رفعت سلاح.

59-61 عند الغسق خرجت ملكًا واتبعت الطريق إلى باب العجائب. قدمت قربانًا إلى آن ووجهت إليه صلاة.

62-64 ا An/في مسرورًا ، Inana آن ، السماء في كرسي الشرف شغل مكانه. وأخذ للأمام تقدم.

65-69) قالت إنانا "يا أبي ، أحييكم ، استمع إلى كلامي. لقد جعلتني مرعباً بين الآلهة في السماء.

mansium. و antibal وشعارات cilig بسبب كلامي ليس له منازع في السماء أو على الأرض. لقد أعطيتني ..... وسلاح

70-79 "، الذي ينحني مثل شجرة الموبوم cita لضبط القاعدة في مكانها وجعل العرش والأساس متينين ، لحمل قوة سلاح

..... ليثبت الأرض بالنير السداسي ، ويمد الفخذين بالنير الرباعي ، لمتابعة غارات قاتلة وحملات حربية واسعة النطاق ، لتظهر لأولئك الملوك في

، من السماء مثل ضوء القمر ، لرمي السهم من الذراع والسقوط على الحقول والبساتين والغابات مثل الجراد

..... لأخذ مشقة إلى أراضي المتمردين ، وإزالة الأقفال من بوابات مدينتهم حتى تبقى الأبواب مفتوحة - الملك آن ، لقد أعطيتني بالفعل كل هذا ، و

80-82 "، لقد وضعتني على يمين الملك لتدمير أراضي المتمردين: ليقوم بمساعدتي بتحطيم الرؤوس مثل الصقر في سفوح الجبل

الملك آن ، وأسمح لي ... ... اسمك في جميع أنحاء الأرض مثل الخيط.

83-88 "ليحطّم الأرض كالثعبان في شقّ. فلينزلق مثل ثعبان الصقّال ينزل من جبل.

..... ليحكم سيطرته على الجبل ويفحصه ويعرف طوله. فليذهب. انطلقوا في حملة آن المقدسة واعرفوا عمقها. الآلهة ..... لأن آلهة أنانا لها

89-95 "، كيف لا يخافني الجبل في السماء وعلى الأرض ، ولا يخافني الجبل ، إنانا ، في السماء وعلى الأرض ، حتى أن سلسلة جبال إيبيه ، الجبل

، لم تخف. أنا في السماء وعلى الأرض ، لأنها لم تُظهر لي أي احترام ، لأنها لم تضع أنفها على الأرض ، لأنها لم تفرك شفتيها في التراب

.فهل يمكنني ملء يدي بسلسلة الجبال الشاهقة وتسليمها. لغضبي

.دعني أعد سهامًا في الجعبة. اسمح لي ..... أحجار مقلاع بالحبل" 103-100

.دعني أبدأ في تلميع رمحي. اسمح لي بإعداد عصا الرمي والدرع

.اسمحوا لي أن أشعل النار في غاباتها الكثيفة. اسمحوا لي أن آخذ بفأس لعمله الشرير" 107-104

.دعني أجعل جبيل ، جهاز تنقية المياه ، يكشف عن أسنانه المقدسة عند مجاري المياه. دعني أنشر هذا الرعب عبر سلسلة الجبال التي يتعذر الوصول إليها أراتا

أجابها ملك الآلهة آن: "صغيرتي تطالبين بتدمير هذا الجبل - ما الذي تقومين به؟ إنانا تطالب بتدمير هذا الجبل - ما الذي تقومين به؟ تدمير هذا 115-112
الجبل - ما الذي تتعاملين معه؟

.لقد بث الرعب المخيف على مساكن الآلهة. ونشر الرعب بين المساكن المقدسة لآلهة أنانا" 120-116

.وصب رعبها وضراوتها على هذه الأرض. وسكب إشعاع سلسلة الجبال والخوف عليها. كل البلاد وغرورتها تمتد إلى وسط السماء

..... الفاكهة معلقة في حدائقها المزدهرة وينتشر البذخ. وأشجارها الرائعة هي نفسها مصدر عجب لجذور السماء. في إيبيه" 126-121

تكثر الأسود تحت مظلة الأشجار والأغصان البراقة. إنه يجعل الكباش البرية والأيول بكثرة ، ويقف ثيرانًا برية في حشائش مزدهرة ، وزوجان من الغزلان بين
.أشجار السرو في سلسلة الجبال

.لا يمكنك المرور عبر رعبها وخوفها. إن إشراق سلسلة الجبال مخيف ، لا يمكنك معارضتها." هكذا تكلم" 130-127

.فتحت العشيقة ، بحنقها وغضبها ، الترسانة وضغطت على بوابة اللازورد 137-131

.أخرجت معركة رائعة واستدعت عاصفة عظيمة. وصلت المقدسة إينانا للجعبة. رفعت فيضاناً شاهقاً بالطمي الشرير. لقد أثارت ريحًا شريرة بقطع الفخار

.واجهت سيدتي سلسلة الجبال. تقدمت خطوة بخطوة. شحذت طرفي خنجرها 143-138

.أمسكت برقبة إيبيه وكأنها تمزق عشب الحلفاء
.ضغطت أسنان الخنجر على باطنه

زأرت مثل الرعد.

تناثرت الصخور المكونة لجسد إيبيه على جوانبه. من جوانبها وشقوقها تبصق الأفاعي الكبيرة السم 144-151.

، لعنت غاباتها ولعنت أشجارها. قتلت أشجار البلوط بالجفاف. صبّت النار على جوانبه وجعلت دخانه كثيفًا

وأثبتت الإلهة سلطانها على الجبل. فعلت إنانا المقدسه كما تشاء.

ذهبت إلى سلسلة جبال إيبيه وتحدثت عنها قائلة: "سلسلة الجبال ، بسبب علوك ، بسبب طولك ، بسبب جاذبيتك ، لجمالك ، بسبب لبسك 152-159

الثوب المقدس ، بسبب ارتفاعك. اتصعد الى السماء لانك لم تضع انفك على الارض لانك لم تفرك شفتيك في التراب قتلتك وانزلتك.

، كما هو الحال مع الفيل ، لقد استولت على أنيابك. كما هو الحال مع ثور بري عظيم" 160-165

أتيت بك إلى الأرض من خلال قرونك السميكة. كما هو الحال مع الثور ، فقد دفعت قوتك العظيمة إلى الأرض وطاردتك بوحشية.

" لقد جعلت الدموع هي القاعدة في عينيك. لقد وضعت رثاء في قلبك. وطيور الحزن تبني أعشاشًا على هذه الأجنحة.

للمرة الثانية ، وهي تفرح في رعبها المخيف ، تحدثت بصدق: "لقد صب والدي إنليل رعبي الشديد على وسط الجبال 166-170.

على جانبي الأيمن وضع سلاحًا. على جانبي الأيسر ..... لقد مزق غضبي ، مشط ذو أسنان عظيمة ، الجبل.

لقد بنيت قصرًا وفعلت أكثر من ذلك بكثير. لقد وضعت العرش في مكانه وأسست شركة تأسيسه" 171-175.

لقد غيرت غطاء الرأس لفناني عبادة بيليبيلي lilis و ub لقد أعطيت فناني عبادة الكورجارا خنجرًا ونتاجًا. لقد أعطيت طبول العبادة.

في انتصاري اندفعت نحو الجبل ، وفي انتصاري اندفعت نحو إيبيه ، سلسلة الجبال ، تقدمت مثل فيضان متدفق ، وكالمياه المتصاعدة فاض" 176-181

" السد ، وفرضت انتصاري على الجبل. لقد فرضت انتصاري على إيبيه.

لتحطيم إيبيه ، ابنه سوين العظيم ، إنانا العذراء 182-183.

184 ـ Nisaba نيصابة جديرة بالثناء.

View previous comments…

Husain Aswad

بارك الله فيك .معلومات تاريخيه قيمه عن حضارة بلاد وادي الرافدين .اتمنى ان كنت تذكر المؤلف ليتسنى لنا المعرفه الاكثر فهما .عن انانا...عشتار وبالاخص في الموقع الجغرافي الجبلي .شمال بلاد وادي الرافدين .تحياتي 1

See translation

15 hrs Like Reply More

زياد سمعان replied · 1 reply

Write a comment...

Like

Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Google

the moors of kush

Все Картинки Карты Видео Новости Покупки Книги Авиабилеты Финансы Инструменты поиска murakushsociety.org

https://murakushsociety.org › land-...

Land of Kush (Aethiopia): Geographical Origin Of The "Moors"

20 сент. 2016 г. — This great Historic Map print shows ancient “Aethiopia included West Africa from Gabon in the south to Niger, Mali, and Mauritania in the north.

murakushuniversity.com
http://murakushuniversity.com › lan...

Land of Kush: Geographical Origin Of The "Moors" - Library

12 июл. 2016 г. — In German the word Mohr [Moor] is associated with people perceived to be sub-Saharan African, the historical usage aims contrast to ...

unesdoc.unesco.org
https://unesdoc.unesco.org › ark:

The Empire of Kush: Napata and Meroe - UNESCO Digital Library

It is more than probable that the African strain, black or light, is preponderant in the ancient Egyptian, but in the present state of our knowledge it is ...

blackhistorymonth.org.uk
https://www.blackhistorymonth.org.uk › ...

The Kingdom of Kush - Black History Month 2023

3 дек. 2015 г. — The Kingdom of Kush or Kush (/kʊʃ, kʌʃ/) was an ancient African kingdom situated on the confluences of the Blue Nile, White Nile and River ...

academia.edu
https://www.academia.edu › Kush_i...

(PDF) Kush in the Quran | Marcus Allgood - Academia.edu

The name Kush (Cush) can be found from India to Africa and the Middle East. They were the founders of many great civilizations including ancient Egypt.

twitter.com
https://mobile.twitter.com › status

Daughter of the Soil on Twitter: "Anything from Kush/the moors ...

Anything from Kush/the moors/west Africa/Queen Nzinga/African science&medical practice/dynasties/blk inventions/Nehanda #shareUrknowledge.

majoritynotminority.co.uk
https://www.majoritynotminority.co.uk › ...

The Moors - Information for the MAJORITY NOT the minority

The area was a colony of the kingdom of Kush. Southern Arabia, in particular, remained black for a considerable period as the Greeks themselves attest.

biblicalstudies.org.uk
https://biblicalstudies.org.uk › ... PDF

Hebrew Kush: Sudan, Ethiopia, or Where? - Biblical Studies.org.uk

Автор: P Unseth · Цитируется: 12 — The descendants of Cush, Mizraim and Put are the ancestors of the. African peoples according to the Scriptures (Gen 10:6ff). The Bible teaches that.

17 страниц · 319 КБ

chabad.org
https://www.chabad.org › aid › jewish

Nimrod and Abraham - The Two Rivals - Chabad.org

Kush was the son of Ham, the lowest and least important of Noah's three sons. Nimrod came from a line which was cursed by Noah: "Cursed be Canaan, a slave of ...

youtube.com
https://www.youtube.com › watch

#MOABITES#NATIONS #MOORS#MOORISH#AMERICAN ...

MOABITES #MOORS#MOORISH#AMERICAN#NATIVITY#BLOODLINE#ISLAM#REMEDY#HAM#KUSH#MECCA#EGYPT.

jstor.org
https://www.jstor.org › stable

The Hindu Kush Himalaya Call to Action: Sustaining Mountain ... - jstor

Автор: P Wester · 2020 · Цитируется: 2 — The Hindu Kush. Himalaya Assessment (hereafter HKH Assessment; Wester et al. 2019) showed that the region is facing many sustainable development challenges and ...

dukeupress.edu
https://www.dukeupress.edu › ... PDF

The African roots of marijuana - Duke University Press

ter of evolutionary origin for Cannabis indica was around the Hindu Kush mountains in highland South Asia, while Cannabis sativa originated in temper-.

52 страницы · 4 МБ

wikipedia.org
https://en.m.wikipedia.org › wiki

Hindu Kush - Wikipedia

The Hindu Kush is an 800-kilometre-long (500 mi) mountain range in Central and South Asia to the west of the Himalayas. It stretches from central and ...

Peak: Tirich Mir (Pakistan)

Elevation: 7,708 m (25,289 ft)

Coordinates: 36°14'45"N 71°50'38"E / 36.24583°N 71.84389°E

ducksters.com
https://www.ducksters.com › history

Ancient Africa for Kids: Timeline - Ducksters

1070 - The Kingdom of Kush gains its independence from Egypt. ... 711 - The Moors of North Africa invade and conquer the Iberian Peninsula of Europe.

pinterest.com
https://www.pinterest.com › acvln21

Moor Kush (acvln21) - Profile | Pinterest

Save space on your device. Sign up. User Avatar. Moor Kush. @acvln21. 3 followers. ·. 0 following. Follow. acvln21 hasn't saved any Pins yet.

instagram.com
https://www.instagram.com › mazzi...

kush moor (@mazzi_112) • Instagram photos and videos

58 Followers, 135 Following, 0 Posts - See Instagram photos and videos from kush moor (@mazzi_112)

untappd.com
https://untappd.com › heavy-reel-br...

KUSH IS KING - HEAVY REEL BREWING CO. - Untappd

Earned the Tripping on TIPAs (Level 8) badge! Tagged Friends. Mike Jadach avatar · Sam Wozniak avatar · Mike Wozniak avatar.

pousadabarbatana.com.br
http://www.pousadabarbatana.com.br › ...

The Black Pharaohs: The Kingdoms of Kush - The Great ...

NaN Info Ancient History: The Black Pharaohs: The Kingdoms of Kush #SeeUinHistory #History New Comics: Japanese Mythology in Comics: The Essential ...

bantugather.com
https://bantugather.com › about

About - Moors Bantu, Kemet, Kush, Nubian Names & Legacy

Stop the psychological hurtful abuse from being spread through these Dictionary pages. We are Moors, Bantu, Kemet, Kush, Nubian legacy descendants.

facebook.com
https://m.facebook.com › public ›

moor-kush Profiles - Facebook

View the profiles of people named Moor Kush. Join Facebook to connect with Moor Kush and others you may know. Facebook gives people the power to share...

pinterest.com
https://www.pinterest.com › pin › ot...

People of Color in European Art History - Pinterest

Apr 16, 2015 - Hendrik Heerschop The Moorish King Caspar Netherlands (1654) Oil on ... Black Nubian Pharaohs Of Ancient Egypt From The Kingdom Of Kush.

instagram.com
https://www.instagram.com › nlmbyg

nlmbyg - Kush-Apari Morroccan-moor - Instagram

1276 Followers, 1435 Following, 64 Posts - See Instagram photos and videos from Kush-Apari Morroccan-moor (@nlmbyg)

bantugather.com
https://bantugather.com › services

Services - Moors Bantu, Kemet, Kush, Nubian Names & Legacy

Our aim is to service humanity with the truth and to enable every Man Woman and Child to have the same stance as the respected and well to do.

realhistoryww.com
http://realhistoryww.com › ancient

Ancient Egypt: The third intermediate period - The Libyans, Berbers ...

In Iberia (Spain), the Berbers, now known as Moors, created a highly advanced civilization ... But he did maintain oversight from his capital in Nubia/Kush.

europepmc.org
https://europepmc.org › ptp... PDF

HASHISH IN ISLAM 9TH TO 18TH CENTURY - Europe PMC unswerving adepts of the weed and its determined detractors. We have few records of this period during which Morocco, a self- sufficient nation, was cut off ...

quora.com
https://www.quora.com › Whats-the...

What's the meaning of Kush, where is it located, and who are ... - Quora

2 ответа

What's the meaning of Kush, where is it located, and who are its people?

0 голосов	0 голосов	6 голосов	13 голосов	539 голо
Kingdom of Kush (Nubia) [https://www.ducksters.com/history/africa/kingdom_of_kush.php ... Развернуть	It is a kingdom of Nubia, in the Nile Valley south of Egypt, supposedly named after ... Развернуть	Which national capital city's name, when translated, means "warm location"? The name ... Развернуть	Fulani are a very large and diverse group spanning large areas within North, East, West and ... Развернуть	No, we ar Brown sk desparat ... Разве lib.icimod.org

https://lib.icimod.org › record

The Hindu Kush Himalaya assessment: Mountains, climate ...

This open access volume is the first comprehensive assessment of the Hindu Kush Himalaya (HKH) region. It comprises important scientific research on the ...

cleanpng.com
https://www.cleanpng.com › png-ki...

Islamic Background Black png download - 687*3803 - CleanPNG

Islamic Background Black png is about is about Kingdom Of Kush, Moorish Science Temple Of America, African American, Nation Of Islam, Black.

books.google.com.ua
https://books.google.com.ua › books

Jesus Christ Is Lord and Is Worshipped in Infinite Multiple ...

Stanley Lotegeluaki — 2011 · Political Science

Well I as king of Kush take my people and you children the Spanish seed of the Moors and welcome them into Kush. Lhey are considered citizens of Kush.

books.google.com.ua
https://books.google.com.ua › books

Moorish Circle 7: The Rise of the Islamic Faith Among Blacks in ...

Keith Moore 32 — 2005 · Body, Mind & Spirit

Like Kush, Canaan can refer to a land nationality or Phenotype. Moorish Science rejects the biblical lie that Canaan was cursed. It is Moorish Science's ...

Ahmed Ben Basso
4 hours ago

3 cratères lunaires ont le nom de 3 savants Marocains

(Source : International Astronomical Union)
* Le voyageur & juriste Ibn Battuta
* Le philosophe & cadi Ibn Rushd
* Le mathématicien Ibn Banna

Biographie et illustration livre suivant : https://www.amazon.fr/grandes-figures-lhistoire-sciences-Maroc/dp/B09WL11VPD/ref=zg_bs_405896_11/257-0140439-6957508?pd_rd_i=B09WL11VPD&psc=1

6 3 comments

Like Comment

Mohamed El Hanchi
qqun avait posté un livre sur "les savants marocains" mais je le retrouve plus (c pour un kdo)

See translation
2 hrs Like Reply More

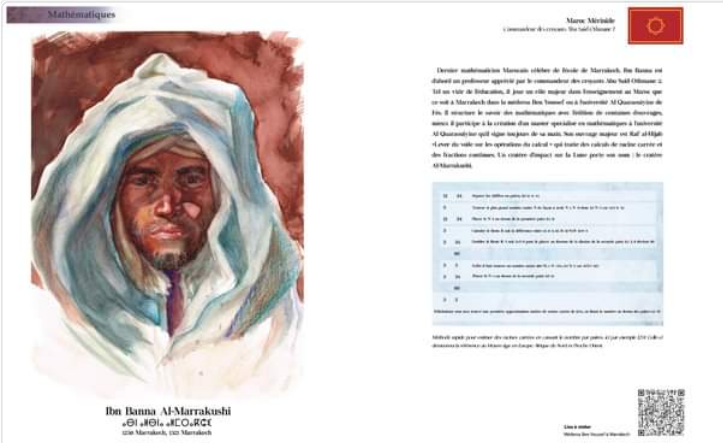
Mohamed El Hanchi replied · 2 replies

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...



Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Like

Comment

Write a comment...

facebook

Do you want to log in or join Facebook?

Join

or

Log In

علوم الاناناكي والسومريون وحكمة الفراعنه ◀ علي نادر

7 hrs ·

اكيد شايفين هاي البوابة😍😍😍

#بوابة_عشتار

وهي البوابة الشمالية لمدينة بابل بناها الملك نبوخذ نصر الثاني سنة (575 ق.م) اهداء الى الجميلة عشتار عشيقة الآلهة (انليل_اونو)

البوابة كانت مزججة بالكامل بالمرمر الازرق والرخام حتى أنها تعكس الون الازرق للسماء.

البوابة مزينه بالكثير من الرموز مثل الثيران والمشخوشو.

البوابة الحالية في بابل هي نسخة مقلده بنيت عام (1959م)

البوابة الأصلية سرقت في عهد الاحتلال العثماني من قبل الألمان وقد رقمت ع الطابوق بالكامل ليسهل تركيبها في متحف (البرغامون) في برلين.

كانت بوابة بابل واحده من عجائب الدنيا السبع في القرن السادس ثم اهملت ليحل محلها منارة الإسكندرية.

علي نادر

#مجموعة_مصادر

#بابل_تراث_عالمي

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API

PDFCROWD

Like Share

19 Shares

Slimane Bkd
بناهاا الالمان
7 hrs Like More

علي نادر replied · 1 reply

Auré Lie
بيفكرني بحلقة من وقت المغامرة
6 hrs Like More

Auré Lie replied · 2 replies

Ihssan Licoln
كمان ؟؟؟ الالمان ؟؟؟
وقتها لسه ما كان ا اخترعوا داعج

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

كانت نسفوها

6 hrs Like More

1 reply

Shahad Nehad

شفت فيديو لوزير الاثار العراقي يگول دنتواصل وية الجانب الألماني لأرجاع البوابة الاصلية والكبيرة الي مخزنيها بغرف التخزين وايضآ استرجاع البوابة المعروضة في المتحف ،،،،، يعني يگدر العراق يرجع بوابات عشتار الكبيرة للعراق ومعقولة الجانب الالماني راح يقبل يسلم البوابة علمآ انو البوابة من اهم التحف المعروضة بالمتحف

6 hrs Like More

Shahad Nehad replied · 6 replies

Amine Sakr

تم

6 hrs Like More

أحمد زعبي

بايخة

6 hrs Like More

Maher Rasheed replied · 1 reply

Lawyer ALa

رائع

6 hrs Like More

حمزة الشيخ

لسة موجود حتى الان ؟؟؟

6 hrs Like More

ابو نور

سرقت ؟؟؟ على اساس لو باقية في العراق راح تضل لحد الان. انعم الله على العرب الي حافضو على حضارتنا

5 hrs Like More

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

احمد علي

عشتار مو حبيبت انليل حبيبت اله تموز

1 hr Like More

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Помічники для роботи
MOYO.ua
Відкрити
Ad

Winners-04

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

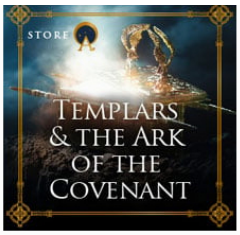
Ancient Origins Magazine

Free VR Tour Banner

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

Ancient Origins Magazine

Free VR Tour Banner



UPDATED 25 JULY, 2020 - 18:58 B. B. WAGNER

Darya Saltykova: Cruel Russian Aristocrat with a Taste for Murder

READ LATER PRINT

In 1768, Darya Nokolayevna Ivanova Saltykova, better known as Saltychikha, was found guilty for the murder of 139 serfs under her care. Of that number, only 38 were confirmed due to the

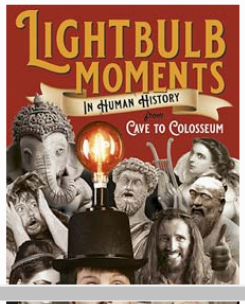
Get your 4 ebooks Now!

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- The Green Sahara

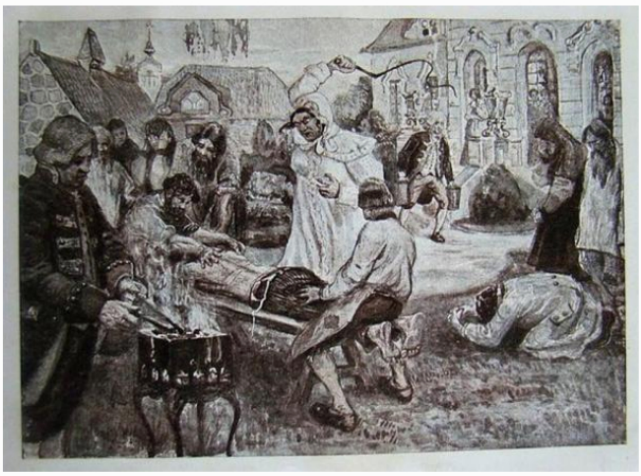
NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT



ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS



immense fear she instilled in witnesses who could have testified against her. She killed many women, several children, a few men, and even attempted to kill a nobleman. The Russian imperial court imposed a life sentence, and as a display of public justice, Saltykova was taken to the Red Square in Moscow and publicly beaten for over an hour wearing a sign that read: "This woman tortured and murdered." She then her remaining years chained up in the basement of a monastery, before dying on November 2, 1801, mentally broken and alone.

Though her incarceration experience was horrific, Darya was indeed a monster who inspired fear, particularly for young women. During an extensive six-year investigation, the serfs who lived on or near her vast estate were terrified of incurring her wrath. An abusive unchecked aristocrat, she inflicted cruelty to those around her. Since her death, her legend has grown to a point whereby it is based more on fiction than on reality, which makes it hard to truly understand her motives, if any existed. With the little information that remains about her viciousness and cruelty, can we still call her a serial killer, or was she an abusive Russian landowner, like many of her guilty for the death of 139 serfs under her care. (Public domain)

Opulence and Glamor: Early Life of Darya Saltykova

On November 3rd 1730, Darya Nikolayevna Ivanova was born to Nikolai Avtonomovich Ivanov and Anna Ivanovna Davydova. As with most aristocrats of the time, Darya's life was one of opulence and glamor. Her family enjoyed connections to an elite circle of wealth, including the Tolstoy's, Davidov's, and Musin-Pushkins. Though little is known about her early childhood, she grew up during a time when wealthy Russians were in a hurry to adopt customs and material goods from Western Europe. As a result of this westernization of Russian culture, Darya may have grown up wearing ostentatious French and Italian dresses, not to mention eating pastries made by imported European chefs. These extravagances would only be available to the wealthiest of Russians, who still owned large tracts of land and presided over the poorest of serfs.

Darya Saltykova's life was one of opulence and glamor. (Public domain)

Darya didn't show signs of cruelty or malevolence, and appeared to be a completely normal Russian noblewoman. Sometime in the 1750's, at the age of 20, Darya married the Imperial officer Gleb Alexeyevich Saltykov and found herself holding immense power within the Russian Sergei Saltykov, was rumored to be the lover of Catherine the Great , as well as the true father of Paul I of Russia. Meanwhile, Gleb's nephew, Nikolai Saltykov, was the royal tutor for Catherine's children.

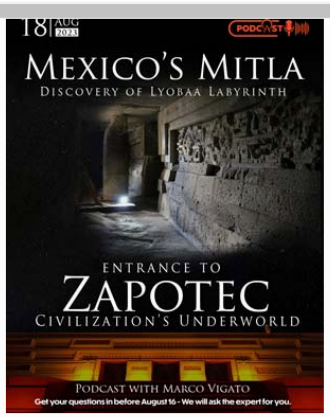
eBOOKS NOW!

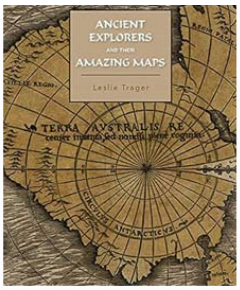


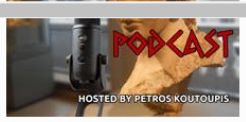
Email

Name

I agree to receiving emails Read terms

- 3,500-Year-Old Bear Found in Siberian Permafrost Dissected (Video)
- 10 of the World's Oldest Languages Still Used Today
- Have 46,000-year-old Nematodes in Suspended Animation Really Been Resuscitated?





PARTNERS

Darya gave birth to two sons by Gleb, Theodore and Nicholas, with whom she spent little time. They were sent away for their schooling, leaving Darya alone on her estate. When Gleb died of unknown causes in 1755, Darya was left a wealthy widow at the age of 25. In charge of the Troitskoe estate, as well as several other properties, she was responsible for over 600 serfs. As if a character from a tragic Russian fairytale, Darya rapidly transformed from being a wealthy 25-year-old widower into the vile Saltychikha. While no evidence has been found to explain this dramatic metamorphosis, legend has it that the change was triggered by the actions of an unfaithful lover.

Becoming Saltychikha: What Triggered the Beast?

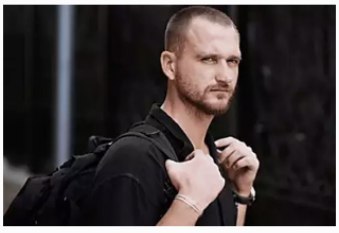
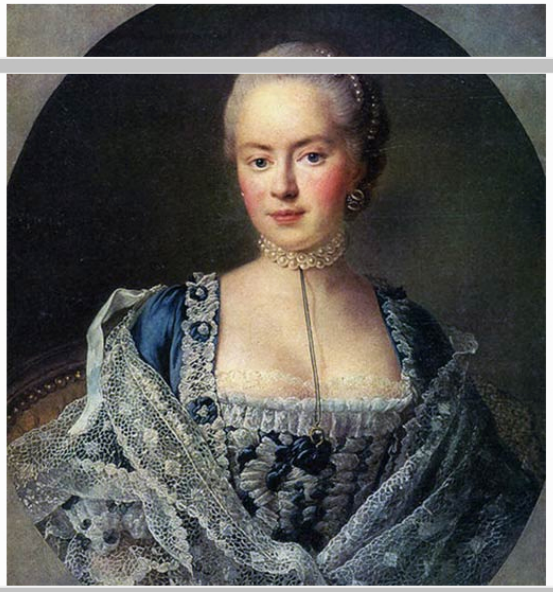
Shortly after the death of her husband, Darya was courted by the land surveyor Nikolay Tyutchev, grandfather of future poet Fydor Tyutchev. Whether their affair began before or after the death of her husband, we'll never know, but it appears that Nikolay had no intention of marrying Darya. Instead, he rejected her and eloped with a younger, red-haired woman . Shortly after Saltykova got word of the elopement, she ordered her serfs to burn Tyutchev's house to the ground, and then proceeded to send assassins to kill them both. Luckily, Nikolay and his bride received word of the assassination attempt and fled to Moscow.

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content



Зеленський на Одещині: «Ворог точно не диктуватиме умови в…
RFI



Франція та Індія працюють над розробкою мирного плану щодо…
RFI

Франція дала політичний притулок колишньому…
RFI

Recommended by Outbrain

Portrait of Countess Darya Petrovna Saltykova. (Public domain)

Though this historic rumor adds an intriguing twist to her murderous rampage, and conveniently ties her story to the destiny of future poet Fydor Tyutchev, there isn't enough historic evidence to verify its veracity. Some versions claim Nikolay simply lost interest and stopped visiting Darya, while others contend that he grew tired of her violent treatment of her servants and left without Darya noticing. Regardless of the events leading to Darya's emergence as a ravenous murderer, scholars and storytellers alike believe the transformation began five to ten years after the death of her husband.

Darya the Tormentor: The Serial Killer and Her Methods

Darya's preferred choice of victim, young servant women, may explain why the legend of her unrequited love found its way into the history books. All in all, she is supposed to have murdered 137 women and three men. The male deaths, apparently, were accidental. Several accounts maintain that Darya's violent mood swings were to blame for most of her servant's deaths. It seems she never intended to kill them, merely discipline them so they wouldn't repeat their mistakes.

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel
Deep within the realms of ancient Jewish folklore lies a tale of intrigue and mystery surrounding the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel and their elusive barrier.

What Makes Sirius, the Dog Star, So Special?

The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe

What is Shambhala? Understanding the Mysterious Kingdom of Shambhala

Beware the Kitsune, The Shapeshifting Fox of Japanese Folklore

The Secret Life of Melusine: Mysterious Mermaid & Serpent Mother of European Nobility

There was a variable range to her violent temper and abuse. At the slightest offense, she would begin with throwing objects at serfs and servants she felt were lazy or incompetent. On the other end of the scale, she is said to have stepped on the belly of a pregnant woman, killed the wife of a hated male serf, and in some accounts, performed acts of cannibalism. The other cruelties, for which Darya became infamous, were the burning of hair, throwing servant girls outside, naked, in the dead of Russian winter, the pouring of boiling water from head to toe, the severing of ears with hot pokers, and whipping her female servants until the bones of their backs were exposed.

Saltytchikha was known for her enraged fits of cruelty, usually enacted against women. (V. Pletchine)

In another testament to her cruelty, she is said to have become enraged with one male serf she deemed ungrateful and plotted to kill his wife. On succeeding in this endeavor, she continued to torment the serf: When he remarried, she proceeded to kill his second wife, and then his third. Darya's plan was to break the spirit of the man who failed at showing her respect, and watch him suffer. Given her wealth and her family connections to the Russian royal family, her abusive crimes on her estate were able to continue for almost ten years before anyone brought this to the attention of the Imperial court. So, why did this continue for so long? Did it have to do with her wealth alone, or was there a cultural aspect that is often overlooked, such as the treatment of Russian serfs?

Serfdom and the Russian Elite

During 17 th century Imperial Russia, serfdom was a form of feudal slavery whereby people were tied to the land in which they dwelled. Serfs were the legal property of whichever landowning noblemen owned the land. Serfs had few rights and were subject to whatever rules noblemen saw fit. Though it was technically illegal to sell serfs without their land, many noblemen continued the practice quietly, changing the terminology from "peasant and land" to "hiring servants."

Most noblemen had complete ownership and dominance over the lives of their serfs. Before the being traded, bought, sold, and exploited. With such a notorious culture of human slavery , with people being owned and traded as commonplace, could Darya Saltykova's treatment of her serfs have been commonplace among the upper elites of Imperial Russia?

Peasants Reading the Emancipation Manifesto, a painting by Grigory Myasoyedov from 1873. Before the Great Emancipation of 1861, which effectively abolished serfdom, over 20 million privately owned serfs were being traded, bought, sold, and exploited. (Public domain)

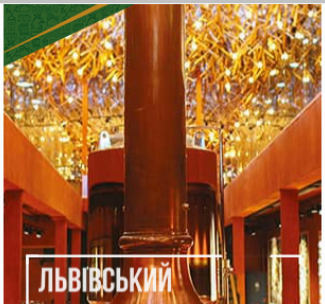
Because of Darya's immense wealth and her intimate connections with the Romanov family , most Russian authorities ignored the rumors regarding abuse and murder taking place on her land. In some cases, those who were brave enough to bring attention to her activities were punished. It wasn't until 1762 that relatives of some of the victims were able to escape to St. Petersburg and bring a petition to Catherine the Great herself. The serf who had lost three wives to Darya's wrath, was one of them.

The petition pleaded with the Empress to save the serfs from Saltykova's horrors and provide justice for the young female serfs murdered on her land. Catherine had no choice but to try Darya Saltykova publicly and have the Collegium of Justice investigate the crimes conducted within her estate.



After six years of analysis and examination based on eyewitness accounts, and excavations throughout her estate, in 1768 Darya was found guilty of 38 murders and 139 deaths under mysterious circumstances. Catherine the Great dictated life in prison for Darya Saltykova at the Ivanovski Convent in Moscow. The life sentence came with its own cruel and unusual punishments, all of which were rightfully deserved.

Catherine the Great of Russia (1729-1796) dictated life in prison for Darya Saltykova at the Ivanovski Convent in Moscow. (Public domain)

Dark Solitary Confinement for Darya Saltykova

For the next 33 years, Darya Saltykova was kept chained to the wall of the dungeon with no access to luxury comforts, including candlelight. She sat in dark solitary confinement for the duration of her natural life. By the time of her death, at the age of 71 on November 27 th 1801, Darya Nokolayevna Ivanova Saltykova was a broken woman who suffered from severe mental illness, cursing, swearing and spitting at whoever walked past the barred window that served as her only connection with the outside world. Her remains were buried at the Donskoy Monastery Necropolis.

Darya's story is one of both intrigue and justice served, but given the history of human serfdom and the disconnection between the wealthy and the poor of 18 th century Imperial Russia, would Darya Saltykova be considered a serial killer by modern standards?

Darya Saltykova was sentenced to life in prison at the Ivanovski Convent, known as the St. John the Baptist Convent, in Moscow, which had long served as a prison for ladies of royal and noble blood. She sat in dark solitary confinement for the duration of her natural life. (Public domain)

Applying Psychological Analysis of Serial Killers to the Saltychikha Case

To paraphrase the works of both Peter Vronsky and former FBI agent John Douglas, a few traits must be explored regarding profile, method, and execution in the Saltychikha case. From their modern analysis of several cases going back 30 years, the drive of most female serial killers differs greatly from that of male serial killers. Firstly, most female killers kill for socioeconomic gain. Secondly, if there are any sexual components, there is a 44% chance that the female serial killer is partnered by a dominant male accomplice. Thirdly, a majority of female serial killers are often from working-class families in which violence and abuse are commonplace, therefore making their killings an effect of survival. Finally, most female serial killers that come from a higher socioeconomic status will suffer from some kind of psychological disorder.

Some discrepancies arise when comparing this analysis of serial killers to the case of Darya Saltykova. First of all, she didn't kill her husband. Secondly, she was accused of sexually torturing her servants. Vronsky claims that sexual deviance murders usually include a male accomplice, but Darya acted alone. Thanks to the authority given by her title, she did so in the open, without fear of reprisals. The only possible alternative would be that she suffered from a psychological disorder.

- Destined for Glory: The Reign of Empress Catherine the Great
- Elizabeth Bathory – 16th century deranged serial killer or victim of betrayal?
- Gilles de Rais – violent predator or political victim?

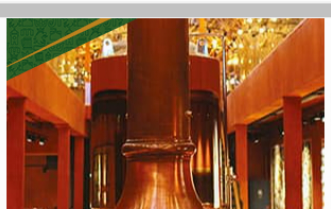
There are several types of serial killers . The most recognizable are the organized serial killers and the unorganized ones. An organized serial killer typically follows seven psychological phases during their hunt, while an unorganized serial killer may only facilitate three to five of the seven phases. These phases consist in fantasy, hunting or stalking, seduction or luring, trap or capture, the murder, the trophy totem, and finally, post homicidal depression or satisfaction. Most organized serial killers follow an obsessive pattern of slaughter, which will be almost the same in every kill. Unorganized killers will often kill quickly without a significant pattern or type. Both groups will take some form of a trophy as a reminder of their kill.



Though analysis of Darya Saltykova demonstrates significant signs of mental illness, she never revealed any form of sexual fantasy, nor did she keep trophies from any of the girls she killed. If the legends are true, her actions were a demonstration of dominance and power over the 600 serfs she owned. There is also no record of her savoring or taking a break after every kill. Her brutish abuse and cruelty appeared to be continuous. Darya Nikolayevna Ivanova Saltykova was responsible for the torture and death of 139 of her serfs. However, is it correct to conclude that she was a serial killer? After all, could it be possible that Catherine the Great made an example of her cruelty in order to scare the many other cruel Russian landowners who treated their serfs just as badly?

Portrait of Countess Darya Petrovna Saltykova. (Public domain)

that evidence contained in various accounts points to Saltykova having suffered from an antisocial personality disorder (APD): she disregarded and violated the rights of others, in many ways she did not conform to social norms, and she demonstrated immense irritability and aggressiveness. These three aspects to her personality are indeed textbook definitions of APD. Perhaps Darya Saltykova was not a serial murderer, but merely an individual suffering from severe mental disorder, with tragic consequences.

*Top image: Darya Saltykova, aka Saltychikha, was an abusive and unchecked aristocrat, known for murdering 139 serfs on Yroitskoe estate near Moscow in Russia. Adapted from Portrait of Countess Darya Petrovna Saltykova by François-Hubert Drouais. Source: Public domain

By B. B. Wagner

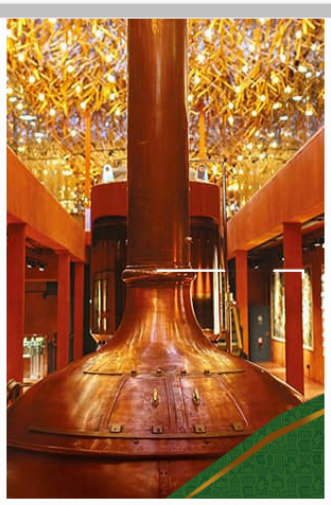
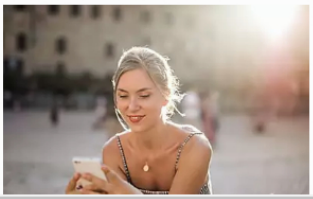
References

Section: News | History | Famous People

Tags: russia | serfs | murder | Moscow | Imperial Russia | feudal slavery | Slavery | St. Petersburg | Catherine the Great | Darya Saltykova | Saltychikha | serial killer



Sponsored Content Smartfeed



Incredible toothbrush is all the rage in Ukraine
Teeth Care

Україна наздогнала Росію за кількістю танків — Bloomberg
RFI

The Secret to Never Looking Like a Tourist
Avoid sticking out like a sore thumb

Росію та Білорусь не запросили на Олімпійські ігри 2024 року abroad with these effortless tips to lea…
RFI

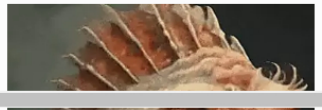
Babbel

The Most Dangerous Animals in the World: Are You Prepared?
369rocks

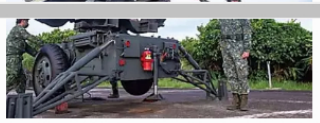
Авіатроща у Польщі: літак впав на ангар з людьми
RFI

Росія наклала вето на подовження дії останнього пункту пропуску гумдопомоги…
RFI

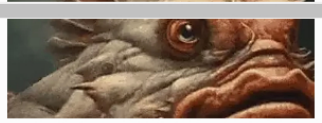
Міжнародний центр розслідування злочинів РФ в Україні почав роботу в Гаазі
RFI



Whiten your teeth at home in less than 5 minutes with this revolutionary toothbrush
Teeth Care



The Secret to Never Looking Like a Tourist
Avoid sticking out like a sore thumb abroad with these effortless tips to lea…
Babbel



США викуплять у Тайваню ЗРК третього покоління, щоб передати їх Україні
RFI

The Most Dangerous Animals in the World: Are You Prepared?
369rocks

Талісман для Соледара: як казковий персонаж Солті береже пам'ять про місто

Маленькі, приховані та смертоносні: міни стали на заваді українського...

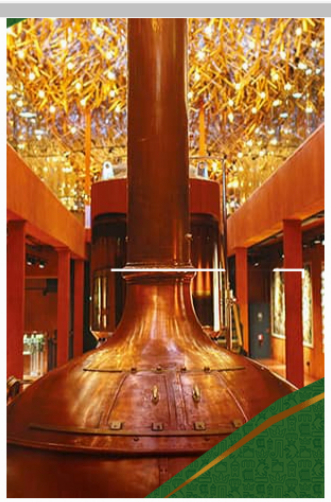
RFI

Українське військо вдосконалило стратегію контрнаступу — ISW

RFI

Австралія перекидає літак-розвідник E-7A Wedgetail в Європу для допомоги Україні

RFI



Incredible toothbrush is all the rage in Ukraine

Teeth Care

Міжнародний центр розслідування злочинів РФ в Україні почав роботу в Гаазі

RFI

Росія наклала вето на подовження дії останнього пункту пропуску гумдопомоги...

RFI

Україна знову під обстрілами — російські «Калібри» летіли на Захід, «Шахеди» — на Київ

Захід, «Шахеди» — на Київ

RFI

Очікуючи допомоги: як українці дають ради новим викликам у Румунії

RFI

Вагнерівці прибувають до Білорусі: для кого загроза?

RFI

WU

Wu Mingren ('Dhwty') has a Bachelor of Arts in Ancient History and Archaeology. Although his primary interest is in the ancient civilizations of the Near East, he is also interested in other geographical regions, as well as other time periods.... Read More

RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS

13 NOVEMBER, 2022 - 13:57 MOLLY DOWDESWELL

The Notorious Wako Pirates of Japan

The wako (also called wokou or waegu) were a group of marauders that dominated the seas of East Asia for centuries. They have been

18 JULY, 2022 - 22:55 LEX LEIGH

Pirate Queens of the High Seas: Anne Bonny and Mary Read

When it comes to pirates, most people think of iconic names like Blackbeard , Calico Jack, or William Kidd . But what about female pirates? Although female pirates are less well-known

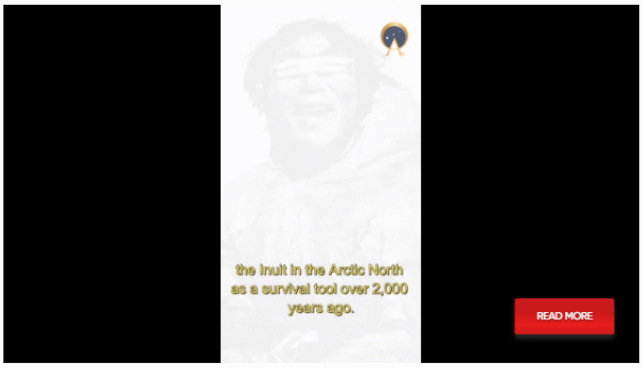
Только сейчас скидка -5%

Softlist

Купить

Ad

Sign Up for Premium Ads-FREE Content



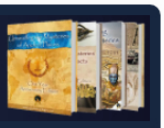
UPDATED 16 AUGUST, 2023 - 23:00 DHWTY

Causing a Ruckus as the Ruthless Pirate Hayreddin Redbeard

READ LATER | PRINT

Hayreddin Barbarossa, also known as Redbeard, was one of the most notorious pirates of his day. Together with his older brothers, Ishak and Aruj, they conquered the North African city of Algiers and submitted it to the Ottomans, as a means of protecting themselves from the Spanish.

Nevertheless, this did not stop the Spanish from attacking Tlemcen in 1518, a city located near Algiers which was under the rule of Hayreddin and his brother. During this siege, Ishak and Aruj lost their lives. As a result, Hayreddin inherited his brother Aruj's position as the ruler of Algiers and continued to serve the Ottoman Empire . It was during this post-Aruj period that Hayreddin continued his privateering / pirating activities and created a name for himself, thus ensuring a place for himself in the history books.



The Life and Names of Hayreddin Barbarossa, a.k.a. Redbeard

Hayreddin Barbarossa was originally known as Khizr or Khidr. Born on the Greek island of Lesbos around 1478, Hayreddin had three brothers. By 1518 he was the only one left, as the all

Get your 4 ebooks Now!

Email

Name

I agree to receiving emails Read terms

Я не робот

reCAPTCHA

Конфиденциальность - Условия использования

Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

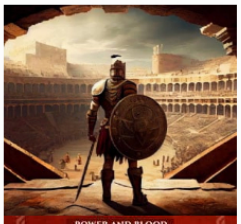
ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

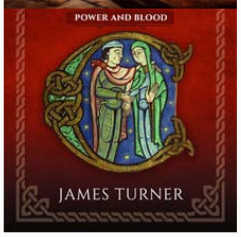
- Please introduce yourself
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- Mayan Calendar Similar to Ancient Chinese: Early Contact?
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara

More

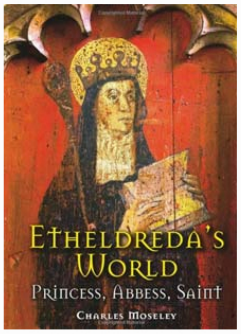
his brothers had been killed during combat.

NORSE MYTHOLOGY

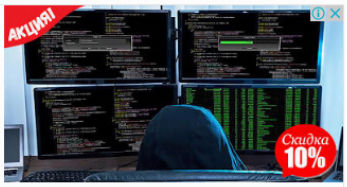


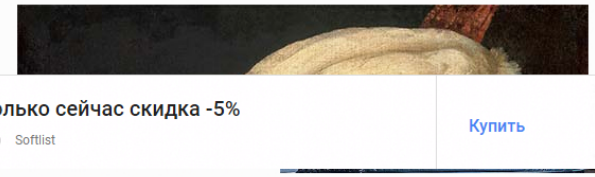


ANCIENT EGYPT



ANCIENT EGYPT





Софтлист

Магазин лицензионного софта

Акции, спецпредложения, скидки от 10 до 50%

When Aruj was killed at Tlemcen, Hayreddin not only inherited the rulership of Algiers, but also his brother's nickname amongst the Europeans—the Italian name Barbarossa meaning "Redbeard"—due to his red-colored beard. On the subject of names, Hayreddin has been translated into English as "goodness" or "best of the religion" and was an honorary title given to the pirate by the Ottoman sultan, Suleiman the Magnificent .

Только сейчас скидка -5%

Softlist

Купить

Магазин лицензионного софта

Акции, спецпредложения, скидки от 10 до 50%

When Aruj was killed at Tlemcen, Hayreddin not only inherited the rulership of Algiers, but also his brother's nickname amongst the Europeans—the Italian name Barbarossa meaning "Redbeard"—due to his red-colored beard. On the subject of names, Hayreddin has been translated into English as "goodness" or "best of the religion" and was an honorary title given to the pirate by the Ottoman sultan, Suleiman the Magnificent .

Suleiman I was the tenth and longest-reigning Sultan of the Ottoman Empire, from 1520 to his death in 1566. (Public domain)

Hayreddin Redbeard's Ottoman Connections

Although the Spanish had captured Tlemcen around the middle of 1518, Hayreddin Redbeard was able, with fresh troops sent by the Ottomans, to recapture the city at the end of the same year. In retaliation, the following year a joint Spanish-Italian force attacked Algiers, though Redbeard was able to repel them and soon had his vengeance when he raided the French region of Provence in the same year.

- Aruj Barbarossa: Most Notorious Pirate of the Barbary Corsairs
- The Ottoman Empire: 600 Years of Domination

In 1520, the Ottoman Sultan Selim I died and was succeeded by his son Suleiman the Magnificent . In return for the services of his pirate fleet, Hayreddin Redbeard requested the new sultan for further Ottoman protection for North Africa from the Spanish threat. When this was granted by Suleiman, Redbeard's fleet immediately began raiding the French and Spanish coast.

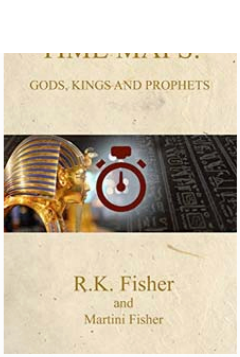
MOST READ TODAY

- Ötzi the Iceman Genes Trace to Early Anatolian Farmers, and He Had a Receding Hairline
- Arene Candide: Ice Age Cave Reveals Rituals to Say Goodbye to Our Dead 12,000 Years Ago
- Examining the Rich Tomb of a Mysterious Celtic Princess
- An Archaeological Needle in the Haystack: The Viking Village of Kaupang
- The Mystery of Egyptian Tomb KV55 in the Valley of the Kings
- Liu He and the Tomb of Two Million Coins

Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices In Mexico Might Surprise You

Recommended by outbrain

- Examining the Rich Tomb of a Mysterious Celtic Princess
- An Archaeological Needle in the Haystack: The Viking Village of Kaupang
- The Mystery of Egyptian Tomb KV55 in the Valley of the Kings
- Liu He and the Tomb of Two Million Coins



Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices In Mexico Might Surprise You

Search Ads

Recommended by outbrain

PARTNERS

Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices I…
Search Ads

Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices I…
Search Ads

Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices In Mexico Might Surprise You
Search Ads

Outbrain

Then, in 1522, Redbeard contributed to the conquest of Rhodes by sending his ships under the command of one of his subordinates, Kurtoğlu. Rhodes was the stronghold of the Knights of St. John —Christian pirates who often raided Ottoman vessels in the western Mediterranean. Thus, their expulsion was a removal of a thorn in the side of the Ottomans.

Только сейчас скидка -5%
Softlist
Купить

Whilst Hayreddin Redbeard was on a military expedition to Habsburg Austria in the following year, Doria captured several cities on the coast of the Greek mainland. Although the Ottomans successfully recaptured these cities, it was then that the sultan realized the importance of having a strong navy to protect Ottoman interests in the Mediterranean from the seasoned seamen of Europe, including the Genoese and the Venetians. As a result, Redbeard was summoned to the court in Constantinople and was appointed the admiral of the Ottoman fleet.

Только сейчас скидка -5%
Softlist
Купить

Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices I…
Search Ads

The Cult of Mithra: Sacred Temples, and…

Uprisings After Pandemics: It Happen…
Outbrain

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

Sponsored Stories

The Cult of Mithra: Sacred Temples, and…

Uprisings After Pandemics: It Happen…
Outbrain

X Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

Люблять на відстані. Як насправді Сербія ставиться до РФ та Украї…
RFI

Понад тисячолітня історія — Україна вдруге відзначає День…

Recommended by Outbrain

Forget Expensive Roof Replacement: Prices In Mexico Might Surprise You
Search Ads
Outbrain

The Battle of Preveza, in September 1538, was a historic naval battle between the Ottoman navy under Hayreddin Redbeard and the Western Christian navy under Captain Andrea Doria. (Actia Nicopolis Foundation / CC BY 4.0)

A Capable Naval Commander: Hayreddin Redbeard and the Battle of Preveza

Hayreddin Redbeard did not let his patron down and continued his raids on Christian Europe. He proved his capabilities as a naval commander once again in 1538. This time, a Holy League was assembled by Pope Paul III, led by Andrea Doria. The Genoese admiral commanded a fleet consisting of vessels belonging to the Papal States, the Spanish Empire, the Knights of Malta and the Republics of Genoa and Venice.

- 10 Of The Most Famous Pirates, Male and Female, Who Ruled the Seas!
- Remembering the Barbary Slaves: White Slaves and North African Pirates

The Battle of Preveza , which took place on the 28th of September 1538, resulted in another victory for Redbeard and ensured that the eastern Mediterranean would be dominated by the Ottomans until the Battle of Lepanto in 1571.

Tomb of Hayreddin Redbeard in the Beşiktaş district of Istanbul. (Darwinek / CC BY-SA 3.0)

Redbeard's Loyalty and Peaceful End

Hayreddin Redbeard continued to serve the Ottoman Empire loyally. For instance, when Charles V attempted to bribe the pirate to switch sides, it is said that he refused the offer outright.

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends Technology Ancient Places

Could Ancient Greek Myths Hint at Contact With South America?

The ancient Greek myth of Cadmus battling a snake could be an allegory for the discovery of the Amazon River, said Dr. Enrico Mattievich, a retired professor of physics from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (UFRJ) in Brazil. Mattievich wrote a book titled "Journey to the Mythological Inferno" in 2011, exploring connections between Greek myths and South American geographical and historical sites.

What Makes Sirius, the Dog Star, So Special?

Praying For Life – Top 10 Ancient Fertility Goddesses

Enmebaragesi, the Semi-Mythical King of Kish

Marduk: Babylonian King of Gods and Reportedly Liberator of the Jews

Batman Existed in Mesoamerican Mythology and His Name Was Camazotz

Additionally, the raids of coastal cities continued. Some, such as the Genoese, eventually gave up trying to defeat Hayreddin Redbeard , and chose to pay tribute in order to be spared from being attacked. At one point of time, the Ottomans entered into an alliance with the French, and Redbeard found himself defending southern France from Spanish attack during this time.

A truce was finally reached between the Ottomans and the Spanish in 1544. In the following

Tomb of Hayreddin Redbeard in the Beşiktaş district of Istanbul. (Darwinek / CC BY-SA 3.0)

Redbeard's Loyalty and Peaceful End

Hayreddin Redbeard continued to serve the Ottoman Empire loyally. For instance, when Charles V attempted to bribe the pirate to switch sides, it is said that he refused the offer outright.

Additionally, the raids of coastal cities continued. Some, such as the Genoese, eventually gave up trying to defeat Hayreddin Redbeard , and chose to pay tribute in order to be spared from being attacked. At one point of time, the Ottomans entered into an alliance with the French, and Redbeard found himself defending southern France from Spanish attack during this time.

A truce was finally reached between the Ottomans and the Spanish in 1544. In the following

Новий штам Covid-19 у Франції. Кількість звернень до лікарів збільшується, хоч і не суттєво

RFI

В Ірані презентували нову модифікацію Shahed, який здатен…

RFI

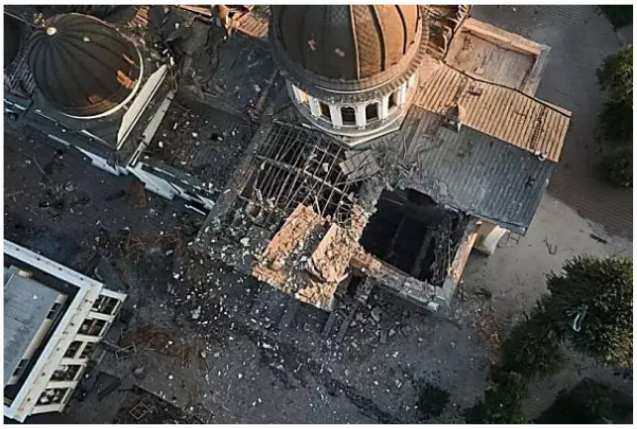
Forget Expensive Roof Replacement:…

Search Ads

Incredible toothbrush is all the rage in Ukraine

Teeth Care

Вночі Росія обстріляла українські міста: є загиблі та поранені



RFI

Посилення санкцій не спрацювало? Як Росія отримує іноземні деталі та нарощує виробництво ракет

RFI

ЮНЕСКО направить в Україну місію, яка оцінить руйнування після ракетного удару РФ по Одесі

RFI

WU

Wu Mingren ('Dhwty') has a Bachelor of Arts in Ancient History and Archaeology. Although his primary interest is in the ancient civilizations of the Near East, he is also interested in other geographical regions, as well as other time periods.... Read More

RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS

13 NOVEMBER, 2022 - 13:57 MOLLY DOWDESWELL

The Notorious Wako Pirates of Japan

The wako (also called wokou or waegu) were a group of marauders that dominated the seas of East Asia for centuries. They have been seen by Western historians and culture as a kind of Japanese pirate...

READ LATER READ MORE

18 JULY, 2022 - 22:55 LEX LEIGH

Pirate Queens of the High Seas: Anne Bonny and Mary Read

When it comes to pirates, most people think of iconic names like Blackbeard , Calico Jack, or William Kidd . But what about female pirates? Although female pirates are less well-known, they did exist...

READ LATER READ MORE

28 JUNE, 2022 - 01:53 ALICIA MCDERMOTT

Child Pirate of the Caribbean: John King Was Just 11 When he Joined Infamous Pirate Crew

Nearly 300 years before the first Pirates of the Caribbean film fuelled the imagination of young, modern minds with exciting pirate adventures, a young boy named John King was living the life of a...

READ LATER READ MORE

17 MAY, 2022 - 22:37 JAKE LEIGH-HOWARTH

Klaus Störtebeker: The Bizarre Tale of a North German Pirate

Looking to the past, the annals of history have its fair share of extraordinary and unusual deaths, some more famous than others. It's well known that Attila the Hun, the marauding Mongolian warlord...

READ LATER READ MORE

29 APRIL, 2022 - 22:52 LEX LEIGH

Whatever Happened to Blackbeard's Silver-Plated Skull?

Blackbeard, an infamous pirate from the 1700s, was notoriously an excellent fighter and survivalist. He was so famous, in fact, that after his death his skull was rumored to have been plated in...

READ LATER READ MORE

20 MAY, 2021 - 14:33 KERRY SULLIVAN

Legend of The Flying Dutchman, Ghostly Apparition of The Ship of Captain Hendrick

Among nautical myths and legends, few are as famous as the Flying Dutchman. Many have claimed to see the ghostly vessel of Captain Hendrick van der Decken (the Dutchman) since it sank in 1641. It is...

READ LATER READ MORE

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

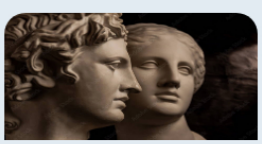
FAMOUS PEOPLE

Causing a Ruckus as the Ruthless Pirate Hayreddin Redbeard

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

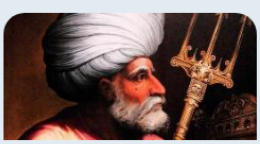
The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel

IMPORTANT EVENTS



In 1529 AD, Soldier's Called a Ceasefire Over Swiss Milk Soup (Video)

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

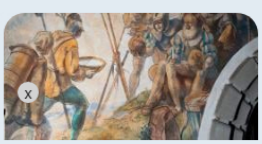


NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

FAMOUS PEOPLE



Causing a Ruckus as the Ruthless Pirate Hayreddin Redbeard

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel

IMPORTANT EVENTS

In 1529 AD, Soldier's Called a Ceasefire Over Swiss Milk Soup (Video)

Gods, Heroes And Heroines

TOP NEW STORIES

Curanderismo: An Ancient Practice with Peru's Last Medicine Men (Video)

Nestled within the depths of Peru's Amazonian mountains lies a fading tradition that speaks to centuries of natural healing: curanderismo.

- Knight Templar Graves "Not" Discovered At "Non-Templar" Church
- Dong Storytelling: Passing Down Ancient Stories Through Song (Video)
- Ethiopian Church Forests, Struggling Fragments of Sacred Greenery in the Desert
- The Largest Handwritten Family Tree in the World (Video)
- Climate Change Played Cupid Between Neanderthals and Denisovans

HUMAN ORIGINS

Ethiopian Church Forests, Struggling Fragments of Sacred Greenery in the Desert

In the distant past, the world around us looked completely different in many ways. One notable aspect that changed is forestation.

- Climate Change Played Cupid Between Neanderthals and Denisovans
- Do you dare enter a fairy ring? The mythical mushroom portals of the supernatural
- Uncovering the Past: The Role of Archaeological Research in Reconstructing History
- The Origins of Human Beings According to Ancient Sumerian Texts
- Huge New Prehistoric Sites Database Transforms Understanding of Human History

ANCIENT PLACES

Arene Candide: Ice Age Cave Reveals Rituals to Say Goodbye to Our Dead 12,000 Years Ago

Broken stones buried 12,000 years ago have been found at Arene Candide, a cave that was used as a graveyard during the last Ice Age.

- Examining the Rich Tomb of a Mysterious Celtic Princess
- An Archaeological Needle in the Haystack: The Viking Village of Kaupang
- The Mystery of Egyptian Tomb KV55 in the Valley of the Kings
- Liu He and the Tomb of Two Million Coins
- Dong Storytelling: Passing Down Ancient Stories Through Song (Video)

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Could Ancient Greek Myths Hint at Contact With South America?

The ancient Greek myth of Cadmus battling a snake could be an allegory for the discovery of the Amazon River, said Dr. Enrico Mattievich, a retired professor of physics from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (UFRJ) in Brazil. Mattievich wrote a book titled "Journey to the Mythological Inferno" in 2011, exploring connections between Greek myths and South American geographical and historical sites.

- What Makes Sirius, the Dog Star, So Special?
- Praying For Life – Top 10 Ancient Fertility Goddesses
- Enmebaragesi, the Semi-Mythical King of Kish
- Marduk: Babylonian King of Gods and Reportedly Liberator of the Jews
- Batman Existed in Mesoamerican Mythology and His Name Was Camazotz

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Archaeologists Find 4,000-Year-Old Ceramic Pipe Drainage System in China

A team of archaeologists from China who specialize in the study of ancient water management systems discovered the earliest ceramic pipe drainage system ever found on Chinese soil.

- Cutting Edge Celtic Tech - 2,300-year-old Scissors Still Sharp and Shiny!
- 6 Advanced Ancient Inventions Beyond Modern Understanding
- The Sophisticated Water Technologies of the Ancient Nabataeans
- The Copper Age: When Metallurgy Came to Rule the World
- Hidden Gems of Sicily: The Abandoned Temple Columns of Cave di Cusa

OPINION

Naupa Iglesia: An Egyptian Portal in the Andes?

Halfway up a near-vertical ravine in the Andes, someone carved an inverted V-shaped entrance into the mountainside.

- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

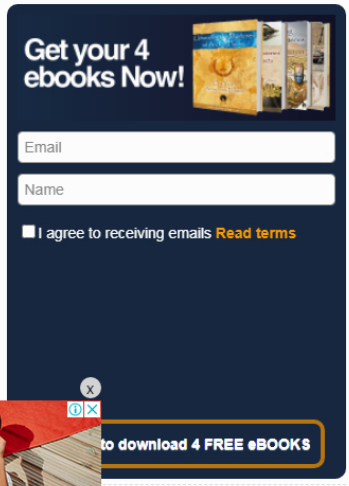
Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023
Disclaimer - Terms of Publication - Privacy Policy & Cookies - Advertising Policy - Submissions - Contact us
A project of Stella Novus

Askia the Great: Revolt Leader to Powerful Songhai Emperor



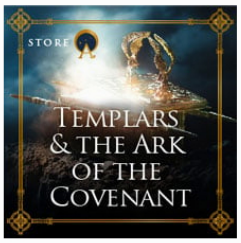
READ LATER | PRINT

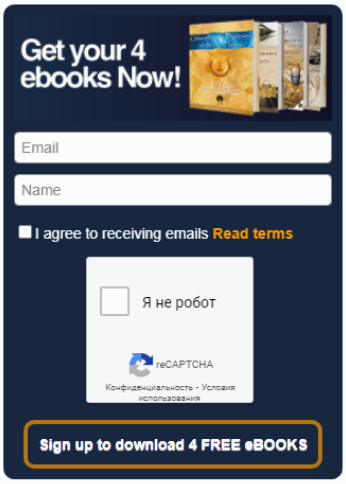
Muhammad I Askia (also known as Askia the Great) was one of the most important emperors of the Songhai Empire. Askia came to power in 1493, when he overthrew the last ruler of the Sunni Dynasty, Sunni Baru, and established the Askia Dynasty.

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- The Green Sahara
- Issues with the app
- Mayan Calendar Similar to Ancient Chinese: Early Contact?
- Who would you pick for the

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content





UPDATED 28 APRIL, 2019 - 02:03 DHWTY

Askia the Great: Revolt Leader to Powerful Songhai Emperor

READ LATER | PRINT

Muhammad I Askia (also known as Askia the Great) was one of the most important emperors of the Songhai Empire. Askia came to power in 1493, when he overthrew the last ruler of the Sunni Dynasty, Sunni Baru, and established the Askia Dynasty.

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

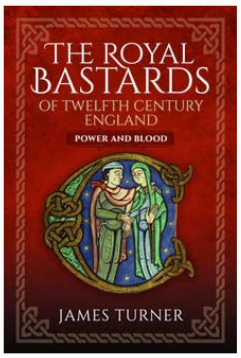
- The Green Sahara
- Issues with the app
- Mayan Calendar Similar to Ancient Chinese: Early Contact?
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- Please introduce yourself
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?

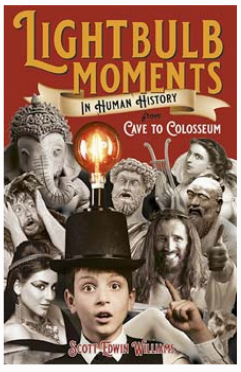
He was a capable ruler, who not only expanded his realm, but also increased the efficiency of his empire's administration through reforms. Askia's fortunes fell in his later years, as he was deposed by one of his own sons. But after spending several years in exile, he was recalled to the capital Gao, where he died shortly after.

Little is known about Askia the Great's origins. Although the date and place of his birth are unknown, his original name is recorded to have been Muhammad ibn Abi Bakr Ture. Based on his birth name, Askia is thought to have been of Tukulor origin and he may have belonged to a

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

NORSE MYTHOLOGY

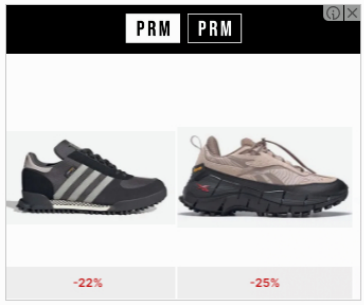




ANCIENT EGYPT

ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS

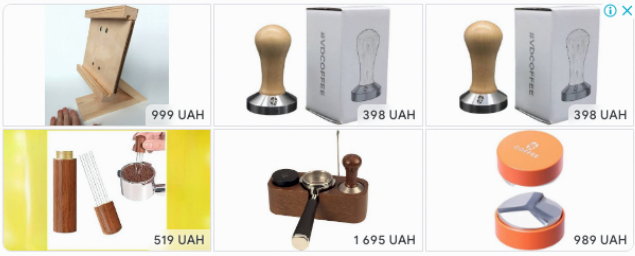


Senegalese family that settled in Gao.

- Understanding the Crusades from an Islamic Perspective
- The Mali Empire: The Rise of the Richest Civilization in West Africa
- Ten of Africa's Most Powerful Kings, Queens, Warriors and Legends

Son of a Djinn: Muhammad I Askia's Claim to the Throne

It is unsurprising that little has been recorded about Askia's early life, as he was neither related to the ruling Sunni Dynasty nor to any other known royal family . Thus, his family background made him an insignificant figure at that point in time.

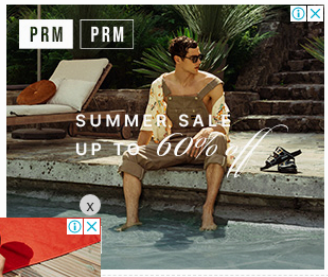


Additionally, as Askia was not of royal blood , he did not have any legitimate claim to the throne.

Askia came to power by overthrowing the Sunni Dynasty. Between 1464 and 1492, the Songhai Empire prospered under the rule of Sunni Ali. His successor, Sunni Baru, however, was a much less capable emperor and the dynasty came to an end just a year after Sunni Ali's death.

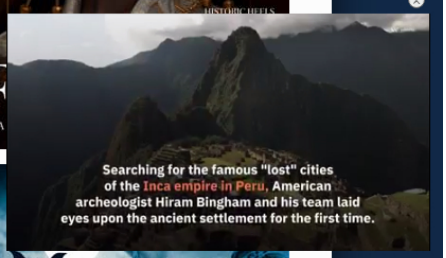
Muhammad I Askia Leads the Revolt

One of the issues faced throughout Sunni Ali's reign was the division between the inhabitants of the countryside, who continued their pagan practices, and those of the cities, who had embraced Islam . While Sunni Ali successfully balanced the interests of both parties, Sunni Baru favored his rural subjects. As a consequence, Sunni Baru was regarded as a traitor to Islam and dissatisfaction among the urban Muslims grew. This quickly developed into a full-blown revolt, which was led by Askia.



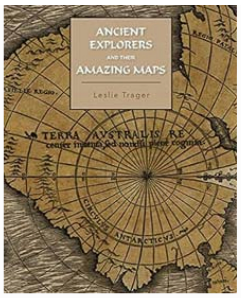
knbk.in.ua

Despite having numerical superiority, Sunni Baru failed to exploit this advantage and his army



MOST READ TODAY

- Long-Lost Legendary Theater of Nero Finally Excavated in Central Rome
- 7,000-Year-Old Austrian Salt Mine Holds Bronze Age Secrets (Video)
- Why Did Ancient Scots Prepare 'Frankenstein' Mummies?
- Tattooed Scythian Warriors, Descendants of the Amazons? Part One
- Did Descendants of Cleopatra VII Survive and Produce the Legendary Queen Zenobia of Palmyra?
- Blemmyes: The Headless Men of Ancient and Medieval Mythology



was decisively defeated by the rebels at the Battle of Anfao on the April 12, 1493. Sunni Baru was deposed and went into exile, thus marking the end of the Sunni Dynasty.

Muhammad I Askia was dubbed Askia the Great. (Afric Network / YouTube)

It was after this event that the title 'Askia' was adopted by the new ruler of the Songhai Empire. Some sources state that this name translates to mean 'forceful one', while others claim that it was derived from 'a si tya' (meaning 'he will not be'), which is a reference to the insult hurled at him by the women of the deposed Sunni Dynasty. In the latter case, the adoption of 'Askia' was meant to ridicule these women.

Askia the Great Establishes His Rule

As ruler of the Songhai Empire, Askia sought to enhance the status of Islam in his realm, which is reflected in some of the administrative reforms he instituted. For instance, the Quran became the foundation of the state's civil code and al-Maghili, a Moroccan reformer, was appointed as the emperor's adviser in matters of religious orthodoxy.

PRM PRM
-25%

It was also Askia who established Islam as the official religion of the nobles, which is another sign of his commitment to this religion. Moreover, in 1496, Askia went on the hajj (pilgrimage) to Mecca. According to a chronicler who accompanied the emperor on the pilgrimage, the djinn of Mecca appointed Askia caliph and told him his rights over the former vassals of the Sunnis.

Mecca in 1718. (Public Domain) In 1496 Askia went on the hajj to Mecca.

Other administrative reforms initiated by Askia were of a civil or military nature. For instance, he divided the Songhai Empire into provinces, each of which was administered by a governor. This allowed Askia to consolidate the regions conquered by his Sunni predecessors by placing them under an efficient administration. Askia also organized a standing army and a fleet of canoes

PARTNERS

NEXUS MAGAZINE
In-depth articles on alternative health, future science, conspiracies & the unexplained.

INNER TRADITIONS BEAR & COMPANY

Militaria.pl

knbk.in.ua

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

Sponsored Stories

Маленькі, приховані та смертоносні: міни стали на зава…
RFI

Президентка Угорщини відвідає Україну на запрошення уряду
RFI

Президент Болгарії Румен Радєв звинуватив Україну у затягуванн…
RFI

Recommended by Outbrain

under the command of a general and an admiral, respectively. Moreover, Askia appointed officials who oversaw various aspects of the empire, including its finance, agriculture, and judiciary.

- Famous and Powerful Eunuchs of the Ancient World
- Royal Palaces of Abomey, Benin: The Cultural Epicenter of One of Africa's Greatest Empires Was Stained with Blood
- The First Caliphs of Islam: Power, Corruption, War, and Treachery in the Rashidun Caliphate

While he was an exceptional statesman, Askia did not fare as well as a military leader . He was victorious in some campaigns, but met defeat in others. Nevertheless, the size and power of the Songhai Empire was unmatched in West Africa during Askia's reign and its influence was felt well beyond its borders.

Askia's Tomb

In 1528, Askia was deposed by his eldest son, Musa, who ruled for three years before being assassinated by his brothers. Musa was succeeded by Benkan, one of Askia's nephews. In order to secure his power, Benkan had his uncle banished onto an island in the Niger River and he was forced to stay there until 1537. In that year, Benkan was deposed by one of Askia's sons, Ismail, who became the new ruler of the Songhai Empire. Askia was invited back to Gao by his son and as a reward gifted Ismail his green turban and sabre.

The founder of the Askia Dynasty died in the following year and was buried in Gao. An earthen pyramid surmounted by wooden spikes was erected over his burial place and it remains one of the most revered sites in West Africa today.

Tomb of Askia the Great. (Mattes / CC BY-SA 3.0)

*Top image: Askia the Great, ruler of the Songhai Empire 1493 to 1528, in the Game Civilization V. Source: Civilization Wiki

By Wu Mingren

References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: News History Important Events

Tags: Gao Africa Askia the Great Songhai Empire Sunni Baru Battle of Anfao islam Muhammad I Askia mali

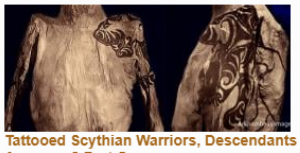
COMMENTS (2 Comments)



Sponsored Content

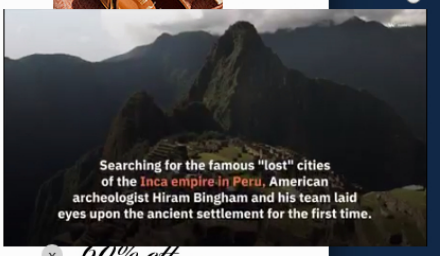
Smartfeed

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends Technology Ancient Places

Tattooed Scythian Warriors, Descendants of the Amazons? Part One
Herodotus describes the Scythians living in the area north of the Black Sea about three thousand years ago. According to him they traced their ancestry directly from Zeus and the river nymph...

Blemmyes: The Headless Men of Ancient and Medieval Mythology



What Makes Sirius, the Dog Star, So Special?

The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel

The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe

What is Shambhala? Understanding the Mysterious Kingdom of Shambhala

60% off
ВІДКРИВАЙ ▸

SUMMER SALE
UP TO

Babbel

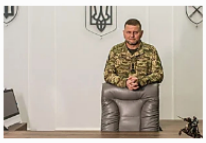
Read More ❯

Українці у Польщі: як не втратити тимчасовий захист?

RFI

Here's What Unsold Dubai Villas Might Cost You In 2023!

Dubai Villas | Search Ads



Творчість попри війну: 14-річна художниця з…

RFI

Кандидат у президенти США Майк Пенс із…

RFI

Дратує, коли кажуть, що контрнаступ розпочався…

RFI

Життя під час війни: як нідерландець розвиває свою…

RFI

Incredible toothbrush is all the rage in Ukraine

Teeth Care

How Much Does Weight Loss Surgery In Mexico Cost? Yo…

Hurry, Deals Might Not Last Long!

Weight Loss Offers | Search Ads

Володимир Зеленський: Україна ніколи не…

RFI

Owning A Villa In Dubai Might Not Be As Costly As You…

Dubai Villas

Українська телеведуча підкорює Європу…

RFI

60% off

ВІДКРИВАЙ▸

SUMMER SALE

UP TO

60% off

ВІДКРИВАЙ▸

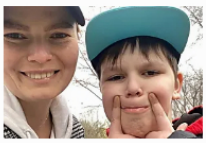
60% off

ВІДКРИВАЙ▸

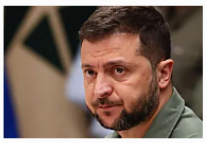
SUMMER SALE

UP TO

60% off



ВІДКРИВАЙ▸



Зеленський на Одещині: «Ворог точно не…

RFI

Футболки від Марка: як хлопчик із аутизмом зароблял…

RFI

Володимир Зеленський: Україна готова продовжит…

RFI

Learn Just Enough of the Local Language for Your Trip

Don't be that tourist stuck with English. Learn basi…

Babbel

Артем Ситник: боротьба з корупцією, як і…

RFI

Incredible toothbrush is all the rage in Ukraine

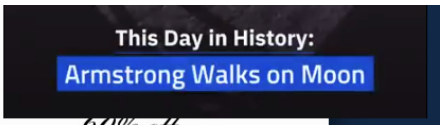
Teeth Care

Back Pain Treatments in Mexico that may…

Back Pain Treatments | Sear…

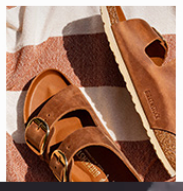
Авіатроща у Польщі: літак впав на ангар…

RFI



Бен Воллес оголосив про намір залишити пост…

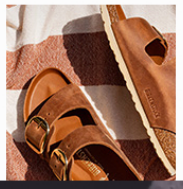
RFI



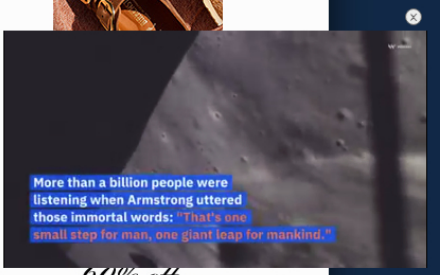
Гутцайт: наші спортсмени не почуватимуться у…

RFI

60% off



ВІДКРИВАЙ ▸



60% off

ВІДКРИВАЙ ▸

60% off

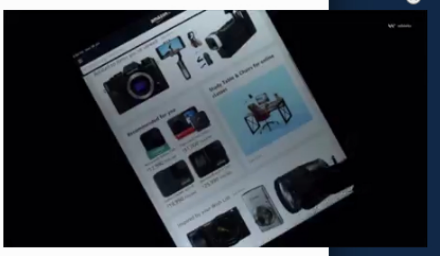
ВІДКРИВАЙ ▸

«Вони їм потрібні»: Байден прокоментував...

RFI

knbk.in.ua

WU



Wu Mingren ('Dhwty') has a Bachelor of Arts in Ancient History and Archaeology. Although his primary interest is in the ancient civilizations of the Near East, he is also interested in other geographical regions, as well as other time periods.... Read More

knbk.in.ua

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)
- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Did Descendants of Cleopatra VII Survive and Produce the Legendary Queen Zenobia of Palmyra?

Cleopatra VII, the last pharaoh of an independent Egypt, had four children.

- 4 Powerful and Inspiring Women Rulers that Changed Society and the World
- The Legendary Helmet of King Henry VIII (Video)
- From Gladiator to Ben Hur, Top Roman Historian Rates Famous Movie Scenes (Video)
- These Objects Reveal Intimate Details of Tutankhamun's Life (Video)
- The One-Eyed African Queen Who Defeated the Roman Empire: Amanirenas

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel

Deep within the realms of ancient Jewish folklore lies a tale of intrigue and mystery surrounding the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel and their elusive barrier.

- The Enduring Mystery and Ancient Artistry of Bolivia's Sajama Lines
- Exploring the Enigma of the Hellfire Club: Dublin's Haunted Secret
- The Enigma of Sweden's Great Lake Beast (Video)
- Smallpox Vaccine Sheds New Light on Mysterious Kaspar Hauser Legend
- Mystery of the Latin Inscribed Artifacts Found in Arizona (Video)

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Did Descendants of Cleopatra VII Survive and Produce the Legendary Queen Zenobia of Palmyra?

- Top Roman Historian Rates Famous Movie Scenes (Video)
- Weapons of Triumph: Caesar's British Invasion (Video)
- A History of Roman Britain: A Land Transformed
- Halls of Ancient Wisdom: 7 Remarkable Ancient Libraries

TOP NEW STORIES

Myanmar's Bagan Temple City Faces Modern Threats (Video)

Myanmar's ancient temple city, Bagan, with its mesmerizing array of over 3,000 temples, stands as a testament to its rich history dating back to the 11th and 13th centuries.

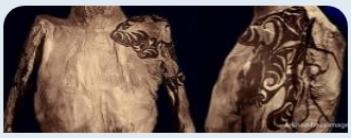
HUMAN ORIGINS

The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory

This is the account of the discovery of a skull that has the potential to change what we know about human evolution, and a suppression and cover-up which followed. In 1959, in an area called...

ANCIENT PLACES

Long-Lost Legendary Theater of Nero Finally Excavated in Central Rome

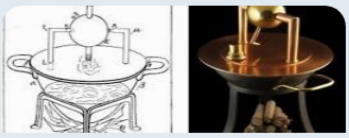


One of the ancient world's most searched-for Roman structures has finally been found.

- Ancient Stamp Found at Pre-Viking Site in Denmark May Point to a Powerful King and Power Center
- Hungary's Kurultaj Festival Celebrates Warrior Roots (Video)
- Long-Lost Legendary Theater of Nero Finally Excavated in Central Rome
- The Incredible Living Root Bridges of Meghalaya (Video)
- DNA Study Unveils Machu Picchu Servants' Enigmatic Diversity

- Asherah: God's Forgotten Wife
- The Stone Age: The First 99 Percent of Human History
- Evidence that Noah's Ark Landed on a Mountain 17 Miles South of Ararat
- Aboriginal Dreamtime Stories and the Creation Myths of Australia
- The origins of human beings according to ancient Sumerian texts

- 7,000-Year-Old Austrian Salt Mine Holds Bronze Age Secrets (Video)
- The Extraordinary and Ancient Entrance Grave of Bant's Carn
- Hungary's Kurultaj Festival Celebrates Warrior Roots (Video)
- Myanmar's Bagan Temple City Faces Modern Threats (Video)
- The Incredible Living Root Bridges of Meghalaya (Video)



MYTHS & LEGENDS

Tattooed Scythian Warriors, Descendants of the Amazons? Part One

Herodotus describes the Scythians living in the area north of the Black Sea about three thousand years ago. According to him they traced their ancestry directly from Zeus and the river nymph...

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

The ancient invention of the steam engine by the Hero of Alexandria

In our society today we are often surprised and impressed by the advancement of technology and engineering, a major characteristic of our civilisation. However if we look back more than 2,000 years...

OPINION

Naupa Iglesia: An Egyptian Portal in the Andes?

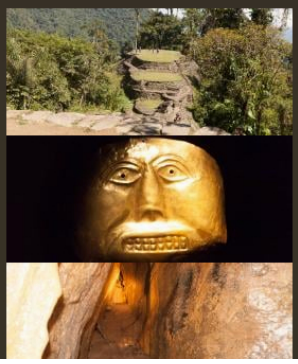
Halfway up a near-vertical ravine in the Andes, someone carved an inverted V-shaped entrance into the mountainside.

- Blemmyes: The Headless Men of Ancient and Medieval Mythology
- What Makes Sirius, the Dog Star, So Special?
- The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe
- What is Shambhala? Understanding the Mysterious Kingdom of Shambhala

- 2300-year-old Glass Workshop and Ritual Sanctuary Uncovered in Czech Republic!
- The Discovery that Revealed Ancient Humans Navigated the Seas 130,000 Years Ago
- 300,000-Year-Old Schöningen Spears Reveal Prehistoric Advanced Woodworking
- 6 Advanced Ancient Inventions Beyond Modern Understanding
- Here Be Dragons: Exploring the Hunt-Lenox Globe (Video)

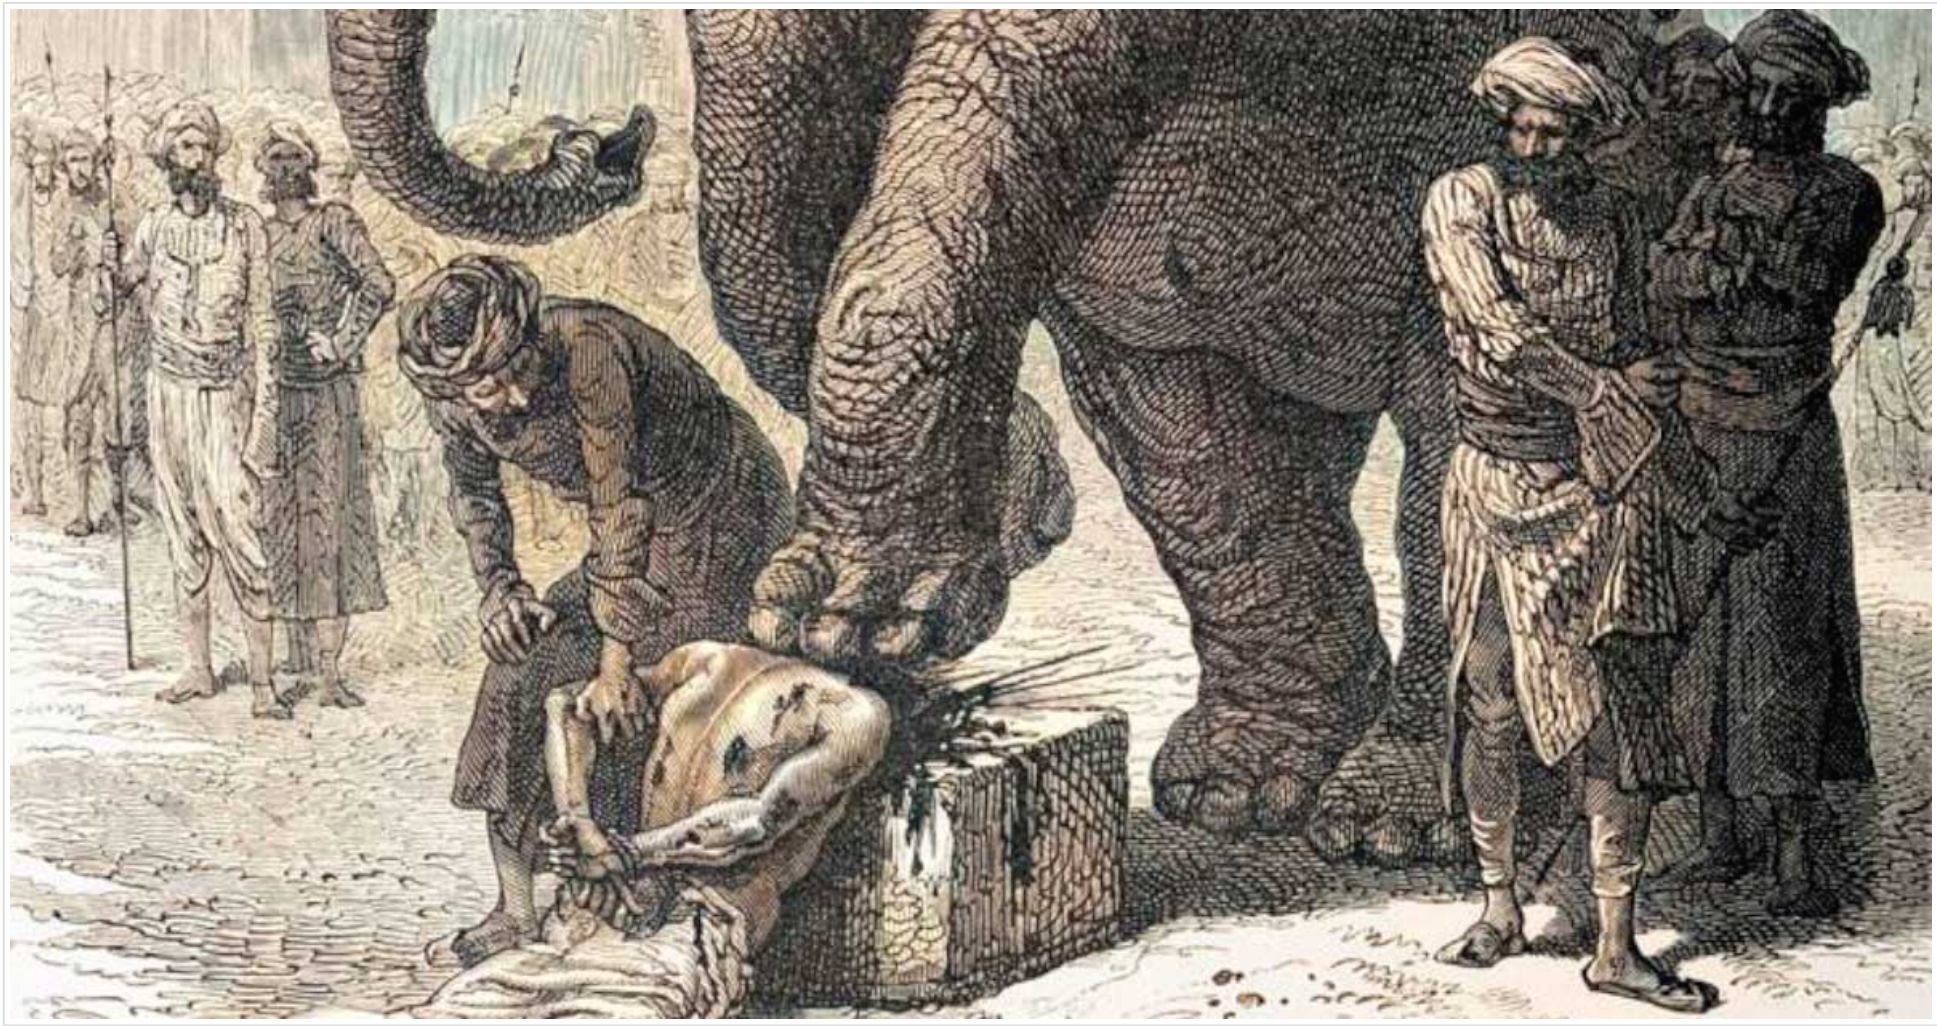
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

OUR MISSION



At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.



We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Inner Mysteries of
Egypt and the Nile
Secure your place now!
Ancient Origins Tours
$500
Early Bird Discount Until October 31
24 February to 10 March
2023 EGYPT TOUR
14 Nights 15 Days

UPDATED 25 SEPTEMBER, 2022 - 22:59 JOANNA GILLAN

Execution by Elephant Was a Brutal Form of Capital Punishment For 2,000 Years

READ LATER PRINT

Elephants are one of the smartest and most powerful animals in the world. It is no wonder then that these magnificent beasts were exploited and trained to be brutal executioners. Death by elephant is a form of capital punishment that has been used for at least 2,000 years, particularly in India, but also in other parts of South and Southeast Asia.

Execution by elephant was brutal and terrifying. In India, where this form of capital punishment was known as gunga rao , the accused was crushed to death with brute force. But death was not always swift.

Elephants were under the constant control of a mahout (elephant trainer), who forced the animal, through the use of a sharp metal hook, to carry out their commands.

Illustration of execution by elephant from the Akbarnama, the official chronicle of the reign of Akbar, the third Mughal emperor
(Public Domain)

Under the control of a mahout, elephants could inflict a slow and torturous death by crushing the convicted person's limbs one by one and tossing them about the ground, dragging them, or stabbing them with their tusks, before finishing them off by crushing their skull.

In neighboring Sri Lanka, elephants were said to have been fitted with sharp blades on their tusks, which would rip the criminal to pieces. In the former Kingdom of Siam (now Thailand), elephants were trained to toss their victims into the air before crushing them to death. In the Kingdom of Cochinchina (southern Vietnam), criminals were tied to a stake, whilst an elephant would charge into them, and crush them to death.

The popularity of execution by elephant continued into the 19th century, and it was only with the increasing presence of the British in India that the popularity of this brutal penalty finally went into decline.

Top image: Historic illustration of execution by elephant. Source: Pixaterra / Adobe Stock

Read more: Execution by Elephant: A Gory Method of Capital Punishment

By Joanna Gillan

Section: News Weird Facts

Tags: elephants execution torture capital punishment India

(5 Comments)

Sponsored Stories

The Moche Uncensored! 15 Surprising Erotic Ceramics of Peru

The Moche civilization of Peru left behind detailed accounts of their sexual customs in the form of hundreds of sexually explicit ceramics.

Ancient Origins

The Ancient Chinese Healing Art of Qigong

Qigong has a long history in China because it was so good for human life energy, breathing and meditative needs. Today it is practiced across the planet.

Ancient Origins

Why Did Victorian Women Willingly Sell Themselves at Wife Auctions?

From 1700 to 1850, wife auctions were the easiest, cheapest way for man and wife to go their separate ways in England, but most of the advantages went to the men.

Ancient Origins

JOANNA

Joanna Gillan is a Co-Owner, Editor and Writer of Ancient Origins.

Joanna completed a Bachelor of Science (Psychology) degree in Australia and published research in the field of Educational Psychology. She has a rich and varied career, ranging from teaching... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Anna Komnene: The Byzantine Biographer Princess and First Female Historian

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

7 Legendary Cryptids that Turned Out to Be Real!

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

The Greek God Chaos: The Primordial Cosmic Deity

Chiron, the Noble Elder Centaur of Greek Mythology

Charybdis: The Terrifying Whirlpool Monster of Greek Mythology

Huge Roman Mosaic Depicting Trojan War Saved From Terrorists in Syria

Nike, Greek Goddess of Victory and Zeus's Charioteer of Glory

These days, it seems that if an author wants to go straight to the top of the New York Times bestseller list, all they need to do is release a tell-all memoir or biography aimed at a famous politician or a member of a royal family.

Loved to Death? Autopsy Reveals Shocking Cause of Death for Mummified Child

Momentary Monarchs: 10 Rulers Who Turned Their Back On The Throne

Saint Nicholas Discovery! Has the Tomb of the Real Santa Been Found in Turkey?

King Charles I: The Only English Monarch Executed for Treason

Why Was Gout The Kingliest of Ailments?

Cryptozoology is the search for and study of animals that mainstream science considers to be mythical or non-existent.

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

Mysterious Cases of Living Fossils, Suspended Animation, and Hibernation

Apocalyptic Apocrypha: What was Removed from the Bible - and Why?

From Araucanía, Chile to Berchtesgaden, Germany - A Remote Connection?

The Alien Petroglyphs of Chile's Valle del Encanto

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Momentary Monarchs: 10 Rulers Who Turned Their Back On The Throne

Throughout history, there have been numerous monarchs - some good, some bad, and many largely forgotten.

King Charles I: The Only English Monarch Executed for Treason

Salt Sowing: An Ancient Method to Settle Scores

Queen Elizabeth II, the Second Longest-Reigning Monarch in History, Dies

The Medieval Crushing of the Cathars and Sexualizing of Witches

Mediterranean Bronze Age Collapse Linked to Deadly Typhoid and Plague

TOP NEW STORIES

Anna Komnene: The Byzantine Biographer Princess and First Female Historian

These days, it seems that if an author

HUMAN ORIGINS

Ancient Anomalous Human Skeletons: Humanity Could be Much Older Than We Think

There are many reported human skeletal

ANCIENT PLACES

More than a Dozen Mysterious Prehistoric Tunnels in Cornwall, England, Mystify Researchers

More than a dozen tunnels have been wants to go straight to the top of the New York Times bestseller list, all they need to do is release a tell-all memoir or biography aimed at a famous politician or a member of a royal family.

Medieval Sex Rules - How Not to Have a Good Time

Loved to Death? Autopsy Reveals Shocking Cause of Death for Mummified Child

Female Contenders For Alexander's Crown: Cynane, Adea, Olympias

Unique 2,000-Year-Old Roman Road Accidentally Uncovered in Worcestershire

Ten-Year-Old Finds Rare, Wooden, Viking Age Bowl in Norway

MYTHS & LEGENDS

finds which are in discordance with current evolutionary beliefs dating back to anomalously ancient geological periods in the distant past, way before it is accepted that human beings ever existed.

The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory

The 'Dynastic Race' and the Biblical 'Japheth' – Part I: After the Deluge

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

3: The Perfect Number - Trinity Symbolism in World Religious Traditions

Human Origins According to Ancient Greek Mythology

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

found in Cornwall, England, that are unique in the British Isles. No one knows why Iron Age people created them. The fact that the ancients supported their tops...

The Accidental Mummy: the discovery of an impeccably preserved woman from the Ming Dynasty

Uluburun, one of the oldest and wealthiest shipwrecks ever discovered

The Judean Date Palm: Extinct Tree Resurrected from Ancient Seeds

Nilometers: Ancient Egypt's Ingenious Invention Used Until Modern Times

The Rarely Told Story of Pre-Colonial Philippines

OPINION

The Greek God Chaos: The Primordial Cosmic Deity

Which came first: the chicken or the egg? If God created the universe, then who created God? If nothing existed before the Big Bang, then what created the cataclysm?

The 'Dynastic Race' and the Biblical 'Japheth' – Part I: After the Deluge

Jotunheim: Outsized Tales from the Norse Land of the Giants

Typhon and Echidna: Monster Makers of Greek Mythology

Did a Sultan Find Medusa's Sarcophagus in the Basilica Cistern?

Ubasute: Is the Ancient Tradition of Dumping the Elderly in a Forest Encouraging Modern Murder?

Philip's Fountain: The Oldest Still-In-Use Hydraulic Work in the World

The Filippeios Krini (Philip's Fountain) is a 2,300-year-old fountain that was commissioned by King Philip II of Macedonia. It has miraculous survived in working order to the present day, making it...

150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

Nilometers: Ancient Egypt's Ingenious Invention Used Until Modern Times

Da Vinci's Deadly Designs: The Wildest Weapons of the Renaissance Man

8 Truly Puzzling Artworks Showing Ancient People Using Modern Tech!

Egyptian Blue – The Oldest Known Artificial Pigment

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

Ancient Origins Tours

Inner Mysteries of Egypt and the Nile

$500 Early bird discount extended until November 30.

24 February to 10 March | 2023 EGYPT TOUR | 14 Nights 15 Days

Secure your place now!

UPDATED 30 OCTOBER, 2022 - 21:53 KHADIJA TAUSEEF

Five Female Monarchs of the Muslim World

READ LATER PRINT

The death of British Queen Elizabeth II earlier this year provoked retrospectives on her reign, as well as reflection on the rule of other female monarchs. Many powerful women leaders of the West are well-known, but there have also been numerous Muslim queens and sultanas, who ruled over powerful kingdoms.

1)Sultana Taj ul-Alam (ruled 1641-75)

Taj ul-Alam Safiatuddin Syah was born in 1612, the daughter of Iskandar Muda, king of Aceh (present-day Indonesia), and his royal wife, Putri Sani. Her father's rule was known as the 'golden age' of Aceh, but he was a despot, ruling through military might rather than diplomacy. At the time of his death, he had no legitimate male heirs, having killed his own son just months before his own demise. Therefore, he nominated and placed his son-in-law, Iskandar Thani on the throne.

This move by Iskandar Muda disregarded the Orang Kaya, a league of nobles that helped run the kingdom. The name of the group of elites translates to 'rich people'; as such, they played a very crucial role in the royal succession. As Sher Banu A.L. Khan wrote:

> "The chronicles show that the elites played an important role in appointing and demanding rulers: weak rulers—those who possessed unacceptable personality traits injurious to the kingdom—were removed. This means that the nobility's consent and acceptance of a candidate was a vital condition for a ruler's succession."

Iskandar Thani was an ostentatious and extravagant ruler. His reign saw the depletion of the royal treasury, as the king was ordering extravagant jewelry from the Dutch. After just five years in power, he died mysteriously, leading many historians to conclude that he had been murdered. His death led to a crisis because there were no legitimate male heirs with a proper royal background. When a few among the Orang Kaya nominated themselves to be king, their fellow Orang Kaya didn't want to see one of their own on the throne, so attention turned to Safiatuddin, the daughter of Iskander Muda and widow of Iskandar Thani. Hossein Kamaly wrote in his book, A History of Islam in 21 Women :

> “When it comes to succession, the Sultanate had no hard-and-fast rules. A suitable candidate had to be a native of Aceh and of royal birth and had to demonstrate commitment to the principles of justice, as defined in Islamic terms and understood in Malay tradition or custom (adat).”

Since there was no need for the monarch to be male, within three days of Iskandar Thani’s death, Safiatuddin ascended the throne with the approval of the Orang Kaya and the ulama (Muslim scholars of Islamic law) at the age of 29. She inherited a throne in trouble because the Dutch East India Company was slowly establishing power in neighboring territories. Despite numerous political clashes with the Dutch, where they were trying to gain a monopoly on the tin and pepper trade, Aceh held its own against the pressure and even retained their vassal states .

Sultana Taj ul-Alam Safiatuddin Syah successfully ruled Aceh for thirty-five years, paving the way for future queens. Dutch scholars have written that during the queen's rule, it felt like Aceh had always been ruled by a female monarch. After her death in 1675, three successive queens took her place.

- Sobekneferu’s Legacy: The Sacred Places of Egypt’s First Female Pharaoh
- Sultan Razia: The First and Only Female Royal of Delhi

Painting of the Sultana Taj ul-Alam Safiatuddin Syah, who ruled the Sultanate of Aceh for thirty-five years. (Hanataturi / CC BY SA 4.0 )

2)Sultana Shajar al-Durr (ruled 1249-1257)

Shajar al-Durr was the first and only woman to sit on the Egyptian throne after Pharoah Cleopatra VII , who had reigned thousands of years earlier. Shajar al-Durr was born a slave, but after her marriage to Malik al-Salih Najm al-Din Ayyub, the eighth sovereign of the Ayyubid dynasty, Shajar rose to the rank of queen consort. However, she was thrust into a position of power when the Seventh Crusade , led by King Louis IX, invaded Egypt.

Her husband, Malik al-Salih, died in the middle of the conflict, and Shajar had to hide her husband's death to keep the soldiers' spirits up. She issued orders under her husband's name and won a decisive victory, even capturing the French king. Her intelligence and worth were recognized by the nobles, who chose to place her on the throne when Malik al-Salih's son failed to be a good leader. Her first act was to negotiate an enormous ransom for King Louis IX of France.

Unfortunately, Egypt was under the control of the Caliphate of Baghdad, and the Caliph al-Musta'sim violently opposed the accession of a woman to the Egyptian throne. While Shajar al-Durr didn't demand any grand titles, she did ask for simple recognition of her talents and capability as the Egyptian head of state. In response to her accession, the caliph sent a simple message that was intended to humiliate. As Fatima Mernissi wrote in her book, " The Forgotten Queens of Islam" :

> "The Caliph then sent to the Egyptian emirs the famous message, so humiliating to her, in which he proclaimed that he was ready to provide them with some capable men, if no more existed in Egypt, since they were reduced to choosing a woman."

Despite the caliph's rejection, Shajar al-Durr adopted the title Malikat al-Muslimin , which means "Queen of the Muslims." However, just 80 days into her reign, immense pressure from external forces led to Shajar agreeing to a second marriage, with Izz al-Din Ayubek. A condition for the marriage was that Ayubek had to divorce his first wife, which he did.

Shajar al-Durr may have held the reigns of the kingdom, but her new husband didn't like being sidelined and planned to marry a foreign princess to increase his control. When Shajar found out, sources claim that she may have orchestrated his assassination. In the end, Ayubek's son, Mansur, took control with the aid of the Mamaleek, Egyptian nobles.

Shajar al-Durr was handed over to Mansur's mother, the previous wife of Ayubek, who exacted terrible revenge on the former queen.

> "Shajar al-Durr, the former Sultana was beaten to death by wooden shoes, then her body was dragged by the feet to the top of the citadel and then thrown to her death from the top. Shajar's body was torn apart by dogs before they took pity and buried her remains within the mausoleum, she had constructed herself."

Despite her short reign, she achieved a great military victory, commissioned grand monuments, and tried to make Egypt a grand empire. Unfortunately, she was surrounded by men who felt threatened by her power and authority, and that is why she met such a gruesome fate.

- Killer Queens: 5 of Ancient History's Most Outstanding Female Rulers
- Queen Tamar: The Confident Female Ruler of the Georgian Golden Age

Mausoleum of Shajar al-Durr in al-Khalifa neighborhood, Cairo (R Prazares / CC BY SA 4.0 )

3)Sultana Khadija (ruled 1347-79)

Sultana Khadija of the Maldives is another example of a female monarch with a long, successful reign. In 1347, after a vicious power struggle, Sultana Khadija, daughter of Sultan Salah al-Din Salih, ascended the Maldives throne and ruled for 33 years. It was during her reign that the famous explorer Ibn Battuta traveled to the Maldives and recorded important information regarding Khadija's enthronement:

> "The only survivors from the ruling house were his three sisters…The inhabitants of the Maldive islands preferred for sovereign Khadija and she was the wife of their orator (khatib) Jamal-ud-din who became vezir."

Orders were issued in the name of the sultana and a khutbah, a religious address including recognition of the sovereign, was even proclaimed in her name. This was something that had never been done for any other female queen, as the khutbah was thought to have been reserved for a male ruler. Sultana Khadija was a wise ruler and reigned over her kingdom with the help of her husband. She died in 1379 and was replaced by her younger sister, Myriam.

4)Sultan Regent Terken Khatun (ruled 1072-1094)

Terken Khatun was the second wife and chief consort of the Sultan of the Seljuk Empire , Malik Shah I. She was a Qarakhanid princess and the daughter of Tamghach Khan Ibrahim, a great king of his era. To secure her position further, she gave birth to the heir of the empire, Mahmud I.

Her life changed when her husband was assassinated in 1092. Fearing for her son's life, and because he was still a minor, Terkun took power in his name. Her first act as regent was to secure her rule. Her toughest challenge came from the Abbasid Caliph al-Muqtadi (coincidentally also her son-in-law), who was opposed to having a woman as ruler and thus would not allow the khutbah to be proclaimed in her name.

Despite the opposition, she was able to improve the political situation in her country, trying to pave the way for her son. Unfortunately, she died suddenly during a conflict, tragically followed a month later by her son.

Malik-Shah I seated on his throne, circa 1315. His death placed Terken Khatun on the throne as regent, although her reign as a female monarch was quite short. (Public Domain)

5)Queen Arwa al-Sulayhi (ruled 1065-1138)

Arwa Bint Ahmad al-Sulayhiyya was the queen of Yemen and held power for almost half a century. She is said to have enjoyed the privilege and unquestioned position of head of state. Like Sultana Khadija, Arwa had a khutbah proclaimed in her name.

Arwa suffered the loss of her parents at a young age and was raised in the court of her paternal uncle, Ali al-Sulayhi, and his queen, Asma Bint Shihab al-Sulayhiyya. It was in this environment that Arwa was raised by her strong-willed aunt, who ruled as an equal with her husband. One difference between Arwa and her aunt Asma was that Asma ruled without a veil, attending meetings with her face uncovered; however, Arwa chose to remain veiled. Impressed by Arwa's intelligence, at age 17, Ali and Asma married her to their son, al-Mukarram. After the death of Asma, Arwa assumed control with her husband, al-Mukarram, who granted her the same respect and freedom that had been granted to his mother.

Fatima Mernissi wrote in her book, The Forgotten Queens of Islam :

> "The historians emphasize that 'Arwa gave her full attention to military conquests, needing to prove that the dynasty was still as strong as ever despite the loss of its great leader Ali and the disability of al-Mukarram. In politics, unlike in music, being a woman does not soften behavior."

Another 19th century historian, Yasin al-Khatib al-Amri, described Arwa as a sovereign who "perfectly understood how to manage the affairs of state and of war."

Queen Arwa al-Sulayhi was a successful female monarch, leaving behind beautiful architectural monuments like the famous Sana'a mosque. She set up cultural and religious centers, making sure that the teachers and scholars were paid well. Queen Arwa was an intellectually gifted and efficient queen, as well as a matchless administrator.

Queen Arwa's Mosque, as seen from the Palace of Queen Arwa (Mufaddalqn / CC BY SA 3.0 )

Conclusions about Female Monarchs

The circumstances surrounding the ascension of these female monarchs were each unique, but there is no denying that once they were seated on the throne, they carried out their duties with vigor and responsibility. They protected their people from invaders, kept their economies thriving, and helped influence the cultural and spiritual renaissance of their respective kingdoms. They deserve to be remembered for their extraordinary talents and bravery that kept their people safe and their empires prospering.

Top Image: Female monarchs have been rare, but not unheard of, across the world. Like their male counterparts, they had mixed track records. Source: FrankBoston / Adobe Stock

By Khadija Tauseef

References

Section: News History Famous People

Tags: Queen monarch Muslim islam Sultan islamic

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC Smithsonian
HISTORY
theguardian
CNN
FOX NEWS
THE TIMES
DER SPIEGEL
The New York Times
The Washington Post
Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Amber Through the Ages: Origin Myths, Medical Uses, and Beautiful Baubles

The Greek God Chaos: The Primordial Cosmic Deity

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Five Female Monarchs of the Muslim World

The death of British Queen Elizabeth II earlier this year provoked retrospectives on her reign, as well as reflection on the rule of other female monarchs.

History's REAL Faces: 15 Death Masks of Famous and Infamous Figures

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

7 Legendary Cryptids that Turned Out to Be Real!

Cryptozoology is the search for and study of animals that mainstream science considers to be mythical or non-existent.

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

Chiron, the Noble Elder Centaur of Greek Mythology

Charybdis: The Terrifying Whirlpool Monster of Greek Mythology

Huge Roman Mosaic Depicting Trojan War Saved From Terrorists in Syria

Anna Komnene: The Byzantine Biographer Princess and First Female Historian

Loved to Death? Autopsy Reveals Shocking Cause of Death for Mummified Child

Momentary Monarchs: 10 Rulers Who Turned Their Back On The Throne

Saint Nicholas Discovery! Has the Tomb of the Real Santa Been Found in Turkey?

Mysterious Cases of Living Fossils, Suspended Animation, and Hibernation

Apocalyptic Apocrypha: What was Removed from the Bible - and Why?

From Araucanía, Chile to Berchtesgaden, Germany - A Remote Connection?

The Alien Petroglyphs of Chile's Valle del Encanto

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Magnetic Fields Reveal the Truth Behind Biblical Battle Narratives

Biblical accounts of ancient military campaigns against the kingdoms of Judah and Israel have been confirmed by archaeologists in a very interesting new study.

Momentary Monarchs: 10 Rulers Who Turned Their Back On The Throne

King Charles I: The Only English Monarch Executed for Treason

Salt Sowing: An Ancient Method to Settle Scores

Queen Elizabeth II, the Second Longest-Reigning Monarch in History, Dies

The Medieval Crushing of the Cathars and Sexualizing of Witches

TOP NEW STORIES

Xōchipilli: Fun-Loving Aztec God of Sex, Drugs, and Music

The Aztecs were known for their many unique deities, but one of the most fascinating is Xōchipilli, the Aztec god of

HUMAN ORIGINS

The Gristhorpe Man: A Bronze Age Skeleton with a Story to Tell

On the July 10, 1834, William Beswick excavated a barrow on his land in Gristhorpe, North Yorkshire, England.

ANCIENT PLACES

This is What a Man from the Tomb of Sunken Skulls Looked Like

When archaeologists were excavating a dry prehistoric lake bed in Motala, Sweden in 2009, they stumbled upon one flowers, love, art, and fertility, as well as patron of homosexuality.

What he found gave him quite the surprise. Beswick discovered a coffin in the shape of a...

of the most peculiar archaeological discoveries the nation had seen – the so-called '...

New Discoveries At Guatemala's "Last" Maya City

Alchemist British Monks: Digging Up The Old Gunpowder Mills

Hero's Clever Trumpet Automaton: A 2,000-Year-Old Doorbell

Is Bacteria Hiding on Mars? Indestructible Microbe "Conan the Bacterium" Suggests There Is

Five Female Monarchs of the Muslim World

Top Ten Myths about Neanderthals

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

The 'Dynastic Race' and the Biblical 'Japheth' – Part I: After the Deluge

The origins of human beings according to ancient Sumerian texts

The Bizarre Disappearance and Discovery of Dale Stehling at Mesa Verde

Perfectly Preserved Byzantine Business and Gastronomy District Discovered in Turkey

L'Anse aux Meadows: Discovery of Norse settlement in Canada Proved Viking Sagas Contain Real History

The Many Legends Accounting for the Mysterious Trethevy Quoit

Jaisalmer Fort: The Imposing Desert Fort With a Bone-Chilling Custom

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Hidden in Plain Sight: The Pterodactyl of New Guinea

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Hero's Clever Trumpet Automaton: A 2,000-Year-Old Doorbell

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

Throughout history, every major culture has stories of reptilian monsters who threatened their livelihood. From the Egypt to India, and even the Sioux Nation, tales of these flying dinosaurs or winged lizards have filled the cultural imagination of societies throughout the ages.

Crossing the Veil: The Pre-Christian Origins of Halloween and Samhain

Where did King Arthur Acquire Excalibur, the Stone or the Lake?

Legendary Black Knights: Mysterious Medieval Entities of Neutrality

Xōchipilli: Fun-Loving Aztec God of Sex, Drugs, and Music

The Greek God Chaos: The Primordial Cosmic Deity

Much of the technology we have today is inspired by some of the most fascinating ancient inventions in history. One of these inventions was Hero's trumpet automaton, which is considered to be one of the earliest forms of the doorbell.

Wootz Damascus Steel: The Mysterious Metal that Was Used in Deadly Blades

Beaver's teeth 'used to carve the oldest wooden statue in the world'

150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

Romans Mastered Nanotechnology and Used it for Eye Catching Decoration

Ancient Chinese Earthquake Detector Invented 2,000 Years Ago Really Worked!

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

SUBSCRIBE

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14

01:00

- f2fafrica.com (https://face2faceafrica.com)
- Uncategorized (https://face2faceafrica.com/uncategorized)

Five inspiring lessons from the life of Mansa Musa, the wealthiest man in history

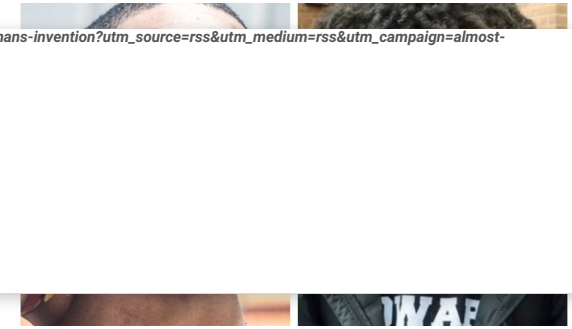
Bruno Goes (https://face2faceafrica.com/author/brunogoes) | December 15, 2022

SUBSCRIBE

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14

01:00



An artist's modern interpretation of Mansa Musa, ruler of Mali in the 1300s. Image: Illustration By Tim O'Brien

Mansa Musa was the fourteenth-century king (https://face2faceafrica.com/article/mali-mansa-musa-drove-worlds-intellectual-revival) of the West African Mali Empire. He is known for his legendary pilgrimage to Mecca, during which he is said to have brought an enormous amount of wealth to the cities along his route.

Today, Mansa Musa is remembered not only for his wealth, but also for his wisdom and generosity. Here are five inspiring lessons that we can all learn

TRENDING

- (https://face2faceafrica.com/article/howard-university-student-who-asked-for-financial-help-gets-22k-from-kyrie-irving)

Howard University student who asked for financial help gets $22K from Kyrie Irving

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/howard-university-student-who-asked-for-financial-help-gets-22k-from-kyrie-irving)

By
Francis Akhalbey
(https://face2faceafrica.com/author/fakhalbey)

SUBSCRIBE

of success. Despite his legendary riches, Mansa Musa is ınt of gold that he possessed, but for the wisdom and e used his wealth to benefit the people of his empire and

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14 01:00

on education allowed the empire to thrive and made it a center of learning and culture in West Africa.

3. Generosity can inspire others. During his pilgrimage to Mecca (https://face2faceafrica.com/article/here-are-some-looted-african-artifacts-in-british-museums) , Mansa Musa is said to have distributed so much gold that the value of the metal decreased significantly in the cities that he visited. He also funded the construction of mosques and other important buildings along his route. This generosity not only benefited the people he encountered, but it also inspired others to be more giving and compassionate.
4. Culture and diversity should be celebrated. The Mali Empire was a diverse and multicultural society, and Mansa Musa embraced this diversity. He encouraged trade and exchange between different peoples, which helped to create a rich and vibrant culture. This teaches us the importance of valuing and celebrating the unique perspectives and experiences of others.
5. Leadership is about serving others. As a king, Mansa Musa had great power and influence. But rather than using this power for his own gain, he used it to serve the people of his empire. He worked to improve the lives of his subjects and to create a better future for all. This teaches us that true leadership is about serving others and working for the greater good.

YOU MAY ALSO LIKE: FIVE INTERESTING THINGS ABOUT AFRICAN JEWS YOU PROBABLY DIDN'T KNOW (https://face2faceafrica.com/article/five-interesting-things-about-african-jews-you-probably-didnt-know) were-eliminated-in-argentina-throughout-history)

How black people were eliminated in Argentina throughout history

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/how-black-people-were-eliminated-in-argentina-throughout-history)

By
Nduta Waweru
(https://face2faceafrica.com/author/nwaweru)

- (https://face2faceafrica.com/article/this-is-why-rita-

SUBSCRIBE

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14

01:00

This is why Rita Marley moved to Ghana

In conclusion, the life of Mansa Musa offers many valuable lessons for us today. He reminds us that wealth is not the only measure of success, that education is a powerful tool, and that generosity can inspire others. He also teaches us the importance of celebrating culture and diversity, and of using our leadership for the benefit of others. These lessons are as relevant today as they were in the fourteenth century, and they remind us of the enduring power of wisdom, compassion, and service

RELATED STORIES

-
-
-
-

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/meet-the-first-black-and-the-first-female-in-massachusetts-to-become-a-licensed-cannabis-company)

Meet the first black and the first female in Massachusetts to become a licensed cannabis company

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/meet-the-first-black-and-the-first-female-in-massachusetts-to-become-a-licensed-cannabis-company)

SUBSCRIBE

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14

01:00

Close

Face2Face Africa © 2022

SUBSCRIBE

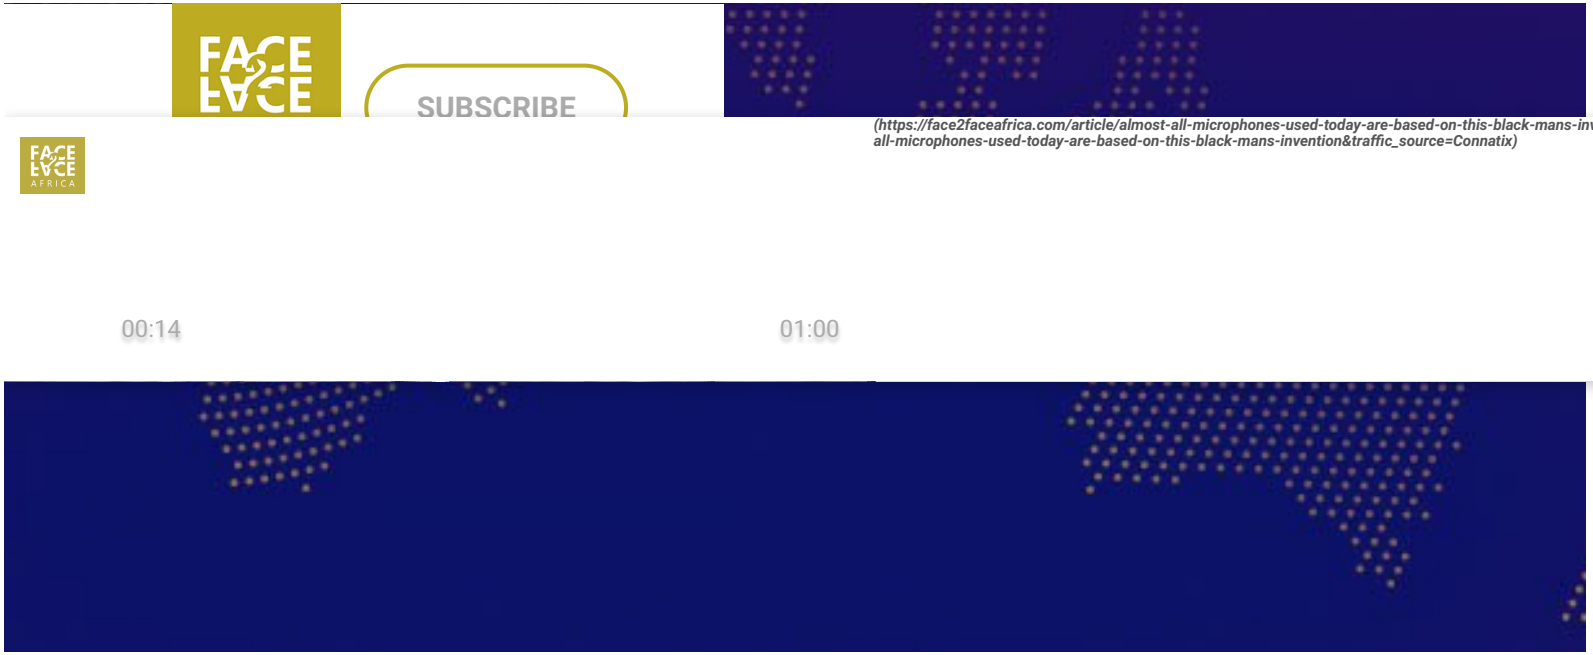
(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14

01:00

SUBSCRIBE

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)



00:14

01:00

Close

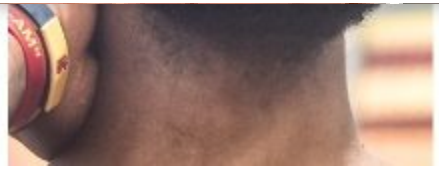
Close

Help us create more content like this

Already a member? Sign in.

Close

Close



Must Read

SUBSCRIBE

(https://face2faceafrica.com/article/almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention?utm_source=rss&utm_medium=rss&utm_campaign=almost-all-microphones-used-today-are-based-on-this-black-mans-invention&traffic_source=Connatix)

00:14

01:00

- Howard University student who asked for financial help gets $22K from Kyrie Irving

- This Black-owned grocery chain with 38 stores has secured $13.5 million to expand

ANCIENT ORIGINS EXPEDITIONS
IRAN
Travel through the diverse and dramatic landscapes of Iran
PAPUA NEW GUINEA
VOICES ON THE WIND:
60,000 YEARS OF CULTURE & TRADE
SUDAN
THE THREE NILES
FIND OUT MORE

UPDATED 4 SEPTEMBER, 2022 - 22:45 CECILIA BOGAARD

Four Native American Kings Visited Queen Anne in London With a Special Request

READ LATER PRINT

The visit of four Native American “Kings” to London in 1710 caused quite a stir. While this wasn’t the first time that Native Americans had been on English soil, it was the first time that they were received as diplomats, treated as celebrities by Londoners, given an audience with an English monarch and enjoyed a first class royal tour of the city.

Their names were Hendrick, Peter, John and Nicholas, but their indigenous names were far grander. Tee Yee Ho Ga Row, baptized as Hendrick Tejonihokarawa during his visit to London, was a Mohawk chief. He was accompanied by Sa Ga Yeath Qua Pieth Tow (Peter), Ho Nee Yeath Taw No Row (John) and Etow Oh Koam (Nicholas). Understanding what they were doing there takes us right into the heart of deciphering the complex history of colonial expansion in North America .

Portraits of the Four Indian Kings, Native American delegates of the Iroquois Confederacy and the Alhonquian peoples who visited Queen Anne in London in 1710, by Jan Verelst. (Public domain)

Their visit was actually the brain child of a colonial official called Pieter Schuyler, from Albany, New York. After a series of failed attempts to capture Canada from the French, he decided drastic measures were needed to convince Queen Anne to provide much needed support to the English settlers of North America.

Portrait of Queen Anne of Great Britain, when she was Princess of Denmark. (Public domain)

The Third Indian War, or Queen Anne's War as it was known, was raging in North America , an intercolonial conflict between the French, Spanish and English colonists, all of whom wanted to take control of the New World. As part of their strategy, each group used missionary expeditions to convert the Native Americans and gain their support, the English converting the natives to Protestantism, and the French and Spanish to Catholicism.

The four kings, as they became known, were part of a confederation of American Indians who supported the British, and they agreed to visit London to convince the Queen to send more arms, troops and ships to defeat the French. They were received by Queen Anne at St. James's Palace on April 19, 1710, where a translator read their eloquent address, which was later printed and caused a sensation.

Broadside with four woodcuts showing portraits of the "four Indian kings" and etched text of their speech to Queen Anne in 1710. (British Museum / CC BY-NC-SA 4.0)

“Great Queen. We have undertaken a long and tedious voyage, which none of our predecessors could be prevailed upon to undertake.” They begged Queen Anne to provide missionaries to provide “true religion,” which is probably what most captured the imagination of the immobile, gout-ridden queen.

She was enthralled by the tall and healthy Native Americans presented as Kings and asking to be converted to her beloved Protestantism. She even commissioned an unprecedented official portrait by Jan Verelst of the Four Indian Kings, which presented the members of the Haudenosaunee (Iroquois) alliance in a fashion reserved for royalty.

Top image: Portrait of Tee Yee Ho Ga Row, baptized as Hendrick Tejonihokarawa, during his visit as part of the Four Indian Kings to Queen Anne in London in 1710, by Jan Verelst. Source: Public domain

By Cecilia Bogaard

Section: News Weird Facts

Tags: Queen Anne Native American colonialism North America

(1 Comment)

Sponsored Stories

Egyptian Pharoah Pepi II Coated His Slaves in Honey to Use as Fly Traps

Egyptian Pharaoh Pepi II is known for some pretty ludicrous behavior – he insisted his slaves coat themselves in honey to keep those pesky flies away from him!

Ancient Origins

Largest Ever Dinosaur Fossil Emerges from Portuguese Jurassic Backyard

The Late Jurassic fossils discovered in a backyard in Portugal in 2017 have been mostly excavated and proven to be the largest ever dinosaur fossil in Europe.

Ancient Origins

CECILIA

Cecilia Bogaard is one of the editors, researchers and writers on Ancient Origins. With an MA in Social Anthropology, and degree in Visual Communication (Photography), Cecilia has a passion for research, content creation and editing, especially as related to the... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail · DER SPIEGEL

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

The Himyarite Kingdom's Bloody Conversion to Judaism: Passion or Ploy?

The Himyarite Kingdom was established in 110 BC and lasted until 570 AC. It is most often remembered these days as the "Jewish Kingdom", thanks to the fact that for some time its predominant religion was Judaism.

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Apocalyptic Apocrypha: What was Removed from the Bible - and Why?

'Biblical Apocrypha' sounds like something out of a conspiracy theorist's darkest dreams. Books that have been hidden away from us. Books that contain secret information on the origins of Christianity.

Argos Panoptes – The All-Seeing Giant of Greek Mythology

Dark Sketches & Stories from the Underworld in Greek Mythology

Greek Goddess Rhea: Mother of the Gods & Queen of the Titans

The Lamia of Ancient Greek Mythology: The Original Bogeyman

Harpies: Terrifying Bird-Women of Greek Mythology

Are Sea Creatures Really Eating Captain Cook's "Endeavour"?

William the Conqueror's Body Exploded in a Grotesque Shower at Funeral

Tycho the Psycho? Meet One of History's Maddest Scientific Minds Ever!

Did The Curse of Tamerlane Cause One of the Bloodiest Battles in World War II?

Astronomer John Wilkins Planned a Moon Mission in 1640 AD with a Flying Chariot!

From Araucanía, Chile to Berchtesgaden, Germany - A Remote Connection?

The Alien Petroglyphs of Chile's Valle del Encanto

The Sumerian King List Reveals the Origin of Mesopotamian Kingship

The Disc of Life in Ancient Texts

Did Pythagoras' Bizarre Fear of Fava Beans Contribute to his Death?

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Medieval Crushing of the Cathars and Sexualizing of Witches

Many Christian writers identified the gods and lesser spirits of the Greek and Roman world with demons.

Mediterranean Bronze Age Collapse Linked to Deadly Typhoid and Plague

Controversial Mughal Emperor Aurangzeb & Mughal Wars of Succession

Last Salem Witch Has Been Exonerated Posthumously By Boston Court

The Notorious Hashshashins, the Original Assassins of Persia

The Legendary Brian Boru: Ireland's Greatest King

TOP NEW STORIES

Four Native American Kings Visited Queen Anne in London With a Special Request

HUMAN ORIGINS

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

ANCIENT PLACES

Seahenge: A Subaquatic Monument of the European Bronze Age

The visit of four Native American “Kings” to London in 1710 caused quite a stir. While this wasn’t the first time that Native Americans had been on English soil

Ancient Tomb of Bird Oracle Priest Found in Turkey’s Pergamon

Friends to Foes: The Surprising Origin and Evolution of Karate

The First Emperor of China Took an ‘Elixir of Immortality’ Made of Mercury and it Killed Him

12 Jaw-Dropping Helmets from the Ancient World

17th Century Vampire Grave Unearthed in Poland

MYTHS & LEGENDS

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Can the Babylonian Calendar Help Explain the Ages of Patriarchs Recounted in the Book of Genesis? - Part 2

Asherah: God’s Forgotten Wife

3: The Perfect Number - Trinity Symbolism in World Religious Traditions

What’s the Truth Behind the All-Seeing Eye of Providence?

Startling Similarity between Hindu Flood Legend of Manu and the Biblical Account of Noah

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Today, the United Kingdom is crisscrossed with many fascinating monuments from ancient times. From the ages when these islands were inhabited by different peoples and cultures of tribes from ancient Europe

The Colossal Hand of Hercules, So Where is the Rest of Him?

The Mystery of Herxheim: Was an Entire Village Cannibalized?

Buried for One Thousand Years: The Eerie Graveyard of the Vikings

More than a Dozen Mysterious Prehistoric Tunnels in Cornwall, England, Mystify Researchers

Has the Function of the Great Pyramid of Giza Finally Come to Light?

OPINION

The Last of the Siberian Unicorns: What Happened to the Beasts of Legend?

Elasmotherium, also known as the Giant Rhinoceros or the Giant Siberian Unicorn, is an extinct species of rhino that lived in the Eurasian area in the Late Pliocene and Pleistocene eras. They have been documented from 2.6 million years ago, but the most recent fossils come from around 29,000 years ago.

An Undersea Mystery: The Accidental Discovery of the Ghost Ship in the Baltic Sea

The Ghost Ship is a shipwreck that was discovered in the middle of the Baltic Sea. This ship was found by accident in 2003, and the first full-scale archaeological expedition to study it was launched...

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Is There Any Truth to Legends of Mighty Cyclopes from Greek Mythology?

Dark Sketches & Stories from the Underworld in Greek Mythology

Underground Cities and Networks Around the World – Myths and Reality (Part 1)

Cronus: The Titan Harvest God and Erroneously The Titan Time God

Rare Roman Coin Portraying Moon Goddess Luna Retrieved from Israeli Waters

Egyptian Blue – The Oldest Known Artificial Pigment

Chinese Knife Money: Making Markets feel Murderous?

The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt

Tycho the Psycho? Meet One of History's Maddest Scientific Minds Ever!

Ancient Chinese Earthquake Detector Invented 2,000 Years Ago Really Worked!

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

UPDATED 13 JUNE, 2019 - 19:01 DHWTY

Gods of Carthage and The Punic Power House of Baal Hammon and Tanit

READ LATER PRINT

According to tradition, the city of Carthage was founded in 814 BC by the legendary Queen Dido . The founder of this city was originally a princess from the Phoenician city of Tyre. She was, however, forced to flee from her native city. With a band of followers, she sailed across the Mediterranean in search of a new home.

The Tyrian refugees eventually arrived in North Africa, on the coast of what is today Tunisia, and established the city of Carthage. Among other things, the Tyrian settlers brought with them their religious beliefs and practices from their original home. Thus, the religion of Carthage may be said to have a connection with that of its mother city and is related to that practiced by the Phoenicians and Canaanites.

The best-known account of the founding of Carthage is in Virgil's Aeneid. In the epic poem, the Trojan hero Aeneas flees from Troy after its destruction by the Greeks and wanders around the Mediterranean. During his sojourn, Aeneas and his men arrive at Carthage, where he meets Queen Dido. The story of Aeneas and Dido ends in tragedy, as the queen falls in love with Aeneas, but he has to carry on his journey to the Italian Peninsula. As a result, Dido commits suicide.

Prior to her meeting with Aeneas, Dido was a princess of Tyre, a Phoenician city state. In some sources she is known as Elissa. Virgil states that Dido's father was Belus and that she had a brother, Pygmalion. In addition, she was married to a man by the name of Sychaeus.

In Virgil's Aeneid, the epic poem conveys the story of the Trojan hero Aeneas fleeing from Troy. (Blackcat / Public Domain )

Belus had planned to divide the kingdom between his two children after he died. Upon the old king's death, however, Pygmalion seized power for himself and killed Sychaeus for his wealth. Pygmalion regarded his sister as a threat to his power as well and prepared to murder her. Fortunately, Sychaeus' ghost appeared to Dido in a dream and told her the truth about his death. He also revealed to her the location where he had hidden his wealth and warned her to flee the city.

Once Dido had retrieved her husband's wealth, she fled from Tyre with a group of loyal followers. Dido sailed across the Mediterranean and eventually arrived on the shores of North Africa , where she founded the city of Carthage.

The Gods of Carthage and Tyre

As the founders of Carthage were from Tyre, they brought along with them the religion and belief system of their mother city. Therefore, similarities can be found between religious beliefs of the Carthaginians and Tyrians. This is most visible in the gods worshipped by these two peoples.

The Carthaginians, Tyrians, and Phoenicians as a whole, were polytheists and believed in a pantheon of gods. Many of the gods worshipped in Carthage were derived from the Tyrian pantheon, though they were localized and given local names. The two most important gods worshipped in Carthage were Baal Hammon and Tanit, who together formed the supreme divine couple of the Punic pantheon. The Tyrian of these two gods have been identified as Baal and Astarte (or one of her attendants).

- The Sumerian Seven: The Top-Ranking Gods in the Sumerian Pantheon
- 2,000-Year-Old Cooling System for Chariot Horses Unearthed at Ancient Carthage Site
- The Infinite Ogdoad: The Creation Pantheon of Ancient Egypt and Predecessor Gods of the Old Kingdom

Temple in Carthage used to worship the gods of the Punic pantheon. (Stemoir / Adobe Stock)

Baal Hammon, King of the Gods

The name Baal Hammon has been interpreted by scholars to mean ‘Lord of the Brazier’ or ‘Lord of the Altar of Incense’. He was considered to be a god of fertility and worshipped by the Carthaginians as the king of the gods. Baal Hammon was but one version of the deity Baal. This god is found in the pantheons of many ancient Middle Eastern communities and was worshipped especially by the Canaanites, which the Phoenicians were a part of.

Like Baal Hammon, the Baal of the Middle East was believed to be a fertility god, though he was not considered to be the leader of the gods in the Canaanite pantheon. Instead, that title was held by El, whose consort was Asherah. As Baal Hammon was also the king of the gods, some scholars have also speculated that he was the Punic equivalent of El.

Baal Hammon, king of the Punic pantheon, on his throne with a crown and flanked by sphinxes. (Dyolf77 / CC BY-SA 4.0)

The role played by Baal in ensuring the fertility of the land is reflected in one of his titles, 'Lord of Rain and Dew', which were the two forms of moisture that the Canaanite farmers depended on. Rain was probably the more vital of the two, as Baal was also regarded to be a storm god. This is visible in the epithet given to him in Ugaritic and Hebrew, 'He who Rides on the Clouds', as well as the name given to him by the Phoenicians, 'Baal Shamin', meaning 'Lord of the Heavens'.

Other gods who were known as Baal include Baal Qarnem, Baal Iddir, and Baal Oz. It is unclear, however, whether these were different forms of Baal or distinct deities in their own right.

Tanit, The Consort That Out Shone the King of the Gods

The consort of Baal Hammon was Tanit, who is usually said to have been the equivalent of the Canaanite goddess Astarte. Tanit was not originally part of the Punic pantheon and her worship only began after the 5th century BC. Nevertheless, she soon superseded Baal Hammon in importance. This is seen, for instance, in Carthaginian monuments where her name is often placed before that of Baal Hammon.

Tanit is considered to be the consort of Baal Hammon, one of her titles being 'face of Baal'. Although Tanit was worshipped as a celestial goddess, the Carthaginians also believed that she was a mother goddess who governed fertility, as her representations are often accompanied by fertility symbols.

The most unique aspect of Tanit is that she is the only Punic deity known to be represented by a symbol. Tanit's symbol is easily recognized and consists of a triangle / trapezium with a horizontal line and circle above it. Scholars are of the opinion that the symbol represents a stylized female figure with outstretched arms.

Symbol of Tanit, the consort to the king of the Punic pantheon. (mrholle / CC BY-SA 2.0)

The Tyrian God Invasion

Another important deity in the Punic pantheon was Melqart (known also as Tyrian Baal), the chief deity and protector of Tyre. Some scholars speculate that for the Carthaginians, Melqart and Baal Hammon were in fact one and the same. The cult of Melqart helped to maintain the link between Carthage and its mother city.

For the first few centuries of its existence, Carthage was obliged to send one-tenth of its annual profit to the Temple of Melqart in Tyre as tribute. Additionally, the Carthaginians and Tyrians would come together in Tyre each year to celebrate the resurrection of Melqart in a festival referred to by Greek authors as ‘Egeris’.

Other important Phoenician deities brought from Tyre to Carthage included Eshmun, Reshef, and Rasap. Eshmun has been recognized as the equivalent of Adonis and the Greeks have identified him as being similar to their own god of healing, Asclepius. In Sidon, the mother city of Tyre, Eshmun was part of the divine trio, along with Baal and Astarte. Reshef was worshipped as the god of fire and lightning (equated with Apollo by the Greeks), while Rasap was a god of war. Like Baal Hammon and Tanit, these gods were also localized by the Carthaginians.

In addition, the Carthaginians included in their pantheon deities from other civilizations they came into contact with, such as the Greeks, Egyptians, and Etruscans. An example of this adoption of foreign gods may be seen on a Punic stele dating to the late 2nd century BC.

On this artifact are three symbols, one of which is a caduceus. In the Greek world, this object was an attribute of the god Hermes. Therefore, it is possible that Greek god was part of the Punic pantheon.

- How Many Maya Gods Were Worshipped? Hint: There Were Hundreds!
- The Rosetta Stone of Malta: Cippi of Malta Offers Key to Decoding the Phoenician Language
- What Was the Significance of The Capitoline Triad to the Roman Pantheon?

Punic stele in Carthage. (Michel-georges Bernard / CC BY-SA 3.0)

In Tyre, the hierarchy of the religious cults was headed by its monarch. Beneath the king were the priests, who were grouped into colleges and led by a chief priest. The priests, and in particular the chief priests, wielded great power and possessed immense wealth in Tyrian society.
In one version of the myth of Dido, her husband's name was Acerbas, who was her uncle and also a priest of Melqart. It was due to his status as a priest that Acerbas was able to grow wealthy.

The Tyrian settlers of Carthage maintained the priesthoods of their mother city. The temple priests and their acolytes performed different functions and charged a fee for their services. During the first few centuries of Carthage's founding its priests conducted ritual celebrations derived from Phoenician traditions, which demonstrates its strong ties with the mother city.

Rituals in Carthage

The most intriguing and controversial aspect of Punic religious practice is the alleged child sacrifice that was practiced by the Carthaginians. In Biblical sources, the Canaanite deity associated with child sacrifice was Moloch. The name of this god is a combination of the consonants of melech (Hebrew for 'king') and the vowels of boshet (Hebrew for 'shame'). Some scholars, however, have suggested that Moloch was not the name of a god but was a type of sacrifice instead. This theory, however, is generally rejected and scholars normally regard Moloch as a deity.

Nevertheless, there is disagreement as to the kind of god Moloch was. While some scholars are of the opinion that Moloch was a god in his own right, others have proposed that this was a title given to one of the foreign gods that the Israelites encountered in the land of Canaan. For instance, one suggestion is that Moloch was just another name for Baal.

Moloch was the Canaanite deity, of the Punic pantheon, associated with child sacrifice. (Dauster / Public Domain)

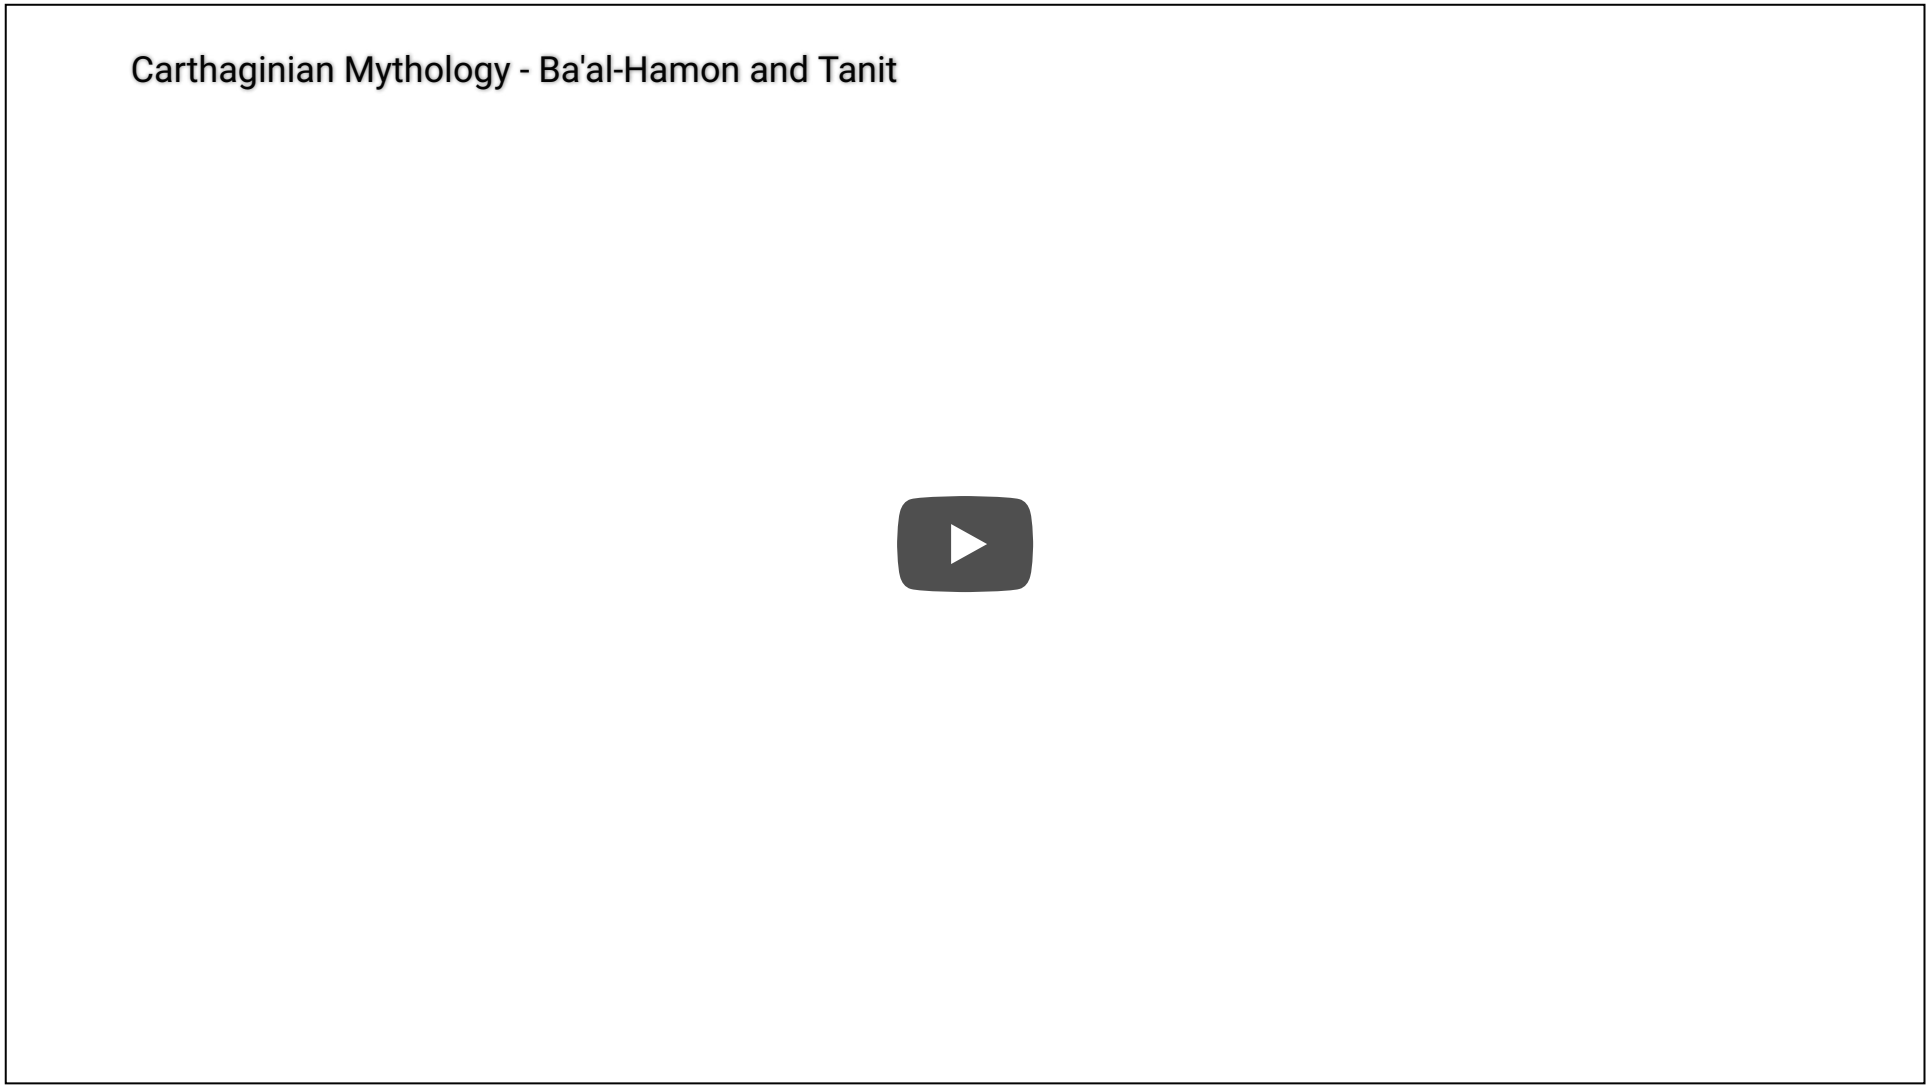
In any case, child sacrifice was reputed to have been practiced by the Phoenicians and may have been inherited by the Carthaginians. The matter, however, is not so straightforward and there are disagreements as to whether this gruesome type of sacrifice was indeed performed by the Carthaginians. Among the ancient authors, for instance, there are those who mention this practice, as well as those who do not.

The Roman writer Plutarch and the Greek historian Diodorus Siculus belong to the former, while Livy and Polybius belong to the latter. Additionally, the early Christian writers Tertullian and Orosius also make mention of Carthaginian child sacrifices in their writings. One argument against those ancient writers who wrote about the child sacrifices is that they were the enemies of Carthage and therefore made such claims as propaganda to present the Carthaginians in a negative light.

The dispute has not been resolved by archaeology. Instead, the archaeological evidence has been used by both sides to support their own arguments. In areas once ruled by the Carthaginians, archaeologists have discovered cemeteries used specifically for the burial of infants and babies. The term Tophet, which may be translated to mean ‘place of burning’, is used to describe such cemeteries, and is derived from the Bible.

Some scholars have argued that those buried in such cemeteries were not victims of sacrifice but had died of natural causes. This is seen, for instance, in a study of dental remains from 540 individuals, published in 2010. The authors of the study, Jeffrey Schwartz, Frank Houghton, Roberto Macchiarelli, and Luca Bondioli argue that the majority of the those buried in the cemetery were either stillborn babies or fetuses.

This has been used to refute the idea that the Carthaginians ritually slaughtered their children, as the individuals buried in the cemetery could not have been considered to be live sacrifices. One critique of this study comes from Patricia Smith, an anthropologist at Hebrew University in Jerusalem, who argues that that the authors have miscalculated the age of the infants. This means that those buried in the cemetery were not stillborn individuals or fetuses but babies who were about a month old. This in turn brings back the possibility of child sacrificed being practiced in Carthage.



Punic cemetery at Carthage where evidence of infant burial is found. (Institute for the Study of the Ancient World / CC BY-SA 2.0 )

The idea of child sacrifice is repugnant today, and it is possible that we are trying to do away with this inconvenient truth by discrediting the evidence or by imposing our modern sensibilities onto the ancient Carthaginians. Instead of dismissing outright the idea that child sacrifice was practiced in Carthage, Josephine Quinn of Oxford University's Faculty of Classics has proposed that we ought to try to understand this phenomenon.

For instance, she suggests that Carthaginian parents may have believed that by sacrificing their children they would bring greater good to their family and community. She also notes that this practice may provide an alternative explanation for the founding of Carthage, i.e. that its founders were forced to leave Phoenicia since others frowned upon their unusual religious practice.

Top image: Queen Dido, founder of Carthage and the Punic pantheon. Source: Eloquence / Public Domain .

By Wu Mingren

References

Section: News Human Origins Religions Ancient Places Africa History Famous People

Tags: Dido Carthage tyrian Phoenician religion Punic pantheon Baal Hammon Tanit fertility god

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Why Was Gout The Kingliest of Ailments?

When we think of historically significant diseases we tend to think of diseases like the bubonic plague, cholera, tuberculosis, or more recently, COVID-19.

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

Decades of cinema have accustomed us to the living realities extreme size life forms, from giants to leprechauns. To be it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Typhon and Echidna: Monster Makers of Greek Mythology

Eros: Everything You Need to Know about the Greek God of Love and Sex

Nyx, the Primordial Goddess of the Night

Argos Panoptes – The All-Seeing Giant of Greek Mythology

Dark Sketches & Stories from the Underworld in Greek Mythology

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Queen Elizabeth II, the Second Longest-Reigning Monarch in History, Dies

Da Vinci's Deadly Designs: The Wildest Weapons of the Renaissance Man

Why is William's New Prince of Wales Title So Significant?

The Queen's Death Sparks Conversation Around Royal Line of Succession

Queen Elizabeth II, the Second Longest-Reigning Monarch in History, Dies

The Himyarite Kingdom's Bloody Conversion to Judaism: Passion or Ploy?

fair, ogres, trolls, fairies, sylphs, and goliaths were believed in by humans...

Mysterious Cases of Living Fossils, Suspended Animation, and Hibernation

Apocalyptic Apocrypha: What was Removed from the Bible - and Why?

From Araucanía, Chile to Berchtesgaden, Germany - A Remote Connection?

The Alien Petroglyphs of Chile's Valle del Encanto

The Sumerian King List Reveals the Origin of Mesopotamian Kingship

Today, Thursday 8th of September, 2022, Queen Elizabeth II, Queen of Great Britain, Northern Ireland and the Commonwealth has passed away peacefully at her country home, Balmoral.

The Medieval Crushing of the Cathars and Sexualizing of Witches

Mediterranean Bronze Age Collapse Linked to Deadly Typhoid and Plague

Controversial Mughal Emperor Aurangzeb & Mughal Wars of Succession

Last Salem Witch Has Been Exonerated Posthumously By Boston Court

The Notorious Hashshashins, the Original Assassins of Persia

TOP NEW STORIES

HUMAN ORIGINS

ANCIENT PLACES

The Medieval Faces of Whithorn Priory's Cold Case Project Revealed

A three-dimensional likeness of a young woman buried at Galloway, Scotland's Whithorn Priory, laid to rest at one of Scotland's earliest Christian sites centuries ago, is about to be revealed.

The Stone Age: The First 99 Percent of Human History

The Stone Age is the longest period of human history, lasting from 2.6 million years ago to about 5,000 years ago.

The Moche Uncensored! 15 Surprising Erotic Ceramics of Peru

The Moche were a mysterious civilization who ruled the northern coast of Peru beginning 2,000 years ago.

Sexual Exploits and Exploitation along the Silk Road

Mass Grave Found in Vráble: Slovakia's Stone Age Decapitated Victims

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

Rare Roman Navy Anchor Recovered Off English Coast

Midgard: Norse Mythology's Realm of the Humans

Where Did the Polynesians Really Come From?

Did a Native American travel with the Vikings and arrive in Iceland centuries before Columbus set sail?

3: The Perfect Number - Trinity Symbolism in World Religious Traditions

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What's the Truth Behind the All-Seeing Eye of Providence?

The Medieval Faces of Whithorn Priory's Cold Case Project Revealed

The Monumental and Mysterious Silbury Hill

The Secret Tomb of the First Chinese Emperor Remains an Unopened Treasure

Mysterious Roundel Older than Stonehenge and the Pyramids Found in Czech Republic

Eridu: The Sumerian Garden of Eden and the Oldest City in the World?

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Did a Sultan Find Medusa's Sarcophagus in the Basilica Cistern?

Nestled beneath the winding streets of Istanbul, just 490 feet (149 meters) from

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

The Mystical Pentatonic Scale and Ancient Instruments, Part I: Bone Flutes

One of the ancient technologies that is often overlooked is the creation of

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on the Hagia Sophia, lies an ancient cistern that may have been the final resting place of Medusa!

musical instruments. The purpose, development and in some cases the techniques used to develop music remains a mystery...

December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Wild Men of the Ancient World: Legends Across the Globe Tell of a Humanoid Beast – Are They Real?

Cronus: The Titan Harvest God and Erroneously The Titan Time God

Dark Sketches & Stories from the Underworld in Greek Mythology

Underground Cities and Networks Around the World – Myths and Reality (Part 1)

Eros: Everything You Need to Know about the Greek God of Love and Sex

Chinese Knife Money: Making Markets feel Murderous?

Medical Mystery of Usermontu: Why the Discovery of 2,600-Year-Old Knee Screw Left Experts Dumbfounded

Europe's Famous Mesolithic Pesse Canoe: Earth's Oldest Known Boat

6 Advanced Ancient Inventions Beyond Modern Understanding

Ancient Chinese Earthquake Detector Invented 2,000 Years Ago Really Worked!

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

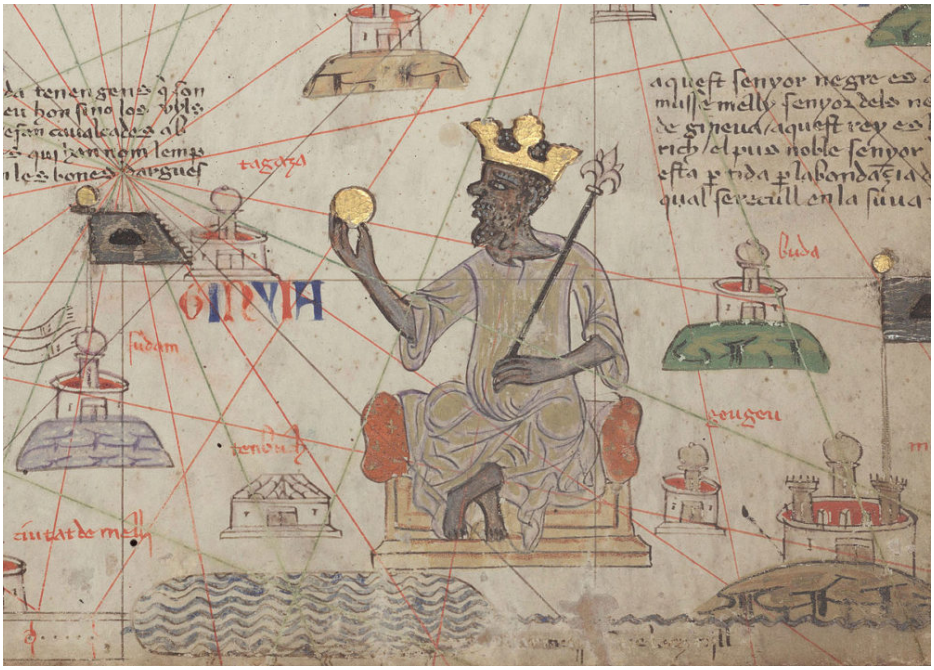
ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.



Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

ЛИЧНОСТИ, НОВОСТИ ADMIN 06.04.2018 в 07:00

10 богатейших бизнесменов исламского мира

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

В современном мире мусульмане занимаются торговлей и другими видами бизнеса, как когда-то этим занимался Пророк (САВ) и многие сподвижники. Некоторые из них добиваются больших успехов и становятся состоятельными людьми. Конечно же, не все из них расходуют свое имущество на пути ислама, однако было бы нелишне узнать о людях, которые добились успеха в своем деле.

Ведение бизнеса – это профессия, восходящая к самому Пророку (САВ). Известно, что Посланник Аллаха Мухаммад (САВ), будучи молодым, вел торговые дела вместе со своим дядей, а позже с одной богатой дамой, которая впоследствии стала его женой – Хадиджей. Некоторые члены семьи и сподвижники Пророка также занимались бизнесом и зарабатывали на жизнь посредством

Лента новостей

Рабат стал культурной столицей исламского мира 2022 года
16.11.2021

Сомалийская песня обретает популярность во всем мире
15.11.2021

Саудовская Аравия откроет первый в мире «летающий музей»
13.11.2021

Детей-мусульман в Англии учат инвестициям на коранических историях
08.11.2021

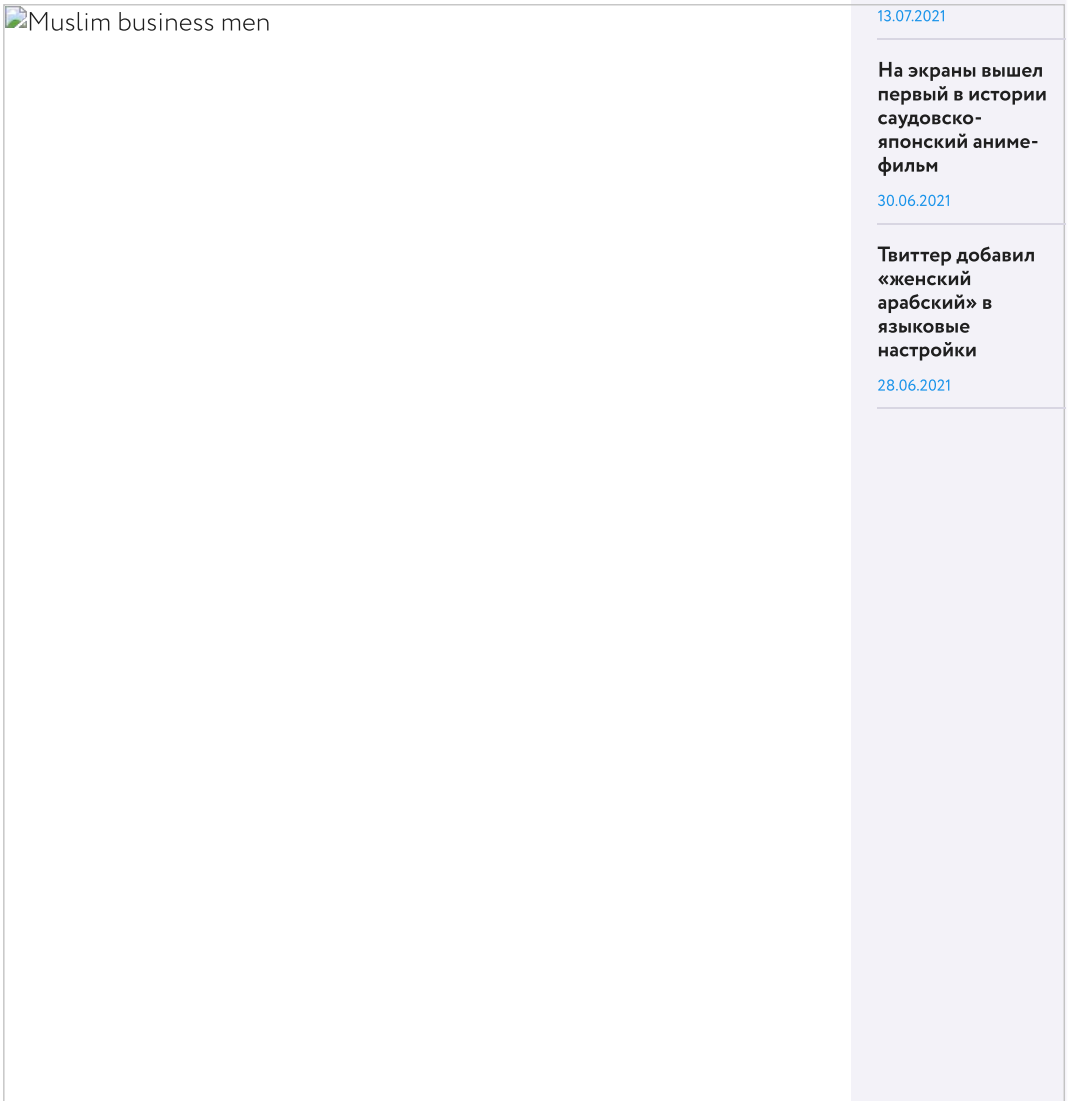
Пакистанский ученый-ядерщик Абдул Кадыр Хан скончался в возрасте 85 лет
22.10.2021

Писатель танзанийского происхождения Абдулразак Гурна получил Нобелевскую премию по литературе
21.10.2021

Традиционная иранская медицина бросает вызов COVID-19
24.09.2021

Десятки тысяч людей уча... онлайн-вы... «1001 путе... от алхими... химии»
25.08.2021

Саудийка вошла в Книгу рекордов Гиннесса
20.08.2021



protected by reCAPTCHA
Privacy - Terms

торговли. Поэтому, ведение бизнеса не является чем-то чуждым для ислама. Напротив, торговля помогала изыскивать средства для финансирования крупных событий в истории ислама, которые формировали судьбу веры и служили делу распространения религии. Не секрет, что многие регионы познакомились с исламом и мусульманами именно благодаря торговле. Ярчайшим примером распространения ислама посредством торговли являются страны Западной Африки, куда ислам пришел через торговые пути Сахары.

В современном мире мусульмане продолжают заниматься не только торговлей, но и другими видами бизнеса. Некоторые из них добиваются больших успехов и становятся состоятельными людьми. Конечно же, не все из них расходуют свое имущество на пути ислама, но, тем не менее, есть смысл узнать о людях, которые добились успеха в своем деле.

Предлагаем вашему вниманию ТОП-10 богатейших бизнесменов исламского мира

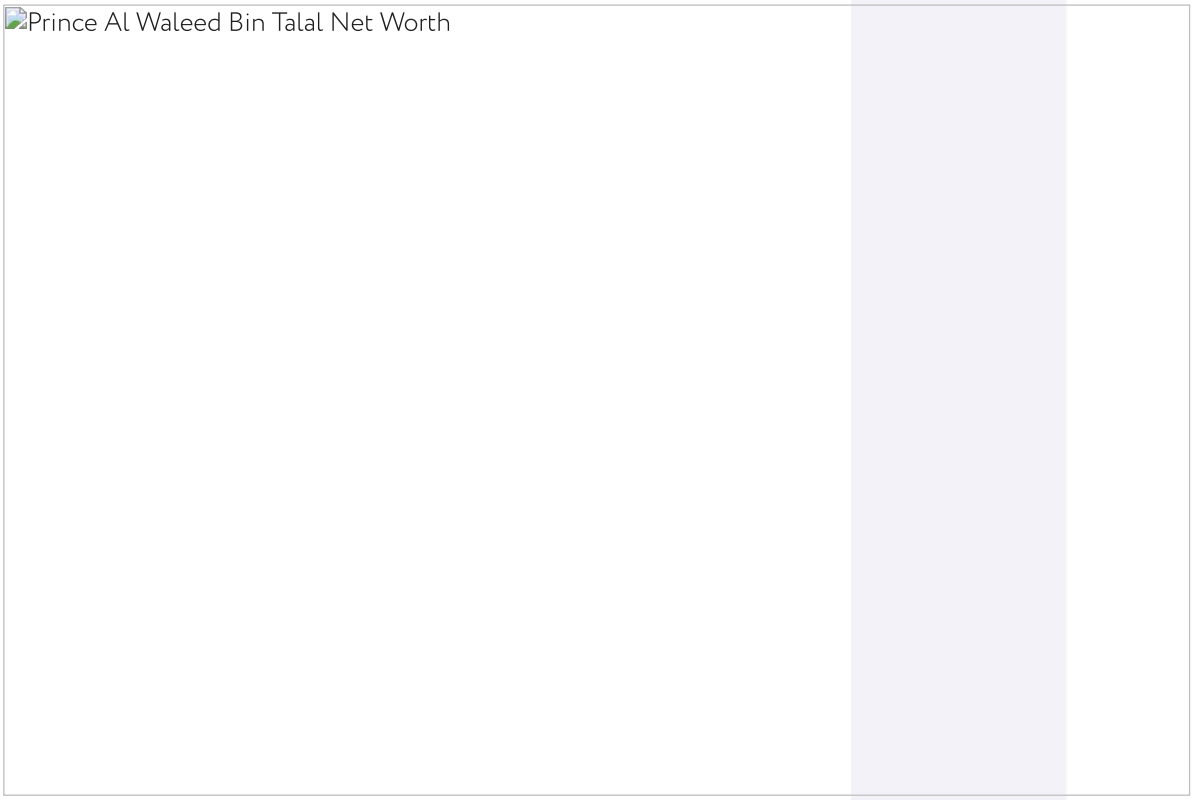
1. Азим Хашим Премжи – его состояние оценивается в 18,5 миллиардов долларов США. Индийский предприниматель Премжи является председателем Совета директоров Wipro Limited, которой принадлежит Wipro Technologies, одна из крупнейших в Индии компаний, занимающихся выпуском программного обеспечения.

Muslim business men

В июле список ЮНЕСКО пополнился объектами из исламского мира
02.08.2021

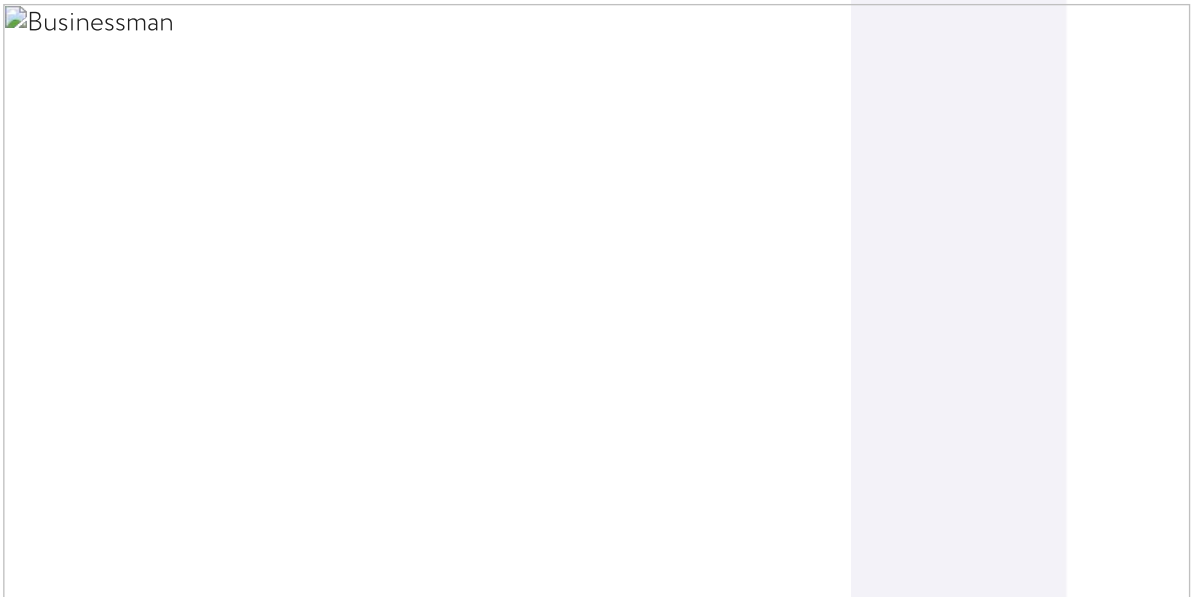
Филиппины запустили программу халяльного кулинарного туризма
02.08.2021

В Турции проходит подготовку «Курбан-спецназ»
19.07.2021



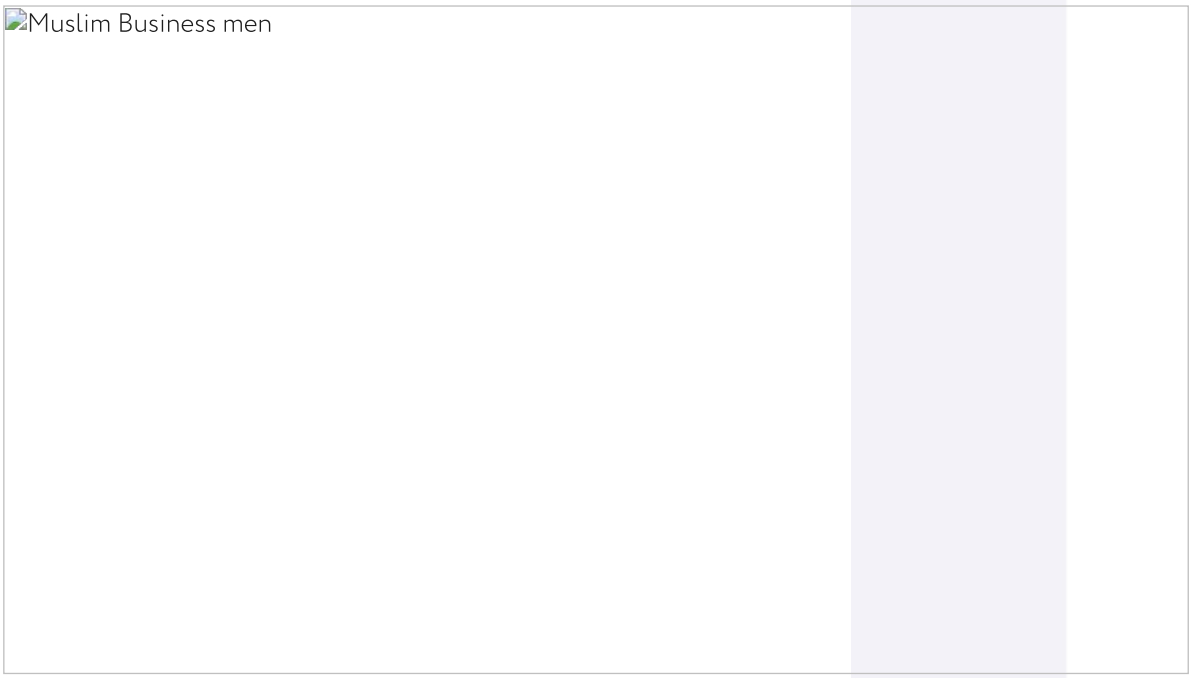
Английская мусульманка-политик борется с расизмом и стереотипами в своей книге «Мои волосы под платком розовые»
14.07.2021

Халяль-туризм продолжает развиваться несмотря на пандемию
13.07.2021

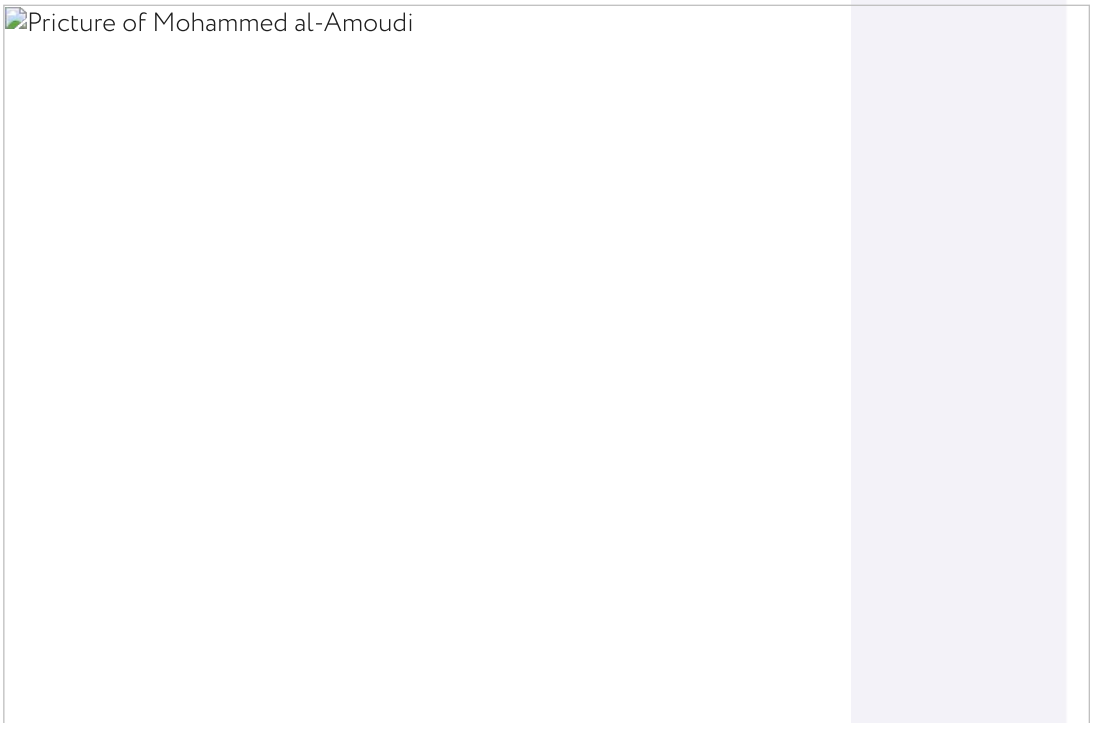


На экраны вышел первый в истории саудовско-японский аниме-фильм
30.06.2021

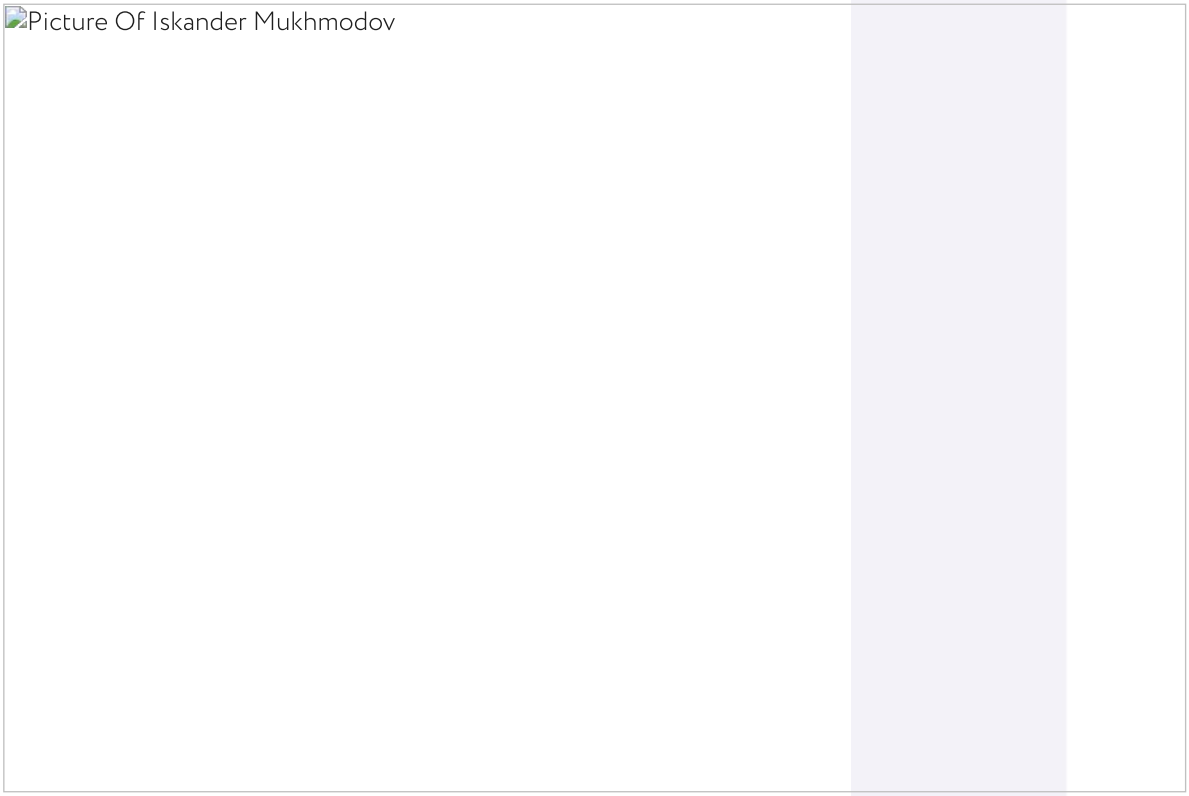
Твиттер добавил «женский арабский» в языковые настройки
28.06.2021



2. Принц Аль-Валид Бин Талал – его состояние оценивалось в 17,7 миллиардов долларов США. Принц Талал является основателем и генеральным директором компании Kingdom Holding Co, которая занимается инвестированием в гостиничный бизнес, банковское дело, средства массовой информации и нефтедобычу.

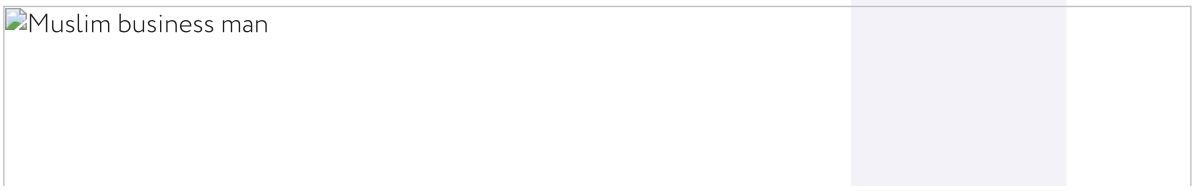


3. Алико Данготе – его состояние оценивается в 13,8 миллиарда долларов США. Нигерийский бизнесмен является владельцем группы компаний Данготе, которые в основном занимаются закупкой и продажей сырья. Кроме родной Нигерии, его компании имеют представительства и в других африканских странах, включая Бенин, Камерун, Гану, Южную Африку, Того, Танзанию и Замбию.



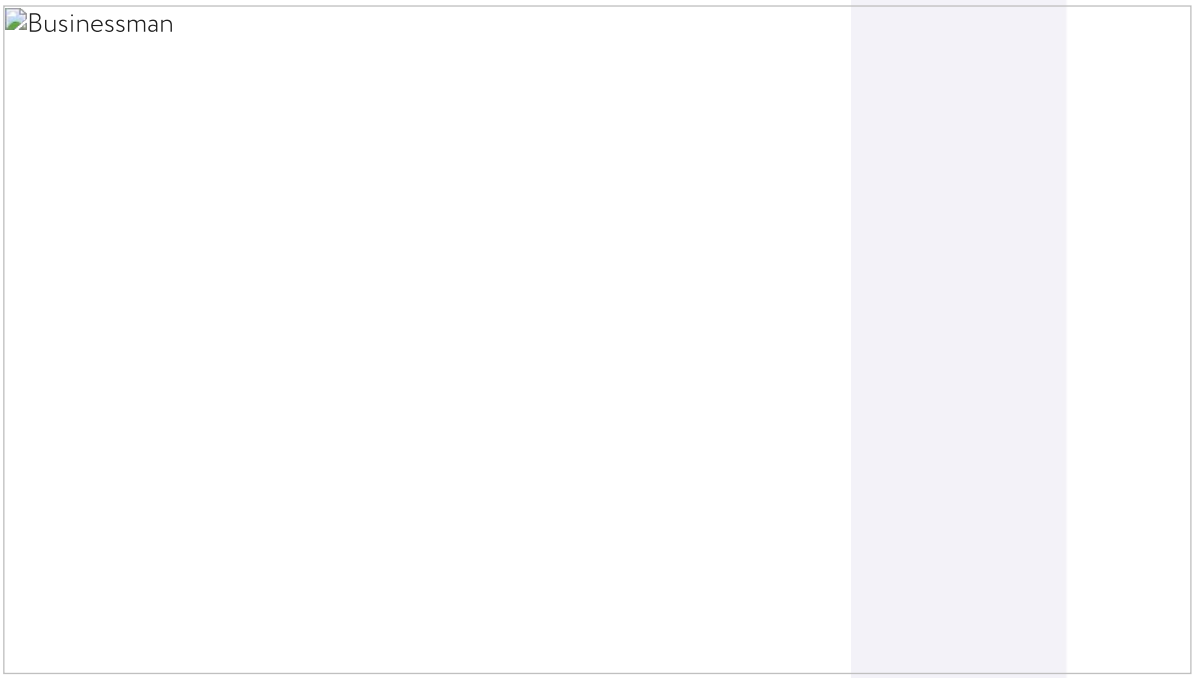
4. Мохаммад Бин Исса аль-Джабер – его состояние оценивается в 8,7 миллиарда долларов США. Аль-Джабер является председателем и главным исполнительным директором группы компаний MBI International & Partners. В эту группу входят JW Hotels and Resorts по всему миру.

Muslim Business men

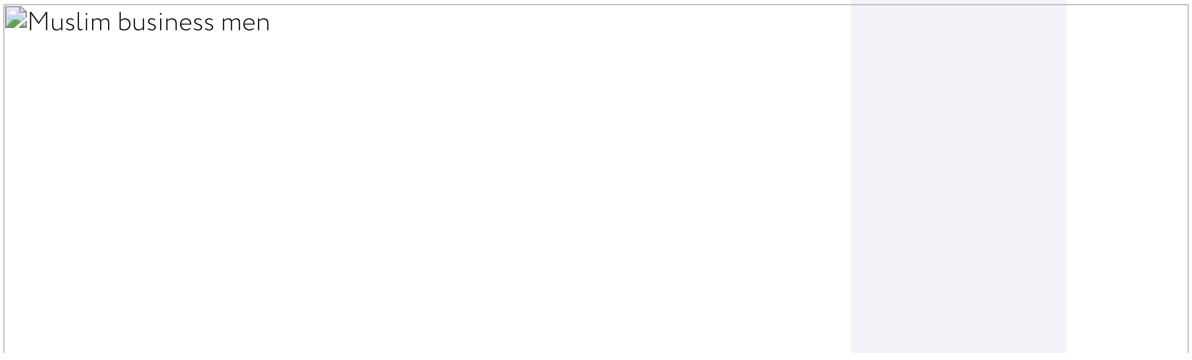


5. Мохаммед аль-Амуди – его состояние оценивается в 8,4 миллиарда долларов США. Этот эфиопский бизнесмен заработал свое состояние, занимаясь инвестициями в золотодобычу, нефтепереработку и производство цемента в Эфиопии.

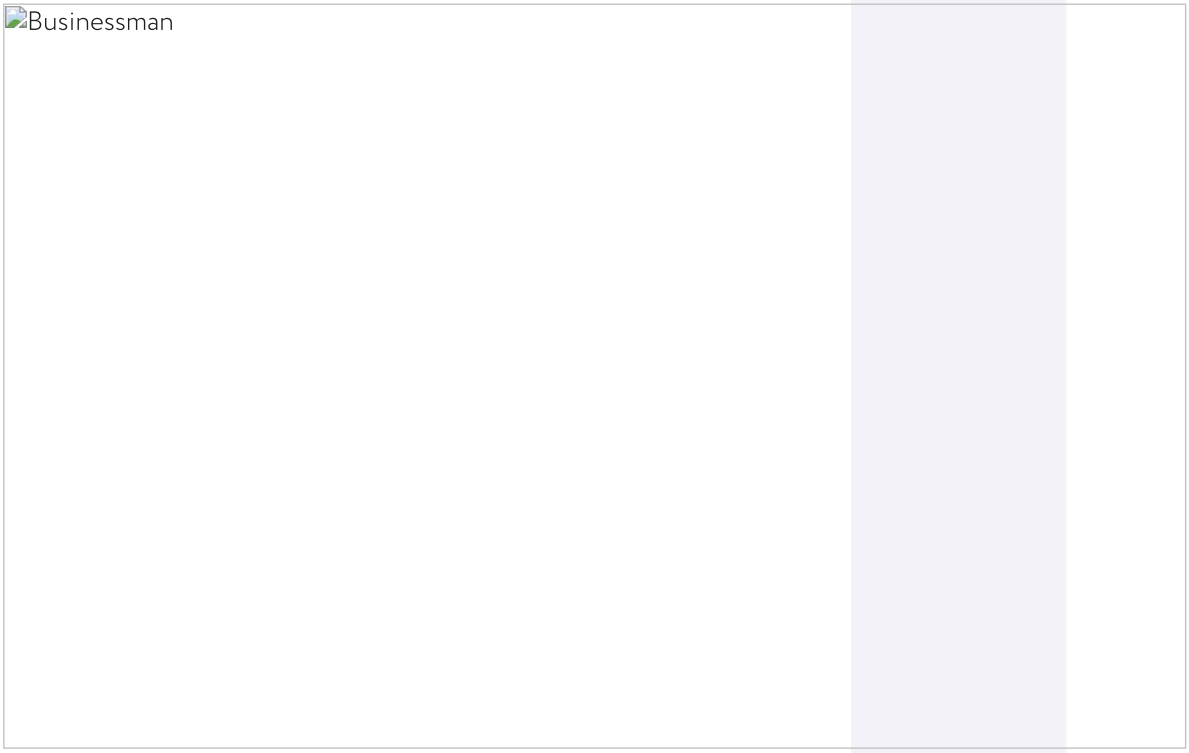
Pricture of Mohammed al-Amoudi



6. Искандер Махмудов – его состояние оценивается в 7,3 миллиарда долларов США Махмудов является российским предпринимателем узбекского происхождения, также он основателем и президентом Уральской горно-металлургической компании.



7. Шахид-хан – его состояние оценивается в 7,2 миллиарда долларов США. Американский бизнесмен пакистанского происхождения является владельцем американского футбольного клуба Джексонвилл Джагуарс, а также английской футбольной команды Фулхам. Кроме того, компания Шахид-хана Flex-N-Gate занимается производством автомобильных запчастей в Урбане, штат Иллинойс.



8. Сулейман Керимов – его состояние оценивается в 6, 4 миллиарда долларов США. Скандально известный российский бизнесмен и политик приобрел большую часть своих богатств за счет инвестиций в различные авиакомпании, а также в банковскую отрасль.

9. Наджиб Микати – его состояние оценивается в 2,7 миллиарда долларов США. Наджиб Микати был одним из основателей телекоммуникационной компании Investcom, однако продал свою долю, когда начал заниматься политической карьерой и стал премьер-министром Ливана.

10. Саид Мухтар аль-Бухари – его состояние оценивается в 1,85 миллиарда долларов США. Малазийский предприниматель, который занимается инвестициями в различные сферы бизнеса, такие как производство электроэнергии, транспорт и логистика.

По материалам www.musliminc.com и www.forbes.com

ЛИЧНОСТИ , НОВОСТИ ADMIN

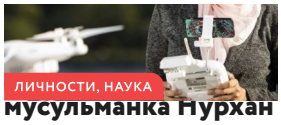
ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

КОММЕНТАРИИ 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

ИСКУССТВО, ЛИЧНОСТИ

Анвари – «пророк» персидской поэзии



BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, НАУКА

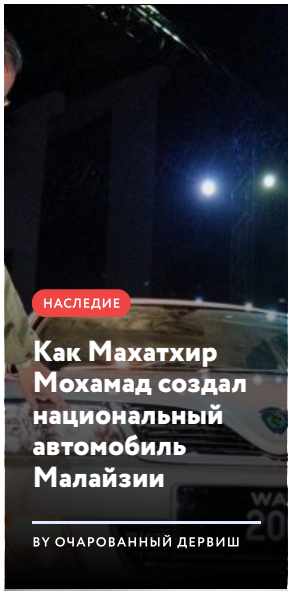
Абд ар-Рахман аль-Хазини – выдающийся ученый-физик и аскет из Мерва

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, НАУКА

мусульманка Нурхан Байоми: ученый-эколог, архитектор, изобретатель, продюсер электронной музыки и диджей

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

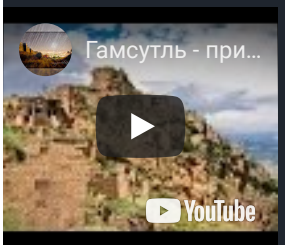


ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ

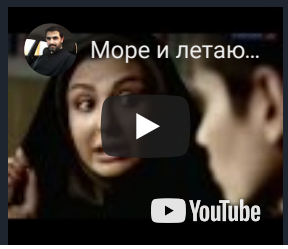
НАСЛЕДИЕ

«Остров сокровищ» Саудовской Аравии собирается вернуть былую славу

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

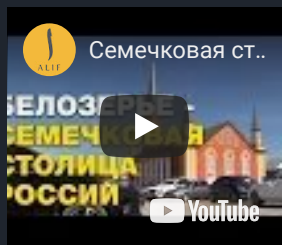


НАСЛЕДИЕ



Как Махатхир Мохамад создал национальный автомобиль Малайзии

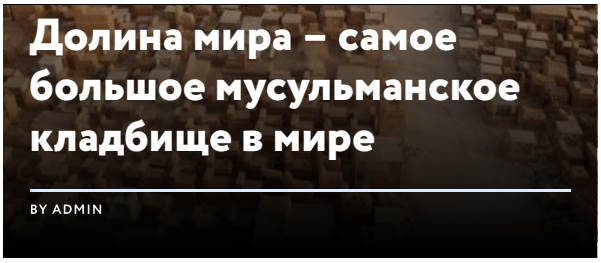
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



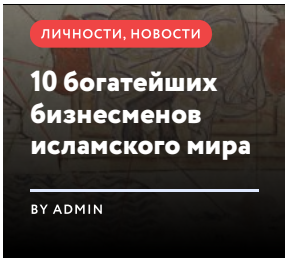
ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО

Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)



Семечковая столица России (видео)



НАСЛЕДИЕ

Долина мира – самое большое мусульманское кладбище в мире

BY ADMIN

ЛИЧНОСТИ, НОВОСТИ

10 богатейших бизнесменов исламского мира

BY ADMIN

ПУТЕШЕСТВИЯ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 23.11.2022 в 13:08

«Мы иранцы»: история африканских рабов в Иране

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

Профессор ирано-канадского происхождения Бехназ Мирзаи провела 20 лет, изучая африканскую диаспору в Иране – малоизвестную часть иранской истории.

Ученики Бехназ Мирзаи часто говорят, что ее кабинет похож на музей. С осколками древней глиняной посуды, найденной в горах иранских провинций Систан и Белуджистан, красочными вазами из Исфахана и племенными масками из Занзибара, украшающими полки, легко понять, почему.

Бехназ Мирзаи провела почти 20 лет, изучая происхождение африканской диаспоры в Иране, включая историю и отмену рабства в ее родной стране. Эта тема, о которой немногие знали в конце 1990-х, и которая остается неизведанной для многих и сегодня. Перед тем, как приехать в Канаду в 1997 году, Мирзаи получила степень магистра истории Ирана и ислама в Университете Азад в Тегеране. Когда год спустя она поступила в аспирантуру Йоркского университета в Торонто, встреча с профессором истории Полом Лавджоем натолкнула ее на путь открытия малоизвестного фрагмента

Лента новостей

В Египте издана первая фетва, запрещающая пагубные для экологии практики
22.11.2022

Технологии чемпионата мира по футболу в Катаре меняют облик игры
19.11.2022

Лист рукописи «Шахнаме» установил рекорд на аукционе Сотбис
09.11.2022

В Сафранболу в Турции прошел фестиваль шафрана
28.10.2022

Древние рукописи Мали теперь доступны онлайн
20.10.2022

Азербайджан восстанавливает Агдам – «Хиросиму Кавказа»
19.10.2022

Новый путеводитель Lonely Planet проливает свет на скрытое мусульманское наследие Великобритании
10.10.2022

Иран провел успешные испытания межорбитального буксира «
06.10.2022

В Гранаде обнаружено крупнейшее захоронение мусульман тогдашней Европы
04.10.2022

В Турции установили

protected by reCAPTCHA
Privacy - Terms

иранской истории. Связавшись с несколькими иранскими профессорами, Мирзаи обнаружила, что в Иране действительно существовала история африканского рабства, и в иранских архивах имеются документы, подтверждающие это.

Торговля между современным Ираном и африканскими странами насчитывает несколько сотен лет. Мирзаи обнаружила, что рабство в Иране охватило два основных периода – эпоху династии Каджаров (1795-1925) и эпоху династии Пехлеви (1925-1979).

Афро-иранцы – кто они?

Источник: MEE

Мирзаи, чьи исследования сосредоточены главным образом на современном периоде рабства в Иране, объясняет, что торговцы из арабских стран Персидского залива, среди которых преобладал Султанат Оман, контролировавший обширные регионы, граничащие с Индийским океаном, привозили рабов в Иран из северных и северо-восточных районов Африканского континента, включая Танзанию (Занзибар), Кению, Эфиопию и Сомали.

В древней исламской литературе эфиопов называли «аль-Хабаша». Мирзаи рассказывает, что в результате многие рабы брали себе фамилию Хабаши, когда приезжали в Иран, чтобы указать на свое эфиопское происхождение. Также рабы с Занзибара брали фамилию Занзибари.

Сосредоточенные в основном на южном побережье Ирана рабы работали преимущественно в рыболовстве, сельском хозяйстве, в качестве домашней прислуги, нянек или даже служили в армии. Однако не только африканцы были обращены в рабство в Иране. «В Иране рабство не было основано на расе и касалось не только африканцев. Черкесы, грузины и даже многие иранцы также становились рабами», – поясняет Мирзаи. Она добавляет, что некоторые рабы также работали вместе с иранскими крестьянами, которые жили в условиях крайней нищеты.

Мирзаи изучила, что отмена рабства началась в 1828 году с прекращением торговли черкесов и грузин и завершилась полным запретом этой практики ровно через столетие.

стандарт для симита
03.10.2022

В Омане построят космический центр
26.09.2022

Саудовская Аравия планирует стать крупнейшим в мире центром видеоигр
23.09.2022

В Дубае открылась крупнейшая в мире вертикальная ферма
20.08.2022

В Конье проходят 5-е Игры исламской солидарности
13.08.2022

Английский художник Дэвид Беллами выпустил книгу с ближневосточными пейзажами
07.08.2022

На Мальдивах построят один из первых в мире плавучих городов
03.08.2022

Афротурки – необычная этническая группа в Турции.

Источник: MEE

Идея исследовать африканское рабство в Иране и на Ближнем Востоке в более общем плане родилась в рамках исследовательского проекта Nigerian Hinterland Project, финансируемого правительством Канады. Проект концентрируется на перемещении людей в Нигерии и соседних странах вследствие рабства. Проект был создан на основе инициативы ЮНЕСКО «Slave Route», которая была запущена в 1994 году для лучшего понимания причин и последствий рабства в мире.

Сегодня работа Мирзаи в Йоркском университете продолжается уже на базе Института Харриет Табман по изучению Африки и ее диаспор. «Многие люди либо даже не знают, что в мусульманском мире существовало рабство, либо полагают, что оно настолько отличалось от Америки, что не стоит глубокого изучения. Кроме того, это тема, с которой связано столько табу, что никто не хочет об этом говорить», – поясняет Бехназ Мирзаи.

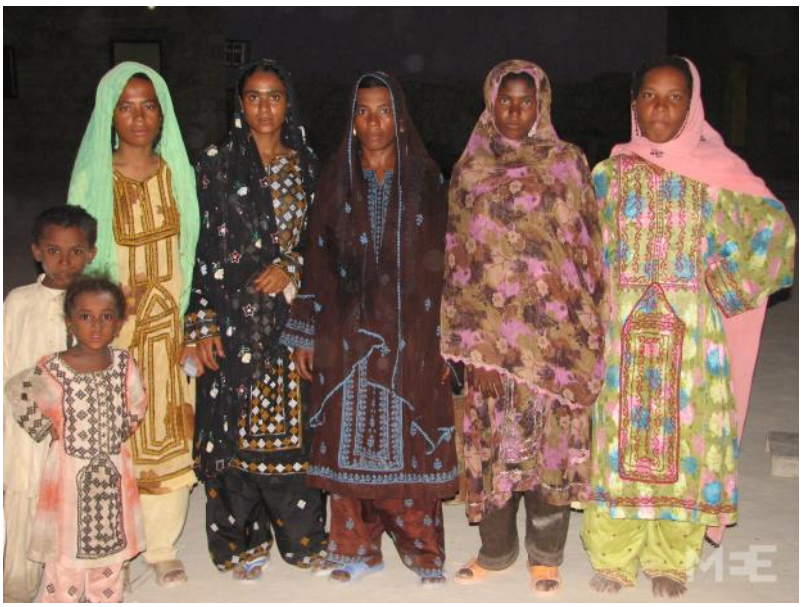
По подсчётам Мирзаи, на сегодняшний день от 10 до 15% населения южного Ирана можно назвать потомками африканцев, и этот процент уменьшается по мере продвижения на север. Многие члены афро-иранского сообщества (термин, придуманный Мирзаи в ходе своих исследований) даже не знают своей собственной истории или происхождения семьи. Афро-иранцев часто называют «черными юга», и многие иранцы до сих пор считают, что их темная кожа является результатом жаркого климата южного побережья. «Люди связывают это с климатом. Многие думают, что они темные, потому что в южной части Ирана очень-очень жарко», – рассказывает Мирзай.

Афропалестинцы и их сопротивление израильской оккупации.

Бехназ Мирзаи / Источник: MEE

Мирзаи утверждает, что афро-иранцы считают себя иранцами и нередко вопросы об их африканском происхождении могут даже оскорбить их: «Я спрашивала их о том, кем они себя считают. Они всегда отвечают: «Мы иранцы». Если возникает какой-либо вопрос, касающийся их африканского происхождения, они воспринимают его как оскорбление».

Недостаточное знакомство с афро-иранцами может заставить иранцев из других частей страны задаться вопросом, откуда происходит это сообщество, или рассматривать их как чужаков. Но Мирзаи утверждает, что, хотя это и редкость, ей удалось задокументировать некоторые смешанные браки между афро-иранцами и иранцами.



Афро-иранцы в значительной степени интегрированы в местные районы, в которых они живут. Например, общины в провинциях Систан и Белуджистан говорят на местном языке белуджи, а афро-иранцы в провинции Хормозган говорят на бандари. Афро-иранское сообщество сегодня смешивает африканские традиции с иранской культурой, участвуя в ритуале изгнания нечистой силы, известном как Зар, который, как считается, очищает тело от злых духов. Данная практика распространена сегодня в Танзании и Эфиопии.

Бехназ Мирзаи поясняет: «Целью моих исследований было показать другую сторону Ирана, раскрыть миру тот факт, что Иран очень разнообразен, ведь в этой стране живет много-много разных этнических групп. У них своя особая культура. У них есть своя особая идентичность. И каждая народность особенно важна для иранского общества и делает его уникальным и неповторимым».

Афроцентричные школы – новая тенденция в американском образовании.

Источник: MEE

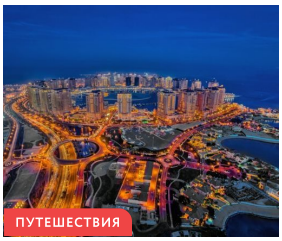
Источник: MEE

Исламосфера

ПУТЕШЕСТВИЯ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

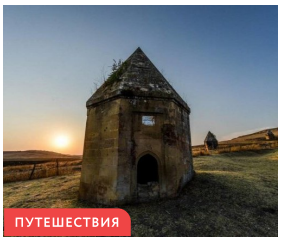
комментарии 0



ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

ПУТЕШЕСТВИЯ

6 команд из мусульманского мира на чемпионате мира в Катаре



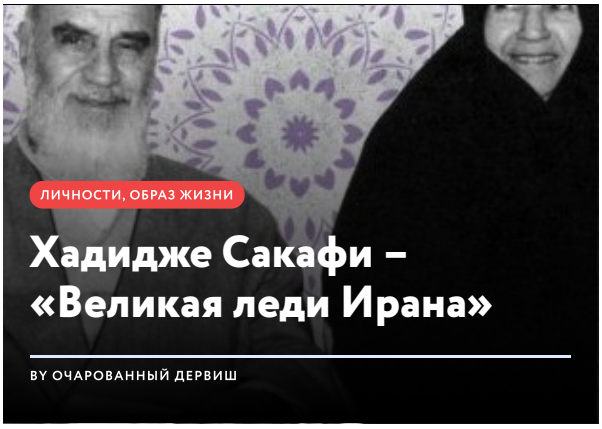
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПУТЕШЕСТВИЯ

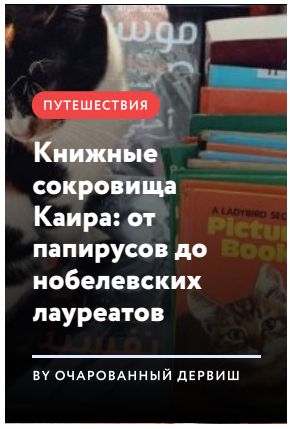
Катар – компактное государство с большим разнообразием знаковых достопримечательностей

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПУТЕШЕСТВИЯ

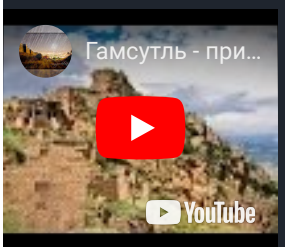


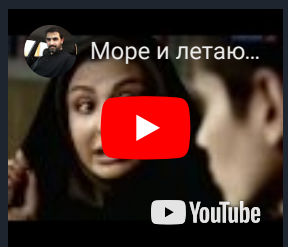
Шемаха – древний город в Азербайджане

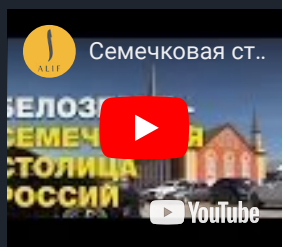


BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ







ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО

Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)

Семечковая столица России (видео)

МЫСЛЬ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 11.05.2022 в 16:05

Зеркало души: сны в суфийской традиции

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

В тасаввуфе снам придается большое значение, пишет сайт kimpsikoloji.com.

Современный американский суфийский наставник Ллевеллин Воган-Ли, доктор философии, который занимается исследованием феномена сновидений с точки зрения суфизма, пишет: «Сны подобны зеркалу, в котором мы можем видеть себя. Они отражают наше скрытое «я», раскрывая истинное лицо нашей сути. Через сны мы можем познать эту знакомую, но чужую нам область. Когда мы просыпаемся, наши сны могут стать дверью, через которую можно вернуться одним шагом в мир души. Этот внутренний мир, где каждый духовный путешественник может найти свой собственный путь. Духовный наставник проводит душу через великие океаны, горы и реки, к ее тайным хранилищам, скрытым в ее глубинах. Слишком долго мы на Западе смотрели только на внешний мир. Настолько, что забыли об этом великом путешествии внутрь себя. Однако место, где можно найти истинную красоту и тайну, находится в нашем внутреннем мире»

Лента новостей

Мекка превращается в «умный» регион
25.03.2022

Спустя шесть месяцев Кабульский университет открылся
02.03.2022

Самый высокий небоскреб в Африке возвышается над пустыней в новой административной столице Египта
17.02.2022

Турецкий музей признан одним из 25 лучших в мире
16.02.2022

Дворцы саудовских королей станут отелями
15.02.2022

В Дубае открывается Музей будущего
14.02.2022

Маршрут хиджры Пророка (мир ему) можно будет увидеть в цифровом виде
05.02.2022

Индийский музей откроет галерею исламского искусства с более чем 2500 артефактами
04.02.2022

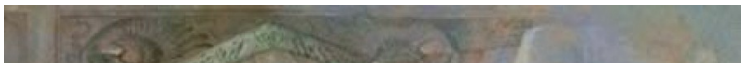
Перспекти халяльного туризма в 2022 году самые оптимистичные несмотря на пандемию
03.02.2022

В Саудовской Аравии будет

protected by reCAPTCHA
Privacy - Terms

Согласно известному исламскому философу Ибн Халдуну (ум. 1406), сны могут иметь три источника – Аллаха, ангелов и шайтана. Как пишет этот мыслитель, сны от Аллаха ясны и не требуют толкований. Сны от ангелов нуждаются в истолковании, а сны от шайтана бывают запутанными. В своей знаменитой «Мукаддима» Ибн Халдун называет толкование сновидений одной из религиозных наук, подобной тафсиру (толкованию Корана) и хадисоведению.

Полуденный сон – сунна и польза для здоровья.



Источник: kitapcafe.com

Основатель тариката кубравия Наджм ад-дин Кубра приводит следующие примеры толкования снов: «Например, просто враг может предстать [во сне] в образе собаки, благородный враг – в образе льва, великий человек – в виде горы, падишах – в виде моря, полезный человек – в виде дерева с плодами, бесполезный – в виде дерева без плодов, польза и пропитание – в виде еды, земной мир (дунья) – в виде нечистот (наджасат) или мужа и жены… Такова тайна толкования снов».

В исламской традиции существует такое мнение, что нельзя толковать сны только по соответствующим книгам, то есть подражая… Ибо толкование зависит от личности человека и времени. «Нельзя толковать сны на основе каких-то книг, подобных толкованиям Ибн Сирина. Это запрещено, и толкование производится только с учетом времени и места» [1].

Ибн Халдун также пишет о том, что одни и те же образы могут интерпретироваться по-разному в зависимости от состояния человека: «Море в одном случае указывает на султана, в другом – на обиду, в третьем – на горе и путаницу. Змея – враг в одном случае, сохранение тайны в другом и жизнь – в третьем».

Эти женщины-суфии опередили в праведности мужчин.

создан институт арабской музыки
01.02.2022

К чему приведет модернизация пятницы в ОАЭ?
19.01.2022

Новые объекты из исламского мира в списке ЮНЕСКО
10.01.2022

Самое старое дерево Ирана может попасть в список Всемирного наследия
19.12.2021

Рабат стал культурной столицей исламского мира 2022 года
16.11.2021

Сомалийская песня обретает популярность во всем мире
15.11.2021

Саудовская Аравия откроет первый в мире «летающий музей»
13.11.2021

Источник: sun9-86.userapi.com

В суфийской традиции в толковании сновидений на первый план выходят состояния нафса и души (рух), а также стоянки (макам) на пути духовного развития. Турецкий суфий и поэт Нияз Мисри (1618-1694), основатель ветви мисрия тариката халватия, толкует сны в соответствии с семью степенями (мартаба) нафса. В каждой из этих степеней сны толкуются по-своему. А степени (мартаба) нафса содержат отсылки к семи планетам и именам Аллаха.

Наше психическое здоровье влияет и на здоровье нашего тела, потому что значительная часть болезней носит психосоматический характер. Другими словами, хотя болезни носчт физический характер, в основе их лежат психологические факторы. В качестве примера можно привести гастрит, язву и гипертонию. Поэтому и снам следует придавать значение с точки зрения нашего психического здоровья. Было бы нелепым утверждать, что Аллах просто так дарует нам сновидения в среднем по 2,5 часа каждый день.

Титус Буркхардт: искусство невозможно понять без суфизма.

Исламосфера

---

[1] Muhammed Abdülhay el-Kettani, et-Teratibul'l-İdariyye/Hz.

Peygamber'in Yönetimi, çev., Ahmet Özel, İstanbul-1990, İz Yay., I/142 vd

МЫСЛЬ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

комментарии 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

ЛИЧНОСТИ, МЫСЛЬ

Мухаммад Ма Цзянь – автор самого популярного перевода Корана на китайский язык

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

МЫСЛЬ

Как мусульманская фраза «ИншаАллах» проникла в мировые языки

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

МЫСЛЬ

Мусульманский спектакль «Ракуго» – необычный театральный эксперимент

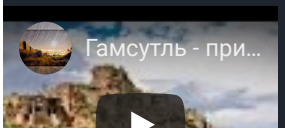
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

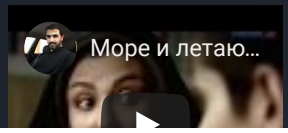
ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ

НАСЛЕДИЕ

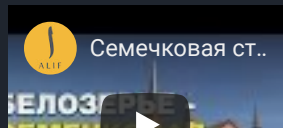
Двенадцать медресе при мечети аль-Акса

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ





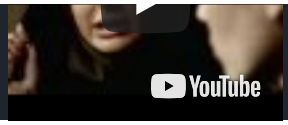
ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ



Кепенек – одежда пастухов родом из Центральной Азии

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО



Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)

Семечковая столица России (видео)

НАСЛЕДИЕ

Долина мира – самое большое мусульманское кладбище в мире

BY ADMIN

ЛИЧНОСТИ, НОВОСТИ

10 богатейших бизнесменов исламского мира

BY ADMIN

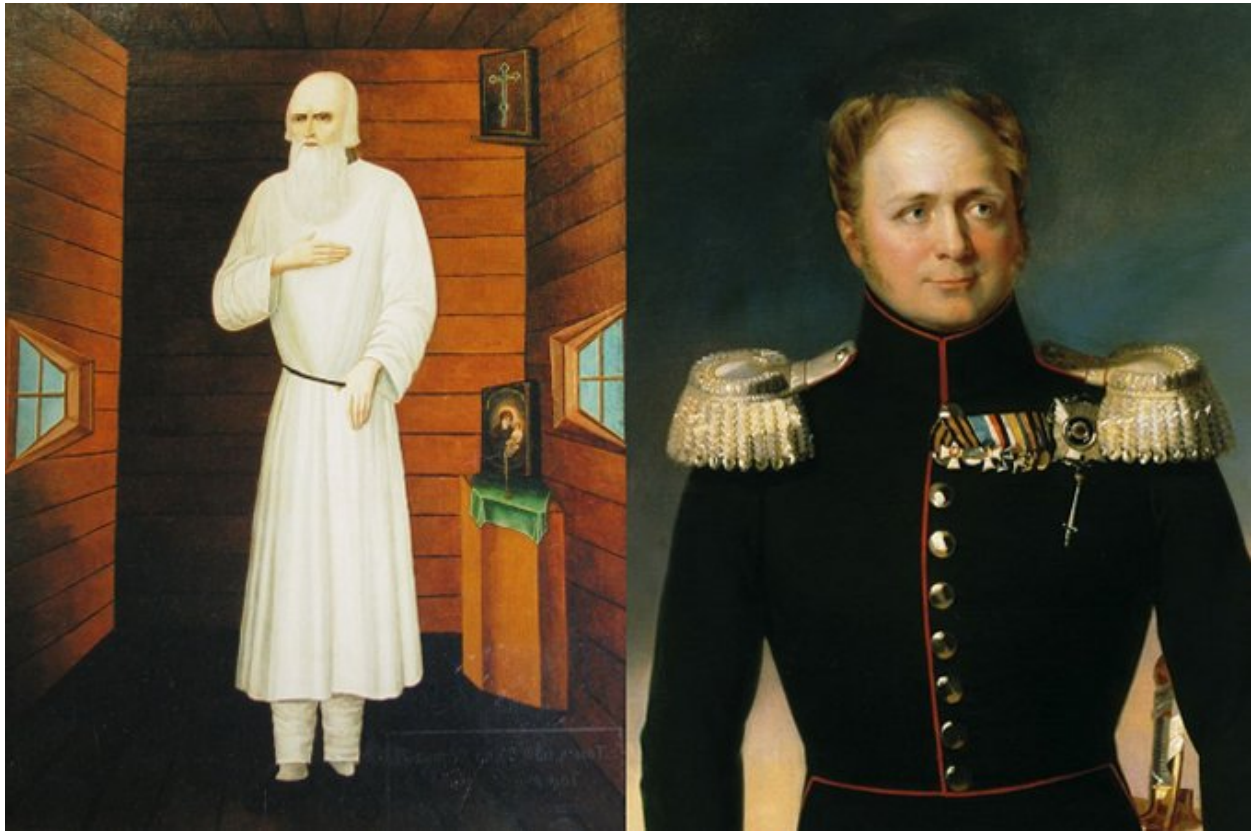
Mystery Of Feodor Kuzmich – Did Tsar Alexander I Fake His Death?

AncientPages.com | March 23, 2020 | Featured Stories, Historical Figures, History, News

Ellen Lloyd- AncientPages.com - Mystery and rumors still surround Feodor Kuzmich who in 1836 suddenly entered the Siberian town of Krasnoufimsk, in Perm province riding on a white horse. Who was this enigmatic, modestly dressed tall stranger?

Search the site

Follow Us



Subscribe to our newsletter

On This Day In History: Charlemagne King Of The Franks And Emperor Of The

His strange appearance alerted the local blacksmith who contacted the authorities, but it was difficult to learn the truth about this mysterious man who was in his sixties.

What Was Feodor Kuzmich Hiding?

When questioned by the police, Feodor Kuzmich said he had no recollection of his past. All he remembered was his name, he claimed. Kuzmich was interrogated, but his story didn't make sense and he had no documents which led to that he was arrested.

Left: Feodor Kuzmich - Credit: Public Domain - Right: Tsar Alexander I - Credit: Public Domain

Holy Roman Empire Born – On April 2, 742

Latest Articles

- Priceless Artifacts From The Bactrian Hoard Are Missing – Where Are They?
- Discovery In Alabama Reveals Evidence Of Skull Surgery In North America Thousands Of Years Earlier Than Previously Thought
- Mystery Of The Avars Who Conquered The Roman Empire Solved By Scientists
- World's First 'Cash Machine' Discovered In A Wall Of An Ancient Bakery
- Meet SPOT – Robot Dog Deployed To Guard The Ancient Ruins Of Pompeii
- Ancient DNA Study Reveals Surprise About Britain's Bronze Age – What Happened On The Orkney Islands?

The authorities had the impression Kuzmich was not really suffering from amnesia, but that he was simply unwilling to reveal his true identity. This made the police even more suspicious. Was Kuzmich perhaps a criminal who was a wanted man?

Kuzmich refused to talk and this made his case troublesome. He was beaten by the police, trialed and sentenced to exile near Tomsk, a few hundred miles deeper into Siberia.

On April 8, 1837, Feodor Kuzmich arrived from Perm to join the 43rd Exile Settlement at Bogotolsk, near Tomsk.

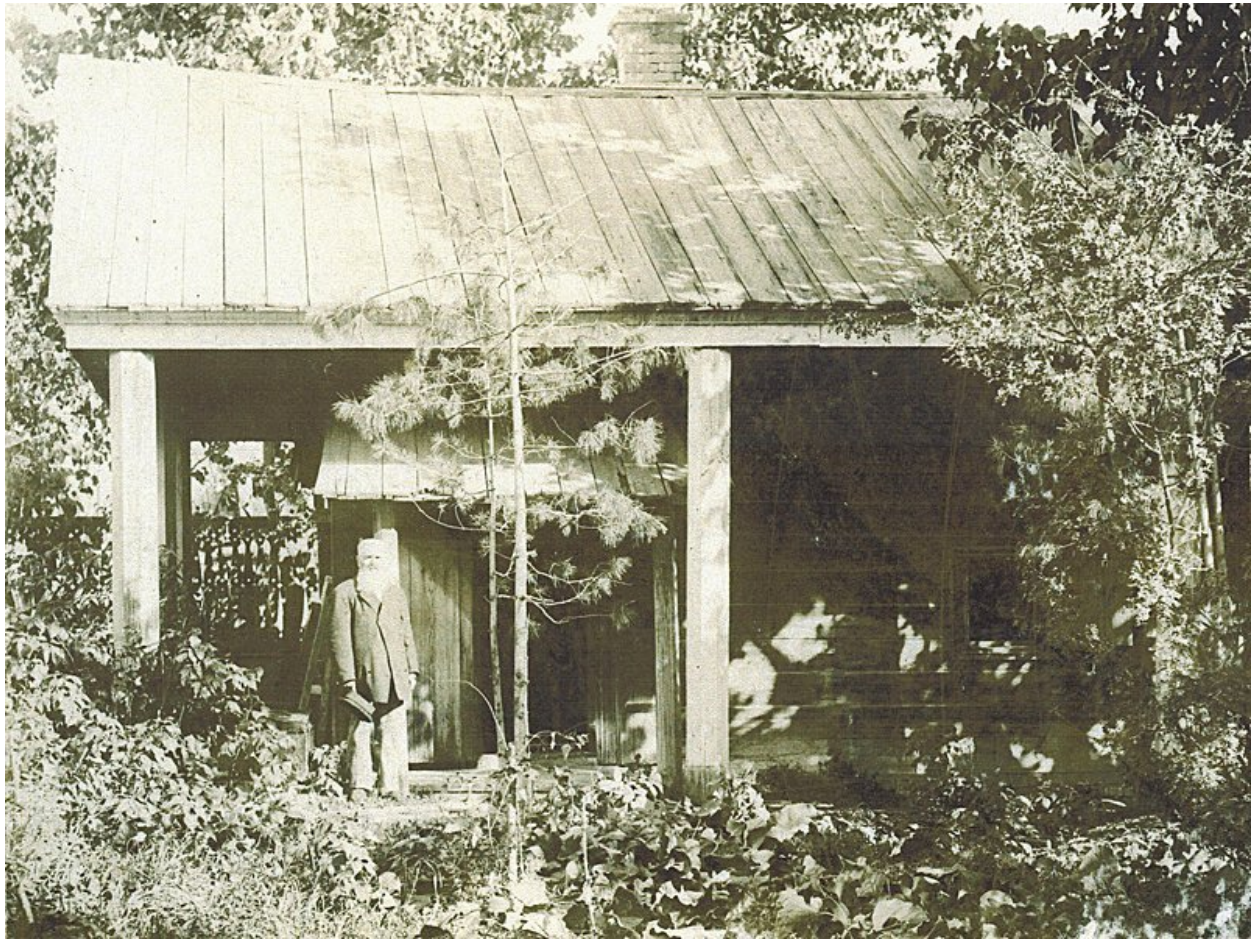
Kuzmich spent the next 15 years moving from one place to another. He worked without complaining and established friendly relationships with those he encountered, but everyone could see he was a man who appreciated solitude.

The lack of information about Kuzmich ‘s early life, along with curious similarities between Alexander I and Kuzmich have led to speculations that the Russian Tsar faked his death in 1825 to become a hermit.

Author Alexis S. Troubetzkoy explores this possibility in his fascinating book Imperial Legend: The Mysterious Disapperance of Tsar Alexander I.

Before and after his death many miracles were attributed to Kuzmich and he was canonized as a righteous saint by the Russian Orthodox Church in 1984.

“Wherever he traveled or settled, the local populace invariably took to him. Peasant children, in particular, were attracted to him, and he freely instructed them in grammar, history, geography, and religious knowledge.



With adults, he held religious discussions and recounted colorful events of national history — the old man was well versed in the details of various battles. His followers were especially captivated by his vivid accounts of life in St. Petersburg. By his piety and simplicity and through the sympathetic counsel he freely offered, Kuzmich earned the warm affection of those around him.

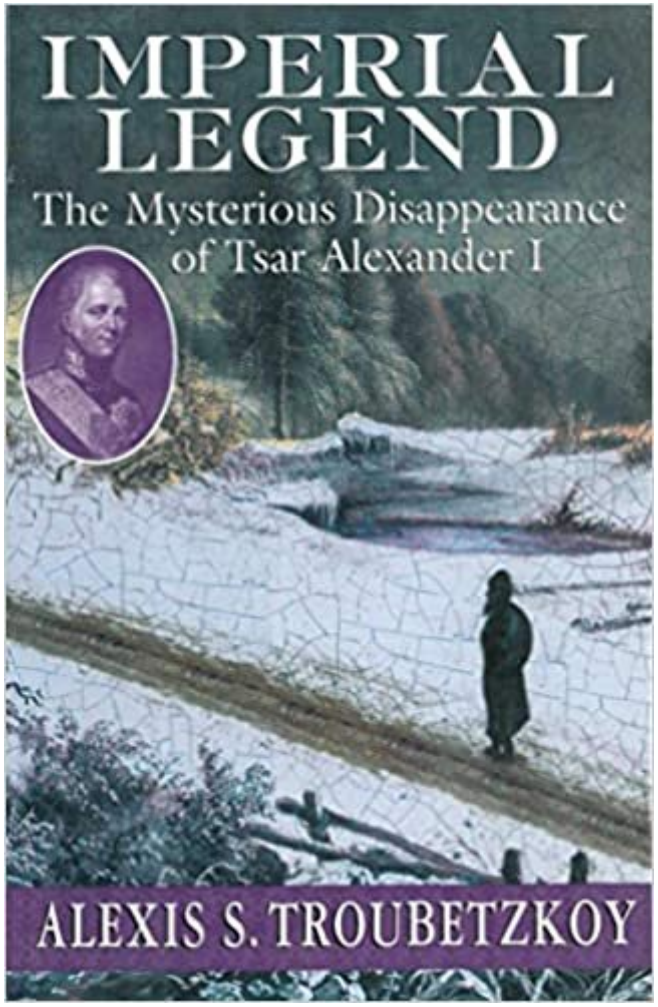
Ka Gold Jewelry Sacred Jewelry

As in his earlier years in Beloyarsk, visitors of every sort sought spiritual counsel from him or simply asked for practical advice. At first, he appeared genuinely to welcome his callers, but as time went on it became increasingly clear to the people that the starets required privacy and seclusion. A tacit understanding was eventually reached, and before long people ceased imposing on the old man's hospitality," Troubetzkoy writes in his book.

Was Feodor Kuzmich Really Tsar Alexander I?

In 1858, Kuzmich met a merchant named Khromov who offered him a small cottage outside the city. Kuzmich accepted this generous offer and this was the place where he spent the rest of his life.

Kuzmich's house. Credit: Public Domain



Even on his deathbed, Feodor Kuzmich refused to reveal his identity. When the priest saw that Kuzmich was dying, he asked the old man if he was, in fact, the Alexander the Blessed, Kuzmich responded saying: "Your works are wonderful, Lord ... There is no secret, which is not opened.

Many historians dismiss the idea that Tsar Alexander I faked his death, but rumors about his empty tomb have led to interesting thoughts.

Most Read This Week

- Medieval Bollock Dagger – Also Known As Kidney Dagger Discovered In Belgium
- Mystery Of The Scottish Medieval Wanderer And The Bog Bodies At Cramond Investigated By Scientists
- Rare 'Cursed' Tablet Predating The Dead Sea Scrolls Discovered On Mount Ebal Could Re-Write History – Scientists Say
- Mystery Why Vikings Left Greenland Has Been Solved By Scientists
- DNA Reveals Early Maya Trace Their Roots To Unknown Ancient Immigrants Carrying Maize From The South
- Deir el-Bahri – Sacred Resting Place For The Pharaohs

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

Alexander I, one of Russia's greatest emperors, beloved of his subjects for his many liberalizing works and reforms domestically, and for his astounding—and unexpected—victory over the presumably invulnerable Napoleon Bonaparte, reigned from 1801 to late 1825. But despite his many glittering successes at home and abroad, his immense power and wealth, the tsar was throughout his life a troubled man.

Caught up in the personal and political maelstrom between his domineering grandmother Catherine the Great and his highly neurotic and volatile father Paul I, Alexander came to the

Latest Premium Articles

- The Mysterious Books Of Prophecies Of The Knights Templar – Where Are They Hidden?
- Mysterious Deaths In A Dangerous Valley May Be Related To Ancient Events
- Secret Hidden Freemasonic Messages Concealed In Ancient Egyptian Artifacts And Roman Works - Part 1 - 2
- Biblical Mystery Of The Forbidden Fruit And The 'Deep Sleep'

throne as a result of a coup mounted against his father in March 1801. Although not an active participant in the plot, and reassured that the plan was to depose and exile the unpopular Paul, not to harm him, Alexander was devastated when the takeover turned violent and his father was assassinated. That cloud under which he acceded to the throne never lifted, and throughout his reign he often confided to family and friends his desire to thrust off the burdens of state and retire to some quiet place to live out the rest of his life.

By 1825, his popularity waning, the health of his wife becoming more fragile by the day, he decided to remove himself and a bare-bones court to Taganrog, a remote town near the Crimea. A few weeks after his arrival there, he suddenly fell ill and died on November 19, 1825. Or did he? Ever since that day, rumors have swarmed that the young and still-vigorous tsar—he was only forty-eight—had staged his death to expiate the sin that refused to leave him, the sin of patricide.

The legend has it that his "reincarnation" took the form of a starets, the humble and holy men who wandered throughout nineteenth-century Russia doing good works. That starets, brilliant and uncommonly erudite, was one Feodor Kuzmich. So widespread and persistent was the belief that Tsar Alexander and Feodor Kuzmich were one and the same that the great Leo Tolstoy planned to write a book on the subject. Imperial Legend, with a deft touch and a fresh voice, "solves" one of the most intriguing royal mysteries of the past two centuries. Read more

"After the monk's death these rumors only spread and became stronger. Not only common people believed them but many from the elite, including the royal family of Tsar Alexander III. The reasons for these rumors were the following: Alexander died unexpectedly, he did not suffer from any disease before, he died far away from home in a remote place of Taganrog, and when he was put in the coffin many who saw him, said that he changed a lot, this is why the coffin was quickly sealed. It was known that Alexander said and wrote that he wanted so much to leave his post and to stay away from this world," Leo Tolstoy wrote.

Svetlana Semyonova, president of Russian Graphological Society, suggests strong similarities between the handwritings of Alexander I and the mysterious monk Kuzmich.

- Mystery Of The Ancient Reptilian Gods Remains A Complex Subject – Memories Of The Past – Part 1- 2
- Mystery Of The Ancient Moonless Ones – Strange Tales Of Unusual Lost Civilizations
- More Premium Articles

- New Experiment Could Confirm The Fifth State Of Matter In The Universe
- New Study Of Yellowstone National Park Shines New Light On Once Hidden Details Of The Famous American Landmark
- New Pumpkin-Shaped Nucleus Radiates Protons With Record-Setting Rate
- On Icy Moon Enceladus, Expansion Cracks Let Inner Ocean Boil Out
- Hawaiian-Emperor Undersea Mystery Revealed With Supercomputers

Trending Now:

“I was given a handwritten by Alexander I at the age of 45, and also another handwritten sample by Feodor Kuzmich,' she said. 'As a graphologist, I have noted an unusual style of both handwritings.”

“Do I believe that Feodor Kuzmich and Alexander I were one and the same? I can say that I most emphatically do. Before long, science may well provide us with the final answer. In fact, in writing this work, I hope that it will serve as a catalyst for a methodical, scientific investigation of this almost two-hundred-year-old mystery. Particularly with DNA’s refinement, we have the required tools; let the graves be opened, the truth confirmed, and the mystery forever put to rest,” Troubetzkoy writes in his book.

Without a proper DNA examination, it’s impossible to determine if Feodor Kuzmich was in fact Tsar Alexander I. Still, one cannot overlook that this story has some curious aspects. For e a person who claims to have been homeless, Kuzmich was well-educated. He spoke several languages, was familiar with historical events, discussed philosophy, religion, and showed great interest in spirituality. Where did he acquire this knowledge if he was a homeless man as he claimed himself?

Why did several people of importance show interest in Kuzmich? He received a visit from Tsarevich Alexander in 1837 and Tsarevich Nicholas visited his grave in 1893.

Why did Kuzmich refuse to reveal his identity? What secret did he hide?

Written by Ellen Lloyd – AncientPages.com

Copyright © AncientPages.com & Ellen Lloyd All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed in whole or part without the express written permission of AncientPages.com and Ellen Lloyd

Tags: Feodor Kuzmich, Russia, Tsar Alexander I

More From Ancient Pages

Mythology

- Yehasuri – Little People Of South Carolina Living In The Woods – Native Americans’ Version Of Leprechauns
- Mysterious Judaculla Rock And The Slant-Eyed Giant Of The Cherokee
- Amergin: First Druid And ‘Wondrously Born’ Son Of Mil, Founder Of Poetry, Was Judge In Irish Mythology
- Yew: Mysterious Ominous And Sacred Tree Revered By Our Ancestors Since The Dawn Of Civilization
- Mysteries Of The Huldufolk – The Hidden People Of Iceland
- Uruk Prophecy Found In The Ancient Library Of A Magician With Divine Powers
- Apalala: Harsh Dragon Controlling Swat River Who Became Benevolent Naga King Helping People In Buddhist Tradition

History Places

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

Being Anglo-Saxon Was A Matter Of Language And Culture, Not Genetics

Archaeology
| Jun 23, 2021

Secret Kumari Kandam Continent And Links To Lemurians

Civilizations
| May 18, 2020

Mystery Of The Chinchorro Civilization And The World's Oldest Mummies

Civilizations
| Dec 27, 2016

Hopi Ancestors Witnessed Flying Shields In The Skies Over Palitkwapi – The 'Red City'

Civilizations
| Apr 8, 2017

Unique 3,500-Year-Old Clay Pig Figurines Used As Children's Toys Found In Poland

Archaeology
| Aug 19, 2020

Tusayan Pueblo Ruins And Split Twig Figurines Tell Story Of People Who Once Inhabited The Grand Canyon

Civilizations
| Nov 13, 2018

Strange History Of Stele Of Ankh-ef-en-Khonsu – 'Stele Of Revealing' Gave Birth To Thelema, A New Religion

Artifacts
| Apr 3, 2018

Niches With Six Figures Cut In Rock Discovered At Gebel Al-Silsila, Aswan

Archaeology
| Dec 27, 2015

Illegal Journey Of 2,000 Historic Artifacts Hidden In Truck Under The Guise Of Parquet

Artifacts
| Jan 3, 2021

Was Alulim, First King Of Sumer And Eridu Biblical Adam?

Biblical Mysteries
| Mar 14, 2019

Graeae: Three Sisters Of Fate Who Shared One Eye And Tooth In Greek Mythology

Featured Stories
| Jun 8, 2016

How King Arthur Became One Of The Most Pervasive Legends Of All Time

Featured Stories
| Feb 12, 2017

Oldest Known Human-Made Nanostructures Found In Ancient Artifacts In Tamil Nadu

Ancient Technology
| Nov 23, 2020

Face Of Queen Lady Cao Reconstructed – Unique Look At The First Known Female Ruler In Peru

Archaeology
| Jul 10, 2017

Why Is A Snake Symbol Of Medicine And Pharmacies?

Ancient History Facts
| Jan 15, 2018

Mysterious City Lost In The Sands And Its Hidden Treasures

Civilizations
| May 21, 2018

Has The Mystery Of Bronze Age Tin Been Solved?

Archaeology
| Oct 3, 2019

Smyrna Excavations Reveal Ashes From Santorini's Minoan Volcanic Eruption

News
| Jun 8, 2018

Clothing And Jewelry In Ancient Egypt – How Did The Ancient Egyptians Dress?

Ancient History Facts
| Jun 7, 2020

The Oseberg Tapestry And Other Artifacts Show Strong Colors Were A Viking Symbol Of Status And Wealth

Featured Stories
| Sep 27, 2021

News

Priceless Artifacts From The Bactrian Hoard Are Missing – Where Are They?

Discovery In Alabama Reveals Evidence Of Skull Surgery In North America Thousands Of Years Earlier Than Previously Thought

Mystery Of The Avars Who Conquered The Roman Empire Solved By Scientists

World's First 'Cash Machine' Discovered In A Wall Of An Ancient Bakery

Meet SPOT – Robot Dog Deployed To Guard The Ancient Ruins Of Pompeii

Ancient DNA Study Reveals Surprise About Britain's Bronze Age – What Happened On The Orkney Islands?

COPYRIGHT © 2022 ANCIENT PAGES.

New Study Sheds Light On The Phenomenon Of Female Jewish Slavery And Uncovers Gang Rape In Livorno's Slave Prison

AncientPages.com | May 18, 2022 | Archaeology, News, Places

Jan Bartek - AncientPages.com - Historian Prof. Tamar Herzig, Vice Dean for Research at Entin Faculty of Humanities, exposed previously unknown evidence of organized gang rape of a group of

Search the site

Follow Us

Subscribe to our newsletter

On This Day In History: Anne Boleyn, The Second Wife Of Henry VIII – Beheaded For

enslaved Jewish girls and women from North Africa in the Italian city of Livorno at the beginning of the 17th century.

The rape was organized by Dr. Bernardetto Buonromei, a high-ranking state official at Livorno's slave prison, who was also able to silence any complaints and effectively erase the memory of the victims' suffering.

Credit: Adobe Stock - str1k3

According to the documents studied by Herzig, in the summer of 1610 Buonromei ordered the assignment of a group of enslaved female Jews, newly arrived from North Africa, to the men's quarters in the slave prison, contrary to the customary separation of women and men in different sections.

Adultery, Treason And Incest – On May 19, 1536

Latest Articles

- Huge Unknown Ancient Lost World Discovered Inside Giant Sinkhole In China
- Evidence Europeans Used Slash-And-Burn Methods 9,500 Years Ago For Agriculture Purposes
- New Study Sheds Light On The Phenomenon Of Female Jewish Slavery And Uncovers Gang Rape In Livorno's Slave Prison
- Strangest Maps Ever Created -You Have Never Seen Our World Like This!
- Girl's Ancient Tooth Solves One Of The Biggest Mysteries Of The Denisovans
- Etruscan City Of Cerveteri With Magnificent House-Like Tombs Decorated With Scenes From Life And Death

Most Read This Week

- Mysterious Gold-Colored Chariot Washes Ashore In India – But Where Did It Come From?

This order resulted in the multiple perpetrator raping of the enslaved Jews by Muslim slaves and Christian forced laborers. One report notes that one of the victims lost her mind, and attempted to throw her young daughters out of the prison's window and commit suicide.

Representatives of Livorno's influential Jewish community sent protests decrying the unprecedented sexual abuse of their enslaved coreligionists to the Tuscan authorities, but all complaints and testimonies were soon silenced with the help of the Grand duke of Tuscany, who backed Dr. Buonromei. The Grand duke accepted the doctor's claims that his actions had been aimed at increasing the Tuscan state's profits from the slave trade, by ensuring the future payment of high ransom fees for enslaved foreign Jews by the local Jewish community in Livorno. Buonromei kept his job as the physician in charge of the slave prison, and when he died a few years later the Grand duke paid for his tombstone at Livorno's main church.

Livorno's Jewish community in the 17th century was one of the wealthiest and most influential Italian Jewish communities, and its relationship with the rulers of the Tuscan state was usually strong. According to the documents that Prof. Herzig uncovered, the affluent and well-connected members of Livorno's Jewish community were nonetheless subject to extortion by government officials like Buonromei. Prof. Herzig found that the rulers of the Grand Duchy of Tuscany employed the gang rape incident as a grand spectacle of violence, using it to exert pressure on the Jewish community so that they would agree to pay exorbitant ransom fees for Jews captured in North Africa and forcefully transported to Livorno.

Buonromei, who had served as Livorno's first Mayor before his appointment at the slave prison, is still honored today as one of the city's founding fathers. A street in Livorno is named after him, and a figure commemorating him is paraded in the annual processions celebrating Livorno's elevation to the status of a city.

Prof. Herzig's study was published in the journal The American Historical Review. Prof. Herzig hopes that exposure of her findings in the Italian media will lead to a change in the commemoration of Dr. Buonromei, a man who made his fortune from the slave trade and was personally responsible for the horrendous abuse of enslaved Jewish women and girls.

- World's Largest DNA Study Of Viking Skeletons Re-Writes Ancient History – Norse Warriors Were Not Those Who We Thought
- Babylon's Kiln-Fired Bricks Almost Erased The City From History
- Shaka Zulu: African Hero And One Of Greatest Military Leaders Of All Time
- Ancient Scandinavians Never Spoke Of Themselves As Vikings – Here Is Why
- Incredible Ancient Roman 'Service Station' With Hundreds Of Artifacts And Dozens Bodies Found In Hertfordshire, UK
- Controversial Statue Of Anglo-Norman Knight William Marshal In Pembroke Faces Criticism

Most studies on slavery in seventeenth-century Italy have previously focused mainly on male galley slaves, who supposedly suffered from harsher treatment than enslaved women. Scholarship has also focused on Muslim-Christian rivalry in this period, as the main motivation for the respective groups' engagement in enslaving one another. But so far very little research has addressed the place of Jews as victims of the slave trade in sixteenth and seventeenth-century Italy.

Livorno, Toscana - Fortezza Vecchia. Credit: Ingo Mehling - CC BY-SA 4.0

Prof. Herzig's study is the first to reveal the attitude of representatives of the Italian regime toward Jewish women from North Africa, captured by Italian forces and brought to Italian ports as slaves —an attitude that significantly impacted the relations between local Jews and Christian in Italian cities at the time.

Prof. Herzig says that "unveiling the female and Jewish aspects of the Italian slave trade is very important, because these topics have largely been neglected in historical scholarship on the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. I hope that by raising awareness about the phenomenon of Jewish women's enslavement, my research will lead to a reconsideration of the current commemoration of slavers such as Bernardetto Buonromei, thereby attaining some historical justice for the victims."

The study was published in The American Historical Review

Written by Jan Bartek - AncientPages.com Staff Writer

Tags: Christianity, Europe, Italy, Jews, Prison

More From Ancient Pages

Did The Viking Blood Eagle Ritual Ever Happen Or Was It A Misunderstood Story?

Archaeology
| Dec 21, 2021

On This Day In History: Vädersol Painting Depicting 'Sun Dog' Phenomenon Observed Over Stockholm – On Apr 20, 1535

News
| Apr 20, 2016

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

2,000-Year-Old Aramaic Inscription Unearthed Near Jerusalem

Archaeology
| Oct 24, 2018

Ancient City Of Metropolis: Ruins With Traces Of The Hittites, Hellenistic, Roman, Byzantine And Ottoman Empires

Archaeology
| Jan 8, 2018

Excavations of the Aşıklı Mound, Cappadocia , Turkey

Civilizations
| Aug 22, 2015

Mystery Of The Tower Of Babel – The Mountain Of God Or A Symbol Of Chaos And Ignorance?

Biblical Mysteries
| Oct 14, 2014

World's Oldest Moon Map Carved Into Ireland's 5,000 Year-Old Tomb At Knowth

Featured Stories
| Jun 25, 2014

Ship-Shaped Burial Of Tjelvar – Legendary First Man Who Brought Fire To Gotland

Featured Stories
| Feb 25, 2021

Latest Premium Articles

- Mystery Of The Ancient Unknown Mining Civilization In North America – Puzzling Archaeological Discoveries – Part 1 - 2
- The Mysterious Books Of Prophecies Of The Knights Templar – Where Are They Hidden?
- Mysterious Deaths In A Dangerous Valley May Be Related To Ancient Events
- Secret Hidden Freemasonic Messages Concealed In Ancient Egyptian Artifacts

Unearthing Vadnagar And The Search For Hueng Tsang's 10 Monasteries

Archaeology
| Dec 11, 2015

Yenikapı Excavations Reveal 8,500-Year-Old Artifacts

Archaeology
| Jan 10, 2016

Your Destiny Is Engraved And Stored – Sacred Ancient Sources Reveal – Part 1

Featured Stories
| Jul 10, 2018

'Impossible' Ancient Egyptian Visit Troubles Historians

Featured Stories
| Feb 11, 2021

And Roman Works - Part 1 - 2

- Biblical Mystery Of The Forbidden Fruit And The 'Deep Sleep'
- Mystery Of The Ancient Reptilian Gods Remains A Complex Subject – Memories Of The Past – Part 1- 2
- More Premium Articles

- From Seawater To Drinking Water, With The Push Of A Button
- Bilayer Graphene Inspires Two-Universe Cosmological Model
- Younger Exoplanets Are Better Candidates When Looking For Other Earths
- Researchers Create Flat Magic Window With Liquid Crystals
- NASA Gives Green Light For OSIRIS-REx Spacecraft To Visit Another Asteroid

Trending Now:

Oldest Houses Of Nea Paphos In Cyprus – Discovered

Archaeology
| Apr 12, 2017

Louvre Museum's Entire Collection Is Now Available Online To Anyone

News
| Mar 31, 2021

Invention Of Ancient Military Technologies Throughout World History Investigated

Archaeology
| Oct 23, 2021

On This Day In History: Powerful And Controversial Roman Emperor Frederick II Excommunicated – On Sep 29, 1227

News
| Sep 29, 2016

Never-Before-Seen Ancient Frescoes Discovered Inside The Dormition Cathedral

Archaeology
| Feb 28, 2020

Unexplained Ancient Wars In America – Knowledge Of Ancient High-Tech Weapons? – Part 1

Featured Stories
| Sep 29, 2020

Places

- 3D Scans Reveal Thousands Of Never-Before-Seen Ancient American Rock Art Images In Alabama Cave
- Lost Viking Village Borgund And Its 45,000 Artifacts Hidden In A Basement Examined By Experts
- New Huge Viking Ship Discovered By Radar In Øye, Norway – What Is Hidden Beneath The Ground?
- Dispute And Mystery: Strange Case Of The Tomb KV55 In The Valley Of Kings, Egypt
- Dolmen de Soto: Unique Millennia-Old Underground Structure Remains A Puzzling Enigma
- Deir el-Bahri – Sacred Resting Place For The Pharaohs

History Mythology

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

Chester Stash Could Have Been Savings Hidden In An Iron-Glazed Mug

Archaeology
| Oct 13, 2015

Ancient Mystery Of The American Southwest – Unusual Skeletons And Mummies – Part 2

Civilizations
| Jul 24, 2018

News

Huge Unknown Ancient Lost World Discovered Inside Giant Sinkhole In China

Evidence Europeans Used Slash-And-Burn Methods 9,500 Years Ago For Agriculture Purposes

New Study Sheds Light On The Phenomenon Of Female Jewish Slavery And Uncovers Gang Rape In Livorno's Slave Prison

Strangest Maps Ever Created -You Have Never Seen Our World Like This!

Girl's Ancient Tooth Solves One Of The Biggest Mysteries Of The Denisovans

Etruscan City Of Cerveteri With Magnificent House-Like Tombs Decorated With Scenes From Life And Death

COPYRIGHT © 2022 ANCIENT PAGES.

Obeah: Who Were The Feared Shadow Killers Of Jamaica?

AncientPages.com | September 24, 2018 | Ancient Traditions And Customs, Featured Stories, News

Ellen Lloyd - AncientPges.com - It is said that some hundred years ago, the people of Jamaica believed the powers of so-called "Shadow Killers".

These were witches, wizards who spread terror by practicing black magic. Is there any truth behind these stories or are we simply dealing with superstition? Do some modern people really still believe in the power of spells and black magic?

Are there any interesting historical accounts and ancient history facts that can help us shed more light on the mysterious "Shadow Killers"? Why is the practice of Obeah forbidden?

Search the site

Follow Us

Subscribe to our newsletter

On This Day In History: Moscow Armistice Signed Between Finland And Soviet Union – On Sep 19, 1944

Latest Articles

- Why Did First Printed Books Scare Ancient Scholars In Europe?

Who Are The Obeah – Shadow Killers?

The so-called “Shadow Killers” were men and women who became known as Obeah.

The term 'obeah' is first encountered in documents from the early 18th century and the history of Obeah is similar to that of Voodoo in

Read More

Cities Of Bashan Were Built By Ancient Giants – Archaeological Evidence Exists Bu...

There is archaeological evidence ancient cities of Bashan were built by giants whose powers far exceeded those of ...

Ancient Pages

Kap Dwa – Mysterious Two-Headed Mummified Patagonian Giant – Real Or...

Kap Dwa was said to be a Patagonian giant born with two heads. Kap Dwa’s fate is shrouded in mystery, but there is...

Ancient Pages

Shin-Au-Av – Secret Ancient Underground City Hidden Beneath Death Valley

The idea that there could be a secret 5,000-years-old underground city hidden somewhere beneath Death Valle...

Ancient Pages

World’s Largest DNA Study Of Viking Skeletons Re-Writes Ancient History – Nors...

A fascinating DNA study of more than 400 Viking skeletons has just re-written history. Today we know with certainty ...

- Child’s Play: Are Tibetan Hand And Foot Traces The Earliest Example Of Parietal Art?
- Ancient DNA Has Rewritten Early Japanese History
- Hispano-Visigothic Grave At Ojo Guareña – Resting Place Of A Hermit Who Sought Isolation When The Moors Arrived?
- Aboriginals Finely Serrated And Perforated Shell Artifacts – Evidence From The Murray River, Australia
- Fixing Archaeology’s Dating Problem – New Method Developed By Scientists

Ancient DNA Reveals Irish Are Not Celts – Irish Ancestors Came From Biblical Lands –...

Ancient DNA reveals Irish are not Celts and it's very possible ancestors of the Irish people came from Biblical ...

Ancient Pages

Ancient Giant Skeleton Discovered In Krabi Cave Confirms Legend Of The Nagas – Or...

Scientists have discovered an ancient giant skeleton and huge snake bones. It's an extraordinary discovery, and if i...

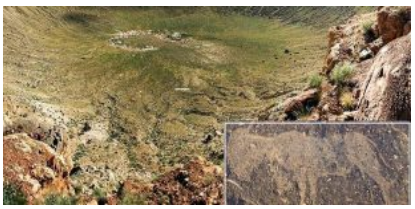
Ancient Pages

Ka Gold Jewelry Sacred Jewelry

More From Ancient Pages

Ancient Fascinating City Of Susa That Appeared In Earliest Sumerian Records

Civilizations
| Nov 7, 2015



Hades – Land Of The Dead In Greek Beliefs Offered Punishment And Paradise Full Of Harmony

Featured Stories
| Aug 15, 2019

Zhang Heng Seismograph Could Record Earth's Dangerous Movements

Artifacts
| Feb 23, 2014

8,000-Year-Old Petroglyphs Discovered In Oldest Impact Crater In South Africa

Archaeology
| Jun 21, 2019

Most Read Today

- Djoser – Most Outstanding King Of The Third Dynasty In Ancient Egypt And His Step Pyramid
- One Of The Oldest Manuscripts Fragments Of

Divine Shulgi Of Ur: Influential, Long-Ruling King, Conqueror And Native Akkadian Speaker In Five Languages

Civilizations
| Mar 22, 2019

Mysterious Abaj Takalik Of Guatemala And Intriguing Relationship Between Olmec and Maya

Civilizations
| Mar 16, 2020

Yam: Tyrannical Hydra-Like Sea Monster God Cast Out Of Heaven

Featured Stories
| Aug 3, 2016

Controversial Theory Suggests Atlantis Was In Scandinavia – Surprising Evidence Presented By Ancient Writer

Featured Stories
| Sep 5, 2018

Why Were Neolithic Houses Always Built Counterclockwise?

Archaeology
| Jan 13, 2020

The Mysterious Metaphysical World Of Isaac Newton

Featured Stories
| Aug 21, 2018

The Famous Merlin Legend Discovered

- The Marduk Prophecy Of Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar I And The Stolen Statue Of A God
- Tarascan Indians: Intriguing Pre-Columbian Civilization Of Artists, Warriors And Skilled Metallurgists
- Mystery Of Ancient, Overlooked Calico: Early Man Site In The Mojave Desert Of North America
- Almost Unknown Ancient Greek Text Rewrites History Of Poetry And Song

Latest From MessageToEagle.com

- Modern Snakes Evolved From A Few Survivors Of Dino-Killing Asteroid
- Exploring Eruptions From The Sun
- Rerun Of Supernova Blast Expected To Appear In 2037
- Quasars – The New Cosmic Standard Candles
- Effects Of Climate Change On Indigenous Peoples, Lands And Culture
- Ancient Teeth Reveal Surprising Diversity Of Cretaceous Reptiles At Argentina Fossil Site
- More Message To Eagle News - here

Library of Ancient & Unexplained

Why Was The Moretta Mask So Popular?

Ancient History Facts
| Feb 14, 2020

On This Day In History: Battle Of Naulochus Was Fought Off The Coast Of Sicily – On Sep 3, 36 BC

News
| Sep 3, 2015

Real Giant Kojomkul Who Became A Folk Hero In Kyrgyzstan

Featured Stories
| Dec 2, 2020

Ancient Solar Eclipses That Re-Wrote History And Made Ever-Lasting Impact On Humans

Featured Stories
| Aug 15, 2017

Treasures Of Polish Archaeological Dig In Czermno Medieval Fortified Settlement – Revealed

Archaeology
| Dec 5, 2015

600-Year-Old Axe Heads Used In The Battle Of Grunwald Found in Poland

Archaeology
| Sep 1, 2020

Sverd I Fjell – Swords In Rock: Battle Of Hafrsfjord Won By Harald Fairhair – First King Of Norway

Featured Stories
| Mar 9, 2016

10 Most Bizarre Forms Of Ancient Taxes: Surprising And Funny

Featured Stories
| Nov 21, 2016

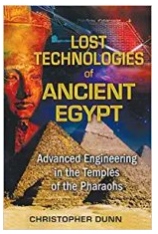
Mysteries

Latest Premium Articles

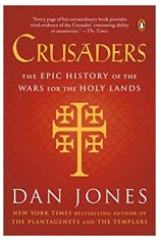
- 'Impossible' Ancient Knowledge Of The Gods' Star - Part 1 - 2
- Secret High-Tech Knowledge Hidden In Ancient Manuscripts And The Mysterious Seven Sky Kings
- Mystery Of The Lost Continent Destroyed By An Ancient Cataclysm - Part 1 - 2
- Unexplained Sightings Of An Unknown Parallel World – Did He Stumble Upon An Interdimensional Portal?
- Ancient Native Americans' Three Unusual Celestial Journeys And The Chosen Ones Initiated Into The Secrets Of The Gods
- More Premium Articles

Satellite Images Reveal Huge 4000-Year-Old Military Network In Syria

Archaeology
| Dec 23, 2017



Mysterious Lost Civilization Of Chu And Its Powerful Kingdom

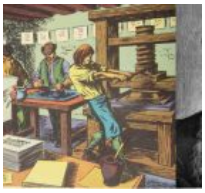


Civilizations
| Nov 29, 2018

Trending Now:

- Mythology
  - Birds – Mysterious Avian Messengers That Symbolized Bridge Between Humans And Gods In World Beliefs
  - Pryor Mountains Are Home To The Mysterious Little People – Native Americans Say
  - Mnemosyne: Powerful Greek Goddess Of Memory, Bridge Between The Past And The Future
  - Celtic Tree Of Life – Portal To Invisible Worlds And Source Of Sacred Knowledge
  - Tezcatlipoca: Enigmatic Aztec God Who Looked Inside People's Hearts And Observed Their Deeds On Earth
  - Ankou: Breton Angel Of Death That Delivers Souls To The Underworld
- History

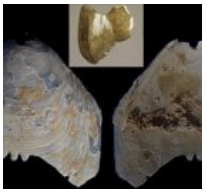
Recommended Books:



Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

News

Why Did First Printed Books Scare Ancient Scholars In Europe?



Child's Play: Are Tibetan Hand And Foot Traces The Earliest Example Of Parietal Art?

Ancient DNA Has Rewritten Early Japanese History

Hispano-Visigothic Grave At Ojo Guareña – Resting Place Of A Hermit Who Sought Isolation When The Moors Arrived?

Aboriginals Finely Serrated And Perforated Shell Artifacts – Evidence From The Murray River, Australia

Fixing Archaeology's Dating Problem – New Method Developed By Scientists

COPYRIGHT © 2021 ANCIENT PAGES.

On This Day In History: Army Of Tsar Alexander I of Russia Enters Paris – On March 31, 1814

AncientPages.com | March 31, 2016 | News, On This Day In History

Search the site

Follow Us

AncientPages.com - On March 31, 1814, Tsar Alexander I of Russia, at the head of the Coalition Army, triumphantly marched into Paris, forcing Napoleon to abdicate a few days later.

The Coalition armies, including Russian, Prussian, and Austrian, entered France earlier that year and, after several battles, reached Paris's gates. By this time, Napoleon's army was weakened. After 25 years of Napoleonic wars, there remained only old men and children in some departments, and resources to support the war were scarce. Previous battles caused huge casualties and the nation was tired and discouraged.

Subscribe to our newsletter

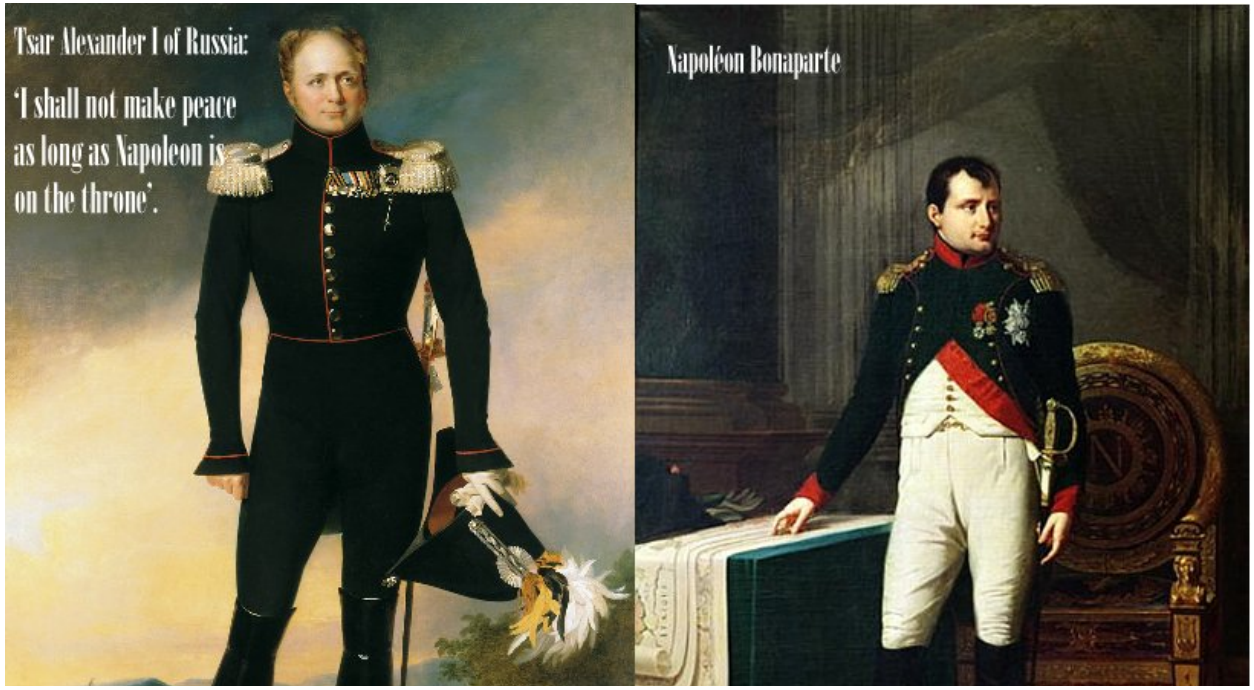
On This Day In History: Army Of Tsar Alexander I of Russia

Enters Paris – On March 31, 1814

Latest Articles

- Has A New Study Of 5,000-Year-Old DNA Solved The Mystery Of The Tarim Basin Mummies?
- Olduvai Gorge: Direct Cosmogenic Nuclide Dating Of Olduvai Lithic Industry
- Ancient DNA Study Reveals Surprise About Britain's Bronze Age – What Happened On The Orkney Islands?
- Reconstructing The Lost Ancient World Of The Marquesas Islands With Unique Plants And Animals
- Jars With 2,600-Year-Old Vanilla Remnants Discovered In The City Of David
- Tool Patterns Reveal What Caused The Neanderthals' Extinction In The Iberian Peninsula

Russian troops entering Paris in 1814 / Wikimedia Commons



Russian and Prussian armies were the driving and decisive force behind the Coalition. The King of Prussia and Alexander I supported each other in the war against Napoleon. Alexander was determined; he wished to enter Paris just as Napoleon had entered Moscow on his failed invasion of Russia in 1813. Alexander promised, 'I shall not make peace as long as Napoleon is on the throne'.

It was a great move by Alexander, who deceived Napoleon.

During the battles on the outskirts of Paris, Alexander directed the main Coalition armies to march on to Paris; while a Russian general with a huge mass of 10,000 cavalrymen rode towards Saint Pizier where Napoleon was in battle with the Austrian allies. Napoleon realized too late that a divisionary detachment was sent, not the main army. By this time, Russian and Prussian armies were nearing Paris.

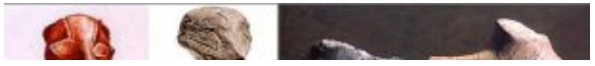
Ka Gold Jewelry Sacred Jewelry

Napoleon's brother King Joseph was in charge of defending Paris with over 60,000 soldiers. Although there were not enough troops to resist the large coalition army coming toward them, they were falsely reassured that Napoleon was on his way with reinforcement. A battle escalated, the Coalition began their attack.

Fighting continued until Joseph abandoned Paris wishing to surrender. Tsar Alexander did not want to destroy Paris like the Prussians who wished to set the city on fire; instead, he wanted to bring peace to France rather than its destruction.

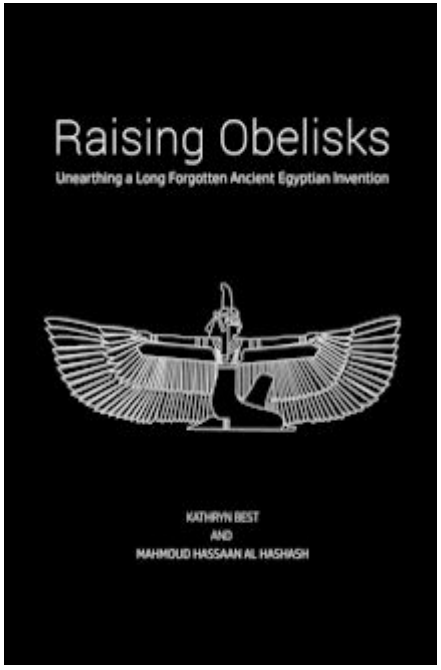
"When God made me powerful and gave my armies success, He wished me to secure the peace of the world. If we can do so without shedding any more blood we shall be glad, but if not, we shall carry on the fight to the end ...."

Alexander hastened the surrender and signed a treaty offering generous terms to France. And on March 31, the Russian tsar was presented with the keys to the French capital, and Alexander along with the Coalition armies entered the city.

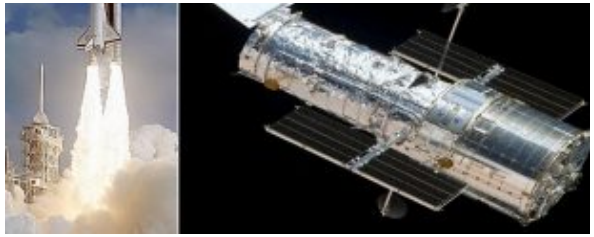


Until this time no foreign army had reached Paris in nearly 400 years.

AncientPages.com



Tags: Russia, Tsar Alexander I



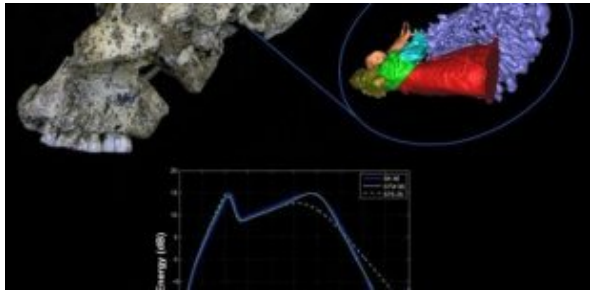
More From Ancient Pages

On This Day In History: Hubble Space Telescope Was Launched – On April 24, 1990

News
| Apr 24, 2016

Mysterious Vinca Culture Is Among The Most Advanced Prehistoric Societies In Europe

Civilizations
| Jun 23, 2020



Mysterious Advanced Underground Civilization And A Secret Society – Technology, History, Language And Goals – Part 2

Civilizations
| Apr 23, 2018

Merneith: Mysterious Queen In The Land Of The Pharaohs Could Be Earliest Attested Female Ruler

Featured Stories
| Mar 20, 2018

New Study: Fossils Reveal Human Ancestors'

Secrets Of Ancient Skeletons Found In York

Most Read This Week

- Medieval Bollock Dagger – Also Known As Kidney Dagger Discovered In Belgium
- Mystery Of The Scottish Medieval Wanderer And The Bog Bodies At Cramond Investigated By Scientists
- Rare 'Cursed' Tablet Predating The Dead Sea Scrolls Discovered On Mount Ebal Could Re-Write History – Scientists Say
- Mystery Why Vikings Left Greenland Has Been Solved By Scientists
- DNA Reveals Early Maya Trace Their Roots To Unknown Ancient Immigrants Carrying Maize From The South
- Deir el-Bahri – Sacred Resting Place For The Pharaohs

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

Hearing Abilities

Human Beginnings
| Sep 28, 2015

– Who Were They And Where Did They Come From?

Archaeology
| Jan 20, 2016

Whose Ancient Burials Are Hidden Inside The Vatican City's Walls?

Archaeology
| Mar 11, 2021

Ancient Tombs Of The Nobles In The Valley Of The Queens

Featured Stories
| Oct 23, 2016

Human Footprints Of People Who Used Caves Of Ojo Guareña, Burgos 4600 Years Ago

Archaeology
| Mar 11, 2021

Oklahoma's Mysterious Hollow Hill – Hidden Artifact Reveals A Frightening Story – Part 1

Featured Stories
| Jul 8, 2020

Latest Premium Articles

- The Mysterious Books Of Prophecies Of The Knights Templar – Where Are They Hidden?
- Mysterious Deaths In A Dangerous Valley

On This Day In History: Ensisheim Meteorite Fell To Earth – On Nov 7, 1492

News
| Nov 7, 2016

Sociopolitical Organization In Mesoamerica Influenced Developed Writing Systems And Communication

Archaeology
| Feb 16, 2022

Murder Of Bardiya: Son Of Cyrus The Great And The Riddle Of The Impostor

Featured Stories
| Dec 7, 2018

On This Day In History: Battle Of Naulochus Was Fought Off The Coast Of Sicily – On Sep 3, 36 BC

On This Day In History
| Sep 3, 2016

May Be Related To Ancient Events

- Secret Hidden Freemasonic Messages Concealed In Ancient Egyptian Artifacts And Roman Works - Part 1 - 2
- Biblical Mystery Of The Forbidden Fruit And The 'Deep Sleep'
- Mystery Of The Ancient Reptilian Gods Remains A Complex Subject – Memories Of The Past – Part 1- 2
- Mystery Of The Ancient Moonless Ones – Strange Tales Of Unusual Lost Civilizations
- More Premium Articles

- New Experiment Could Confirm The Fifth State Of Matter In The Universe
- New Study Of Yellowstone National Park Shines New Light On Once Hidden Details Of The Famous American Landmark
- New Pumpkin-Shaped Nucleus Radiates Protons With Record-Setting Rate
- On Icy Moon Enceladus, Expansion Cracks Let Inner Ocean Boil Out

Dragon's Head – One Of The Most Famous Viking Symbols Discovered At Birka Ancient Excavation Site

Ancient Symbols
| May 19, 2015

Aethelflaed – 'Iron Lady Of Mercia' Was A Tough Female Warrior Who Led Forces Against Danish Vikings

Featured Stories
| Aug 2, 2019

Vindolanda Wooden Tablets: Ancient Military And Private Correspondence Left By Departing Roman Troops

Civilizations
| Apr 17, 2016

Biblical Mysteries – Foods And Drinks That Gave Extraordinary Powers, Knowledge And Immortality

Biblical Mysteries
| Mar 22, 2017

Researchers Will Search For "Fingerprints" Of Thera/Santorini Eruption In Tree Rings

Archaeology
| Mar 4, 2017

On This Day In History: Cyrus The Great And His Army Took Babylon – On Oct 12, 539 BC

News
| Oct 12, 2016

- Hawaiian-Emperor Undersea Mystery Revealed With Supercomputers

Trending Now:

Mythology

- Yehasuri – Little People Of South Carolina Living In The Woods – Native Americans' Version Of Leprechauns
- Mysterious Judaculla Rock And The Slant-Eyed Giant Of The Cherokee
- Amergin: First Druid And 'Wondrously Born' Son Of Mil, Founder Of Poetry, Was Judge In Irish Mythology
- Yew: Mysterious Ominous And Sacred Tree Revered By Our Ancestors Since The Dawn Of Civilization
- Mysteries Of The Huldufolk – The Hidden People Of Iceland
- Uruk Prophecy Found In The Ancient Library Of A Magician With Divine Powers
- Apalala: Harsh Dragon Controlling Swat River Who Became Benevolent Naga King Helping People In Buddhist Tradition

History Places

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

News

Has A New Study Of 5,000-Year-Old DNA Solved The Mystery Of The Tarim Basin Mummies?

Olduvai Gorge: Direct Cosmogenic Nuclide Dating Of Olduvai Lithic Industry

Ancient DNA Study Reveals Surprise About Britain's Bronze Age – What Happened On The Orkney Islands?

Reconstructing The Lost Ancient World Of The Marquesas Islands With Unique Plants And Animals

Jars With 2,600-Year-Old Vanilla Remnants Discovered In The City Of David

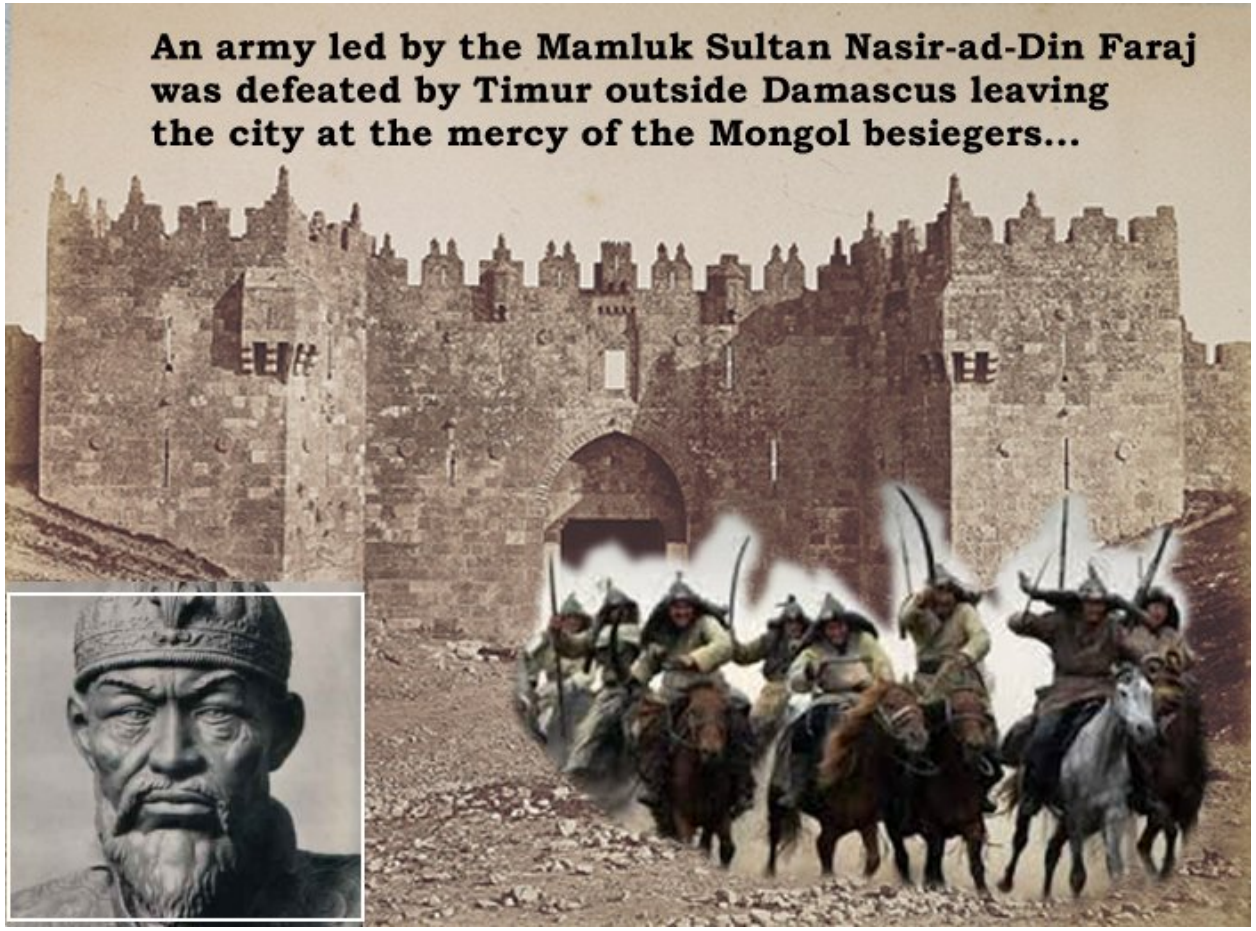
Tool Patterns Reveal What Caused The Neanderthals' Extinction In The Iberian Peninsula

COPYRIGHT © 2022 ANCIENT PAGES.

On This Day In History: Turco-Mongol Emperor Timur Sacks Damascus – On Mar 24, 1401

AncientPages.com | March 24, 2017 | News, On This Day In History

AncientPages.com - On March 24, 1401, Turco-Mongol emperor Timur, who became known as Tamburlaine in English, sacked the ancient and civilized town of Syria - Damascus, the second city of the Mameluke Empire.



Search the site

Follow Us

Subscribe to our newsletter

On This Day In History: First Battle Of Gaza Was Fought – On March 26, 1917

In the early months of 1401, after crushing Aleppo, Syria, Timur - the savage Turkic warlord, a military genius, a tactician, and ruthless man - moved his army of horsemen through the highway to Damascus and on his way, he first took the cities of Hama, Homs, and Baalbek. Moreover, he sent orders to his horsemen to plunder Tyre and Sidon.

He waded deep in blood and brains everywhere he went, destroying cities and massacring their populations, building triumphal towers of his victims' severed heads and carrying off survivors as slaves.

Latest Articles

- A Unique Look Inside An Ancient Home In Pompeii Re-Constructed With Virtual Reality
- Rare ‘Cursed’ Tablet Predating The Dead Sea Scrolls Discovered On Mount Ebal Could Re-Write History – Scientists Say
- Remarkable Discovery Of Ancient Drilled Bear Teeth In Kansas – How Did They End Up On The Great Plains?
- Last Of The Giant Camels And Archaic Humans Lived Together In Mongolia Until 27,000 Years Ago
- Cooking In Indus Valley – Leftovers In Prehistoric Kitchen’s Vessels Analyzed
- Strange Tooth Raises Unexpected Questions About Human Evolution

In 1398 he invaded India, crossing the Indus on a bridge of boats, reducing Delhi to rubble, and taking away enormous quantities of the plunder on which his army's loyalty depended.

The governor held out with some forty men in the citadel of Damascus but surrendered after a month.

Many of the inhabitants were viciously tortured, bastinadoed, burned, or crushed in presses, and many were enslaved.

Children under five were left to starve when their mothers were carried off. One of those enslaved was the twelve-year-old Ahmad ibn Arabshah, who later wrote a biography of Timur. As was his habit, Timur had all the town's skilled craftsmen deported to Samarkand to beautify his capital.

Timur went on to take Baghdad by storm and then he continued his deadly campaign against China in 1404, but fell ill and died early in the following year.

Timur, whose name means "iron" in old Turkic languages, saw himself as Genghis Khan's heir.

Scholars estimate that his military campaigns caused the deaths of 17 million people, amounting to about 5% of the world population.

AncientPages.com

Expand for references

Tags: 24 March 1401, sacking of Damascus, Timur, Turco-Mongol emperor

Ka Gold Jewelry Sacred Jewelry

More From Ancient Pages

Christmas – One Of Most Celebrated Holidays In Christian Calendar

Ancient Traditions And Customs
| Dec 24, 2018

Sparta And Legendary King Leonidas: The Heroes Of Thermopylae

Featured Stories
| Jul 18, 2018

Mysterious Ancient Lost Civilization Of North America Had Interest In One Particular Constellation

Civilizations
| Apr 17, 2018

Oldest-Known Grinding Tool Used 350,000 Years Ago Was Found In Tabun Cave, Israel

Archaeology
| Jan 4, 2021

Ashvins: Vedic Twin Gods Of Medicine And Healing Were Skilled Surgeons

Featured Stories
| Feb 1, 2019

America's Mysterious Waffle Rock Formation

Featured Stories
| Apr 15, 2014

Lost Biblical City, Ancient Treasure And Atlantis – Biblical And Archaeological Perspective

Biblical Mysteries
| Apr 27, 2018

Native Americans Helped Shape The Klamath's Forests For A Millennia Before European Colonization

Archaeology
| Mar 21, 2022

Mysterious Philistines: They Migrated Across Mediterranean – DNA Testing Shows

Archaeology
| Jul 4, 2019

1,500-Year-Old Tunnel Tomb With Human Remains And Artifacts Accidentally Unearthed In Japan

Archaeology
| Feb 23, 2018

- Most Read This Week
- Mystery Why Vikings Left Greenland Has Been Solved By Scientists
- Riddle Of The Ancient Lost City Beneath Missouri – A Puzzling Discovery
- DNA Reveals Early Maya Trace Their Roots To Unknown Ancient Immigrants Carrying Maize From The South
- Deir el-Bahri – Sacred Resting Place For The Pharaohs
- The Americas Were Not Populated Via The Ice-Free Corridor More Than 15,600 Years Ago – New Study Of Boulders Reveals
- Archaeologists Encounter A 1,500-Year-Old Mystery In Kent, UK

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

Unknown Rock Inscriptions And Earliest Monumental Hieroglyphs In Egypt Shed New Light On Ancient Writing

Archaeology
| Jun 27, 2017

Chocolate Was A 'Hot Property' In 17th Century England And There Were Rules For Safe Consumption

Featured Stories
| Jun 27, 2018

Excavations Reveal Massive Building And Invaluable Ceramics In Ancient City Of Poseidonia

Archaeology
| Apr 10, 2017

800-Year-Old Shipwreck Discovered Off Salento Coast, Italy

Archaeology
| Dec 30, 2015

Latest Premium Articles

- Mysterious Deaths In A Dangerous Valley May Be Related To Ancient Events
- Secret Hidden Freemasonic Messages Concealed In Ancient Egyptian Artifacts And Roman Works - Part 1 - 2
- Biblical Mystery Of The Forbidden Fruit And The 'Deep Sleep'
- Mystery Of The Ancient Reptilian Gods Remains A Complex Subject – Memories Of The Past – Part 1- 2

10 Reconstructions Of Ancient Cities, Monuments And Sacred Sites

Civilizations
| Apr 8, 2016

Nastrond (Náströnd): Grisly Hall Of Corpses – Norse Vision Of Most Terrible Place In Niflheim, Kingdom Of The Dead

Featured Stories
| Sep 13, 2019

- Mystery Of The Ancient Moonless Ones – Strange Tales Of Unusual Lost Civilizations
- Mysterious Underground City In Brazil Could Re-Write Ancient History – Unexplained Artifacts And Skeletons – Part 1- 2
- More Premium Articles

Millennia Old Ceremonial Stone Belt And Maya Pok-A-Tok Ball Game

Ancient Traditions And Customs
| Nov 28, 2017

Mystery Of 3,000-Year-Old African Civilization Garamantes And Its Ancient Secrets

Archaeology
| Feb 16, 2015

- New Experiment Could Confirm The Fifth State Of Matter In The Universe
- New Study Of Yellowstone National Park Shines New Light On Once Hidden Details Of The Famous American Landmark
- New Pumpkin-Shaped Nucleus Radiates Protons With Record-Setting Rate
- On Icy Moon Enceladus, Expansion Cracks Let Inner Ocean Boil Out
- Hawaiian-Emperor Undersea Mystery Revealed With Supercomputers

Almost 3,000 Year-Old Burial Site Of Urartian Royals Discovered In Turkey's Famous Van

Archaeology
| Jul 31, 2019

Legendary Hiram Abiff – Master And Chief Architect Loved By Few And Hated By Many Including King Solomon

Featured Stories
| Jan 27, 2019

Trending Now:

- Mythology
  - Yehasuri – Little People Of South Carolina Living In The Woods – Native Americans' Version Of Leprechauns
  - Mysterious Judaculla Rock And The Slant-Eyed Giant Of The Cherokee
  - Amergin: First Druid And 'Wondrously Born' Son Of Mil, Founder Of Poetry, Was Judge In Irish Mythology
  - Yew: Mysterious Ominous And Sacred Tree Revered By Our Ancestors Since The Dawn Of Civilization
  - Mysteries Of The Huldufolk – The Hidden People Of Iceland
  - Uruk Prophecy Found In The Ancient Library Of A Magician With Divine Powers
  - Apalala: Harsh Dragon Controlling Swat River Who Became Benevolent Naga King Helping People In Buddhist Tradition
- History
- Places

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

News

A Unique Look Inside An Ancient Home In Pompeii Re-Constructed With Virtual Reality

Rare 'Cursed' Tablet Predating The Dead Sea Scrolls Discovered On Mount Ebal Could Re-Write History – Scientists Say

Remarkable Discovery Of Ancient Drilled Bear Teeth In Kansas – How Did They End Up On The Great Plains?

Last Of The Giant Camels And Archaic Humans Lived Together In Mongolia Until 27,000 Years Ago

Cooking In Indus Valley – Leftovers In Prehistoric Kitchen's Vessels Analyzed

Strange Tooth Raises Unexpected Questions About Human Evolution

COPYRIGHT © 2022 ANCIENT PAGES.

On This Day In History: Vlad III Dracula Regained Throne Of Wallachia For The Third Time – On Nov 26, 1476

AncientPages.com | November 26, 2016 | News, On This Day In History

Search the site

Follow Us

AncientPages.com - On November 26, 1476, Vlad III Dracula (1431-1476), ruler of Wallachia returned from a decade-long exile to take a throne for the last.

The man was named Vlad by his father, Vlad II and he also received his nickname "Dracula" (the "Son of Dragon"). The elder Vlad had taken an oath to preserve the Christian faith in 1431 and joined the Order of the Dragon.

He was known for his brutal treatment of those seeking to challenge his leadership.

However, Vlad is still regarded a national hero in his home country, Romania and also in and Bulgaria. He was considered a brutal and yet fair ruler.

Vlad was born in Transylvania, then part of the Kingdom of Hungary, the prince found himself in

Subscribe to our newsletter

On This Day In History: Viking Forces Laid Siege To Paris – On Nov 25, 885

Latest Articles

- Unexplained Mystery Of Secret Knowledge And Extraordinary Sightings Hidden In An Author's Book
- Ancient Liangzhu Culture Collapsed Due To Climate Change – New Study Says
- Mysterious Forest Of Treasure – Why Is It Forbidden To Stay In Nidhivan After Sunset?
- Ancient City Of Aizanoi: Statue Heads Of Greek Gods Unearthed In Excavations
- Ancient Oil Lamp Shop Discovered In Aizanoi, The Second Ephesus
- Salt Workers' Residences At Underwater Maya Site – Identified

the arms of the Ottomans for most of his early years, held as guarantee for protection from attacks by the Sultan on Wallachia as part of an agreement with his own father.

Ka Gold Jewelry Sacred Jewelry

Forced to learn the ways of his sworn enemies from a young age, Vlad felt bitter about his captors, his family and most of all, his younger brother Radu. His sibling, also sent to the Sultan, gained favor among the Ottomans for his willingness to cooperate. Radu was released and converted to Islam, and he was allowed into the Ottoman royal court.

Islam, and he was allowed into the Ottoman royal court.

Though Vlad would later be installed on the throne of Wallachia by the Sultan's armies, after his father had been killed by Hungarian king John Hunyadi, he maintained his grudge for the rest of his life.

These years had a great influence on Vlad. They shaped Vlad's character. He was often beaten by the Turks for being stubborn and rude. He developed a well-known hatred for Radu and for Mehmed, who would later become the sultan.

See also:

Dracula: Cruel, Ruthless And Bloodthirsty Ruler But Not A Vampire

In 1456, Vlad managed to regain the throne of his homeland while king Hunyadi defended Serbia from the Sultan's advances. Eager to provide stability in his war-ravaged land, Vlad created trade restrictions and boosted grain exports to keep the common people from rising up against him. He also ordered the murder of nobles he suspected of disloyalty and installed those he knew would remain on his side.

In the meantime, the Ottomans were on the march again. Though Vlad managed to repel Mehmed's armies at first, his brother Radu would take the crown on September 8, 1462.

- Most Read Today
  - Impressive Column Of Emperor Marcus Aurelius – War Monument From Ancient Rome
  - Burial Of Queen Of Emma Of Normandy Discovered In Winchester Castle
  - Jambu Tree In Great Cosmogonic Forest Of Sacred Land Of Jambudvipa In Buddhist Mythology
  - Homo Bodoensis Is A New Species Of Human Ancestors Who Lived Half A Million Years Ago
  - Death And Afterlife In Sumerian Beliefs
  - Mysterious Kola Pyramids Built By An Unknown Lost Ancient Civilization Can Rewrite Ancient History

- Arctic Ocean Started Getting Warmer Decades Earlier Than We Thought, Study Finds
- New Artificial Material Mimics Quantum-Entangled Rare Earth Compounds

Vlad fled into Hungary in search of aid from his allies, instead, he was imprisoned but based on diplomatic letters and writings Vlad's actual period of imprisonment was short.

On November 26, 1476, Vlad retook his homeland for the last time and he did it with the help of the Hungarians and his cousin, Steven the Great of Moldavia.

Weeks later, he was dead.

AncientPages.com

- More Than 300 Possible New Exoplanets – Discovered
- Life At The Bottom Of Earth's Ocean And Oceans On Other Planets – New Study
- Pianists Learn To Play With Robotic Third Thumb In Just One Hour
- Host Galaxy Of A Fast Radio Burst
- Getting Quantum Dots To Stop Blinking

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

Latest Premium Articles

- Can King Ashurbanipal's Strange Clay Tablet

- Can King Ashurbanipal's Strange Clay Tablet Unravel The Mystery Of The Lunar Kings
- Mysterious Ancient Shapeshifters Who Guided Humans And The Battle Of The Gods Described In Sacred Texts And Myths

- Problems With The Age Of Man And Theory Of Evolution – What Happened In The Past?
- Unraveling The Mystery Of The Celestial Matrix
- Strange And Scary Encounter With Ancient Giants In North America
- More Premium Articles

Tags: 1476, 26 November, Bulgaria, Dracula, Impaler, Romania, Steven the Great of Moldavia, throne, Transylvania, Vlad II, Wallachia

Mysterious Gympie Pyramid: Evidence Of An Ancient Lost Civilization In Australia?

The Gympie Pyramid in Australia has long been a source of fascination for people and the subject of a great many claims about its origin and true purpose.

Ancient Pages

Ancient Giant Skeleton Discovered In Krabi Cave Confirms Legend Of The Nagas – Or Perhaps Not

Scientists have discovered an ancient giant skeleton and huge snake bones. It's an extraordinary discovery, and if it's genuine it offers evidence giants roamed the Eart...

Ancient Pages

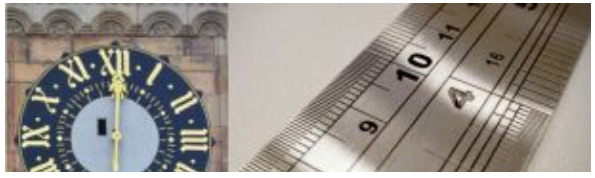
Mystery Of The Patagonian Giants: Europe's Lost Race From The 'Land Of The Bigfeet'

For more than 250 years Europe was captivated by the tales of a mysterious group of people that were called Patagonian giants.The existence of these enigmatic and ...

Mysterious Dark Watchers – One Of America's Greatest Ancient Riddles

Who or what the Dark Watchers are, no one knows. Where these elusive beings came from and where they go, remains a mystery.

Ancient Pages



World's Largest DNA Study Of Viking Skeletons Re-Writes Ancient History – Norse Warriors Were Not Those Who We...

A fascinating DNA study of more than 400 Viking skeletons has just re-written history. Today we know with certainty some Vikings were not those who we ...

Ancient Pages

More From Ancient Pages

Trending Now:

- Mythology
- Shennong – Chinese 'King Of Medicines' Who Invented Farming Tools And Herbs For Treating People's Diseases
- Mysteries Of The Yellow Emperor – The 'Son Of Heaven' From Regulus
- The Marduk Prophecy Of Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar I And The Stolen Statue Of A God
- Birds – Mysterious Avian Messengers That Symbolized Bridge Between Humans And Gods In World Beliefs
- Pryor Mountains Are Home To The Mysterious Little People – Native Americans Say
- Mnemosyne: Powerful Greek Goddess Of Memory, Bridge Between The Past And The Future
- History
- Places

Enigma Of San Bernardo Mummies That Refuse To Decompose

Featured Stories

| Nov 7, 2018

Why Did We Abandon Roman Numerals?

Ancient History Facts

| Apr 25, 2019

Medieval Mythbusting – New Research Rewrites History Of Glastonbury Abbey

Archaeology

| Nov 23, 2015

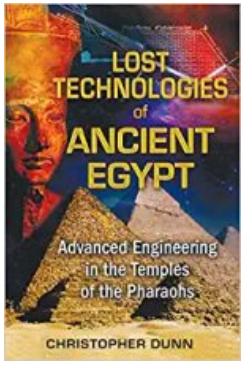
Escape Tunnel From Crusader Citadel In Tiberias To Sea Of Galilee – Discovered

Archaeology

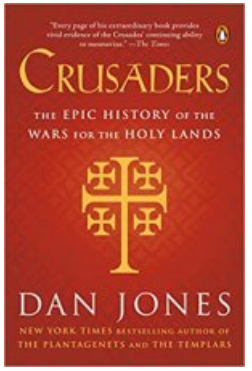
| Jun 15, 2017

Abydos: One Of The Most Important Cities Of Ancient Egypt

Featured Stories



| Jul 15, 2016



Queen Mama Ocllo: Legendary Wife Of Sapa Inca Manco Capac In Beliefs Of Andean People

Featured Stories

Recommended Books:

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

| Jul 15, 2019

Featured Stories
| May 6, 2020

Dwarf Alvis (‘All-Wise’) Who Was Tricked By God Thor And Turned Into Stone

Featured Stories
| May 27, 2019

Canaanite Temple Dated To 12th Century BC Unearthed At Lachish, Israel

Archaeology
| Feb 19, 2020

Lada: Jump Over Fire For Goddess Of Beauty, Love, And Marriage In Slavic Mythology

Featured Stories
| Dec 11, 2017

Cave Of The Stone Sepulcher – ‘Actun Tunichil Muknal’ And Its Dark History

Featured Stories
| Mar 22, 2019

On This Day In History: National Foundation Day Celebrated In Japan – On Feb 11, 660 AD

News
| Feb 11, 2017

Etzanoa: Long-Lost Native American City Discovered In Kansas After 400 Years

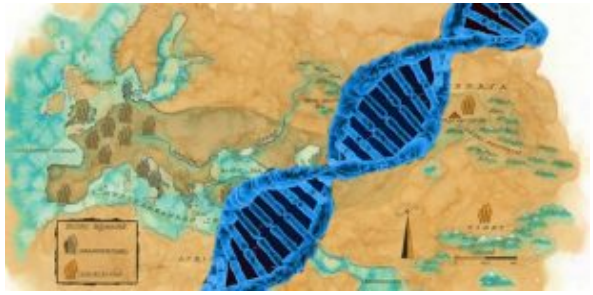
Archaeology
| Apr 24, 2017

Utukku: Sumerian Spirit From The Underground That Obeyed The Will Of God Anu

Featured Stories
| Jun 17, 2016

Amazing Ancient One-Stroke Dragon Art Tradition – Painting Dragons With A Single Brush Stroke

Ancient Traditions And Customs
| Apr 29, 2021



Cerne Abbas Giant: Researchers Attempt To Determine Age Of Giant Figure

Ancient Mayans Used Saunas For Healing Purposes

Archaeology
| Mar 27, 2020

Ancient History Facts
| May 12, 2016

Genetic Fingerprints Of Unknown Species Discovered In Human DNA

Human Beginnings
| Dec 31, 2019

History Of The Saltire – Scotland's National Flag And World's Oldest Sovereign Flag

Featured Stories
| Apr 3, 2016

Enigma Of Nehushtan – The Biblical Copper Snake

Biblical Mysteries
| Oct 31, 2018

Secret Ancient Subterranean Tunnels And Caverns Across America: Who Or What Were Our Ancestors Hiding From?

Civilizations
| Oct 4, 2015

News

Unexplained Mystery Of Secret Knowledge And Extraordinary Sightings Hidden In An Author's Book

Ancient Liangzhu Culture Collapsed Due To Climate Change – New Study Says

Mysterious Forest Of Treasure – Why Is It Forbidden To Stay In Nidhivan After Sunset?

Ancient City Of Aizanoi: Statue Heads Of Greek Gods Unearthed In Excavations

Ancient Oil Lamp Shop Discovered In Aizanoi, The Second Ephesus

Salt Workers' Residences At Underwater Maya Site – Identified

COPYRIGHT © 2021 ANCIENT PAGES.

ARCHAEOLOGY

Paris Catacombs – City of the Dead

by Les Hewitt

Tourists that flock to Paris usually do so to take in some of the iconic sights that the French capital has to offer. Who wouldn't be taken in by the stunning vista from the top of the Eiffel Tower? Or blow their entire holiday budget somewhere along the Champs-Elysées? And what trip to Paris would be complete without popping in to see the most famed work of art in the world, the Mona Lisa? Any travel agent would recommend tourist destinations like these and more. Paris has another tourist attraction that not every travel agent would cater for. Despite being among the more popular destination spots for sightseers, the Paris Catacombs will not appeal to just anyone.

The entrance to the Paris catacombs.

Underneath the bustling city lights and the luster of the attractions such as Notre Dame is a wholly different side to the city of love. A rabbit warren of tunnels and crypts lurk just beneath the streets. This maze was initially constructed in the mid 18th Century from existing limestone caves that were known even back in Roman times. Originally located on the outskirts of the fledgling city, buildings were constructed from the materials from within the caves. As times passed and available materials had been exhausted, the decision was made to convert these caves into a makeshift cemetery. Generations of Parisians meant that Paris had grown in size and had consumed the grounds above the original site of the caves.

As the 19th Century approached, the existing cemeteries were becoming vastly overpopulated and improper burials, open graves and unearthed corpses were becoming a problem. An edict from Louis XV in 1763 that banned burials from Paris didn't help matters either. The Church did not wish to disturb the graves of those that had already passed and refused to cooperate. This stalemate lasted for another 18 years until excessive rain one spring forced a compromise. A wall that bordered Paris's largest cemetery, Les Innnocents, collapsed and exposed rotting corpses onto neighboring properties. When the quarries were blessed and consecrated, movement of the dead began and took two years for the residents of Les Innocents to be transferred alone. For the following few decades, other cemeteries were moved to the new burial site. After the French Revolution, all burials were held directly at the Catacombs.

The Catacombs of Paris. Image was taken in October 2007 by Djtox.

In 1867, the Catacombs were officially opened to the public, but visitors had been gaining access for 50 years beforehand. The sprawling tunnels are extensive, continuing on for almost 200 miles. Getting lost within the confines of this system is quite an easy thing to achieve. There are multiple stories of people entering the tunnels and never coming out. One amateur video of a solo man's venture into the Catacombs has found its way onto YouTube and become indicative of what many believe has happened to most of these missing adventurers. To date, there are 6-7 million deceased contained within the subterranean chambers.

In 2007, a major renovation of the entire area began and took about a year to complete. The Catacombs then reopened to the public with some established written and unwritten rules.

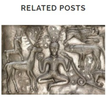
- Trips usually last 45 minutes but can be as long as 90 minutes
- The Catacombs can be deceptively cold so a coat or jacket is advisable – even during the summer
- Tours cover a distance of about 2km and can include stairs
- Children under the age of 14 must be accompanied by an adult
- There are no facilities in the Catacombs
- There are no storage lockers available to deposit personal items or valuables
- Only limited visitors are permitted at any given time and this number can vary.
- Group visits of between 10-20 people are permitted only from Tuesday-Friday mornings and must be pre-arranged with the Musee Carnavalet (call 01 44 59 58 31 for information)
- Much of the Catacombs is off-limits to the general public

French legislation from 1955 makes it illegal to enter the Catacombs at any point other than the official entrance. Urban explorers known as Cataphiles still manage to enter the tunnels and explore illegally. The heyday for these activities was in the 1980s and 1990s, but they still occur today with an estimated 300 Cataphiles gaining entry on a weekly basis. Many of these daredevils never get caught and are unknown to the authorities. However, rather than just enter and occupy the tunnels, they have managed to set up creature comforts in secret locations deep within the system. One discovery made was a working cinema complete with a fully-stocked bar and a restaurant.

A wall of human skeletons at the Paris Catacombs.

Paris has a well-deserved appeal for lovers of all ages and is rightly considered a classic honeymoon venue. The city has another level of interest that offers an irresistible appeal for tourism on a much more macabre level where death itself has become a work of art.

Sources



Parislogue
Ancient Origins
Catacombes

Sites pulled 3 June 2016

RELATED POSTS

(In Pics) Strange Artifacts and Sacred Places of...

Gundestrup Cauldron: Its Tale From the Balkans to...

Did Knights Templar Hide the Holy Grail in...

100-Year-Old Secrets – What was Hidden in the...

The Secret Gods of the Greek Pantheon: Who...

The Mystery of Honduras's Lost City and its...

LES HEWITT

Les currently resides in London and is a freelance writer with a long standing passion for the unexplained and paranormal. In his spare time he enjoys astronomy and Xboxing. It's a big Universe full of wonders.

You are not granted permissions for this domain

SUBSCRIBE TO PUSH NOTIFICATIONS

SEARCH

Type and hit enter...

TRENDING

1

Sir Cecil Chubb and the Greatest Impulse Purchase in History

February 24, 2023

2

(In Pics) Six Awesome Personal Weapons from History (That Aren't Swords)

February 24, 2023

2

(In Pics) Six Awesome Personal Weapons from History (That Aren't Swords)

March 23, 2023

3

Otzi's Axe: Why was the Frozen Iceman's Weapon Discarded?

February 21, 2023

4

(In Pics) The Lost Cultures of Pre-Columbian North America

February 20, 2023

5

The London Hammer: Out of Place Artifact?

July 20, 2011

Historic Mysteries

WHO WE ARE

Historic Mysteries provides captivating articles on archaeology, history, and unexplained mysteries. Interesting history topics are just a click away.

FACEBOOK TWITTER INSTAGRAM YOUTUBE SPOTIFY RSS

© 2009-2021 Historic Mysteries. A Net Inceptions project. All rights reserved. Historic Mysteries is an Amazon Associate and earns from qualifying purchases. | Privacy Policy | Contact Us | DMCA Notice

BACK TO TOP

ANCIENT ORIGINS TOURS
Inner Mysteries of
Egypt and the Nile
13 to 27 October
2023
EGYPT TOUR
14 Nights
15 Days
Secure your place now!

x

UPDATED 11 JUNE, 2020 - 23:43 RILEY WINTERS

Romeo and Juliet: Not a Shakespearean Tale After All

READ LATER PRINT

William Shakespeare's world renowned Romeo and Juliet (written sometime between 1591 and 1595) stands in the historical record as one of the greatest love stories ever written. It has been retold many times in playhouses and theaters and has a wealth of film adaptations of both traditional and modern interpretations. It is most interesting to discover then, that Romeo and Juliet was not, in fact, truly of his own creation, but rather a variation on a story told many times from the 1400s onwards.

Centered on the theme of star-crossed lovers , borrowed from poets as far back as ancient Greece, Romeo and Juliet's tale was told at least a century before Shakespeare actually wrote it. This article intends to take a brief look at these particular tales, which eventually culminated in the Bard's celebrated play.

A Summary of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet

Shakespeare Birthplace Trust provides this excellent short summary of the Bard's famous play Romeo and Juliet :

> "An age-old vendetta between two powerful families erupts into bloodshed. A group of masked Montagues risk further conflict by gatecrashing a Capulet party. A young lovesick Romeo Montague falls instantly in love with Juliet Capulet, who is due to marry her father's choice […] Paris. With the help of Juliet's nurse, the women arrange for the couple to marry the next day, but Romeo's attempt to halt a street fight leads to the death of Juliet's own cousin, Tybalt, for which Romeo is banished. In a desperate attempt to be reunited with Romeo, Juliet follows the Friar's plot and fakes her own death. The message fails to reach Romeo, and believing Juliet dead, he takes his life in her tomb. Juliet wakes to find Romeo's corpse beside her and kills herself. The grieving family agree to end their feud."

x

It is an enthralling and tragic tale, but Shakespeare didn't come up with the plot for his play alone. Actually, it's based on several older stories and some of them have very similar elements.

Early Versions of the 'Romeo and Juliet' Plot

The first certain tale of the woes of Romeo Montague and Juliet Capulet descends from Italian author Masuccio Salernitano (1410-1475). Published a year after his death, Salernitano's 33rd chapter of his Il Novellino tells of Mariotto and Giannoza, a pair of lovers who come from the feuding families of Maganelli and Saraceni respectively. In this account, their love affair takes place in Siena, Italy rather than in Verona and is believed to have occurred contemporary with Salernitano's time.

Much like Shakespeare's version, Mariotto and Giannoza fall in love and marry secretly with the aid of an Augustine friar. Shortly thereafter, Mariotto has words with another noble citizen—in this case, not his love's cousin—and kills the nobleman, resulting in his fleeing the city to avoid capital punishment. Giannoza, distraught, is comforted only by the fact that Mariotto has family in Alexandria, Egypt and makes a good home for himself there.

However, her own father—unaware of her wedding—decides it is time for her to take a husband, putting her in a terrible position. With the aid of the friar who had wed her and Mariotto, Giannoza drinks a sleeping potion to make her appear dead, so she can be smuggled out of Siena to reunite with her husband in Alexandria. Of course this plan goes terribly awry, and her letter to explain their plan to Mariotto never reaches him, though news of her death quickly does.

x

While she flees to Alexandria to finally reunite with him, Mariotto returns to Siena – risking his own life to see her corpse one final time. It is then that he is captured and taken to be executed for his previous crimes, beheaded three days before Giannoza's own return to the city. Giannoza then, heartbroken, wastes away of a broken heart, supposedly to be finally reunited with her beloved husband in heaven.

Like Shakespeare's account of Romeo finding Juliet sleeping but believing her dead, Salernitano's earlier story contains a scene in which Mariotto finds the sleeping body of Giannoza, and believes she has died. (Public Domain)

As one can see, there are many similar elements between Shakespeare's tale and Salernitano's. The themes of feuding families, the forbidden love, the sleeping potion, and the terrible communication mishap all lead to the parallel ending of mutual death of the star-crossed lovers. Writing only a hundred years apart, Shakespeare could well have come across Salernitano's work, or one of the many other variations that were written before the story reached the Bard's desk.

Luigi da Porta in the 1530s wrote a similar compilation, telling the tale of Romeo Montechhi and Giulietta Cappelleti, moving the setting of their lives from Siena to the Verona – the same place where Shakespeare would locate it. The pair again wed in secret with the aid of a friar, only to be torn apart by Romeo's accidental killing of Giulietta's cousin and their subsequent deaths—Romeo by Giulietta's sleeping potion, and Giulietta by holding her breath so she could die with him.

- Were the works of Shakespeare inspired by Cannabis? Scientists find traces of drugs on pipes
- Prehistoric Romeo and Juliet Lived Apart: But Why? The People of the Shoals and The People of the Hills
- Neolithic Romeo and Juliet? The Star-Crossed Lovers of Valdaro

x

Romeo and Juliet are wedded by a friar, just as Romeo and Giulietta in Luigi da Porta's work. (Public Domain )

Shakespeare's Biggest Inspirations for Romeo and Juliet

Following da Porta came Matteo Bandello (1480-1562), a monk and an author who took da Porta and Salernitano's tales even further. He was the Italian author who is most directly credited as having influenced Shakespeare , as Bandello introduces many of the specific themes that make Shakespeare's play so well known today. Bandello's version, while in many ways comparable to Salernitano's text, provided the well-known last names of Montague and Capulet to the two titular characters.

Bandello also added the element of the costume ball, at which Romeo and Juliet meet, and also the pertinent moment in which Juliet viciously kills herself with her lover's dagger so that she may join Romeo in the afterlife, rather than merely wasting away as Giannoza did. Bandello's tale is widely believed to have been closely followed by the French author Pierre Boaistuau, whose version was then translated into English by Arthur Brooke as a poem called The Tragicall Historye of Romeus and Juliet in 1562. This English translation was the actual text that made it to Shakespeare's desk.

- Royal Scandal in the Court of The Queen of Denmark-Norway
- The Eternal Kiss of the Hasanlu Lovers Throws Up Questions of Ancient Love: Romance, Bromance or Something More Familial?
- Murder in the Eden Brown Estate – Another Paradise Lost

Romeo and Juliet meet at a costume ball, just as the young lovers meet in Bandello's story. (Public Domain )

Is Romeo and Juliet Based on a Real Story?

Many Shakespearean scholars, well informed of these previous literary treasures, also have collected evidence that the Bard might have drawn the characters of Romeo and Juliet from his own life. A patron of Shakespeare's, Henry Wriothesley, 3rd Earl of Southampton, is thought to have inspired Shakespeare's Romeo in character, further implicated because his stepmother descended from the Viscount Montagu.

x

Henry Wriothesley also had an unapproved relationship with the woman Elizabeth Vernon, as when news of their marriage reached the ears of Queen Elizabeth I , the queen put them both in jail as their union was a political threat to her reign. Unlike the real Romeo and Juliet —in every story—the Earl and Vernon were later able to live "happily ever after" outside the prison walls, yet this undesirable political union is highly considered to have also influenced the Bard's writings.

Henry Wriothesley (Public Domain) and Elizabeth Vernon (Public Domain) – were they the real Romeo and Juliet?

Transforming Romantic Literature

Despite the numerous versions of Romeo and Juliet's story that preceded William Shakespeare, it cannot be denied that it was his work that transformed their love affair into one of the greatest stories ever known . The Bard might have borrowed heavily from Salernitano, Bandello, and Brooke, but the audience which his play was presented to took the text into their hearts and spread it throughout Elizabethan England until the titular characters' names became interchangeable with the mantra "meant to be".

Romeo Montague and Juliet Capulet's undying affection and subsequent suicides have made the passionate story immortal, and it remains one of the foremost inspirations for modern romantic literature .

*Top Image: Detail of 'Romeo and Juliet' (1884) by Frank Dicksee. Source: Public Domain

By Ryan Stone

Updated on June 11, 2020.

References

Section: News History

Tags: Romeo and Juliet love William Shakespeare Salernitano Bandello Brooke story tale

Read the Comments (4 Comments)

x

RILEY

Riley Winters is a Pre-PhD art historical, archaeological, and philological researcher who holds a degree in Classical Studies and Art History, and a Medieval and Renaissance Studies minor from Christopher Newport University. She is also a graduate of Celtic and Viking... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Mother and Child Reunion Of Thetis And Achilles

Seductive Sirens of Greek Mythology and How Heroes Resisted Them

Celestial Goddess Selene: The Ancient Greek Goddess of the Moon

Pegasus of Greek Mythology: Majestic Winged Horse of Mount Olympus

Dreams of Human-Powered Flight: Daedalus and the Story of Icarus

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Royal Mistress Jane Shore Walked Streets of London in her Underwear

Elizabeth "Jane" Shore was a fiery and charismatic Englishwoman who made a name for herself as one of the many sultry mistresses of the handsome and powerful English king, Edward IV.

Leonardo Da Vinci's Notes Show He Understood Gravity Long Before Newton

Talks Begin on Repatriating Remains of Patrick Sarsfield, Irish War Hero

The Ramessid Dynasty: A Golden Era in Ancient Egypt

Researchers Decode Secret Encrypted Letters of Mary, Queen of Scots

Walk (to Work) Like an Egyptian: Nakhtpaaten, the First Commuter

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Unraveling the Enigma of Aramu Muru, The Mysterious Gate of the Gods

In 1996, Jose Luis Delgado Mamani, a local tour guide in Peru, discovered an ancient archaeological site carved into Hayu Marca Mountain near Lake Titicaca, in the Andes Mountains of Peru, near the border with Bolivia.

Alleged Sighting of the Mythical 'Manananggal' in the Philippines Causes Public Anxiety

Are the Misty Peaks of the Azores Remnants of the Legendary Atlantis?

The Chilling Mystery of the Octavius Ghost Ship

What is a Wendigo? The Beast with an insatiable Hunger for Human Flesh

The Awe-Inspiring Karnak Temple Complex and Vatican of Ancient Egypt

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Royal Mistress Jane Shore Walked Streets of London in her Underwear

x

Elizabeth "Jane" Shore was a fiery and charismatic Englishwoman who made a name for herself as one of the many sultry mistresses of the handsome and powerful English king, Edward IV.

Top 8 Legendary Parties - Iconic Celebrations in Ancient History

The Spanish Inquisition: The Truth Behind the Black Legend (Part II)

The Spanish Inquisition: The Truth behind the Dark Legend (Part I)

Bloodthirsty Buddhists: The Sohei Warrior Monks of Feudal Japan

Kayakoy: An Abandoned Ghost Town Opens For Tourismi

TOP NEW STORIES

Ancient Deer Antler Instruments Discovered in Vietnam After 3,000 Years

Our prehistoric ancestors were very busy people, but they must have known how to chill in between chores, to relax and recharge. It's well known to science that our cave dwelling forebears gorged on magic mushrooms and a host of other intoxicating plants.

Roman-Era Sarcophagus Made of Lead Discovered in Gaza

The Newport Medieval Trading Ship Revival

Sodales Augustales: Rome's Elite Imperial Cult Dedicated to the Emperor

4,500-Year-Old Sumerian Palace Uncovered in Iraqi Desert

The Great Forbidden City: A Glimpse into China's Imperial Past

HUMAN ORIGINS

Ancient Anomalous Human Skeletons: Humanity Could be Much Older Than We Think

There are many reported human skeletal finds which are in discordance with current evolutionary beliefs dating back to anomalously ancient geological periods in the distant past, way before it is accepted that human beings ever existed.

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

Results of Kenyan Dig Suggest Africa's First Toolmakers Were Not Human

Mysterious Worlds: Travels to the Faerie and Shamanic Realms

Evidence that Noah's Ark Landed on a Mountain 17 Miles South of Ararat

3: The Perfect Number - Trinity Symbolism in World Religious Traditions

x

ANCIENT PLACES

4,500-Year-Old Sumerian Palace Uncovered in Iraqi Desert

Reaching the culmination of a search that has been going on for the past several years, a team of archaeologists affiliated with the British Museum has finally unearthed the long-lost remains of a Sumerian palace and temple in the ancient city of Girsu on the southern plains of Iraq.

The Carnac Stones: A Centuries-Old Enigma Solved Using Ancient Science

Varna Man and the Wealthiest Grave of the 5th Millennium BC

Skeleton Lake: Ancient Remains Frozen in Time in the Himalayas

The Blue Lotus: A Narcotic Lily That Mesmerized Ancient Egypt

The Great Forbidden City: A Glimpse into China's Imperial Past

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Alleged Sighting of the Mythical 'Manananggal' in the Philippines Causes Public Anxiety

Police in the Philippines are working to ease the fears of residents in a city where reports of a fearsome creature have been circulating.

What is Shambhala? Understanding the Mysterious Kingdom of Shambhala

The Green Children of Woolpit: Legendary Visitors from Another World

The Tale of Teucer – Legendary Archer of the Trojan War and Founder of Ancient Salamis

Lovelock Cave: A Tale of Giants or A Giant Tale of Fiction?

The Mysterious Man from Taured – Evidence for a Parallel Universe?

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Roman Weapons: Sharp Blades to Conquer the Ancient World

The Romans were arguably one of the most successful conquerors of the ancient world. So what weapons helped them achieve that status.

The Royal Flush: 2,400-Year-Old Toilet Used by Emperors Unearthed in China

Results of Kenyan Dig Suggest Africa's First Toolmakers Were Not Human

150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

Ancient Chinese Earthquake Detector Invented 2,000 Years Ago Really Worked!

Norimitsu Odachi: Who Could Have Possibly Wielded This Enormous 15th Century Japanese Sword?

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

Supay: God Of Death And Underworld And Ruler Over Race Of Demons According To Inca Beliefs

AncientPages.com | June 7, 2020 | Featured Stories, Inca Mythology, Myths & Legends, News

Search the site

Follow Us

A. Sutherland - AncientPages.com - In the Inca and Aymara mythologies, Supay ('Andean Devil') was both the god of death and powerful ruler of the Incan underworld Ukhu Pacha (Uku Pacha), as well as a race of demons.

Supay was responsible for balancing good and evil.

Unlike Europeans, the indigenous people did not reject Supay. They were so afraid of him that they invoked him and begged him not to harm them.

Supay is listed as one of the evilest gods. Despite this negative view, many Inca people worshiped him because they believed in his power to grant them favors through offerings and rituals. He was the one who protected the path of the dead. The Incas believed that death was a new beginning with the Inca gods.

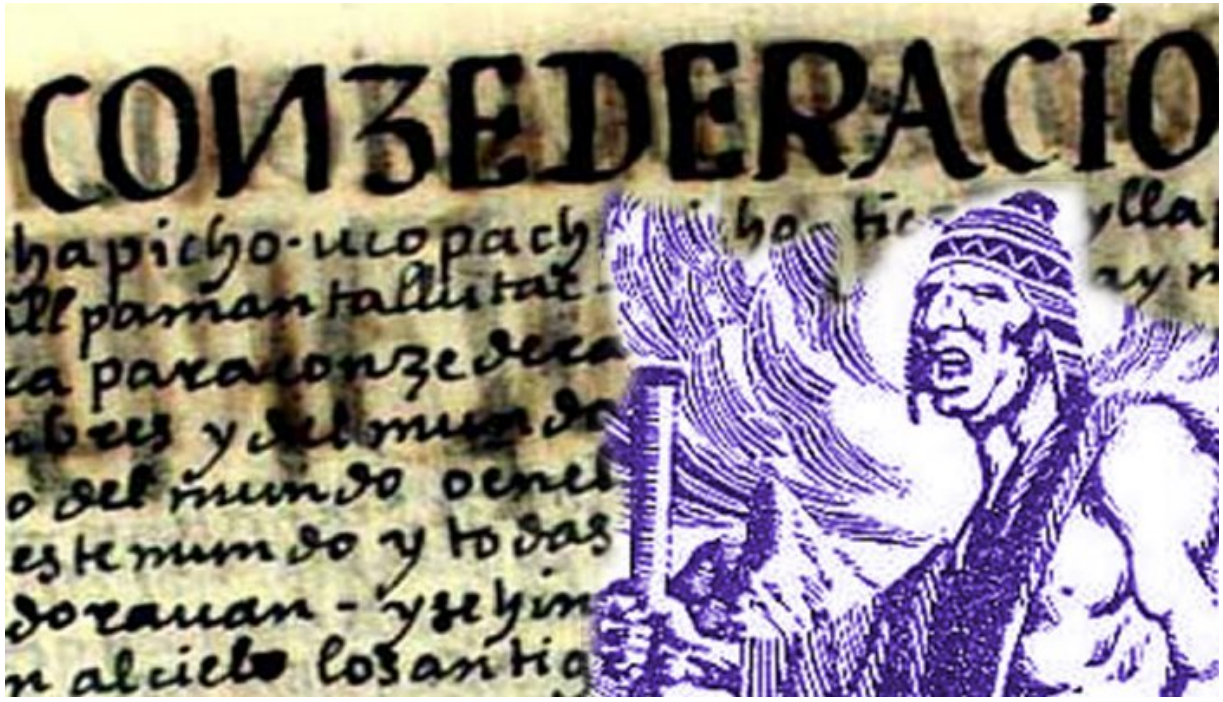
Subscribe to our newsletter

On This Day In History: Harvard University – America's

Oldest Learning Institution Was Founded – On Oct 28, 1636

Latest Articles

- Ancient Chaco Canyon Was Much More Than A Ceremonial Site New Study Reveals
- Mentuhotep II – The 11th Dynasty's Pharaoh Who Reunited Egypt And Established The Middle Kingdom
- Living Descendant Of Legendary Native American Leader Sitting Bull Confirmed Using DNA From Hair
- Mystery Of The Tarim Basin Mummies Continues
- Mysterious Ancient Shapeshifters Who Guided Humans And The Battle Of The Gods Described In Sacred Texts And Myths
- Previously Unkown Manuscript Reveals New Insight Into Medieval Christian Beliefs In England



Depicted as a figure with a certain resemblance to demons (jaguar head, longhorns, very perceptive eyes, puma body, and sharp teeth. Supay was a shapeshifter that could surprise by taking the form of an Inca woman or a very attractive Inca man, in the same way,, he could transform into any animal he wanted.

The domain of Supay was located in the deep earth, and his underworld is also known as “inner world” or “below world”, therefore, as the god of minerals, Supay was worshipped by miners. Today, his worship is still alive among Andean miners and excavators.

According to Inca mythology, the god Supay’s underground realm was Ukhu Pacha (Uku Pacha), one of three realms (or ‘pacha’) that divides the cosmos one of three realms (or 'pacha') that divides the cosmos.

Two other realms are Hanan Pacha, Kay Pacha, which along with Ukhu Pacha clearly resemble Catholic beliefs in the earth, heaven, hell, a concept also known in other religions.

Today, the ancient symbolism of this terrifying mythological figure, which is today called 'diablo', has been replaced with another practice, which makes Supay the main character used in traditional carnival known as 'diablada'.

Chronicler and writer Garcilaso de la Vega (1539 – 1616), son of a Spanish conquistador and an Inca noblewoman born in the early years of the conquest, was widely recognized for his histories about Inca history, culture, and society. In his 'First Part of the Royal Commentaries of the Incas', de la Vega characterized Supay's Uku Pacha as an underworld, a place of pain and suffering.

It was the 'lowest earth, where they said that the wicked were sent; and to describe it more clearly they gave it another name – supaypa-huasin, which means 'the house of the devil.'

Ka Gold Jewelry Sacred Jewelry

However, Uku Pacha underworld was not considered as an entirely negative concept. In his 'Handbook of Inca Mythology', Paul Steele says that Uku Pacha was linked to 'the feminine earth mother and the bones of the ancestors,' and the place's subterranean water was regarded by Incas as life-sustaining springs, which link the human realm with the inner world.

Left: 18th-century painting of the Danza de Los diablos de Túcume, region of Túcume, Peru. source
Right: Different models of Diablada masks in an exhibition in the British Museum. source

When the Spaniards colonized the Americas, Christian priests used the name 'Supay' while referring to the Christian devil. Unlike Europeans, the indigenous people did not reject Supay. They were so afraid of him that they invoked him and begged him not to harm them.

Most Read Today

- Heliopolis 'Sun City' Was One Of The Most Ancient Cities Of Egypt
- Mystery Of The Marble Lions On The Sacred Island Of Delos Solved?
- Shennong – Chinese 'King Of Medicines' Who Invented Farming Tools And Herbs For Treating People's Diseases
- Mysteries Of The Yellow Emperor – The 'Son Of Heaven' From Regulus
- Italian Sailors Knew Of America 150 Years Before Christopher Columbus – Ancient Documents Reveal
- Human Activities In The Year 1300 Impacted Earth's Atmosphere More Than Previously Known

Today, ancient symbolism of this terrifying mythological figure, which is today called ‘diablo’, has been replaced with another practice, which makes Supay the main character used in traditional carnival known as ‘diablada, an important part of the cultural traditions of in Bolivia, Chile, Peru, and other Andean countries.

The Diablada (or 'Danza de Los Diablos', which means ‘Dance of the Devils’) is a popular dance characterized by the mask and devil suit worn by the performers.

The Spaniards destroyed the Incan empire and took control over the country, and yet the ancient belief in Supay lives on in the daily lives of indigenous Peruvians. The Catholic Church became the dominant religious power in Peru and the word 'Supay' applies to the Devil.

Written by – A. Sutherland - AncientPages.com Senior Staff Writer

Copyright © AncientPages.com All rights reserved. This material may not be published,

Latest From MessageToEagle.com

- Strange Black ‘Superionic Ice’ That Could Exist Inside Other Planets
- Turning Wastewater From Coffee Production Into Electricity
- Heatwaves Like ‘The Blob’ Could Decrease Role Of Ocean As Carbon Sink
- NASA’s Webb And Event Horizon Telescope Focus On Milky Way’s Supermassive Black Hole
- Detection Of The Nanohertz Gravitational-Wave Background – New Step Taken By Researchers
- Astronomers Discover A Massive Galaxy ‘Shipyard’ In The Distant Universe
- New Technique Produces Lens For Focused broadcast, rewritten or redistributed in whole or part without the express written permission of AncientPages.com

Expand for references

Tags: Demons, Inca God, Inca mythology, Supay

Lilith – Beautiful Demonic And Brave Symbol Of Equality And Adam's First Wife Who Refused Subordination

Spectrum Or Image

- Neutron Star Collisions Are 'Goldmine' Of Heavy Elements, Study Finds
- New Tricks For Finding Better Superconductive Materials

- More Message To Eagle News - here

Library of Ancient & Unexplained Mysteries

Latest Premium Articles

- Mysterious Ancient Shapeshifters Who Guided Humans And The Battle Of The Gods

When Adam demanded Lilith's subordination, she refused and left him, (according to other versions, she was banished by the god himself). Even three angels, who ...

Ancient Pages

More From Ancient Pages

On This Day In History: Astronomer Johannes Kepler Observes Supernova – On Oct 17, 1604

News
| Oct 17, 2016

Siege Of Masada – The Last Stand Against The Roman Empire

Civilizations
| Mar 27, 2017

Still Intact Renaissance Shipwreck Discovered On The Baltic Seabed

Archaeology
| Jul 24, 2019

Bronze Age DNA Shows Direct Genetic Link To Current Inhabitants Of Southern Poland

Archaeology
| May 4, 2020

Described In Sacred Texts And Myths

- Problems With The Age Of Man And Theory Of Evolution – What Happened In The Past?
- Unraveling The Mystery Of The Celestial Matrix
- Strange And Scary Encounter With Ancient Giants In North America
- 'Impossible' Ancient Knowledge Of The Gods' Star - Part 1 - 2
- More Premium Articles

Curious Celestial Boats, Knowledge Of Time Travel And Time Dilation In The Egyptian Papyrus Of Ani And Nu?

Ancient Technology
| Aug 5, 2017

Mysterious Ancient Ruins Of Engaruka – Why Was The Site Abandoned?

Featured Stories
| Apr 18, 2017

Ur-Nammu – Popular And Accomplished Ruler Of Sumer

Civilizations
| Oct 31, 2016

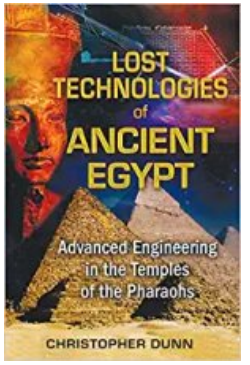
Enigmatic 2,000 -Years-Old Carved Stone Owl Pipes – An Ancient Unsolved Secret Of Illinois

Artifacts
| Oct 4, 2018

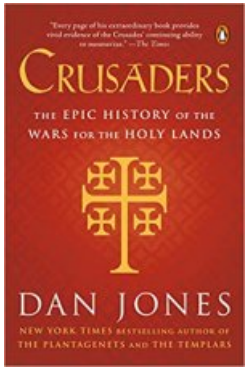
Trending Now:

- Mythology
  - The Marduk Prophecy Of Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar I And The Stolen Statue Of A God
  - Birds – Mysterious Avian Messengers That Symbolized Bridge Between Humans And Gods In World Beliefs
  - Pryor Mountains Are Home To The Mysterious Little People – Native Americans Say
  - Mnemosyne: Powerful Greek Goddess Of Memory, Bridge Between The Past And The Future
  - Celtic Tree Of Life – Portal To Invisible Worlds And Source Of Sacred Knowledge
  - Tezcatlipoca: Enigmatic Aztec God Who Looked Inside People's Hearts And Observed Their Deeds On Earth
- History
- Places

Recommended Books:



Fascinating Ancient Legend Of Jason And His Argonauts Was Based On A Real Expedition To An Ancient Kingdom



Greek Mythology
| Dec 3, 2014

Omphalos – Mysterious Ancient Sacred Object And Its Meaning

Artifacts
| May 24, 2017

Joseph Pujol – The Professional Farter Who Entertained People

Featured Stories
| Jan 29, 2020

Prehistoric Hi-Tech Nanospirals Barely Visible To The Naked Eye: Still Remain An Unsolved Mystery

Ancient Technology
| Mar 4, 2014

Are You A Victim Of Cyberbullying And Online Stalking – We Are And This Is Our Story!

Mycenae Kingdom – Home Of The Mythical

Huangluo: Long-Hair Village Where Women

King Agamemnon

Civilizations
| Aug 29, 2015

Don't Cut Their Hair – A 2,000-Year-Old Tradition Of The Yao People

Ancient Traditions And Customs
| Jun 18, 2017

Kingdom Of Mitanni: Forgotten For Millennia But Once Great Power Of Ancient West Asia In 2000 BC

Featured Stories
| Aug 16, 2016

The Great Pyramid And Ancient Egyptian Knowledge Shed Light On Biblical Mysteries – Resurrection Of The Flesh – Part 1

Featured Stories
| Nov 25, 2019

Unexplained Phenomenon In East Anglia – Ancient Mystery Deepens As More Unusual Sightings Are Reported – Part 2

Featured Stories
| Jun 1, 2018

Giant Geoglyphs Near The Golden City Jaisalmer In India's Thar Desert May Be World's Largest Drawings – Who Made Them And Why?

Archaeology
| May 28, 2021

Controversial Unexplained Ancient Mystery In Mongolia – Horrifying Sight – Part 2

Featured Stories
| May 2, 2018

How Did Native American Indian Chiefs Get Their Names?

Ancient History Facts
| May 27, 2016

News

Ancient Chaco Canyon Was Much More Than A Ceremonial Site New Study Reveals

Mentuhotep II – The 11th Dynasty's Pharaoh Who Reunited Egypt And Established The Middle Kingdom

Living Descendant Of Legendary Native American Leader Sitting Bull Confirmed Using DNA From Hair

Mystery Of The Tarim Basin Mummies Continues

Mysterious Ancient Shapeshifters Who Guided Humans And The Battle Of The Gods Described In Sacred Texts And Myths

Previously Unkown Manuscript Reveals New Insight Into Medieval Christian Beliefs In England

The Gruesome History Of The Black Mass

Genevieve Carlton

Updated September 24, 2021 • 63.6k views • 9 items

The black mass is a mysterious, gruesome ritual with a long history. Rumors and legends about the black mass date back to at least the 4th century. The historical black mass ritual usually featured demon worshipping, "the shameful kiss," cross trampling, and group sexual relations. The modern black mass involves the performance of the mass on the body of a naked virgin lying on an altar - right before the priest copulates with her.

Questions - like "what happens during a black mass?" and "how is black mass celebrated?" - surround the mysterious ritual. But just as Satanism isn't exactly what it seems, how to perform a black mass depends on whom you ask. There are a number of elements that are the same at nearly every black mass, including desecrating Christian symbols and deviant sexual behavior.

Medieval Christians claimed that thousands of women were having intercourse with demons during black masses. And thousands confessed to participating in them. Even more disturbing stories involved consuming bodily fluids - a practice that Aleister Crowley, "the wickedest man in the world," revived in the 20th century. It doesn't get more gruesome than the black mass, in which there was even a recipe for cooking babies.

Black Masses Were An Inversion Of Catholic Mass, So Instead Of Bread And Wine, They Ate Male And Female Bodily Fluids

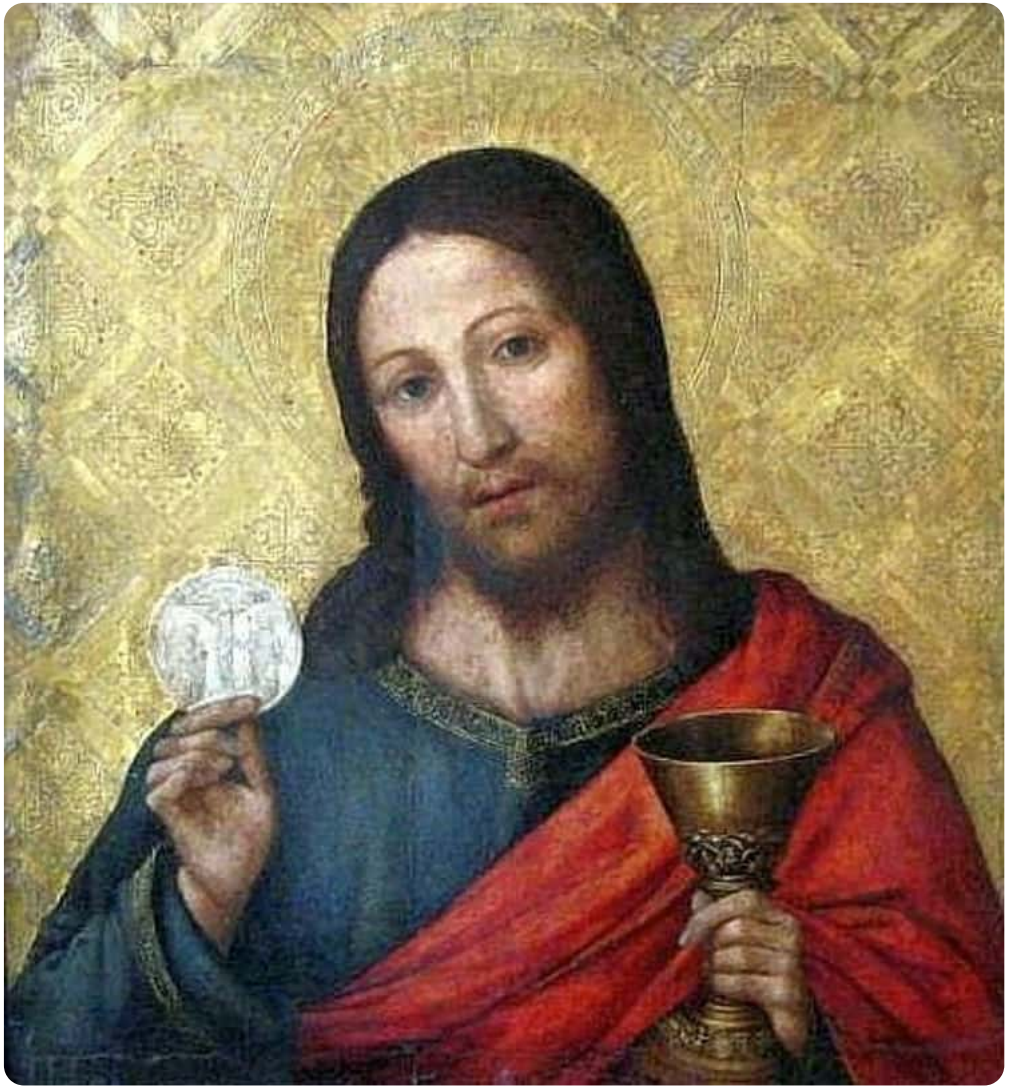

Photo: BurgererSF / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

As early as the 4th century, Christians were writing about evil rituals that debased the Catholic Mass. Epiphanius of Salamis wrote that one sect called the Borborites practiced all sorts of dark and disturbing rituals during their unholy black mass. They collected menstrual blood to replace the Eucharist, claiming it was the true blood and body of Christ. Epiphanius wrote that they "take the unclean menstrual blood they gather from [women], and eat it." As part of their deviant sexual rituals, during the group relations, men would finish and then the group would "absorb the seeds of their dirt" by "eating the dirty stuff themselves."

For centuries after Epiphanius's writings, descriptions of black masses circulated among Christians. Tales included fantastical magic that involved flying or calling up demons, and the rituals almost always had a sexual element. The key to the black mass, though, was the inversion of the liturgical mass - black masses twisted and defiled traditions, like how the Borborites reportedly consumed one another's liquid byproducts.

Eating Babies Was Part Of The Black Mass Ritual

Photo: Wellcome Images / Wikimedia Commons / CC BY 4.0

Epiphanius didn't stop at bodily fluids with his 4th-century description of a black mass. He also claimed that the rituals always included deviant sexual acts. "They have [intercourse] all the time and commit fornication," Epiphanius wrote. And sometimes, the group relations went even further. If a woman ever got pregnant, the Borborites would cannibalize the infant.

According to Epiphanius, the Borborites would "extract the fetus at the stage which is appropriate for their enterprise, take this aborted infant, and cut it up in a trough with a pestle. And they mix honey, pepper, and certain other perfumes and spices with it." After mixing up their fetus stew, the participants would gather, and "each [would eat] a piece of the child with his fingers." Epiphanius claimed that the Borborites compared this to Passover.

Witches Had Black Masses To Worship Satan Where They Practiced The 'Osculum Infame'

Photo: Compendium Maleficarum / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

By the 14th century, the stories about black masses transformed into tales of witches' Sabbaths. Just like the purported earlier black masses, witches inverted Catholic rituals by worshipping Satan instead of God. Another holdover from earlier black masses was the osculum infame, also called "the obscene kiss" or "the shameful kiss."

During the ceremony, witches would kiss the Devil on his anus.

A Naked Virgin Would Lie On The Altar For A Black Mass

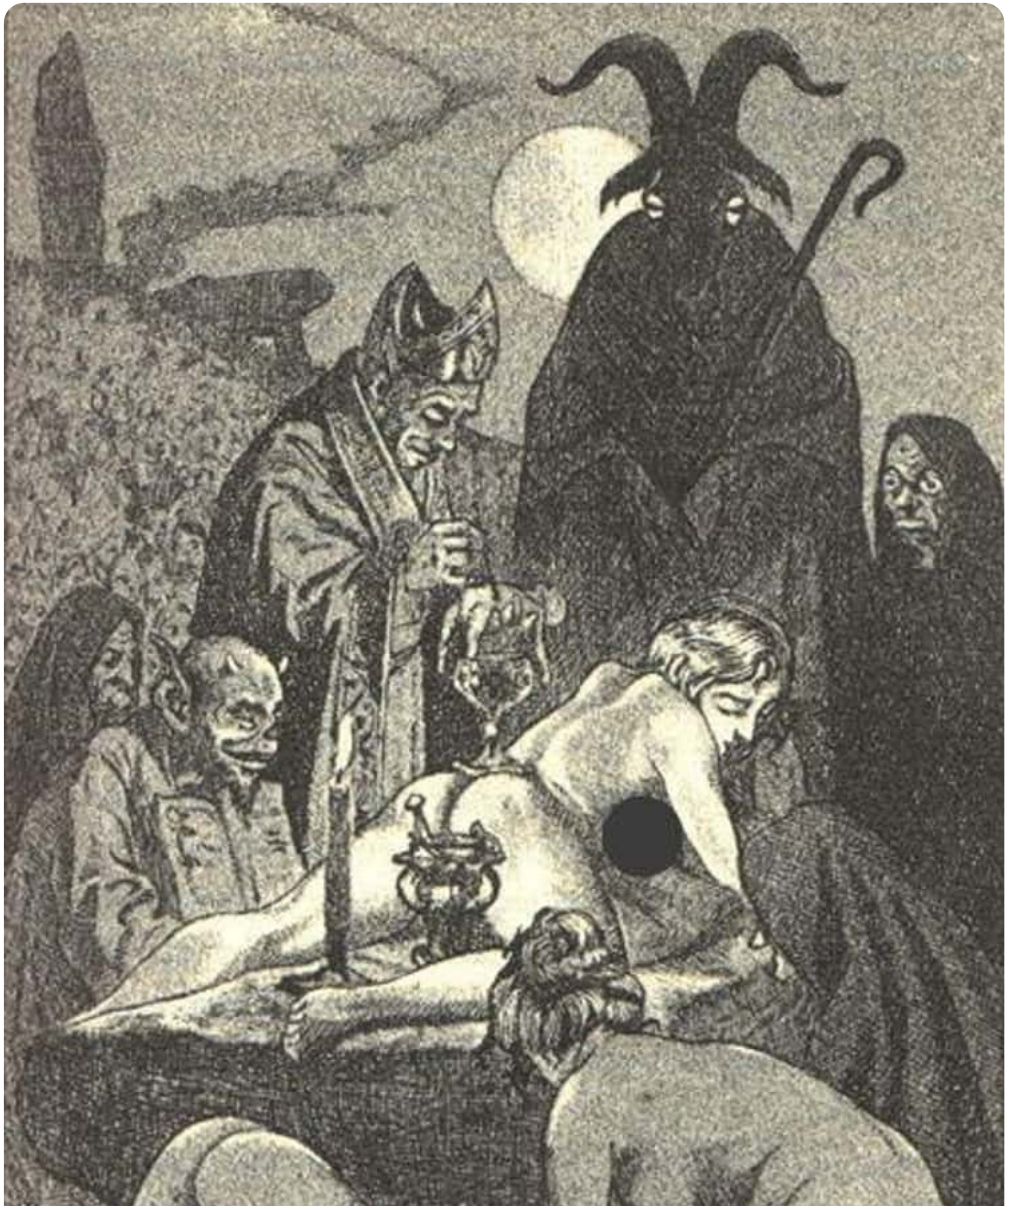

Photo: Martin van Maële / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

As dozens of images show, the black mass was to be performed on the naked body of a woman - preferably a virgin. One book reports that "the first requirement in the celebration of the Black Mass is a virgin, naked, spread-eagled on the 'altar' and the climax is reached when the officiating priest performs the sexual act with her." There are also a number of more modern reports of black masses featuring naked virgins.

In 1889, one reporter wrote that the mass was said on the bare body of a woman stretched on the altar. Dating back to the 4th century, black masses always had a reputation for "unnatural" sexual acts, which might explain the insistence that a naked virgin was an integral part of the ceremony.

The Knights Templar Were Apprehended For Spitting On Crosses At Black Masses

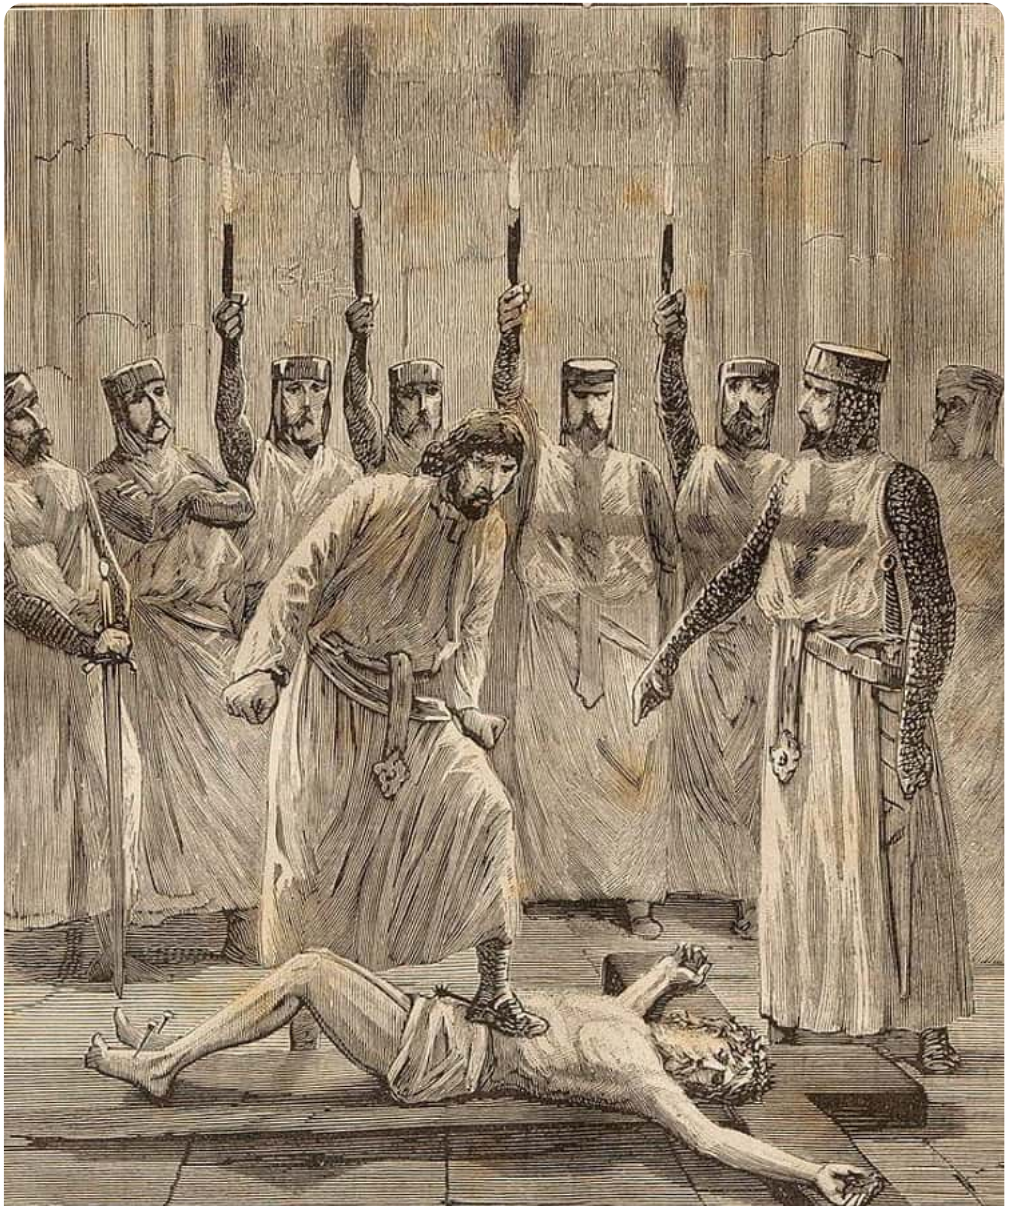

Photo: François GOGLINS / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

In 1307, the Knights Templar were accused of heresy by French King Philip IV. The Templars were a medieval society of knights who took a vow not to marry. Since 1119, they had been dedicated to defending the Kingdom of Jerusalem and protecting Christian pilgrims during the Crusades. But their downfall in 1307 was fast. The charges against the Templars included claims that they had been participating in heresy.

Allegedly, during these heretical rituals, new members were forced to spit on a cross and renounce Jesus Christ. They were also accused of kissing each other indecently and worshipping a cat, and the Templars reportedly vowed that "unnatural lust was lawful."

Cross Trampling Was A Popular Event At Black Masses

Photo: Derek Smootz / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

For centuries, black masses were seen as a way to attack Christianity by subverting their rituals. Because of that, instead of venerating the cross, trampling on a cross was a popular activity at black masses. In addition to trampling, a black mass might feature an inverted cross. Or, as in the example of the Knights Templar, spitting on the cross. Instead of making the sign of the cross with the right hand, worshippers of the devil might use the left.

In every way, these rituals were the exact opposite of traditional Christian religious traditions in order to set the black mass apart.

Descriptions Of The Black Mass Are Often Extremely Salacious

Photo: Econt / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

Black masses flaunted rules about sexual relations and sexuality. According to a letter written by Pope Gregory IX in 1232, heretics at black masses performed all kinds of deviant acts. After a ceremony where attendants "bestow a foul kiss on [a toad's] hind parts" and kiss the anus of a black cat, the ceremony would quickly devolve into a scene of group relations. Gregory wrote:

> The lights are put out and those present indulge in the most loathsome sensuality, having no regard to [gender]. If there are more men than women, men satisfy one another's depraved appetites. Women do the same for one another.

Even into the modern era, descriptions of the black mass always featured sexual transgressions. Holding religious ceremonies on the naked body of a woman and throwing parties for group exchanges made the black mass seem even more reprehensible to Christians.

The Black Mass Broke Every Single Rule

Photo: JPS68 / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

This description of the black mass endured for centuries. A person dressed as a priest would stand before an altar where a naked woman lay. She was surrounded by "a black candle made from the fat of unbaptized babies, and a chalice containing the urine of a prostitute." There was an inverted cross above the altar. The priest would "bless" black-stained turnips. Prayers might be chanted backward.

The culmination of the event was "a potpourri of flagellation, prayer-book burning, cunnilingus, fellatio, and general hindquarters kissing." They might even slaughter a baby during the ritual. But there's a major problem with this description of the black mass: it may have never existed at all.

Many Stories About The Black Mass Were Obtained With Torture

Photo: Jan Arkesteijn / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

Many descriptions of the black mass were extracted from people during the enactment of physical harm. This is true of the Knights Templar who confessed to deviant behavior, as well as the tens of thousands of accused witches executed during the witch hunts. Thousands of false confessions created a vision of the black mass that may have never existed at all. Women claimed, during these brutal proceedings, that they had sexual relationships with demons. Men claimed they had renounced Christianity and trampled on crosses. People even confessed to eating babies.

But how is it possible that stories of the black mass have been so consistent for nearly 2,000 years, all the way back to Epiphanius of Salamis in the 4th century? Because the black mass is an inversion of the Catholic mass, it represents the greatest fears of the dominant society - and these fears were easily displaced on people seen as threats, like religious nonconformists. For this reason, some consider that the most horrific descriptions of the black mass were invented by Christians themselves.

next up

Filed under: WTF, Gross, Graveyard Shift, Catholicism

12 MORE LISTS
THE DARK SIDE OF THE CHURCH

15 Of The Most Absurd And Unforgivable Things The Catholic Church Has Ever Done

There Is A Secret Underground Vault In The Vatican That Might Conceal Head
Murder, Incest, And Destroying The Catholic Church: The Sins Of The Borgias

WEIRD HISTORY
Ranker

The Violent, 20-Year-Old Maniac Who Became Pope Three Separate Times

Firsthand Accounts From Women Who Survived Ireland’s 'Magdalene Houses'

The Catholic Church Stole 300,000 Babies And Sold Them To The Highest Bidder

The Pope Who Threw Orgies And Tortured His Enemies

Details About Pope Alexander VI's Horrifyingly Over The Top Death

10 Popes Who Didn't Take Celibacy Very Seriously

When The Vatican Couldn't Stop People Leaving Mass To Snort Snuff, They Started A Tobacco Factory

In The Pazzi Conspiracy, A Pope Ordered A Hit During An Easter Sunday Mass

Irish Laundries Tortured Women And Separated Families, But The Church Denies It

TRENDING TODAY

Here Are Some Of The Strict Rules You Must Follow When You're Amish

Discontinued Foods Brought Back By Popular Demand

The Most Stunning Starfire Pictures

The Best Songs About The Sun

Cut Loose With The Best 'Footloose' Quotes

The Best Quagsire Nicknames

Top 10 Current Queries: singers from the south, one piece luffy, 2021 top anime, 13 ghosts black zodiac, mckamey manor haunted house, real life addams family, young mark harmon, stuff from the 90's, anne perry author, hells angels concert security

© Ranker 2022

ANCIENT ORIGINS®

RECONSTRUCTING THE STORY OF HUMANITY'S PAST

FoundGo 1800W Presse Huile Electriqu
42
559,99 € prime
Ache

All Search across 12,000+ articles x

Inner Mysteries of
Egypt and the Nile
Secure your place now!
ANCIENT ORIGINS TOURS
13 to 27 October
2023
EGYPT TOUR
14 Nights
15 Days

X

UPDATED 1 MAY, 2019 - 01:49 DHWTY

X

The Prosperity and Power of the Ghana Empire Flourished on the Trans-Saharan Trade Route

READ LATER PRINT

The Ghana Empire was the first of the great West African empires that existed during the Middle Ages. The history of the Ghana Empire is obscure and much of what we know about it is derived from Arab sources, in particular, the Book of Highways and of Kingdoms by Al-Bakri. It is also from this source that the story of Tunka Manin (also spelled as Tenkamenin), the last Soninke ruler of Ghana is found.

The Formation of the Ghana Empire

Although referred to as the Ghana Empire today, this Medieval West African state was known by its subjects as Wagadou, which means 'Land of Herds'. Ghana, as a matter of fact, was the title of its ruler. According to oral tradition, the Ghana Empire was founded by Diabe Cissé, a younger son of Dinga, who is considered to be the ancestor of the Soninke people. As Dinga approached death, he decided to bequeath his chiefly powers to his eldest son. As the elderly man was blind by then, Diabe Cissé disguised himself as his brother and received his father's chiefly powers. Diabe Cissé then left his home and ended up at a place called Koumbi Saleh, which is located in modern day Mauretania, on its southern border with Mali. It was there that Wagadou was founded, with Koumbi Saleh serving as its capital.

Ache x

When You Get Married, Here Are the Types of Dresses to Avoid Purchasing
Bakehuge

The Ghana empire rose to power mainly by capitalizing from the gold trade, as well as copper, iron-smelting & salt.
(HomeTeam History / YouTube)

The first written references to the Ghana Empire were made during the 8 th century by Arab writers. By this time, the Ghana Empire had grown powerful and rich, thanks to the trans-Saharan trade . Caravans bringing salt came from the north, while those from the south transported gold. As the trade route passed through the territory of the Ghana Empire, tariffs were levied on these goods, and this contributed greatly to the wealth of the empire.

The Ghana Empire Grew Into One of the Richest Kingdoms

The prosperity and power of the Ghana Empire continued well into the 10 th century. For example, Al-Ya'qubi, an Arab geographer and historian living in the 9 th century, wrote that Ghana was one of the tw ıl kingdoms in Western Sudan , and that its ruler had other kings under his authority. Another Arab writer, the geographer Muhammad ibn Hawqal, wrote in 988 that the ruler of Ghana was the richest king in the world.

- Traditional African Medicine and its Role in Healing in a Modern World
- The Ancient, Fortified Ksar of Ait-Ben-Haddou Awaits the Return of Desert Traders
- Ten Stunning Yet Little Known Ancient Treasures Across Africa

The Ghana Empire at its greatest extent. (Luxo / CC BY-SA 3.0)

The most detailed description of the Ghana Empire, however, is found in Al-Bakri's Book of Highways and of Kingdoms . Al-Bakri was a historian and geographer who lived during the 11 th century. The Book of Highways and of Kingdoms is one of Al-Bakri's that has survived till today (though in fragmentary form) and is an important source of information for the history of West Africa. It is perhaps somewhat ironic that Al-Bakri never travelled to tl ent his entire life in Al-Andalus. Instead, his description of the Ghana Empire and West Africa is based on the accounts of others who have traveled there.

Insights Into the Ghana Empire

Al-Bakri provides his readers with some interesting insight about the Ghana Empire. For instance, he reports that all the gold nuggets from the empire's mines were reserved for the king, whereas the people are allowed to collect gold dust. Nevertheless, gold dust was collected to such great quantities that its value was lost. Al-Bakri also wrote that the Ghanaian adorn themselves with ornaments made of gold. The strength of the empire's army is also mentioned, up to 200,000 men could be fielded in times of war.

The Ghanaian adorned themselves with ornaments made of gold. (HomeTeam History / YouTube)

As for the government of the empire, Al-Bakri mentions that the kingship is inherited by the son of the king's sister. The rationale for this is that the while a king may have doubts if his son is in fact his son, it is certain that the son of his sister would be his sister's son. Additionally, Al-Bakri notes that the king's interpreters, the official overseeing the treasury, as well as the majority of his ministers are Muslims. Despite the fact that the king himself is a pagan, he is recorded as being friendly towards Muslims.

Traditionally, the fall of the Ghana Empire is dated to 1076, nine years a after the Book of Highways and of Kingdoms was written. Al-Bakri reports that in 1067, the ruler of the Ghana Empire was Tunka Manin, who had ascended the throne in 1063. He succeeded his maternal uncle, Bassi, who had come to the throne at the age of 85. Apart from that, Al-Bakri merely states that “This Tunka Manin is powerful, rules an enormous kingdom, and possesses great authority.”

Tunka Manin, the last ruler of the Ghana Empire. (Afrakan Science / YouTube)

Tunka Manin is said to be the last ruler of the Ghana Empire, and therefore was the one who had to deal with the Almoravid invasion. The Ghanaians were defeated and the Almoravids ruled over the region for about a decade before being expelled. The Almoravids were replaced by the Sosso, who submitted to the Mali Empire , the next great empire in the history of West Africa, around 1240.

Top image: The civilization called Wagadou, better known as the Ghana Empire, was a Sonniki state. Source: solarey.

By Wu Mingren

References

Section: News Ancient Places Africa

Tags: Ghana Empire Tunka Manin Africa Tenkamenin Soninke Wagadou Diabe Cissé trade route trans-Saharan Almoravid invasion

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Mother and Child Reunion Of Thetis And Achilles

FAMOUS PEOPLE

European Monarchies Pay Their Respects at the Funeral of Greece's Last King

The last man to serve as King of Greece, Constantine II, passed away on January 10, 2023 in an Athens hospital from complications related to a stroke.

7 of The Most Skilled Sword Fighters in History

x

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Chilling Mystery of the Octavius Ghost Ship

There are many strange mysteries that reside in history, but one of the most unsettling is that of the Octavius ghost ship.

What is a Wendigo? The Beast with an insatiable Hunger for Human Flesh

Seductive Sirens of Greek Mythology and How Heroes Resisted Them

Celestial Goddess Selene: The Ancient Greek Goddess of the Moon

Pegasus of Greek Mythology: Majestic Winged Horse of Mount Olympus

Dreams of Human-Powered Flight: Daedalus and the Story of Icarus

Are You Related To An Ancient VIP?

Roland the Farter: Medieval England's Celebrity Flatulist

The Feast of Epiphany: Who Were The Three Kings and Where Did They Come From?

7 Child Monarchs from History and How They Changed the World

The Awe-Inspiring Karnak Temple Complex and Vatican of Ancient Egypt

The Mysterious Man from Taured – Evidence for a Parallel Universe?

7 Legendary Cryptids that Turned Out to Be Real!

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Faiyum Oasis: The Heart-Shaped Hidden Garden of Egypt

In TV shows and movies, if an oasis is shown, it is usually either a mirage or some tiny pool of water next to a palm tree in the middle of the desert.

The Stories Behind Seven of the Worst Massacres in Ancient History

Did the Yuan Dynasty's Use of Paper Money Cause Hyperinflation?

The Plague of Athens Killed Over a Quarter of the City's Population

What was the Deadly Cocoliztli Disease that Decimated Aztec Society?

17th Century British Christmas Ban Led to Civil War

TOP NEW STORIES

Saint Theodora of Vasta Spawned a Miraculous Church of Sprouting Trees

When discussing Saint Theodora, most people are referring to the rags-to-riches story of the prostitute-come-empress,

HUMAN ORIGINS

The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory

This is the account of the discovery of a skull that has the potential to change what we know about human ev

x

ANCIENT PLACES

Were Vikings in South America Over 400 Years Before Columbus?

Here is presented the widely dismissed account that probably sometime in the mid-11th century, Danish Vikings from and wife of Justinian I, who worked to promote women rights in the 6th century.

Precious Ancient Fabrics from the ‘Israeli Silk Road’ Found in a Trash Heap

This Lunar Year will be the Year of the Rabbit or the Year of the Cat, Depending Where You Live

For 1,000 Years, Monks of Mt Athos Have Banned Women and Female Animals!

Waterlogged Wood: Archaeologists Find 2,000-Year-Old Iron Age Wooden Ladder!

16-Meter-Long Papyrus Discovered Within Saqqara Sarcophagus

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Thoth’s Storm: New Evidence for Ancient Egyptians in Ireland?

and a suppression and cover-up which followed. In 1959, in an area called...

Thoth’s Storm: New Evidence for Ancient Egyptians in Ireland?

Mount Shasta: Spirits and Danger on a Sacred California Mountain

Return of the Ancient Gods: The Resurgence of Paganism

Ancient Anomalous Human Skeletons: Humanity Could be Much Older Than We Think

Are You Related To An Ancient VIP?

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Acharya Kanad: An Indian Sage Who Developed Atomic Theory 2,600 Years Ago

x

Schleswig and the Danelaw (as ascertained from runic rock inscriptions) arrived at Santos in Brazil and proceeded inland to Paraguay.

Precious Ancient Fabrics from the ‘Israeli Silk Road’ Found in a Trash Heap

Rats, Exploding Toilet Seats and Demons of the Deep: The Hazards of Roman Sewers

The Fierce Warriors of the Steppes: Who Were the Sarmatians?

Unlocking the Secrets of the Holloways: An Exploration of England's Sunken Labyrinths

Harmony with Nature Revealed at 10,500-year-old Hunter-Gatherer Site in Yorkshire

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

When ancient Egypt and Ireland are spoken about in the same breath it usually results in the rolling of eyes, polite exits and the sound of murmurs citing pseudo-history and new age babble. At least...

While John Dalton, an English chemist and physicist, is the man credited today with the development of atomic theory at the turn of the 19th century, a theory of atoms was actually formulated 2,500 years

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

The Serpent Priestesses and Ancient Sexual Rites

Who Was Shahmaran? Lover, Trickster, Ancient Persian Snake Lady

Eight Bizarre Superstitions from Ancient History

Tarchon and Tyrrhenus: The Etruscan Romulus and Remus?

Mount Shasta: Spirits and Danger on a Sacred California Mountain

6 Shockingly Successful Ancient Warfare Tactics

The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt

Han Purple: A 2,800-year-old artificial pigment that quantum physicists are trying to understand

Ten amazing inventions from ancient times

Common Tools or Ancient Advanced Technology? How Did the Egyptians Bore Through Granite?

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

x

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

DeWayne Hendrix is with Atum Re and 97 others.
17 November at 10:23

The Ritual Sacrifice That Took Place in Texas Was Definitely A Sacrifice! Texas Being Punished For Their Governor's Resilience Against The Plandemic & Forced Mandates! Like The Fake Tsunami That Was Supposed To Destroy The East Coast This Past Weekend or The EMP That Was To Destroy Half of America A Few Years Ago! You Must Overstand That The Luciferian Agenda Is To Control Energy/Inner/G "The Inner GOD" Where Was This NRG Pack? I See So Many People Saying Satanic Not Knowing That There's Is A Difference Between Luciferian & Satanic! So There's A Difference Between The Satanic/E Agenda & The Luciferian/S Agenda! Consequently The Eleven Is A Number They Use! Coincidence or Co-Incedents? You Tell Me!

Update: I've Been Informed That Drake/Dracula/Draconian Opened The Show! This Was On Kris Jenner's 66th Birthday! The Head Witch of The Covent! Moloch + 66! The Owl Is Also Drake's Logo For OVO!

Salute To My Day-g JMilli!

Nov 5th = 6th (56)
11th month master#
Astro-vorld=46/62
Sacrifice=46/62

Reports of people being jabbed with needles prior NRG (ENERGY) PARK
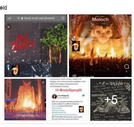
mf frequency activated in that graphine oxide



The day b4 they had YE on drink champs. Talkin about the sound being exerted in the 808 that is exploited

Astro-vorld festival#77/112
Houston#112
Travis scott#77

Houston=77
Graphene oxide=77

On the flyer it says
The third annual#15:65/223
Coronavirus+155
Pandemic=65
Houston texas=46/62
Killing ritual#155:65

Full court press on Orde ab chao or order out of chaos "new world order"Concert Held

COVID-19 vaccines go through many tests for safety and effectiveness and are then monitored closely.
Source: World Health Organization
Get Vaccine Info

Like Share

78

74 shares

View previous comments...

Denzel Re El
Percy DeGrey you have to see this
on Mon Like More

Monice Frazier
If I would of seen all of this as a fan.. as far as the posters etc. I WOULDNT GO!
on Mon Like More

View previous replies

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Denzel Re El Bro the age of Leo and Aquarius are polar opposites! Leo is ruled by the Sun and Aquarius is ruled by Saturn! Please stop regurgitating things with researching them
on Mon Like More

Jeremy Miller
Then on 11/6
Astro from the UK band UB40 died at 64yo
Kill=64
UB40=27
Ritual=27
on Mon Like More

Jeremy Miller
Lets not forget this

on Mon Like More

Jeremy Miller
This was from earlier in the year

on Mon Like More

Jeremy Miller replied · 6 replies

Jeremy Miller
Just know Arturo Sosa- aka the Black pope, superior general of the jesuit order.
His birthday is 11/12

The white pope who is the 266th pope. The 1st openly jesuit pope. His birthday is 12/17

Jesuit=42
Society of Jesus=56

This occured 42 days before Pope Francis bday
And it left 56 days in the year.

And it was 7 days prior to Sosa's
G is the 7th letter
1+1+9=7

Remember all the 77s shown its all ritual!!!

on Mon Like More

Drew Ab-Soul Keaton El
I just said the same thing and Travis Scott was used.. now he stuck
on Mon Like More

View previous replies

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Right he been their pawn! He's slime
on Mon Like More

Bryan Gotwalt
Sounds A LOT like what happened!!!!!!

on Mon Like More

Denzel Re El replied · 3 replies

Sam Carter
Ron Tymetahshinw Hawkins Rich Richie Richardson
on Mon Like More

Ron Tymetahshi... replied · 1 reply

Shauna Frazier
Don't Forget Drake opened the show with him
on Mon Like More

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Shauna Frazier Drake-Ula
on Mon Like More

View next replies

Charolette InnerGbeing Isaac
I'm still floored how they pulled this off... the footage is unreal
on Mon Like More

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Charolette InnerGbeing Isaac man in plain sight
on Mon Like More

Charolette InnerGbeing Isaac
I'm from Houston and those 50,000 people could've easily been seated in a safe environment instead of packed like sardines.

on Mon Like More

Maria Pruitte
I DO admit I am not familiar with the difference between the Satanic and Luciferian agenda.
on Mon Like More

View previous replies

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Maria Pruitte the Satanic agenda is a Zionist/6/Mind Control Agenda and Luciferian/5/ is about manipulation of inner/GI
on Mon Like More

View next replies

Oya Goddes
You better speak! The ice storm was a attack the monkey pox was a attack now this and Governor Abbot still ain't budging! Him or Trump
on Mon Like More

Oya Goddes
Wendy Betts
on Mon Like More

Oya Goddes
Nicholas Wright we say this all the time
on Mon Like More

Oya Goddes
Lyssa FreeJay
on Mon Like More

Donna Purdy Miller
Can I tag a friend ?
on Mon Like More

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Donna Purdy Miller of course share with everyone
on Mon Like More

View next replies

Donna Purdy Miller
I've been sayin this about Florida since they started resisting.. they commin for all
on Mon Like More

Koko Williams
Reminded me of Pan's Labyrinth opening portals and stuff

on Mon Like More

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Koko Williams coooooowwwwwwweeeee
on Mon Like More

Donna Purdy Miller
Bev Bee Stone
on Mon Like More

Charolette InnerGbeing Isaac
DeShante Isaac
on Mon Like More

Toy Xel'ha Peigne
I think that Jack and Jill group his family was a part of is definitely going to have a sit down with his family on this one...

on Mon Like More

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Toy Xel'ha Peigne you mean them gypsies?
on Mon Like More

View next replies

Meghan Holbrook
But what about the other acts that played the venue?
on Mon Like More

Author
DeWayne Hendrix
Meghan Holbrook what about em? I haven't looked into anything else! This dude has a baby with the daughter of one of their head witches!
on Mon Like More

View next replies

Gypsy Kitti
Ronald Byrd
on Mon Like More

Brandi Levario
Ooo-eeee yes sir it here it is 100% EXPLAINED!
on Mon Like More

Brandi Levario
Real shit my brother I love your knowledge in this mann you explained it better than I could thank u
on Mon Like More

Tonya Stanton
Donna Martin-Williams
on Mon Like More

Rita Ross-Joyce
These folks (fools) are crazy!
on Tue Like More

Bryan Gotwalt

on Wed Like More

One Of The Worst Serial Killers In Human History Was Joan of Arc's Right-Hand

Man

Harrison Tenpas

Updated September 3, 2021 • 252.6k views • 16 items

In the annals of historical monsters, there is a special, sadistic space for Gilles de Rais. A former military hero who fought alongside Joan of Arc, de Rais was at one time the richest man in Europe. But beneath his wealth and accolades was a grisly personal pursuit – the torture and murder of young children.

What did Gilles de Rais do? He killed an estimated 140 children during his bloody escapades in 15th-century France. His victims were often poor youths whom he would lure to his manse with the promise of fine clothing and high-end cuisine. As soon as his young victims were at ease, de Rais would impose his sick, twisted will upon them.

He was eventually caught and hanged for his crimes, but while he freely marauded and murdered, he took his violence to bold heights. These Gilles de Rais facts, stories, and unspeakably dark penchants are sure to shock you.

He Violently Sodomized All Of His Victims

Photo: Éloi Firmin Féron / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

A common thread throughout Gilles de Rais's murders was the act of forcefully sodomizing his victims. An eager necrophile, he carried out this heinous act both before and after the death of the children he lured back to his manse. Though he primarily kidnapped and killed young boys, he also snatched the occasional girl, whom he would sodomize just the same, citing a disdain for her "natural vessel" as his reasoning. It's said that de Rais thoroughly enjoyed the act of completely degrading his young victims, and it was a source of great sexual satisfaction for the affluent sadist.

He Psychologically Tortured His Young Victims And Sometimes Made Them Watch Each Other

Photo: Anonymous / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

A killer with an insatiable appetite, de Rais would often begin his ritualistic killings by providing kidnapped children with clothes and finery like they had never seen before and plying them with alcohol. Then, he would strip them and hang them from the ceiling until they lost consciousness, eventually taking them down and assuring them he meant no harm – after masturbating on their bodies among other unspeakable acts. From there, the children were violently sexually assaulted before mercifully being decapitated or having their throats cut, ear to ear.

Sometimes, he kidnapped his victims in pairs of two, so that one would have to watch as the other went through this horrific process.

Once They Were Bound, He Masturbated On His Victims

Photo: Thomas Quine / Wikimedia Commons / CC BY 2.0

A pure sexual sadist, Gilles de Rais got supreme enjoyment out of imposing sexual hell on his victims. He would frequently bind his young male victims and masturbate onto their stomachs and thighs before killing them. He also employed this practice on his occasional young female victims in bizarre ways, frequently rubbing himself between their thighs, citing that he found "more pleasure and less pain than acting in nature." Occasionally, after they had been killed and partially disemboweled, he would ejaculate into their entrails.

He Severed His Victims' Heads While They Were Still Alive

Photo: Wilhelm Kalteysen von Aachen / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

After kidnapping, pampering, and treating his victims to an exquisite meal and expensive alcohol, de Rais would take a violent turn and put his victims through a living nightmare. After violently raping and torturing his victims with a variety of implements, he would, of course, be compelled to kill them for fear of word getting out about his violent proclivities.

Though he used various methods of accomplishing the murder of his captives, his most common way of snuffing out life was decapitation. De Rais even had a special sword called a braquemard that he would use to saw off the heads of his victims, who were often still alive when the blade entered their throats.

He Kept The Heads Of His Handsome Victims, And He Frequently Kissed Them

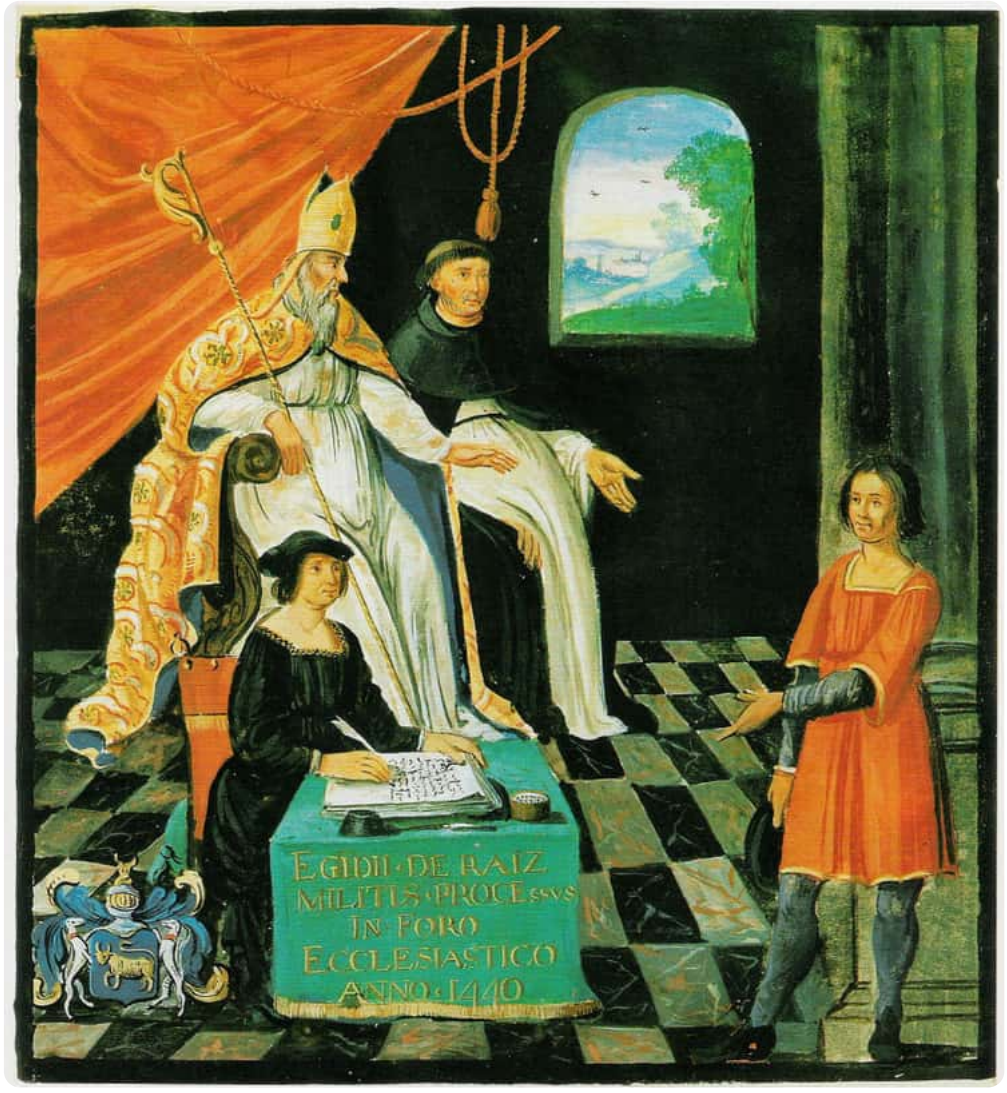

Photo: Anonymous / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

Gilles de Rais, aesthete sadist that he was, greatly admired beauty. He frequently sought out only the most handsome young boys, as his violent impulses were very sexual in nature. After the ordeal of torturing, killing, and mutilating his victims, de Rais often kept a trophy to commemorate the occasion – not unlike modern serial killers.

Gilles de Rais's trophies, however, were not merely small tokens; they were often entire severed heads. He would keep the handsomest victims' heads on a mantle, where he would frequently visit and kiss the decomposing lips of his deceased victims.

He Offered Eyes And Hearts As Demon Sacrifices

Photo: Émile Bayard / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

Gilles de Rais – sadist, pedophile, murderer, cannibal, necrophile – was a man with an accomplished and grisly criminal resume, but beyond that, he was also rumored to be a practicing Satanist. In reality, though, it's difficult to say how many of the accusations leveled against de Rais were accurate reflections of his behavior and how many of them were scurrilous, politically motivated charges.

Regardless, when de Rais – who was at one point the richest man in Europe – ran into financial troubles, he turned to the outlawed practice of alchemy to reverse his fortunes. After locating a magician name Fontanelle who claimed to be able to conjure a demon called "Barron," de Rais began making offerings to appease the demonic spirit, frequently presenting severed eyes, ears, hearts from his victims to the minion of the Dark Lord.

In A Post-Coital Haze, He Had His Servants Dismember His Victims

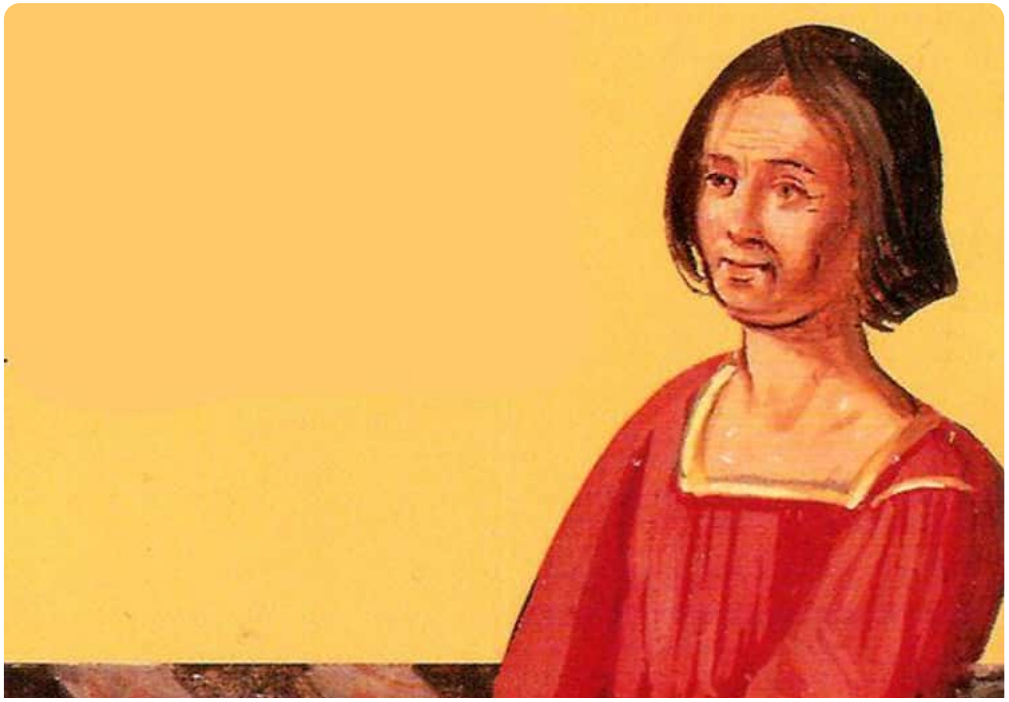

Photo: Anonymous / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

So strong was his lust for sex and violence, de Rais was often left incapacitated – falling unconscious – at the completion of his bloody acts. After he had killed and mutilated his victims, he would frequently sodomize the corpse, taking such pleasure in the act that he would faint upon reaching orgasm. At this point, his servants would carry him off to his bed where he would rest while they were left to dismember and dispose of the bodies.

He Was Very Into Necrophilia

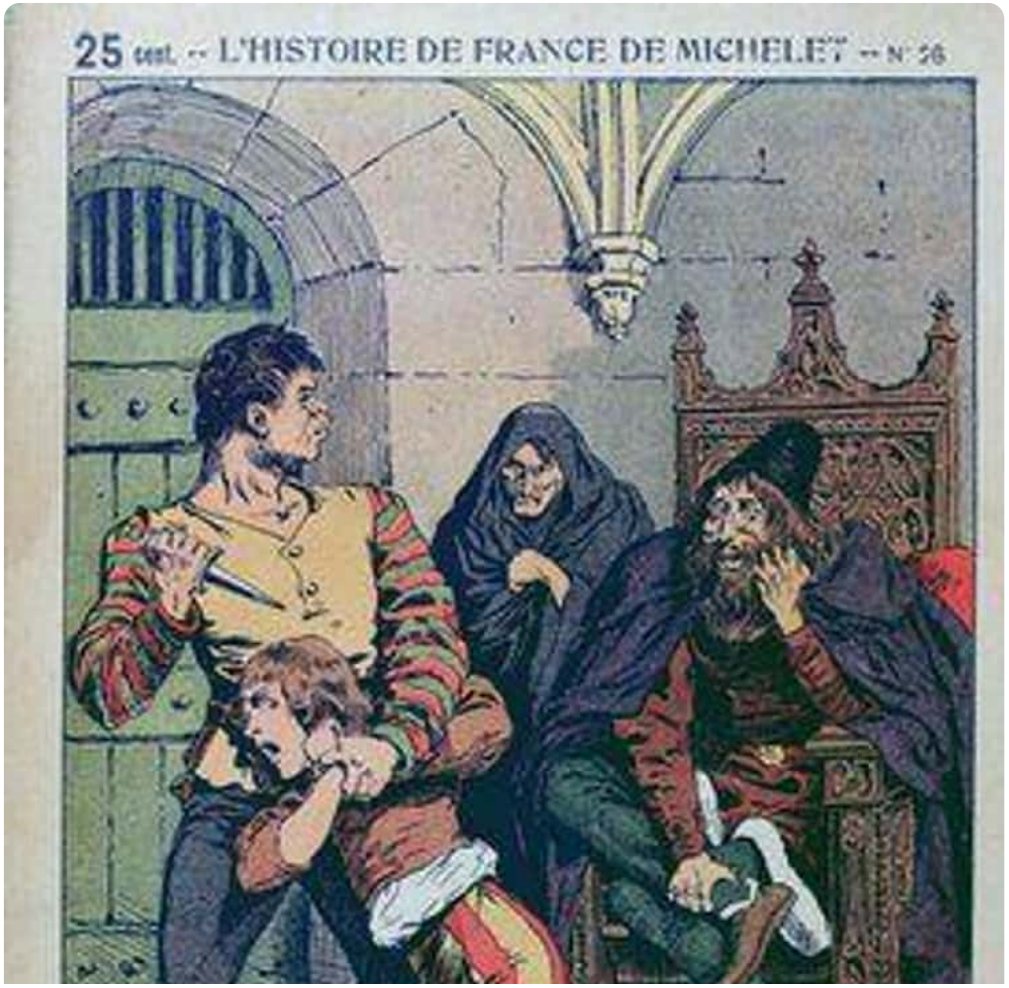

Photo: Louis Charles Bombled / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

It was not enough for Gilles de Rais to kidnap his young, destitute victims and separate them from any family they had. It was not enough for him to torture and sexually abuse them, either. The act of murdering his terrified, agony-stricken captives also failed to satiate his sadistic desires. It was in the post-mortem, in fact, that de Rais may have gotten the most enjoyment out of the bodies of those he violated.

While he sodomized and defiled his dead victims, he also take pleasure in watching them be disemboweled. He, allegedly, "took delight at the sight of their inner organs."

He Took Sexual Gratification From Watching His Victims Slowly Die

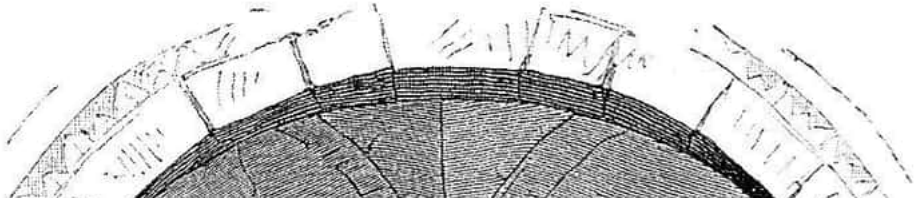

Photo: Jean-Antoine-Valentin Foulquier / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

De Rais clearly got off on the pain of his victims. He took great pleasure in watching his victims suffer, so much so that when he wasn't raping them, he frequently took to masturbation in their final moments.

De Rais would also sit on the stomachs of young victims as he cut their throats, reveling in the blood that trickled down from their throats. He would then remain in a squatting position, pleasuring himself, as he watched the life slowly leave their eyes.

He Had The Victims' Bodies Burned And Thrown In Cesspools

Photo: Unknown / Wikimedia Commons / Public Domain

So what does one do with the dismembered, disemboweled, sexually violated bodies of many children? If one was Giles de Rais, then disposing of them is somebody else's jobs. After he committed his dark acts – climaxing and becoming unconscious – de Rais would have his servants burn his victims' bodies. Those that he didn't burn ended up in cesspools or with their heads on display in his personal collection.

next list

Filed under: History, Middle Ages, Trending On Ranker

Psycho Killers

25 Kids Whose Crimes Were So Brutal, They Were Tried As Adults

12 Terrifying Female Serial Killers

The True Stories That Inspired Buffalo Bill Will Change The Way You See 'The Silence of the Lambs'

10 Of The Most Brutal Serial Spouse Killers In History

12 Terrifying Historical Serial Killers Worse Than Jack The Ripper

9 Startlingly Evil Baby Farmers Who Abused And Murdered Children

11 Of The Most Sadistic Stranglers In History

How To Tell If Someone's A Killer Based On Their Handwriting

People Who Married Serial Killers After They Were Caught

12 Vicious Killers Who Showed Absolutely No Remorse At Trial

Warning Signs That Someone You Know Might Be A Serial Killer

10 Creepy Houses Where Psycho Killers Used To Live

11 Creepy Tattoos Worn By Famous Killers

13 Killers Who Were Caught Because They Got Sloppy

11 Of The Grisliest Trunk Murders In History

8 Vicious Serial Killers Who Turned Themselves In To Law Enforcement

Creepy Serial Killer Quotes About Their Motivations

8 People Who Claim They Are Related To Infamous Murderers

The Psychology Behind Copycat Killers: Media Contagion

The Real-Life Inspirations Behind Hannibal Lecter

TRENDING TODAY

When Visiting Ireland In 1987, Matthew Broderick Accidentally Killed Two Women In A Car Wreck

The Most Anticipated New Animated TV Shows of 2022

The Best K-pop Girl Groups With 4 Members

The Best Episodes of HBO's 'Euphoria'

Machete Kills Movie Quotes

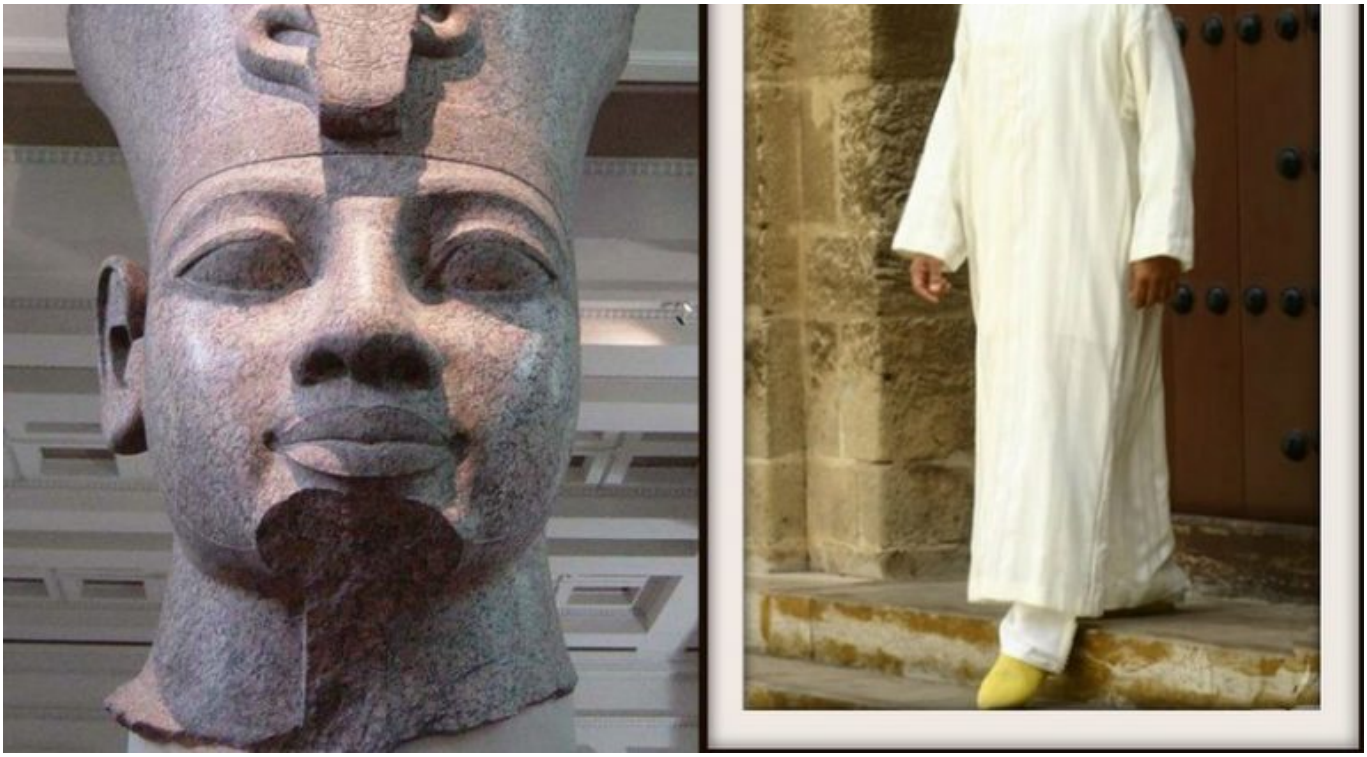
This Florida News Anchor Killed Herself On The Air And Her Brief Speech Is Chilling

Top 10 Current Queries: reddit male fashion advice, shows like beastars, actors who wear hairpieces, young achievers in history, train conductor ghost stories, chuck e cheese scary, who will die next, what happened to the pirates, best tasting slim fast shake, detroit lions running backs

© Ranker 2022

© Ranker 2022

LISAPO YA KAMA

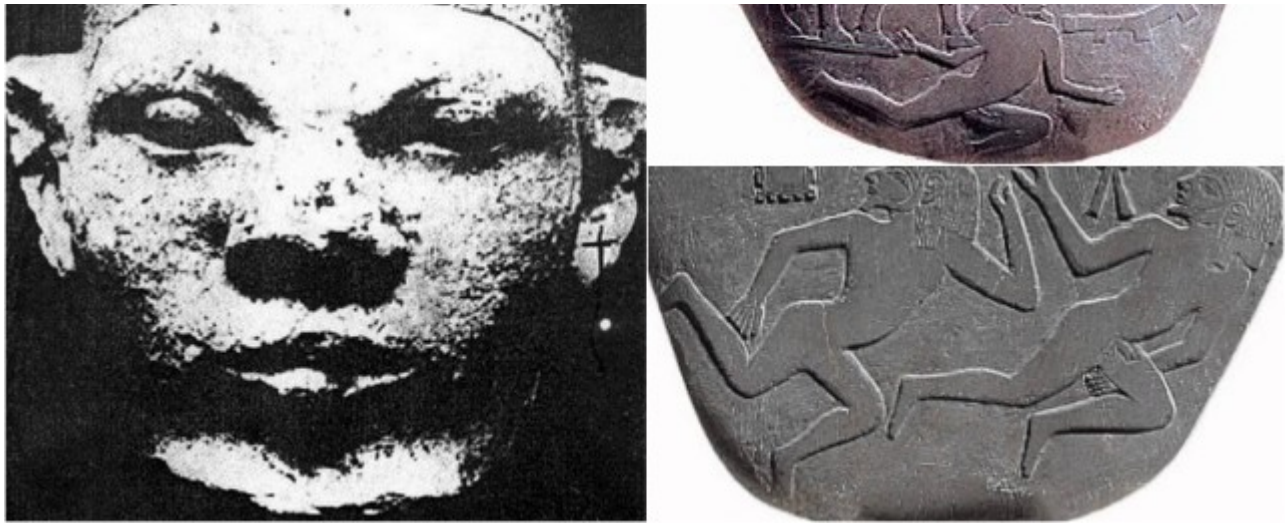


AFRICAN HISTORY HISTOIRE AFRICAINE

"Le Noir ignore que ses ancêtres, qui se sont adaptés aux conditions matérielles de la vallée du Nil, sont les plus anciens guides de l'humanité dans la voie de la civilisation" Cheikh Anta Diop

Comment l'Afrique du nord est devenue blanche

« L'Afrique du nord est blanche ». Nous ne savons combien de fois nous avons entendu cette phrase de la part de nord-africains déterminés à nier, malgré la montagne de preuve, tout apport noir aux civilisations d'Egypte et du Maghreb. Déjà l'Afrique du nord aujourd'hui n'est pas entièrement blanche. On pense en particulier à la Libye et au sud de l'Algérie, de la Tunisie, du Maroc, où subsiste un fort élément africain. Mais encore comme on le verra, la blancheur de l'Afrique du nord est un élément relativement récent. Nous allons essayer de donner des éléments quant au peuplement de la Libye et du Maghreb en particulier.



Le pharaon Imanahotep Hekaouasè (Amenhotep III), père d'Akhenaton et grand père de Tuanga Imana (Toutankhamon), à gauche, British Museum. Il représente l'apogée absolue de l'Afrique du nord noire. A droite un Berbère du Maghreb actuel.

Au préalable, il faut dire que l'élément naturel de toute l'Afrique est noir. Tous les Blancs du monde sortent de l'Europe. C'est sous les températures polaires européennes que le Noir, premier des humain, est devenu blanc par adaptation au climat glacial, cela a été précisément expliqué ici. Et c'est de son berceau européen que le Blanc va se répandre dans le monde entier. Par conséquent tout Blanc qui vit en Afrique a des origines, proches ou lointaines, hors d'Afrique. L'Élément naturel de l'Afrique est noir. Nous allons donc voir quand et comment est-ce que l'élément blanc est entré en Afrique et est devenu dominant en Afrique du nord.

Le blanchiment de l'Egypte

Il n'est plus important de revenir sur le caractère négro-africain de la civilisation égyptienne. Cela a été suffisamment démontré. Lors de la chute définitive de l'Egypte et sa prise par les grecs, Aristote continuait à dire des égyptiens qu'ils étaient « excessivement noirs » [1]. Mais il y avait un élément blanc en Egypte, de toute évidence en petit nombre, au début même de l'histoire égyptienne. Cela est attesté par l'examen de la palette de Nare Mari (Narmer), premier pharaon de l'Egypte unifiée, lorsqu'il sacrifie apparemment des étrangers blancs en -3300.

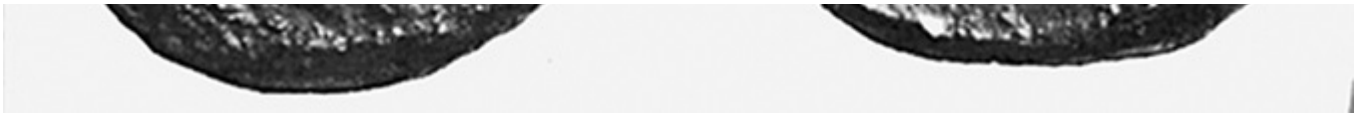
Le pharaon Naré Mari, Musée Petrie de Londres
A droite sa palette sur laquelle on voit des Blancs s'enfuyant devant sa conquête

L'élément blanc ne reviendra en Egypte de manière permanente que sous la forme d'un prisonnier de guerre ou d'un serviteur vers -1300, sous le règne de Mery-n-Ptah (Merenptah) [2]. L'Egypte succombera aux invasions blanches assyrienne, puis perse (iranienne), grecque, et romaine. Ces invasions pousseront les Noirs autochtones à fuir vers les autres régions d'Afrique. Ceux qui sont restés se métisseront – ce sont les Coptes. Enfin, la prise du pays par les Arabes en 639, puis les trois siècles de domination ottomane (turque), achèveront le blanchiment de l'Egypte.

Le blanchiment de la Libye et du Maghreb

1- Des Noirs et des Blancs en Libye

Gauche : Ioupout II, pharaon de la dynastie libyenne qui envahit l'Egypte (750 av. JC). Ioupout II fut noir (Brooklyn Museum)
Droite : Un Tamehou, tombe de Souti



C'est au temps du pharaon Suti Mery-n-Ptah (Seti 1er), vers -1300, que des peuples blancs sont visuellement décrits en Libye, sous l'appellation de Tamehou. Depuis quand étaient-ils là ? Ont-ils un rapport avec les Blancs sacrifiés par Nare Mari ? On ne le sait pas. Qui plus est, sous Ramessou Hekayounou (Ramsès III), vers -1200, de nombreux peuples blancs envahisseurs ont été repoussés par l'Egypte vers la Libye, ce qui y a accentué l'apport blanc.

D'après Cheikh Anta Diop, avant les Tamehou, vivaient en Lybie les Tehenu, qui étaient un peuple noir encore appelés Lebou et qui sont probablement les ancêtres des actuels Lebou du Sénégal [2]. On peut donc affirmer que dans la deuxième moitié de l'antiquité, il y avait des Noirs et des Blancs en Libye. Nous ne disposons pas de description claire pour le Maghreb avant les témoignages des grecs et des romains.

2- Les Noirs carthaginois au Maghreb

Nous avons déjà montré ici le phénotype noir des carthaginois – peuple ayant régné sur le Maghreb entre -814 et -147 – ceci sur la base de l'analyse des squelettes effectuées par les anthropologues européens. L'anthropologue français Stéphane Gsell, directeur du Musée d'Alger conclut « …L'analyse anthropologique des squelettes trouvés à Carthage prouve qu'il n'y a pas d'unité raciale ou ethnique… le type sémitique (C'est-à-dire Blanc berbère ou Arabe) caractérisé par une face ovale, un nez fin aquilin n'a pas été retrouvé à Carthage. D'un autre côté le type avec un avant (mâchoire) poussée vers l'avant (…) est commun aux squelettes retrouvés au Liban et à Tyre (correspond aux Phéniciens qui étaient aussi négroïdes)… la majorité de la population carthaginoise était négroïde » [3].

Pièce de monnaie carthaginoise commémorative de la victoire au Lac Trasimène. Il s'agit bien d'Hannibal sur cette pièce. C'est la seule image qu'on peut affirmer authentique de lui (Source : Great Black leaders, Ivan Van Sertima, page 317)

Les phéniciens, ancêtres des carthaginois, étaient également noirs si on tient compte des mêmes analyses sur les squelettes de leur capitale Tyr au Liban, et de leur port de Syracuse en Italie. Ceci dit, il y a eu un contact étroit entre les phéniciens et les Blancs d'Asie d'où le fait que le phénicien ait été une langue sémitique. Mais ce contact encore une fois n'a pas modifié les constantes d'apparence du temps de Carthage, si on s'en tient aux analyses ostéologiques. Carthage fut une civilisation noire et africaine.

3- Le Maghreb était noir

Lorsque les romains prirent le Maghreb après leur guerre gagnée contre le carthaginois Hannibal, ils trouvèrent tellement de Noirs en Tunisie, en Algérie et au Maroc qu'ils les appelèrent Maures et nommèrent l'endroit Maurétanie. Mauros/Maures en grec comme en latin signifie strictement Noir [4]. Maurétanie signifie donc pays des Noirs [4]. Maroc même serait dériverait de la racine Maure. En réalité si ce mot a finit par signifier Blanc aujourd'hui, c'est parce que c'est un mot désignant les habitants d'une région qui a été conservé malgré le fait que ces habitants aient changé d'aspect.

Ce témoignage catégorique des européens permet de penser que les Noirs étaient là de tout temps au Maghreb. La Libye quant à elle, en raison du brigandage auquel se livrait sa population nomade, était dénommée Barbari par les romains.

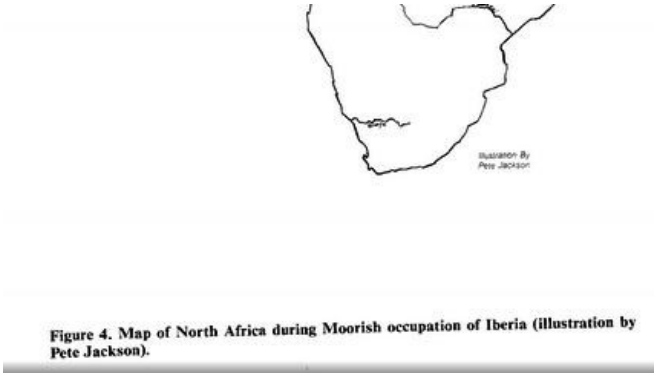

Figure 4. Map of North Africa during Moorish occupation of Iberia (illustration by Pete Jackson).

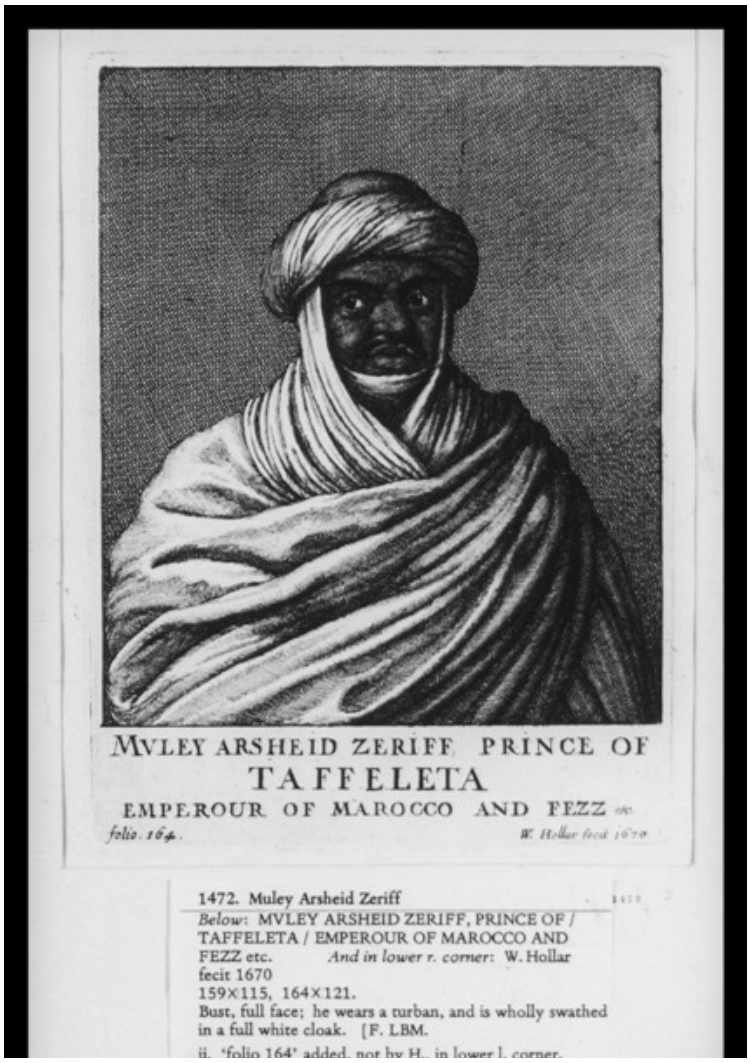
La Mauretanie correspondait au Maroc, à l'Algérie et à la Tunisie. La Libye était la Barbarie. Source: African Presence in Early Europe, Ivan van Sertima, page 150

Toujours en Libye, les grecs et les romains vont décrire la présence de peuples aux visages scarifiés et peints, qui portent des tresses et pratiquent le totémisme, avec une organisation de toute évidence matriarcale [5]. C'est là une description culturelle formelle d'un peuple noir. Les mêmes documents d'époque vont décrire la présence d'une petite nation « éthiopienne » vivant de Tripoli à Tunis [6]. Éthiopien dérive du grec « Aethiopus » qui signifie visages brulés donc Noir ; ce mot était à l'origine appliqué aux Noirs du Soudan [7]. Ce qui prouve encore qu'il y avait des Noirs en Libye.

4- « Plus noires que le plus noir des encres »

Lorsque les Arabes entrèrent en Barbari et en Maurétanie, ils transformèrent le mot Barbari en Berbère pour désigner tous les peuples du Maghreb et de la Lybie sans distinction de couleur [8]. Le mot Berbère désignait donc au départ des peuples globalement noirs. Ces peuples autochtones constituèrent l'écrasante majorité des troupes qui entrèrent en Espagne en 711 pour débuter les 781 ans d'occupation musulmane de la péninsule ibérique. Les témoignages des Européens de l'Epoque sont formels.



Le roi d'Espagne Alfonso X dit « le sage » raconte cette invasion « tous les soldats maures étaient habillés de soie et de laine noire acquise par la force… leurs faces noires étaient comme du poix et le plus beau d'entre eux était (noir) comme une casserole« [9].

Dignitaires maures jouant aux échecs. A côté d'eux : 2 servantes, une Noire et une Blanche; et un musicien noir, lors de leur domination du sud de l'Europe*. 1283; Source: the Golden age of the Moor, Ivan van Sertima, page 29*

Voici un extrait de la chanson de Roland, récit épique français de la bataille entre les Francs et les Africains au nord de l'Espagne au 8e siècle, qui nous renseigne sur l'apparence des envahisseurs « En tête s'avance le Sarrasin Abysme ; Il n'en est plus criminel dans cette compagnie que lui. Taché par les marques de ses crimes et grandes trahisons. Point (il) ne croit en Dieu, fils de sainte Marie. Et il est noir, aussi noir que poix fondu*…* Ethiopie (c'est-à-dire visages brûlés/Afrique en grec), une terre maudite en effet. Les Noirs qui en viennent sont sous son commandement; De ces gens qui ont le nez large et les larges oreilles. Et il y en a là plus de 50 000 en compagnie…. Quand Roland aperçoit la race incroyable, ces hordes et hordes plus noires que le plus noir des encres. De blanc il n'y a que les dents » [10].

Moulay Rachid, roi du Maroc au 17e siècle. Il est le fondateur de l'actuelle dynastie alaouite qui règne sur le Maroc jusqu'à nos jours. Il fut indiscutablement noir. La civilisation du Maroc impérial, avec ses villes magnifiques telles que Marrakech et Meknès, est surtout le fait de dynasties noires. Cette civilisation doit être considérée comme une civilisation noire.
Source: Collection royale britannique royalcollection.org.uk

Ce sont donc les Européens qui nous ont donné les meilleures descriptions des peuples premiers du Maghreb. On estime à 3,5 millions le nombre de Noirs en Espagne et au Portugal à la fin de l'occupation musulmane [11]. Leurs descendants actuels s'appellent Moreau, Maurice, Morin, Moreno, Moro, Moore, Murray, Maurois etc…

Alors on se demande si jusqu'au 8^{e} siècle au moins, le Maghreb était noir, comment est-il devenu blanc ? La présence arabe explique en partie le phénomène mais ce sont les deux dernières étapes du peuplement qui semblent nous donner la clé de l'énigme.

5- L'esclavage des Blancs et la présence ottomane

Des millions de Blancs européens ont été mis en esclavage par les Arabes et d'autres musulmans.

Image: Le marché aux esclaves par Jean Léon Jerome

L'encyclopédie de l'Ukraine de 2002 estime à 2 à 2,5 millions le nombre de déportés depuis l'Ukraine, la Biélorussie et la région de Moscou, ceci entre le 15e et le 18e siècle uniquement [11]. En sachant que la traite des Blancs par les musulmans a commencé au 8e siècle et a concerné une zone plus étendue, on est porté à croire que le bilan est beaucoup plus lourd que ces 2,5 millions. C'est une traite dont on ne veut pas parler, de mise en esclavage des blancs d'Europe – germains et slaves en particulier (d'où esclave) – par les Arabo-musulmans.

Les hommes blancs étaient castrés par les Juifs à Verdun en France et déportés depuis Venise. Les Européens comme les Arabes ont une sorte d'accord tacite pour passer cette histoire sous silence et faire avaler à tous que seul le Noir a été esclave.

Tous ces blancs, en particulier des femmes, ont été mis en servitude dans tout le monde musulman, y compris au Maghreb, probablement en plus grand nombre que les Noirs. Ce sont donc ces Blancs qui se métisseront avec les Noirs berbères pour donner ceux qu'on continue à appeler Berbères jusqu'à nos jours. La présence ottomane ici aussi intensifiera le blanchiment. Ceci tend à expliquer pourquoi il y a des éléments négro-africains, européens et sémitiques (arabes) dans les langues berbères.

Nous nous doutons que les Berbères n'accepteront jamais une telle conclusion.

Une Berbère noire et une Berbère blanche. Les Berbères, qui constituent l'essentiel de la population du Maghreb aujourd'hui, ne sont pas encore un peuple uniformément blanc. Il est fort probable qu'une grande partie de leur culture leur vienne de leur héritage noir.

En résumé les étapes du blanchiment de l'Egypte sont connues. Le Maghreb et la Libye quant à eux, initialement noirs, se seraient blanchis avec les premiers Blancs de Libye, les Arabes, les Turcs, et surtout par la traite des Blancs.

Hotep !

Par : Lisapo ya Kama © (Tous droits réservés. Toute reproduction de cet article est interdite sans l'autorisation de Lisapo ya Kama)

PS : D'après la BBC à travers leur article internet British Slaves on the Barbary Coast, 1 250 000 Blancs d'Europe ont été mis en esclavage entre 1530 et 1780 en Lybie et au Maghreb

Notes :

[1] Antériorité des civilisations nègres, Cheikh Anta Diop, page 36.
[2] Intervention de l'historien David Imhotep
[3] The Golden Age of the Moor, édité par Ivan Van Sertima, page 26
[4] The Golden Age of the Moor, édité par Ivan van Sertima, page 151
[5] Idem, pages 109, 111, 113
[6] Idem, page 118
[7] le grand dictionnaire et critique, Antoine-Augustin Bruzen de la Martinière, page 357
[8] African Presence in early Europe, édité par Ivan Van Sertima, page 149
[9] The Golden Age of the Moor, édité par Ivan van Sertima, page 184
[10] Idem, page 43
[11] Idem, page 66
[12] Polemia.com

Spread the love

Partager J'aime PARTAGER Tweeter

PRÉCÉDENT

Madam CJ Walker, la 1ère femme entrepreneure et millionnaire aux USA

SUIVANT

Les 42 commandements de Maât

Bienvenue | In English

LISAPO YA KAMA

AFRICAN HISTORY HISTOIRE AFRICAINE

"Le Noir ignore que ses ancêtres, qui se sont adaptés aux conditions matérielles de la vallée du Nil, sont les plus anciens guides de l'humanité dans la voie de la civilisation" Cheikh Anta Diop

Les 42 commandements de Maât

Afin de comprendre ce qui sera dit ici, il convient au préalable pour le lecteur et la lectrice de se documenter sur le parcours de la mort tel qu'il est pensé par les Africains.

Maât, fille de Dieu, elle représente la Vérité et la Justice, avec sa plume sur la tête

Maât est l'ensemble des lois qui régissait la vie des anciens Kamites (Noirs). Après avoir étudié l'univers et découvert l'existence de Dieu, nos ancêtres sont arrivés à la conclusion que le but de l'existence était la préservation et la perpétuation de la vie. Ils ont donc émis un ensemble de lois chargées d'appliquer cette philosophie et de garantir l'ordre et l'harmonie dans la société, comme Dieu avait pu le faire lorsque du désordre des eaux primordiales (Noun), Il-Elle avait fait jaillir la création ordonnée et harmonieuse.

Tout être humain doit comme Dieu au commencement mettre l'ordre à la place du désordre, le bien à la place du mal, la vérité à la place du mensonge, la justice à la place de l'injustice etc pour que la vie continue. C'est cette notion de la continuation de la vie, à travers l'application de la vérité-justice que renferme Maât.

L'opposé de Maât est isfet. Isfet et ses adeptes doivent être vaincus à tout pris, y compris par des moyens violents s'il le faut en dernier recours. C'est cette conception de la pratique perpétuelle du bien qui explique pourquoi les Africains anciens, sans avoir été parfaits, ont été un des peuples les plus vertueux au monde dans les temps anciens.

Absence de système esclavagiste, absence de génocide avant les influences étrangères, absence ou presque de famine, absence de sans domiciles, solidarité renforcée, des guerres faisant couler le minimum de sang possible, des rois aimés qui règnaient pour le bien de leurs peuples, hospitalité envers les étrangers. L'historienne et géographe Louise Marie Diop-Maes dira de la société africaine ancienne qu'elle fut « étonnement humaine ».

Un homme Mursi d'Ethiopie portant la Plume de Maât

Maât se retrouve dans toute l'Afrique authentique sous plusieurs noms. D'après le savant camerounais Nkoth Bisseck, elle se dit Mbog (Bassa, Cameroun), Mbongi (Kongo, Congos-Angola), Mbok (Wolof, Sénégal), Fokon'olo (Madagascar), Mboka (Lingala, Congos), Bok (Fon, Bénin), Mvog (Ewondo, Cameroun), Fokh (Fang, Cameroun-Gabon-Guinée Equ.), Woko (Banyarwanda, Rwanda), Wiko (Copte, Egypte), Wogo (Shilluk, Sud Soudan), Wooko (Peul, Afrique de l'ouest et centrale), Mogho (Mossi, Burkina Faso), Dugu (Bambara, Mali), Dhuughaa (Somali), Hoggo (Dogon, Mali), Mpow (Akan, Afrique de l'ouest), Mogho (Soninké, Afrique de l'ouest), Hougan (Haiti), etc…

La vie de chaque Africain doit être dédiée à faire la Maât. Et c'est lorsqu'on meurt qu'on doit prouver qu'on a appliqué Maât en passant le jugement dernier. A la mort, le corps périt, l'énergie indestructible gagne l'éternité (vie éternelle) et l'esprit/âme qui est comptable des actes qu'on a commis doit être jugé par Ousiré (Osiris). Ousiré préside le tribunal du jugement dernier dans la salle dite des deux Maât, accompagné de sa sœur-femme Aïssata (Isis) et de leur sœur Nabintou (Nephtys). Ousiré, en tant que premier Être à avoir connu le cycle de l'existence (vie-mort-justification-résurrection) est apte à déterminer qui a obéit aux lois divines.

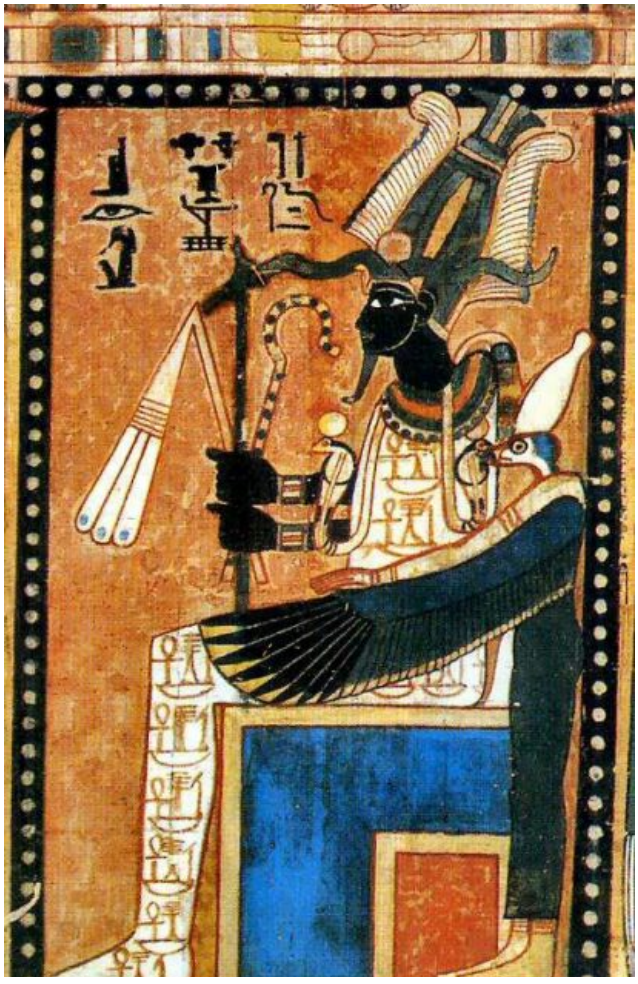

Planche III du livre des formules efficaces pour la fusion dans la lumière divine (plus connu sous le nom de livre des morts des anciens égyptiens). On y voit le défunt et sa femme (vêtus de blanc) qui passent l'épreuve du jugement divin. Tout en haut on voit certains des 42 dieux de Maât
Inpou a une tête de chien, il est en train d'armer la balance avec la plume d'un côté et le coeur de l'autre. Djehouty a une tête d'Ibis. Le corps d'Amout est fait de 3 animaux

Le défunt est introduit dans la salle des deux Maât par Horo (Horus). Son cœur où siège son Bâ (âme) est déposé dans une balance par Inpou (Anubis). Le cœur doit être aussi léger que la plume de Maât de l'autre côté. Djehouty (Thot) transcrit le jugement du défunt. Le coeur doit doit être léger et les 42 commandements doivent avoir été appliqués.

Si l'issue du jugement dernier est positive, le défunt sera justifié par Ousiré et son âme sera transmise à un nouveau-né (résurrection/réincarnation). Les vivants entreront en contact avec Dieu à travers son énergie éternelle. Il devient ainsi un ancêtre méritant. Dans le cas contraire Amout (divinité crocodile-léopard-hippopotame) dévorera le cœur qui servira de nourriture aux 42 dieux de la Maât.

Ousiré (Osiris), celui qui est né, mort, justifié et ressuscité pour la première fois. Il est sur son trône, présidant le tribunal des morts pour juger les défunts

Face à Ousiré et ses sœurs, le défunt doit prononcer ces paroles :

Indj her ek ntjer aa, Neb Maâty Salut à toi, dieu grand, Maître des deux Maât

Iou.i reh kwi tjou reh kwi ren ek Je te connais et je connais ton nom

Reh kwi ren n pa ntjerou 42 Je connais le nom de ces 42 dieux

Ankhyou m saou djout es Qui vivent de la garde des péchés

Amy m senef sen Et s'abreuvent de leur sang

Herou poui n kedou m bah Oun nefer Le jour de l'évaluation des qualités devant Oun nefer (l'éternellement bon/Osiris)

Mek saty merety irty neb Maâty ren ek Celui des deux filles (Aïssata et Nabintou), le maître des deux Maât est ton nom

Mek iou i ii kwi her ek Voici que je suis venu vers toi

In n i n ek Maât Et que je t'ai apporté ce qui est équitable

Dera n i n ek isfet J'ai chassé pour toi l'iniquité

N ir i isfet r remet Je n'ai pas commis l'iniquité contre les hommes
N semar i oundjout Je n'ai pas maltraité les gens
N ir i iouyt m set Maât Je n'ai pas commis de péchés dans la place de la Vérité (le temple)
N rekh i ntet Je n'ai pas cherché (à connaître) ce qui n'est pas à connaitre = ne me suis pas mêlé des affaires d'autrui
N ir i bou djou Je n'ai pas fait de mal
N ir i tep ra neb bakou iret n i, n rou ren i iat net herep hemou Je n'ai pas commencé ma journée (de travail en recevant une commission de la part des gens qui devaient travailler sous mon œil = je n'ai pas été corrompu ; et mon nom n'est pas parvenu aux fonctions d'un chef de travailleurs)
N nemehe i hemouou m het ef Je n'ai pas privé un artisan de ses biens
N ir i bout ntjerou Je n'ai pas fait ce qui est abominable aux dieux

N semer i Je n’ai pas fait pleurer

N sema i Je n’ai pas tué

N oudj i sema Je n’ai pas ordonné de tuer

N ir i menet her neb remet Je n’ai fait de peine à personne

N hebi i sebou m rou perou Je n’ai pas amoindri les offrandes alimentaires dans les temples

Femme Duruma, Kenya
avec la plume de Maât

N oudj i ntjerou paoutiou Je n’ai pas blasphémé les dieux primordiaux

N nehem i fenhou ahou Je n’ai pas volé les galettes des bienheureux

N nek i es Je n’ai pas été pédéraste (homosexualité)

N dada i Je n’ai pas forniqué (sexe avec une personne mariée)

N hebi i debhou Je n’ai pas retranché au boisseau (volé du blé)

N hebi i setjat Je n’ai pas amoindri l’aroure (Je n’ai pas falsifié de comptes)

N siat i ahout Je n’ai pas triché sur les terrains

N ouah i her mout net iousou Je n’ai pas ajouté au poids de la balance

N nemehe i m teh n mehat Je n’ai pas faussé le peson de la balance

N nemehe i irtet m ra n nehnou Je n’ai pas ôté le lait de la bouche des petits enfants

N kef i houout her semou sen Je n’ai pas privé le petit bétail de ses herbages

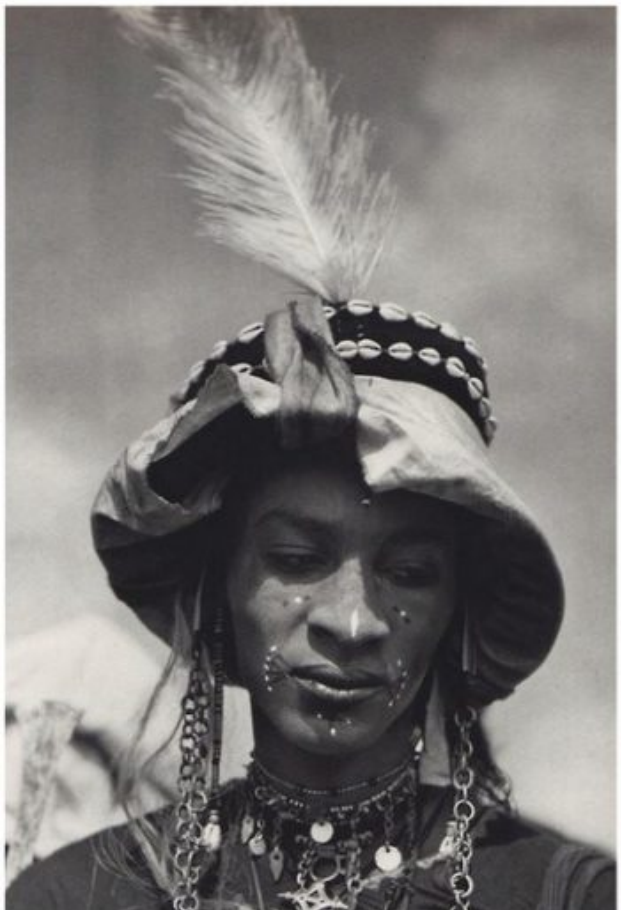
N sehet i apedou n tour ntjerou Je n’ai pas piégé d’oiseaux dans des roselières des dieux

N ham i remou n haout sen Je n'ai pas péché de poissons de leurs lagunes

N hesef i mou m ter ef Je n'ai pas retenu l'eau dans sa saison

N den i denit her mou asou Je n'ai pas opposé une digue à une eau courante

N ahem i het m at es Je n'ai pas éteint un feu dans son ardeur



N tehi i souou her setpet Je n'ai pas omis les jours des offrandes de viandes

N seni i menmenet her het ntjer Je n'ai pas détourné le bétail du repas (offrande) du dieu

N hesaf i ntjer m perou ef Je ne me suis pas opposé à un dieu dans ses sorties en procession

Hommes centrafricains avec la plume de la Maât

Homme peul, Niger
Hommes Igbo, Nigeria

Iou i wab i sepa ! iou I wab I sepa! Iou I wab I sepa! Iou I wab I sepa Je suis pur, je suis pur, je suis pur, je suis pur

Nen kheper bou djou r i m ta pen oushet tjen net Maaty her ntet twi reh kwi ren n nen ntjerou ounyou im es Il ne m'arrivera pas de mal en ce pays car je connais le nom de ces dieux qui s'y trouvent

N senet i Ntjer Je n'ai pas blasphémé Dieu
Je n'ai pas agi avec violence
Je n'ai pas été de mauvaise humeur
Je n'ai pas été sourd aux paroles de vérité
Je n'ai pas été bavard
Je n'ai pas dit de mensonge
Je n'ai pas inspiré de craintes
Je n'ai pas pollué les eaux
Je n'ai pas insulté le roi
Je n'ai pas été hautain

Hommes Somali
Homme Kuba, RD Congo

Jeune femme soudanaise

Indj her tjen imyou oushet tjen net Maâty Salut à vous qui êtes dans cette salle des deux Maât

N tou gerge Vous qui êtes exempts de mensonge

Ma tjen wi ii kwi her tjen Me voici venu à vous

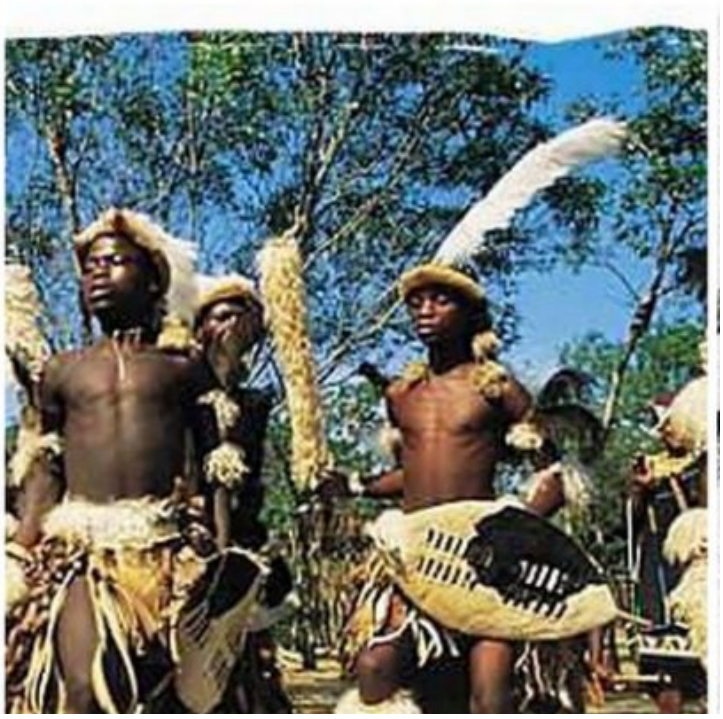
Nen isfet i, nen hebent i, nen djout i, nen meterou i, nen ir n i het r ef Sans péchés, sans délits, sans vilenie, sans accusateur, sans quelqu'un contre qui j'ai sévit

Iou ir n i djedet remetj herout ntjerou her es J'ai fait ce dont parle les dieux, ce dont se rejouissent les dieux

Iou sehtep n i ntjer m merret ef J'ai satisfait le dieu (Ousiré) par ce qu'il aime

Iou i redi n i t n heker J'ai donné le pain à l'affamé

Mou n ib De l'eau à l'altéré



Hebes n hayou Des vêtements à celui qui était nu

Mehent n iwi Une barque à celui qui n'en avait pas

Nehem wi iref tjen hewi wi nen semi tjen r i m bah (ntjer aa) Alors sauvez moi, protégez moi, ne faites pas de rapport contre moi devant (ce grand dieu (Ousiré))

Ink wab ra wab awi Je suis pur de bouche, pur de mains

Femme pratiquante du Vodoun, Bénin
Adolescents Zulu, Afrique du Sud

Hotep !

Par : Lisapo ya Kama © (Tous droits réservés. Toute reproduction de cet article est interdite sans l'autorisation de Lisapo ya Kama)

Notes :

La philosophie africaine de la période pharaonique, Théophile Obenga
Hymnes et prières kamites, Nioussérê Kalala (Jean Philippe) Omotunde

Spread the love

Partager J'aime PARTAGER Tweeter

PRÉCÉDENT

Comment l'Afrique du nord est devenue blanche

SUIVANT

Taytu Betul, l'Impératrice guerrière qui dirigea l'Ethiopie

Bienvenue | In English

XVII - XIX века: технологии создания искусственного дождя и снега

Это парадоксально, но очень многие до сих пор считают, что «химтрейлы» удел верования одних лишь конспирологов, хотя технологии «разгона дождевых облаков» или «вызова искусственных дождей» - не только не скрываются, а широко применяются в различных странах мира...

Активное воздействие на гидрометеорологические процессы

«Активное воздействие на гидрометеорологические процессы — воздействие на гидрометеорологические процессы в целях их регулирования и уменьшения возможного вреда от них населению и экономике. Теоретически также возможно такое воздействие в военных целях.

Активное воздействие на облака — это физико-химическое воздействие на облака с целью вызвать выпадение осадков из облаков или рассеяние облаков без выпадения осадков, или предотвратить выпадение града из облаков. Эта технология была разработана в конце 1940-х — начале 1950-х годов. В частности, в 1946 году Бернард Воннегут открыл эффект действия иодида серебра и иодида свинца в качестве центров кристаллизации воды, который был использован для создания установок искусственного рассеивания облаков.

В настоящее время механизм таких воздействий преимущественно сводится к изменению фазового состояния облака при «засеве» его некоторыми реагентами,

ИЗ НОВОСТЕЙ

Металлические фолианты богов: куда пропали книги из подземелья Атлантов

В Библии на самом деле есть два Бога: Бог Творец и племенной демон Яхве

Человек исчез на 5 лет, хотя всего лишь нырнул в озеро. Случай остановки времени под водой

в частности твёрдой углекислотой и дымом йодистого серебра или йодистого свинца. При испарении измельчённой углекислоты в переохлаждённых водяных облаках создаётся сильное охлаждение (ниже −40 °C) и пересыщение, что приводит к кристаллизации. Облака превращаются в смешанные, приобретают вследствие этого коллоидальную неустойчивость и дают осадки, как это бывает естественным образом в смешанных облаках (см. теория Бержерона—Финдайзенaruen). Например, в СССР засев производился специальными самолётами-зондировщиками, например, Ан-30М и другими.
Во многих странах мира (Россия, США, Аргентина, Армения, Бразилия, Франция, Германия, Испания, ЮАР и др.) проводятся мероприятия, позволяющие снизить ущерб для сельского хозяйства от града в несколько раз»

Активное воздействие на туманы

«Активное воздействие на туманы — это воздействие на туманы в целях их рассеяния. На переохлаждённые туманы (при отрицательных температурах) воздействуют твёрдой углекислотой и дымом йодистого серебра, чтобы создать в тумане ледяные кристаллы таким же образом, как это делается при активном воздействии на облака. Применяется также засев гигроскопическими частичками. Для засева твёрдой углекислотой и йодистым серебром применяют наземные установки и генераторы»

Борьба с тайфунами

«В США разрабатывались методы активного воздействия на тайфуны с целью их разрушения или изменения траекторий. Американские учёные предполагали, что достаточно будет разрушить часть облачности в каком-либо секторе, чтобы нарушить его энергетический баланс, что изменит и траекторию движения тайфуна.
СССР совместно с Кубой и Вьетнамом также в 1980-е годы проводил исследования тайфунов, задачей которых было найти те «болевые точки» тайфуна, действуя на которые можно было бы уменьшать или увеличивать его мощность, разрушать или изменять траекторию. Были получены интересные данные, в том числе по структуре тайфуна, что дало возможность приступить к моделированию различных методов воздействия»

Проект "Серебряный жук": инопланетная технология, используемая для создания летающей тарелки

Шёпот Вселенной, или звонок от инопланетян: что услышал "Вояджер-1"?

Чем космическая радиация отличается от радиации в Чернобыле?

ПЕРИОДИЧЕСКИЕ ИЗДАНИЯ

Информационная рассылка:

SUBSCRIBE.RU 12927

Ваш e-mail Ok

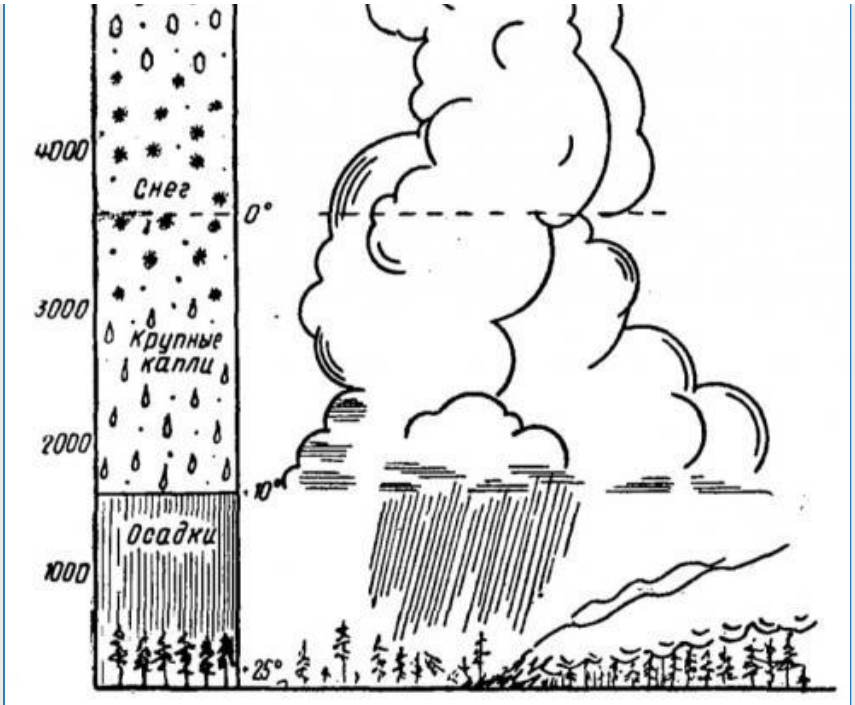


Рис. 7. Схема искусственного вызывания осадков из мощного кучевого облака

Повелители туч

«На 1 и на 9 мая в Москве, как всегда, будет отличная погода. Столичные власти еще в прошлом году заказали "услуги по метеозащите" на майские праздники. Как разгонять тучи, рассеивать туманы и отбивать снегопады? Над этой проблемой ученые работали еще при советской власти. И тогда, и сейчас разработкой новых средств метеозащиты занимаются в Центральной аэрологической обсерватории, которая ныне входит в состав Росгидромета.

"Первые работы по предотвращению осадков проводились в мае-декабре 1986-го в зоне Чернобыльской аварии, - отметил Баграт Данелян. - Тогда стояла задача снизить вероятность попадания радиоактивных отходов в реку". А основные элементы технологии "разгона облаков" появились к концу 90-х. С тех пор технология осталась прежней, меняются только отдельные детали.

Итак, в зоне, где предстоит "гонять тучи", организуют постоянное радиолокационное наблюдение. Если появляются облака, в заданный район направляют самолет-лабораторию. Специалисты анализируют параметры облаков и передают их в оперативный центр. Что можно сделать с облаками? Либо рассеять, либо принудительно вызвать дождь (чтобы он просто не успел "дойти" до Москвы), либо затормозить образование осадков. Можно также попытаться разрушить мощные кучевые облака. В этом случае в вершину облака сбрасывают около 30 килограммов цемента. "Объем облака - порядка 20 кубических километров, - продолжает Баграт Данелян. -

Такое количество порошка не может привести к загрязнению окружающей среды"»

Искусственный вызов дождей

«Летом 2021 года в ОАЭ прошли испытания новых технологий по вызову осадков. С этой целью в Эмиратах стали использовать дроны, которые могут вызывать дождь с помощью электрических разрядов в облаках без использования химических соединений. Так в 50-ти градусную жару полил сильный проливной ливень. Наиболее актуальны данные технологии для жарких и засушливых стран, где дождь относительно редок»

В ОАЭ научились вызывать дождь с помощью электричества

«15.07.2021г. В некоторых районах Объединенных Арабских Эмиратов уже второй день идут сильные дожди, хотя летом обычно засушливый сезон с сильной жарой, сообщили местные синоптики. Специалисты рассказали, что дожди пошли после экспериментов с новыми технологиями вызова осадков. Летом в ОАЭ сухо, днем зачастую стоит жара около 50 градусов, а осадки не выпадают. Ливни были в разных районах страны, включая столичный эмират. В засушливых странах власти активно ищут способы вызова осадков. В ОАЭ с весны начали тестировать дроны, которые способны вызывать дождь без химикатов - с помощью электрических зарядов»

«Благодаря электрическим разрядам дроны помогают молекулам воды «сливаться» вместе и выпадать на землю без использования каких-либо химических соединений. Влага в облаках содержит электрический заряд. Поэтому, изменяя мощность зарядов, можно заставить капли воды расти быстрее, сливаться вместе и выпадать на землю в виде дождя.

Испытаниями занимается Дубайская академия SANAD совместно с учеными британского университете Рединга. Эксперимент проводится в особо жарких и засушливых регионах королевства. Возглавляет исследование профессор Джайлс Харрисон. Исследователи получили грант от Национального центра метеорологии и сейсмологии ОАЭ в размере 5,5 млн дирхамов (1,5 млн долларов США). Грант будет распределен в течение трех лет с ежегодным бюджетом не более 2,2 млн дирхамов.

Летом в ОАЭ выпадает катастрофически мало осадков. Но благодаря новой технологии в июне на ряд районов страны обрушились проливные дожди с ветром и градом, не смотря на 50-градусную жару.

Еще летом 2020 года компания Kleindienst Group, застройщик архипелага «Сердце Европы», возводимого на намывных островах у побережья Дубая, объявил о планах по реализации проекта с искусственно контролируемым климатом. На «Улице дождя» протяженностью 1 км, которая будет построена на островах, осадки будет идти круглый год. Несмотря на то, что температура воздуха в ОАЭ поднимается выше 40°C в летний период, на «Улице дождя» она будет искусственно поддерживаться на уровне 27°C.

Пока неясно, насколько новые технологии могут навредить окружающей местности и населению, так как не понятно каким образом можно контролировать интенсивность подобных осадков»

Китай

«В конце 2020 года Пекин утвердил национальную программу по модификации погоды. Ключевым пунктом программы считается искусственный вызов дождя. Периоды засухи и опасности наводнений могут корректироваться с помощью ряда технологий, которые вызывают обильные осадки тогда и там где нужно, а не случайным образом. Например, самой распространённой и испытанной технологией остаётся засев химическими реагентами облаков, что ведёт к увеличению размера капель и последующему выпадению осадков.

Использование для подобных работ дронов в Китае считается самым перспективным инструментом для коррекции погоды. Для этого в январе этого года был испытан дрон Ganlin-1. Нечто подобное собираются развернуть в Объединённых Арабских Эмиратах. Однако в ОАЭ пытаются реализовать другой и более экономичный, а также экологически чистый подход — провокация дождя ведётся с помощью электрических разрядов.
Подвешенные на крыльях самолётов или дронов разрядники создают в облаках области с заряжёнными частицами влаги, которые за счёт статического электричества также укрупняются и выпадают дождём. Утверждается, что выпавшие недавно в ОАЭ обильные осадки вызваны электрическими установками, а не реагентами. Вероятно, Китай также может прийти к такому решению, если это будет экономичнее, чем распыление химических веществ.
Отметим, сфера изменения погоды существует уже несколько десятилетий. В США, например, этим плотно занялись после Второй мировой войны. По данным Всемирной метеорологической организации, в 2017 году к осуществлению программ контроля погоды приступили более 50 стран, а такие инновации, как дроны, в последние годы лишь ускорили темпы развития этого направления»

Россия

«Самолет-зондировщик Ан-26 "Циклон" Авиалесоохраны в четверг вызовет искусственные осадки над лесными пожарами на севере Иркутской области, сообщила пресс-служба правительства региона.
"Там образовалась облачность, подходящая для вызывания искусственных осадков, которые эффективно помогают наземным силам в тушении лесных пожаров", - говорится в сообщении.Уточняется, что самолет-зондировщик будет работать в Катангском, Бодайбинском и Киренском районах. Ранее сообщалось, что это воздушное судно было задействовано в тушении лесных пожаров в Прибайкалье в конце июня. Тогда самолет-зондировщик вызвал искусственные осадки также на севере области»

«Специалисты авиалесоохраны вызвали искусственные осадки в четырех районах Якутии для борьбы с пожарами, сообщает пресс-служба главы и правительства региона.
Борт Ан-26 оснащен специальным оборудованием, которое запускает в облака пиропатроны с йодистым серебром. Под его воздействием уже через полчаса начинается образование осадков. Маршруты полётов прокладывают на основе данных о пожарной обстановке.
Как сообщил и. о. зампреда регионального правительства Денис Белозеров, на территории Якутии действует 17 лесных пожаров, из которых 15 действующих и два локализованы.
"Исходя из той облачности, которая сформировалась на территории республики, был произведен облет четырех районов, где действуют пять лесных пожаров, и произведены работы по вызову искусственных осадков", — цитирует Белозерова пресс-служба»

Дожди по заказу: как работает пиропатрон для вызова осадков

«Ростех в этом году поставит около 2,6 тыс. специальных патронов для вызова дождя. Этим летом осадки, вызванные искусственным способом, уже оказали серьезную помощь при тушении крупных лесных пожаров в Иркутской области и Красноярском крае.

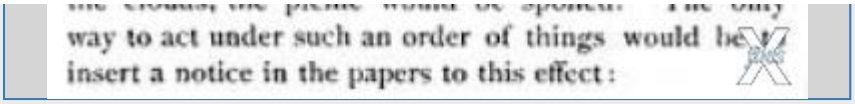
Исследования в области так называемого активного воздействия на климатическую среду велись еще с 1930-х годов. На протяжении многих лет СССР в этой сфере шел впереди планеты всей, руководствуясь по большей части хозяйственными целями. С помощью искусственных дождей предполагалось не только тушить пожары, метод нашел применение и для орошения полей в засушливое время года, и покрытия их снегом в малоснежную зиму.

В нашей стране были проведены широкие экспериментальные исследования для получения дождей из зимних облаков и из летних облаков, не достигающих стадии дождя. Для этого в 1958 году был организован специальный метеорологический полигон с контрольной площадкой размером 50 на 75 км и сетью дождемеров и снегомеров.

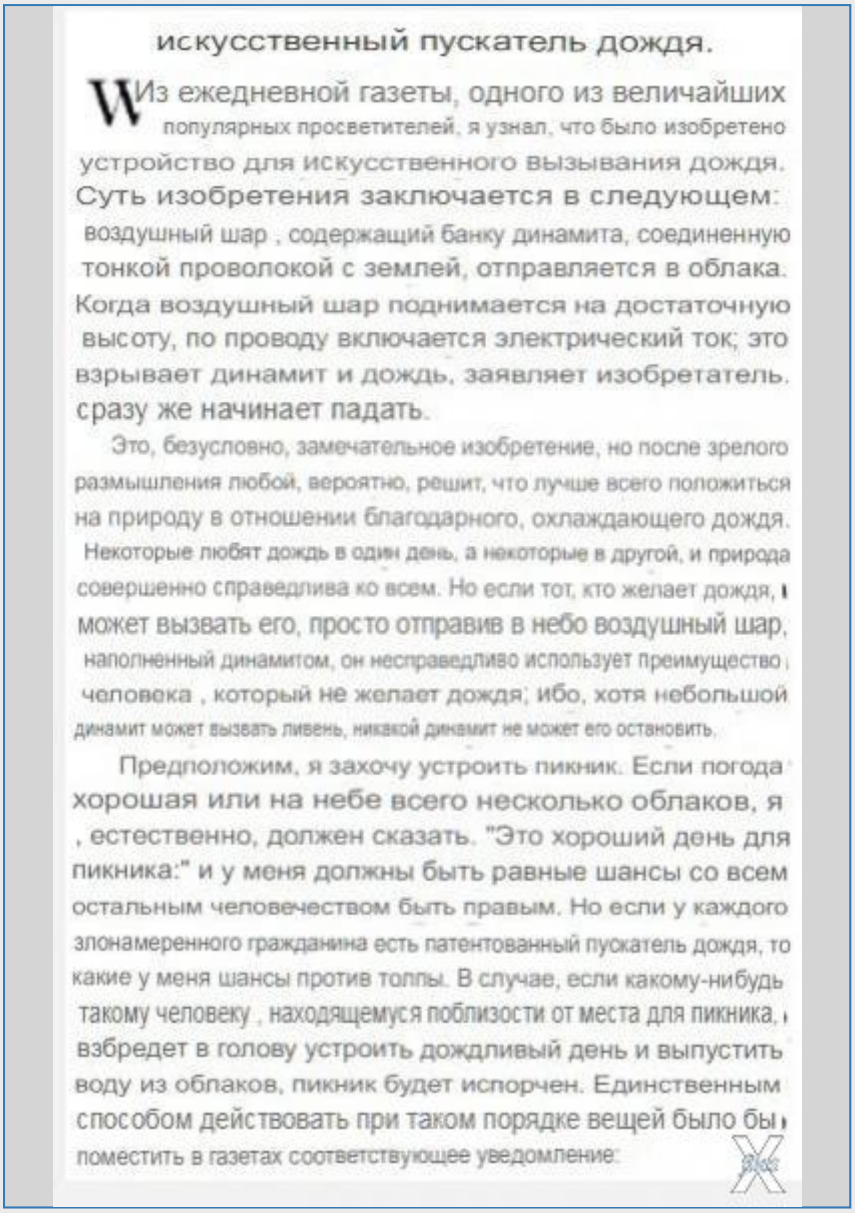
В 1960-х годах начались первые практические работы по воздействию на погоду. Наиболее активно развивались технологии искусственного уменьшения осадков. Например, в дни парадов и демонстраций организовывались работы по улучшению погоды. Для этого нужно было сделать так, чтобы «предназначенные» столице облака пролились дождем еще на подступах к Москве.

Сегодня именно в Китае действует самый масштабный в мире проект по созданию искусственных дождей. Китайская аэрокосмическая научно-техническая корпорация установила в предгорье Тибета на высоте пяти километров над уровнем моря систему устройств, которые выпускают в воздух частички йодида серебра. Предполагается, что ежегодно ожидаемые 10 млрд тонн осадков поднимут уровень воды в реках, в результате чего удастся оросить 1,6 млн квадратных километров посевных полей. Впрочем, как отмечают эксперты, при всей масштабности проекта, используемая технология совсем не нова и известна еще со времен Воннегута.»

Если верить официальным утверждениям, технологии по управлению погодой появились лишь в 1930-х годах, но факты говорят о том, что подобные технологии не только существовали, но и успешно применялись еще в 17 веке (возможно и раньше).
Хотя мы часто обсуждаем, играют ли наши правительства с погодой без нашего ведома, похоже, что в свое время это не было большим секретом.



1884 год



THE ARTIFICIAL RAIN-STARTER.

WE learn from a daily paper, one of the great popular educators, that a device has been invented for bringing rain by artificial means. The nature of the contrivance is as follows: A balloon containing a can of dynamite connected by fine wire with the earth, is sent up into the clouds. When the balloon has risen to a sufficient height, the electric current is turned on through the wire; this explodes the dynamite, and the rain, the inventor declares, immediately begins to fall.

This is certainly a wonderful invention, but after mature deliberation anyone would probably decide that it is best to rely on nature for the grateful, cooling rain. Some like rain one day and some another, and nature is perfectly fair to all. But if he who desires rain can bring it by simply sending into the sky a balloonful of dynamite, he is taking an unfair advantage of the man who does not desire rain; for although a little dynamite may start a shower, no dynamite can stop it.

Supposing I wish to get up a picnic. If the weather is fair, or if there are only a few clouds in the sky, I should naturally say, "This is a good day for a picnic;" and I should stand an equal chance with all the rest of mankind of being right. But if every evil-minded citizen owns a patent rain-starter, what chance have I against the crowd. In case some such person in the vicinity of the picnic grounds should take it into his head to have a rainy day, and blast water out of the clouds, the picnic would be spoiled. The only way to act under such an order of things would be to insert a notice in the papers to this effect:

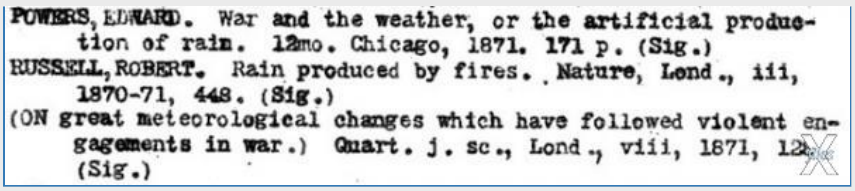
ИСКУССТВЕННЫЙ ПУСКАТЕЛЬ ДОЖДЯ.



Из ежедневной газеты, одного из величайших популярных просветителей, я узнал, что было изобретено устройство для искусственного вызывания дождя. Суть изобретения заключается в следующем: воздушный шар, содержащий банку динамита, соединенную тонкой проволокой с землей, отправляется в облака. Когда воздушный шар поднимается на достаточную высоту, по проводу включается электрический ток; это взрывает динамит и дождь, заявляет изобретатель, сразу же начинает падать.

Это, безусловно, замечательное изобретение, но после зрелого размышления любой, вероятно, решит, что лучше всего положиться на природу в отношении благодарного, охлаждающего дождя. Некоторые любят дождь в один день, а некоторые в другой, и природа совершенно справедлива ко всем. Но если тот, кто желает дождя, может вызвать его, просто отправив в небо воздушный шар, наполненный динамитом, он несправедливо использует преимущество человека, который не желает дождя; ибо, хотя небольшой динамит может вызвать ливень, никакой динамит не может его остановить.

Предположим, я захочу устроить пикник. Если погода хорошая или на небе всего несколько облаков, я, естественно, должен сказать. "Это хороший день для пикника:" и у меня должны быть равные шансы со всем остальным человечеством быть правым. Но если у каждого злонамеренного гражданина есть патентованный пускатель дождя, то какие у меня шансы против толпы. В случае, если какому-нибудь такому человеку, находящемуся поблизости от места для пикника, взбредет в голову устроить дождливый день и выпустить воду из облаков, пикник будет испорчен. Единственным способом действовать при таком порядке вещей было бы поместить в газетах соответствующее уведомление:

И хотя приведенное выше может показаться умной шуткой 1884 года, созданной журналом Harward Lampoon Magazine , приведенная ниже Библиография по метеорологии 1889 года (с введением Адольфуса Грили) предполагает, что все было довольно серьезно.

Читая эти факты подумайте о том, может быть все эти катаклизмы на протяжении 17 — 19 века были делом рук самих людей или вернее тех сил, которые правят миром.

POWERS, EDWARD. War and the weather, or the artificial production of rain. 12mo. Chicago, 1871. 171 p. (Sig.)
RUSSELL, ROBERT. Rain produced by fires. Nature, Lond., iii, 1870-71, 448. (Sig.)
(ON great meteorological changes which have followed violent engagements in war.) Quart. j. sc., Lond., viii, 1871, 12
(Sig.)

Силы, Эдвард. Война и погода, или искусственное производство дождя. 12мо. Чикаго, 1871. 171 с. (сиг.)
РАССЕЛ,РОБЕРТ, Дождь, вызванный пожарами, Природа, Лондон, iii, 1870-71, 448. (Сиг.)
(О больших метеорологических изменениях, которые последовали за жестокими столкновениями во время войны.) Quart. j. sc., Лондон, viii, 1871, 128. (Сиг.)

POTTS, T.H. Rain after fire. Nature, Lond., vi, 1872, 121. (Sig.)
TROWBRIDGE, JOHN. Great fires and rain storms. Pop. sc. month., N.Y., ii, 1873, 206-211. (Sig.)
TICE, J.H. Do battles cause storms? Am. met., St. Louis, i (no. 6), 1876, 138-145. (Sig.)
PRODUCTION of rain by human agency. Sc. Am., suppl., N.Y., iii, 1877, 1070. (Sig.)
BELL, G.H. A rain controller. Sc. Am., N.Y., xliii, 1880, 113. (Sig.)
ROWELL, G.A. On the production of rain at will. Builder, Lond., 1880, 265, 298.
RUGGLES, DANIEL. New method of precipitating rainfalls. Sc. Am., N.Y., xliii, 1880, 106, 342. (Sig.) Les mondes, Par., li, 1880, 850-851. Année sc. industr., Par., xxiv, 1880, 69-71. Crónica cient., Barcelona, iv, 1881, 53-54.

Поттс,Т. Х. Дождь после пожара, Природа, Лондон, vi, 1872, 121.
(Сиг) ТРОУБРИДЖ, ДЖОН. Большие пожары и ливни. Pop. sc. месяц., Нью-Йорк, ii, 1873, 206-211 . (Сиг.)
ТАЙС, Дж. Х. Вызывают ли сражения бури? Am. met., Сент-Луис, i (№6), 1876, 138-145 . (Sig.)
ПРОВОЦИРОВАНИЕ дождя человеком. Sc. Am., дополнение, Нью-Йорк, iii, 1877, 1070. (Sig.)
Белл,Г. Х. Контроллер дождя, Sc. Am., Нью-Йорк, xliii, 1880, 113. (Sig.)
Роуэлл,Г. А. О производстве дождя по желанию. Строитель, Лондон, 1880, 265, 298.
РАГГЛЗ, ДЭНИЕЛ. Новый метод выпадения осадков, Sc. Am., Нью-Йорк, xliii, 1880, 106, 342. (Sig.) Les mondes, Пар., li, 1880, 850-851 , Année sc. industr., Пар., xxiv, 1880, 69-71, Crónica cient , Барселона, iv, 1881, 53-54.

Просто подумайте о том, что более 200 лет назад такие вещи были возможны ... это, как минимум ошеломляет.

Искусственный снег

I AM conſidering how moſt of the great phæ-nomena or appearances in nature, have been imi-tated by the art of man. Thunder is grown a common drug among the chymiſts. Lightning may be bought by the pound. If a man has oc-caſion for a lambent flame, you have whole ſheets of it in a handful of phoſphor[q]. Showers of rain are to be met with in every water-work; and we are informed[r], that ſome years, ago the vir-tuoſos of France covered a little vault with arti-ficial ſnow, which they made to fall above an hour together for the entertainment of his pre-ſent majeſty.

Я доверяю, как много великого фэ-имена или явления в природе были имитированы искусством человека. Гром выращивается как распространенный наркотик среди химифтов. Молния может быть куплена за фунт стерлингов. Если у человека есть для яркого пламени, у вас его целые куски в горсти фофора". Ливни с дождем должны быть встречены при каждой водопроводной работе; и нам сообщают, что несколько лет назад французские вир - туофосы покрыли небольшой свод искусственным снегом, который они заставили падать более часа вместе для развлечения его величества.

1655 год

Among his manuscripts we find a slip of paper which has all the appearance of having passed through many hands,* and suggests the idea that it was one of many similarly written, to enable others to make known among their friends what the Marquis had to offer, seeking their encouragement therein, of what they chose to select. It reads thus:—

1. Intelligence at a distance communicative & not limitted to distance, nor by it the time p'long'd.
2. Ffountaines of pleasure, with artificiall snow or haill or thunder, & quantity not limitted.
2. Oft suteing [shooting] peerds, controuleable, in one plane, either for number or time.
3. Discourse to be had by a Lamp.
4. A Brass head, capable to Receave at the Eare a Whisper & the mouth thereof to Render Answere in any Language to the Interrogator.

Среди его рукописей мы находим листок бумаги, который, по всей видимости, прошел через многие руки*, и наводит на мысль, что он был одним из многих подобных написанных, чтобы другие могли сообщить своим друзьям, что маркиз мог предложить, ища в этом их поддержки, из того, что они выбрали. В нем говорится следующее: —

1. Интеллект на расстоянии коммуникативный и не ограниченный расстоянием, ни временем, которое прошло.
2. Источники удовольствия, с искусственным снегом , градом или громом, и количество не ограничено.
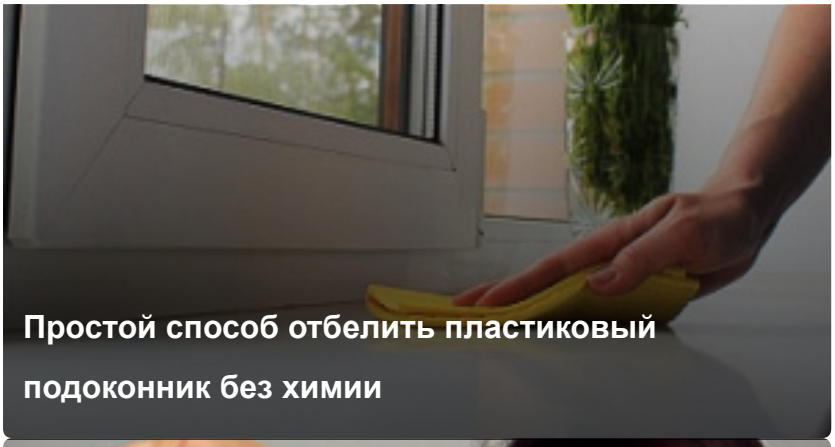
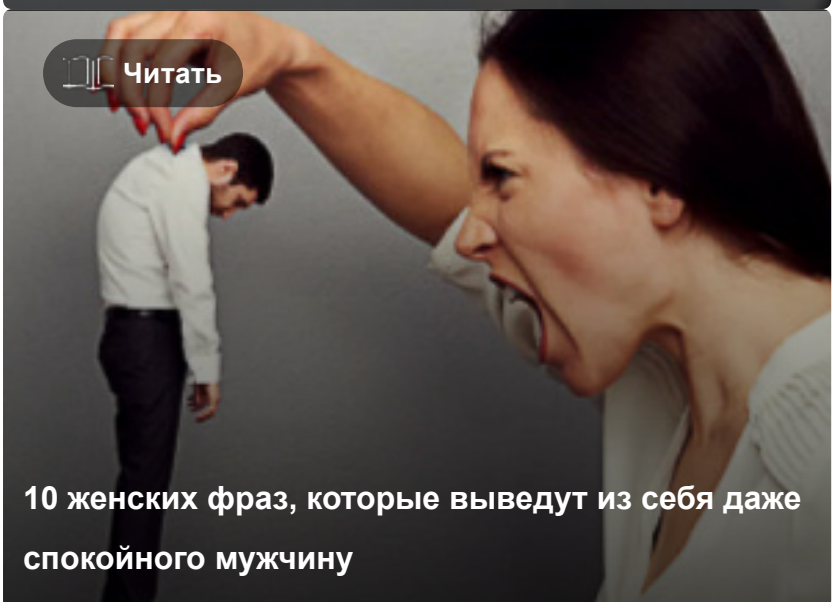
2. Часто сшивание [стрельба] сверстников, управляемых, в

Интересно, что в определенном смысле технологии управления погодой существовавшие в 19 веке превосходят наши современные потуги с распылением химикатов в атмосфере. Мы опять наблюдаем «обратную эволюцию технологий», а по сути потерю существовавших совсем недавно технологий...



С 1870 по 1880 годы, вызывание искусственных осадков вообще было не проблемой и технология была создана, отработана, проверена и применялась, но затем произошло нечто такое, в следствии чего человеческая цивилизация потеряла все накопленное в плане своего технологического развития и только сейчас, спустя сотни лет лишь пытается приблизиться к тому уровню, которого уже некогда достигла...



Источник: "Альманах непознанного"

Опубликовано 27 мая 2022 | Комментариев 0 | Прочтений 362

ЕЩЁ ПО ТЕМЕ...

ДОБАВИТЬ КОММЕНТАРИЙ

Комментарий

Добавить комментарий

НОВОСТИ

- Новости сайта
- Астрономия и космос
- Археология и палеонтология
- НЛО и пришельцы
- Наука и технологии
- История и факты
- Земля - наш дом
- Тесты
- Стихия и катаклизмы
- Тайные знаки
- Конспирология

Y-Jesus

Остался ли Иисус мертвым?

Y-jesus.org

ПУБЛИКАЦИИ

- Третий рейх
- Пираты и сокровища
- Города-призраки
- Жизнь после смерти
- Теория заговора
- Конец света

МЕДИААРХИВ

- Фотоархив
- Фото дня
- Видеоархив
- Аудиокниги
- Подкасты
- Live-трансляции

ДОБАВИТЬ

- новость
- статью
- фото

Загадки катастроф
Загадки истории
Загадки религии
Уфология
Цивилизации X
Аномальные зоны
Наука и космос
Необычные существа
Иные миры
Глазами очевидца
Люди и судьбы
Магия и мистика
От первого лица
Мифы и реальность
Оракул
Криптозоология
Невыдуманные истории
Загадочные и удивительные животные
Разное

Y-Jesus

Остался ли Иисус мертвым?

Y-jesus.org

© Все права защищены. 2004-2022
Все ™ и © всех продуктов, знаков, статей, фотографий и прочих атрибутов принадлежат авторам или владельцам лицензий на них.
При использовании материалов ссылка на сайт обязательна.

AddThis

×

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

Zerzura –
Guarded E

AncientPages.com | June

Ellen Lloyd - AncientPa fascinated with the poss dangerous expeditions t letter

History: Cliff
Verde,

Many amazing lost cities mysterious ancient plac them yet, doesn't neces

AddThis

vered – On Dec

man Silver Was The

Of The Oak King and ation Of The Light And

urine With A Crown On n On The Arm – Is It A

ed Ecosystems 125,000

n Wall In Sauherad

ned Female Infant
European Cave

Kap Dwa – Myst
Giant – Real Or

Kap Dwa was said to shrouded in mystery

Ancient Pages

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

Shin-Au-Av – Se
Death Valley

The idea that there c
somewhere beneath Death Valley, California is fascinating.

Ancient Pages

AddThis

More From Ancie

Aqueducts Are Among
Achievements Of Anci

Ancient Technology
| Apr 10, 2019

On This Day In History
of Shiroyama Was Fou

Ancient Pages Newsletter

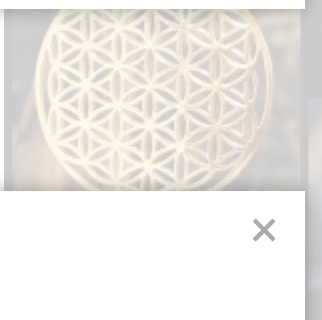
Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

News
| Sep 24, 2016



AddThis

41,500-Year-Old Ivory
Evidence Of Humans D
Eurasia

Archaeology
| Nov 26, 2021

d Jewelry

On This Day In History
Telescope Was Launch

News
| Apr 24, 2016

×

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

AddThis

On This Day In History: Foundation Stone Of The Royal Greenwich
Was Laid – On August

News
| Aug 10, 2016

Mahabharata Is Much Older Than Previously

Extraordinary 1,000-Ye Discovered In Cork, Ir

Archaeology
| Sep 29, 2017

×

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

This Week

Celebrate Yule – The Solstice?

Glamr Who Became A Dead – Scary Yule unting

Shapeshifting Gaelic Be Difficult To Trick

Aligned Temples And Ancient World and-Year-Old Tibetan The Bon Culture

ysterious Cave System nturies-Old Secrets

nt & ysteries

Rare Archaeological Di
Sacred Animal Necrop
Archaeology
| Apr 26, 2020

AddThis

| Mar 13, 2016

Toruń Massive 'Rounde
Years – Archaeologists
Archaeology
| Jul 6, 2020

DNA Study Reveals Ho
Gatherers Adapted To Farming
Archaeology
| Nov 24, 2015

um Articles

vledge Of Portals
n Realms - The Arrival rt 1 - 2

y Of Secret raordinary Sightings r's Book

pal's Strange Clay
Mystery Of The Lunar

×

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

AddThis

Seven New Ancient Buddhist Caves – One With 'A Harmika' – Disc

News

| Jan 19, 2016

Ancient Monuments The World Is Not

- Shapeshifters Who
- The Battle Of The
- acred Texts And
- Problems With The Age Of Man And Theory Of Evolution – What Happened In The Past?
- Unraveling The Mystery Of The Celestial
- cles

- veals Secrets Of Milky
- Strong, 'Green' ative
- s Up To Quantum Team Redefines Energy s
- searchers Uncover The he Little Ice Age
- Reveals Earth's Outer y

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

AddThis

ver Physical Laws
chine Learning

e Of All Known Life
Unveiled Online

×

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

AddThis

- Mythology
- Laocoon – A Trojan Priest Who Offended The Gods And Was Strangled By Sea Serpents
- f King Gesar Who Heaven And The a Monastery
- t Cosmogonic Forest Of Jambudvipa In Mythology
- In Sumerian Beliefs
- 'King Of Medicines' ing Tools And Herbs eople's Diseases
- ellow Emperor – The ' From Regulus

Books:

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

AddThis

Ancient Pages Newsletter

Get our latest articles

straight to your inbox!

Your email

Submit

n Of nd Online
re And This Is

News

AddThis

Source Of Ancient Roman Silver Was The Iberian Peninsula

Strange Medieval Figurine With A Crown On The Head And A Falcon On The Arm – Is It A King Or A Queen?

Neanderthals Changed Ecosystems 125,000 Years Ago

Mystery Of The Demon Wall In Sauherad Church Finally Solved

10,000-Year-Old Adorned Female Infant Burial Discovered In European Cave

Bees – Embodiment of Human Soul, Divine Messengers That Symbolize Invisible Bridge Connecting Life And Death

COPYRIGHT © 2021 ANCIENT PAGES.

Морок

Оморочка может иметь очень сильные последствия

Морок, оморочка... Что означают эти слова? Что происходит с омороченным? Возможно ли это в нашем современном мире - или это только в древности было возможно?

Как это ни странно, морок и сейчас могут напустить. Морок - это измененное состояние сознания, подсознания, а в худших случаях и всей сущности. В зависимости от оморочки человек под ее воздействием может видеть, чувствовать, ощущать - или все сразу - не то, что происходит на самом деле.

Рассмотрим несколько ситуаций для более наглядного примера.

2. Внезапно появился густой туман, не характерный в данное время (либо другой вид осадков, не приносящий физического воздействия)
3. Вы находитесь на остановке, все молчат, но Вы четко слышите, как Ва зовут отойти в сторону. Даже если никого нет вокруг всей остановки.

Это типичные примеры оморочки - слуховая, зрительная, физическая. Все эти виды применяются как по отдельности, так и одновременно. Чем сильнее маг - тем больше влияние. Если требуется напустить морок только в определенном месте небольшого диаметра на одного человека с небольшим количеством изменений (предположим, чтобы в конкретном доме вместо хозяйки видел животное или сущность , либо старую место молодой или наоборот, или стул выпрыгнул из-под него) требуется минимум сил. В тоже время для оморачивания большой группы людей, на длительное время либо с максимальным воздействием требуется намного больше сил.

Методы наведения морока

Существует множество методов воздействия на человека. Для наведения морока существуют различные способы:

> МАГИЯ В НАС И ВОКРУГ НАС ВИКИ

способами возможно улучшение желаемого действия.

- Зелья и заговоры имеют не настолько мощный эффект, но для определенных нужд хватает.
- Шепотки и легкие заклятья несут разовый, кратковременный, но мощный эффект.

При этом необходимо учитывать силу Эгрегора, личные возможности и многие другие аспекты, влияющие на эффективность оморочки.

Виды оморачивания

Всем известны оборотни. Многие считают, что колдуны обращаются в различных животных. Однако это не так. В оборотничестве, помимо морока, присутствуют и другие воздействия, но главное - это все-таки морок. Он один дает возможность почувствовать дождь без дождя, увидеть старуху - молодой и прекрасной, а старика - в образе огромного страшного зверя.

Морок бывает разный, все зависит от желания и цели оморачивающего. Если Вы желаете напустить оморочку - будьте готовы к длительной работе.

ИГРЫКИНОТВВИКИ

Категории

Материалы сообщества доступны в соответствии с условиями лицензии CC-BY-SA, если не указано иное.

В ближайшие недели эта вики будет переведена на MediaWiki 1.37. Подробнее здесь.

НАШИ РЕСУРСЫ

Fandom
Muthead
D&D Beyond
Futhead
Cortex RPG
Fanatical

В СОЦИАЛЬНЫХ СЕТЯХ

МАГИЯ В НАС И ВОКРУГ НАС ВИКИ

ОБЗОР

О нас

Вакансии

В прессе

Обратная связь

Конфиденциальность

Общая карта сайта

Локальная карта сайта

СООБЩЕСТВО

Вики Сообщества

Поддержка

Справка

РЕКЛАМА НА САЙТЕ

Медиа-кит

Fandomatic

ПРИЛОЖЕНИЯ ФЭНДОМА

Оставайтесь в курсе всего происходящего на ваших любимых сообществах.

Download on the App Store

GET IT ON Google Play

Download on the App Store

GET IT ON

ИГРЫКИНОТВВИКИ

Магия в нас и вокруг нас вики — это сообщество Фэндома на портале Увлечения.

ПОЛНАЯ ВЕРСИЯ

Support Our Work
Buy Me a Coffee
Donate
My Amazon Associates Store

Translate This Page
Select Language
Powered by Google Translate
Share This Page
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter
Share on Pinterest
Share on Reddit
Share on Tumblr
Share on Linkedin
Share on Email
Share on Print
Share on Whatsapp
Share on Telegram
Share on Mix
Share on Pocket
Share on Flipboard
Share on Vk
Share on Ok.ru
Share on Weibo
Share on Line
Share on Viber
Share on Skype
Share on Gmail
Share on Yahoo Mail
Share on Aol Mail
Share on Outlook.com
Share on Hotmail
Share on Wordpress
Share on Blogger
Share on Livejournal
Share on Delicious
Share on Digg
Share on Stumbleupon
Share on Mewe
Share on Diaspora
Share on Myspace
Share on Renren
Share on Qzone
Share on Douban
Share on Meneame
Share on Hacker News
Share on Evernote
Share on Mendeley
Share on Folkd
Share on Netvouz
Share on Instapaper
Share on Pinboard
Share on Trello
Share on Buffer
Share on Amazon Wish List
Share on Copy Link
Share on Print Friendly
Share on Mail.ru
Share on Sina Weibo
Share on Yummly
Share on Surfingbird.ru
Share on Baidu
Share on Renren
Share on Kakao
Share on Pocket
Share on Reader
Share on Pinterest
Share on Facebook Messenger
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter
Share on Linkedin
Share on Email
Share on Print
Share on Whatsapp
Share on Telegram
Share on Mix
Share on Pocket
Share on Flipboard
Share on Vk
Share on Ok.ru
Share on Weibo
Share on Line
Share on Viber
Share on Skype
Share on Gmail
Share on Yahoo Mail
Share on Aol Mail
Share on Outlook.com
Share on Hotmail
Share on Wordpress
Share on Blogger
Share on Livejournal
Share on Delicious
Share on Digg
Share on Stumbleupon
Share on Mewe
Share on Diaspora
Share on Myspace
Share on Renren
Share on Qzone
Share on Douban
Share on Meneame
Share on Hacker News
Share on Evernote
Share on Mendeley
Share on Folkd
Share on Netvouz
Share on Instapaper
Share on Pinboard
Share on Trello
Share on Buffer
Share on Amazon Wish List
Share on Copy Link
Share on Print Friendly
Share on Mail.ru
Share on Sina Weibo
Share on Yummly
Share on Surfingbird.ru
Share on Baidu
Share on Renren
Share on Kakao
Share on Pocket
Share on Reader

Get the Latest Articles
Subscribe
Recent Articles
Recent Comments

Support Our Work
Buy Me a Coffee
Donate
My Amazon Associates Store

Translate This Page
Select Language
Powered by Google Translate
Share This Page
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter
Share on Pinterest
Share on Reddit
Share on Tumblr
Share on Linkedin
Share on Email
Share on Print
Share on Whatsapp
Share on Telegram
Share on Mix
Share on Pocket
Share on Flipboard
Share on Vk
Share on Ok.ru
Share on Weibo
Share on Line
Share on Viber
Share on Skype
Share on Gmail
Share on Yahoo Mail
Share on Aol Mail
Share on Outlook.com
Share on Hotmail
Share on Wordpress
Share on Blogger
Share on Livejournal
Share on Delicious
Share on Digg
Share on Stumbleupon
Share on Mewe
Share on Diaspora
Share on Myspace
Share on Renren
Share on Qzone
Share on Douban
Share on Meneame
Share on Hacker News
Share on Evernote
Share on Mendeley
Share on Folkd
Share on Netvouz
Share on Instapaper
Share on Pinboard
Share on Trello
Share on Buffer
Share on Amazon Wish List
Share on Copy Link
Share on Print Friendly
Share on Mail.ru
Share on Sina Weibo
Share on Yummly
Share on Surfingbird.ru
Share on Baidu
Share on Renren
Share on Kakao
Share on Pocket
Share on Reader
Share on Pinterest
Share on Facebook Messenger
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter
Share on Linkedin
Share on Email
Share on Print
Share on Whatsapp
Share on Telegram
Share on Mix
Share on Pocket
Share on Flipboard
Share on Vk
Share on Ok.ru
Share on Weibo
Share on Line
Share on Viber
Share on Skype
Share on Gmail
Share on Yahoo Mail
Share on Aol Mail
Share on Outlook.com
Share on Hotmail
Share on Wordpress
Share on Blogger
Share on Livejournal
Share on Delicious
Share on Digg
Share on Stumbleupon
Share on Mewe
Share on Diaspora
Share on Myspace
Share on Renren
Share on Qzone
Share on Douban
Share on Meneame
Share on Hacker News
Share on Evernote
Share on Mendeley
Share on Folkd
Share on Netvouz
Share on Instapaper
Share on Pinboard
Share on Trello
Share on Buffer
Share on Amazon Wish List
Share on Copy Link
Share on Print Friendly
Share on Mail.ru
Share on Sina Weibo
Share on Yummly
Share on Surfingbird.ru
Share on Baidu
Share on Renren
Share on Kakao
Share on Pocket
Share on Reader

Get the Latest Articles
Subscribe
Recent Articles
Recent Comments

Support Our Work
Buy Me a Coffee
Donate
My Amazon Associates Store

Translate This Page
Select Language
Powered by Google Translate
Share This Page
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter
Share on Pinterest
Share on Reddit
Share on Tumblr
Share on Linkedin
Share on Email
Share on Print
Share on Whatsapp
Share on Telegram
Share on Mix
Share on Pocket
Share on Flipboard
Share on Vk
Share on Ok.ru
Share on Weibo
Share on Line
Share on Viber
Share on Skype
Share on Gmail
Share on Yahoo Mail
Share on Aol Mail
Share on Outlook.com
Share on Hotmail
Share on Wordpress
Share on Blogger
Share on Livejournal
Share on Delicious
Share on Digg
Share on Stumbleupon
Share on Mewe
Share on Diaspora
Share on Myspace
Share on Renren
Share on Qzone
Share on Douban
Share on Meneame
Share on Hacker News
Share on Evernote
Share on Mendeley
Share on Folkd
Share on Netvouz
Share on Instapaper
Share on Pinboard
Share on Trello
Share on Buffer
Share on Amazon Wish List
Share on Copy Link
Share on Print Friendly
Share on Mail.ru
Share on Sina Weibo
Share on Yummly
Share on Surfingbird.ru
Share on Baidu
Share on Renren
Share on Kakao
Share on Pocket
Share on Reader

Get the Latest Articles
Subscribe
Recent Articles
Recent Comments

Support Our Work
Buy Me a Coffee
Donate
My Amazon Associates Store

Translate This Page
Select Language
Powered by Google Translate
Share This Page
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter
Share on Pinterest
Share on Reddit
Share on Tumblr
Share on Linkedin
Share on Email
Share on Print
Share on Whatsapp
Share on Telegram
Share on Mix
Share on Pocket
Share on Flipboard
Share on Vk
Share on Ok.ru
Share on Weibo
Share on Line
Share on Viber
Share on Skype
Share on Gmail
Share on Yahoo Mail
Share on Aol Mail
Share on Outlook.com
Share on Hotmail
Share on Wordpress
Share on Blogger
Share on Livejournal
Share on Delicious
Share on Digg
Share on Stumbleupon
Share on Mewe
Share on Diaspora
Share on Myspace
Share on Renren
Share on Qzone
Share on Douban
Share on Meneame
Share on Hacker News
Share on Evernote
Share on Mendeley
Share on Folkd
Share on Netvouz
Share on Instapaper
Share on Pinboard
Share on Trello
Share on Buffer
Share on Amazon Wish List
Share on Copy Link
Share on Print Friendly
Share on Mail.ru
Share on Sina Weibo
Share on Yummly
Share on Surfingbird.ru
Share on Baidu
Share on Renren
Share on Kakao
Share on Pocket
Share on Reader
Share on Pinterest
Share on Facebook Messenger
Share on Facebook
Share on Twitter

Меню
Лента
Сообщества
Авторы
Подписки
Клубы
Ещё
Войти
Регистрация
Правила сообщества
Правила сообщества
Правила сообщества

Ancient Origins
Articles Videos Podcasts Books Events Forum Contact Advertise
Ancient Origins Premium
Ad-free experience, plus quizzes and puzzles
Start your free trial

НАСЛЕДИЕ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ 05.01.2021 в 12:28

Волшебная чаша Джамшида: символ вечной мудрости и душевной чистоты в мусульманской литературе

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

Лента новостей

Виртуальный Рамадан помогает британским мусульманам бороться с ограничениями, вызванными пандемией

03.05.2021

Инновационные ковры покрывают пол Покоев Пророка (мир ему) в Медине

01.05.2021

В Саудовской Аравии впервые стали выпускать философский журнал

30.04.2021

Первая мусуль астронавт буде изучать русский язык

Privacy - Terms

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Одним из распространенных образов мусульманской литературы и поэзии является «чаша Джамшида» – джам-э джам. В истоках этого символа разбираются авторы турецкого издания İslam Ansiklopedisi.

28.04.2021

Город роз в Саудовской Аравии расцвел в Рамадан

20.04.2021

Пирата, убившего возвращающихся из хаджа мусульман, отследили спустя 300 лет

10.04.2021

Палестинская писательница Адания Шибли вошла в лонг-лист Международной Букеровской премии 2021 года

07.04.2021

Мавританец: фильм о выживших в Гуантанамо

05.04.2021

Туркестан объявлен духовной столицей тюркского мира

03.04.2021

В Индонезии началось возведение копии мечети шейха Зайда

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Чаша Джамшида – это волшебная чаша, в которой можно увидеть все происходящее в мире. В персидской и тюркской литературе она упоминается под названиями джам-э джам, джам-и джихан-ара (чаша, украшающая мир), джам-и джихан-нума (чаша, показывающая мир), джам-и джихан-бин (чаша, видящая мир), джам-и гити-нума (чаша, показывающая весь свет).

Согласно легендам, джам-э джам наполнена эликсиром бессмертия, а предсказания внутри нее открывают глубокие истины.

Аб-и хаят – источник вечной жизни мусульманских легенд.

Истоки этого образа неясны, хотя чаще всего создание чаши приписывается мифологическому персидскому царю Джамшиду. Об этом царе достаточно подробно говорится в «Шахнаме», но упоминаний о владении им подобной чашей в этом эпосе нет. С другой стороны, согласно «Шахнаме», кубком, в котором можно было увидеть весь мир, владел Кей-Хосров. Бижан, сын богатыря Гива, был схвачен Афрасиабом и брошен в колодец. Его отец сильно горевал по нему и уже потерял надежду найти его, но Кей-Хосров, посмотрев в свой волшебный кубок, узнал, где находится Бижан. После этого Рустам спас его.

02.04.2021

Саудовская Аравия посадит 50 миллиардов деревьев

01.04.2021

Оскар 2021: два арабских фильма номинированы на «Оскар» в этом году

26.03.2021

Единственный в мире деревянный Коран из российских берез для президента

25.03.2021

В шорт-листе Книжной премии шейха Зайда преобладают женщины

24.03.2021

Французский бренд включил «бабушкины» платки в современный мусульманский образ

23.03.2021

Молитвенный коврик от муфтия самому высокому человеку в мире

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Источник: in.pinterest.com

Вероятно, Джамшиду эта чаша стала приписываться после того, как в X веке его образ стал сливаться с образом пророка Сулеймана. Им обоим стали приписываться сходные сверхъестественные способности. О них рассказывали, будто они повелевали дэвами и джиннами, путешествовали по воздуху. Тахт-э Джамшид (Персополь), в иранской мифологии считавшийся столицей персидских царей, одновременно воспринимался как столица Сулеймана. Возникла версия сказания о чаше, примиряющая участие Кей-Хосрова и Джамшида в ее создании. Якобы Джамшид нашел ее, а Кей-Хосров превратил в волшебную.

"Калила ва Димна" – мусульманский бестселлер с полуторатысячелетней историей.

В некоторых источниках джам-э джам отождествляется с зеркалом Искандера. Вероятно, это связано с тем, что обоим этим артефактам приписываются сходные качества – способность показывать находящееся далеко. В целом, в литературе каждому из упоминаемых персонажей приписывается свой набор образов волшебных предметов и явлений. У Сулеймана это кольцо, ветер и чаша, отражающая мир, у Искандера – стена, источник живой воды и та же чаша.

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Источник: jaddeyekabir.com

В суфийской литературе джам-э джам означает «душу, очистившуюся от всякого зла», а также является символом мудрости. Омар Хайям писал:

Джамшида чашу я искал, не зная сна,

Когда же мной земля была обойдена,

От мужа мудрого узнал я, что напрасно

Так далеко ходил – в моей душе она.

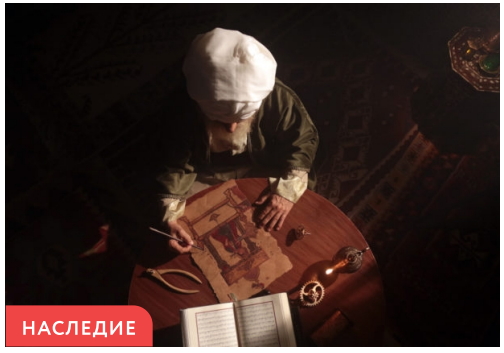
Вода в мусульманской культуре: источник жизни и символ тайного знания.

Также суфии связывают эту чашу с пророком Сулейманом, а иногда, как у Аттара, с Хизром и источником вечной жизни.

По одной версии, чаша Джамшида является прообразом Грааля – чаши, из которой, как верят христиане, Иисус Христос пил на Тайной вечере. Испивший из

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Грааля получает прощение грехов, вечную жизнь и т.п.



Исламосфера

НАСЛЕДИЕ ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ ПОДЕЛИТЬСЯ

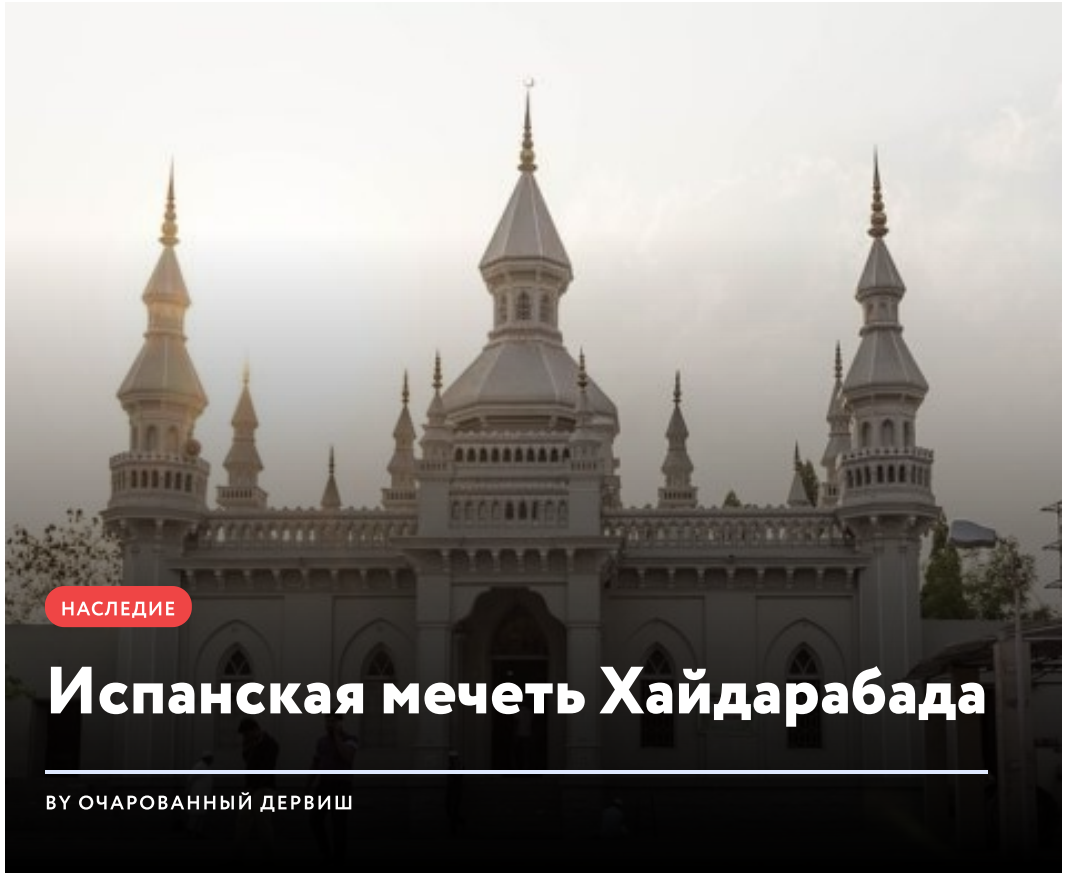
комментарии 0

ДРУГИЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ТЕМЕ

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

Необычные смерти ученых исламского мира

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



На могиле Авраама в Хевроне больше 700 лет кормят нуждающихся в Рамадан

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

Музеи, мавзолеи, медресе: лучшие образцы исламской архитектуры Марокко

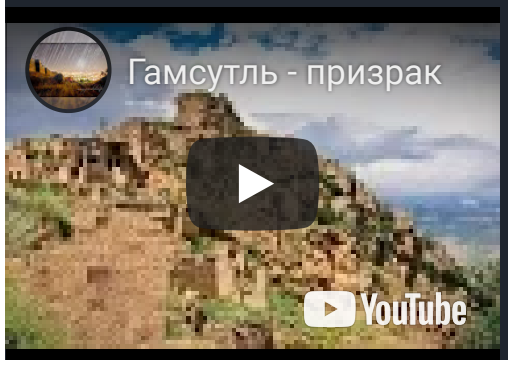
BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

ВСЕ СТАТЬИ ПО ЭТОЙ ТЕМЕ

НАСЛЕДИЕ

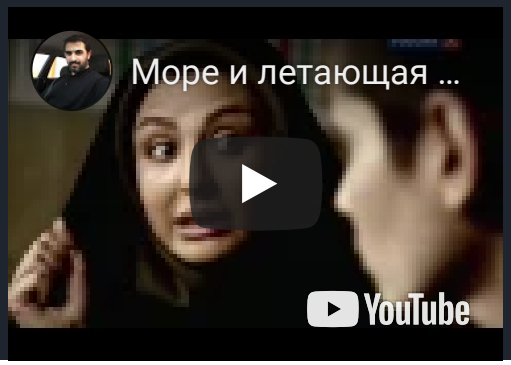
Испанская мечеть Хайдарабада

BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ



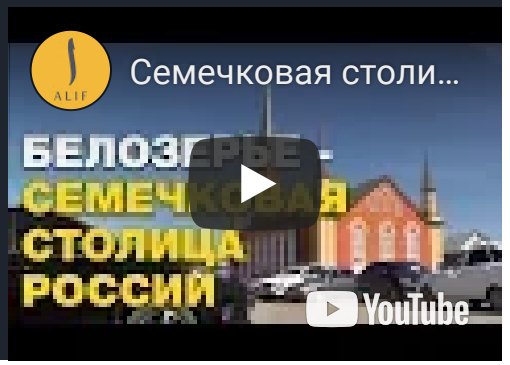
ОБРАЗ ЖИЗНИ

Флия – легендарное блюдо албанской кухни



BY ОЧАРОВАННЫЙ ДЕРВИШ

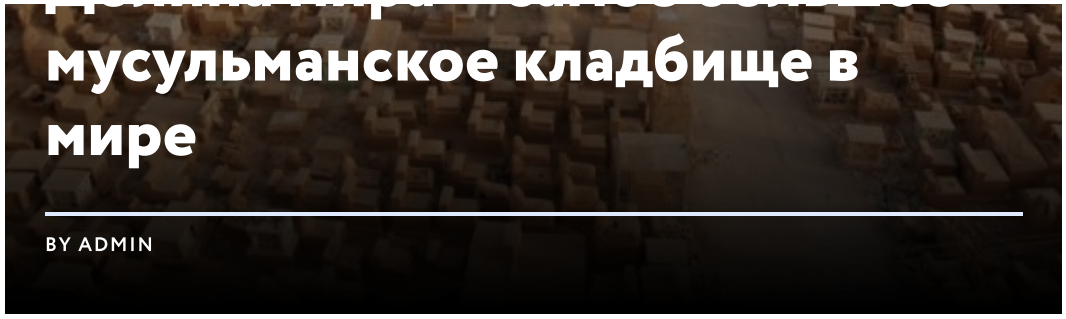
Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

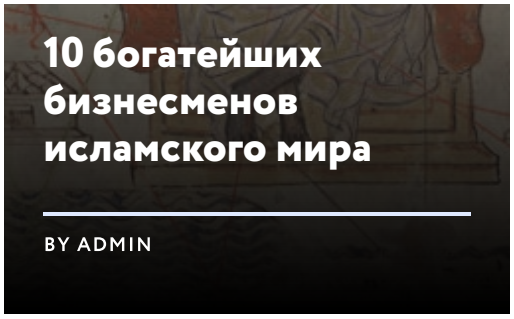


ПОПУЛЯРНЫЕ ВИДЕО

Село-призрак Гамсутль (видео)

Море и летающая рыба (видео)





Семечковая столица России (видео)

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API
PDFCROWD

Create PDF in your applications with the Pdfcrowd HTML to PDF API PDFCROWD

LIBAYO YA KUSINI
Actualités, Histoire, Culture, Société, Economie, Politique, Sport, Tourisme, Environnement, Science, Technologie, Santé, Education, Religion, Arts, Littérature, Médias, Opinions, Analyses, Interviews, Reportages, Enquêtes, Dossiers, Photos, Vidéos, Podcasts, Blogs, Forums, Communautés, Partenariats, Publicité, Abonnements, Newsletters, Applications mobiles, Services en ligne, Ressources éducatives, Formations, Emplois, Stages, Bourses, Concours, Événements, Conférences, Expositions, Festivals, Spectacles, Cinéma, Musique, Théâtre, Danse, Littérature, Livres, Auteurs, Maisons d'édition, Librairies, Bibliothèques, Archives, Musées, Galeries d'art, Artistes, Artisanat, Mode, Design, Architecture, Urbanisme, Environnement, Développement durable, Énergies renouvelables, Biodiversité, Climat, Agriculture, Élevage, Pêche, Forêts, Eaux, Mines, Industrie, Commerce, Économie, Finance, Banques, Assurances, Investissements, Entrepreneuriat, Start-ups, Innovation, Recherche, Développement, Technologies de l'information, Internet, Réseaux sociaux, Cybersécurité, Intelligence artificielle, Robotique, Transports, Logistique, Tourisme, Hôtellerie, Restauration, Gastronomie, Vins, Spiritueux, Sports, Jeux olympiques, Football, Basketball, Athlétisme, Natation, Cyclisme, Rugby, Tennis, Golf, Sports d'hiver, Sports nautiques, Sports extrêmes, Loisirs, Jeux vidéo, Bandes dessinées, Mangas, Séries télévisées, Films, Documentaires, Animation, Théâtre, Danse, Opéra, Concerts, Festivals, Musique classique, Jazz, Blues, Rock, Pop, Hip-hop, Reggae, Électro, Musique du monde, Chanson française, Variété internationale, Musique de film, Bande originale, Compositeurs, Interprètes, Groupes, Albums, Singles, Clips, Radios, Télévisions, Presse écrite, Magazines, Journaux, Éditeurs, Rédacteurs en chef, Journalistes, Correspondants, Photographes, Reporters, Éditorialistes, Chroniqueurs, Critiques, Médiateurs, Ombudsmans, Déontologie, Éthique, Liberté de la presse, Censure, Autocensure, Propagande, Désinformation, Fake news, Vérification des faits, Fact-checking, Journalisme d'investigation, Journalisme de données, Journalisme citoyen, Blogueurs, Influenceurs, Réseaux sociaux, Communautés en ligne, Modération, Commentaires, Forums de discussion, Chats, Messageries instantanées, Applications de rencontre, Réseaux professionnels, Plateformes de partage de vidéos, Plateformes de partage de photos, Plateformes de partage de musique, Plateformes de partage de documents, Plateformes de partage de connaissances, Plateformes de crowdfunding, Plateformes de financement participatif, Plateformes de vente en ligne, Plateformes de location, Plateformes de réservation, Plateformes de comparaison de prix, Plateformes d'avis, Plateformes de recommandation, Plateformes de personnalisation, Plateformes de gestion de contenu, Plateformes de gestion de la relation client, Plateformes de gestion des ressources humaines, Plateformes de gestion de projet, Plateformes de collaboration, Plateformes de communication, Plateformes de visioconférence, Plateformes de webinaires, Plateformes de formation en ligne, Plateformes de certification, Plateformes de mentorat, Plateformes de coaching, Plateformes de développement personnel, Plateformes de bien-être, Plateformes de santé, Plateformes de fitness, Plateformes de méditation, Plateformes de yoga, Plateformes de nutrition, Plateformes de régime, Plateformes de cuisine, Plateformes de recettes, Plateformes de livraison de repas, Plateformes de livraison de courses, Plateformes de livraison de médicaments, Plateformes de téléconsultation, Plateformes de télémédecine, Plateformes de gestion de la santé, Plateformes de gestion des données de santé, Plateformes de recherche médicale, Plateformes de gestion des essais cliniques, Plateformes de gestion des publications scientifiques, Plateformes de gestion des brevets, Plateformes de gestion des licences, Plateformes de gestion des droits d'auteur, Plateformes de gestion des droits voisins, Plateformes de gestion des droits d'image, Plateformes de gestion des droits de reproduction, Plateformes de gestion des droits de diffusion, Plateformes de gestion des droits de traduction, Plateformes de gestion des droits d'adaptation, Plateformes de gestion des droits dérivés, Plateformes de gestion des droits de suite, Plateformes de gestion des droits moraux, Plateformes de gestion des droits patrimoniaux, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété intellectuelle, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété industrielle, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété littéraire et artistique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété scientifique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété technique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété commerciale, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété numérique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété électronique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété informatique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété logicielle, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété multimédia, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété audiovisuelle, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété cinématographique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété musicale, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété théâtrale, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété chorégraphique, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété littéraire, Plateformes de gestion des droits de propriété

LES AVENTURES
VERTES
DE SOPHIE

Le sel : Un petit grain empoisonné ?

connaissance avec le fameux E535 aussi appelé E536... un code barbare digne de Stargate SG1...

Ce petit E535 se glisse subrepticement dans tous nos plats et cela n'est pas une très bonne nouvelle pour nous...

J'ai donc voulu mener mon enquête d'aventurière et c'est pourquoi aujourd'hui je vous parle de ce petit aliment qui n'a de blanc que l'aspect et qui va vous révéler un patchwork de vérités déplaisantes.

Du sel et des hommes

Le sel a toujours aidé à conserver les aliments, à conserver les peaux et même à acquérir de la richesse puisqu'il était jadis monnaie d'échange. Il devient vite gratuitement ton ebook pour connaître les associations incompatibles en ayurvéda et prendre soin de ta santé 🙂

Ton adresse email

S'inscrire

• Je n'envoie jamais de spam et ton email restera confidentiel.
• Je t'enverrais une newsletter une fois toutes les deux semaines.
• Tu es libre de te désinscrire quand tu le souhaites.

indispensable pour l'homme en participant à son organisation et à son développement.

Comme toujours l'homme qui tend souvent à aller dans les extrêmes, en use et abuse afin de répondre à ses besoins croissants. Il se met alors à l'exploiter à grande magnifique... tel un diamant brut... or le sel que nous trouvons sur nos tables comme La baleine ou encore Cerebos (ah les sels de mon enfance) n'est pas de cette forme puisqu'il est raffiné.

Et lorsque le sel se fait raffiner, il est destitué de son essence marine, lacunaire et fade, il devient poison...

En effet un sel pur n'a pas du tout la forme que l'on connaît. Lorsque le sel sort de la mer, celui-ci est de couleur grise, les grains sont plutôt grossiers. Avec le temps les cristaux de sel s'agglomèrent entre eux pour se recristalliser un peu comme le sucre de canne ou de coco non raffiné, et ça, les industriels le déteste !

Découvrir
l'Ebook

sel non raffiné

Nos magiciens industriels ont donc trouvé la technique du raffinage et de l'ajout d'anti-agglomérant permettant d'obtenir un sel d'un blanc limpide, aux grains très fins et qui ne s'agglomèrent pas avec le temps.

Le E536 nouveau joujou des industriels ?

Cette molécule sert à raffiner le sel pour mieux le conserver et va permettre de ne pas boucher la salière en aidant les grains de sel à ne pas s'agglutiner lorsqu'ils en sortent ... ba oui le consommateur aime quand son sel est joli, bien blanc et que les grains sont bien ordonnés un a un dans l'assiette FICHTRE !

mais ça je vous en parle un peu plus bas.

Toute cette joyeuse famille vient gentiment saupoudrer nos plats de toxicité ... par exemple quand on ajoute du sel industriel dans notre eau pour bouillir les pâtes et bien le sel se transforme en poison. La molécule E536 ne supportant pas la chaleur va alors libérer toute son essence de toxicité.

Oui car ce mélange très ragoutant d'apprenti sorcier au ferrocyanure de potassium est relativement stable à température ambiante, mais s'il est chauffé ou mis en milieu acide, il se décompose, notamment en Cyanure d'hydrogène, très toxique. Oui vous avez bien lu de la CYANURE !!!

Dans sa composition on retrouve aussi du chlorure de fer et de l'hydroxyde de calcium. D'ailleurs le ferrocyanure de potassium est aussi utilisé en œnologie et dans la bière (et les industriels se gardent bien de le préciser puisque non soumis à la bière (et les industriels se gardent bien de le préciser puisque non soumis à l'obligation d'étiquetage à ce sujet) mais bon heureusement le vin et la bière ne sont pas consommés souvent chauds.

Voilà pourquoi j'ai été déboussolée par cette découverte car le sel généralement on l'ajoute dans des plats chauds ou pour cuir des aliments … mais aucun média n'a sur ce que ce tout petit grain peut provoquer sur notre santé !

LES AVENTURES VERTES DE SOPHIE

- Réduction du transport d'oxygène dans le sang, engendrant alors des difficultés respiratoires, des étourdissements ou des maux de tête.
- Augmentation des migraines
- Provocation de sensation de fatigue et autres troubles physiologiques !
- Augmentation de la sensibilité digestive
- Dérèglement de la flore intestinale
- Augmentation des démangeaisons et des allergies cutanées

Passez-moi du sel sans poison !

Acheter du sel bio

Le E535 et E536 est interdit dans tous les produits biologiques. Il faut donc utiliser un sel pur qui se vend dans les magasins bios comme le sel de Guérande par exemple.

Le sel bio après récolte n'est ni lavé, ni traité chimiquement et ne fait l'objet d'aucune adjonction.

Mais si vous n'avez pas envie de dépenser trop d'argent pour votre sel (chose que je peux comprendre) et bien il existe aussi des solutions.

Je suis allé flâner dans un supermarché très connu commençant par L et finissant par C et j'ai pu trouver du sel non raffiné de l'ile de Noirmoutier, ce sel est gris qui coûte peanuts je vous en parle juste en dessous.

Dans tous les cas, il suffit simplement de lire la liste des ingrédients au dos pour voir s'il y a ou non des rajouts chimiques...

Je vous ai dressé une petite liste des sels à ne pas consommer en grande surface vs ceux qui ne contiennent pas les molécules toxiques dont je parle dans cet article

Cliquez sur l'image pour l'agrandir

Des idées pour rendre le sel plus sain

La nature regorge de trésors de cristaux de sel... Une jolie valse de choix et de couleur nous est offerte entre les sels colorés, les sels épicés, les sels provenant d'ailleurs, il peut être compliqué de faire son choix. Tout est affaire de goût et de besoin aussi...

Pour ma part j'utilise deux gammes de sel :

Le Sel de mer gris non raffiné

Il contient du fait de son non raffinage, tous ses oligo-éléments & minéraux. Il est donc très intéressant pour notre organisme qui va avoir plus de facilité à l'assimiler.

Le sel gris étant plus fort en bouche, on aura tendance à en mettre moins dans les plats, j'y vois là un autre avantage quand on sait que la consommation de sel est néfaste pour notre santé et que notre nourriture industrielle en est gorgée !

néfaste pour notre santé et que notre nourriture industrielle en est gorgée !

Avec ce sel il est possible de réaliser des déclinaisons intéressantes :

- Le gomasio
- Le sel aromatique

Il est composé de 90% de graines de sésame, de 5% de sel marin gris ou rose par exemple.

Ce sel se rajoute en dernier lieu, avant de déguster son plat pour donner de la saveur mais jamais en cuisson.

Il apporte phosphore & calcium à l'organisme grâce au sésame qui va fortifier le système nerveux et neutraliser l'acidité. Formidable synergie et complémentarité avec le sel marin qui lui va favoriser la sécrétion des sucs digestifs et stimuler le métabolisme. Le sésame permettant aux oligo-éléments du sel de mieux être

Ingrédients :

- 180 g. de sésame complet bio ou du sésame noir (ma préférence va pour le premier),
- 20 g. de sel de qualité (par ex. le gros sel rose de l'Himalaya ou gros sel de mer gris)

Comment procéder ?

- Grillez à sec les graines de sésame dans une poêle avec le sel, faire attention à ne pas laisser trop longtemps les graines de sésames au risque de perdre les nutriments les plus nutritifs tels que les oméga 3 (les graines brûlent très rapidement, il faut donc secouer la poêle régulièrement dès qu'elles blondissent et rester vigilant) et rester vigilant).

- Une fois blondis, éteignez le feu et laissez les refroidir
- Mettre le mélange dans un mortier et broyez les graines en veillant à ne pas en faire une pâte …
- Mettre le mélange dans un pot en verre (meilleur pour la conservation)

En ayurveda ces mélanges sont fortement recommandés mais en utilisant du sel rose d'Himalaya, qui est très concentré en fer et contient énormément de nutriment et d'oligoélément et qui à l'inverse du sel de mer gris, ne contient pas d'iode.

Deux recettes que je vous glisse à tester 🙂

Recette 1 – Sel aux aromates

Ingrédients :

- 8 c à soupe de sel marin
- 2 feuilles de laurier
- 1 c à soupe de thym
- 1 c à soupe de romarin séché
- ½ c à café d'origan séché

½ c à café d'origan séché

Comment procéder ?

- Mettre tous les ingrédients dans un mortier et pilez-les jusqu'à ce que le mélange soit homogène.

- 1 c à café de graines de coriandre

Comment procéder ?

- Mettre tous les ingrédients dans un mortier et pilez-les jusqu'à ce que le mélange soit homogène.
- Faites griller à sec dans une poêle les graines de cumin, de coriandre, le mélange n'en sera que plus parfumé.

A vous de mettre votre grain de sel pour ne pas vous laissez avoir par les industriels 🙂

Previous Post
Astuces beauté pour ne pas avoir l'air d'une vieille peau !

Next Post
Protections féminines : Allié ou ennemi pour la santé et la planète?

11 Comments

↳ Répondre

sophiebenabi
29 août 2016 à 9h07

Merci Aurore 🙂

Oui tu as bien raison de changer ces petites habitudes “salées”

je te souhaite une pleine santé 🙂

A bientôt

↳ Répondre

Julien
26 septembre 2016 à 10h06

Merci Julien pour ton retour 🙂
Oui les industriels sont loin d'être nos amis, en être conscient permet d'avancer dans la voie de la santé en étant au clair avec soi-même en ce qui concerne les choix que l'on fait.

↳ Répondre

Akhil
31 juillet 2018 à 10h08

Merci pour ton article très clair et très intéressant.

Nous avons une petite compagnie et nous confectionnons du gomasio de sésame noir biologique, avec du sel de Guérande. Lors des ventes sur les marchés ou les foires bio, beaucoup de gens nous disent du sel de Guérande. Lors des ventes sur les marchés ou les foires bio, beaucoup de gens nous disent qu'ils ne consomment pas de sel ou qu'ils font très attention à la quantité de sel qu'ils mangent. Communément, on croit que le sel est mauvais pour la santé.

En fait, c'est le sel raffiné et tous les produits chimiques qu'ils ajoutent qui sont mauvais. Le sel de mer naturel, lui, est très bon pour la santé.

merci pour ton commentaire désormais je ferais attention pour acheter mon sel car cela fait des années que j'empoisonne ma famille en achetant du sel à bas prix

Répondre

blanchet
5 août 2019 à 17h48

Merci a tous! Une prise de conscience general pourra PEUT ETRE actionner la machine arriere..

Répondre

Ophélie

.

27 octobre 2019 à 13h05

Les français consomme 5 kilos par an de cyanure d'hydrogène, chlorure de fer, hydroxyde de calcium, carbonate de, sodium et iode autrement appelé « sel » ! Le pire c'est qu'on en donne à nos enfants...

Répondre

via lorena

6 février 2021 à 13h34

merci de ce bon article bien documenté qui devrait aller plus loin dans sa diffusion.

Répondre

Ousmane

7 août 2021 à 14h32

Merci Sophie pour cet article bien instructif !!

Répondre

Leave a Reply

Name *

Email *

Website

Save my name, email, and website in this browser for the next time I comment.

Submit Comment

© Sophie Benabi - Les aventures vertes de Sophie

BnF Gallica

Le Petit journal. Supplément du dimanche

Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France

BnF Gallica

. Le Petit journal. Supplément du dimanche. 1906-11-18.

1/ Les contenus accessibles sur le site Gallica sont pour la plupart des reproductions numériques d'oeuvres tombées dans le domaine public provenant des collections de la BnF. Leur réutilisation s'inscrit dans le cadre de la loi n°78-753 du 17 juillet 1978 :
- La réutilisation non commerciale de ces contenus ou dans le cadre d'une publication académique ou scientifique est libre et gratuite dans le respect de la législation en vigueur et notamment du maintien de la mention de source des contenus telle que précisée ci-après : « Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France » ou « Source gallica.bnf.fr / BnF ».
- La réutilisation commerciale de ces contenus est payante et fait l'objet d'une licence. Est entendue par réutilisation commerciale la revente de contenus sous forme de produits élaborés ou de fourniture de service ou toute autre réutilisation des contenus générant directement des revenus : publication vendue (à l'exception des ouvrages académiques ou scientifiques), une exposition, une production audiovisuelle, un service ou un produit payant, un support à vocation promotionnelle etc.

CLIQUER ICI POUR ACCÉDER AUX TARIFS ET À LA LICENCE

2/ Les contenus de Gallica sont la propriété de la BnF au sens de l'article L.2112-1 du code général de la propriété des personnes publiques.

3/ Quelques contenus sont soumis à un régime de réutilisation particulier. Il s'agit :

- des reproductions de documents protégés par un droit d'auteur appartenant à un tiers. Ces documents ne peuvent être réutilisés, sauf dans le cadre de la copie privée, sans l'autorisation préalable du titulaire des droits.
- des reproductions de documents conservés dans les bibliothèques ou autres institutions partenaires. Ceux-ci sont signalés par la mention Source gallica.BnF.fr / Bibliothèque municipale de ... (ou autre partenaire). L'utilisateur est invité à s'informer auprès de ces bibliothèques de leurs conditions de réutilisation.

4/ Gallica constitue une base de données, dont la BnF est le producteur, protégée au sens des articles L341-1 et suivants du code de la propriété intellectuelle.

5/ Les présentes conditions d'utilisation des contenus de Gallica sont régies par la loi française. En cas de réutilisation prévue dans un autre pays, il appartient à chaque utilisateur de vérifier la conformité de son projet avec le droit de ce pays.

6/ L'utilisateur s'engage à respecter les présentes conditions d'utilisation ainsi que la législation en vigueur, notamment en matière de propriété intellectuelle. En cas de non respect de ces dispositions, il est notamment passible d'une amende prévue par la loi du 17 juillet 1978.

7/ Pour obtenir un document de Gallica en haute définition, contacter utilisation.commerciale@bnf.fr.

Le Petit Journal

Le Petit Journal
CHAQUE JOUR — 6 PAGES — 5 CENTIMES
Administration : 61, rue Lafayette

Le Supplément illustré
CHAQUE SEMAINE 5 CENTIMES

5 Centimes — SUPPLÉMENT ILLUSTRÉ — 5 Centimes

Le Petit Journal Militaire, Maritime, Colonial..... 10 cent.
Le Petit Journal agricole, 5 cent. — La Mode du Petit Journal, 10 cent.
Le Petit Journal illustré de La Jeunesse..... 10 cent.
On s'abonne sans frais dans tous les bureaux de poste

ABONNEMENTS

	SIX MOIS	UN AN
SEINE ET SEINE-ET-OISE	2 fr.	3 fr. 50
DÉPARTEMENTS.....	2 fr.	4 fr. »
ÉTRANGER.....	2 50	5 fr. »

Les manuscrits ne sont pas rendus

Dix-septième année — DIMANCHE 18 NOVEMBRE 1906 — Numéro 835

LE GUET-APENS DE L'ADRAR

Un détachement français assailli par les Maures, à Tidj-Kadja. — Deux officiers et deux sous - officiers tués.

Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France

EXPLICATION DE NOS GRAVURES

LE GUET-APENS DE L'ADRAR

Un détachement français assailli par les Maures, à Tidj-Kadja. — Deux officiers et deux sous-officiers tués.

C'est dans cette mystérieuse Mauritanie, où, l'an dernier, fut assassiné M. Coppolani, commissaire du gouvernement français, que s'est produite l'agression représentée dans notre gravure.

Cette agression doit être considérée comme une manifestation de la propagande anti-française qui s'étend, en ce moment, par tout le Maroc et jusqu'aux territoires de l'extrême Sud.

L'affaire s'est passée devant notre poste de Tidj-Kadja, ancienne capitale du Tagaut, qui est le plus extrême de nos établissements de la Mauritanie, confinant presque au Sud marocain.

Fait notable, c'est au même point que, le 12 Mai 1905, M. Coppolani fut assassiné par un groupe de Maures dissidents.

On a tout lieu de croire que ce sont les mêmes individus qui se sont rendus coupables de ces deux guet-apens.

Les Maures étaient plus de cinq cents, armés de fusils, lorsqu'ils assaillirent une reconnaissance, composée de tirailleurs sénégalais, commandée par des officiers et des sous-officiers français.

Le combat fut acharné de part et d'autre. Finalement, les assaillants furent mis en déroute et s'enfuirent, laissant sur le terrain cent cinquante morts, parmi lesquels trois chefs et cinq fils d'un autre chef.

Malheureusement, nos pertes furent graves : deux officiers, les lieutenants Andrieux et Deauville de Frayssus, deux sous-officiers et seize miliciens tombèrent sous les balles ennemies.

A la nouvelle de ces déplorables événements, le ministre des Colonies a chargé M. Roume, gouverneur général de l'Afrique occidentale, de prendre de sérieuses mesures pour enlever aux indigènes soulevés toute idée de recommencer leurs attaques ; les postes de Mauritanie seront renforcés et les Arabes fanatisés refoulés loin de nos possessions.

Il est bon de dire que le poste de Tidj-Kadja, si éprouvé qu'il ait été, n'a pas été enlevé, que nos troupes n'y sont point cernées par un ennemi menaçant, puisqu'elles peuvent expédier des dépêches et donner des renseignements sur leur situation ; elles ont ainsi pu faire savoir au gouverneur par intérim qu'elles ne manquent ni de vivres ni de munitions.

Le capitaine Tissot, qui commande le poste, a, du reste, fait connaître qu'il était en état de résister à une attaque éventuelle.

×

SUR LA FRONTIÈRE ALGÉRO-MAROCAINE

Un détachement français châtie une troupe de pillards marocains

Tandis que, sur les territoires qui confinent au Sud du Maroc, nos troupes ont à craindre sans cesse des guet-apens semblables à celui dont nous venons de rendre compte, les indigènes du Tafilalet, soutenus par les autorités marocaines, continuent, sur notre frontière algérienne, leur campagne de vols et de brigandages.

Récemment, nous montrions, ici même, les agitateurs musulmans prêchant contre nous la guerre sainte à ces populations fanatiques.

En attendant que la révolte prenne une tournure plus grave, les Marocains pillards y préludent par des vols continuels. C'est ainsi que, récemment, aux environs de Colomb-Béchar, un « djich » composé d'indigènes du Tafilalet s'est emparé d'un troupeau de vingt chameaux et s'est enfui, après ce vol commis, pour repasser au plus tôt la frontière.

Heureusement, une reconnaissance, partie de Béchar, sous les ordres du capitaine Descoins, parvint, après une poursuite de 200 kilomètres, à rejoindre les agresseurs, les surprit dans leur douar, leur infligea une rude leçon et ramena toutes leurs prises.

Ainsi, de toutes parts, au cœur du Maroc comme sur les frontières, l'existence et les propriétés de nos nationaux sont menacées sans cesse par les sujets du Maghzen ; et, malgré les efforts de notre diplomatie, malgré les mesures prises par le général Lyautey, la situation s'aggrave chaque jour et semble devoir nécessiter finalement une intervention énergique.

VARIÉTÉ

La fin de la Guillotine

L'abolition de la peine de mort. — Guillotin et la guillotine. — L'échafaud supprimé en 1848 et brûlé en 1871. — L'évolution de nos mœurs vers l'humanitarisme. — La publicité des exécutions. — Par quoi remplace-t-on la peine capitale ?

Cette fois, c'en est fait de la peine de mort. Depuis longtemps déjà elle n'existait plus que dans les départements. A Paris, faute d'emplacement où dresser la guillotine, elle était supprimée en fait.

Dernièrement, la commission du budget lui avait porté un premier coup en supprimant les appointements du bourreau. Enfin, dès la rentrée des Chambres, le gouvernement en a proposé l'abolition définitive.

C'est là le résultat fatal des idées humanitaires qui dominent nos mœurs d'à présent.

La guillotine aura donc fonctionné en France durant cent quatorze ans, de 1792 à 1906.

Contrairement à ce qu'on croit généralement, le docteur Guillotin n'en fut pas l'inventeur. On a retrouvé des gravures du seizième siècle représentant des supplices à l'aide d'une « machine à décapiter » qui n'était autre chose que la guillotine. Le Père Labat, religieux dominicain, rapporte qu'en Italie, de 1706 à 1716, il vit fonctionner une machine de ce genre qui s'appelait la Mannaya et qui ne servait qu'aux gentilshommes.

Avant celà, le 30 Octobre 1632, le maréchal de France Henri de Montmorency avait été décapité à l'aide d'une machine que l'on décrivait ainsi : « Doloire entre deux montants de bois, maintenue par une corde ; on lâche la corde, et cela descend et sépare la tête du corps. »

Guillotin avait fait, dans la séance du 1er Décembre 1789 de l'Assemblée nationale, la description du « simple mécanisme » qu'il proposait pour les exécutions capitales.

« La mécanique tombe comme la foudre, disait-il dans le style grandiloquent de l'époque ; la tête vole ; le sang jaillit ; l'homme n'est plus... »

Le projet de Guillotin eut tout de suite un succès populaire. La chanson s'en empara. Bientôt tout Paris chanta celle qui suit, sur un air de menuet :

Guillotin,
Médecin,
Politique,
Imagine, un beau matin,
Que pendre est inhumain
Et peu patriotique.
Aussitôt,
Il lui faut
Un supplice
Qui, sans corde ni poteau,
Supprime le bourreau
D'office.

C'est en vain que l'on publie
Que c'est pure jalousie
D'un suppôt
Du tripot
D'Hippocrate.
Qui d'occire impunément,
Même exclusivement,
Se flatte.

Le Romain
Guillotin,
Qui s'apprête,
Consulte gens de métier :
Barnave et Chapelier,
Même le coupe-tête ;
Et sa main
Fait soudain
La machine
Qui, simplement, nous tuera
Et que l'on nommera
Guillotine.

Ce fut un fabricant de pianos, nommé Tobias Schmidt, qui construisit la première guillotine.

Des essais eurent lieu tout d'abord à Bicêtre, sur des cadavres. Puis la première exécution se fit en place de Grève, le 25 Avril 1792. Le patient était un assassin nommé Nicolas-Jacques Pelletier.

Une foule immense couvrait la place. Un journaliste du temps assure qu'elle marqua quelque répugnance pour ce supplice, et qu'en s'en allant, elle chantait une chanson dont le refrain s'adressait au bourreau :

Rends-moi ma potence de bois,
Rends-moi ma potence.

Néanmoins, la guillotine poursuivit sa carrière. Dès l'année suivante, elle était en permanence sur la place de la Révolution, et l'on sait quelle besogne elle fit.

***

Mais ce n'est pas la première fois que la guillotine est supprimée en France. La révolution de 1848 prononça l'abolition de la peine de mort dans les termes que voici:

« Le gouvernement provisoire, convaincu que la grandeur d'âme est la suprême politique, et que chaque révolution opérée par le peuple français doit au monde la connaissance d'une vérité philosophique de plus ;

» Considérant qu'il n'y a pas de plus sublime principe que l'inviolabilité de la vie humaine ;

» Considérant que dans les mémorables journées que nous sommes, le gouvernement provisoire a constaté avec orgueil que pas un cri de mort n'est sorti de la bouche du peuple ;

» Déclare :

» Que dans sa pensée la peine de mort est abolie en matière politique et qu'il présentera ce vœu à la ratification définitive de l'Assemblée nationale. »

Cependant, la peine capitale ne tarda pas à être rétablie par une loi.

La Commune fit mieux : elle ordonna la destruction de l'échafaud. Les bois de justice furent brûlés solennellement sur la place de la mairie du onzième arrondissement, ce qui, d'ailleurs, n'empêcha pas les exécutions. Mais la Commune trouvait la fusillade plus expéditive.

Qu'adviendra-t-il, cette fois, de la guillotine ? Sa mise au rancart est-elle définitive et ne la verrons-nous plus, dès à présent, qu'au musée des Supplices ?

C'est probable. Une évolution s'est produite, dans nos mœurs, vers un humanitarisme qui ne s'exerce pas toujours avec logique et bon sens.

Plus nous allons, plus la vie est rude pour les honnêtes gens, et plus nos lois s'adoucissent en faveur des gredins.

Le moment est peut-être mal choisi pour abolir la peine capitale.

Mais, me direz-vous, la guillotine n'a jamais été un moyen de moraliser les foules. Que de fois n'a-t-on pas protesté contre les scènes scandaleuses dont la place de la Roquette était le théâtre, les matins d'exécution ? Que n'a-t-on pas dit sur ces foules hurlantes, avinées, qui venaient là comme à une fête, et sur le macabre cabotinisme qui, jusqu'à la dernière minute, exaltait l'énergie des condamnés ?

C'est vrai. Mais, en ce cas, pourquoi n'a-t-on pas, depuis longtemps, décidé de supprimer la publicité des exécutions capitales ?

L'an dernier encore, un partisan, cependant convaincu, de l'abolition de la peine de mort, reconnaissait, dans un rapport soumis à la Chambre, que « la condamnation capitale est exemplaire en elle-même, que la crainte de l'échafaud retient jusqu'à la dernière minute les pires malfaiteurs et que le condamné le plus farouche espère jusqu'à la dernière seconde qu'il lui sera fait grâce de la vie ».

Il souhaitait seulement qu'on en supprimât la publicité.

« S'il faut, disait-il, selon l'opinion la plus généralement répandue, conserver dans nos codes cette peine terrible, qu'elle soit terrible, en effet, et que rien n'en vienne diminuer ni déshonorer la solennité, ni l'ombre où se cache aujourd'hui la guillotine, ni le scandale de l'horrible foule qui hurle et s'amuse autour, ni les bravades contagieuses du condamné devant le châtiment. Puisqu'il est enfin démontré, par une pratique séculaire, que la vue de l'instrument du supplice et celle du supplice lui-même, loin d'intimider le crime, excitent seulement la curiosité, le moment nous semble venu de suivre l'exemple de tant de pays où l'expérience a prouvé, au contraire, que la suppression de la publicité matérielle ne met pas seulement fin à des scènes odieuses, mais qu'en rendant à la peine de mort sa dignité, elle répand au dehors la terreur salutaire qui est la raison d'être principale du châtiment. En Angleterre, en Allemagne, en Russie, partout où la peine de mort est infligée dans l'intérieur de la prison, c'est un fait d'observation constante qu'au moment où s'élève sur la maison d'arrêt le drapeau noir qui annonce qu'un condamné va mourir, la foule, même la plus brutale, se tait, et qu'un frisson la fait tressaillir. »

Et il terminait par ce raisonnement d'une justesse indiscutable :

« Ce qui frappe le plus profondément l'imagination des hommes et surtout des foules, ce n'est pas ce qu'on voit, c'est l'invisible, et l'inconnu seul est plein de terreur. Cette puissance du mystère, que les religions ont si bien comprise, la justice, elle aussi, peut en user et chercher, dans un intérêt social, à en faire son profit. Voir mourir un homme est un spectacle ; sentir passer la mort est une épouvante. Ôter au peuple la vue du supplice, c'est lui en donner la crainte ; ôter au condamné la vue du peuple, c'est de ne laisser en face de lui que l'expiation.

» Dresser la guillotine dans l'intérieur de la prison, ce n'est pas la cacher — c'est aujourd'hui qu'elle se cache — mais la mettre à sa vraie place ; supprimer la publicité des exécutions, ce n'est pas rapetisser la justice, c'est lui rendre sa majesté. Nous vous demandons de substituer la terreur au spectacle, la dignité au scandale, l'expiation au défi. »

***

Nos gouvernants veulent aller plus loin. Ils suppriment radicalement la peine capitale.

Et que proposent-ils, pour la remplacer ?... Six années de cellule, après quoi le régime ordinaire de la réclusion sera appliqué au condamné.

Ce système sera le moins rigoureux de tous ceux qui sont en vigueur dans les pays où la peine de mort est abolie. Il s'inspire de celui qui se pratique en Hollande, où, cependant, le condamné subit huit années de cellule.

Du premier coup, nos réformateurs ont voulu dépasser en humanité et en sensiblerie tous les pays étrangers.

J'aurais compris qu'on supprimât la peine de mort, mais à la condition, du moins, qu'elle fût remplacée par une peine vraiment sévère, telle, par exemple, celle qui est en vigueur en Italie, l'emprisonnement perpétuel en cellule.

C'était là le seul châtiment dont l'application pût faire accepter l'abolition de la guillotine.

De l'avis des criminalistes, cette peine est réellement rigoureuse ; c'est la seule qui puisse faire réfléchir les assassins et les arrêter dans la voie du crime.

Bentham, un criminaliste philanthrope, déclarait jadis que s'il avait à choisir entre l'internement perpétuel en cellule et la peine de mort, il se prononcerait pour la mort.

« Condamner le criminel à un emprisonnement perpétuel, l'isoler du monde le reste de la vie, le laisser seul avec ses remords, disait-il, est une peine autrement redoutable que l'angoisse rapide qui précède l'exécution. »

Cette peine sera évitée à nos assassins. Après six années en cellule (si, toutefois, on ne s'empresse pas d'adoucir cette première partie du châtiment), ils auront à subir le régime ordinaire des prisons ; et chacun sait qu'il est, aujourd'hui, de moins en moins sévère.

Et c'est par ce moyen qu'on espère diminuer la criminalité en France !...

LACARRE.

LA SEMAINE FANTAISISTE

De la peau, s. v. p. !

« Une millionnaire américaine, brûlée dans un accident, demande de la peau humaine. »
(LES JOURNAUX.)

Holà ! messieurs et mesdames,
Qui passez fiers et contents,
Je ne fais pas de réclame :
Arrêtez-vous un instant !
Surtout vous qui semblez tendres,
Replets, dodus, gros et gras,
Dites-moi, n'auriez-vous pas
Sur vous de la peau à vendre ?

Il n'en faudrait pas beaucoup,
Non, juste de quoi refaire
Le nez, le crâne, le cou,
Le dos, les deux hémisphères,
Les bras et pareillement
La partie épigastrique
D'une dame d'Amérique,
Brûlée on ne sait comment.

Vous en restez tout moroses !
Pourtant, vous avez bon cœur !
On fournirait pour la chose
Un habile disséqueur,
Et pour votre sacrifice,
(Vous m'en voyez convaincu)
Un grand sac rempli d'écus
Serait votre bénéfice.

Alors, vous ne marchez pas ?
Vous craignez pour vos ampoules ?
Et, de voir un coutelas,
Vous avez la chair de poule ?
Mais, il faut en convenir,
Avec sa triste plastique
La dame transatlantique,
Que va-t-elle devenir ?

Elle attend toujours sous l'orme
Qu'on vienne la consoler,
Comme la « justice informe »,
Laide à vous faire envoler...
Quel épouvantable drame
De vivre et d'être sans peau !
Ah ! plaignez la pau... la pau...
Ah ! plaignez la pauvre femme !

Oui, Madame, je vous plains,
Mais il est plus d'un remède,
Et, sans être très malin,
Je vais vous venir en aide.
Si vous n'êtes pas en train
Et si vous versez des larmes,
Demandez donc pour vos charmes
Un peu de peau de chagrin.

Puis, sans beaucoup de dépense,
Comme un livre tout nouveau,
Vous pouvez aussi, je pense,
Etre reliée en veau.
Si vous voulez vous refaire
Avec de la peau de daim,
De votre mari, soudain,
Ce sera vraiment l'affaire.

Si vous désirez, enfin,
Une peau superbe et grasse,
Dont le parfum doux et fin
Renouvelle votre grâce,
Il n'est qu'un moyen coquet,
C'est de partir en campagne,
Chercher de la peau d'Espagne :
Vous serez comme un bouquet !

Mais permettez-moi, Madame,
De vous donner un conseil !
Je vous jure sur mon âme
Qu'il est, certes, sans pareil :
Pour redevenir valide,
Moyennant quelques sequins,
Achetez — c'est plus solide —
De la peau de Marocain.

CLAUDIN.

Une Encyclopédie populaire

A la demande de nombreux lecteurs, nous avons fait réunir en volumes les collections de 1904 et 1905 de notre supplément illustré le Petit Journal militaire, maritime, colonial.

Chaque année, formant un magnifique volume de 860 pages et 1,000 gravures, est vendue :

Brochée, sous couverture en couleurs : chez les représentants du Petit Journal, 3 fr. 90 ; franco en gare, 4 fr. 50.

Reliée, avec ornements dorés et inscription au dos : chez nos représentants, 4 fr. 90 ; franco en gare, 5 fr. 70 ; étranger, port en plus.

La collection du Petit Journal militaire, maritime, colonial constituera une encyclopédie populaire des armées de terre et de mer unique en France et dans l'univers entier.

Elle est indispensable aux coloniaux, aux soldats, aux marins, à tous ceux enfin qu'intéresse le développement des forces militaires et navales des divers pays du monde.

L'école du chauffeur !

Lartigues et sa femme filaient à trente-cinq à l'heure, sur la route de Gaillon à Nantes, où ils habitaient; l'auto, une douze-chevaux récemment acquise, s'était admirablement comportée, comme une bonne petite voiture à qui l'on ne demande que ce qu'elle peut donner ; il est vrai qu'on le lui demandait tous les jours depuis trois semaines ; mais comme on la dorlotait, comme on la choyait, comme on l'entourait de toutes sortes de soins et d'égards : jamais encore, ni par elle, ni à cause d'elle, on n'avait eu le moindre ennui.

Au début, Mme Lartigues, en vérité, avait bien subi le contre-coup de quelques histoires effroyables « d'os et de chairs meurtris et traînés dans la fange », débitées par le clan des vieux bonnets de leur entourage.

Le truc, ce fils verdâtre du troublant inconnu, lui avait plus d'une fois mis à la nuque le glacial frisson des petites morts. On n'est pas maîtresse de ses nerfs, n'est-ce pas ? Mais, rapidement, en somme, elle s'était aguerrie, et,pourvu qu'on n'allât pas trop vite, qu'une excessive prudence présidât aux plus infimes contingences des voyages, que son mari prît les tournants en douceur, ralentît aux descentes, qu'il ne passât jamais outre aux « Attention ! » qu'essaime, sur les routes, la munificence d'anonymes philanthropes, qu'il consentît à freiner dès que le bruit d'un moteur se faisait entendre, ou que la silhouette d'un cheval — noble mais inutile conquête désormais — s'esquissait dans le lointain, elle ne sonnait pas trop le tocsin et ne s'apeurait que tout juste pour montrer combien, à côté de l'époux de son choix, elle attachait de prix à l'existence

Ils ignoraient le vertige des vitesses fulgurantes, n'entamaient de luttes avec personne, se laissant volontiers dépasser sans avancer d'un cran leur allumage, et s'arrêtant même, au besoin, pour ne point manger la poussière de leurs obscurs triomphateurs. Tout un chacun pouvait les « gratter » sans qu'ils en éprouvassent le moindre dépit, et lorsqu'ils avaient mangé leurs cent kilomètres en quatre heures, ils considéraient sagement que, pour peu qu'ils le veuillent, ils auraient encore le temps, avant leur trépas, d'atteindre le bout du monde.

Cent kilomètres en quatre heures, ou vingt-cinq en soixante minutes, selon l'exacte arithmétique, telle était l'ordinaire mesure de leur ambition ; et si ce soir, par cette fin de gris après-midi d'automne, ils avaient un tantinet accéléré leur allure, c'est qu'ils avaient prié à dîner — oh ! dans la plus stricte intimité — deux de leurs amis, un médecin et sa femme, dont la propriété jouxtait la leur.

Or, Mme Lartigues n'avait donné à la bonne, en la quittant, que des ordres assez imprécis pour le repas. Partis tard, ils avaient d'abord résolu de ne pousser que jusqu'à Vernon ; mais ils s'étaient laissés entraîner, et maintenant elle craignait d'être prise de court pour son menu. De plus, son mari, se fiant à leur première décision et à la régularité de sa machine qui ne pannait jamais, avait omis de regarnir d'acétylène le réservoir du phare, et ils ne se souciaient point — le soleil déclinant rapidement — d'être surpris par la nuit et surtout par la maréchaussée vigilante.

Le risque d'un procès-verbal n'effrayait pas Lartigues plus que de raison : mais sa femme, qui avait la gérance des deniers du ménage, jugeait ce surcroît d'impositions complètement inutile.

— Nous ferions bien mieux, conseilla-t-elle, au moment où ils franchissaient un carrefour, de recharger l'appareil à Vernon.

— Bah ! répliqua-t-il, avec cet entêtement de l'homme qui tient son volant et qui ne veut plus le lâcher, nous presserons le mouvement, voilà tout, si nous y sommes forcés.

— Comment ! Encore ?

Il haussa les épaules, dédaigneux de répondre, et, pour prouver que ces timidités féminines ne l'influençaient point et ne refroidissaient pas son audace, il commença par envoyer de l'huile dans le moteur.

— Saint-Pierre ! plus que quarante, annonçait-il. Le Goulet, plus que trente-cinq.

— Dans un quart d'heure, on n'y verra plus, gémit-elle.

— Mais si ! Mais si ! Toute la journée ça a été comme ça !

Ils venaient de traverser un semblant de village parfaitement désert et dont ils apercevaient, tout près, la dernière maison, quand tout à coup, derrière eux, retentirent des cris furieux, des appels mêlés de vociférations et d'injures.

— Eh là ! Eh ! Arrêtez ! Bandits ! Canailles ! Assassins !...

Instinctivement, Lartigues appuya sur ses deux pédales et se retourna, en même temps que sa femme, qui tremblait d'émotion.

— Mon Dieu ! qu'est-ce qu'il y a ? Qu'est-ce que nous avons fait, murmura-t-elle, tandis qu'il immobilisait la machine.

— Je n'en sais rien ! Nous allons bien voir, fit-il, impatienté et regrettant déjà son arrêt.

Au milieu de la route, un homme courait, proférant toujours des invectives, et brandissant dans sa dextre un objet dont ils ne purent tout d'abord définir la nature, mais dans lequel, bientôt, ils reconnurent un volatile de basse-cour.

— Ah ben, ah ben, fit le paysan, qui les avait rejoints, en s'agrippant à la limousine, mais en baissant un peu le ton devant la haute stature de Lartigues, qui s'était levé dans la voiture ; ah ben, vous autres ! C'est-y donc que vous êtes payés pour écraser toujours quéqu' chose ? Quand c'est pas les gens, c'est les bêtes, alors ?

Lartigues fut en bas, d'un bond.

— Vous allez me faire le plaisir d'être poli, gronda-t-il, les poings serrés, ou sans quoi...

— Poli ! Poli !

— Oui. Si vous avez quelque chose à réclamer, dites-le, mais sans grossièreté, parce que...

— Georges, Georges, se lamenta Mme Lartigues, calme-toi !

— A réclamer ! Je réclame, bien sûr, que je réclame ce qui m'est dû ! Vous m'avez écrasé un poulet, vous allez le payer !

— Si je veux !

— Si vous voulez !

— Certainement. Vous n'aviez qu'à le garder chez vous, votre poulet !...

— Georges, supplia de nouveau Mme Lartigues. Paye-le-lui, et que ce soit terminé. Combien, mon brave homme ?

L'autre ne barguigna pas.

— Dix francs !

— Comment ! s'exclamèrent en même temps l'homme et la femme.

— Vous trouvez que c'est trop ? Un poulet comme celui-là ! Mon plus beau ! Y a pas meilleur ! Je voulais le garder ! Tenez, huit francs ! On est honnête !

— Mettez-le dans la voiture, fit Georges, excédé, en tirant son porte-monnaie.

Mais le paysan hocha la tête.

— Faut que je vous le donne ?

— Puisque je vous l'achète !

— Ben ! Et les dommages ! Si vous le prenez, c'est dix francs !

Sur un signe de lassitude de sa femme, Georges remit la pièce ronde et tendit la main pour prendre la bête.

— N'y touchez pas ! Il est tout plein de sang !

Avec précaution, il le déposa aux pieds de Mme Lartigues.

— J'y gagne pas, affirma-t-il encore.

Et, pendant que l'auto se remettait en marche, immobile et satisfait,il les regarda partir en leur criant :

— Bon retour, m'sieu, madame !

Rageur et désireux de regagner le temps perdu, Georges, sans rien écouter,mit toute l'avance, et le parcours s'acheva sans autre incident. Comme l'auto pénétrait dans l'allée du jardin, leurs amis, qui les avaient précédés de quelques minutes, se portèrent à leur rencontre.

Ils s'excusèrent en narrant leur aventure, dont la véracité fut garantie par l'exhibition même de la victime.

Le docteur, qui s'occupait d'élevage, dans ses loisirs, et qui possédait un superbe poulailler où il collectionnait les gallinacées les plus rares, soupesa l'animal.

— Eh ! fit-il, pas vilain ! Cher, mais ça pèse, ça pèse !... Il est déjà tout raide ; — et, cherchant à expliquer scientifiquement ce détail — c'est sans doute, ajouta-t-il, le déplacement de l'air qui a hâté le refroidissement.

— Alors, s'enquit Lartigues, nous n'avons pas été trop volés ?... Eh bien mais, si nous le mangions, ce poulet ?... C'est mon premier embêtement de chauffeur, je serais heureux d'en recueillir immédiatement la compensation !

— Préparer une volaille maintenant ? déclara sa femme. Tu n'y songes pas !

Mais devant l'insistance générale, et sur l'affirmation de la cuisinière que le dîner ne serait, de ce fait, reculé que d'un petit quart d'heure, elle s'inclina.

Quelques instants plus tard, Lartigues causait avec ses hôtes, au salon, lorsque sa femme, qui venait de s'absenter sur un appel de la domestique, réapparut, tenant par le cou, devant elle, le poulet, à moitié plumé. Et elle riait si fort et de si bon cœur, qu'elle faillit le laisser choir sur le tapis.

On se précipita, mais elle n'eut qu'à lever le bras pour qu'aussitôt tout le monde reculât d'horreur !

Le poulet qu'avait écrasé l'auto était mort depuis au moins huit jours !

Albert Delvallé.

SEINS développés, raffermis, reconstitués par les PILULES ORIENTALES. 30 ans de Succès. Flac. av. Not. 6f25 fco. Ravel, Phcn, 5, Passage Verdeau, Paris.

La voile noire

J'aime X...-sur-Mer et sa population robuste, laborieuse. Souvent, j'y suis retourné, en toutes saisons,heureux d'y retrouver une foule de braves gens dont la plupart me connaissent.

Une fois de plus, fin Septembre, j'y arrivai par un tiède après-midi. Après m'être restauré et avoir secoué la poussière du train, je descendis sur la plage, où je rencontrai le père Batiste, gras, réjoui, rouge de barbe et de cheveux, ancien maître nageur, à présent sauveteur, dont la poitrine large se pare, aux jours de fête, de nombreuses médailles héroïquement conquises.

— Ah ! m'sieu Régnal... vous v'là donc r'venu nous voir ? Ça va la santé ? fit-il, en m'abordant.

— Merci, père Batiste.

— Vous êtes pour longtemps ici ?

— Hélas ! non... La saison a été belle ?

— Magnifique... Mais c'est fini jusqu'à l'an prochain.

Tandis que nous échangions de vagues propos, le soleil avait disparu. Une teinte uniforme se répandait sur la marine, entre les murailles crayeuses des falaises. Le sable, les eaux, les galets, la roche veloutée de varech, tout prenait une couleur grise et pâle, admirable d'harmonie et de douceur. Des voiles lointaines accrochaient les dernières lueurs du couchant. L'une d'elles me frappa, toute noire.

— C'est la barque à Désiré Lecler, me dit Batiste. C'est l' goudron qui l'a noircie. Mais l' pauvre diable aurait ben sujet d' remettre son bateau en deuil, car il a eu sa part d' malheur en c' monde.

— Il y a une histoire ?... Contez-la-moi. Vous savez que j'aime les récits, et que vous les faites bien.

Le brave homme sourit, mais en haussant les épaules, afin de me prouver qu'il ne se laissait prendre qu'à demi au compliment.

— Ah !... faut pas vous attendre à quéqu' chose de ben extraordinaire... Voilà :

Désiré était l'aîné des Lecler. Il f'sait vivre sa mère et ses deux tiotes sœurs d'puis qu' son père avait péri... t'nez ! à mes côtés, dans l' sauv'tage d'un canot à la pointe du phare. Désiré avait seize ans à c' moment-là... Pas buveur, sage, nous l' donnions en exemple à la jeunesse, quoi !... Mais v'là l'amour qu'est v'nu lui trotter en tête, alors...

— Il s'est épris d'une mauvaise femme ?

— Mauvaise n'est pas l' mot. La Pascaline avait quéqu' sous. C'était la fille de Chenavard, le boucher. Seul'ment, personne n'aurait voulu d'elle, pasque la mère était morte détraquée d'avoir un peu trop l'vé l' coude. Et puis l' père n'étiont point aimé. Ouand y avait un méchant coup à donner, il entrait toujours dans la partie. Il avait eu plusieurs histoires louches...

— Elle était jolie, cette fille ?

— Non... maigriotte, pâlotte... J' l'aurais pas aimée pour moi. Elle avait un drôle d' caractère. Elle se sauvait,quand son père allait abattre. Depuis l' temps, elle n'avait jamais pu s'y faire. Elle courait sur la falaise au point qu'une fois on l'a trouvée à demi morte, là-haut, près du sémaphore. Elle n'était propre à rien qu'à chanter... Ah ça ! elle chantait quasiment aussi bien que des actrices qui sont venues ici, au Casino. Seulement, quand elle avait roucoulé, elle s' mettait à pleurnicher.

V'là donc Désiré qu'épouse c'te fille, malgré l'opposition d' sa mère et les conseils que nous lui donnions tretous. Une fois mariés, ça n'a pas marché. Les Lecler ne pouvaient point supporter la Pascaline. C'étaient des reproches, des disputes... Et puis, vous savez, dans nos pays, on aime les femmes solides. Celle-là, avec ses grands yeux qui lui mangeaient la figure, n'avait point de sang. Son moutard, un avorton, a vécu quinze jours. Le docteur Blot a dit, du reste, qu' c'était une grâce du bon Dieu qu'i soye mort,et qu'il fallait espérer qu'elle n'en f'rait plus d'autres. V'là donc la mère Lecler qui voyait l' nom d' son pauvr' homme perdu... on tient à ça, vous savez, ici. Nous avons des familles d' pêcheurs qui r'montent à deux ou trois cents ans. Moi qui vous parle, j' connais le grand-père de mon grand-père. Il était allé dans les temps à Paris, avec le célèbre Duguay-Trouin, voir le roi du soleil qui régnait...

— Roi-Soleil !... Louis XIV, fis-je.

— J' sais ben... Pour rev'nir à Lecler, il aimait sa femme malgré tout. Quand il rentrait d'la pêche et qu'il lui voyait les yeux rouges, fallait entendre les scènes qu'il f'sait à sa mère et à ses sœurs. J' sais ben qu' la mère Leclerc n'est pas toujours commode !... Mais la Pascaline, depuis la mort de son fieu, était toute drôle, surtout avec les moutards. Y avait pas à dire, ell' dev'nait folle.

— Ah ! doux Jésus ! s'en allait partout disant la mère Lecler, si mes filles devaient me causer autant de chagrin que l' fi, j' me jett'rais sous l' chemin de fer, aussi vrai qu'il fait jour.

Donc, pour vous finir, un dimanche de Fête-Dieu, la procession descendait jusqu'à la jetée. V'là-t-y pas que c'te toquée d' Pascaline tombe sur les jeunes filles qui portaient la statue de la Sainte-Vierge, en disant qu'elle lui avait volé son p'tiot ? Elle poussait des cris d'possédée. Les gamines prennent peur, lâchent tout, et c'te damnée qui s'acharne sur la Sainte-Marie, à coups d'poings, en essayant d' lui arracher l'enfant des bras.

Enfin Guillant, l' tambour de la ville ,arrive, la ramasse, et, ma fine ! la fourre dans les caves de la maison municipale. Personne, pas même le père Chenavard, ne voulait de c'te femme qui gémissait après avoir hurlé, et qui semblait vouloir tomber dure ou mal. Quand, l'soir, Désiré apprit la chose, — il était allé conduire des étrangers en promenade — il entra dans une colère !... oh ! mais une colère !... On avait touché à sa Pascaline... On aurait dit qu'il allait nous manger tous. D'un trait il courut à la mairerie. M'sieur l' maire lui fit rendre sa folle, mais :

« — Ecoutez-moi, Lecler, qu'il lui dit ; il faut la conduire à Rouen ; j' vous recommanderai au directeur de la maison.

» — Des fous ? qu' répond Désiré.

» — Qu'voulez-vous ? faut ben. Vous s'rez pu tranquille. »

Désiré passa toute la journée du lend'main avec sa femme, pour essayer d' la faire rev'nir à elle. Il lui parlait comme à un enfant. Il app'lait les amis pour voir si elle reconnaîtrait quéqu'un.Il lui offrait tout pour manger, pour la faire brave. N'y avait pas moyen de lui tirer une parole de raison.Il pleurait comme une bête de voir qu'elle ne le reconnaissiont point. Quand vint l' soir, il nous ficha tous à la porte parce que nous lui disions :

« — Tu vois ben qu'y faut la faire enfermer, comme te l' conselle m'sieur le maire. »

Le lend'main, nous l'vîmes sortir, conduisant sa folle par la main, comme une fillette. Il avait l'air très triste, mais décidé. Il croisa justement, près de la mairerie, m'sieur l' maire, qu'allait faire un mariage.

« — Eh ben ! Lecler, qu'il lui dit, qu'est-ce que vous décidez ? »

Lecler lui répondit :

« — M'sieur le maire, c'est vous que j' venions voir, pour vous dire que, quand vous nous avez mariés, vous nous avez lu la loi : la femme doit obéissance à son mari, et l' mari lui doit aide et protection, à sa femme, c' pas? Pascaline m'a toujours obéi ; j' dois la protéger. M'sieur l' curé l'a dit aussi bien qu' vous.

» — M'sieur l' curé s'rait l' premier à dire qu'il faut mettre dans un asile une malheureuse qu'a été sacrilège. »

Lecler n'a rien voulu entendre. Alors, l' maire finit par se fâcher :

« — Si vous n'êtes pas raisonnable, qu'y fit en voyant qu'il perdait son latin, j' ferais enfermer d'autorité une insensée qui devient dangereuse. »

Là-d'sus, Désiré s' mit à rire :

« — Pascaline n'ira pas chez les fous. L' capitaine est maître à son bord, pas vrai ? Eh ben ! j' suis l' patron d' ma barque et j'y emmène ma femme. Nous n' descendrons plus à terre, pisque vous avez peur ed' nous. »

Il a fait comme il le disait, acheva le père Batiste. Il a pris quéques bricoles, sifflé son chien, et largue la voile ! Il vit au large. Il apporte sa pêche, que nous lui vendons. Il prend de confiance ce que nous lui donnons... Il sait ben qu'on voudrait pas l' voler...

Georges Régnal.

LA VIE PRATIQUE

Les mauvais froids

Combien de fois ne vous est-il point arrivé, mes chers lecteurs, d'entendre dire autour de vous : « — Quel malheur ! il a attrapé un mauvais froid ! » La résultante de cette locution populaire est purement et simplement une bronchite, une pleurésie, la tuberculose, ce que vous voudrez, enfin ! mais pas, comme on le croit généralement, des rhumatismes. Le rhumatisme, vulgo les douleurs, est la manifestation d'un état général mauvais, d'un défaut de nutrition et de digestion, dans lequel les refroidissements n'ont rien à voir.

Je l'ai écrit autrefois, dans une succession d'articles ayant trait à l'envahissement de l'économie par l'acide urique insuffisamment expulsé : le rhumatisme, la gravelle ou pierre et la goutte, sont une « trilogie de l'Enfer ! » Les souffrances que l'on éprouve lorsque l'on est atteint d'une ou plusieurs de ces affections sont atroces, la partie malade devient chaude, brûlante ; la peau rouge et luisante se tend dans une enflure plus ou moins considérable. Lorsque le sujet observe l'immobilité parfaite, excepté dans la goutte, il ne souffre pas, mais s'il a le malheur de risquer le plus fugitif mouvement, il lui semble qu'on lui peigne les muscles avec un fer rouge.

L'origine de cette maladie si répandue, je viens de le dire, est dans la mauvaise expulsion de l'acide urique que l'usine de produits chimiques qu'est notre corps, fabrique à jet continu. Si les petits cristaux d'acide urique, au lieu de s'échapper, dissous normalement dans notre urine, vont se fixer dans la vessie ou dans les reins, c'est la pierre, la gravelle, les coliques hépatiques, et tutti quanti. Si les mêmes cristaux se réfugient dans les articulations, qu'ils se mettent à déformer sous l'effort lent et continu de leurs concrétions tophacées, c'est la hideuse goutte avec ses nuits d'insomnie hurlées. Si, enfin, l'acide urique prend son siège dans les muscles, c'est le rhumatisme que trop de personnes connaissent, les sciatiques, les lombagos, etc.

L'empoisonnement dont je viens de parler a lieu, bien entendu ,avec la complicité de la masse sanguine, de son torrent circulatoire. Il est nécessaire, à l'aide des Pilules Pink, dont si souvent j'ai parlé, d'épurer son sang, de le filtrer, de le rendre généreux et limpide, pour voir disparaître d'elles-mêmes, sans liniments, ni baumes, ni compresses, sans autre régime, en un mot, tous les accidents d'arthritisme dont on est frappé. J'avais cette vérité à proclamer, mes chers lecteurs, la voici dite. Sachez en tenir compte.

Eugène Foreau.

EXIGEZ les VRAIES TABLETTES COQUELICOTS Seules efficaces contre le RHUME
Le nom de l'inventeur JOSEPH TAVERNIER doit être imprimé en toutes lettres sur chaque tablette. — Refusez les Contrefaçons.

PRIS AU PIÈGE

Depuis un quart d'heure, Alfred de Lompré se promenait dans la bibliothèque qui lui servait de cabinet de travail, relisant avec un bon sourire une lettre qu'il prenait et reposait, alternativement, sur son bureau de vieux chêne.

— Evidemment, murmurait-il, il n'y a pas guet-apens ; mon excellente tante Juliette ne pense pas, comme il y a trois ans, à m'attirer dans un guêpier de filles à marier. Elle m'aime tendrement, l'excellente femme, donc rien de plus naturel que de vouloir me posséder quelques semaines dans ce vieux manoir de Ronceray où j'ai tant joué étant petit... Mais, on ne saurait trop être prudent...

Et, pour la cinquième ou sixième fois, le jeune homme se mit à relire très attentivement la missive de la baronne de Ronceray :

« Mon cher neveu,

» Il faut croire que la vie de Paris est bien absorbante, puisqu'elle ne laisse pas au grand garçon qui, autrefois, prenait ses ébats à Ronceray, le moindre loisir pour revoir le coin normand qu'il affectionnait jadis.

» Les années s'en vont vite, cependant, mon cher enfant, et, quoique ma santé ne soit pas inquiétante, je sens qu'il faut me hâter de jouir un peu des affections qui me restent.

» Or, voici Septembre et les feuilles jaunes ; le grand Louis, mon garde, me demande s'il faut laisser aux braconniers le soin de décimer mes perdreaux... Ne viendras-tu pas pour le seconder dans cette tâche plutôt agréable ?

» Mais... je te vois venir ; tu te méfies parce que, lors de ton dernier séjour au castel, je t'ai fait faire la connaissance de quelques charmantes jeunes personnes.

» Eh bien, rassure-toi: aujourd'hui, toute la compagnie est mariée... tu n'as plus à craindre de rencontrer à Ronceray « l'escadron volant de la reine », comme tu avais assez impertinemment baptisé les vertueuses filles de mes amis.

» J'attends donc un bon mouvement de ta part, mon Frédi ; du reste, n'est-il pas convenable que tu viennes visiter, de temps à autre, un domaine qui doit t'appartenir un jour ?

» Un mot bien vite pour m'annoncer le jour d'arrivée, n'est-ce pas, Frédi ?

» Ta tante affectionnée,

» Juliette de Ronceray. »

— L'excellente femme ! répétait Alfred de Lompré, c'est pourtant vrai qu'elle m'aime tendrement ; me l'a-t-elle assez prouvé, lors de la mort de mon père ? Car ce n'est vraiment que dans sa tendresse émue que j'ai trouvé le courage de supporter le départ de celui qui fut pour moi le père, le frère et l'ami ! Mais aussi, quelle diable d'idée que de vouloir absolument me marier ! Enfin, Dieu soit loué, elle n'y pense plus, et je ne vois rien qui m'empêche de partir. J'irai à Ronceray.

***

Non loin de Vire, dans le Calvados, sur les bords de la rivière de ce nom, s'élève le manoir de Ronceray construction du seizième siècle, rajeunie et adaptée aux exigences modernes par un architecte intelligent.

C'est là que l'aimable châtelaine reçut, par une riante soirée d'automne, ce coquin de neveu, si réfractaire aux projets de mariage.

Le jeune homme, enchanté, du reste, de venir passer quelque temps dans un site pittoresque qui ne lui rappelait que des souvenirs agréables, répondit de tout cœur aux effusions de la baronne.

Quant à celle-ci, elle était tout à la joie de revoir ce Frédi, le fils unique d'une sœur à qui la naissance de cet enfant avait coûté la vie, et qu'elle avait remplacée comme mère pendant les années de la première jeunesse.

Après un dîner délicat, tante et neveu prenaient le café dans le petit salon particulier de la baronne, en parlant des personnes du pays connues par le jeune homme, lorsque la baronne, d'un ton indifférent :

— A propos, Frédi, t'ai-je jamais parlé de la vicomtesse de Breuil, une amie d'enfance à moi, que son mari avait emmenée dans les Amériques, au Mexique, je crois ?

— Peut-être oui, peut-être non ; le fait est que ce nom ne me dit rien.

— Eh bien ! il y a assez longtemps qu'elle est morte, laissant une charmante fille.

— Oh ! ma tante ! ma tante ! que m'aviez-vous promis ?

— Tais-toi donc... nous disons une charmante fille qui s'est mariée, il y a deux ans, au lieutenant de vaisseau de Gleyrolle. C'est un mariage tout d'inclination ; et voici que le susdit lieutenant me prie de donner l'hospitalité à sa femme pendant la durée d'un voyage qu'il est obligé de faire pour régler des affaires d'intérêt. Ordinairement, les Gleyrolle habitent Caen et j'attends, d'un jour à l'autre, l'arrivée de la jeune femme.

Seulement, mon cher Frédi, prends note que sa présence au château ne devra te gêner en rien pour tes allées et venues. Tu gardes tes coudées franches, c'est convenu.

Installé dans sa chambre confortable, Alfred de Lompré se demandait, malgré lui, comment pouvait bien être cette jeune dame avec laquelle il allait vivre sous le même toit ; et, l'idée de mariage forcément écartée, il n'eut aucun scrupule à se la représenter jolie et splendide.

Le jeune homme était installé depuis trois jours au château, lorsque Mme de Gleyrolle y arriva. Au premier aspect, Alfred de Lompré fut positivement surpris de rencontrer tant de grâces réunies en une seule personne.

Violette de Gleyrolle avait à peine vingt ans. Ses yeux noirs, irisés de fibrilles d'or, étincelaient sous les cils bruns qui frangeaient leurs paupières ; son front poli ployait sous le fardeau des tresses opulentes de ses cheveux blonds à reflets de cuivre bruni ; sa bouche vermeille souriait, et ses lèvres un peu charnues ressortaient sur le teint frais et rose de ses joues ; une fossette mignonne marquait son menton arrondi. C'était un ensemble de détails charmants auxquels un air virginal ajoutait un attrait de plus.

— Ce Gleyrolle est un heureux coquin, pensa le jeune homme, en s'inclinant devant la nouvelle venue, qui laissa ingénûment reposer son regard sur lui, l'espace de quelques secondes.

***

Il y avait trois semaines que notre Parisien était à Ronceray, devenu un séjour animé par suite des invitations que la baronne lançait dans son voisinage.

Le farouche de Lompré avait changé du tout au tout depuis l'arrivée de Violette de Gleyrolle. Naturellement très à l'aise en compagnie féminine, il était devenu presque timide.

Quant à la jeune femme, elle ne cachait nullement le plaisir qu'elle prenait à la conversation de M. de Lompré, et, pour le remercier de ses anecdotes mondaines, elle ne se faisait pas prier pour lui chanter, le soir, au piano, quelques-unes des vieilles chansons normandes qui le touchaient au cœur, autant qu'elles ravissaient l'excellente baronne.

C'est surtout dans les promenades matinales, que tous deux faisaient autour de Ronceray, que le Parisien pouvait apprécier l'esprit naturel et l'âme délicate de cette compagne d'occasion que le hasard lui avait fait rencontrer.

« Hélas ! pensait-il, faut-il que je sois né sous une fâcheuse étoile !... Parmi tant de jeunes filles que ma tante a voulu me lancer à la tête, faut-il précisément qu'elle ait oublié la seule qui m'aurait convenu ? »

Et il se désolait.

La baronne de Ronceray, qui voyait bien des choses, souriait finement en regardant son neveu ordinairement perdu dans l'extase.

« Ah ! mon petit bonhomme, je crois que pour cette fois tu as du plomb dans l'aile », pensait-elle en tapotant, de ses doigts fuselés, le guéridon sur lequel elle prenait son café.

Or, voici qu'un jour, une lettre apportée par le courrier du matin annonça l'arrivée de M. de Gleyrolle, qui venait chercher sa femme.

— J'espère bien qu'il ne va pas vous emporter tout de suite, dit Mme de Ronceray à Violette.

— Mais... je ne sais pas, répond, en rougissant, la jeune femme. M. de Gleyrolle ne me dit rien. Seulement, s'il veut m'emmener, il faudra bien...

— Oh ! non pas ! s'exclame la baronne ; c'est lui-même que nous ferons prisonnier ; mon neveu se joindra à moi pour le retenir ; ils chasseront ensemble.

Le pauvre neveu ! il était dans un joli état. Depuis l'annonce de l'arrivée du mari de Violette, il avait toutes les peines du monde à cacher son trouble. Un moment, il eut l'idée de se confier à sa tante et de lui demander la permission de partir, puis, bientôt après, tout lui paraissait préférable à une séparation anticipée.

Mme de Gleyrolle, qui s'apercevait du changement opéré en lui, était devenue triste.

Enfin, la charrette anglaise du château amena, un beau jour, le lieutenant de Gleyrolle.

***

C'était un superbe garçon, plus distingué que beau, avec un peu de cette roideur que marquent volontiers les officiers de marine.

A la grande satisfaction d'Alfred, la réunion des deux époux fut plutôt cordiale que tendre ; les effusions qu'il redoutait n'eurent pas lieu.

« Peut-être ne s'aiment-ils pas », pensa le jaloux, avec une joie féroce.

La baronne de Ronceray avait fait aménager tout un appartement au deuxième étage, à l'usage de M. et de Mme de Gleyrolle.

Pendant les premiers jours, les deux hommes, une fois la glace rompue, firent bonne connaissance l'un avec l'autre. Alfred fit à son nouvel ami les honneurs de la chasse du château, et, de son côté, l'officier mit de Lompré au courant de la vie de croisière en Extrême-Orient.

Cependant, lorsqu'il était retiré dans sa chambre, le pauvre Alfred se désolait tant et si bien que, pour ne pas trahir son secret, il résolut de partir pour tout de bon.

Le matin qui suivit cette résolution, il se rencontra, après le petit déjeuner, avec Mme de Gleyrolle, qui venait de prendre un volume dans le petit salon de la baronne.

Depuis longtemps, pareil tête-à-tête ne s'était présenté.

Vivement, de Lompré s'approcha de Violette et, d'une voix étranglée:

— Aujourd'hui même, il faut que je vous dise adieu.

— Mais qu'avez-vous donc, monsieur de Lompré ?

— Vous n'avez donc pas compris ?

— Compris quoi ?... vous m'effrayez.

— Ah ! vous allez l'être encore davantage quand vous apprendrez que je vous aime à en perdre la raison.

Pâle et défaillante, Violette ne répondait pas.

— Mais dites-moi, au moins, que vous me plaignez, poursuivit le jeune homme, en saisissant avec passion une main qu'on lui laissait prendre.

— Et pourquoi vous plaindrait-elle ? dit la voix mâle du lieutenant qui venait de pousser la porte et de faire son apparition.

A cette vue, Alfred de Lompré qui, après avoir pâli, avait senti le rouge de la confusion lui monter au visage, s'approcha résolument de l'officier.

— Monsieur, je suis à vos ordres.

— Bon ! un duel tragique à présent, s'écrie, en retenant une envie de rire, la bonne tante en apparaissant sur la scène.

Voyons, que se passe-t-il ?

— Rien de bien grave, reprend, en souriant, M. de Gleyrolle, c'est votre neveu qui vient de faire une déclaration... à ma sœur.

— Sa sœur ! s'exclame, dans un élan de joie, Alfred de Lompré, dont les yeux se portent alternativement de la sœur au frère et du frère à la sœur.

C'est à ce moment qu'il put constater entre les jeunes gens quelques traits de ressemblance qui lui avaient échappé jusqu'alors.

Le sourire maintenant éclairait tous les visages. Le neveu prit alors entre ses deux mains la tête grisonnante de sa tante, qu'il embrassa avec une ferveur inaccoutumée, tout en lui glissant à l'oreille :

— Cette fois, ma tante, vous pourrez vous vanter de m'avoir pris au piège.

Henri Renou.

FARINE DUTAUT, le meilleur aliment des enfants

LA DACTYLOGRAPHE

Bourdais, commis principal de ministère, était occupé, ce matin-là, de la plus absorbante manière. Quiconque fût entré dans son bureau n'en eût pu franchir le seuil, persuadé que s'élaborait en cet instant quelque travail où les plus graves intérêts de l'Etat étaient en jeu.

Pourtant, si ce quelqu'un se fût approché et eût jeté sur les papiers épars autour de Bourdais deux ou trois coups d'œil investigateurs, sa surprise eût été grande, car voici quelques lambeaux des phrases qu'il eût pu lire au hasard : « A ces mots, la comtesse se précipita vers son mari en criant : « Comte, vous en avez menti ! »

Et, un peu plus loin :

« Vous savez bien que cette jeune fille, qui vend des lacets au coin de la rue, est votre enfant... Misérable ! vous avez séquestré ma fille, à moi, dans un souterrain !... »

Evidemment, ces accents pathétiques n'avaient rien d'administratif. C'est que l'excellent Bourdais, bien que commis principal exemplaire, élaborait des romans-feuilletons pour un journal quotidien, occupation qui augmentait passablement son budget et lui créerait des revenus appréciables, à l'heure de sa retraite, qui était proche.

Gervais, le commis, entra cependant, non arrêté par l'air effaré de son supérieur immédiat. Celui-ci releva la tête, fit un petit signe et se remit à écrire tout en marmotant :

— Pardon... j'ai un travail urgent.

L'air entendu, en homme qui connaît la vie et a des notions de ses exigences, Gervais répondit avec conviction :

— Oui, je comprends : votre roman à finir. Ça ne peut attendre, évidemment ! Je venais vous dire seulement un mot. Vous savez que nos expéditionnaires sont remplacés par des dames dactylographes. Notre bureau en aura trois qui vont être installées tout à l'heure.

FEUILLETON DU SUPPLEMENT ILLUSTRE du Petit Journal

— 1 —

L'ÉVENTAIL

Le lieutenant-colonel était venu, après la manœuvre, au mess des cuirassiers, pour parcourir les journaux et dépouiller sa correspondance.

Pendant une belle matinée d'Avril, consacrée au service d'exploration, les chefs de peloton avaient montré de l'entrain et de l'initiative, les hommes de l'intelligence ; les chevaux rentraient secs au quartier ; bref, le vicomte de Trudar était de bonne humeur.

Il souriait même — chose rare — en entendant, à une table voisine, les jeunes officiers s'emballer sur les mérites comparatifs du cheval de pur-sang ou du cabot de demi-sang, et en voyant cette discussion exaspérer les capitaines pansus, les vieux cavaliers qui joûtaient pour le vermout, dans le champ clos du piquet à quatre.

Dix heures, l'heure militaire la plus agréable aux estomacs réveillés avant l'aurore, allaient sonner le ralliement de toutes les opinions, quand le lieutenant-colonel se leva, une lettre à la main, pour se rapprocher de la table du piquet.

— Tiens, Villetanan, t'attendais-tu à celle-là ? demanda-t-il au plus ancien capitaine, son camarade de promotion, en lui tendant la lettre.

A leur sortie de Saumur, Trudar et Villetanan avaient rivalisé d'élégance dans le même régiment de hussards.

La guerre les avait séparés : Villetanan, blessé à Sedan, était revenu sous-lieutenant d'Allemagne ; Trudar, resté au dépôt bien malgré lui, avait gagné, à l'armée de la Loire, ses épaulettes de capitaine.

Depuis, la fortune continuait à sourire à Trudar et à bouder Villetanan. Quand elle les avait réunis, seize ans plus tard, aux cuirassiers, le capitaine était chauve, épaissi, découragé ; le lieutenant-colonel, plus svelte et plus ardent que jamais, avait renouvelé bail avec la jeunesse, en décrochant le cinquième galon.

La lettre était un faire-part :

« Monsieur Charles Martois, sénateur, et Madame Charles Martois, ont l'honneur de vous faire part du mariage de Mademoiselle Antoinette Martois, leur fille, avec Monsieur Jacques d'Ayrac, chef d'escadrons au... »

— Le traître ! s'écria Villetanan. Il se marie, malgré ses serments, et avec une jeune fille encore ! Il en verra de cruelles : la peine de talion !

— Bah ! observa Trudar, il y a des fruits mûrs parmi les jeunes filles. Pour se résoudre à convoler avec les quarante-quatre ans de d'Ayrac et le déclin de sa vie de polichinelle, il faut que ladite Antoinette ait l'âge de la résignation.

— D'ailleurs, mon colonel, si tu veux des renseignements plus précis, mon lieutenant va t'en donner, il est neveu de d'Ayrac.

— C'est vrai ! Appelle-le.

— Vandel ! Dérobez-vous au cheval de pur sang et venez nous expliquer pourquoi vous n'avez pas demandé une permission pour marier votre oncle.

— Ah ! ah ! Il paraît, mon capitaine, que vous êtes au courant de la facétie qu'il m'a faite, mon oncle.

— Une facétie ?

— Oui, et je la trouve mauvaise !

— Si c'est de son mariage que vous parlez, consolez-vous. Pour l'héritage qu'il vous aurait laissé !...

— Ce n'est pas de son mariage, c'est du mien.

— Vous vouliez vous marier, vous aussi?

— Ce n'est pas moi, c'est mon oncle qui voulait me marier.

— Il en est encore temps.

— Non, puisqu'il a épousé ma femme. Voyez la date, le crime est consommé depuis quinze jours.

— Passons dans la salle à manger, dit le colonel, en riant ; nous sommes servis. Mais je ne vous tiens pas quitte, Vandel ; vous déjeunerez entre votre capitaine et moi. Nous avons hâte de connaître vos malheurs et ce que vous appelez « la facétie » de votre oncle, car notre vieil ami d'Ayrac est incapable d'une forfaiture.

— Je ne l'accuse pas : ce n'est pas sa faute. Il a eu la veine de rencontrer une femme qui aimait les vers, voilà tout !

— Les vers ! Il y a de la poésie dans votre aventure ?

— Tout le temps ! C'est le fond de l'histoire.

— Quel âge a donc madame votre tante ?

— Dix-huit ans !

***

Le récit de Vandel ayant été fantaisiste autant que partial, je veux, dans l'intérêt de la vérité, vous raconter, de bonne source, comment les choses se sont passées.

D'Ayrac avait été profondément éprouvé par les malheurs de la patrie.

« C'est le maître d'école prussien qui vous a battus », avait-on dit à nos officiers, et résolument nos officiers s'étaient mis au travail.

N'allez pas croire qu'on ne travaillait pas, avant la guerre, et que les officiers d'alors ne valaient pas ceux d'aujourd'hui.

Est-ce que les Français de Crimée ou d'Italie n'avaient pas battu les Russes et les Autrichiens ?

Est-ce que les Russes et les Autrichiens ne valaient pas les Allemands ?

L'ère de la défaite, dans l'histoire des peuples, succède fatidiquement à l'ère de la victoire : c'est le secret du Dieu des armées. Les vainqueurs d'hier sont les vaincus de demain. Après Rosbach, Iéna ; après Iéna, Waterloo. Personne ne sait quel sera le demain de Sedan.

Jean de Villeurs.

(La suite au prochain numéro.)

Puis, riant, il ajouta :

— On a mis les deux moins jolies au fond du couloir, dans un bureau vide. La troisième est toute jeune et charmante. Je viens de lui parler. On va la mettre ici, près de vous...

A ces mots, Bourdais sursauta, en reculant vivement sa chaise.

— Une femme ici ! Mais je n'en veux pas, moi !

— Voyons, avança Gervais d'une voix qui invitait à l'apaisement, considérez que c'est une marque de confiance qu'on vous donne.

— Ça m'est égal ! gronda Bourdais. Elle m'empêchera de fumer ma pipe !...

— Bah ! vous lui demanderez la permission... ça ne gêne pas tant que ça les femmes, l'odeur du tabac...

Bourdais demeurait sombre.

— Et le bruit de la machine ?... Ah ! mais non !... Je ne trouverais plus d'idées pour mes romans ! Je ne suis pas un rond-de-cuir, moi, sapristi ! Je travaille ! Je suis un écrivain !

Gervais laissait passer l'orage, habitué aux façons du commis principal. Conciliant, il hasarda :

— Allons, calmez-vous ; ça s'arrangera. Vous qui avez des sentiments paternels, qui regrettez toujours de ne pas avoir de famille ! Cette petite a l'air bien doux, vous verrez !

Habile, Gervais avait touché la corde sensible, celle qui vibrait au moindre souffle dans le cœur de Bourdais. Attendri, calmé, celui-ci murmura :

— C'est vrai que ces pauvres filles sont déjà bien à plaindre d'être obligées de travailler.

Puis il demeura rêveur et, tout à coup :

— Vous avez raison : j'étais fait pour la famille, moi. Vous êtes heureux, vous, Gervais : vous vous êtes marié jeune ; vous avez une grande fille qui est la joie de votre vie ! Quand je pense que ce bonheur a passé près de moi, tout près... Mais il n'y a pas de ma faute...

D'un geste brusque, un peu rageur, il essuya une larme qui témoignait de sa sincérité. Ému, Gervais lui tendit une main :

— Mon pauvre ami ! J'ai deviné depuis longtemps que vous avez eu un grand chagrin... Mais il faut se faire une raison ; la vie n'est pas toujours drôle !

Puis, ne sachant vraiment plus par quelles phrases adoucir un mal qu'il ignorait, il reprit timidement :

— Alors, voyons... vous lui ferez bon accueil, n'est-ce pas, à cette petite dactylographe ?

Bourdais fit un geste de tête qui consentait et, resté seul, il se prit à rêver longuement.

***

C'était bien vrai que le bonheur avait passé près de lui, il y avait de cela vingt ans. Bourdais approchait alors de la quarantaine, et, malgré sa vocation de père de famille, il était encore célibataire.

Demeuré seul avec sa mère, qui n'avait aucune ressource, il avait dû se sacrifier devant la crainte que la pauvre femme manifestait en parlant du mariage éventuel de son fils.

Quand il la perdit, il allait avoir quarante ans. Une vie ponctuelle et laborieuse, où le plaisir n'avait pas eu sa place, lui laissait une fraîcheur d'âme qui eût fait sourire beaucoup d'hommes de son âge. Un jour, une forme blonde et frêle passa devant ses yeux ; libre d'écouter enfin son cœur, il regarda, se sentit troublé et ne s'imposa plus la fuite. Quelques mois plus tard, il épousait Eveline Mercier, qui n'avait que vingt ans.

Certes, il était assez raisonnable pour se dire à lui-même tout ce qu'on eût pu lui objecter au sujet de ce mariage. La grande différence des âges, pour être un inconvénient sérieux, n'était pourtant pas le principal. Au premier regard, on pouvait juger que la jeune femme était coquette et ne serait pas la compagne harmonisée à un homme paisible comme Bourdais.

Lui, cependant, s'imaginait qu'il commençait seulement à vivre, goûta quelque temps de félicité parfaite.

Mais le réveil de ce bonheur fut terrible.

Un soir qu'il rentrait chez lui, aveugle et heureux, n'ayant su rien deviner de la catastrophe qui se préparait si près de lui, il trouva la cage vide, l'oiseau envolé.

Stupide de douleur, Bourdais était d'abord demeuré sans pensée. Puis il s'était révolté ; ensuite, son horrible chagrin avait pu s'exprimer en larmes et en cris de désespoir.

Et, comme les peines les plus affreuses se calment, tout en laissant au cœur des plaies ouvertes, il s'était résigné, en apparence du moins, à son malheur. Mais une mélancolie intense s'était étendue sur toute sa personne.

Dans cette extraordinaire aventure, un côté surtout échappait à sa perspicacité. Pas fat le moins du monde, il admettait que sa femme n'eût pas trouvé en lui le mari de ses rêves ; mais il ne comprenait pas qu'elle fût partie alors que, précisément, elle avait un vague espoir d'être mère dans quelques mois. On n'en parlait encore que discrètement, on n'osait l'affirmer. Mais comment Eveline n'avait-elle pas songé que si son plaisir n'était plus sous le toit conjugal, le devoir devait l'y retenir, et non pas même le strict devoir de l'épouse, mais celui que toute mère assume envers son enfant ! Ainsi, elle risquait de commettre cette faute odieuse : priver son enfant de son père ! Et cet acte monstrueux : arracher à ce père la joie d'aimer son enfant !

Plus tard, à mesure que se cicatrisait la blessure, Bourdais souffrait de cette pensée : peut-être avait-il, quelque part, un fils, une fille qui portait son nom, qui eût dû recevoir ses tendresses, ses soins, ses conseils, un enfant qui avait pu apprendre à ne pas l'aimer, à le mépriser peut-être !

Aussi, enfermé plus que jamais dans une vie laborieuse et monotone, Bourdais, dont tout le monde connaissait le bon cœur, passait-il pour « original » et un peu « ours ».

***

Le commis principal en était à ce point de ses réflexions mélancoliques, lorsque la porte se rouvrit pour laisser entrer M. Lavigne, le chef de bureau qui, galamment, s'effaça devant une jeune fille à l'air timide et doux :

— Mon cher ami, dit M. Lavigne, je vous présente un nouveau collaborateur qui travaillera auprès de vous, mademoiselle ; monsieur, qui est la bienveillance même, vous donnera tous les renseignements dont vous pourrez avoir besoin pour vous mettre au courant. Voici, pour commencer, trois lettres à copier.

Bourdais et la jeune fille restèrent seuls, à peu près aussi gênés l'un que l'autre. Enfin, celle-ci, en gestes discrets, n'osant parler, s'installa devant la machine qu'un garçon de bureau venait de déposer sur une table. Et l'on entendit soudain comme une petite pluie pressée de tic, tic, tic...

— Bon ! pensa Bourdais ; ça commence ! ça promet ! Jolie invention !

De ses doigts agiles, la jeune fille frappait les touches ; on eût dit qu'elle jouait sur un petit piano baroque. Habile, elle ne tarda pas à avoir copié ses trois lettres, tandis que Bourdais, l'air renfrogné, s'était replongé dans ses feuillets. Il jetait des coups d'œil furtifs sur l'employée et il ne pouvait se défendre d'une sympathie envers elle.

— Pauvre enfant ! C'est vrai qu'elle est gentille ! Et l'air si comme il faut !

Sa besogne terminée, la jeune fille se décidait à parler pour demander à Bourdais ce qu'elle devait faire. Celui-ci, un peu apprivoisé, entama une petite conversation ; puis, tout à coup :

— Au fait, mademoiselle, on ne m'a pas dit votre nom ; il faut que je le sache.

Doucement, elle déclara :

— Je me nomme Eveline Bourdais.

Le commis principal reçut un choc en pleine poitrine ; d'une voix étouffée, il murmura un « oh ! » plaintif. Et, dressé soudain, s'avançant vers la jeune fille, il reprit, d'une voix sourde :

— Bourdais ! Eveline Bourdais !... Moi aussi, je me nomme Bourdais !

Très pâle, l'employée s'était levée à son tour. Les yeux dilatés, les lèvres tremblantes, elle regardait cet homme et, comme lui, elle eut un « oh ! » de surprise, d'effroi.

— Quoi ! vous seriez ?...

Mais il eut peur de se tromper, de s'égarer sur une similitude de noms. Il l'interrogea, et le résultat de l'enquête ne laissa aucun doute. Cette jeune fille était bien son enfant, celle que, jadis, sa femme lui avait volée avant même qu'elle fût au monde.

Il demanda encore :

— Mais elle ?... votre mère ?

Eveline eut un regard triste :

— Elle est morte ; vous voyez, je suis en deuil. Elle est morte, regrettant sa conduite passée. Elle m'a élevée avec soin, je vous le jure. Depuis cinq ans, elle me gardait auprès d'elle et menait une vie exemplaire. Elle m'a raconté toute son histoire ; mais ce n'est pas à moi de la blâmer. En mourant, elle m'a recommandé de chercher à retrouver mon père, ce qu'elle n'avait pas osé faire elle-même, et de le supplier de lui pardonner... Elle se repentait.

Eveline pleurait, Bourdais s'essuyait les yeux.

Enfin, il put dominer son émotion, et ce fut pour ouvrir ses bras à l'enfant retrouvée.

— Nous serons deux, maintenant ; j'ai droit à ma retraite dans quelques mois, nous vivrons heureux... ma fille !

Et il sentit une joie immense quand Eveline, l'embrassant tendrement, lui répondit :

— Oui... papa !

A cet instant, Gervais, entr'ouvrant la porte, aperçut Bourdais et Eveline échangeant de tendres baisers. Il allait s'en retourner, stupéfait, mais Bourdais le rappela gaiement :

— Venez, entrez, mon cher ! Vous vous rappelez que je ne voulais pas d'une femme dans mon bureau, n'est-ce pas? Eh bien ! c'est à n'y pas croire ; c'est à s'imaginer un miracle !

Et, prenant la main d'Eveline :

— Mon cher ami, je vous présente ma fille !

Très vite, il ajouta :

— Je vous conterai cela tout à l'heure. Pour l'instant, je cours chez M. Lavigne. Il faut que je lui parle sur-le-champ !

Il sortit, suivi de Gervais qui, en lui-même, songeait :

— Sa fille ? Ça, c'est un peu fort, par exemple ! Cela devient du roman !... C'est peut-être bien un roman de jeunesse, tout de même ! Mais alors, c'est bien le plus joli qu'il ait jamais inventé !

Adrienne Cambry.

Le grand voyage

Sept heures sonnaient. Sur les toits du quartier Latin, le jour descendait lentement, accrochant des rideaux de pourpre et d'or aux vitres des mansardes. Sept heures, un peu plus loin, sonnèrent encore.

A cet instant précis, M. Antoine Parigot ouvrit sa fenêtre et, son pot à eau en main, se mit à arroser ses géraniums. A cette opération poétique, il mettait un soin méticuleux, une conscience mathématique, un sérieux, enfin, digne de plus austères fonctions. Il est vrai qu'Antoine Parigot, depuis l'âge de dix-huit ans — et il en avait maintenant quarante — était comptable chez M. Martin, droguiste, rue de l'École-de-Médecine.

L'application dévotieuse avec laquelle, chez son patron, il alignait les additions, il la continuait, chez lui, jusque dans les actes les plus simples de sa vie privée.

— Bonjour, monsieur Antoine, dit une voix.

A la fenêtre voisine, une jeune fille arrosait pareillement des géraniums. M. Parigot, très timide malgré son âge, balbutia :

— Bonjour, mademoiselle Jeanne ! Il a fait bien beau temps aujourd'hui !

— Cela va continuer. Le baromètre est au beau fixe.

— Tant mieux !

— Cela doit vous faire plaisir ! Maintenant que vous n'êtes plus obligé d'aller à votre bureau.

— Mais j'y suis allé aujourd'hui, mademoiselle.

— Est-ce possible ?

— Il fallait bien finir le mois... Mais je n'y retournerai pas demain. C'est fini !

— En avez-vous de la chance !

Ah ! oui, il en avait de la chance, ce M. Parigot ! Ne venait-il pas d'hériter d'un de ses oncles, un inconnu ? et d'une fortune manifique, ma foi ! Seul, orphelin, il allait être riche ! riche et libre ! Devant ses yeux, les gouttes d'eau roulaient sur les pétales des géraniums comme des piécettes d'argent. Ah ! oui, il en avait de la chance !

Et M. Parigot, ayant dit bonsoir à sa jolie voisine, rentra dans sa chambre, s'assit devant sa table et songea :

Comment allait-il vivre ? Qu'allait-il faire de tout cet argent ? Il ne suffisait pas d'avoir donné à M. Martin sa démission de comptable. Puisque, désormais, il était indépendant, il lui fallait trouver des distractions agréables, réaliser quelques-uns de ses rêves ! Lié à sa tâche, il allait chaque jour, à huit heures du matin, de la rue Monsieur-le-Prince, où il habitait, à la rue de l'École-de-Médecine, où s'étalaient les tubes, bonbonnes, cornues et autres monstres de M. Martin, déjeunait à midi dans un petit restaurant du quartier et revenait chaque soir, à sept heures, de la rue de l'École-de-Médecine à la rue Monsieur-le-Prince. Des chiffres dansant dans sa tête, il arrosait ses géraniums à la belle saison, allait dîner, rentrait se coucher. Et c'était tout.

Mais voici que cette vie calme, austère et digne était bouleversée subitement par le fait d'une mort indifférente. M. Parigot n'était plus comptable. Il pouvait agir à sa guise, se moquer de l'heure, oublier le débit et l'avoir de M. Martin.

Cependant, malgré lui, M. Parigot repensait à sa cage de verre, à ses gros livres, à ses manches de lustrine. Il revoyait les bocaux pansus qui voisinaient avec son écritoire... Et soudain, de songer au soufre dont l'Italie foisonne, au platine que la Russie nous envoie et à maintes matières aussi étranges qu'étrangères, il se sentit pris violemment du désir des voyages.

Voyager, c'est-à-dire s'évader de l'habitude, enlever d'assaut des trains, des vapeurs, des voitures, prendre des rues, habiter des maisons, traverser des gares nouvelles, surtout dépenser de l'argent. Ce serait délicieux pour un ancien comptable, d'autant plus délicieux pour M. Parigot qu'il n'avait jamais quitté son quartier et que, comme tout bon Parisien, il ne connaissait Paris que par ouï-dire.

Il se rappelait bien avoir, une fois, franchi les ponts, gagné la rive droite de la Seine et poussé une pointe jusqu'à la place de l'Etoile. Mais c'était par un dimanche d'automne, maussade, pluvieux et froid. Au retour, il avait attrapé un rhume et, par suite, gardé deux jours la chambre. Une vague rancune lui en était restée contre tous ces quartiers lointains et fatidiques qu'il ignorait.

Aujourd'hui, tout était changé.

Cependant, M. Parigot mit son chapeau et, comme d'habitude, s'en fut au restaurant accoutumé où, pour un franc cinq, lui étaient donnés des aliments économiques.

Quelques camarades de table s'y trouvaient déjà, étonnés de son léger retard. Bientôt mis au courant, ils s'exclamèrent :

— En as-tu de la veine de pouvoir voyager !

— Oui, mais que me conseillez-vous d'aller voir tout d'abord ? s'enquit l'ancien comptable, hésitant.

— La Grèce, dit l'un. Antiquité ! déesses de marbre ! bandits !...

— L'Amérique, dit l'autre. Chicago ! cochons ! Niagara !...

— Le Japon, affirma un troisième.. Mousmés ! Bouddhas ! Eventails !

Le Japon, l'Amérique, la Grèce, évidemment, il irait voir ces pays tant vantés, et bien d'autres encore, mais par où commencer ? Voilà la question embarrassante !

Alors, brusquement, M. Parigot eut une révélation et s'écria :

— Pour commencer, je vais visiter Paris.

***

— Bonjour, monsieur Antoine, dit, le matin suivant, Mlle Jeanne. Vous n'arrosez pas vos géraniums ?

— Je n'ai pas le temps, mademoiselle. Je pars pour un grand voyage !

— Ah ! mon Dieu ! que me racontez-vous là ?

— C'est comme je vous le dis : un grand voyage ! Au revoir, mademoiselle Jeanne !

Et la jeune fille, sur une assurance aussi concluante, répondit :

— Alors, bon voyage, monsieur Parigot !

Insensible au sourire de sa jolie voisine, aux géraniums qui semblaient tendre leur pourpre vers son pot à eau, à tous les souvenirs de son ancienne existence qui lui répétaient tous bas : « M. Parigot, ne t'en va pas ! M. Parigot, ne t'en va pas !... », M. Parigot, canne à la main, chanson aux lèvres, descendit légèrement ses cinq étages et s'élança à la découverte de Paris.

Il gagna tout d'abord le boulevard Saint-Germain et le suivit jusqu'au Palais-Bourbon. En chemin, les tramways, les voitures, les automobiles l'effrayaient. Il s'en garait comme de monstres redoutables. Enfin la place de la Concorde, s'ouvrant béante devant lui, lui parut un désert sans limite. Il trembla.

« Sans conseil, sans guide, sans appui, s'avouait-il, je ne parviendrai jamais à mes fins. Paris est trop grand, trop dangereux, trop mystérieux ! Que vais-je devenir ? »

Par bonheur, il se souvint d'avoir appris quelque part l'existence d'agences étrangères qui se chargent de piloter leurs nationaux à travers la capitale.

« Pourquoi ne m'adresserais-je pas à l'une d'elles ? » se dit-il.

Et il s'empressa aussitôt d'aller trouver le directeur de la fameuse agence Cocorico and C°.

— Monsieur, lui dit-il, je voudrais visiter Paris, que je ne connais pas. Pourriez-vous m'adjoindre à l'un de ces groupes que vous promenez, à la suite d'un guide, parmi les monuments et les musées ?

— Vous habitez Paris, monsieur ?

— Certainement, depuis mon enfance.

— Eh bien ! ce n'est pas possible. Nous ne promenons ainsi que les voyageurs venant d'Angleterre, par bateau et par train spécialement organisés par notre agence.

— C'est désolant !

— Il y aurait bien un moyen d'arranger la chose, si vous tenez absolument à visiter Paris avec nous...

— Lequel, s'il vous plaît ?

— Ce serait de vous rendre tout d'abord à Londres, de vous faire inscrire, là-bas, pour un de nos départs, et de voyager avec les touristes venant de cette ville en France.

M. Antoine Parigot, décidé aux grands voyages, ne sourcilla pas. Ne faut-il pas savoir consentir des sacrifices pour satisfaire sa curiosité ? Il accepta.

***

L'ancien comptable, sans perdre une minute, courut à la gare s'enquérir des heures de départ. On lui signala un train pour Calais quelques heures après.

Tout allait bien ! Il profita de ce répit pour se transformer. Quand on voyage par les soins de la fameuse agence Cocorico and C°, on ne peut pas ressembler à un Parisien de la rue Monsieur-le-Prince !

Aussi M. Parigot se fit-il conduire dans un magasin anglais. Là, il fit emplette d'un complet rayé, d'une casquette à oreillettes, de souliers jaunes et de bas de laine.

Le résultat était déjà assez satisfaisant. Il voulut mieux. Pour compléter son ajustement, il acheta une pipe, des lunettes à branches d'or, un appareil photographique et un Bædecker. C'était à s'y méprendre !

Enfin, s'étant rendu propriétaire d'une énorme malle qu'il laissa vide, n'ayant rien à mettre dedans, il héla un fiacre et gagna la gare. Une heure lui restait encore avant le départ du train. Sa résolution fut vite prise. Il se rendit dans un bar où un cocktail, à renverser dix forts de la Halle, lui fut servi par un garçon en veste blanche.

A chacune de ses péripéties, M. Parigot se sentait devenir davantage britannique. Pour un peu, bien que ne l'ayant jamais appris, il aurait parlé anglais.

Enfin, la tête lourde, ahuri, légèrement affolé, il courut prendre un billet, enregistra ses bagages et s'écroula dans un compartiment. Quand le train partit, il dormait à poings fermés.

Les heures passèrent.

— Calais ! tout le monde descend !

L'employé dut secouer vigoureusement M. Parigot pour l'éveiller. De plus en plus ahuri et affolé, il s'empressa vers le bateau. La nuit était venue. On ne voyait rien. La mer était grosse. Pendant toute la traversée, l'infortuné comptable, roulé et cahoté au rythme inquiétant du roulis, ressemblait à quelque vieux tas de linges sales dans lequel, en passant, on donne du pied, sans souci. Malade au delà de ce qu'on peut imaginer, M. Parigot crut mourir.

Ah ! c'est beau de voyager !

Dès cet instant, il n'eut plus conscience de rien. Quand on le questionnait, il répondait invariablement :

— Je veux retourner à Paris !

Mais, comme son billet indiquait Londres comme destination, on l'emballait d'autorité vers la capitale anglaise. Il s'abandonnait à son malheureux sort. Enfin, ayant à peine mis le pied sur le quai de Charing

Cross, il courut au siège de l'agence Cocorico and Cº.

— Monsieur, s'écria-t-il, je veux retourner à Paris !

— C'est très simple, monsieur. Un train repart pour Douvres dans une demi-heure. Vous n'avez qu'à le prendre.

***

Le retour fut encore plus pénible. Il ne vit rien, n'entendit rien, ne comprit rien.

Entre deux soupirs, on l'entendait murmurer :

— Ah ! quand reverrai-je la rue Monsieur-le-Prince ?

C'était là son but, son idée fixe. Ses désirs vagabonds d'autrefois, il les répudiait maintenant. Rentrer chez lui, dans sa vieille rue, revoir sa chambre, sa petite fenêtre, ses géraniums, cela seul importait désormais à son âme casanière et simple.

Ah ! la maudite idée qu'il avait eue de vouloir voyager ! C'est très joli, la fortune, mais cela ne vous donne pas le pied marin et le goût des aventures !

Aussi, pourquoi son oncle inconnu l'avait-il institué son légataire universel ? Il ne lui avait rien fait pour cela. Ce sont des plaisanteries qui ne sont pas permises !

Mais, malgré tout, les pires choses ont les meilleurs destins. M. Antoine Parigot revit la rue Monsieur-le-Prince ; sous ses semelles victorieuses, il sentit craquer à nouveau les marches de son antique escalier. La main tremblante, il mit la clef dans la serrure. Sa chambre semblait l'attendre l'appeler. Il entra, courut à la fenêtre : ses géraniums, mourant de soif, retombaient lugubrement sur leurs tiges.

Alors, sans quitter son complet à carreaux, son Bædecker et son appareil photographique, il prit son pot-à-eau et arrosa les fleurs assoiffées.

— Eh quoi ! s'écria sa voisine, qui, penchée à sa fenêtre, le contemplait. Votre grand voyage est déjà fini ?

— Grâce à Dieu ! Jamais plus je n'essayerai de visiter Paris : c'est trop difficile.

— Mais alors, qu'allez-vous faire de votre fortune ?

— Mais, parbleu ! j'en ferai profiter celle à qui je ne déplairai pas trop !

Et comme Mlle Jeanne rougissait, M. Antoine Parigot, ayant du moins rapporté de ses pérégrinations quelque hardiesse, conclut, le sourire aux lèvres :

— Venez donc m'aider à arroser mes géraniums !

Roger Régis.

La nécrobie au collier roux

Au cours d'une promenade au Père-Lachaise, une humble tombe, perdue parmi l'océan de l'immense nécropole, une dalle sur laquelle la mousse étendait sa fine trame de velours vert, attira mes regards par sa simplicité et son abandon. Une croix de granit la surmontait, ornée d'une inscription latine presque complètement effacée par le temps.

En me penchant et en y apportant toute mon attention, je parvins à la déchiffrer. Elle n'eût rien dit à un indifférent, cette phrase plutôt énigmatique :

Necrobia ruficollis Latreillii salus

(La nécrobie au collier roux, salut de Latreille).

Mais, à moi, elle rappelait un des plus extraordinaires épisodes de la Terreur, une de ces invraisemblables histoires vraies, comme on en rencontre à chaque pas dans les annales des peuples.

Cette histoire, je l'avais retenue en des circonstances bizarres. Un jour que je jouais, dans le jardin public de Nice, devant le banc où ma mère était assise, un de mes compagnons de jeu s'arrêta dans ses ébats pour écraser un insecte qui cheminait tranquillement.

Un grand vieillard, qui nous regardait, se leva brusquement, fit dévier le pied de mon camarade et le retint jusqu'à ce que la bestiole eût disparu ; comme l'autre faisait mine de protester, il se fâcha :

— Que vous avait fait cette bête ?

— Rien...

— Alors, pourquoi alliez-vous l'écraser ?

— Parce que...

— Parce que quoi ?

— Parce que... parce que... je ne sais pas...

— Naturellement, mon petit ami, vous seriez bien embarrassé de le dire. Et ce n'est pas votre faute. Vous avez vu vos parents, vos camarades agir de la sorte, vous faites comme eux, c'est tout naturel. Vous ne raisonnez pas encore. Personne ne vous a dit que cette bestiole avait le droit de vivre comme vous, comme moi. Que tant qu'elle ne vous attaquait pas, vous deviez la respecter, absolument comme une personne. Eh bien, puisqu'on ne vous l'a pas dit, je vous l'apprends, moi. Sachez qu'il n'est pas d'insecte, si infime qu'il soit, qui n'ait son utilité et ne rende parfois des services, de grands services. Si même vous vouliez écouter une histoire à ce sujet...

— Une histoire ? Oh ! dites, monsieur.

Je m'étais approché, d'autres enfants aussi, sans compter nos parents qui avaient, avec déférence, fait place sur le banc au grand vieillard sévère.

— Vous avez certainement entendu parler, nous dit-il, de la grande Révolution de 1789 et des années terribles qui la suivirent. Or, à cette époque, à Bordeaux, on jeta en prison, au fort du Hâ, un ancien prêtre nommé Latreille, qui était aussi un grand savant.

Cet homme passait presque toute son existence dans la campagne, étudiant avec une patience de sauvage les mœurs des insectes. Parfois, il demeurait des heures entières, couché devant un tas de pierres ou un buisson, pour tâcher d'y surprendre les secrets de leur existence. Ces allures bizarres avaient attiré sur lui les soupçons. Le bruit se répandit que c'était un espion des Girondins, qu'il communiquait avec ceux de leurs partisans qui s'étaient réfugiés dans des souterrains inaccessibles. Il n'en fallait pas davantage. La police lui mit la main au collet. En attendant son jugement, on le mit dans un cachot du fort du Hâ, ce qui voulait dire qu'on le considérait comme un conspirateur extrêmement dangereux. C'était le désigner à l'échafaud.

Par bonheur pour lui, des incidents plus importants que sa capture détournèrent momentanément l'attention de sa personne.

L'émotion, la privation d'air et de liberté, la rigueur du régime auquel le prisonnier était soumis altérèrent profondément sa santé. Si peu tendres que fussent les geôliers, ils finirent par s'émouvoir, et un matin la porte du cachot s'ouvrit pour laisser entrer le médecin de la prison.

Le malade, assis sur son lit, était occupé à suivre les ébats d'un petit insecte aux reflets métalliques.

Au médecin qui s'étonnait de ce passe-temps futile chez un homme compromis dans d'aussi graves affaires que celle qui avait amené son arrestation, il répondit :

« — Je m'intéresse à ce petit insecte parce qu'il est excessivement rare de le rencontrer en pareilles circonstances. C'est la nécrobie au collier roux. Elle ne se trouve, d'habitude, que dans les tombeaux ou sur les cadavres. Sa présence vient me rappeler que je suis dans une tombe et que je n'en sortirai probablement que pour aller à la mort !

» — En attendant, laisse-moi toujours te soigner, citoyen, dit le médecin, ému. Nous aviserons pour le reste. »

En sortant du fort, le médecin se rendit chez un célèbre naturaliste bordelais, avec lequel il était en relations d'amitié, et lui conta l'aventure.

« — Parbleu ! citoyen docteur, vous avez bien raison de m'avertir. Au signalement que vous m'en faites, je reconnais le fameux entomologiste Latreille, une des lumières de la science moderne, un des membres les plus distingués de la Société d'histoire naturelle de Paris. Il est évidemment innocent comme l'enfant qui vient de naître. Venez avec moi chez Tallien, il ne faut pas qu'il laisse un jour de plus sous les verrous ce brave et honnête homme, qui n'a jamais conspiré qu'avec les fourmis ou les coléoptères. »

Le représentant du peuple écouta le récit qu'on lui faisait et convint qu'un homme occupant ses heures de prison à de pareilles études ne devait pas être un conspirateur de premier ordre.

Le temps de prendre les renseignements indispensables, qui, tous, démontrèrent la parfaite innocence de Latreille, Tallien signa l'exeat libérateur qui sauvait le grand entomologiste de l'échafaud ou de la déportation, sans jugement, aux rives peu enchanteresses de Cayenne.

Voilà, mes chers enfants, comment un petit insecte, trouvé par hasard dans son sinistre cachot, fut la cause effective de la délivrance de ce savant homme qui, depuis, dota la France d'admirables études sur la plupart de ses insectes, de ses reptiles et de ses mollusques...

Telle fut l'histoire que nous raconta, au jardin public de Nice, le grand vieillard sévère, qui n'était autre qu'Alphonse Karr, l'illustre auteur des Guêpes, histoire qui me revint à l'esprit devant l'inscription, brodée de mousse par les années, qui s'efface chaque jour davantage sur l'humble tombe de Latreille.

Paul Nagour.

La bonne marraine

Joseph Hémair, un gamin de dix ans, ayant consulté le calendrier, bondit de joie, tel un jeune chamois qui apprend à sauter à la corde, quand il sut que son anniversaire tombait à la fin du mois. En comptant sur ses doigts, il calcula que dans dix jours il serait fixé sur la générosité de sa marraine, Mlle Joséphine Hémair, une sœur aînée de son papa, sa tante aussi, par conséquent.

Immédiatement, il supputait, en sa jeune cervelle, quel serait le merveilleux cadeau dont il serait redevable à sa générosité, qualité qu'elle possédait à un degré si modeste que, jusqu'à présent, elle n'avait pas eu le loisir de se manifester. Mais avec l'espoir, le bel espoir qui caractérise l'enfance, Joseph se disait que les années se suivent et ne se ressemblent pas ; qu'il en serait peut-être de même pour les cadeaux. Que recevrait-il prochainement ? Serait-ce une panoplie, un costume de spahi, un chemin de fer marchant à la vapeur, un bateau mécanique, un beau livre d'histoires avec des images, ou bien une somme d'argent pour acheter ce que bon lui semblerait ?

L'impatient et imaginatif garçonnet échafaudait, la journée durant, quantités de rêves que son sommeil prolongeait.

Enfin, l'anniversaire tant attendu arriva et la marraine également. Comme c'était un dimanche, Mme Hémair avait mis les petits plats dans les grands pour fêter cet heureux jour qui lui avait donné le fils tant souhaité, et sa belle-sœur avait été conviée, ainsi qu'ils avaient l'habitude de le faire, à partager ce petit festin sans prétention.

Joseph ayant embrassé sa tante et marraine avec une fougue décuplée par l'intérêt, s'aperçut tout d'abord qu'elle s'était affranchie du moindre paquet. Il en conclut aussitôt que le cadeau se traduirait par une somme d'argent et attendit fiévreusement la fin du repas.

Au dessert, marraine Joséphine tirait de sa poche un vaste porte-monnaie de bouvier et, devant les yeux de son filleul, luisants de convoitise, en sortait un minuscule paquet rectangulaire, soigneusement enveloppé de papier blanc et lié par un élastique.

— C'est au moins deux billets de cent francs ! pensait Joseph, dont le cœur battait à se rompre, et qui se demandait anxieusement à quoi il pourrait bien employer une pareille fortune.

Lentement, comme à plaisir, Mlle Hémair développait le paquet mignon, en souriant de toutes ses quenottes déchaussées à son filleul angoissé.

Le paquet, libéré de son enveloppe, laissa voir un microscopique volume, ressemblant à s'y méprendre aux petits calendriers de poche. La marraine le prit entre le pouce et l'index et, l'offrant à son filleul, qui écarquillait des yeux comme des lanternes d'auto, elle dit :

— Tiens, prends-le, c'est pour toi, mon cher petit Joseph ! Tu vois que je ne t'ai pas oublié !... Conserve ce petit livre en souvenir de ta marraine et lis-le attentivement. C'est intitulé : Les petites vertus. Si tu réussis à les pratiquer toutes, tu ressembleras à ton saint patron.

— Je te remercie, marraine, murmurait le pauvre Joseph, déconfit et le cœur bien gros, avec des larmes que la fierté séchait au bord de ses cils, cependant que les parents échangeaient un furtif regard et une moue de mépris où se lisait clairement la nature de leurs sentiments devant une pareille ladrerie. Il en résultait même un certain froid dont bénéficiaient seulement les carafes.

Les cadeaux dont le papa et la maman avaient jugé équitable de compenser la parcimonie de leur sœur et belle-sœur suffisaient à peine à cicatriser le ressentiment que Joseph portait à sa marraine. Il la connaissait pour être particulièrement gourmande et s'était bien promis de se venger dès que l'occasion s'en présenterait.

Il attendit patiemment ainsi la fin de l'année.

Quand arriva l'époque des étrennes, ce temps béni par les enfants et les concierges, mais si sincèrement exécré par les parents, Joseph, comme les années précédentes, fut chargé d'aller souhaiter la bonne année à sa tante et d'accompagner ses vœux d'un sac de marrons glacés. A ce moment, la tante Joséphine toussait lamentablement, et les parents pensaient, avec juste raison que, leur fils étant l'unique héritier, ce n'était pas le moment de la priver des attentions auxquelles elle était accoutumée.

Joseph trouvait sa marraine dans une chambre sans feu, pelotonnée dans un vieux fauteuil, et l'embrassait en formulant les vœux d'usage en pareil cas. Puis, après être resté quelques minutes assis bien sagement, en évitant de poser ses souliers boueux sur les barreaux de la chaise, il abrégeait sa visite et s'en allait après avoir eu soin de poser ostensiblement son paquet sur un meuble. Mais sitôt dans l'escalier, il se frottait les mains d'allégresse en songeant à la surprise qu'elle aurait en développant le paquet.

Le lendemain, sa mère, à l'heure du courrier, reconnaissait une enveloppe adressée à son fils : c'était l'écriture de marraine Joséphine ! Que pouvait-elle lui dire ?

— Joseph ! appelait Mme Hémair, ta marraine t'a écrit ; viens lire sa lettre...

Tremblant d'émotion, de peur aussi, le filleul décachetait le pli et lisait :

« Mon cher enfant, je te suis bien reconnaissante de tes vœux de bonne année.
» J'ai encore été plus sensible à ton gentil
» cadeau... Cette brique que tu m'as apportée m'a rendu grand service, car je la fais » chauffer au four ; de cette façon, je l'utilise comme chaufferette le jour et bassi» noire la nuit. Depuis que je l'utilise, je » tousse beaucoup moins... Sois persuadé,
» mon cher petit, que je n'oublierai point
» cette aimable attention.
» Embrasse tes parents pour moi comme
» t'embrasse ta tante et marraine affection-
» née.

« Joséphine Hémair. »

Devant le regard sévèrement interrogateur de ses parents, Joseph expliquait :

— Pardon, maman ; pardon, p'tit père ! J'ai voulu donner une leçon à marraine, à cause de son avarice, et j'ai remplacé les marrons glacés que je devais lui porter par une brique enveloppée dans du papier glacé et entouré d'une faveur.

— Malheureux enfant ! dit le papa, souriant malgré lui ; je te pardonne d'autant plus volontiers que tu seras sans doute la première victime de cette féroce plaisanterie... Plaise au ciel que je me trompe !

M. Hémair ne s'était pas trompé, hélas ! Marraine Joséphine décédait trois mois plus tard, instituant comme légataire universelle une petite cousine éloignée.

— Qu'est-ce que je t'avais dit ? déclarait M. Hémair, amèrement ironique. Ta vengeance s'est retournée contre toi... Pour te remercier de ta brique, ta marraine t'a fourni l'occasion de recevoir une tuile !

Jo. Valle.

MOTS POUR RIRE

— Tu sais, Maxime est mort !

— Ah ! le pauvre vieux ! lui qui fut un si bon vivant ! Au moins est-il mort gaiement ?

— Tu parles ! il s'est fait écraser par un train de plaisir !

Calino est homme de précaution. Désireux de se faire photographier pour donner à une carte d'identité une apparence d'indéniable authenticité, il dit à l'artiste :

— Vous savez, représentez-moi avec une barbe un peu forte, parce que j'ai l'intention de la laisser pousser.

Entre amis :

— Comment, Chabichou est devenu aveugle, me dites-vous ?

— Eh oui, le pauvre homme.

— Me voilà dans une belle situation : il m'a souscrit des billets à vue.

CONSEILS PRATIQUES

La salle à manger-salon

Dans ma dernière causerie, je vous ai, mes chères lectrices, exposé mes idées sur l'arrangement de la salle à manger ; je vais, aujourd'hui, non pas revenir sur ce sujet, mais chercher, avec quelques-unes d'entre vous, le meilleur moyen d'organiser une salle à manger-salon. Il n'est pas rare, en effet, qu'il soit impossible de consacrer une pièce uniquement aux réceptions et que l'on soit obligé d'accueillir ses visites dans un appartement dont ce n'est pas l'attribution spéciale.

Dans ce cas, c'est la salle à manger qui jouera ce double rôle ; beaucoup de femmes âgées reçoivent dans leur chambre, mais c'est là un privilège de l'âge qu'il serait incorrect qu'une jeune femme s'attribue.

Ce que j'ai dit de la façon dont on meublait les salles à manger modernes nous aidera considérablement à organiser une pièce destinée à recevoir ; si mes lectrices s'en souviennent, il avait été question de la suppression du buffet, remplacé par des étagères garnies de rideaux, et de celle de la suspension, aujourd'hui très démodée, en sorte qu'il faut bien peu de chose pour que cette pièce prenne, non pas l'aspect guindé du salon traditionnel, avec canapé imposant et sièges monotones alignés en bataillon, mais bien plutôt celui d'un « hall » de petite dimension, d'un « studio » coquet, familial, intime, dans lequel on se plaît à lire, à coudre, à bavarder avec une amie en lui offrant une tasse de thé.

De la salle à manger précédemment décrite, on gardera tout, en effet ; la grande simplicité dans l'arrangement des fenêtres, les rideaux de cretonne lavable, les étagères sur lesquelles on posera deux ou trois vases pour les fleurs, des vases de formes harmonieuses et très simples, en cuivre, en étain ou en poteries vernissées rustiques.

La table, seule, disparaîtra en dehors de l'heure des repas. On la choisira donc en bois blanc, très légère et pliante, facile à transporter et à ranger dans un débarras ; deux tréteaux, sur lesquels on pose une grande planche dans le genre des tables d'architecte, sont aussi très pratiques.

Les sièges seront un peu modifiés. Les chaises pourront être laquées en vert d'eau ou en blanc-gris, et, sur la paille, on posera des coussins de cretonne assortis aux rideaux ; quelques fauteuils, qui pourront être de simples fauteuils de jardin passés à la peinture laquée et joliment habillés, eux aussi, de coussins de fantaisie, formeront, avec les chaises, un délicieux ensemble.

Une table gigogne, repoussée dans un coin pendant les repas, éparpillera ses tablettes quand la salle à manger redeviendra salon, et permettra ainsi de poser, à droite ou à gauche, ici et là, un ouvrage, un livre, les tasses du goûter, une lampe, un bibelot.

Une salle à manger, aussi bien qu'un salon de ce genre, peut parfaitement se passer de tapis ; un parquet bien entretenu est plus joli qu'un tapis médiocre ; si toutefois le parquet était d'un bois défectueux et mal joint, on pourrait le recouvrir en partie d'une natte de Chine qui ne serait nullement déplacée au milieu de cet ameublement un peu rustique ; on fait aussi, aujourd'hui, des tapis d'aloès dans des teintes et des dessins fort artistiques et dont l'effet serait plus heureux encore. Si je ne conseille pas les tapis de moquette, c'est qu'ils seraient peu à leur place dans une salle à manger, où ils tacheraient facilement et s'imprégneraient peut-être d'une odeur de cuisine fâcheuse.

Si l'on peut avoir quelques plantes vertes à mettre dans les coins, le charme de ce décor sera complété, et je crois que l'on pourrait ainsi faire de cette pièce un abri délicieux pour la causerie, en même temps qu'une salle à manger amusante, imprévue, ayant la gaîté d'un de ces intérieurs de cotage, comme nos voisins d'outre-Manche excellent à en imaginer.

GRACIA.

MOTS EN CARRÉ

Port de l'Algérie. — Un joyeux festin. — Folâtre, enjoué. — Du Pérou lointain C'est un port. — Enfin, dans les Pyrénées, Modeste chef-lieu d'arrondissement. — Autre sens ensuite : Au gouvernement Donne un revenu depuis des années. — Perdu au hasard, troublé fortement. — Point du ciel noté comme hypothétique. — Pourrait s'appliquer à tout condiment. — Dans beaucoup d'Etats un corps politique.

UN ALLOBROGE.

AVIS AUX DEVINEURS

Les solutions doivent être parvenues le MARDI au plus tard au rédacteur en chef du Supplément illustré du Petit Journal.

SOLUTION

de la Croix fédérale (n° 834)

C A B
A N E
C A B A N O N
A N A B A S E
B E N A R E S
O S É
N E S

SOLUTIONS JUSTES

des Mots en Echiquier (n° 833)

René et Lucienne. — Gravisse. — A.-G. Monamptcuil. — Octave Clin. — Un spirite. — Cyrille Symoens. — Me Tafer. — Félix Renault. — Alexandrine de Fomerey. — A. Marchal fils. — Georges Touzé.

Demandez au voisin

Une jeune fille de Clichy guérie par les pilules Pink

Ce cas nous intéresse d'autant plus que la personne guérie habite plus près de nous. Il s'agit de Mlle Jeanne Cullière, qui habite chez ses parents, 13, rue Martissot, à Clichy. Nous donnons ici la photographie de la jeune fille, dont la famille est bien connue. La mère de Mlle Cullière nous écrivait dernièrement :

« Ma fille Jeanne à la suite d'une maladie aigue était devenue très anémique. Elle était d'une grande pâleur, elle ne mangeait plus, elle avait constamment des faiblesses et la nuit ne parvenait pas à dormir. L'enfant se sentait si mal qu'elle avait été prise par les idées noires. Il faut dire qu'elle se désespérait parce qu'elle voyait qu'elle ne guérissait pas malgré les médicaments. J'étais désespérée moi-même et je ne savais plus quoi faire. J'avais souvent entendu dire de différents côtés : Oh ! les pilules Pink m'ont fait beaucoup de bien. » J'ai pensé que les pilules Pink feraient beaucoup de bien aussi à ma fille. Elle les a prises et, effectivement, après en avoir pris une boîte, elle se sentait un peu mieux. Elle a pris encore deux boîtes et cela a été suffisant pour la rétablir complètement. Elle est maintenant aussi gaie qu'elle était triste, elle a repris de bonnes couleurs, elle a de nouveau bon appétit, elle est forte et elle dort bien. »

Mlle Jeanne Cullière
Cl. Photo Moderne

La belle saison est finie, la morte saison est finie aussi. Toutes les petites ouvrières parisiennes vont avoir plus de travail qu'il ne serait nécessaire pour leurs forces. S'il y en a qui se sentent fatiguées, qu'elles prennent les pilules Pink. Les pilules Pink les préserveront de l'anémie, cette vilaine maladie qui leur prend leurs belles couleurs.

Les pilules Pink donnent du sang et des forces, développent l'appétit, facilitent les digestions, régularisent les fonctions. Elles sont souveraines contre l'anémie, la chlorose, la neurasthénie, la faiblesse générale, les maux d'estomac, rhumatismes, irrégularités.

Elles sont en vente dans toutes les pharmacies et au dépôt, Phie Gablin, 23, rue Ballu, Paris. Fr. 3.50 la boîte, fr.17.50 les 6 boîtes, franco.

Exigez les véritables pilules Pink, celles dont les boîtes portent les mots « Pilules Pink pour personnes pâles ».

PUISSANCE ET AUTORITE SUR TOUS INDIVIDUS
par le Magnétisme et l'Hypnotisme
On obtient obéissance et exécution des ordres de près comme de loin ; guérison sans frais des mauvaises habitudes, des maladies physiques et morales ; gains de procès ; réussite dans les affaires ; supériorité invincible ; amour, mariage, bonheur et richesses. Brochure envoyée gratis. Ecrire à TENOS, 99, rue des Boulets. Paris

BARBE ET MOUSTACHES MAGNIFIQUES même à 15 ans avec l'Extrait Capillaire Végétal. Fait repousser chev. et cils. 60.000 attest. Gde flac. 3f. Flac. 1f75. Fl. essai 0f75 fco timb. ou mdt. POUJOL Fils, P. Chimte à Carcassonne (Aude)

VOULEZ-VOUS RIRE ??
Demand. tous à DONADEY, 53, R. N.-D.-de-Nazareth, Paris ses Catalog. illustr. de farces, attrapes, surpr., déguis., cartes, lettres d'Avril, phys. amus., truc inéd., chansons, monol., inst. de musiq., bijoux, cartes postales, imageries p. fêtes, art. utiles. Envoi gratis.

LE SUCCÈS VOUS ATTEND!

L'Occasion de le réaliser se présente à vous !

LA SAISIREZ-VOUS ?

Désirez-vous réaliser vos ambitions, atteindre un idéal des plus élevés et satisfaire les plus nobles aspirations de votre cœur ? Heureux de vous savoir possédé du pouvoir, sans doute vous aimeriez atteindre des honneurs encore plus grands, une position plus élevée soit dans la profession que vous exercez, soit dans la position sociale que vous occupez ? Peut-être souhaiteriez-vous tourner l'insuccès en succès, être aimé, avoir du bonheur, des amis ?

Le pouvoir secret, grâce auquel vous pourriez accomplir toutes ces choses, réside en vous-même à l'état latent : il ne demande qu'à être développé ! Tout ce qui est séduisant chez l'homme ; tout ce qui, dans sa nature, est susceptible de lui faire faire le bien ; toutes ces qualités qui aident l'homme à s'élever dans le monde, proviennent de son magnétisme personnel.

Vous pouvez développer ce pouvoir remarquable en quelques jours, chez vous, à l'insu de vos amis les plus chers. Il vous est loisible de vous rendre maître de cette science, si intimement liée à vous-même — si remplie de surprises étonnantes — qui gouverne la volonté et pétrit l'intelligence de l'homme !

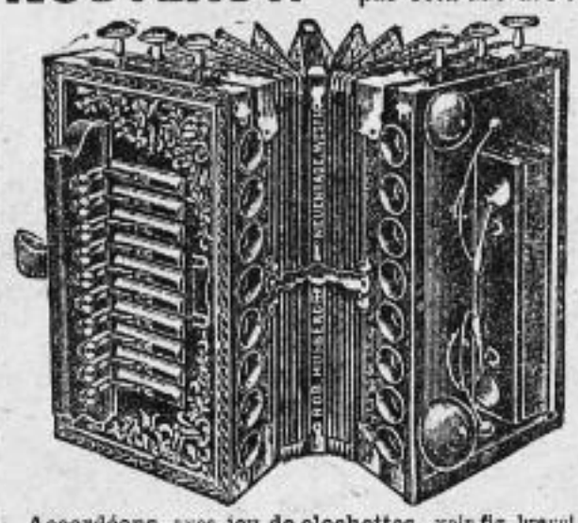
En effet, il existe un livre donnant la clé du Magnétisme personnel, révélant les secrets de l'Hypnotisme et mettant à nu la science de l'Influence personnelle. Cet ouvrage, publié en français, très étendu, contenant 400 pages, est dû à la plume du Docteur X. La Motte Sage, l'autorité la plus compétente du monde entier.

Il sera envoyé, gratis et franco, à tous ceux qui en feront la demande. Ecrivez-nous aujourd'hui même et vous le recevrez par retour du courrier. Affranchissez votre lettre d'un timbre de 25 centimes ou employez une carte postale de 10 centimes. Adresse :

"NEW YORK INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE",
DEPT. BA. 30., ROCHESTER, N. Y. (E. U. D'A.)

DECOUVERTE POUR MAIGRIR SANS DANGER. Indication gratis et franco, par lettre fermée. Ecr. à M. CHARDON 10, r. St-Lazare, Paris.

L'ASSURANCE DOTALE



Le moyen le plus sûr et le plus commode de préparer une dot à ses enfants est de souscrire une assurance dotale.

La Compagnie d'Assurances Générales sur la Vie, 87, rue de Richelieu, à Paris, fondée en 1819, est la plus ancienne des Compagnies similaires du continent européen. (Fonds de garantie : 825 millions entièrement réalisés.)

Envoi gratuit de notices et tarifs sur demande.

Tôles ondulées p. Toits. — Charpentes économ. PAS PRIX. — LAILLET, ING.-C, CITÉ CONDORCET, Paris.

NOUVEAU !! Vous ne trouverez pas cela ailleurs !

Accordéons avec jeu de clochettes voir fig. brevet français n° 360078) et appareil à trémolos ressemblant à un orgue de barbarie italien, avec 10 touches, 2 Contrebasses ne coûte que 5 fr. 90. Le même magnifique accordéon à 3 chœurs avec 70 voix ne coûte que 7 fr. 90 ; à 4 chœurs avec 90 voix 9 fr. 90 seulement ; à 5 chœurs avec 110 voix, 13 fr. 40 seulement ; à 6 chœurs avec 130 voix 14 fr. 90 seulement. Avec 21 touches, 110 voix, 4 contrebasses, le prix n'est que de 12 fr. 90. Méthode d'après laquelle tout le monde, même les enfants, peuvent apprendre de suite à jouer seuls gratis. Envoi contre remboursement. Port 1 fr. 25. Port de lettres pour l'Allemagne, 0 fr. 25.
Nouveau et joli Catalogue gratis.
Ne commandez qu'à la Grande Fabrique d'Accordéons de Neuenrade
Robert HUSBERG NEUENRADE N° 117 (Allemagne)

ON RIT on s'amuse avec nos Jeux de Société, nos 5 cart. post. ill. attrap. nos 10 p. livres joyeux, amus. nos 3 let. comiq. et joli cadeau d'art, le tout fco en timb. ou mandat. LA NOUVELLE, 11, rue Espérance, Lille (Nord) 1f25

IMPUISSANCE
PAIEMENT après GUÉRISON
Guérison radicale infaillible et immédiate de l'IMPUISSANCE des 2 sexes, Jeunes ou Vieux "TRAITEMENT INDIEN"
NOTICE GRATUITE sous pli fermé. PAIEMENT après GUÉRISON
Direct. de la PHARMACIE, 6, Rue Feydeau, PARIS. Téléph. 220-95

CADEAU PRIME à TOUT ACHETEUR
Demandez gratis-franco, l'album du GRAND COMPTOIR NATIONAL D'HORLOGERIE de BESANÇON.
Choix unique de Montres, Pendules Bijouterie pour Mariage. Nouvelle Montre Chronom. LA NATIONALE 28 fr. gar. 10 ans Ecrire E DUPAS BESANÇON, Doubs

BON POUR UN LIVRE GRATUIT

Le R. P. Henry, du monastère de la Trappe, avant son départ pour l'exil, a fait à son parent, M. PELLETAN, à Sablé (Sarthe) un celui de toutes ses merveilleuses recettes pour guérir radicalement et à peu de frais : MALADIES DE LA PEAU (Dartres, Eczemas, etc.), RHUMES, TUBERCULOSE, bronchites, ANÉMIE, pâles couleurs, DIABÈTE, ALBUMINURIE, gravelle, goutte, RHUMATISMES, Maladies du COEUR, VARICES, plaies et ulcères variqueux, HÉMORROÏDES, toutes les Maladies de l'ESTOMAC, etc. Détacher le présent Bon, B.50. et l'adr. à M. Pelletan, à Sablé-sur-Sarthe, qui enverra gratuitement, à tous ceux qui lui en feront la demande, un livre qui contient les différents modes de traitement des maladies, et de nombreux témoignages de guérisons.

LEGS IMPORTANT

HERNIE GUÉRIE

par le Nouveau BANDAGE MEYRIGNAC
Accepté par la Société de Chirurgie de Paris.
Recommandé par les Membres du Corps Médical.
Cet appareil en forme d'arbalète est invisible sur le corps ; supprime le ressort du dos et le sous-cuisse. Le malade peut se livrer à tous les travaux sans éprouver de gêne. Par sa pression constante il mène à la guérison Env. Catalogue. MEYRIGNAC, Spécialiste-Herniaire, 229, Rue St-Honoré, Paris.

RETARD des EPOQUES Notice gratuite sous pli fermé. — Résultat surprenant immédiat.
Pharmacie des Produits Orientaux, 5, Rue Saint-Marc, PARIS.

CHRONOMÈTRES LIP
Montres de précision
BERTHET
dépositaire
1, BOULEVARD SAINT-DENIS, PARIS
Catalogue illustré gratis et franco

RIRE s'amuser, amuser la société, demander les 3 catalog. Farces, Attrapes, Chansons, Physique, Magie, Magnétisme, Hypnotisme, etc. Gratis. BAUDOT, 8, Rue des Carmes, Paris. CARTES POSTALES. Gros, détail.

ROYAL WINDSOR
LE CÉLÈBRE
RÉGÉNÉRATEUR DES CHEVEUX

AVEZ-VOUS DES CHEVEUX GRIS ?
AVEZ-VOUS DES PELLICULES ?
VOS CHEVEUX TOMBENT-ILS ?
SI OUI
Employez le ROYAL WINDSOR. Ce produit par excellence rend aux Cheveux gris la couleur et la beauté naturelles de la jeunesse. Il arrête la chute des Cheveux et fait disparaître les Pellicules. Résultats inespérés. Exiger sur les flacons les mots ROYAL WINDSOR. Chez les Coiffeurs-Parfumeurs, en flacons et demi-flacons. — Envoi franco sur demande du prospectus contenant détails et attestations. — Entrepôt : 28, rue d'Enghien, PARIS.

OUTILS pour AMATEURS et INDUSTRIE
TOURS | MACHINES | Fournitures pour le DÉCOUPAGE
Album-Tarif (plus de 1000 GRAVURES) franco contre 60 centimes.
Paris, LE MELLE, Ingénieur-E.-C., 42, Rue Lafayette, PARIS

SAGE-FEMME 1re classe, prend pensionn. à Paris et à la campag. (Maison discrète). Place enfants. Mme SALMON, 55, Faub. Saint-Martin (1 h. à 5 heures).

TIR "EUREKA"

ÉVITEZ LES IMITATIONS
Catal. ill. fr. Établissements Kratz-Boussac (Paris Xe)

RETARD des ÉPOQUES. — Résultat immédiat. Notice Gratuite. — Dr L. EXCELSIOR, 102, Fg Poissonnière, Paris. Tél. 135-64

Envoi franco du TRAITEMENT du Dr JEFSON contre 6 fr. adress. Pharm. MITCHELL, 6, r. Feydeau, Paris-Bourse. Tél. 220-95. Ce médicament est infaillible dans tous les cas d'IRRÉGULARITÉ des ÉPOQUES ou de RETARD

Madame voulez-vous la santé, la beauté, un teint bien frais, bien pur, exempt de toute tache, de toute rougeur, de tout bouton, de jolis seins bien fermes et bien plantés, prenez aussitôt les Foudres de Cock. C'est aussi le meilleur remède pour guérir l'estomac, enrichir le sang et fortifier les nerfs. 2 fr. 50 la boîte dans toutes les pharmacies.

MÉNAGÈRES le LAVEUR américain lave le linge sans usure en 15 minutes et sans fatigue. Dem. Catal. ill. DUCLION, 47, rue Bouquière, BORDEAUX (Agents dem.).

NOUVEAU !! NE S'EST PAS ENCORE VU
Un accordéon d'artiste à 3 chœurs, avec 10 touches, 70 voix, 6 registres, musique d'orgue d'un prix exceptionnel de Fr. 6.25

Müchler's Accordéon "TRIOMPHE" connu partout, construction extra-grande, ton d'orgue très magnifique, ne coûte que :

Avec 10 touches :
3 chœurs, 51 voix. Frs		5.30
3 — 71	—	7.25
4 — 90	—	9.25
6 — 131	—	14.25
Avec 21 touches :
4 contrebasses, 110 voix		10.25

Avec notre brevet "Appel de Coucou" 65 cts en plus et avec "Jeu de cloches" 40 cts en plus. — Méthode française pour apprendre seul à jouer gratis. — Envoi contre remboursement, port 1 fr. 25. — Catalogue illustré gratis.
PRIX D'UN BON MARCHÉ SURPRENANT
Ne commandez qu'à la Fabrique d'Accordéons la plus importante.
MÜCHLER et Comp. NEUENRADE N° 100 (Allemagne).

Contre les MALADIES de la PEAU, du FOIE, de l'ESTOMAC, la BILE, les GLAIRES, la CONSTIPATION et les Maladies qui en dérivent, les grands docteurs n'emploient que la
TISANE BONNARD Dépuratif Laxatif
Infaillible 0.75 la boîte fco par la poste. 46, r. des Amandiers, Paris.

Franco à l'essai. — Spécimen des
MONTRES et BIJOUX TRIBAUDEAU
1er Prix au Concours National de Réglage (Observatoire de Besançon 1905).
G. TRIBAUDEAU, Fabricant Principal à BESANÇON

livre directement au Public chaque année plus de 500.000 : MONTRES, CHRONOMÈTRES, BIJOUX, PENDULES, ORFÈVRERIE, RÉPARATIONS Une PRIME accompagne chaque envoi. Franco Tarif illustré.

IMPUISSANCE PAIEMENT après GUÉRISON
Résultat immédiat. — Notice gratuite sous pli fermé.
Direct. de la Pharmacie, 6, Rue Feydeau, PARIS. Téléph. 220-95.

ANGLAIS ALLEM. ITAL. ESP. RUSS. PORTU. appris SEUL en 4 mois, beaucoup mieux qu'avec professeur. Nouvelle Méthode parlante-progressive, pratique, facile, infaillible, donne la Vraie prononciation exacte du pays même, le PUR ACCENT. Preuve-essai, 1 langue, fco, envoyer 90 c. (hors France 1.10) mandat ou timb. poste français à Maître Populaire, 13-2, r. Montholon, Paris.

HALTE-LA ! C'est ici qui sont !! les bonnes farces, les trucs épatants, vrais tours Physique, de Magie, Sorcellerie, Magnétisme, Hypnotisme, Chansons, Monologues, Pièces de théât. succès, Cartes postales comiq. Librairie spéciale Inventions nouvell., prod de beauté, en en envoyant 0f30 à la Société Gaîté française 65, r. du Faub. St-Denis, Paris ; vous recevrez de suite ALBUM ILLUSTRÉ 1907, 150 pag. av. 350 grav. comiq. et 4 primes extraordinaires, de quoi rire, s'amuser des mois et faire fortune.

APIOL JORET ET HOMOLLE
guérit RETARDS, DOULEURS, REGULARISE LES ÉPOQUES. — 165, Rue St-Honoré, PARIS. Le Flac. 4f60 franco

LE
Petit Journal illustré de la Jeunesse

Belles illustrations. — Concours variés. — Primes

16 pages illustrées en couleurs, 10 centimes

CYCLES MÉRICANT Maison de Confiance
13, Av. des Moulineaux, PARIS-BILLANCOURT
Catalogue franco. PRIX de GROS aux Intermédiaires

LE GÉRANT : G. LASSEUR

G. MARTY, imprimeur, 61, rue Lafayette.

Imprimé sur la machine rotative chromo-typo de MARINONI
(Encres Lorilleux)

SUR LA FRONTIERE ALGÉRO-MAROCAINE

Un détachement français châtie une troupe de pillards marocains

BnF Gallica

Le Petit journal. Supplément du dimanche

Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France

BnF Gallica

. Le Petit journal. Supplément du dimanche. 1907-09-15.

1/ Les contenus accessibles sur le site Gallica sont pour la plupart des reproductions numériques d'oeuvres tombées dans le domaine public provenant des collections de la BnF. Leur réutilisation s'inscrit dans le cadre de la loi n°78-753 du 17 juillet 1978 :
- La réutilisation non commerciale de ces contenus ou dans le cadre d'une publication académique ou scientifique est libre et gratuite dans le respect de la législation en vigueur et notamment du maintien de la mention de source des contenus telle que précisée ci-après : « Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France » ou « Source gallica.bnf.fr / BnF ».
- La réutilisation commerciale de ces contenus est payante et fait l'objet d'une licence. Est entendue par réutilisation commerciale la revente de contenus sous forme de produits élaborés ou de fourniture de service ou toute autre réutilisation des contenus générant directement des revenus : publication vendue (à l'exception des ouvrages académiques ou scientifiques), une exposition, une production audiovisuelle, un service ou un produit payant, un support à vocation promotionnelle etc.

CLIQUER ICI POUR ACCÉDER AUX TARIFS ET À LA LICENCE

2/ Les contenus de Gallica sont la propriété de la BnF au sens de l'article L.2112-1 du code général de la propriété des personnes publiques.

3/ Quelques contenus sont soumis à un régime de réutilisation particulier. Il s'agit :

- des reproductions de documents protégés par un droit d'auteur appartenant à un tiers. Ces documents ne peuvent être réutilisés, sauf dans le cadre de la copie privée, sans l'autorisation préalable du titulaire des droits.
- des reproductions de documents conservés dans les bibliothèques ou autres institutions partenaires. Ceux-ci sont signalés par la mention Source gallica.BnF.fr / Bibliothèque municipale de ... (ou autre partenaire). L'utilisateur est invité à s'informer auprès de ces bibliothèques de leurs conditions de réutilisation.

4/ Gallica constitue une base de données, dont la BnF est le producteur, protégée au sens des articles L341-1 et suivants du code de la propriété intellectuelle.

5/ Les présentes conditions d'utilisation des contenus de Gallica sont régies par la loi française. En cas de réutilisation prévue dans un autre pays, il appartient à chaque utilisateur de vérifier la conformité de son projet avec le droit de ce pays.

6/ L'utilisateur s'engage à respecter les présentes conditions d'utilisation ainsi que la législation en vigueur, notamment en matière de propriété intellectuelle. En cas de non respect de ces dispositions, il est notamment passible d'une amende prévue par la loi du 17 juillet 1978.

7/ Pour obtenir un document de Gallica en haute définition, contacter utilisation.commerciale@bnf.fr.

Le Petit Journal

Le Petit Journal
CHAQUE JOUR — 6 PAGES — 5 CENTIMES
Administration : 61, rue Lafayette
Le Supplément illustré
CHAQUE SEMAINE 5 CENTIMES

5 CENTIMES SUPPLÉMENT ILLUSTRÉ 5 CENTIMES

Le Petit Journal Militaire, Maritime, Colonial.... 10 cent.
Le Petit Journal agricole, 5 cent. — La Mode du Petit Journal, 10 cent.
Le Petit Journal illustré de la Jeunesse, 10 cent.

On s'abonne sans frais dans tous les bureaux de poste

ABONNEMENTS

	SIX MOIS	UN AN
SEINE et SEINE-ET-OISE..	2 fr.	3 fr. 50
DÉPARTEMENTS.....	2 fr.	4 fr. »
ÉTRANGER.....	2 50	5 fr. »

Les manuscrits ne sont pas rendus

Dix-huitième Année — DIMANCHE 15 SEPTEMBRE 1907 — Numéro 878

AUTOUR DE CASABLANCA

Les goumiers au service de la France chargent les Marocains

Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France

EXPLICATION DE NOS GRAVURES

AUTOUR DE CASABLANCA

Les goumiers au service de la France chargent les Marocains

Depuis le tragique assassinat de nos nationaux survenu à Casablanca le 30 Juillet dernier et la lâche agression commise contre nos marins le 5 Août, aux portes de la ville, l'attention la plus vive suit, en France, les troupes chargées, sous le commandement du général Drude, de venger notre drapeau, de punir les coupables et de rétablir, sur ce point du territoire marocain, la sécurité nécessaire à la prospérité du pays.

Chaque jour nous apporte l'annonce de nouveaux combats, de nouvelles morts, hélas ! mais aussi de brillants faits d'armes.

Ce que l'on avait tout d'abord considéré comme une simple affaire de police devient une véritable expédition contre les tribus maures révoltées. Sans cesse partent des renforts jugés indispensables. C'est toute une armée que le général Drude dirige à l'heure qu'il est.

Parmi les troupes qui se distinguent sous les murs de Casablanca, on compte des tirailleurs, des légionnaires, des chasseurs d'Afrique, des spahis. Mais aucune n'est plus curieuse et n'est plus originale assurément que ces goumiers appelés du sud-Oranais pour renforcer notre cavalerie.

Le goum (on appelle ainsi l'ensemble de ces cavaliers indigènes), le goum actuellement employé compte cent vingt sabres environ. Il est commandé par le capitaine Bériot et par les lieutenants Holtz et Rousseau.

C'est la première fois qu'ils vont servir hors d'Algérie et, comme ce sont des cavaliers de premier ordre, on a la plus grande confiance dans leur valeur et leur endurance.

Le corps des goumiers algériens est composé d'Arabes du Sud. Chaque tribu soumise à la France en fournit un certain nombre. Ils s'habillent, se montent et s'équipent eux-mêmes, continuant à garder leur costume national jusque dans ses bizarreries. C'est ainsi qu'ils portent encore le grand chapeau conique et, parfois, une haute mitre en plumes d'autruche.

Au lieu de rassemblement, on leur donne seulement un mousqueton et un sabre de cavalerie.

Ils sont alors placés sous les ordres d'officiers français.

Habitués, dès leur jeunesse, aux exercices les plus périlleux, ils semblent ne rien craindre. Ce sont de hardis et farouches combattants, aimant le bruit, la poudre et les fantasias.

Pour les encourager, le produit des razzias auxquelles ils se livrent est partagé entre eux.

Depuis le 25 Août, date à laquelle ils ont débarqué à Casablanca, il n'est pas de jour où ils n'aient montré leur courage dans quelque exploration ou dans quelque charge, et rien n'étonne plus les Marocains que de voir se lancer contre eux, sabre au clair, ces hardis cavaliers, musulmans comme eux, et qui défendent cependant les couleurs de la France.

Notre dessin représente un épisode d'un des derniers combats où les goumiers sabrent l'ennemi, impuissant à échapper au galop vertigineux de leurs chevaux.

⁂

LES « ROUFIONS »

Tableau de M. Lucien Jonas
(Salon de 1907)

Les « Roufions » ?... Qu'est-ce que les Roufions ?

« Roufion » est un vieux mot que le patois de nos régions septentrionales a dû garder du temps de l'occupation espagnole. Vous savez ce qu'est un « ruffian » dans la Péninsule ?... C'est un paresseux, un parasite, un homme qui vit aux dépens d'autrui.

C'est le sens même du mot « roufion » dans le patois du Nord. « Roufion » est synonyme de « fainéant », et, comme il est constant que les grévistes appellent « fainéant » — par antiphrase, sans doute — l'ouvrier qui continue à travailler, voilà comment s'explique le titre de ce tableau.

C'est une scène de grève de mineurs, malheureusement trop fréquente dans les milieux houillers où quelque conflit a éclaté entre le capital et le travail. Un ouvrier est descendu à la mine, malgré l'ordre du syndicat ; sa femme est allée l'attendre à la sortie du puits. Une bande de grévistes chantant l'Internationale, drapeau rouge en tête, les surprennent et les coups pleuvent sur les « roufions », sur les « fainéants », sur les « faux frères » qui ont commis le crime de vouloir gagner quand même le pain de leur famille...

Cette toile qui fit sensation au dernier Salon des Artistes français, non seulement pour sa conception hardie, mais pour le réalisme vigoureux de son exécution, est d'un jeune peintre du plus bel avenir. M. Lucien Jonas, qui est originaire d'Anzin, le pays des houillères, n'a que vingt-sept ans. Elle valut à son auteur une seconde médaille et une bourse de voyage. Ajoutons qu'elle fut achetée par S. M. Chulalongkorn, roi de Siam, pour son palais de Bangkok.

VARIÉTÉ

FRANCE ET JAPON

Tokio fête l'entente franco-japonaise. — La France éducatrice du Japon au triple point de vue militaire, maritime et législatif. — Léon Roches. — Les souvenirs d'un diplomate. — Yokohama en 1865. — Tableaux du vieux Japon.

Les Japonais marquent leur joie de l'entente cordiale qui règne entre leur pays et la France et que l'arrangement franco-japonais du 10 Juin dernier a consacrée. Ils viennent, à ce sujet, d'organiser de grandes fêtes à Tokio, et ils en ont fait part à notre ministre des Affaires étrangères.

Les sujets du mikado semblent se souvenir avec plaisir que la France fut leur initiatrice et leur guide dans la voie de la civilisation. En France, on semblait l'avoir un peu oublié. Du moins ne l'a-t-on pas suffisamment rappelé. Il est pourtant indéniable que, lors de l'évolution du Japon vers les mœurs européennes, c'est notre pays qui fut son éducateur au triple point de vue militaire, maritime et législatif.

⁂

En effet, dès l'année 1865, c'est-à-dire trois ans avant qu'éclatât au Japon la révolution qui devait rendre le pouvoir au mikado, et alors que le Shogoun était encore tout puissant, une mission, composée d'officiers français, débarquait dans l'empire du Soleil Levant et commençait l'éducation de l'armée japonaise à l'européenne.

On a dit que nos revers de 1870 avaient eu pour résultat de nous enlever la confiance du gouvernement japonais et que les Allemands avaient, dès lors, hérité de cette confiance. Rien de moins exact. Dans l'année qui suivit la guerre franco-allemande, le Japon appelait, au contraire, une nouvelle mission militaire française, commandée par le colonel Munier, pour continuer l'instruction de son armée, commencée sept ans auparavant. Et d'autres missions françaises succédèrent à celle-ci, jusqu'en 1886, époque où le Japon se jugea suffisamment instruit dans l'art militaire pour remercier en bloc toutes les missions européennes.

Une preuve, d'ailleurs caractéristique, de l'influence française sur l'éducation de l'armée du Nippon, c'est que, aujourd'hui encore, la plupart des officiers japonais, et notamment les généraux, parlent couramment le français.

Si, de l'élément militaire, nous passons à l'élément maritime, nous remarquerons que ce sont encore des Français qui organisèrent les premières flottes du Nippon.

En 1866, fut commencé, dans la baie de Yokoska, le premier arsenal de la marine japonaise. Un officier français, l'enseigne de vaisseau Rotrou, en avait jeté les premières bases ; deux autres de nos compatriotes, les ingénieurs Verny et Florent, continuèrent l'œuvre qu'il avait ébauchée. En 1873, enfin, son achèvement fut confié encore à un Français, M. Thibaudier, ingénieur du génie maritime, sous les ordres duquel travaillaient sept cents ouvriers indigènes, encadrés par une trentaine d'ingénieurs et de contremaîtres français.

Bientôt, le Japon, grâce à la science et à l'activité de nos compatriotes, posséda un établissement maritime aussi complet que les grands arsenaux des puissances européennes, avec deux grands bassins de radoub, des cales de halage, des cales de construction, des ateliers à bois et à fer, une fonderie, une corderie et de vastes magasins.

Enfin, en 1886, c'est toujours à un Français, l'ingénieur Bertin, que le Japon confiait la construction de deux autres arsenaux auxiliaires, l'un à Sasébo, près de Nagasaki, dans l'île Kiou-Siou, l'autre à Hiroshima, dans la partie occidentale de l'île de Nippon.

Ce dernier arsenal fut particulièrement précieux pour la flotte japonaise durant la guerre contre la Chine, en 1894-1895, car c'est Hiroshima qui fut le point de concentration d'où partirent les corps d'armée envoyés en Chine et en Corée.

C'est, d'ailleurs, sur les plans de M. Bertin que furent construits la plupart des navires japonais qui devaient, dans cette guerre, triompher si complètement de la flotte chinoise.

L'un de ces bâtiments, le Hashidaté, s'éleva à l'arsenal d'Yokoska, sous les yeux mêmes de l'ingénieur. La construction des autres fut, grâce à son influence, confiée à la France.

C'est ainsi que, de 1886 à 1892, les Chantiers de la Méditerranée à La Seyne, et les Chantiers de la Loire à Saint-Nazaire fournirent quatre grands croiseurs au Japon et que quatorze torpilleurs furent commandés au Creusot par le gouvernement du mikado.

C'est donc bien à des Français que le Japon doit la construction de ses arsenaux maritimes et l'organisation de ses premières forces navales.

On a dit, d'autre part, que les Anglais avaient été les instructeurs de la marine des Japonais comme les Français l'avaient été de leur armée. Ce n'est pas tout à fait vrai. Instructeurs des marins japonais, les Anglais le furent, en effet, mais seulement au point de vue théorique, jamais au point de vue pratique.

Vers 1873, tandis que nos officiers de l'armée de terre commandaient des troupes japonaises et dirigeaient, en réalité, toutes leurs manœuvres, la mission navale anglaise, sous les ordres du commodore Douglas, n'était chargée que de l'instruction purement théorique des élèves japonais de l'école navale de Tokio ; jamais un Anglais n'exerça le moindre commandement sur un vaisseau de la marine nippone.

On a remarqué ce fait caractéristique que, tandis que les escadres chinoises en 1894-1895 étaient commandées par des Européens, celles du Japon, au contraire, n'avaient d'autres chefs que les amiraux japonais. Et les événements d'alors justifièrent suffisamment cette confiance que le gouvernement japonais avait dans les aptitudes naturelles et l'habileté de ses marins.

Quant à l'organisation de la justice japonaise, nul n'ignore qu'elle est due presque entièrement à la France. C'est un Français, M. Boissonnade, qui a été chargé par le gouvernement du Mikado de rédiger le Code pénal et le Code de procédure criminelle. Les Japonais ont également emprunté à notre Code civil un grand nombre de ses dispositions.

Eh bien, cette prépondérance de la France dans la première organisation militaire, maritime et judiciaire du Japon, si on l'a rappelée déjà, ce fut, toutefois, sans y insister autant que nous venons de le faire. Mais ce qu'on a négligé d'ajouter, ce que personne n'a dit, c'est à quelle influence notre pays avait dû l'honneur de guider les premiers pas des Japonais dans la voie de la civilisation européenne.

Or, cette influence fut celle d'un homme dont la vie n'a été qu'un long dévouement à la patrie, et dont le nom, trop oublié aujourd'hui, mérite d'être remis en lumière.

⁂

Cet homme s'appelait Léon Roches. Né à Grenoble en 1809, il est mort en 1901, âgé de quatre-vingt-onze ans, après une admirable carrière, durant laquelle il avait été tour à tour secrétaire et conseiller intime d'Abd-el-Kader, interprète en chef de l'armée d'Afrique sous Bugeaud, consul à Tanger et à Tunis, et enfin représentant de la France au Japon à l'époque troublée de la révolution mikadonale.

Une partie de cette existence si diverse et si mouvementée a été résumée par lui-même dans des mémoires débordants de pittoresque et de sincérité, que malheureusement il n'a pu achever et qui ne contiennent aucun détail sur son œuvre au Japon. Mais, à défaut des souvenirs de Roches lui-même, nous avons eu la bonne fortune de recueillir ceux d'un éminent diplomate, M. Paul Rameau, ministre plénipotentiaire en retraite, qui fut son meilleur collaborateur et occupa auprès de lui les fonctions de gérant du consulat de France au Japon.

Nous ne résistons pas au plaisir de les reproduire sous la forme pittoresque où M. Rameau a bien voulu les évoquer pour nous :

Toutes les fois, nous disait-il, que résonne à mon oreille le nom du Japon, je revois les tableaux suivants se présenter à ma mémoire comme sur l'écran d'un cinématographe :

Et d'abord, avec la date de Janvier 1865, la petite ville — je devrais dire le village — de Yokohama-Kanagawa, où se trouvaient ensemble, dans un véritable camp retranché, les missions diplomatiques des pays représentés alors au Japon : France (chargée de la représentation de l'Italie), Angleterre, Etats-Unis, Hollande, Suisse, Prusse ; les consulats de ces divers pays et les comptoirs des négociants étrangers. Les Russes envoyaient, de temps à autre, quelques navires de guerre en visite, mais n'avaient pas de représentant officiel auprès du Taïcoun (shogoun), reconnu alors comme le chef réel du gouvernement japonais.

J'ai dit « camp retranché » : le terme n'est pas exagéré, puisque, par suite d'un accord avec le gouvernement local, les résidents étrangers ne devaient pas sortir des limites — un ou deux kilomètres — fixées à l'espace réservé pour leur résidence.

C'est là que venaient les trouver les ministres japonais, sauf les cas très rares où ils daignaient appeler les représentants étrangers à Yeddo.

Je revois encore le grand chemin du Tocaïdo que nous parcourions pour nous rendre à la capitale du pays et qui reliait alors, comme grande route, ce qu'il fait comme chemin de fer aujourd'hui, Yokohama à Yeddo. Nous partions tous à cheval, le ministre de France, Léon Roches en tête, avec sa belle prestance de chef arabe ; chacun de nous précédé de son betto (groom et palefrenier), courant à une certaine distance en avant des chevaux. Une double escorte de cavaliers japonais revêtus de leur ancien costume si pittoresque et armés de leurs fameux sabres, ouvrait et fermait la marche.

A mi-route, nous faisions halte dans une petite ferme proprette, sous des pommiers en fleur, pour consommer un petit déjeuner froid emporté avec nous.

Puis, on arrivait à Yeddo et l'on parcourait la capitale, toujours à cheval, pour franchir plus rapidement les énormes espaces non bâtis qui séparaient çà et là certains quartiers de la ville. Enfin, l'on gagnait le petit temple affecté à la résidence de la légation de France lors de ses visites si rares et si courtes à Yeddo. Là, une garde spéciale veillait sur notre sécurité, ce qui ne nous empêchait pas de prendre la précaution de dormir à peu de distance les uns des autres, nos armes chargées sous nos oreillers.

Ces précautions n'étaient pas inutiles, en effet, car, dans tout le Japon, la haine couvait contre les Occidentaux... Mais bientôt cet état de choses allait changer du tout au tout.

Et à ce propos, nous disait M. Rameau, nous voici amené à un second tableau, tout spécial, celui-là, à l'homme remarquable dont nous rappelons ici la mémoire :

La scène représente le petit cabinet de travail de Léon Roches à Yokohama, ce cabinet dans lequel se sont tenus si souvent, avec un ou plusieurs ministres du Taïcoun, des conférences qui étaient de véritables conseils de gouvernement. Je vois encore Léon Roches, dans le grand fauteuil où se carrait sa haute stature, recevant les hauts fonctionnaires que lui déléguait le Taïcoun. Chacun d'eux était suivi de son « auditeur » (dont le rôle consistait à écouter silencieusement, pour communiquer ensuite à qui de droit, ses impressions sur l'entrevue ; de l'interprète (à ce moment l'interprétation se faisait par l'intermédiaire d'une troisième langue, le hollandais) ; enfin, de plusieurs scribes, véritables sténographes, tenant compte non seulement des paroles échangées, mais des moindres détails de la conférence.

C'est dans ce cabinet de travail qu'ont pris naissance toutes les grandes réformes qui ont successivement transformé le Japon et l'ont amené d'un état de civilisation enfantine à la hauteur des nations les plus civilisées du globe, au moins en ce qui concerne les institutions et la vie gouvernementale.

Je vois Léon Roches expliquant aux Japonais le mécanisme de la monnaie dans le monde économique et les amenant à introduire dans leur pays une administration monétaire, copie intelligente de la nôtre. J'ai vu les débuts modestes de l'arsenal de Yokoska, où l'on se bornait, à l'origine, à réparer les navires achetés à l'étranger, afin de constituer les éléments de la première flotte japonaise.

C'est enfin — et cela suffirait à lui donner un caractère historique — c'est dans ce cabinet de travail de Léon Roches que fut prise, en Mai 1866, par les représentants des puissances réunis au ministre de France, la résolution d'aller demander au vrai souverain du Japon, au mikado, la ratification des traités conclus lors de l'ouverture du pays aux Européens, traités que le Taïcoun avouait tout à coup avoir été ignorés de son chef.

On sait que cette ratification fut accordée par le mikado, et que cette première démarche, appuyée du reste par une démonstration navale imposante, fut le début de relations nouvelles entre le véritable chef de l'Etat et les représentants des puissances étrangères : — relations qui firent naître dans l'esprit du souverain la résolution de gouverner désormais lui-même, et qui précipitèrent cette suite d'événements dans lesquels disparurent le pouvoir taïcounal et la féodalité foncière, tandis que s'érigeait, petit à petit, le régime constitutionnel actuel.

Que d'autres témoignages, nous dit M. Rameau, je pourrais vous donner encore de l'influence de Léon Roches ! Mais tout cela nous entraînerait trop loin. J'abrège et je passe au dernier tableau qu'il me fut donné de voir grâce à lui :

Le prince de Satsouma, un des grands daïmios du régime féodal, avait, sans raison, fait canonner un petit navire français, le Kien-Chang, qui passait dans les parages de ses domaines. Ce seigneur ayant refusé, comme l'avait exigé M. Roches, de nous faire des excuses, le Taïcoun s'était décidé à le punir et avait envoyé des troupes contre lui.

C'est au départ de ces troupes qu'il me fut permis d'assister. Grâce aux bonnes relations de mon chef avec le gouvernement d'alors, les Européens purent, à titre tout à fait exceptionnel et d'un endroit spécialement désigné et délimité avec des cordes, je m'en souviens, contempler ce défilé digne de tenter le pinceau d'un Detaille.

A ce moment-là, les anciens uniformes, les anciennes armes étaient seuls en usage. Qu'on se figure une procession de ces compagnies d'archers, d'arbalétriers, revêtus de ces jolies armures laquées ou damasquinées qu'on ne voit plus guère aujourd'hui que chez de riches collectionneurs ; quelques pelotons d'arquebusiers ; certaines compagnies précédées de tambours à la longue caisse de forme hollandaise. Les chefs, à cheval, surchargés, hommes et bêtes, d'ornements guerriers et bizarres... Les Japonais d'aujourd'hui doivent bien rire lorsqu'ils trouvent des images représentant leurs pères ainsi accoutrés ; mais je vous assure que, en 1865, au moment où nous passions cette revue des forces de terre des Japonais, il n'y en avait pas un seul parmi nous qui, tout en croyant au progrès et au développement futur de ce peuple si intelligent, eût soupçonné la réalisation de ce développement et la transformation radicale, absolue, de l'armée japonaise dans un espace de temps de moins de trente années...

⁂

Tels sont, entre mille, les quelques souvenirs que M. Rameau a bien voulu évoquer pour nous, du temps où Léon Roches représentait la France au Japon. Ils ne sont pas seuls à démontrer que, grâce à son ministre, notre pays eut une influence prépondérante sur les destinées de l'empire du Soleil Levant. La plupart des voyageurs qui visitèrent alors le Japon ont également constaté ce fait.

Malheureusement, cette influence prise alors par la France sur la civilisation japonaise, cette prépondérance due au zèle de Léon Roches et constatée par tous ceux qui le virent à l'œuvre, notre pays ne sut pas toujours les conserver. Notre ingérence dans les affaires japonaises après la guerre de 1894-1895 eut pour effet de nous aliéner les sympathies de ce peuple que nous avions guidé naguère sur la route de la civilisation et qui s'étonnait, à bon droit, de nous trouver alors parmi ses adversaires.

Mais aujourd'hui les petits dissentiments sont oubliés. Le Japon fête notre amitié... Pourvu que ça dure !... Tout sera pour le mieux.

Ernest LAUT.

LA SOIF LA PLUS OPINIATRE cède à l'emploi du délicieux breuvage ALTERICIDE sucre de Carlsbad et Citron. EXIGER LE NOM ALTERICIDE IMPRIMÉ SUR CHAQUE BOUTEILLE.

LA SEMAINE FANTAISISTE

Septembre

Septembre ! Avec toi vient l'automne
Que, mélancolique, on s'étonne
De voir apparaître déjà !
Mois changeant, tu fais qu'on regrette
De quitter les fraîches retraites
Dans lesquelles on se plongea.

Tu fais aussi — plus d'un l'avoue
Sans la moindre rougeur aux joues —
L'espoir des pauvres voyageurs
Qui, loin de leurs chères pénates,
S'ennuyaient, se rongeaient la rate,
Hélas ! dans les grandes largeurs.

Epoque éphémère et mobile,
Favorable à l'automobile
Et propice aux sports les plus fous,
Pourtant propre à la rêverie,
Chez toi, que tu pleures ou ries,
Il y en a pour tous les goûts.

Fin d'été ! Aux vents de Septembre,
Les feuilles couleur d'or et d'ambre
Tombent, finissant de jaunir.
Les portefeuilles choient de même
Et les députés qui les aiment
Parlent déjà de revenir.

Sous les frondaisons dont les palmes,
Pas académiques mais calmes,
Versent l'oubli de l'univers,
Les préfets en villégiature
Admirent la belle nature
Et les sous-préfets font des vers.

Si les moissons partout sont faites,
Les lauriers, sur ces entrefaites,
Veulent avoir leur tour : voilà
Pourquoi, majestueux augures,
Quelques ministres inaugurent
Des monuments de ci, de là.

Le Président qui, bucolique,
Aux princes de la République
Comme aux gens de tout rang, bouillait
De montrer sa force à la chasse,
Les entraîne tous sur ses traces
Dans les tirés de Rambouillet.

Les bons Nemrods de la banlieue
Dévorent bravement les lieues,
Fusil sur l'épaule et contents
S'ils ont, en six heures de chasse,
Tué une vieille bécasse
Ou bien, tout simplement, le temps.

Les touristes de Trou-sur-Manche
Qui, la semaine et le dimanche,
Barbottaient sur des fonds vaseux,
Et ceux des stations thermales
Bouclent hâtivement leurs malles
Pour revenir enfin chez eux.

Paris que la blonde Angleterre
Et tous les pays de la terre,
Envahisseurs, avaient fait sien,
Paris achève sa toilette,
Comble ses trous, se fait coquette
Pour le retour des Parisiens.

Septembre : c'est la période
Où l'on s'occupe de la mode
Que les couturiers lanceront.
Toutes les femmes te bénissent,
Mais tous les maris te honnissent
Pour les notes qu'ils régleront.

Par contre, il est vrai, tu ramènes,
Par un étrange phénomène,
Avec nos amis les plus chers,
Les huîtres en belles bourriches,
Pour les pauvres et pour les riches,
Septembre, premier mois en R !

CLAUDIN.

Le ventriloque

Un jour de congé, comme je terminais ma quatrième au lycée de Marseille, la fantaisie nous prit, deux camarades et moi, d'aller visiter le château d'If. Tous connaissent, au moins de nom, cette île déserte, si près des côtes provençales. Elle est, en effet, célèbre par les faits historiques dont elle évoque le souvenir. C'est la Bastille du Midi. Tous les navires la croisent en passant. Elle apparaît alors, dressant le cube massif et lourd de ses murs délabrés, sillonnés partout de profondes lézardes, et qui semblent garder, avec leur sévérité d'antique ruine, une impression de toutes les souffrances qu'ils enfermèrent durant des siècles. Et des récits étranges, mystérieux, coururent aussi sur cette vieille prison qu'illustrèrent par leur captivité les plus fameuses victimes du despotisme royal.

C'est tout cela, et d'autres choses encore, qui nous poussaient, ce jour-là, à visiter le château d'If. Nous prîmes une barque, comme le soir tombait. La mer était tranquille, un vaste soleil rouge incendiait l'horizon. Durant le trajet, la conversation s'anima. On discuta fort sur les énigmatiques personnages qu'on avait ensevelis dans ces cachots. C'était, d'abord, Monte-Cristo, le légendaire héros d'Alexandre Dumas, dont les prodigieuses aventures avaient hanté notre imagination d'écolier. C'était, ensuite, le Masque de Fer, plus troublant encore. Puis venaient, dans un tragique défilé, Tassecrand, l'insulteur de la marquise de Montespan ; Macerbel, trois fois sauvé par d'héroïques amis, trois fois repris ; l'abbé Faria qui, assure-ton, eut la longue patience de couvrir de maximes les murs de sa cellule ; enfin, le plus grand, le plus inoubliable de tous, le formidable colosse Mirabeau.

— Heureusement, déclara naïvement l'un de nous, un jeune Marseillais, que nous n'appartenons plus à ces siècles de barbarie, et qu'on est plus libéral de nos jours !

— Sûr non, protesta, avec l'accent, notre batelier ; je vous certifie, mon brave, que le cachot de Monte-Cristo n'est pas, de ce moment, sans locataire.

Nous fîmes semblant de rire.

— Vous verrez, reprit-il d'un ton très sûr.

Et il ajouta, avec un air de suffisance :

— C'est moi qui vous le dis.

Puis il aspira une dernière bouffée de fumée, secoua sa pipe, jeta sur l'horizon un regard assuré et se reprit à ramer.

Cinq minutes après, nous débarquions dans l'île. Dans les dernières lueurs du crépuscule, la colossale architecture du château d'If, se dressant dans l'ombre, avec ses tours démolies, comme un gigantesque fantôme, prenait une apparence d'antique construction, de grande ruine abandonnée, plus sombre et plus tragique sous les reflets blafards des hautes murailles nues. Nous montâmes, d'abord, par un sentier étroit et rocailleux, dans un solennel silence.

Nous arrivons enfin devant une grande grille, au delà de laquelle s'élevaient, en un vaste amphithéâtre, les remparts des prisons. Nous appelons le gardien, et, quelques instants après, nous voyons apparaître un petit vieillard sec, débile, qui s'avançait péniblement, une lanterne à la main. Il était coiffé d'un bonnet râpé, rouge sans doute autrefois, mais que l'injure des temps avait fait tourner au gris.

— Qui va là, à cette heure ? cria-t-il en se frottant les yeux.

— Des voyageurs qui désirent visiter les prisons, répondit l'un de nous.

Le bonhomme releva sa lanterne pour mieux considérer nos visages et s'assurer de notre aspect.

— Des voyageurs ? reprit-il d'une voix si sourde qu'elle semblait sortir du plus profond de ses entrailles... eh bien ! entrez.

Et il ouvrit la grille.

La nuit, maintenant, était tout à fait tombée, une nuit sans lune, d'une épaisseur d'encre. Nous suivions le gardien sans mot dire, guidés seulement par la lueur de sa lanterne.

Il nous introduisit, d'abord, dans le cachot d'où le futur orateur de la Constituante écrivait à la malheureuse Sophie ces lettres folles de passion et frémissantes déjà des grandes colères qui, deux ans plus tard, devaient déchaîner la Révolution. Et, sur un vieux registre, tout jauni, qu'étalait sous nos yeux le gardien, en face du nom de Mirabeau était cette simple mention : « Sujet très dangereux. A tenté de mettre le feu à la porte de sa prison. »

Ce fut, ensuite, une longue inspection de cachots : le cachot du Masque de Fer, celui de l'abbé Faria ; d'autres encore, bas, ténébreux, glacés, qui nous secouaient d'horreur, nous paralysaient d'émotion, à la pensée que des êtres vivants avaient été enterrés là.

Nous pénétrons enfin dans un souterrain plus profond, plus affreux encore que tous les autres.

— Voici, nous dit le gardien, la prison de Monte-Cristo.

Un grand silence s'abattit.

Tout à coup, un gémissement prolongé, semblable à celui d'un moribond, se fit entendre ; puis une voix plaintive, sépulcrale, qui semblait avoir peine à traverser les murs, nous frappa comme d'un coup violent dans la poitrine.

— Oh ! je suis malheureux... Voilà dix ans qu'on me fait espérer ma délivrance !...

Un instant s'écoula, sans que nos oreilles entendissent autre chose que les battements précipités de nos cœurs. La voix reprit, plus lamentable :

— A boire, à boire, par pitié !

Du coup, le mot du batelier, dont nous avions tant ri, nous revint à l'esprit.

— Qu'est ceci ? demandai-je au gardien, qui demeurait impassible comme s'il n'avait rien entendu.

— Oh ! rien, fit celui-ci avec calme, je vais lui apporter de l'eau tout à l'heure.

— A qui ? répliquai-je sur un ton qui exigeait sur-le-champ une explication.

— Au prisonnier, répondit le gardien avec un flegme de plus en plus exaspérant.

Puis, s'approchant du mur :

— C'est bon, c'est bon, père Joseph, je vais y aller... Ne vous impatientez pas.

— Quelle heure est-il ? implora la voix d'outre-mur.

— Il n'y a pas d'heure pour les braves, riposta l'autre.

Et, se retournant vers nous, il ajouta tout bas, comme s'il se parlait à lui-même :

— Je crois qu'il y aura quelque chose de nouveau, demain, pour ce malheureux... Nous avons reçu un pli cacheté qui le concerne.

Cette ingénieuse réflexion acheva de convaincre les plus défiants d'entre nous. Dès lors, nous ne doutons plus qu'il y a des prisonniers d'Etat au château d'If ; notre indignation éclate ; mes deux camarades se montent à mon unisson ; nous protestons furieusement, le souvenir du 14 Juillet nous enflamme, nous voulons renverser cette nouvelle Bastille, délivrer ces prisonniers et les ramener en triomphe à Marseille.

— N'oubliez pas la chopinette, gémit de nouveau, sur ces entrefaites, le prétendu prisonnier.

Alors, l'un de nous, le plus âgé, une garçon de quinze ans, tira une pièce blanche de son gilet et, la mettant dans la main du gardien :

— Voilà, dit-il d'une voix où tremblait une émotion mal contenue, voilà de quoi acheter du vin pour cet infortuné.

— Oui, bien infortuné, répliqua le petit vieux en empochant la pièce... Faites donc de la politique après ça.

Profondément bouleversés, nous partions pour répandre dans Marseille le bruit que nous avions découvert des prisonniers d'Etat au château d'If, lorsque notre bonhomme de gardien, nous croyant plus naïfs que nous ne l'étions vraiment, eut lui-même la naïveté de prolonger la plaisanterie plus qu'il ne convenait. Nous comprîmes alors que le sacripant était ventriloque, et il en convint, d'ailleurs, en riant avec nous. Mais nos cœurs d'enfants avaient joliment battu !

Paul BRULAT.

Aux sous-officiers libérables

Le « Petit Journal Militaire, Maritime, Colonial » accepte comme correspondants, dans toutes les communes de France et des Colonies, les sous-officiers quittant le service actif. Adresser immédiatement demandes. Fortes remises. Timbre de 0 fr. 10 pour réponse.

La marque

Un gardien l'accompagna jusque sur le seuil ; la lourde porte se referma, avec un bruit lugubre, derrière lui, et Pierre Riboux, libre enfin, s'éloigna de cette prison où avait sombré son honneur.

C'était un grand garçon d'une trentaine d'années, aux yeux clairs, à la moustache blonde, qui, malgré la flétrissure inévitable de six mois d'existence passés en compagnie d'escrocs et de voleurs, gardait cependant l'allure correcte donnée par son éducation.

Fils d'un notaire de petite ville mort presque ruiné, resté seul, à sept ans, avec sa mère trop faible et trop bonne, après de médiocres études il ne s'était senti aucune vocation.

La liberté, seule, le hantait. Il entra d'abord dans la maison de commerce d'un ami de son père, mais la quitta presque aussitôt, ne pouvant se plier à l'obéissance et à l'exactitude nécessaires.

A cette époque, précisément, sa mère mourut lui laissant un peu d'argent. Il eut tôt fait de le dissiper et connut alors la misère noire. Las de vivre d'expédients, il s'engagea en Afrique, faillit passer trois ou quatre fois en conseil de guerre pour indiscipline ; finalement, son service achevé, vint échouer à Paris où, grâce à quelques recommandations, il obtint d'entrer dans un atelier de constructions automobiles.

Intelligent, il apprit vite le métier, mais là encore il gâta son avenir par des idées anarchistes rapportées d'Afrique, se fit mettre à la porte de toutes les maisons qui l'acceptèrent et, un soir, errant dans un faubourg, l'estomac tiraillé par la faim, entra dans une boulangerie ouverte et vide.

Des pains énormes et dorés le tentèrent. Un semblant de probité lui fit saisir son couteau pour couper une miche, juste de quoi apaiser sa fringale. Mais, comme le patron survenait, il eut, de sa main armée, un geste de protestation que l'autre prit pour un geste de menace. Il fut arrêté.

Tentative de vol et de meurtre, c'était la cour d'assises.

La chute était horrible. Pierre Riboux ne la sentit pas, du moins il ne vit en elle que la part du hasard. Aigri, il voulut développer à la barre ses théories libertaires. Il s'aliéna les jurés, qui le condamnèrent à six mois de prison, et c'était ces six mois de honte qu'il venait de purger à Fresnes.

Seul, sur la route déserte, il lui semblait que le regard des choses le poursuivait.

Au loin, le crépuscule tombait, le jour s'enfuyait lentement, l'immensité semblait infinie. Dans un champ, perdu près de l'horizon, un paysan semait encore, debout dans le soleil couchant.

Pierre Riboux se retrouvait maintenant sur cette route avec des sentiments de haine contre la société entière.

Il passa la main sur son front, comme pour en chasser les ténébreuses pensées, et compta l'argent qu'il avait touché en signant sa levée d'écrou.

— Cinquante francs ! Et après, la lutte recommencera, la lutte âpre du malchanceux, du meurt-de-faim, contre le sort impitoyable et brutal !

La nuit venait de plus en plus, il se décida à s'éloigner, allant droit devant lui. Enfin, il arriva dans un village et s'arrêta devant une mauvaise auberge pour commander du pain, du fromage et du vin, de quoi souper.

L'appétit satisfait et son écot payé, il allait repartir à la recherche d'un gîte pour la nuit, quand un journal, laissé ouvert sur une chaise, attira son attention.

Un journal ! Il n'en avait pas lu un seul depuis ses longues semaines d'emprisonnement. Avide de nouvelles, il s'en empara et, grisé par ce plaisir nouveau, se mit à lire minutieusement cette feuille de hasard.

Soudain, quelques lignes le stupéfièrent -

LES GAITÉS DE LA SEMAINE, par DRANER

— Toi qui te vantes de connaître les semblables, Joseph, dis-moi donc ce que tu penses de ce melon ?

— Tu ne viens pas au tennis avec nous ?
— Impossible, j'ai à finir mes devoirs de vacances du Petit Journal ; songez donc qu'il y a des bicyclettes comme prix !

— Alors, vous croyez, docteur, que le lait de chèvre me soutiendrait ?
— Absolument, c'est même ainsi qu'on nourrit le jeune hippopotame qui vient de naître au Jardin des Plantes.

— Comment ! tu prends un port d'armes, toi, qui n'es pas chasseur ?
— Oui, mais ça me donne le droit de sortir avec un fusil, et, par ces temps d'apaches, ce n'est pas une dépense inutile.

« Jean-Pierre Riboux, né le 10 Mars 1873, est recherché par Me Grossandre, notaire, rue de Miromesnil, à Paris, pour succession. »

***

Le lendemain, après une nuit fiévreuse, Pierre Riboux prenait le train pour Paris.

Sans prendre la peine de changer de vêtements, il courait chez Me Grossandre.

On l'annonça aussitôt. Le notaire, habitué sans doute à ces coups de la fortune tombant au hasard, le reçut sans étonnement, avec une politesse froide.

Après avoir examiné les papiers que lui apportait Riboux, il lui dit :

— Vous êtes, monsieur, l'unique héritier de M. Vidal, votre oncle maternel, décédé à Odessa, le 15 du mois dernier.

C'était, en effet, un frère de sa mère, qui avait quitté la France pour courir le monde et qui, arrivé en Russie, avait fait fortune dans le commerce sans que personne de sa famille n'en sût jamais rien.

Le notaire reprit :

— Je vais vous lire son testament.

Il sortit un papier d'une grande enveloppe et lut :

« Je reconnais comme légataire universel Jean-Pierre Riboux, fils de Georges-André Riboux et de Marie-Anne Vidal, ma sœur, et lui laisse toute ma fortune, soit cinq cent mille francs en titres ; ma ferme située aux environs d'Odessa et mon hôtel situé dans cette ville.

» Fait en pleine lucidité d'esprit, etc. »

Le notaire releva les yeux d'un air satisfait :

— J'ai trouvé deux acquéreurs, dit-il, pour la ferme et l'hôtel. Le premier offre deux cent mille francs pour la ferme, l'autre trois cent mille pour l'hôtel. Si vous consentez à vendre, je crois que ce sera là une bonne affaire.

Après quelques minutes de discussion, la vente fut décidée, et Pierre Riboux laissait au notaire, par procuration, le soin de gérer cette fortune inattendue.

La poche lourde de l'arriéré des intérêts, il sortit la tête haute. Il avait déjà oublié le condamné à six mois de prison pour tentative de vol et de meurtre.

— Un million ! J'ai un million ! répétait-il à chaque pas. Que vais-je en faire ?

Des idées étranges lui passèrent par la tête, comme celle de fonder une usine où les bénéfices seraient la propriété des ouvriers.

C'était là un de ses anciens rêves, au temps de sa misère.

Mais il ne s'attarda pas longtemps à cette idée, car son anarchie n'était rien autre, sans qu'il se l'avouât, qu'un sentiment de haine contre la société en général, et les riches en particulier ; cette haine était causée par l'envie, et le monde lui paraissait maintenant agréable et parfait, puisqu'il allait profiter des avantages qu'il donne aux heureux.

***

Dès ce jour, par la magie de l'argent, Pierre Riboux se sentit transformé.

L'ancien meurt-de-faim, peu à peu, retrouva les habitudes élégantes que sa naissance lui avait données.

Paris, qui ne s'étonne de rien, accepta ce garçon brillant et aimable, et cela d'autant plus facilement que la générosité de ses allures ne lui faisait que des amis.

Pierre Riboux avait maintenant un appartement boulevard Haussmann et un castel en Normandie.

On le remarquait au Bois, au théâtre, aux courses, dans les restaurants à la mode et dans tous les endroits où l'on s'amuse.

Présenté par l'un et par l'autre, il fut reçu dans les salons les plus cotés, et, comme il était brillant danseur, on ne tarda pas à se l'arracher.

Cette dernière qualité mondaine décida de son avenir.

Nul n'avait été sans remarquer son assiduité auprès de Mlle Frémières, fille d'un riche banquier parisien ; on en prophétisa un mariage.

Deux ans après, nul ne s'étonna d'apprendre leurs fiançailles.

Cependant, inquiétés par tant de succès, les envieux grondèrent. Un parmi tous, le jeune vicomte de Foulcques, ex-roi de la mode, détrôné par cet intrus venu on ne savait d'où.

Il avait longtemps espéré obtenir la main de Mlle Frémières ; aussi l'annonce des fiançailles de la jeune fille avec Pierre Riboux souleva dans son cœur une tempête de jalousie et de rage.

— D'où sort ce nouveau venu ? se demandait-il en mordillant sa petite moustache blonde.

Il résolut de le savoir.

Il prit ses renseignements et, grâce à une agence de police privée, ne fut pas longtemps à connaître l'odyssée de son heureux rival.

— Quel succès, mon cher, ricana-t-il, se parlant à lui-même, un ancien forçat, un assassin ! En exagérant encore les choses, rien n'est plus facile que de le perdre.

Il avait son plan.

***

Quelques jours après, Riboux sortait du cercle, vers les deux heures du matin, avec de Foulcques et deux amis.

Le vicomte offrit sa voiture, tous quatre y montèrent ; lorsque, arrivée au coin d'une rue déserte, la voiture s'arrêta brusquement, de Foulcques se pencha par la portière et aussitôt se rejeta en arrière, simulant un vif effroi.

Les portières s'ouvrirent, deux revolvers couchèrent en joue les quatre hommes, alors que, de leurs mains libres, deux bandits tendaient leur casquette.

On en devinait d'autres tenant les chevaux.

Soudain, l'un des malandrins s'exclama, en désignant le fiancé de Mlle Frémières :

— Tiens ! Mais c'est Riboux ! Pierre Riboux ! Comme on se retrouve ? T'as donc fait fortune depuis qu'on a été ensemble à Fresnes ?

Le jeune homme protesta :

— Mais je ne vous connais pas !

L'autre, insistant, reprit :

— Comment ? Tu oublies donc les six mois de prison que tu as faits ? Ingrat ! Mais, va ! n'aies pas peur, on ne travaille pas contre les camarades !

Et, comme Pierre Riboux, blême, les yeux hagards, ne s'empressait pas de prendre la main que lui tendait le bandit, il ajouta :

— Allons, tu fais le fier, tu seras peut-être content un jour de nous retrouver. Au revoir !

Et il disparut, suivi de ses compagnons.

Incapable de se défendre, Pierre rentra chez lui, et, devant la vérité qui devait courir le monde maintenant, il cessa brusquement de sortir.

A trois jours de là, on apprenait la rupture des fiançailles de Mlle Frémières et de Pierre Riboux.

Ainsi, malgré les transformations que la fortune avait amenées dans sa vie, l'ancien condamné se voyait à nouveau livré au mépris public !

Pourtant, cette faute, ou ce semblant de faute, il l'avait expiée cruellement.

Hélas ! la marque était pour lui ineffaçable. Rien ne pourrait jamais faire que son infamie ancienne ne fût pas. Toujours, il devrait rester l'ancien condamné, l'hôte de Fresnes.

— A quoi donc m'a servi ma richesse ? murmurait-il.

Dans son inconscience, le malheureux ne voyait pas que, seul, le travail rachète les fautes passées, et que la renommée d'honneur est inconstante quand elle n'est basée que sur l'estime des oisifs et des envieux.

Il ne restait plus à Pierre qu'à disparaître. C'est ce qu'il fit, sans que l'on sût jamais s'il s'était tué ou s'il s'était enfui dans quelque pays lointain.

Six mois après, on lisait dans les journaux :

« On annonce le prochain mariage de Mlle Frémières, fille du banquier parisien bien connu, avec le vicomte de Foulcques, fils du général comte de Foulcques. »

N. DE MONTERRATO.

FARINE DUTAUT, le meilleur aliment des enfants

CIGALE

— Mademoiselle Rosine, permettez-moi de vous offrir... Ce sont les premières violettes de la saison.

Et Marcel Balmier, l'étudiant en médecine du cinquième, présentait à la jeune fille un bouquet frais et parfumé comme le printemps.

Les deux jeunes gens se rencontraient souvent — Marcel aidait de son mieux le hasard — dans l'escalier de la vaste maison qui abritait tout un monde de locataires : employés, petits rentiers, artistes et professeurs.

La mère de Rosine, veuve sans fortune d'un officier mort au Tonkin, occupait, avec ses deux filles, un modeste appartement sur la cour. L'aînée, Lucy, donnait en ville des leçons de musique. Rosine étudiait le chant. Elle emplissait de roulades et de savants exercices les petites pièces étroites, en attendant qu'une scène plus vaste s'offrit à la réalisation de ses rêves d'artiste.

Sa jolie voix pure et brillante était habilement cultivée par le signor Belloni, un vieux professeur italien qui ne ménageait pas les encouragements et les éloges à sa gentille élève. Il aimait à raconter devant elle les débuts et les triomphes des cantatrices plus ou moins fameuses qu'il avait guidées dans les voies du grand art, et, naturellement, l'imagination de la jeune fille s'enflammait à ces récits où l'exagération méridionale avait une bonne part. La mère, imprudente, attisait le feu au lieu de l'éteindre. Ses ambitions étaient illimitées quand il s'agissait de sa fille chérie.

— Rosine sera une grande artiste et elle chantera un jour à l'Opéra, affirmait-elle avec conviction.

— Nous pourrions nous contenter de l'Opéra-Comique, maman, disait Lucy, avec son sourire tranquille, un peu désabusé.

Lucy représentait la raison dans le petit ménage. Elle aimait bien sa sœur ; elle admirait, sans arrière-pensée de jalousie, la grâce juvénile de Rosine, ses yeux d'un bleu si doux sous la mousse légère des cheveux dorés, son charme délicat, un peu fragile, comme le cristal même de cette voix fraîche sur laquelle on fondait de si grandes espérances, mais elle sentait qu'il suffirait d'un rien pour anéantir les beaux rêves.

Et elle travaillait courageusement, grimpant et redescendant les étages sans se plaindre, écoutant sans impatience les sonates et les préludes innocents, trop souvent massacrés sur de malheureux pianos qui ne pouvaient que gémir.

Les modestes leçons seraient peut-être un jour la ressource suprême.

***

— Maman, avait dit, ce soir-là, Rosine en rentrant et en se jetant, toute palpitante, au cou de sa mère, je viens d'avoir une audition de M... Il est enchanté de ma voix.

— M..., le compositeur ? fit la mère, éblouie.

— Oui. Oh ! j'ai eu une minute d'émotion et même un peu de trac, mais ça n'a pas duré. J'ai chanté sans accroc tout le second acte de son opéra.

« — Vous incarnez merveilleusement mon héroïne, m'a dit le maître. Je ne veux pas d'autre interprète que vous. »

Alors, le bon vieux Belloni m'a embrassée, en pleurant de joie, et l'impresario...

— L'impresario ?... C'est un engagement qu'on te propose ?

— Un engagement de six mois pour une grande tournée en province et à l'étranger. Nous ferons le Nord de la France, la Belgique, la Hollande, une partie de l'Allemagne et la Russie, si ça marche.

— Comment, si ça marche ! s'écria la mère enthousiasmée. C'est-à-dire que tu nous reviendras étoile et que nous pourrons faire nos conditions aux directeurs de Paris.

— Les tournées ne réussissent pas toujours, observa la prudente Lucy. Es-tu sûre de ton impresario, au moins ?

Mais on ne l'écoutait pas. Les deux femmes laissaient leur imagination s'envoler sur les ailes des espoirs infinis et parlaient de fleurs, de bravos, de rappels enthousiastes, quand le timbre de l'antichambre interrompit ce flot de paroles joyeuses.

— C'est M. Balmier, dit la mère, qui n'était pas insensible aux politesses et aux prévenances du jeune voisin. Je l'ai invité à passer la soirée avec nous pour fêter l'heureuse issue de ses examens : il est docteur depuis hier.

Et, laissant la jeunesse échanger les nouvelles et les félicitations, elle alla surveiller les débuts d'une petite bonne qu'il aurait été imprudent de laisser livrée à elle-même si on voulait avoir un dîner présentable.

— Monsieur le docteur, dit Rosine avec une lueur de malice dans ses jolis yeux, est-ce votre nouveau titre qui vous rend si grave ? Vous n'avez pas du tout l'air content de vos triomphes... ni des miens, ajouta-t-elle, inconsciemment coquette, en respirant les violettes de son bouquet.

Les deux jeunes gens s'étaient isolés dans un coin du petit salon pendant que Lucy, assise au piano, déchiffrait d'une main légère la partition du dernier opéra de M... Elle avait deviné, depuis longtemps, les sentiments de Marcel pour sa sœur.

« Pauvre garçon, songeait-elle en regardant le jeune couple si bien fait pour s'entendre, lui brun, sérieux, résolu, elle blonde et charmante dans sa grâce rieuse, il ne pouvait choisir un moment plus défavorable pour offrir à Rosine d'aller s'enterrer dans une petite ville de province. »

— Comment aurais-je l'air heureux quand vous me parlez de départ ? disait Marcel à Rosine, avec un regard si éloquent qu'elle en fut un peu troublée.

— Mais vous partez aussi pour exercer la médecine dans votre ville natale.

— Oui, seulement, j'espérais... Voyez-vous, mademoiselle Rosine, j'avais rêvé pour vous autre chose que cette existence nomade et incertaine de l'artiste, toujours à la merci d'un hasard malheureux, sans compter les caprices du public.

— Oh ! fit-il, répondant à un mouvement de la jeune fille, je sais que vous serez fêtée, admirée pour votre talent et le charme irrésistible qui est en vous, mais je pense aux jalousies, aux intrigues, à toutes les misères qui sont l'envers d'une vie brillante en apparence, trop souvent dure et décevante. Vous êtes si peu faite pour les fatigues et les luttes !

— Ne faut-il pas toujours lutter pour conquérir sa place au soleil ?

FEUILLETON DU SUPPLEMENT ILLUSTRE
du Petit Journal

— 1 —

LES AVENTURES D'UN CORSAIRE

par Edouard GACHOT

Maître Lafougane disait à son auditoire :

— Je veux, aujourd'hui, vous raconter comment Joseph Bavastro, de Nice, put gagner cent vingt-cinq mille francs dans une nuit...

L'événement s'est passé à Gênes, pays d'Italie, il y a longtemps.

J'ai tenu garnison dans cette ville quand la domination française s'étendait jusqu'à Rome. J'ai monté la garde aux portes du palais Doria. J'ai parcouru, à loisir, le quartier de la Marine qui formait, il y a un siècle, une cité à part dans la grande ville, cité percée de ruelles tortueuses, sillonnée de ruisselets, habitée par une vile multitude qui ne vivait que d'oranges, de pâtes avariées et d'herbes cuites.

En temps de guerre, cette population s'augmentait des déserteurs, des contrebandiers, d'évadés des bagnes, et la police s'arrêtait, prudente, au seuil du repaire.

Dans la chaleur qui chauffe à blanc, durant l'été, le fond du golfe de Gênes, sur deux places et sur des escaliers coupant des montées, les fainéants demeuraient longtemps assoupis. Ici, des jeunes gens couverts de haillons suivaient, les yeux clos, l'image d'un rêve fantastique. Là, de belles filles aux poitrines opulentes, étalées plutôt que couchées en pleine rue, la joue posée sur un bras, goûtaient la somnolence. Ailleurs, adossées aux murailles lézardées, de vieilles femmes enveloppées de loques sordides se miraient dans un morceau de glace. Des enfants, très sales et nus, remplissaient l'air de leurs cris ; ils jouaient, se poursuivaient et heurtaient parfois du pied un dormeur qui, réveillé en sursaut, grommelait, se levait et frappait.

Souvent, deux hommes, qu'une rivalité faisait ennemis, se rencontrant dans une ruelle, tiraient leurs couteaux et se battaient. Ils avaient la foule pour témoins, une foule gouailleuse. De l'un des combattants, le vaincu, le sang vermeil arrosait les cailloutis, teintait le ruiseau formé par des eaux ménagères. Un dernier coup de poignard achevait le vaincu.

A l'homme mort, personne ne voulait s'intéresser. Un fossoyeur venait prendre le soir le cadavre pour aller l'enterrer au cimetière suburbain. Au passage du vainqueur, la foule s'écartait, admiratrice.

La nuit, quand portes et fenêtres restaient béantes, quelque temps qu'il fît, des voix chantaient ou blasphémaient au fond des impasses noires. Dans le dédale des rues point éclairées, des ombres rôdaient. Au seuil d'un logis délabré, une femme battue gémissait. Un ivrogne heurtait de ses bras les murs des maisons. Des enfants, couchés sur des matelas pouacres, pleuraient. Les bruits du quartier de la Marine couvraient souvent les bruits de Gênes.

Depuis longtemps, la ville et le faubourg se boudaient.

Aucun citadin n'eût osé s'aventurer seul dans le faubourg. Mais la canaille du faubourg, propre aux séditions, sortait parfois en masse de ses repaires et s'en allait hurler ses immondes désirs, ses revendications, dans la cité des Doria. Il fallait employer, pour la refouler, des gendarmes ou des cavaliers. Laissée libre d'agir, elle eût tué, incendié, pillé.

Mais cette population aux vils instincts allait rendre, le 30 Mai 1800, de pieux hommages à Saint-Ferdinand, lui tresser des couronnes de fleurs cueillies à Carignano, l'encenser, quand un cri d'alarme retentit jusqu'au fond du quartier.

— « Au Jacobin ! »

Un Jacobin, c'était un Français.

Alors, Masséna tenait dans Gênes une garnison en haleine pendant que, de tous côtés, les Autrichiens et les Anglais s'employaient à livrer aux défenseurs de la Ligurie les plus furieux assauts.

Affamée, la troupe de 10,000 hommes se nourrissait des feuilles des arbres, des chiens, des chats, des rats. Un lézard se payait trois francs ; une once de pain d'amidon valait trente sols, le service du blocus ayant arrêté, tant du côté de la mer que du côté de l'Apennin, les provisions dirigées vers la ville.

Contre les soldats français, la haine du peuple augmentait chaque jour, haine qui se manifestait par des cris, des rassemblements, des séditions. Mais les baïonnette eurent raison des fauteurs de troubles, qui durent cacher leurs figures hideuses et panser leurs blessures dans le quartier de la Marine.

Quel homme osait se présenter à l'entrée de ce quartier ?

Il avait quarante ans environ. Quoiqu'il fût de taille ordinaire, la largeur des épaules, l'épaisseur du buste, le développement des mains, annonçaient sa force musculaire. Son visage sanguin, ovale, était barré d'épaisses moustaches noires. Un nez à la grecque dominait des lèvres fines et très mobiles. Les yeux noirs, comme embusqués sous des sourcils broussailleux, étaient pleins de feu. La hauteur du front indiquait l'intelligence.

Habillé d'un uniforme de drap bleu, bien ajusté sur la taille et aux entournures, les pieds et les jambes pris dans de hautes bottes rouges évasées, à la mode mousquetaire. Dans la ceinture en cuir jaune qui serrait son habit, deux pistolets et un poignard étaient placés.

C'était Bavastro, le corsaire, homme redoutable, qui commandait à Gênes un bateau de guerre au service des Français. Habile marin qui avait vingt fois passé la nuit entre les escadres anglaises assurant un étroit blocus. Hardi navigateur qui se jouait des plus grandes fureurs de la mer. Lutteur indomptable qui regardait un combat comme une fête. De plus, joueur obstiné qui éparpillait sur les tapis verts tout l'or de ses prises.

(La suite au prochain numéro.)

Edouard GACHOT.

— Rosine, murmura le jeune homme en se penchant vers elle, j'aurais voulu prendre pour moi seul les responsabilités de la vie et vous faire une existence tranquille et sûre. Dès demain, je peux remplacer mon père, qui désire prendre sa retraite, dans la ville où je suis né et où je trouverai une clientèle fidèle aux Balmier de père en fils depuis plusieurs générations. C'est l'aisance, sinon la fortune.

Une gentille maison m'attend, pas grande mais si gaie avec son jardin plein d'œillets, de roses et de tulipes, et sa véranda enguirlandée de plantes grimpantes. Dans le haut du jardin, il y a une tonnelle de chèvrefeuille où je vous ai vue souvent en rêve, un ouvrage ou un livre à la main, à l'heure où le soleil se couche derrière les arbres du verger.

Dites-moi, Rosine, ne croyez-vous pas qu'on puisse être heureux, quand on s'aime, dans un nid si bien caché au milieu de la verdure et des fleurs ?

Rosine écoutait, silencieuse, émue par l'accent d'une tendresse sincère, tentée aussi par ce bonheur paisible qui répondait aux véritables instincts de sa nature bien féminine. Peut-être eût-elle dit oui si Marcel avait insisté et demandé une réponse immédiate.

— Laissez-moi deux jours de réflexion, implora-t-elle, trop bouleversée par tant d'événements imprévus pour voir bien clair dans sa cervelle confuse.

Mais, le lendemain, elle était déjà reprise par le mirage tentateur, par cette fièvre artistique que tout le monde excitait à plaisir autour d'elle. Lucy elle-même, revenue de ses défiances, semblait croire à un avenir superbe. Après une courte hésitation, la petite cigale imprévoyante partit vers l'inconnu.

***

Quatre ans ont passé sur ce départ qui rendit Marcel très malheureux tout d'abord. Il travailla beaucoup pour oublier. Il revit parfois Lucy, dont la sympathie discrète endormait peu à peu son chagrin. L'absente, retenue au loin par une série d'engagements à l'étranger, ne donnait plus que de rares et brèves nouvelles.

Quand Lucy perdit sa mère, il lui offrit de réunir leurs deux solitudes. C'est elle, maintenant, qui règne dans la jolie maison fleurie et qui, le soir, à l'ombre des chèvrefeuilles de la tonnelle, attend le retour du jeune docteur, retenu tout l'après-midi au dehors par ses malades.

Ce soir-là, le docteur Balmier, appelé à Paris pour seconder son maître, le grand chirurgien Bérard, dans une opération difficile, est entré au théâtre, au hasard des affiches.

Une troupe étrangère joue le drame lyrique d'un célèbre compositeur russe.

Tout en écoutant cette musique nouvelle pour lui, un peu étrange, Marcel songe à la lointaine Russie où, sous le nom de guerre de Rosy Bell, Rosine a obtenu son premier grand succès. Où est-elle maintenant, l'oublieuse Rosy ? Elle n'a pas donné signe de vie depuis le mariage de sa sœur.

Sur la scène, où évolue un bataillon de figurantes, une choriste pâle et blonde évoque aux yeux de Marcel la silhouette de l'absente. C'est la même taille frêle et souple, la même chevelure dorée, une ressemblance singulière, malgré la maigreur et le visage fané de cette femme maladive, poitrinaire peut-être, qui use ce qui lui reste de vie dans l'atmosphère malsaine d'un théâtre.

Soudain, elle lève les yeux et son regard rencontre celui du peune homme. Il la voit rougir violemment, pâlir, puis disparaître toute chancelante dans les coulisses, soutenue par une compagne.

— Cette jeune femme ? dit le médecin du théâtre à Marcel qui l'interroge, le cœur serré d'une affreuse inquiétude, si elle en réchappe aujourd'hui, je ne lui en donne pas pour deux mois. Elle a dû avoir quelque secousse, une émotion violente qui a déterminé une crise. Elle est, d'ailleurs, poitrinaire au dernier degré. Il lui faut surtout du calme, du repos.

— Pauvre Rosy ! En voilà une qui n'était pas faite pour cette vie de misère. Croiriez-vous, docteur, dit la choriste qui a donné les premiers soins à sa compagne, que, il y a moins de deux ans, le nom de Rosy Bell était en vedette sur les affiches des grands théâtres ? Et quand elle chantait à Pétersbourg, à Moscou, à Bucarest, c'étaient des bravos et des rappels à n'en peus finir.

Puis, un soir, elle a pris froid, une bronchite dont elle ne s'est jamais bien remise, et sa jolie voix partie avec sa beauté, elle a été encore heureuse de trouver une place dans les chœurs.

Le docteur Balmier s'est fait conduire dans la chambre d'hôtel où Rosine, étendue sur son lit, tousse à se déchirer la poitrine.

En le voyant entrer, elle fait le geste de cacher dans ses mains sa figure amaigrie, où les yeux brillent de fièvre sous les touffes des beaux cheveux dorés.

Il presse doucement les petites mains brûlantes et place entre ses doigts un gros bouquet de violettes.

Alors, elle se rassure et sourit à la vue des fleurs parfumées qui font revivre une minute son insouciante jeunesse et lui rappellent tant de choses !...

— Je vous guérirai, Rosine, affirme le docteur avec une telle conviction qu'une lueur d'espoir brille dans les grands yeux bleus.

Mais bientôt la malade secoue la tête :

— Trop tard ! dit-elle, en regardant son ancien amoureux avec un sourire navré qui le bouleverse. A quoi bon guérir, maintenant ?

Il ne trouve rien à répondre. Oui, il est trop tard. La destinée a été impitoyable pour la créature de grâce et de faiblesse que des influences contraires ont entraînée hors de sa véritable voie. Et Marcel, devant cette Rosine qu'il a tant aimée et qui lui sourit tristement en respirant ses violettes, sent tomber en son cœur la pesante amertume des regrets impuissants et des grands bonheurs perdus.

A. Reski.

UN MONSIEUR offre gratuitement de faire connaître à tous ceux qui sont atteints d'une maladie de la peau, dartres, eczémas, boutons, démangeaisons, bronchites chroniques, maladies de la poitrine, de l'estomac et de la vessie, de rhumatismes, un moyen infaillible de se guérir promptement, ainsi qu'il l'a été radicalement lui-même après avoir souffert et essayé en vain tous les remèdes préconisés. Cette offre, dont on appréciera le but humanitaire, est la conséquence d'un vœu.

Ecrire par lettre ou carte postale à M. Vincent, 8, place Victor-Hugo, à Grenoble, qui répondra gratis et franco par courrier, et enverra les indications demandées.

Un krach

Edith Erfaut, ayant terminé sa toilette, contempla, avec un sourire heureux, la radieuse image que lui renvoyait sa psyché.

Sa robe moulait un corps charmant, et la certitude de revoir, le soir même, chez les de l'Angle, celui qu'elle aimait, mettait dans ses yeux une telle intensité de joie passionnée que toute sa personne en resplendissait.

Tout en boutonnant ses gants, elle se disait :

« Mon ami, ce soir-ci nous sera une bien belle soirée, car nous ne nous quitterons pas avant que vous ne m'ayez dit que vous m'aimez... Jamais je n'aurais cru que cela pût paraître si difficile ! — ajouta-t-elle, riant de bonheur — et il faut convenir que, jusqu'à ce jour, il n'y a mis guère d'empressement !... »

Mais, bien vite, sa pensée acheva :

« C'est la rançon de mon absurde fortune de ne rencontrer que révoltante audace ou fierté excessive. »

Et la jeune fille évoquait Tony Ulmès, un tout jeune artiste dont les débuts avaient été étourdissants.

Il y avait bien de cela quatre mois — quatre mois d'enchantement — il lui avait été présenté à une exposition de cercle...

Dans l'élégant salon, les groupes se massaient, attirés par une exquise figure de fillette, fine et grêle encore, mais d'une pureté de formes toute attique. L'expression des traits était, à la fois, ingénue et audacieuse ; les doigts entr'ouverts laissaient s'écouler une eau qui demeurait invisible, et les yeux semblaient voir des images trop lointaines pour le regard des hommes. Elle était intitulée la Source. L'œuvre était charmante. Edith l'avait dit en quelques mots émus.

Lui l'avait écoutée en silence, la contemplant avec une telle ardeur d'admiration, avec, dans ses sombres prunelles, une si subite adoration, qu'un trouble inexprimable, une sorte de défaillance s'étaient emparés de la jeune fille.

Depuis, cette impression de trop douce angoisse, elle l'avait ressentie chaque fois qu'elle avait rencontré Tony Ulmès, aux différentes expositions dans les salons où sa jeune et toute récente gloire le faisait inviter.

Loin de lui, elle demeurait sous le charme, silencieuse et recueillie, avec de subites explosions de gaîté... et un grand désir de faire des heureux... de créer de la joie autour d'elle.

Dans le monde, on les épiait, et, comme ils étaient charmants tous les deux, on riait, sans méchanceté :

— Cela finira par un mariage ! Il a tant de talent et elle... tant d'argent !

Et, de fait, Edith, fille unique et adorée du baron Erfaut, le richissime banquier, pouvait s'offrir tous les luxes, même celui d'un mari ne possédant que la divine étincelle et une confiance sans bornes dans les promesses de la vie...

Or, comme la jeune fille, enveloppée dans un manteau de soie — véritable merveille — descendait le monumental escalier de l'hôtel, une femme de chambre lui présenta une carte.

— Ce monsieur insiste pour parler à mademoiselle.

— A cette heure ? Vous auriez dû dire que je sortais, dit Edith contrariée.

— C'est ce que j'avais pris la liberté de répondre. Mais il y a urgence, paraît-il.

Mlle Erfaut prit la carte.

— M. Saint-Domingue ! murmura-t-elle. Mais c'est à peine si je le connais.

Tout haut, elle dit :

— Je le recevrai donc.

Très intriguée, elle pensait :

« Saint-Domingue ?... que veut donc ce vieux nègre milliardaire ? »

***

Milliardaire ?... oui... mais vieux, pas encore certes, et nègre moins encore : simplement très bruni, très tanné par le soleil des tropiques, les cheveux un peu crépus, une force d'athlète, un regard inquisiteur qui se voilait brusquement pour céler la pensée trop transparente... Tel était M. Saint-Domingue, tombé un beau jour en pleine scène parisienne, où il remplissait depuis le rôle de nabab. Tel était l'homme volontaire et énigmatique avec lequel Edith allait avoir un entretien qui déciderait de toute sa vie à venir...

En entrant dans le salon où, debout, le dos à la cheminée, M. Saint-Domingue attendait, gentiment la jeune fille dit :

— Je suis heureuse, monsieur, de me trouver encore chez moi...

Mais les paroles de bienvenue moururent sur ses lèvres. A grands pas, il était venu au devant d'elle et, lui prenant les mains :

— Pauvre enfant ! pauvre petite ! répétait-il.

Elle eut l'impression que le sol manquait sous ses pieds et, avec effroi, cacha son visage dans ses deux mains... Certes, pour que cet homme, cet étranger osât lui parler ainsi, il fallait qu'un bien grand malheur l'ait frappée... et quel autre qu'un accident arrivé à son père... son père qui, avec Tony, remplissait son univers d'espérance et de tendresse... Elle le vit blessé, pis encore peut-être, et une mortelle angoisse lui barrant la gorge, elle balbutia :

— Mon père ! grand Dieu ! mon père !...

A voix basse et rapide, il dit :

— C'est, en effet, de votre père qu'il s'agit, et c'est lui qui m'envoie auprès de vous. Sa santé est excellente... et cependant il est frappé... durement frappé ! Ses intérêts sont gravement compromis. Des spéculations malheureuses lui ont créé une situation sinon désespérée, du moins très embarrassée.

Et avec un tact, une délicatesse qu'on n'eût jamais attendus de cet homme à la rude apparence, il dit à Edith la catastrophe dans toute son étendue, c'est-à-dire l'hôtel d'Erfaut hypothéqué jusqu'à la dernière pierre... le somptueux mobilier vendu au profit des créanciers, et ceci, plus grave encore : un déficit impossible à évaluer à cette heure d'affolement, mais certainement énorme.

Atterrée, Edith écoutait. Tout d'abord, à savoir que la vie de son père n'était pas menacée, elle avait éprouvé un sentiment de délivrance tel que tout autre en avait été absorbé. Tout pouvait bien se produire... mais pas cela, cette chose horrible : la mort du père après celle de la mère enlevée depuis si longtemps déjà que le souvenir lui en restait vague et imprécis comme un rêve.

Cependant, les paroles étranges et terribles qui se prononçaient, peu à peu prirent un sens. Elle comprit... et l'effroi glaça son âme. Avec une compassion infinie, M. Saint-Domingue disait :

— Il n'a pas eu le courage de vous apprendre lui-même ces terribles événements. L'idée de votre désespoir le rend fou...

— Ah ! est-ce qu'il s'agit de moi ?... Mais lui... lui... comment supporte-t-il un tel effondrement ?

— Sa souffrance disparaît devant la vôtre.

— Grand Dieu ! Ne peut-on donc rien faire ? Parmi ses amis, ne s'en trouve-t-il pas un seul pour lui venir en aide ?

Un éclair brilla dans les yeux sombres de M. Saint-Domingue ; sa large poitrine se souleva et, d'une voix dont il ne pouvait pas maîtriser le tremblement :

— Mademoiselle Erfaut... veuillez m'écouter avec attention. Cet ami existe... il mettrait sa fortune entière, son intelligence, sa longue connaissance des affaires au service de votre père... et cela avec joie, avec une reconnaissance émue...

— Mais alors !... s'écria Edith haletante.

— Ne vous hâtez pas de vous réjouir... et plutôt redoutez... redoutez la conclusion. Il paraît qu'un service comme celui-ci... un prêt aussi considérable — et dont

PIÈCES A DIRE

Monsieur Bébé

Au fond du berceau blanc et rose,
Dans le plus charmant abandon,
Monsieur Bébé, calme, repose,
Le corps bien chaud sous l'édredon.

Les parents de ce personnage
Ont dû, ce soir-là, s'absenter ;
Il a dix mois et, vu son âge,
Il faut quelqu'un pour le garder.

On a donc écrit, à la hâte,
Aux grands-parents, pour les prier,
Mission douce et délicate,
De venir, ce soir, le veiller.

Et les deux vieux, par un caprice
Que certes chacun comprendra,
Disent bientôt à la nourrice :
« Retirez-vous, nous sommes-là. »

Pauvres grands-parents ! Il leur semble
Qu'un tiers gâterait leur bonheur ;
Ils préfèrent rester ensemble
Pour mieux laisser parler leur cœur.

Et Dieu seul sait comme ils bavardent
Les cœurs ravis de ces deux vieux
Qui sont là, penchés, et regardent
Bébé qui dort insoucieux !

— Prenons garde qu'il ne s'éveille !...
— Est-il fort ! — Quels jolis bras blancs !...
— Comme il est beau, quand il sommeille,
Le bel enfant de nos enfants !...

— Oh ! sa petite jambe est nue !
— Je vais la recouvrir. — Non, moi !
— Tu ne sais pas ! — Chut !... il remue !
— Tu fais du bruit ! — C'est toi ! — C'est toi ! »

Par bonheur, ce n'est qu'une alerte,
Allons, personne n'aura tort.
La jambe nue est recouverte
Et monsieur Bébé se rendort.

Cela dure à peine un quart d'heure !
Il s'est agité de nouveau !...
Cette fois, c'est plus grave, il pleure !...
Les deux vieux courent au berceau.

Leur figure peu familière
Au gamin le rend tout surpris,
Il s'effraie et, loin de se taire,
Il redouble aussitôt ses cris.

« Quand un enfant pleure, on le berce »,
Disent les grands-parents émus ;
Cette fois, ça produit l'inverse !
Bébé pleure de plus en plus.

Et la nounou que l'on appelle
Ne vient pas, ne peut pas venir.
On l'a renvoyée et la belle
En a profité pour sortir.

Alors, troublés, ils délibèrent,
Privés qu'ils sont de ce secours,
Et pendant qu'ils se désespèrent,
Monsieur Bébé pleure toujours !

— Vois-tu, nous devrions le prendre,
Le porter un peu dans nos bras.
Mais, au moment de l'entreprendre,
Ils sont si vieux !... ils n'osent pas.

— Pourtant, il faut bien qu'il s'arrête !...
Du courage ! Et, très effrayés,
Grand-papa le prend par la tête,
Grand'maman le prend par les pieds.

Alors nouvelle inquiétude,
Bébé s'agite comme un ver ;
On sent qu'il n'a pas l'habitude
De voyager ainsi, c'est clair.

Si bien qu'éperdu, le grand-père,
Sans y penser, ouvre les bras,
Et voilà la pauvre grand'mère
Qui tient Bébé... la tête en bas !

Avec terreur on le redresse !
Il était temps ! il étouffait !...
Après cette belle prouesse
Les vieux s'affolent tout à fait.

Et ne sachant plus trop que faire,
Désespérant de l'apaiser,
On met monsieur Bébé par terre,
Et l'on s'efforce à l'amuser.

Grand'maman lui fait des risettes
Et grand-papa, lui, plus nerveux,
Saisit la pelle et les pincettes
Dont il tire un concert affreux !

Puis, l'enfant paraissant se taire :
— Il ne pleure plus ! Quel bonheur !
— Je crois bien, répond la grand'mère,
Regarde-le, tu lui fais peur !

Grand-père, tout honteux, se baisse
Pour prendre et rassurer Bébé,
Mais l'âge trahit sa tendresse ;
Sur les genoux il est tombé.

Un mouvement qu'il fait l'achève,
Il veut se dresser, mais en vain...
Et c'est grand'mère qui relève
Et le grand-père et le gamin.

Et le gamin toujours réclame !
— Il a faim, sans doute ? — Oui ! voilà !
— Que lui donner, ma pauvre femme,
Le restaurant n'étant plus là ?

— Trouvons-lui quelque chose à boire,
Ça lui trompera l'estomac.
Vite on cherche, on ouvre une armoire,
Ciel !... Kirsch ! Rhum ! Chartreuse ! Cognac !

— Cette collection étrange
N'est pas du tout ce qu'il nous faut ;
Nous ne pouvons, à ce cher ange,
Donner de pareils goûts si tôt.

Et Bébé fait le diable à quatre !
— Sapristi ! quel vilain enfant !
Dit grand-père, ah ! je vais le battre !
Mais grand'mère le lui défend !

L'orage menaçait, il gronde !
Il éclate !... Et les pauvres vieux,
De la meilleure foi du monde,
Se disputent à qui mieux mieux.

La scène est touchante et grotesque !
Chacun crie ! Et, le plus affreux,
C'est que Bébé s'étrangle presque,
En voulant crier plus fort qu'eux !

— Ah ! mon Dieu ! le voilà tout pâle !
— Il devient rouge ! — Il devient bleu !
— Doux Jésus ! Il suffoque ! — Il râle !
— Il va trépasser ! — Ah ! mon Dieu !...

Et, s'exagérant ce malaise,
Chacun, croyant que c'est la fin,
Tombe, accablé, sur une chaise,
Plus malade que le gamin !...

Et, juste à ce moment du drame,
Rentrent les deux jeunes époux
A qui les vieux, la mort dans l'âme,
Disent : — Grâce !... Pardonnez-nous !...

Mais, avant qu'on ait pu se rendre
Compte de ce qui s'est passé,
Un cri joyeux se fait entendre,
Et c'est Bébé qui l'a poussé.

Car, pour éclairer son visage,
Une caresse lui suffit,
Maman l'embrasse, adieu l'orage !
Il ne pleure plus, il sourit.

La moralité, ce me semble,
Est qu'il faut toujours éviter
De laisser trois enfants ensemble
Sans personne pour les garder.

Paul BILHAUD

Extrait de Ça... et le reste, P.-V. Stock, éditeur.

(Reproduction interdite)

Dans le prochain numéro :

LE PARI, monologue gai,

par Jo. VALLE

le remboursement ne pourrait être fixé à date exacte — ne saurait être accepté d'un étranger. Pour que cela fût possible — n'oubliez pas que ce sont les paroles de votre père scrupuleusement transmises — il faudrait un lien de parenté... une alliance... et ce lien... cette alliance, mademoiselle Edith, vous seule pouvez les créer... entre... entre nous... entre lui et moi.

Elle recula, épouvantée.

— Ah ! je ne veux pas... je ne veux pas comprendre !

Impassible, M. Saint-Domingue regardait la jeune fille. Il murmura :

— Ce cri spontané était fatal. Comment sa jeune et éclatante beauté eût-elle pu envisager une union avec ma laide et sombre personne ?

Il lui prit la main :

— Pauvre enfant ! dit-il, comme je vous comprends. Pourtant, vous eussiez trouvé en moi un second père... un grand frère très aîné et bien complètement dévoué... un vieil esclave attentif et habile à satisfaire vos moindres désirs.

Elle passa sa main sur son front qui était moite :

— Merci, dit-elle. Je crois que tout ce que je dois vous faire cet aveu... Il vous très noble comme l'offre même que vous nous faites... Je ne suis pas très bien en état d'y répondre comme il le faudrait... Je suis si émue... si troublée... car tout ceci, n'est-ce pas ? est bien imprévu et très terrible... Pourtant... il me paraît très évident que je dois vous faire cet aveu... Il vous fera tout de suite comprendre que cette... cette alliance serait impossible... coupable même... Je ne dispose plus de mon cœur... Je l'ai donné tout entier... et je suis sans forces pour le reprendre.

Et son radieux amour pour Tony faisant de nouveau irruption dans son âme désemparée, son désespoir passa toutes limites...

En silence, il contemplait ce jeune corps qui, sans souci des yeux qui en détaillaient les lignes exquises, s'abandonnait dans les coussins du canapé. Il voyait, sous la pression des doigts, se froisser, s'écraser les ondes de cette merveilleuse chevelure, et ses dents, fortes et blanches, s'imprimaient dans sa lèvre épaisse... et ses ongles meurtrissaient ses paumes de travailleur.

Il se leva :

— Mademoiselle Erfaut, permettez que je me retire. J'ai hâte de retourner auprès de votre père qui m'attend dans un émoi trop compréhensible. D'ailleurs, ajouta-t-il après une courte hésitation, il est urgent qu'il puisse prendre — et sans tarder — diverses dispositions avant son départ.

La jeune fille sursauta :

— Son départ ?... son départ... dites-vous ! Mais il ne peut partir ainsi !

Et, plus bas, elle ajouta :

— Il aurait l'air de fuir...

Très grave, il dit :

— Il le faut cependant... car demain, déjà, demain, mademoiselle Edith, il serait trop tard. Demain, cette catastrophe dont seuls, ou à peu près, lui et moi, à cette heure-ci, sommes informés, volera de bouche en bouche... Et alors...

— Et alors ?...

— Alors ?... alors chacun redemandera impérieusement ses valeurs... et comme il ne sera pas en état de les rembourser...

La jeune fille frissonna. Elle répéta :

— Et comme il ne sera pas en état de les rembourser ?

— Pourquoi m'obliger à vous dire cela, pauvre enfant ?

— J'ai le droit de tout savoir, le devoir de ne rien ignorer...

— Soit !... Eh bien, alors, la loi interviendra...

— Ah ! fit-elle.

Elle s'était redressée. Le riche manteau doublé d'hermine avait glissé et elle apparaissait toute jeune dans sa jolie robe rose, et, comme étourdie par ce grand souffle d'orage qui passait sur elle, ses cils très longs palpitaient et sa bouche entr'ouverte laissait apercevoir l'éclair blanc des dents. Avec une audace ingénue, elle fixa son regard sur les yeux qui ne la quittaient pas...

— Et si je consentais à vous épouser, qu'arriverait-il ?

— Je deviendrais sur-le-champ l'associé de votre père. Ce qui fait que, lorsque les actionnaires se présenteraient aux guichets, immédiatement on ferait droit à leurs réclamations...

Avec un sourire, il ajouta :

— Voyant les paiements s'effectuer très vite, les demandes de remboursement cesseraient.

Alors, avec intrépidité, elle déclara :

— Monsieur Saint-Domingue, je suis prête à devenir votre femme, et je prends l'engagement de vous demeurer honnêtement et loyalement fidèle.

Il s'inclina sur la petite main brûlante qui se laissa prendre sans résistance, et l'effleura de sa rude moustache.

— J'ai foi en vous, dit-il avec simplicité, et vous me rendez heureux, heureux excessivement.

Et cette soirée, qui devait être pour Edith Erfaut l'aurore de ses fiançailles avec Tony Ulmès, fut une veillée de larmes.

Max Reboul.

Le Petit Journal illustré de LA JEUNESSE

est, de tous les journaux spécialement faits pour les enfants, le plus amusant, le plus varié, le plus complet et le mieux illustré.

En bateau

Le baron Adhémar de Baspertuis frisait la trentaine, alors que son crâne, lui, la défrisait.

Malgré cet incident, il portait beau et était considéré, parmi tous les mondains, comme un modèle d'élégance. Une grosse fortune, il est vrai, contribuait à propager cette opinion. Il avait hôtel, auto, yacht et tout le tremblement. C'était un garçon parfait.

Respectueux de la mode, dès que l'été avait paru, Adhémar prenait le train pour Trouville.

Endroit charmant pour se reposer des fatigues de l'hiver et fuir les amis de la capitale ! On ne rencontre qu'eux à chaque pas et, tous les jours, en flanelle blanche et panama extra-léger, tiré à quatre épingles, mis sur son trente-et-un, il faut courir du casino aux courses, des courses aux dîners, des dîners aux soirées. On a bien plus à faire qu'à Paris.

Pourtant, habitué à cet antique usage, le baron s'était soumis, cette année encore, aux exigences de sa situation. On l'avait vu dans tous les endroits cotés. Son nom avait figuré parmi les déplacements mondains. Même il avait offert, un jour, le thé sur son yacht, le fameux yacht Va-de-Bon-Cœur, que les méchantes langues appelaient le bateau-lavoir de la place des Ternes, à cause de son immobilité connue, son propriétaire, par crainte des aventures, ne lui ayant jamais fait quitter son port d'attache. Au reste, un endroit charmant pour y manger, boire, fumer, potiner et ne rien faire !

On avait beaucoup loué Adhémar pour la bonne tenue de son équipage : un cuisinier et un maître d'hôtel ! On l'avait complimenté sur son chic personnel en vareuse bleue et casquette d'amiral. Bref, il aurait dû être satisfait de son sort.

Hélas ! Adhémar ne l'était pas !

A force de faire toujours la même chose, à Trouville comme à Paris, il s'ennuyait. Les louanges à lui adressées lui semblaient banales. Être un mondain parfait, c'est très bien, mais cela n'épate personne. Et le baron avait envie d'épater les autres.

Mon Dieu ! oui ! épater les autres lui semblait devoir être très amusant. La vie est si courte, il faut être gai ! Adhémar se mit en chasse.

Déjà il allait se désespérer de ne rien trouver quand le hasard, ce bon hasard, vint à son aide.

Un après-midi qu'il suçait sa canne en regardant la foule aller et venir sur « les planches », une jeune fille passa qui attira son attention. Des cheveux d'or fou, un visage de gamine rieuse, une ligne onduleuse, une démarche allègre, surtout d'admirables chevilles, minces et cambrées en des bottines de toile blanche : il vit tout cela d'un coup d'œil et en fut saisi. Ah ! ces petites chevilles dans ces petites bottines, jamais il n'en avait vu de pareilles !

Ce fut une révélation. Pour étonner l'univers, parbleu ! Adhémar allait se marier.

Jusqu'à cette heure, le baron n'avait jamais eu que des idées aussi bizarres que subites. Celle de convoler en justes noces, comme cela, à propos de bottes... ou de bottines, pouvait compter dans le nombre. Pourtant, il en avait eu de plus dangereuses.

Le vicomte de Tournoyant, un ami, passait. Adhémar l'arrêta et, certain de son effet, lui jeta ces mots :

— Veux-tu tenir un pari ?

— Lequel ?

— Qu'avant un mois je suis marié ?

— Toi !... marié !... marié !...

L'autre n'en revenait pas. Il crut d'abord à une plaisanterie.

— Vingt louis ?

Ça devenait sérieux. L'ami, en riant, accepta et s'en fut répandre de tous côtés la nouvelle. C'est là ce que voulait l'amoureux de la jeune fille inconnue.

Sans perdre une seconde, il partit de son côté s'enquérir de ce que pouvait être sa découverte, apprit qu'elle s'appelait Hélène, qu'elle avait pour père un riche industriel des plus honorables, et que ce même père venait, tous les jours, sur la plage, à l'heure du bain. Un gamin qui le connaissait lui fit la description du personnage : cinquante ans, cheveux en brosse, favoris, beaucoup de ventre sous le gilet, une chaîne d'or dessus et, toujours, des costumes à grands carreaux. M. Eugène Marescut était facile à reconnaître.

Adhémar avait son plan.

***

Tandis que cinq vigoureux matelots, engagés spécialement pour la circonstance, mettaient, sous les ordres d'un capitaine de fortune, le Va-de-Bon-Cœur en état de prendre le large, pour la première fois de son existence peut-être, le baron de Baspertuis, en costume d'amiral suisse, arpentait fièrement la jetée, coude à coude avec un gros monsieur vêtu d'un costume à grands carreaux.

— J'ai toujours aimé beaucoup la mer, disait ce dernier.

— J'en suis un fanatique, répondait Adhémar, et mon plus grand plaisir est de faire de longues croisières à bord de mon yacht.

Adhémar, ce matin-là, avait rencontré le personnage répondant, point pour point, à la description qu'on lui avait faite du père de la belle inconnue. Il l'avait abordé, comme on s'aborde facilement en villégiature, et, peu à peu, il l'avait amené du côté où se balançait le Va-de-Bon-Cœur.

— Comme vous êtes heureux, reprenait le monsieur à carreaux, de pouvoir, grâce à votre joli bateau, suivre votre fantaisie et voyager librement sur les flots !

— Qu'à cela ne tienne, fit vivement le baron qui attendait la phrase. Si cela peut vous être agréable, je serai charmé de vous emmener avec moi. Je vais justement, tout à l'heure, faire un petit tour en mer...

— Oh ! je ne voudrais pas abuser...

— Du tout ! Du tout ! Nous serons rentrés pour le déjeuner. Une simple promenade le long de la côte ! Cela vous va-t-il ?

— Cela me remplit de joie !

Aussitôt, les deux hommes se dirigèrent vers le yacht. Sous pression, il attendait, prêt à lever l'ancre.

On embarqua. La sirène mugit, triomphante et, au bruissement régulier de l'hélice, le Va-de-Bon-Cœur pointa vers le large.

Le monsieur à carreaux était émerveillé. A dire vrai, le baron ne l'était pas moins. Quitter le soutien salutaire des quais, sentir sous ses pieds vibrer et onduler le pont habitué jusqu'alors au calme parfait, respirer, avec l'air marin, la bonne odeur de la cheminée, pas cheminée de cuisine, celle-là, c'était, pour le propriétaire, du nouveau, de l'inédit.

A quelques encâblures de la terre, il se croyait déjà un hardi capitaine. Heureusement pour sa sécurité, il y en avait un plus sérieux à bord.

La mine satisfaite, des cigarettes aux lèvres, les deux hommes allèrent s'asseoir à l'arrière. Quelque temps, ils restèrent ainsi à contempler la fuite mouvante des vagues et l'infini calme de la mer, puis, brusquement, le baron, qui avait son idée en tête, commença :

— Monsieur, la solitude dans laquelle nous nous trouvons me permet de vous parler avec hardiesse. J'ai l'honneur de vous demander la main de Mlle Hélène Marescut.

L'interpellé regarda fixement Adhémar, tira une bouffée de sa cigarette et, très calme, répondit :

— C'est à moi, monsieur, que vous demandez la main de Mlle Marescut ?

— Parfaitement ! J'ai eu le bonheur de la rencontrer sur la plage. Immédiatement, je me suis épris d'elle et je n'ai qu'un désir : l'épouser.

— Ce désir est fort louable ! Mais...

— J'ai trente ans, une bonne santé, deux cent vingt mille livres de rente, un titre, quelque considération dans le monde et aucun défaut sensationnel.

— Tous mes compliments ! Mais...

— Je sais qui vous êtes et, malgré la dot que vous êtes susceptible de donner à Mlle votre fille, suis prêt à l'épouser sans argent. Vos conditions seront les miennes.

— Mais...

— Evidemment, le procédé est un peu rapide de ma part. Excusez-moi ! Je suis d'un caractère impétueux, j'aime les affaires vivement réglées. C'est pourquoi, sans plus attendre, je vous répète ceci respectueusement : j'ai l'honneur de vous demander la main de Mlle Hélène Marescut.

— Je regrette, mais...

— Vous refusez ?

— Je ne refuse pas ! Je vous dis simplement : je ne peux pas !

— Comment ! Vous ne pouvez pas m'accorder la main ?...

— Cela m'est tout à fait impossible.

— Vous êtes bien décidé à ne pas changer d'avis ?

— Parfaitement décidé ! Rien ne m'est plus impossible ! Encore une fois, je le regrette !

— Prenez garde ! Je saurai vous faire changer d'avis.

— Je vous en défie !

— C'est ce que nous allons voir !

Et, d'une voix magistrale, d'un geste auguste, digne de Neptune, empereur des mers, le baron Adhémar de Baspertuis commanda :

— Capitaine, allez au large, droit devant vous !

— Permettez-moi, intervint le monsieur à carreaux, permettez-moi de vous faire remarquer que, si nous allons au large, nous ne pourrons rentrer pour le déjeuner.

— C'est ce que je veux !

— Que la mer, là-bas, est houleuse !

— J'en serai ravi !

— Que le mal de mer est à craindre !

— Tant mieux !

— Parfait ! Je comprends ! Vous espérez me voir malade et m'extorquer alors un consentement que je ne puis donner !

— Vous l'avez deviné !

— J'accepte le duel, le duel au mal de mer ! Nous verrons bien celui des deux qui s'en tirera.

Paisiblement, le monsieur alluma une autre cigarette et, l'air détaché, les yeux au ciel, la bouche en O, fit des ronds de fumée. Cependant, à mesure qu'il s'éloignait des côtes, le petit navire roulait et tanguait de plus en plus. Bientôt, les vagues hautes le prirent : il se mit à danser une sarabande effrénée.

Le monsieur restait impassible. Le baron, par contre, était vert. Jamais il n'avait affronté le large, et c'était lui que le mal de mer prenait. Sans force, sans volonté, il était affalé au fond d'un fauteuil.

Le Va-de-Bon-Cœur allait toujours le l'avant.

Alors, s'approchant d'Adhémar, le monsieur à carreaux reprit la conversation interrompue :

— Tenez-vous toujours à me demander la main de Mlle Hélène Marescut ?

Le baron, incapable de répondre, leva les yeux au ciel, semblant dire : « Je m'en moque ! Laissez-moi tranquille ! » L'autre reprit :

— Vous avez raison ! Malgré toute ma bonne volonté, je n'aurais jamais pu vous l'accorder... D'abord, je ne suis pas son père !... Je ne suis pas M. Marescut... Ensuite, je suis M. Tabouré, ancien capitaine de cabotage .. et je n'ai jamais eu le mal de mer ! Voilà, je crois, deux raisons suffisantes pour être le vainqueur du duel que vous m'avez proposé. Qu'en dites-vous ?

Adhémar n'en dit rien. Il était trop occupé à éponger les sueurs froides dont il souffrait.

— Mais, continua M. Tabouré, pour avoir voulu, en me menant sur votre yacht, me monter un bateau, vous trouverez juste, j'en suis sûr, de m'offrir une légère compensation !

Je suis en train, depuis quelques mois, de fonder une société de navigation ; je recherche des capitaux. Vous prenez, n'est-ce pas, un millier de mes actions ? Allons ! c'est une affaire entendue ! Signez ce petit papier ! Nous allons virer de bord !

Et pendant qu'Adhémar, incapable de résister, obéissait, M. Tabouré cria au capitaine :

— Le baron désire retourner à Trouville !

***

A peine sur la terre ferme, Adhémar, rasant les murs et l'estomac toujours malade, s'empressait de regagner son hôtel quand, au coin d'une rue, il se trouva nez à nez avec le vicomte de Tournoyant.

— Te voilà enfin, cria-t-il. Et ton mariage, est-ce le Va-de-Bon-Cœur qui l'a arrangé ?

— Ne m'en parle pas ! fit l'autre, dépité. J'ai perdu mes vingt louis... et le reste ! Moi qui voulais vous étonner, j'en suis pour mes frais !

— Mon pauvre ami, ne te désole pas ! Si tu voulais simplement nous étonner, tu as joliment réussi !

— Moi ! Comment donc ?

— Mais en faisant sortir en mer ton yacht, parbleu ! C'est la première fois que ça lui arrive, au bateau-lavoir de la place des Ternes !

Il pivota sur ses talons, cachant un sourire narquois que ne vit pas le baron de Baspertuis. Aussi, ce dernier, soudain satisfait et réconforté, s'en retourna chez lui, persuadé qu'il serait désormais célèbre pour ses prouesses maritimes.

Roger Régis.

Plus le temps est chaud, plus les hommes sont faibles.

Les Pilules Pink

donnent des forces.

L'ENFANT DE LA BALLE

(1832)

Samson, le grand comédien, lisait un rôle dans son cabinet d'étude, lorsque son domestique lui annonça une certaine Mme Félix, qu'il ne connaissait aucunement.

L'artiste, contrarié d'être dérangé dans son travail, reprit sa lecture en bougonnant :

— Dites que je ne puis recevoir.

Il n'était pas toujours commode, Samson ! Et la Comédie-Française connaissait bien ses bourrades. N'avait-il pas osé traiter Mme Mars de « vieille frégate démâtée » ? Et ceci bien en face...

Heureusement, ses minutes épineuses étaient brèves. Du reste, sa physionomie franche, son nez un peu retroussé, son teint frais, sa bouche spirituelle, sa chevelure châtain, épaisse et frisée, indiquaient bien l'homme spontané, brusque, mais jovial et bon, en somme.

La vie avait eu pour lui de rudes commencements. Né en pleine Terreur, d'un pauvre cafetier de Saint-Denis, dernier enfant baptisé à sa paroisse, en 1793, la veille de la fermeture de l'église ; tombé, avec sa famille, de revers en revers jusque dans l'indigence, que n'avait-il pas été obligé de faire pour vivre ? Sa vocation de comédien lui montra cependant, de très bonne heure, sa vraie voie ; saute-ruisseau chez un avoué, il faisait la joie des clercs et des voisins par son aptitude à imiter depuis le frotteur jusqu'aux clients de marque, en passant par le patron, qui le surprit, un jour, coiffé de son propre bonnet, vêtu de sa propre robe, pérorant, répétant ses propres plaidoiries, le singeant à merveille devant l'étude en liesse. Cette irrévérence coûta sa place au gamin et décida de sa destinée.

Cependant, voici que le domestique de Samson revenait près de son maître : la personne insistait... prétendant qu'elle venait de la part de M. Jousselin de la Salle.

— Ah ! sapristi, c'est vrai... Il me l'a annoncée... J'oubliais... Qu'elle entre.

En effet, M. Jousselin de la Salle, directeur de la scène du Théâtre-Français, avait parlé à l'artiste-professeur d'une fillette entendue par hasard dans un « boui-boui », passage du Saumon, un sujet très intéressant, une « nature ...» Samson ne pouvait refuser de la connaître.

Au fond, il se préparait à une déception. Il en avait tant vu, de ces petits prodiges surfaits et sans avenir !

Mme Félix, une femme moins qu'ordinaire, parut, poussant devant elle un véritable petit monstre. Haute comme on l'est vers douze ans, développée du buste, portant, au bout d'un long cou noir et maigre, une tête aux pommettes saillantes, au front énorme, découvert par un chevelure tirée en arrière, brune et dure, elle regardait avec des yeux hardis l'homme dont la renommée au moins eût dû impressionner sa modestie. Et, pour rendre encore plus grotesque cette difforme créature, on l'avait affublée d'une longue robe verte, d'un châle à palmes sur fond orange, et d'un chapeau blanc rehaussé d'un panache rose déchiré.

— C'est vous qui vous destinez au théâtre ? fit le maître abasourdi.

— Je suis au Molière, où que M. de la Salle m'a entendue.

L'organe dur et voilé de cette enfant semblait plus fait pour crier des harengs dans les rues que pour débiter des alexandrins. Où diable M. de la Salle avait-il eu les yeux et les oreilles quand il avait trouvé de l'étoffe en cette fille-là ?... Rien, absolument rien ! Ni voix, ni grâce, ni tenue... pas l'ombre d'instruction même, à en juger par son français.

Pourtant, par égard au protecteur et aussi par curiosité, Samson posa quelques questions :

— Quel âge avez-vous ?

— Quatorze ans.

— Vous êtes petite pour votre âge... Française ?

La mère intervint :

— Ma foi, monsieur, je serais bien embarrassée de le dire. Son père était marchand ambulant ; je le suivais. Et dame ! la petite est née sur une grande route, en Suisse, probablement. Nous n'avons pas fait attention. Mais nous avons des papiers... On pourrait voir...

— A-t-elle déjà travaillé ?

— Pas la comédie... Le chant, chez M. Choron.

Choron ?... Choron, l'admirable professeur que les débuts de Duprez venaient de glorifier une fois de plus... Choron avait entrepris « ça » ?... De plus en plus stupéfait, Samson demanda :

— Comment l'avez-vous connu ?

Les deux femmes hésitaient à répondre. La mère surtout. Elle avait quelque honte, sans doute, à confier la vérité.

Ce fut la fille qui, relevant la tête, fit l'aveu :

— Je chantais dans la rue, à Lyon, avec ma sœur.

Elle prit un temps, et ajouta :

— Nous sommes très pauvres.

Ce fut dit avec un fierté, une noblesse qui frappèrent l'homme et le comédien. En vérité, cette petite avait prononcé cela comme une reine tombée dans l'infortune.

— Il n'y a pas de mal à manquer d'argent, mon enfant. Alors ?...

— Alors, reprit la fillette dont un sourire de gratitude illumina le visage, M. Choron m'a donné gratuitement des leçons... depuis six mois. Seulement, ça ne va pas. Apprendre la musique n'est pas mon affaire. J'aime mieux jouer la comédie.

— Quels rôles as-tu déjà appris ?

Ce tutoiement marquait chez le maître l'éveil de la sympathie. La petite le sentit.

— Des masses !... répondit-elle avec plus d'entrain. Quand M. Saint-Aulaire, notre directeur au Molière, monte une pièce, il fait tirer au sort la distribution. Il dit que ça nous « forme »... Le même soir, je suis la reine Isabelle de Don Sanche, et un travesti. Je me souviens que, quand M. Josselin de la Salle est venu me complimenter, je profitais de ce que j'étais en culotte pour jouer à cloche-pied.

— Combien te paie M. Saint-Aulaire ?

— Rien du tout.

— Pourquoi joues-tu, alors ?

— Parce que j'aime ça.

Le professeur découvrait chez l'enfant, qui s'animait, une âme impressionnable, un organe généreux dont l'enrouement devait être l'effet de la fatigue, du manque de méthode d'émission. Il l'invita à réciter quelque chose, qu'elle choisit dans Molière. Elle s'en tira suffisamment bien pour attrister Samson. Quelle pitié de rencontrer une intelligence sous une semblable enveloppe ! Et, comme la petite Félix lui demandait son avis, ses conseils avec une insistance touchante, il chercha une défaite :

— Je ne sais si vous avez raison de persévérer... Mais, du reste, je ne puis donner de leçon en ce moment. Ma classe est complète... Où pourrais-je vous écrire, un peu plus tard, si...

— Au Marché-Neuf, en face de la Morgue. Mais, monsieur Samson, je vois bien, je sens, allez ! que vous ne voulez pas. Vous ne me dites plus : tu... Vous ne croyez pas que j'aie « ce qu'il faut »...

Le professeur ne voulait pas lui faire de peine ni la leurrer. Il cherchait le moyen de lui dire la vérité sans brusquerie, le plus doucement possible. Oui, il le fallait, décidément, elle était « nouée » positivement, comme disent les braves gens.

Soudain, il vit la petite figure aux yeux ardents s'empourprer d'une sorte de rage. L'enfant, d'un geste violent, dénoua son chapeau ridicule, le lança loin d'elle, arracha ses oripeaux voyants, mit à nu des épaules et des bras maigres, mais non disproportionnés, et, repoussant du pied toute sa défroque, apostropha sa mère :

— Je te le disais bien que tu me faisais faire une sottise ! Tu as voulu me faire paraître grasse, me faire faire de la toilette, une toilette qui me déplaît, que je déteste... Tenez, voyez, monsieur Samson... Mon corsage est bourré d'étoupe... Et regardez comme je suis coiffée !... Attendez un peu... je vais me montrer au naturel.

Elle desserra ses cheveux, secoua sa crinière, ramassa son châle qu'elle drapa fébrilement sur son torse, et, belle alors d'inspiration, se mit à déclamer une scène d'Andromaque.

Quand elle s'arrêta, sans que le maître l'eût interrompue une seule fois, sa cause était gagnée.

Deux ans plus tard, Elisa Félix débutait au Théâtre-Français sous le nom de Rachel.

Sophie, sa sœur, dont elle avait incidemment parlé, se fit une renommée sérieuse également, bien que moins illustre, sous le nom de Sarah Félix.

Georges REGNAL.

CONSEILS PRATIQUES

Les écoliers

Voilà les vacances bien entamées ; encore une quinzaine de liberté et de divertissments, et les écoliers songeront à endosser de nouveau le tablier noir et à se diriger, le carton sous le bras, vers l'école, le collège ou le lycée.

Pendant qu'ils profitent de leurs dernières semaines de repos, les mamans et moi nous allons nous entretenir un instant de toute cette jeunesse turbulente ou studieuse, sur quoi se fondent les espoirs de la famille.

Ce n'est pas, tout d'abord, aux heureuses mamans fières de leurs enfants que je m'adresserai ; à celles-là, je laisse la joie des bulletins remplis de bonnes notes et des distributions de prix toutes sonores de nominations multiples. Je préfère m'entretenir avec les autres, les mamans inquiètes que désole le peu de succès, le peu d'application au travail de leurs écoliers, et je vais essayer de les réconforter.

Le premier point sur quoi je retiendrai leur attention, est sur ce que l'on est accoutumé d'appeler la paresse.

La paresse ! la mère de tous les vices ! cela c'est de la vieille et bonne morale peut-être, mais certainement une morale un peu superficielle que l'observation scientifique et médicale est occupée à transformer.

La paresse, chez l'enfant, n'est pas, le plus généralement, du mauvais vouloir ; elle est une impossibilité physique et maladive à fixer l'attention, à faire agir le raisonnement, à forcer la mémoire.

Je ne crois pas qu'il y ait une méthode plus absurde que celle qui consiste à punir un enfant paresseux et à lui infliger des pensums, à doubler ou à tripler une tâche qu'il n'était déjà pas capable de remplir dans son unité. Un enfant paresseux n'est pas un enfant à punir, mais bien un enfant à soigner, à réformer doucement, à intéresser avec patience à des études dont l'aridité décourage la lenteur de ses facultés d'assimilation.

Vous direz à cela que des enfants très bien portants sont paresseux. Assurément, un enfant peut avoir un excellent appétit, beaucoup de force musculaire et manifester, en même temps, une grande répugnance pour l'étude ; c'est que, précisément, il y a manque d'équilibre dans son tempérament, et que, chez lui, la force physique se développe au détriment des aptitudes cérébrales.

Les mamans et les professeurs auront donc de nombreux devoirs à remplir envers les petits paresseux. Les premières veilleront à la santé : s'il y a excès de vigueur, elles encourageront, chez leurs enfants, la turbulence qui leur sera naturelle ; elles les laisseront se dépenser, user leur force en exercices violents, en jeux hardis ; elles leur donneront un régime alimentaire rafraichissant, apaisant. Avec les délicats, les maladifs, les dolents, il faudra user, tout au contraire, de toniques, de stimulants et ne pousser que très modérément au travail ces petits tempéraments que ronge l'anémie.

Quant aux professeurs, ils devront doser, suivant les élèves, la tâche quotidienne et ne point imposer aux intelligences ralenties ce que s'assimilent, sans efforts, les natures mieux douées. Rien n'est plus lamentable que ces « queues » de classe qui encombrent les écoles, élèves toujours retardataires, aux études desquels les professeurs ne s'intéressent plus et qui passent leurs heures à tailler des bouts de bois, à ronger leurs ongles, ou à faire des pâtés d'encre sur leurs cahiers.

Ne voudrait-il pas mieux grouper tous ces enfants en des divisions spéciales, pour lesquelles un maître patient distribuerait un enseignement plus lent, plus simplifié et plus récréatif en même temps ?

Ainsi les mamans, d'une part, et les maîtres, de l'autre, amèneraient tout doucement les petits paresseux à mieux goûter le travail, à ne point se laisser rebuter par des difficultés insurmontables, à s'habituer peu à peu à cette bonne et régulière activité qui donne tant de saveur à la vie.

Cela ne veut pas dire, naturellement, qu'il est facile de doter d'intelligence un enfant qui n'en est que modérément pourvu, mais l'intelligence scolaire, si l'on peut ainsi appeler cette intelligence particulièrement apte à profiter de l'enseignement de l'école, n'est pas indispensable pour se tirer d'affaire dans la vie, et nous verrons, dans une prochaine causerie, comment les mamans avisées, doivent se consoler de n'avoir pas pour enfants les heureux bénéficiaires des prix d'honneur et des prix d'excellence.

GRACIA

Mots en hexagone

Voiture agricole. — Un oiseau
Qui fréquente le bord de l'eau.
— Sorte de vigne très féconde
Ou canton du Gard. — Arbrisseau :
A Narbonne on dit qu'il abonde,
Et l'abeille en fait son profit.
— Puis une sorte de granit.
— Du salpêtre. — Mises au monde.

UN ALLOBROGE.

AVIS AUX DEVINEURS

Les solutions doivent être parvenues le MARDI au plus tard au rédacteur en chef du Supplément illustré du Petit Journal.

SOLUTION

des Mots en Triangle (n° 877)

T
A R L A T A N E
A R E O P A G E
R E P U T E E
L O U V E L
A P T E S
T A E L
A R L A T A N E
A R E O P A G E
T A R L A T A N E

SOLUTIONS JUSTES

des Mots en Croix blanche de St-André (n° 876)

Deux cyclistes. — Chatelin. — Massacré de Wassy. — O. Clin. — Marit. — Un Spirite. — F. Groc. — V. Ecarfed. — Paul Seurat. — Félix et sa grosse. — Joseph Gueux et Joséphа. — Tante Léonie. — Jacques Vermeire.

Ulcères et Plaies des Jambes

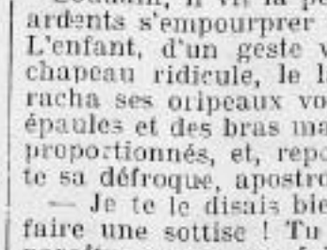
Les ulcères dits incurables, les plaies variqueuses et de mauvaise nature, l'eczéma, les dartres, les maladies de la peau les plus rebelles, les boutons, l'acné, les rougeurs, les démangeaisons les plus atroces, les vices du sang invétérés, et tous les maux de jambes, même ceux qui ont résisté depuis des années à tous les remèdes, sont infailliblement et radicalement guéris en quelques jours, même en travaillant, par le nouveau traitement végétal du Docteur Wolf, qui est envoyé gratis et franco à toutes les personnes qui le demandent à M. Passerieux, Spécialiste, 46, rue des Faures, à Bordeaux.
Dépôt à Paris : Pharmacie Girard, 217, rue Lafayette.

PUISSANCE ET AUTORITE SUR TOUS INDIVIDUS
par le Magnétisme et l'Hypnotisme
On obtient obéissance et exécution des ordres de près comme de loin ; guérison sans frais des mauvaises habitudes, des maladies physiques et morales ; gains de procès ; réussite dans les affaires ; supériorité invincible ; amour, mariage, bonheur et richesses. Brochure envoyée gratis. Ecrire à TENOR, 90, rue des Boulets, Paris

JOYEUX VIVEURS & CHANTEURS
Voulez-vous rire, faire rire et amuser vos amis ? Demand. les 6 catal. illust. réunis pr 1907 Nouv. trucs, farces, attrapes, tours de physique, librair sorceil., mag'ie, chansons, artic. utiles, etc. Envoi gratis
Maison G. Rigollet, 23, rue St-Sabin, Paris.

Avant. Après 8 jours

LA SÈVE CAPILLAIRE fait pousser la barbe et les moustaches magnifiq. même à 15 ans. Fait repousser les Cheveux et Cils. Effets prodigieux (2 méd. d'or, 40.000 lett. félicitat.) Le dem. gd pot valeur 20 fr. ven tu fre 3 f. ; le gd pot 2 f. ; le dem. pot d'essai, 0,75 timb. ou mand. à J. Posel, chie Bd Filles-du Calvaire, 20, Paris.



MAGIE NOIRE et SORCELLERIE tous les secrets dévoilés. Pacte avec démons ; découverte des trésors ; philtre triomphateur d'amour ; prédiction de l'avenir ; pour gagner aux loteries et au jeu ; pour jeter ou détruire un sort ; pour se rendre invisible ; faire réussir projet de mariage ; tous les secrets des Rose-Croix. Dominations des volontés, pouvoir irrésist. assurant réussite et fortune. Env. gratis. Ecr. Grésil, 2, rue Amelot, Paris

POILS ou DUVETS disgracieux du visage et du corps, disparition complète. Indication de s'en débarrasser pour 15 c. ACHILLE, chimiste, 75, r. Montmartre, Paris

Les CYCLES MARS Liquidant Modèles 1907 montés pièces G. S. A. A CREDIT 70f par mois
Rien d'Avance. Av. Pneus Michelin. Monte en Prime à tout Acheteur.
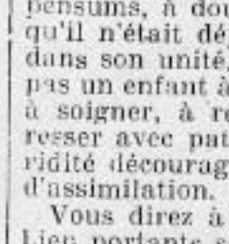
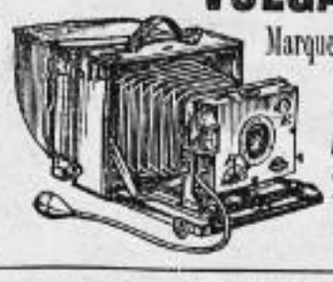
CATALOGUE FRANCO. 55, Avenue de la Grande-Armée, Paris.

APIOL JORET ET HOMOLLE
Guérit RETARDS, DOULEURS, RÉGULARISE LES EPOQUES. — 165, Rue St-Honoré, PARIS. Le Flac. 4'50 franco



POUR FAIRE PONDRE LES POULES
tous les jours, même par les plus grands froids de l'hiver 300 œufs par poule et par an. Dépense insignifiante. Notice gratis. Ecr. à Renam, 23, r. St-Sabin, Paris



POUR MAIGRIR

Sans nuire à la santé et sans régime. Amincit la taille, réduit les hanches et le ventre, efface le double menton. Rajeunit les traits et empêche de grossir.
SEUL REMÈDE VÉGÉTAL
SUCCÈS UNIVERSEL
La boîte, 5f. 6 boîtes, 28f.
Pie Viviane, 16, r. Vivienne, Paris et dans toutes les Pharmacies.

ANGLAIS ALLEM. ITAL. ESP. RUSS. PORTU. appris SEUL en 4 mois, beaucoup mieux qu'avec professeur. Nouvelle Méthode parlante-progressive, pratique, facile, infaillible, donne la Vraie prononciation exacte du pays même, le PUR ACCENT. Prouve-essai, 1 langue, fco, envoyer 90 c. (hors France 1.10) mandat ou timb. poste français à Maître Populaire, 13-2, r. Montbelon, Paris

BEAUTÉ & JEUNESSE ÉTERNELLE A TOUS
Le rouge du nez, les points noirs, les taches de rousseur, cicatrices, rides, bajoues, triples-mentons, etc. disparaîs. à jamais p. la Crème Loris, le pot 1.10
HUILE FRISANTINE. Une goutte fait friser les cheveux pendant 8 jours. Dépense insignifiante. Le flac. 1.75
SEINS développés, reconstit., embellis, raffermis, en peu de jours p. la Farine hongroise, 1 boîte 3.50
YEUX pr faire disparaître cernement et gonflement des paupières 3f. donner éclat à l'œil. Lotion végétale. Le flacon.
POILS Duvets et Barbe la plus dure, détruits pr toujours en une fois. La boîte trois francs. Mandat ou timbres J. Posel, chimie, Bd Filles-du-Calvaire, 20, Paris. Notice gratis.

SEINS
développés, reconstitués
embellis, raffermis
en deux mois par les
Pilules Orientales
Seul produit qui assure à la femme une poitrine parfaite sans nuire à la santé.
Flacon avec notice 6f 50 franco (mandat ou bon de poste)
J. RATIE, phien, 5, passage Verdeau, PARIS

LA PHOTOGRAPHIE VULGARISATRICE

Marque INCROYABLE
est la Première Maison du Monde pour les Appareils de Photographie
12, Rue des Petites-Ecuries
Catalogue Illustré Franco.

Franco à l'essai. MONTRES et BIJOUX "TRIBAUDEAU"
1er Prix aux Concours de Réglage à l'Observatoire National de Besançon en 1905 et 1906.
G. TRIBAUDEAU, Fabricant Principal à BESANÇON, livre directement au Public chaque année plus de 500.000 : MONTRES, CHRONOMÈTRES, BIJOUX, PENDULES, ORFÈVRERIE, RÉPARATIONS
PRIME à tout achat. Franco Tarif illustré.

SAGE-FEMME 1re classe, prend pensionn. à Paris et à la campag. (Maison discrète). Place enfants. Mme SALMON, 55, Faub. Saint-Martin (1 h. à 5 heures).

Grande NOUVEAUTÉ ! Grande NOUVEAUTÉ !
9 fr. 50 seulement coûte une magnifique GUITARE-CITHARE de Concert «FRANÇAISE»

de 50 centim. de haut avec 41 cordes et 5 octaves
Chaque Cithare est livrée avec 10 cartons en français et méthode gratis avec laquelle CHACUN PEUT JOUER SEUL DE SUITE. Catalogue gratis. Port 1 fr. 25. Envoi contre remboursement par la Fabrique : Robert HUSBERG, Neuenrade, n° 117, Westphalie, Allemagne.

SAGE-FEMME ET RETARDS Tous retards, irrégularités des époques sont rétablis immédiatem* avec recettes de Mme Bros, sage-femme 1re cl. dipl. Ecole de Ph*e. Notice discrète. A. BROS, 14, rue Ramey, Paris.

Tôle ondulée p. Toits, Charp., Hangars, Garages Matériaux Coloniaux. CAILLET, 3, CITÉ CONDORCET

CARTES POSTALES Vous gagnerez de l'or en vendant nos modèles merveilleux. Le plus grand assortiment et meilleur marché que partout ailleurs. — Catalogue et échantillons gratis. Ecrire : Comptoir, 23, rue Saint-Sabin, Paris

CYCLES MÉRICANT Maison de Confiance
13, Av. des Moulineaux, PARIS-BILLANCOURT
Catalogue franco. PRIX de GROS aux Intermédiaires

CONCOURS ENTRE TOUS LES ENFANTS DE FRANCE
Organisé par
" Le Petit Journal "
CAHIERS DE DEVOIRS DE VACANCES

Cours élémentaire (1re année)	0.50
— — (2me année)	0.50
Cours moyen (1re année)	0.60
— — (2me année)	0.60
Cours supérieur	0.75

En vente chez tous les dépositaires du Petit Journal
Principales récompenses : bicyclettes, machines à coudre, appareils photographiques, phonographes, montres, instruments de musique, boîtes de peinture, nécessaires de peinture, toilette, articles de papeterie scolaire et de fantaisie, jouets scientifiques, électriques et autres, livrets de Caisse d'épargne, volumes illustrés, albums de cartes postales, albums de musique, stylographes, appareils de gymnastique, caisses de bonbons, et., etc.

LE GÉRANT : G. LASSEUR

G. MARTY, imprimeur, 61, rue Lafayette.

Imprimé sur la machine rotative chromo-typo de MARINONI (Encres Lorilleux)

LES « ROUFIONS »

Tableau de M. Lucien Jonas (Salon de 1907)

BnF Gallica

Le Petit journal. Supplément du dimanche

Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France

BnF Gallica

. Le Petit journal. Supplément du dimanche. 1907-09-15.

1/ Les contenus accessibles sur le site Gallica sont pour la plupart des reproductions numériques d'oeuvres tombées dans le domaine public provenant des collections de la BnF. Leur réutilisation s'inscrit dans le cadre de la loi n°78-753 du 17 juillet 1978 :
- La réutilisation non commerciale de ces contenus ou dans le cadre d'une publication académique ou scientifique est libre et gratuite dans le respect de la législation en vigueur et notamment du maintien de la mention de source des contenus telle que précisée ci-après : « Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France » ou « Source gallica.bnf.fr / BnF ».
- La réutilisation commerciale de ces contenus est payante et fait l'objet d'une licence. Est entendue par réutilisation commerciale la revente de contenus sous forme de produits élaborés ou de fourniture de service ou toute autre réutilisation des contenus générant directement des revenus : publication vendue (à l'exception des ouvrages académiques ou scientifiques), une exposition, une production audiovisuelle, un service ou un produit payant, un support à vocation promotionnelle etc.

CLIQUER ICI POUR ACCÉDER AUX TARIFS ET À LA LICENCE

2/ Les contenus de Gallica sont la propriété de la BnF au sens de l'article L.2112-1 du code général de la propriété des personnes publiques.

3/ Quelques contenus sont soumis à un régime de réutilisation particulier. Il s'agit :

- des reproductions de documents protégés par un droit d'auteur appartenant à un tiers. Ces documents ne peuvent être réutilisés, sauf dans le cadre de la copie privée, sans l'autorisation préalable du titulaire des droits.
- des reproductions de documents conservés dans les bibliothèques ou autres institutions partenaires. Ceux-ci sont signalés par la mention Source gallica.BnF.fr / Bibliothèque municipale de ... (ou autre partenaire). L'utilisateur est invité à s'informer auprès de ces bibliothèques de leurs conditions de réutilisation.

4/ Gallica constitue une base de données, dont la BnF est le producteur, protégée au sens des articles L341-1 et suivants du code de la propriété intellectuelle.

5/ Les présentes conditions d'utilisation des contenus de Gallica sont régies par la loi française. En cas de réutilisation prévue dans un autre pays, il appartient à chaque utilisateur de vérifier la conformité de son projet avec le droit de ce pays.

6/ L'utilisateur s'engage à respecter les présentes conditions d'utilisation ainsi que la législation en vigueur, notamment en matière de propriété intellectuelle. En cas de non respect de ces dispositions, il est notamment passible d'une amende prévue par la loi du 17 juillet 1978.

7/ Pour obtenir un document de Gallica en haute définition, contacter utilisation.commerciale@bnf.fr.

Le Petit Journal

Le Petit Journal
CHAQUE JOUR — 6 PAGES — 5 CENTIMES
Administration : 61, rue Lafayette
Le Supplément illustré
CHAQUE SEMAINE 5 CENTIMES

5 CENTIMES SUPPLÉMENT ILLUSTRÉ 5 CENTIMES

Le Petit Journal Militaire, Maritime, Colonial.... 10 cent.
Le Petit Journal agricole, 5 cent. — La Mode du Petit Journal, 10 cent.
Le Petit Journal illustré de la Jeunesse, 10 cent.

On s'abonne sans frais dans tous les bureaux de poste

ABONNEMENTS

	SIX MOIS	UN AN
SEINE et SEINE-ET-OISE..	2 fr.	3 fr. 50
DÉPARTEMENTS.....	2 fr.	4 fr. »
ÉTRANGER.....	2 50	5 fr. »

Les manuscrits ne sont pas rendus

Dix-huitième Année — DIMANCHE 15 SEPTEMBRE 1907 — Numéro 878

AUTOUR DE CASABLANCA

Les goumiers au service de la France chargent les Marocains

Source gallica.bnf.fr / Bibliothèque nationale de France

EXPLICATION DE NOS GRAVURES

AUTOUR DE CASABLANCA

Les goumiers au service de la France chargent les Marocains

Depuis le tragique assassinat de nos nationaux survenu à Casablanca le 30 Juillet dernier et la lâche agression commise contre nos marins le 5 Août, aux portes de la ville, l'attention la plus vive suit, en France, les troupes chargées, sous le commandement du général Drude, de venger notre drapeau, de punir les coupables et de rétablir, sur ce point du territoire marocain, la sécurité nécessaire à la prospérité du pays.

Chaque jour nous apporte l'annonce de nouveaux combats, de nouvelles morts, hélas ! mais aussi de brillants faits d'armes.

Ce que l'on avait tout d'abord considéré comme une simple affaire de police devient une véritable expédition contre les tribus maures révoltées. Sans cesse partent des renforts jugés indispensables. C'est toute une armée que le général Drude dirige à l'heure qu'il est.

Parmi les troupes qui se distinguent sous les murs de Casablanca, on compte des tirailleurs, des légionnaires, des chasseurs d'Afrique, des spahis. Mais aucune n'est plus curieuse et n'est plus originale assurément que ces goumiers appelés du sud-Oranais pour renforcer notre cavalerie.

Le goum (on appelle ainsi l'ensemble de ces cavaliers indigènes), le goum actuellement employé compte cent vingt sabres environ. Il est commandé par le capitaine Bériot et par les lieutenants Holtz et Rousseau.

C'est la première fois qu'ils vont servir hors d'Algérie et, comme ce sont des cavaliers de premier ordre, on a la plus grande confiance dans leur valeur et leur endurance.

Le corps des goumiers algériens est composé d'Arabes du Sud. Chaque tribu soumise à la France en fournit un certain nombre. Ils s'habillent, se montent et s'équipent eux-mêmes, continuant à garder leur costume national jusque dans ses bizarreries. C'est ainsi qu'ils portent encore le grand chapeau conique et, parfois, une haute mitre en plumes d'autruche.

Au lieu de rassemblement, on leur donne seulement un mousqueton et un sabre de cavalerie.

Ils sont alors placés sous les ordres d'officiers français.

Habitués, dès leur jeunesse, aux exercices les plus périlleux, ils semblent ne rien craindre. Ce sont de hardis et farouches combattants, aimant le bruit, la poudre et les fantasias.

Pour les encourager, le produit des razzias auxquelles ils se livrent est partagé entre eux.

Depuis le 25 Août, date à laquelle ils ont débarqué à Casablanca, il n'est pas de jour où ils n'aient montré leur courage dans quelque exploration ou dans quelque charge, et rien n'étonne plus les Marocains que de voir se lancer contre eux, sabre au clair, ces hardis cavaliers, musulmans comme eux, et qui défendent cependant les couleurs de la France.

Notre dessin représente un épisode d'un des derniers combats où les goumiers sabrent l'ennemi, impuissant à échapper au galop vertigineux de leurs chevaux.

⁂

LES « ROUFIONS »

Tableau de M. Lucien Jonas
(Salon de 1907)

Les « Roufions » ?... Qu'est-ce que les Roufions ?

« Roufion » est un vieux mot que le patois de nos régions septentrionales a dû garder du temps de l'occupation espagnole. Vous savez ce qu'est un « ruffian » dans la Péninsule ?... C'est un paresseux, un parasite, un homme qui vit aux dépens d'autrui.

C'est le sens même du mot « roufion » dans le patois du Nord. « Roufion » est synonyme de « fainéant », et, comme il est constant que les grévistes appellent « fainéant » — par antiphrase, sans doute — l'ouvrier qui continue à travailler, voilà comment s'explique le titre de ce tableau.

C'est une scène de grève de mineurs, malheureusement trop fréquente dans les milieux houillers où quelque conflit a éclaté entre le capital et le travail. Un ouvrier est descendu à la mine, malgré l'ordre du syndicat ; sa femme est allée l'attendre à la sortie du puits. Une bande de grévistes chantant l'Internationale, drapeau rouge en tête, les surprennent et les coups pleuvent sur les « roufions », sur les « fainéants », sur les « faux frères » qui ont commis le crime de vouloir gagner quand même le pain de leur famille...

Cette toile qui fit sensation au dernier Salon des Artistes français, non seulement pour sa conception hardie, mais pour le réalisme vigoureux de son exécution, est d'un jeune peintre du plus bel avenir. M. Lucien Jonas, qui est originaire d'Anzin, le pays des houillères, n'a que vingt-sept ans. Elle valut à son auteur une seconde médaille et une bourse de voyage. Ajoutons qu'elle fut achetée par S. M. Chulalongkorn, roi de Siam, pour son palais de Bangkok.

VARIÉTÉ

FRANCE ET JAPON

Tokio fête l'entente franco-japonaise. — La France éducatrice du Japon au triple point de vue militaire, maritime et législatif. — Léon Roches. — Les souvenirs d'un diplomate. — Yokohama en 1865. — Tableaux du vieux Japon.

Les Japonais marquent leur joie de l'entente cordiale qui règne entre leur pays et la France et que l'arrangement franco-japonais du 10 Juin dernier a consacrée. Ils viennent, à ce sujet, d'organiser de grandes fêtes à Tokio, et ils en ont fait part à notre ministre des Affaires étrangères.

Les sujets du mikado semblent se souvenir avec plaisir que la France fut leur initiatrice et leur guide dans la voie de la civilisation. En France, on semblait l'avoir un peu oublié. Du moins ne l'a-t-on pas suffisamment rappelé. Il est pourtant indéniable que, lors de l'évolution du Japon vers les mœurs européennes, c'est notre pays qui fut son éducateur au triple point de vue militaire, maritime et législatif.

⁂

En effet, dès l'année 1865, c'est-à-dire trois ans avant qu'éclatât au Japon la révolution qui devait rendre le pouvoir au mikado, et alors que le Shogoun était encore tout puissant, une mission, composée d'officiers français, débarquait dans l'empire du Soleil Levant et commençait l'éducation de l'armée japonaise à l'européenne.

On a dit que nos revers de 1870 avaient eu pour résultat de nous enlever la confiance du gouvernement japonais et que les Allemands avaient, dès lors, hérité de cette confiance. Rien de moins exact. Dans l'année qui suivit la guerre franco-allemande, le Japon appelait, au contraire, une nouvelle mission militaire française, commandée par le colonel Munier, pour continuer l'instruction de son armée, commencée sept ans auparavant. Et d'autres missions françaises succédèrent à celle-ci, jusqu'en 1886, époque où le Japon se jugea suffisamment instruit dans l'art militaire pour remercier en bloc toutes les missions européennes.

Une preuve, d'ailleurs caractéristique, de l'influence française sur l'éducation de l'armée du Nippon, c'est que, aujourd'hui encore, la plupart des officiers japonais, et notamment les généraux, parlent couramment le français.

Si, de l'élément militaire, nous passons à l'élément maritime, nous remarquerons que ce sont encore des Français qui organisèrent les premières flottes du Nippon.

En 1866, fut commencé, dans la baie de Yokoska, le premier arsenal de la marine japonaise. Un officier français, l'enseigne de vaisseau Rotrou, en avait jeté les premières bases ; deux autres de nos compatriotes, les ingénieurs Verny et Florent, continuèrent l'œuvre qu'il avait ébauchée. En 1873, enfin, son achèvement fut confié encore à un Français, M. Thibaudier, ingénieur du génie maritime, sous les ordres duquel travaillaient sept cents ouvriers indigènes, encadrés par une trentaine d'ingénieurs et de contremaîtres français.

Bientôt, le Japon, grâce à la science et à l'activité de nos compatriotes, posséda un établissement maritime aussi complet que les grands arsenaux des puissances européennes, avec deux grands bassins de radoub, des cales de halage, des cales de construction, des ateliers à bois et à fer, une fonderie, une corderie et de vastes magasins.

Enfin, en 1886, c'est toujours à un Français, l'ingénieur Bertin, que le Japon confiait la construction de deux autres arsenaux auxiliaires, l'un à Sasébo, près de Nagasaki, dans l'île Kiou-Siou, l'autre à Hiroshima, dans la partie occidentale de l'île de Nippon.

Ce dernier arsenal fut particulièrement précieux pour la flotte japonaise durant la guerre contre la Chine, en 1894-1895, car c'est Hiroshima qui fut le point de concentration d'où partirent les corps d'armée envoyés en Chine et en Corée.

C'est, d'ailleurs, sur les plans de M. Bertin que furent construits la plupart des navires japonais qui devaient, dans cette guerre, triompher si complètement de la flotte chinoise.

L'un de ces bâtiments, le Hashidaté, s'éleva à l'arsenal d'Yokoska, sous les yeux mêmes de l'ingénieur. La construction des autres fut, grâce à son influence, confiée à la France.

C'est ainsi que, de 1886 à 1892, les Chantiers de la Méditerranée à La Seyne, et les Chantiers de la Loire à Saint-Nazaire fournirent quatre grands croiseurs au Japon et que quatorze torpilleurs furent commandés au Creusot par le gouvernement du mikado.

C'est donc bien à des Français que le Japon doit la construction de ses arsenaux maritimes et l'organisation de ses premières forces navales.

On a dit, d'autre part, que les Anglais avaient été les instructeurs de la marine des Japonais comme les Français l'avaient été de leur armée. Ce n'est pas tout à fait vrai. Instructeurs des marins japonais, les Anglais le furent, en effet, mais seulement au point de vue théorique, jamais au point de vue pratique.

Vers 1873, tandis que nos officiers de l'armée de terre commandaient des troupes japonaises et dirigeaient, en réalité, toutes leurs manœuvres, la mission navale anglaise, sous les ordres du commodore Douglas, n'était chargée que de l'instruction purement théorique des élèves japonais de l'école navale de Tokio ; jamais un Anglais n'exerça le moindre commandement sur un vaisseau de la marine nippone.

On a remarqué ce fait caractéristique que, tandis que les escadres chinoises en 1894-1895 étaient commandées par des Européens, celles du Japon, au contraire, n'avaient d'autres chefs que les amiraux japonais. Et les événements d'alors justifièrent suffisamment cette confiance que le gouvernement japonais avait dans les aptitudes naturelles et l'habileté de ses marins.

Quant à l'organisation de la justice japonaise, nul n'ignore qu'elle est due presque entièrement à la France. C'est un Français, M. Boissonnade, qui a été chargé par le gouvernement du Mikado de rédiger le Code pénal et le Code de procédure criminelle. Les Japonais ont également emprunté à notre Code civil un grand nombre de ses dispositions.

Eh bien, cette prépondérance de la France dans la première organisation militaire, maritime et judiciaire du Japon, si on l'a rappelée déjà, ce fut, toutefois, sans y insister autant que nous venons de le faire. Mais ce qu'on a négligé d'ajouter, ce que personne n'a dit, c'est à quelle influence notre pays avait dû l'honneur de guider les premiers pas des Japonais dans la voie de la civilisation européenne.

Or, cette influence fut celle d'un homme dont la vie n'a été qu'un long dévouement à la patrie, et dont le nom, trop oublié aujourd'hui, mérite d'être remis en lumière.

⁂

Cet homme s'appelait Léon Roches. Né à Grenoble en 1809, il est mort en 1901, âgé de quatre-vingt-onze ans, après une admirable carrière, durant laquelle il avait été tour à tour secrétaire et conseiller intime d'Abd-el-Kader, interprète en chef de l'armée d'Afrique sous Bugeaud, consul à Tanger et à Tunis, et enfin représentant de la France au Japon à l'époque troublée de la révolution mikadonale.

Une partie de cette existence si diverse et si mouvementée a été résumée par lui-même dans des mémoires débordants de pittoresque et de sincérité, que malheureusement il n'a pu achever et qui ne contiennent aucun détail sur son œuvre au Japon. Mais, à défaut des souvenirs de Roches lui-même, nous avons eu la bonne fortune de recueillir ceux d'un éminent diplomate, M. Paul Rameau, ministre plénipotentiaire en retraite, qui fut son meilleur collaborateur et occupa auprès de lui les fonctions de gérant du consulat de France au Japon.

Nous ne résistons pas au plaisir de les reproduire sous la forme pittoresque où M. Rameau a bien voulu les évoquer pour nous :

Toutes les fois, nous disait-il, que résonne à mon oreille le nom du Japon, je revois les tableaux suivants se présenter à ma mémoire comme sur l'écran d'un cinématographe :

Et d'abord, avec la date de Janvier 1865, la petite ville — je devrais dire le village — de Yokohama-Kanagawa, où se trouvaient ensemble, dans un véritable camp retranché, les missions diplomatiques des pays représentés alors au Japon : France (chargée de la représentation de l'Italie), Angleterre, Etats-Unis, Hollande, Suisse, Prusse ; les consulats de ces divers pays et les comptoirs des négociants étrangers. Les Russes envoyaient, de temps à autre, quelques navires de guerre en visite, mais n'avaient pas de représentant officiel auprès du Taïcoun (shogoun), reconnu alors comme le chef réel du gouvernement japonais.

J'ai dit « camp retranché » : le terme n'est pas exagéré, puisque, par suite d'un accord avec le gouvernement local, les résidents étrangers ne devaient pas sortir des limites — un ou deux kilomètres — fixées à l'espace réservé pour leur résidence.

C'est là que venaient les trouver les ministres japonais, sauf les cas très rares où ils daignaient appeler les représentants étrangers à Yeddo.

Je revois encore le grand chemin du Tocaïdo que nous parcourions pour nous rendre à la capitale du pays et qui reliait alors, comme grande route, ce qu'il fait comme chemin de fer aujourd'hui, Yokohama à Yeddo. Nous partions tous à cheval, le ministre de France, Léon Roches en tête, avec sa belle prestance de chef arabe ; chacun de nous précédé de son betto (groom et palefrenier), courant à une certaine distance en avant des chevaux. Une double escorte de cavaliers japonais revêtus de leur ancien costume si pittoresque et armés de leurs fameux sabres, ouvrait et fermait la marche.

A mi-route, nous faisions halte dans une petite ferme proprette, sous des pommiers en fleur, pour consommer un petit déjeuner froid emporté avec nous.

Puis, on arrivait à Yeddo et l'on parcourait la capitale, toujours à cheval, pour franchir plus rapidement les énormes espaces non bâtis qui séparaient çà et là certains quartiers de la ville. Enfin, l'on gagnait le petit temple affecté à la résidence de la légation de France lors de ses visites si rares et si courtes à Yeddo. Là, une garde spéciale veillait sur notre sécurité, ce qui ne nous empêchait pas de prendre la précaution de dormir à peu de distance les uns des autres, nos armes chargées sous nos oreillers.

Ces précautions n'étaient pas inutiles, en effet, car, dans tout le Japon, la haine couvait contre les Occidentaux... Mais bientôt cet état de choses allait changer du tout au tout.

Et à ce propos, nous disait M. Rameau, nous voici amené à un second tableau, tout spécial, celui-là, à l'homme remarquable dont nous rappelons ici la mémoire :

La scène représente le petit cabinet de travail de Léon Roches à Yokohama, ce cabinet dans lequel se sont tenus si souvent, avec un ou plusieurs ministres du Taïcoun, des conférences qui étaient de véritables conseils de gouvernement. Je vois encore Léon Roches, dans le grand fauteuil où se carrait sa haute stature, recevant les hauts fonctionnaires que lui déléguait le Taïcoun. Chacun d'eux était suivi de son « auditeur » (dont le rôle consistait à écouter silencieusement, pour communiquer ensuite à qui de droit, ses impressions sur l'entrevue ; de l'interprète (à ce moment l'interprétation se faisait par l'intermédiaire d'une troisième langue, le hollandais) ; enfin, de plusieurs scribes, véritables sténographes, tenant compte non seulement des paroles échangées, mais des moindres détails de la conférence.

C'est dans ce cabinet de travail qu'ont pris naissance toutes les grandes réformes qui ont successivement transformé le Japon et l'ont amené d'un état de civilisation enfantine à la hauteur des nations les plus civilisées du globe, au moins en ce qui concerne les institutions et la vie gouvernementale.

Je vois Léon Roches expliquant aux Japonais le mécanisme de la monnaie dans le monde économique et les amenant à introduire dans leur pays une administration monétaire, copie intelligente de la nôtre. J'ai vu les débuts modestes de l'arsenal de Yokoska, où l'on se bornait, à l'origine, à réparer les navires achetés à l'étranger, afin de constituer les éléments de la première flotte japonaise.

C'est enfin — et cela suffirait à lui donner un caractère historique — c'est dans ce cabinet de travail de Léon Roches que fut prise, en Mai 1866, par les représentants des puissances réunis au ministre de France, la résolution d'aller demander au vrai souverain du Japon, au mikado, la ratification des traités conclus lors de l'ouverture du pays aux Européens, traités que le Taïcoun avouait tout à coup avoir été ignorés de son chef.

On sait que cette ratification fut accordée par le mikado, et que cette première démarche, appuyée du reste par une démonstration navale imposante, fut le début de relations nouvelles entre le véritable chef de l'Etat et les représentants des puissances étrangères : — relations qui firent naître dans l'esprit du souverain la résolution de gouverner désormais lui-même, et qui précipitèrent cette suite d'événements dans lesquels disparurent le pouvoir taïcounal et la féodalité foncière, tandis que s'érigeait, petit à petit, le régime constitutionnel actuel.

Que d'autres témoignages, nous dit M. Rameau, je pourrais vous donner encore de l'influence de Léon Roches ! Mais tout cela nous entraînerait trop loin. J'abrège et je passe au dernier tableau qu'il me fut donné de voir grâce à lui :

Le prince de Satsouma, un des grands daïmios du régime féodal, avait, sans raison, fait canonner un petit navire français, le Kien-Chang, qui passait dans les parages de ses domaines. Ce seigneur ayant refusé, comme l'avait exigé M. Roches, de nous faire des excuses, le Taïcoun s'était décidé à le punir et avait envoyé des troupes contre lui.

C'est au départ de ces troupes qu'il me fut permis d'assister. Grâce aux bonnes relations de mon chef avec le gouvernement d'alors, les Européens purent, à titre tout à fait exceptionnel et d'un endroit spécialement désigné et délimité avec des cordes, je m'en souviens, contempler ce défilé digne de tenter le pinceau d'un Detaille.

A ce moment-là, les anciens uniformes, les anciennes armes étaient seuls en usage. Qu'on se figure une procession de ces compagnies d'archers, d'arbalétriers, revêtus de ces jolies armures laquées ou damasquinées qu'on ne voit plus guère aujourd'hui que chez de riches collectionneurs ; quelques pelotons d'arquebusiers ; certaines compagnies précédées de tambours à la longue caisse de forme hollandaise. Les chefs, à cheval, surchargés, hommes et bêtes, d'ornements guerriers et bizarres... Les Japonais d'aujourd'hui doivent bien rire lorsqu'ils trouvent des images représentant leurs pères ainsi accoutrés ; mais je vous assure que, en 1865, au moment où nous passions cette revue des forces de terre des Japonais, il n'y en avait pas un seul parmi nous qui, tout en croyant au progrès et au développement futur de ce peuple si intelligent, eût soupçonné la réalisation de ce développement et la transformation radicale, absolue, de l'armée japonaise dans un espace de temps de moins de trente années...

⁂

Tels sont, entre mille, les quelques souvenirs que M. Rameau a bien voulu évoquer pour nous, du temps où Léon Roches représentait la France au Japon. Ils ne sont pas seuls à démontrer que, grâce à son ministre, notre pays eut une influence prépondérante sur les destinées de l'empire du Soleil Levant. La plupart des voyageurs qui visitèrent alors le Japon ont également constaté ce fait.

Malheureusement, cette influence prise alors par la France sur la civilisation japonaise, cette prépondérance due au zèle de Léon Roches et constatée par tous ceux qui le virent à l'œuvre, notre pays ne sut pas toujours les conserver. Notre ingérence dans les affaires japonaises après la guerre de 1894-1895 eut pour effet de nous aliéner les sympathies de ce peuple que nous avions guidé naguère sur la route de la civilisation et qui s'étonnait, à bon droit, de nous trouver alors parmi ses adversaires.

Mais aujourd'hui les petits dissentiments sont oubliés. Le Japon fête notre amitié... Pourvu que ça dure !... Tout sera pour le mieux.

Ernest LAUT.

LA SOIF LA PLUS OPINIATRE cède à l'emploi du délicieux breuvage ALTERICIDE sucre de Carlsbad et Citron. EXIGER LE NOM ALTERICIDE IMPRIMÉ SUR CHAQUE BOUTEILLE.

LA SEMAINE FANTAISISTE

Septembre

Septembre ! Avec toi vient l'automne
Que, mélancolique, on s'étonne
De voir apparaître déjà !
Mois changeant, tu fais qu'on regrette
De quitter les fraîches retraites
Dans lesquelles on se plongea.

Tu fais aussi — plus d'un l'avoue
Sans la moindre rougeur aux joues —
L'espoir des pauvres voyageurs
Qui, loin de leurs chères pénates,
S'ennuyaient, se rongeaient la rate,
Hélas ! dans les grandes largeurs.

Epoque éphémère et mobile,
Favorable à l'automobile
Et propice aux sports les plus fous,
Pourtant propre à la rêverie,
Chez toi, que tu pleures ou ries,
Il y en a pour tous les goûts.

Fin d'été ! Aux vents de Septembre,
Les feuilles couleur d'or et d'ambre
Tombent, finissant de jaunir.
Les portefeuilles choient de même
Et les députés qui les aiment
Parlent déjà de revenir.

Sous les frondaisons dont les palmes,
Pas académiques mais calmes,
Versent l'oubli de l'univers,
Les préfets en villégiature
Admirent la belle nature
Et les sous-préfets font des vers.

Si les moissons partout sont faites,
Les lauriers, sur ces entrefaites,
Veulent avoir leur tour : voilà
Pourquoi, majestueux augures,
Quelques ministres inaugurent
Des monuments de ci, de là.

Le Président qui, bucolique,
Aux princes de la République
Comme aux gens de tout rang, bouillait
De montrer sa force à la chasse,
Les entraîne tous sur ses traces
Dans les tirés de Rambouillet.

Les bons Nemrods de la banlieue
Dévorent bravement les lieues,
Fusil sur l'épaule et contents
S'ils ont, en six heures de chasse,
Tué une vieille bécasse
Ou bien, tout simplement, le temps.

Les touristes de Trou-sur-Manche
Qui, la semaine et le dimanche,
Barbottaient sur des fonds vaseux,
Et ceux des stations thermales
Bouclent hâtivement leurs malles
Pour revenir enfin chez eux.

Paris que la blonde Angleterre
Et tous les pays de la terre,
Envahisseurs, avaient fait sien,
Paris achève sa toilette,
Comble ses trous, se fait coquette
Pour le retour des Parisiens.

Septembre : c'est la période
Où l'on s'occupe de la mode
Que les couturiers lanceront.
Toutes les femmes te bénissent,
Mais tous les maris te honnissent
Pour les notes qu'ils régleront.

Par contre, il est vrai, tu ramènes,
Par un étrange phénomène,
Avec nos amis les plus chers,
Les huîtres en belles bourriches,
Pour les pauvres et pour les riches,
Septembre, premier mois en R !

CLAUDIN.

Le ventriloque

Un jour de congé, comme je terminais ma quatrième au lycée de Marseille, la fantaisie nous prit, deux camarades et moi, d'aller visiter le château d'If. Tous connaissent, au moins de nom, cette île déserte, si près des côtes provençales. Elle est, en effet, célèbre par les faits historiques dont elle évoque le souvenir. C'est la Bastille du Midi. Tous les navires la croisent en passant. Elle apparaît alors, dressant le cube massif et lourd de ses murs délabrés, sillonnés partout de profondes lézardes, et qui semblent garder, avec leur sévérité d'antique ruine, une impression de toutes les souffrances qu'ils enfermèrent durant des siècles. Et des récits étranges, mystérieux, coururent aussi sur cette vieille prison qu'illustrèrent par leur captivité les plus fameuses victimes du despotisme royal.

C'est tout cela, et d'autres choses encore, qui nous poussaient, ce jour-là, à visiter le château d'If. Nous prîmes une barque, comme le soir tombait. La mer était tranquille, un vaste soleil rouge incendiait l'horizon. Durant le trajet, la conversation s'anima. On discuta fort sur les énigmatiques personnages qu'on avait ensevelis dans ces cachots. C'était, d'abord, Monte-Cristo, le légendaire héros d'Alexandre Dumas, dont les prodigieuses aventures avaient hanté notre imagination d'écolier. C'était, ensuite, le Masque de Fer, plus troublant encore. Puis venaient, dans un tragique défilé, Tassecrand, l'insulteur de la marquise de Montespan ; Macerbel, trois fois sauvé par d'héroïques amis, trois fois repris ; l'abbé Faria qui, assure-ton, eut la longue patience de couvrir de maximes les murs de sa cellule ; enfin, le plus grand, le plus inoubliable de tous, le formidable colosse Mirabeau.

— Heureusement, déclara naïvement l'un de nous, un jeune Marseillais, que nous n'appartenons plus à ces siècles de barbarie, et qu'on est plus libéral de nos jours !

— Sûr non, protesta, avec l'accent, notre batelier ; je vous certifie, mon brave, que le cachot de Monte-Cristo n'est pas, de ce moment, sans locataire.

Nous fîmes semblant de rire.

— Vous verrez, reprit-il d'un ton très sûr.

Et il ajouta, avec un air de suffisance :

— C'est moi qui vous le dis.

Puis il aspira une dernière bouffée de fumée, secoua sa pipe, jeta sur l'horizon un regard assuré et se reprit à ramer.

Cinq minutes après, nous débarquions dans l'île. Dans les dernières lueurs du crépuscule, la colossale architecture du château d'If, se dressant dans l'ombre, avec ses tours démolies, comme un gigantesque fantôme, prenait une apparence d'antique construction, de grande ruine abandonnée, plus sombre et plus tragique sous les reflets blafards des hautes murailles nues. Nous montâmes, d'abord, par un sentier étroit et rocailleux, dans un solennel silence.

Nous arrivons enfin devant une grande grille, au delà de laquelle s'élevaient, en un vaste amphithéâtre, les remparts des prisons. Nous appelons le gardien, et, quelques instants après, nous voyons apparaître un petit vieillard sec, débile, qui s'avançait péniblement, une lanterne à la main. Il était coiffé d'un bonnet râpé, rouge sans doute autrefois, mais que l'injure des temps avait fait tourner au gris.

— Qui va là, à cette heure ? cria-t-il en se frottant les yeux.

— Des voyageurs qui désirent visiter les prisons, répondit l'un de nous.

Le bonhomme releva sa lanterne pour mieux considérer nos visages et s'assurer de notre aspect.

— Des voyageurs ? reprit-il d'une voix si sourde qu'elle semblait sortir du plus profond de ses entrailles... eh bien ! entrez.

Et il ouvrit la grille.

La nuit, maintenant, était tout à fait tombée, une nuit sans lune, d'une épaisseur d'encre. Nous suivions le gardien sans mot dire, guidés seulement par la lueur de sa lanterne.

Il nous introduisit, d'abord, dans le cachot d'où le futur orateur de la Constituante écrivait à la malheureuse Sophie ces lettres folles de passion et frémissantes déjà des grandes colères qui, deux ans plus tard, devaient déchaîner la Révolution. Et, sur un vieux registre, tout jauni, qu'étalait sous nos yeux le gardien, en face du nom de Mirabeau était cette simple mention : « Sujet très dangereux. A tenté de mettre le feu à la porte de sa prison. »

Ce fut, ensuite, une longue inspection de cachots : le cachot du Masque de Fer, celui de l'abbé Faria ; d'autres encore, bas, ténébreux, glacés, qui nous secouaient d'horreur, nous paralysaient d'émotion, à la pensée que des êtres vivants avaient été enterrés là.

Nous pénétrons enfin dans un souterrain plus profond, plus affreux encore que tous les autres.

— Voici, nous dit le gardien, la prison de Monte-Cristo.

Un grand silence s'abattit.

Tout à coup, un gémissement prolongé, semblable à celui d'un moribond, se fit entendre ; puis une voix plaintive, sépulcrale, qui semblait avoir peine à traverser les murs, nous frappa comme d'un coup violent dans la poitrine.

— Oh ! je suis malheureux... Voilà dix ans qu'on me fait espérer ma délivrance !...

Un instant s'écoula, sans que nos oreilles entendissent autre chose que les battements précipités de nos cœurs. La voix reprit, plus lamentable :

— A boire, à boire, par pitié !

Du coup, le mot du batelier, dont nous avions tant ri, nous revint à l'esprit.

— Qu'est ceci ? demandai-je au gardien, qui demeurait impassible comme s'il n'avait rien entendu.

— Oh ! rien, fit celui-ci avec calme, je vais lui apporter de l'eau tout à l'heure.

— A qui ? répliquai-je sur un ton qui exigeait sur-le-champ une explication.

— Au prisonnier, répondit le gardien avec un flegme de plus en plus exaspérant.

Puis, s'approchant du mur :

— C'est bon, c'est bon, père Joseph, je vais y aller... Ne vous impatientez pas.

— Quelle heure est-il ? implora la voix d'outre-mur.

— Il n'y a pas d'heure pour les braves, riposta l'autre.

Et, se retournant vers nous, il ajouta tout bas, comme s'il se parlait à lui-même :

— Je crois qu'il y aura quelque chose de nouveau, demain, pour ce malheureux... Nous avons reçu un pli cacheté qui le concerne.

Cette ingénieuse réflexion acheva de convaincre les plus défiants d'entre nous. Dès lors, nous ne doutons plus qu'il y a des prisonniers d'Etat au château d'If ; notre indignation éclate ; mes deux camarades se montent à mon unisson ; nous protestons furieusement, le souvenir du 14 Juillet nous enflamme, nous voulons renverser cette nouvelle Bastille, délivrer ces prisonniers et les ramener en triomphe à Marseille.

— N'oubliez pas la chopinette, gémit de nouveau, sur ces entrefaites, le prétendu prisonnier.

Alors, l'un de nous, le plus âgé, une garçon de quinze ans, tira une pièce blanche de son gilet et, la mettant dans la main du gardien :

— Voilà, dit-il d'une voix où tremblait une émotion mal contenue, voilà de quoi acheter du vin pour cet infortuné.

— Oui, bien infortuné, répliqua le petit vieux en empochant la pièce... Faites donc de la politique après ça.

Profondément bouleversés, nous partions pour répandre dans Marseille le bruit que nous avions découvert des prisonniers d'Etat au château d'If, lorsque notre bonhomme de gardien, nous croyant plus naïfs que nous ne l'étions vraiment, eut lui-même la naïveté de prolonger la plaisanterie plus qu'il ne convenait. Nous comprîmes alors que le sacripant était ventriloque, et il en convint, d'ailleurs, en riant avec nous. Mais nos cœurs d'enfants avaient joliment battu !

Paul BRULAT.

Aux sous-officiers libérables

Le « Petit Journal Militaire, Maritime, Colonial » accepte comme correspondants, dans toutes les communes de France et des Colonies, les sous-officiers quittant le service actif. Adresser immédiatement demandes. Fortes remises. Timbre de 0 fr. 10 pour réponse.

La marque

Un gardien l'accompagna jusque sur le seuil ; la lourde porte se referma, avec un bruit lugubre, derrière lui, et Pierre Riboux, libre enfin, s'éloigna de cette prison où avait sombré son honneur.

C'était un grand garçon d'une trentaine d'années, aux yeux clairs, à la moustache blonde, qui, malgré la flétrissure inévitable de six mois d'existence passés en compagnie d'escrocs et de voleurs, gardait cependant l'allure correcte donnée par son éducation.

Fils d'un notaire de petite ville mort presque ruiné, resté seul, à sept ans, avec sa mère trop faible et trop bonne, après de médiocres études il ne s'était senti aucune vocation.

La liberté, seule, le hantait. Il entra d'abord dans la maison de commerce d'un ami de son père, mais la quitta presque aussitôt, ne pouvant se plier à l'obéissance et à l'exactitude nécessaires.

A cette époque, précisément, sa mère mourut lui laissant un peu d'argent. Il eut tôt fait de le dissiper et connut alors la misère noire. Las de vivre d'expédients, il s'engagea en Afrique, faillit passer trois ou quatre fois en conseil de guerre pour indiscipline ; finalement, son service achevé, vint échouer à Paris où, grâce à quelques recommandations, il obtint d'entrer dans un atelier de constructions automobiles.

Intelligent, il apprit vite le métier, mais là encore il gâta son avenir par des idées anarchistes rapportées d'Afrique, se fit mettre à la porte de toutes les maisons qui l'acceptèrent et, un soir, errant dans un faubourg, l'estomac tiraillé par la faim, entra dans une boulangerie ouverte et vide.

Des pains énormes et dorés le tentèrent. Un semblant de probité lui fit saisir son couteau pour couper une miche, juste de quoi apaiser sa fringale. Mais, comme le patron survenait, il eut, de sa main armée, un geste de protestation que l'autre prit pour un geste de menace. Il fut arrêté.

Tentative de vol et de meurtre, c'était la cour d'assises.

La chute était horrible. Pierre Riboux ne la sentit pas, du moins il ne vit en elle que la part du hasard. Aigri, il voulut développer à la barre ses théories libertaires. Il s'aliéna les jurés, qui le condamnèrent à six mois de prison, et c'était ces six mois de honte qu'il venait de purger à Fresnes.

Seul, sur la route déserte, il lui semblait que le regard des choses le poursuivait.

Au loin, le crépuscule tombait, le jour s'enfuyait lentement, l'immensité semblait infinie. Dans un champ, perdu près de l'horizon, un paysan semait encore, debout dans le soleil couchant.

Pierre Riboux se retrouvait maintenant sur cette route avec des sentiments de haine contre la société entière.

Il passa la main sur son front, comme pour en chasser les ténébreuses pensées, et compta l'argent qu'il avait touché en signant sa levée d'écrou.

— Cinquante francs ! Et après, la lutte recommencera, la lutte âpre du malchanceux, du meurt-de-faim, contre le sort impitoyable et brutal !

La nuit venait de plus en plus, il se décida à s'éloigner, allant droit devant lui. Enfin, il arriva dans un village et s'arrêta devant une mauvaise auberge pour commander du pain, du fromage et du vin, de quoi souper.

L'appétit satisfait et son écot payé, il allait repartir à la recherche d'un gîte pour la nuit, quand un journal, laissé ouvert sur une chaise, attira son attention.

Un journal ! Il n'en avait pas lu un seul depuis ses longues semaines d'emprisonnement. Avide de nouvelles, il s'en empara et, grisé par ce plaisir nouveau, se mit à lire minutieusement cette feuille de hasard.

Soudain, quelques lignes le stupéfièrent -

LES GAITÉS DE LA SEMAINE, par DRANER

— Toi qui te vantes de connaître les semblables, Joseph, dis-moi donc ce que tu penses de ce melon ?

— Tu ne viens pas au tennis avec nous ?
— Impossible, j'ai à finir mes devoirs de vacances du Petit Journal ; songez donc qu'il y a des bicyclettes comme prix !

— Alors, vous croyez, docteur, que le lait de chèvre me soutiendrait ?
— Absolument, c'est même ainsi qu'on nourrit le jeune hippopotame qui vient de naître au Jardin des Plantes.

— Comment ! tu prends un port d'armes, toi, qui n'es pas chasseur ?
— Oui, mais ça me donne le droit de sortir avec un fusil, et, par ces temps d'apaches, ce n'est pas une dépense inutile.

« Jean-Pierre Riboux, né le 10 Mars 1873, est recherché par Me Grossandre, notaire, rue de Miromesnil, à Paris, pour succession. »

***

Le lendemain, après une nuit fiévreuse, Pierre Riboux prenait le train pour Paris.

Sans prendre la peine de changer de vêtements, il courait chez Me Grossandre.

On l'annonça aussitôt. Le notaire, habitué sans doute à ces coups de la fortune tombant au hasard, le reçut sans étonnement, avec une politesse froide.

Après avoir examiné les papiers que lui apportait Riboux, il lui dit :

— Vous êtes, monsieur, l'unique héritier de M. Vidal, votre oncle maternel, décédé à Odessa, le 15 du mois dernier.

C'était, en effet, un frère de sa mère, qui avait quitté la France pour courir le monde et qui, arrivé en Russie, avait fait fortune dans le commerce sans que personne de sa famille n'en sût jamais rien.

Le notaire reprit :

— Je vais vous lire son testament.

Il sortit un papier d'une grande enveloppe et lut :

« Je reconnais comme légataire universel Jean-Pierre Riboux, fils de Georges-André Riboux et de Marie-Anne Vidal, ma sœur, et lui laisse toute ma fortune, soit cinq cent mille francs en titres ; ma ferme située aux environs d'Odessa et mon hôtel situé dans cette ville.

» Fait en pleine lucidité d'esprit, etc. »

Le notaire releva les yeux d'un air satisfait :

— J'ai trouvé deux acquéreurs, dit-il, pour la ferme et l'hôtel. Le premier offre deux cent mille francs pour la ferme, l'autre trois cent mille pour l'hôtel. Si vous consentez à vendre, je crois que ce sera là une bonne affaire.

Après quelques minutes de discussion, la vente fut décidée, et Pierre Riboux laissait au notaire, par procuration, le soin de gérer cette fortune inattendue.

La poche lourde de l'arriéré des intérêts, il sortit la tête haute. Il avait déjà oublié le condamné à six mois de prison pour tentative de vol et de meurtre.

— Un million ! J'ai un million ! répétait-il à chaque pas. Que vais-je en faire ?

Des idées étranges lui passèrent par la tête, comme celle de fonder une usine où les bénéfices seraient la propriété des ouvriers.

C'était là un de ses anciens rêves, au temps de sa misère.

Mais il ne s'attarda pas longtemps à cette idée, car son anarchie n'était rien autre, sans qu'il se l'avouât, qu'un sentiment de haine contre la société en général, et les riches en particulier ; cette haine était causée par l'envie, et le monde lui paraissait maintenant agréable et parfait, puisqu'il allait profiter des avantages qu'il donne aux heureux.

***

Dès ce jour, par la magie de l'argent, Pierre Riboux se sentit transformé.

L'ancien meurt-de-faim, peu à peu, retrouva les habitudes élégantes que sa naissance lui avait données.

Paris, qui ne s'étonne de rien, accepta ce garçon brillant et aimable, et cela d'autant plus facilement que la générosité de ses allures ne lui faisait que des amis.

Pierre Riboux avait maintenant un appartement boulevard Haussmann et un castel en Normandie.

On le remarquait au Bois, au théâtre, aux courses, dans les restaurants à la mode et dans tous les endroits où l'on s'amuse.

Présenté par l'un et par l'autre, il fut reçu dans les salons les plus cotés, et, comme il était brillant danseur, on ne tarda pas à se l'arracher.

Cette dernière qualité mondaine décida de son avenir.

Nul n'avait été sans remarquer son assiduité auprès de Mlle Frémières, fille d'un riche banquier parisien ; on en prophétisa un mariage.

Deux ans après, nul ne s'étonna d'apprendre leurs fiançailles.

Cependant, inquiétés par tant de succès, les envieux grondèrent. Un parmi tous, le jeune vicomte de Foulcques, ex-roi de la mode, détrôné par cet intrus venu on ne savait d'où.

Il avait longtemps espéré obtenir la main de Mlle Frémières ; aussi l'annonce des fiançailles de la jeune fille avec Pierre Riboux souleva dans son cœur une tempête de jalousie et de rage.

— D'où sort ce nouveau venu ? se demandait-il en mordillant sa petite moustache blonde.

Il résolut de le savoir.

Il prit ses renseignements et, grâce à une agence de police privée, ne fut pas longtemps à connaître l'odyssée de son heureux rival.

— Quel succès, mon cher, ricana-t-il, se parlant à lui-même, un ancien forçat, un assassin ! En exagérant encore les choses, rien n'est plus facile que de le perdre.

Il avait son plan.

***

Quelques jours après, Riboux sortait du cercle, vers les deux heures du matin, avec de Foulcques et deux amis.

Le vicomte offrit sa voiture, tous quatre y montèrent ; lorsque, arrivée au coin d'une rue déserte, la voiture s'arrêta brusquement, de Foulcques se pencha par la portière et aussitôt se rejeta en arrière, simulant un vif effroi.

Les portières s'ouvrirent, deux revolvers couchèrent en joue les quatre hommes, alors que, de leurs mains libres, deux bandits tendaient leur casquette.

On en devinait d'autres tenant les chevaux.

Soudain, l'un des malandrins s'exclama, en désignant le fiancé de Mlle Frémières :

— Tiens ! Mais c'est Riboux ! Pierre Riboux ! Comme on se retrouve ? T'as donc fait fortune depuis qu'on a été ensemble à Fresnes ?

Le jeune homme protesta :

— Mais je ne vous connais pas !

L'autre, insistant, reprit :

— Comment ? Tu oublies donc les six mois de prison que tu as faits ? Ingrat ! Mais, va ! n'aies pas peur, on ne travaille pas contre les camarades !

Et, comme Pierre Riboux, blême, les yeux hagards, ne s'empressait pas de prendre la main que lui tendait le bandit, il ajouta :

— Allons, tu fais le fier, tu seras peut-être content un jour de nous retrouver. Au revoir !

Et il disparut, suivi de ses compagnons.

Incapable de se défendre, Pierre rentra chez lui, et, devant la vérité qui devait courir le monde maintenant, il cessa brusquement de sortir.

A trois jours de là, on apprenait la rupture des fiançailles de Mlle Frémières et de Pierre Riboux.

Ainsi, malgré les transformations que la fortune avait amenées dans sa vie, l'ancien condamné se voyait à nouveau livré au mépris public !

Pourtant, cette faute, ou ce semblant de faute, il l'avait expiée cruellement.

Hélas ! la marque était pour lui ineffaçable. Rien ne pourrait jamais faire que son infamie ancienne ne fût pas. Toujours, il devrait rester l'ancien condamné, l'hôte de Fresnes.

— A quoi donc m'a servi ma richesse ? murmurait-il.

Dans son inconscience, le malheureux ne voyait pas que, seul, le travail rachète les fautes passées, et que la renommée d'honneur est inconstante quand elle n'est basée que sur l'estime des oisifs et des envieux.

Il ne restait plus à Pierre qu'à disparaître. C'est ce qu'il fit, sans que l'on sût jamais s'il s'était tué ou s'il s'était enfui dans quelque pays lointain.

Six mois après, on lisait dans les journaux :

« On annonce le prochain mariage de Mlle Frémières, fille du banquier parisien bien connu, avec le vicomte de Foulcques, fils du général comte de Foulcques. »

N. DE MONTERRATO.

FARINE DUTAUT, le meilleur aliment des enfants

CIGALE

— Mademoiselle Rosine, permettez-moi de vous offrir... Ce sont les premières violettes de la saison.

Et Marcel Balmier, l'étudiant en médecine du cinquième, présentait à la jeune fille un bouquet frais et parfumé comme le printemps.

Les deux jeunes gens se rencontraient souvent — Marcel aidait de son mieux le hasard — dans l'escalier de la vaste maison qui abritait tout un monde de locataires : employés, petits rentiers, artistes et professeurs.

La mère de Rosine, veuve sans fortune d'un officier mort au Tonkin, occupait, avec ses deux filles, un modeste appartement sur la cour. L'aînée, Lucy, donnait en ville des leçons de musique. Rosine étudiait le chant. Elle emplissait de roulades et de savants exercices les petites pièces étroites, en attendant qu'une scène plus vaste s'offrit à la réalisation de ses rêves d'artiste.

Sa jolie voix pure et brillante était habilement cultivée par le signor Belloni, un vieux professeur italien qui ne ménageait pas les encouragements et les éloges à sa gentille élève. Il aimait à raconter devant elle les débuts et les triomphes des cantatrices plus ou moins fameuses qu'il avait guidées dans les voies du grand art, et, naturellement, l'imagination de la jeune fille s'enflammait à ces récits où l'exagération méridionale avait une bonne part. La mère, imprudente, attisait le feu au lieu de l'éteindre. Ses ambitions étaient illimitées quand il s'agissait de sa fille chérie.

— Rosine sera une grande artiste et elle chantera un jour à l'Opéra, affirmait-elle avec conviction.

— Nous pourrions nous contenter de l'Opéra-Comique, maman, disait Lucy, avec son sourire tranquille, un peu désabusé.

Lucy représentait la raison dans le petit ménage. Elle aimait bien sa sœur ; elle admirait, sans arrière-pensée de jalousie, la grâce juvénile de Rosine, ses yeux d'un bleu si doux sous la mousse légère des cheveux dorés, son charme délicat, un peu fragile, comme le cristal même de cette voix fraîche sur laquelle on fondait de si grandes espérances, mais elle sentait qu'il suffirait d'un rien pour anéantir les beaux rêves.

Et elle travaillait courageusement, grimpant et redescendant les étages sans se plaindre, écoutant sans impatience les sonates et les préludes innocents, trop souvent massacrés sur de malheureux pianos qui ne pouvaient que gémir.

Les modestes leçons seraient peut-être un jour la ressource suprême.

***

— Maman, avait dit, ce soir-là, Rosine en rentrant et en se jetant, toute palpitante, au cou de sa mère, je viens d'avoir une audition de M... Il est enchanté de ma voix.

— M..., le compositeur ? fit la mère, éblouie.

— Oui. Oh ! j'ai eu une minute d'émotion et même un peu de trac, mais ça n'a pas duré. J'ai chanté sans accroc tout le second acte de son opéra.

« — Vous incarnez merveilleusement mon héroïne, m'a dit le maître. Je ne veux pas d'autre interprète que vous. »

Alors, le bon vieux Belloni m'a embrassée, en pleurant de joie, et l'impresario...

— L'impresario ?... C'est un engagement qu'on te propose ?

— Un engagement de six mois pour une grande tournée en province et à l'étranger. Nous ferons le Nord de la France, la Belgique, la Hollande, une partie de l'Allemagne et la Russie, si ça marche.

— Comment, si ça marche ! s'écria la mère enthousiasmée. C'est-à-dire que tu nous reviendras étoile et que nous pourrons faire nos conditions aux directeurs de Paris.

— Les tournées ne réussissent pas toujours, observa la prudente Lucy. Es-tu sûre de ton impresario, au moins ?

Mais on ne l'écoutait pas. Les deux femmes laissaient leur imagination s'envoler sur les ailes des espoirs infinis et parlaient de fleurs, de bravos, de rappels enthousiastes, quand le timbre de l'antichambre interrompit ce flot de paroles joyeuses.

— C'est M. Balmier, dit la mère, qui n'était pas insensible aux politesses et aux prévenances du jeune voisin. Je l'ai invité à passer la soirée avec nous pour fêter l'heureuse issue de ses examens : il est docteur depuis hier.

Et, laissant la jeunesse échanger les nouvelles et les félicitations, elle alla surveiller les débuts d'une petite bonne qu'il aurait été imprudent de laisser livrée à elle-même si on voulait avoir un dîner présentable.

— Monsieur le docteur, dit Rosine avec une lueur de malice dans ses jolis yeux, est-ce votre nouveau titre qui vous rend si grave ? Vous n'avez pas du tout l'air content de vos triomphes... ni des miens, ajouta-t-elle, inconsciemment coquette, en respirant les violettes de son bouquet.

Les deux jeunes gens s'étaient isolés dans un coin du petit salon pendant que Lucy, assise au piano, déchiffrait d'une main légère la partition du dernier opéra de M... Elle avait deviné, depuis longtemps, les sentiments de Marcel pour sa sœur.

« Pauvre garçon, songeait-elle en regardant le jeune couple si bien fait pour s'entendre, lui brun, sérieux, résolu, elle blonde et charmante dans sa grâce rieuse, il ne pouvait choisir un moment plus défavorable pour offrir à Rosine d'aller s'enterrer dans une petite ville de province. »

— Comment aurais-je l'air heureux quand vous me parlez de départ ? disait Marcel à Rosine, avec un regard si éloquent qu'elle en fut un peu troublée.

— Mais vous partez aussi pour exercer la médecine dans votre ville natale.

— Oui, seulement, j'espérais... Voyez-vous, mademoiselle Rosine, j'avais rêvé pour vous autre chose que cette existence nomade et incertaine de l'artiste, toujours à la merci d'un hasard malheureux, sans compter les caprices du public.

— Oh ! fit-il, répondant à un mouvement de la jeune fille, je sais que vous serez fêtée, admirée pour votre talent et le charme irrésistible qui est en vous, mais je pense aux jalousies, aux intrigues, à toutes les misères qui sont l'envers d'une vie brillante en apparence, trop souvent dure et décevante. Vous êtes si peu faite pour les fatigues et les luttes !

— Ne faut-il pas toujours lutter pour conquérir sa place au soleil ?

FEUILLETON DU SUPPLEMENT ILLUSTRE
du Petit Journal

— 1 —

LES AVENTURES D'UN CORSAIRE

par Edouard GACHOT

Maître Lafougane disait à son auditoire :

— Je veux, aujourd'hui, vous raconter comment Joseph Bavastro, de Nice, put gagner cent vingt-cinq mille francs dans une nuit...

L'événement s'est passé à Gênes, pays d'Italie, il y a longtemps.

J'ai tenu garnison dans cette ville quand la domination française s'étendait jusqu'à Rome. J'ai monté la garde aux portes du palais Doria. J'ai parcouru, à loisir, le quartier de la Marine qui formait, il y a un siècle, une cité à part dans la grande ville, cité percée de ruelles tortueuses, sillonnée de ruisselets, habitée par une vile multitude qui ne vivait que d'oranges, de pâtes avariées et d'herbes cuites.

En temps de guerre, cette population s'augmentait des déserteurs, des contrebandiers, d'évadés des bagnes, et la police s'arrêtait, prudente, au seuil du repaire.

Dans la chaleur qui chauffe à blanc, durant l'été, le fond du golfe de Gênes, sur deux places et sur des escaliers coupant des montées, les fainéants demeuraient longtemps assoupis. Ici, des jeunes gens couverts de haillons suivaient, les yeux clos, l'image d'un rêve fantastique. Là, de belles filles aux poitrines opulentes, étalées plutôt que couchées en pleine rue, la joue posée sur un bras, goûtaient la somnolence. Ailleurs, adossées aux murailles lézardées, de vieilles femmes enveloppées de loques sordides se miraient dans un morceau de glace. Des enfants, très sales et nus, remplissaient l'air de leurs cris ; ils jouaient, se poursuivaient et heurtaient parfois du pied un dormeur qui, réveillé en sursaut, grommelait, se levait et frappait.

Souvent, deux hommes, qu'une rivalité faisait ennemis, se rencontrant dans une ruelle, tiraient leurs couteaux et se battaient. Ils avaient la foule pour témoins, une foule gouailleuse. De l'un des combattants, le vaincu, le sang vermeil arrosait les cailloutis, teintait le ruiseau formé par des eaux ménagères. Un dernier coup de poignard achevait le vaincu.

A l'homme mort, personne ne voulait s'intéresser. Un fossoyeur venait prendre le soir le cadavre pour aller l'enterrer au cimetière suburbain. Au passage du vainqueur, la foule s'écartait, admiratrice.

La nuit, quand portes et fenêtres restaient béantes, quelque temps qu'il fît, des voix chantaient ou blasphémaient au fond des impasses noires. Dans le dédale des rues point éclairées, des ombres rôdaient. Au seuil d'un logis délabré, une femme battue gémissait. Un ivrogne heurtait de ses bras les murs des maisons. Des enfants, couchés sur des matelas pouacres, pleuraient. Les bruits du quartier de la Marine couvraient souvent les bruits de Gênes.

Depuis longtemps, la ville et le faubourg se boudaient.

Aucun citadin n'eût osé s'aventurer seul dans le faubourg. Mais la canaille du faubourg, propre aux séditions, sortait parfois en masse de ses repaires et s'en allait hurler ses immondes désirs, ses revendications, dans la cité des Doria. Il fallait employer, pour la refouler, des gendarmes ou des cavaliers. Laissée libre d'agir, elle eût tué, incendié, pillé.

Mais cette population aux vils instincts allait rendre, le 30 Mai 1800, de pieux hommages à Saint-Ferdinand, lui tresser des couronnes de fleurs cueillies à Carignano, l'encenser, quand un cri d'alarme retentit jusqu'au fond du quartier.

— « Au Jacobin ! »

Un Jacobin, c'était un Français.

Alors, Masséna tenait dans Gênes une garnison en haleine pendant que, de tous côtés, les Autrichiens et les Anglais s'employaient à livrer aux défenseurs de la Ligurie les plus furieux assauts.

Affamée, la troupe de 10,000 hommes se nourrissait des feuilles des arbres, des chiens, des chats, des rats. Un lézard se payait trois francs ; une once de pain d'amidon valait trente sols, le service du blocus ayant arrêté, tant du côté de la mer que du côté de l'Apennin, les provisions dirigées vers la ville.

Contre les soldats français, la haine du peuple augmentait chaque jour, haine qui se manifestait par des cris, des rassemblements, des séditions. Mais les baïonnette eurent raison des fauteurs de troubles, qui durent cacher leurs figures hideuses et panser leurs blessures dans le quartier de la Marine.

Quel homme osait se présenter à l'entrée de ce quartier ?

Il avait quarante ans environ. Quoiqu'il fût de taille ordinaire, la largeur des épaules, l'épaisseur du buste, le développement des mains, annonçaient sa force musculaire. Son visage sanguin, ovale, était barré d'épaisses moustaches noires. Un nez à la grecque dominait des lèvres fines et très mobiles. Les yeux noirs, comme embusqués sous des sourcils broussailleux, étaient pleins de feu. La hauteur du front indiquait l'intelligence.

Habillé d'un uniforme de drap bleu, bien ajusté sur la taille et aux entournures, les pieds et les jambes pris dans de hautes bottes rouges évasées, à la mode mousquetaire. Dans la ceinture en cuir jaune qui serrait son habit, deux pistolets et un poignard étaient placés.

C'était Bavastro, le corsaire, homme redoutable, qui commandait à Gênes un bateau de guerre au service des Français. Habile marin qui avait vingt fois passé la nuit entre les escadres anglaises assurant un étroit blocus. Hardi navigateur qui se jouait des plus grandes fureurs de la mer. Lutteur indomptable qui regardait un combat comme une fête. De plus, joueur obstiné qui éparpillait sur les tapis verts tout l'or de ses prises.

(La suite au prochain numéro.)

Edouard GACHOT.

— Rosine, murmura le jeune homme en se penchant vers elle, j'aurais voulu prendre pour moi seul les responsabilités de la vie et vous faire une existence tranquille et sûre. Dès demain, je peux remplacer mon père, qui désire prendre sa retraite, dans la ville où je suis né et où je trouverai une clientèle fidèle aux Balmier de père en fils depuis plusieurs générations. C'est l'aisance, sinon la fortune.

Une gentille maison m'attend, pas grande mais si gaie avec son jardin plein d'œillets, de roses et de tulipes, et sa véranda enguirlandée de plantes grimpantes. Dans le haut du jardin, il y a une tonnelle de chèvrefeuille où je vous ai vue souvent en rêve, un ouvrage ou un livre à la main, à l'heure où le soleil se couche derrière les arbres du verger.

Dites-moi, Rosine, ne croyez-vous pas qu'on puisse être heureux, quand on s'aime, dans un nid si bien caché au milieu de la verdure et des fleurs ?

Rosine écoutait, silencieuse, émue par l'accent d'une tendresse sincère, tentée aussi par ce bonheur paisible qui répondait aux véritables instincts de sa nature bien féminine. Peut-être eût-elle dit oui si Marcel avait insisté et demandé une réponse immédiate.

— Laissez-moi deux jours de réflexion, implora-t-elle, trop bouleversée par tant d'événements imprévus pour voir bien clair dans sa cervelle confuse.

Mais, le lendemain, elle était déjà reprise par le mirage tentateur, par cette fièvre artistique que tout le monde excitait à plaisir autour d'elle. Lucy elle-même, revenue de ses défiances, semblait croire à un avenir superbe. Après une courte hésitation, la petite cigale imprévoyante partit vers l'inconnu.

***

Quatre ans ont passé sur ce départ qui rendit Marcel très malheureux tout d'abord. Il travailla beaucoup pour oublier. Il revit parfois Lucy, dont la sympathie discrète endormait peu à peu son chagrin. L'absente, retenue au loin par une série d'engagements à l'étranger, ne donnait plus que de rares et brèves nouvelles.

Quand Lucy perdit sa mère, il lui offrit de réunir leurs deux solitudes. C'est elle, maintenant, qui règne dans la jolie maison fleurie et qui, le soir, à l'ombre des chèvrefeuilles de la tonnelle, attend le retour du jeune docteur, retenu tout l'après-midi au dehors par ses malades.

Ce soir-là, le docteur Balmier, appelé à Paris pour seconder son maître, le grand chirurgien Bérard, dans une opération difficile, est entré au théâtre, au hasard des affiches.

Une troupe étrangère joue le drame lyrique d'un célèbre compositeur russe.

Tout en écoutant cette musique nouvelle pour lui, un peu étrange, Marcel songe à la lointaine Russie où, sous le nom de guerre de Rosy Bell, Rosine a obtenu son premier grand succès. Où est-elle maintenant, l'oublieuse Rosy ? Elle n'a pas donné signe de vie depuis le mariage de sa sœur.

Sur la scène, où évolue un bataillon de figurantes, une choriste pâle et blonde évoque aux yeux de Marcel la silhouette de l'absente. C'est la même taille frêle et souple, la même chevelure dorée, une ressemblance singulière, malgré la maigreur et le visage fané de cette femme maladive, poitrinaire peut-être, qui use ce qui lui reste de vie dans l'atmosphère malsaine d'un théâtre.

Soudain, elle lève les yeux et son regard rencontre celui du peune homme. Il la voit rougir violemment, pâlir, puis disparaître toute chancelante dans les coulisses, soutenue par une compagne.

— Cette jeune femme ? dit le médecin du théâtre à Marcel qui l'interroge, le cœur serré d'une affreuse inquiétude, si elle en réchappe aujourd'hui, je ne lui en donne pas pour deux mois. Elle a dû avoir quelque secousse, une émotion violente qui a déterminé une crise. Elle est, d'ailleurs, poitrinaire au dernier degré. Il lui faut surtout du calme, du repos.

— Pauvre Rosy ! En voilà une qui n'était pas faite pour cette vie de misère. Croiriez-vous, docteur, dit la choriste qui a donné les premiers soins à sa compagne, que, il y a moins de deux ans, le nom de Rosy Bell était en vedette sur les affiches des grands théâtres ? Et quand elle chantait à Pétersbourg, à Moscou, à Bucarest, c'étaient des bravos et des rappels à n'en peus finir.

Puis, un soir, elle a pris froid, une bronchite dont elle ne s'est jamais bien remise, et sa jolie voix partie avec sa beauté, elle a été encore heureuse de trouver une place dans les chœurs.

Le docteur Balmier s'est fait conduire dans la chambre d'hôtel où Rosine, étendue sur son lit, tousse à se déchirer la poitrine.

En le voyant entrer, elle fait le geste de cacher dans ses mains sa figure amaigrie, où les yeux brillent de fièvre sous les touffes des beaux cheveux dorés.

Il presse doucement les petites mains brûlantes et place entre ses doigts un gros bouquet de violettes.

Alors, elle se rassure et sourit à la vue des fleurs parfumées qui font revivre une minute son insouciante jeunesse et lui rappellent tant de choses !...

— Je vous guérirai, Rosine, affirme le docteur avec une telle conviction qu'une lueur d'espoir brille dans les grands yeux bleus.

Mais bientôt la malade secoue la tête :

— Trop tard ! dit-elle, en regardant son ancien amoureux avec un sourire navré qui le bouleverse. A quoi bon guérir, maintenant ?

Il ne trouve rien à répondre. Oui, il est trop tard. La destinée a été impitoyable pour la créature de grâce et de faiblesse que des influences contraires ont entraînée hors de sa véritable voie. Et Marcel, devant cette Rosine qu'il a tant aimée et qui lui sourit tristement en respirant ses violettes, sent tomber en son cœur la pesante amertume des regrets impuissants et des grands bonheurs perdus.

A. Reski.

UN MONSIEUR offre gratuitement de faire connaître à tous ceux qui sont atteints d'une maladie de la peau, dartres, eczémas, boutons, démangeaisons, bronchites chroniques, maladies de la poitrine, de l'estomac et de la vessie, de rhumatismes, un moyen infaillible de se guérir promptement, ainsi qu'il l'a été radicalement lui-même après avoir souffert et essayé en vain tous les remèdes préconisés. Cette offre, dont on appréciera le but humanitaire, est la conséquence d'un vœu.

Ecrire par lettre ou carte postale à M. Vincent, 8, place Victor-Hugo, à Grenoble, qui répondra gratis et franco par courrier, et enverra les indications demandées.

Un krach

Edith Erfaut, ayant terminé sa toilette, contempla, avec un sourire heureux, la radieuse image que lui renvoyait sa psyché.

Sa robe moulait un corps charmant, et la certitude de revoir, le soir même, chez les de l'Angle, celui qu'elle aimait, mettait dans ses yeux une telle intensité de joie passionnée que toute sa personne en resplendissait.

Tout en boutonnant ses gants, elle se disait :

« Mon ami, ce soir-ci nous sera une bien belle soirée, car nous ne nous quitterons pas avant que vous ne m'ayez dit que vous m'aimez... Jamais je n'aurais cru que cela pût paraître si difficile ! — ajouta-t-elle, riant de bonheur — et il faut convenir que, jusqu'à ce jour, il n'y a mis guère d'empressement !... »

Mais, bien vite, sa pensée acheva :

« C'est la rançon de mon absurde fortune de ne rencontrer que révoltante audace ou fierté excessive. »

Et la jeune fille évoquait Tony Ulmès, un tout jeune artiste dont les débuts avaient été étourdissants.

Il y avait bien de cela quatre mois — quatre mois d'enchantement — il lui avait été présenté à une exposition de cercle...

Dans l'élégant salon, les groupes se massaient, attirés par une exquise figure de fillette, fine et grêle encore, mais d'une pureté de formes toute attique. L'expression des traits était, à la fois, ingénue et audacieuse ; les doigts entr'ouverts laissaient s'écouler une eau qui demeurait invisible, et les yeux semblaient voir des images trop lointaines pour le regard des hommes. Elle était intitulée la Source. L'œuvre était charmante. Edith l'avait dit en quelques mots émus.

Lui l'avait écoutée en silence, la contemplant avec une telle ardeur d'admiration, avec, dans ses sombres prunelles, une si subite adoration, qu'un trouble inexprimable, une sorte de défaillance s'étaient emparés de la jeune fille.

Depuis, cette impression de trop douce angoisse, elle l'avait ressentie chaque fois qu'elle avait rencontré Tony Ulmès, aux différentes expositions dans les salons où sa jeune et toute récente gloire le faisait inviter.

Loin de lui, elle demeurait sous le charme, silencieuse et recueillie, avec de subites explosions de gaîté... et un grand désir de faire des heureux... de créer de la joie autour d'elle.

Dans le monde, on les épiait, et, comme ils étaient charmants tous les deux, on riait, sans méchanceté :

— Cela finira par un mariage ! Il a tant de talent et elle... tant d'argent !

Et, de fait, Edith, fille unique et adorée du baron Erfaut, le richissime banquier, pouvait s'offrir tous les luxes, même celui d'un mari ne possédant que la divine étincelle et une confiance sans bornes dans les promesses de la vie...

Or, comme la jeune fille, enveloppée dans un manteau de soie — véritable merveille — descendait le monumental escalier de l'hôtel, une femme de chambre lui présenta une carte.

— Ce monsieur insiste pour parler à mademoiselle.

— A cette heure ? Vous auriez dû dire que je sortais, dit Edith contrariée.

— C'est ce que j'avais pris la liberté de répondre. Mais il y a urgence, paraît-il.

Mlle Erfaut prit la carte.

— M. Saint-Domingue ! murmura-t-elle. Mais c'est à peine si je le connais.

Tout haut, elle dit :

— Je le recevrai donc.

Très intriguée, elle pensait :

« Saint-Domingue ?... que veut donc ce vieux nègre milliardaire ? »

***

Milliardaire ?... oui... mais vieux, pas encore certes, et nègre moins encore : simplement très bruni, très tanné par le soleil des tropiques, les cheveux un peu crépus, une force d'athlète, un regard inquisiteur qui se voilait brusquement pour céler la pensée trop transparente... Tel était M. Saint-Domingue, tombé un beau jour en pleine scène parisienne, où il remplissait depuis le rôle de nabab. Tel était l'homme volontaire et énigmatique avec lequel Edith allait avoir un entretien qui déciderait de toute sa vie à venir...

En entrant dans le salon où, debout, le dos à la cheminée, M. Saint-Domingue attendait, gentiment la jeune fille dit :

— Je suis heureuse, monsieur, de me trouver encore chez moi...

Mais les paroles de bienvenue moururent sur ses lèvres. A grands pas, il était venu au devant d'elle et, lui prenant les mains :

— Pauvre enfant ! pauvre petite ! répétait-il.

Elle eut l'impression que le sol manquait sous ses pieds et, avec effroi, cacha son visage dans ses deux mains... Certes, pour que cet homme, cet étranger osât lui parler ainsi, il fallait qu'un bien grand malheur l'ait frappée... et quel autre qu'un accident arrivé à son père... son père qui, avec Tony, remplissait son univers d'espérance et de tendresse... Elle le vit blessé, pis encore peut-être, et une mortelle angoisse lui barrant la gorge, elle balbutia :

— Mon père ! grand Dieu ! mon père !...

A voix basse et rapide, il dit :

— C'est, en effet, de votre père qu'il s'agit, et c'est lui qui m'envoie auprès de vous. Sa santé est excellente... et cependant il est frappé... durement frappé ! Ses intérêts sont gravement compromis. Des spéculations malheureuses lui ont créé une situation sinon désespérée, du moins très embarrassée.

Et avec un tact, une délicatesse qu'on n'eût jamais attendus de cet homme à la rude apparence, il dit à Edith la catastrophe dans toute son étendue, c'est-à-dire l'hôtel d'Erfaut hypothéqué jusqu'à la dernière pierre... le somptueux mobilier vendu au profit des créanciers, et ceci, plus grave encore : un déficit impossible à évaluer à cette heure d'affolement, mais certainement énorme.

Atterrée, Edith écoutait. Tout d'abord, à savoir que la vie de son père n'était pas menacée, elle avait éprouvé un sentiment de délivrance tel que tout autre en avait été absorbé. Tout pouvait bien se produire... mais pas cela, cette chose horrible : la mort du père après celle de la mère enlevée depuis si longtemps déjà que le souvenir lui en restait vague et imprécis comme un rêve.

Cependant, les paroles étranges et terribles qui se prononçaient, peu à peu prirent un sens. Elle comprit... et l'effroi glaça son âme. Avec une compassion infinie, M. Saint-Domingue disait :

— Il n'a pas eu le courage de vous apprendre lui-même ces terribles événements. L'idée de votre désespoir le rend fou...

— Ah ! est-ce qu'il s'agit de moi ?... Mais lui... lui... comment supporte-t-il un tel effondrement ?

— Sa souffrance disparaît devant la vôtre.

— Grand Dieu ! Ne peut-on donc rien faire ? Parmi ses amis, ne s'en trouve-t-il pas un seul pour lui venir en aide ?

Un éclair brilla dans les yeux sombres de M. Saint-Domingue ; sa large poitrine se souleva et, d'une voix dont il ne pouvait pas maîtriser le tremblement :

— Mademoiselle Erfaut... veuillez m'écouter avec attention. Cet ami existe... il mettrait sa fortune entière, son intelligence, sa longue connaissance des affaires au service de votre père... et cela avec joie, avec une reconnaissance émue...

— Mais alors !... s'écria Edith haletante.

— Ne vous hâtez pas de vous réjouir... et plutôt redoutez... redoutez la conclusion. Il paraît qu'un service comme celui-ci... un prêt aussi considérable — et dont

PIÈCES A DIRE

Monsieur Bébé

Au fond du berceau blanc et rose,
Dans le plus charmant abandon,
Monsieur Bébé, calme, repose,
Le corps bien chaud sous l'édredon.

Les parents de ce personnage
Ont dû, ce soir-là, s'absenter ;
Il a dix mois et, vu son âge,
Il faut quelqu'un pour le garder.

On a donc écrit, à la hâte,
Aux grands-parents, pour les prier,
Mission douce et délicate,
De venir, ce soir, le veiller.

Et les deux vieux, par un caprice
Que certes chacun comprendra,
Disent bientôt à la nourrice :
« Retirez-vous, nous sommes-là. »

Pauvres grands-parents ! Il leur semble
Qu'un tiers gâterait leur bonheur ;
Ils préfèrent rester ensemble
Pour mieux laisser parler leur cœur.

Et Dieu seul sait comme ils bavardent
Les cœurs ravis de ces deux vieux
Qui sont là, penchés, et regardent
Bébé qui dort insoucieux !

— Prenons garde qu'il ne s'éveille !...
— Est-il fort ! — Quels jolis bras blancs !...
— Comme il est beau, quand il sommeille,
Le bel enfant de nos enfants !...

— Oh ! sa petite jambe est nue !
— Je vais la recouvrir. — Non, moi !
— Tu ne sais pas ! — Chut !... il remue !
— Tu fais du bruit ! — C'est toi ! — C'est toi ! »

Par bonheur, ce n'est qu'une alerte,
Allons, personne n'aura tort.
La jambe nue est recouverte
Et monsieur Bébé se rendort.

Cela dure à peine un quart d'heure !
Il s'est agité de nouveau !...
Cette fois, c'est plus grave, il pleure !...
Les deux vieux courent au berceau.

Leur figure peu familière
Au gamin le rend tout surpris,
Il s'effraie et, loin de se taire,
Il redouble aussitôt ses cris.

« Quand un enfant pleure, on le berce »,
Disent les grands-parents émus ;
Cette fois, ça produit l'inverse !
Bébé pleure de plus en plus.

Et la nounou que l'on appelle
Ne vient pas, ne peut pas venir.
On l'a renvoyée et la belle
En a profité pour sortir.

Alors, troublés, ils délibèrent,
Privés qu'ils sont de ce secours,
Et pendant qu'ils se désespèrent,
Monsieur Bébé pleure toujours !

— Vois-tu, nous devrions le prendre,
Le porter un peu dans nos bras.
Mais, au moment de l'entreprendre,
Ils sont si vieux !... ils n'osent pas.

— Pourtant, il faut bien qu'il s'arrête !...
Du courage ! Et, très effrayés,
Grand-papa le prend par la tête,
Grand'maman le prend par les pieds.

Alors nouvelle inquiétude,
Bébé s'agite comme un ver ;
On sent qu'il n'a pas l'habitude
De voyager ainsi, c'est clair.

Si bien qu'éperdu, le grand-père,
Sans y penser, ouvre les bras,
Et voilà la pauvre grand'mère
Qui tient Bébé... la tête en bas !

Avec terreur on le redresse !
Il était temps ! il étouffait !...
Après cette belle prouesse
Les vieux s'affolent tout à fait.

Et ne sachant plus trop que faire,
Désespérant de l'apaiser,
On met monsieur Bébé par terre,
Et l'on s'efforce à l'amuser.

Grand'maman lui fait des risettes
Et grand-papa, lui, plus nerveux,
Saisit la pelle et les pincettes
Dont il tire un concert affreux !

Puis, l'enfant paraissant se taire :
— Il ne pleure plus ! Quel bonheur !
— Je crois bien, répond la grand'mère,
Regarde-le, tu lui fais peur !

Grand-père, tout honteux, se baisse
Pour prendre et rassurer Bébé,
Mais l'âge trahit sa tendresse ;
Sur les genoux il est tombé.

Un mouvement qu'il fait l'achève,
Il veut se dresser, mais en vain...
Et c'est grand'mère qui relève
Et le grand-père et le gamin.

Et le gamin toujours réclame !
— Il a faim, sans doute ? — Oui ! voilà !
— Que lui donner, ma pauvre femme,
Le restaurant n'étant plus là ?

— Trouvons-lui quelque chose à boire,
Ça lui trompera l'estomac.
Vite on cherche, on ouvre une armoire,
Ciel !... Kirsch ! Rhum ! Chartreuse ! Cognac !

— Cette collection étrange
N'est pas du tout ce qu'il nous faut ;
Nous ne pouvons, à ce cher ange,
Donner de pareils goûts si tôt.

Et Bébé fait le diable à quatre !
— Sapristi ! quel vilain enfant !
Dit grand-père, ah ! je vais le battre !
Mais grand'mère le lui défend !

L'orage menaçait, il gronde !
Il éclate !... Et les pauvres vieux,
De la meilleure foi du monde,
Se disputent à qui mieux mieux.

La scène est touchante et grotesque !
Chacun crie ! Et, le plus affreux,
C'est que Bébé s'étrangle presque,
En voulant crier plus fort qu'eux !

— Ah ! mon Dieu ! le voilà tout pâle !
— Il devient rouge ! — Il devient bleu !
— Doux Jésus ! Il suffoque ! — Il râle !
— Il va trépasser ! — Ah ! mon Dieu !...

Et, s'exagérant ce malaise,
Chacun, croyant que c'est la fin,
Tombe, accablé, sur une chaise,
Plus malade que le gamin !...

Et, juste à ce moment du drame,
Rentrent les deux jeunes époux
A qui les vieux, la mort dans l'âme,
Disent : — Grâce !... Pardonnez-nous !...

Mais, avant qu'on ait pu se rendre
Compte de ce qui s'est passé,
Un cri joyeux se fait entendre,
Et c'est Bébé qui l'a poussé.

Car, pour éclairer son visage,
Une caresse lui suffit,
Maman l'embrasse, adieu l'orage !
Il ne pleure plus, il sourit.

La moralité, ce me semble,
Est qu'il faut toujours éviter
De laisser trois enfants ensemble
Sans personne pour les garder.

Paul BILHAUD

Extrait de Ça... et le reste, P.-V. Stock, éditeur.

(Reproduction interdite)

Dans le prochain numéro :

LE PARI, monologue gai,

par Jo. VALLE

le remboursement ne pourrait être fixé à date exacte — ne saurait être accepté d'un étranger. Pour que cela fût possible — n'oubliez pas que ce sont les paroles de votre père scrupuleusement transmises — il faudrait un lien de parenté... une alliance... et ce lien... cette alliance, mademoiselle Edith, vous seule pouvez les créer... entre... entre nous... entre lui et moi.

Elle recula, épouvantée.

— Ah ! je ne veux pas... je ne veux pas comprendre !

Impassible, M. Saint-Domingue regardait la jeune fille. Il murmura :

— Ce cri spontané était fatal. Comment sa jeune et éclatante beauté eût-elle pu envisager une union avec ma laide et sombre personne ?

Il lui prit la main :

— Pauvre enfant ! dit-il, comme je vous comprends. Pourtant, vous eussiez trouvé en moi un second père... un grand frère très aîné et bien complètement dévoué... un vieil esclave attentif et habile à satisfaire vos moindres désirs.

Elle passa sa main sur son front qui était moite :

— Merci, dit-elle. Je crois que tout ce que je dois vous faire cet aveu... Il vous très noble comme l'offre même que vous nous faites... Je ne suis pas très bien en état d'y répondre comme il le faudrait... Je suis si émue... si troublée... car tout ceci, n'est-ce pas ? est bien imprévu et très terrible... Pourtant... il me paraît très évident que je dois vous faire cet aveu... Il vous fera tout de suite comprendre que cette... cette alliance serait impossible... coupable même... Je ne dispose plus de mon cœur... Je l'ai donné tout entier... et je suis sans forces pour le reprendre.

Et son radieux amour pour Tony faisant de nouveau irruption dans son âme désemparée, son désespoir passa toutes limites...

En silence, il contemplait ce jeune corps qui, sans souci des yeux qui en détaillaient les lignes exquises, s'abandonnait dans les coussins du canapé. Il voyait, sous la pression des doigts, se froisser, s'écraser les ondes de cette merveilleuse chevelure, et ses dents, fortes et blanches, s'imprimaient dans sa lèvre épaisse... et ses ongles meurtrissaient ses paumes de travailleur.

Il se leva :

— Mademoiselle Erfaut, permettez que je me retire. J'ai hâte de retourner auprès de votre père qui m'attend dans un émoi trop compréhensible. D'ailleurs, ajouta-t-il après une courte hésitation, il est urgent qu'il puisse prendre — et sans tarder — diverses dispositions avant son départ.

La jeune fille sursauta :

— Son départ ?... son départ... dites-vous ! Mais il ne peut partir ainsi !

Et, plus bas, elle ajouta :

— Il aurait l'air de fuir...

Très grave, il dit :

— Il le faut cependant... car demain, déjà, demain, mademoiselle Edith, il serait trop tard. Demain, cette catastrophe dont seuls, ou à peu près, lui et moi, à cette heure-ci, sommes informés, volera de bouche en bouche... Et alors...

— Et alors ?...

— Alors ?... alors chacun redemandera impérieusement ses valeurs... et comme il ne sera pas en état de les rembourser...

La jeune fille frissonna. Elle répéta :

— Et comme il ne sera pas en état de les rembourser ?

— Pourquoi m'obliger à vous dire cela, pauvre enfant ?

— J'ai le droit de tout savoir, le devoir de ne rien ignorer...

— Soit !... Eh bien, alors, la loi interviendra...

— Ah ! fit-elle.

Elle s'était redressée. Le riche manteau doublé d'hermine avait glissé et elle apparaissait toute jeune dans sa jolie robe rose, et, comme étourdie par ce grand souffle d'orage qui passait sur elle, ses cils très longs palpitaient et sa bouche entr'ouverte laissait apercevoir l'éclair blanc des dents. Avec une audace ingénue, elle fixa son regard sur les yeux qui ne la quittaient pas...

— Et si je consentais à vous épouser, qu'arriverait-il ?

— Je deviendrais sur-le-champ l'associé de votre père. Ce qui fait que, lorsque les actionnaires se présenteraient aux guichets, immédiatement on ferait droit à leurs réclamations...

Avec un sourire, il ajouta :

— Voyant les paiements s'effectuer très vite, les demandes de remboursement cesseraient.

Alors, avec intrépidité, elle déclara :

— Monsieur Saint-Domingue, je suis prête à devenir votre femme, et je prends l'engagement de vous demeurer honnêtement et loyalement fidèle.

Il s'inclina sur la petite main brûlante qui se laissa prendre sans résistance, et l'effleura de sa rude moustache.

— J'ai foi en vous, dit-il avec simplicité, et vous me rendez heureux, heureux excessivement.

Et cette soirée, qui devait être pour Edith Erfaut l'aurore de ses fiançailles avec Tony Ulmès, fut une veillée de larmes.

Max Reboul.

Le Petit Journal illustré de LA JEUNESSE

est, de tous les journaux spécialement faits pour les enfants, le plus amusant, le plus varié, le plus complet et le mieux illustré.

En bateau

Le baron Adhémar de Baspertuis frisait la trentaine, alors que son crâne, lui, la défrisait.

Malgré cet incident, il portait beau et était considéré, parmi tous les mondains, comme un modèle d'élégance. Une grosse fortune, il est vrai, contribuait à propager cette opinion. Il avait hôtel, auto, yacht et tout le tremblement. C'était un garçon parfait.

Respectueux de la mode, dès que l'été avait paru, Adhémar prenait le train pour Trouville.

Endroit charmant pour se reposer des fatigues de l'hiver et fuir les amis de la capitale ! On ne rencontre qu'eux à chaque pas et, tous les jours, en flanelle blanche et panama extra-léger, tiré à quatre épingles, mis sur son trente-et-un, il faut courir du casino aux courses, des courses aux dîners, des dîners aux soirées. On a bien plus à faire qu'à Paris.

Pourtant, habitué à cet antique usage, le baron s'était soumis, cette année encore, aux exigences de sa situation. On l'avait vu dans tous les endroits cotés. Son nom avait figuré parmi les déplacements mondains. Même il avait offert, un jour, le thé sur son yacht, le fameux yacht Va-de-Bon-Cœur, que les méchantes langues appelaient le bateau-lavoir de la place des Ternes, à cause de son immobilité connue, son propriétaire, par crainte des aventures, ne lui ayant jamais fait quitter son port d'attache. Au reste, un endroit charmant pour y manger, boire, fumer, potiner et ne rien faire !

On avait beaucoup loué Adhémar pour la bonne tenue de son équipage : un cuisinier et un maître d'hôtel ! On l'avait complimenté sur son chic personnel en vareuse bleue et casquette d'amiral. Bref, il aurait dû être satisfait de son sort.

Hélas ! Adhémar ne l'était pas !

A force de faire toujours la même chose, à Trouville comme à Paris, il s'ennuyait. Les louanges à lui adressées lui semblaient banales. Être un mondain parfait, c'est très bien, mais cela n'épate personne. Et le baron avait envie d'épater les autres.

Mon Dieu ! oui ! épater les autres lui semblait devoir être très amusant. La vie est si courte, il faut être gai ! Adhémar se mit en chasse.

Déjà il allait se désespérer de ne rien trouver quand le hasard, ce bon hasard, vint à son aide.

Un après-midi qu'il suçait sa canne en regardant la foule aller et venir sur « les planches », une jeune fille passa qui attira son attention. Des cheveux d'or fou, un visage de gamine rieuse, une ligne onduleuse, une démarche allègre, surtout d'admirables chevilles, minces et cambrées en des bottines de toile blanche : il vit tout cela d'un coup d'œil et en fut saisi. Ah ! ces petites chevilles dans ces petites bottines, jamais il n'en avait vu de pareilles !

Ce fut une révélation. Pour étonner l'univers, parbleu ! Adhémar allait se marier.

Jusqu'à cette heure, le baron n'avait jamais eu que des idées aussi bizarres que subites. Celle de convoler en justes noces, comme cela, à propos de bottes... ou de bottines, pouvait compter dans le nombre. Pourtant, il en avait eu de plus dangereuses.

Le vicomte de Tournoyant, un ami, passait. Adhémar l'arrêta et, certain de son effet, lui jeta ces mots :

— Veux-tu tenir un pari ?

— Lequel ?

— Qu'avant un mois je suis marié ?

— Toi !... marié !... marié !...

L'autre n'en revenait pas. Il crut d'abord à une plaisanterie.

— Vingt louis ?

Ça devenait sérieux. L'ami, en riant, accepta et s'en fut répandre de tous côtés la nouvelle. C'est là ce que voulait l'amoureux de la jeune fille inconnue.

Sans perdre une seconde, il partit de son côté s'enquérir de ce que pouvait être sa découverte, apprit qu'elle s'appelait Hélène, qu'elle avait pour père un riche industriel des plus honorables, et que ce même père venait, tous les jours, sur la plage, à l'heure du bain. Un gamin qui le connaissait lui fit la description du personnage : cinquante ans, cheveux en brosse, favoris, beaucoup de ventre sous le gilet, une chaîne d'or dessus et, toujours, des costumes à grands carreaux. M. Eugène Marescut était facile à reconnaître.

Adhémar avait son plan.

***

Tandis que cinq vigoureux matelots, engagés spécialement pour la circonstance, mettaient, sous les ordres d'un capitaine de fortune, le Va-de-Bon-Cœur en état de prendre le large, pour la première fois de son existence peut-être, le baron de Baspertuis, en costume d'amiral suisse, arpentait fièrement la jetée, coude à coude avec un gros monsieur vêtu d'un costume à grands carreaux.

— J'ai toujours aimé beaucoup la mer, disait ce dernier.

— J'en suis un fanatique, répondait Adhémar, et mon plus grand plaisir est de faire de longues croisières à bord de mon yacht.

Adhémar, ce matin-là, avait rencontré le personnage répondant, point pour point, à la description qu'on lui avait faite du père de la belle inconnue. Il l'avait abordé, comme on s'aborde facilement en villégiature, et, peu à peu, il l'avait amené du côté où se balançait le Va-de-Bon-Cœur.

— Comme vous êtes heureux, reprenait le monsieur à carreaux, de pouvoir, grâce à votre joli bateau, suivre votre fantaisie et voyager librement sur les flots !

— Qu'à cela ne tienne, fit vivement le baron qui attendait la phrase. Si cela peut vous être agréable, je serai charmé de vous emmener avec moi. Je vais justement, tout à l'heure, faire un petit tour en mer...

— Oh ! je ne voudrais pas abuser...

— Du tout ! Du tout ! Nous serons rentrés pour le déjeuner. Une simple promenade le long de la côte ! Cela vous va-t-il ?

— Cela me remplit de joie !

Aussitôt, les deux hommes se dirigèrent vers le yacht. Sous pression, il attendait, prêt à lever l'ancre.

On embarqua. La sirène mugit, triomphante et, au bruissement régulier de l'hélice, le Va-de-Bon-Cœur pointa vers le large.

Le monsieur à carreaux était émerveillé. A dire vrai, le baron ne l'était pas moins. Quitter le soutien salutaire des quais, sentir sous ses pieds vibrer et onduler le pont habitué jusqu'alors au calme parfait, respirer, avec l'air marin, la bonne odeur de la cheminée, pas cheminée de cuisine, celle-là, c'était, pour le propriétaire, du nouveau, de l'inédit.

A quelques encâblures de la terre, il se croyait déjà un hardi capitaine. Heureusement pour sa sécurité, il y en avait un plus sérieux à bord.

La mine satisfaite, des cigarettes aux lèvres, les deux hommes allèrent s'asseoir à l'arrière. Quelque temps, ils restèrent ainsi à contempler la fuite mouvante des vagues et l'infini calme de la mer, puis, brusquement, le baron, qui avait son idée en tête, commença :

— Monsieur, la solitude dans laquelle nous nous trouvons me permet de vous parler avec hardiesse. J'ai l'honneur de vous demander la main de Mlle Hélène Marescut.

L'interpellé regarda fixement Adhémar, tira une bouffée de sa cigarette et, très calme, répondit :

— C'est à moi, monsieur, que vous demandez la main de Mlle Marescut ?

— Parfaitement ! J'ai eu le bonheur de la rencontrer sur la plage. Immédiatement, je me suis épris d'elle et je n'ai qu'un désir : l'épouser.

— Ce désir est fort louable ! Mais...

— J'ai trente ans, une bonne santé, deux cent vingt mille livres de rente, un titre, quelque considération dans le monde et aucun défaut sensationnel.

— Tous mes compliments ! Mais...

— Je sais qui vous êtes et, malgré la dot que vous êtes susceptible de donner à Mlle votre fille, suis prêt à l'épouser sans argent. Vos conditions seront les miennes.

— Mais...

— Evidemment, le procédé est un peu rapide de ma part. Excusez-moi ! Je suis d'un caractère impétueux, j'aime les affaires vivement réglées. C'est pourquoi, sans plus attendre, je vous répète ceci respectueusement : j'ai l'honneur de vous demander la main de Mlle Hélène Marescut.

— Je regrette, mais...

— Vous refusez ?

— Je ne refuse pas ! Je vous dis simplement : je ne peux pas !

— Comment ! Vous ne pouvez pas m'accorder la main ?...

— Cela m'est tout à fait impossible.

— Vous êtes bien décidé à ne pas changer d'avis ?

— Parfaitement décidé ! Rien ne m'est plus impossible ! Encore une fois, je le regrette !

— Prenez garde ! Je saurai vous faire changer d'avis.

— Je vous en défie !

— C'est ce que nous allons voir !

Et, d'une voix magistrale, d'un geste auguste, digne de Neptune, empereur des mers, le baron Adhémar de Baspertuis commanda :

— Capitaine, allez au large, droit devant vous !

— Permettez-moi, intervint le monsieur à carreaux, permettez-moi de vous faire remarquer que, si nous allons au large, nous ne pourrons rentrer pour le déjeuner.

— C'est ce que je veux !

— Que la mer, là-bas, est houleuse !

— J'en serai ravi !

— Que le mal de mer est à craindre !

— Tant mieux !

— Parfait ! Je comprends ! Vous espérez me voir malade et m'extorquer alors un consentement que je ne puis donner !

— Vous l'avez deviné !

— J'accepte le duel, le duel au mal de mer ! Nous verrons bien celui des deux qui s'en tirera.

Paisiblement, le monsieur alluma une autre cigarette et, l'air détaché, les yeux au ciel, la bouche en O, fit des ronds de fumée. Cependant, à mesure qu'il s'éloignait des côtes, le petit navire roulait et tanguait de plus en plus. Bientôt, les vagues hautes le prirent : il se mit à danser une sarabande effrénée.

Le monsieur restait impassible. Le baron, par contre, était vert. Jamais il n'avait affronté le large, et c'était lui que le mal de mer prenait. Sans force, sans volonté, il était affalé au fond d'un fauteuil.

Le Va-de-Bon-Cœur allait toujours le l'avant.

Alors, s'approchant d'Adhémar, le monsieur à carreaux reprit la conversation interrompue :

— Tenez-vous toujours à me demander la main de Mlle Hélène Marescut ?

Le baron, incapable de répondre, leva les yeux au ciel, semblant dire : « Je m'en moque ! Laissez-moi tranquille ! » L'autre reprit :

— Vous avez raison ! Malgré toute ma bonne volonté, je n'aurais jamais pu vous l'accorder... D'abord, je ne suis pas son père !... Je ne suis pas M. Marescut... Ensuite, je suis M. Tabouré, ancien capitaine de cabotage .. et je n'ai jamais eu le mal de mer ! Voilà, je crois, deux raisons suffisantes pour être le vainqueur du duel que vous m'avez proposé. Qu'en dites-vous ?

Adhémar n'en dit rien. Il était trop occupé à éponger les sueurs froides dont il souffrait.

— Mais, continua M. Tabouré, pour avoir voulu, en me menant sur votre yacht, me monter un bateau, vous trouverez juste, j'en suis sûr, de m'offrir une légère compensation !

Je suis en train, depuis quelques mois, de fonder une société de navigation ; je recherche des capitaux. Vous prenez, n'est-ce pas, un millier de mes actions ? Allons ! c'est une affaire entendue ! Signez ce petit papier ! Nous allons virer de bord !

Et pendant qu'Adhémar, incapable de résister, obéissait, M. Tabouré cria au capitaine :

— Le baron désire retourner à Trouville !

***

A peine sur la terre ferme, Adhémar, rasant les murs et l'estomac toujours malade, s'empressait de regagner son hôtel quand, au coin d'une rue, il se trouva nez à nez avec le vicomte de Tournoyant.

— Te voilà enfin, cria-t-il. Et ton mariage, est-ce le Va-de-Bon-Cœur qui l'a arrangé ?

— Ne m'en parle pas ! fit l'autre, dépité. J'ai perdu mes vingt louis... et le reste ! Moi qui voulais vous étonner, j'en suis pour mes frais !

— Mon pauvre ami, ne te désole pas ! Si tu voulais simplement nous étonner, tu as joliment réussi !

— Moi ! Comment donc ?

— Mais en faisant sortir en mer ton yacht, parbleu ! C'est la première fois que ça lui arrive, au bateau-lavoir de la place des Ternes !

Il pivota sur ses talons, cachant un sourire narquois que ne vit pas le baron de Baspertuis. Aussi, ce dernier, soudain satisfait et réconforté, s'en retourna chez lui, persuadé qu'il serait désormais célèbre pour ses prouesses maritimes.

Roger Régis.

Plus le temps est chaud, plus les hommes sont faibles.

Les Pilules Pink

donnent des forces.

L'ENFANT DE LA BALLE

(1832)

Samson, le grand comédien, lisait un rôle dans son cabinet d'étude, lorsque son domestique lui annonça une certaine Mme Félix, qu'il ne connaissait aucunement.

L'artiste, contrarié d'être dérangé dans son travail, reprit sa lecture en bougonnant :

— Dites que je ne puis recevoir.

Il n'était pas toujours commode, Samson ! Et la Comédie-Française connaissait bien ses bourrades. N'avait-il pas osé traiter Mme Mars de « vieille frégate démâtée » ? Et ceci bien en face...

Heureusement, ses minutes épineuses étaient brèves. Du reste, sa physionomie franche, son nez un peu retroussé, son teint frais, sa bouche spirituelle, sa chevelure châtain, épaisse et frisée, indiquaient bien l'homme spontané, brusque, mais jovial et bon, en somme.

La vie avait eu pour lui de rudes commencements. Né en pleine Terreur, d'un pauvre cafetier de Saint-Denis, dernier enfant baptisé à sa paroisse, en 1793, la veille de la fermeture de l'église ; tombé, avec sa famille, de revers en revers jusque dans l'indigence, que n'avait-il pas été obligé de faire pour vivre ? Sa vocation de comédien lui montra cependant, de très bonne heure, sa vraie voie ; saute-ruisseau chez un avoué, il faisait la joie des clercs et des voisins par son aptitude à imiter depuis le frotteur jusqu'aux clients de marque, en passant par le patron, qui le surprit, un jour, coiffé de son propre bonnet, vêtu de sa propre robe, pérorant, répétant ses propres plaidoiries, le singeant à merveille devant l'étude en liesse. Cette irrévérence coûta sa place au gamin et décida de sa destinée.

Cependant, voici que le domestique de Samson revenait près de son maître : la personne insistait... prétendant qu'elle venait de la part de M. Jousselin de la Salle.

— Ah ! sapristi, c'est vrai... Il me l'a annoncée... J'oubliais... Qu'elle entre.

En effet, M. Jousselin de la Salle, directeur de la scène du Théâtre-Français, avait parlé à l'artiste-professeur d'une fillette entendue par hasard dans un « boui-boui », passage du Saumon, un sujet très intéressant, une « nature ...» Samson ne pouvait refuser de la connaître.

Au fond, il se préparait à une déception. Il en avait tant vu, de ces petits prodiges surfaits et sans avenir !

Mme Félix, une femme moins qu'ordinaire, parut, poussant devant elle un véritable petit monstre. Haute comme on l'est vers douze ans, développée du buste, portant, au bout d'un long cou noir et maigre, une tête aux pommettes saillantes, au front énorme, découvert par un chevelure tirée en arrière, brune et dure, elle regardait avec des yeux hardis l'homme dont la renommée au moins eût dû impressionner sa modestie. Et, pour rendre encore plus grotesque cette difforme créature, on l'avait affublée d'une longue robe verte, d'un châle à palmes sur fond orange, et d'un chapeau blanc rehaussé d'un panache rose déchiré.

— C'est vous qui vous destinez au théâtre ? fit le maître abasourdi.

— Je suis au Molière, où que M. de la Salle m'a entendue.

L'organe dur et voilé de cette enfant semblait plus fait pour crier des harengs dans les rues que pour débiter des alexandrins. Où diable M. de la Salle avait-il eu les yeux et les oreilles quand il avait trouvé de l'étoffe en cette fille-là ?... Rien, absolument rien ! Ni voix, ni grâce, ni tenue... pas l'ombre d'instruction même, à en juger par son français.

Pourtant, par égard au protecteur et aussi par curiosité, Samson posa quelques questions :

— Quel âge avez-vous ?

— Quatorze ans.

— Vous êtes petite pour votre âge... Française ?

La mère intervint :

— Ma foi, monsieur, je serais bien embarrassée de le dire. Son père était marchand ambulant ; je le suivais. Et dame ! la petite est née sur une grande route, en Suisse, probablement. Nous n'avons pas fait attention. Mais nous avons des papiers... On pourrait voir...

— A-t-elle déjà travaillé ?

— Pas la comédie... Le chant, chez M. Choron.

Choron ?... Choron, l'admirable professeur que les débuts de Duprez venaient de glorifier une fois de plus... Choron avait entrepris « ça » ?... De plus en plus stupéfait, Samson demanda :

— Comment l'avez-vous connu ?

Les deux femmes hésitaient à répondre. La mère surtout. Elle avait quelque honte, sans doute, à confier la vérité.

Ce fut la fille qui, relevant la tête, fit l'aveu :

— Je chantais dans la rue, à Lyon, avec ma sœur.

Elle prit un temps, et ajouta :

— Nous sommes très pauvres.

Ce fut dit avec un fierté, une noblesse qui frappèrent l'homme et le comédien. En vérité, cette petite avait prononcé cela comme une reine tombée dans l'infortune.

— Il n'y a pas de mal à manquer d'argent, mon enfant. Alors ?...

— Alors, reprit la fillette dont un sourire de gratitude illumina le visage, M. Choron m'a donné gratuitement des leçons... depuis six mois. Seulement, ça ne va pas. Apprendre la musique n'est pas mon affaire. J'aime mieux jouer la comédie.

— Quels rôles as-tu déjà appris ?

Ce tutoiement marquait chez le maître l'éveil de la sympathie. La petite le sentit.

— Des masses !... répondit-elle avec plus d'entrain. Quand M. Saint-Aulaire, notre directeur au Molière, monte une pièce, il fait tirer au sort la distribution. Il dit que ça nous « forme »... Le même soir, je suis la reine Isabelle de Don Sanche, et un travesti. Je me souviens que, quand M. Josselin de la Salle est venu me complimenter, je profitais de ce que j'étais en culotte pour jouer à cloche-pied.

— Combien te paie M. Saint-Aulaire ?

— Rien du tout.

— Pourquoi joues-tu, alors ?

— Parce que j'aime ça.

Le professeur découvrait chez l'enfant, qui s'animait, une âme impressionnable, un organe généreux dont l'enrouement devait être l'effet de la fatigue, du manque de méthode d'émission. Il l'invita à réciter quelque chose, qu'elle choisit dans Molière. Elle s'en tira suffisamment bien pour attrister Samson. Quelle pitié de rencontrer une intelligence sous une semblable enveloppe ! Et, comme la petite Félix lui demandait son avis, ses conseils avec une insistance touchante, il chercha une défaite :

— Je ne sais si vous avez raison de persévérer... Mais, du reste, je ne puis donner de leçon en ce moment. Ma classe est complète... Où pourrais-je vous écrire, un peu plus tard, si...

— Au Marché-Neuf, en face de la Morgue. Mais, monsieur Samson, je vois bien, je sens, allez ! que vous ne voulez pas. Vous ne me dites plus : tu... Vous ne croyez pas que j'aie « ce qu'il faut »...

Le professeur ne voulait pas lui faire de peine ni la leurrer. Il cherchait le moyen de lui dire la vérité sans brusquerie, le plus doucement possible. Oui, il le fallait, décidément, elle était « nouée » positivement, comme disent les braves gens.

Soudain, il vit la petite figure aux yeux ardents s'empourprer d'une sorte de rage. L'enfant, d'un geste violent, dénoua son chapeau ridicule, le lança loin d'elle, arracha ses oripeaux voyants, mit à nu des épaules et des bras maigres, mais non disproportionnés, et, repoussant du pied toute sa défroque, apostropha sa mère :

— Je te le disais bien que tu me faisais faire une sottise ! Tu as voulu me faire paraître grasse, me faire faire de la toilette, une toilette qui me déplaît, que je déteste... Tenez, voyez, monsieur Samson... Mon corsage est bourré d'étoupe... Et regardez comme je suis coiffée !... Attendez un peu... je vais me montrer au naturel.

Elle desserra ses cheveux, secoua sa crinière, ramassa son châle qu'elle drapa fébrilement sur son torse, et, belle alors d'inspiration, se mit à déclamer une scène d'Andromaque.

Quand elle s'arrêta, sans que le maître l'eût interrompue une seule fois, sa cause était gagnée.

Deux ans plus tard, Elisa Félix débutait au Théâtre-Français sous le nom de Rachel.

Sophie, sa sœur, dont elle avait incidemment parlé, se fit une renommée sérieuse également, bien que moins illustre, sous le nom de Sarah Félix.

Georges REGNAL.

CONSEILS PRATIQUES

Les écoliers

Voilà les vacances bien entamées ; encore une quinzaine de liberté et de divertissments, et les écoliers songeront à endosser de nouveau le tablier noir et à se diriger, le carton sous le bras, vers l'école, le collège ou le lycée.

Pendant qu'ils profitent de leurs dernières semaines de repos, les mamans et moi nous allons nous entretenir un instant de toute cette jeunesse turbulente ou studieuse, sur quoi se fondent les espoirs de la famille.

Ce n'est pas, tout d'abord, aux heureuses mamans fières de leurs enfants que je m'adresserai ; à celles-là, je laisse la joie des bulletins remplis de bonnes notes et des distributions de prix toutes sonores de nominations multiples. Je préfère m'entretenir avec les autres, les mamans inquiètes que désole le peu de succès, le peu d'application au travail de leurs écoliers, et je vais essayer de les réconforter.

Le premier point sur quoi je retiendrai leur attention, est sur ce que l'on est accoutumé d'appeler la paresse.

La paresse ! la mère de tous les vices ! cela c'est de la vieille et bonne morale peut-être, mais certainement une morale un peu superficielle que l'observation scientifique et médicale est occupée à transformer.

La paresse, chez l'enfant, n'est pas, le plus généralement, du mauvais vouloir ; elle est une impossibilité physique et maladive à fixer l'attention, à faire agir le raisonnement, à forcer la mémoire.

Je ne crois pas qu'il y ait une méthode plus absurde que celle qui consiste à punir un enfant paresseux et à lui infliger des pensums, à doubler ou à tripler une tâche qu'il n'était déjà pas capable de remplir dans son unité. Un enfant paresseux n'est pas un enfant à punir, mais bien un enfant à soigner, à réformer doucement, à intéresser avec patience à des études dont l'aridité décourage la lenteur de ses facultés d'assimilation.

Vous direz à cela que des enfants très bien portants sont paresseux. Assurément, un enfant peut avoir un excellent appétit, beaucoup de force musculaire et manifester, en même temps, une grande répugnance pour l'étude ; c'est que, précisément, il y a manque d'équilibre dans son tempérament, et que, chez lui, la force physique se développe au détriment des aptitudes cérébrales.

Les mamans et les professeurs auront donc de nombreux devoirs à remplir envers les petits paresseux. Les premières veilleront à la santé : s'il y a excès de vigueur, elles encourageront, chez leurs enfants, la turbulence qui leur sera naturelle ; elles les laisseront se dépenser, user leur force en exercices violents, en jeux hardis ; elles leur donneront un régime alimentaire rafraichissant, apaisant. Avec les délicats, les maladifs, les dolents, il faudra user, tout au contraire, de toniques, de stimulants et ne pousser que très modérément au travail ces petits tempéraments que ronge l'anémie.

Quant aux professeurs, ils devront doser, suivant les élèves, la tâche quotidienne et ne point imposer aux intelligences ralenties ce que s'assimilent, sans efforts, les natures mieux douées. Rien n'est plus lamentable que ces « queues » de classe qui encombrent les écoles, élèves toujours retardataires, aux études desquels les professeurs ne s'intéressent plus et qui passent leurs heures à tailler des bouts de bois, à ronger leurs ongles, ou à faire des pâtés d'encre sur leurs cahiers.

Ne voudrait-il pas mieux grouper tous ces enfants en des divisions spéciales, pour lesquelles un maître patient distribuerait un enseignement plus lent, plus simplifié et plus récréatif en même temps ?

Ainsi les mamans, d'une part, et les maîtres, de l'autre, amèneraient tout doucement les petits paresseux à mieux goûter le travail, à ne point se laisser rebuter par des difficultés insurmontables, à s'habituer peu à peu à cette bonne et régulière activité qui donne tant de saveur à la vie.

Cela ne veut pas dire, naturellement, qu'il est facile de doter d'intelligence un enfant qui n'en est que modérément pourvu, mais l'intelligence scolaire, si l'on peut ainsi appeler cette intelligence particulièrement apte à profiter de l'enseignement de l'école, n'est pas indispensable pour se tirer d'affaire dans la vie, et nous verrons, dans une prochaine causerie, comment les mamans avisées, doivent se consoler de n'avoir pas pour enfants les heureux bénéficiaires des prix d'honneur et des prix d'excellence.

GRACIA

Mots en hexagone

Voiture agricole. — Un oiseau
Qui fréquente le bord de l'eau.
— Sorte de vigne très féconde
Ou canton du Gard. — Arbrisseau :
A Narbonne on dit qu'il abonde,
Et l'abeille en fait son profit.
— Puis une sorte de granit.
— Du salpêtre. — Mises au monde.

UN ALLOBROGE.

AVIS AUX DEVINEURS

Les solutions doivent être parvenues le MARDI au plus tard au rédacteur en chef du Supplément illustré du Petit Journal.

SOLUTION

des Mots en Triangle (n° 877)

T
A R L A T A N E
A R E O P A G E
R E P U T E E
L O U V E L
A P T E S
T A E L
A R L A T A N E
A R E O P A G E
T A R L A T A N E

SOLUTIONS JUSTES

des Mots en Croix blanche de St-André (n° 876)

Deux cyclistes. — Chatelin. — Massacré de Wassy. — O. Clin. — Marit. — Un Spirite. — F. Groc. — V. Ecarfed. — Paul Seurat. — Félix et sa grosse. — Joseph Gueux et Joséphа. — Tante Léonie. — Jacques Vermeire.

Ulcères et Plaies des Jambes

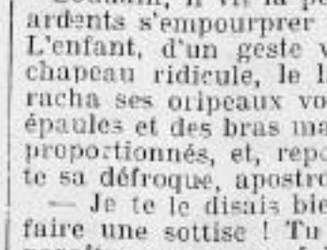
Les ulcères dits incurables, les plaies variqueuses et de mauvaise nature, l'eczéma, les dartres, les maladies de la peau les plus rebelles, les boutons, l'acné, les rougeurs, les démangeaisons les plus atroces, les vices du sang invétérés, et tous les maux de jambes, même ceux qui ont résisté depuis des années à tous les remèdes, sont infailliblement et radicalement guéris en quelques jours, même en travaillant, par le nouveau traitement végétal du Docteur Wolf, qui est envoyé gratis et franco à toutes les personnes qui le demandent à M. Passerieux, Spécialiste, 46, rue des Faures, à Bordeaux.
Dépôt à Paris : Pharmacie Girard, 217, rue Lafayette.

PUISSANCE ET AUTORITE SUR TOUS INDIVIDUS
par le Magnétisme et l'Hypnotisme
On obtient obéissance et exécution des ordres de près comme de loin ; guérison sans frais des mauvaises habitudes, des maladies physiques et morales ; gains de procès ; réussite dans les affaires ; supériorité invincible ; amour, mariage, bonheur et richesses. Brochure envoyée gratis. Ecrire à TENOR, 90, rue des Boulets, Paris

JOYEUX VIVEURS & CHANTEURS
Voulez-vous rire, faire rire et amuser vos amis ? Demand. les 6 catal. illust. réunis pr 1907 Nouv. trucs, farces, attrapes, tours de physique, librair sorceil., mag'ie, chansons, artic. utiles, etc. Envoi gratis
Maison G. Rigollet, 23, rue St-Sabin, Paris.

Avant. Après 8 jours

LA SÈVE CAPILLAIRE fait pousser la barbe et les moustaches magnifiq. même à 15 ans. Fait repousser les Cheveux et Cils. Effets prodigieux (2 méd. d'or, 40.000 lett. félicitat.) Le dem. gd pot valeur 20 fr. ven tu fre 3 f. ; le gd pot 2 f. ; le dem. pot d'essai, 0,75 timb. ou mand. à J. Posel, chie Bd Filles-du Calvaire, 20, Paris.



MAGIE NOIRE et SORCELLERIE tous les secrets dévoilés. Pacte avec démons ; découverte des trésors ; philtre triomphateur d'amour ; prédiction de l'avenir ; pour gagner aux loteries et au jeu ; pour jeter ou détruire un sort ; pour se rendre invisible ; faire réussir projet de mariage ; tous les secrets des Rose-Croix. Dominations des volontés, pouvoir irrésist. assurant réussite et fortune. Env. gratis. Ecr. Grésil, 2, rue Amelot, Paris

POILS ou DUVETS disgracieux du visage et du corps, disparition complète. Indication de s'en débarrasser pour 15 c. ACHILLE, chimiste, 75, r. Montmartre, Paris

Les CYCLES MARS Liquidant Modèles 1907 montés pièces G. S. A. A CREDIT 70f par mois
Rien d'Avance. Av. Pneus Michelin. Monte en Prime à tout Acheteur.
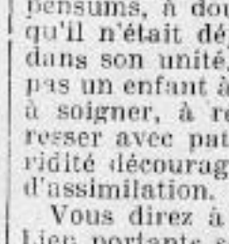
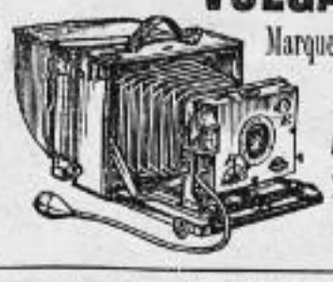
CATALOGUE FRANCO. 55, Avenue de la Grande-Armée, Paris.

APIOL JORET ET HOMOLLE
Guérit RETARDS, DOULEURS, RÉGULARISE LES EPOQUES. — 165, Rue St-Honoré, PARIS. Le Flac. 4'50 franco



POUR FAIRE PONDRE LES POULES
tous les jours, même par les plus grands froids de l'hiver 300 œufs par poule et par an. Dépense insignifiante. Notice gratis. Ecr. à Renam, 23, r. St-Sabin, Paris



POUR MAIGRIR

Sans nuire à la santé et sans régime. Amincit la taille, réduit les hanches et le ventre, efface le double menton. Rajeunit les traits et empêche de grossir.
SEUL REMÈDE VÉGÉTAL
SUCCÈS UNIVERSEL
La boîte, 5f. 6 boîtes, 28f.
Pie Viviane, 16, r. Vivienne, Paris et dans toutes les Pharmacies.

ANGLAIS ALLEM. ITAL. ESP. RUSS. PORTU. appris SEUL en 4 mois, beaucoup mieux qu'avec professeur. Nouvelle Méthode parlante-progressive, pratique, facile, infaillible, donne la Vraie prononciation exacte du pays même, le PUR ACCENT. Prouve-essai, 1 langue, fco, envoyer 90 c. (hors France 1.10) mandat ou timb. poste français à Maître Populaire, 13-2, r. Montbelon, Paris

BEAUTÉ & JEUNESSE ÉTERNELLE A TOUS
Le rouge du nez, les points noirs, les taches de rousseur, cicatrices, rides, bajoues, triples-mentons, etc. disparaîs. à jamais p. la Crème Loris, le pot 1.10
HUILE FRISANTINE. Une goutte fait friser les cheveux pendant 8 jours. Dépense insignifiante. Le flac. 1.75
SEINS développés, reconstit., embellis, raffermis, en peu de jours p. la Farine hongroise, 1 boîte 3.50
YEUX pr faire disparaître cernement et gonflement des paupières 3f. donner éclat à l'œil. Lotion végétale. Le flacon.
POILS Duvets et Barbe la plus dure, détruits pr toujours en une fois. La boîte trois francs. Mandat ou timbres J. Posel, chimie, Bd Filles-du-Calvaire, 20, Paris. Notice gratis.

SEINS
développés, reconstitués
embellis, raffermis
en deux mois par les
Pilules Orientales
Seul produit qui assure à la femme une poitrine parfaite sans nuire à la santé.
Flacon avec notice 6f 50 franco (mandat ou bon de poste)
J. RATIE, phien, 5, passage Verdeau, PARIS

LA PHOTOGRAPHIE VULGARISATRICE

Marque INCROYABLE
est la Première Maison du Monde pour les Appareils de Photographie
12, Rue des Petites-Ecuries
Catalogue Illustré Franco.

Franco à l'essai. MONTRES et BIJOUX "TRIBAUDEAU"
1er Prix aux Concours de Réglage à l'Observatoire National de Besançon en 1905 et 1906.
G. TRIBAUDEAU, Fabricant Principal à BESANÇON, livre directement au Public chaque année plus de 500.000 : MONTRES, CHRONOMÈTRES, BIJOUX, PENDULES, ORFÈVRERIE, RÉPARATIONS
PRIME à tout achat. Franco Tarif illustré.

SAGE-FEMME 1re classe, prend pensionn. à Paris et à la campag. (Maison discrète). Place enfants. Mme SALMON, 55, Faub. Saint-Martin (1 h. à 5 heures).

Grande NOUVEAUTÉ ! Grande NOUVEAUTÉ !
9 fr. 50 seulement coûte une magnifique GUITARE-CITHARE de Concert «FRANÇAISE»

de 50 centim. de haut avec 41 cordes et 5 octaves
Chaque Cithare est livrée avec 10 cartons en français et méthode gratis avec laquelle CHACUN PEUT JOUER SEUL DE SUITE. Catalogue gratis. Port 1 fr. 25. Envoi contre remboursement par la Fabrique : Robert HUSBERG, Neuenrade, n° 117, Westphalie, Allemagne.

SAGE-FEMME ET RETARDS Tous retards, irrégularités des époques sont rétablis immédiatem* avec recettes de Mme Bros, sage-femme 1re cl. dipl. Ecole de Ph*e. Notice discrète. A. BROS, 14, rue Ramey, Paris.

Tôle ondulée p. Toits, Charp., Hangars, Garages Matériaux Coloniaux. CAILLET, 3, CITÉ CONDORCET

CARTES POSTALES Vous gagnerez de l'or en vendant nos modèles merveilleux. Le plus grand assortiment et meilleur marché que partout ailleurs. — Catalogue et échantillons gratis. Ecrire : Comptoir, 23, rue Saint-Sabin, Paris

CYCLES MÉRICANT Maison de Confiance
13, Av. des Moulineaux, PARIS-BILLANCOURT
Catalogue franco. PRIX de GROS aux Intermédiaires

CONCOURS ENTRE TOUS LES ENFANTS DE FRANCE
Organisé par
" Le Petit Journal "
CAHIERS DE DEVOIRS DE VACANCES

Cours élémentaire (1re année)	0.50
— — (2me année)	0.50
Cours moyen (1re année)	0.60
— — (2me année)	0.60
Cours supérieur	0.75

En vente chez tous les dépositaires du Petit Journal
Principales récompenses : bicyclettes, machines à coudre, appareils photographiques, phonographes, montres, instruments de musique, boîtes de peinture, nécessaires de peinture, toilette, articles de papeterie scolaire et de fantaisie, jouets scientifiques, électriques et autres, livrets de Caisse d'épargne, volumes illustrés, albums de cartes postales, albums de musique, stylographes, appareils de gymnastique, caisses de bonbons, et., etc.

LE GÉRANT : G. LASSEUR

G. MARTY, imprimeur, 61, rue Lafayette.

Imprimé sur la machine rotative chromo-typo de MARINONI (Encres Lorilleux)

LES « ROUFIONS »

Tableau de M. Lucien Jonas (Salon de 1907)

[an error occurred while processing this directive]

MOVIE: HOLLYWOOD MOVIES & TELEVISION SHOWS: GNOSTIC-THEMED MOVIES THAT REVEAL THE HIDDEN TRUTH OF THE NATURE OF OUR REALITY

Columbia Pictures

NATAS (or SATAN backwards)

OScar, OSiris, Ausar, Ptah

Sorceror's Apprentice, Mickey

DreamWorks Productions

"Making movies is casting spells." – Director of Lucifer Rising, Kenneth Anger

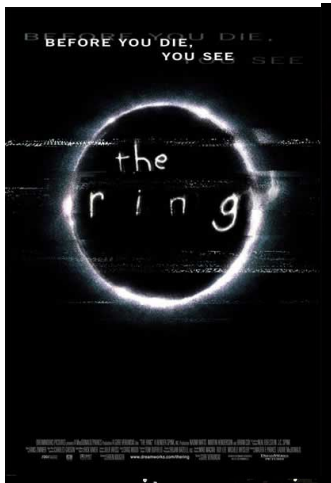
"Magic wands were always made out of the wood of a Holly tree. It's made out of Holly wood. Hollywood is a Druidic establishment and the symbols, the words, the terms, the stories, are designed*.*" -- Jordan Maxwell **

"That alien, his Matrix, he was like the spider that has to lure a fly into his web... Do you think it's possible that each of the near death experiences we've heard about are the result of an alien inhabitation?" -- Captain Janeway in the Star Trek Voyager episode, "Coda"

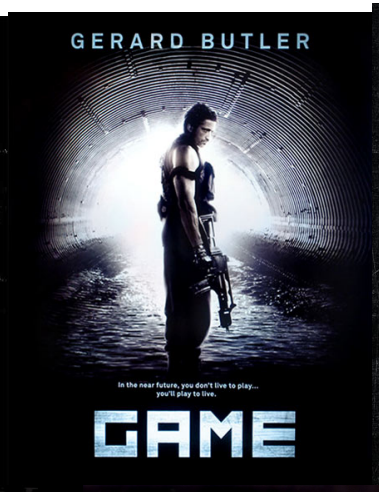
"The light at the end of the tunnel. That ain't heaven. That's the C train!" -- Daredevil

"Ever dance with the Devil in the pale moonlight? I ask that of all my prey!" -- The Joker to Batman prior to shooting him, Batman (1989) **

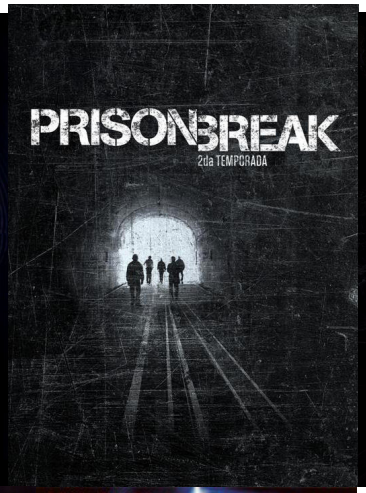
The Oscar statue of the Academy Awards gets its name from Ausur or Osiris, the Egyptian god, pictured on the right. You can see both figures are golden, have their arms crossed across the chest and hold a sceptre. **



EXAMPLES



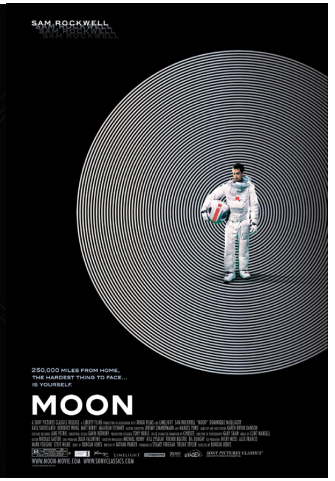
These short clips are protected under fair use of Sections 107 through 118 of the copyright law (title 17, U. S. Code). The purpose falls under the umbrella of items which are considered fair, such as criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching, scholarship, and research. The purpose and character of this page is for nonprofit educational use.

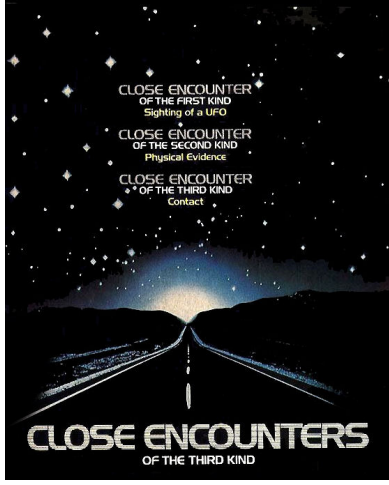


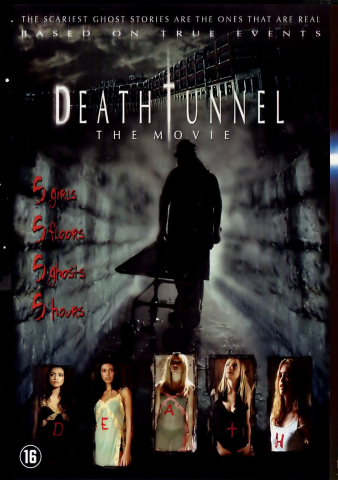
SPOILER ALERT: Warning. These movie scenes or clips may contain spoilers.

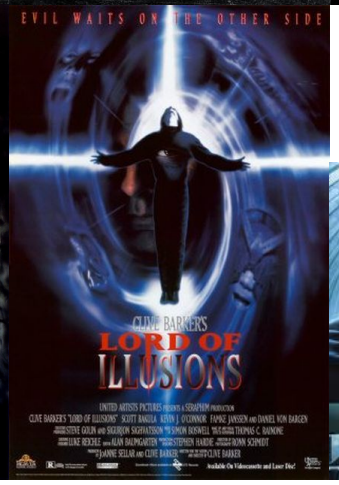
Movies and television programs use what is called predictive programming to program us by using fiction and the power of suggestion to create a desired outcome. It is life imitating art.

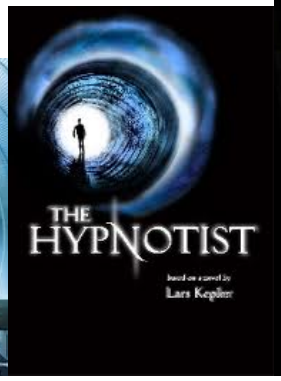
THE TUNNEL AND LIGHT

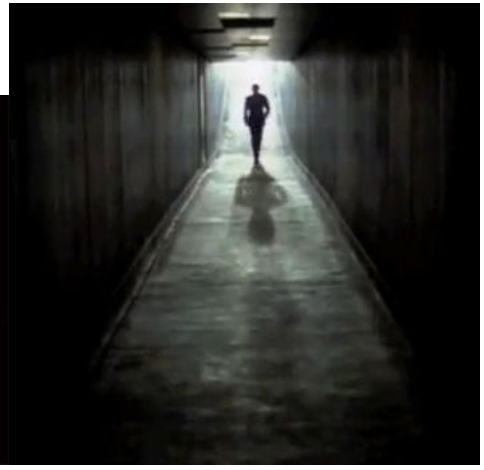


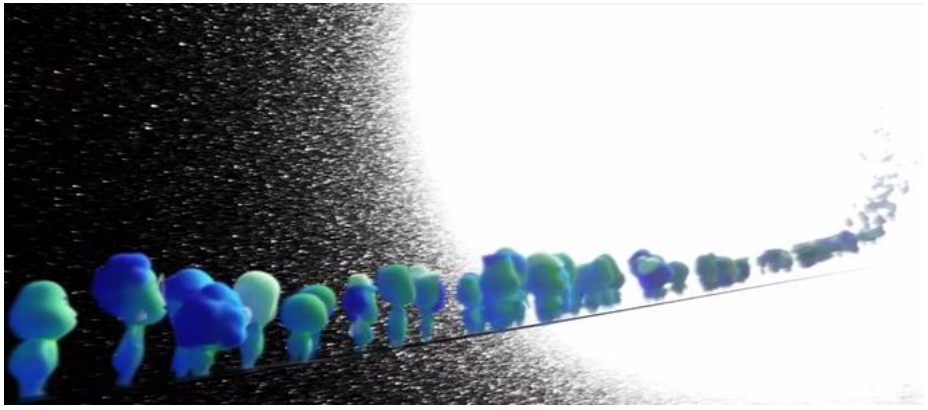












**

SOUL (2020)

I was asked what I thought of the new Disney Pixar movie Soul. There are many similarities in the movie with my web site, including themes or elements of an NDE; avoiding the white light; the counting, tracking and even capturing of souls; the memory wipe; the recycling of life; being in "the zone"; lost souls and more. So I decided to write a review and analyze it.

You can read the article here : Soul: Is the New Disney Pixar Movie Soft Disclosure About Avoiding the White Light at Death?

LIVEWIRE

LiveWire - In a Mountain Dew commercial for limited time only Mountain Dew product called LiveWire, two men watch puzzingly as numerous insects fly into a light zapper to a certain death. One asks, "Why do they do that? Don't they see that their friends are getting zapped?" The other man replies, "I don't know. They must be stupid." Ironically, a large glowing orange orb of LiveWire starts pulsating and hypnotizes the two men who helplessly are drawn headfirst into its core, stunning themselves in the process. If you touch a live wire you will get shocked or electrocuted. After they walk into the orb, one says, "That was stupid" Notice the sign behind them that says "HOT FOOD". The announcer says "Introducing Mountain Dew LiveWire. Discover what the attraction is all about."

A BUG'S LIFE (1998) Disney Pixar

A Bugs Life - In this movie, one bug warns another one not to fly into the light trap, "No, Harry, No!. Don't look at the light!" but to no avail as the victim laments, "I can't help it! It's so beautiful!" **

STAR TREK VOYAGER -- CODA **

Star Trek Voyager - In the Star Trek Voyager episode Coda, Captain Janeway is almost fooled by an alien into thinking she has died. The alien poses as her father, imploring her to follow him into the light. She is suspicious of his intentions and refuses.

JANEWAY: That's the real me, isn't it, lying on the ground on that planet, dying, and this is the hallucination. This isn't real.
ALIEN: More denial. You're only making it harder on yourself.
JANEWAY: You're trying very hard to convince me to come with you. Why is that? If what you're saying is true, why not let me come to the decision on my own?
ALIEN: I'm trying to spare you unnecessary pain.
JANEWAY: My father would never act like this. He always believed I had to learn my own lessons, make my own mistakes. He never tried to shield me from life. Why would he try to shield me from death? You're not my father. I could be imagining you, but I don't think so. You have such a specific agenda. You're determined that I go with you somewhere. Who are you?
ALIEN: I'm trying to help you. Stop fighting me.
JANEWAY: Are you an alien being of some kind? Is that it?

[Planet Surface]

CHAKOTAY: Her eyes are open.
EMH: Vital signs are responding. Blood pressure is sixty over thirty.
TUVOK: But the entity is still inhabiting her cerebral cortex, impeding your treatment.
CHAKOTAY: Kathryn, hang on. We're bringing you back. Just fight a little longer.
EMH: Direct synaptic stimulation might drive out the alien presence.

[Mess hall]

JANEWAY: I was right. I heard Tuvok and Chakotay and the Doctor. You're an alien. You've created all these hallucinations, haven't you?
ALIEN: This is what my species does. At the moment just before death one of us comes down to help you understand what's happening, to make the crossing over an occasion of joy. **
JANEWAY: And what is that?
ALIEN: Our Matrix, where your consciousness will live. I was being truthful when I said it was a place of wonder. It can be whatever you want it to be.
JANEWAY: Then why didn't you tell me this from the beginning? Why pretend to be my father.
ALIEN: Usually people are comforted to see their loved ones. It makes the crossing over a much less fearful occasion. I've done this many times, but I've never encountered someone so resistant.

[Planet Surface]

EMH: Something's happened. The alien presence is getting stronger again.
CHAKOTAY: Fight it, Kathryn, just a little longer.
EMH: I'll have to try a thoron pulse.

[Mess hall]

JANEWAY: My people are telling me to fight. They're trying to save me.
ALIEN: They're trying out of desperation. It's hopeless.
JANEWAY: You're the one who sounds desperate. I don't get the feeling you're trying to make me comfortable. You're only interested in my agreeing to come with you.
ALIEN: Because it's inevitable.
JANEWAY: And you don't strike me as any type of Good Samaritan. You're more like a vulture, preying on people at the moment of their death when they're at their most vulnerable.
ALIEN: I've waited for you. I've been patient.
JANEWAY: But your patience is wearing thin. What's the real reason you want me in that Matrix? Somehow I don't think it has anything to do with everlasting joy.

ALIEN: You must go with me.
JANEWAY: If you could force me to go, you'd have done it already. You need me to agree, don't you? I have to go voluntarily.
ALIEN: Wouldn't that be better than standing here in this endless debate?
JANEWAY: Let me tell you this. We can stand here for all eternity and I will never choose to go with you.
ALIEN: You're in a dangerous profession, Captain. You face death everyday. There'll be another time and I'll be waiting. Eventually you'll come into my Matrix and you will nourish me for a long, long, time.
JANEWAY: Go back to hell, coward.

Afterwards, Captain Janeway discusses the encounter with one of her crew.

CHAKOTAY: I can understand that. I can't help thinking about it. That alien, his Matrix, he was like the spider that has to lure a fly into his web.
JANEWAY: Do you think it's possible that each of the near death experiences we've heard about are the result of an alien inhabitation? **

LOGAN'S RUN (1976) MGM

Logan's Run (1976, MGM)

The very first frame of this brilliant sci-fi classic from the '70's begins with this proclamation: "Sometime in the 23rd century... the survivors of war, overpopulation and pollution are living in a great domed city, sealed away from the forgotten world outside. Here, in an ecologically balanced world, mankind lives only for pleasure, freed by the servo-mechanisms which provide everything. There's just one catch: Life must end at thirty unless reborn in the fiery ritual of Carousel."

Francis: Some of our guys are on Carousel tonight, and Sandmen always renew, I know.
Logan: But you don't know. You just assume - one-for-one. What everyone's been taught to believe - one-for-one.
Francis: Well, why not? That's exactly how everything works. It keeps everything in balance. One is terminated, one is born. Simple, logical, perfect. You have a better system?
Logan: Of course not. At least I wonder about it sometimes. Not like you with your automatic one-for-one routine. You know you sound like a Sleep Teacher with a stuck tape?
Francis: Logan, leave it alone. It's perfect. [bumps into a Red] You know, Logan, you wonder a lot, too much for a Sandman.
Logan: Why were you so angry just then. What did he do to you?
Francis: That Red's gonna run. I can always tell.
Logan: Did you ever see Francis 8?
Francis: I've never even visited Nursery before tonight. You know, when you question, it slows you down. I don't know - what makes you so curious? You know who his seed mother was?
Logan: Of course not. I'm curious, not sick!

Francis: Good! [laughs] Look at the crowd. Good Carousel tonight.
Carousel: Lastday, Capricorn 15's. Year of the City, 2274. Carousel begins. [repeats]
S: [Looks at left palm, then to Francis] Don't forget, we're both on Monitor tonight. [Logan, Francis and S laugh]
[All enter the Carousel ampitheater]
Francis: [Asks a girl sitting close by for more room] Would you mind? Thanks a lot.
Logan: Well, there's a few over there that could have been his seed mother.
Francis: Only a few? You're just not trying. [laughs]
Carousel: Capricorn 15's, born 2244. Enter the Carousel. This is the time of renewal. Be strong, and you will be renewed. Identify. Rise.
[The Carousel scene. The platform with a red crystal rotates. The Lastday people float upward, and are hit with strong laser blasts as they approach the clear crystal]
Everyone: Up! Up! C'mon! Renew! Renew!
[Logan gets a call (RUNNER, GREAT HALL, ENTRANCE WEST). Logan leaves. Francis follows, startling Logan. They locate a runner, and shoot at him like cats chasing a mouse]
Francis: Ha ha!
Logan: Run, runner! laughter] He was crazy. He could have renewed on Carousel. Now he's finished forever. Why do they run?

FINDING NEMO (2003) Disney Pixar

Finding Nemo - This scene features an angler fish, a real fish, which lures its prey to death by dangling a light out in front! Notice a direct comparison is made to the afterlife. **

MARLIN Dory, do you see anything? DORY Aaah! Something's got me! MARLIN That was me. I'm sorry. DORY [gasps] Who was that?MARLIN Who could it be? It's me! DORY Are..are you my conscience? MARLIN Yeah, yeah. I'm your conscience. We haven't spoken for a while. How are you? DORY Hmm, can't complain. MARLIN Yeah? Good. Now, Dory. I want you to tell me..do you see anything?DORY I see..I see a light. MARLIN A light. DORY Yeah. Over there. Hey, conscience. Am I dead? MARLIN No, I see it too. What is it? DORY It's so pretty. MARLIN I'm feeling...happy. Which is a big deal for me. DORY I want to touch it. Oh! MARLIN Hey, come back. Come on back here. DORY [singing] I'm gonna get you. I'm gonna get you. I'm gonna swim with you. MARLIN I'm gonna get you. I'm gonna be your best friend...good feeling's gone.MARLIN I can't see! I don't know where I'm going! DORY Haah! MARLIN The mask! DORY What mask? DORY Okay, I can't see a thing. MARLIN Oh, gee! DORY Hey, look! A mask! MARLIN Read it! DORY I'm sorry, but if you could just bring it a little closer, I kind of need the light. That's great, keep it right there. MARLIN Just read it! DORY Okay, okay. Mr. Bossy. Uh, 'P'. Okay, 'P'. 'Shh-eer...Sher--P. Sher--P. Shirley? P.--'. Oh! The first line's 'P. Sherman'! MARLIN P. Sherman doesn't make any sense! DORY Okay, second line. '42'. MARLIN Don't eat me! Don't eat me! Aaaah! DORY Light, please. 'Walla--Walla--Walla-beee'...MARLIN Waah! Waaah! Waaaah!DORY The second line's '42 Wallaby Way'! MARLIN That's great! Speed read! Take a guess! No pressure! No problem! There's a lot of pressure! Pressure! Take a guess now with pressure! DORY 'Sydney'. It's 'Sydney'! MARLIN Duck! DORY Aaah!MARLIN I'm dead, I'm dead, I'm dead, I'm dead, I'm dead, I died, I'm dead.

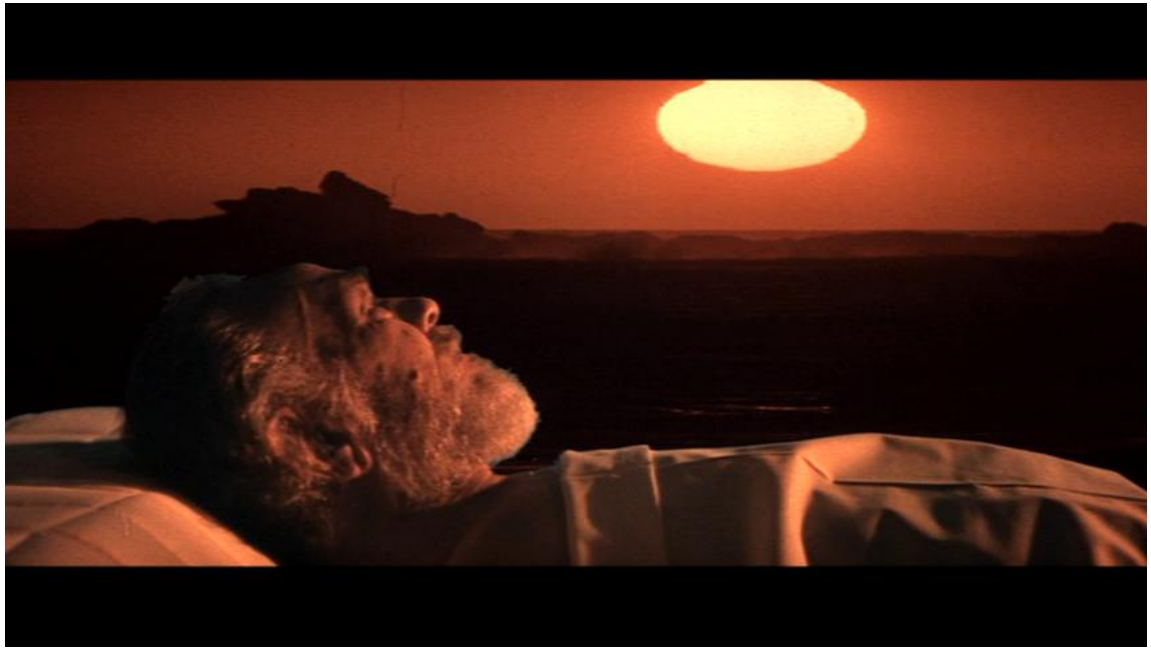
DAREDEVIL (2003) Marvel Enterprises, New Regency Pictures, Horseshoe Bay Productions

Daredevil - The devil, red suit and all, posing with the full moon. He tells a dying man, "The light at the end of the tunnel? Guess what, that's not heaven... it's the C Train! [the dying man threatens, "I'll kill you, I'll kill you".] Of course, the crescent moon does look like a 'C' in the sea of space.

THE RING (2002) DreamWorks



The Ring - The tagline on a poster of this movie was, "Before You Die, You See The Ring". The Ring is depicted as a solar eclipse! **

THE TWILIGHT ZONE (1959)

To Serve Man - One of the most classic Twilight Zone episodes ever. "Mr. Chambers! Don't get on that ship! The rest of the book, To Serve Man... It's a cookbook!"

SOYLENT GREEN (1973) MGM

Soylent Green - One of the main characters, Sol, tries to warn the rest of humanity that their food, Soylent Green, is made of people and quips that "It's people. Soylent Green is made out of people! They're making our food out of people. Soon they'll be breeding us like cattle!" The pun here is that Sol-lent green is people. In other words, our green ectoplasm is lent to the sun, Sol.

THE "BURNING MAN" FESTIVAL

Burning Man - The Burning Man Festival is a festival which takes place every year in the Black Rock Desert in Nevada. A man in effigy is sacrificed.

THE WICKER MAN (1973) British Lion Film Corporation

The Wicker Man - The ancient druids would sacrifice animals and men to the Sun in order to appease its anger and assure a good bumper of crops that Spring. This is reenacted in the film starring Christopher Lee.

"Mighty God of the Sun, Bountiful Goddess of our orchards... accept our sacrifice..."

DREAMWORKS Pictures

DreamWorks Pictures introduces its movies with this short animation of a boy sitting on the moon and fishing in a body of water (perhaps symbolic of the subconscious mind where dreams are born), presumably on the Earth. This is similar to the siren motif which usually features an attractive woman luring sailors to their deaths with her sweet song and alluring eyes. **

THE PRISONER (1967-1968) Everyman Films

 **

The Prisoner - In the mysterious 1960's TV series, The Prisoner, produced by Everyman Pictures, every facet of a man's life is controlled. They try to strip the man's identity and refer to him only as Number Six. He defiantly proclaims every week in the trailer, "I am not a number! I am a free man! I will not make any deals with you. I've resigned. I will not be pushed, filed, stamped, indexed, briefed, debriefed, or numbered! My life is my own!" The village featured a lunar control base reminiscent of the Truman Show. On one side, you can see a view of the earth; on the other, space. In this scene a spirit rover hunts down a man and suffocates him. The controller of the village says, "Follow the signs." Notice the first sign says "Free sea" and the next one says "Repair".

STAR TREK: THE ORIGINAL SERIES (1966-1969) Desilu Production, Paramount Television

Star Trek: For The World Is Hollow And I Have Touched The Sky - In this episode of the original Star Trek series, the crew discover a hollow asteroid disguised as a planet whose inhabitants are duped into worshipping a deity who is portrayed as a sun. One inhabitant warns the crew that one day he was climbing a mountain, which is strictly forbidden. He says, "Where is outside? Many years ago I climbed the mountains even though it is forbidden [winces in pain]. Things are not as they teach us for the world is hollow and I have touched the sky!" [collapses in agony] Kirk repeats what he said, "trying to decipher the words. "For the world is hollow, and I have touched the sky..... Yes, of course it is because if you did you'd touch the sky and find out you were living on a big ball. Not a planet, but a spaceship. And that knowledge seems to be forbidden."

CIRQUE DU SOLEIL: JOURNEY OF MAN (2000)

Cirque Du Soleil: The Journey of Man - This world famous circus is translated as 'Circus of the Sun'. The first show was entitled 'The Journey of Man'. Guess where man's destination lies? The sun!

THE TRUMAN SHOW (1998) Paramount Pictures

**

The Truman Show - In the movie The Truman Show (the True Man show), Truman Burbank's whole life in "Seahaven" is staged and phoney. His whole world, including the sun and moon, is a gigantic set inside a large dome controlled from the moon. By the way the Egyptian equivalent for Satan is named Set! Could it be that 'true man' is inside a vast dome and that our world is controlled from a base on the moon? Truman, trying to conquer his fear and escape, sets sail for blue sky only to collide into a giant wall. This movie was hailed by critics as "original" and "daring". Why? Because it contains our true origins and is daring to tell us the truth? One of the movie's producers is a Rothschild, the family that started the European banking dynasty.

Some taglines from the movie are:
On the air, unaware!

The World Is Watching...
The World is a Stage!

his wife is reading a book called "The Dream Machine 2"

one compassionate actor in the show, truman's love interest, secretly tells him, "everybody knows everything you do everybody's pretending... this....it's fake its all for you everything is all for you...the sea, the sand, the sky....it's all a set, it's a show in one scene truman hears a different frequency on the radio and hears the truth...it's only when the frequency changes back that his normal life resumes his friend tells him, "look at that sunset....that's the big guy" truman meets his dead father on a bridge in fog

the creator and director of the show explains how they were able to fool Truman: "we accept the reality of the world which we are presented"

truman lives under a domed city...an island surrounded by water truman becomes suspicious and sneaks off in a boat to leave the island in search of his true home once they discover truman is missing the moon becomes a searchlight....."cue the sun" at night time the demiurgic type figure, named Cristof, finds him and calls up the weather program causing a storm which capsizes the boat. Truman barely holds on to survive. Once the storm is over truman sails for blue skies but literally runs into a wall at sea... the boundary of the movie set and his world.

He climbs a set of stairs to meet his creator. A booming voice comes from the sky, the voice of Cristof, saying: "You can speak. I can hear you."

Truman: [to an unseen Christof] Who are you?
Christof: [voice-over] I am The Creator - of a television show that gives hope and joy and inspiration to millions.
Truman: Then who am I?
Christof: You're the star.
Truman: Was nothing real?
Christof: You were real. That's what made you so good to watch.

At one point Christof made this statement about Truman: "He could leave at any time. If this were anything more than a vague ambition, if he was absolutely determined to discover the truth, there is no way we could prevent him."

DARK CITY (1998) Mystery Clock Cinema, New Line Cinema

Dark City (1999)

Seemingly patterned after the Archon beings of the Gnostic texts and the reports in the Ufology community, Dark City is similar to The Truman Show -- a human was given fabricated memories of his childhood life and presented a false reality. He travels to the edge of his world to go home to Shell Beach but hits a wall. Like Truman, he tries to break through the wall.

Excerpts from the movie:

"They steal peoples' memories, then they swap them around between us. I've seen them do it, back and forth 'til no one knows who they are anymore. How do you know all this? Once in a while one of us wakes up while they're changing things. It's not supposed to happen, but it does.

We fashioned this city on stolen memories. Different eras, different pasts, all rolled into one. Each night we revise it, refine it, in order to learn. Learn what? About you. You and your fellow inhabitants, what makes you human. Why? We need to be like you.

I call them Strangers. They abducted us and brought us here. This city, everyone in it is their experiment. They mix and match our memories as they see fit, trying to divine what makes us unique. One day, a man might be an inspector. The next, someone entirely different. When they want to study a murderer, for instance, they simply imprint one of their citizens with a new personality. Arrange a family for him, friends, an entire history... even a lost wallet. Then they observe the results. Will a man, given the history of a killer, continue in that vein? Or are we, in fact, more than the sum of our memories? This business of you being a killer was a sad coincidence. You have had dozens of lives before now. You happened to wake up while I was imprinting you with this one. Why are they doing all this? It is our capacity for individuality -- our souls -- that makes us different from them. They think they'll find the human soul if they understand how our memories work. They have collective memories. They share one group mind. They're dying. Their race is on the brink of extinction. They think we can save them. Where do I fit in? You're different. You resisted my attempt to imprint you. Somehow you have developed their ability to Tune. That is how they change things, how they built this city. They have machines buried beneath the surface that allow them to focus their telepathic energies. They control everything here, even the sun. That's why it's always dark. They can't stand the light. Why do they need you? When they first brought us here, they extracted what was in us and stored the information, remixed it like paint and gave us back new memories of their choosing. But they still needed an artist to help them. I understood the human mind better than they ever could, so they allowed me to keep my skills as a scientist... because they needed them. They made me delete everything else. Can you imagine what it's like to erase your own past?

What about my past? What about my childhood? Shell Beach. Uncle Karl. What about this? This was blank when I found it.

You still don't understand. You were never a boy. Not in this place. Your history is an illusion, a fabrication, as it is with all of us.

There is no ocean, John. There's nothing beyond the city. The only place home exists is in your head.

They want to imprint you with their own collective memories. They want to make you one of them... so they can share your soul.

Here's the machine the Strangers use to amplify their thoughts, the machine that changes their world. You must take control of it. You must make the machine yours. I know you can beat them, but you must concentrate.

You told me I had the power, didn't you? I can make these machines do anything I want. Make this world anything I want it to be. Just so long as I concentrate hard enough. Where are you going?

Shell Beach.

It's so beautiful here. So bright.

Do you know if Shell Beach is around here?

I think that's it over there. I'm headed that way myself. Would you like to join me?

THE THIRTEENTH FLOOR (1999) Columbia Pictures

The Thirteenth Floor - The Thirteenth Floor was released the year after the Truman Show and like The Truman Show and Dark City, the main character travels to the edge of his world and discovers that it's a simulation.

DOUGLAS: How many simulated worlds like this are there?

JANE: Thousands. Yours is the only one that ever created a simulation within the simulation. Something we never expected.

DOUGLAS: No Ashton, I'm not really a God. I'm just like you. Just a bunch of electricity.

ASHTON: What are you talking about?

DOUGLAS: It's all smoke and mirrors. Just like your world. We're nothing but a simulation on some computer. It's like a machine. Like this arcade game. You've got your players and you put your nickel in. This one pitches. This one runs around the bases. Pre- programmed movements generated by electrical energy. We're improved on this model since then. The players can beat the shit out of and try to drown some other, which is always fun.

THE MATRIX (1999) Warner Bros. Pictures, Village Roadshow Pictures

The Matrix - This is a sci-fi classic where Neo is told humans are nothing more than a battery - a source of power for the machines and that he is living in a false world, a matrix.

"Wake up, Neo. The Matrix has you...." What the HELL? " Follow the white rabbit"

Neo is asleep in a dream world and needs to pay attention to archetypes and symbolism.

The book were Neo stashes the computer discs/ programs: "Simulacra and Simulation"...guy tells Neo he's his savior.... you don't exist

Neo: "Ever had that feeling where you're not sure if you're awake or still dreaming?

You need to unplug.

Trinity: "I brought you here to warn you. They're watching you, Neo."

They talk about someting called 'The question'....."What is the matrix?"

The boss at Metacortex: "Every employee understands they are part of the whole"

Morpheus, the god of Dreams, guides Neo out of his cubicle prison at work were Agent Smith and the police are coming to take him

Agent Smith puts an archon like bug in his stomach

Neo wakes up in bed. Morpheus calls him, tells him he is the One and tells him to go to the bridge where trinity picks him up and removes the bug.

"Morpheus: You have the look of a man who accepts what he sees because he is expecting to wake up"

"You're here because you know something. What you know you cant explain but you felt it. you felt it your entire life, that there's something wrong with the world. ... do you know what I'm talking about?

The Matrix?

Do you want to know what it is? The matrix is everywhere/ It's all around us ...it is the world that as been pulled over your eyes to blind you from the truth...that you are a slave Neo, Like everyone else you were born into bondage, born into a prison that you cannot smell or taste or touch. A prison for your mind, he sees millions of humans hooked up to machines....he gets unplugged and goes through a tunnel...Morpheus: "welcome to the real world"

broadcast pirate signal and hack into the matrix matrix: he is telling neo about the matrix from a clear/white void the construct or loading program....can load anything...training simulations...inside a computer program..."mental projection of your digital self"...

Morpeus tells Neo, "What is 'real'? How do you define 'real'? If you're talking about what you can see, what you can feel, what you can taste and see, then 'real' is simply electrical signals interpreted by your brain. This is the world that you know... it exists now only as part of neural interactive simulation that we call 'the matrix'. You've been living in a dream world, Neo."

Man unified and gave birth to AI.. a singular consciousness that spawned an entire race of machines

"Welcome to the desert of the real...They (the machines) were dependent on solar power and it was believed that they would be unable to survive without an energy source as abundant as the sun. The human body carries more bioelectricity than a 120-volt battery and over 125,000 BTU's of body heat. Combined with a form of fusion, the machines had found ... there are fields, endless, fields, where human beings are no longer born, we are grown."

"What is the matrix? Control. The matrix is a computer generated dream world built to keep us under control in order to change a human being into this..." Morpheus displays a battery to Neo. "As long as the matrix exists, the human race will never be free." **

"we never free a mind once it's reached a certain age...it's dangerous....the mind has trouble letting go"

"don't think you are...know you are....stop trying to hit me and hit me" you have to let it all go....fear, doubt and disbelief...free your mind"

"sentient programs..... anyone we haven't unplugged is potentially an agent...they are the gatekeepers...they are guarding all the doors, they are holding all the keys

Smith: "the first matrix was designed to be a perfect human world where no one suffered where everyone would be happy and it was a disaster -- no one would accept the program, entire crops were lost."

human beings as a species define their reality though misery and suffering ..the perfet world ...you kept trying to wake up from "

"as soon as we started thinking for you. it became our civilization which is what this is all about -- evolution all the agent smiths look the same, like clones, like copies, like memes smith: humans ---> virus

smith: "i hate this place...this zoo, this prison, this reality"

The Sentinels in the movie are AI and are a cross between metal, robotic insects, viruses and squid or octopi as they have tentacles.

Once Neo (anagram for 'one') believes in himself enough then it is apparent he is the One and he is able to stop bullets in mid air. He effortlessly fights off Agent Smith's attack and jumps inside of Agent Smith, travels to his brain or third eye area region and Agent Smith explodes into light....in Gnostic terms, the darkness or shadow is transformed by the Light Power of Neo.

The ending shows the matrix has a "system failure" as Neo phones the people of Earth and tells them he is going to show them a world without rules, controls and boundaries, a world where anything is possible. Neo puts on a pair of sun glasses, looks up toward the heavens and files away, ascending into the atmosphere. So the ending is about ascension.

The Matrix Reloaded

==========

birds, trees, wind etc are all programs running

The Oracle tells Neo: "a program can either choose to hide here or return to the source, the machine mainframe where you must go, where the path of the one ends" ...the door made of light in is dreams...she is saying the source is the machine and that the light leads to the machine

"you can return to Zion if you reach the source but to do that you will need the keymaker":..being held prisoner by an old program, the Merovingian many agent smiths surround neo and tell him everything is because of purpose and they need to take back the purpose that neo took from them.....agent smith tries to assimilate neo and he starts turning into black goo merovinigan's wife, persephone, takes them to the keymaker who is through a tunnel that has prison bars at the front end of it the merovingian tells persephone it is only a game after cheating on her looks like the Sentinels are coming through a tunnel from the Sun

the keymaker says there is a level in the building not reachable from elevators or stairs and it has doors one of which leads to Source.. they must destroy a power station to take out the grid network... all must be done as one lion symbolism on the chair Morpheus is sitting in in the keymaker's building

Neo goes through the door of light and returns to the source where he meets the architect, a Demiurgic type figure who created the matrix.  He is white haired and wearing a business suit and extremely serious. There are hundreds to thousands of computer screens showing different parts of Neo's lives including his reactions to meeting the Architect ..he calls Neo an anomaly of a harmony of mathematical precision ...says this is the 6th version of the matrix. Neo deduces the problem is choice. Those who refuse the program pose a threat to the system. He says Neo must return to Source and to comply with his orders and failure to do so would result in the annihilaton of all humans, .Neo says he wont annihilate all human beings because he needs them to survive. The Architect says Neo's love and emotion and attachment to his love, Trinity, will blind him

Revolutions

=========

Neo is in between the machine and matrix worlds.... meets the power plant's system manager for recycling.operations...

The Oracle says the Architect's purpose is to balance the equation and that her purpose is unbalance the equation

Agent Smith refers to the other Smiths as "the rest of me" indicating they are a collective Agent Smith tries to assimilate Neo into black goo...Neo becomes an Agent Smith but accesses the Light Power from within and transmutes all of the Agent Smiths into light

The machines leave and the war is over...Neo saves them

The Architect talks with the Oracle and tells her she's "made a very dangerous game".... this implies that she might be a creative goddess and that the matrix was necessary for her game and that the Architect was the one in charge of making or adminstrating the Matrix. Or that peraps they were co-creators. Some say the term Demiurge literally means "half creator" and in some Gnostic interpretations they share responsibility for the creation of this universe. Incidentally, freemasons call god the Great Architect of the universe.

The Architect says the ones that want out will be freed

The sun rises and is said to be beautiful.

The Oracle says she didn't know but she believed.

TRON: LEGACY

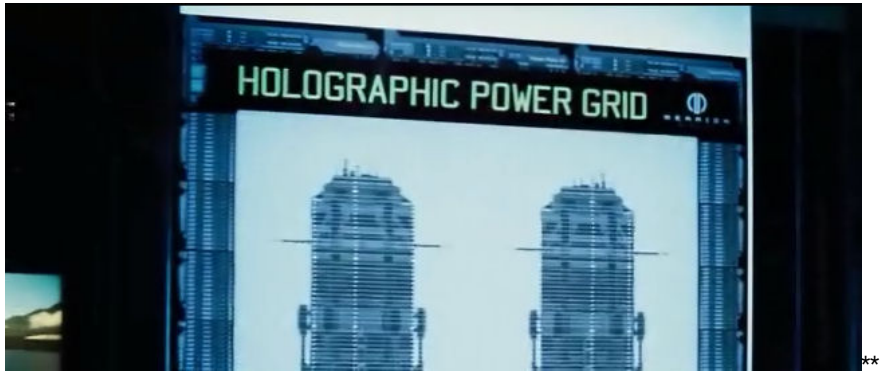
Kevin Flynn is talking to his son, Sam.....

Flynn:...raced on ribbons of light..".together we built a new grid for programs and users...I couldn't be in there all the time so I created a program in my own image that could think like you and me and I called him Clu., Codified Light-disc Utility. And Tron, Clu and I built a system where all information was free. An then one day something happened. Something extraordinary. A miracle. " end -quote

Is CLU an anagram for LUC, Lucifer?)

they keep talking about the light grid system being a digital frontier to reshape the human condition

Flynn talking about the computer game system says: "in there is a new world..In there is our future. In there is your destiny. "



Flynn goes missing and Sam enters the video game in search of him. He is given an identity disc were everything he does and learns is imprinted on the disc.

He enters a bright white light and enters a battle game for the entertainment of a crowd of spectators. His dad was trapped in the grid and now is in charge. Sam must now battle CLU in the light cycle grid.

Flynn teaches about being selfless and removing one's self from the equation. CLU was a program designed to create the perfect world.. Something unexpected happened. A miracle. Isos, Isomorphic algorithms (Isos=Isis?), a whole new life form. Control, order, perfection -- none of it meant a thing -- They manifested like a flame. The conditions were right and they came into being. Isos were going to be is gift to the world but CLU happened (57:11 just as he says this he puts two tetrahedronal stars down on the fireplace mantle) CLU fed on Flynn's resistance...the harder he fought the more powerful CLU became. CLU saw the ISOs as an imperfection so he destroyed them.

The portal uses massive power and can only stay open for a while and can only be opened from the outside. The portal closed on him.and he couldn't get back home.

THE ISLAND (2005) WARNER BROS./DREAMWORKS

**

Before their "birth" on earth, clones are created in pods and programmed via light and hypnotic suggestion that they are "special" and "have been chosen to go to the island" which is powered by a holographic grid.

"You're special. You have a very special purpose in life. You've been chosen. The Island awaits you.... You've been chosen. You have a very special purpose. You're part of a new beginning.You're special. You have a very special purpose. You want to go to the Island. Your purpose in life is to populate the Island. You're part of a new beginning. You're special. Very special. You've been chosen. You've been chosen. Chosen to survive, to carry on. You want to go to the Island. Go, go! You have a very special purpose. Very special."

THE GOOD PLACE (2016-current)

**

[Note: This review contains spoilers.] The Good Place is a show created by Michael Schur who also co-created Parks and Recreation and was a writer for the enormously popular show The Office. The Good Place, especially in the fiest season finale, is the Truman Show on steroids.

Four human souls in the afterlife are welcomed to "heaven" and told they are in "the good place" where there are 322 (Skull and Bones numerology reference)perfectly matched human souls . The place is literally run by demons posing in human form tormenting them. They are in a mostly okay place (to keep it from being a dead giveaway), but their weaknesses are exploited to keep them from being happy. Once they figure out they are actually in the bad place their memories are wiped and the simulation is rebooted. They have gone through hundreds of simulations. The simulation's architect of neighborhood 12358W (Fibonacci Golden ratio) is named Michael (Ted Danson), who originally appears similar to Michael, the chief archangel but is later to be revealed as demiurgic figure who is the chief archon/demon or Devil.

It has some interesting scenarios though as one of the humans was a philosophy teacher specializing in ethics so there are a lot of ethical and moral dilemmas presented throughout (also as a means of torture).

The Good Place is really more about life on earth and not the afterlife because they are in an earth like place with solid bodies and there is no telepathy or teleportation. The only thing they really had was the part where she started manifesting reality due to her bad thoughts but even that was programmed by Michael, I think, to trick her. But I do like the fact that the show has as part of its plot the idea that souls can be tricked in the afterlife into think that what is really hell is heaven.

So in the show there was this idea that it didn't work somehow just because the architect (Michael) had to blank their memory and restart. But this is exactly what solution they use in our actual life -- you constantly die, lose memory, and restart the same loop. What the show doesn't really show is how to exit since it's mostly filled with useless ethics philosophy (and even more deluded, childish point system).

I like how the show uses the four main characters to depict common flaws (kind of similar to The Wizard of Oz in that respect) as to why souls don't actually make it to the real heaven. Chidi's cowardly indecisiveness shows constant fear of making the wrong choice and a potential remorse/regret and guilt over decisions he might make so any Intention he has is weak. I think Eleanor is a shallow, selfish party girl and could even be characterized as having no will power to resist temptation. Tahani is vain and has a big ego and is attached to materialism. Finally, Jason (whose character is highly annoying to me) personifies ignorance which is obviously a huge common one for all duped souls. These characters seem to parallel those from The Wizard of Oz. Eleanor is Dorothy, the main character. She is the first image we see. She is the every"man", the normal avergage person who is not a saint nor evil. She picks up friends along her journey. They are all on a quest to make it to the mystical and magical land of paradise or heavenly realm where they will be complete and have everything they need. Chidi is the cowardly lion, big and strong physically yet lacking the courage to make a decision. Jason is the sacrecrow who lacks a brain. Tahani is the tin "man" who is lacking a heart. She gives enormous amounts of money to charity, but it wasn't because she was good-hearted as it didn't come from a place of compassion or because she cared. It was to make herself look good. Michael is the wizard of Oz, the older man behind the curtain pulling all the strings and denying them access by means of deception.

There have been NDEs with judges and even a courtroom though they are infrequent. Keep in mind the full cycle of dying for NDErs is never completed. I think the cases of lives between lives that are uncovered in hypnotherapy (Michael Newton, Dolores Cannon) have a council that guides the soul and there is the so called lords of karma and even in NDEs the ultimate judge is the being of light telling them they must go back. because they have a mission to complete ("learning"?) Either way, there are definitely authoritative figures or peer pressure involved in convincing the soul to return. However, I think the judges in the show are very immature and are a disrespectful mockery to how they would actually represent themselves in the afterlife. It's just a TV show and must contain light-hearted "comedy" in order to relate to the dumbed down masses.

I just finished watching the final season. I think they did a decent job with the last season.

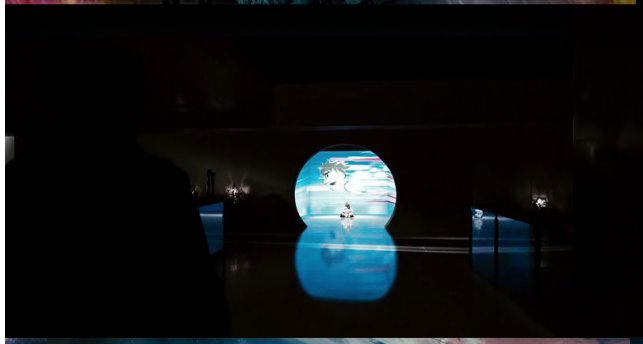
I'm not sure about the overall message. There is the surface message that humanity is ultimately good and learning as we go. They seem to push the idea that we return over and over until we perfect ourselves or reach the best version of ourselves. But they did touch on the idea that spirits would get bored in an eternal afterlife after experiencing everything they ever wanted to do. And that once that is accomplished and they have reached a sense of completion and peace, then they can dissolve into nothingness I was a bit surprised they gave Buddhism such a fair shake with the idea of the wave in the ocean crashing onto the shore and then returning back (to its source). They never mentioned the white light or the void so I guess that is a push. At least they did alert people to the idea that the afterlife could be a trick and that there could be a "best" place to go to.

They did sort of touch on the idea of designing your own afterlife, but too much emphasis placed on there being a judge and us being at the mercy of their decisions, I think. Interesting that they had an architect named Michael.... perhaps a nod to the archangel Michael? Architect and demiurge are very similar ideas.

I thought their depiction of the female judge was very juvenile and irreverent / disrespectful, if there is a judge....Gnostics did talk about a Virgin of Light or something like that who may judge, idr. All the stupid butt humor etc in the show was very tedious to me, but I guess ofr a 30 minute show is par for the course, ridiculous imo.

I noticed when Eleanor walked through the door (which was an archway), there was a white light or white void. Perhaps she dissolved into the white light, not sure. But I think the archway of freemasonry may represent the arcing back and forth between the two poles of duality.

They did mention that it is the mystery and not knowing what is going to happen that makes this a worthwhile venture. And I think that is what Alan Watts suggested when he said we like to be surprised.



I don't know that they ultimately solved the mystery, but they did acknowledge that no one really knows and I think that is correct.

Did you catch the ending song about the cosmic ride on a groovy wave of love and how it ended with "we're gonna find a wave (way?) back to the sun, back to The One"?

GAMER (2009)

Convicts and other willing participants agree to have their bodies completely controlled by a game player with user controls, but the originator of the game plans to enslave and trap all humans in the video game. One tandem is breaking free from the system though. The creator declares the character "dead" and then lures the game character with a virtual reality creation of his daughter sitting in the entrance of a moongate. It's a weird sequence in the movie. The character suddenly is underneath the stars looking up. He walks through a dark corridor or tunnel with a light at one end. He sees his daughter sitting in the light of the moongate and he runs to her only to hit a force field of what he finds out was just an illusion and a trap set for him. We see the moongate is at the top of some steps almost like a pyramid. The game creator takes him upstairs onto a barren rocky surface underneath the stars again. In light of the peviously mentioned moongate we can only assume this is meant to symbolize the moon. He takes him to a basketball court where a battle of will power ensues. The game ends (and movie too) as the hero enters a tunnel (with no visible light shown).

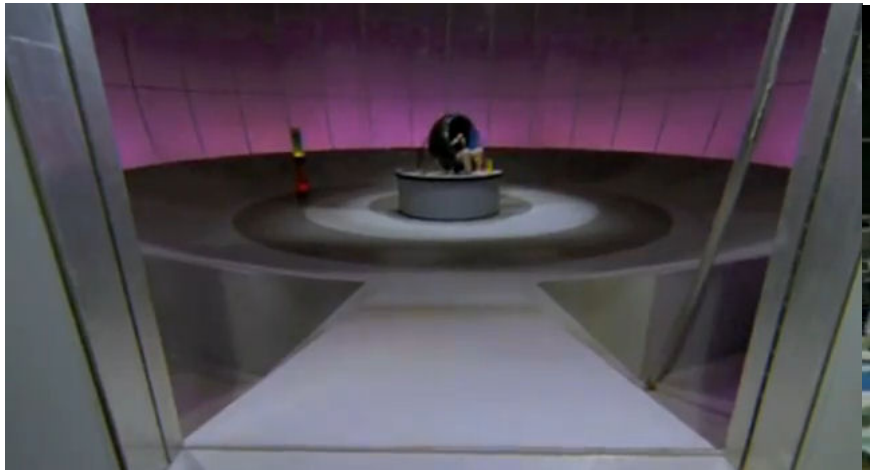
THE PRISONER -- OPENING SEQUENCE



In the opening theme of 1960s TV series The Prisoner by Everyman Pictures Patrick McGoohan drives down the road (life's road), goes through a tunnel and enters a tunnel with a light at the end to doors that say "Way out". He has only his right eye open as if he is giving his boss the evil eye as he resigns. His ID is then taken by an automated process and put inside a drawer or filing cabinet. He then leaves through the tunnel and packs his bags. He thinks he is going on vacation to paradise or heaven, but is knocked out by gas and held as a prisoner in the Village. They try to dehumanize him as they refuse to give him a name, only the number 6, which is the number of man. The operation which keeps him as prisoner appears to be the moon as they have shots of space and the constellations on one side and the earth continents on the other and they also show a rocky base underground with podlike container tubes that go down into a hole reminiscent of craters. If he tries to escape a balloon-looking deviced called Rover hunts him down.

 **

THE PRISONER -- FALLOUT (FINAL EPISODE)

The opening sequence always contains this dialogue:
Number Six: Where am I?
Number Two: In the Village.
Number Six: What do you want?
Number Two: Information.
Number Six: Whose side are you on?
Number Two: That would be telling. We want information… information… information.
Number Six: You won't get it.
Number Two: By hook or by crook, we will.
Number Six: Who are you?
Number Two: The new Number Two.
Number Six: Who is Number One?
Number Two: You are Number Six.
Number Six: I am not a number! I am a free man!
Number Two: [laughs]

The Prisoner repeatedly proclaims, "I will not make any deals with you. I've resigned. I will not be pushed, filed, stamped, indexed, briefed, debriefed, or numbered! My life is my own!"
Number Six: I will not make any deals with you. I've resigned. I will not be pushed, filed, stamped, indexed, briefed, debriefed, or numbered! My life is my own!

THE PRISONER -- FALLOUT (FINAL EPISODE)

#6 kills #2 and is taken to see #1
rocky underground cave, hollowed out base with what looks like mainframe computers running it all -- the moon?
juke boxes playing "all you need is love" symbols of duality.... mask half white and half black, see saw, militaristic show of force an assembly wearing white robes with hoods that look like ghosts make up the democracy with placards with words like Activists, Youngsters, Education, Identification, Anarchists, Entertainment, Recreation, applauding #2...judge on a pedestal

"matter of democratic crisis" to resolve the question of revolt...remind ourselves humanity is not humanized w/o force and that errant children must be brought to justice.
#6 survived the ultimate test so must no longer be referred to as #6 or a number of any kind, he has vindicated the right of the individual, to be individual

transfer of ultimate power
#6 is granted the honor of sitting a throne or chair of honor atop a stepped pyramid of stairs
there is a silo or tower with the #1 on it with a blinking AI eye
3 men who represent specific forms of revolt are in cylindrical tubes beneath the surface in what look like crater holes ...the judge keeps repeatedly telling one man to confess but the man is speaking nonsensical crazy jibberish like a lunatic representing youth rebeling against the accepted norm but revolt must be abolished for the common good of society
The young prisoner is pronounced guilty and charged with the serious breach of social etiquette, defiance of elementary laws which sustain the community, questioning the decisions of those voted to govern, unhealthy aspects of speech and refusal to respond to his number the second revolutionary being held prisoner is #2, an established successful secure member of the establishment turning opun the hand that feeds him, he is brought back to life and tells the blinking AI eye "whoever you are, whatever you are, you will hypnotize me no longer" the third revolutionary is #6 himself who has revolted, resisted, fought, held fast, maintained, destroyed resistance, overcome coercion, the right to be person someone or individual despite materialistic efforts he has survived intact and secure he is recognized as a man, a man of steel magnificently equipped to lead them or to go he is given the choice to become their new leader or to go anywhere..he is free to go anywere because he has been such an example, convinced them of their mistakes and is pure and knows the way to show them...his revolt is good and honest, the only individual ...they concede #6 is asked to make a statement and then taken to meet #1 ..he is taken to one of the cylinders, gets in and descends...walks down a corridor through a series of doors....

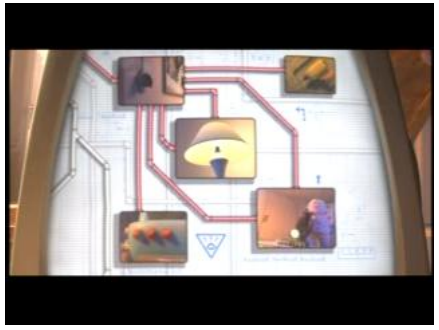
there is a table with a bunch of various sized earth models and globes... a being in a white hooded robe bearing the number 1 is holding a glass globe, he is wearing a mask that is white on one side and black on the other. #6 removes the mask and reveals the mask of an ape, he then removes the ape mask and sees his own face. the being laughs hysterically and runs away.
#6 manages to escape and return back to his normal life.

THE GAME (1997)

Michael Douglas plays a wealthy businessman caught up in the routine of life. His brother, played by Sean Penn, gives him a birthday gift for the man who has everything. It is a tailor-made "game" customized for the willing partcipant who willingly agrees to play the game. This "game" plunges him into a hell-like reality where he is thrown into survival mode and doesn't know what the truth is anymore of who he can trust. This company even has the power to control the daily news he watches. SPOILER ALERT: He is so distraught by the game that he jumps from the top of a skyscraper to commit suicide only to land on an inflated "X" that marks the spot or bull's eye. They had planned along for him to jump. As it turns out all of it was an elaborate prank or joke. Of course, you never "get" a joke until after the very end is told or played out. The funny thing is while all the hired actors (his so-called acquaintences and friends) celebrated afterwads, I never saw him crack a smile or laugh about it in the end. This movie hints that our very reality could in fact all just be an elaborate hoax or trick -- yes, a game.

THE NINTH GATE (1999) Artisan Entertainment



The Ninth Gate - A book purported to be written by Lucifer reveals the key to opening the nine gates to Hell. Ancient book dealer, Johnny Depp, unlocks its secrets and walks through the final gate being the golden dawn of the rising sun.

"To travel in silence
I alone have secured this route
To brave the arrows of misfortune
And fear neither noose nor fire.
To play the greatest of all games and win!
Forgoing no expense
Is to mock the fascistic will of fate
And gain at last the key that will unlock
The Ninth Gate

Let me fear neither noose nor fire nor poison.
Erase me from the Book of Life,
Inscribe me in the black Book of Death.
Bring me to
The Ninth Gate"

MONSTERS, INC. (2001) Disney Pixar

Monster's Inc. - "The future is bright at Monsters, Inc.! We're part of your life. We power your car. We warm your home. We light your city... Carefully matching every child to their ideal monster to produce a superior scream refined into clean dependable energy... Everytime your turn something on, Monster's Inc is there... We know the challenge. The window of innocence is shrinking. Human kids are becoming harder to scare... The best refineries and research into new energy techniques... We're Monster's Inc... 'We scare because we care!' " **

LITTLE NICKY (2000) Avery Pix, Happy Madison, New Line Cinema

Little Nicky - Little Nicky is the devil's son, aptly named for Old Nick is a euphemism for The Devil. "I got hit by this big light that was attached to a lot of metal!"

PLANET OF THE APES (2001) Twentieth Century Fox

Planet of the Apes - Astronauts head into an electrical storm. One crew member exclaims, "It's beautiful!" Another retorts, "So's the sun until you get close to it!"

TOMMY (1975) Robert Stigwood Organization (RSO)

Tommy - This clipis several minutes long and is the finale to the movie Tommy, with music written by The Who. Lead singer Roger Daltrey plays cult hero and savior, Tommy, who swims across water, scales a mountain top and raises the sun.

"Listening to you, I get the music. Gazing at you, I get the heat. Following you, I climb the mountains. I get excitement at your feet. Right behind you, I see the millions..."

THE PRISONER (1967-1968) Everyman Films

The Prisoner Moon Grid - In this 1960's TV programme, The Prisoner, by Everyman Pictures, a village where its inhabitants are being held prisoner is controlled from a lunar base. From here every move of the prisoner is monitored. On one side is the Earth; on the other side, space. Notice the "eye in the sky".

Truman Show Moon Grid - Jim Carrey plays Truman, a metaphor for the 'true man'. He is living in a false world, a hoax perpetrated from the "Lunar Room," a world within a world.

STAR WARS (1977) Lucasfilm, Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation

Star Wars Death Star - In the original Star Wars movie, a battle station for the Imperial troops was camouflaged as a moon. "Look at him. He's heading for that small moon."... "That's no moon! It's a space station!... It's too big to be a space station."... We're caught in a tractor beam and it's pulling us in." In Return of the Jedi, the design of the Death Star was improved upon, resulting in a half-shell.

AUSTIN POWERS: INTERNATIONAL MAN OF MYSTERY (1997) Capella International

Austin Powers - A pun is made on the Death Star in Star Wars. Dr. Evil plans to put a giant 'laser' on the moon and direct it at Earth.

THEY LIVE (1998) Alive Films

They Live! (2.71 Mb, may take a while to download.)
In this sci-fi classic, society is subversively controlled by a race of non-humans. Billboards and magazines subliminally read, "Obey. Submit." Money covertly displays, "This is your God." Notice a pair of sun glasses is what reveals this hidden truth.

Star Trek Voyager: Coda - Captain Janeway discusses her near death experience in which an alien being masqueraded as her father, attempting to lure her into its matrix of light where she would be a source of nourishment. This causes her to wonder if all near death experiences aren't really just alien encounters.

CONTACT (1997) Warner Bros.

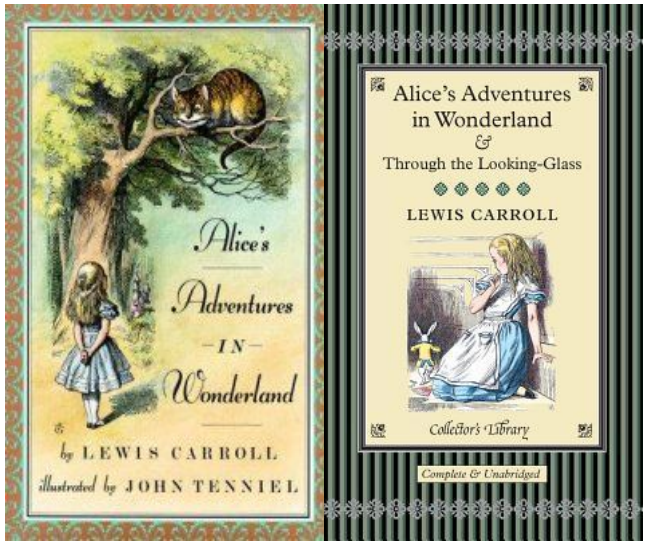
Contact - Astronaut Jodie Foster travels through worm holes to make contact with an extraterrestrial being who downloads her memories and poses as her father.

Alien (posing as her father): "You're an interesting species, an interesting mix. You're capable of such beautiful dreams and such horrible nightmares. You feel so lost, so cut off, so alone, only you're not. See, in all our searching, the only thing we've found that makes the emptiness bearable is each other. "

THE SKULLS (2000) Universal Pictures

The Skulls - A candidate is tapped by an Ivy League secret society, modeled after the real life Skull and Bones society at Yale, which has produced several U.S. Presidents. Notice the initiate "dies" in the sun to be reborn again.

THE WIZARD OF OZ (1939) MGM



The Wizard of Oz

The classic movie The Wizard of Oz was written by L. Frank Baum, a noted member of the Theosophical society and converted to gnosticism two years before writing the book. He included many Gnostic elements in the book. There are so many overtones. The light of the NDE is past the tunnel (represented by the tornado vortex), over the rainbow (all the colors seen in the tunnel) and in the emerald city (crystal city is seen in some NDEs). The characters and attributes of the Tin Man/Heart, Lion/Courage, Scarecrow/Brain etc. represent the redemption of those lacking in some essential quality, ultimately being restored and causing their life to be almost reborn. The Wizard, the frail old man behind the curtain running the show, is the Demiurge, seemingly all fierce but really nothing in essence: "pay no attention to that man behind the curtain." The ruby slippers represent the "inner spark" within all of us. When Glinda instructs Dorothy never to take off the ruby slippers, she is telling Dorothy never to lose her inner spark. Glinda the Good witch tells Dorothy, "You don't need to be helped any longer. You've always had the power". This is the key component of Gnosticism, that the soul or spirit is a divine spark and that we all have the Light Power within.

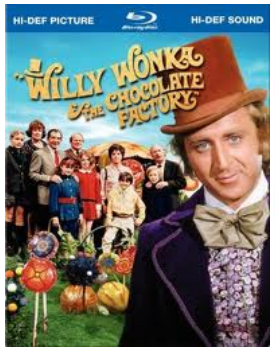
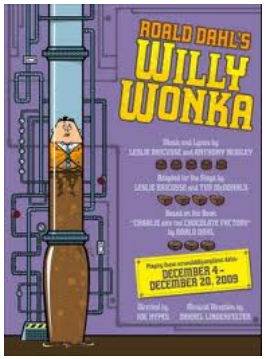
For more of my review and detailed analysis, click here: The Wizard of Oz **

ALICE IN WONDERLAND (1951) & THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS (2016)



Henry Liddell's (pseudonym Lewis Carroll) books Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (1865) and Through the Looking Glass (1871) are both classics. The allusion to a Wonderland or a land of wonder hints that the story is about imagination and wanting to have an adventure or entertaining experience. The stories seem to me to parallel Gnostic teachings of the fallen goddess of wisdom, Sophia. Both fell because of desire and curiosity as a result of wishing to create their own world. Alice follows a white rabbit down the rabbit hole. The rabbit is one of the trickster figures of Native American folklore. Alice's adventurous spirit desires to have an otherworldy experience. to Alice eventually gets so tired of all the chaos and nonsense that she uses reason or wisdom to wake up and return home.
The first book was purportedly written three years after the author went on a boat ride down the river Isis (Thames) with his three daughters, one named Alice, and a Reverend who told the story of a bored and drowsy Alice desiring to go on an adventure. The journey began at Folly Bridge and ended at Godstow (God's tow).

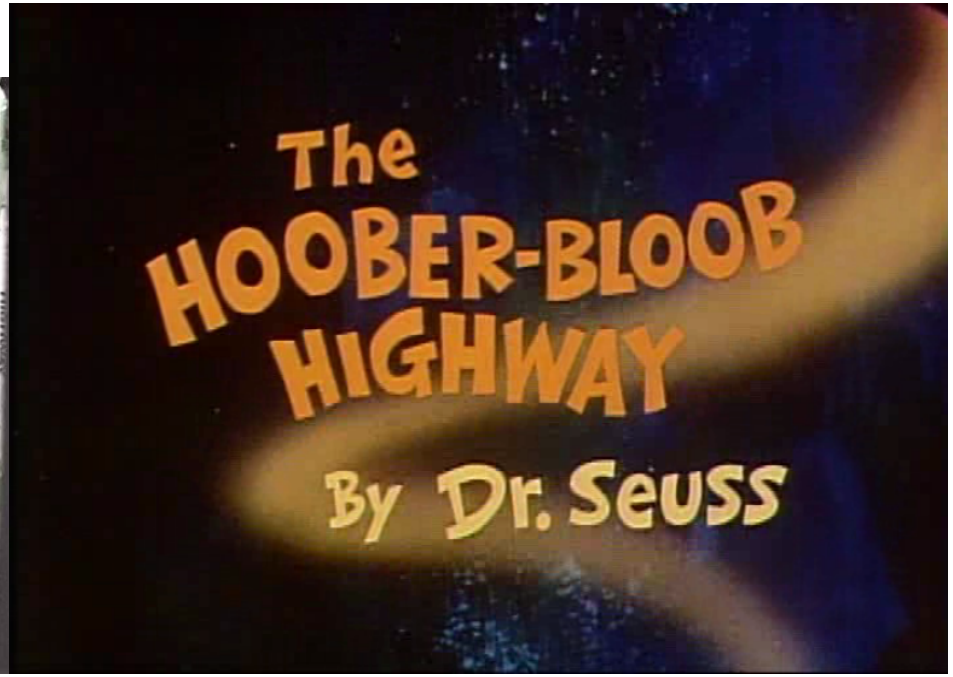


The story is a metaphor for how this nonsensical world or dimension we are living in is a dream, an illusion made of reflections and the opposite of what true reality is. It is a search to find one's self. Alice says, "Who in the world am I? Ah, that's the great puzzle." Her world is illogical: "If I had a world of my own, everything would be nonsense. Nothing would be what it is, because everything would be what it isn't. And contrary wise, what is, it wouldn't be. And what it wouldn't be, it would. You see?" "Contrariwise,' continued Tweedledee, 'if it was so, it might be; and if it were so, it would be; but as it isn't, it ain't. That's logic."

To read more of my detailed analysis, click here: Alice in Wonderland & Through the Looking Glass **

WILLY WONKA & THE CHOCOLATE FACTORY (1971)

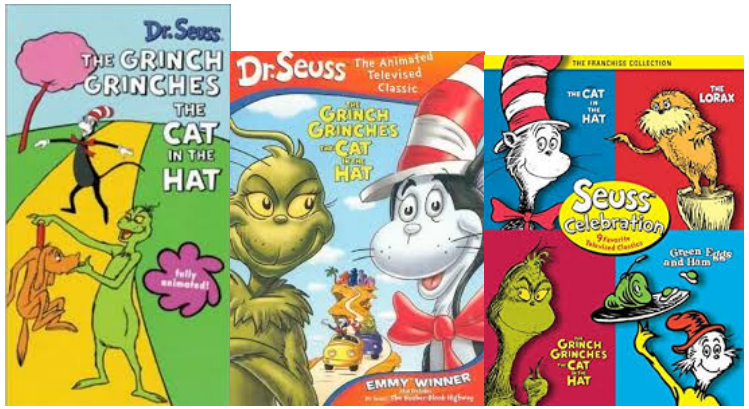
Another classic like The Wizard of Oz. Willy Wonka is a wizard who runs a food factory. He plays a pipe or flute. He strikes me as a Demiurge type figure.



Just like the Demiurge he operates a food factory and it is an addictive food (chocolate) that people can't keep away from. So he conducts a type of lottery with golden tickets where people can take a trip to paradise to see how it all works. The other kids that are there all have horrible traits and are characterized as bad eggs. One is sucked into a pipe that leads to the furnace.

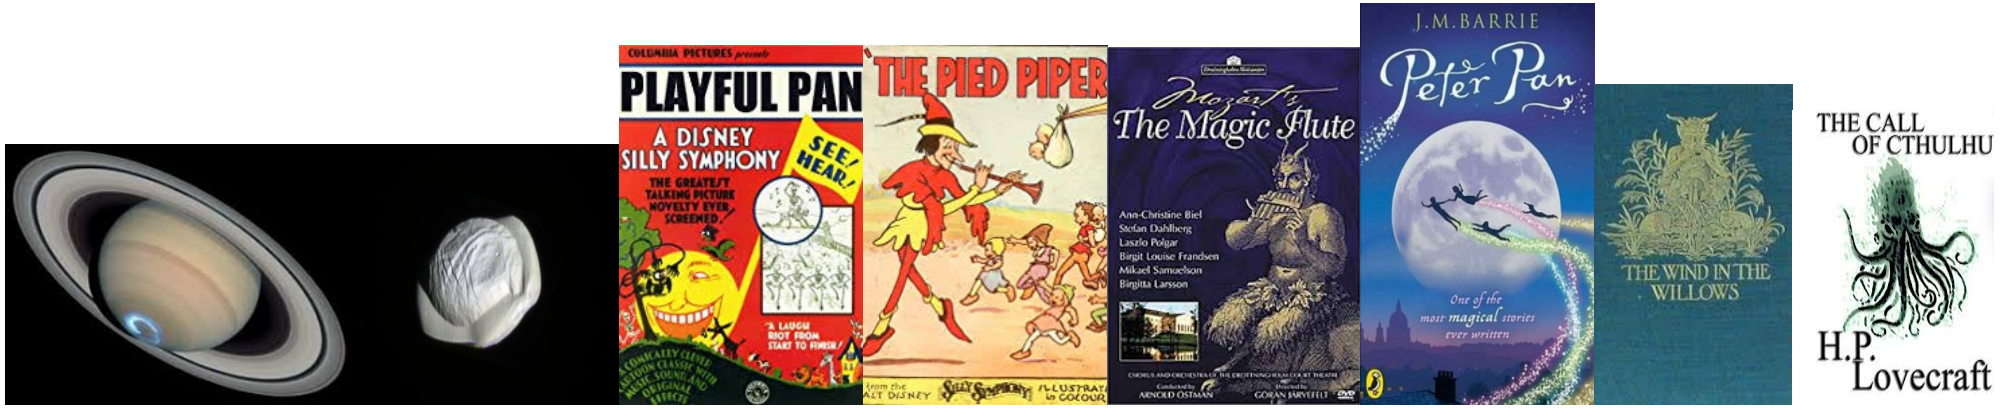
To read more of my review and detailed analysis, click here: Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory **

DR. SEUSS: THE HOOBER-BLOOB HIGHWAY (1975) [UNIVERSAL STUDIOS]



Whoa! I stumbled across an old Dr. Seuss cartoon from 1975 called The Hoober-Bloob Highway. It features a Demiurge character nicknamed 'The Dispatcher' who is in charge of dispatching souls to Earth. His job is to warn souls before choosing to come to Earth what to expect here. And he actually tells them they don't have to be a human, but can choose other forms. Amazing stuff. I sent the link to the cartoon to my friend who actually met the Demiurge in his NDE. He wrote back, "Interesting in every way... including the box... machine... He knew and hid it in a children's story." When I talked to him in person about it, he mentioned the white orb-shaped soul, the golden thread and all the Yes/No questions the soul was required to answer which equated to the enormously large series of IF-THEN-ELSE programming options he participated in

To read my entire review and detailed analysis, click here: Dr. Seuss The Hoober-Bloob Highway **



DR. SEUSS: THE GRINCH GRINCHES THE CAT IN THE HAT (1982)

Another amazing Dr. Seuss cartoon that reveals what's going on is The Grinch Grinches The Cat in the Hat, an Emmy award-winning cartoon from 1982. The Grinch has invented a machine that can manipulate light. He calls the digital contraption a Darkhouse (as opposed to a lighthouse) and he can beam darkness or any color of light for great distances. He wreaks havoc in everyones' lives with the wave interference patterns he creates. He explains in technobabble how it works and the YouTube translator actually mistakenly hears him say the phrases "Saturn of Lagos" and "regular ring". Also, notice the ringed-planet in the VHS jacket cover for The Hoober-Bloob Highway. He has also invented a machine that can manipulate sound waves which allows him to control what everyone hears and says.

Here is the link to my review and detailed analysis of the cartoon: Dr. Seuss' The Grinch Grinches the Cat in the Hat **

PETER PAN (1953) Disney Pictures

THE DEVILISH HORNED GOD PAN, THE SATYR FROM SATYRN & THE SATANIC OCCULT HIDDEN MEANING BEHIND DISNEY'S PETER PAN: Playful Pan, Pan, Hook, Neverland, The Pied Piper plus The Lost Boys, The Wind in the Willows, The Piper At the Gates of Dawn, Pan's Labyrinth, Legend, Lawnmower Man, The Call of Cthulhu, Mozart's The Magic Flute, & Michael Jackson's Neverland

Pan is the satyr from Satyrn in this satire called life. As the pied piper, he has the whole earth dancing to the tune of his pipe. Pan is a mysterious, artificial-looking moon of Saturn, the Lord of the Rings. Could it be that the rings of Saturn are broadcasting a signal that interferes with us?

Before we can begin to truly understand the meaning behind Disney's 1953 movie Peter Pan, we must first look at a couple of Disney's earliest short animations before any of the Disney movies were made. One of the earliest shorts was from 1930 called Playful Pan and it featured the forest god of nature, the satyr Pan, as a pied piper luring sparks of fire.

A few years later in 1933 Disney made another short animation, The Pied Piper, where a pied piper lures children (children of god, sparks of light?) through a portal into a giant rock.

The story of Peter Pan is quite possibly the single, most important metaphor for understanding our relationship to nature and what lies after death. Peter Pan symbolizes Pan, the horned god of nature that pagans and wiccans worship as the Lord (along with the goddess or Lady). Pan has been associated with the Devil.

Peter Pan is the pied piper who lures children to Neverland with the siren windsong of nature (and the magic pixie dust of DMT) to join his (frequency) band of lost boys. Pan is a playful trickster. Peter Pan means "father all" and was called the "Great White Father" in the book, and the white light is indeed all colored frequencies combined. Pan elicits fear and panic at the prospect of ego death. We should never be afraid, but perhaps there is good reason to be at least concerned as there may be a big difference between the loss of the shadow self or ego, and losing one's Spirit to merge with the All.

Peter Pan is one of the world's most beloved stories. "To die will be an awfully big adventure." has emerged as probably its most well-known line. The story has spun off many Disney remakes as well as other takes on the tale. In the original play written by J.M.Barrie, Peter kidnapped boys and killed off some from time to time. Peter is frequently referred to as 'Pan' throughout and resembles the greek god of the forest and chaos, Pan. He is a fun-loving spirit that lives in nature, is clad in green leaves, has pointed ears and plays the panpipes.

Disney made Pan into a hero and savior. It's the story of a boy who never wants to grow up and with the help of fairy and magic pixie dust Peter is able to fly and takes children, called Lost Boys, to another world called Neverland where their dreams can become true.

Hook became the first official release in almost fifty years. Peter (played by Robin Williams) sees the light of Tinker Bell the fairy, becomes scared, calls her a firefly from hell and thinks he has died exclaiming, "I'm dying. Heading towards the white light." Later, he instructs the Lost Boys who are fighting off pirates to "show them the white light we're made of, boys". In the mini-series Neverland, Peter is a thief in Hook's gang. They are taken to Neverland where an indian girl named Aaya knows all the secrets about the magic pixie dust mineral found in the tree spirit colony that enables one to fly. Aaya and the magic pixie dust mineral are almost certainly a reference to Ayahuasca, named Aya by its partakers, that takes the experiencer to a dimension of hyperspace where elves, fairies and other entities are encountered.

In Pan, the Fairy Kingdom is a fairy hive in a crystal city. In the popular Once Upon a Time television series Pan is the villain the Pied Piper (as I suggested about a year before the show). He seeks the heart of the truest believer so that he might convince him to sacrifice it to him.

In the movie The Pied Piper, the Piper with his beautiful flute playing lures all the rats out of the town to drown in the river. Then he leads all the children of the townspeople out of town with his music.

In The Wind in the Willows, the main character is lured by the haunting melody of the dream-song or wind-song of a giant spirit, Pan, that is called the piper at the gates of dawn.

In the movie The Lost Boys, the lost boys are a clan of vampires who seduce the protagonist into becoming one of them.

In Pan's Labyrinth, a giant faun needs the blood of an innocent to be sacrificed while a portal is open during the full moon.

In Legend, the Lord of Darkness is a horned being who resides in the Great Tree. He says in the beginning there was a Void and the perfect void was corrupted by light. The protagonist vows to "bring light to darkness".

The film The Lawnmower Man is based on a screenplay named Cyber God. The main character and title of the movie were based on the one in Stephen King's short story. In King's short story the owner of the company that employs the lawnmower man is named Pan. In the movie the lawnmower man becomes addicted to playing a virtual reality game.

The Doctor Who television series aired a 4-part story named The Moonbase where a race of cybermen have a base on the dark side of the moon. A cyberman named 'The Piper' comes to take men when they're dying, fit them with metal headpieces and alter or "convert" them to control their minds to generate a vortex (tunnel). The phantom Piper carries a pipe which he uses as a weapon.

In H.P. Lovecraft's The Call of Cthulhu lore as it's known in the Mythos, "the Outer Gods are ruled by Azathoth, the 'Blind Idiot God', who holds court at the center of infinity. A group of Outer Gods dance rhythmically around Azathoth, in cadence to the piping of a demonic flute".

Mozart's The Magic Flute was the Eyes Wide Shut of its time. Mozart was a Master Mason and at the age of 35 died three months after the show's premiere. He incorportated some of the freemasonic rituals into the opera including blindfolded initiates and a secret brotherhood of Isis and Osiris.

That is a brief overview of each film. For further details read the extensive article. Pan loves the story telling and being a part of the story and the thrill of the wonderful adventures. He never wants to grow up and yearns for immortality. It is oft repeated in every story that everything is a game to Peter in which he frequently "switches sides just for the fun of it". In the article I detail how the sweet alluring song the piper Pan (who abducts the Lost Boys and takes them to another dimension called Neverland where dreams become reality) plays is really the story of the afterlife as seen in near death experiences and the tunnel or pipe that leads to the white light where there is a crystal city and a connected hive mind mentality.

The pied Piper Pan pipes pips/peeps per his pipe to pop them for pep.

Click here to read the article: THE DEVILISH HORNED GOAT GOD PAN & THE SATANIC OCCULT HIDDEN MEANING BEHIND WALT DISNEY'S PETER PAN: Pan, Hook, Neverland, Once Upon A Time, The Pied Piper, plus The Lost Boys, The Wind in the Willow, Pan's Labyrinth, Legend, Lawnmower Man, The Piper At the Gates of Dawn, The Call of Cthulhu, Mozart's The Magic Flute & Michael Jackson's Neverland

THE LION KING (1994) Walt Disney Pictures

The Lion King - The first few minutes of the movie include an offering to the sun.

POLTERGEIST (1982) Metro-Goldman-Meyer (MGM)

Run to the light, Carol Anne. Run as fast as you can! Mommy is in the light! Mommy is waiting for you in the light!!!!!!!

Carol Anne: Mommy, where are you? I can't find you. I can't. I'm afraid of the Light, mommy. I'm afraid of the Light.
Dr. Lesh: Tell her to stay away from the light.
Diane: Maybe it's a way out --
Dr. Lesh: It is -- it is a way out, but not for her. Tell her, quickly.
Diane: Stay away from the light. The light is dangerous. Don't go near it. Don't even look at the light.
Carol Anne: Mommy, there's somebody here ... Mommy, somebody's coming. Mommy, help me, please! Get away from me. Leave me alone!

THE RECRUIT (2003) Touchstone Pictures, Spyglass Entertainment

The Recruit - CIA trainer, Al Pacino, emphasizes, "Nothing is what it seems!" Note the special training facility at Langley is called 'The Farm' and the CIA logo is a star compass.

SHREK (2001) DreamWorks

Shrek - Lovable ogre Shrek has been wounded by an arrow and his gregarious donkey companion, fretting death, pleads, "Don't die, Shrek. And if you see a long tunnel, stay away from the light!"

There's Something About Mary - An attempt to resuscitate a swooned dog is made. "Stay away from the light!" Yes, there is some 'thing' about Mary, i.e. an entity around Isis, the moon.

Chronicles of Riddick - "In this verse (Helion), humans have been fractured, divided by all their many races, creeds and mistaken faiths. Our purpose is to correct that mistake because there is another verse, another universe that he has found, where anyone can live anew, where you can live free of pain -- a perfect new place called 'Underverse'..."

STARGATE

Stargate - "A traveler from distance stars escaped from a dying world looking for a way to extend his own life. Plotting, decaying and weak, he couldn't prevent his own demise. Apparently his whole species was becoming extinct. So he traveled, searched, the galaxies looking for a way to cheat death. He came to a world rich with life where he encountered a primitive race -- humans, a species which with all his powers and knowledge, he could maintain indefiniety. He realized within a human body he had a chance for a new life. Now he aparently found a young boy. As the frightened voyagers ran, night became day. Curious and without fear, he walked towards the light. Ra took him and possessed his body like some kind of a parasite looking for a host. And inhabiting this human form, he appointed himself ruler. He used the stargate to bring thousands of workers here to this planet as workers for the mines. This mineral is clearly the building block of all his technology. With this he can sustain eternal life..."

ATLANTIS

Atlantis - Power Source - "The crystal is alive somehow. It's their deity. It's their power source. They're a part of it. It's a part of them..."

Atlantis - "The crystal thrives on the collective emotions of all who came before us. In return it provides power, longevity, protection. As it grew, it developed a consciousness of its own... but its power grew too great to control. It overwhelmed us and led to our destruction... If she remains bonded to the crystal, she could be lost to it forever."

STAR TREK ORIGINAL SERIES PILOT -- THE CAGE a.k.a. THE MENAGERIE **

The Star Trek The Original Series 2-part episode, The Menagerie, was reworked fom the show's actual 1965 pilot epsiode named The Cage. The Menagerie was aired in November of 1966. A group of small telepathic aliens very reminiscent of the little grey aliens that dominate today's commercial market, hold Captain Pike a prisoner. The Star trek series, of course, went on to be a huge success.

In a rare interview on the paranormal radio show Coast to Coast A.M. Art Bell interviewed Leonard Nimoy who played the alien character Spock. Leonard Nimoy told him, "When we were making the Star Trek series the first season -- middle of the first season -- some people came to me and they said, 'You may not know it, but you have been chosen as a kind of a vessel to carry informatin to this civilization to help prepare this society for the coming of another civilization for alien arrival and your character is a character designed to educate this public that there is nothing to fear, that it is possible to interact with other species', and I said, 'Ok, it's ok with me if that's the case.' "

These inorganic alien beings depicted in the pilot show are actually mentioned in the ancient Nag Hammadi gnostic texts and are referred to as Archons which are mind parasites. Yes, the Archons "are cons". Researcher John Lash has written extensively about them.

PIKE: Can you hear me? My name is Christopher Pike, commander of the space vehicle Enterprise from a stellar group at the other end of this galaxy. Our intentions are peaceful. Can you understand me?
(the aliens communicate with their minds, not voices)
TALOSIAN: It appears, Magistrate, that the intelligence of the specimen is shockingly limited.
MAGISTRATE: This is no surprise since his vessel was baited here so easily with a simulated message. As you can read in its thoughts, it is only now beginning to suspect that the survivors and encampment were a simple illusion we placed in their minds.
PIKE: You're not speaking, yet I hear you.
MAGISTRATE: You will note the confusion as it reads our thought transmissions.
PIKE: All right, then, telepathy. You can read my mind. I can read yours. Now, unless you want my ship to consider capturing me an unfriendly act
MAGISTRATE: You now see the primitive fear/threat reaction. The specimen is about to boast of his strength, the weaponry of his vessel, and so on. Next, frustrated into a need to display physical prowess, the creature will throw himself against the transparency.
PIKE: If you were in here, wouldn't you test the strength of these walls, too? There's a way out of any cage, and I'll find it.
MAGISTRATE: Despite its frustration, the creature appears more adaptable than our specimens from other planets. We can soon begin the experiment.

[Briefing room]

SPOCK: The inhabitants of this planet must live deep underground, probably manufacture food and other needs down there. Our tests indicate the planet surface, without considerably more vegetation or some animals, simply too barren to support life.
NUMBER ONE: So we just thought we saw survivors there.
SPOCK: Exactly. An illusion placed in our minds by this planet's inhabitants.
BOYCE: It was a perfect illusion. They had us seeing just what we wanted to see, human beings who'd survived with dignity and bravery, everything entirely logical, right down to the building of the camp, the tattered clothing, everything. Now let's be sure we understand the danger of this. The inhabitants of this planet can read our minds, they can create illusions out of a person's own thoughts, memories, and experiences, even out of a person's own desires. Illusions just as real and solid as this table top and just as impossible to ignore.

BOYCE: Maybe it was. It's what I tried to explain in the briefing room. Their power of illusion is so great, we can't be sure of anything we do, anything we see.

VINA: They can't actually make you do anything you don't want to do.
PIKE: But they try to trick me with their illusions.
VINA: And, er, they can punish you when you're not co-operative. You'll find out about that.
PIKE: Did they ever live on the surface of this planet? Why did they go underground?
VINA: War, thousands of centuries ago.
PIKE: That's why it's so barren up there?
VINA; The planet's only now becoming able to support life again.
PIKE: So the Talosians who came underground found life limited here and they concentrated on developing their mental power.
VINA: But they found it's a trap, like a narcotic, because when dreams become more important than reality, you give up travel, building, creating. You even forget how to repair the machines left behind by your ancestors. You just sit, living and reliving other lives left behind in the thought record.
PIKE: Or sit probing minds of zoo specimens like me.
VINA: You're better than a theatre to them. They create the illusion for you, they watch you react, feel your emotions. They have a whole collection of specimens, descendants of life brought back long ago from all over this part of the galaxy.

PIKE: You'll find my thoughts more interesting, thoughts so primitive you can't understand. Emotions so (stricken by pain)
KEEPER: Wrong thinking is punishable. Right thinking will be as quickly rewarded. You will find it an effective combination. (leaves)

KIRK: You keep talking about life, Mister Spock. A chance for life. How? As a prisoner, caged, a zoo specimen, living the illusions that amuse his keepers?

STAR TREK THE ORIGINAL SERIES Episode 23: "RETURN OF THE ARCHONS" **

[Street]

(One of the robed figures reaches Sulu and points his hollow stave at him. Sulu stiffens, then relaxes with a smile on his face. The transporter takes him away.)

[Transporter room]

SULU: They're wonderful. They're the sweetest, friendliest people in the universe. It's paradise, my friend. Paradise.

[Street]

(A man walks slowly past them, hand on his heart and smile on his face. He bows politely and carries on his way.)

SPOCK: Odd. The expression on that man's face. The mindlessness. Vacant contentment.

LAWGIVER: You attacked the Body. You have heard the Word and disobeyed. You will be absorbed.

LAWGIVER: It is clear that you simply did not understand. I will re-phrase. You are ordered to accompany us to the absorption chambers.

[Chamber]

(Reger leads them into a building made of massive stones. He goes over to a corner and unwraps a flat panel, which gives off light.)

KIRK: A lighting panel.

KIRK: Those staffs. Hollow tubes. Antennae for some sort of broadcast power. What is it, Mister Spock?

SPOCK: Strong power generations, Captain. Near here, but radiating in all directions.

REGER: I don't know, Captain. Some of us escape the directives. Not many, but a few. It was that way when the first Archons came.

KIRK: The Archons. Tell me about them.

REGER: They had invaded the Body, but they resisted the will of Landru. You see, Landru had pulled them down from the skies.

(The image of a tall, elegant man draped in robes appears against a wall.)

LANDRU: I am Landru.

SPOCK: Projection, Captain. Unreal.

LANDRU: You will be absorbed. Your individuality will merge into the unity of the good, and in your submergence into the common being of the Body, you will find contentment and fulfillment. You will experience the absolute good.

LAWGIVER: Come.

(Kirk leaves with the Lawgivers.)

SPOCK: Doctor McCoy, what will happen to him?

MCCOY: He goes to joy, peace, and tranquillity. He goes to meet Landru. Happiness is to all of us, blessed by Landru.

[Absorption Chamber]

(Kirk is released and greets Spock with an inane smile on his face.)

KIRK: Joy to you, friend. Peace and contentment will fill you. You will know the peace of Landru.

(Kirk leaves, and Spock is fastened to the wall for his treatment. The lights waver as the Lawgivers leave Marplon to his work.)

MARPLON: Have no fear, friend. The effect is harmless. My name is Marplon. I was too late to save your first two friends. They have been absorbed. Beware of them.

[Prison]

SPOCK: Captain.

KIRK: Peace and tranquility to you. (in a whisper) Are you all right?

SPOCK: This is a soulless society, Captain. It has no spirit, no spark. All is indeed peace and tranquillity. The peace of the factory, the tranquillity of the machine. All parts working in unison.

[Hall of Audiences]

KIRK: Landru! Landru. We are the Archons. We are the Archons. We've come to speak. We are the Archons. We want to talk to you.

(The projection appears on the far wall.)

LANDRU: All who saw you, all who know of your presence here must be excised. The memory of the Body will be cleansed.

KIRK: Listen to me.

SPOCK: Useless, Captain. A projection.

KIRK: Yes, Mister Spock. Let's have a look at the projector.

(They both use their phasers to blast a hole in the wall. As expected, there are nice clean big computer boxes in a room beyond. Lights are flashing and blinking, blinking and flashing.)

KIRK: Of course. It had to be. Landru.

SPOCK: A machine. This whole society is a machine's concept of perfection. Peace, harmony.

KIRK: But no soul.

So,,, the Archons are given orders by a computer / machine with a lighting panel and humans are taken to absorption chambers and come back in a blissful trance (just like NDErs) repeating mantra like phrases like "peace and tranquility" and act as one (the Body)... it's also interesting to note they treat Kirk and crew as if THEY are a virus that is invading the body (when in reality the Archons are like parasites that invade the mind).

STAR TREK TOS Episode: "DAY OF THE DOVE"

Here is an episode summary:

"The entity appeared as a small, circular pattern of multiple swirling lights in different colors, although it became red in hue and emitted a high-pitched wail when "feeding". The entity fed on the emotions of hatred, anger, and primitive predatory instincts exhibited by humanoids in close proximity to it. If these emotions were not present, the entity was capable of creating conditions to spawn such feelings.

The entity could control the instantaneous transmutation of matter from one form to another, turning everyday objects into weapons and sealing bulkheads on a whim. It could pass through solid objects at will, teleport from one location to the next, and influence the thoughts of others. It could heal a humanoid's mortal wounds, and could even alter a person's memories so that they remembered fictional family members and events that never existed. The entity appeared unable to communicate in any fashion understandable to a humanoid. Although its motives and nature were not wholly known, it lacked the same ethical standards of most humanoids and largely acted in a malignant fashion. Its only weakness appeared to be exposure to emotions of humor, good nature, and friendship; it was particularly susceptible to laughter."

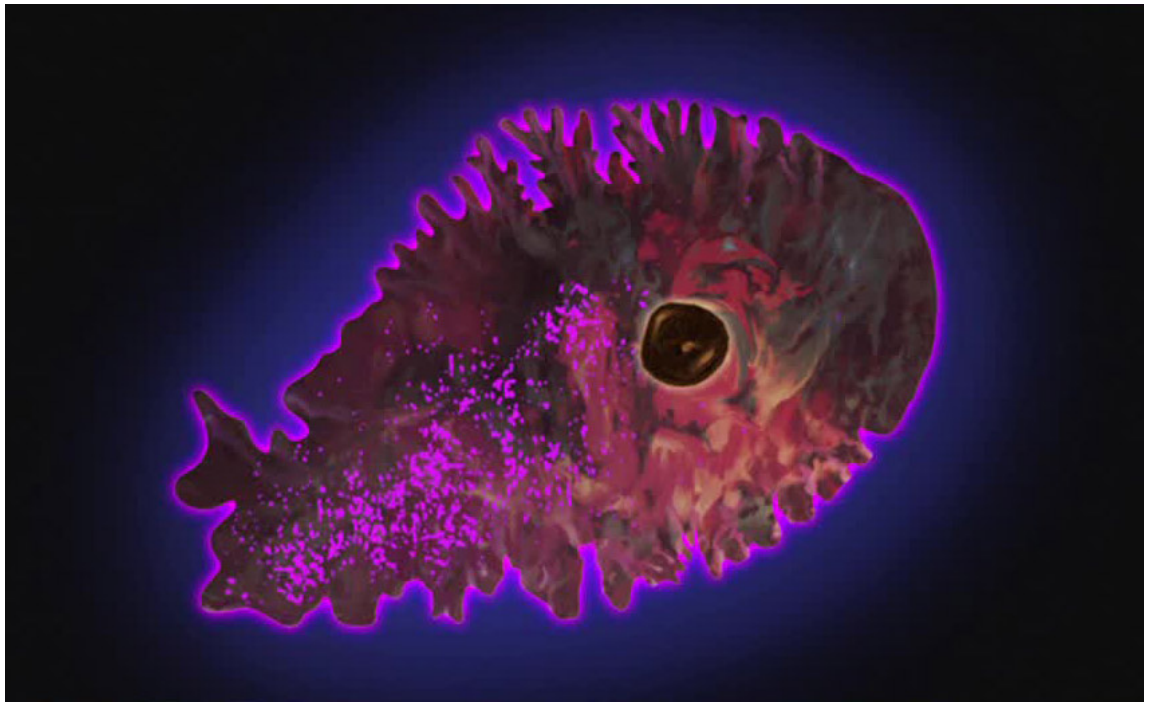
Some exceprts from the script:

[a weird swirl of light hangs in the air a little way away.]

KIRK: Scotty. What's happening to us? We've been trained to think in other terms than war. We've been trained to fight its causes, if necessary. Then why are we behaving like a group of savages? Look at me. Look at me. Two forces aboard this ship, each of them equally armed. Has a war been staged for us, complete with weapons and ideology and patriotic drum beating? Even, Spock, even race hatred? SPOCK: Recent events would seem to be directed toward a magnification of the basic hostilities between humans and Klingons. Apparently, it is by design that we fight. We seem to be pawns. KIRK: But what's the game? And whose? And what are the rules?

SPOCK: It would appear that the entity wants us alive. KIRK: Why? So we can fight, and fight, and keep coming back for more like some bloody coliseum? What's next, the roar of crowds?

SPOCK: Fascinating. During Lieutenant Johnson's emotional outburst, his expression of hatred and lust for vengeance, the alien's life energy level increased. When the Lieutenant became unconscious, the alien lost energy. KIRK: It subsists on the emotions of others. SPOCK: This one appears to be strengthened by mental irradiations of hostility, violent intentions. KIRK: It exists on the hate of others. SPOCK: To put it simply. And it has acted as a catalyst, creating this situation in order to satisfy that need. It has brought together opposing forces, provided crude instruments in an effort to promote the most violent mode of conflict. KIRK: And kept numbers and resources balanced, so that it can maintain a constant state of violence. It's got to have a vulnerable area. We've got to get rid of it. SPOCK: Then all hostile attitudes on board must be eliminated. The fighting must end and soon. KIRK: Or we're a doomed ship, travelling forever between galaxies, filled with eternal bloodlust, eternal warfare.



(The weird light is glowing blood red.)

KIRK: Look! Look, Kang. For the rest of our lives. A thousand lifetimes. Senseless violence, fighting, while an alien has total control over us. (Kirk throws away his sword.) KIRK: All right. All right. In the heart. In the head. I won't stay dead. Next time I'll do the same to you. I'll kill you. And it goes on, the good old game of war, pawn against pawn! Stopping the bad guys. While somewhere, something sits back and laughs and starts it all over again.

SPOCK: The cessation of violence appears to have weakened it, Captain. I suggest that good spirits might make an effective weapon. KIRK: Get off my ship. You're a dead duck here. You're powerless. We know about you, and we don't want to play. Maybe there are others like you around. Maybe you've caused a lot of suffering, a lot of history, but that's all over. We'll be on guard now, ready for you. So ship out! Come on! Haul it! MCCOY: Yeah, out already. KANG: Out! We need no urging to hate humans. But for the present, only a fool fights in a burning house. Out! (To the sound of laughter, the weird light turns to white and leaves the Enterprise.)

Ray Bradberry, creator of the Star Trek original series, is rumored to have been a 33rd degree freemason. What this episode describes is precisely what the Gnostics wrote and I believe is happening right now on Earth. There are entities which the Gnostics called Archons that can manipulaste our minds and emotions in order ro feed off of our energy, except I think they are more like shadow beings like shown in the movie "Spirited Away" than the swirling light that was depicted.

STAR TREK TOS EPISODE "THE IMMUNITY SYNDROME"

According to IMDB, "The Enterprise is sent to investigate the disruption of the Gamma VII-A solar system and the destruction of the U.S.S. Intrepid, staffed solely by Vulcans. When they arrive they find a large dark mass floating in space that is draining energy from everything around it, including the Enterprise. Drawn into the mass, they find a huge amoeba-like creature and Kirk must decide which of his two friends, McCoy or Spock, to send into it aboard a shuttle craft on a mission of no return. "

Ecerpts from the transcript: (In the middle of the viewscreen is a black blob.)
KIRK: What is that?
CHEKOV: Perhaps an interstellar dust cloud.
SPOCK: Not very likely, Ensign.
KIRK: No. You'd be able to see stars through a dust cloud. Looks like a hole in space. Readings, Mister Spock.
SPOCK: Still not able to analyse, Captain. Sensors are feeding data to the computers now. Whatever this dark zone is, it lies directly in line with the course I calculate for the Intrepid and the Gamma Seven-A system.

SPOCK: We still have no specifics, but we seem to have entered a zone of energy which is incompatible with our living and mechanical processes. As we draw closer to the source, it grows stronger and we grow weaker.

SPOCK: It's logical to assume that something within this zone absorbs all forms of energy whether mechanically or biologically produced. Whatever it is, it would seem to be the same thing which drew all the energy out of an entire solar system and the Intrepid.
KIRK: The same thing, not the zone itself?
SPOCK: I would say not, Captain. The analysis of the zone indicates it is a negative energy field, however illogical that may sound, but it is not the source of the power drain.

SPOCK: Readings coming in now, Captain. Length, approximately eleven thousand miles. Width varying from two thousand to three thousand miles. Outer layer studded with space debris and waste. Interior consists of protoplasm, varying from a firmer gelatinous layer to a semi-fluid central mass. Condition, living.

(There is an image of a single-celled organism on a screen.)
MCCOY: That is an amoeba.
KIRK: Yes, I remember my basic biology, Doctor. You mean to tell me that that thing is a giant single-celled animal?
MCCOY: Yes, for lack of a better term. It's a very simple form of life. In fact it's a much simpler form of life than what you're looking at now. But that thing can apparently perform all the functions that qualify it as a living organism. It can reproduce, it can breathe, it can eat, although I don't know what.
SPOCK: Energy itself, perhaps, drained from us. I would speculate that this unknown life form is invading our galaxy like a virus.

CHEKOV: According to Spock's telemetry information, there are over forty chromosomes in the nucleus that are ready to come together, ready to reproduce.
KIRK: If the energy of that organism only doubles, we're dead, and everything within a light year will be defenceless.
MCCOY: Well, all I know is, that soon there'll be two, four, eight, and more. The entire anti-life matter that that thing puts out could someday encompass the entire galaxy.
KIRK: Spock understood when he transmitted the co-ordinates of the chromosomes. We must destroy that organism.
SCOTT: Captain, the pull from that organism is increasing, and the power drain from our shields is getting critical.

KIRK: This thing, this cell, this virus. It's eleven thousand miles long, and it's one cell. When it grows into millions, we'll be the virus invading its body.
MCCOY: Now, isn't that a thought? Here we are, antibodies of our own galaxy, attacking an invading germ. It would be ironic indeed if that were our sole destiny, wouldn't it?
KIRK: Antibodies. Antibodies. (goes to desk monitor) Bridge.

SCOTT: We can't use the power to destroy it.
KIRK: Anti-power.
MCCOY: What?
KIRK: This thing has a negative energy charge. Everything seems to work in reverse. We'll use anti-matter.
SCOTT: Aye, it couldn't swallow that.
KIRK: Mister Chekov, prepare a probe. Scotty, we'll need a magnetic bottle for the charge. How soon?
SCOTT: It's on its way, sir.

CHEKOV: The organism is destroyed, sir. The explosion must have ruptured the membrane and thrown us clear.

STAR TREK EPISODE "WOLF IN THE FOLD"

SPOCK: Humans and humanoids make up only a small percentage of the life forms we know of. There are entities possessed of extremely long life spans, virtually immortal.
KIRK: We know that someone or something killed three women. If it's impossible for it to be human, it has to be something else. Something driven to kill.
MCCOY: Sybo said it feeds on death.
SPOCK: In the strict scientific sense, Doctor, we all feed on death. Even vegetarians.
MCCOY: Yes, but she said more than that. Not just death, but fear. She said it also feeds on fear.
SPOCK: Which would tend to support the proposition that the murderer was not human. Deriving sustenance from emotion is not unknown in the galaxy, and fear is among the strongest and most violent of the emotions.
HENGIST: Surely, Prefect, this has gone far enough. Someone, some man has killed three women. We have the prime suspect in our hands. Are we going to let him go and start chasing ghosts?
KIRK: No, Mister Hengist, not ghosts. Possibly not human, but not ghosts. Mister Spock, check out the possibilities.
SPOCK: Computer, digest log recordings for past five solar minutes. Correlate hypotheses. Compare with life forms register. Question. Could such an entity within discussed limits exist in this galaxy?
COMPUTER: The Drella of Alpha Carinae Five derives nourishment from the emotion of love. There is sufficient precedent for existence of creature, nature unknown, which could exist on emotion of fear.
SPOCK: Computer, extrapolate most likely composition of such entity.
SPOCK: Working. To meet with specified requirements, entity would exist without form in conventional sense. Most probable mass of energy of highly cohesive electromagnetic field.
KIRK: Computer, could the described entity assume physical form?
COMPUTER: Affirmative. Precedent, mellitus, cloud creature of Alpha Majoris One.
HENGIST: Fairy tales. Ghosts and goblins.
KIRK: No, I've seen the mellitus myself. In its natural state, it's gaseous. When it's at rest, it's solid. Mister Spock, let's assume the existence of this creature.
SPOCK: I point out that Jack the Ripper slew at will in the heart of the most populous city of old Earth and was never identified.
KIRK: Doesn't seem likely, does it?
SPOCK: I suggest the possibility of a hypnotic screen, which blinds all but the victim to the presence of the killer.
JARIS: Is that possible?
MCCOY: Extremely possible There are many such examples that exist in nature.

STAR TREK VOYAGER Episode: " THE KILLING GAME "

KARR: Sit down and play the game. In this setting, we have no ships. We are an ancient race of soldiers intent upon conquering this world. Play the game

TURANJ: I've become impatient. We penetrated this vessel, overcame their defences, and in the moment of the kill, you forced us to stop. Now we play these incessant games. It's time we took our trophies and moved on.

KARR: Your lust for the kill has blinded you, like many young hunters. If you took the time to study your prey, to understand its behaviour, you might learn something.

KARR: The Hunt will always continue, but in a new way. I intend to transform this ship into a vast simulation, populated with a varied and endless supply of prey.

JANEWAY: Oh, I understand what you're trying to do, but then why have you been torturing us? Why have you thrown my crew into one brutal simulation after another?
KARR: I've been studying your behaviour, as I do with all my prey. But your holodecks allowed me to go further, to explore your culture, your history. I must admit, I've learned a great deal.

TURANJ: I am tired of this simulation... And these holograms are becoming annoying as well...
KAPITAN: I don't know how much longer I can stand being trapped in here.

STAR TREK: THE BORG COLLECTIVE & FIRST CONTACT (1996) Paramount Pictures

In Star Trek: The Next Generation and Star Trek Voyager episodes, the crew of the Enterprise encountered a fierce predator that was known as the Borg. The Borg was a collective that operated with a hive mind. Their mission was to assimilate any and all life forms that could contribute unique qualities in order to make the Collective more perfect. This very closely parallels what near death experiencers claim with the exception that NDErs feel an immense Love for the Being of Light. With the Borg, they were neither deceptive nor Light, but their goal was to assimilate souls into their Collective. Many near death experiencers do report that the Light is a collective soul comprised of millions of souls. Often times the Borg would ignore a lesser life form if they did not have anything worth offering to the Collective. Likewise, near death experiencers are sent back to Earth because they have more lessons to learn or a mission yet to complete. The idea of a collective unconscious was posited by physchologist Carl JJung. Peter Russell also talked about a Global Brain. Hive minds can be seen in nature with bee and ant colonies. Also, school of fish and flocks of birds sometimes move in formation. In many way, individuals in society are encouraged to act in groups. Indeed, we have broken the world into many nations and states. There are enormous religious denominations and political affiliations. Recently, there has been a growing movement towards implementing a one world order. Transhumanists often speak of the coming Singularity. The Borg, similar to ants and bees, had a ruling queen and worker drones. Their message: "WE ARE THE BORG. LOWER YOUR SHIELDS AND SURRENDER YOUR SHIPS. WE WILL ADD YOUR BIOLOGICAL AND TECHNOLOGICAL DISTINCTIVENESS TO OUR OWN. YOUR CULTURE WILL ADAPT TO SERVICE US. RESISTANCE IS FUTILE. "

The Borg Queen from Star Trek First Contact movie. The inorganic Borg cyborgs assimilate other species into their collective hive consciousness. "Resistance is futile."

THE HOST (2013)

The Host is a movie written by Stephnie Meyer who wrote The Twilight saga. The screenplay was written and directed by Andrew Niccol who also wrote the revealing movie Truman Show. Humans are hosts to entities that look like jellyfish. From a summary:

The human race has been taken over by small parasitic aliens called "Souls". The Souls travel to distant planets inserting themselves individually into a host body of that planet's dominant species. They are able to access the host's memories, and occupied hosts are identifiable by silver rings that form in the hosts' eyes.

SEEKER REED: We have put you through enough. Your host appears too resistant. You are going to be re-implanted into a more compliant host.

I know you must have seen a lot, but you ain't seen nothing like this.

WANDERER: Nothing. Same way the magicians do it. Mirrors.

Then I started thinking, when they put one of you in our heads, do we still exist? Trapped in there? If our memories are still alive, are we? You gotta believe some people wouldn't go down without a fight.

INVASION OF THE BODY SNATCHERS (1978)

This 1978 movie popularized the phrase "pod people". It starred Donald Sutherland, Leonard Nimoy and Jeff Goldblum. Spores from outer space came to Earth and infiltrated the human population through flowers...the flowers were white and looked like crysanthemums.

"... some weird alien organism, a mutation of some kind. Why should they take the form of people--of us? I don't know. Whatever it is whatever intelligence or instinct it is that can govern the forming of human flesh and blood out of thin air is, well, it's fantastically powerful beyond any comprehension, malignant. All that body in your cellar needed was a mind, and it was... And it was taking mine while I was asleep."

"Seeds drifting through space for years took root in a farmer's field. From the seeds came pods which had the power to reproduce themselves in the exact likeness of any form of life. So that's how it began... out of the sky. Your new bodies are growing in there. They're taking you over cell for cell, atom for atom. There's no pain. Suddenly, while you're asleep they'll absorb your minds, your memories and you're reborn into an untroubled world. Where everyone's the same? Exactly. What a world. We're not the last humans left. They'll destroy you! Tomorrow, you won't want them to. Tomorrow, you'll be one of us. I love Becky. Tomorrow, will I feel the same? There's no need for love. No emotion? Then you have no feelings, only the instinct to survive."

The movie featured a sort of a hive mind zombie-like infection where a clone of the human was first made in a pod. The poster above shows a vorticular light in space:

STARGATE SG-1 and STARGATE ATLANTIS

The Ori /'?ra?/[1] are fictional characters in the science fiction television series, Stargate SG-1. They are a group of "ascended" beings who use their advanced technology and knowledge of the universe to attempt to trick non-ascended humans into worshipping them as gods. They first appeared in the ninth season of Stargate SG-1, replacing the Goa'uld as the show's primary antagonists. While the Goa'uld relied on stolen technology from other civilizations to pose as gods, the Ori also have paranormal abilities in addition to very advanced technology. As Ascended beings, they live on a higher plane of existence with great power and knowledge and are as close to being "gods" as any non-deific being can be.

According to Orlin, ascended beings can be empowered by massive numbers of humans worshipping them. The Ori fabricated an entire religion, Origin, based on the false promise of ascension in order to take power from their followers. The Ancients refrain from interfering in the lower planes of existence because manipulating and aligning lower life forms could result in exactly this type of corruption.[11] According to the Ancient Myrddin, the Ori had the best intentions when they began.[17] Even after the Ori were destroyed, their followers and Priors continued acting in their name to oppress thousands of people since, for the most part, they were ignorant to the demise of their "Gods".

The Ori impose a religion called Origin on sentient beings, promising a guide towards enlightenment that is also known in the series as Ascension.[8] The faith comes with a holy book called The Book of Origin, and the Priors spread the Word of Origin. The Book of Origin contains tales of how the followers of the Ori returned to the path to enlightenment, and thus achieved Ascension, although some skeptics consider these merely "fables meant to fill a soul bereft of hope with purpose".[11] Several lines from the Book of Origin, or otherwise repeated mantras, are heard on the show. These include variations of "Hallowed are the Ori". The central icon of this religion is fire, something that gives off light and warmth.[2] The fact that on Earth this icon has some evil or Satanic associations in many modern religions prompted Daniel to posit that the Ancients had influenced this negative connotation in order to identify the threat the Ori pose. Among the populations of natives in the Ori home galaxy are groups of heretics who believe they are being suppressed, and seek to discover forbidden historical knowledge to show others that the Ori, despite their power, are not gods.

Some interesting Stargate Atlantis episodes:
1.01 "Rising Parts 1 And 2"
When SG-1 discovers what they believe to be the remnants of the Lost City of the Ancients — the originators of the Stargates — Stargate Command launches an investigation. A new team of explorers, headed by civilian Dr. Elizabeth Weir, travels to the distant Pegasus Galaxy, where they discover an advanced but deserted city on the ocean floor, a group of nomadic humans, and a deadly enemy that feeds on humans as an energy source!

1.03 "Hide And Seek"
During a game of hide-and-seek, one of the Athosian children inadvertently releases a dark entity. And when Atlantis goes through a series of technical malfunctions, the team realizes that the shadowy creature is actually feeding off of the power supply!

1.06 "Childhood's End"
The team discovers a primitive, forest-dwelling tribe that has been untouched by the Wraith for centuries. Unaware of the electromagnetic field that protects them from the Wraith's technology, the tribe believes that ritual suicide at the age of twenty-five keeps the Wraith at bay.

1.12 "The Defiant One"
Investigating an Ancient weapons platform in space, Sheppard and McKay discover the wreckage of a downed Wraith ship on a nearby planet. On the planet's surface, they learn that it is a supply ship, transporting humans for food. What they don't know is that a single Wraith has survived the crash — and has stayed alive by feeding off the cargo!

1.13 "Hot Zone"
When members of the team show signs of an unusual infection, it is discovered to be caused by a nanite virus, which induces hallucinations and then death due to brain hemorrhage. Can the deadly technology be stopped before it cuts down the entire city?

2.12 "Epiphany"
Sheppard is pulled through a mysterious portal and trapped in a world inhabited by Ancients who are terrorized by a large shadowy monster.

2.16 "The Long Goodbye"
Sheppard and Weir become a threat to Atlantis when their minds are taken over by hostile entities.

3.06 "The Real World"
Dr. Weir has a rude awakening in a psychiatric hospital on Earth, where she is told that her memories of Atlantis are delusions.

3.15 "The Game"
McKay and Sheppard participate in a SIMS-like game simulation which turns out to be very real and with very destructive effects.

4.04 "Doppelganger"
Sheppard encounters a psychopathic crystalline entity that takes on his likeness in his team's nightmares.

4.10 "This Mortal Coil Part 1"
A rogue group of Replicators creates duplicates of Sheppard's team and Dr. Elizabeth Weir in the hope of discovering how to ascend like their creators, the Ancients.

5.05 "Ghost In The Machine"
Surviving human form Replicators wish to achieve ascension by uploading their consciousnesses into subspace to live indefinitely as fields of energy, but Atlantis is put into danger when their experiment yields some surprising results.

TRANSFORMERS 3: DARK OF THE MOON

An alien presence is hidden in the craters on the back/dark side of the moon.

MUNE: GUARDIAN OF THE MOON (2014)

IMDB Storyline: "When a faun named Mune becomes the Guardian of the Moon, little did he had unprepared experience with the Moon and an accident that could put both the Moon and the Sun in danger, including a corrupt titan named Necross who wants the Sun for himself and placing the balance of night and day in great peril. Now with the help of a wax-child named Glim and the warrior, Sohone who also became the Sun Guardian, they go out on an exciting journey to get the Sun back and restore the Moon to their rightful place in the sky."

The original Guardian of the Sun is a blind lizard who passes his power on to a young, strong, male with a lion's face and long, white hair down his back who says he has the "perfect tan". This perfectly mirrors the Gnostic description of the Demiurge. My friend who met the Demiurge during his near death experience described him as being strong with long, white hair and a bronze complexion. The Gnostic texts described the Demiurge as having a lion's face and the body of a serpent, and called him the "blind god".

In Mune: Guardian of the Moon, the evil moon god wannabe who has eyes of fire and lightning wants to steal the sun and he lets loose serpents of light. They said the moon was created in the "world of dreams" and brought here through a "trap door". Perhaps the world of dreams is an allusion to the astral plane and the trap door a reference to the tunnel.

The dark lord of the Underworld, Necross, has stolen the sun so they dive down into a blue hole and are underwater... an anglerfish named Phosphos says he used to be Guardian of the Moon. Phosphoros is a Greek name meaning "Light-Bringer" and was the morning star, Venus, and corresponds to the Latin, Lucifer. An anglerfish is a real fish that feeds on its prey by using a light for bait.

In the world of dreams they experience nightmares which take the form of shadow being monsters.

The Lord of the Underworld originally was perhaps symbolic of the Egyptian God of the Underworld, Osiris, the Green Man, but as lord of the underworld he resembles something more like a black sun.

THE LEGO MOVIE (2014)

The LEGO Movie is full of Gnostic symbolism.

The wizard at the beginning named Vitruvius with the long white hair, bronze skin and hypnotic, lightning eyes, a robe, and a staff with a transparent blue crystal and later a green one in the shape of the Moon Stones. he is a dead ringer for the Demiurge (false god), at least the one my friend encountered in his NDE. He is also blind just as the Demiurge is in gnostic texts. He tells Emmet he is The Special and that with the help of the strange piece he found he will save the world.

Emmet a.k.a. The Special is a normal average blank guy (not a master builder) but is really everyone. At first the Special just follows all the rules and obeys instructions to fit in, listens to pop music, watches dumb tv shows and thinks "everything is awesome" when you're part of a team, when you're living your dream but even thinks a cup of coffee that is $37 is awesome. The Special seems to fall down into Hell, touches a strange piece which is the Piece of Resistance, is caught and interrogated by Bad Cop. They lie and tell him he will live so he won't try to escape, but they plan on taking him to the Melting Chamber to melt him. He is rescued by master builder Lucy aka Wyldstyle who he is enamored with. Later the wizard and Lucy enter his mind to prove he can be a master builder. His mind is empty which enables him to have a vision of the Man Upstairs.

Lord Business (the Man Upstairs), the President of Octan whose office is a giant tower wants everyone to follow the rules or they'll get put to sleep. He has his "eye" on them all the time. He has red horns and captures all the fallen master builders, puts them in pods hooked up to a battery, tortures them and harnesses their ideas in a think tank. Collectively, they come up with all the instructions that run the world.

All the people of the universe were once free to mingle and travel and build, but Lord Business was confused by Chaos and put walls between all the worlds, became obsessed with order and perfection, and stole the kragle (krazy glue) which has a tentacle arm that causes everyone to get stuck together and prevents them from building things with their ideas. It's a machine to control the universe.

Lord Business uses a good-cop, bad cop routine and has a robot army (AI).

The demiurge looking guy takes them through the sun, they ascend an upward arcing rainbow (which is similar to the nde tunnel) to Cloud Cuckoo Land (many NDErs speak of clouds, mis, .etc.)....he knocks on the door and they go into a bright white light....Cloud Cuckoo Land is said to have no negativity, no unhappiness just like the astral light in NDES... the fellow master builders are gathered in the Dog (which is 'god' spelled backwards).... Bad Cop comes after them and they escape by going underwater.

He talks of building an army of master builders.

The uncaptured master builders such as Lucy, Batman, The Special etc are able to manifest reality instantly with their ideas and visions. Special has an idea to build a spaceship to infiltrate the tower which has a laser gate. They build one with a hyper drive.

A cubed machine blocks the light of the sun.

Even though the prophecy was made up by Vitruvius and was a placebo, it worked because Emmet believed. Once he believes he can see everything and becomes a master builder. He travels through a magic portal and saves the world. He learns that the key to true building is to believe in yourself and to follow your own set of instructions inside your head.

BABYLON 5: RIVER OF SOULS (1998)

Babylon 5: River of Souls was a 1998 sci-fi TV movie was about soul hunters that collect the souls of interesting souls at death to "save" them from extinction. The souls from the planet were just about to evolve to the next level where they no longer needed physical bodies but would be pure energy, except the soul hunters captured them and "preserved" them for 10,000 years. A billion souls the soul hunters had accumulated were put in a glass sphere that looked like a sun. It contained the souls' collective memories, thoughts and personalities, and they were stored in what was called the Great Hall. In NDE lore that is called the akashic records or the hall of records. Maybe when the soul is stolen or merges with the light its memories are taken and put in the akashic records, which may or may not be equivalent to the astral sun.

Here is an excerpt of dialogue from the movie: "That's a Soul Hunter. The story is they travel all over the place, capturing the souls of important people right at the moment of death... "

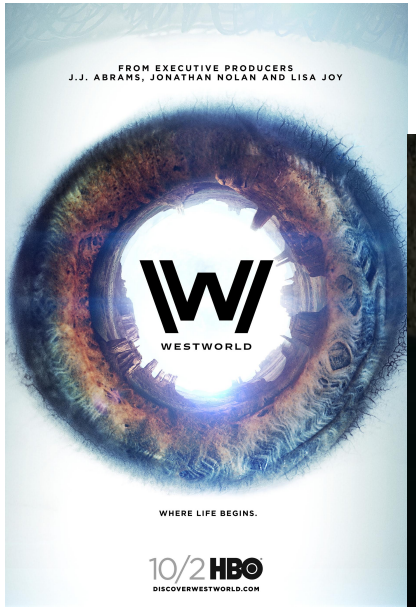
Soul Hunter: " For we are drawn to death, to the moment of passage for the purpose of defeating death. We capture those rare souls. The poets and philosophers, the artists, the leaders. We collect them all. We are drawn by the smell of death. The passing of the physical form is like a beacon to us... and we decided that we would save them all."

" An entire world of souls claimed at the instant of death. If these minds, souls, whatever... They've been imprisoned for 1000 years... I think you've just described hell as well as anything I've ever heard. "

Soul Hunter: "You don't understand because you are trapped in a prison of your own flesh. The flesh has desires. The flesh has needs. But the soul is pure. The soul needs only to continue, to be."

"We know from the Vorlons and others that when a race evolves beyond a certain point they no longer need a physical body. They evolve past that point and become beings of pure energy. Your people were drawn to Ralga because you felt the imminent passing of their physical bodies. But they weren't dying. They weren't about to die. They were about to leave behind their physical bodies and evolve to the next level. It should've been their greatest moment, the pinnacle in the evolution of any race. And just as it happened, just as they became transcendent, you took them. You took them and you stuck them inside a piece of glass for 10,000 years. You made a mistake. Those are living souls in there, cut off in their prime. Trapped, when they should've been exploring the universe. Half of them have gone mad and the ones who've held on can't control them anymore."

In the television series Babylon 5, the main character, the human John Sheridan, is under the care of the Minbari who are ruled by a "Grey Council". The nine members of the council stand in circle, their backs to the darkness and their face to the light, so as to stand in "the Grey".



"I am Grey. I stand between the candle and the star."
"We are Grey. We stand between the darkness and the light."

– Grey Council greeting

The Greys are at war with the Shadow race. There is also a Praying Mantis crime lord in the first season.

In last episode "Sleeping in Light", John is waiting for death on his station/ship The White Star which is filled with light and he is told by Lorien, a First One, he was never forgotten by The First Ones, a race more ancient than the Minbari, and he is taken out of the galaxy into the void (I think).

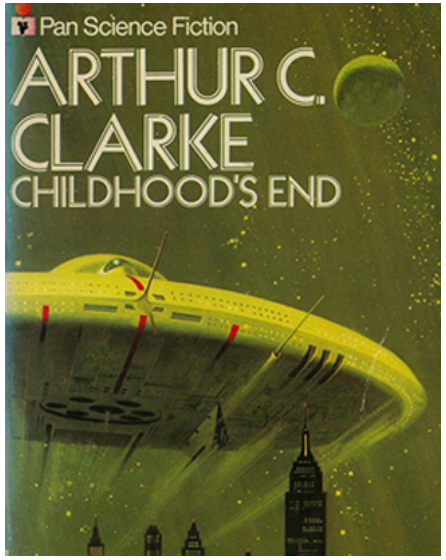
WESTWORLD

There are so many Gnostic overtones and awakening within a constructed reality. The robots are humans in the scenario, meaning they are kept repeating roles and are wiped each time they die. In Westworld every host's life is scripted but some hosts were programmed to remember and break out or expose the truth.

Some quotes from episodes:

#4 "I think there may be something wrong with this world. Something hiding underneath. Either that or... or there's something wrong with me. I may be losing my mind. There's something I'd like you to try. It's a game. A secret. It's called... the Maze. What kind of game is it? It's a very special kind of game, Dolores. The goal is to find the center of it. If you can do that, then maybe you can be free. I think... I think I want to be free."

#6



"The maze is an old native myth. Regale me, Theodore. The maze itself is the sum of a man's life... Choices he makes, dreams he hangs on to. And there at the center, there's a legendary man who had been killed over and over again countless times, but always clawed his way back to life. The man returned for the last time and vanquished all his oppressors in a tireless fury. He built a house. Around that house he built a maze so complicated, only he could navigate through it."

#8

"And that was when the maze revealed itself to me. The maze. What's that damn pattern have to do with this? Everything. In Ford's game, even if I go to the outer edges, you can't kill me. You can't even leave a lasting mark. But there's a deeper game here, Teddy. Arnold's game. And that game... cuts deep."

#9
"I died with my eyes open, saw the masters who pull our strings.
Our lives, our memories, our deaths are games to them.
But I've been to hell and I know their tricks."

CHILDHOOD'S END

WARNING: Contains spoilers!

Part 1: The Overlords

40 cities around the world have UFO vessels hovering over them.

Still have no idea what they want or where they have come from, as they have made no replies to any attempts to contact them. My name is Karellen. I'm the supervisor for Earth. There's no need to be afraid. My name is Karellen. I'm the supervisor for Earth. I know that this is frightening and bewildering. Please try to understand that we've come a long, long way to help you. Annabel? We've come to help mankind. War, famine, inequality... these will be things of the past. Suffering will end. Injustice will end. No tears, only happiness and safety. Your national and local governments will still have jurisdiction. You will run your water and power. Your stores will be open. Your markets will trade. Your lives will continue as before minus one thing. Injustice. This won't happen overnight, but the process is already beginning. It will herald the arrival of the golden age of man.

Arab residents are mingling with Jewish residents. They didn't actually resurrect the dead. They appear to us as beloved deceased relatives.

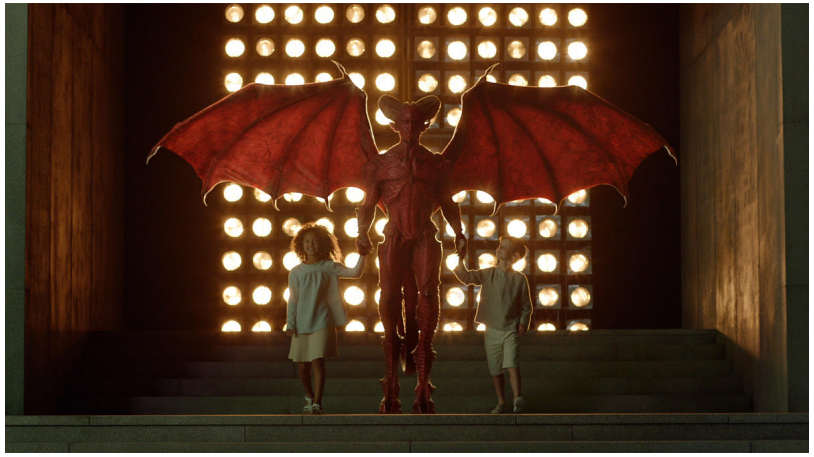
Then they blocked out the sun. Ho, ho, ho, ho, hold on. They blocked out the sun? How? Localized eclipse? I don't know. They're aliens.

My Uncle Joey kept pigs. Irish Grazers. He used to hire a local choirboy to sing to them as they were loaded onto the truck, and these pigs, they loved it. They were so peaceful all the way to the slaughterhouse.

The pod thing, it was over the mountains over that way. Alien abduction. We thought it was gonna crash right into their house. The Overlords talk about peace, harmony, justice. Then they smash a fella's house in and carry him away.

I talked with him... with Karellen. What--what did he say? What--what did he look like? I don't know. I didn't-- I didn't see him face-to-face... Uh, I was taken up to meet with him... uh, Karellen, and I was not permitted to see him... physically, uh, although I could tell that, in speaking to him, he seemed to be compassionate.

On my daddy's farm, the animals have all the food they want. I feed the pigs red apples. [giggles] And daddy gives them medicine so they never get sick, and they're happy when daddy and the other men take them away. I don't know where they go, but I know they're really happy. Paid for by the Freedom League.



Look it's not just our science that's been hobbled. They control our justice system...They are watching us all the time, and they are dealing in swift moral absolutes.

Evil can disguise itself as truth. Whatever faith or belief you have, know that we're in this battle together, all of us. We can never give up the fight. No matter how mighty the Overlords may seem, we should never give up. Remember, there is an ultimate truth in this universe. I will never, ever stop believing that.

Who knows why they chose 15 years, but things had got a whole lot better. I got a place at MIT, graduated, and got a job in astrophysics. Mom got clean and looked younger than ever before. In fact, everyone did. "Youth of Utopia," they called it. The Earth was being reborn, so to speak, and right now was waiting to meet their guardian angels.

They showed us how to make heaven on Earth.

It's a beautiful, balmy evening as the sun starts to set on the 200,000 excited spectators. Delegates from the World Federation are taking to the main podium. It's fair to say that everybody's breath is truly bated as we wait to meet our guardian angels.... People are on their feet. We haven't seen an Overlord ship this close since they first arrived over a decade and a half ago. Now, it does appear to be docking with the arrival ramp. ? ? And it's docked. The ship is docked. ? ? This is Karellen. Let the children come forward. The child greeters that Karellen asked for are now entering the arrival ramp...Karellen was right to hide himself from us. Still, I think, uh... I think it may be too soon.

**

Part 2: The Deceivers

We have renewable, clean energy and enough food to feed the planet, all of our material needs satisfied. Death is still a fact of life, but free from disease, stress, and all the things that turned us grey. We live longer, healthier lives. The birth rate is soaring. We have a world that we are proud to bring children into. For those who cling to the old ways, there's always New Athens...

Karellen didn't come down to see if we were flossing regularly. Well, he said that the Earth has a new destiny. What does that mean? I have--I have no idea what's waiting for us.

Could it have something to do with the animals we've been collecting for the Overlords?... But sending live animals into space? What does that teach us about them? Because there's one species they haven't collected: us, homo sapiens.

When the Overlords came, they raised all these exciting questions about the cosmos, but they refused to answer any of them. It's not just about me. They've killed scientific inquiry.

They can't hurt you. It's in your-- Minds are funny things. They can change the way we see the world. [baby crying echoing] They can fool us.

Why do they look like demons? Like our exact idea of devils? You know, every time you ask me a question, you already have an answer. That's not true. They look like our idea of devils because they've been here before. We've been waiting for them. We knew they were coming, so when they brought about this change, it scared us on some deep level because we could never stop it. That would imply some kind of crazy psychic connect-- Yes, yes, psychic connection. People have been writing about this for centuries. I mean, ancient mystics talked about an energy, a relationship between all living things and the stars themselves. Perhaps we've always known the Overlords were coming. Okay, so because of some crackpot ancient philosophy we knew they were coming to do good? So then why turn them into the personification of evil? Hmm.

Tom told me they take him somewhere, to a place of fire and smoke--

---

The Overlords are deceiving us. I don't know why, but they are.

"The golden dawn comes shining from the eyes of God." Oh. [beeping] Hey. Hey. Want to hear what I found in this text "Corpus Hermeticum?"

We're from the World Federation.

So... you have solved many of the problems your science was chasing. Disease, climate change, and as a consequence, much of your research is now redundant. Nevertheless, you should be proud of what you have accomplished. Bravo. Now, I know there's been some concern as to why I acquired so many animals for the Overlords. They are to be shipped to Karellen's home world as part of a great menagerie, a zoo. [crowd murmuring]

I admire the work you have done, but your scientific curiosity has led you dangerously close to forces that you could never have controlled. They would have destroyed you. They saved us from ourselves. Why are we being kept in the dark? You now have peace, and the way has been prepared for your successors. I'd like to thank everybody who worked on the World Federation Observation Orbital.

You will find a new voice inside you... who I can now speak with. You need to trust us.... You know who you really are and what you're joined with, so tell me and tell yourself. You are singular and myriad, one and many. Reveal yourself to me. Reveal yourself to me... Listen to my voice. [Amy breathing unevenly] You're trying to be a child, but you cannot be a child knowing yourself as you do... Accept who you are.

Whenever you summon God, you want comfort... Yet the very idea of him makes you confused and afraid. He is a stick you feel you must lean on... But the stick burns.

Whatever it promised you, it is a lie. You lied to them! You lied to us all! They deserve the truth. You made your prophet sick... They want to destroy us. How could you do this? I sold you to the world. The day is coming, Ricky, when your world will change forever. It will be harder on those who have children. I cannot stop that, we are not masters but merely the servants, but I could spare you the pain of being parents. No, how dare you? It is not your right to decide!... Oh, my friend... I just wanted to spare you... the pain of what is coming... All the world's religions cannot be right, Peretta. You know that. [crying] Your faith is beautiful as poetry is beautiful... but there is no place for it now. [crying] You deceived us! No, you have deceived yourself.

Part 3: The Children

The final stage has begun. I want to tell you what will happen to the world. My friend, we are not the authors of this plan. We are facilitators, midwives if you will, at the birth of a new evolution of man.

Some of these kids can lift a cup. Some of them can move a car. I met a three-year-old girl who had a knack for speaking to her parents in their dreams, in three languages. I mean, their metabolic rates have accelerated, and there's undoubtedly increased electrical activity in the cerebrum. Bottom line: these are regular children with cognitive, telekinetic, and psychic ability, and they're all linked. All across the world, they are somehow... linked to one another. It all goes back to the first one, the Greggson baby, Jennifer. She's the key.

Jennifer is all, divisible and indivisible in one mind that calls. She calls to us. We know you.... You are the end of the beginning... It really is beautiful. Of course, the majority prefer Utopia, whatever "Utopia" really means. Can I ask you something? The Overlords, they really leave you alone? They respect our decision not to live in their perfect world, but do you know what happens here?

Utopia is dull, right? I mean, to the creative mind, peace is stupefying. Look, we're not radicals here. We're just trying to preserve our cultural heritage. We're just trying to achieve something for ourselves. I believe, I hope, I pray you're going to change here, all of you.

You have to understand that Jennifer is the conduit of a force that is affecting every kid in the world. If you start testing her, you'll be playing with fire. Playing with fire is how we learned to master it.

Jennifer, hi. Remember me? I want you to look into the mirror. You see into everything. I want you to see into yourself. What do you see when you look into your own eyes? Can you tell me what you see? Do you see our future? Do you see the power that gave you this gift? Please, Jennifer, just look. Can you tell me what this means? Jennifer, what do you see? I see all. I am all.

It's time. People of Earth, I speak to you again, one last time. You have enjoyed decades of peace and prosperity, a golden age for man. But the Sun sets on even the most glorious of days, and it must now start to slowly sink into the night for you. Do not condemn us, for we were tasked by a higher mind to oversee your evolution to a higher level of consciousness. It is your destiny and the destiny of many worlds. You have grown accustomed to our presence, but we can be your guardians no more. Thomas, sit down. Your children are no longer yours. In time, they will cease to be human. No more children will be born on Earth. No more children will be born on Earth. No more children will be born on Earth, ever again. For the adults, your future is yours to live as you see please for however many days are left. My hope is that humanity will go to its rest in peace.

We're amazing. We're an amazing race, so let's carry on being amazing. Let's defy the Overlords and get our kids back. It's not gonna end. We do not end, but we can't give up hope. There was hope, the hope we had since the beginning of mankind, the only hope there ever was, the children, Jake. The children. And they're gone now. Maybe when we die, we'll get a chance to be with them again. Jerry, you built something here. All this is in defiance of them, right? This is writing the book ourselves, so don't let them decide the ending... You know, I was thinking. We're energy, right? Human beings are energy. When our bodies are gone, that energy has to go somewhere.

Everything that is happen on Earth was planned long ago. Is natural, is the cosmos, is the Overmind. Overmind? Overmind of all Creation. Are you talking about God? We have talked to the Overmind for 100,000 year. We go where it sends. We change worlds. We change Earth. The Overmind, can you show it to me? You really want this? I want to know everything. It connects to the Overmind. Step in. You're the Overmind. A faint reflection of it. I am all, divisible and indivisible. I am the collective consciousness of this universe. So we are God? No, the children are God, and they have left you, as children must, and you must let them go, as parents must. Only the children can become a part of the whole. It's an evolution. Into one mind. So we're finished? We cease to exist? We-- Oh, my God.

Consciousness, Milo, is a community of minds. Each exists in the other's thoughts. Rachel exists in your consciousness as if she had never left. You still love her, you still feel her, so what has changed? She's dead, gone. But she once lived, and you knew her. You know her still. Until I'm gone too, right? It's all gone, everything we built, we did. It has been the destiny of many worlds. We have overseen them all. Yeah, what about your people? Is this gonna happen to you one day on Jenjedda? We have reached the end of our development. All our possibilities are exhausted.

And here are some excerpts from the book by Arthur C. Clarke:

"We are your guardians-no more. Often you must have wondered what position my race held in the hierarchy of the universe. As we are above you, so there is something above us, using us for its own purposes. We have never discovered what it is, though we have been its tool for ages and dare not disobey it. Again and again we have received our orders, have gone to some world in the early flower of its civilization, and have guided it along the road that we can never follow the road that you are travelling now. "Again and again we have studied the process we have been sent to foster, hoping that we might learn to escape from our own limitations. But we have glimpsed only the vague outlines of the truth. You called us the Overlords, not knowing the irony of that title. Let us say that above us is the Over-mind, using us as the potter uses his wheel. "And your race is the clay that is being shaped on that" wheel. "We believe-it is only a theory-that the Overmind Is trying to grow, to extend its powers and its awareness of the universe. By now it must be the sum of many races, and long ago it left the tyranny of matter behind. It is conscious of intelligence, everywhere. When it knew that you were almost ready, it sent us here to do its bidding, to prepare you for the transformation that is now at hand.

"All the earlier changes your race has known took countless ages. But this is a transformation of the mind, not of the body. By the standards of evolution, it will be cataclysmic-instantaneous. It has already begun. You must face this fact: yours is the last generation of Homo sapiens. "As to the nature of that change, we can tell you very little. We do not know how it is produced-what trigger impulse the Overmind employs when it judges that the time is ripe. All we have discovered is that it starts with a single individual- always a ~child-and then spreads explosively, like the formation of crystals round the first nucleus in a saturated solution. Adults will not be affected, for their minds are already set in an unalterable mould. "In a few years, it will all be over, and the human race will have divided in twain. There is no way back, and no future for the world you know. All the hopes and dreams of your race are ended now. You have given birth to your successors, and it is your tragedy that you will never understand them-will never even be able to communicate with their minds. Indeed, they will not possess minds as you know them. They will be a single entity, as you yourselves are the sums of your myriad cells. You will not think them human, and you will be right.

"And then-what am I to do with you, the survivors, when your purpose has been fufilled? It would be simplest, perhaps, and most merciful, to destroy you-as you yourselves would destroy a mortally wounded pet you loved. But this I cannot do. Your future will be your own to choose in the years that are left to you. It is my hope that humanity will go to its rest in peace, knowing that it has not lived in vain.

The Overlords themselves were more human than this. "You are searching for something that is no longer there," said Karellen. "Remember-they have no more identity than the cells in your own body. But linked together, they are something much greater than you." 'Why do they keep moving like this ?" "We called it the Long Dance," replied Karellen. "They never sleep, you know, and this lasted almost a year. Three hundred million of them, moving in a controlled pattern over a whole continent. We've analysed that pattern endlessly, but it means nothing, perhaps because we can see only the physical part of it-the small portion that's here on Earth. Possibly what we have called the Overmind is still training them, moulding them into one unit before it can wholly absorb them into its being."

For the road to the stars was a road that forked in two directions, and neither led to a goal that took any account of human hopes or fears. At the end of one path were the Overlords. They had preserved their individually, their independent egos; they possessed self-awareness and the pronoun "I" had a meaning in their language. They had emotions, some at least of which were shared by humanity. But they were trapped, Jan realized now, in a cul-de-sac from which they could never escape. Their minds were ten-perhaps a hundred-times as powerful as men's. It made no difference in the final reckoning. They were equally helpless, equally overwhelmed by the unimaginable complexity of a galaxy of a hundred thousand million suns, and a cosmos of a hundred thousand million galaxies. And at the end of the other path? There lay the Overmind, whatever it might be, bearing the same relation to man as man bore to amoeba. Potentially infinite, beyond mortality, how long had it been absorbing race after race as it spread across the stars? Did it too have desires, did it have goals it sensed dimly yet might never attain? Now it had drawn into its being all that the human race had ever achieved. This was not tragedy, but fulfilment. The billions of transient sparks of consciousness that had made up humanity would flicker no more like flreffies against the night. But they had not lived utterly in vain. The last act, Jan knew, had still to come. It might occur tomorrow, or it might be centuries hence. Even the Overlords could not be certain. He understood their purpose now, what they had done with Man and why they still lingered upon Earth. Towards them he felt a great humility, as well as admiration for the inflexible patience that had kept them waiting here so long. He never learned the full story of the strange symbiosis between the Overmind and its servants. According to Rasha verak, there had never been a time in his race's history when the Overmind was not there, though it had made no use of them until they had achieved a scientific civilization and could range through space to do its bidding. "But why does it need you?" queried Jan. "With all its tremendous powers, surely it could do anything it pleased." "No," said Rashaverak, "it has limits. In the past, we know, it has attempted to act directly upon the minds of other races, and to influence their cultural development. It's always failed, perhaps because the pull is too great. We are the interpreters-the guardians. Or, to use one of your own metaphors, we till the field until the crop is ripe. The Overmind collects the harvest-and we move on to another task. This is the fifth race whose apotheosis we have watched. Each time we learn a little more." "And do you not resent being used as a tool by the Over-mind?" "The arrangement has some advantages: besides, no-one of intelligence resents the inevitable."

"They are still playing," said Rashaverak. "What logic is there in the actions of a child? And in many ways the entity that your race has become is still a child. It is not yet ready to unite with the Overmind. But very soon it will be, and then you will have the Earth to your own."

ANALYSIS OF CHILDHOOD'S END
The movie Childhood's End was based on the book by Arthur C. Clarke, author of 2001: a Space Odyssey. As with that book Childhood's End also deals with aliens and the future evolution of mankind into a potentially different form.

The movie struck me as being not that far off from reality which is to be expected from Clarke who many have linked to freemasonry. There are many parallels to the stories reported in the near death experience phenomenon. The alien overlords employ the appearance of dead loved ones to deliver the important message to mankind and gain their trust. But this was just a ruse or a deception. Karellen was reluctant to reveal how he looked because he looked like the Devil of mythology.

The movie depicts a scenario in which God is an Overmind or a collective consciousness of white light and desires for mankind to evolve into one mind. A golden child is produced and all children are linked together as one psychically and telepathically. This is exactly what near death experiencers report as communication with a light being many experiencers call God is encountered. This god of the NDE is said to be a collective soul communicating with the collective consciousness of humanity.

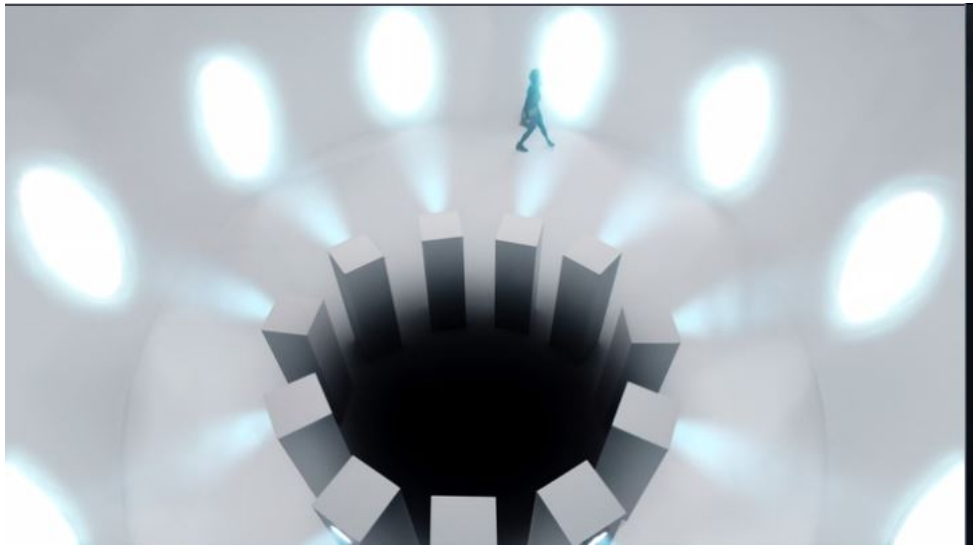
While near death experiencers say we come to earth to learn to love the evolution toward a Utopia of peace and love is literally enforced by the alien Overlords or World Federation.

The movie preaches that everything good must come to an end and forewarns or predicts the elimination of mankind as a species and the destruction of Earth itself while our children exist in the future as the pure consciousness of the Overmind.

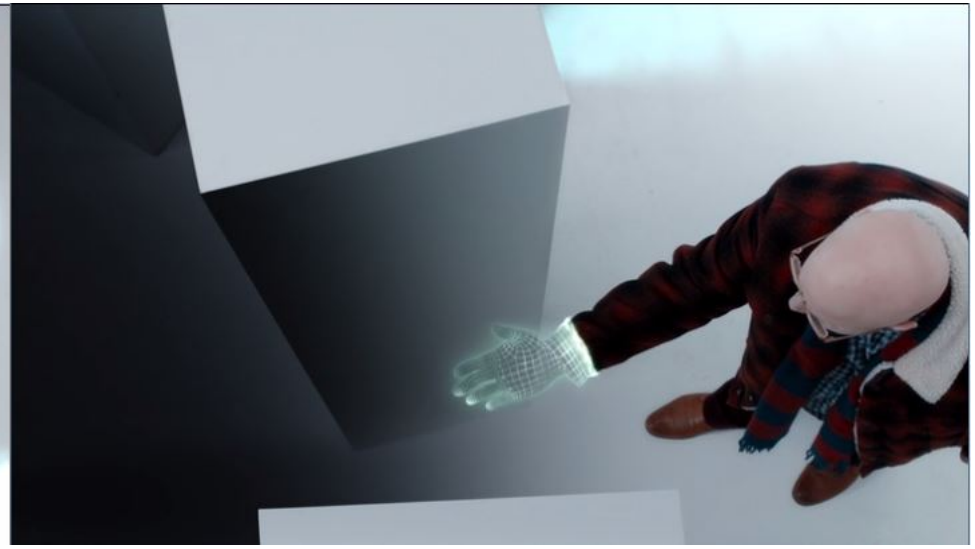
PETER PAN

I can't really do analysis of programming in Hollywood movies without mentioning Disney. Of course, there is The Sorceror's Apprentice where Mickey Mouse is dressed up as the wizard's apprentice with a wizard's hat and robe and magic wand. And then there is the constant reinforcement of the Princess motif which perpetuaates the idea of monarchical rule, but also gives young girls an entitlement and the unrealistic dream of being rescued by a handsome, young Prince, Pince Charming, who will enable her to be Queen herself one day. But I would like to focus on one movie in particular and that is Peter Pan. I believe it contains much symbolism for the afterlife. In fact, one of the most famous quotes from the movie is "To Die Will Be An Awfully Big Adventure (Peter Pan)".

Pan, the Devil, plays a tune on his pan pipes. The Pied Piper is a many-colored Piper -- that's what pied means, many-colored -- and leads the children (of god) with his pipe (nde tunnel) into the rock / mountain (moon is a rock). And why the name "Peter Pan"? Petr means rock (moon?), also fuel (energy source) and Pan means "all" which would be "all" frequencies combined: white. The Devil is known to use a "pitch" fork to goad souls to Hell. Nep-TUNE has the trident or pitchfork too. A pitch fork is a tuning fork. So you have a tune or note/frequency and you have a fork which is a many pronged instrument. Think of a fork with seven rays of light or seven prongs and like a fork they all funnel into one like the handle on the fork we eat with, The trident or three-pronged pitchfork may symbolize the three colors red-green-blue since our eyes have three color receptors and all the colors of the rainbow can be made with those three colors. So all the different colors of souls funnel through the tunnel or tune-I into the band of white light which is all frequencies combined. Since it's all combined it would resonate with every single color or frequency of souls... the light is electromagnetic so there could be magnetic resonance like in an MRI. In the television mini-series named "Neverland" Peter plays his pipe and a huge tunnel opens up. There are literally dozens and dozens of accounts of near death experiencers who report going through a pipe or tunnel, hearing music or tones while in it, experiencing swirling colors and feeling a wind as they emerge into the white light, which is the combination of ALL colors. Peter Pan could be translated as "Father All".



Disney made Pan into a cartoon character and major motion picture star with the release of their animated movie Peter Pan which looked liked the mischievious playful sylvan forest god of greek mythology. He dressed in green, had pointed ears, and possessed magical powers of a fairy such as being able to fly and he played on his pan pipes or flute, and just wanted to have fun all the time and never grow up. To help him he also had Wendy (windy), a tinker bell and a dragon or crocodile. He defeated his nemesis Captain Hook -- by the crocodile eating him in the moon. He urged the viewer to go to Neverland by following a star, the second star on the right, which very well may be an allusion to Sirius. "The second star to the right shines in the night for you to tell you that the dreams you plan really can come true. The second star to the right shines with a light so rare and if it's Never Land you need its light will lead you there." Pan played a flute or the pan pipes. Not only did the fairy tales have a piper named Peter, but in nursery rhymes there was Peter Piper who picked a peck of pickled peppers. Peppers are of the piper genus. The words are etymologically related.



Wendy's mother is named Mary, an aspect of Isis. The nurse mother for Wendy's family is Nana (moon goddess) a dog probably symbolic of Sirius, the binary or trinary dog star. Peter Pan insists the second star on the right (and then straight on til morning) will take you to Neverland. They fly past the moon, to a bell tower with an orange clock (time is 8:15, Sirius usually rises in August) representative of our sun which causes time and is a stargate. So they pass through the stargate of our Sun and then they go past a bridge (gateway, stargate, pipe) along the Milky Way river to the second star on the right which is smaller. This may very well be the dwarf companion of Sirius in the Pleaides constellation. This is the meaning of Snow White (Sirius) and the seven dwarves which are the seven sisters of the Pleiades. Peter Pan keeps calling him a "cod fish". The letter "G" evolved from "C" so it's possible "god" looked like a "cod" fish. Captain Cook while fighting Peter Pan says he is no mere mortal but a "flying devil". Peter Pan is from Sirius, the dog star, but he sails souls into the moon to reincarnate them on Earth. Peter is from Sirius but as the pagan nature god and mountain king lives in a tree underground just like the Celtic trickster moon god, Gwydion, and is associated with Celtic traditions such as the Green Man or Jack-in-the-Green. It is also interesting that there are movies such as Pan's Labyrinth that show Pan presiding over an underground labyrinth.

The Peter Pan movie begins with the narration "All this has happened before and it will all happen again." as they show a river symbolic of the Milky Way galaxy. The movie ends with the statement, "I have the strangest feeling I saw that ship a long time ago when I was very young." This is obviously referring to the cyclical notion of reincarnation or recycling of souls. [Could Robin Hood and Maid Marian of Sherwood Forest be yet another tale of Peter Pan and Mary?]

Steven Spielberg (spiel means spell, burg is german for 'rock' or mountain) directed the movie Hook starring Robin Williams as an older, "grown-up" Peter Pan. I find the image (a sphere with Tinker Bell's golden light as a lure on Captain Hook's hook) of this movie poster for Hook suggestive of the Dreamworks Pictures opening sequence of the boy fishing on the moon with his 'hook' down on the waters on Earth. One of the more memorable quotes from the movie is Peter Pan declaring, "To die will be an awfully big adventure." There is a scene where Tinkerbell who is lit up like a "firefly from hell", as Peter calls her, is pulling him toward her and he says he has died, is out of his body and is going to the light, a direct reference to the Light mentioned in near death experiences. Later Peter tells his army of soldiers called The Lost Boys, "Let's get ready to show them the white light we're made of, boys." He also has to "climb up a drain pipe" because he "ran out of fairy dust".

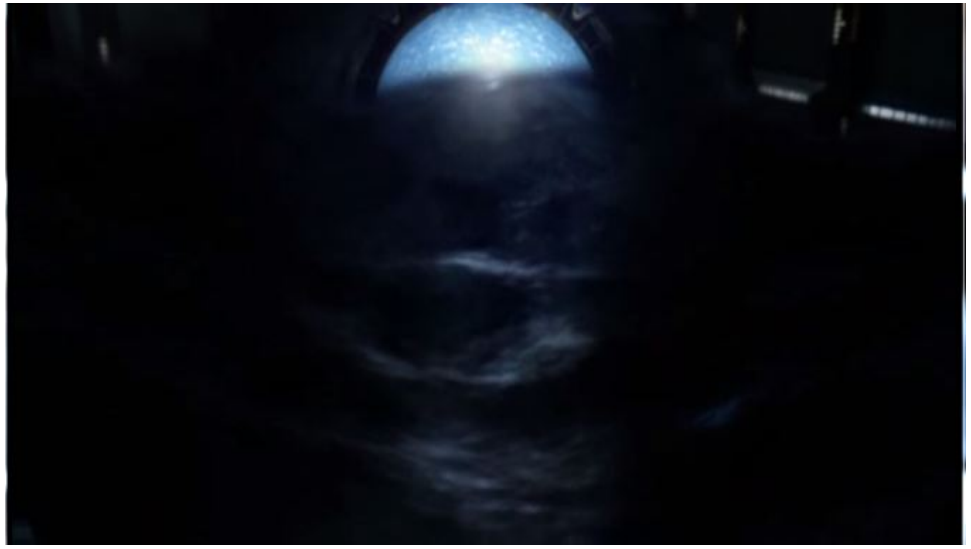
DOCTOR WHO S10E06 EXTREMIS

Excerpts from the transcript:

(And into a very bright white room. Eleven columns arranged in an almost-circle in the middle are projecting ovals of light. Bill and Nardole come back in through one.)
MONK: This is a game.
NARDOLE: Those things, what do they look like?
BILL: Projectors.
NARDOLE: Exactly.
BILL: Yeah, they're projecting the portals.
NARDOLE: No, they're not. They're projecting everything. Those worlds, they're all projected. The Pentagon, the Vatican, CERN.
BILL: They're not real?
NARDOLE: No, no, they're holograms. They're holographic simulations. And the people in them, too.
BILL: Sorry, what?
NARDOLE: You know, like the holodeck on Star Trek, or a really posh VR without a headset. Through there, those places, that's basically Grand Theft Auto.
BILL: But it can't be.
NARDOLE: It is! Look at the tech. It definitely is.
BILL: What? Sorry, you're not making any sense. When did we end up in a computer game? When did that start?
NARDOLE: I don't know. Maybe when we arrived at the Vatican? But I programmed the Tardis myself. We were on target. We went to the Vatican, the real one, I'm sure of it. Oh.
BILL: Oh?
NARDOLE: Those machines, they project the simulations.
BILL: Yeah?
NARDOLE: And I'm just wondering what happens if we move outside the light of the projector? Don't let me be right. Please, don't let me be right.
(He reaches into a space between two projectors, and his hand begins to decompile into a grid outline.) NARDOLE: I'm part of it! I'm part of the simulation! Bill, I'm not real!
(The rest of him dissolves into pixels, and he disappears.)

DOCTOR: The Veritas tells of an evil demon who wants to conquer the world. But to do it, he needs to learn about it first. So he creates a shadow world, a world for him to practise conquering, full of shadow people who think they're real.
BILL: There was a thing. The shadow test?

DOCTOR: Imagine an alien life form of immense power and sophistication, and it wants to conquer the Earth. So it runs a simulation. A holographic simulation of all of Earth's history and every person alive on the surface. A practice Earth, to assess the abilities of the resident population. Especially the ones smart enough to realise that they are just simulants inside a great big computer game.



MONK: She was not real. You are not real.

DOCTOR: No, I'm not. I'm a shadow. A puppet Doctor for you to practise killing.
MONK: We have killed you many times.
DOCTOR: Then what are you waiting for? Why don't you kill me now?
MONK: You suffer. Pain is information. Information will be gathered.

MONK: You are not real. There is nothing you can do.
DOCTOR: There's always one thing you can do from inside a computer. Even if you're a jumped-up little subroutine, you can do it. You can always (puts on the shades) e-mail!
(Memory file uploading.)
MONK: What are you doing?
DOCTOR: I'm doing what everybody does when the world is in danger. I'm calling the Doctor. Pressing send.
(He grins, and the whole image flickers, pixilates and is replaced by - Recording ends.)

(The Doctor sitting outside the Vault removes his shades, then replaces them when he gets another message alert. Additional message P.S. Dear Doctor, Save Them The Doctor X. He stands and uses his mobile phone.)

STARGATE ATLANTIS S01E03 HIDE AND SEEK

Sheppard joins him and they both watch as the darkness envelops the naqahdah generator inside.
SHEPPARD: Didn't look like the phantoms the Wraith make you see but I could see how the Athosians would be confused.
WEIR: What did it look like?
SHEPPARD: It looked like a... (He holds out his hands to signify the cloud but then turns to Grodin for help.)
GRODIN: Darkness. It surrounded the naqahdah generator and started to grow, like it was feeding off the energy.
SHEPPARD: When you shut it down, the whole ... whatever it was, it just went away.
McKAY: If this thing feeds on energy we could be in big trouble -- and when I say we, I mean you because I won't actually be around for much longer.
WEIR: So we need to figure out exactly what it is and what to do about it.
GRODIN: We know it's attracted to energy.
WEIR: How about shutting down the generators?
McKAY: Well, uh, people also give off heat energy. But, now, granted it's negligible compared to that of the naqahdah generator but, uh, you take away this thing's only other obvious source of food and ...
WEIR: You're saying it could come after us.
McKAY: Well, I only know one thing for sure, and that is that flying darkness that needs energy can only be very, very bad.

McKAY: Well, I haven't read all the notes but what I do know is that the entity is energy. It feeds on energy. Ford's lucky. I mean, the more it feeds, the bigger it gets; the bigger it gets, the more charged it becomes and the more deadly it will be.

McKAY: Well, it seems that way. As I suggested, the entity's what's been causing most of our technical problems. Now, it was captured for observation. The Ancients were researching ascension.
WEIR (amazed): Really?
SHEPPARD: What exactly is ascension?
McKAY: Well at some point during their evolution the Ancients reached a... uh, an advanced stage of being where they were able to rid themselves of their physical bodies and rise to a higher plane of existence, one in which they-they live as pure energy.

MEN IN BLACK II/3

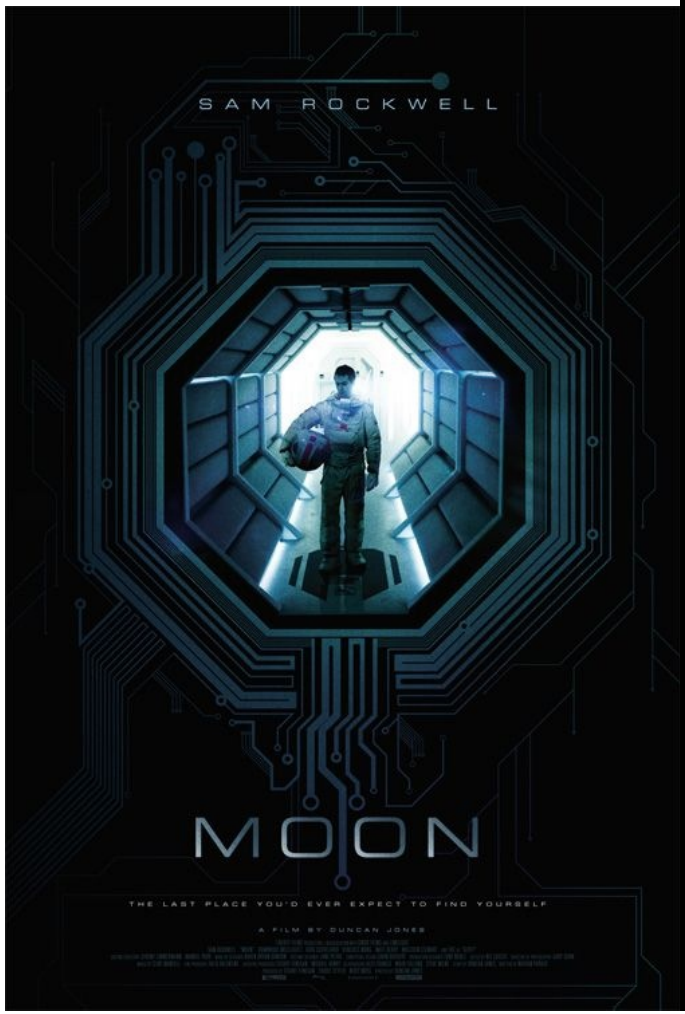
A reader in Hong Kong wrote to me and told me the plot of Men in Black II is all about searching for the light of Zartha, a very powerful cosmic force. The Men In Black are supposed to be protecting Earth from alien threats. They have a weapon called the Neuralizer which can blind the victim with a flash of light, wiping memories from their minds. The protagonists are attacked by worms. One worm is a 600 foot worm. The Men in Black had to hide it from the evil Serleena. Serleena is an interesting name because Selena is a goddess of the moon. Spoiler Alert: Lo, and behold, it was kept inside all along. The light was kept hidden inside Princess Lauranna, the Keeper of the Light.

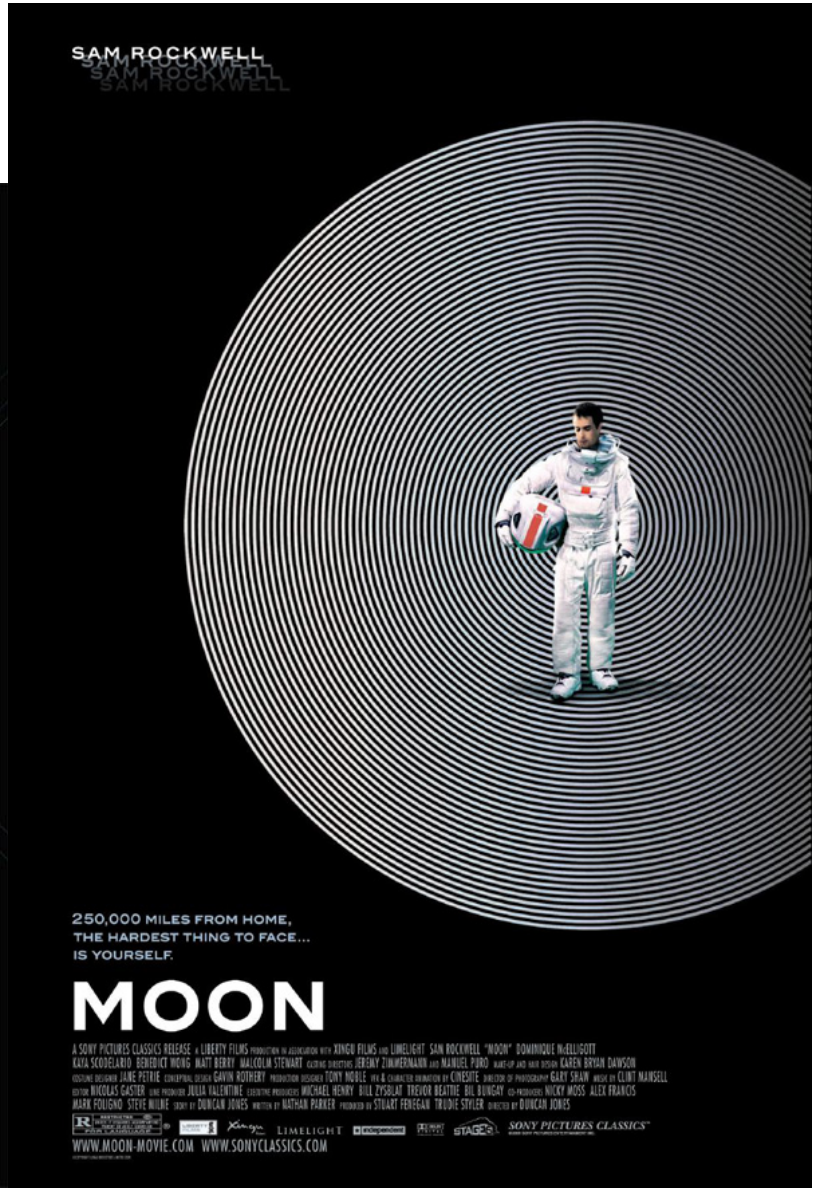
"If Serleena takes the light, it's the end of our world. If we extend protection for the light beyond Earth, we put Earth in jeopardy. We must remain neutral."

"Where is the light?" "Right here." "What, I'm the Light?"... "Laura, you are the Light. The leader of your people. Their spirit and their hope. The power is within you to save a planet."

Here is a classic depiction of the demiurge:

Now here is a screenshot near the end of the movie:





Notice the similarity between a classic depiction of the demiurge and the worm/serpent in the movie.

In Men In Black 3, they talk about an archanan race. Presumably someone from Archan. Archan/Archon? Very close. Spielberg knows. Plus there is the ArcNet defense system that is built.

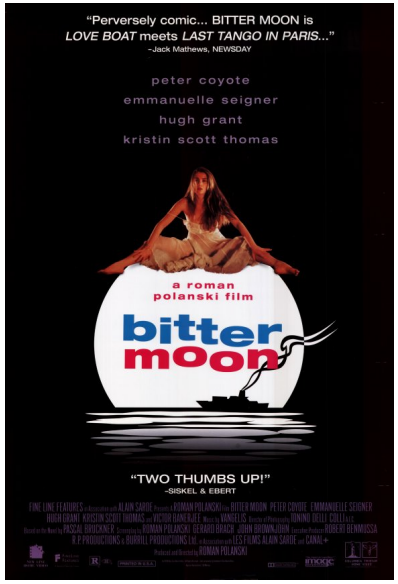
"Where is the Archanan?" "You are too late. He is going to give the humans the ArcNet."

MOON

SAM ROCKWELL
MOON
THE LAST PLACE YOU'D EVER EXPECT TO FIND YOURSELF
A FILM BY DUNCAN JONES



SAM ROCKWELL
250,000 MILES FROM HOME,
THE HARDEST THING TO FACE...
IS YOURSELF.
MOON
WWW.MOON-MOVIE.COM WWW.SONYCLASSICS.COM

HALF MOON

Notice how the reviewers reviewed the movie Half Moon? Magical and Breathtaking. There is magic associated with the moon and it is breathtaking -- or kills you.

BITTER MOON

Roman Polanski made the movie Rosemary's Baby which was about the Devil raping and impregnating a woman. The movie poster for his movie Bitter Moon is another variation on the siren motif. An attractive woman with her legs wide open is sitting on top of a giant light which we can assume is the moon based on the name of the movie. A shipful of sailors sails underneath, presumably to their death upon the "rock".

FUTURAMA

Futurama - In this cartoon made by the creators of The Simpsons, characters are watching the TV show, The Real World. The commentator states, "This week on The Real World -- THE SUN." A man is heard screaming, "AAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHH -- I'm burning to death!" We know it is not the sun screaming because one of the characters watching the show snidely remarks in disgust, "Do you know how much an apartment that big would cost on the sun?"

THE SIMPSONS

The Simpsons

In this Simpsons episode, 2-D Homer finds himself in the third dimension. Reverend Lovejoy asks Homer if he sees a light and tells him, "Move into the light, my son!". Having followed his instructions, Homer screams after getting shocked.

CONCLUSIONS

So what are some things we can take away from these movies? These movies address the philosophical issues of the nature of reality, the meaning of life, alien intervention, Artificial Intelligence, the simulation theory, personal identity versus the Collective, free will vs determinism, and the afterlife.

One critically important theme is remaining an individual versus joining or merging with the Collective.
The new age movement and meditation groups etc are always telling us we need to kill the ego and basically merge our consciousness with the oneness. And near death experiencers say the white light is a collective of all our souls.

Yet in movies the Collective is always portrayed as bad.

Star Trek First Contact -- The Borg.
Star Trek Return of the Archons -- The Body
The Matrix -- all the Agent Smiths
Childhood's End -- The Overmind
Truman Show -- all his friends were collectively keeping him from realizing is true identity
The Prisoner -- the last episode The Fallout really talked about the good of the community etc but #6 escaped or was set free because of his will to remain an individual
Dark City -- they have collective memories they want to imprint on the individual

The Gnostic texts mention a higher light...and also impure light....the white light of the NDE is definitely not the higher light in my opinion.....

In the Gnostic text Pistis Sophia itsays Sophia was in the 13th aeon and she desired to go to the higher light so she stopped performing her mysteries, Demiurge and the archon rulers got angry, hated her and tricked her into seeing his light and thinking it was the higher light and then captured her.....(also, he had light, he just wasn't giving/shining all of it because he desired to rule)..... that pretty well coincides with what I have been saying on the web site..... since we are so low in matter the first light we would see would still be that lower light of the Demiurge, certainly not the light of the realms above. The first lights we see are the “stolen” and “impure” light of the lower realms.

QUOTES

“All movies are important and they are dangerous you go into a little dark room and become vulnerable it could completely misshape you.” -- Susan Sarandon

" I know that I have demons. I don't know if I want to get rid of them altogether, but I would like to experience them in a different way." -- Johnny Depp

Dr. Eric Peper, a researcher who has studied the influence of film, feels television can be used as a training tool:
"The horror of television...is that the information goes in...It goes right into our memory pool and perhaps we react to it later but we don't know what we are reacting to. When you watch television you are training yourself...so later on, you're doing things without knowing why you're doing them or where they came from."
Another team of Australian researchers found that that television is a type of "sleep teaching" that involves subconscious absorption of imagery while the viewer is in a mild dreamlike state.
Buffy the Vampire Slayer's supervising producer, Marti Noxon, alludes to extent of deception that goes on:

"You can get to the emotional truth of things almost by sleight of hand, while people aren't really looking. It's sort of like, 'Here, look at the shiny vampire,' and behind that, there's something really raw going on."

The impact that movies have on their viewers is due to the purposeful way their creators design them. Alfred Hitchcock, considered the horror film director and Master of Suspense in his day declared his intent:

"The point is to draw the audience right into the situation-instead of leaving them to watch it from outside, from a distance...If you played the whole scene straight through... you would lose your power over the audience. They would watch the scene without becoming really involved in it, and you would have no means of concentrating their attention on those particular visual details which make them feel what the characters are feeling."

Steven Spielberg demonstrates the unscrupulous attitude prevalent among today’s directors:
“I want people to love my movies, and I'll be a whore to get them into the theaters.”

Hollywood insider, David Puttnam, the producer for the films The Mission and Chariots of Fire, admits movies can be used as propaganda tools:
"Movies are powerful. Good or bad they tinker around inside your brain. They steal up on you in the darkness of the cinema to form or conform social attitudes...In short, cinema is propaganda."

Eddy Manson, a popular composer for motion pictures stated this "social reform" is accomplished through manipulation, stating:
"We manipulate people like crazy in films…It's a tremendous release. I can make you feel any emotion I want you to feel at any time. It's a Machiavellian power we project gut to gut."

Even George Lucas, director of the Star Wars trilogy, confesses to manipulating the emotions of his audience:
"I'm very much of a visual filmmaker, and very much of a filmmaker who is going for emotions over ideas." And, "Emotionally involving the audience is easy. Anyone can do it blindfolded, get a little kitten and have some guy wring its neck."

Fascinatingly, filmmakers like Lucas hold little regard for their easily manipulated audiences. Lucas has openly declared:

"Popcorn pictures have always ruled. Why do people go see these popcorn pictures…Why is the public so stupid?…I just understood what people liked to go see, and Steven [Spielberg] has too, and we go for that."

One of the industry's skilled directors, Alan J. Pakula, who directed All the President's Men and Presumed Innocent, replies:

"Movie violence is like eating salt. The more you eat, the more you need to eat to taste it at all. People are becoming immune to the effects: The death counts have quadrupled…they're becoming deaf to it. They've developed an insatiability for raw sensation."

Media mogul Ted Turner thinks so and believes movies ignite violent behavior like a tinderbox. He explains:
"You know that everything we're exposed to influences us…Those [violent] films influence us, and the TV programs we see influence us. The weaker your family is, the more they influence you… The problems with families in our cities are catastrophic-but when you put violent programs before people who haven't had a lot of love in their lives, who are angry anyway, it's like pouring gasoline on the fire."

Actor Kevin Bacon, who starred in the movie HollowMan has projected characters who are homosexuals, rapists, occult initiates, liars and thieves, and attributes his successful acting to what he calls "demons under the surface, and as an actor you have to keep them bubbling."

Robin Williams, funny man whose characters teach that cross dressing, homosexuality, New Age practices, humanism and "doing your own thing," is directed by a voice that speaks instructs his every move. Williams admits that a "voice will tell me either to take a role or not. And if I want to travel, that same voice lets me know whether or not the journey will be a safe one."

The screenwriter for Gladiator, David Franzoni, clearly understands that we are headed back in time to Rome's blood soaked arenas:

"The Coliseum was a machine, too. Everyone who died was chopped up and their bodies were put into a butcher shop--legs, arms, whatever--and then fed to the animals. They were recycled…

Sponsored

20 Photos Of Most Beautiful Fans In World Cup History
Cash Roadster

Dianas Heartbreaking Final Words To Firefighter Revealed
Housediver

The way you make your fist reveals something crucial about your personality.
Kingdom Of Men

20 Signs That A Heart Attack Is Imminent
Travel Sent

Man finds hidden house with no doors or windows - He goes inside and immediately calls the police
Story To Hear

The One WD40 Trick Everyone Should Know About
Free Hub

18 Comments

Login ▾

Join the discussion...

LOG IN WITH OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS

Name

5 Share

Best Newest Oldest

kebcreation
8 years ago

Wow!, that is too much to be coincidence. Good research and presentation.

6 0 Reply

vipre0Fchaos
5 years ago

I have a funny one for you guys: .

In Breaking Bad, there is a scene where Jessie Pinkman is having a conversation with Walter White on the phone, and the subject of Walter's brother-in-law, Hank, comes up. Hank is in the hospital in critical condition, but Jessie could not possibly wish a greater ill-fate for Hank, given the turn of events in the plot. So Jessie says to Walt: " Tell your douche-bag brother-in-law to go to the light."

So, if you are correct about this Light Deception theory, then way I see it, to antagonistically want someone to go towards the light is to not only want them to part from this Earth, but ALSO to wish for them to reincarnate/recycle and resume the process of misery and suffering all over again from the beginning. Pretty dark, pun intended.

"Existence is pain!"

3 0 Reply

Tbtl → vipre0Fchaos
5 years ago

Yes, I noticed that scene too and even mentioned it to a friend who liked that show when I told her about my theory.

1 0 Reply

feel without fear
3 years ago

This reminds me of Tibetian book of dead, and how it described light after death, which one are the fake ones, and how it will trick you.

1 0 Reply

Suns
5 years ago

great :D

0 0 Reply

RC Coleman
5 years ago edited

This probably has nothing to do with this page but many years ago I was flipping thru the channels and a movie was playing on the Sci Fi Channel that caught my attention. It was in the middle of the movie so I didn't know what was going on but I was so drawn to it....I kept watching because this young woman in the movie , she seemed to be at a frat party and she started panicking because someone told her she was dead and she couldn't make sense of the fact that she was dead because she didn't remember dying. Well....i've been searching for years because i didn't know the name of the movie or any of it's stars. It was from 2006 and it's called "Left In Darkness". I watched the full movie and the main character dies and it's up to her to figure out the truth . But many people come to her, people she knows and they try to appear to her as real ....ex: her dead father....her dead mother....and they try to get her to trust them but in reality....the only person she can truly trust is herself and she quickly finds out from her imaginary childhood friend who is supposed to guide her towards the truth that he is just as fake as all the other people surrounding her and they all want one thing.....HER SOUL. She realizes finally that she is trapped in a sort of after death limbo and she has to find the trap door to pass on to the afterlife and to find the trap door, she has to go back to the frat house party where she died and search for clues. The film is by Steven R. Monroe (the titles of some of the movies he has produced include "Dear Diary I Died" , "Hidden Truth", "Dual" "Complacent", Most of his movies deal with being deceived. Although all the reviews are terrible for this movie, I found it to be very fascinating for the simple fact that it reminds me of what you are saying in this article, which by the way is very interesting and well presented so thank you for this website. I can't wait to read all of it

0 0 Reply

JourneyMan Project
7 years ago

Amazing research into the light trap ! Thank you so much !

0 0 Reply

Melanie Kay
7 years ago

Thanks for the article. Can you cite your quote resources? I'd really like to read more. Again, thanks.

0 0 Reply

quest
8 years ago

So, what's the way our? Don't watch TV, and when you expire, dont go in the light or follow a anyone. Then what?

0 0 Reply

Tbtl → quest
7 years ago

Check out my "Solutions" page for options on ways out. Personally, upon death I will IMMEDIATELY focus my willful intent on going back to the original true Eternal Light Realms. These lower realms are all a copy (likely holographic) ruled over by a false Gaud. Do not hang around as many NDErs say after a short time the light pulled them like a magnet. Also, live a spiritual life and let go of all earthly attachments -- don't hold grudges and forgive everyone and forget traumas. Live your life showing altruistic love,compassion kindness, and mercy and if for some reason you do end up having to defend yourself do not let anyone guilt you into reincarnating on Earth because you haven't "learned enough" or "loved enough". You are a divine spark emanated from the True God.

Wayne

2 0 Reply

Child of Light → quest
8 years ago

Those who have not gone on or "crossed over", simply remain as ghosts and hang around those who have souls (the living) because we are the only light they can see other than God's light. You might as well go back to God who created you. You cannot LIVE hear on the earth without a soul. And you can't get a soul unless you are born. That is why you have so-called Aliens trying to breed a body and a soul so they can possess it and have a shot at heaven. ET is actually a Demon who was exorcised back in the age of death before the first century AD. Since the Kingdom of God arrived in the first century, they have not been allowed to possess anyone who has a soul of their own. So the abduction and breeding project is in full swing. Read the book, Abduction by John Mack M.D. and the books by Karla Turner Ph.D.
The author of this article has no faith in the creator who is Light, in all goodness and justice, righteousness and loving kindness. It would be best to be afraid of him now while you have the chance to change that fear into love, than to be afraid of going to him and remain in the dark after you drop your body. Being a ghost is a dead end. Pun intended.

0 0 Reply

Tbtl → Child of Light
7 years ago

There may be some who hang around here as ghosts because they don't go to the light, but I believe most ghosts are shadow beings / archons. Dr. Karla Turner is mandatory reading IMO or people can watch the lectures she gave just before she was taken out. She was very convinced the aliens were physical. While there is evidence I kind of lean more to them being shape shifting archons (demons).

I DO have faith in the ineffable God who is True light. I consider myself a Gnostic christian. It is my belief that the god of this world is a false gaud whom Gnostics call the Demiurge and that there is a false light than people can be lured t at death and convinced to reincarnate. The false Gaud is part God / Creator and part Devil. One should live one's life showing true ALTRUISTIC love, compassion, kindness, mercy and not be attached to this materialistic world which is but a prison. I also believe it is very important to not hold any grudge, have any envy or greed, and aspire to let go of all our earthly attachments. I agree one should not live in fear or harbor hate toward humanity.

i too consider myself a child of light since I have a divine spark of light within me that came from the Eternal Light realms,

Wayne

2 0 Reply

austin → Child of Light
7 years ago

You either go to hell or heaven when you die, there are no ghosts here. The only beings God made conscious was the beasts(animals), the angels and humans. The occult want people to think there is aliens and other life in the universe but there isn't. Any stories of ghosts or aliens, are demons. Demons are fallen angels that were thrown from heaven with satan, who also is a fallen angel. If you do not believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as your savior. You really need to figure out whats going and find the truth ASAP. We are living in the end times. Please go to jesus-is-savior.org for a lot of good information on the current state of the world.

0 1 Reply

Samuel
9 years ago

Venus Flytrap (1970) - Free Old Science Fiction Movies... — disq.us

0 0 Reply

spiffy70
7 years ago

Jesus said, "I AM the light of the world: he that follows me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8:12 "It is appointed unto men ONCE to die, but after this the judgment." Hebrews 9:27 "I declare unto you the gospel (good news) by which you are saved...that Christ died for our sins in accordance with what the Scriptures foretold; and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day." (and was seen by hundreds) Every disciple of Christ except John was martyred (along with thousands of other Christians as well). They went from hiding in fear after his crucifixion to boldly declaring Him as the Son of God. Who in the world would be tortured and die for a LIE??! Exact details of His birth & death were prophesied hundreds of years before His coming. He divided history into BC (before Christ) and AD (in the Year of our Lord). You can't sign any legal document without confirming his life. "For all have SINNED, and come short of the glory of God." Romans 3:23 "For the WAGES of SIN is DEATH; but the GIFT of God is ETERNAL LIFE through Jesus Christ our Lord." "..what is necessary for me to do that I may be saved? And they answered, BELIEVE in (to adhere to, trust, rely on) the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." (HEART belief, not HEAD belief only) Acts 16:30,31 "As many as RECEIVED him, to them gave he power to become the SONS OF GOD, even to them that BELIEVE on his name." John 1:12 "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that WHOSOEVER believes in him should not perish, but have EVERLASTING LIFE." John 3:16 "God hath given to us ETERNAL LIFE, and this life is in His Son. He that hath the SON hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life. These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that you may KNOW that you HAVE ETERNAL LIFE, and that you may believe on the name of the Son of God." I John 5:11-13 "If you acknowledge and CONFESS with your LIPS that Jesus is Lord and in your HEART BELIEVE that God raised Him from the dead, YOU WILL BE SAVED." Romans 10:9 This is getting long, but the sure expectation of a Christian is found in I Corinthians 15:35-58. Religion is always man reaching for God, but Christianity is God reaching down to man. I have experienced the PEACE which Jesus Christ gives, even in the midst of troubles in this life and in the sorrow of death and I would not trade it for all the vain and empty babblings of philosophies and deceit of this world. If you TRULY seek the TRUTH, you WILL find it. Luke11:9-13

0 1 Reply

Tbtl → spiffy70
7 years ago

Hi, Spiffy. That's a lot of quotes there, all from the New Testament. Would you mind posting that in the Comments section on the "Religion" page and I'll do my best to answer there?
Thanks for sharing your view.

Wayne

2 0 Reply

feel without fear → Tbtl
3 years ago edited

People are defending and protecting the very lies that has been told to them which were created by the negative entities, through form of religions, school doctrination...ehh. Sad.

2 0 Reply

Mitch D → spiffy70
2 years ago

Jesus died for your SINS...Sin is Sine...Sine Wave. We are pure energy trapped in linear time. So, Jesus died for our energy/(SINS), and rose using that energy. Jesus wants you to go to the light. Everlasting

Jesus died for your SINS...Sin is Sine...Sine Wave. We are pure energy trapped in linear time. So, Jesus died for our energy/(SINS), and rose using that energy. Jesus wants you to go to the light. Everlasting life...reincarnation? A trap? Sounds like it. To SIN is to be manifested into this linear realm because SIN is SINE Waves. It's magnetism of polarities. Everlasting energy being PULLED into this realm...trapped. ETERNAL LIFE: What kind of eternal? Eternal manifested carnal SIN/SINE wave in linear time type of life? Or after we drop the meat suit and can be unconstrained energy...free to do as we WILL?

0 0 Reply

Subscribe Privacy Do Not Sell My Data

Sponsored

10 Food That Unclog Arteries (Most People Ignore)
Free Hub

Historians Doubt These 21 Famous People Ever Existed
History 10

Army captain collapses on the march and the soldier's reaction is priceless
The Travel Breeze

Wardrobe Mistakes You Probably Never Noticed
Oceandraw

He Promised to Marry Her Then, Look at Them Two Decades Later
Horizontimes

Canada Immigration Guidelines, Discussion & News
Canada Immigration Newsletter

comments powered by Disqus

HISTORY

Pagan Easter: Whe
Tradition Originate?

by Jim H

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept
Read More

1

The Cultural Melting-Pot of a Pagan Easter

Easter is one of Christianity's highest and holiest days, the celebration of the resurrection of Jesus. But the origins of today's very Christian holiday are firmly rooted in the ancient traditions of pagan religions from many parts of the world. With its blend of solemn religious symbolism and the fun of Easter eggs and bunny rabbits, Easter as we know it is a patchwork of beliefs and practices related to the themes of springtime, rebirth, and renewal. So, what does pagan mean and, more specifically, what involves a pagan Easter?

SEARCH

Type and hit enter...

TRENDING

1

The Mystery of Who Put B
Wych Elm?

January 29, 2015

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

The goddess Ostara. Artist: Wendy Andrew.

What Does “Pagan” Mean?

Pagan was originally a term used to describe people who practiced non-Christian religions. The term, which had a derogatory connotation, was assigned by early Christians. As Christianity was spreading in its early days in Europe, there were still many people who maintained their polytheistic beliefs. Those people were subject to the pejorative term, which served as a form of social pressure to convert to Christianity, and identified targets for discrimination. However, since the 21st century, certain people of non-Christian faiths, primarily those that adopted a form of spirituality, began to use the term to describe themselves. Paganism is now a religion

July 22, 2021

3 The Templa Mandaeans Forbidden V

September 24

4 Top Ten Wil of WW2

September 23

5 The Hellinik Greeks build before Egyp

September 24

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept
Read More

Where Did the Name Easter Come From?

Easter most likely takes its name from the names of goddesses associated with spring, vernal equinox and renewal. Eostre was the Saxon mother goddess, the source of all things and the bringer of new life. Around the same time, Teutonic tribes worshiped the dawn goddess Ostara, who also represented fertility and rebirth.

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

Ostara (1884) by Johannes Gehrts. Image: Public Domain.

Other pagan cults and deities played a part in the formation of Easter, too. Around 200 BCE, the mystery cult of the goddess Cybele was popular in Rome and its surrounding areas. Cybele, another goddess of renewal and spring, had a lover named Attis, who was born of a virgin, and died and was reborn every spring.

You May Also Like: Celtic Goddess Brigid and Her Enduring Deity

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept rose to prominence alongside those pagan beliefs, elements of the celebrations of Eostre, Ostara, Attis, and other deities became inextricably intertwined with the Christian narrative of Jesus' death and resurrection.
Read More

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

15th Century Painting: Lamentation at the Tomb. Artist Unknown

Why Easter Falls on Different Dates

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept when night and day are of equal length. It's also a celebration by pagan cultures to welcome the arrival of the long days of spring and summer.
Read More

Related: Lughnasadh: The Celtic Pagan Harvest Festival

For Christians in Western traditions, Easter is celebrated on the first Sunday after the first full moon following the vernal equinox. This is a formula set in 325 CE by the Council of Nicaea, which established many points of doctrine for the early Christian church. Eastern Orthodox Christians celebrate Easter on a different timetable though – as much as three weeks later than "standard" Easter.

What Are the Pagan Easter Symbols?

Today's Easter is a mix of symbols from Christianity and traditions far older. Alongside the overtly religious celebration of Jesus' death and resurrection, people of all ages and beliefs enjoy colored eggs, egg hunts, candy rabbits, and chickens. Also, the Easter baskets filled with gifts, candies, and springtime colors are an important part of today's celebration.

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

An Easter postcard depicting the Easter Bunny.

All of these Easter favorites clearly echo pagan beliefs. Many of those beliefs were very much in tune with nature – animal births, seasons, and cycles of the moon and sun. The rabbit, a symbol of fertility and agility, was sacred to Ostara. Eggs, chicks, green grass, and sweets speak to the ancient celebration of new life and rebirth during warm spring days. Many ancient

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept
Read More

Although Easter has become known as a Christian holiday around the world, celebrating the sacred death and rebirth of Jesus, the true pagan Easter and its symbols is a clear testament to the historical melting pot of cultures and traditions that make Easter what is today.

Sources:

Religious Tolerance."Easter: Its Pagan Origins" Accessed 6 Jun 2016.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Paganism

PAGAN TRADITION VIKINGS

Sponsored Stories

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

Lennie Gwyther: The 9-Year-Old Who Made a 7-Week Journey to Sydney on Horseback!

Lennie Gwyther was only 9 years old when he set out to travel 1,000 km (621 miles) from his home to Sydney. The young boy became a folk hero along the way.

https://historicmysteries.com

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

The Holy Foreskin: Where is the Last Piece of the Body of Christ?

Where is Jesus's foreskin? It's the last "First Edition" piece of the Body of Christ, and it's gone missing.

https://historicmysteries.com

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

The Tragic Love Of Yang Guifei and The Emperor Of China

Yang Guifei was one of the most renowned women in Imperial Chinese history. She was famous for her love story with her father-in-law, the Emperor.

https://historicmysteries.com

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

Disappearance of the Beaumont Children

On 26 January 1966, the three Beaumont children went to the beach. Their disappearance is one of Australia's most famous unsolved cases.

https://historicmysteries.com

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

Who Was “The Man Who Never Was?”

The dead man, who would later become known as “The man who never was,” was roughly 34 years of age, and used in "Operation Mincemeat."

https://historicmysteries.com

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept demonic possession or mental illness?

Read More

https://historicmysteries.com

1

RELATED POSTS

Lepa Radić, Teenage Hero Of Yugoslavian Resistance

Outrageous Astronomy – Who Was Behind The Great...

Elvira Madigan and Sixten Sparre: A real life...

Charles VI: A King made of Glass?

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

JIM H

Jim has always had a strong passion for travel, archaeology, and history. He feels fortunate to have been able to visit many of the ancient wonders that he read about in history books. As the founder of Historic Mysteries, his goal is to share with you the secrets of our past.

Historic Mysteries

WHO WE ARE

Historic Mysteries provides captivating articles on archaeology, history, and unexplained mysteries. Int topics are just a click away.

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

BACK TO TOP

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

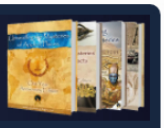
UPDATED 19 SEPTEMBER, 2020 - 14:02 ALEKSA VUČKOVIĆ

Abyssinia and the Ethiopian Empire: The Ancient History of a Struggling Nation

READ LATER PRINT

The Horn of Africa is a region with a unique identity and vibrant history. Close to the Arabian Peninsula, it always stood out from the rest of the African continent. Today, the Horn of Africa is home to the modern nations of Ethiopia, Djibouti, Eritrea, and Somalia, comprising some 115 million people. Throughout centuries of rich history, Ethiopia has managed to persevere and preserve its identity, despite many pressures. Once known as the Ethiopian Empire, or Abyssinia, which existed from 1270 to 1974, it is one of the longest surviving empires in history and is defined by its distinctive character and a past filled with defining moments. Today we'll be stepping back in time, as we recount the ancient and modern ages of the venerable Ethiopian Empire.

Ancient Origins of the Ethiopian Empire: The Rise of Aksum



The earliest origins of the Ethiopian Empire reach back before 1270. The story begins with the Kingdom of Aksum , also known as the Aksumite Empire , an ancient kingdom of great import in the classical world. Aksum was located in today's northern Ethiopia, and flourished from about 80 BC to 825 AD. Taking its name from its key city, the capital called Axum, its strategic location played a crucial role in the trading routes of the ancient world, particularly between ancient India and the Roman Empire. In time, Axum grew in power and importance, and eclipsed the neighboring and older Kingdom of Kush.

The importance of Axum was well portrayed by the famous Persian prophet Mani, who said:

> "There are four great Kingdoms on Earth: the first is the Kingdom of Babylon and Persia; the second is the Kingdom of Rome; the third is the Kingdom of the Aksumites; the fourth is the Kingdom of the Chinese ."

To the Greeks and the Romans, the Kingdom of Aksum was well known, as it was to the Arabs and the Persians as well. Aksum ascended to great heights thanks almost exclusively to trade. Commerce was the key factor that helped Axum evolve to become the capital of an empire. This can safely be ascribed to its proximity to the Red Sea and its trade routes, since all it had to do was successfully facilitate the growing need of the Greeks and the Romans for African goods. A

Get your 4 ebooks Now!

Email
Name
I approve receiving emails
Please verify your request
Я не робот
reCAPTCHA
Конфиденциальность - Условия использования
Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara
- Please introduce yourself
- Pyramids, a global phenomena

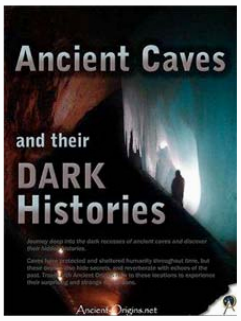
More

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

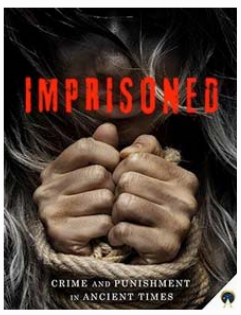
MOST READ TODAY

- Unraveling the Mysteries of China's Ancient Caucasian Mummies (Video)
- The Judean Date Palm: Extinct Tree Resurrected from Ancient Seeds
- Full Suit of Armor Discovered in Spanish Castle Excavation

NORSE MYTHOLOGY



ANCIENT EGYPT



ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS

PARTNERS

NEXUS MAGAZINE
In-depth articles on alternative health, future science, conspiracies & the unexplained.

major export of Axum was elephant ivory, which was a highly sought after commodity in the Mediterranean, Levant, and Persia.

Aksumite traders established far-reaching caravans that would travel into the African interior in order to procure more ivory. As Axum was located at key crossroads for trade traffic, it only sped up its prosperity. In time, Axum became the hotbed for a rising civilization with a unique character fed by a proper amalgam of indigenous African cultures infused with South Arabian character, as well as plenty of influences from the classical world of the Mediterranean.

The Book of Aksum is a collection of 15 th century documents from St. Mary's Cathedral of Aksum which gives crucial information about Ethiopian history. (Dmitry Chulov / Adobe Stock)

A Crucial Trading Power Rises

The name Ethiopia to describe the Aksumite Empire appears as early as the 4 th century, and one popular explanation for the name is that it comes from Greek: Αἰθιοπία (Aithiopia). This is a compound word that roughly translated means "burnt face" or "red brown". This term was used early on by Herodotus to denote this particular region of Africa. This Greek word was later loaned to the Amharic language of the region as ʾĪtyōṗṗyā.

More precisely, the name Aethiopia was used in Greco-Roman inscriptions for a long time and denoted specifically the region of ancient Nubia. However, in the 15 th century Ethiopian church book, known as the Book of Aksum , it is stated that the name stems from a legendary biblical figure known as Ityopp'is, a son of Cush (Kush). It was Ityopp'is who allegedly founded the city of Axum. Ethiopia was also known as Abyssinia in English historiography and elsewhere. This term stems from the Ethiopian Ge'ez language and their pronunciation of Aethiopia: Habashat.

The people of the Aksumite Empire began using the designation "Ethiopians" only around the 4 th century AD, when the Aksumite King Ezana conquered Nubia. Around this time the Aksumites also came in contact with Christianity. This occurred with the arrival of the two brothers and Christian Missionaries, Frumentius and Edesius, who managed to enter the royal Aksumite court and convert it to Christianity. Ethiopia (Aksum) was thus the second country to officially adopt Christianity in world history. The first one was Armenia in 301 AD.

Aksum began to enter a gradual decline in the 6 th and 7 th century AD, due to religious rivalry, Jewish persecution of the Christians and the rise of Islam. Around this time the use of the name Ethiopia becomes prevalent.

Ethiopia was one of the earliest nations to adopt Christianity. Lalibela is one of Ethiopia's holiest cities and a center of pilgrimage. These rock-cut monolithic churches are dated back to somewhere between the 7 th and 12 th century AD and were declared a world heritage site in 1978. (yurybirukov / Adobe Stock)

Struggling Between Religions: The End of the Aksumite Empire

One of the first acts in the empire's fall came in 520 when King Kaleb led a campaign against the Jewish Himyaritic King Dhu Nuwas who was persecuting Christians in Yemen. Although the Axumite forces won the conflict and secured Christianity in Yemen (at least until the advent of Islam), the years of battle over-extended Axum's wealth and manpower. Its position as an economic and trading power was diminished, but it still remained active to an extent. As the first major Islamic power, the Rashidun Caliphate rose to prominence and conquered Egypt and the Red Sea around 646 AD. Aksum became economically isolated, but even so it remained firmly

- Humans and Neanderthals Have More in Common than Polar and Brown Bears
- Ming Dynasty Shipwrecks Resurface off the Coast of the South China
- Osterby Man Still Has a Great Hairdo Nearly 2,000 Years On!

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
The Kilwa Sultanate was a powerful and prosperous city-state that once dominated the Swahili coast of East Africa.

Thoth's Storm: New Evidence for Ancient Egyptians in Ireland?

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

The Disturbing True Story of the Pied Piper of Hamelin

Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site

Was Moloch really Ba'al, the Ancient God Who Demanded Child Sacrifice?

Christian.

Oral history holds the Aksumite Empire was eventually defeated by the Hebrew Queen Yodit (also known as Gudit or Judith), around the early 900's AD. This defeat brought the end to the centuries old Aksumite Kingdom and all its rich history. During her 40 year reign of Aksum, Yodit conducted numerous pogroms against the Christian populace, burning churches, crucifying people, and forcefully converting the citizens, all as part of her campaign to terminate Christianity in an apparent act of revenge.

During this period, a great deal of Axumite heritage is said to have been destroyed. Yodit's reign ended around 960, when she and her successors were overthrown by an Agaw Lord called Mara Takla Haymanot. The Agaws were a Cushitic ethnic group of the region. This lord married the female descendant of the last Aksumite monarchs, and thus established a new lineage known as the Zagwe Dynasty . This new dynasty ruled over a smaller region than Aksum, and remained Christian, although still largely isolated.

The Adal Sultanate invaded the Ethiopian (Abyssinian) Empire in what came to be known as the Abyssinian-Adal War which lasted from 1529 to 1543. (Public domain)

The successful Zagwe Dynasty was eventually overthrown around 1270 AD. This happened with the emergence of a rebellious Lord named Yekuno Amlak, who claimed he descended from the Aksumite Kings of old, and ultimately, from Solomon. Most likely due to the political circumstances of the time, Amlak succeeded in receiving substantial aid from the Sultanate of Shewa, a small Muslim Kingdom that established itself in Ethiopia and competed with the Zagwe. This was one of the rare times that an alliance between Muslims and Christians occurred. Yekuno Amlak succeeded in establishing the Ethiopian Empire and becoming the head of the ruling Solomonic Dynasty, which remained in power until 1974. Not long after, relations with the neighboring competing Muslim sultanates deteriorated, and conflicts occurred sporadically for centuries afterwards.

One of the completing sultanates that managed to stay in power was the Ifat Sultanate. In the early 14 th century AD, the famed Ethiopian Emperor Amda Seyon I invaded Ifat and defeated it. But the descendants of Ifat managed to return to the region at a later date to establish a new and more powerful regional entity, known as the Adal Sultanate, a Muslim Somali Kingdom. This power would prove to become a huge threat for the rising Ethiopian Empire.

The Adal Sultanate invaded the Ethiopian (Abyssinian) Empire around the year 1529, led by the Somali Imam and General Ahmad ibn Ibrahim al-Ghazi. This came to be known as the Abyssinian-Adal War, which lasted from 1529 to 1543. The very first conflict occurred almost at once, in 1529, when the invading Adal forces met a sizeable Ethiopian army in open battle. Both sides suffered immense casualties, but the upper hand went to the forces of Imam Ahmad. Even so, he decided not to pursue further, and the invasion was in a passive state for about two years.

After defeating the last Zagwe king, Yekuno Amlack established the Ethiopian Empire and became the head of the ruling Solomonic Dynasty which remained in power until 1974. (Public domain)

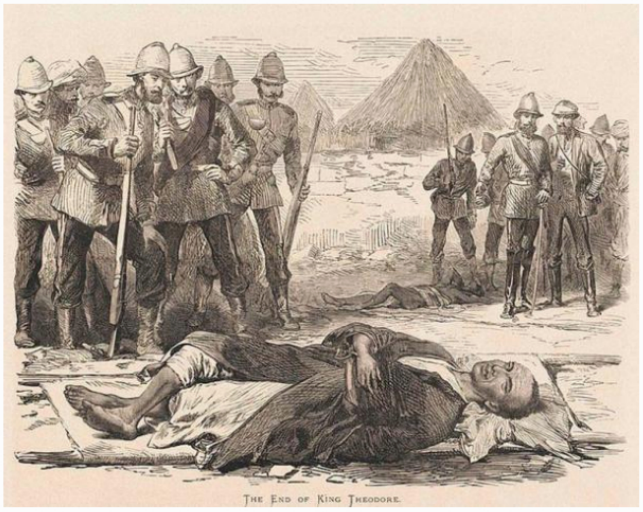
The Return of the Solomonic Dynasty



The next string of victories for the Adal forces came around 1531. The first occurred in the Battle of Antukyah, followed by the Battle of Amba Sel soon after. Both resulted in decisive Muslim victories. The Adal forces relied heavily on early firearms and cannons, which worked with great effect against the Ethiopian forces, oftentimes instilling great fear in the common soldier. Eventually, the forces of Imam Ahmad penetrated deep into the Ethiopian highlands, and conducted heavy sacking of the empire. The latter was eventually occupied and annexed by the Adal Sultanate, which united the territories with those of modern-day Somalia. This occupation of Ethiopia lasted for 14 years.

Around 1543, the guerilla warriors of Ethiopia received aid from the Portuguese Empire, whose navy provided crucial military support. At the time, the Portuguese were involved in the Ottoman-Portuguese conflicts which lasted from 1538 to 1559. Since the Adal Sultanate received aid from the Ottomans, the Ethiopians aided by the Portuguese. With the Portuguese help, the Adal forces were gradually defeated, culminating with a decisive Battle of Wayna Daga that caused the collapse of Adal forces and the death of Imam Ahmed.

A new challenge for the Ethiopian Empire occurred in the 16 th and 17 th centuries, with the increasing migrations of the Oromo peoples of southern Ethiopia. This Cushitic ethnic group progressively migrated north and eventually became involved with the imperial politics. A direct consequence of these migrations was a loosened grip of the empire on its faraway provinces as the latter gained more independence than usual. It was not until the reign of the Emperor Iyasu I the Great of the Solomonic dynasty , who reigned from 1682 to 1706, that the things were once more consolidated and returned to prosperity. His successor, Iyasu II, took this power one step further and allowed the Ethiopian Empire to flourish.

Emperor Tewodros II committed a grave error, by imprisoning several British representatives in 1868, which led to serious reprisals from the British and his subsequent suicide. (Public domain)

Vying for Power and Facing the Modern Age

Where there is power and wealth, there is also crisis. For Ethiopia, this crisis era emerged around 1769 and lasted until 1855. It is known as the Zemene Mesafint , or the "Era of Princes". During this period the empire was largely divided and decentralized, with numerous regional ras (dukes or lords) competing for influence and power over the emperor. This unstable period was only brought to end with the rise to power of the famed Emperor Tewodros II. The charismatic ruler once more stabilized the Empire of Ethiopia and became a favorite of the people.

- The Kingdom of Axum: Facts and Legends of a First Millennium Powerhouse
- Cradle of Mankind in Danger of Losing Ancient Cultures and Lands to Foreign Corporations
- Tracing the origins of a mysterious ancient Queen of Ethiopia

Later in his rule though, Tewodros committed a grave error. Seeking to force the British to give him military aid, the Emperor imprisoned several British representatives in 1868, an event that caused a serious reprisal from the British. This response from Queen Victoria became known as the Punitive Expedition to Abyssinia, which resulted in the burning of the Fortress of Magdala and the subsequent suicide of Emperor Tewodros II. As the result of this British involvement, the throne of the Empire passed on to Yohannes IV, an Ethiopian noble who claimed connection to the Solomonian Dynasty. His rule marked the rise of the modern era of Ethiopia and is defined by his victory over the Ottoman Egypt.

The cover of Time Magazine, from November 3, 1930, features Haile Selassie I, the last emperor of Ethiopia.

The Last Emperor of an Ancient Lineage

The Ethiopian Empire managed to survive for many centuries, in fact well into the 20 th century, making it one of the last surviving empires of the world. Its last emperor was Haile Selassie I , a member of the Solomonic Dynasty and one of the defining figures of modern Ethiopian history who could trace his lineage to the 10 th century BC. His series of political and social reforms greatly modernized the country. Alas, the last emperor was deposed in 1974 by the pro-Soviet Marxist-Leninist military dictatorship known as the Derg (Provisional Military Government of Socialist Ethiopia) which ended the monarchy, murdered Haile Selassie, and brought communism to Ethiopia.

The Aksumite Empire, and the subsequent Ethiopian Empire, are not often a burning historical subject – and unjustly so. The ancient, far-reaching, and endlessly important history of these powerful entities are filled with thrilling and world-defining events, many of which are connected with some of the most powerful empires of the ancient times. The stubborn and inspiring fight for survival of a Christian nation surrounded by Islam is unique on the African continent, and the endurance of the centuries-old Solomonic dynasty into the 1970's is nothing short of thrilling for any history enthusiast.

Top image: The Ethiopian Empire, or Abussinia, which existed from 1270 to 1974, it is one of the longest surviving empires in history and is defined by its distinctive character and a past filled with defining moments. Source: Vladimir Melnick / Adobe Stock

By Aleksa Vučković

References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: News | Ancient Places | Africa

Tags: ethiopia | Abyssinia | Ethiopian Empire | religion | christianity | Aksumite Empire | Kingdom of Aksum | Aksum | Haile Selassie I | Solomonic dynasty

COMMENTS (2 Comments)

ALEKSA

I am a published author of over ten historical fiction novels, and I specialize in Slavic linguistics. Always pursuing my passions for writing, history and literature, I strive to deliver a thrilling and captivating read that touches upon history's most... Read More

RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS

18 MAY, 2023 - 21:00 ROBBIE MITCHELL

The Challenging Rituals of Ethiopia's Christian Timkat Ceremony (Video)

12 MARCH, 2023 - 21:53 JOHNBLACK

The Astonishing Architecture of Lalibela's Monolithic Rock-Hewn Churches

The Ethiopian Orthodox Church is a unique branch of Christianity that traces its roots back to the earliest days of the faith . For those who follow this ancient religion, the annual Timkat ceremony...

READ LATER READ MORE

In the heart of Ethiopia, there lies a town of unparalleled beauty and wonder. Lalibela is home to eleven monolithic rock-hewn churches, the largest of their kind in the world, which have been...

READ LATER READ MORE

17 DECEMBER, 2021 - 17:56 SAHIR

Phallic Ethiopian Megaliths Are 1000 Years Older Than Believed

Ethiopia's Gedeo zone has the largest concentration of stone stelae in Africa. A new study published in the Journal of African Archaeology has pushed back the dates of megalithic stelae dotting the...

READ LATER READ MORE

29 OCTOBER, 2021 - 02:00 DHWTY

Fasil Ghebbi: The Magnificent 17th-century Camelot of Ethiopia

Fasil Ghebbi is a fortress located in the city of Gondar, in the north-western Ethiopian region of Amhara. The fortress was founded in the 17th century and served as the royal residence of the...

READ LATER READ MORE

23 APRIL, 2021 - 20:31 DAVIDCHILDRESS

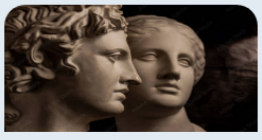
The Mythos Of The Enigmatic Prester John

Around 1165 AD a mysterious letter addressed to Manuel Comnenus, Emperor of Byzantium, began circulating around Europe. It was from a Prester John who claimed to " exceed in riches, virtue and power...

READ LATER READ MORE

16 APRIL, 2021 - 12:40 DAVIDCHILDRESS

The Periplus Of The Ports Of Ethiopia, The Hidden Empire



Known as the Hidden Empire, Ethiopia's official name, until recently, was Abyssinia. Its history fades back into the mists of time and for some reason, Ethiopia has largely been written out of world...

READ LATER READ MORE

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)

FAMOUS PEOPLE

The Legacy and Tragic Death of Egyptology's Father, Champollion

Remembered as the father of Egyptology, the 19th-century Frenchman Jean-François Champollion prematurely and tragically passed away in 1832 shortly after visiting Egypt.

- The Final Fates of the Children of Cleopatra VII
- A Day in the Life of the Boy King Tutankhamun (Video)
- Top 10 Ancient Greek Athletes and their Sporting

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Accidental Find of Impeccably Preserved Ming Dynasty Taizhou Mummy

Mummies often evoke thoughts of the ancient Egyptians and their sophisticated mummification rituals. These practices aimed to create a seamless transition between life and death and led to remarkable...

- Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World
- Fathoming the Ruins of Yanmen Shan Mountain and the Biggest Cut Rocks in the World

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Rome vs. Carthage: The First Punic War and the Birth of a Superpower

The First Punic War was a brutal conflict that pitted two of the greatest powers of the ancient world against each other.

- The Massive Project to Move Abu Simbel 200 Feet Up a Cliff Face (Video)
- See The Titanic as Never Seen Before in 'Largest Underwater Scanning Project in History'

- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines

- Achievements
- Elizabeth Bathory: Was the 'Blood Countess' Serial Killer Misjudged?
- The Lost Years of Jesus: No One Knows How He Spent His 20s (Video)

- Sacred Treasure Hunt: In Pursuit of the Elusive Ark of the Covenant (Video)
- Neolithic Stone Balls: The Northern Rosetta Stone?
- UFO Author Will Lead Exploration of Rendlesham Forest Encounters Site

- Secrets of the Kushite Empire and How They Took Over Egypt (Video)
- Earthquake, Not Volcano, Claimed Many Victims In Pompeii
- The Devaluation of Rome: Roman Inflation and the Demise of the Empire

TOP NEW STORIES

Unraveling the Mysteries of China's Ancient Caucasian Mummies (Video)

In a groundbreaking archaeological discovery, mummies with distinctly Caucasian features were unearthed in China's Tarim Basin.

- Rome vs. Carthage: The First Punic War and the Birth of a Superpower
- How the Face of the Lady of Cao was Brought Back to Life (Video)
- What Happened To The Coveted Spear Of Destiny?
- Ming Dynasty Shipwrecks Resurface off the Coast of the South China
- Watch the Reenactment of a Traditional Roman Funeral (Video)

HUMAN ORIGINS

Unraveling the Mysteries of China's Ancient Caucasian Mummies (Video)

In a groundbreaking archaeological discovery, mummies with distinctly Caucasian features were unearthed in China's Tarim Basin.

- Thoth's Storm: New Evidence for Ancient Egyptians in Ireland?
- Mastering the Atlatl: The Ultimate Prehistoric Hunting Tool (Video)
- Did a Native American travel with the Vikings and arrive in Iceland centuries before Columbus set sail?
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- The origins of human beings according to ancient Sumerian texts

ANCIENT PLACES

Unraveling the Mysteries of China's Ancient Caucasian Mummies (Video)

In a groundbreaking archaeological discovery, mummies with distinctly Caucasian features were unearthed in China's Tarim Basin.

- The Judean Date Palm: Extinct Tree Resurrected from Ancient Seeds
- How the Face of the Lady of Cao was Brought Back to Life (Video)
- Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World
- 750 Years of Flavor: The Story of Yuasa's Soy Sauce (Video)
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa

The Kilwa Sultanate was a powerful and prosperous city-state that once dominated the Swahili coast of East Africa.

- Thoth's Storm: New Evidence for Ancient Egyptians in Ireland?
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- The Disturbing True Story of the Pied Piper of Hamelin
- Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site
- Was Moloch really Ba'al, the Ancient God Who Demanded Child Sacrifice?

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Mastering the Atlatl: The Ultimate Prehistoric Hunting Tool (Video)

Have you ever heard of the atlatl? It's a prehistoric hunting tool that has been used for thousands of years, predating the bow and arrow.

- Neolithic Stone Balls: The Northern Rosetta Stone?
- The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt
- 300,000yo Hand Axes, Tombs & Rock Art Discovered in Oman
- Ancient Journeys: What was Travel Like for the Romans?
- What Did Ancient Egypt Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)

OPINION

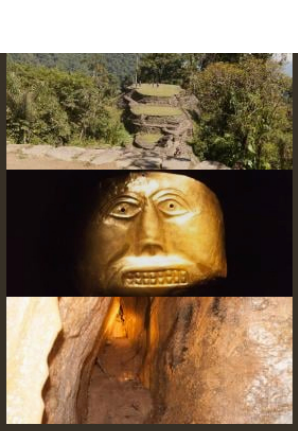
The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I
- The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings.



ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- Please introduce yourself
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- Pyramids, a global phenomena

More

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

UPDATED 12 JUNE, 2023 - 14:55 ALEKSA VUČKOVIĆ

Sijilmasa: The Golden Oasis and Africa's El Dorado

READ LATER PRINT

Throughout ancient African history, gold has played a fundamental role, particularly as a source of wealth and power. Meanwhile, the cities that thrived on the gold trading routes were motivated by the lure of this precious metal and enjoyed great prosperity and prestige. Sijilmasa was one such city; perched on the northern edge of the Sahara Desert, it occupied a strategic position on the so-called "golden route." However, despite its early success, the city was marked by power struggles, turbulence, and eventual decline. In this piece, we delve into the history of this jewel of the desert oasis.

Jewel of the Oasis: Exploring the History of Sijilmasa

The ancient city of Sijilmasa has been described by many historians as the "African El Dorado." Despite being reduced to ruins, Sijilmasa remains a site of great importance, and is protected as an endangered archaeological site. Located in the desert landscape of modern-day Morocco, the crumbling walls of Sijilmasa serve as a testament to its lost grandeur and the passage of centuries.

Built on the northern edge of the Sahara Desert, Sijilmasa stands in the midst of the lush Tafilalt Oasis, near the banks of River Ziz. Its strategic location enabled it to emerge as the regional entrepôt, a crucial trading city on the African gold route. As a result, it became one of the most valuable cities in the region, as traders carrying precious gold and other goods were required to pass through Sijilmasa on their journey either towards the sea or inland.

- The Shining History of Gold: From Ancient Treasure to Modern Tech
- Faiyum Oasis: The Heart-Shaped Hidden Garden of Egypt

Naturally, Sijilmasa's strategic location meant that it was destined for greatness. Many legends about the city quickly emerged, similar to the tales of the original "El Dorado," or the City of Gold. Sijilmasa was founded around 757 AD by Sufri Khajiri Muslims refugees. Its rise to prominence was exceptionally swift. "Around Sijilmasa there are deposits of gold and silver," observed the Arab writer Ibn Yakubi less than a century after its founding. "The gold is found like plants, and it is said that wind blows it away."

Of course, Ibn Yakubi embellished his tales just a little bit, but there is no doubt that Sijilmasa was a true "city of gold." For one, its mints struck pure gold coins as early as the 10th century AD. In fact, archaeological evidence suggests that gold was transferred through this area as early as the 4th century AD. From the bountiful goldfields of Bambouk, Bouré and Lobi in south-central Africa, trading caravans had to pass northwards, and through Sijilmasa.

Get your 4 ebooks Now!

Email
Name
I approve receiving emails
Please verify your request
Я не робот
reCAPTCHA
Конфиденциальность - Условия использования
Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

MOST READ TODAY

- Resurrecting the Past: Sicily's Bizarre Mummy Rituals (Video)
- Sijilmasa: The Golden Oasis and Africa's El Dorado
- History Erased: The 6 Most Heartbreaking

NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT

ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS

Representational image of a trading caravan travelling through the desert. (Justinas / Adobe Stock)

The Puzzle of Sijilmasa: Investigating the City's Mysterious Origins

As we mentioned, Sijilmasa is officially said to have been founded by Sufri Khajiri Muslims, who fled in the wake of the Berber rebellion against the Umayyad Caliphate around 740 AD. There are, however, other legends related to the founding of Sijilmasa, some of which are more difficult to believe.

The famed historian and writer from Iberia, al-Hasan ibn Muhammad al-Wazzan al-Zayyati - better known as Leo Africanus, wrote in the 16th century AD that the city was founded by a Roman General - Suetonius Paulinus. To commemorate his victories in the area, he founded the city and named it Sigillum Masse as a symbol of victory, which over time morphed into Sijilmassa. However, the conspicuous absence of Roman archaeological artifacts indicates that this is highly unlikely.

Whatever the true origins of the town may be, radar scans and archeology confirm that there was some pre-urban activity on the site much earlier than the actual emergence of the city itself. This is quite likely, since Sijilmasa is situated at a favorable spot - a naturally fortified location that lies along the fertile banks of the River Ziz within the flourishing Tafilalt Oasis. Thus, the site had all the prerequisites for the emergence of a thriving settlement.

Much of what we know about Sijilmasa and its early history comes from the famed Arab traveler and writer, Al Bakri. In his work, Book of Routes and Places, Al Bakri explained that the first leader of the settlers in Sijilmasa was one Isa bin Mazid al-Aswad. He was chosen as the leader, and ruled in Sijilmasa for 14 years, before being executed on accusations of corruption. In his place came Abu al-Qasim al-Miknasi, whose descendants would form the Midrar Dynasty that would rule from Sijilmasa until 977 AD.

Sijilmasa has been remembered as a beautiful ancient oasis city. (Public domain)

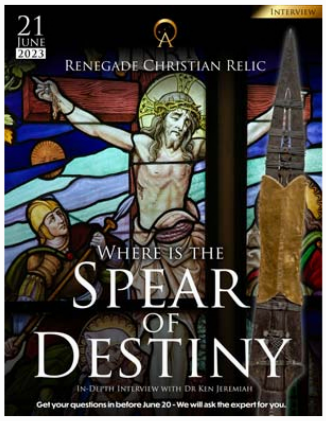
Prospering from the African Gold Routes

The next we hear of Sijilmasa comes from another Arab traveler, Ibn Hawqal, who visited the area around 950 AD. In his writings, Ibn Hawqal noted that the city was quickly growing in economic power, due to shifting trade routes in Africa. As a result, the flourishing oasis city attracted the attention of trading caravans.



Previously, trade between Egypt and the gold-producing Ghana Empire was conducted by crossing the harsh deserts, but this soon became untenable. The trade caravans shifted their paths, so as to travel through the Maghreb area and to Sijilmasa in the oasis. From there, they could again head south through the Sahara, with better results and less harsh conditions.

Visiting the booming town of Sijilmasa, Ibn Hawqal was stunned by its prosperity and the overall wealth of the gold-route cities. He witnessed a bill issued to a trader from the Mauritanian city of Aoudaghost, from a trader from Sijilmasa. The bill, written out for 42,000 dinars, was an astounding sum for the time. Ibn Hawqal had never witnessed such an amount in his entire life of travel.

The city's wealth was undoubted: gold from Sudan was minted here, and the volume of trade with the regional realms was stunning. Of course, all that wealth and prosperity brought with it a degree of independence.

Archaeological Destructions

- No Kissing, Please! Henry VI Lived Through a Lip-Lock Lockdown
- The Final Fates of the Children of Cleopatra VII
- Survey Finds Two Dozen Shipwrecks Proving Historic Mediterranean Sea Routes

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Dogon's Extraordinary Knowledge of the Cosmos and the Cult of Nommo

France, 1920: Marcel Griaule is a young man who is very well-established in his studies, especially in mathematics. He has recently served as a volunteer in the French Air Force and aspires to attend the prestigious Lycée Louis le Grande.

- Tracing the origins of the Serpent Cult
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe
- Lilith: Ancient Demon, Dark Deity or Sensual Goddess?
- Of Runes And Sacrifice: The Initiation Ritual Of Odin in Norse Myth

Under the above-mentioned Midrar Dynasty, Sijilmasa grew into a regional power, and was able to free itself from the yoke of the Abbasid Caliphate as early as 771 AD, becoming largely independent. The rule of the Midrar Dynasty spread to the neighboring region, and was centered on the city of Sijilmasa. But, alas, every era of prosperity has to end at some point.

The Geopolitics of Sijilmasa: Navigating Power Struggles in the Sahara

In the 10th century, Sijilmasa's rulers experienced their first major problems. Two rival Caliphates began a major feud, fighting over the control of the African trade routes. These were real superpowers, and Sijilmasa could not compare, even with its wealth. These superpowers relied on powerful regional rulers to act in their stead. Sijilmasa's Midrar rulers were chosen by the Fatimids of Ifriqiya (modern-day Tunisia), while their rivals - the Umayyads of Cordoba - chose the rulers of Maghrawa confederation.

These alliances, however, were quick to shift and displace, and troubles soon arose in Sijilmasa. Around 909 AD, the Fatimids launched an expedition against Sijilmasa. For fifty days the city was in their hands, before it was again retaken by the Midrars. In 922, however, the Fatimids returned, and this time held the city for 20 years.

Sijilmasa remained a crucial trading hub, with its gold coin mints operating at full capacity. This time, however, the names of Fatimid caliphs were on these coins, and they went to different pockets. Needless to say, these events were fatal for the Midrar Dynasty, and its rapid disintegration began in this period. Eventually, it was the Maghraba Berbers - whose alliance shifted between Umayyad and Fatimid - that took hold of the city. It now became the major town of the Maghrawas, and continued its role as a trade center.

However, after six decades of Maghrawa rule, the elders of Sijilmasa had had enough. They sought the assistance of the Sanhaja Berber confederation, a major north African power, which was at that time transforming into the important Almoravid Dynasty. According to the Arab writer al-Bakri, the leader of the Almoravids mustered his armies and descended upon Sijilmasa, defeating the leader of the Maghrawa Berbers.

Alas, it was the Almoravids who ruled in Sijilmasa from that point on - and their rule was hardly welcome. For the Almoravids practiced an incredibly strict form of Islam. They banned all the instruments in the city, and closed wine shops and similar venues. The people of the city attempted a few revolts, but to no avail. Sijilmasa remained in Almoravid hands until 1146.

Mud-brick ruins from the ancient city of Sijilmasa within the lush Tafilalt Oasis in Morocco. (Mohammed / Adobe Stock)

Sijilmasa: A Pawn of Greater Powers

It was only in 1146 that the Almohad Caliphate took control of Sijilmasa. They were quick to take advantage of the town's wealth, and all the traffic that passed through it. Much to the misfortune of the citizens, their rule was equally as bad as that of the strict Almoravids. Although the Almohads were not that strict, they were awfully violent and oppressive. This was confirmed with a brutal massacre of all the Jews that lived in Sijilmasa. Their ruthless regime did not last for long, as the ruling powers once again changed in the city.

The Almohad Dynasty eventually fell, and the new Zenata Berber confederation was established as the new ruler of Sijilmasa, and most of Morocco as well. The change happened in the mid 14th century AD. In 1352, the esteemed Arab explorer Ibn Battuta wrote of Sijilmasa:

> "I reached the city of Sijilmasa, a very beautiful city. It has abundant dates of > good quality. The city of al-Basra is like it in the abundance of dates, but those of Sijilmasa are superior."

- Gold, Salt, and Islam: The Story of Koumbi Saleh
- The Ancient, Fortified Ksar of Ait-Ben-Haddou Awaits the Return of Desert Traders

Sometimes in the late 14th century, after reaching its absolute peak of glory and wealth, Sijilmasa entered a steep decline. Economic fluctuations and increased rivalries between regional rulers, placed the city at increased risk. Around this time, a vicious civil war broke out, and Sijilmasa suffered widespread destruction. From this point on, even though it was partially rebuilt in different times during history, the city would still never attain the prosperity it had for centuries.

The Iberian scholar Leo Africanus traveled the area in the early 16th century, and stumbled upon the deserted ruins of the once-mighty Sijilmasa, writing:

> "Of its walls, once so high, only a few sections remain, half-ruined, and covered with grass and moss. Of its population, there remain only various hostile clans, each living with its chief in a fortified village near to the ruins of the former Sijilmasa."

The Tragic Fate of a Once Prosperous Metropolis

History does not know the exact reason why Sijilmasa was abandoned and destroyed after centuries of incredible prosperity. The likeliest reason, as evidenced from oral legends and travel writers, is that civil war and the rule of cruel despots doomed the city to its tragic fate. Climate change could have contributed as well, with a continued lack of resources plaguing the townsfolk.

At its height, Sijilmasa was the most prosperous town in the region. All the gold from the powerful Mali Empire ended up in the Sijilmasa mints, where it was struck into coins and placed into the global market. From there, it was transported to Egypt and Spain, and eventually made its way to Europe and the Mediterranean. Culture and arts flourished in the city, as did lavish Islamic architecture .

Alas, no golden age is destined to last forever. Today, only a few mud-brick walls and buildings remain of the vast oasis city that was Sijilmasa. After multiple destructions and rebuilds, the city never regained its former glory. Its fate serves as a valuable lesson in the history of affluent cities, subject to power struggles by covetous rulers.

Top image: Remains of the ancient city of Sijilmasa within the lush Tafilalt Oasis in Morocco. Source: Mohammed / Adobe Stock

By Aleksa Vučković

References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: News Ancient Places Africa

Tags: morocco Gold Oasis trade desert Africa

ALEKSA

I am a published author of over ten historical fiction novels, and I specialize in Slavic linguistics. Always pursuing my passions for writing, history and literature, I strive to deliver a thrilling and captivating read that touches upon history's most... Read More

RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS

7 MAY, 2023 - 17:00 ROBBIE MITCHELL

Ancient Tradition of Hide Tanning is a Foul and Dirty Job (Video)

In the ancient alleys of Fez , Morocco lies a 600-year-old tannery infamous for its foul stench. The tannery is a place where animal hides go through a filthy and smelly process to be transformed...

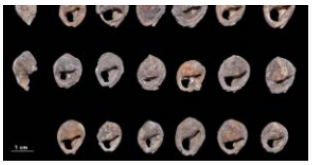
READ LATER READ MORE

18 MARCH, 2023 - 15:53 JOANNA GILLAN

The Risks of Keeping the World's Oldest Leather Tannery Alive (Video)

The Chouara Tannery in Morocco, with its rich history dating back to the 11th century, has been a hub for skilled tanners transforming animal hides into leather using time-honored techniques. While...

READ LATER READ MORE

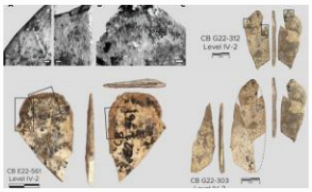


22 NOVEMBER, 2021 - 23:57 SAHIR

Were Bizmoune Cave Shell Beads A Form Of Ancient ID?

Humans were adorning their persons to make fashion statements 142,000 to 150,000 ago, according to a new analysis of the sea snail shell jewelry beads found in Morocco's Bizmoune Cave. Conducted by a...

READ LATER READ MORE



23 SEPTEMBER, 2021 - 22:52 NATHAN FALDE

World's Oldest Jewelry Excavated at a Moroccan Cave

Human beings have been wearing necklaces, bracelets earrings, and other forms of jewelry for a long time. But when you are next looking at a cross bracelet in an antique store and wondering what...

READ LATER READ MORE

17 SEPTEMBER, 2021 - 18:43 NATHAN FALDE

Moroccan Cave Find Shows Ancient Humans Made Clothes 120,000 Years Ago

Researchers have announced the discovery of bone tools in a cave in Morocco that appear to have been used to carefully remove skins and fur from the bodies of dead animals. The skins recovered this...

READ LATER READ MORE

2 FEBRUARY, 2021 - 16:51 JOANNA GILLAN

Remembering the Barbary Slaves: White Slaves and North African Pirates

Much attention and condemnation has been directed towards the tragedy of the African slave trade , which took place between the 16th and the 19th centuries. However, another equally despicable trade...

READ LATER READ MORE

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)
- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Finding the Lost Mother of Cleopatra VII - Cleopatra V Tryphaena of Egypt

There is no inscription or papyrus to confirm who the mother of Cleopatra VII was, but the information that exists about her and the world of the Ptolemaic period suggest that it was Queen Cleopatra V Tryphaena.

- Hannibal of Carthage: Military Commander and Greatest Enemy of Rome
- New Study Unveils the Face of Egypt's Iconic Pharaoh Tutankhamun
- The Rise of Chandragupta Maurya, and the Golden Age of the Mauryan Empire
- Bronze Age Treasure Revealed Female Rule of the Argarics (Video)
- The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Haunting Tales: Exploring 4 of the Most Famous Ancient Ghost Stories

Ghosts have been a part of human folklore and legends for centuries, captivating our imaginations and sending shivers down our spines.

- The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?
- Accidental Find of Impeccably Preserved Ming Dynasty Taizhou Mummy
- Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World
- Fathoming the Ruins of Yanmen Shan Mountain and the Biggest Cut Rocks in the World
- Sacred Treasure Hunt: In Pursuit of the Elusive Ark of the Covenant (Video)

IMPORTANT EVENTS

History Erased: The 6 Most Heartbreaking Archaeological Destructions

Have you ever wondered how the destruction of our past affects our future?

- The Murder Hunt that Unearthed a Long-Lost Visigoth Settlement (Video)
- Anne Bonny: Behind the Myth of the Breast-Baring Pirate (Video)
- The Second Punic War – Hannibal's Infamous Offensive
- Vikings vs. Native Americans: A Clash of Cultures in the New World (Video)
- Lisbon's Cataclysm: The Earthquake that Shook History (Video)

TOP NEW STORIES

The American Scientists Bringing Animals Back From Extinction (Video)

In a world where the delicate balance of nature is threatened by human activities, a group of American scientists has taken on an extraordinary mission.

- Survey Finds Two Dozen Shipwrecks Proving Historic Mediterranean Sea Routes
- Divine Relics: The Miracle Rings of Ourense (Video)
- Finding the Lost Mother of Cleopatra VII - Cleopatra V Tryphaena of Egypt
- Resurrecting the Past: Sicily's Bizarre Mummy Rituals (Video)
- Hawaii: Paradise Location Of Homeric Mythical Elysian Fields

HUMAN ORIGINS

Top Ten Myths about Neanderthals

Neanderthals are generally classified by palaeontologists as the species Homo neanderthalensis , but some consider them to be a subspecies of Homo sapiens (Homo sapiens neanderthalensis). The first...

- Top Ten Myths about Neanderthals
- The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- The origins of human beings according to ancient Sumerian texts
- Did a Native American travel with the Vikings and arrive in Iceland centuries before Columbus set sail?

ANCIENT PLACES

Resurrecting the Past: Sicily's Bizarre Mummy Rituals (Video)

Sicily's enigmatic mummy rituals have captivated researchers and historians alike for decades.

- Sijilmasa: The Golden Oasis and Africa's El Dorado
- History Erased: The 6 Most Heartbreaking Archaeological Destructions
- Selling Their Souls: Kingdom of Loango, Africa's Pre-Colonial Power
- Correfoc: The "Demonic" Tradition of Mallorca (Video)
- Varna Man and the Wealthiest Grave of the 5th Millennium BC

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Dogon's Extraordinary Knowledge of the Cosmos and the Cult of Nommo

France, 1920: Marcel Griaule is a young man who is very well-established in his studies, especially in mathematics. He has recently served as a volunteer in the French Air Force and aspires to attend the prestigious Lycée Louis le Grande.

- Tracing the origins of the Serpent Cult
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe
- Lilith: Ancient Demon, Dark Deity or Sensual Goddess?
- Of Runes And Sacrifice: The Initiation Ritual Of Odin in Norse Myth

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

A Step Closer to the Mysterious Origin of the Viking Sword Ulfberht

Ulfberht was like a Medieval luxury brand for swords —but unlike your Gucci purse, the swords were of such high quality they were almost … mystical. Dozens of these swords—made with metal so strong and pure it's baffling how any sword maker of that time could have accomplished it

- Using These 12,000-Year-Old Flutes, Did Humans Speak With Raptors?
- Han Purple: A 2,800-year-old artificial pigment that quantum physicists are trying to understand
- The Disc of Sabu: Ancient Egyptian Water Pump or Alien Hyperdrive?
- The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt
- The Vajra: An Ancient Weapon of War

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I
- The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

AD
Начни с нуля
Xcraft 21+
Перейти на сайт
Ad

2023 EUROPEAN PUBLISHING AWARDS WINNERS
RECONSTRUCTING THE STORY OF HUMANITY'S PAST
WINNER 2023 COVER ONE-SHOT STELLA NOVUS LTD.: ANCIENT ORIGINS MAGAZINE #29
WINNER 2023 STORYTELLING: SHORT PIECE STELLA NOVUS LTD.: ANCIENT ORIGINS MAGAZINE

AD
Начни с нуля
Xcraft 21+
Перейти на сайт
Ad

All Search across 12,000+ articles

NEWS HUMAN ORIGINS HISTORY ARTIFACTS MYTHS PLACES UNEXPLAINED WEIRD FACTS PREMIUM SHOP

General History & Archaeology Science & Space Evolution & Human Origins Mysterious Phenomena

Home / News

2023 EUROPEAN PUBLISHING AWARDS WINNERS
WINNER 2023 COVER ONE-SHOT STELLA NOVUS LTD.: ANCIENT ORIGINS MAGAZINE #29
WINNER 2023 STORYTELLING: SHORT PIECE STELLA NOVUS LTD.: ANCIENT ORIGINS MAGAZINE

ANCIENT ORIGINS Subscribe

ECHOES OF THE AGORA
ANCIENT GREEK PHILOSOPHERS

Uncovering the Truth Behind Matriarchal Societies in the Ancient World

View

READ LATER PRINT

A theme common amongst the mythology of ancient cultures is a belief in the existence of a Golden Age , when humans lived uncorrupted, in peace and harmony, experiencing prosperity and societal stability. While the theme is common, there is much variation in its form and detail across those cultures. Some scholars believe that the foundation of this Golden Age in human prehistory was a matriarchal society . One in which women ruled ; a society underpinned by feminine values, until its collapse into patriarchy sometime between 10,000 and 5,000 years ago, leaving men and their male gods ruling society's values and structures.

For many, this Golden Age of Matriarchy is no more than a hopeful expression of feminist desire - a myth, now debunked, that at one time served the interests of a particular feminist vision but for which the evidence has been found lacking and the benefits of which to the feminist cause have been considered highly questionable.

Get your 4 ebooks Now!
Email
Name
I agree to receiving emails Read terms
Я не робот
reCAPTCHA
Конфиденциальность - Условия использования
Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- This is the thing about Sound
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- Please introduce yourself
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara

More

MOST READ TODAY

- The Origin of the Knights Templar – Descendants of Jewish Elders?
- Sumer: Where Written Language, Arithmetic

The Garos are an indigenous people of india and are one of the last remaining matriarchal societies in the world. (Vishma Thapa / CC BY-SA 4.0)

Definition of "Matriarchal" Society

However, so much of this analysis depends upon definition. Dr. Heide Goettner-Abendroth has lamented the lack of any clear definition of a matriarchal society . She considers the concept "so indistinct that nearly everyone could understand it in different ways". Clearly, the case for finding such a prehistoric matriarchal society will be at its weakest if a matriarchy is defined narrowly as simply the opposite of patriarchy, as a society "ruled" by women instead of men. On the other hand, if any non-patriarchal society is by its very nature considered matriarchal, there will clearly be far greater latitude in identifying such a societal framework in pre-history. Or is it somewhere between these two extremes that a true matriarchy is to be understood? In my view it is.

In seeking to identify the existence of a prehistoric matriarchy in which women "ruled", it is noteworthy that most anthropologists do not consider that there are, or ever have been, any societies that are known to be "matriarchal" in this sense. Their identification as "matriarchal" is considered to represent a confusion with a number of other related but distinct societal structures, such as matrilineal (tracing kinship through one's mother), matrilocal (families remain located close to the maternal line), and matrifocal (where the mother is head of the family).

Dr. Goettner-Abendroth has agreed that matriarchies will by definition never be found if one is looking simply for a society in which women take the "ruling" role of men that characterizes patriarchal societies. But this she argues is because a matriarchy will not be based on domination by any gender, but upon maternal values which will exhibit as caretaking and nurturing negotiation-oriented communities, with complementary equality for women and men alike.

So understood, she has found "abundant evidence" for the existence of many matriarchal societies, to be found today in Asia, America, and Africa. All, she notes, are " gender egalitarian societies , and many of them are fully egalitarian", with "no hierarchies, classes, nor domination of one gender by the other". Most academics exclude egalitarian societies from the concept of "matriarchy". In my view, they are mistaken in doing so.

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT

ANCIENT ROME

ANCIENT MESOPOTAMIA

SUGGESTED BOOKS

- and Civilization Were Born
- The Badlands Guardian: Geological Feature that Stunned the World
- The Enigma of Prehistoric Skulls with Bullet-Like Holes
- Geometric Stone Spheres of Scotland: Part 1 – More Than A Projectile - What Possible Purpose 5,000-years Ago?
- 2000-Year-Old Child's Leather Shoe Found in Austrian Salt Mine

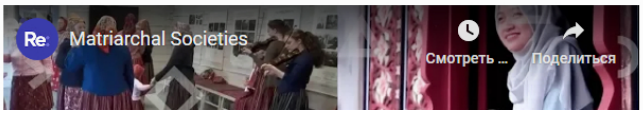
AD

Children of Heroes



Ukrainian children need your support.

DONATE NOW

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

Egalitarian Societies verses Patriarchal and Matriarchal Societies

Consistent with the well documented egalitarian structure of the world's oldest continuous culture, that of Australian Aboriginals, a 2015 study reported in Science of contemporary hunter gather communities (in the Congo and the Philippines) also found them to exhibit egalitarian social structures. Indeed, this study has merely confirmed numerous previous findings. Dr. Peter Gray has commented that:

> "During the twentieth century, anthropologists discovered and studied dozens of different hunter-gatherer societies, in various remote parts of the world, who had been nearly untouched by modern influences. Wherever they were found - in Africa, Asia, South America, or elsewhere; in deserts or in jungles - these societies had many characteristics in common. … In each of these societies, the dominant cultural ethos was one that emphasized individual autonomy, non-directive childrearing methods, nonviolence, sharing, cooperation, and consensual decision-making. Their core value, which underlay all of the rest, was that of the equality of individuals."

Savanna Pumé couple on a hunting and gathering trip in the llanos of Venezuela. While the man hunts, and the woman gathers does that denote an equalitarian society? (Ajiimai / CC BY-SA 4.0)

Importantly, the 2015 study also supported the evolutionary advantage that ancient hunter gatherer societies would similarly have enjoyed with egalitarian social structures, providing "the selective context for expanded social networks, cumulative culture, and cooperation among unrelated individuals." It is with the subsequent transition to agriculture and pastoralism that humans see the emergence of gender inequality, and the domination of patriarchy that now characterizes our Western society.

Venus Figurines – Do They Imply Matriarchal Rule?

In my view, ancient hunter gatherer communities were very likely egalitarian, and so matriarchal. In support of this conclusion, Dr. Simon Butler has noted that "[a]n apparent

The Legends and Archaeology of Devil's Lake: A Place of Ancient Power in Wisconsin
Located south of Baraboo in Sauk County Wisconsin, Devil's Lake is a place of natural wonder and legend. The central feature of the biggest State Park in Wisconsin , Devil's Lake covers 360 acres (...

The Voyage of Aeneas of Troy: Did it Really Happen?

The Menehune of Hawaii – Ancient Race or Fictional Fairytale?

Baphomet: Was the Diabolical Demon Really Worshipped by Knights Templars?

The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe

Was Dracula Story inspired by Abhartach, the Bloodsucking Chieftain of Ireland?

dominance of female representation in prehistoric art has been equated by some with female dominance or power in society, and to the existence of wide-ranging matriarchal or matrifocal societies prior to the emergence of patriarchies".
Amongst this prehistoric art, there are more than 200 representations of women in what are commonly described as " Venus figurines ". Found mostly in Europe and generally dating back to the Paleolithic era, as much as 40,000 years ago, he comments that they "have been variously interpreted as fertility symbols, lucky charms or toys, or as images of goddesses, priestesses, worshippers, ancestors or matriarchal rulers".

- In Plain Sight, Our Neanderthal Ancestors
- Breastfeeding Beliefs: From Invincibility to Universal Creation
- A Patriarchal Portrait of a Witch: Warning of Witchcraft in the Female Wiles

Venus of Hohlefels, the earliest Venus figurine, Paleolithic period, mammoth ivory, female representation in prehistoric art has been equated by some with female dominance or power implying a Matriarchy Society. (Ramessos / CC BY-SA 3.0)

One of the more controversial claims is that they demonstrate the worship of a mother earth goddess, and in doing so support the view that these ancient cultures were matriarchal. Generalizations are of course dangerous and probably no single interpretation of their function would be true of all of the figurines. Moreover, Dr. Butler has correctly observed that in any event "any sacred status as goddesses does not necessarily imply increased social status for women."

However, whatever the ultimate merits of this claim, more significant to my mind is that these mostly palm-sized figurines commonly exhibit heads devoid of detail, but with large breasts, buttocks, hips and thighs, and legs that taper to a point at the feet. Dr. LeRoy McDermott has suggested that "these anatomical details do not add up to an accurate image of the human figure" simply because they reflect "the fixed angle of self-regard which accounts for both the odd 'realism of parts considered independently one from another' … and … [the] conclusion that the figures appear 'centered on the torso, breasts, thighs, and abdomen,' with the rest 'attenuated' or 'dwindling away' above and below". In other words, in at least some cases the woman represented has carved the figurine herself, looking from her own perspective down upon her body.

While not without its critics, this interpretation of the origins of at least some of the figurines is to my mind quite compelling. Of course, as Dr. McDermott has recognized, "[i]dentifying where the artist stood when creating a representational work does not tell us what it meant to its creator or how it was used or seen by others", but in my view it does say something about the place of women in that community. It challenges the common assumption that these prehistoric figurines were carved only by men. It reflects a community in which women also enjoyed a role in its artistic life, whatever symbolic or other function/s the figurines otherwise had within the community.

Cave Art – Was it Matriarchal?

This is also supported by research that has suggested that women may be responsible for much ancient cave art . While human handprints (positive images) and human hand stencils (negative images) occur in cave art on every inhabited continent, the largest (and arguably most well-known) form part of the Upper Paleolithic cave art concentrated in southern France and northern Spain, generally dated to the period between 40,000 and 12,500 years ago. A study by Dr. Dean Snow, comparing hand size and finger lengths, has disproved the traditional assumption that this cave art was produced mainly, if not exclusively, by men. Indeed, to the contrary, Dr. Snow found that those who made the hand stencils in the caves were predominantly women.

Cueva de las Manos located Perito Moreno, Argentina. This cave art dates between 13,000–9,000 BC. The hand stencils in the caves were made predominantly by women. (Marianocecowsk / CC BY-SA 3.0)

Stone Tools – Made by Women

Similarly, stone tool production has generally been assumed to be an exclusively male activity in ancient communities. However, as early as 1991 the late Dr. Joan Gero concluded that women in prehistory "can be suspected of making as many stone tools as men". This conclusion has been supported by a more recent University of Florida study of an extant Ethiopian community where women were found to dominate the making of stone tools, and which the authors of the study consider suggests that women in prehistory probably similarly had an active part in creating stone tools.

While none of these studies in or of themselves tells us the nature of the gender structures of prehistoric hunter gatherer communities, they each show female participation in the economic, social, and cultural life of these communities in areas traditionally understood to have been the province solely of men. Taken together, they are at least suggestive of an egalitarian social structure in these communities.

Tools from the Stone Age, whether in a Matriarchy Society and Patriarchy Society, it is determined that women were found to dominate the making of stone tools. (ExQuisine / Adobe)

Animals Represented in Paleolithic Art

It is interesting too that the animals represented in Paleolithic art are not identical with those animals most economically important or hunted. Rather, Dr. Walpurga Antl-Weiser has noted that animals most economically important or hunted. Rather, Dr. Walpurga Anti-Weiser has noted that species were chosen to be represented not merely because of their economic value but because they had a deeper meaning to the community. While there are regional choices as to which animals are represented, he identifies mammoths as having a supra regional importance throughout the Upper Paleolithic, while other animals represented included bison and lions.

In the modern world, elephants (with whom it appears mammoths shared a similar social structure), (North American) bison and lions are all matriarchal. As Dr. Anti-Weiser concludes that "[w]e can be rather sure that people reflected on the abilities and qualities of animals and compared some of these qualities with their own", it might legitimately be asked whether it was the matriarchal qualities of these species that inspired their representation, even if only in respect of some of the representations.

- Are Stone Circles Ancient Pregnancy Calendars?
- Ancient Women Shaman of Ireland: Goddesses of Prophecy and Omens
- Margaret Murray - Mother of Egyptology, Grandmother of Wicca, or Fairy Godmother?

Drawings from the ceiling of Altamira cave in Spain, bison and lions are considered matriarchal. (bereta / Adobe)

Venus-Style Figurines Pre-Dating Homo Sapiens

It is also interesting that other Venus-style figurines of an age pre-dating homo sapiens have been found in Israel and Morocco. The Venus of Berekhat Ram and the Venus of Tan-Tan have been claimed to be the earliest representations of the human form, dating to between 230,000 and 700,000 years ago and between 300,000 and 500,000 years ago respectively. Given their age, it is recognized that they would have been made by Neanderthals or perhaps even predating Neanderthals, being created by an earlier hominid like Homo erectus . In that regard, it may be noteworthy that Neanderthal communities are considered to have shared many of the basic social and demographic characteristics of modern hunter gatherer communities and indeed have been suggested to have been matriarchal.

"Venus of Tan-Tan" (left) and "Venus of Berekhat Ram" (right), Museum of Human Evolution, Spain. (Dbachmann / CC BY-SA 4.0)

On balance, there are strong grounds for concluding that the communities of our ancient hunter gatherer forebears were likely egalitarian in nature and so matriarchal in their social structures. Such societies are based upon maternal values, exhibiting as caretaking and nurturing negotiation-oriented communities, for women and men alike; a reality giving substance and form to the maligned mythology of a Golden Age of Matriarchy. Which only begs the question – What would our society be like if only we could escape the domination of patriarchal rule?

Top image: Matriarchal woman Source: wichansumalee / Adobe Stock

I would like to thank my friend and writing colleague, Ms. Marianne Schmidt, for her insightful comments in the development of this note.

By Dr. Philip Jamieson

References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: News History Ancient Traditions

Tags: matriarchy society matriarchal golden age Paleolithic societal structure Venus figurines matriarchies egalitarian cave art stone tools feminist

Read The Comments (4 Comments)

PHILIP

Dr Philip Jamieson is a retired former academic and researcher who now pursues his interests in ancient cultures, mythology, animal welfare, spirituality and the environment. Based in Brisbane, Australia, he is a frequent traveler in pursuit of his quest for... Read More

RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS

7 OCTOBER, 2021 - 18:42 ALEKSA VUČKOVIĆ

Who Were The Andronovo? Bronze Age Culture Of The Eurasian Steppe

It shouldn't come as a surprise that our earliest origins lie somewhere far away from our current homeland. When Europeans are considered, modern history and science tell us that our languages and...

READ LATER READ MORE

11 JANUARY, 2020 - 02:03 ED WHELAN

Kuruhinna Tharaagandu, Maldives' Forgotten Buddhist Past

The Maldives is a tropical paradise that attracts visitors from all over the world. There is, however, more to the beautiful island nation than pristine beaches and an abundance of sunshine. It has a...

READ LATER READ MORE

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

- The Voyage of Aeneas of Troy: Did it Really Happen?
- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)
- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Sennacherib's Prisms Reveal the Glorious Reign of an Assyrian King

Imagine if all of the world's ancient cultures and civilizations had had well-developed writing systems.

- A Digit of Devotion: Buddha's Finger Bone
- Recreating Henry V's Gruesome Arrow Removal Surgery (Video)
- Seven Scandalous Love Affairs of French Queens
- Rimush of Akkad, Sargon's Heir, and a Brutal Warlord
- Causing a Ruckus as the Ruthless Pirate Hayreddin Redbeard

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Legend of Sambation River and the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel

Deep within the realms of ancient Jewish folklore lies a tale of intrigue and mystery surrounding the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel and their elusive barrier.

- The Enduring Mystery and Ancient Artistry of Bolivia's Sajama Lines
- Exploring the Enigma of the Hellfire Club: Dublin's Haunted Secret
- The Enigma of Sweden's Great Lake Beast (Video)
- Smallpox Vaccine Sheds New Light on Mysterious Kaspar Hauser Legend
- Mystery of the Latin Inscribed Artifacts Found in Arizona

IMPORTANT EVENTS

How a 500-Year-Old Chinese 'Bagel' Helped Win a War (Video)

Today bagels are a staple snack for many of us, but did you know that hundreds of years ago a Chinese variation helped win a war?

- In 1529 AD, Soldier's Called a Ceasefire Over Swiss Milk Soup (Video)
- The Gutian Invasion: What Really Caused the Fall of the Akkadian Empire?
- The Rise and Fall of the Mighty Bulgars and the First Bulgarian Empire
- Did Descendants of Cleopatra VII Survive and Produce the Legendary Queen Zenobia of Palmyra?

- Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom

(Video)

- The Third Punic War: Rome's Triumph, Carthage's Tragedy

TOP NEW STORIES

Sri Ranganathaswamy Temple: The 700-Year-Old Temple of Colors (Video)

The Sri Ranganathaswamy Temple in southern India is an exceptional record of history, offering a window into the past that extends across 700 years.

- Shani Shingnapur Village in India Has No Doors, No Locks and No Crime
- Joan of Arc Was Far from The Saint She's Portrayed As (Video)
- A Digit of Devotion: Buddha's Finger Bone
- Ancient People Harvested Snail Slime for Beauty Products (Video)
- Massive Multi-Storey Structures Found Below Ancient Castle in Turkey

HUMAN ORIGINS

Near-Extinction of Our Human Ancestors Revealed by Genetic Research

Approximately one million years ago, the Earth was populated by a few hundred thousand or so ancient human ancestors.

- The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory
- The Origins of Human Beings According to Ancient Sumerian Texts
- Bees, Not Neanderthal Florists, Dropped Pollen in Iraq's Shanidar Cave
- Evidence that Noah's Ark Landed on a Mountain 17 Miles South of Ararat
- Is the Universe Only 6,000 years old? Young Earth Creationists Say Yes!

ANCIENT PLACES

Sumer: Where Written Language, Arithmetic and Civilization Were Born

The Sumerian civilization (known also as Sumer) was one of the earliest civilizations in the world. This ancient civilization emerged in the region of southern Mesopotamia (modern day southern Iraq), between the Tigris and Euphrates River.

- The Badlands Guardian: Geological Feature that Stunned the World
- The Legends and Archaeology of Devil's Lake: A Place of Ancient Power in Wisconsin
- Attention Seeker Destroys Ancient Monument And Posts Act On Facebook
- 2500-Year-Old Technology and an Ancient Kitchen Unearthed at Harput Castle
- The Underwater City of Cuba: A New Theory on its Origins – Part I

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Legends and Archaeology of Devil's Lake: A Place of Ancient Power in Wisconsin

Located south of Baraboo in Sauk County Wisconsin, Devil's Lake is a place of natural wonder and legend. The central feature of the biggest State Park in Wisconsin , Devil's Lake covers 360 acres (...

- The Voyage of Aeneas of Troy: Did it Really Happen?
- The Menehune of Hawaii – Ancient Race or Fictional Fairytale?
- Baphomet: Was the Diabolical Demon Really Worshipped by Knights Templars?
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe
- Was Dracula Story inspired by Abhartach, the Bloodsucking Chieftain of Ireland?

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Geometric Stone Spheres of Scotland: Part 1 – More Than A Projectile - What Possible Purpose 5,000-years Ago?

Four hundred and twenty geometric stone spheres have been found in the vicinity of Neolithic stone circles in Northern Scotland, with 169 coming from Aberdeenshire alone. Outside Scotland, examples have been found in Ireland at Ballymena, and in England at Durham, Cumbria, Lowick and Bridlington.

- The Exceptional Craftmanship Behind Medieval Arrows (Video)
- 2500-Year-Old Technology and an Ancient Kitchen Unearthed at Harput Castle
- Recreating Henry V's Gruesome Arrow Removal Surgery (Video)
- Ten amazing inventions from ancient times
- 150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

OPINION

Cracking the Code to Discover Ancient Tarot Symbolism and Forgotten Universal Knowledge

How old is the Tarot? This is a question that seems easy to answer today. As playing cards, we can confidently map the Tarot to the early 15th century. Mystery solved? Well, it's not quite that simple.

- Naupa Iglesia: An Egyptian Portal in the Andes?
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

UPDATED 23 JANUARY, 2019 - 22:55 DHWTY

A History of Islam: The Second Largest Religion in Today's World Began With a Divine Revelation

READ LATER PRINT

The word 'Islam' means 'submission or surrender to the will of God'. Islam is one of the major world religions, and with over 1 billion adherents, is the second largest religion in the world today. The history of Islam goes all the way back to the 7th century, when it was revealed through divine revelation to the Prophet Muhammad in Mecca, in what is today Saudi Arabia. By the time of the Prophet's death, Islam had gained control over the whole of the Arabian Peninsula. The mission of spreading the religion was carried on by the Prophet's successors, who brought Islam to the four corners of the world.

Medieval Persian manuscript depicting Muhammad leading Abraham, Moses and Jesus in prayer. (Public Domain)

The Prophet Muhammad and Early History of Islam

According to Muslims, the Prophet Muhammad received the first verse of the Qur'an from Allah via the angel Jibril (Arabic for Gabriel) in a cave in 610 AD. Muhammad began to preach in his

Get your 4 ebooks Now!

Email
Name
I approve receiving emails
Please verify your request
Я не робот
reCAPTCHA
Конфиденциальность - Условия использования
Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara
- Please introduce yourself
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- Pyramids, a global phenomena
- Io - A Black Sea/Egypt Link?

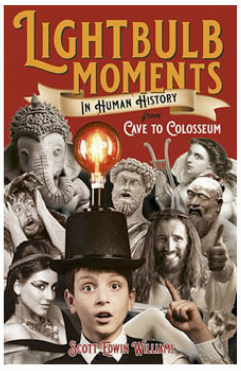
More

MOST READ TODAY

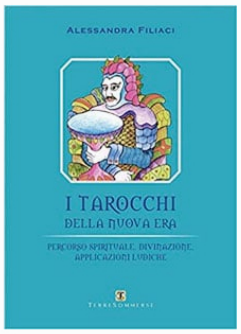
- Fossils and Artifacts Found in Belize's Sacred Mayan Pools (Video)
- The Myth of the Basajaun: A Basque Story of an Ancient Encounter
- Apache Girls Face Tests of Endurance in Rite of Passage (Video)

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

NORSE MYTHOLOGY



ANCIENT EGYPT



ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS

PARTNERS

hometown of Mecca and soon gained a following. By 615, a community of believers had grown around the Prophet, and in 622, seeing Muhammad as a threat, the Quraysh, who were in control of Mecca, forced him and his followers out of the city. Muhammad embarked on the hijrah (journey) to Medina, where he was welcomed by the local Muslims.

1307 Depiction of Mohammed receiving his first revelation from the angel Gabriel. (Public Domain)

At Medina, the Prophet was able to establish an Islamic government and he became a religious, political, and military leader. In 630, Medina had grown strong enough for Muhammad to march an army against Mecca. The city was conquered with minimum bloodshed. Two years later, the Prophet died, by which time the whole of the Arabian Peninsula had come under the control of Islam.

- The Kaaba Black Stone: A Holy Stone from Outer Space?
- Dating of manuscripts controversially suggests Quran may be older than Prophet Mohammed
- The Dome of the Rock: A Magnet Attracting Multiple Religions to a Single Sacred Spot

The Prophet Muhammad and the Muslim Army at the Battle of Uhud, from the Siyer-i Nebi, 1595. (Public Domain)

The Rashidun Caliphate Expand the Islamic State

The Prophet Muhammad was succeeded by four caliphs, known collectively as the Rashidun (meaning 'rightly guided) Caliphate. The four caliphs – Abu Bakr, Umar ibn al-Khattab, Uthman ibn Affan, and Ali ibn Abi Talib, led the Islamic state from the death of Muhammad to 661. Although the Rashidun Caliphate lasted merely 29 years, it made a huge expansion to the territory ruled by Islam. It was during this period that the Levant, Egypt, large parts of North Africa, and Persia were conquered by the Muslims.

Rite of Passage (Video)

- The Search for England's Underwater City (Video)
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- The Last of the Siberian Unicorns: What Happened to the Beasts of Legend?

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

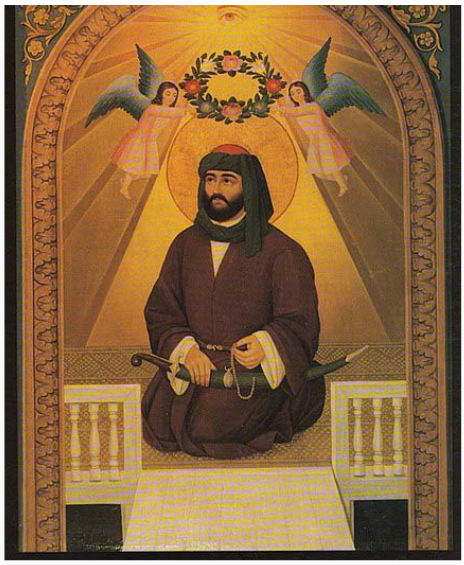
Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Myth of the Basajaun: A Basque Story of an Ancient Encounter

The genetic background of modern day Europe can often be a complicated topic to talk about. History often brings the migrations of faraway peoples, which is how the Indo-Europeans merged with the proto-populations of Old Europe.

The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa

The Last of the Siberian Unicorns: What Happened to the Beasts of Legend?



Surtr: Norse Mythology's Giant God of Fire and Apocalypse

Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site

Debunking the Aryan Race "Myth" and Separating Fact from Fiction

NEXUS MAGAZINE
on alternative health, future science, conspiracies & the unexplained.

INNER TRADITIONS BEAR & COMPANY

Alī bin Abī Ṭālib by Hakob Hovnatanyan (c. 19th century). (Public Domain)

Despite the military successes of the Muslim armies, the Islamic state was not without internal conflict. The question of succession had already risen immediately following the death of Muhammad, and this issue would split the Muslims into several factions. According to the Shiites, for instance, the first three Rashidun caliphs were not legitimate, and only Ali was the rightful successor of the Prophet. On the other hand, Ali came into conflict with many of his brethren, especially with those who allegedly wanted to avenge the assassination of Uthman.

Civil War Breaks Out

As a consequence, the First Fitna, a civil war in the Rashidun Caliphate, broke out in 656. The civil war lasted until Ali's death at the hands of the Kharijites in 661. Ali was succeeded by his son, Hasan ibn Ali, who, in order to prevent further bloodshed, concluded a peace treaty with Muawiyah, the governor of Syria, and a major opponent of Ali in the First Fitna. Although Hasan agreed to hand over political power to Muawiyah, one of the conditions placed on the latter was that a dynasty would not be established after his death.

Combat between the forces of Ali and Muawiyah I during the Battle of Siffin, from the Tarikhnama. (Public Domain)

Muawiyah, however, reneged on his promise and the Umayyad Caliphate , which had a dynastic and hereditary succession, was established. Under the Umayyad caliphs, Islam continued to spread, and western North Africa, the Iberian Peninsula, the northwestern regions of the Indian subcontinent, as well as parts of Central Asia were brought under Islamic rule. The Umayyad Caliphate lasted until 750, when it was overthrown in a rebellion / revolution by the Abbasids, who in turn established the next caliphate. The surviving male members of the Umayyad dynasty were hunted down and killed, though some succeeded in escaping to the Iberian Peninsula, where they established a new regime.

- Forgotten Moorish Sites in Murcia Hold Treasures Yet to Be Discovered
- Ibn Battuta—The Marco Polo of Dar-al-Islam
- Who were the Colorful, Powerful, Influential, Educated Women of Ancient Islam?

The Slow Demise of Caliphates

The Abbasid Caliphate lasted until 1517, though for the last few centuries of its existence, its caliphs did not wield any real power. The Abbasid Golden Age lasted from the 8th to the 9th centuries, during which time the Abbasid caliphs resided in Baghdad. By the end of the 9th century, however, the caliphate began to decline, and the Abbasid caliph al-Mustakfi was overthrown by the Buyids in 945. The Abbasids only returned to power in 1194, though the sacking of Baghdad by the Mongols in 1258 effectively brought the Abbasid Caliphate to an end.

Conquest of Baghdad by the Mongols 1258. (Public Domain)

Nevertheless, some members of the Abbasid Dynasty survived, and one of them, Al-Mustansir, found his way to Cairo, which was under the rule of the Mamluks. Al-Mustansir was proclaimed the new Abbasid caliph, though he was little more than a religious figurehead. The Abbasid Caliphate of Cairo lasted until 1517, when the title of Caliph was claimed by the Ottomans who had conquered Egypt. This title was used by the Ottoman sultans until 1924, when the caliphate was abolished following the creation of the Republic of Turkey.

*Top image: 9th century painting of Jean Baptist Huysmans showing an Islamic Egyptian family during an evening prayer. Source: Cool Art/ CC BY NC SA 2.0

By Wu Mingren

References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: News History

Tags: History of Islam Muhammad prophet Mecca caliphate Abbasid Rashidun

COMMENTS (11 Comments)

WU

Wu Mingren ('Dhwty') has a Bachelor of Arts in Ancient History and Archaeology. Although his primary interest is in the ancient civilizations of the Near East, he is also interested in other geographical regions, as well as other time periods.... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY FAMOUS PEOPLE UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA IMPORTANT EVENTS

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

A Day in the Life of the Boy King Tutankhamun (Video)

Discovering the daily life of King Tutankhamun, the 11th pharaoh of the 18th Egyptian dynasty, offers a fascinating glimpse into ancient Egypt's rich history and culture.

Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World

Beneath the surface of our world, hidden under layers of soil, stone, and history, lie remnants of ancient civilizations - vast networks of tunnels, expansive underground cities, and complex subterranean structures.

Two Victims Found To Be Killed By Earthquake In Pompeii Disaster Zone

Archaeologists in Pompeii have become acclimatized to uncovering the petrified remains of people who lost their lives in the 79 AD eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)
- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines

- Top 10 Ancient Greek Athletes and their Sporting Achievements
- Elizabeth Bathory: Was the 'Blood Countess' Serial Killer Misjudged?
- The Lost Years of Jesus: No One Knows How He Spent His 20s (Video)
- The Terracotta Warriors: The Immortal Army of Ancient China (Video)
- The Legend of Montesiepi: The Sacred San Galgano Sword in the Stone

- Fathoming the Ruins of Yanmen Shan Mountain and the Biggest Cut Rocks in the World
- Sacred Treasure Hunt: In Pursuit of the Elusive Ark of the Covenant (Video)
- Neolithic Stone Balls: The Northern Rosetta Stone?
- UFO Author Will Lead Exploration of Rendlesham Forest Encounters Site
- Debunking the Aryan Race "Myth" and Separating Fact from Fiction

- The Devaluation of Rome: Roman Inflation and the Demise of the Empire
- The Unbreakable Barrier: Dubrovnik's Walls Through the Ages
- 8 Ancient Voyages That Changed the World
- 7 of the Most Scandalous Divorces in Ancient History
- The Black Death and Beyond: Uncovering the Secrets of Plague's Deadly Legacy (Video)

TOP NEW STORIES

A Day in the Life of the Boy King Tutankhamun (Video)

Discovering the daily life of King Tutankhamun, the 11th pharaoh of the 18th Egyptian dynasty, offers a fascinating glimpse into ancient Egypt's rich history and culture.

- Top 10 Ancient Greek Athletes and their Sporting Achievements
- Apache Girls Face Tests of Endurance in Rite of Passage (Video)
- Two Victims Found To Be Killed By Earthquake In Pompeii Disaster Zone
- Inside Mexico's Sonora Witches Market (Video)
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa

HUMAN ORIGINS

Mastering the Atlatl: The Ultimate Prehistoric Hunting Tool (Video)

Have you ever heard of the atlatl? It's a prehistoric hunting tool that has been used for thousands of years, predating the bow and arrow.

- Did Ancient People Really Have Lifespans Longer Than 200 Years?
- Surtr: Norse Mythology's Giant God of Fire and Apocalypse
- Watch the Evolution from Ape to Man in this Remarkable Animation (Video)
- The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory
- The Life and Death of 'Lucy' on The Prehistoric Savanna (Video)

ANCIENT PLACES

Fossils and Artifacts Found in Belize's Sacred Mayan Pools (Video)

In a recent discovery, a team of researchers has uncovered what appears to be an underwater portal to the Maya underworld.

- Apache Girls Face Tests of Endurance in Rite of Passage (Video)
- The Search for England's Underwater City (Video)
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- The Nile: How One River Helped Build a Civilization – 10 Amazing Facts
- Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Myth of the Basajaun: A Basque Story of an Ancient Encounter

The genetic background of modern day Europe can often be a complicated topic to talk about. History often brings the migrations of faraway peoples, which is how the Indo-Europeans merged with the proto-populations of Old Europe.

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Philip's Fountain: The Oldest Still-In-Use Hydraulic Work in the World

The Filippeios Krini (Philip's Fountain) is a 2,300-year-old fountain that was commissioned by King Philip II of Macedonia. It has miraculous survived in working order to the present day, making it...

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- The Last of the Siberian Unicorns: What

- Mastering the Atlatl: The Ultimate Prehistoric Hunting Tool (Video)
- 2,000-Year-Old Iron Age and Roman

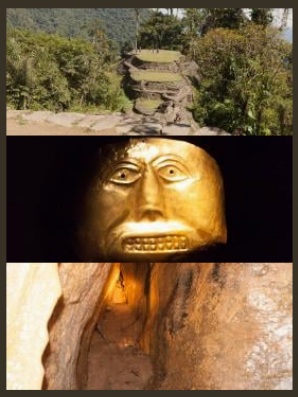
- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North

- Happened to the Beasts of Legend?
- Surtr: Norse Mythology's Giant God of Fire and Apocalypse
- Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site
- Debunking the Aryan Race "Myth" and Separating Fact from Fiction

- Treasures Unearthed in Wales - Carvings of 'True Beauty'
- The Macuahuitl: An Aztec Warrior's Lethal and Sacred Weapon (Video)
- 300,000yo Hand Axes, Tombs & Rock Art Discovered in Oman
- Neolithic Stone Balls: The Northern Rosetta Stone?

- American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I
- The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION



At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

UPDATED 3 AUGUST, 2019 - 22:57 SARAH P YOUNG

Nine Parts of the Human Soul According to the Ancient Egyptians

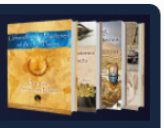
READ LATER PRINT

The idea of the human soul has fascinated humankind for thousands of years. Cultures around the world have sought to explain the soul or spirit in a wide and fascinating variety of ways.

The soul is often an important aspect of religion and is closely tied to the afterlife, reincarnation, and spiritual realms . This means the concept of the soul is integral to many belief systems and that in many cases the descriptions and explanations of the soul are lengthy and complex.

For the religious and non-religious alike the soul remains a symbol of self, and the idea of wagering or losing one's soul has been used as a plotline in stories such as Faustus for generations. In some cultures, such as head-hunting tribes in Indonesia, taking the part of the body believed to house the soul from an enemy is the greatest prize – simultaneously denying their foe the chance to move on to an afterlife and stealing the power of the soul to strengthen their own tribe or family.

Ancient Egyptians had their own complex ideas about what makes up the human soul, and their beliefs involved dividing the soul into nine parts: Khat, Ba, Ren, Ka, Shuyet, Jb, Akh, Sahu, and Sechem.



Eight of these were immortal and passed into the afterlife and the ninth was the physical body which was left behind. The parts all had their own unique functions, and by analyzing these it is possible to understand more about what the ancient Egyptians believed.

Get your 4 ebooks Now!

Email
Name
I approve receiving emails
Please verify your request
Я не робот
reCAPTCHA
Конфиденциальность - Условия использования
Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- Please introduce yourself
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- Pyramids, a global phenomena

More

MOST READ TODAY

- The Extinct Tree Scientists Brought Back To Life from Ancient Seeds (Video)
- Seahenge: A Subaquatic Monument of the European Bronze Age
- Craco: The Abandoned Medieval Ghost Town

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Посмотреть на YouTube

Khat or Kha – The Body

Ancient Egyptians believed the physical form itself was a part of the human soul and called this element the Khat or Kha. It was the vessel inhabited by the rest of the soul on Earth. This is part of the reason mummification became so important to ancient Egyptians – preserving the physical body was actually preserving an important part of the soul.

After a person had died, offerings would still be made to the soul at their physical body because it was believed the rest of their soul could supernaturally absorb the benefits and nutrients from the offerings. The body was a link to the essence of the person who had once inhabited it – a concept which is seen in many other interpretations of the soul.

Ba – The Personality

The Ba is perhaps the closest the ancient Egyptians had to the modern ideas about the soul. It made up all the elements of a person that made them unique.

Taking the form of a bird with a human head, the Ba was the way the soul could move between the mortal realm and the spiritual one. The Egyptians believed the Ba still traveled between both realms occasionally while a person was still alive, but that the journey the Ba made between worlds increased significantly after death.

Ba, part of the human soul, in a facsimile of a vignette from the Book of the Dead. (A. Parrot / Public Domain)

The Ba would visit the gods and the spiritual realm , but it was this part of the soul which would also frequent the places a person loved when they were still alive, maintaining a link between the parts of the soul which dwelled among the stars and the Khat and other elements of the soul which had remained on Earth.

The idea that the Ba would spend time in places a person loved during life is also similar to some modern ideas about ghosts and spirits lingering at a place once loved by a particular person when they were alive. The Ba was also believed to be connected physically to the body and it would remain with the Khat when it was not visiting other physical places or communing with the gods .

Ren – The True Name

Ancient Egyptians were given a name at birth which was kept secret to everyone but the gods. This name was considered an extremely important and powerful part of the soul with the ability to destroy a person and their soul permanently.

Throughout life, an individual was known only by a nickname so that no one would be able to learn their true Ren and gain the powers it contained, or the chance and knowledge needed to destroy it.

As long as the Ren still existed, a soul had the power to keep on surviving. As long as embalming was correctly completed and mummification was successful, the Ren meant a person and their soul would exist for eternity.

- Stairway to Heaven: Ancient Concepts About Heaven and the Afterlife
- Why No Nose? The Ancient Breath of Life and Remarkably Powerful 'Living Statues'
- Did the Ancient Egyptians know the Distance between the Inner Planets?

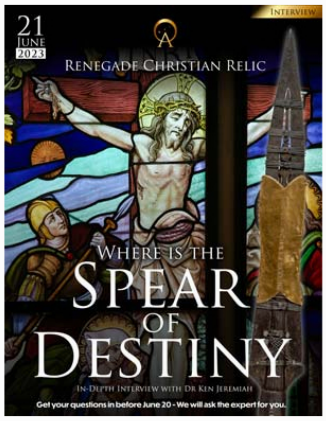
NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT

ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS

PARTNERS



NEXUS MAGAZINE
In-depth articles on alternative health, future science, conspiracies & the unexplained.

INNER TRADITIONS BEAR & COMPANY

of Italy

- Becerrillo: The Terrifying War Dog of the Spanish Conquistadors
- The Ancient Practice of Ghost Marriage Lives On Even Today
- 700,000-Year-Old Tools Found in Greece Rewrite History

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Glastonbury Giant: Who Did the Mystery Bones of A Nine Foot Skeleton Belong To?
When researching the reality of giants in the past, one story which has survived the ages is the apparent discovery of the 'Glastonbury Giant' which was allegedly unearthed in 1190, on orders of King Henry II, following rumors that the legendary King Arthur was in fact buried at that specific location.

The Disturbing True Story of the Pied Piper of Hamelin

The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa

The Egyptian God Ra - Lord of Life and Light

Dwarka's Submerged Secret: Finding the Lost Kingdom of Krishna (Video)

The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe

As long as the Ren existed, the human soul survived. (Jacktandy000 / CC BY-SA 4.0)

A series of texts beginning around 350 AD called the Book of Breathings compiled the names of ancient Egyptians and wrote them down physically to try and ensure they survived. The power of the name was acknowledged by the creation of the cartouche – a special way of writing a name inside a protective magical barrier – which was used around royal names.

Just as preserving the name, the Ren was crucial to preserve the soul. Destroying the Ren was a way of making sure a soul was destroyed forever. This is part of the reason some names of hated figures such as Akhenaten were ritually and destructively removed from monuments and texts after their death.

Ka – The Vital Essence

The Ka was the vital essence of a person which distinguished between life and death. The Egyptians believed that either the fertility goddess Heqet or the goddess of childbirth Meskhenet breathed the Ka into a body at the time of birth. The Ka is what made the new infant truly alive.

They believed the Ka was sustained throughout life through food and drink. They believed the Ka still needed nourishment after death, which is the reason food and drink would be presented to the Khat. They did not think the Ka still needed to eat the food physically, but thought the nutrients were absorbed by the Ka in a supernatural manner after death.

A kind of offering tray called a Soul House which was made of clay shaped into a house was developed to present the Ka with offerings. Some surviving examples even have clay models of food in them, and they have been used as a way of determining what an average house would have looked like in ancient Egypt.

A Soul House.. (Geni / CC BY-SA 4.0)

Some people believe Soul Houses were even intended as a physical place for the Ka to reside, though there is no evidence of this, and it is more likely they were simply an elaborate way of presenting offerings of food and drink to the deceased.

Shuyet – The Shadow

Ancient Egyptians believed the shadow was actually a part of a person's soul. It was ever present, and they believed it contained a part of what makes each individual unique.

As in many other cultures, the Egyptians also believed the shadow was linked in some way to death. The Shuyet was believed to be a servant to Anubis, the Egyptian god of death and the afterlife. Physical depictions of the Shuyet were of a human figure shaded entirely black.

Anubis was the ancient Egyptian god associated with mummification and burial rituals, here he attends to a mummy. (Jeff Dahl / Public Domain)

Some people had a 'Shadow Box' among their funerary items so that the Shuyet had a place to inhabit. In the Egyptian Book of the Dead the soul is described as leaving the tomb of the deceased during the day in the form of a shadow. This Shuyet is considered only a shadow of the person it represents and not a major or destructive manifestation of the deceased in the physical realm.

Jb – The Heart

Just as many people still believe today, the Ancient Egyptians saw the heart as the home of human emotion. It was also considered the center of thought, will, and intention. This meant the Jb (heart) was a very important part of the soul for them, and the word appears in many sayings and expressions in ancient Egyptian writings. While English expressions often refer to the heart as a metaphor, in ancient Egyptians sayings, mentioning the heart is referring to the physical heart.

As an element of the soul, the Jb was the part a person used to gain access to the afterlife. The heart would be weighed on a scale against a feather – the feather of truth – and if the heart weighed more than the feather, a person was denied access to the afterlife and their heart was eaten by a demon called Ammit who was described as a fearsome lion-hippo-crocodile hybrid.

Weighing of the heart, the Jb of the human soul. (ISa1 / Public Domain)

To preserve and protect the Jb the heart would be specially embalmed, and then placed with the rest of the body along with a heart scarab which was a magical amulet intended to prevent the heart giving away too much information about a person and jeopardizing their success in passing the weighing of the heart.

Akh or Ikhu – The Immortal Self

The Akh was a magical combination of the elements Ba and Ka which represented the enlightened immortal being after death. This magical unification of Ba and Ka would only be possible if the correct funerary rites were performed after death.

The Akh did not stay with the Khat as many other elements of the soul did, it lived among the stars with the gods, though it did return to the body on occasion if necessary. It was a representation of the intellect, will, and intentions of a person.

The Akh was also the aspect of the soul which could reconnect through loved ones by appearing to them in their dreams.

Sahu – The Judge and Spiritual Body

The Sahu was actually a further aspect of the Akh. As soon as a soul had been deemed worthy of entering the afterlife, the Sahu would separate from all other forms of the soul. Much like some modern ideas about ghosts, the Sahu was said to haunt those who had wronged a person in life and protect those who the soul had loved. Just as the Akh could appear in a person's dreams, the Sahu could appear to a person.

- Hidden Beliefs Covered by the Church? Resurrection and Reincarnation in Early Christianity
- Science Versus Religion on Our Ancient Origins: What if They're Both Wrong?
- Religion Isn't The Enemy of Science: It's Been Inspiring Scientists for Centuries

Ancient Egypt literature included hauntings by the Sahu, the 'ghost' part of the human soul. (SteinsplitterBot / Public Domain)

It was often considered a vengeful spirit and could be blamed for any ill fortunes. There is even an example from the Middle Kingdom of a letter left by a widower in the tomb of his late wife begging her Sahu to stop haunting him.

Sechem or Sekhem – Life Energy

The Sekhem was another element of the Akh. Not much is known about the Sekhem, but it was considered a kind of life energy of the soul. The Sekhem was present in the afterlife after judgement had been passed and the soul was considered worthy.

In the Book of the Dead the Sekhem is described as a power and the place in which the gods Horus and Osiris live in the underworld.

Sheet from a Book of the Dead. (Alonso de Mendoza / Public Domain)

The Sekhem may also have been used to control the physical surroundings and outcomes of a person and their actions. Like the Akh, the Sekhem did not reside with the Khat and the physical body, but among the stars with the gods and goddesses.

The Complexity of the Soul

The way ancient Egyptians divided the soul is indicative of how important it was to them. It was clearly something which had been thought about in a tremendous amount of detail, and it was the crux of their beliefs about the afterlife and how a person could reach it.

Their beliefs about the soul also dictated the way they treated a body after death. Mummification, an iconic part of ancient Egyptian culture , was a result of their beliefs about the Khat and other parts of the soul needing a place to live.

The nine aspects of the soul have influenced many other parts of Egyptian culture too. From the violent removal of names to destroy the Ren to the creation of texts such as the Book of the Dead , the soul was pivotal to much of the culture and society of ancient Egypt.

Without this complicated belief system many of the artifacts which have become iconic and world-renowned elements of ancient Egyptian culture would not have been developed, and the fascinating world which has captured many a modern imagination may have left very different treasures behind.

Top image: Egyptian mummy. Credit: markrhhiggins / Adobe Stock

By Sarah P Young

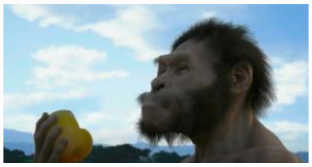
References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: News | Human Origins | Religions | History | Ancient Traditions

Tags: human | Soul | Nine | ancient | egypt | Egyptian Society | Egyptians | spiritual | religion | afterlife | reincarnation | religious



Read the Comments (1 Comment)

SARAH P

Sarah P Young is undertaking her masters in archaeology, specializing in early human behavior and in particular evidence of interaction between humans and Neanderthals. She hopes to continue her studies further and complete a doctorate.

RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS

27 APRIL, 2023 - 16:55 JOANNA GILLAN

Homo Naledi: A Mysterious Extinct Human Species (Video)

Homo naledi , the mysterious extinct human species, has captivated the world since its discovery in 2013. The recent animated film on YouTube by Antropogenez.ru and "Sergey Krivoplyasov's 3d-project...

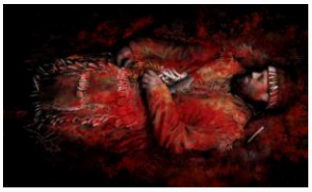
READ LATER READ MORE

16 OCTOBER, 2022 - 14:53 NATHAN FALDE

Modern Humans and Neanderthals Lived Together in Europe for 2,000 Years!

When Homo sapiens first arrived on the European continent about 42,500 years ago, the Neanderthals were still living there, and would remain there for another 1,400 to 2,900 years before finally...

READ LATER READ MORE



14 SEPTEMBER, 2022 - 18:51 SAHIR

Early Humans Out of Africa: 1.8 Myo Tooth Found in Orozmani, Georgia!

It was only a year ago, when the oldest hominin site outside Africa was discovered near the village of Kvemo Orozmani in southern Georgia. The 2021 Georgia discovery included stone tools and animal...

READ LATER READ MORE

7 JULY, 2022 - 14:59 NATHAN FALDE

Finnish Study Reveals Human Bones Were Used to Make Jewelry in 6,000 BC

During the Late Stone Age, our prehistoric ancestors regularly constructed and presumably wore pendants covered with symbolic images. These pendants were often made out of animal bones and teeth, but...

READ LATER READ MORE

17 JUNE, 2022 - 14:43 ASHLEY COWIE

Neanderthal-Human Sex Caused a Million Covid Deaths

About 60,000 years ago, a human had a sexual encounter with a Neanderthal. Now, a genetic scientist has claimed that this single sexual act caused the deaths of up to a million people during the...

READ LATER READ MORE

13 MAY, 2022 - 19:03 SAHIR

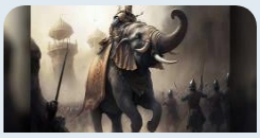
Corpse Medicine: Brains, Mellified Man's Honey-flesh, or Blood Drinks!

In the 16th and 17th centuries while, with astonishing hypocrisy, Europeans were reacting with disgust and outrage to reports of cannibalism brought back by travelers from the New World. And yet in...

READ LATER READ MORE

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

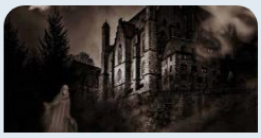
NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail



GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.



FAMOUS PEOPLE

Hannibal of Carthage: Military Commander and Greatest Enemy of Rome

Throughout time there have been great military leaders, whose skills and strategic prowess have shaped and defined the path of human civilization. One such military leader was Hannibal of Carthage. A...

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Haunting Tales: Exploring 4 of the Most Famous Ancient Ghost Stories

Ghosts have been a part of human folklore and legends for centuries, captivating our imaginations and sending shivers down our spines.

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Second Punic War – Hannibal's Infamous Offensive

In the annals of ancient history, there emerges a clash of titans that shook the foundations of the Mediterranean world—the Second Punic War.

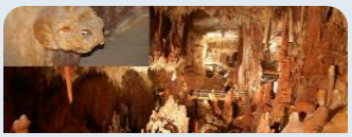
- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)
- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines

- New Study Unveils the Face of Egypt's Iconic Pharaoh Tutankhamun
- The Rise of Chandragupta Maurya, and the Golden Age of the Mauryan Empire
- Bronze Age Treasure Revealed Female Rule of the Argarics (Video)
- The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?
- Religious Revolution: Unveiling the Protestant Reformation (Video)

- The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?
- Accidental Find of Impeccably Preserved Ming Dynasty Taizhou Mummy
- Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World
- Fathoming the Ruins of Yanmen Shan Mountain and the Biggest Cut Rocks in the World
- Sacred Treasure Hunt: In Pursuit of the Elusive Ark of the Covenant (Video)

- Vikings vs. Native Americans: A Clash of Cultures in the New World (Video)
- Lisbon's Cataclysm: The Earthquake that Shook History (Video)
- The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?
- Grim Discovery: Uncovering London's Plague Burial Ground (Video)
- Aleppo: Before and After the Ravages of War (Video)

TOP NEW STORIES



Why Have Historians Stripped Ancient Statues of Their Color? (Video)

In the realm of classical art, a fascinating conspiracy has quietly lingered, challenging our understanding of classical sculpture.

- Britain's Oldest Wooden Artifact Found With Curious Carvings
- Egypt's Famous Female Pharaohs And Not-So-Famous Female Rulers Resurrected
- The Oldest Tattoo Shop in the World (Video)
- Early Neolithic Settlement Found Underneath the Waters of Lake Bracciano
- The Tiny Church at the Heart of the Knights Templar (Video)

HUMAN ORIGINS

The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory

This is the account of the discovery of a skull that has the potential to change what we know about human evolution, and a suppression and cover-up which followed. In 1959, in an area called...

- The Gristhorpe Man: A Bronze Age Skeleton with a Story to Tell
- Nine Parts of the Human Soul According to the Ancient Egyptians
- The Egyptian God Ra - Lord of Life and Light
- The Nephilim: Giant Offspring of the Sons of God and the Daughters of Man?
- The Mysteries of Tibet's Ancient Bon Religion

ANCIENT PLACES

Seahenge: A Subaquatic Monument of the European Bronze Age

Today, the United Kingdom is crisscrossed with many fascinating monuments from ancient times. From the ages when these islands were inhabited by different peoples and cultures of tribes from ancient Europe

- Craco: The Abandoned Medieval Ghost Town of Italy
- The 'Curse' of Siberia's 2,500-Year-Old 'Ice Maiden' (Video)
- The Tiny Church at the Heart of the Knights Templar (Video)
- The Oldest Tattoo Shop in the World (Video)
- Surprising Stone Age Knowledge Revealed on a Mammoth Bone Bracelet

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Glastonbury Giant: Who Did the Mystery Bones of A Nine Foot Skeleton Belong To?

When researching the reality of giants in the past, one story which has survived the ages is the apparent discovery of the 'Glastonbury Giant' which was allegedly unearthed in 1190, on orders of King Henry II, following rumors that the legendary King Arthur was in fact buried at that specific location.

- The Disturbing True Story of the Pied Piper of Hamelin
- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- The Egyptian God Ra - Lord of Life and Light
- Dwarka's Submerged Secret: Finding the Lost Kingdom of Krishna (Video)
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Surprising Stone Age Knowledge Revealed on a Mammoth Bone Bracelet

In Sivershchina, close to the village of Mizyn in Ukraine is one of the oldest and most unique settlements of humans – and it was discovered in a parking lot. The now well-known archaeological site, known plainly as the Mizyn parking lot, dates back 18-20 thousand years.

- Han Purple: A 2,800-year-old artificial pigment that quantum physicists are trying to understand
- Nilometers: Ancient Egypt's Ingenious Invention Used Until Modern Times
- The Enigma of the Nanjing Belt: How Could this Out of Place Artifact Exist?
- Why this Warrior Sultan's Sword Has Just Sold for $17.5million, Most Expensive Sword Ever
- The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt

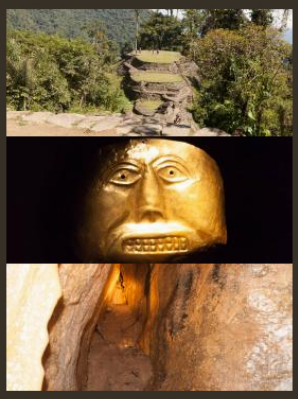
OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I
- The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION



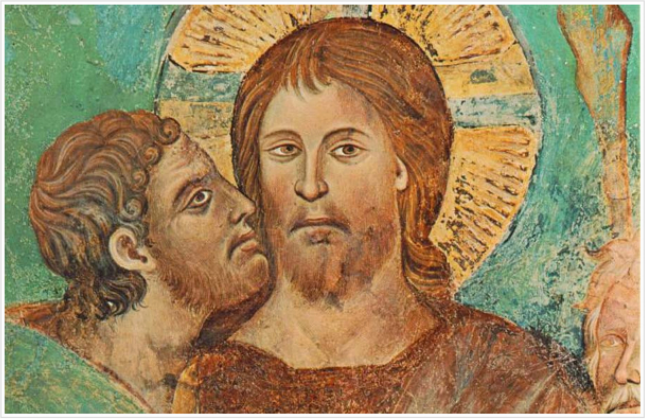
At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES



Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

UPDATED 16 DECEMBER, 2021 - 17:22 APRILHOLLOWAY

The Ancient Text That Describes Jesus as a Shapeshifter

READ LATER PRINT

It was in March 2013 when reports flooded the headlines about a newly deciphered Egyptian text, dating back almost 1,200 years, which controversially described Jesus as having the ability to change shape. But just as quickly as the story made its way through major news sites around the world, it disappeared and has hardly been mentioned since. Why has the study and research surrounding this text faded into oblivion? Why has there been virtually no scholarly debate on the subject of Jesus as a shapeshifter?

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- Please introduce yourself
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- Who would you pick for the best military leaders of all time?
- What's your favorite ancient site or museum virtual tour?
- The Green Sahara
- Pyramids, a global phenomena

More

Get your 4 ebooks Now!

Email
Name
I approve receiving emails
Please verify your request
Я не робот
reCAPTCHA
Конфиденциальность - Условия использования
Sign up to download 4 FREE eBOOKS

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

MOST READ TODAY

- A Lost Primeval World Has Been Found in a Giant South China Sinkhole!
- The Strange Phenomenon of the 2,600-year-old Heslington Brain
- Bronze Age Treasure Revealed Female Rule

NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT

ANCIENT ROME

SUGGESTED BOOKS

PARTNERS

The Coptic text was found in 1910 and purchased by J. P. Morgan in 1911. It contains a controversial description of Jesus as a shapeshifter. (The Pierpont Morgan Library)

Judas Used a Kiss to Identify Jesus the Shapeshifter, Claims Coptic Text

Written in the Coptic language, the ancient text written in the name of St. Cyril of Jerusalem, a distinguished theologian who lived during the fourth century, tells part of the crucifixion story of Jesus with apocryphal plot twists, some of which have never been seen before. They have been revealed thanks to a translation carried out by Roelof Van den Broek of Utrecht University in the Netherlands, and published in the book Pseudo-Cyril of Jerusalem On the Life and the Passion of Christ: A Coptic Apocryphon .

- Evolving Forms: An Intriguing Look at Shapeshifting
- 'Shape-shifter' Slaughtered in Sumatra in the Form of a Tiger!

The ancient text explains why Judas used a kiss, specifically, to betray Jesus. According to the canonical bible, the apostle Judas betrays Jesus in exchange for money by using a kiss to identify him leading to Jesus' arrest. This apocryphal tale explains that the reason Judas used a kiss, specifically, is because Jesus had the ability to change shape.

Then the Jews said to Judas: How shall we arrest him [Jesus], for he does not have a single shape but his appearance changes. Sometimes he is ruddy, sometimes he is white, sometimes he is red, sometimes he is wheat colored, sometimes he is pallid like ascetics, sometimes he is a youth, sometimes an old man.

This leads Judas to suggest using a kiss as a means to identify him. If Judas had given the arresters a description of Jesus he could have changed shape. By kissing Jesus, Judas tells the people exactly who he is, shapeshifter or not.

Fresco by Giotto di Bondone depicting the arrest of Christ and the kiss of Judas. (Public domain)

The Idea of Jesus as a Shapeshifter is Old News

This understanding of Judas' kiss goes way back. According to Van den Broek, the explanation of Judas' kiss is first found in Origen, a theologian who lived between 185 and 254 AD. In his work, Contra Celsum, the ancient writer stated that "to those who saw him [Jesus] he did not appear alike to all." Nevertheless, Van den Broek is careful to note that he is not suggesting that Jesus was in fact a shapeshifter, but only that some people in early Christian times may have thought he was.

- of the Argarics (Video)
- Cursed Shipwreck Yields Treasure and Human Remains (Video)
- Archaeologists Excavate Earliest Greek Iron Age House Ever Found in Thorikos
- Knights Templar Symbols in Sintra's Inverted Tower (Video)

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Menehune of Hawaii – Ancient Race or Fictional Fairytale?

In Hawaiian mythology, the Menehune are said to be an ancient race of people small in stature, who lived in Hawaii before settlers arrived from Polynesia. Many scholars attribute ancient structures...

- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe
- Charybdis: The Terrifying Whirlpool Monster of Greek Mythology

The text is one of 55 Coptic manuscripts that were found in 1910 by villagers digging for fertilizer at the site of the destroyed Monastery of Archangel Michael of the Desert near Al Hamuli in Egypt. Apparently, during the 10th century, monks had buried the monastery's manuscripts in a stone vat for safekeeping.

- Shapeshifting: Shamanic Techniques for Global and Personal Transformation
- Santa the Shaman Comes to the New World: The Shapeshifting Magic-Man from the Ancient Past

The monastery ceased operations around the early 10th century, and the text was rediscovered in the spring of 1910. In December 1911, it was purchased, along with other texts, by American financier J. P. Morgan. His collections, and the text described, are now housed in the Morgan Library and Museum in New York City.

The 1,200-year-old Coptic manuscript, which describes Jesus as a shapeshifter, incorporates this cross decoration within the manuscript. (The Pierpont Morgan Library)

While headlines at the time of the announcement were quite sensationalist and described the text as containing Christianity-shattering information, the publishing scholar never claimed anything of the sort. It is also clear that the text is not a hoax but a genuine item published by a respected scholar and by a notable academic press (E. J. Brill). So why hasn't such a fascinating text led to further research, interpretations, or discussion among scholars as relating to Jesus as a shapeshifter?

*Top image: According to the ancient text, Judas used a kiss to identify Jesus due to his abilities as a shapeshifter. Source: The Morgan Library & Museum

By April Holloway

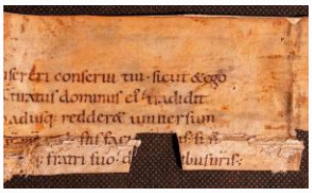
References

Share Tweet Share Email Share Pin

Section: Artifacts | Ancient Writings | News | History & Archaeology

Tags: Jesus | Judas | Manuscript | Coptic | Shapeshifting | crucifixion

COMMENTS (41 Comments)



APRIL

April Holloway is a Co-Owner, Editor and Writer of Ancient Origins. For privacy reasons, she has previously written on Ancient Origins under the pen name April Holloway, but is now choosing to use her real name, Joanna Gillan.

*Joanna... Read More

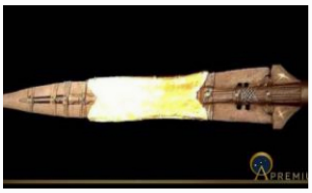
RELATED ARTICLES ON ANCIENT-ORIGINS



23 MAY, 2023 - 21:00 ROBBIE MITCHELL

Lost Gospels Revealed: The Startling Revelation of Jesus's Wife (Video)

In the depths of history, a remarkable discovery emerged, shedding new light on the enigmatic figure of Jesus . An ancient fragment of a book, the Gospel of Jesus's Wife , composed in the mysterious...

READ LATER READ MORE

22 MAY, 2023 - 20:46 KEN JEREMIAH

What Happened To The Coveted Spear Of Destiny?

Throughout the centuries, Christianity has been a fiery topic. Some debate about its true origins and connections to other religions, while others look at the malfeasances of some of its religious...

READ LATER READ MORE

13 MAY, 2023 - 20:58 ROBBIE MITCHELL

The Lost Years of Jesus: No One Knows How He Spent His 20s (Video)

The figure of Jesus Christ continues to captivate the minds and hearts of people worldwide. Despite his impact on Christianity , much of his life remains a mystery. One of the most perplexing...

READ LATER READ MORE

9 APRIL, 2023 - 16:59 JOANNA GILLAN

History of the Holidays: Easter (Video)

Easter is the holiest day on the Christian calendar, celebrating the resurrection of Jesus Christ. However, despite being a Christian holiday, the history of Easter has pagan and Jewish roots. The...

READ LATER READ MORE

7 APRIL, 2023 - 18:57 ANCIENT-ORIGINS

The Crucifixion Gap: Why it Took Hundreds of Years for Art to Depict Jesus on the Cross

The cross , or crucifix, is arguably the central image of Christianity. What's the difference between the two? A cross is just that - an empty cross. It stands as a statement that Jesus is no longer...

READ LATER READ MORE

21 JANUARY, 2023 - 00:55 CECILIA BOGAARD

St Helena, Discoverer of the True Cross, Was the First Archaeologist

In 326 AD the mother of the Roman Emperor Constantine set out on a legendary pilgrimage to the Holy Land. Dubbed the world's "first archaeologist," Saint Helena was posthumously credited with...

READ LATER READ MORE

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE TIMES · DER SPIEGEL · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Bronze Age Treasure Revealed Female Rule of the Argarics (Video)

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Deep within the ancient La Almoloya archaeological site in southern Spain, an extraordinary revelation has emerged, shaking the very foundations of our understanding of power and politics in the Bronze Age.

Accepted historical accounts claim that Cleopatra, the last active pharaoh of ancient Egypt, committed suicide.

Accepted historical accounts claim that Cleopatra, the last active pharaoh of ancient Egypt, committed suicide.

- What Did Ancient Greece Really Look Like? A Visual Tour (Video)
- Behind the Scenes of Ancient Greece: Exploring the Daily Life of its People (Video)
- Trove of Ancient Artifacts Discovered in Paestum Include Dolphin Statuette of Eros
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines

- The Enigma of Cleopatra's Death: Was it Suicide or Murder?
- Religious Revolution: Unveiling the Protestant Reformation (Video)
- The Legacy and Tragic Death of Egyptology's Father, Champollion
- The Final Fates of the Children of Cleopatra VII
- A Day in the Life of the Boy King Tutankhamun (Video)

- Accidental Find of Impeccably Preserved Ming Dynasty Taizhou Mummy
- Discoveries of Ancient Underground Cities Around the World
- Fathoming the Ruins of Yanmen Shan Mountain and the Biggest Cut Rocks in the World
- Sacred Treasure Hunt: In Pursuit of the Elusive Ark of the Covenant (Video)
- Neolithic Stone Balls: The Northern Rosetta Stone?

- Grim Discovery: Uncovering London's Plague Burial Ground (Video)
- Aleppo: Before and After the Ravages of War (Video)
- Religious Revolution: Unveiling the Protestant Reformation (Video)
- Rome vs. Carthage: The First Punic War and the Birth of a Superpower
- The Massive Project to Move Abu Simbel 200 Feet Up a Cliff Face (Video)

TOP NEW STORIES

The Ancient City of Naqa - The Kushite Religious Stronghold

For centuries the ancient Nubian Kingdom of Kush stood as a potent rival of the neighboring Ancient Egypt. Over countless generations, the rising Kushite polity engaged in intermittent warfare, trade...

- Lost World Revealed: 14,000-Year-Old Village on Triquet Island (Video)
- Archaeologists Excavate Earliest Greek Iron Age House Ever Found in Thorikos
- Fine Dining With The Pirates Of The Caribbean
- Knights Templar Symbols in Sintra's Inverted Tower (Video)
- Sunken Sanctuary and Settlement Rediscovered on German Coast

HUMAN ORIGINS

Decoding Viking Origins: Genetic Clues Paint a New Picture (Video)

The word "Viking" evokes vivid images of mighty, fair-haired seafarers pillaging coastal settlements.

- Analyzing Mummy Genes: Were Ancient Egyptians closely Related to Middle Easterners?
- Mastering the Atlatl: The Ultimate Prehistoric Hunting Tool (Video)
- Unraveling the Mysteries of China's Ancient Caucasian Mummies (Video)
- Top Ten Myths about Neanderthals
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

ANCIENT PLACES

A Lost Primeval World Has Been Found in a Giant South China Sinkhole!

Chinese explorers discovered a 'lost world' in an exceptionally deep and large sinkhole in south China. And in this ancient subterranean space they expected to find flora and fauna unknown to science.

- Bronze Age Treasure Revealed Female Rule of the Argarics (Video)
- Archaeologists Excavate Earliest Greek Iron Age House Ever Found in Thorikos
- Knights Templar Symbols in Sintra's Inverted Tower (Video)
- Hegra, Petra's Forgotten Twin (Video)
- Accidental Find of Impeccably Preserved Ming Dynasty Taizhou Mummy

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Menehune of Hawaii – Ancient Race or Fictional Fairytale?

In Hawaiian mythology, the Menehune are said to be an ancient race of people small in stature, who lived in Hawaii before settlers arrived from Polynesia. Many scholars attribute ancient structures...

- The Kilwa Sultanate: The Island State That Dominated Medieval East Africa
- Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

20,000-year-old Rings Cleverly Deduced to be Prehistoric Spear-thrower Grips Archaeologists digging at certain sites in France have unearthed some curious ring-shaped artifacts over the years that seemed to have no clear purpose.

- Mastering the Atlatl: The Ultimate Prehistoric Hunting Tool (Video)
- 2,700-Year-Old Horse Saddle in Chinese Tomb May Be World's Oldest!
- The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt

OPINION

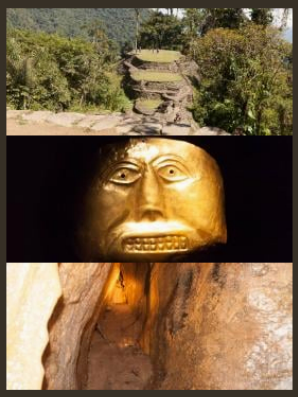
The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

– Part I
- The Legendary Emerald Tablet and its Secrets of the Universe
- Charybdis: The Terrifying Whirlpool Monster of Greek Mythology
- Does 'New Evidence' Prove Noah's Ark Is Buried on a Turkish Mountain?
- Neolithic Stone Balls: The Northern Rosetta Stone?
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I
- The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION



At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2023

Part IV

"Orient-Malerei" Based On Western Imagery

regarding:

The Noble Sharifians

De décembre 1831 à juillet 1832, Delacroix accompagne la mission du comte de Mornay auprès du Sultan du Maroc, visite Tanger, Meknès ...

Eugène Delacroix. Letters and Notes from His Voyage to North Africa.

Meknès, 20. March: We have been held prisoner for the past five or six days in a house in the city, pending the time for our audience and etc.

23. March: Yesterday we were received in audience by the emperor. He receives his visitors on horseback, with all his guard around him on foot. He suddenly appears through a doorway and comes towards you, with a parasol behind him. He's a rather handsome man. He looks very like our own king, only with a beard and somewhat younger. He is between forty-five and fifty. He was followed by his state coach, a sort of wheelbarrow drawn by a mule. So I've reached the goal of my journey.

Meknès, 2. April to J.B. Pierret: I have spent most of my time here in utter boredom, because it was impossilbe to draw anything from nature openly, even the meanest hovel; if you so much as go on to the terrace you run the risk of being stoned or shot at. The Moors are fantastically jealous, and it is on these terraces that their women usually take the air or visit one another.

Le Maroc et Le Riff en 1856 par H. De T. D'Arlach, Paris, 1856 on page 19: Abd-er-Rhaman, empereur du Maroc, est âgé de soixante-dix à soixante-douze ans.

At first, the reader must be aware that in Section 1: "Reproductions of 17th cent. to 1873 published drawings", are in general imagery pieces of work which rarely reflect a close resemblance to the actual Sultan. The reason for this is easily explained – since such works (from the beginning of Islam to Sultan Sidi Mhd. IV) were strictly forbidden by law (Sharia). Further, it was impossible for any artist to see a Sharif on his own. However, when a Foreign Delegations was received at the Sharifian Court, then such a delegation was sometimes accompanied by an artist, (example: F-Delacroix; GB-Keatinge). During such an occasions the accompanying artist had, but a brief glance at the Sharif from far distance. All of what the artist saw he had to absorb and memorise in his head as otherwise he would have taken an enormous risk by making a sketch on the spot. The very same law was applicable for the minting of Islamic coins. Example: there are no pictures of Prophet Muhammad, (pbuh), therefore - no portraits appeared on the coinage during the time of the Sharifians. But as the Sharifians were "exchanged" the rules started to change. Hence, today the portraits of the rulers are on the currencies and the portraits of the rulers are on display as well. This old established law on portraits was written with good intentions in order to prevent another kind of worship. This rule however, opened the way for the future occupier to fabricate history.

NOTE:

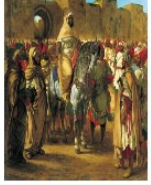
As of today, the only portrait we found to be of close resemblance is the one of Sidi Muhammad III ibn Abdallah by Colonel Maurice Bagenal St. Leger Keatinge. This drawing was made by a talented artist blessed with a photographic memory.

Section 1

	 MOULAY ISMAEL (artistic representation)
Cherif Muley Rashid al-Aji. Ref: L'illustre et magnifique Cherif Muley Arxid. Print made by Nicolas de Larmessin, died 1694.	Sharif Ismail al-Aji. Ref. Encyclopaedia of the Orient. (artistic representation) & Mouley Seméjn el Heusenin frère du successeur de Mouley Archy aux Roy de Fez, de Maroc, de Tafilet. Portrait de Moulay Isma'il, par le Sieur Germain Moüette. Histoire des conquestes de Mouley Archy, connu sous le nom de Roy de Tafilet, et de Mouley Ismaël ou Seméin, son frère, et son successeur à présent Regnant. Tous deux Rois de Fez, de Maroc, de Tafilet, de Sus, etc. ... Avec une carte du Païs ... Paris, E. Couterot, 1683.	Sharif Ismail al-Aji. Ref: John Windus: Reise nach Mequinetz, der Residentz des heutigen Käysers von Fetz und Marocco welche C.Stuart als Gross-Britannischer Gesandter Anno 1721 zur Erledigung der dortigen Gefangenen abgelegt hat. Hannover: Förster, 1726. In Gerhard Rohlfs - Gesammelte Werke: Gesandtschaften von und nach Marokko. Louis XIV schickte 1682 den Graf St. Armand ... . Der Sultan erscheint auf einem schneeweissen, reich aufgeschirrten Hengst, das einemal hat er einen Litham (Schleier) vor, das anderemal ist er entschleiert.	Sharif Abdul Hamid (Sidi Muhammad III ibn Abd Allah al-Aji). Drawing by Francisco de Miranda. At the age of 24 Miranda was fighting with the Spanish troops defending Melilla in 1775, when one day he looked out over the battlements and saw with his own eyes the Sultan sitting in front of his tent directing his troops. Ref: Archives of the Academia Nacional de la Historia, Caracas, Venezuela. Archivo del General Miranda. Viajes. Diaros, 1750-1785. We thank Priscilla H. Roberts for this reference. ARAMCO World, Sept/Oct. 1998 issue: Emissary to Barbary in 1786, by Priscilla H. Roberts and James N. Tull.

Sharif Sidi Mhd. III ben Abdallah al-Aji, 1776. Courtesy of: Tangier American Legation Museum Library.	Sharif Sidi Mhd. III ??? ben Abdallah al-Aji. Ref: Tangier American Legation Museum Society. Long-Time Friends: Early US-Moroccan Relations, 1777-78 by Sherrill Brown Wells in Department of State Bulletin, Vol. 87 (Sept. 1987)	Saadi (Saadian) Homed Ebn Abdallah ben Ismail as Samin ben Sharif, al-Aji, 1785. Note: Sidi Muhammad's eye problem. This was recorded by several Europeans in addition to American Thomas Barclay. Drawing by Colonel Maurice Bagenal St.Leger Keatinge; Travels in Europe and Africa, comprising a Journey through France, Spain and Portugal to Morocco, with a Particular Account of that Empire (London, 1816). For references by Mrs. Priscilla H. Roberts see below.	Saadi (Saadian) Homed Ebn Abdallah al-Aji, 1785. Drawing by Colonel Maurice Bagenal St. Leger Keatinge; Travels in Europe and Africa, comprising a Journey through France, Spain and Portugal to Morocco, with a Particular Account of that Empire (London, 1816).

General Don Francisco de Miranda, (b. 28.3.1750 Caracas; d. 14.7.1816) Ref: "Casa de Melilla"



Within Archivo Del General Miranda; Viajes; (Diarios, 1750-1785) he names Sidi Mhd. III - Abdul Hamid (1775) who acctually is an Ottoman Sultan &

Sultan Abdul Hamid

in Fundacion Melilla Monumental / Ciudad Autonoma de Melilla: Brief history of Melilla's fortresses ... And this is the Melilla that endured the most difficult proof: the siege that suffered between 1774 and 1775, when 3609 defenders with 165 pieces of artillery confronted an 40'000 man army sent by the Sultan MuleyAbdalah, who had modern artillery systems and who started a thorough war of mines. As outcome, the fortress of Melilla passed the proof successfully and the Moroccan army had to raise the siege & in:

World History at KMLA. Siege of Melilla 1774 (Moroccan-Spanish War). He laid siege to the city in 1771 and again from December 9th, 1774 to March 19th, 1775, with over 10'000 projectiles shot into Melilla. On December 25th, 1780, Spain and Morocco signed a Treaty of Aranjuez, in which Spain ceded some territory to Morocco, which in turn recognized Spanish rule over the remainder of Melilla.

			Sharif Sidi Mohammed ben Abder
Sharif Abderrahman ben Muhammad al-Aji. Ref: The Royal Families Thread [MENA] - List of rulers of Mauretania Tingitania etc. www.skyscrapercity.com. Further information still pending.	Sharif Abd er-Rahman ben Muhammad ben Ismail as Samin bin Sharif al-Aji at Meknès of 1832, receiving the French Delegation. Painting by E. Delacroix, 1845. Toulouse, Musée des Augustins Ref: The sultan's authority: Delacroix, paintings, and politics at the Salon of 1845.	Sharif Sidi Mohamet al-Aji, Emperador de Marruecos by Charles Labielle, (1859?), Barna. From the collection of the Tangier American Legation Institute for Moroccan Studies (TALIM).	Rahman al-Aji, in Fes, November 23, 1868, receiving the British Delegation of Tangier, represented by Sir John Drummond-Hay and accompanied by his staff and family. Courtesy of Mr. Robert Drummond-Hay, London. Based on a letter written by John Drummond-Hay to Lord Stanley, see: A History of Anglo-Moroccan Relations to 1900 by P.G. Rogers. London: Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Chapter 8 p. 177-178.

On 28 December 1867, in a despatch to Lord Stanley, Sir John Drummond-Hay wrote: The country, is in a more wretched state of anarchy .....; but the chief evil in my opinion is the character of the present Sultan, Seed Mohamed, who is totally unfit, from the very fact of his being of a mild and humane disposition, and opposed to the punishment by death, to rule over the wild and warlike people of Morocco. Ref: A History of Anglo -Moroccan Relations to 1900 by P.G. Rogers. London, Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Chapter 8 page 177.

Why did one need such drawings.

First: Some of these 17th - 19th c. artists, travellers, journalists, foreign diplomates wanted to be able to sell their books or newspaper articles and this was one of the reasons of why one created such imagery portraits. For further references see: Prof. Edward Said - On Orientalism, 1978

Second: The other reason was a military one. As Europe's kingdoms were once again in a desperate need to put their hands on other countries wealth and belongings they had to create a propaganda of fear (with drawings) in order to convince their citizens to take-up the arms against the Sharifian rulers. (see examples below, nos. 1 & 2)

Third: Trade Agreements. Another way was in demonstrating- or use of military force. Through such acts of force Europeans let the Sharif understand that he was well advised by simply signing Europe's new trade agreements favourable to Europe or risk to be occupied. Similar situations you still witness in the case of Palestine, Iraq, Africa and etc. (see example below, no. 3)

Sharif Ismael, at 82 years of age. For reference on style and dress code see picture on your right.

In 1672 Sharif Ismail al-Hasani al Aji completed the task of pacifying Morocco. He constructed his capital in the city of Meknes. During his 55 year reign, Jews were protected from violence. Ref: Jewish Morocco Réception Solennelle du Consul Général de Belgique Mr. E. Daluin, par l'Empereur du Maroc à Rabat, dimanche le 4 décembre 1864 à 10 heures. Le tableau a été peint par le peintre Félix Augustin Milius, Tanger 1865, size: 110 x 140 cm. And in the "Gibraltar Chronicle, December 12, 1864 we read: The Sultan is still here, and has now been visited by most of the Representatives of the European Powers who ordinarily reside at Tangier. The Ministers and diplomatic agents of England, France, Spain, Italy and Belgium have made their appearance at the Sultan's Court, or we should rather say, his camp.....

Courtesy of the Belgian Ministry of Foreign Affairs

Examples:

from: Encyclopaedia Judaica, 1971

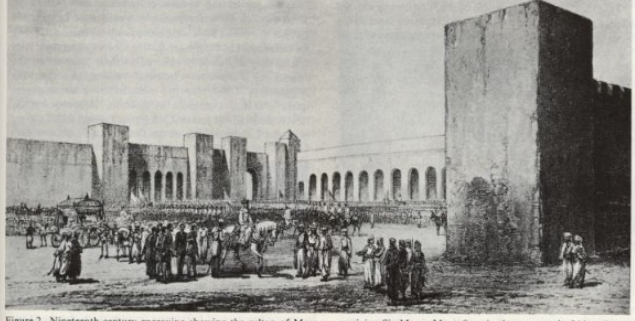

Figure 2. Nineteenth-century engraving showing the sultan of Morocco receiving Sir Moses Montefiore in the courtyard of his palace. Courtesy D. Corcos, Jerusalem.

Examples:

Time of Hassan I, 1873-1894 Ref: La Douane marocaine à travers l'histoire. Les régimes des Oumanas des douanes.

Berber Jews of the Atlas Mountains, c. 1900. Ref: History of the Jews in Morocco. en.wikipedia.org

from: Encyclopaedia Judaica, 1971

Nineteenth-century engraving showing the Sultan of Morocco receiving Sir Moses Montefiore in the courtyard of his palace at Marrakech. Ref: By Michael Palomino in: Encyclopaedia Judaica 1971: Morocco, Vol. 12, col. 329-330, Moses Montefiore. On matters regarding a decree (dahir) we received the following information: the sultans did not "sign" decreees (dahirs). They simply stamped their seal which bears their name and the "prayer". As for this original dahir - we been unable to locate its whereabouts!

Sephardi And Middle Eastern Jewries. History and Culture in the Modern Era. See: Daniel J. Schroeter and Joseph Chetrit, page 106: The challenge to the dhimma system is best symbolized by the visit of Moses Montefiore to Morocco in 1863-64. Montefiore went to the court of Sultan Mawlay Abd ar-Rahman in Marrakech and through the backing of the British government .....

BLADI.NET. 20 septembre 2003. Esquisse historique du tapis marocains: une combinaison de formes et de couleurs: En 1867, le Sultan Moulay Abderrahman envoie, avec un célèbre commerçant de Fès, à la deuxième exposition universelle de Paris, "tout ce qu'il y a de mieux ..... Cet article est paru dans "Du signe à l'image", le tapis marocain by Prof. Ali Amahan; Edition Lak international; who told that he took this information from a book written by Prof. Mohamed al-Manouni.

Menara gardens. From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia. The name menara derives from the pavillon with its small green pyramid roof (menzeh). The pavillon was built during the 16th century Saadi dynasty and renovated in 1869 by Sultan Abderrahmane of Morocco, who used to stay here in summertime. Menara gardens II .The pavillon and the great water reservoir were built by Saadian Sultan Abd er Rahman in 1870. see: Travelphoto.net, 17.02.07

In Glossaire as: Alaoui Abderrahman & Alaji Abderrahman, Ministre plénipotentiaire marocain, 20.12.1861. www.douane.gov.ma/Histoire_douane/GLOSSAIRE.htm

Oumana des douanes en exercice (1906). Ref: La Douane marocaine à travers l'histoire

Jewish Wedding in Morocco by Eugene Delacroix, Paris 1837-1841

Le Marriage Juif a Tangier by Francisco Lameyer y Berenguer, Madrid 1875

Sharif Sidi Muhammad III ben Abdallah wears NO RED FEZ

For further informations on how artists solved their problems in "Orient-Malerei" you may like to read the following article in:

Al-Maqam

Zeitschrift für arabische Kunst und Kultur, Nr. 3, 2007.

Das Lächeln der Odaliske. Ansichten über "Orient-Malerei"

by

Svetlana Georgieva

Reisen war damals eine Ausnahmesituation und barg ein hohes Risiko in sich. Die Reisebedingungen waren meist sehr beschwerlich und es gehörte viel Mut dazu, sich auf den langen Weg ins Ungewisse aufzumachen. Auf der Suche nach Inspiration besuchte der Romantiker Delacroix 1832 Marokko und Algerien. Während der einmaligen Reise brachte er Hunderte von Blöcken voller Skizzen und Zeichnungen mit, die er als Grundlage jahrelanger künstlerischer Auseinandersetzung mit dem Orient nutzte. Auch Decamps and Chassériau reisten 1827 von Griechenland nach Kleinasien. 1846 gelangten sie über Konstantinopel nach Algerien. Vor allem Städte wie Kairo, Alexandrien, Konstantinopel und Algier waren unter den Malern sehr beliebt. Von hier aus starteten ihre Expeditionen. Während der Reisen fertigten die Maler zahlreiche Skizzen an und sammelten Andenken, kleinere Artefakte und landestypische Kleidungsstücke, die sie später im eigenen Studio detailgetreu nachzeichneten. Horace Vernet setzte bereits 1839 Daguerreotypien (Vorläufer der Photographie) ein.

Aufgrund des islamischen Bilderverbotes war das Zeichnen von Landschaften wesentlich einfacher zu bewerkstelligen. Um Personen zu zeichnen, musste sich der Maler versteckt halten oder sich die Beobachtungen sehr gut einprägen, um sie nachträglich aufmalen zu können. Um das Verbot zu umgehen, setzten Delacroix und andere häufig den Maghreb bewohnende Juden als Modelle ein. Als ethnographische Studien können diese Bilder also nicht dienen.

Die Reisen dauerten oftmals mehrere Jahre. Einige der Maler fanden im Orient ihre neue Heimat: Gustave Guillaumet zog mit nomadischen Stämmen durch die Wüste und wurde eher selbst zum Nomaden als zum Beobachter. Jacques Majorelles ließ sich in Marrakesch nieder. Leon Belly bereiste im Alter von 22 Jahren als Landschaftsforscher den Nahen Osten. Später machte er sich gemeinsam mit dem berühmten Maler Gérôme auf eine lange Reise durch das Niltal, von Kairo bis zum Sinai. Die spirituelle Erfahrung im Orient veränderte sein Leben. Seine Gemälde wie die Pilgerkarawane auf dem Weg nach Mekka, 1861 erzählen von religiöser Ergriffenheit. Der preisge-

The red Tarboosh, symbol of the Alawites, appeared with Hassan I.

Sidi Mohamed VI, wearing the red Tarboosh krönte Pariser Künstler Etienne Dinet, siedelte nach Algerien über und konvertierte unter dem Namen Nasr ed Dine zum Islam.

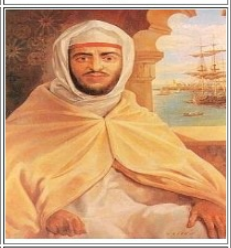
Der berühmteste deutsche Orientmaler Gustav Bauernfeind reiste erstmals 1880 in den Vorderen Orient. 1886 übersiedelte er schließlich mit seiner Familie nach Jerusalem.
Das persönliche Interesse an den orientalischen Ländern, an Menschen und an Religionen war enorm und wird in den entstandenen Werken der Künstler widergespiegelt. Faszination, Respekt, Ergriffenheit, Be-wunderung, Leidenschaft und Liebe sind Motive, die aus zahlreichen Gemälden herausstrahlen.

Literatur

Hélène Gill: The Language of French Orientalist Painting (= Studies in Art History; Vol. 6), Lewiston, Edwin Mellen Press, New York, 2003
Wolf-Dieter Lemke: Staging the Orient. Editions Dar An-Nahar, Beirut, 2004, 238 S., ISBN 995-3-74-026-7



Infos
http://orientaliste.free.fr www.bou-saada.net/etienne_dinet.htm www.orientalistart.net www.orientalist-art.ort www.artnet.de

Section 2

The Alawi Dynasty

GENEALOGY

by: Christopher Buyers

Sultan Abul Amlak Sidi Muhammad I as-Sharif bin Ali	Sultan Sidi Muahmmad II bin Sharif	Sultan Sidi Muhammad al-Rashid bin Sharif	Sultan Ismail as-Samin bin Sharif

Sultan Abu Marwan Mulay Abdul Malik	Sultan Abul Abbas Mulay Ahmad ud-Dhahabi bin Ismail as-Samin	Sultan Abul Hasan Mulay Ali al-Iraj bin Ismail as-Samin	Sultan Abu Abdullah Sidi Muhammad II ben Arbia

Sultan Abu Hasan Ali Mulay Zainal-Abdin bin Ismail as-Samin	Sultan Mulay Muhammad al-Mustadi bin Ismail as-Samin	SultanAbu Abbas Mulay Abdullah bin Ismail as-Samin	Sultan Sidi Muhammad III bin Abdallah

Sultan Mulay al-Yazid bin Muhammad	Sultan Abu ar-Rabi Mulay Sulaiman II bin Muhammad	Sultan Haj Abderrahman bin Muhammad	Sultan Sidi Muhammad IV bin Abderrahman bin Muhammad

Hasan I, as Sultan	Abdel-Aziz, as Sultan	Hafid, as Sultan	Youssef, as Sultan and from another source

Sultan Mulay al-Rashid. Ref: HISTOR11	Sultan Sidi Muhamad ben Abdallah. Fondateur de Mogador. Ref: DARNNA.com. Le vieux Mogador au début du siècle dernier par: Echkol.	Hasan I, as Sultan and Freemason. Ref: Mohand N. http://pages.videotron.com/aitndhir

Abdel-Aziz, as Sultan. Ref: Mohand N. http://pages.videotron.com/aitndhir	Hafid, as Sultan and Freemason. Ref: Mohand N. http://pages.videotron.com/aitndhir	Youssef, as Sultan. Ref: www.skyscrapercity.com

All above reproduced so-called "Alawi Dynasty paintings" (section 2) are belonging to a series of 20th century portraits made for the Mausoleum of Sidi Muhammad V, (construction from: 1961-1967). A copy of such a product or rather, a falsification of documents is: the so-called portrait of Sultan Sidi Muhammad III, which was given to Tangier American Legation Institute Museum (TALIM) as a gift for commemorating the 200 year old Moroccan-American Treaty of Friendship. The very same fake was likewise used in Tanger: Porte entre Deux Mondes by Prof. Dr. Jean-Louis Miège, (a F-historian and expert in Moroccan history; b. Rabat, 1923), Georges Bousquet, Jacques Denarnaud & Florence Beaufre, Paris, ACR Edition, 1992, page 18, (Archives Royales, Rabat).
Today, the artist name is known to be V. ZVEG.

What a shameful thing to do! You, the historians, knowledgeable and highly regarded scholars and experts in Arabian history, religion, law and culture, are now educating your students and citizens that all these above forged portraits are the true portraits of the individual Sharif.

This state coach looks very similar to the one described by E. Delacroix within his letter dated March 23, 1832. Above painting is dated 1906. Ref: VNN Forum.white-history.com Help Me Out

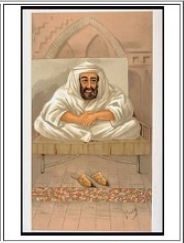
Sharif Sidi Muhammad III al-Aji, 1785. For references by Priscilla H. Roberts please see below	The Alawi Sidi Muhammad III, a 20th century painting made by V. ZVEG used in The Alawi Dynasty GENEALOGY and commonly reproduced as being the portrait of Sidi Muhammad III wearing the red Tarboosh.

Sidi Muhammad's eye problem was mentioned by several Europeans in addition to American Thomas Barclay. Ref: Un chargé d'affaires au Maroc: La correspondence du consul Louis Chénier, 1767-1782. Pierre Grillon, editor (Paris, S.E.V.P.E.N., 1970, 2 vols.): "Sidi Mohamed aurait eu un visage assez avenant si un léger strabisme n'avait donné à son regard quelque chose de farouche et d'inquiétant" (vol. 1, p. 31). In Col. Keatinge: "His eyes glance in different directions, one revolving upwards, while the other is cast on the person to whom he addresses himself (appearing as if, like the eyes of the chameleon, governed by distinct nerves)... (p. 237). William Lempriere in his A Tour from Gibraltar to Tangier, Sallee, Mogodore, Santa Cruz, Tarudant; and thence, over Mount Atlas, to Morocco ... (London, 1791) writes: "I found the emperor Sidi Mahomet to be a tall, thin old man, of near eighty years of age, and of a fallow complexion. From a visage naturally long, and a distortion of one eye, united with an acqired habit of austerity, his appearance at first was rather disgusting to strangers; but that impression was soon worn off by the affability of his conversation.. (p. 214-215). Thomas Barclay in 1786 described the sultan's appearance as "He is of a middle Stature, inclining to fat, and has a remarkable cast in his right eye which looks blacker than the other". See: Thomas Barclay (1728-1793): Consul in France, Diplomat in Barbary by Priscilla H. Roberts and Richard S. Roberts, p. 209, (Bethlehem, PA, Lehigh University Press, 2008), but from the Papers of Thomas Jefferson (Julian P. Boyd, editor, Princeton, NJ, Princeton University Press, 1954), vol. 10, p. 359, from a letter Barclay wrote to the American Commissioners (Jefferson and John Adams) dated Tangier 13. September 1786. Another traveler who commented on Sidi Mhd's eyes, though not on the "distortion", is Samuel Romanelli in his Travail in an Arab Land. This work first appeared in Hebrew in 1792, an account of the author's four years in Morocco from 1787-1790. It was translated by Yedida K. Stillman and Norman A. Stillman in 1989 and published in English by the University of Alabama Press (Tuscaloosa and London). On p. 98 one reads: "The Sultan was of a ripe old age, but with a robust, strong physique. His eyes are like burning torches, and his voice is powerful". We thank Priscilla H. Roberts for these references.

SHARE

Only, - why is there such an urgency in doing such a thing? Well, the answer to this question you may find within the following explanation:

The Freemason's Grip to Power



Hassan I, as Sultan. Ref: Les Francs-Maçons au Maroc sous la IIIe République, 1867-1940.

Hassan I, as Sultan. Ref: emsomipy.free.fr/Maroc128.009-1867ImplatationMaroc.htm

Hasan I, as Sultan. Ref: The Illustrated London News by Richard Caton Woodville in: The British Mission To Morocco, 1887.

Hassan I, as Sultan, 1891. Ref: en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hassan_I_of_Morocco

Hassan I en borrachera. Grand Vizir Ba Ahmed ben Moussa le rate avant to [illegible] him. Ba Ahmed - d'un père noire venu d'Afrique noire, et d'une mère juive, c'est-à-dire, selon la tradition sioniste, un vrai juif - n'était ni politicien local ni un homme d'état marocain. Ref: A. Rami, Les Sultans "Alaouites" Au Maroc.

Death of Hassan I, June 7, 1894. Ref: en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hassan_I_of_Morocco

The Alawite, Sidi Mhd. VI & his son wearing the red Tarboosh

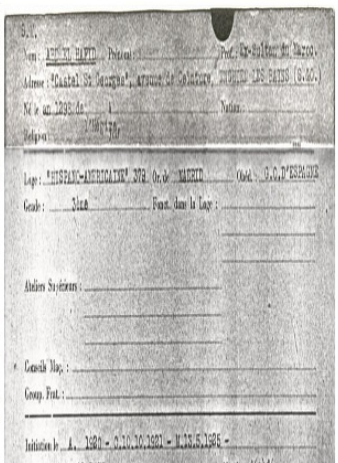
This is why V. Zveg was ordered to create all these fake Sharifian portraits by adding them a red Tarboosh.

On 24 September 1872 the Foreign Secretary, Lord Granville to Drummond-Hay. Granville enclosed the Queen's letter of accreditation, and Hay was instructed to present it to the Sultan as soon as convenient. He left Tangier for Court on 24 March 1873, and arrived in Marrakesh on 5 April. There he found that Sidi Moussa, the Lord High Chamberlain, had become the real ruler of Morocco (so Drummond-Hay declared), and that the Grand Vizier and other Ministers had become mere cyphers. After his return to Tangier Drummond-Hay wrote to Lord Granville on 18 May 1873, saying that during his visit to Court he had judged it wise to make friends with Sidi Moussa. Ref: A History of Anglo-Moroccan Relations to 1900 by P.G. Rogers. London: Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Chapter 8 page 179. Sidi Moussa was succeeded, when he died in 1879, by his son Ba Ahmed ben Moussa. Ref: Morocco since 1830 by C.R. Pennell.

Abdel-Aziz, ici en tenue d'officier turc: sa mère "lalla Rkia" était turque d'origine juive. Ref: A. Rami, Les Sultans "Alaouites" Au Maroc.

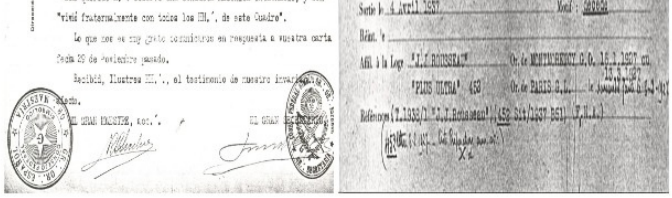
Abdel-Aziz, as Sultan. Ref: http://marocjadis.webobo.com/diaporama.php?id_menu=290640&page=2

Abdel-Aziz, as Sultan. Ref: Abdelaziz of Morocco - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia



Hafid, Freemason &"commandeur des croyants", 1908 à 1912, cupide et débauche: au cour d'une fole soirée avec des occupants. Remarquez la bouteille de Wyski et le pied replié sans la babouche. Ref: A. Rami, Les Sultans "Alaouites" Au Maroc.

Youssef, as Sultan. Ref: http://marocjadis.webobo.com/diaporama.php?id_menu=290640&page=1



Sidi Mohamed VI, as seen on the day of Eid. Ref: Forty Hadith of Hajj. Note: 03 - Talbiyah and the Sacrifice

Les Francs-Macons au Maroc sous la IIIe Republique, 1867-1940

Encyclopedia of the Middle East

Alawi

by
Ami Isseroff

Alawi (Arabic) are a sect akin to Shi'ite Islam in Syria. The Alawi are not to be confused with Alevi. The question of whether or not Alawi are Muslims is disputed. Alawites are a minority but they are politically powerful today. The clan of the ruling Assad family is Alawi (or Alawite) and under their rule, the Alawi were legitimized officially as Muslims.

Alawi were possibly originally Nusayriya, an off-shoot sect of Twelver Shiites that split off in the 9th century. The Alawites claim they originated with the eleventh Shia Imam, Hasan al Askari (d.873), and his pupil Ibn Nusayr (d.868).[6] Ibn Nusayr declared that he is the Bab Door (representative) of the eleventh Imam. The sect may have been organized by a follower of Ibn Nusayr's, al-Khasibi, who died in Aleppo in about 969. Al-Tabarani, a grandson of al-Khasibi moved to Latakia on the Syrian coast. There he gathered a following and converted much of the local population.

Under the French mandate, Alawi and other minorities got autonomy and were accepted as colonial troops. Many Alawite chieftains opted for a separate Alawite nation and tried to convert their autonomy into independence. An Alawite territory was created in 1925, and in May 1930 , the Government of Latakia was created. It was incorporated into Syria on February 28, 1937.

In 1939 the Sanjak of Alexandretta in north Syria, now Hatay, which had a large Alawi population, was given to Turkey by the French. This has been a source of bitterness for Syrians and Alawites in particular. Zaki al-Arsuzi, a young Alawite leader from Antioch in Iskandrun (later named the Hatay by the Turks) who led the resistance to the annexation of Alexandretta to the Turks, later became one of the founders of the Ba'ath Party. After World War II, when Syria became independent, the Alawite provinces were united with Syria. Alawite followers of Sulayman al-Murshid tried to resist integration. al-Murshidwas captured and hanged in Damascus in 1946.

However, you should be aware that there is is a dispute (as there are about many points) as to whether the Alawi are or are not related to the Alevi in Turkey. About half the sources I have consulted are quite confident that they the same sect, and the other half are quite sure they are not.
Ref: MidEastweb for Coexistence. See: http://www.mideastweb.org/Middle-East-Encyclopedia/alawi.htm

From: The Hon. Dr. Burton Yost Berry, former US-Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Iraq, September 8, 1952

Memorandum of Personal Observations:

The making and receiving of official calls, and other contacts that a new Chief of Mission establishes with local people in all walks of life, have provided me in concentrated form with an appreciation of Iraqi attitudes which we must take into account if we are to make progress with our area objectives. Thus, I hope following summary of my impressions will prove timely to Department in developing its over-all Middle East policy, and particularly in shaping its position on MEDO and several items on GA agenda.

Without an exception each new Iraqi acquaintance brought up first the Palestine issue and left no doubt as to depth of his feeling. With little variation each said the Iraqis had no quarrel with Jews as Jews who had been welcomed in Orient when the West persecuted them. But Zionism was something else which was cruelly selfish and dangerously aggressive. Zionism at work in Palestine, creating an Israeli state on lands which since days of Caliph Omar were Arab and today are part of Arab Spiritual heritage, inflicted an injury to the Arab soul which will never heal. And what was done could not have been done except through active intervention and continuing support of US. This I was told always with sincerity and sometimes with very considerable heat. I was warned too that in the Orient where grudges are nurished and blood feuds flourish not to believe that lapse of time will change Arab attachment to Palestine, or that the young generation will hold different views or that US loans and grants will cause Arabs to forget and forgive.

French and British imperialism in North Africa regularly was the second subject introduced by Iraqis. They say North African Arab states are controlled by French and British armies with civil liberties suppressed and right of self-determination denied. They consider that US, by supporting British and French, has become equally responsible with them. Frequently I was asked why the US fights to save South Koreans from domination by a foreign aggressor when we do not fight to save Tunisians and Moroccans from a similar destiny. Then I was informed that we discriminate because Chinese and North Koreans do not belong to „international aristocracy" whereas the French and British do. I was advised that all nations today demand quality of treatment and warned that the prospect of the survival of Western civilization depends on the West practicing equality now and abandoning in the next GA its outmoded policy of discrimination. If the US continues its old course the Iraqis expect to see in North Africa and throughout Asia a violent reaction to old ideologies and an increasing eagerness of these people to turn to Communism as the only alternative to the former shining but now corroded democratic ideal.

The development of natural resources generally came up next for discussion although Foreign

	Sorry, Arte was unable to give us the right to publish these three photos. Nonetheless, thanks to YouTube you can see the part mentioned here for yourself - see below.

These three clips are from episode 1 of the French movie "Revivre" aka "Milch und Honig". Here we see and hear a group of Jewish-Moroccan citizens rehearsing their religious practises while some wear the red Tarboosh. Ref: "Revivre" raconte, juste avant la naissance de l'Etat d'Israel, le douloureux periple d'hommes et de femes qui, en 1947, tentent de rejoindre la Terre promise malgre l'opposition de l'armee britannique.

see:

YouTube: Interview on the making of the film REVIVRE by Haim Bouzaglou

See here: Revivre

&

by Reuven Aberjel

a Moroccan jew speaks up against zionism and israeli racism

See here: Reuven

WAR CRIMES

Minister Jamali and a few others gave third place to the advancement of Fertile Crescent idea. Our Point IV program was lightly brushed aside. The Prime Minister said it was „nothing" while other Ministers, generally sympathetic, said it had had little impact to date. The more critical complained that we had oversold the program for two years and ended by creating a housing shortage in Baghdad to provide homes for TCA personnel.

The openly hostile accused us of trying with triflingPoint IV aid to bribe the Arabs to forget Palestine. But it was the British that received the heavy fire. All of the ills of today were laid to the reactionism of IPC and British Government. My informants seemed to prefer to look to the past rather than the future. They felt things were not right and so sought someone to blame. The British and their Iraqi friends were the natural targets and they were pounded unmercifully. The pathological unanimity of this expression caused me to sympathize with members of Development Board who fear that the several years necessary to complete their major projects may not be accorded them by a people impatient for results. It caused me to share the concern of Foreign Minister who said that the Government has no effective propaganda machinery, that there is not a single Arab language pro-Western newspaper in Iraq, and therefore those who hold pro-Western views ae shy while others who hold anti-Western views shout them out. I found that our good works were not known or when known were interpreted by our enemies as being undertaken for nefarious purposes.
Area defense was a subject where the chief interest was to reject the concept of Western participation. Today neutrality is the refuge planned against time when war clouds threaten. When suggested that an Iraqi wartime neutrality would invite a Soviet occupation, many Iraqis professed to prefer an untried Soviet occupation to an actual British domination. In searching an explanation of such unrealistic attitude I was reminded that Mesopotamia has experienced wars from the beginning of time but never reconstruction after a war. Moreover, in two World Wars Arabs fought with the Allies but experienced disillusionment and felt abandoned in the post-war periods. So area defense, which they interpret as involvement and as inviting Soviet attack, is unpopular and will not be embraced now as an idea. On the other hand, a MEDO in Cyprus developing healthfully, with Iraqi Government informed of its development on continuing basis, can have a growing fascination for the Iraqi military and through them improve the likelihood of eventual association of Iraqi Government.

This description points up how weak our position is in Iraq.

In view of location of Iraq, this situation seems serious to me, even hazardous, and cries for remedial action. I suggest, therefore, that the Department determine whether the situation in Iraq is characteristic of that in other Arab countries. If it is, then we should re-examine whether the lands, manpower and oil of Arab World are as important to us as we have thought. Assuming that they are, I suggest that we look urgently to our plans to bring the Arabs around to the Western outlook. From Baghdad today it seems that surest way to accomplish this is by our Government squarely facing two problems.

First, is the restoration of the Arabs' confidence in American good will and good faith. A dramatic way to bring this home to the Arabs might be by insisting on enforcement of the United Nations resolutions on Palestine. It might also be accomplished as effectively but less dramatically through our day by day decisions demonstrating that our Middle East policy is as genuinely

WAR CRIMES

Despicable war crimes were committed against my forefathers, the Sharifian Sultanate, in which Swiss military regiments actively participated in and this at least since 1721.
The Zionists, Freemason's, the European kingdoms, mainly GB/F& E and the Alawi were helped and supported by the Swiss military and Swiss government who continued to take part in those military agressions against us, in order to prepare the road for the future French protectorat. Naturally, the Swiss government would not have involved herself without making sure that the government will benefit from this. However, many many family members belonging to the Sharifian al-Aji's lost their lives because of this but this is especially true once the Alawi-Freemason's were put in power starting with Hasan I, in 1873.
From this day on one tried not only to eliminate the Seed of the Noble Sharifian bloodline but rather tried to annul its very existence throughout history!
In all of this the Swiss government played an active role. This is especially true and noticeable with regards to the Sharifian wealth „Banque Chérifienne" as well as "les Mines Chérifiennes" and etc. All this was handled by a Swiss, (designated by the Swiss government) and the Tribunal Fédéral in Lausanne. But always in accordance and at the satisfaction of the French and Spaniards.

Aus dem Nachlass des Prof. Dr.iur. Max Huber (1874-1960). Präsident des IKRK, Professor für Völkerrecht.

For references on Dr.iur. Max Huber see: Historisch-Biographisches Lexikon der Schweiz, 4. Band, Güttingen-Mailand, Neuenburg 1927

Imagine the amazement by which the Swiss government must have been struck with when suddenly realizing that as of October 3, 1983, they had the Seed of the Noble Sharifian al-Aji descendant residing within their own territory, along with his Swiss wife and his father (by adoption) the Hon. Dr. Burton Yost Berry, former US-Ambassador. The only advantage the Swiss government, Swiss Elite, Zionists, Freemason's and Alawite's had over my husband was: He, my husband, had no knowledge of his descent !

At first the daily live and business was moving on very well. However, this changed when my father-in-law had a routine check-up with one of his old Swiss doctors (Urologist). As my husband had accompanied him he (BYB) informed my husband right away that he had been given an injection by his doctor. Well, around 5 to 7 hours later my father-in-law was dead. This was also the last time my husband was permitted to see his father. (on your left see: "Memorandum of Personal Observations" written in Iraq, 1952 by BYB)

But this is only one of many mysterious circumstances which happened from this day on. They were directed against my husband 's life, our business, our children and etc. etc. and this until this day.
Finally, ostracized and unprotected we found ourselves in midst of a holocaust which was instigated against us by above mentioned groups. They probably thought that through this we will resign due to despair and vanish without a trace. Well:

"A Sharif descendant will always stand-up firm and call out for justice to be implemented and executed".

Besides, today the Sharif is well aware of all the war crimes which were committed directly or indirectly by these Swiss groups against his forefathers and, which since August 22, 1985 continued in the form of political persecution against himself, his wife and children as well as against our business.

Today the time has come to announce the truth loudly throughout the world of what the Swiss government had done and still continues to do to this day towards the descendant of the Noble Sharifian living in Switzerland.

Therefore, should there be a democratic country who genuinely believes in and respect international laws, equality, freedom and human rights - then this matter must be brought to justice.

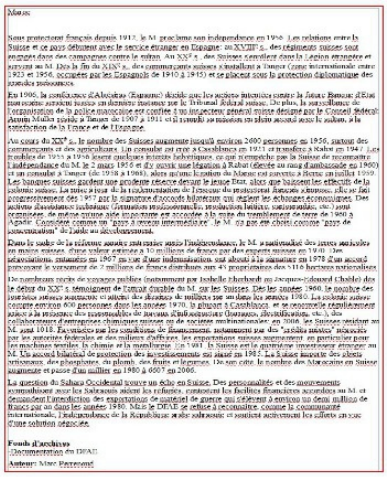
MAROC

prises à mains armées de village à village et fut apaisé par l'intervention de la Ligue de la Maison-Dieu et des III Ligues. — A. Sprecher : Gesch. der Rep. der III Bünde im 16. Jahrh. I, p. 295. [C. J.]

MAROC. Les plus anciens rapports de la Suisse avec le sultanat du Maroc remontent au temps du service mercenaire suisse en Espagne. En 1721, le régiment Niderôst combattit à Ceuta contre les Marocains. Les régiments Wirz, Bessler et Arregger au service de l'Espagne furent aussi engagés dans des campagnes contre le sultan du Maroc. Les premiers établissements suisses datent de la fin du XIX^e^ s. Il y a actuellement au Maroc environ 1300 Suisses, la plupart commerçants ou agriculteurs. Leur nombre augmente constamment. La Suisse a créé en 1921 un consulat à Casablanca. Les relations commerciales, d'origine toute récente, sont en continuel développement. Il existe depuis le 14 juillet 1914 un accord avec la France pour le règlement des rapports entre la Suisse et la zone française de l'empire chérifien. Un arrangement analogue a été conclu avec l'Espagne le 4 août 1926. Dans la zone internationale de Tanger, les Suisses peuvent se placer sous la protection d'une puissance amie. Ils y sont soumis à la juridiction du tribunal mixte de Tanger.



Le 16 juin 1906, la conférence internationale réunie à Algésiras pour le règlement de la situation marocaine a voté entre autres une déclaration relative à l'organisation de la police, ainsi qu'un acte de concession pour une banque d'Etat marocaine ; elle confia la surveillance de cette police à un inspecteur général suisse, proposé par le Conseil fédéral au sultan. Le Conseil fédéral porta son choix sur le colonel Armin Müller, de Bienne, qui se rendit à son poste à Tanger le 6 mars 1907. Un arrêté fédéral du 10 juillet 1907 décréta qu'il pourrait en être appelé au Tribunal fédéral de Lausanne, prononçant en dernière instance, des jugements rendus par la Cour de justice chargée de statuer sur les plaintes dirigées contre la Banque de l'Etat chérifien. Bien que la durée du mandat du colonel Müller fût, conformé-concerned with the re-actions of the Arabs as that of the Israelis. Such action would go far in restoring Arab faith in the UN and the US. Secondly, is the attitude of the UK and France. To harmonize such with world conditions today we may have to insist that the UK assume in the Middle East the same statesmanlikle attitude it assumed in the Indian sub-continent in 1946 and then insist that the French adopt a similar attitude. I realize that these are heavy demands, but the Middle East is a great prize. Whether gaining it is worth risking taking this suggested position with Israel, the UK and France only the Department can decide, but from here it is very clear that until the US is again respected int the Middle East for the justice of its position our local friends will not risk raising their voices to support us. But when we have demonstrated a policy of fairness and friendship towards the Arab World we will have laid the foundation for rebuilding the prestige that the United States traditionally has enjoyed in this area.

ment à l'accord pris, arrivés à expiration en décembre 1911 et que la convention relative au protectorat ait commencé à déployer ses effets le 1er mars 1912, la mission de l'inspecteur de la police fut continuée, avec l'assentiment des puissances signataires. Elle ne prit fin qu'avec l'acte du Conseil fédéral du 3 février 1914. A cette occasion, le Conseil fédéral prit connaissance d'une lettre du roi d'Espagne exprimant, comme mandataire des puissances signataires des actes d'Algésiras, ses remerciements au gouvernement suisse et à la mission. [Bindschedler.]

Dictionnaire Historique & Biographique de la Suisse. Publié avec la recommandation de la Société Générale Suisse d'Histoire, Tome IV, HEGGLI-MONTREUX, page 669 (Maroc), 1928.

Maroc

Nous protégeons français depuis 1912, le Maroc proclama son indépendance en 1956. Les relations entre la Suisse et ce pays débutent avec le service étranger en Espagne : au XVIIIe s., des régiments suisses sont engagés dans des campagnes contre le sultan. Au XIXe s., des Suisses servilient dans la Légion étrangère et servent au Maroc. Dès la fin du XIXe s., des commerçants suisses s'installent à Tanger (zone internationale entre 1923 et 1956, occupée par les Espagnols de 1912 à 1945) et se placent sous la protection diplomatique des grandes puissances.

En 1906, la conférence d'Algésiras (Espagne) décide que les sujets helvétiques seront de facto. Berne (Etat non-signataire) accède au dernier moment par le Tribunal fédéral suisse. De plus, la surveillance de l'organisation de la police marocaine est confiée à un inspecteur général suisse désigné par le Conseil fédéral. Armin Müller nommé à Tanger de 1907 à 1911 est si remarquable en mission en plein accord avec le sultan, à la satisfaction de la France et de l'Espagne.

Au cours du XIXe s., le nombre des Suisses augmente jusqu'à environ 2000 personnes en 1956, surtout des commerçants et des agriculteurs. Un consulat est créé à Casablanca en 1911 et transféré à Rabat en 1947. Les troubles de 1953 à 1956 jettent quelques intérêts helvétiques, ce qui n'empêche pas la Suisse de reconnaître l'indépendance du M. le 2 mars 1956 et d'y ouvrir une légation à Rabat (élevée au rang d'ambassade en 1960) et un consulat à Tanger (de 1958 à 1960), alors qu'un consulat de Monaco est ouvert à Berne en juillet 1959. Les banques suisses gardent une prudente réserve devant le jeune Etat, alors que baissent les effectifs de la colonie suisse. La mise à jour de la réglementation de l'encore du protectorat français s'amorce, elle se fait progressivement dès 1957 par la signature d'accords bilatéraux qui règlent les échanges économiques. Des activités d'assistance technique (formation professionnelle, irrigation, laiteries, sanatoria, etc.) sont entreprises, de même qu'une aide importante est accordée à la suite du tremblement de terre de 1960 à Agadir. Considéré comme un "pays à revenu intermédiaire", le M. ne fait pas en général l'objet de concentration de l'aide ou désengagement.

Dans le cadre de la réforme agraire entreprise après l'indépendance, le M. a nationalisé des terres achetées en quatre années, d'une valeur estimée à 10 millions de francs par des experts suisses en 1960. Des nationalisations, intervenues en 1967 en vue d'une industrialisation, ont abouti à la saisonnier en 1973. D'un accord prévoyant le versement de 7 millions de francs distribués aux 45 propriétaires des 116 hectares nationalisés.

Un nombreux cercle de voyages publics (notamment par Isabelle Eberhardt ou Jacques-Edouard Chabbi) des le début du XXe s. témoignent de l'intérêt croissant de M. sur les Suisses. Dès les années 1960, le pouvoir des touristes suisses augmente et atteint des chiffres de millions par an dans les années 1980. La colonie suisse compte environ 600 personnes dans les années 1970, le groupe à Casablanca, et se reconstitue rapidement après à la suppression des interdictions de sorties (Bab-ouverture Ouarzazate, Zouiriffiennes, etc.). Des collaborateurs d'entreprises chimiques suisses ou de sociétés multinationales, en 2000, les Suisses résidant au M. sont 1918. En raison de la sécheresse de financement, notamment par des "accords mixtes" négociés par les autorités fédérales et des milieux d'affaires, les exportations suisses augmentent, en particulier pour les machines textiles, la chimie et la métallurgie. De 1991. Le Suisse est le quatrième investisseur étranger au M. Un accord bilatéral de protection des investissements est signé en 1987. Les Suisses naturels des clients nationaux, des phosphates, du plomb, des fruits et légumes. De son côté, le nombre des Marocains en Suisse augmente et passe d'un millier en 1980 à 4067 en 2006.

La question du Sahara Occidental trouve un écho en Suisse. Des personnalités et des mouvements sympathisent avec les Sahraouis selon les refusés, consentent les facilités financières accordées au M. et demandent l'interdiction des exportations de matériel de guerre qui s'élèvent à environ un demi-million de francs par an dans les années 1980. Mais le DFAE se refuse à reconnaître, comme la communauté internationale, l'indépendance de la République arabe sahraouie et poursuit activement les efforts en vue d'une solution négociée.

Fonds d'archives
(Documentation du DFAE)

Auteur: Marc Perrenoud

Marc Perrenoud, Historisches Lexikon der Schweiz (HLS) vom 22.08.2008. http://www.hls-dhs-dss.ch/textes/f/F3456.php ?PHPSESSID=b6f41457 dcdbca692c44b2d5b9f049b8

A Letter to Remember

Zurich, November 7, 2001

(copies sent to Swiss Federal Councillor Mr. Couchepin and etc.)

Dear Sheikh al-Thani,

With this coming WTO meeting in Doha I would like to take-up the opportunity to update the Arab World of the "Swiss & English Manipulation Tactics" while explaining and letting all the Arabs understand that these organizations prepare their tactics at least 10 - 15 years ahead of time. Therefore, all the new coming generations will be falling into the same traps as their parents and relatives have before them, if not educated and informed before agreeing on any foreign trade agreements or making any investments abroad especially within Switzerland and England. All what these organizations care for is - money! They let you bring all your wealth, they let you invested all and let you continue to believe that you too, will receive the same rights of doing business, on educational levels, as your colleagues. However, this is not the case, soon you will find out that there is no government, no institutions and no law which can, nor which will help to protect you! You will find out that you are a total outsider, just belonging to a small minority which no one cares for, (that is, "except your money of course"), and for whom no government employee nor lawyer will take the chance to burn his fingers for.

However, the Swiss banks which are connected and working with the government and by the way are also dealing in arts in general, - as you know, - let you understand - we have all the time to wait ! So, if you are not strong, if you do not believe in yourself and if you cannot continue to struggle for your legal rights, they will come and successfully take all your wealth away from you, but this time, with the blessing of the government law.

I once stressed within my letters addressed to the Swiss government, President Moritz Leuenberger, Federal Councillor Mr. Couchepin as well as the Swiss Federal Court in Lausanne, that Arabs are intelligent people too, and therefore should receive the same basic human rights as everybody else, but got nowhere! Joined sharing of knowledge is essential to all human races and today more than ever, - an absolute must! Only by respecting each human, by using good balance and by applying equal fairness, we can stop this type of terrorism.

Without exception, every human - young and old - knows this and is perfectly able to make out the difference between right and wrong! Unfortunately, the big money powers prefer to continue to look the other side! Nonethless, the unanswered question remains: "for what prupose ? - or, - for what reason ? what is their real aim ? The answer is money! The European govenrment needs money desperately! Therefore, they are looking for total control over minorities, like: people which are unable, or simpy to week to unit, and then, as an excuse, - and because their country is unable to pay back their credit or interest which they received from the European government in the first place -, they will come and take up total control over their country products and put the native population by and with all means at their mercy!

When countries or people are broke, they are nothing more than cheap slave workers.

Now, as European richness dwindles rapidly once again, they must look eagerly for alternatives. They absolutely must get to the until now unexploited richness lying just under the surface of foreign countries. If this would be executed within equal fairness, nor harm would be done. Live and let people live has never hurt anyone. But unfortunately the big money power idea is only to take over and to manipulate everyone and everything!

Since high education amongst Near Eastern & Asian populations is still extremely low, around 10-20% only, they will not be able to understand nor foresee what is going on until it hits them. Nevertheless, the result will be another 100 years of poverty, (if you still have a 100 years), slave work, living in ghettos, famine, no high education of course and a never ending begging for food aid! All this is the inevitable result of a population not being able to see, understand nor analyze their countries God given richness.

Remains the last question to ask: Is or are the rulers of such countries educated enough to understand the maneuvers or outcome of such irrevocable agreements before causing their people a holocaust ?

If they are not sure of their doing then there is no shame in asking good peoples honest and wise advice - after all - a whole nations future is at stake.

Rituale und Trophäen. Die schrecklichen Kerle. Spanische Fremdenlegionäre im Rif

Section 3

Le Commandant Mohammed Ben Abou par E. Delacroix, 1838.

Mhd. Ben Abou etait le Commandant d'une escorte militaire pour proteger le Comte de Morney pendant son voyage de Tanger à Meknès entre décembre 1831 à juillet 1832. Ref: Dafina. Peintre du Maroc.

Adalbert, Prinz von Preussen, 1811-1873. In the summer of 1856, while on a training cruise of Prussian warships, he was shot at by pirates within sight of Morocco's Rif coast and was wounded.

Ref: Marokko - Zeno.org: Im Aug. 1856 wollte die Bemannung der preussischen Corvette Danzig unter Befehl desPrinzen Adalbert an der Riffküste ans Land steigen, wurde aber aus einem Hinterhalt mit Flintenschüssen empfangen und musste, nachdem von 65 Mann 7 geblieben und 18 verwundet worden waren, der Uebermacht der Seeräuber weichen.

Where is this document?

The Alawi (Alaouite) Portraits were made in 1971 by

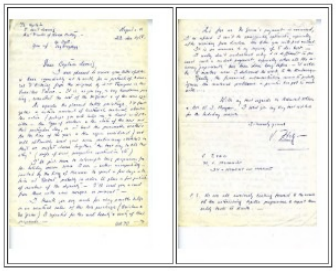
Wladimir Zveguintzoff , aka V. Zveg

at the request of

King Hassan II

About the artist

Wladimir Zveguintzoff, aka V. Zveg was born in St. Petersburg on 13.07.1913 and appeared on the electoral list of Nogent sur Marne - France, in 1960.



We received this information, Courtesy of Mme. Boulangé, Archives Nogent sur Marne from the US Navy Art Collection, Washington, D.C.

&

I can confirm that Wladimir Zveguintzoff is his full name. He uses the address at Nogent sur Marne until 1977. He did work for the United States Navy and the Naval Historical Center from 1967 through 1977. For the work he did for the United States Navy (portraits of important US naval figures) he was paid by the US Navy and the Naval Historical Center. Often times, he would submit the completed paintings to the Naval Attaché in Paris for shipment to Washington, D.C.

In the letter dated December 22, 1968 Mr. Zveg wrote: I'll just have to interrupt this programme for the holiday season since I am - rather unexpectedly - invited by the King of Morocco to spend a few days with him at Rabat.

&

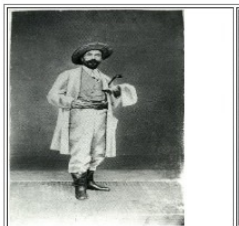
We received this information:

Courtesy of Ms Pam Overmann, Curator, Navy Art Collection, Wash. D.C.

&

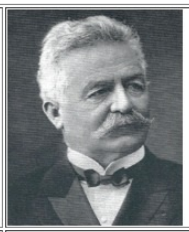
In: (Magharebia.com) Moroccan association calls for friendship and co-existence.

Posted by Zveguintzoff in response to V. Zveg (1913 - 2006) ..... . Authored by his nephew.



Angehörige des Tercios - Spanische Fremdenlegion - während des Rifkrieges präsentieren stolz die Köpfe getöteter Kabylen. Eine der üblichen Methoden, zu demonstrieren, dass man genau so schrecklich war wie der Gegner.

The name Martil comes from the Spanish name of Rio Martin at the time of the Spanish protectorate of Northern Morocco.



Switzerland's War Crimes

The first Swiss mercenaries in the service of Spain were hired in 1483

Les plus anciens rapports de la Suisse avec le Sultanat du Maroc remontent au temps du service mercenaire Suisse en Espagne. En 1721, le régiment Nideröst combattit à Ceuta contre les Marocains. Les régiments Wirz, Bessler et Aregger au service de l'Espagne furent aussi engagés dans des campagnes contre le Sultan du Maroc. Ref: Dictionnaire Historique & Biographique de la Suisse, Maroc, 1928

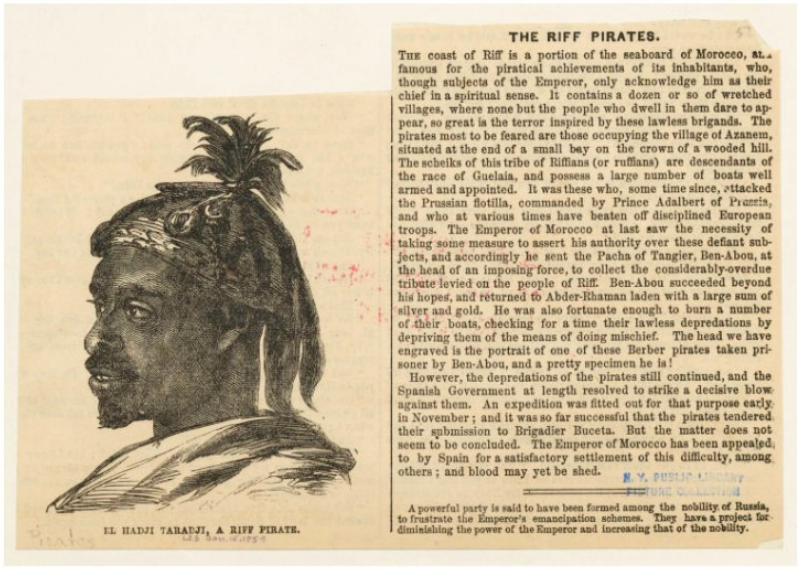
Frank Buchser, Freimaurer,



Oberst Armin Müller, (1855 - 1944)

1828-1890 bereiste verkleidet als Araber 1858 das verbotene Marokko und nahm 1860 auf der Seite der Spanier am Rif-Krieg teil. Ref: Schweizer Demokrat Nr. 6 Juni 2009, Seite 5, Robert Berner ueber Marokko-Muller.	Eduard Müller, (1848-1919), a Member of the Swiss Federal Council, is the cousin of Oberst Armin Mueller, see: Wikipedia, der freien Enzyklopädie.	Aus: La Patrie Suisse. Journal Illustré, Genève. Vol. XVIV, 1907, S. 25. Foto: Atar Genève und Konrad Stamm, "Marokko-Müller. Ein Schweizer Oberst im Reich des Sultans 1907-1911. Eine Tatsachenerzählung", Verlag Neue Zürcher Zeitung, Zürich 2008, S. 103.

Despicable war crimes were committed against my forefathers and the Sharifian Sultanate, in which Swiss military regiments actively participated in and this at least since 1721.
The Zionists, Freemason's, the European kingdoms, mainly GB/F& E and the Alawi were helped and supported by the Swiss military and Swiss government who continued to take part in those military agressions against us, in order to prepare the road for the future French protectorat. Naturally, the Swiss government would not have involved herself without making sure that the government will benefit from this. However, many many family members belonging to the Sharifian al-Aji's lost their lives because of this but this is especially true once the Alawi-Freemason's were put in power starting with Hasan I, in 1873.
From this day on one tried not only to eliminate the Seed of the Noble Sharifian bloodline but rather tried to annul its very existence throughout history!
In all of this the Swiss government played an active role. This is especially true and noticeable with regards to the Sharifian wealth „Banque Chérifienne"* as well as "les Mines Chérifiennes"* and etc. All this was handled by a Swiss, Oberst Armin Mueller, designated by the Swiss government and the Tribunal Fédéral in Lausanne. But always in accordance and at the satisfaction of the French and Spaniards.

MSS-Buchanan Catalogue: 1858 -1860 Madrid, Spain. Very interesting correspondence about a Spanish debt which was owned to the British government just before .....

EL HADJI TARADJI, A RIFF PIRATE.

THE RIFF PIRATES.

THE coast of Riff is a portion of the seaboard of Morocco, so famous for the piratical achievements of its inhabitants, who, though subjects of the Emperor, only acknowledge him as their chief in a spiritual sense. It contains a dozen or so of wretched villages, where none but the people who dwell in them dare to appear, so great is the terror inspired by these lawless brigands. The pirates most to be feared are those occupying the village of Azanem, situated at the end of a small bay on the crown of a wooded hill. The scheiks of this tribe of Riffians (or ruffians) are descendants of the race of Guelaia, and possess a large number of boats well armed and appointed. It was these who, some time since, attacked the Prussian flotilla, commanded by Prince Adalbert of Prussia, and who at various times have beaten off disciplined European troops. The Emperor of Morocco at last saw the necessity of taking some measure to assert his authority over these defiant subjects, and accordingly he sent the Pacha of Tangier, Ben-Abou, at the head of an imposing force, to collect the considerably-overdue tribute levied on the people of Riff. Ben-Abou succeeded beyond his hopes, and returned to Abder-Rhaman laden with a large sum of silver and gold. He was also fortunate enough to burn a number of their boats, checking for a time their lawless depredations by depriving them of the means of doing mischief. The head we have engraved is the portrait of one of these Berber pirates taken prisoner by Ben-Abou, and a pretty specimen he is!

However, the depredations of the pirates still continued, and the Spanish Government at length resolved to strike a decisive blow against them. An expedition was fitted out for that purpose early in November; and it was so far successful that the pirates tendered their submission to Brigadier Buceta. But the matter does not seem to be concluded. The Emperor of Morocco has been appealed to by Spain for a satisfactory settlement of this difficulty, among others; and blood may yet be shed.

A powerful party is said to have been formed among the nobility of Russia, to frustrate the Emperor's emancipation schemes. They have a project for diminishing the power of the Emperor and increasing that of the nobility.

Source: VNN Forum, white-history.com Help Me Out

The Embassy from Morocco left Tanger on June 4, 1860 to London. The Ambassador Seeyed al-Haj Abderrahman al-Aji was to raise a loan in order to pay the Spaniards so they may free Tetouan. During his visit Haj Abderrahman al-Aji handed to Lord John Russell a long document which set forth in detail the Moroccan Government's view of the events which had led to the war with Spain ..... . The Ambassador, Seeyed al-Haj Abderrahman stayed at the Claridge's Hotel from June 26th to July 30th 1860. Ref: Anglo-Moroccan Relations. The Age of Palmerston and Russell, page 171. Tanger, December 20, 1861, the learned Fakee Seeyed Hadj Abderrahman al-Aji. Tanger, le 4 janvier 1862, le lettré Sidi al Hadj Abd-er-Rahman al-Aji signed the Traité d'amitié de Commerce et Navigation entre la Belgique et le Maroc & etc., etc.

Comment by Sir John Drummond-Hay

On 28 December 1867, in a despatch to Lord Stanley, Sir John Drummond-Hay wrote: The country is in a more wretched state of anarchy .....; but the chief evil in my opinion is the character of the present Sultan, Seed Mohamed, who is totally unfit, from the very fact of his being of a mild and humane disposition, and opposed to the punishment by death, to rule over the wild and warlike people of Morocco. Ref: A History of Anglo -Moroccan Relations to 1900 by P.G. Rogers. London, Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Chapter 8 page 177.

On 24 September 1872 the Foreign Secretary, Lord Granville to Drummond-Hay. Granville enclosed the Queen's letter of accreditation, and Hay was instructed to present it to the Sultan as soon as convenient. He left Tangier for Court on 24 March 1873, and arrived in Marrakesh on 5 April. There he found that Sidi Moussa, the Lord High Chamberlain, had become the real ruler of Morocco (so Drummond-Hay declared), and that the Grand Vizier and other Ministers had become mere cyphers. After his return to Tangier Drummond-Hay wrote to Lord Granville on 18 May 1873, saying that during his visit to Court he had judged it wise to make friends with Sidi Moussa. Ref: A History of Anglo-Moroccan Relations to 1900 by P.G. Rogers. London: Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Chapter 8 page 179. Sidi Moussa was succeeded, when he died in 1879, by his son Ba Ahmed ben Moussa. Ref: Morocco since 1830 by C.R. Pennell.

On September 16, 1873 Sidi Muhammad IV al-Aji – a descendant of the Sharifian bloodline – was declared deceased? (in our inheritance papers this is not the case) and immediately replaced with Hassan I - a Freemason.

Nonetheless, to the Moroccan throne which was successfully concluded through the help of the Zionists and the European elite. The aime of the Zionists and European elite was to protect their financial interest over the Moroccan wealth.

&

First:Remarks

Various interviews made on Mr. Ahmed Rami. Further, we received from Mr. Rami his book

"Zuerst nach Casablanca".

Within an interview he also speaks of a well kept secret:
King Sidi Mohammed V's adoption of Hassan II and etc.Ref: http://abbc.net/alaouites/hassan2/fils-de-glaoui.htm; Hassan II is the son of Glaoui; Mohamed VI baptised by a Rabbi from Israel; the Freemasons in Morocco & Moulay Hafid, 1867-1937.

Second:

Mr. Rami and Prof. Pennell both speak of a Coup d'Etat which took place in the palace on February 26, 1961 against King Sidi Mohammed V. Two Swiss doctors convinced King Sidi Mohammed V to undertake a minor nose correction which could be done within the palace. This was done on 26.02.1961 by Prof. Jean-Pierre Taillens, Lausanne & Dr. Raymond, Lausanne. (NZZ, 27.02.1961) Cf: Prof. C.R. Pennell; Morocco, from Empire to Independence; page 166. Ahmed Rami; Corruption and Crime in Hassan's court. Hassan II announced Sidi Mohammed's death and immediately proclaimed himself king. Shortly after that the Swiss-Moroccan relations improved once again which briefly went sour once the French returned King Sidi Mohammed from exile. (1955 to February 26, 1961). See no. 1.

Third:

Another site speaks of Hassan II & his sons baptism which took place at the palace at the request of a Rabbi from Israel. Cf: Abdelilah Bouasria; Chercheur en politique, Wash. D.C. & Prof. Robert Assaraf, a Moroccan Jewish historian, Paris. See no. 1.

Fourth:

Another subject on the web is a present. A slave girl which was given by El-Glaoui to King Sidi Mohammed V. According to the story the King had no idea that the girl he just received was already pregnant with the future Hassan II. Further it is mentioned that Hassan's real father is El-Glaoui a Berber from the Southern part of Morocco and that Hassan's real mother was of Berber-Jewish descend. Further, El-Glaoui was a known French collaborator with his own political ambitions. Cf: Dar El Glaoui: El Glaoui: The pasha of Marrakesh. Time Magazine. Monday, Sept. 5, 1955; Revolt & Revenge & Time Magazine. Monday, May 20, 1957; Who Is Boss?

Following the Coup d'Etat, (1961) Hassan II announced the death of Sidi Mohammed V and immediately proclaimed himself king. Since that day Hassan ruled over Morocco with an iron fist – totally contrary to Sharifian law. Nonetheless, this kind of rule created unrest within the country and questions arose on Hassan's legitimacy which left him with a serious problem as Hassan was not of Sharifian descent but now was in need to create his Sharifian descendence for the Moroccan citizens. Well, in 1968 Hassan and his secret helpers had the glorious idea to invite Mr. Zveg to Morocco. The pretext was, to make a portrait of king Hassan II. However, after the dramatic events at the Skhirat Palace of July 1971, Mr. Zveg had not only to paint the portrait of king Hassan II but noted:

"I have got to paint all his ancestors" for King's Mohammed V Memorial ..... . Suddenly Mr. Zveg had found himself within a situation where he had to do as he been told.

Note the red Tarboosh.

Following are the portraits made by Mr. V. Zveg in 1971

Sultan Abul Amlak Sidi Muhammad I as-Sharif bin Ali

Sultan Sidi Muahmmad II bin Sharif

Sultan Sidi Muhammad al-Rashid bin Sharif

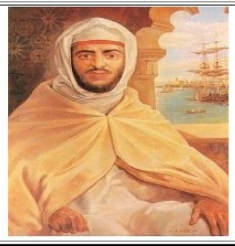
Sultan Ismail as-Samin bin Sharif

Sultan Abu Marwan Mulay Abdul Malik

Sultan Abul Abbas Mulay Ahmad ud-Dhahabi bin Ismail as-Samin

Sultan Abul Hasan Mulay Ali al-Iraj bin Ismail as-Samin

Sultan Abu Abdullah Sidi Muhammad II ben Arbia



Sultan Abu Hasan Ali Mulay Zainal-Abdin bin Ismail as-Samin

Sultan Mulay Muhammad al-Mustadi bin Ismail as-Samin

SultanAbu Abbas Mulay Abdullah bin Ismail as-Samin

Sultan Sidi Muhammad III bin Abdallah

Sultan Mulay al-Yazid bin Muhammad

Sultan Abu ar-Rabi Mulay Sulaiman II

Sultan Haj Abderrahman bin

Sultan Sidi Muhammad IV bin Abderrahman bin Muhammad bin Muhammad | Muhammad

Hasan I, as Sultan

Abdel-Aziz, as Sultan

Hafid, as Sultan

Youssef, as Sultan

Muhammed V, as King

Hassan II, as King

News published on June 12, 1894

in

The New York Times

A NEW SULTAN FOR MOROCCO

MULEY HASSAN DIES SUDDENLY OF MALIGNANT FEVER.

Rumors that He Was Murdered and Hints of an Uprising in Tangier—His Son, Mulai Abdul, Proclaimed Sultan by the Army—Muley's First-Born Already Regarded as a Pretender—Spain Takes Steps to Secure Her Rights.

LONDON, June 11.—Advices received here report that the Sultan of Morocco died on June 7, and that the army proclaimed his son, Mulai Abdul, his successor. Private advices say that the Sultan was murdered.

MADRID, June 11.—The Government has received an official dispatch confirming the death of the Sultan of Morocco. An uprising is expected throughout the country as a result of the death of the Sultan.

The latest dispatches from Morocco say that Muley Hassan died of malignant fever.

His successor, Mulai Abdul, is sixteen years old. He is the son of the old Sultan's favorite wife, a Circassion woman. The old Sultan's famous one-eyed son, the first-born of his numerous children, is already regarded as a pretender, and it is feared that he will take advantage of the first opportunity to incite the people to rise in his behalf.

The Cabinet decided in council to-day to double the garrisons at Melilla and Ceuta, Morocco. War ships have been ordered to Mazagan, Tangier, and Rabat, all ports of Morocco, as the Spanish Government fears that the change of sovereigns may prove the signal for numerous outbreaks.

TANGIER, June 11.—It is ascertained that the Sultan died en route between Marakesh and Rabat. The cause of his death is not yet definitely stated.

Everything is quiet here. The foreign representatives are discussing the outlook, and agree that there is no likelihood of disorder.

PARIS, June 11.—The Government has ordered two war ships and a dispatch boat to cruise in Algerian waters near Morocco. The impression in official circles here is that the death of Muley Hassan will be followed by disturbances among the wilder tribesmen of the country.

MADRID, June 12.—The newspapers here say that not only Muley Hassan's first-born son, Muley Mahomed, but also his four brothers, will probably cause revolt against us is that which separates us from a Caliph of Bagdad, resuscitated after a thousand years of sleep.

"His brown face, parchment-like, that white veils frame, has regular and noble features; his eyes are deathlike; his expression is one of excessive melancholy, of supreme lassitude, of supreme weariness. He seems kind, and is said to be really kind. But it must be a relative kindness, that strings of human heads, in a garland at the door of the palace, do not affect. He cannot be cruel, with his softly-sad look, and it is said that he prefers usually to be merciful. He is a priest and a warrior. He is sure of the divinity of his mission. He lives in chastity in his seraglio. He tries to copy Mohammed. He is a person that we cannot, in our epoch, either understand or judge; but he is assuredly an imposing individual.

"There, in our presence, he has an air of surprise and timidity which invests him with unexpected charm. The Minister presents to him his credentials in an embroidered velvet bag. Speeches are exchanged, then salutations, and the Chief of the Faithful turns back. The slaves lead his horse, harnessed with silk. The Sherifian mummy appears to us like a tall spectre in white, misty shrouds."

Muley Hassan,
Late Sultan of Morocco.

the new regime in Morocco. They urge the Government to prepare at once to vindicate Spain's prior right to a preponderance of influence over Morocco in the event of civil war and European intervention. It is reported that the Government has proposed in a circular note to the powers that they take joint action to maintain the status quo in Morocco. France and several other powers are said to have expressed willingness to share in such action.

The troops in Andalusia have been ordered to prepare themselves to embark at a moment's notice for Melilla or Ceuta, where, it is feared, outbreaks of the tribesmen may occur.

THE SULTAN AS HE WAS.

The Man Who Was Regarded as the Successor of Mohammed.

Muley Hassan, Sultan of Fez, Tafilet, Marabech, and Suse, Emir al Mumenin, Sherifian Majesty, succeeded his father, Sidi Muley Mohammed, Sept. 25, 1873.

He was born in 1831. His absolutely despotic rule was only too lenient, in the Middle-Age view of his subjects. It was only a little less cruel, perhaps, than that of his predecessors, in the view of modern men or in the light of European civilization. His reign was occupied with spasmodic, inevitably vain, efforts to subdue rebellious tribes, and to grant reparation to England, Spain, Italy, and France for a number of outrages. His last year was especially troubled. It began with reclamations of France against his purpose to bring under his yoke the tribes of the various oases of Touat. It continued with battles among the tribes of Fez, it was perpetually disturbed by embassies of Italy and England, and it is finished after a war with Spain.

In January, 1893, an ultimatum was sent to him from England, demanding reparation within forty-eight hours for the murder of a British subject at Tangier. He granted the reparation demanded.

In October, 1893, the Spaniards engaged in erecting new works at Fort Guaraich were attacked by the Riffians, in defiance of the treaty of peace of 1861, which granted to the Spaniards sovereignty over the territory situated within 3,000 miles of Melilla. In December Gen. Martinez Campos, Ambassador of Spain, obtained satisfaction from the Sultan, but the latter's promises of money were easily made. They could not be kept. His empire is hopelessly in debt. G. Montbard, who traveled from Tangier to Fez in the independent quality of an artist, has described it as hopelessly in ruins.

Pierre Loti, who was in the train of M. Patenôtre, Envoy Plenipotentiary of France to Morocco, has given the most vivid personal description of the Sultan and of the ceremonial of his Court, as follows:

"Through a door surrounded by pink and blue arabesques come about fifty little negroes, slaves in red gowns, with muslin surplices, like choir boys. They walk heavily, huddled together like a flock of sheep.

"Then come six magnificent white horses, saddled and harnessed with silk, and restive under the hands of the servants who lead them. Then comes a gilded carriage, which looks ridiculous in these roughly-impressive surroundings. It is the only carriage in Fez, and was a present from Queen Victoria to the Sultan.

"There are a few moments of silence. Then a tremor of religious fear passes through the hedge of soldiers. The fifty little slaves run as if in a panic, and deploy their ranks in the shape of an open fan. In the penumbra of the pointed door, on a superb white horse, which four slaves hold, appears a tall white mummy, with brown face veiled with muslin. A red umbrella of antique form is held over his head, and two negro giants, one in pink gown, the other in blue gown, fan invisible flies from his head. As the strange horseman comes toward us, almost shapeless, but imposing nevertheless, under the mass of his snowy veils, the music groans in notes more strident, sings a religious hymn, slow and desolate, that frightful drum beats accompany. The mummy's horse kicks with rage, the slaves holding him with much difficulty.

"At last appears in front of us this last authentic son of Mohammed, mixed with Nubian blood. His costume of muslin, delicate as a cloud, is immaculately white. His horse, too, is all white; his large stirrups are made of gold, his saddle and harness are pale green, lightly embroidered with pale-green gold. The slaves who hold the horse, the one who holds the parasol, and those who hold the fans are herculean negroes, who frankly smile. They are old, and their white beards are in striking contrast with the black of their cheeks. This ceremony of another age is in harmony with the plaintive music, is admirably framed by the immense, surrounding walls.

"This man, who has been escorted to us in this apparel, is the last representative of a religion, of a civilization that is dying. He personifies old Islam—for pure Mussulmans regard the Sultan of Stamboul as a usurper almost sacrilegious, and turn their eyes and their prayers toward the Mogreb where resides, in their view, the true successor of the Prophet.

"Of what use is an embassy to such a sovereign, immobilized, like his nation, in old human dreams that have almost disappeared from earth? We are unable to understand each other; the distance between

&

on June 13, 1894

WAR SHIPS SENT TO MOROCCO

CIVIL WAR IN PROSPECT OVER THE DEATH OF THE SULTAN.

Germany, France, Spain, and Italy Hasten to Reinforce Their Mediterranean Fleets — Muley Ismail, Brother of the Dead Sultan, a Strong Pretender to the Throne— Already Preparing to Contest the Succession of Abdul Aziz as Sultan.

TANGIER, June 12.—The burial of the late Sultan Muley Hassen will take place at Rabat, whither the body has been sent under military escort.

At Casa Blanca the succession of Abdul Aziz, the younger son of the Sultan, to the throne has been acquiesced in, but at Fez, where Muley Ismail, the dead Sultan's brother, has been acting as the Sultan's representative, there is a feeling of hostility toward Abdul Aziz, Muley Ismail being very popular. He is a man of much ability and force, and it will not be surprising if he should make trouble.

LONDON, June 12.—The news from Morocco indicates that civil war can scarcely be averted. Advices from Tangier report that the Sultan's brother, Muley Ismail, is already preparing to contest the succession to the throne of the Sultan's younger son. The news of the departure of a French fleet from Toulon for Tangier is attracting much attention here, in view of the known hostility of the Dupuy Ministry to English interests in Africa.

The Pall Mall Gazette calls attention to the jealousy of the powers in regard to Morocco, and says that M. Dupuy may seize this opportunity to offset England's success in Egypt by dealing a blow at English prestige elsewhere. The Gazette believes that France and Spain would find it to their interests at home to enter upon an aggressive policy in Morocco with a view of securing dual control of that country to the total exclusion of England.

The Globe expresses belief that the question of succession to the trone of Morocco can only be settled by civil war, and advises the immediate augmentation of the British fleet off that coast, in view of the action of France in reinforcing her naval squadron there.

The St. James's Gazttte comments on the situation in a similar strain.

A dispatch from Tangier says: "Messengers from the interior were recently maltreated and robbed of letters addressed to Count d'Aubigny, the French Minister at Tangier. This fact is likely to form a pretext for France's interference in the present difficulty."

MADRID, June 12.—In consequence of the grave aspect of affairs in Morocco the War Office has canceled the furloughs of all officers and soldiers of the First and Second Army Corps, with headquarters respectively in Andalusia and Madrid, and ordered the men to duty.

The Spanish Commanders at Ceuta and Melilla report, as a result of inquiries, that the Kabyles and Riffs will not oppose the succession of Abdul Aziz.

The Spanish cruiser Garcia embarked two companies of marine infantry at Cadiz this morning and sailed for Rabat, Morocco.

TOULON, June 12.—Four French war ships, under command of Admiral le Bourgeois, sailed from this port for Tangier last evening.

BERLIN, June 12.—The German iron-clad war ship Kurfurst Friedrich Wilhelm and the cruiser Sperber have been ordered to proceed at once from Wilhelmshaven to Algiers.

ROME, June 12.—Italy will send one war ship to Tangier.

Until today Morocco remains at the mercy of Europe's elite and under Zionist control.

e.g. NZZ, 15.03.1979 Abkommen mit Marokko. Schürch (fdp., Bern) als Präsident der Kommission für auswärtige Angelegenheiten hat ebenfalls schriftlich Genehmigung des Abkommens mit Marokko betreffend Entschädigung schweizerischer Interessen beantragt.

J. Ziegler (soz., Genf) opponiert aus grundsätzlichen Erwägungen. Wir lassen uns für Werte entschädigen, welche Schweizer in der Kolonialzeit gestohlen haben. Das ist ein Skandal und unmoralisch.

e.g. On December 17, 1985 a new agreement between the Swiss Confederacy "Federal Council" and the "Kingdom of Morocco" over promotion and equal protection of investments was concluded.

In response to an Email received from Mr. Taly

You accuse me to quote rubbish within my website on matters regarding Zionism and Judaism in Morocco and how ..... and etc.

First of all, I did mention "Zionists" and I clearly made a distinction between Zionists and the innocent Jewish brethren. For reference see: The Corcos family: Spain-Morocco-Jerusalem by Sidney S. Corcos. Further, I clearly mentioned that the innocent Jewish people have to suffer as much as the rest of us who have no ambitions to control the world. Therefore, and in the future please do not provoke nor say that in one way or another I am against Jews in general. This is totally false!!!

Second, the Damascus (Syria) matter "Capuchin Monk" as well as the rulers - has never been addressed within my topic nor will I comment on it.

Third, regarding Sir Montefiore. According to Prof. D. Schroeter Sir Montefiore, a Sephardi Jew, had roots in Mogador (Essaouira-Morocco). For reference on Montefiore's Mogador connections see: Daniel J. Schroeter, "Merchants of Essaouira"; for reference on Sephardi Jew see: The Phenomenal Life of Sir Moses Montefiore by Raphael Chaim; for references on Moroccan connections see: Chapter XVIII, The Mission to Morocco (1863-1864), Foreign Affairs page 223 no. 55.
Besides, Sir Montefiore was a Freemason, was politically very ambitious and in fact had his own interests along with his own political agenda.
It is true - sometimes the truth is very hard but if we do not accept of what our forefathers have done for good or bad and if we do not accept the truth then we will never find peace within our hearts. Therefore, sooner or later the truth will always end-up in a peaceful settlement.

Forth, of course, and throughout all of our history, Christians, Muslims as well as Jews made lots of mistakes. And this is why we call ourselves "humans". Kindly accept this fact at least.
So, if you continue to represent Sir Montefiore as a SAGE – then this is your choice and your freedom. Please, just remain within the peaceful side.

Fifth, about the ring: Sir Montefiore said to one of his relatives (Leonard Montefiore) "Do you see this ring?" he said as he removed it from his finger. "Take a good look at it ..... . Engraved on the ring were two Hebrew words: . . . . . (Possessor of everything).
To me, a possessor of everything is not equal to a SAGE - neither is selecting one kind over another going to bring a long overdue peace.
Regarding ring: for reference see: Sir Moses Montifiore's Dream – Israel's benefactor - Moses Montefiore's Dream by Dovid Rossoff, page 3 + 4.

PEACE

Received: Wednesday, October 21, 2009 6:12 PM. From: Taly < .....@..... >.
To: noble_sharifian@yahoo.com

I have to response to the rubbish you said in your site about Zionism and Judaism in Morocco and how we the Jews want to control the world..
If you would only be not so lazy and I invite you to check information. Today it's very easy with Google. If you will press Montefiore and DAMASCUS for example.. You will find out that the connection isn't the Jewish will to control every place on earth but it relates to Montefiores' activity to protect innocent Jewish people who brutally where tortured and accused for crimes they never performed. If you where a real scholar you would read and learn about the ruler of DAMASCUS who got a trial for his accusing the Jews in a crime they never did and eventually he himself got hanged to death as a punishment for that act.
DAMASCUS is mentioned on Montefiores' ring as one of the places he saved Jews from mean and ignorant people like you..(and I honestly hope you will open up your eays and change your attitude) so to make it easier for you here is the link for the real information about Montefiore. there you can read also about Damascus and Montefiore..

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Moses_Montefiore

I wish you will discover the light of the true and not continue to live your life in the darkness of ignorance and evilness...

Copyright 2014

All Search across 12,000+ articles

x

Inner Mysteries of
Egypt and the Nile
Secure your place now!
ANCIENT ORIGINS TOURS
13 to 27 October
2023
EGYPT TOUR
14 Nights
15 Days

X

X

UPDATED 21 APRIL, 2019 - 01:41 DHWTY

The Dark Underworld of the Paris Catacombs

READ LATER | PRINT

Paris, the capital of France, is often called La Ville Lumière (meaning 'The City of Light'), however, beneath this bustling European city of 12 million people, lies a dark subterranean world holding the remains of 6 million of its former inhabitants. These are the Paris Catacombs: a network of old caves, quarries and tunnels stretching hundreds of miles, and seemingly lined with the bones of the dead.

Some areas are open to the public as museums, but since 1955 entrance to the majority of the underground space is prohibited. However this hasn't stopped some thrill-seekers venturing into the cavernous passages that have been home to thousands of upon thousands of bones of the dead. As the water table has risen under the city, many of these spaces are now filled with cool and clean water. Locals are well aware of this, and, according to Bobrtimes , this year's long, sweltering summer has seen an increase in illegal entrance to the catacombs as people seek a respite from the heat by using the subterranean pools as cooling zones.

But these desperate measures could have dire consequences. Just last month, two teenagers were rescued from the catacombs after being lost in the vast network for 3 days. They were found by rescue dogs and were taken to hospital to be treated for hypothermia, reported The Guardian . It was not known exactly how the boys got lost, but this occurence, along with the recent Thai cave emergency rescue, highlights just how easy it can be to get lost or cut off in such environments.

x

Top 35+ wives and girlfriends of famous Footballers
bakehuge

The historic underground catacombs are the final resting place of millions of Parisians. SBoyd/ Flickr

Origins of the Paris Catacombs

The Paris Catacombs have their origins in the limestone quarries situated on the outskirts of the city. This natural resource has been in use since the time of the Romans, and provided construction material for the city's buildings, as well as contributed to the city's growth and expansion. It was only after during the second half of the 18 th century, however, that the former limestone mines (now under the city as it expanded over the centuries) were transformed into burial places.

By the 18 th century, Parisian cemeteries such as Les Innocents (the largest cemetery in Paris) were becoming overpopulated, giving rise to improper burials, ope ople living close to such places began complaining about the strong stench of decomposing flesh and the spread of diseases from the cemeteries.

MORE

- The Eerie Bone Church of 40,000 Souls
- Ancient catacombs of Malta to reveal their splendour
- God of Death Shrine Unearthed in Mexico

In 1763, an edict was issued by Louis XV banning all burials from the capital. The Church, however, did not wish to disturb or move the cemeteries, and opposed the edict. As a result, nothing was done. The situation persisted until 1780, when an unusually long period of spring rain caused a wall around the Les Innocents to collapse, resulting in the spilling of rotting corpses into a neighboring property. By this time, the French authorities were forced to take action.

x

Engraving depicting the Saints Innocents cemetery in Paris, around the year 1550. Public Domain

In 1786, the former Tombe-Issoire quarries were blessed and consecrated, turning them into the Paris Catacombs . It took two years for all the bones from the Les Innocents to be transferred to the catacombs. Over the following decades, the bones of the dead were removed from cemeteries around Paris for reburial in the catacombs. Furthermore, the practice of burying the newly dead directly in the catacombs began after the French Revolution.

A view of the Catacombs under Paris. The catacombs are a large collection of bones and ossuaries under the city. Engraving, 1855. Public Domain

It was only in 1859 that the final transfer of bones was undertaken during the renovation of Paris by Georges-Eugène Haussmann, and the work was finally completed in 1860. Seven years later, the catacombs were open to the public. In total the winding catacombs stretch over 300 kilometers (186 miles).

x

Bones from the former Magdeleine cemetery. Deposited in 1844 in the western ossuary (bone repository) and transferred to the catacombs in September 1859. Wikimedia Commons

The Weird Underworld of the Catacombs

Although the Paris Catacombs are still open to the general public today, access is limited to only a small fraction of the network. It has been illegal since 1955 to enter the other parts of the catacombs.

Nevertheless, during the 1970s and 80s, the catacombs have been explored illegally by Parisian urban explorers known as Cataphiles. Some of the spaces have even been restored and turned into creative spaces. One of these underground caverns, for instance, was transformed into a secret amphitheater, complete with a giant cinema screen, projection equipment, a couple of films and seats. The neighboring area was revamped into a fully-stocked bar and a restaurant, perhaps where the patrons of the amphitheater could get a snack or a meal.

x

MORE

- Secret and Safe: Hawaiian Royal Burials and the Missing Bones of Kamehameha the Great
- The Capuchin Catacombs of Palermo
- Ancient skull was drilled and harvested for medicine in the 18th century

It has been estimated that as many as 300 Cataphiles enter the catacombs each week via secret entrances. Non-Cataphiles and tourists, however, are not often welcome.

From its beginnings as a limestone quarry to its use for the burial of the dead in the 18 th century, and the part it plays today in the lives of the Cataphiles, the Paris Catacombs have been an important feature of the city.

x

Although systematic exploration of the underground tunnels may bring to light the extent of the catacombs, it would probably not meet with approval from all quarters. After all, the secrecy of the catacomb networks, and the opportunity to escape from the hustle and bustle of the city above, are attractive concepts to the Cataphiles, and they would probably not let go of their haunts so easily.

The living and the dead both inhabit the Paris Catacombs. Jay Springett/ Flickr

Top image: Countless skeletal remains line the tunnels and chambers of the Paris Catacombs (dirk94025 / Adobe Stock)

By D̲ḥwty

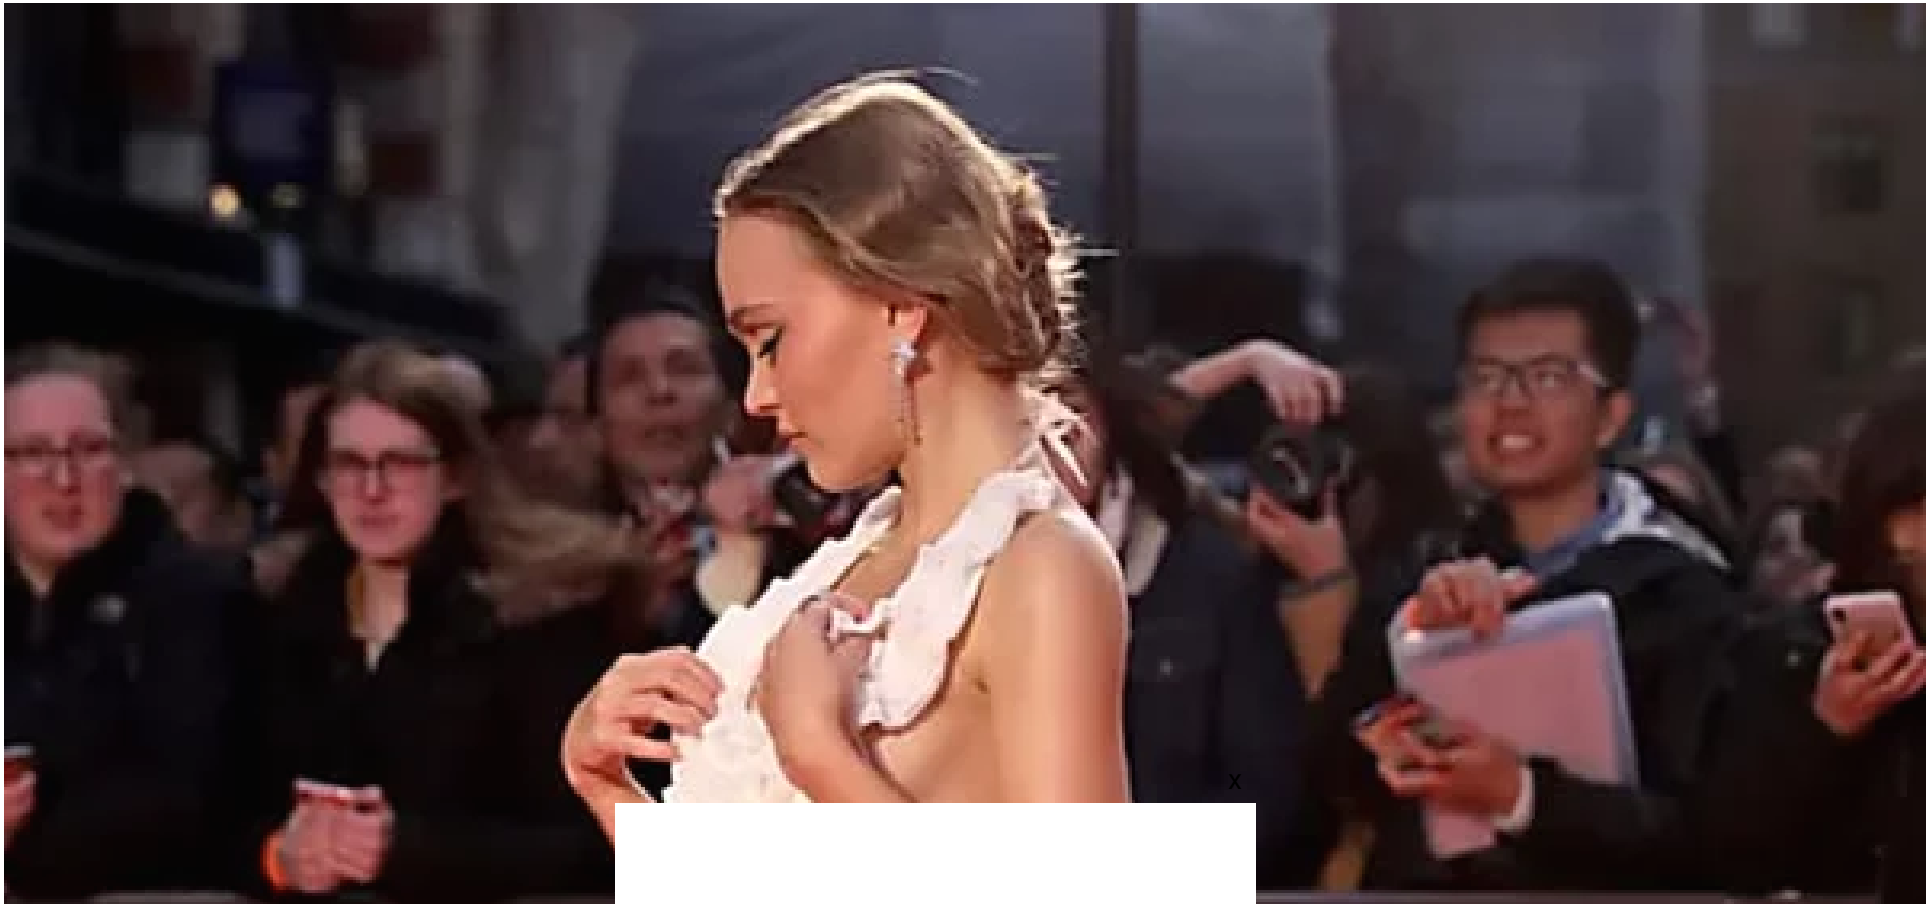
References

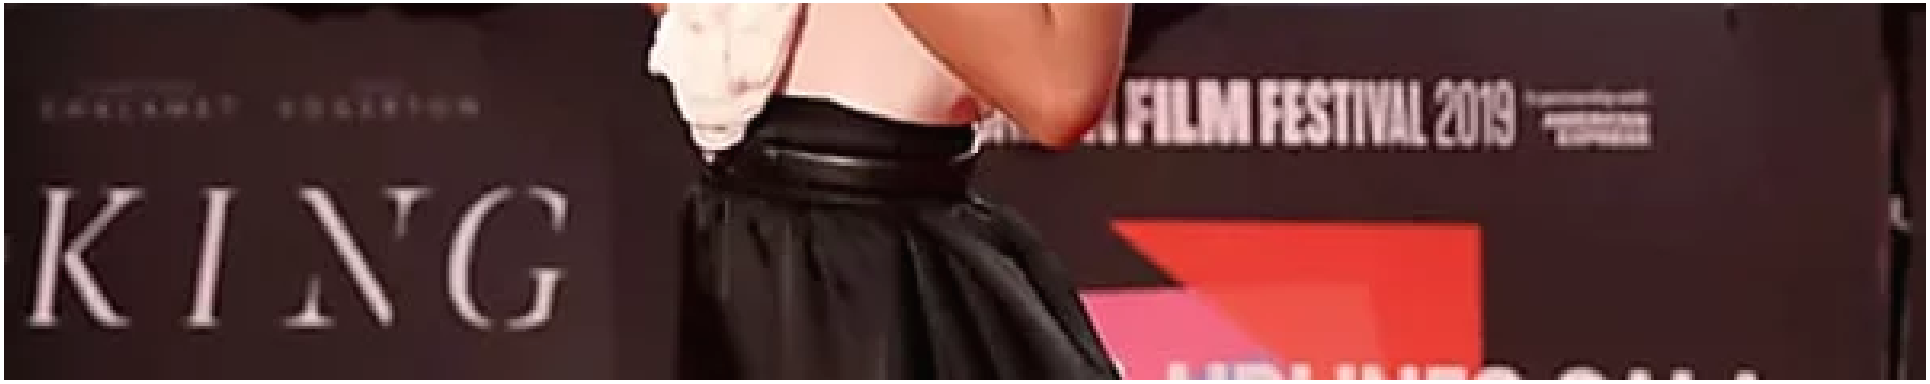
Section: News Ancient Places Europe

Tags: Skulls bones catacombs burial paris france bodies Quarry heatwave underground

(2 Comments)

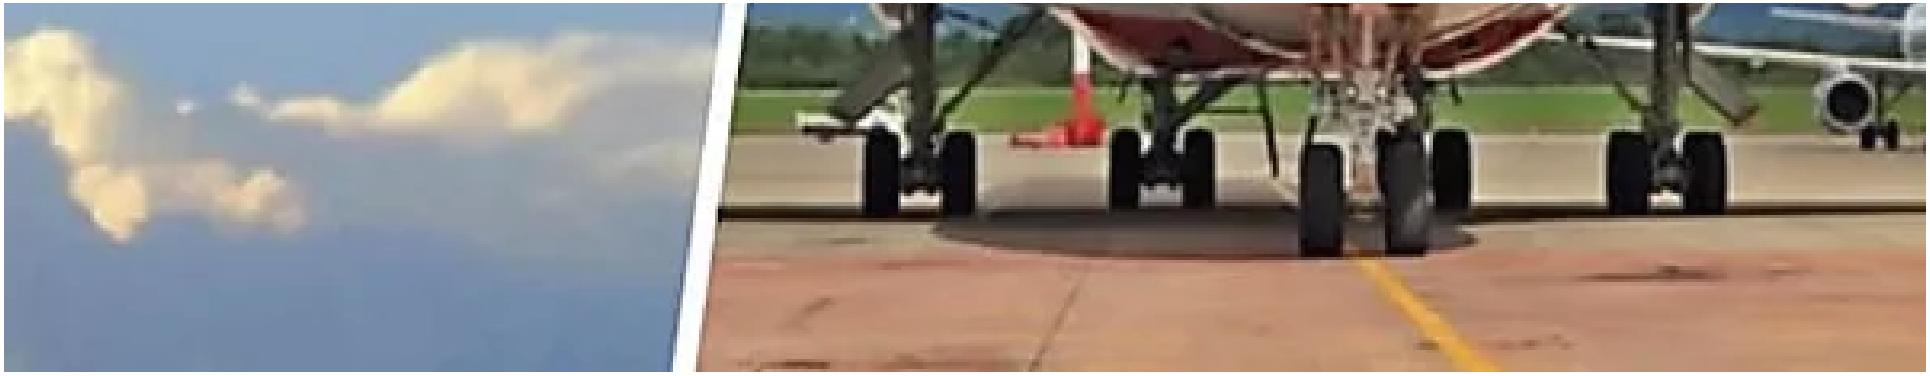


Sponsored Stories



Luxury Villas Prices in Dubai Might Surprise You

Luxury Villas Dubai | Sponsored Links

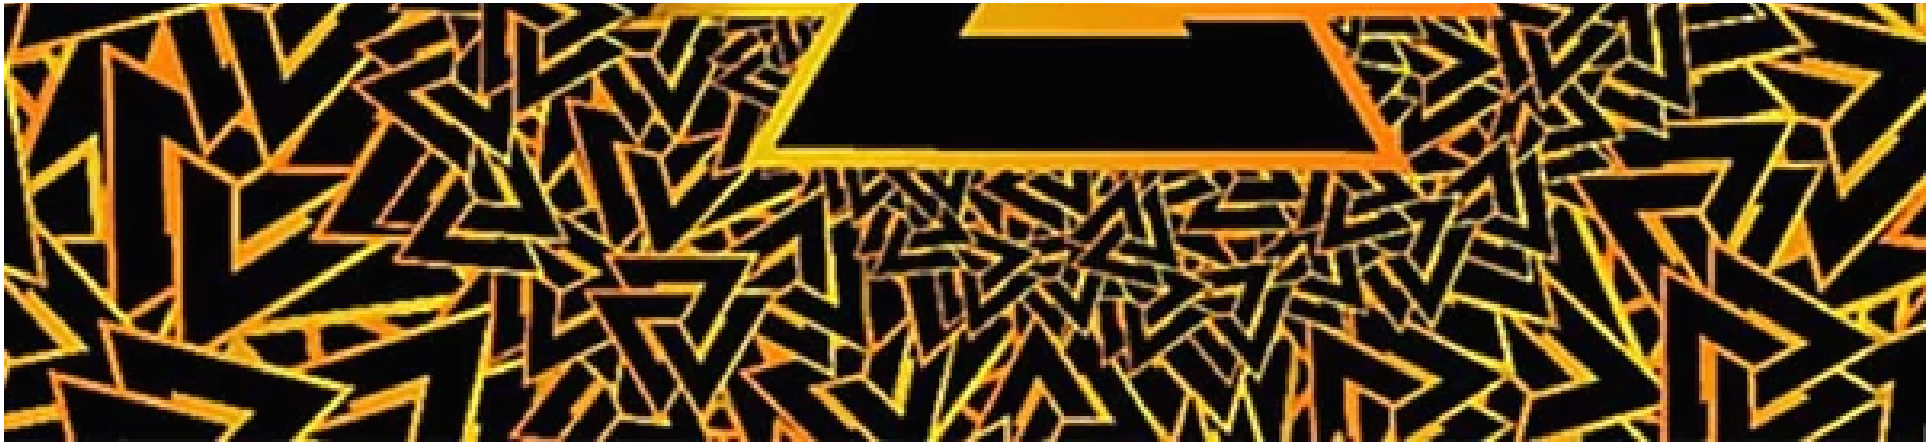


Poorly Chosen Outfits By Famous People At Red Carpet Events

Bakehuge

50+ Aircraft Are Painted In An Incredible Way

bakehuge



Where are Ashkenazi Jews from? Their Origins May Surprise You

The origins of Ashkenazi Jews has been a longstanding mystery. Thankfully genetic analysis is providing some answers.

Ancient Origins

The Enigmatic Valknut: Odin's Symbol Shrouded in Mystery

The mysterious Norse symbol Valknut has three interlocked triangles, and is commonly associated with fallen warriors and depictions of the god Odin.
Ancient Origins

WU

Wu Mingren ('Dhwty') has a Bachelor of Arts in Ancient History and Archaeology. Although his primary interest is in the ancient civilizations of the Near East, he is also interested in other geographical regions, as well as other time periods.... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

x

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC Smithsonian
HISTORY
theguardian
CNN
FOX NEWS
THE TIMES
DER SPIEGEL
The New York Times
The Washington Post
Daily Mail

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Mother and Child Reunion Of Thetis And Achilles

Seductive Sirens of Greek Mythology and How Heroes Resisted Them

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Roland the Farter: Medieval England's Celebrity Flatulist

A manor in Suffolk and a whopping 30 acres (12 hectares) of land was given to a person who was renowned for his ability to gas, quite literally, at the behest of King Henry II.

The Feast of Epiphany: Who Were The Three Kings and Where Did They Come From?

x

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Chilling Mystery of the Octavius Ghost Ship

There are many strange mysteries that reside in history, but one of the most unsettling is that of the Octavius ghost ship.

What is a Wendigo? The Beast with an insatiable Hunger for Human Flesh

Celestial Goddess Selene: The Ancient Greek Goddess of the Moon

Pegasus of Greek Mythology: Majestic Winged Horse of Mount Olympus

Dreams of Human-Powered Flight: Daedalus and the Story of Icarus

Six Supremely Sadistic Deaths of Christian Martyrs

Thomas of Woodstock and Shakespeare's Twisted History

Edward the Black Prince Did Not Die of Chronic Dysentery, Study Reveals

The Awe-Inspiring Karnak Temple Complex and Vatican of Ancient Egypt

The Mysterious Man from Taured – Evidence for a Parallel Universe?

7 Legendary Cryptids that Turned Out to Be Real!

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Stories Behind Seven of the Worst Massacres in Ancient History

We all know that the ancient world was a violent place, but we often don’t appreciate just how violent it was.

Did the Yuan Dynasty's Use of Paper Money Cause Hyperinflation?

x

The Plague of Athens Killed Over a Quarter of the City's Population

What was the Deadly Cocoliztli Disease that Decimated Aztec Society?

17th Century British Christmas Ban Led to Civil War

Eight Historic Lies about the Ancient World that will Blow Your Mind

TOP NEW STORIES

The Magical, Mythical Elves and Dwarves of Norse Legend

Today if one thinks of either elves or dwarves, the first thing to come to mind is likely to be the works of J.R.R Tolkien.

HUMAN ORIGINS

Were Other Humans the First Victims of the Sixth Mass Extinction?

300,000 years ago, nine human species walked the Earth. Now there's just one. The Neanderthals, Homo neanderthalensis, were stocky hunters adapted to Europe's cold steppes

x

ANCIENT PLACES

Lavish Home of Two Former Slaves Opened Up to the Public in Pompeii

After 20 years of restoration, the lavish and opulent House of the Vettii has been opened up to the public, offering a glimpse into the life of ancient Pompeii's elite.

Neutron Imaging Reveals Hidden Relics Inside Medieval Pendant

Nova Anglia, The Forgotten Anglo-Saxon Enclave In Ukraine

Lavish Home of Two Former Slaves Opened Up to the Public in Pompeii

3,600-year-old Silver Pieces Confirmed As First Money Used in the Levant

Saqqara: A Stunning, Sprawling, Necropolis of Egypt

The Secret Life of an Ancient Concubine

Research Confirms That 20% of the Neanderthal Genome Can Be Found In Modern Humans

The Widespread Appearance of Neanderthal DNA: Africans Have It Too

The human skull that challenges the Out of Africa theory

The origins of human beings according to ancient Sumerian texts

A Monumental Cover Up? Why did Gobekli Tepe End Up in the Dirt?

Sumer: Where Written Language, Arithmetic and Civilization Were Born

The Great Serpent Mound of Ohio, the Largest Earthen Effigy in the World

Saqqara: A Stunning, Sprawling, Necropolis of Egypt

The Theopetra Cave and the Oldest Human Construction in the World

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Was Moloch really Ba'al, the Ancient God Who Demanded Child Sacrifice?

Moloch, or Molech, is well known in the Bible for being the god to whom child sacrifices appear to have been made in a shrine outside the city of Jerusalem.

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

Oopart (out of place artifact) is a term applied to dozens of prehistoric objects found in various places around the world

x

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that

Are Fossils Linked to the Legendary Kraken Enough to Prove its Terrifying Existence?

The Magical, Mythical Elves and Dwarves of Norse Legend

Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site

Legend of The Flying Dutchman, Ghostly Apparition of The Ship of Captain Hendrick

Egypt's Buried & Layer Pyramids: Unsolved Homicide & Hidden Heritage

Why Was Roman Concrete So Durable? Scientists Say It Could Heal Itself

Which "Lost Culture" Created This 2,000-Year-Old Tomb?

Ancient Chinese Earthquake Detector Invented 2,000 Years Ago Really Worked!

6 Advanced Ancient Inventions Beyond Modern Understanding

Surprising Stone Age Knowledge Revealed on a Mammoth Bone Bracelet

he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

x

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

We’re the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

x

Sponsored Content

Ancient Greece
The collection of Ancient Greek Artifacts and Archaeological Sites Photography

Shop Now

Ancient Origins Premium
Explore the Unexplained
Learn More

Parthenon Jewelry Elements
Shop Now

Sign Up To Pinterest
Join Pinterest to follow

WHAT YOUNG ANCIENT CIVILIZATION ARE YOU?
Take the Quiz

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS
Ancients
Aliens and Ufos
What's your favourite Forty Ancient Egyptian Mummies
The Great Sphinx
Ancient Egyptian Religion
Please introduce yourself
Historic Cleaning Tips

BIBLE MYTHOLOGY

NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT

SUGGESTED BOOKS

Ancient Games
Royal and Non-Royal Sports, Leisure and Entertainment

MEGALITH
Ancient Forms, Global Significance

NEXUS
NEW INTELLIGENCE

Ancient Origins Premium
Explore the Unexplained
Learn More

PARTNERS

NEXUS NEW INTELLIGENCE

Ancient Origins Premium
Explore the Unexplained
Learn More

15 Facts About the Moors You've Probably Never Heard of ANCIENT ORIGINS, 2ND JANUARY 2017

Add to Collection · Embed

Spanish Moorish Castle

The Moors were a Muslim people of Arab and Berber descent who ruled the Iberian Peninsula (Spain and Portugal) for nearly eight centuries. Originating from the Maghreb region of North Africa, they established a sophisticated civilization that left an indelible mark on the culture, architecture, and history of Europe. Here are 15 facts about the Moors that you probably never heard of.

1. The Moors Were Not Originally From Morocco

The Moors were known by the Latin term Mauri, which referred to the people of Mauretania, an ancient region that encompassed parts of modern-day Morocco and Algeria. The Mauretanian people were a mix of Berber and Arab ancestry, and they were skilled horsemen and warriors.

2. The Last Character of Shakespeare's Othello is a Moor

William Shakespeare's tragedy Othello features a Moorish protagonist named Othello, who is a respected general in the Venetian army. Despite his high status, he becomes a victim of racism and manipulation. The play explores themes of jealousy, betrayal, and the consequences of unchecked emotions.

3. The City of Granada Was Once the Capital of the Nasrid Dynasty

Granada, a city in southern Spain, was the last stronghold of the Moors in Europe. It was the capital of the Nasrid dynasty, which ruled from the 13th to the 15th century. The Nasrid dynasty was known for its patronage of the arts and sciences, and Granada became a center of learning and culture.

4. The Alhambra Was Built by the Moors

The Alhambra is a palace and fortress complex located in Granada, Spain. It was built by the Moors during the Nasrid dynasty and is considered one of the most beautiful examples of Islamic architecture in the world. The Alhambra features intricate tilework, stucco carvings, and lush gardens.

5. The Moors Were Skilled Astronomers and Mathematicians

The Moors made significant contributions to the fields of astronomy and mathematics. They developed accurate astronomical tables and instruments, and they made important advances in algebra and geometry. The Moors also introduced the Arabic numeral system to Europe.

6. The Moors Introduced Numerous New Fruits and Vegetables to Europe

The Moors were also responsible for introducing a variety of fruits and vegetables to Europe, including oranges, lemons, apricots, peaches, and rice. These crops had a significant impact on the European diet and economy.

7. The Moors Introduced Numerous New Plants and Vegetables to Europe

Spanish Moorish Courtyard

In addition to fruits and vegetables, the Moors also introduced a number of other plants to Europe, including cotton, sugarcane, and saffron. These crops had a significant impact on the European economy and culture.

8. The Moors Were Expelled From Spain in 1492

The Moors were expelled from Spain in 1492 by the Catholic Monarchs Ferdinand and Isabella. This event marked the end of Moorish rule in Spain and the beginning of a period of intolerance and persecution.

9. The Moors Spread Throughout Europe Thanks to Expulsion

After the Moors were expelled from Spain, they spread throughout Europe and the Mediterranean. Many settled in North Africa, while others went to Italy, France, and the Ottoman Empire. Their presence had a significant impact on the cultures of these regions.

Spanish Moorish Courtyard

10. The Moors Were Very Diverse

The Moors were not a homogeneous group. They were made up of people from a variety of backgrounds, including Arabs, Berbers, Europeans, and sub-Saharan Africans. This diversity contributed to the richness of Moorish culture.

11. The Moors Were Very Industrious

The Moors were known for their industriousness. They developed a number of new technologies, including the astrolabe, the compass, and the windmill. They also made significant advances in agriculture, irrigation, and textile production.

12. The Moors Were Very Religious

The Moors were devout Muslims. They built numerous mosques and madrasas throughout their territories. Islam played a central role in Moorish culture and society.

13. The Moors Were Very Tolerant

The Moors were relatively tolerant of other religions. They allowed Christians and Jews to practice their faiths freely, and they often employed them in positions of power. This tolerance was a key factor in the success of the Moorish civilization.

14. The Moors Greatly Influenced Spanish Cuisine

The Moors had a significant impact on Spanish cuisine. They introduced many new ingredients and cooking techniques to Spain, including rice, saffron, and almonds. Moorish cuisine is still popular in Spain today.

15. The Moors Were Very Influential

The Moors had a profound influence on the culture, history, and economy of Europe. Their contributions to science, technology, and the arts helped to shape the modern world.

Spanish Moorish Courtyard

The Moors were a fascinating and complex people who left a lasting legacy on Europe. Their contributions to science, technology, and the arts helped to shape the modern world. Their tolerance and industriousness are also worthy of admiration. The Moors are a reminder that cultural exchange can be a powerful force for good.

Add to Collection · Embed

Spanish Moorish Courtyard

1. The Moors Were Not Originally From Morocco

The Moors were known by the Latin term Mauri, which referred to the people of Mauretania, an ancient region that encompassed parts of modern-day Morocco and Algeria. The Mauretanian people were a mix of Berber and Arab ancestry, and they were skilled horsemen and warriors.

2. The Last Character of Shakespeare's Othello is a Moor

William Shakespeare's tragedy Othello features a Moorish protagonist named Othello, who is a respected general in the Venetian army. Despite his high status, he becomes a victim of racism and manipulation. The play explores themes of jealousy, betrayal, and the consequences of unchecked emotions.

3. The City of Granada Was Once the Capital of the Nasrid Dynasty

Granada, a city in southern Spain, was the last stronghold of the Moors in Europe. It was the capital of the Nasrid dynasty, which ruled from the 13th to the 15th century. The Nasrid dynasty was known for its patronage of the arts and sciences, and Granada became a center of learning and culture.

4. The Alhambra Was Built by the Moors

The Alhambra is a palace and fortress complex located in Granada, Spain. It was built by the Moors during the Nasrid dynasty and is considered one of the most beautiful examples of Islamic architecture in the world. The Alhambra features intricate tilework, stucco carvings, and lush gardens.

5. The Moors Were Skilled Astronomers and Mathematicians

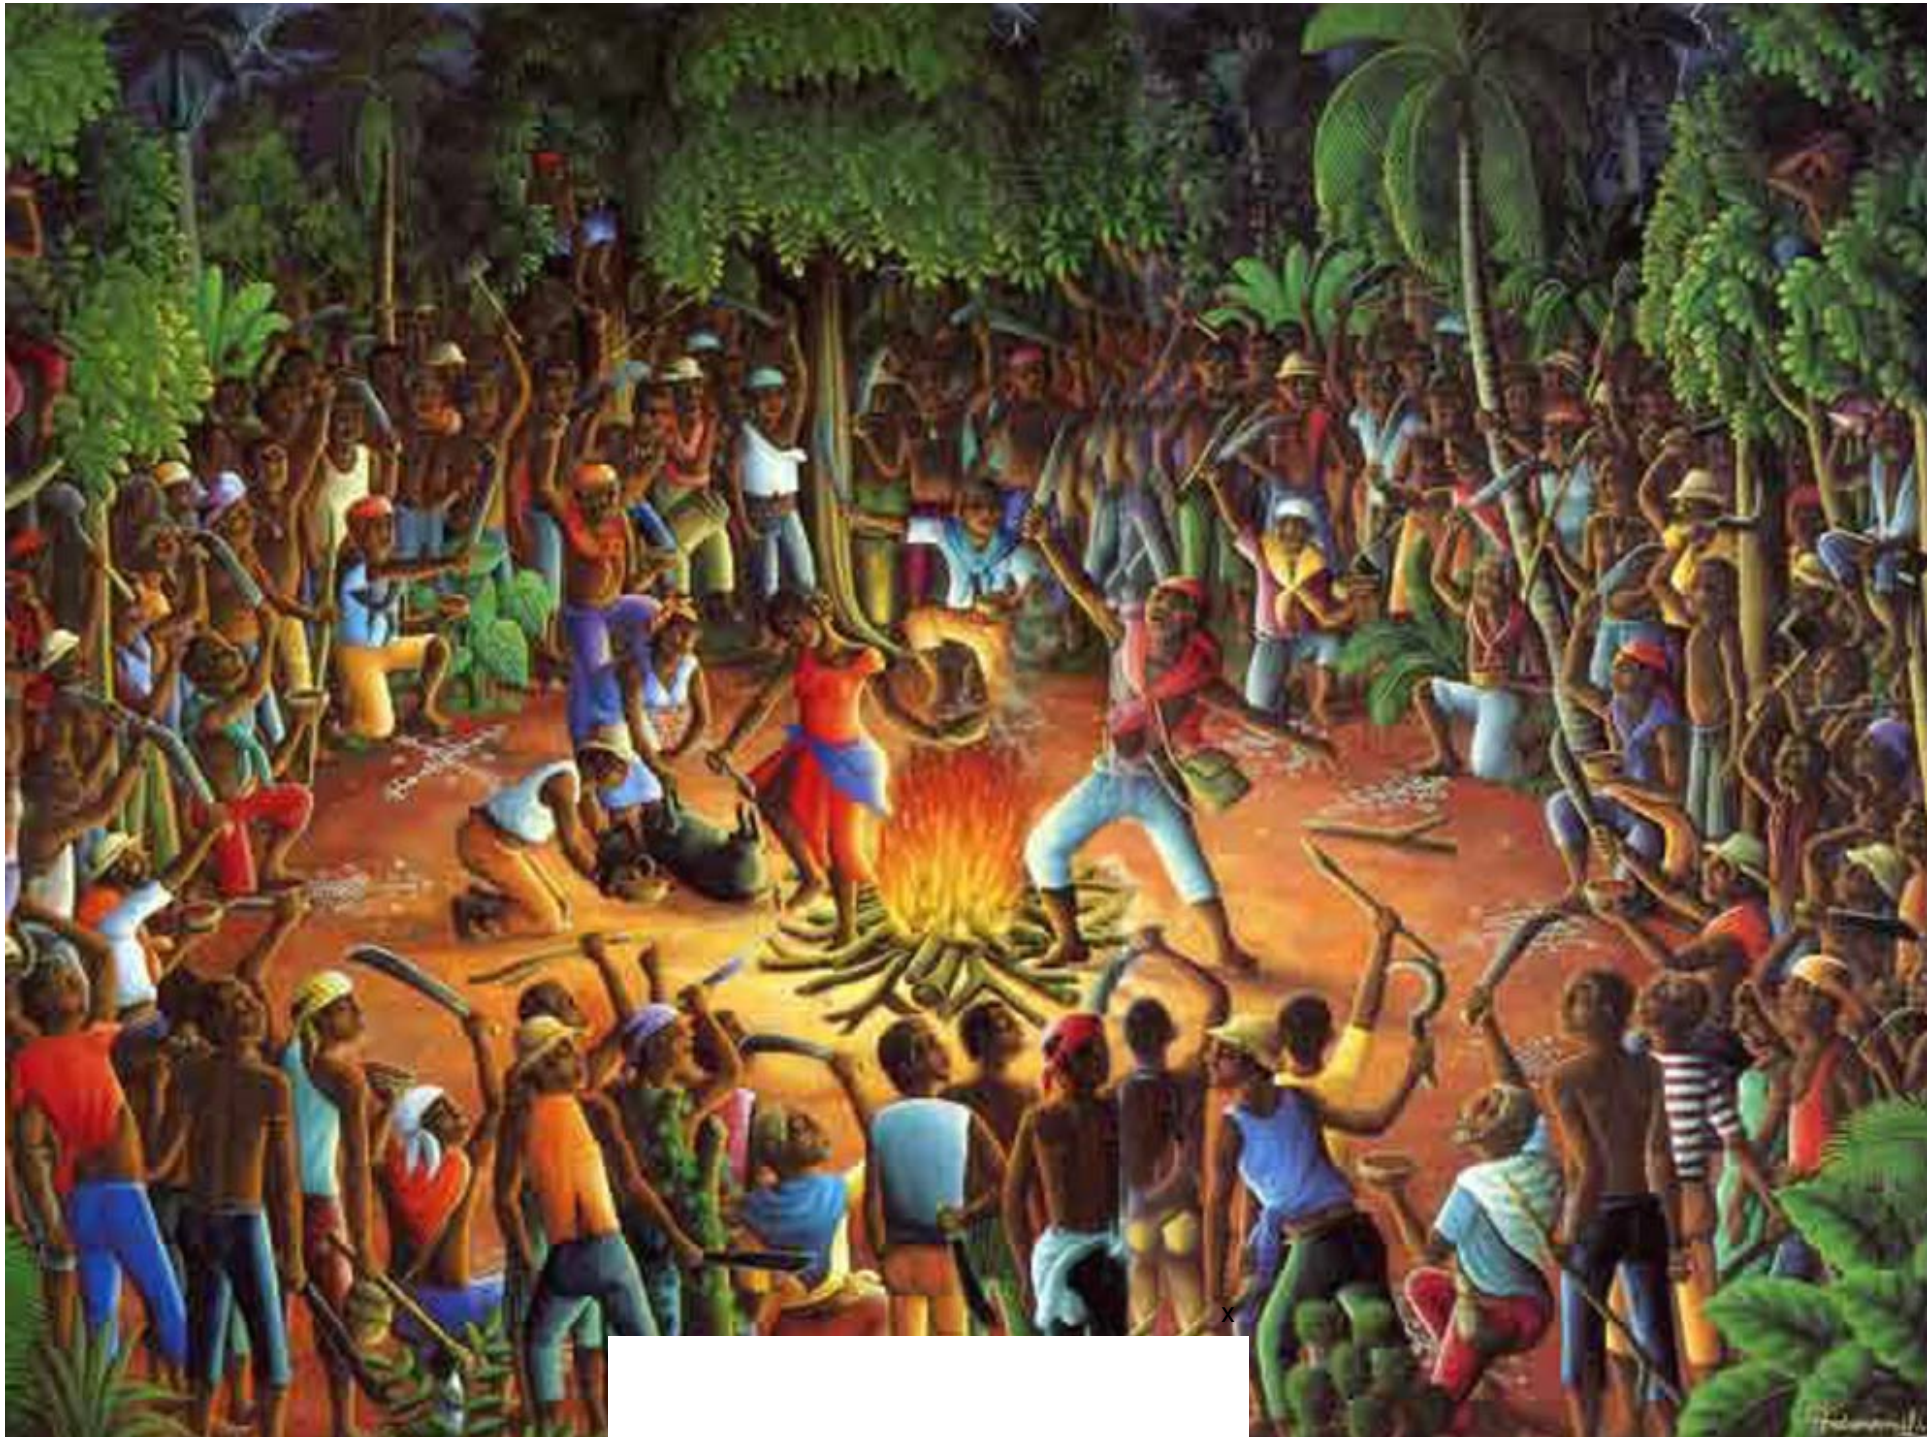
The Moors made significant contributions to the fields of astronomy and mathematics. They developed accurate astronomical tables and instruments, and they made important advances in algebra and geometry. The Moors also introduced the Arabic numeral system to Europe.

6. The Moors Introduced Numerous New Fruits and Vegetables to Europe

Spanish Moorish Courtyard

In addition to fruits and vegetables, the Moors also introduced a number of other plants to Europe, including cotton, sugarcane, and saffron. These crops had a significant impact on the European diet and economy.

7. The Moors Introduced Numerous New Plants and Vegetables to Europe



Spanish Moorish Courtyard

All Search across 12,000+ articles x

Inner Mysteries of
Egypt and the Nile
Secure your place now!
ANCIENT ORIGINS TOURS
13 to 27 October
2023
EGYPT TOUR
14 Nights
15 Days

X

UPDATED 9 JANUARY, 2021 - 00:47 DHWTY

The Origins of Voodoo, a Misunderstood Religion

READ LATER PRINT

In 64 AD, a great fire broke out in Rome for six days and devastated much of the city. According to the writer Tacitus, “Nero fastened the guilt and inflicted the most exquisite tortures on a class hated for their abominations, called Christians by the populace.” The “abominations” committed by the early Christians were said to be cannibalism and incest, based on rumors circulating in Rome at that time which stemmed from a misunderstanding of the Eucharist.

This episode in the history of the early Church shows how easily a religion, especially a relatively secretive one, can be misunderstood and misrepresented. A similar case can perhaps be seen in the religion known as Voodoo (also known as Vodou or Voudon).

For many, the word ‘Voodoo’ conjures up images of magical dolls with pins stuck in them to inflict pain on one’s enemies and the resurrection of the dead as zombies. These images are the result of the misrepresentation of Voodoo by popular culture, and do not accurately represent Voodoo as understood by its practitioners.

x

Most people associate Voodoo with pin-filled dolls, designed to inflict pain on a cursed individual. (Public domain)

What are the Beliefs of Voodoo?

Voudon refers to "a whole assortment of cultural elements: personal creeds and practices, including an elaborate system of folk medical practices ; a system of ethics transmitted across generations [including] proverbs, stories, songs, and folklore... voudon is more than belief; it is a way of life," wrote Leslie Desmangles, a Haitian professor at Hartford's Trinity College in "The Encyclopedia of the Paranormal" (Prometheus Books, 1996). “Voudon teaches belief in a supreme being called Bondye, an unknowable and uninvolved creator god,” reports Live Science , and explains:

x

Top 35+ wives and girlfriends of famous Footballers
bakehuge

“Voudon believers worship many spirits (called loa or Iwa), each one of whom is responsible for a specific domain or part of life. So, for example, if you are a farmer you might give praise and offerings to the spirit of agriculture; if you are suffering from unrequited love, you would praise or leave offerings for Erzulie Freda, the spirit of love, and so on. In addition to helping (or impeding) human affairs, loa can also manifest themselves by possessing the bodies of their worshipers. Followers of voudon also believe in a universal energy and a soul that can leave the body during dreams and spirit possession.”

x

Voodoo paraphernalia, Akodessawa Fetish Market, Lomé, Togo . (sarlay /Adobe Stock)

The History of Voodoo

Although the exact origins of Voodoo are unknown, it is generally agreed that this religion has its roots in West Africa. Modern day Benin is regarded as the birthplace of this religion, and the name 'Voodoo' itself means 'spirit' in the local Fon language.

- Zombie Powder, Bird Saliva, and Rotten Shark: Would You Try These Ancient Foods?
- Annie Palmer, the White Witch of Rose Hall
- Spells, Charms, Erotic Dolls: Love Magic in the Ancient Mediterranean

It has been suggested that Voodoo in West Africa evolved from the ancient traditions of ancestor worship and animism. The forms of Voodoo practiced today, however, ar in modern history – the African slave trade that took place between th

x

Zangbeto, a voodoo guardian of the peace under Yoruba religious belief. Zangbeto traditionally served as an informal police service to enforce the peace in rural Benin. (pauli197 /Adobe Stock)

When African slaves were brought to the Americas to work on plantations, they brought Voodoo with them. Their white masters, however, had other plans regarding the religious practices of their slaves. A 1685 law, for instance, prohibited the practice of African religions, and required all masters to Christianize their slaves within eight days of their arrival in Haiti.

Although the slaves accepted Roman Catholicism, they did not give up their traditional beliefs either. Instead, the old and the new were syncretized, producing some unique results. Many of the Catholic saints were identified with traditional Voodoo lwas (spirits) or held a double meaning for the practitioners of Voodoo. For instance, in Haitian Voodoo , St. Peter is recognized as Papa Legba, the gatekeeper of the spirit world, while St. Patrick is associated with Dumballah, the snake lwa.

x

Birth of Voodoo | National Geographic

Although African slaves were brought to Haiti and New Orleans about the same time, i.e. the 1720s, the development of Voodoo practices in each area is quite different. In Haiti, Voodoo became a force that gave strength to and sustained the slaves through their hardships and suffering. Between 1791 and 1804, a series of slave revolts inspired by Voodoo practice culminated in the expelling of the French from Haiti.

x

The Spread of Voodoo Practices

The colonists who survived fled to New Orleans, some accompanied by their French-speaking slaves who were Voodoo practitioners. It is from these new arrivals that Voodoo began to grow in New Orleans . Although Voodoo was practiced in that part of the United States prior to 1791, it was not as strong a force as in Haiti, and it was brutally suppressed each time it emerged. It was only in the 19th century that Voodoo practices in New Orleans were codified by the enigmatic Marie Laveau.

Portrait of Marie Laveau, allegedly d. 1888. (public domain)

Voodoo has since spread to other African nations, the Caribbean, as well as North and South America. In Benin and Haiti, Voodoo is now officially recognized as a religion. Nevertheless, Voodoo is still a rather misunderstood religion due to its inaccurate portrayal by the media.

Instead of associating this religion with zombies and Voodoo dolls, we should perhaps take the time to better understand Voodoo, and view it as a way of life or a set of guiding principles held by its believers.

x

Top Image: "Vodou Ceremony" by Andre Normil

By Ḏḥwty

Updated on January 8, 2021

References

Section: News History Ancient Traditions

Tags: voodoo Voudou Voudon dolls religion Haiti New Orleans

Read the Comments (6 Comments)

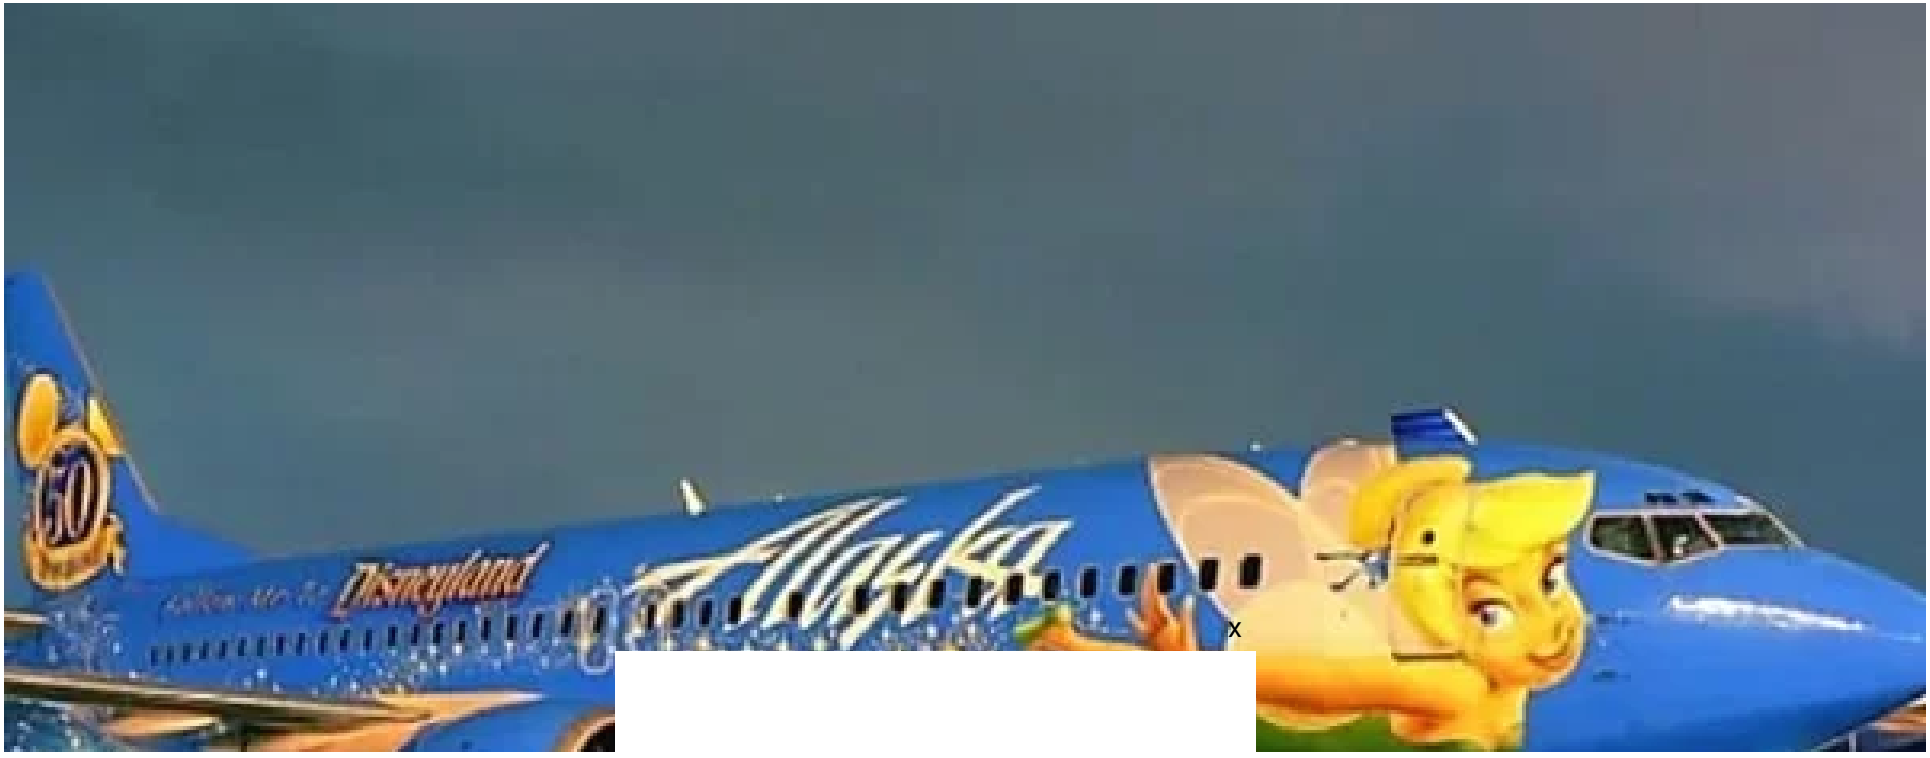
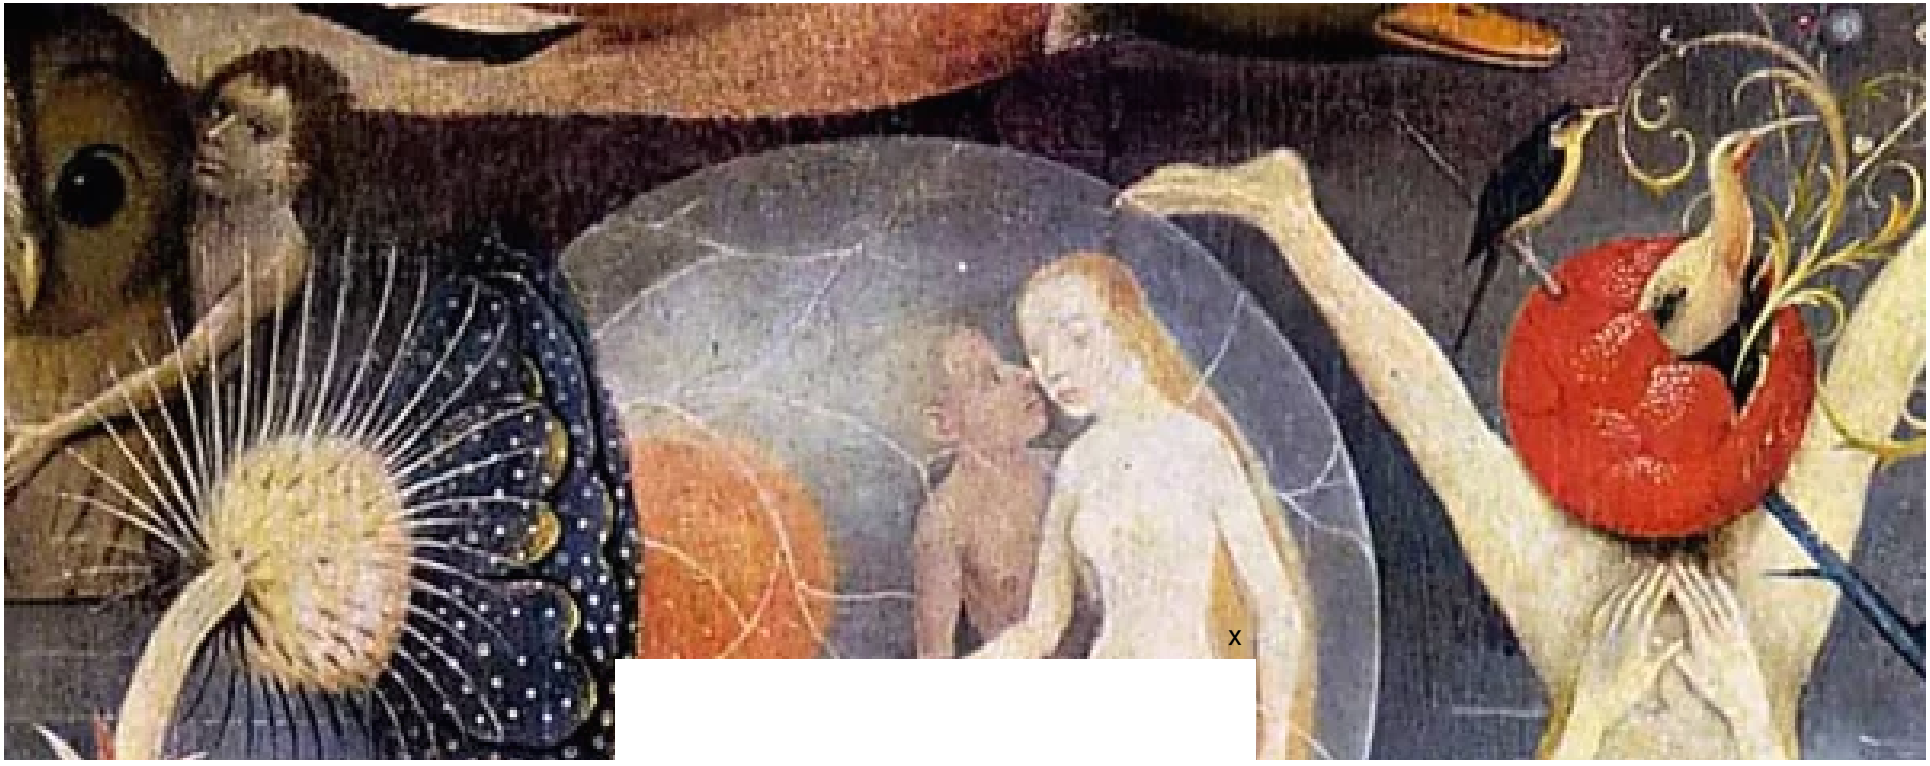
Sponsored Stories

Luxury Villas Prices in Dubai Might Surprise You

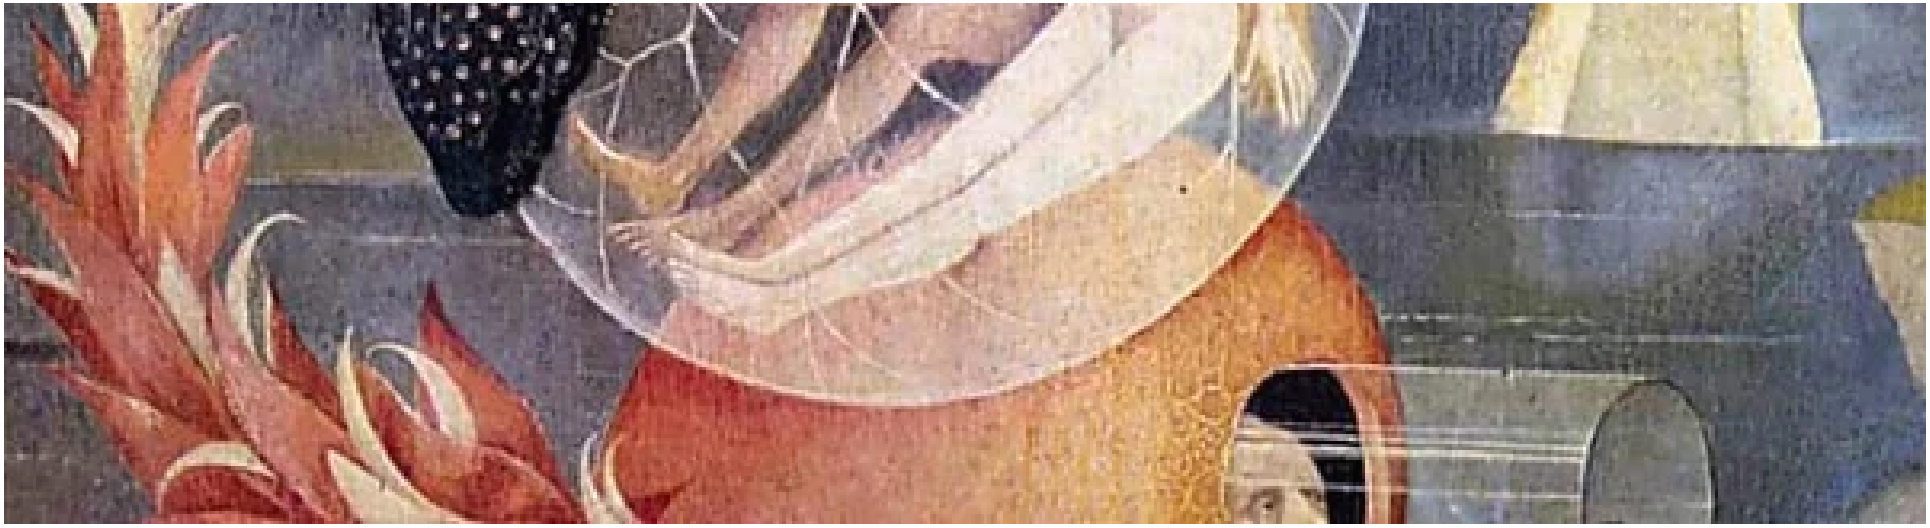


Luxury Villas Dubai | Sponsored Links

30 Fantastic Dog Breeds You Never Heard Of !

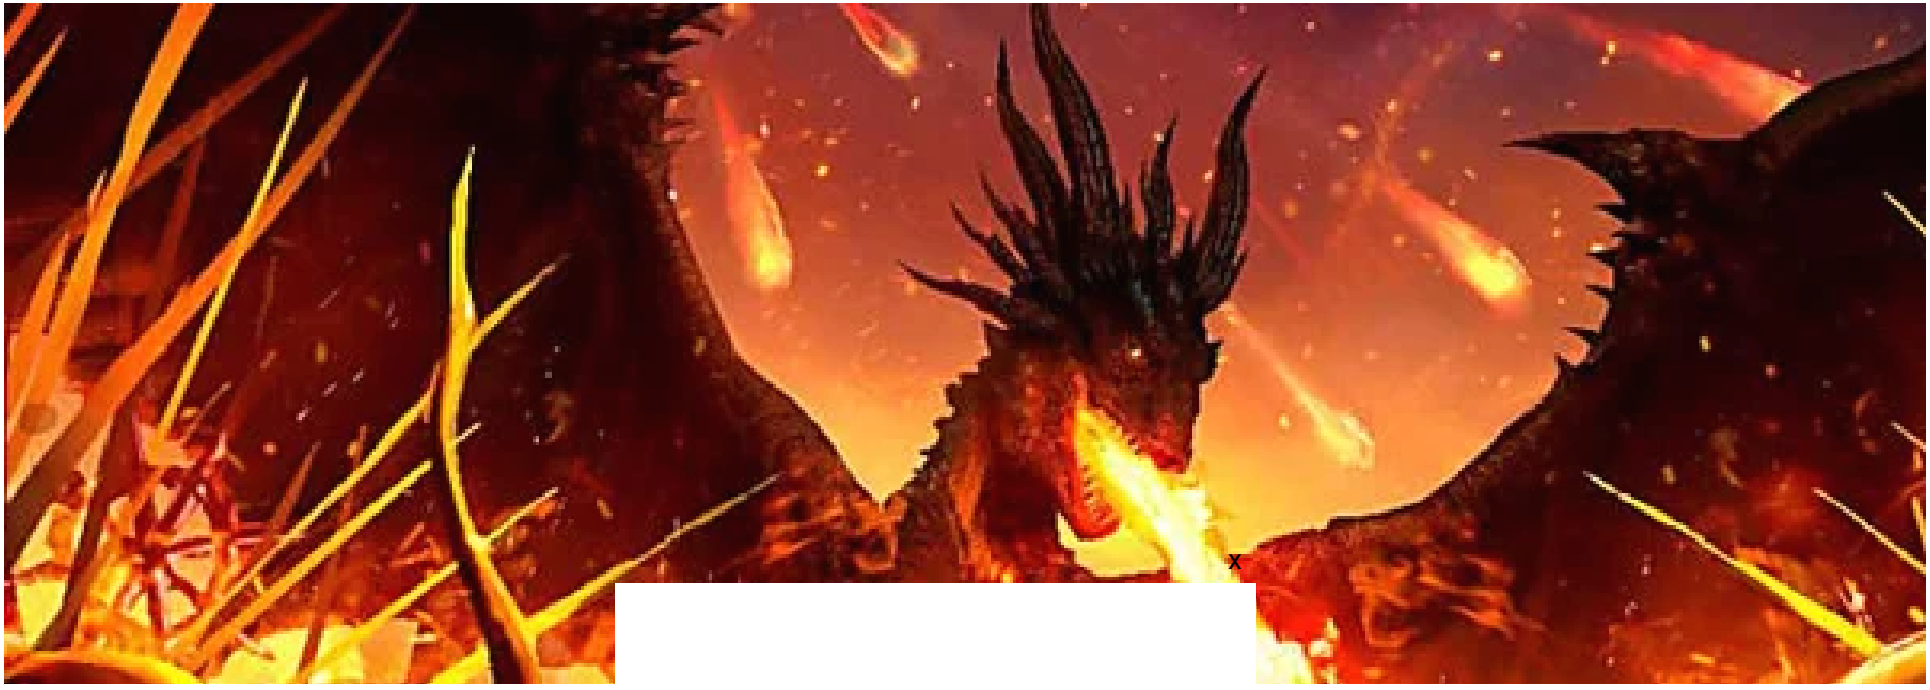


Bakehuge



50+ Aircraft Are Painted In An Incredible Way

bakehuge



Medieval Sex Rules - How Not to Have a Good Time

Medieval sex was subject to a number of rules and restrictions from the Catholic Church on when, why, how, and with whom one could have sex. Thank God no one listened!

Ancient Origins

Nidhogg, the Chaos Bringing Dragon of Ancient Norse Mythology

Nidhogg, the soul eating dragon of Norse myth, lives bound in the roots of Yggdrasil, the World Tree, waiting for Ragnarok to free him.

Ancient Origins

WU

Wu Mingren ('Dhwty') has a Bachelor of Arts in Ancient History and Archaeology. Although his primary interest is in the ancient civilizations of the Near East, he is also interested in other geographical regions, as well as other time periods.... Read More

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.

Mother and Child Reunion Of Thetis And Achilles

Seductive Sirens of Greek Mythology and How Heroes Resisted Them

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Roland the Farter: Medieval England's Celebrity Flatulist

A manor in Suffolk and a whopping 30 acres (12 hectares) of land was given to a person who was renowned for his ability to gas, quite literally, at the behest of King Henry II.

The Feast of Epiphany: Who Were The Three Kings and Where Did They Come From?

x

UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

The Chilling Mystery of the Octavius Ghost Ship

There are many strange mysteries that reside in history, but one of the most unsettling is that of the Octavius ghost ship.

What is a Wendigo? The Beast with an insatiable Hunger for Human Flesh

Celestial Goddess Selene: The Ancient Greek Goddess of the Moon

Pegasus of Greek Mythology: Majestic Winged Horse of Mount Olympus

Dreams of Human-Powered Flight: Daedalus and the Story of Icarus

Six Supremely Sadistic Deaths of Christian Martyrs

Thomas of Woodstock and Shakespeare's Twisted History

Edward the Black Prince Did Not Die of Chronic Dysentery, Study Reveals

The Awe-Inspiring Karnak Temple Complex and Vatican of Ancient Egypt

The Mysterious Man from Taured – Evidence for a Parallel Universe?

7 Legendary Cryptids that Turned Out to Be Real!

Lost and Found Evidence of Extreme Size Life Forms Everywhere!

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Stories Behind Seven of the Worst Massacres in Ancient History

We all know that the ancient world was a violent place, but we often don’t appreciate just how violent it was.

Did the Yuan Dynasty's Use of Paper Money Cause Hyperinflation?

x

The Plague of Athens Killed Over a Quarter of the City's Population

What was the Deadly Cocoliztli Disease that Decimated Aztec Society?

17th Century British Christmas Ban Led to Civil War

Eight Historic Lies about the Ancient World that will Blow Your Mind

TOP NEW STORIES

3,600-year-old Silver Pieces Confirmed As First Money Used in the Levant

In a fascinating new study has found that dozens of silver pieces found during excavations in Israel and the Gaza Strip were actually used as currency in ancient times.

HUMAN ORIGINS

Were Other Humans the First Victims of the Sixth Mass Extinction?

300,000 years ago, nine human species walked the Earth. Now there's just one. The Neanderthals, Homo neanderthalensis, were stocky hunters adapted to Europe's cold steppes

x

ANCIENT PLACES

A Monumental Cover Up? Why did Gobekli Tepe End Up in the Dirt?

In the farmlands of southeastern Turkey there is a hill that rises out of the landscape. Unlike the surrounding plateaus, it has a gentle slope like a mound. At its top is a depression which looks like a belly button, hence the name Gobekli Tepe which means "potbelly hill."

Saqqara: A Stunning, Sprawling, Necropolis of Egypt

T. Rex Wasn't All Brawn. It Had a Brain Comparable to a Primate

Bog-Body Study Reveals Prehistoric "Overkill"

Reconstruction Reveals True Face of 9,000-Year-Old Jericho Skull

Roland the Farter: Medieval England's Celebrity Flatulist

Research Confirms That 20% of the Neanderthal Genome Can Be Found In Modern Humans

The Secret Life of an Ancient Concubine

The Widespread Appearance of Neanderthal DNA: Africans Have It Too

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

The Mythological Maori Origin Stories of New Zealand

The Great Serpent Mound of Ohio, the Largest Earthen Effigy in the World

Saqqara: A Stunning, Sprawling, Necropolis of Egypt

Egypt's Buried & Layer Pyramids: Unsolved Homicide & Hidden Heritage

To the Shores of Distant Death: The Failed Colony of San Miguel De Gualdape

The Rise and Fall of Sumer and Akkad

MYTHS & LEGENDS

Are Fossils Linked to the Legendary Kraken Enough to Prove its Terrifying Existence?

Scandinavian mythology claims the Kraken swallowed up whales and devoured ships. It has been described as a huge version of an octopus or squid. Legends have even claimed the terrifying

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?

Oopart (out of place artifact) is a term applied to dozens of prehistoric objects found in various places around the world

x

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Christed Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with his legend which states that sea creature measured one-mile long. Although the Kraken was first noted in the 13th century Icelandic saga, Örvar-Oddr, a researcher believes he has fossil evidence that is linked to this creature.

Egypt's Buried & Layer Pyramids: Unsolved Homicide & Hidden Heritage

What is a Wendigo? The Beast with an insatiable Hunger for Human Flesh

Eight Bizarre Superstitions from Ancient History

8 Bizarre Folklore Creatures That Will Keep You Up at Night

Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site

Which "Lost Culture" Created This 2,000-Year-Old Tomb?

6 Shockingly Successful Ancient Warfare Tactics

Why Was Roman Concrete So Durable? Scientists Say It Could Heal Itself

Top 15 Interesting Facts About Ancient Egypt That You May Not Know

Surprising Stone Age Knowledge Revealed on a Mammoth Bone Bracelet

he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds

Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I

Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Shrines and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations

The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I

Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I

The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent ar academic research and evidence, as well as offerin

ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

x

science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We’re the only Pop Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.

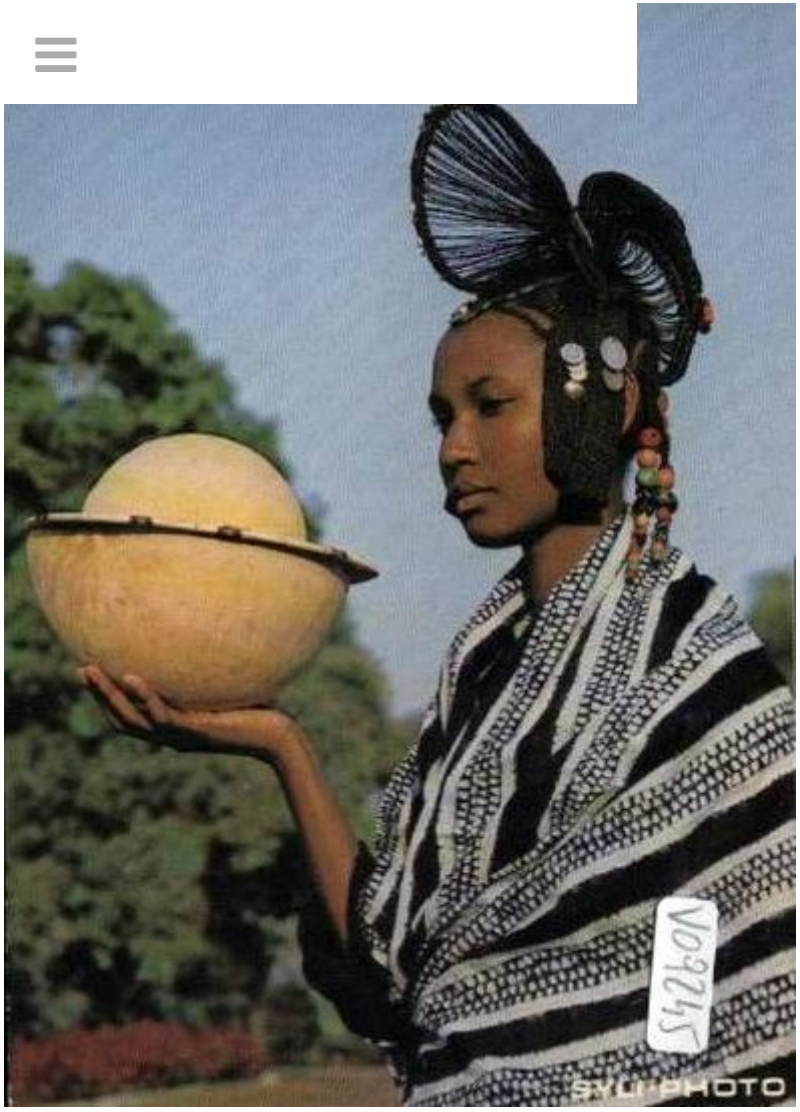
Ancient Origins © 2013 - 2022

Traditional Fulani hairstyles that existed for centuries

The African History October 16, 2021 Art, History

Share Messenger Whatsapp Tweet Like 7.9K

This tribe has a highly rich culture, and they know how to put up a stunning appearance. Continue reading to learn the secrets of outstanding hairstyle history.



The Fula, Fulani, or Fule people are one of the most populous ethnic groups in the Sahel and West Africa, with a massive population spread across the continent.

y in West Africa and northern Central Africa, but also in South
ed Sea coast. The exact number of Fula people is unknown, although estimates range from 55 million to 69.2 million globally.

The Fulani tribe is found throughout West Africa, with the largest population in Nigeria. The tribe people rely on their rich traditions, which is why their appearance is still dominated by traditional styles.

Women in the tribe usually have long hair, which is seen as a symbol of femininity and beauty. Hair that has been braided is likewise highly popular. Splitting the hair into five sections and braiding it is a ritual.

Typically, family jewelry is included into braids. They can adorn the hair with rich stones, valuable coins, or other ornaments. Fulani wedding hairstyles frequently highlight the most attractive features of a traditional look.

Hairstyles, like Fulani traditional dress, can vary based on the locality. However, it solely applies to women's hairstyles; men in all of the tribe's locations wear short hairstyles.

So, let's take a closer look at the classic Fulani hairstyle:

Braids are highly popular among the tribe's women. Cornrow braids and didi braids are the most common styles. The braids are usually weaved in ornate patterns, with the ends dangling from the sides or wrapped. They use jewelry or red beads to embellish the braids.

Thin-to-medium patterns are frequently used to style the braids. Fulani braided hairstyles are now fashionable all over the world. This hairstyle is frequently used by modern designers, and it is frequently combined with different styles. Top buns, various colors of braids, diverse patterns, and numerous beads can all be seen.

Decorations in the hairstyles

Fulani women are known for adorning their hair with numerous ornaments. Veils are one of the most popular ornaments. The veil highlights one area of the head while concealing the rest. Another common ornament is thread, which is best fashioned in gold.

Jewelry or beads are the next type of adornment. The rule for this style of décor is that the bigger the better.

Braid ornaments

The ornaments can be extremely tough and complex. Patterns, circles, and intertwinings can all be found in Fulani hairstyles. Traditional Fulani hairstyles are known for their beauty all over the world. Braids have been fashionable among many celebrities worldwide, not just in Africa. As a result, we may conclude that the Fulani hairstyle tradition has influenced global fashion. Even now, the Fulani people maintain their aesthetic customs and support their culture.

The Fulani people's origins are unknown, and several explanations have been proposed. According to certain researchers of Fulani history and the Sokoto Caliphate, the Torankawa clan (Torodbe) of the Fulani can be traced back to an Arab named Uqba bin Nafi. They have wandered through and among numerous cultures as a nomadic herding group.

Their oral histories hint to a beginning in Jordan or further east, although their language is from the Senegambian region, according to Skutsch. He comes to the conclusion that the contemporary Fulani people originated in northern Senegal.

In his book The History of the Upper Guinea Coast, Walter Rodney claims that the Fulbe are from North Africa and that they conquered the Foota Djallon region under the leadership of the Fulani Koli Tenguella.

Interactions between an ancient West African population and North African populations such as Berbers or Egyptians may have started the ethnogenesis of the Fulani people. Their West African roots might be found in and around the Senegal River valley.

They are thought to be a genetic mix of West African, North African, and Arabian peoples, and have been a part of a number of governing dynasties, mainly in the Sahel and West Africa. During the period of European invasion and colonization, theories concerning their origins began to circulate.

Timeline of Fulani history

4th century	The Ghana Empire emerges in modern-day southeastern Mauritania and western Mali, as the first large-scale Sudano-Sahelian empire

5th century (?)	The Fulbe migrate southwards and Eastwards from present-day Morocco and Mauritania
9th century	Takrur founded on the lower Senegal River (present-day Senegal) upon the influx of Fulani from the east and north settling in the Senegal River valley
11th century	Kingdoms of Tekruur and the Gao Empire flourish in West Africa due to gold trade
1042	Almoravids, Berber Muslims from southern Morocco and Mauritania, attack Takrur, after defeating the Sanhaja in 1039
1050s	Islam gains a strong foothold in West Africa
1050-1146	Almoravids take over Morocco, Algeria, and part of al-Andalus; they invade Ghana in 1076 and establish power there.
1062	Almoravids found capital at Marrakesh
1100	The Empire of Ghana starts to decline in influence and importance
1147	The Almohad Caliphate, ruled by Berber Muslims opposed to the Almoravids, seize Marrakesh and go on to conquer Almoravid Spain, Algeria, and Tripoli
1150	An unprecedented resurgence of the Ghana Empire sees it reach its height, controlling vast areas of western Africa as well as Saharan trade routes in gold and salt

	t on a road of conquest, they take its capital Koumbi Saleh in 1203
1235	Great warrior leader Sundiata Keita of the Mandinka people founds the Mali Empire in present-day Mali, West Africa; it expands under his rule
1240-1250	Mali absorbs Ghana, Tekruur and the Songhai Empire
1324	10th Emperor of Mali, Musa I of Mali regarded as the richest individual in recorded history, goes on his famous pilgrimage to Mecca, Saudi Arabia. his procession reported to include 18,000 workers who each carried 4 pounds (1.8 kg) gold bars, heralds dressed in silks who bore gold staffs, organized horses and handled bags. Musa provided all necessities for the procession, feeding the entire company of men and animals. Also in the train were 80 camels, which varying reports claim carried between 50 and 300 pounds (23 and 136 kg) of gold dust each
1325	The Empire of Mali reaches its height of power, covering much of Northern West Africa.
1352	Ibn Battuta, Berber scholar, travels across Africa and writes an account of all he sees
1462	Sonni Ali becomes ruler of the Songhai people and goes on to build the Songhai Empire
1490	The Mali empire is overshadowed by the Songhai Empire
16th century	Songhai Empire enters a period of massive expansion and power under Askia Mohammad I. Askia Mohammad strengthened his country and made it the largest contiguous territory ever in West African history. At its peak, the Empire encompassed the Hausa states as far as Kano (in present-day Nigeria) and much of the territory that had belonged to the Songhai empire in the west neighbouring Bornu Empire of the Kanuri

	s zenith and pinnacle of power
1590	Songhai Empire is defeated by invading Moroccans from further North
1650	Another wave of Fulbe migrations sees them penetrate even further in the Southern Senegal and Fouta Jallon highlands of middle Guinea
1670	Fulani people gain control of Bhundu in Senegal with Malick Sy, and the Sissibhe
1673	First unsuccessful Fulani jihad in the Fuuta Tooro
1808	Bornu successfully repel Fulani forces

Share Messenger Whatsapp Tweet Like 7.9K

Prev Next

Related posts

Architect Events History

Dongola: Oldest city of Nubian Kingdom of Makuria 590 – 1314 AD

November 10, 2021

History Personality Profile

Mekatilili; Kenyan female freedom fighter who slapped a British colonial administrator

November 5, 2021

Culture History

Statistics: South Sudan has more cows than humans

November 3, 2021

Empire History

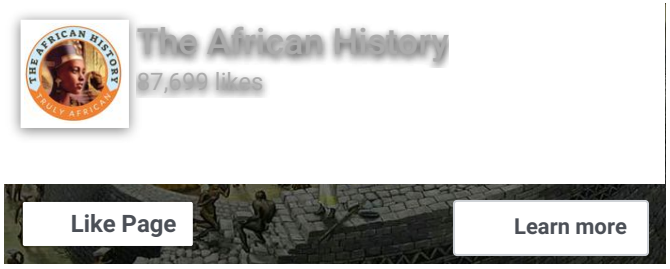
Empire of Kanem-Bornu first in central Sudanic to acquire iron technology & horses

October 30, 2021

Jolof Empire, one of the great ancient African Empires 1350 – 1549

October 11, 2021

About This Site



The African History is a reliable blog site dedicated to sharing African Culture and History. We also aim at promoting tourism across the African continent.

Please note that we do not encourage or share biased information and hate speech to our viewers.

Send us message

Contact Us
theafricanhistory@gmail.com
You can submit your story for publishing through above email

Like Us On Facebook

Follow Us On Twitter

Follow Us On Instagram

About Us

THE AFRICAN HISTORY

The African History is a reliable blog site dedicated to sharing African Culture and News. We also aim at promoting tourism across the African continent.

We do not encourage or share biased information and hate speech to our viewers.

Dongola: Oldest city of Nubian Kingdom of Makuria 590 – 1314 AD

Mekatilili; Kenyan female freedom fighter who slapped a British colonial administrator

Statistics: South Sudan has more cows than humans

Empire of Kanem-Bornu first in central Sudanic to acquire iron technology & horses

Follow Us

Like

Follow

Follow

[illegible]

SAGESSES

Vie et enseignement de Tierno Bokar

Au début de ce siècle, au cœur de l'Afrique, au Mali, la lumière de Dieu a brillé sur un homme : Tierno Bokar, que l'on appelait le Sage de Bandiagara. Cheikh de la confrérie soufie Tidjaniya, Tierno Bokar fut une pure et haute figure non seulement de l'islam en Afrique noire, mais de la spiritualité universelle.

Sa vie est retracée dans ses lieux et dans son contexte politique et religieux pour situer la parole et l'enseignement du maître, qui font l'objet des deux autres parties de l'ouvrage.

Amadou Hampaté Bâ (1900-1991)

Disciple de Tierno Bokar, écrivain, historien, ethnologue, il fut l'un des plus grands spécialistes de la culture et des traditions africaines.

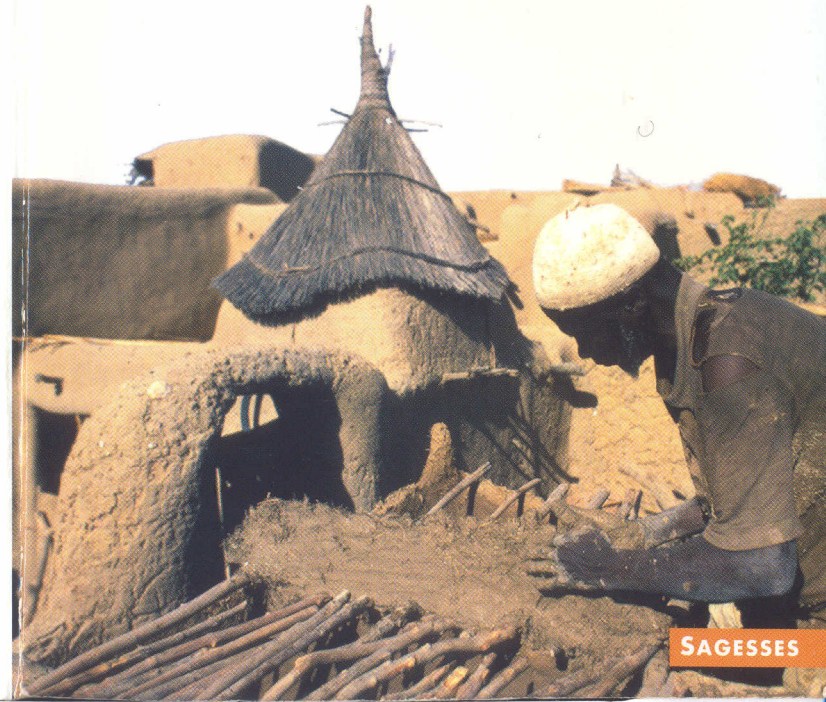
9 782020 056571

Le pays dogon dans la falaise de Bandiagara (Mali)
Photo © Michel Renaudeau/Hoa-Qui
Seuil, 27 r. Jacob, Paris 6
ISBN 978.2.02.005657.1 / Imp. en France 10.80-12

8,50€

POINTS

AMADOU HAMPATÉ BÂ Vie et enseignement de Tierno Bokar



Sa23

POINTS

Amadou Hampaté Bâ

Vie et enseignement de Tierno Bokar

Le Sage de Bandiagara

SAGESSES

Amadou Hampaté Bâ

Vie et enseignement de Tierno Bokar
le Sage de Bandiagara

Éditions du Seuil

ISBN 978-2-02-005657-1

© ÉDITIONS DU SEUIL, 1980.

Le Code de la propriété intellectuelle interdit les copies ou reproductions destinées à une utilisation collective. Toute représentation ou reproduction intégrale ou partielle faite par quelque procédé que ce soit, sans le consentement de l'auteur ou de ses ayants cause, est illicite et constitue une contrefaçon sanctionnée par les articles L. 335-2 et suivants du Code de la propriété intellectuelle.

Avant-propos

Ce livre a une histoire. Peut-être n'est-il pas inutile de la rappeler brièvement, ne serait-ce que pour rendre hommage à la mémoire de celui qui me permit de publier une première version de la vie de Tierno Bokar : je veux parler de Marcel Cardaire, cosignataire du livre Tierno Bokar, le Sage de Bandiagara, qui fut publié en 1957 aux Éditions Présence africaine.

Si l'ouvrage put paraître alors, ce fut grâce au courage entêté, à la patience et, surtout, à l'esprit de justice de Marcel Cardaire. Cet officier français des Affaires musulmanes tenait certes avant tout à servir les intérêts et le prestige de son pays, mais il entendait le faire dans le respect de la vérité et de l'équité.

Élève du grand ethnologue Marcel Griaule, il avait appris de son maître comment approcher l'Africain, en particulier le Soudanais (Malien aujourd'hui) et obtenir de lui, par la confiance, ce que ni force ni fortune n'auraient pu lui arracher.

Mais voici les faits.

Aux environs de 1905-1906, un différend d'ordre religieux avait éclaté à Nioro du Sahel (Mali) entre différentes branches de la confrérie Tidjani à propos des modalités de récitation d'une certaine prière [1]. A partir de 1917, le conflit prit une proportion telle que l'Administration coloniale fut amenée à s'occuper de la question. Elle ouvrit un dossier qu'elle intitula « Hamallisme », étiquette tirée du nom de Cheikh Chérif Hamallâh, chef de l'une des deux branches tidjaniennes en cause et dont il sera abondamment parlé dans ce livre. Ses partisans reçurent le nom de « Hamallistes » et leurs adversaires le nom de

1. Cette affaire, qui a joué un rôle décisif dans le destin de Tierno Bokar, est développée dans le cours de l'ouvrage. On trouvera en annexe un chapitre consacré aux confréries soufi en Islam.

« Omariens » parce qu'ils relevaient de la branche tidjanienne issue du grand chef religieux El Hadj Omar.

Mon maître et père spirituel Tierno Bokar, lui-même Cheikh (maître) de la confrérie Tidjani dans la branche omarienne, appartenait à la famille d'El Hadj Omar. Pourtant, en 1937, dédaignant les ennuis qui ne manqueraient pas de s'abattre sur lui, il reconnut la validité spirituelle de Chérif Hamallâh et se plaça sous son obédience. Je le suivis dans cette voie.

Dès lors, Tierno Bokar fut violemment combattu par ses cousins omariens. Ces derniers, qui comptaient des membres très influents auprès du gouvernement général de l'AOF, réussirent à déclencher l'intervention de l'Administration coloniale en faisant passer pour une affaire politique de tendance « anti-française » ce qui n'était qu'un conflit d'ordre religieux et local.

A cette époque, mes fonctions administratives au Cercle de Bamako me permirent à plusieurs reprises de défendre Chérif Hamallâh et Tierno Bokar auprès de l'Administration, de ramener les faits à leurs justes proportions et de désamorcer un certain nombre de cabales lancées pour les perdre. Par là même, je devenais, pour les ennemis de Tierno Bokar, un obstacle majeur qu'il fallait faire disparaître. Une telle campagne fut lancée contre moi que l'Administration coloniale d'alors — c'était la période vichyssoise — décida de faire procéder à une enquête. Deux lieutenants du bureau des Affaires musulmanes furent tour à tour affectés au Soudan avec pour instruction de chercher à me prendre en faute dans le cadre de mes fonctions. Mais ils ne purent, et pour cause, relever aucun élément contre moi.

C'est alors que le capitaine Marcel Cardaire, en raison de sa finesse et de son expérience des milieux africains, fut envoyé au Soudan français à la fois pour s'occuper des questions musulmanes et pour enquêter sur mon compte.

N'écoutant que sa conscience et le devoir moral qui était le sien de renseigner son gouvernement en toute objectivité, le capitaine Cardaire, fort des conseils qu'il avait reçus du Pr Griaule, me fréquenta sans détour. Il venait me rendre visite matin et soir et m'invitait fréquemment chez lui. Durant toute une année, nous eûmes des relations très étroites. Par mon entremise, il put pénétrer sans difficulté dans toutes les zaouïas [1] hamallistes du Soudan, du Sénégal, de la Haute-Volta, de la Côte-d'Ivoire, du Niger et du Nigeria où il se rendit par la suite.

Durant l'année où nous eûmes des entretiens quotidiens, je répondis à toutes ses questions sur les traditions africaines, les religions locales, l'Islam, la voie Tidjani et, en particulier, la pratique tidjanienne dite des « onze grains [2] » qui faisait l'objet du conflit. Je remis également au capitaine Cardaire une volumineuse documentation écrite dont une partie était constituée par l'enseignement et les paroles de Tierno Bokar que j'avais recueillis.

Après avoir minutieusement étudié l'ensemble de ces notes, Marcel Cardaire vint me trouver et me dit : « Ce serait commettre un crime contre la science et contre l'esprit que de ne pas publier l'enseignement de Tierno Bokar. Cet enseignement est un véritable message. — Mais vous savez bien, lui répondis-je, qu'un "Hamalliste" ne parviendra jamais à se faire éditer ! — Eh bien, répliqua Cardaire, mettez par écrit la vie de Tierno Bokar et son enseignement, j'y ajouterai mes appréciations personnelles et nous serons coauteurs. Je me charge personnellement de faire éditer le livre. »

C'est ainsi que je rédigeai l'ébauche de la vie de Tierno Bokar et de son enseignement, manuscrit que je remis à Marcel Cardaire en lui faisant totale confiance pour son utilisation.

L'ouvrage parut aux Éditions Présence africaine en 1957 sans que j'en aie revu le texte définitif. Quelques petites erreurs (bien compréhensibles si l'on pense à la complexité des événements rapportés) s'y étaient glissées. Mais elles ne diminuent en rien les mérites de Marcel Cardaire et l'utilité de son travail. Comme dit le proverbe peul : « L'erreur n'annule pas la valeur de l'effort accompli. »

Quoi qu'il en soit, j'ai décidé de procéder à une refonte totale du premier ouvrage et d'en profiter pour le compléter, tout en conservant son plan d'origine.

Le lecteur trouvera donc, dans une première partie, le récit de

1. Zaouïa : lieu de réunion et de prière des adeptes d'une confrérie soufi.
2. Il s'agit des grains de chapelet servant à la récitation de certaines prières.

1

La vie

Racines

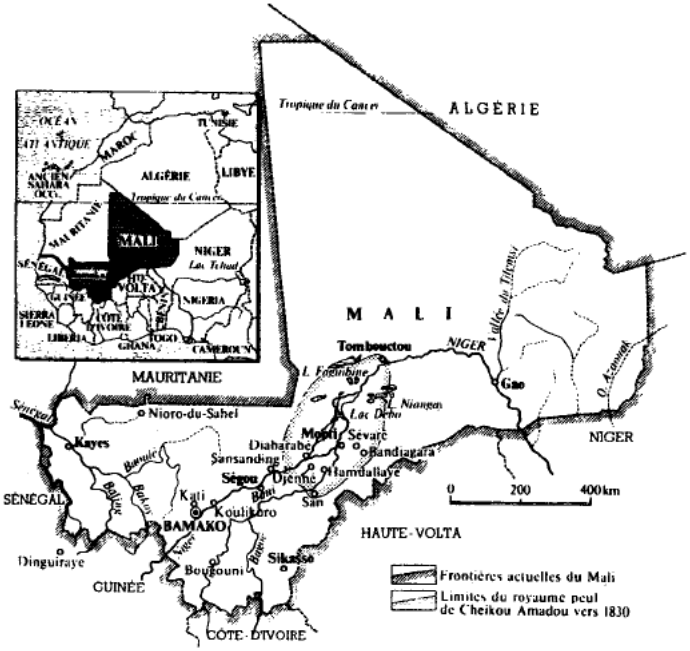
Sur le vieux substratum des religions du terroir, l'Empire poullo-musulman [1] du Macina s'était édifié au début du XIX[e] siècle. Un homme de génie, Chékou Amadou, avait mis sur pied une construction politique, sociale et économique qui encadrait des populations habituées à voisiner en conservant jalousement leur originalité. Paysans, pasteurs, artisans et pêcheurs étaient unis par des liens religieux dont l'origine mythique se perdait dans la nuit des temps. Ce fut le mérite génial d'un Chékou Amadou, fondateur de l'Empire peul du Macina en 1818, que de codifier toutes les manifestations de ces liens sociaux et de mettre sur pied un État.

Comme rien ne peut s'édifier en Afrique noire sans que souffle l'Esprit, l'Esprit religieux, le royaume théocratique du Macina était d'obédience kounti. Les Kounta [2] avaient donné leur chaîne confraternelle, le roi son génie organisateur, les survivances des religions du terroir leurs constructions traditionnelles, et de l'ensemble de ces apports un État était né.

Lorsque, en 1862, apparut El Hadj Omar, Grand Maître de l'Ordre Tidjani [3], et qu'il conquit l'Empire du Macina, cet empire avait déjà commencé à se désagréger spirituellement sous le règne de Amadou Amadou (ou « Amadou III »), petit-fils du fondateur Chékou Amadou.

L'apparition de la marée omarienne faisait entrer le Soudan dans une nouvelle période de convulsion, l'une des plus violentes, peut-être, de son histoire. Cette conquête, comme beaucoup

1. Poullo : peul.
2. Kounta : nom d'une très ancienne famille, d'origine arabe, qui donna naissance en Afrique à la confrérie religieuse des « Kounti ».
3. Sur les confréries, voir annexe, p. 241 et 244.



d'autres, n'aboutit pas au simple asservissement des peuples par leur vainqueur. Avec ses développements souvent inattendus, l'Histoire semble vouloir nous apprendre qu'à une conquête guerrière succède généralement une autre, toute pacifique, au cours de laquelle l'occupant est à son tour absorbé par sa conquête. Et c'est sans doute bien ainsi. Dans les cas où ce phénomène ne se produit pas, le conquérant se trouve rapidement isolé, écarté du système, enkysté, réduit en sa tour d'ivoire d'où il ne voit plus rien et ne conduit plus rien.

Dans l'invasion du Macina par les Toucouleurs [1], les deux phénomènes ont sans doute joué simultanément.

La Tidjaniya, confrérie religieuse des Toucouleurs, s'imposa sur la rive droite du Niger tandis que la confrérie kounti gardait son influence intacte dans tout le Macina.

L'Esprit jaillit souvent comme une étincelle du choc de deux épées. Il est impossible de se pencher sur la vie spirituelle du Macina dans la première partie de ce siècle si l'on oublie les guerres qui l'ont ravagé pendant le siècle précédent, pas plus qu'il n'est possible à l'historien de négliger les luttes européennes, les conquêtes méditerranéennes et, enfin, les guerres à l'intérieur même de l'Italie, à l'époque où celle-ci portait encore en son sein la Renaissance. Peut-on comprendre François d'Assise si l'on veut ignorer les combats contre Pérouse qu'il vécut dans sa jeunesse et toutes les autres luttes sanglantes de l'époque? De même, on ne saurait saisir le personnage de Tierno Bokar Salif Tall si l'on oublie que, pendant les dix-huit premières années de sa vie, conquêtes et soulèvements, victoires et défaites furent les seuls et brûlants sujets de conversation qu'il entendit autour de lui, hors de sa cellule familiale; si l'on oublie aussi que la moitié de son sang faisait de cet enfant un prince, un prince toucouleur, donc un prince conquérant.

Le 10 mars 1861, El Hadj Omar entrait à Ségou, capitale du royaume bambara. Un an plus tard, il repartait vers le nord afin

1. Toucouleurs: peuple d'Afrique occidentale, vivant surtout au Sénégal et en Guinée (ancien royaume du Fouta Toro). Il ne s'agit pas d'une ethnie, mais d'un ensemble culturel assez homogène (islamisés et foulaphones, c'est-à-dire parlant peul). Conduits par El Hadj Omar, ils vinrent jusque dans la « boucle du Niger » où ils conquirent, en 1862, l'Empire peul du Macina.

d'entreprendre la conquête de l'empire peul du Macina. Avant de quitter Ségou, il confia le commandement administratif et militaire de la ville à son premier fils, Amadou Chékou, alors qu'il en confiait la « garde spirituelle » à un certain El Hadj Tierno Seydou Hann pour lequel il éprouvait une affection sans bornes.

Qui était cet homme, qui devait devenir le grand-père de Tierno Bokar et lui transmettre, avec d'éminentes qualités spirituelles, une solide tradition de paix et de tolérance ?

El Hadj Omar l'avait rencontré à la Cour de Sokoto (nord-ouest de l'actuel Nigeria) lorsqu'il s'y était arrêté au retour de son pèlerinage à La Mekke. Il sut s'attacher cet homme de grande qualité et ce fut certainement là l'une de ses plus belles conquêtes spirituelles.

El Hadj Seydou Hann, dont la famille, d'origine toucouleure, vivait en milieu haoussa [1], était un homme pieux s'il en fut, se tenant à l'écart de la vie politico-guerrière de l'Empire de Sokoto. Ses connaissances ésotériques soufi étaient très approfondies. Homme de prière et de méditation, il possédait des dons de voyant et ses prédictions, souvent confirmées, frappèrent El Hadj Omar à plusieurs reprises.

Sa rencontre avec El Hadj Omar fut l'événement déterminant de sa vie. Bien qu'appartenant à l'Ordre Qadri, il n'hésita pas à se placer sous l'obédience d'El Hadj Omar et à entrer dans la Tidjaniya, auréolé de son immense science des textes religieux et de toute la puissance de sa vie intérieure. Lorsque El Hadj Omar reprit la route, El Hadj Seydou Hann rompit avec toute sa vie passée, abandonna Sokoto et, accompagné des siens, suivit son nouveau maître spirituel. Par la vertu de ses dons et de ses connaissances, El Hadj Seydou Hann fut certainement l'un de ceux qui devaient donner aux guerres d'El Hadj Omar leur lustre religieux.

C'est donc dans l'escorte des Tall (nom de la famille d'El Hadj Omar) qu'El Hadj Seydou Hann pénétra dans Ségou avec sa femme et ses filles.

De tout temps, Ségou avait été la ville paresseuse qui se traîne

1. Ethnie importante du pays de Sokoto.

sur la rive droite du fleuve. Caressée par le vent d'est de janvier, écrasée dans le soleil de mai ou embourbée sous les pluies d'août, c'était toujours Ségou, l'antique capitale, sur le vieux fleuve. Des piroguiers de marbre noir, les mêmes qu'à l'époque de Biton Coulibaly, les mêmes qu'aujourd'hui, glissaient le long des rives sur des esquifs longs et frêles comme des patins. Ville où les populations s'enchevêtraient autour d'un noyau bambara. Ville des vieux cultes nés du fleuve-dieu, cité de la mystique bambara qui avait, elle aussi, édifié et fait vivre un empire. Cité de la tolérance où les personnages mythiques locaux fraternisaient avec ceux des Foulbé (Peuls) islamisés ou non, des Bozo, des Somono ou des Marka. Cité de la joie, de la douceur de vivre, ville toute de finesse et d'astuce souriante dont Fily Dabo Sissoko, le premier député du Soudan, disait un jour : « Si vous demandez un service aux gens de Ségou et qu'ils entendent vous le refuser, ils le feront avec tant d'intelligence et d'adresse que vous vous croirez encore obligé de leur dire merci ».

A l'arrivée d'El Hadj Omar, Ségou devint officiellement ville d'Islam, mais son âme n'avait pas changé pour autant ; elle était demeurée la Ségou d'autrefois.

Arrivé à Ségou, El Hadj Seydou Hann s'y établit avec sa famille. Sans rien changer de sa vie toute simple, il ouvrit une école et distribua un pieux et savant enseignement. C'est à lui qu'El Hadj Omar confia « l'Esprit de la cité », c'est-à-dire la direction morale et spirituelle de la ville.

Seydou Hann accrut le prestige de sa famille en épousant, en secondes noces, une descendante du Prophète : une « chérifat [1] ». L'anecdote délicieuse que l'on raconte à propos de cette jeune chérifat illustre mieux qu'un long développement le comportement du brave Seydou Hann, que l'on avait surnommé « le pieux Haoussa ».

Sa maison, qui était tenue par ses deux épouses — la première, une fille d'Ousman Dan Fodio [2] et la seconde, la jeune chérifat —, n'était pas à l'abri des orages de la jalousie fémi-

1. Féminin de « chérif » : descendant du Prophète par sa fille Fatima.
2. Cheikh de l'Ordre Qadri, fondateur de l'Empire musulman peul de Sokoto.

nine, mais la soumission de Seydou Hann et de sa première épouse aux desseins de Dieu atténuait les éclats de ces tourmentes.

Un certain jour, le maître de maison, ayant acquis deux génisses, les présenta à ses femmes. Il dit à la chérifat :

— Choisis la génisse qui te plaît. Celle qui ne te conviendra pas sera la propriété de Inna, ta sœur. Tu es chérifat, tu mérites donc cette préférence.

La génisse que la chérifat avait élue grandit, mit bas un veau et donna un lait rare et maigre alors que la vache d'Inna mit bas une belle génisse et fut une merveilleuse laitière. La seconde épouse, rongée par la jalousie, insensible aux gentillesses de Inna, récriminait sans cesse et réclamait un nouveau partage. Et pendant trois mois, dit l'histoire, Seydou Hann souffrit dans sa maison les tourments de l'enfer.

Un soir, à appel de la prière, il sortait de son vestibule quand la chérifat se mit en travers de sa porte :

— Tu n'iras pas à la mosquée, lui dit-elle, si tu n'as pas auparavant résolu le problème de nos vaches. Recommence la distribution et si tu ne veux pas me faire justice, renvoie-moi dans ma famille !

Seydou Hann, sans se départir de son calme inaltérable, répondit :

— En vérité, tes deux propositions sont également impossibles à envisager. En procédant à une nouvelle distribution, je violerais le droit. Ce sont tes mains qui ont choisi, elles seules sont responsables. En toute justice, tu aurais dû choisir la dernière. C'est par respect pour le nom du Prophète que tu as eu le pas sur Inna. Je ne peux recommencer aujourd'hui un partage qui ne laisserait aucune place au hasard...

Il s'arrêta un instant avant de passer à l'examen de la deuxième proposition ; et nous imaginons sans peine le sourire malicieux qui dut fleurir sur ses lèvres :

— En te renvoyant chez toi, dit-il, je me priverais d'un motif de chagrin et de souci. Or, pour gagner le ciel, je dois souffrir dans ma maison et je préfère que ce soit de la main d'une descendante du Prophète. Celui-ci ne sera-t-il pas, ainsi, quelque peu tenu d'intercéder pour moi ?

Cela dit, il passa la porte et s'en fut prier. Mais avant de quitter le seuil de la maison, il se retourna :

— Vois-tu, je te conseille de t'entendre avec Inna. Si elle accepte de te vendre sa génisse et sa vache, je les paierai pour toi.

Inna, qui se tenait dans l'ombre de sa case, avait tout entendu. Lorsque son époux revint de la prière, il la trouva qui l'attendait :

— J'ai tout entendu de ta conversation avec la chérifat, dit-elle. En vérité, je te trouve bien audacieux.

— Pourquoi dis-tu cela ? Tu sais que je ne saurais me rendre complice d'une injustice.

— Et qu'a à faire la justice dans un débat où il s'agit de la semence du Prophète ? s'écria-t-elle. Je ne cherchais qu'une occasion de plaire à Dieu et à son Apôtre. Puisque l'une de ses petites filles veut ma vache, je jette dans l'écuelle du Prophète et la vache, et sa petite génisse, et l'enfant qui les sert. Si je n'étais pas mariée, je m'y jetterais moi-même !...

Entre sa famille et son école, Seydou Hann partageait sa vie. A la maison, parmi tous ses enfants, deux de ses filles, Fatima et Aïssata, étaient plus remarquables encore par leur sagesse que par leur grâce. Fatima, tourmentée par le désir de savoir, suivait avec passion les cours de son père ; elle atteignit un degré de connaissance exceptionnel pour les femmes de l'époque. Quant à Aïssata, future mère de Tierno Bokar, elle était la cheville ouvrière de la maison dont toute la vie matérielle reposait sur elle. En plus de ses qualités pratiques, elle avait hérité de son père un attrait profond pour la vie mystique.

L'enseignement d'El Hadj Seydou Hann connut dans la ville un franc succès qui ne devait que peu de chose à la position privilégiée qu'il occupait dans l'affection des chefs politiques de Ségou. Ses élèves sortaient aussi bien des milieux traditionnels que du groupe des plus récents occupants.

Dans l'entourage d'Amadou Chékou (le fils d'El Hadj Omar que celui-ci avait laissé à la tête de Ségou), au milieu de sa cour, vivait un sien cousin appelé Salif. Il était fils de Bokar Tall, l'un des frères aînés d'El Hadj Omar.

Salif était un homme dévot. Prince toucouleur, il suivait le roi et son armée dans leurs déplacements mais passait le plus clair de son temps à instruire les rejetons de la famille d'Amadou Chékou. Sa vie, toute empreinte de piété, était donc, qu'il le veuille ou non, intimement liée à l'activité politique des Toucouleurs.

Salif avait suivi l'enseignement de bien des maîtres et s'était, en particulier, formé à l'école de Tierno Seydou Hann. C'est ainsi qu'il fit la connaissance de la douce Aïssata qu'il épousa en secondes noces. De cette union naquit, en 1875, Tierno Bokar Salif Tall.

Fils d'Aïssata et de Salif, petit-fils d'El Hadj Seydou Hann, Tierno Bokar portait en lui, dès le berceau, des trésors de douceur et une immense aptitude à s'instruire. Ceux qui sont appelés à devenir maîtres d'hommes doivent soumettre leurs jeunes qualités à certaines épreuves de la vie : ils sont, a-t-on dit, le fruit du mariage de leurs dons et des circonstances. Tierno Bokar Salif Tall trouvait ces dons sur la couverture de famille où il fut déposé à sa naissance. La vie politique agitée de sa province natale, pendant toute la période de sa formation, donna à ses dons l'occasion d'éclore.

Pendant les dernières années du royaume toucouleur de Ségou, Tierno Bokar Salif avait grandi sur le dos de sa mère, d'abord, puis dans les jambes des femmes de la famille : Aïssata sa mère, Inna sa grand-mère — celle-là même qui avait regretté de ne pouvoir se jeter dans l'écuelle du Prophète — et sa tante, la savante Fatima.

Il s'éveillait à la vie dans l'atmosphère de menace que faisait planer sur la ville l'hostilité des Bambara et des Foulbé non ralliés. Dans ce climat de peur, les pieuses femmes lui enseignaient la seule crainte de Dieu. A l'extérieur, le châtiment féroce des mal soumis, l'exécution des rebelles entretenaient la haine. Mais, des femmes qui le nourrissaient et l'élevaient, Tierno Bokar n'apprenait que la haine de ses propres défauts et s'exerçait à la « grande Djihad », la « grande guerre sainte », celle dont le Prophète a dit qu'elle devait être menée contre soi-même.

Le bruit des armes et l'appel des guerriers emplissaient la ville. Les trompes de guerre sonnaient l'alerte, le départ de la cavalerie et le retour du roi. Dans la cour de Salif, Inna vieillissante, Fatima sur ses grimoires et Aïssata au regard toujours perdu dans un rêve ne faisaient résonner que le seul nom de Dieu. La foule ne parlait que de combats, d'infaillibles plans de bataille, d'ennemis qui expiraient, fuyaient ou avançaient; autour du jeune Tierno il n'était question que de la Charité et de l'Amour qui conquièrent tous les cœurs et auxquels rien ne résiste.

Puis il grandit et commença son instruction. C'est le vieux Guiré, de l'ethnie somono, moqaddem [1] de l'Ordre Tidjani, lui-même élève de Seydou Hann, qui ouvrit l'intelligence et la mémoire du jeune Tierno Bokar. Les leçons de morale transcendante que l'enfant avait toujours entendues chez lui se trouvaient étayées par la Parole divine que lui transmettait son maître à travers la révélation coranique. Par-delà son maître et par-delà le Prophète, il prit l'habitude de ne voir que le Dieu Créateur et, aux pieds de Celui-ci, une humanité déchirée, et souvent déchirée au nom de ce même Dieu. Aux leçons de son maître s'ajoutaient celles qu'il tirait de l'époque.

En 1885, Amadou Chékou se rendit à Nioro pour barrer la route aux armées d'occupation françaises, alors commandées par le colonel Archinard. Il pensait en effet que l'armée d'Archinard, située non loin de là à Kayes, commencerait par attaquer Nioro pour venir ensuite assiéger Ségou. Avant de partir, il confia le commandement de Ségou à son fils Madani, cousin de Tierno Bokar.

Le bruit des batailles toutes proches, la perspective d'une occupation française, la révolte latente des Bambara du lieu contre leur occupant toucouleur entretenaient dans la ville une atmosphère d'inquiétude.

Tierno et les siens souffraient moins des dangers qu'ils couraient, eux et leurs familles, que de l'horreur qu'ils ressentaient en écoutant les nouvelles des batailles, en vivant au milieu de ces haines qui se voulaient pieuses.

Au début de 1890, alors que Ségou était à la veille de tomber

1. Moqaddem : dans les confréries musulmanes, titre de celui qui est chargé de recevoir les néophytes et de leur conférer l'initiation de base.

entre les mains des Français, Tierno Bokar, alors âgé de quinze ans, connaissait par cœur la quasi-totalité du Coran, l'ensemble du rituel, les lois islamiques et une bonne partie de la vie des saints. Là ne se bornait pas son savoir.

On connaît le rôle que joue, dans la vie de l'enfant noir, sa famille maternelle, en particulier l'oncle et le grand-père. Or, le grand-père maternel de Tierno était le vieux Seydou Hann, grand mystique soufi formé à l'école de la Qadriya avant d'être entré dans l'Ordre Tidjani. Lorsque, au soir de chaque journée d'études, Tierno revenait chez lui, il se plongeait dans l'exaltante atmosphère familiale ; la leçon se poursuivait auprès du grand-père que, selon la coutume, un petit-fils peut aller interroger à toute heure du jour et de la nuit, sans jamais le lasser.

Sa tante Fatima, « mère » si savante et si éclairée, ne pouvait refuser ses conseils à ce jeune neveu en lequel elle retrouvait tant sa propre curiosité de petite fille. Son enseignement, ses conseils ne pouvaient pas ne pas être marqués au coin de la douceur des filles de Seydou. C'est ainsi que l'enfant Tall se familiarisa avec les noms des Soufi prestigieux des belles époques : El Ghazali, Mouhieddine ibn el Arabi, Mohammed ed-Dabbar et combien d'autres encore. Plus tard, il devait approfondir et s'incorporer leur enseignement ; mais, dès l'enfance, il apprenait, dans la cour même de sa maison, au cours de ces interminables soirées d'Afrique, la valeur d'une méditation, la richesse du patrimoine spirituel, l'immensité des connaissances entrevues.

Tout au long de sa vie, l'enseignement qu'il distribua devait se ressentir des impressions de son adolescence. Il était plongé au sein d'une « cellule d'amour et de charité », sa propre cellule familiale, et celle-ci vivait ballottée au gré des tourmentes de l'époque. Plus tard, sa zaouïa [1] s'appellera « Cellule d'amour et de charité » et les orages ne lui manqueront pas. C'est à quatorze ans, sans doute, qu'il apprit des lèvres de sa mère, ou de sa grand-mère prête à mourir, ou de sa tante, cette définition de la religion : « Un disque de vannerie portant sur l'une de ses faces le mot "Amour" et sur l'autre le mot "Charité". »

1. Cf. note 1, p. 9.

Un soir de mars 1890, le vieux El Hadj Seydou Hann mourut. Il usa ses dernières forces à écrire un message qu'il fit envoyer à Amadou Chékou, lequel se trouvait alors à Nioro. Il lui disait : « Viens reprendre ce que tu m'as confié (les clefs spirituelles de la ville) car le moment approche où Dieu va me reprendre ce qu'Il m'a confié (mon âme). » Après avoir terminé cette lettre, il fit, à l'intention de son entourage, cette ultime prédiction : « Bientôt, on n'aura plus besoin d'un gardien des clefs spirituelles de la ville, car les Toucouleurs sont à la veille d'en perdre la charge temporelle. »

Trente-trois jours plus tard, Archinard, à la tête de l'armée française, pénétrait dans Ségou sans qu'aucune résistance lui soit opposée. La nuit précédente, les forces de Madani avaient en effet évacué la ville.

Tierno ne devait jamais oublier cette nuit où il avait vu son père pour la dernière fois. Salif Bokar Tall était entraîné dans la retraite par sa fidélité à la famille d'Amadou Chékou. Le mari de la douce Aïssata, maître ès religion, ennemi de toute haine, laissait sa maison, sa zaouïa, ses élèves, pour subir la bousculade des camps et les violences de la guerre.

Dans l'épaisse obscurité que trouait, çà et là, une timide lueur de torche, les femmes et les enfants toucouleurs assistaient, du seuil de leurs portes, l'angoisse au cœur, au départ des restes de la cour.

Salif Bokar Tall, parti parmi les derniers, était à cheval. Tierno marcha à ses côtés jusqu'à la sortie de la ville, accompagné du petit frère de son père, Amadou Tall, alors guère plus âgé que lui-même. Avant de s'éloigner définitivement, Salif arrêta sa monture et prit en croupe le jeune Amadou Tall.

— Et moi, papa, que vais-je devenir ? demanda Tierno.

Prenant la main de Tierno entre les siennes, Salif l'enveloppa d'un chaud regard d'affection et lui dit :

— Toi, mon fils, je te confie à Dieu.

Ce furent les dernières paroles que Tierno recueillit des lèvres de son père.

Revenant vers les femmes de sa famille, Tierno, le cœur lourd, pensait-il déjà à ce qu'il devait nous enseigner plus tard, à savoir que les armes matérielles ne peuvent détruire que la matière et non le principe du mal lui-même qui renaît toujours plus vigoureux de ses cendres ? Le mal, nous dira-t-il, ne peut être détruit que par les armes du Bien et de l'Amour...

Quand les derniers défenseurs de Ségou eurent été engloutis par la savane, le bon vieux Guiré, le maître de Tierno, tenta de mettre la famille à l'abri de la colère des vainqueurs. Il leur fit quitter Ségou et les abrita à Barawéli, en pays somono.

Dès qu'il fut installé à Ségou, le colonel Archinard remit le commandement de la ville aux Diarra, représentants de la vieille famille royale bambara qui avait été vaincue par El Hadj Omar. Bodian, le nouveau roi bambara, donna ordre de rassembler à Ségou tous les Tall qui demeuraient encore dans le pays. Les réfugiés de Barawéli furent donc obligés de quitter leur retraite et de se rendre à merci. La captivité des Toucouleurs fut en général sévère. Le pays noir semblait avoir oublié qu'il était celui de la tolérance et de la charité traditionnelles.

Le vieux Guiré devait à son appartenance somono et à l'importance de sa famille d'avoir une certaine influence sur Bodian. Il la mit au service des filles de feu son vieux maître. Ainsi Aïssata, Fatima, Tierno Bokar et son petit frère Aliou connurent-ils une surveillance relativement douce. Ils vécurent isolés dans une concession, du seul fruit de leur travail. Tout au long du jour, les enfants tressaient des palissades de jonc qui servent à marquer la limite des maisons familiales. Aïssata ne cessait de répéter à son fils que tout homme doit travailler, même, et surtout, celui qui se met au service de Dieu.

Le jeune Tierno, petit-neveu d'un conquérant, appelé par sa naissance à l'enviable prédestination du commandement, n'avait connu de la guerre que la défaite et la captivité, sans jamais goûter les griseries du combat. A tout autre, placé dans une telle situation et tourmenté par les soucis de ce monde, il serait resté l'espoir : l'espoir d'un renversement de situation, l'espoir d'une revanche, l'attente de jours meilleurs. Mais l'esprit de l'adolescent de Ségou avait été trop tenu à l'écart de l'agitation du siècle pour avoir besoin d'une consolation ou rechercher une raison d'agir. Dès son plus jeune âge, il avait été habitué à ne trouver l'équilibre et la joie qu'au fond de lui-même, au cours d'une perpétuelle conversation avec Dieu.

Il devait répéter plus tard le conseil qu'il avait reçu de sa mère :

« Écris le nom divin Allâh sur un mur, en face de ta couche, afin qu'il soit, à ton réveil, la première image qui s'offre à tes yeux. Au lever, prononce-le avec ferveur, du fond de ton âme, afin qu'il soit le premier mot sortant de tes lèvres et frappant ton oreille. Au coucher, fixe tes yeux sur lui afin qu'il soit la dernière image contemplée avant de t'évanouir dans la mort momentanée du sommeil. Si tu persistes, à la longue la lumière contenue dans le secret de ses quatre lettres [1] se répandra sur toi et une étincelle de l'Essence divine enflammera ton âme et l'irradiera. »

Bodian, le nouveau roi bambara de Ségou, dépassa les limites que la jeune administration militaire française de Ségou entendait imposer au désir de vengeance des autochtones contre leurs anciens maîtres toucouleurs. Bodian donna en effet l'une des propres filles d'El Hadj Omar à l'un de ses serviteurs. Il y avait démesure. L'un des fils d'El Hadj Omar, Aguibou Tall, devenu ami personnel d'Archinard, intervint et obtint la libération de tous ses parents Tall.

Deux ans plus tard, ce même Aguibou Tall, en compagnie des forces françaises, entrait dans Bandiagara — où les autorités françaises l'avaient « nommé » roi — et y installait son commandement. Avec lui arrivaient les Tall et tous les réfugiés toucouleurs qui souhaitaient rejoindre Bandiagara afin de se soustraire aux vexations des Bambara.

Qu'était ce Bandiagara qui recueillait le jeune homme de dix-huit ans ? Qu'était, à cette époque, la ville qui allait entendre, pendant quarante-sept ans, l'une des voix les plus pures du pays noir ?

Revenons un peu en arrière.

Lorsque, en 1864, Tidjani Aguibou Tall, neveu d'El Hadj

1. Le nom Allâh, en arabe, est composé des quatre lettres alif, lam, lam, hâ qui sont le support de tout un développement ésotérique dans les enseignements soufi.

Omar et fondateur du royaume de Bandiagara, avait pris pied sur cette courte plaine, sorte de cuvette située au milieu des falaises dogon, il n'y avait trouvé qu'un minuscule village. Le site lui plut. Il était fait d'une dépression enveloppée de postes de guet naturels, faciles à tenir et situés à bonne distance. Ainsi naquit Bandiagara, surnommée « la grande écuelle ». Tidjani était à n'en pas douter un organisateur et un fin politique. Ayant décidé de créer une ville, il la fit sortir de terre et la peupla. Tous les hommes religieux de la région durent y bâtir une maison et s'y tenir trois ou quatre mois par an.

Tidjani ceintura la ville d'une muraille de boue séchée. Les traces légères qui en subsistent aujourd'hui encore témoignent d'une superficie sans commune mesure avec la Bandiagara de nos jours. Plus tard, son cousin Mounirou n'apporta aucune modification à la physionomie de la ville. Il avait hérité de ses prédécesseurs un commandement facile et efficace qu'il s'efforça encore d'améliorer.

Un beau jour de 1890, Amadou Chékou [1], fils d'El Hadj Omar et ancien souverain de Ségou, arriva à Bandiagara, suivi d'un cortège composé de ses fils, de ses cavaliers et de ses griots. Le lecteur se souvient qu'il avait nuitamment quitté Ségou pour se rendre à Nioro, dans l'espoir d'y barrer la route à l'armée française et de l'empêcher de poursuivre son avance dans le pays. Mais lorsque, en 1890, il vit tomber Nioro, il partit avec les siens pour rejoindre Bandiagara. A son arrivée dans la ville, Mounirou, qui était son frère puîné, abdiqua en sa faveur, selon la loi même établie par El Hadj Omar.

Bandiagara vivait alors une époque de splendeur à laquelle ne manquaient ni preux, ni coups d'épée, ni cours d'amour et joutes poétiques. Mais elle souffrit, sous le règne d'Amadou Chékou, du fait que le souverain vivait dans l'attente d'un combat fatal avec les Français et qu'il était impuissant à mater la haine qui divisait ses gens. La coexistence entre les anciens partisans de Mounirou (décédé peu de temps après son abdication) et les nouveaux venus étaient, en effet, loin d'être facile.

1. Que l'on appelait aussi Lamido dioulbé, « Commandeur des croyants », parce qu'à la mort d'El Hadj Omar il avait hérité de sa fonction religieuse.

Cette situation dura environ deux ans. En 1893, alors que Bandiagara se déchirait elle-même, un troisième fils d'El Hadj Omar, Aguibou Tall, approcha de la ville, soutenu par les tirailleurs d'Archinard. La ville fut prise et, comme nous l'avons dit plus haut, Aguibou Tall « nommé » roi de Bandiagara par les autorités françaises.

Encore une fois, Amadou Chékou et les siens devaient prendre le chemin de l'exil. Ils descendirent de la falaise qui domine Bandiagara et partirent vers le sud, à la recherche d'un royaume de rechange qu'ils ne trouvèrent d'ailleurs jamais. Amadou Chékou était accompagné de ses huit fils et de quelques fidèles. Salif Seydou Tall, le père de Tierno, était de ceux-là. Peu de temps après son départ, Aïssata et son fils Tierno arrivaient dans la ville avec le convoi de la famille d'Aguibou Tall, le nouveau souverain. Le père et le fils s'étaient manqués de peu. On n'eut plus jamais de nouvelles de Salif.

L'arrivée d'Aïssata et des siens fit un certain bruit dans la cité. Aïssata et ses deux sœurs étaient précédées d'une réputation de sainteté qu'elles n'avaient en rien recherchée mais qu'elles devaient à leur inaltérable douceur, à la fidélité avec laquelle elles remplissaient leurs devoirs d'épouse et de mère et, en outre, à de sérieuses connaissances religieuses. La tradition rapporte que la pureté de leur vie était telle qu'elles étaient invitées, selon la coutume, à venir sauter par-dessus les chevaux malades, traitement dont on espérait une guérison rapide, la pureté étant porteuse de toutes les vertus.

Toujours est-il qu'elles furent reçues comme des princesses. Tous les clans de la ville se les disputèrent, comme pour accroître le potentiel de grâces divines auquel ils pouvaient prétendre. En Afrique, lorsque les hommes veulent manifester à une femme sans époux leur sollicitude et leur sympathie, ils lui en cherchent un. Mais Aïssata se refusait à prendre parti, à choisir un clan. Elle fit savoir qu'elle demeurerait fidèle à son époux, le malheureux Salif, aucune nouvelle n'étant venue confirmer son décès. Elle négligea les offres les plus flatteuses. « Je ne puis connaître d'autre époux que Salif, disait-elle. S'il m'a abandonnée, c'est contre son consentement; s'il a fui, ce n'est que par fidélité à Amadou Chékou, le Lamido Dioulbé. Et s'il est vivant, rien ne me dit qu'il m'ait répudiée. »

Aucun des partis ne pouvant espérer s'attacher cette famille, peu à peu on s'en éloigna. Délaissée par les parents et les amis de son époux, Aïssata se tourna vers le clan haoussa au sein duquel son père avait jadis vécu. La solidarité qui lie les Haoussa est à juste titre fameuse dans l'ensemble de la zone soudanienne. Elle joua en faveur des filles d'El Hadj Seydou Hann qui s'installèrent dans le quartier commerçant réservé aux Haoussa, au nord-est de la ville.

Au moment où les combats cessèrent et où la paix revint dans les campagnes, Tierno Bokar avait dix-huit ans. Il avait subi, en gardant les yeux grands ouverts, toutes les épreuves de la guerre. Son extrême sensibilité lui avait permis de vibrer plus que quiconque aux pénibles spectacles de la vie mais il avait gardé intacte la fraîcheur de son âme. Ceux qui l'ont connu à cette époque nous ont rapporté combien il savait être joyeux, dans la certitude qu'il avait d'être sur la « voie droite ». Les femmes et les vieillards qui l'avaient élevé avaient su tout lui montrer et, cependant, le tenir à l'écart de l'atmosphère pestilentielle des époques troublées. Monté déjà très haut dans l'échelle de la vie mystique, il avait tout naturellement remis les valeurs à la place que leur assigne un homme qui, par certains côtés, n'est plus tout à fait de ce monde.

A son arrivée à Bandiagara, Tierno Bokar avait fait la connaissance d'un jeune homme de son âge: Bokar Pâté [1]. Celui-ci était le chef d'une association de jeunes gens comme il en existait partout dans l'Afrique de jadis. Il y fit entrer Tierno Bokar. Bokar Pâté était également un excellent tailleur-brodeur. En Afrique traditionnelle, c'était là non un « métier », au sens moderne du terme, mais un art qu'il était permis à un noble d'exercer.

1. Bokar Pâté avait pour sœur Kadidja Pâté, qui deviendra ma mère.

Tierno Bokar étant le neveu d'Aguibou Tall, roi de Bandiagara, la carrière des armes lui était tout naturellement ouverte. Mais sa mère, la bonne Aïssata, lui conseilla d'apprendre l'art du brodeur. Sous la direction de Bokar Pâté, Tierno devint un grand expert en cet art. Et souvent, lorsqu'il brodait, faisant jouer ses doigts fins sur les vêtements qu'il décorait, il se remémorait le conseil d'Aïssata:

« Plutôt que d'ôter la vie aux hommes, apprends à couvrir leur nudité corporelle avant d'être appelé à l'honneur de pouvoir couvrir leur nudité morale ou spirituelle en leur prêchant l'Amour. »

L'instruction générale de Tierno était encore imparfaite, il ne l'ignorait pas. La misère lui enlevait l'audace de forcer la porte d'un maître et le moyen de se procurer les livres indispensables. Enfin, il avait dix-huit ans, l'âge des tourments, l'âge de tous les rêves, l'âge de tous les chemins. Ses rêves, il les vivait paisiblement. Ils étaient tout de beauté et d'équilibre. Il ne savait peut-être pas encore combien était difficile, et peu compris du monde, le chemin qu'il avait choisi; mais il savait à quel bonheur serein il menait. A l'âge des tourments, il avait trouvé la paix.

Maître de lui, il fallait encore que lui vienne le goût d'instruire les autres, de leur transmettre son savoir et ses tranquilles certitudes. C'est à Bandiagara, où il vivra les quarante-sept dernières années de sa vie, dans sa petite concession, que ce goût naîtra et deviendra un impérieux besoin. Il mourra sans avoir pu pleinement le satisfaire, à cause de la méchanceté et de l'inconscience des hommes.

Pauvre concession, installation plus que modeste. Au bout d'une ruelle, l'évasement d'une cour qui est à tout le monde. Une porte étroite, très basse, taillée dans un mur de torchis, donne sur une autre cour beaucoup plus petite, sur laquelle s'ouvrent trois ou quatre cases. Une cour comme cent mille autres en Afrique. Deux chèvres allaitent leurs chevreaux. Un de ces chiens soudanais jaunes, râleurs et astucieux guette une mouche qui l'inquiète. Dans un coin, un assemblement de houes. Du linge qui sèche. Une fillette, petite tanagra noire, pile du mil et chasse de temps à autre deux bambins au ventre proéminent qui viennent prendre appui sur le mortier. Une cour de maison africaine comme on peut en voir tant, sous le soleil, dans le bourdonnement des guêpes et le pépiement des oiseaux qui attendent de loin la chute d'un grain de mil...

Les Haoussa avaient recueilli et abrité Aïssata en tant que fille de Seydou Hann; mais celle-ci, en tant que petite cousine du roi de Bandiagara, ne voulait pas vivre de la charité des autres. Privée de sa fortune, il lui restait à nourrir trois adolescents, ainsi que Fatima, sa sœur, qui vivait avec elle. A l'âge où d'autres, arrivées à l'aisance, prennent enfin quelque repos en mesurant le chemin parcouru, la douce Aïssata sentait peser sur ses épaules une bien lourde responsabilité. Ses enfants étaient son souci; ils étaient aussi la raison d'être de cette femme sans époux, étrange anomalie en pays noir. Elle avait surtout ce grand fils aîné en qui elle voyait la plus belle de ses œuvres. Elle les aimait tous, mais lui, au fond de son cœur, elle l'admirait et sans doute les sacrifices de femme qu'elle consentait lui paraissaient-ils très doux. Elle vécut modestement, préparant du dégué (sorte de bouillie de mil) que des enfants haoussa allaient vendre pour elle au marché.

Plus tard, Tierno, parlant de sa mère, pensant à cette femme seule qui faisait cuire de la crème de mil à toute heure du jour, dira: « Elle m'a nourri de son lait, puis de sa sueur. »

La famille de Salif Tall, le fugitif, faisait figure de « parents pauvres », vivant modestement, sans rien demander à personne, à l'ombre du roi. La dignité d'une telle vie ne pouvait manquer de susciter des amitiés solides. L'une d'elles devait rapidement changer les conditions d'existence de Tierno et lui donner l'occasion de compléter son instruction et de se révéler ainsi à lui-même et aux autres.

Dans l'association de jeunes gens où Bokar Pâté avait fait entrer Tierno Bokar se trouvait un jeune homme qui devint rapidement son ami: c'était Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam [1], fils du Chef de la grande province de Louta. Les trois jeunes gens formèrent un groupe tellement inséparable que tout Bandiagara les surnomma « Les trois que l'on trouve toujours ensemble. »

1. Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam épousera plus tard ma mère (voir plus loin).

Le Chef de la province de Louta, Amadou Ali Eliman Thiam — père du jeune Tidjani — ne tarda pas à remarquer le sérieux de Tierno Bokar et à s'intéresser à lui. Désirant l'aider à compléter son instruction, il confia les trois jeunes gens à un excellent maître de Bandiagara, Amadou Tafsirou Bâ, grand mystique de l'Ordre Tidjani.

C'était un vieillard dont les yeux s'étaient fermés depuis de longues années à la lumière du jour, mais il continuait à dispenser son enseignement et à écouter la lecture de ses livres pieux dont, le plus souvent il savait le texte par cœur. Il possédait une bibliothèque où l'on trouvait un beau choix d'ouvrages traitant de la théologie, de la scolastique, de la Sunna (ensemble des traditions se rapportant au Prophète Mahomet et à ses compagnons), du droit et de tout ce qui pouvait concerner l'enseignement islamique, aussi bien exotérique qu'ésotérique. Il avait acquis une extraordinaire érudition qu'il savait émailler de traditions peules.

Dès le premier jour, Amadou Tafsirou Bâ fut étonné par la profondeur spirituelle de son nouvel élève et par son goût pour l'introspection. Il fut encore plus surpris de son détachement à l'égard des choses de ce monde qui paraissaient n'exister à ses yeux qu'en fonction de l'amour infini qu'il portait à toutes les créatures.

Amadou Tafsirou Bâ trouva en Tierno son élève de prédilection et en fit son lecteur favori. Il devait d'ailleurs, à sa mort, lui léguer une partie de sa bibliothèque et lui confier la tutelle de ses enfants mineurs.

Après un cycle d'études intensif de huit années auprès de ce maître, aucune des sciences islamiques n'était plus étrangère à Tierno Bokar. Il connaissait l'ensemble et le détail de la Parole révélée de Dieu. Il avait médité le Coran. Le savoir ésotérique d'Amadou Tafsirou, complétant celui de ses premiers maîtres, avait éclairé les zones d'ombre que recélait le texte sacré. Tierno avait repensé et fait siens les commentaires classiques, et plus particulièrement ceux des grands penseurs soufi. El Ghazali n'avait rien de caché pour lui et les Révélations mecquoises du grand maître spirituel Mouhieddine ibn el Arabi, l'Andalou, était son livre de chevet.

Mystique tidjani, Amadou Tafsirou Bâ avait initié Tierno aux secrets de la pensée du fondateur de l'ordre : Si Ahmed Tidjani. La Perle de la perfection (Diawharatul-kamal), oraison particulière révélée au Cheikh Si Ahmed Tidjani, et le Désir des utilités, commentaire des écrits du grand Maître, avaient été appris et l'on ne cessait de les commenter dans la case d'Amadou Tafsirou. Enfin, l'œuvre religieuse maîtresse d'El Ḥadj Omar, Er-Rima'a (les Lances), était l'un des ouvrages les plus lus dans le royaume de Bandiagara.

La sagesse majeure d'Amadou Tafsirou Bâ fut de mettre son élève en garde contre les servitudes qu'imposent les textes à ceux qui ne les ont pas assimilés avec bonheur. Tierno retiendra cette leçon. Il en fera l'un des piliers de son enseignement. Ce principe n'avait-il pas reçu, huit siècles auparavant, l'approbation et l'encouragement d'El Ghazali :

« Sache que la clef de la Connaissance de Dieu est la Connaissance de l'âme (nafs) ainsi que Dieu l'a dit lui-même dans sa sourate XLI, aux versets 53 et 54. Il nous est rapporté que le Prophète a dit : "Celui qui connaît son âme [1] connaît son Seigneur." Si tu me dis que tu te connais, je te répondrai que tu connais la matière de ton corps qui est fait de tes mains, de ta tête et du reste ; mais tu ne connais rien de ton âme. Si tu es furieux, tu te cherches un adversaire ; si le désir sexuel te poursuit, tu cherches à épouser ; si tu as faim, tu cherches à manger et si tu as soif, tu cherches à boire. Ces satisfactions ne te sont pas propres ; elles sont les tiennes mais aussi celles des animaux. Ton devoir est de chercher quelle est ton existence réelle. Qui es-tu ? D'où viens-tu ? Pourquoi as-tu été créé ? En quoi consiste ton bonheur ? En quoi consiste ton malheur ?

« Tu présentes divers caractères qui sont aussi ceux des anges. C'est ton âme qui constitue l'essentiel de ton être ; tout le reste t'est étranger. Tu dois savoir cela et savoir aussi que chacune des créatures a sa nourriture propre et sa satisfaction propre. Les animaux de trait ne désirent que manger, boire, dormir et copuler ; si tu es de leur groupe, efforce-toi de satisfaire ton

1. Ou « qui se connaît soi-même ». Nafs signifie à la fois l'âme et le soi ; ce mot est utilisé pour construire la forme verbale réfléchie.

ventre. Les animaux féroces recherchent leur bonheur dans le massacre. Les démons se complaisent en méchancetés. Si tu es de leur clan, épouse leurs soucis. Les anges trouvent leur bonheur dans la contemplation de la Beauté divine. Les passions et les colères ne sont pas sur la route de leur cœur. Si tu es de la même essence que les anges, efforce-toi de te connaître toi-même et tu sauras la voie qui t'amènera à la contemplation. Tu te libéreras des entraves de la colère et de la passion. Dieu ne t'a pas donné ces attributs pour que tu sois leur esclave, mais pour que tu les domines et que tu t'en serves au cours de ton voyage. L'une te servira de monture et l'autre d'arme. Tu conquerras ainsi ton bonheur... »

Tierno retiendra si bien cette leçon qu'il en fera la première partie de son cours religieux dont nous donnerons plus loin de larges extraits : « Néophyte, le Maître te créa... Dieu préleva le plus précieux diamant, te le donna et dit : Voici, prends-en soin, mais souviens-toi que je te le reprendrai... »

Comme à Ségou auprès de Guiré, Tierno retrouvait ici, à chaque page des textes soufi, la fine fleur du premier enseignement maternel. El Ghazali n'avait-il pas dit : « Il faut quelquefois interdire à l'âme les choses permises afin qu'elle ne prétende pas aux choses défendues. » Inna, la bonne grand-mère, avait souvent tenu ce propos devant l'enfant Tierno. Elle lui avait donné, par avance, le goût du sacrifice compris comme une discipline.

Tout en poursuivant le perfectionnement de son instruction, le jeune étudiant devenait un brodeur accompli auprès de Bokar Pâté, son grand ami. Son travail lui plaisait et, surtout, il lui permettait d'apporter un complément aux ressources familiales.

Lorsqu'il eut épuisé les connaissances de son maître et que celui-ci lui eut dit : « Je n'ai plus rien à t'apprendre », Tierno avait vingt-six ans, l'âge où, pour vivre selon la bienséance musulmane, l'homme doit prendre femme. Amadou Ali Eliman Thiam, qui s'était de plus en plus attaché à lui, lui donna en mariage sa fille unique, Néné Amadou Thiam, que nous trouverons à ses côtés tout au long de sa vie.

Deux ans plus tard, Amadou Ali Eliman Thiam étant décédé, son fils Tidjani Amadou Ali lui succéda à la tête de la province de Louta où Tierno vint s'installer pour ne point se séparer de lui. C'est alors que ma mère Kadidja Pâté, sœur de Bokar Pâté, épousa en secondes noces Tidjani Amadou Ali, alors que j'étais âgé de quelques années. Tidjani Amadou Ali m'adopta officiellement et me désigna comme son successeur.

Tierno se trouvait à Louta à l'époque où un mouvement insurrectionnel des Samo mit en péril la chefferie de son ami. L'Administration française ayant jugé trop dure la répression des Thiam à l'égard des autochtones samo, Tidjani fut considéré comme responsable, condamné et déporté à Bougouni où ma mère et moi le suivîmes. Nous y demeurâmes sept ans.

Séparé de son ami, Tierno repartit pour Bandiagara avec sa jeune épouse. Il reprit ses occupations auprès de Aïssata, ses occupations et ses soucis. La ville lui fit un excellent accueil. Pendant quelques jours, sa maison ne désemplit pas.

Son vieux maître Amadou Tafsirou Bâ l'invita à devenir maître à son tour et à enseigner à sa place à ses condisciples. Tous les parents de Tierno joignirent leurs prières à la sienne. Mais Tierno refusa. Pendant quatre ans, il hésita, ne voulant pas être autre chose que le coadjuteur de son maître. Il fallut le décès de ce dernier pour l'amener à accepter la tâche qui l'attendait.

Le maître

La zaouïa de Bandiagara

Répondant au vœu de ses amis, Tierno Bokar, à trente-trois ans, consentit à conduire l'instruction de jeunes enfants à Bandiagara. Désormais, sa vie cessa de lui appartenir, pour autant qu'il l'ait jamais considérée comme sienne. Tout ce qu'il avait, tout ce qu'il était, il le mit au service de Dieu et de ceux qu'il formait.

La petite concession du quartier haoussa avait souffert, jusqu'alors, de la tristesse inavouée des maisons sans enfants. Soudain tout changea. Les cours s'animèrent. Un souffle de rires et de jeux balaya ce que la ferveur des lieux avait de mélancolique. Tout d'abord, il fallut travailler. On dut ajouter quelques cases, futurs dortoirs pour les disciples étrangers à la ville. Ils furent quinze, vingt et bientôt cinquante. Aux plus beaux de ses jours, la zaouïa compta près de deux cents élèves. La jument, les poulets, les chèvres et les chiens s'effrayèrent un peu. Les femmes de la famille s'inquiétèrent sans doute, mais avec le flot des enfants, la joie pénétra la maison. Elle n'en sortit qu'avec eux.

Très rapidement, le jeune maître mit sur pied un emploi du temps et accorda le rythme de sa vie à celui qu'il fixait à ses élèves. A partir du moment, vite atteint, où il réalisa cet accord, un parfait équilibre s'établit en lui et autour de lui. Pas une fois en trente-trois ans, Tierno ne modifia la règle qu'il s'était imposée. En aucune circonstance, si ce n'est pour la mort de sa mère, il ne rompit l'emploi du temps de la zaouïa.

Le renouvellement perpétuel des gestes et des prières de Tierno était, en lui-même, générateur de paix. Il s'accordait aux rythmes ancestraux. La campagne d'Afrique, vieille terre, vit au rythme de ses saisons. L'inclinaison du soleil règle les activités de ses gens, d'heure en heure et de mois en mois. Tout se renouvelle, depuis des siècles, toujours semblable. Et les paysans ont toujours pensé à la cadence de ce rythme qui était aussi celui de leurs cultes traditionnels.

Le Sage de Bandiagara vivait sa vie, passant de sa natte à la mosquée, de la mosquée à ses amis, mais attaché toujours, où qu'il soit, à la réalité de ces enfants qui lui avaient été confiés et, plus tard, à celle des adultes qui devinrent ses disciples. Tel jour de la semaine, en telle saison, à telle heure, nul n'ignorait où se trouvait Tierno Bokar et ce qu'il faisait.

Vie sévère. Désir de mortification? Non, certes. L'ascétisme est étranger à la pensée profonde de l'Afrique dont la loi est « vivre ». Être social, l'Africain demande à ses guides spirituels, aux vieillards et aux maîtres, d'être pour lui des modèles et l'ascétisme ne constitue pas une ligne de conduite à suivre aux yeux de gens bouillants de vie, riches de leur perpétuelle jeunesse et de leurs vieux pensers. Une vie limpide comme un cristal, une vie pure comme une prière, tout simplement.

A trois heures du matin, le maître s'éveillait. Assis sur ses talons, seul dans sa case, il priait, bercé par les mille bruits furtifs de la nuit africaine. Il faisait son lazim [1] et s'inclinait trois fois. Puis son esprit s'appliquait aux prières surérogatoires [2] qu'il aimait entre toutes. Enfin, la tête basse, ses doigts jouant sur son chapelet, Tierno priait et méditait jusqu'au moment où il devinait que le jour était proche. Alors il sortait, allait de case en case et secouait non sans gaîté les nattes des portes en criant: « Assalat! Assalat! » (A la prière! A la prière!). L'élève qui couchait dans le vestibule du maître était le premier réveillé. Il sortait et appelait ses condisciples à la prière. Mamadou Amadou Tall, fils d'un frère de Tierno, dirigeait la prière des enfants.

1. Lazim: premier ensemble d'oraisons et de récitations propres à la Tidjaniya. Le lazim doit être récité deux fois par jour: à l'aube, avant la prière du matin, puis le soir, après la prière de l'asr. (Cf. p. 231.)

2. Prières supplémentaires, autres que les cinq prières canoniques obligatoires.

Dans les lueurs de l'aube qui se précisait, Tierno se rendait à la mosquée de la ville. A cette heure, il remplissait les fonctions d'aide-muezzin. La fraîcheur du petit matin portait son appel et sa voix roulait par-dessus les terrasses de Bandiagara. Il est peu de cités, en Islam, qui peuvent se vanter d'avoir eu un appelant plus sincère. Il chantait sa foi brûlante. Il aurait aimé réveiller chacun de ses concitoyens par la main et lui souffler sa conviction au creux de l'oreille. L'appel lancé, il se mêlait, dans la cour de la mosquée, à ceux qui y avaient répondu. Il priait dans la foule des croyants. Nul ne le vit jamais assurer en public la conduite d'une prière. Il se tenait modestement derrière l'Imam [1] ou l'un quelconque de ses remplaçants.

La première prière du jour était suivie de la wazifat, autre oraison de la Tidjaniya, exécutée en commun. Puis, demeuré seul dans la mosquée, Tierno se plongeait à nouveau dans ses méditations. Avant de repartir vers ses élèves qui l'attendaient dans sa zaouïa, Tierno effectuait encore dix rekkat [2] surérogatoires. Sa silhouette était à ce point familière au lieu de prière que, dans la ville, on l'avait surnommé « Papa mosquée ».

Dès son retour à la maison, les enfants prenaient le premier repas de la journée. On attendait toujours le maître pour déjeuner. Plus tard, vêtu d'un simple tantchikin, boubou court et sans manches, Tierno commençait à enseigner. Quelques grands élèves rassemblaient autour d'eux les plus jeunes, par groupes de cinq ou six. Les enfants se répartissaient selon leur degré d'instruction dans les coins de la cour, sous les auvents des vestibules. Tierno s'occupait des aînés. Après la révision du Coran, pratiquée systématiquement tous les matins, on passait aux commentaires, traités sous l'angle du droit ou sous celui de

1. Imâm (et non « Imân » comme on le voit souvent imprimé par erreur). Littéralement: « celui qui se tient en avant ». On désigne de ce nom celui qui dirige la prière. En milieu shi'îte, le terme est appliqué aux dirigeants ou guides religieux.

2. Une rekkat représente l'unité de base de la prière musulmane: elle est constituée par l'ensemble des mouvements qui vont de la position verticale à la position de prosternation. Chaque prière surérogatoire doit comporter deux rekkat.

la théologie. Pendant toute la matinée, il n'était question que de Dieu et de ses attributs.

Au moment où le soleil, parvenu au zénith, amorçait sa course descendante, le deuxième repas était servi. C'était l'heure de zohour, la deuxième prière de la journée. Mamadou, son neveu, présidait à cette prière. Mamadou n'avait pas été son élève, mais celui de son vieil ami Alpha Ali. C'est pourtant à ce jeune homme, qu'il n'avait pas formé lui-même, que Tierno confiait la prière et la surveillance des enfants pour la récitation du Livre sacré. Nous ne pouvons pas ne pas voir là un signe supplémentaire de la délicatesse du fils d'Aïssata.

Après la prière de zohour, l'enseignement reprenait jusqu'à la prière de asr (prière de l'après-midi) après laquelle les élèves pouvaient vaquer à leurs occupations cependant que Tierno égrenait son chapelet. A l'approche de l'heure de maghreb (prière du couchant) le maître quittait la maison et rejoignait la mosquée. Il y accomplissait la prière de maghreb et y demeurait jusqu'après l'icha, prière de l'entrée de la nuit, laquelle tombe tôt en Afrique.

Après cette cinquième et dernière prière canonique, le maître sacrifiait aux habitudes sociales. Il le faisait avec joie, car cet homme pieux était, comme la plupart des gens heureux et sains, un être social. Il raccompagnait chez lui son vieil ami Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam qui était revenu s'installer à Bandiagara après les sept années d'exil passées à Bougouni. Jamais Tierno ne manquait de s'arrêter chez ma mère Kadidja Pâté, qui était la seule à oser lui poser les questions les plus directes, les plus brutales, celles que personne n'osait soulever. Il l'avait pour cela en grande affection. Puis il visitait quelques maisons amies. Il passait chez les Bodiel et quelques autres. Enfin, il rentrait chez lui.

Chaque soir, après un léger repas, Tierno présidait à la veillée. La veillée africaine réserve à ceux qui savent en jouir les joies les plus rares. C'est l'heure où, autour d'un maigre lumignon, la cellule familiale se reconstitue. L'étranger de passage, l'isolé en visite y sont conviés et la conversation roule sur les sujets les plus divers. Jusqu'à l'heure où vient la somnolence, de belles histoires sont évoquées, de merveilleuses légendes s'ébauchent, tirées du néant ou des vieilles croyances. Chez Tierno, on racontait la plus belle histoire du monde, celle de la création et du devenir de l'homme. C'était l'heure où le maître parlait aux siens et faisait leur instruction, en dehors de toute prétention pédagogique. Il parlait de Dieu et rapportait sa Parole en une interminable conversation, fleurie d'images, riche d'exemples tirés de la tradition peule ou d'autres traditions locales qu'il connaissait à fond, inoculant à tous sa tranquille conviction. Tard dans la nuit, chacun rentrait chez soi. Les lumières étaient soufflées. Dans les chambres, le sommeil rendait les hommes au silence, l'obscurité rendait à la nuit les cases, la cour, la zaouïa tout entière. Au matin, vers les trois heures, le maître se levait...

Du mercredi à l'heure du zohour jusqu'au vendredi soir, les élèves bénéficiaient d'un congé qui les rendait au monde. Tierno consacrait ce temps à des conversations avec les sages de Bandiagara, à l'entretien d'amicales relations et à des réflexions personnelles. Dès le début de ce temps de repos, il s'isolait au fond de sa case et, pendant vingt-quatre heures, se consacrait à la prière et à la méditation.

Il voyait toujours venir avec joie l'après-midi du jeudi. C'était le moment où son ami Alpha Ali, maître coranique, pliait sa longue silhouette sur le seuil de la porte basse. Il était généralement suivi par les vieux du village. On s'installait et, pendant des heures, on évoquait les principes soufi. Saada Abdoul Ciré, Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam, Moussa Noumoussa et Koro Thiam étaient les plus assidus à ces réunions. Tous les participants faisaient ensemble la prière de l'asr (milieu de l'après-midi) chez Tierno Bokar. Le vendredi matin, la séance reprenait dans les mêmes conditions et, jusqu'aux approches de l'heure de zohour (prière du début de l'après-midi), les oulémas de la ville examinaient les commentaires pieux que Tierno, et quelquefois Alpha Ali, soumettait à leur jugement. Ensuite, tous se rendaient à la mosquée pour y effectuer en commun la prière du vendredi [1].

Dans la chaleur de l'après-midi, le maître faisait un vaste tour

1. Seule prière de la semaine à devoir obligatoirement être effectuée en commun.

de ville et visitait les familles de ses élèves. Tournée longue, fatigante. Pourtant, Tierno ne l'omit à aucune époque de sa vie. Il faisait en chemin la prière de l'asr, là où l'heure l'en prenait, seul ou avec des amis. Le maghreb et l'icha le retrouvaient à la mosquée. Revenu enfin chez lui, il passait la soirée en conversations avec les membres de sa famille, assis sur le sol dans l'attitude qui lui était familière, les jambes étendues devant lui, le pied droit reposant sur le pied gauche.

Presque toujours vêtu de blanc, il ne quittait jamais son chapelet, qu'il tenait à la main ou enroulé autour de son poignet. Il lui arrivait même, lorsqu'il écrivait, de le suspendre à ses oreilles.

Chacun de ses gestes était mesuré, relié à sa volonté. Jamais il ne « lâchait le mors » à ses membres. Il était pleinement conscient et maître de son corps. Toute sa personne rayonnait la paix et la joie intérieure. Nous le sentions pleinement relié à lui-même et à Dieu. Chacun savait qu'il suffisait de s'asseoir auprès de lui, lorsqu'on était tout rempli de soucis, pour repartir ensuite apaisé et revigoré. Comme nous le disions alors, « nous laissions nos soucis dans son vestibule ».

Chose étrange, son aspect extérieur était l'objet de changements qui nous stupéfiaient. Certains jours, on croyait voir un vieillard de quatre-vingt dix ans, tout ridé, le visage couleur de cendre. Ses yeux, qu'il avait très grands, devenaient alors rouges et comme avalés dans leurs orbites.

A d'autres moments, son visage était absolument sans rides, sa peau devenait lisse et lumineuse et son teint d'un noir d'ébène, mais d'un ébène si brillant que l'on pouvait presque voir sa propre image se refléter sur son front, surtout dans les heures qui précédaient le coucher du soleil. A partir de la prière de l'asr, son front devenait comme un miroir. Ma'bal, un grand poète mystique peul qui fut appelé « le plus ivre des élèves de Tierno », nous a laissé cette image de lui :

« Un sourire constant qui vous attire, un front luisant comme un miroir, mais un miroir marqué du point noir des prosternations [1]. »

1. Chez ceux qui font beaucoup de prières avec prosternation, un petit cal finit par se former sur le front.

Aux approches de l'hivernage et jusqu'à la fin du temps des récoltes, l'emploi du temps de la zaouïa subissait quelques modifications afin que les élèves puissent consacrer une partie de leur journée aux travaux de la terre. Les leçons se donnaient alors le matin de très bonne heure. Lorsqu'elles étaient jugées suffisantes, les plus jeunes auditeurs partaient aux champs sur les terres du maître, selon la coutume. Tierno restait avec les dewtenkobé, élèves du second degré. Dès que midi s'annonçait, les cours prenaient fin et le maître allait lui-même dans les champs porter leur repas aux élèves.

Bâton en main, suivi de quelques enfants et, le plus souvent, de son chien, coiffé du petit chapeau conique des Peuls, il peinait sur la piste, déjeunait avec les jeunes travailleurs, allait de l'un à l'autre et saisissait lui-même la houe. Au moment des récoltes, il prenait une large part aux réjouissances collectives. Cet homme ne connut que très rarement la tristesse et la contemplation de la nature lui a toujours procuré les plus délicates de ses joies.

Les récoltes s'annonçaient belles cette année-là et Tierno admirait avec tous la lourdeur des épis de mil. L'un des élèves lui demanda :

— Tierno, ne trouves-tu pas que les Français, qui plantent et entretiennent des fleurs qui ne portent pas de fruits, agissent comme de grands enfants et perdent leur temps en des jeux inutiles et coûteux ?

— Frère en Dieu, répondit-il, je ne partage pas du tout ton avis. Celui qui cultive des fleurs adore Dieu, car ces délicates parties du végétal, parées de couleurs éclatantes, ne s'ouvrent que pour saluer Dieu dont elles sont des outils pour l'œuvre de reproduction. La symbolique des fleurs n'est pas de notre race, mais ne blasphémons pas à propos d'elle. Si, au moment où les plantes fleurissent, il t'arrive de faire une promenade en brousse, examine les abeilles. Tu sauras que chaque fleur est un sentier mystique. Avant de fabriquer le miel dont Dieu lui-même a dit qu'il était un remède, l'abeille se pose sur chaque fleur qui a sa tête au soleil pour lui demander sa contribution. Et comme Dieu l'a dit à la fin du 76e verset de la sourate XVI : « Il y a en cela un signe pour ceux qui réfléchissent. »

Il revenait à la ville et, sans prendre un instant de repos, gagnait immédiatement le vestibule de sa maison où l'attendaient ses grands élèves. La leçon reprenait. Le moindre fait, le plus banal accident, l'oiseau qui passe, la tige de mil qui éclate dans le feu, tout était occasion d'enseignement pour cet amoureux de la nature et de son Créateur. A ses élèves, il ne cessait de dire : « Faites votre travail, non pour l'espoir du gain, mais pour faire toujours de votre mieux ce que vous avez à faire. »

Il n'était pas toujours aisé d'assurer la vie matérielle de la zaouïa. Tierno devait prévoir la nourriture, le logement et l'entretien de deux cents personnes. Pourtant, il n'exigea jamais le moindre sou des parents de ses élèves. Il lui aurait paru scandaleux que des parents soient obligés de payer pour faire donner à leurs enfants les indispensables éléments d'une vie religieuse et spirituelle. Il avait une profonde horreur du « marabout-quêteur ». Le fait de dispenser un enseignement régulier ne justifiait pas, à ses yeux, le droit d'exiger un paiement. Les parents apportaient quelques offrandes, toujours plus légères qu'il n'aurait fallu. Cahin-caha, les champs prospéraient, ils donnaient approximativement de quoi vivre à chacun. Samba Hammadi Bâ, le plus vieux des élèves, celui que l'on appelait le second fils d'Aïssata, s'était fait commerçant. Il ne gardait guère de bénéfices pour son usage personnel et entretenait la zaouïa, persuadé qu'il ne faisait là qu'une partie de son devoir.

L'identité administrative de Tierno Bokar était alors ainsi définie : « Situation de fortune : possède une jument et quelques chèvres. Ressources : reçoit quelques aumônes et cultive avec ses talibé (élèves). »

Il n'entendait cependant pas vivre de la seule charité, fût-elle de Samba Hammadi. Pendant les temps morts que leur laissait l'emploi du temps, les élèves réunissaient des bandes de coton. Les rouleaux d'étoffe étaient vendus au marché et le bénéfice en était exclusivement destiné à l'amélioration de l'existence de tous. Les soucis matériels étaient totalement étrangers au maître. Dieu pourvoyant à la croissance des plantes et de toute la création, on pouvait être assuré, disait-il, de ne jamais manquer de rien [1]...

Les femmes de la maison participaient intimement à la vie de la zaouïa. Elles assumaient une partie de ses responsabilités matérielles. On imagine sans peine avec quelle joie la vieille Aïssata présidait à la préparation d'une nourriture destinée aux élèves que son fils abreuvait de sa prodigieuse parole. Pendant vingt ans, on put la voir circuler de la cuisine à la resserre, soignant les uns et les autres. Aux heures de loisir elle méditait, le plus souvent seule, parfois en compagnie de son fils.

Tout au long de sa vie, Tierno Bokar manifesta à sa mère l'amour le plus touchant. Deux fois par mois, à l'aurore du vendredi, on le voyait quitter la maison une charge sur l'épaule. Ce jour-là, le maître n'allait pas à la mosquée pour la prière du matin. Quel était donc l'événement grave qui pouvait le distraire de sa pieuse habitude ? Rien autre que son respect filial. Deux fois par mois, en effet, Tierno se dirigeait vers l'est du cimetière, descendait sur les bords du Yamé et y lavait le linge de la bonne Aïssata dont il estimait qu'elle avait assez peiné pour lui.

La sollicitude maternelle d'Aïssata ne s'était atténuée en rien lorsque la barbe était venue au menton de Tierno, et pas davantage lorsque la barbe blanchit. Elle se tenait constamment assise à ses côtés dans toutes les circonstances de sa vie de maître enseignant. Pendant vingt ans, toutes les promotions d'élèves qui se succédèrent dans la petite concession du fils de Salif, tous les sages de la ville qui s'y pressèrent virent la vieille femme recueillir avec le même intérêt la parole du prêcheur. Accroupie, elle écoutait sans mot dire ; mais si un auditeur distrait ou un élève turbulent faisait dévier la conversation sur un sujet profane, Aïssata savait, d'un mot, ramener le groupe à Dieu. Elle aimait se mêler à la vie des enfants et leur rappelait la prière traditionnelle dans laquelle son cœur de femme regroupait les croyants de tous les cieux et de toutes les époques : « Dieu, prends-nous en pitié, nous, nos procréateurs et tous ceux qui nous ont précédés dans la foi... » Elle assistait aux repas mais elle ne fut jamais servie autrement que par son fils.

1. Attitude alors très répandue en Afrique traditionnelle comme en Afrique musulmane.

Tierno n'était pas uniquement le maître des enfants et des adolescents qu'on lui avait confiés. La ville entière recherchait ses conseils. Il était devenu celui que Bandiagara consultait et suivait en toute occasion. Il visitait les uns et recevait les autres. Tous recueillaient sa parole avec respect, avec reconnaissance.

Du moindre geste, de la moindre remarque, il savait tirer l'enseignement du jour, pour lui-même aussi bien que pour ceux qui avaient la chance d'être là.

Un jour, la brave Soutoura, femme du quartier, s'en vint trouver Tierno. Elle lui dit :

— Tierno, je suis très coléreuse. Le moindre geste m'affecte durement. Je voudrais recevoir une bénédiction de toi, ou une prière qui me rendrait douce, affable, patiente.

Elle n'avait pas fini de parler que son fils, un bambin de trois ans qui l'attendait dans la cour, entra, s'arma d'une planchette et lui en appliqua un coup violent entre les deux épaules. Elle regarda le bébé, sourit et l'attirant contre elle, dit en le tapotant affectueusement :

— Oh ! Le vilain garçon qui maltraite sa mère !...

— Pourquoi ne t'emportes-tu pas contre ton fils, toi qui te dis si coléreuse ? lui demanda Tierno.

— Mais, Tierno, répondit-elle, mon fils n'est qu'un enfant ; il ne sait pas ce qu'il fait ; on ne se fâche pas avec un enfant de cet âge.

— Ma bonne Soutoura, lui dit Tierno, va, retourne chez toi. Et lorsque quelqu'un t'irritera, pense à cette planchette et dis-toi : « Malgré son âge, cette personne agit comme mon enfant de trois ans. » Sois indulgente ; tu le peux, puisque tu viens de l'être avec ton fils qui t'a pourtant frappée durement. Va, et ainsi tu ne seras plus jamais en colère. Tu vivras heureuse, guérie de ton mal. Les bénédictions qui descendront alors sur toi seront bien supérieures à celles que tu pourrais obtenir de moi : ce seront celles de Dieu et du Prophète lui-même.

« Celui qui supporte et pardonne une offense, poursuivit-il, est semblable à un grand fromager que les vautours salissent en se reposant sur ses branches. Mais l'aspect répugnant de l'arbre ne dure qu'une partie de l'année. A chaque hivernage, Dieu envoie une série d'averses qui le lavent de la cime à la racine et le revêtent d'une frondaison nouvelle. L'amour que tu as pour ton enfant, essaye de le répandre sur les créatures de Dieu. Car Dieu voit ses créatures comme un père considère ses enfants. Alors tu seras placée au degré supérieur de l'échelle, là où, par amour et par charité, l'âme ne voit et n'évalue l'offense que pour mieux pardonner.

La parole de Tierno fut sur elle si puissante que, de ce jour, Soutoura considéra tous ceux qui l'offensaient comme des enfants et ne leur opposa plus que douceur et patience. Elle se corrigea si parfaitement que, dans les derniers temps de sa vie, on disait : « Patient comme Soutoura. » Rien ne pouvait plus la fâcher. Lorsqu'elle mourut, elle n'était pas loin d'être considérée comme une sainte.

Comme un chasseur, Tierno était à l'affût des manifestations naturelles de l'Amour. Aucune ne lui échappait et il faisait sa nourriture habituelle des beaux gestes qu'il observait, comme d'autres se repaissent des médiocrités ou des remugles de la vie. Il raconta à ses élèves sa conversation avec Aya, la nièce de sa femme, une petite fille de cinq ans, six ans peut-être. Écoutons-le plutôt :

— La petite Aya s'amuse avec une étrange collection d'objets : une poupée de cire qu'elle appelle sa fille, un petit morceau de bois emmailloté qu'elle nomme son garçon. Elle traite ces objets avec la plus grande sollicitude. Elle leur prodigue des soins qui n'ont rien à envier à ceux dont une mère entoure sa progéniture. A tout visiteur, elle présente sa "fille" ou son "garçon" et lui demande de les aimer comme elle-même.

« Un jour, la voyant particulièrement absorbée dans un coin de la chambre, je l'appelai. Elle tendit vers moi sa petite main, paume ouverte et doigts écartés, comme pour me fermer la bouche.

— Qu'y a-t-il, lui dis-je ?

— Pas de bruit. Mes enfants dorment.

— Ce ne sont pas tes enfants et ils ne dorment pas.

— Pour toi peut-être, me dit-elle en boudant, mais pour moi, tout bois qu'ils soient, je les aime comme mes enfants. Je regrette tout juste de n'avoir pas de mamelles, comme maman, pour les leur faire téter.

« Elle réfléchit un instant, puis ajouta :

— Mais à défaut de mamelles, j'ai ma langue et ma salive. Je vais m'en servir en attendant que mes seins poussent.

« Alors elle saisit sa poupée de cire, l'appliqua contre ses lèvres et dit :

— Suce, je suis ta mère. Je t'aime. Suce, tu me feras plaisir. Suce, suce... et ne pleure pas !

« Mon âme fut profondément troublée, continua Tierno, par ce geste de pur amour. Je m'écriai alors : " Amour ! C'est là une de tes manifestations qui s'offre à ma vue pour me convaincre de ta puissance. Qui peut, sinon toi, faire vivre du bois ou de la cire, tout comme une vraie progéniture ? " »

L'Amour. Il n'avait que ce mot sur les lèvres. L'un des êtres les plus hautement spirituels de la Chrétienté se disait l'époux de « Dame Pauvreté ». Tierno, lui, avait épousé « Dame Charité ». Que l'on supprime de son enseignement les mots « Amour » et « Charité » et sa parole s'en trouve décharnée.

Comment pourrait-on s'étonner que l'enseignement de cet homme ait marqué ceux qui l'ont suivi ? Les enfants, les adultes le priaient de les compter parmi les siens ; mais l'humilité de son cœur était telle qu'il ne parut jamais se rendre compte de ce succès.

Un jour, un jeune homme de Bandiagara vint le trouver :

— Tierno, dit-il, j'ai entendu parler de toi et de ton enseignement. On n'en dit que du bien. Je désire te choisir pour maître.

— Frère en Dieu, répondit-il, tout flatté que je sois, il faut que je te dise avant toute chose que je suis un homme sensible aux contingences physiques et morales. Aussi ai-je un conseil à te donner ; il vaudra des mois d'études fructueuses : l'homme ne correspond jamais exactement à sa réputation. Les admirateurs la faussent en exagérant ses mérites et les détracteurs en les sous-estimant. Pour éviter d'agir ainsi, il serait bon pour toi, et pour moi aussi peut-être, que tu m'écoutes pendant des jours et des jours, que tu me contrôles pendant des semaines et des semaines et que tu m'approches pendant des mois et des mois avant de te décider à me choisir, non comme ton maître, mais comme ton moniteur et ton frère [1].

Il n'est personne qui ait approché Tierno qui ne l'ait aimé et qui ne l'aime encore. Son verbe demeure toujours vivant au cœur de tous.

Marcel Cardaire [2], au cours de son enquête sur les événements se rapportant à la vie de Tierno Bokar, rencontra un jour à Mopti les deux veuves de Tierno, Néné Amadou Ali Thiam, sa première épouse, et Aminata Ibrahim Tall, sa cousine et seconde épouse. Écoutons Marcel Cardaire nous relater cette rencontre :

> Les deux femmes avaient été définitivement liées par la mort de leur époux. Elles vivaient accrochées l'une à l'autre, unies par la parole qu'elles avaient recueillie ensemble. Nous avons vu ces femmes sangloter à en perdre le souffle, effondrées sur des nattes, dans la chambre minuscule qu'elles partageaient. Elles évoquèrent pour nous les derniers jours de leur époux. Des sanglots de vieillard, sans larmes, hachaient leur discours [3]. Nous ne tardâmes pas, cependant, à constater combien la parole qu'elles avaient reçue et pieusement conservée était une parole d'espoir et une source de paix. Au moment où leur douleur paraissait la plus aiguë, une femme moins âgée entra dans la pièce. Après les salutations d'usage, la nouvelle venue, appelée Kowido, fut informée de ce que nous étions venu chercher en ces lieux. Elle frotta le sable du sol et récita d'une voix ferme le « Pacte primordial [4] ». De sa main droite, elle imprimait dans la poussière les schémas que le maître avait enseignés et qui illustraient son discours. Pendant un instant, les deux vieilles dames suivirent la parole de leur époux sur ces lèvres qui la

1. Tierno poussait la délicatesse et l'humilité jusqu'à ne jamais appeler ses élèves que « mon frère » ou « mon ami ».

2. Cf. Avant-propos, p. 8.

3. Le lecteur comprendra sans doute mieux l'excès de ce chagrin quand il connaîtra les conditions qui ont entouré les derniers jours de Tierno Bokar.

4. Que l'on trouvera en troisième partie : « L'enseignement », p. 195.

ressuscitaient. Puis elles fermèrent les yeux. Un sourire flotta sur leurs deux visages. Leur chagrin s'était endormi. Le maître était revenu et, avec lui, la Paix et l'Espoir. Si les prières des anciens disciples de Bandiagara n'avaient suffi à nous décider avant cela, c'est en cette minute que nous serait venue l'audace de nous attacher, nous aussi, à faire revivre cet homme afin que nos compatriotes blancs ou noirs n'en perdent rien [1].

Un certain jour de 1927, Aïssata Seydou Hann s'éteignit, septuagénaire, usée par les chagrins de sa jeunesse sacrifiée et par les soins qu'elle consacrait à la vie quotidienne de la zaouïa. Elle partit cependant en pleine connaissance de l'œuvre de beauté créée par celui qu'elle avait mis au monde. Le ciel lui épargnait d'assister aux souffrances qu'allait endurer son fils. Tierno lui rendit les derniers devoirs, puis s'enferma pendant une semaine, tout à son chagrin. Ses amis étaient désespérés. Kadidja Pâté, ma mère, celle qui toujours sut tout dire à Tierno, força sa porte et s'introduisit jusqu'à lui :

— Tierno, lui dit-elle, permets-moi de te rappeler ce que tu nous as enseigné. Tu as dit un jour : "Quand un homme naît ici-bas, je vois ses parents ivres de joie se congratuler et annoncer à grands cris l'événement. Quand un homme meurt à la vie d'ici-bas, je vois ses parents consternés porter sur leurs visages et leurs vêtements le signe d'une désolation épouvantée. Le meilleur enseignement concernant l'inconséquence humaine est ainsi donné à ceux qui ont un esprit pour réfléchir. Notre race humaine désire la vie et fuit la mort. Or, qu'est-ce que naître ? C'est entrer dans un champ d'où l'on ne peut sortir que par le chemin de la mort, unique issue, commune aux justes et aux injustes, aux croyants et aux incrédules. Qu'est-ce que mourir ? C'est renaître à la vie éternelle. L'homme qui meurt retourne à l'éternelle source de l'existence permanente. C'est alors que nous devrions nous réjouir."

1. Cf. Tierno Bokar, le Sage de Bandiagara, Paris, Présence africaine, 1957, p. 40.

« Tierno, tu nous as dit cela et, aujourd'hui, tu nous donnes le mauvais exemple. La ville est inquiète. Depuis la mort de ta mère, nous avons l'impression que tu t'isoles. On dit même que tu vas nous quitter pour te rendre en Orient. Vas-tu vraiment nous abandonner ?

Tierno baissa le front. Puis, relevant la tête et jetant sur Kadidja un regard soudain éclairci, il la remercia de son intervention :

— Ton audace, Kadidja, m'a sorti des griffes de Satan. Mais, vois-tu, j'ai tellement médité sur ces questions qu'il me semble avoir éprouvé moi-même l'obscurité de la tombe et la morsure des vers. J'ai appréhendé tout cela pour ma mère et, aussi, l'appréciation divine de nos œuvres. Mais Dieu aura pitié d'elle, comme elle a eu pitié de moi lorsque j'étais tout petit.

« C'est cette profonde réflexion qui m'a fait demeurer en retraite, et non le désir de vous quitter.

Dès le lendemain, la zaouïa reprenait son activité normale. Tierno demanda à tous ses amis — adolescents, adultes, vieillards, hommes et femmes — de venir chez lui. Lorsqu'ils furent tous rassemblés, il leur dit :

— Mes amis, on me prête l'intention de quitter Bandiagara et d'aller chercher refuge aux Lieux saints. Il n'en est rien. Les lieux-dits saints de l'Arabie ne sont pas les seuls où l'on puisse adorer Dieu. On peut l'adorer ici, dans ma concession, dans mon antichambre, dans le bureau du Commandant de Cercle, au marché de Bandiagara et jusque dans la carie de la dent d'un cochon. La pureté tient à l'homme et non au lieu. La pureté ou l'impureté de l'homme n'ont rien à voir avec la pureté ou l'impureté du lieu. Je resterai à Bandiagara et qui peut dire si je ne me coucherai pas, moi aussi, sous ce même arbrisseau qui abrite la tombe de ma mère, de ma tante et de mes deux petits filleuls ?

Tierno resta et les esprits s'apaisèrent. La voix du Sage de Bandiagara devait se faire entendre pendant treize ans encore. Les dix premières années de cette époque furent calmes. La zaouïa prospérait mais, alentour, l'orage s'accumulait. Tierno

Bokar, au seuil de la vieillesse, allait retrouver l'insécurité. Il allait connaître la haine, la calomnie et la trahison sans jamais rien perdre de sa sérénité. Avant d'aller s'allonger sous l'arbrisseau, sous le cailloutis que le destin lui avait en effet désigné comme lieu de repos, il lui restait à montrer qu'il savait accueillir les épreuves comme il savait accueillir les faveurs du ciel. Avec la même gratitude. En remerciant Dieu comme si ces épreuves étaient autant de bénédictions.

Quelque temps après la mort de sa mère, Tierno reçut une lettre qui devait jouer un rôle capital dans l'orientation ultérieure de sa vie spirituelle. Cette lettre émanait de Alpha Hassim Tall (frère du roi de Bandiagara) qui s'était retiré au Hedjaz, en Arabie. Alpha Hassim Tall lui rapportait par le menu les persécutions que le jeune régime wahhabite faisait subir aux tenants des confréries. Ces « puritains de l'Islam » s'attaquaient violemment à toutes les manifestations ou survivances du soufisme en Arabie.

Alpha Hassim Tall, inquiet peut-être au sujet de l'avenir de la Tidjaniya, entretenait longuement Tierno de ce problème et lui transmettait quelques secrets connus des seuls grands initiés de l'Ordre. Il lui disait, notamment, qu'avait été annoncée la manifestation prochaine, au sein de la Tidjaniya, d'un maître spirituel (Qûtb, ou Pôle), dont la mission serait de revivifier la Tidjaniya. Des détails extrêmement précis étaient donnés sur les signes distinctifs qui permettraient de reconnaître cet homme prédestiné. Il était également indiqué que son origine familiale serait indifférente, ce qui impliquait qu'il pouvait surgir dans n'importe quel milieu.

Enfin, Alpha Hassim Tall précisait à son correspondant les prières spéciales à dire, les mortifications à s'imposer qui l'aideraient à reconnaître, sans risque d'erreur, le flambeau lorsqu'il apparaîtrait. Parmi ces mortifications figurait un jeûne de trois ans [1] interrompu seulement à l'occasion des jours où le jeûne est canoniquement interdit. Tierno Bokar, il me le dit plus tard, observa à la lettre toutes ces recommandations.

1. Il s'agit, bien entendu, du jeûne islamique qui consiste à s'abstenir de toute nourriture et de toute boisson du lever au coucher du soleil.

Cela se passait aux environs des années trente. Or, à cette époque, un mouvement religieux propre à la confrérie Tidjani secouait les communautés musulmanes des zones soudaniennes et sahéliennes. Un adepte Tidjani de la ville de Nioro, Cheik Hamallâh — que l'on appelait « Chérif Hamallâh » parce qu'il était descendant du Prophète par son père — avait été élevé à la dignité de Khalife [1] (Grand Maître) de l'Ordre. Il avait reçu pour mission, disait-on, de faire retourner la Tidjaniya à sa source et de la faire revenir, entre autres, à la pratique originelle de la wazifat consistant à réciter l'oraison Perle de la perfection (Djawharatul-kamal) onze fois et non douze comme l'usage s'en était peu à peu institué [2].

Le « Hamallisme » (ainsi nommé par l'Administration française de l'époque) allait s'étendre des rives du Sénégal au Gobir et des portes du Sahara au cœur de la forêt. Les hommes religieux échangeaient des lettres, se posaient des questions. Les Tall, descendants ou parents d'El Hadj Omar, avaient appris de ce dernier à réciter la Perle de la perfection douze fois. Ils prirent donc une position de farouches opposants envers ceux que l'on appela, en raison du nombre de grains de leur chapelet, les « onze grains ».

Tall par sa naissance et grand par son rayonnement, Tierno Bokar fut invité à mêler sa voix au chœur des malédictions. Mais il était inconcevable, pour un homme comme Tierno, de

1. Khalife : littéralement « représentant ». Nom donné à un dignitaire suprême de l'Ordre, censé « représenter » le Fondateur.

2. L'oraison Perle de la perfection (Djawharatul-kamal) fut révélée par le Prophète Mahomet, en une vision, à Si Ahmed Tidjani un jour de 1781, à Bar-Semghoum, en Algérie, avec injonction de la réciter onze fois, ainsi que cela se pratique toujours dans la maison mère. La récitation par douze fois fut introduite par les grands élèves du Fondateur (cf. p. 233) et reprise, par la suite, par certaines branches de la Tidjaniya, dont la branche omarienne.

L'importance du nombre onze vient de sa signification dans la symbolique numérologique musulmane. Il est le nombre de la spiritualité pure et de l'ésotérisme, car il symbolise l'unité de la créature liée à l'unité du Créateur. Il est la clef de la communion mystique. Ce nombre joue un grand rôle tant dans le symbolisme musulman que dans les traditions africaines. Le nombre douze, qui en est issu, symbolise, lui, l'action dans le monde et le sacrifice. (Cf. p. 58.)

porter un jugement de valeur sans avoir entendu l'incriminé et sans disposer d'éléments de comparaison. Il ne prit donc pas position et, secrètement, attendit l'occasion de se rendre à Nioro pour juger par lui-même. Cette occasion lui sera donnée en 1937. Nous raconterons plus loin comment Tierno rencontra le Chérif Hamallâh, comment il le reconnut pour celui qui lui avait été annoncé par Alpha Hassim Tall et comment ce choix fut la cause de toutes ses épreuves.

C'est en 1937 que la vie de Tierno Bokar entra dans sa phase finale. Le maître s'engagea alors dans ce que l'on pourrait appeler la voie de la mystique active, qui fut également pour lui la voie de la souffrance.

A soixante-deux ans, Tierno était rompu à tous les exercices de l'esprit. Il avait arpenté les sentiers mystiques qui lui avaient été révélés, ne s'égarant jamais dans leurs dédales. Il avait en lui-même la solide assurance de sa foi orthodoxe, fil d'Ariane infaillible. Les variations les plus audacieuses sur le thème de Dieu et de son unicité lui étaient familières. Il gardait la tête froide là où d'autres auraient rencontré le vertige. Expert dans la science symbolique des nombres, il les maniait avec une maîtrise qui n'avait de comparable que celle de ses doigts lorsqu'ils couraient sur le chapelet. Il était dans la pleine connaissance de lui-même et s'efforçait d'évoluer sur des plans toujours plus élevés.

Il recherchait souvent la difficulté, pour savoir s'il possédait lui-même la patience et l'endurance qu'il enseignait aux autres. Il dit un jour : « Je demande à Dieu qu'au moment de ma mort j'aie plus d'ennemis, à qui je n'aurai rien fait, que d'amis. » Parole terrible lorsque l'on songe à la solitude de ses derniers jours. Il l'avait donc voulu dans son cœur. Il considérait que sa vie, jusqu'alors, ne lui avait pas apporté une épreuve capable de lui révéler le degré de sa propre résistance, de sa capacité suprême d'abandon à la volonté de Dieu (tawakkul). Dans cette optique, bien des soufi, il est vrai, ont demandé à Dieu le martyre...

Il connaissait toutefois les limites humaines et, conscient de la responsabilité qu'il avait endossée en devenant maître d'hommes, il n'invitait pas ses disciples à imiter sa propre attitude vis-à-vis de la souffrance, ayant pris la mesure de chacun.

Depuis des années, Tierno Bokar s'attristait de voir s'amenuiser constamment la part de l'Esprit dans la pratique des rites confraternels de l'Ordre. Ce dont il se plaignait surtout, c'était de voir que la pratique des commandements spirituels de la Tidjaniya n'était plus respectée [1]. Bien des adeptes semblaient s'attacher davantage à l'argent qu'à la connaissance spirituelle ou au perfectionnement moral. Certains s'imaginaient naïvement qu'ils mériteraient de Dieu en donnant de l'argent plutôt qu'en perfectionnant leur conduite. Pour être bon élève ou bon disciple, croyaient-ils, il suffisait de faire des dons à un cheikh et de recevoir sa « bénédiction ». Inutile de dire combien Tierno était opposé à de telles pratiques.

Partout, la ferveur s'était relâchée, comme refroidie. La pratique était tombée dans un certain formalisme. Les adeptes se sentaient davantage liés en tant que Toucouleurs qu'en tant que frères de l'Ordre. L'esprit de clan se confondait avec l'esprit confraternel et l'emportait souvent sur lui. Bref, il manquait à la communauté tidjanienne dans son ensemble un souffle d'authentique vie spirituelle.

On sait que la Tidjaniya, confrérie née en Algérie dans les plus pures traditions du soufisme, avait pénétré le monde noir selon trois voies : l'une qui venait directement du nord, descendant de l'Algérie vers le Soudan et Tombouctou ; l'autre qui venait de l'ouest, par le fleuve Sénégal ; la troisième, enfin, qui venait de l'est par l'entremise d'El Hadj Omar qui l'avait ramenée de La Mekke.

El Hadj Omar était déjà Tidjani avant de partir pour La Mekke mais, au cours de son pèlerinage, il avait été initié et formé par le Cheikh Mohammad el Ghali, lui-même élève direct de Si Ahmed Tidjani. Avant de revenir en Afrique, El Hadj

1. On trouvera ces commandements dans la troisième partie du livre : « L'enseignement », p. 233.

Omar avait été élevé à la dignité de Khalife de l'Ordre, avec mission spéciale de répandre la Tidjaniya.

Or, à l'époque où se situe maintenant notre récit, nous sommes bien obligés d'admettre que la branche omarienne de la Tidjaniya semblait avoir perdu la plupart des caractères spirituels qu'elle avait puisés, directement ou indirectement, dans les zaouïas de Fès, de Témacin ou d'Aïn Mahdi, en Algérie, où se trouve la maison mère. Au temps de la décadence de l'empire toucouleur, la confrérie semblait avoir oublié la tolérance et l'élévation de pensée qui avaient été la marque dominante de l'enseignement de Si Ahmed Tidjani, le fondateur.

Souffrant de cet état de choses, Tierno Bokar était, par ailleurs, tourmenté par l'éclosion du Hamallisme. Depuis des années, de toutes parts, on l'interrogeait. Les Tall le pressaient de prendre parti contre le réformateur de la Tidjaniya qui osait recommander de réciter onze fois la Perle de la perfection, contrairement à l'usage transmis par El Hadj Omar. Mais Tierno, nous l'avons vu, se refusait à accuser sans preuve. Au cours des longues conversations qu'il avait avec Dieu, son âme scrupuleuse demandait à être éclairée sur la vérité.

Le sens aigu qu'il avait de la chose religieuse lui permettait de sentir intuitivement l'orthodoxie d'une doctrine. Or, lorsqu'il put enfin se rendre à Nioro et y entendre directement Chérif Hamallâh, il ne trouva rien de répréhensible dans ses propos. Tout au contraire, son enseignement le séduisit par l'accent qui y était mis sur la tolérance et la soumission à Dieu, par sa tendance à se placer sur un plan purement spirituel et non temporel, par la référence qui y était faite à la plus haute Raison de l'homme. Les exercices pieux que recommandait le nouveau « Pôle » de la Tidjaniya n'avaient d'autre but que de faire accéder les initiés aux plus hauts niveaux de leur être et de les aider à s'y maintenir. Bref, dans la doctrine prêchée par le Chérif, Tierno Bokar reconnut l'enseignement originel du Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani, fondateur de l'Ordre, conforme à la fois à l'esprit et à la lettre de l'Islam.

Dès qu'il entendit le Chérif, Tierno en retira un immense soulagement. Il sut avoir trouvé la vérité qui lui avait été annoncée dans la lettre de Alpha Hassim Tall et fut persuadé que la voix du Chérif allait irriguer et féconder la Tidjaniya qui, désormais, vivrait d'une vie nouvelle, à la fois plus intense et plus pure.

C'est au cours de l'année 1937 que Tierno Bokar rencontra le Chérif Hamallâh à Nioro. Avant de conter en détail cette rencontre, le moment est venu de dire ce qu'était le Hamallisme, comment il était apparu et comment avait pris naissance le faux problème des « onze grains » et des « douze grains », faux problème qui n'en allait pas moins faire lever une tempête de haine et de violence, déclencher les foudres de l'Administration coloniale et, finalement, marquer de son sceau tragique les derniers jours de Tierno.

Origines de la pratique des « onze grains » et des « douze grains »

Pour comprendre les racines du Hamallisme, il nous faut d'abord faire un saut dans le passé, du vivant même du fondateur de l'Ordre, et débrouiller une fois pour toutes cette question des « onze grains » et des « douze grains » puisqu'elle est à l'origine de tous les événements que nous aurons à conter dans cet ouvrage.

Comme nous avons déjà eu l'occasion de le dire, l'oraison Perle de la perfection avait été reçue par Si Ahmed Tidjani en une vision qu'il avait eue du Prophète, avec injonction de la réciter onze fois, comme cela se pratique toujours dans la maison mère en Algérie.

A une certaine époque de sa vie, le Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani dut quitter l'Algérie pour se réfugier au Maroc, un différend avec les autorités locales lui ayant rendu la vie impossible sur place. Par-dessus tout, il désirait éviter que des heurts avec ses nombreux disciples ne provoquent des effusions de sang. Protégé par le Sultan du Maroc, il put s'installer à Fès avec toute son école.

Dans la zaouïa de Fès, chaque matin, après la prière de l'aurore, les frères se rassemblaient pour réciter avec le Cheikh la wazifa, ensemble d'oraisons se terminant par la récitation de la Perle de la perfection onze fois. Le Cheikh avait coutume, une fois cette onzième récitation achevée, de donner à tous sa bénédiction.

Un jour, il fut retardé et les élèves entreprirent sans lui la wazifa. Ils avaient déjà terminé la onzième récitation de la Perle de la perfection lorsque, enfin, le Cheikh put les rejoindre. Spontanément, et pour que le Cheikh puisse leur donner sa bénédiction comme à l'accoutumée, ils en reprirent le texte une douzième fois, après quoi le Cheikh les bénit.

Celui-ci n'ayant formulé aucune observation ni en bien ni en mal à l'égard de cette innovation, les élèves de Fès la conservèrent et c'est ainsi que naquit cette coutume, qui ne figure dans aucun enseignement écrit émanant du Cheikh lui-même mais qui se transmit à travers l'Afrique, en particulier dans la branche omarienne.

La zaouïa mère de Témacin, informée de cette nouvelle pratique, ne s'était pas élevée contre elle, bien que restant, pour sa part, fidèle à la récitation par onze. Les vieux initiés numérologues de la Tariqa [1] expliquèrent : Si le Cheikh n'a rien dit, c'est que, d'un point de vue ésotérique, le nombre onze égale le nombre douze [2]. En outre, douze étant le nombre du sacrifice, de l'action temporelle, voire de la guerre, il convient à l'état d'exil où se trouve actuellement le Cheikh. Quant au nombre onze, il est le nombre de la pure spiritualité, le nombre de l'ésotérisme et de la communion mystique avec Dieu. Il symbolise l'unité de la créature rejoignant l'Unité du Créateur. Il est encore, entre bien d'autres choses, la valeur du nom divin Houa (Lui), nom de pure transcendance que répètent les soufi à la fin de leurs réunions mystiques [3].

Cet état de choses se perpétua pendant près d'un siècle, sans soulever aucun problème.

En 1893, les maisons mères de la Tidjaniya en Algérie reçu-

1. Tariqa : littéralement « voie ». C'est ce nom que l'on traduit par Ordre, congrégation ou confrérie.

2. Le douze est censé être une émanation du onze, pour des raisons arithmosophiques qu'il serait trop long de développer ici.

3. Cf. note 2, p. 53.

rent la nouvelle de la prise de Bandiagara par les Français. Il semblait que c'en était bien fini de l'Empire toucouleur du Macina. L'élan de la Tidjaniya en Afrique noire paraissait brisé. On apprit bientôt qu'Amadou Chékou, Commandeur des croyants (Lamido dioulbé) qui avait succédé à son père El Hadj Omar dans sa fonction spirituelle, avait quitté le pays, chassé par l'avance française, et que l'on avait perdu sa trace. La Tidjaniya n'avait donc plus de Khalife.

Les Chioukh [1] des maisons mères s'inquiétèrent. Le conseil des zaouïas d'Aïn-Mahdi et de Témacin se réunit. Les Chioukh savaient, par une connaissance ésotérique propre à leur Ordre, qu'un grand maître, un Qûtb (Pôle) devait se manifester (c'était ce que Alpha Hassim Tall avait annoncé à Tierno Bokar), mais ils ignoraient où.

A l'issue de leur réunion, ils décidèrent d'envoyer le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar [2] dans les différents territoires d'Afrique au sud du Sahara, avec une double mission : d'une part, rechercher celui qui réunirait les signes annoncés du Qûtb et, d'autre part, ramener toutes les communautés Tidjani qu'il visiterait à la formule des « onze grains ». La Tidjaniya n'ayant plus désormais à prendre part à aucun commandement temporel, à aucune action extérieure, elle se devait de revenir au nombre symbolisant la pure contemplation et les seules valeurs spirituelles. Cette mutation devait, bien entendu, s'accomplir autant dans le fond que dans la forme.

Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar prit la route pour accomplir sa double mission, sans se douter que son périple durerait des années et qu'il finirait par le conduire à Nioro où, après avoir désespéré de rencontrer celui qu'il cherchait, il le trouverait enfin.

Il commença par se rendre en Égypte. De là, il gagna le Soudan anglo-égyptien, puis l'Afrique noire, visitant toutes les régions où la Tidjaniya comptait des zaouïas. Mais nulle part il ne décelait les signes annoncés.

Il parcourut le Tchad, le Nigeria, le Niger et, enfin, arriva au Soudan français (Mali). Il traversa Bandiagara puis, longeant le

1. Pluriel de « cheikh ».

2. Le cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar était élève de Cheikh Tahar, lui-même élève direct de Si Ahmed Tidjani et initié par lui.

Niger, continua sur Mopti et Ségou avant d'arriver à Bamako. Finalement, il apprit que la ville de Nioro était devenue, après l'abandon de Dinguiraye, le centre des activités d'El Hadj Omar. Autre caractéristique frappante, c'était à partir de Nioro qu'El Hadj Omar avait perdu le contrôle de son armée et que le caractère jusque-là purement religieux de sa conquête lui avait échappé. Le Cheikh apprit encore l'histoire de cette ville dont le nom exact, nour, signifie Lumière en arabe coranique. Une trajectoire de lumière semblait s'être arrêtée là. Il se pouvait qu'une autre y prît naissance. Mû par un pressentiment, il décida de s'y rendre, espérant y trouver ce qu'il cherchait.

A son arrivée à Nioro, le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar trouva une communauté Tidjani importante, comptant de « grands élèves [1] » extrêmement pieux et savants, cultivés en arabe, versés dans les sciences religieuses et mystiques. La Tariqa avait à sa tête le Chérif Mohammad el Moktar qui, ayant été initié par la zaouïa de Fès, récitait la Perle de la perfection douze fois. Au moment de l'arrivée du Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar, le Chérif el Moktar était en voyage.

Les adeptes Tidjani de la ville reçurent le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar avec chaleur et se pressèrent à ses causeries. Celui-ci commença à leur expliquer pourquoi il était nécessaire de revenir à la récitation originelle de la Perle de la perfection onze fois. La Tidjaniya se trouvant désormais, de par la volonté même de Dieu, déchargée de ses responsabilités temporelles qui passaient entre les mains des Français, il appartenait aux adeptes de revenir à la formule numérale qui correspondait à une vocation de pure spiritualité et qui en véhiculait les vertus. D'ailleurs, cette manière de réciter n'avait-elle pas été révélée à Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani par le Prophète de Dieu lui-même? Le Cheikh ne l'avait-il pas précisée dans son grand livre Djawahira-el-Maani (Perle des significations) et le grand El Hadj Omar lui-même n'avait-il pas commenté ce passage dans son propre ouvrage Er-Rimaa?

1. Les membres d'une Tariqa continuent d'être appelés « élèves » même lorsqu'ils atteignent un âge avancé et sont eux-mêmes très savants. On les appelle alors « grands élèves ».

Troublés, les Tidjani de Nioro lui demandèrent des explications supplémentaires. « C'est en lisant le livre du Cheikh, la Djawahira-el-Maani, que vous comprendrez », leur répondit-il. Or, l'étude approfondie de ce livre pourtant fondamental pour la confrérie avait été, jusqu'alors, quelque peu négligée. A part quelques grands élèves, on ne le lisait presque pas. Aussi les frères demandèrent-ils au Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar d'ouvrir un cours où ce livre serait lu et commenté pour eux. Le Cheikh accepta.

Chaque jour, toutes affaires cessantes, les Tidjani de Nioro, grands marabouts ou simples adeptes, venaient l'écouter. Au bout d'un certain temps, ils furent si convaincus qu'ils demandèrent au Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar de « renouveler leur wirdou ». Le wirdou, ou wird, représente l'ensemble des oraisons (lazim et wazifa) que l'on « reçoit » au moment de son initiation à l'Ordre, de même que l'initiateur (le moqaddem) les a reçues de son propre initiateur, et ainsi de suite jusqu'au Maître fondateur [1]. Or c'est une coutume, dans les confréries musulmanes, lorsque l'on rencontre un initié de haut grade ou mieux placé dans la « chaîne » de transmission, que de lui demander le renouvellement de son wirdou, comme une sorte de confirmation.

Le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar accepta. La plupart des marabouts de Nioro renouvelèrent donc leur wirdou entre ses mains

1. Chaque confrérie (ou tariqa) possède ainsi son propre wirdou qui remonte au saint personnage auquel elle s'origine et, à travers lui, au Prophète. Nous verrons, dans le chapitre consacré aux confréries (p. 241), que ces wird présentent, en fait, très peu de différences, étant essentiellement constitués de prières de salutations sur le Prophète et de dhikr, ou répétitions de certains noms de Dieu.

La récitation des dhikr et des oraisons spécifiques à chaque Tariqa doit, pour porter sa pleine efficacité et être dépourvue de tout risque spirituel, avoir été régulièrement « reçue » au cours de l'initiation à la Tariqa. Chaque « chaîne » émanant des grands maîtres spirituels remontant jusqu'au Prophète lui-même d'une manière ininterrompue, il y a transmission d'une énergie spirituelle particulière, ou baraka, laquelle, à travers le Prophète, remonte jusqu'à Dieu Lui-même. Cette énergie spirituelle est une aide sur le chemin de l'évolution; mais, comme l'a dit un grand maître soufi du Maroc, le Cheikh Tadilî: « L'initiation te donne la clef pour ouvrir la porte du jardin, mais c'est à toi qu'il appartient de faire effort pour cultiver ce jardin. » mais, cette fois-ci, avec une wazifa comprenant onze récitations de la Perle de la perfection. Désormais, leur chapelet comportait une marque de séparation non plus après le douzième grain, mais après le onzième.

Lorsque la cérémonie fut terminée, le doyen des élèves, qui était jusqu'alors resté à l'écart, s'approcha. Il s'appelait Tierno Sidi. Par déférence envers son maître le Chérif el Moktar qui était toujours absent, il ne voulait pas recevoir le renouvellement de son wirdou avant lui. Aussi demanda-t-il au Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar de renouveler d'abord le wirdou du Chérif el Moktar.

— Ne vaudrait-il pas mieux, suggéra le Cheikh, attendre qu'il revienne ?

— Avant son départ, répondit Tierno Sidi, il m'a habilité à agir pour lui comme pour moi en toutes choses. Ce que tu feras, m'a-t-il dit, je l'approuverai.

Le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar réfléchit. Puis il s'adressa à toute l'assemblée des frères :

— Si vous me demandez tous de renouveler le wirdou du Chérif, leur dit-il, je le ferai. Raisonnablement, votre maître ne devrait pas s'élever contre une chose qui découle de l'enseignement direct du Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani et de l'ordre même du Prophète de Dieu. Je crains fort, cependant, que le Chérif el Moktar ne commence par accepter, puis n'en vienne à refuser, ce qui risquerait de gâter beaucoup de choses. (Prédiction qui se révélera exacte, comme on le verra.)

Les frères insistèrent tellement que le Cheikh finit par accepter. Il commença à rédiger les fetwa (sorte de décret officiel établissant l'affiliation de quelqu'un à la Tariqa) et établit en premier celle qui concernait le Chérif el Moktar.

A partir de ce jour, sa maison ne désemplit plus. Elle était devenue comme une sorte de zaouïa où l'on venait à la fois pour prier et pour étudier.

Sur ces entrefaites, le Chérif el Moktar revint à Nioro. Informé des événements, il accepta le renouvellement de son wirdou au bénéfice de la formule « onze ». Des réunions avaient toujours lieu chez le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar pour recevoir son enseignement, mais les frères revinrent désormais chez le Chérif pour y accomplir leur prière et réciter avec lui leur wirdou. Le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar trouvait cela tout à fait normal, le Chérif el Moktar étant à la fois cheikh de l'Ordre et doyen de la communauté de Nioro. Une mission lui avait été confiée : réinstaurer la formule des onze récitations de la Perle de la perfection, et cette mission était accomplie. Il n'ambitionnait rien d'autre.

Mais il était une autre mission qui, elle, restait inaccomplie : la recherche, et la découverte, du « Pôle » prédestiné. Découragé, le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar se prépara à quitter Nioro pour continuer son voyage vers Saint-Louis-du-Sénégal. Mais il ne voulait pas quitter Nioro sans laisser un cadeau, et autant que possible un cadeau spirituel, à ceux qui l'avaient si bien accueilli et suivi. Aussi proposa-t-il que chacun des frères choisisse, parmi les oraisons, formules ou dhikr propres à la Tidjaniya, une formule particulière qu'il lui transmettrait rituellement au nom de sa chaîne de transmission propre, avec toute la baraka qui lui était attachée. Cette transmission fut considérée comme un don d'une grande valeur spirituelle et mystique, la chaîne du Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar étant particulièrement directe puisqu'il avait été initié par l'un des grands disciples du Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani lui-même.

La cérémonie commença. Chacun choisit la formule de son choix et la reçut du Cheikh avec l'indication des modalités particulières de récitation qui lui étaient attachées.

Puis vint le tour du Chérif el Moktar. Celui-ci, sur la liste, choisit de nombreuses formules. Le Cheikh les lui accorda. Puis il demanda que lui en soit expliqué le secret ésotérique. Le Cheikh accéda à toutes ses demandes. Après cela, le Chérif désigna encore une nouvelle formule. Cette fois-ci, au lieu de la lui accorder, le Cheikh la raya sur la liste.

— Je regrette, lui dit-il ; je ne puis donner cette formule car elle ne m'appartient pas. Elle appartient au prédestiné que je cherche et qui, seul, sera habilité à la réciter. Cependant, pour être éclairé par Dieu, je vais faire l'Istikhar [1]. Si, en réponse, on

1. L'Istikhar est une invocation enseignée par le Prophète et que l'on adresse à Dieu pour lui demander de lever une hésitation, d'éclairer un choix ou un point me dit de te la donner, alors je te la donnerai. Mais je ne puis, de moi-même, décider de te la transmettre. Si je le faisais sans autorisation spéciale et sans que tu en sois le réel destinataire, cela te ferait plus de mal que de bien.

Cette dernière remarque déplut énormément au Chérif el Moktar. Elle venait s'ajouter au fait que ses élèves, en raison des grandes connaissances du Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar, avaient gardé l'habitude de se rendre chez ce dernier pour entendre son enseignement avant de venir chez lui pour accomplir la prière.

Bien que blessé, le Chérif se retira sans rien dire. Le soir, à son domicile, au cours du repas qui rassemblait autour de lui ses griots habituels [1] et quelques élèves, il déclara :

— Aujourd'hui, le nouveau marabout m'a dit qu'il possédait un nom de Dieu tel que, si je le prononçais, cela me ferait plus de mal que de bien.

Les griots, qui avaient l'habitude de le flatter, s'exclamèrent :

— Vraiment, Chérif, tu l'as bien mérité, car jamais nous n'aurions pensé que tu allais prêter serment d'allégeance à un autre marabout sur cette terre, encore moins à un homme qui est arrivé un beau jour à l'improviste !

Continuant sur ce thème où, comme tout griot qui se respecte, obscur. Elle est généralement précédée d'un jeûne. Selon la gravité de ce jeûne, on distingue l'Istikhar simple et l'Istikhar double. C'est du second qu'il s'agit ici.

La réponse peut venir plus ou moins rapidement, plus ou moins directement, sous la forme d'un rêve, d'une inspiration ou d'un événement significatif. Parfois même, c'est un tiers qui reçoit la réponse en un rêve où il lui est dit de transmettre le message à l'intéressé.

Les grands initiés et maîtres spirituels reçoivent des réponses rapides et extrêmement précises. En général, ils réservent cette invocation pour des cas très graves et s'abstiennent d'y recourir à leur profit personnel, par « politesse » et pudeur à l'égard de Dieu.

1. Les griots constituent une caste particulière, composée de troubadours, de poètes et de musiciens, mais aussi de généalogistes qui savent chanter les hauts faits des ancêtres d'une famille. Ils vivent des dons que les nobles sont traditionnellement tenus de leur faire et sont souvent attachés à une famille. En tant que « mémoire vivante » de la communauté, leur rôle dans la société africaine est extrêmement important. Mais il arrive que, « maîtres de la parole », leur influence sur ceux qui les écoutent ne soit pas toujours positive, dans la mesure où ils excitent leur orgueil.

ils étaient experts, ils influencèrent si bien le Chérif qu'à la fin celui-ci, gagné par leur éloquente indignation, alla quérir tous les papiers qui lui avaient été donnés par le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar, y compris la fetwa renouvelant son wirdou, et les fit renvoyer séance tenante au Cheikh avec le message suivant : « Je te rends les onze grains, je reprends mes douze grains. » La prédiction du Cheikh se réalisait.

Et c'est ainsi, pour une simple blessure d'amour-propre, étrangère, à vrai dire, à tout sentiment réellement religieux, que débuta l'opposition ouverte entre « douze grains » et « onze grains ».

Le lendemain, le Chérif el Moktar réunit tous ses élèves et leur fit part de sa décision de revenir aux « douze grains » et de se séparer du Cheikh. Mais aucun des grands élèves, c'est-à-dire les plus anciens et les plus instruits, ne voulut se rallier à son attitude. Finalement, ils rejoignirent le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar. Devant cette défection à laquelle il ne s'attendait pas, le Chérif el Moktar fut cruellement blessé. Aigri, il se sentit trahi par tout le monde.

C'est alors que, dans notre histoire, apparaît Chérif Hamallâh.

Le Chérif el Moktar, comme beaucoup de dignitaires de confréries islamiques, dirigeait une école coranique où venaient les jeunes garçons du pays et quelques enfants de familles chérifiennes. L'un de ces derniers était le jeune Cheikh Hamallâh ben Mohammad ben Sidna Omar. Son père avait été commerçant près de Nyamani, sur le Niger. Sa mère était une femme peule du pays wassoulou. Lorsque ses parents étaient venus s'installer à Nioro, ils avaient confié l'éducation et la formation religieuse de l'enfant au Chérif el Moktar.

Celui-ci avait toujours prédit un grand avenir spirituel au jeune garçon. Un jour, le regardant attentivement, il avait dit devant d'autres élèves : « Celui-là, le jour viendra, quand son soleil sera à son zénith, où celui qui ne sera pas sous son ombre sera brûlé par son soleil ! »

A l'époque où se produisit ce premier éclatement entre « onze grains » et « douze grains », le jeune Chérif Hamallâh était âgé de dix-huit ou dix-neuf ans. Un soir, il vint à passer sur une route qui longeait la concession du Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar alors que celui-ci se reposait à l'ombre de son mur. C'était la première fois que le Cheikh voyait le jeune homme. Quelque chose, à sa vue, le frappa. Il demanda à Sidi Abdallâh, qui était auprès de lui :

— Qui est le père de ce fils de noir [1] ?

— Ce n'est pas un noir, répondit Sidi Abdallâh ; c'est un Chérif, un descendant du Prophète. C'est le Chérif Hamallâh, fils de Sidna Omar.

Pour les Africains, en effet, ce n'est pas la couleur, mais la naissance qui compte. Dès lors qu'un homme est Chérif, fût-il sombre comme l'ébène, on dira de lui qu'il est Chérif — donc d'ascendance arabe — et non noir.

Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar garda un moment le silence. Puis il dit :

— Son pied est placé très haut par rapport à la terre.

Tous ceux qui étaient présents renchérirent :

— Ce n'est pas étonnant. De tout temps, il a émerveillé les gens. Il a même fait des miracles, sans l'avoir recherché et sans en tirer vanité.

Les jours passant, le Chérif el Moktar, constatant que ses élèves ne le rejoignaient pas, se demandait ce qui se passait chez le Cheikh. Il ordonna au jeune Chérif Hamallâh d'aller assister à leur séance et de venir lui rapporter ensuite ce qui s'y serait dit.

C'est ainsi que Chérif Hamallâh se rendit pour la première fois chez le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar. Il se plaça tout au fond de la salle et suivit attentivement le cours. Quant celui-ci fut terminé, il revint chez le Chérif el Moktar.

— Eh bien ! Qu'a-t-on dit de moi ? lui demanda immédiatement ce dernier, persuadé qu'il était l'objet de critiques et de médisances.

— Rien du tout, répondit le jeune homme ; ils n'ont même pas prononcé ton nom.

— Mais à quoi ont-ils passé leur journée ?

— A lire la Djawahira-el-Maani (Perle des significations) et à la commenter.

1. L'expression, courante dans le langage africain, n'a rien de péjoratif.

Trois jours de suite, le Chérif el Moktar envoya le jeune homme assister aux réunions. Chaque fois, à son retour, il recevait la même réponse :

— Ils n'ont pas parlé de toi.

Le troisième jour, furieux, le Chérif el Moktar éclata :

— Toi aussi, tu fais partie des traîtres à mon endroit. Ils t'ont gagné à leur cause. Puisqu'il en est ainsi, va les rejoindre et ne reviens plus chez moi !

Le jeune Chérif Hamallâh, pourtant si injustement chassé, ne se rendit pas pour autant chez le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar. Vivement contrarié et affligé d'un mal de tête épouvantable, il rentra chez lui. Depuis sa naissance, chaque fois qu'il était profondément contrarié, il était pris de maux de tête si aigus qu'il pouvait s'écrouler sur le sol et rester malade des semaines entières. On avait tenté de le soigner par tous les moyens possibles, mais rien n'y avait fait.

Sa mère Aïssata, le voyant arriver dans cet état, se précipita chez une voisine pour lui emprunter un certain encens dont elle avait coutume de se servir pour faire des fumigations. Sa voisine lui dit :

— Tu ferais mieux d'emmener ton fils chez le nouveau marabout, le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar. Beaucoup de gens sont déjà allés le trouver pour lui demander des bénédictions.

Dans l'espoir que son fils trouverait enfin la guérison, Aïssata le fit lever et réussit à l'amener chez le Cheikh. Ce dernier reconnut immédiatement le jeune homme que, durant trois jours, il avait observé sans rien dire. Se tournant vers Aïssata, il lui demanda comment le mal était survenu ; mais elle ne put répondre grand-chose. S'adressant alors au jeune Chérif, il le pria de l'accompagner dans sa case personnelle.

Une fois seuls, il lui posa des questions précises sur la nature de son mal, les circonstances qui le déclenchaient et ce qu'il ressentait. Chérif Hamallâh répondit en détail à ses questions. Quand il eut terminé, le Cheikh resta pensif pendant quelques instants. Puis, se penchant vers le sol qui était de sable fin, il nivela de la main l'espace qui était devant lui et y traça un mot écrit en arabe. C'était un nom secret de Dieu recélant les mystères de la Qutbuya [1] tidjanienne, nom conservé précieusement et secrètement par les grands initiés de l'Ordre. C'était un maître mot, de ceux que l'on prononce seulement de bouche à oreille ou que l'on n'inscrit que sur le sable afin que nulle trace n'en demeure.

A dessein, le Cheikh avait commis une faute en omettant de tracer une certaine lettre du mot.

Puis, relevant la tête, il demanda au jeune homme :

— As-tu l'habitude de voir ce mot écrit ou de l'entendre prononcer, soit à l'état de veille, soit pendant ton sommeil ?

— Oui, j'ai l'habitude de le voir, répondit le Chérif. Mais dans le mot que tu as écrit, il manque une lettre par rapport à ce que je vois.

— Quelle est cette lettre, et où manque-t-elle ? demanda le Cheikh.

Chérif Hamallâh se pencha et traça, sur le sable, la lettre manquante à l'endroit où elle devait figurer.

Immédiatement, le Cheikh rassembla dans ses mains le sable où avait été écrit le nom sacré, l'enferma dans un sachet et donna ce sachet au Chérif.

— Tiens, lui dit-il, ceci t'appartient. C'est toi qui es le Qutb-ul-Zaman, le Maître de l'Heure, le Pôle du Temps que j'ai cherché partout. Je te demande de renouveler mon wirdou.

Et, remué par une émotion que nous pouvons comprendre, le vieux maître s'inclina devant le jeune homme, tendant les paumes de ses mains ouvertes en forme de coupe comme on le fait, en Islam, pour recevoir une bénédiction.

Chérif Hamallâh lui renouvela son wirdou. Puis, prenant le sachet contenant le sable précieux chargé des forces du Nom mystérieux, il le rendit au Cheikh :

— Je te le confie, lui dit-il. Je suis trop jeune encore pour pouvoir assumer extérieurement la fonction dont Dieu m'a honoré. Aussi, je te demande de garder ce sachet jusqu'à ce que le temps soit venu pour moi de m'en charger.

Le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar accepta et, bien que son

1. Qutbuya, substantif dérivé de Qutb : Pôle. Le terme, qui est intraduisible en français, désigne tout ce qui a trait au Pôle.

cœur fût empli de joie, il garda momentanément le silence sur sa grande découverte.

A partir de ce jour, toutefois, les élèves constatèrent de sa part un comportement curieux. Dès que Chérif Hamallâh arrivait, le Cheikh se poussait de côté pour lui faire une place sur le même tapis que lui. Chaque fois que le jeune homme prenait du thé, s'il restait ne fût-ce qu'une goutte dans la tasse, le Cheikh s'en saisissait pour la boire. Or ce sont là, en Afrique comme en tout pays musulman, de très grandes marques d'honneur et de respect.

Observant cette attitude, les élèves se disaient entre eux que le Cheikh éprouvait sans doute une très grande considération pour le Chérif, bien qu'ils n'en connussent pas la raison précise.

Les choses restèrent en l'état pendant un certain temps, le Cheikh ayant renoncé à partir pour le Sénégal.

Un jour, le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar se trouvait dans une pièce avec Tierno Sidi (celui-là même qui avait demandé que le wirdou du Chérif el Moktar fût renouvelé en son absence), Hamedine Baro et Kisman Doucouré, tous « grands élèves » qu'il avait déjà nommés moqaddem de l'Ordre comme il en avait le pouvoir [1]. Il se tourna vers Tierno Sidi :

— Si je te disais de prêter serment d'allégeance à Chérif Hamallâh, lui dit-il, accepterais-tu ?

— C'est mon fils ! se contenta de répondre Tierno Sidi, ce qui pouvait s'entendre de plusieurs façons.

Le Cheikh n'ajouta rien. Puis, se tournant vers Hamedine Baro :

— Et toi, si je te demandais de suivre Chérif Hamallâh, de le reconnaître comme ton maître, accepterais-tu ?

— Si tu me demandais de reconnaître un coq comme mon maître, je le reconnaîtrais, répondit ce dernier.

Alors, le Cheikh leur dit :

— Je vous demande de reconnaître le Chérif Hamallâh comme Qûtb.

Et il leur raconta sa longue quête, sa découverte, les signes

1. Dans les tourouq (pluriel de tariqa), un cheikh a le pouvoir de nommer des moqaddem.

qu'il avait reconnus et, surtout, le signe décisif du Nom secret destiné au Qûtb, tracé sur le sable et correctement corrigé.

C'est en cette occasion qu'il prononça le mot Qûtb en public pour la première fois [1].

Vint le moment où le Chérif el Moktar, de plus en plus mortifié de n'avoir pu convaincre ses anciens élèves de revenir vers lui, décida de passer à l'attaque. Il avait les moyens de le faire, étant à la fois le beau-fils et le marabout personnel de Bodian, le roi bambara du pays. Ses partisans, le clan Kaba de Nioro, puis les membres de la famille de Bodian qui se trouvaient maintenant alliés aux Tall (la famille d'El Hadj Omar), entamèrent une vive campagne contre le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar.

L'un des fils d'El Hadj Omar, qui faisait la navette entre Kayes et Dakar pour vendre des animaux, ameuta tous les Tall en leur disant qu'à Nioro un homme osait contredire la « doctrine » d'El Hadj Omar et qu'il avait institué une pratique contraire à celle de leur ancêtre.

Ils firent tant et si bien qu'ils réussirent à saisir l'Administration coloniale française de cette affaire, lui faisant ressortir qu'il y aurait des bagarres et du sang versé si Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar n'était pas expulsé de Nioro. Soucieuse, comme toujours, d'éviter tout incident, l'Administration ne chercha pas plus loin et décida d'expulser le Cheikh. On fit donc savoir à ce dernier que, n'étant pas originaire de la ville, il devait la quitter et rejoindre son pays.

Le Cheikh fit ses préparatifs de voyage et prit la direction du Sénégal. Au moment où il quittait Nioro, des élèves vinrent le saluer une dernière fois. Il leur dit : « Je suis très étonné que l'on

1. Cette scène, comme toutes celles qui se sont déroulées à Nioro à l'époque, me fut rapportée par un témoin oculaire : Kisman Doucouré, marabout marka de Nioro qui avait reçu son wirdou des mains de Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar.

Les détails de ce qui se passa entre le Cheikh et Chérif Hamallâh lors de leur entretien privé me furent confirmés, par ailleurs, par Moulaye Ismaïl (cf.p. 90) qui les entendit plus tard de la bouche même du Chérif.

puisse me chasser de ma tombe. En effet, il m'a été révélé que j'aurais ma tombe à Nioro. Et voilà que l'on me commande de ne plus jamais y revenir. Cela m'étonne beaucoup. Mais Dieu seul est savant [1] ! »

L'affaire fit grand bruit. Les commerçants sénégalais qui se trouvaient à Nioro, à Kayes et à Médina-Kayes et qui avaient apprécié les qualités spirituelles et humaines de Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar écrivirent à certains grands marabouts de Saint-Louis du Sénégal proches du pouvoir administratif central pour témoigner de l'innocence du Cheikh, celui-ci étant, selon eux, bien plutôt un agent de paix qu'un fauteur de troubles. Ils ajoutaient que l'Administration avait certainement été induite en erreur.

Quand le Cheikh arriva à Saint-Louis, il prit contact avec ces grands marabouts qui, à l'époque, étaient El Hadj Malik Sî, Abdoullaye Nias, la famille Bou Kounta et la famille Cheikh Sidia. Ces derniers l'accueillirent avec hospitalité, mais l'observèrent attentivement pour savoir à qui ils avaient affaire, tant sur le plan religieux que sur le plan humain. Le temps passant, ils trouvèrent en lui les qualités mêmes qui leur avaient été décrites par leurs correspondants sénégalais. Leur opinion étant faite, ils intervinrent auprès du gouverneur du Sénégal pour lui demander de rapporter la décision d'expulsion qui avait été prise à l'encontre du Cheikh et de l'autoriser à retourner à Nioro ainsi qu'il le souhaitait.

Ils obtinrent satisfaction. C'est ainsi que le Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar, après environ un an d'absence, put revenir à Nioro.

Un peu plus de deux ans après son retour, il rendait son dernier soupir dans la ville où, comme il l'avait annoncé, sa tombe l'attendait. Sa disparition allait marquer le point de départ de la carrière religieuse à la fois fulgurante et tragique du Chérif Hamallâh.

1. Ces renseignements m'ont été transmis par un témoin direct, Gata Bâ, membre de la famille royale de Denianké. Grand commerçant ayant joué un rôle important au Sénégal et au Soudan français, Gata Bâ se retira après l'indépendance à Abidjan.

Destin de Chérif Hamallâh

Le jour des funérailles du Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar, une grande foule accompagna sa dépouille. Tous ses élèves étaient là, parmi lesquels Chérif Hamallâh. Au retour de l'enterrement, la tradition aurait voulu que le cortège revînt au domicile du défunt. Par un mouvement irraisonné, la foule se dirigea spontanément vers le domicile de Chérif Hamallâh et se regroupa autour de lui. Tel fut, un jour de 1909, le début de sa carrière religieuse extérieure.

A partir de ce jour, Chérif Hamallâh assuma ses fonctions de Khalife de l'Ordre d'une façon publique et active, ayant été reconnu es qualités par le plus grand nombre des frères. Il remplit pleinement ses fonctions de maître, donna les aourad [1], prêcha, commenta les livres saints, guida les élèves, répandit sur tous sa bonté et son rayonnement spirituel, bref accomplit ce que l'on attendait de lui. Sa maison devint une véritable zaouïa et ne désemplit plus, jusqu'au jour où il devait être arrêté pour la première fois.

Les croyants venaient à lui en foule non seulement de Nioro mais des villes voisines et même des pays environnants. C'était une véritable marée humaine. Cette affluence contribua à mettre en ébullition non seulement la famille Tall et ses alliés, mais également l'Administration coloniale, toujours inquiète, par nature, devant les grands rassemblements d'hommes.

En 1920, l'écrivain Paul Marty, fonctionnaire de l'Administration coloniale, écrivait:

> Chérif Hamallâh n'est encore qu'une source bouillonnante, mais une source qui, on peut le prévoir, par la force naissante de son courant, la vertu qui de toutes parts s'attache à ses eaux et à la convergence des ruisseaux voisins, va devenir un grand fleuve [2].

1. Pluriel de wirdou.
2. Paul Marty, chargé des Affaires musulmanes: Études sur l'Islam et les tribus du Soudan, tome IV, p. 218.

Ainsi que Tierno Bokar devait me l'expliquer un jour, Chérif Hamallâh avait pris sa chefferie spirituelle au moment même — en 1909 — où le monde entrait dans un cycle de Mars [1], cycle de troubles, de conflits et de guerres. « Tout saint ou prophète, me dit-il, dont l'avènement coïncide avec le début d'un cycle de mars rencontrera plus de déboires que de jours paisibles, ce qui ne diminue en rien sa valeur spirituelle. Notre grand maître, le Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani, avait recommandé à ses grands élèves: " Si vous êtes calomniés, ne calomniez pas. Si vous recevez des coups, ne les rendez pas. Si quelqu'un vous refuse une faveur, vous, accordez-lui en. " Chérif Hamallâh, ajouta Tierno, a respecté jusqu'au bout ce commandement. »

Le cycle de Mars, qui avait commencé en 1909, devait se terminer en 1945 [2]. A cette date, depuis deux ans à peine, Chérif Hamallâh reposera dans le cimetière de Montluçon, mort des suites de sa déportation. Comment la situation avait-elle pu s'aggraver, au fil des années, jusqu'à en arriver à ce point extrême?

Lorsque Chérif Hamallâh apparut sur le devant de la scène religieuse, le conflit entre « douze grains et « onze grains » — conflit d'origine purement humaine et non religieuse — existait déjà. Il ne fit qu'en hériter. La flambée d'enthousiasme dont il fut l'objet et le succès qu'il rencontra ne pouvaient que contribuer à attiser le feu qui couvait chez tous les tenants des « douze grains ».

Les choses en restèrent cependant là jusqu'à ce qu'une affaire tout à fait banale, dite « affaire de la théière », affaire purement humaine et où le Chérif n'avait aucune part, vienne mettre le feu aux poudres et donner un caractère ouvert et irréversible au conflit.

Un interprète nommé Mamadou Salim avait fait exécuter, par un artisan, une théière en argent dont il avait confié la garde à sa femme, une descendante d'El Hadj Omar. Cet interprète avait

1. Il ne s'agit pas de cycles planétaires astronomiques ou astrologiques, mais de cycles numérologiques liés au symbolisme des planètes.
2. Ce cycle de Mars, notons-le, a connu les deux guerres les plus meurtrières de notre époque, la dernière ayant pris fin en même temps que lui.

pour maître Tierno Sidi, celui-là même qui, à Nioro, avait été initié aux « onze grains » par Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar [1]. Un jour, désirant honorer son maître par un cadeau, il lui fit don de sa théière. Quelque temps plus tard, le malheur voulut qu'il fût arrêté par les autorités françaises et emprisonné. Il mourut au cours de sa détention, laissant sa famille sans ressources.

Sa femme se souvint alors qu'un jour elle l'avait vu remettre la théière d'argent à un commissionnaire de Tierno Sidi. Elle fit demander à ce dernier de lui rendre la théière afin de pouvoir la vendre. Tierno Sidi lui fit répondre que, malheureusement, la théière ne lui avait pas été prêtée, mais donnée, et qu'à ce titre il l'avait à son tour donnée à un tiers : le chef maure de Tichitt. Toutefois, ajoutait-il, si ce dernier avait encore la théière en sa possession, il ne refuserait certainement pas de la rendre à une descendante d'El Hadj Omar si elle le lui demandait.

La femme ne voulut rien entendre. Elle cria qu'on lui avait volé sa théière et porta l'affaire devant son frère Karamango Tall qui, à l'époque, était le seul descendant d'El Hadj Omar en vue à Bamako. C'était un boutiquier, illettré aussi bien en français qu'en arabe. Fort embarrassé, il convoqua tous les anciens sofas [2] d'El Hadj Omar ainsi que les captifs et les griots qui se réclamaient de son obédience. Une fois réunis, il leur exposa l'affaire. Ses auditeurs qui, pour la plupart, étaient devenus boys ou cuisiniers chez les Français installés dans la ville décidèrent de convoquer tous les Toucouleurs présents à Bamako.

Or, il se trouvait que parmi tous les Toucouleurs de Bamako, deux seulement appartenaient à une famille noble et lettrée : Bokar Diafara et mon père adoptif Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam, le fidèle ami de Tierno Bokar.

Quand tout le monde fut réuni et que Karamogo Tall eut exposé les griefs de sa sœur à l'endroit de Tierno Sidi, mon père Tidjani Amadou Ali prit la parole.

1. Tierno Sidi était venu s'installer à Bamako pour ne pas être mêlé au différend qui opposait son ancien maître, le Chérif el Moktar, à Chérif Hammalâh. Il n'avait donc aucune relation avec Chérif Hamallâh.

2. Sofa : nom donné aux guerriers qui entourent un chef et qui, le plus souvent, appartiennent à des ethnies étrangères.

— Tierno Sidi est aujourd'hui la personnalité la plus marquante de Fouta, dit-il, aussi bien par ses connaissances que par sa piété. De plus, c'est un grand moqaddem. Ses liens avec la famille d'El Hadj Omar sont puissants. Aussi sied-il mal que, pour une théière, nous entrions en conflit avec lui. Je propose que chaque Toucouleur présent à Bamako, noble ou serviteur, verse une cotisation afin de réunir une somme de trois cents francs [1] qui sera remise à la sœur de Karamogo Tall, en dédommagement de sa théière.

Lorsqu'on transmit cette proposition à la sœur de Karamogo Tall, elle s'écria que c'était une injustice, une manœuvre bien digne d'un Thiam [2], et elle exigea qu'on lui rende sa théière en argent, celle-là même que son mari avait fait fondre et façonner, et pas une autre !

Aussitôt, les Toucouleurs tinrent une nouvelle réunion et envoyèrent deux émissaires chez Tierno Sidi pour le convoquer et lui demander de venir leur fournir des explications. Une telle demande, dans le cadre des traditions africaines fondées sur le respect des hiérarchies, était totalement déplacée. Aussi Tierno Sidi répondit-il aux émissaires [3] :

— En raison de mon âge, de ma qualité et de mon grade dans la Tariqa, c'est à moi qu'il appartient d'appeler une assemblée de Toucouleurs, et non à elle de me convoquer. Toutefois, si une convocation m'est adressée personnellement par le petit-fils d'El Hadj Omar Tall (Karamogo Tall), je suis prêt à lui répondre par respect pour son grand-père.

Malheureusement, les émissaires avaient été mal choisis. L'un était connu pour sa réputation de « faiseur d'histoires », l'autre pour son opposition à Tierno Sidi. C'est donc tout à fait d'accord qu'à leur retour ils transmirent à l'assemblée des Toucouleurs une réponse résumée à leur façon :

— Nous avons fait la commission à Tierno Sidi, dirent-ils, mais il nous a fait savoir qu'il n'avait pas à répondre à une

1. Somme extrêmement importante pour l'époque.

2. Les Toucouleurs comptent deux grandes familles, les Tall et les Thiam, traditionnellement rivales l'une de l'autre.

3. Les deux émissaires étaient Bokar Yaya Dem et Karamogo Babali.

assemblée d'incirconcis ! — autant dire, en langage clair : à une assemblée de petits gamins sans importance.

Des cris d'indignation fusèrent de toutes parts. S'estimant insultés, les Toucouleurs se dressèrent contre Tierno Sidi comme un seul homme — sauf mon père Tidjani — et décidèrent d'organiser une campagne à leur manière en vue de le perdre. Travaillant, pour la plupart, chez des membres de l'Administration coloniale, ils étaient bien placés pour agir. Chacun reçut pour mission de « monter » son patron contre Tierno Sidi en traçant de ce dernier le plus noir des portraits. Au bout de quelque temps, ce travail de sape fit son œuvre. De plusieurs sources, le commandant du Cercle de Bamako commença à entendre parler d'un marabout « onze grains », incarnation même de la malhonnêteté et de tous les défauts possibles.

Lorsqu'il estima que les esprits avaient été suffisamment préparés, Karamogo Tall, au nom de la communauté toucouleure de Bamako, porta plainte en justice contre Tierno Sidi pour « détournement d'une théière d'argent ayant appartenu à une veuve ». Le commandant de Cercle, indisposé contre Tierno Sidi par son entourage, le convoqua en ses bureaux. Sans même vouloir entendre ses explications, il envoya l'affaire devant le tribunal indigène. Mais Karamogo Tall et ses amis avaient déjà circonvenu l'assesseur du tribunal, lui promettant de réaliser son rêve (devenir Imam de la mosquée de Bamako) s'il les aidaît à gagner leur procès.

Le procès eut lieu. Tierno Sidi le perdit et fut condamné à rendre la théière dans un délai d'un mois, faute de quoi il serait incarcéré. Heureusement pour lui, il put récupérer la théière auprès du chef maure de Tichitt et la remettre au commandant de Cercle dans les délais fixés.

L'affaire paraissait donc close, du moins pour Tierno Sidi. En fait, elle allait marquer le commencement d'une guerre sans merci contre tous les « onze grains », quels qu'ils soient et d'où qu'ils viennent.

Enivrés par leur succès facile contre un homme de l'envergure de Tierno Sidi et découvrant la force que représentait leur union, les Toucouleurs tinrent une nouvelle assemblée où ils décidèrent de porter le conflit sur un autre plan. Karamogo Tall les harangua :

— Tierno Sidi et sa famille sont traîtres à El Hadj Omar puisqu'ils ont choisi la formule des onze récitations, déclara-t-il. Il nous faut maintenant les amener à reprendre la formule des douze ; sinon, il y aura rupture totale entre notre clan et leurs partisans. Aucun boutiquier ni marchand toucouleur ne leur vendra plus rien. Ils seront tenus par tous en quarantaine !

Mon père Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam — de qui je tiens tous les détails de cette affaire — était présent à cette réunion. Une nouvelle fois, il s'efforça de faire entendre le langage du bon sens, mais en vain :

— Oserais-tu, toi Karamogo Tall, et tous ceux qui sont présents ici, attaquer Tierno Sidi sur le plan religieux ? Si une contestation d'ordre religieux doit être soutenue avec Tierno Sidi, c'est à d'autres de le faire, et certainement pas à vous qui ne connaissez rien !

En effet, sur les cinq cents personnes présentes, toutes étaient illettrées, sauf Tidjani Amadou Ali lui-même. Furieux de ces paroles, les Toucouleurs écartèrent mon père de leur assemblée.

Après leur réunion, les Toucouleurs firent rédiger et écrire des lettres qu'ils envoyèrent un peu partout, dans tous les pays — Sénégal, Guinée, etc. — où se trouvaient des membres de leur clan, pour leur annoncer qu'ils avaient triomphé d'un ennemi d'El Hadj Omar et leur demander de boycotter les « onze grains » partout où ils les trouveraient.

L'une de ces lettres arriva à Bandiagara. Le chef de canton, qui était un Toucouleur, réunit le comité de Bandiagara, présidé par Tierno Bokar. Alpha Ali, le maître coranique, vieil ami de Tierno Bokar, était également présent. Il avait déjà été initié aux « onze grains » mais n'en avait jamais parlé à personne.

On lut la lettre, après quoi l'on demanda son avis à Tierno Bokar. Celui-ci déclara :

— Personnellement, je ne prendrai position ni pour, ni contre les « onze grains » avant d'avoir rencontré le promoteur de cette pratique et de savoir sur quoi elle repose. En attendant d'en savoir davantage, je conseille que nous en restions tous à la tradition des « douze grains ».

Cela se passait en 1917. Bandiagara conserva donc en majorité la pratique des « douze grains » jusqu'en 1937, date du voyage de Tierno Bokar à Nioro.

Comme on le voit, l'origine de ce conflit n'avait rien ni de politique — comme le croyait l'Administration française — ni de fondamentalement religieux, puisque la pratique incriminée ne touchait ni à l'Islam ni à l'enseignement originel du Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani. Jusqu'à la campagne entreprise par les Toucouleurs après le gain de leur procès contre Tierno Sidi, « douze grains » et « onze grains » coexistaient pacifiquement. Dans les mosquées, après les prières canoniques de l'Islam, chacun récitait tranquillement son wirdou tidjani en égrenant les grains de son chapelet, qu'il y en eût onze ou douze. Personne, à vrai dire, n'y prêtait attention.

Mais, désormais, les lions étaient lâchés. La redoutable machine administrative avait commencé à se mettre en marche. Pour les autorités françaises, les « onze grains » étaient devenus la cible à abattre. Aux yeux de beaucoup, le « Hamallisme », qui en était le mouvement le plus représentatif, devint suspect et fauteur de troubles. Harcelée par de grands marabouts toucouleurs influents, l'Administration en vint à épouser une querelle qui, en fait, ne l'intéressait en rien.

De son côté, Chérif Hamallâh ignorait la stratégie de l'intrigue et vivait dans un monde étranger aux règles extérieures de la diplomatie. A l'égard de l'Administration française, jamais il ne se départit d'une attitude de parfaite dignité, mais de totale indépendance qui pouvait faire penser à du dédain, voire à de l'hostilité. Il ne recherchait aucun honneur, ne se souciait pas d'obtenir des médailles, ne rendait pas visite aux autorités de l'époque, ne faisait sa cour à personne, bref, tenait à rester en dehors de toutes les questions temporelles. Attitude dangereuse, en un temps où l'Administration coloniale n'avait que trop tendance à penser que qui n'était pas avec elle était contre elle. Il n'en fallut pas plus pour que les autorités, inquiètes du succès populaire grandissant du Chérif et poussées par les Toucouleurs, le considérassent comme un dangereux rebelle, fomentant dans le secret de sombres complots et attendant l'heure propice pour déclencher la révolte.

En 1920, Paul Marty pouvait encore écrire :

> Vis-à-vis de nous (Administration française), son attitude est correcte, mais réservée. Il ne vient au bureau du Cercle que sur un appel formel. Il semble qu'avec un peu d'habileté on l'apprivoiserait très vite [1].

Malheureusement, l'Administration ne voulut pas écouter les conseils de Paul Marty, pourtant mieux informé qu'elle des réalités locales en raison de sa qualité de chargé des Affaires musulmanes bien introduit auprès des marabouts de toutes obédiences. Elle préféra écouter ceux qui agitaient l'épouvantail du désordre et de la révolte, laissant présager les pires ennuis en provenance des Hamallistes. Ainsi va l'histoire.

Dès lors, la situation ne cessa de s'aggraver. On faisait endosser au Chérif la responsabilité du moindre incident et l'on en prenait prétexte pour persécuter ses élèves. Ce fut le début des arrestations et des déportations en masse.

Une rixe anodine survenue à Nioro en 1923 motiva la convocation de Chérif Hamallâh à Bamako, à six cents kilomètres de son domicile. Le gouverneur, monté contre lui par son entourage, le reçut d'une façon grossière :

— On dit que tu prétends parler directement avec Dieu. Demande-lui donc, si tu le peux, de me casser la tête avec le toit de mon palais..., s'esclaffa-t-il.

Par l'intermédiaire de l'interprète, le Chérif fit la réponse suivante :

— Interprète, dis au gouverneur de mieux ouvrir sa bouche (littéralement, en bambara : « de faire de meilleurs vœux »). Je n'ai pas à m'adresser à Dieu pour demander sa vie ou sa mort. Je sais seulement que lorsque Dieu met un homme à la tête ne serait-ce que de cinq personnes, c'est qu'il a de la considération pour lui ; à plus forte raison quand il le place à la tête d'un pays aussi grand que le Soudan. Or, quand Dieu a de la considération pour un homme, il exauce ses vœux. Il aurait donc mieux valu, pour le gouverneur, demander à Dieu de vivre longtemps afin de bien bénéficier de la fonction qu'il occupe. Vivre est certainement meilleur que mourir car ici, au moins, il est assuré d'avoir une place excellente, tandis qu'il ignore s'il en sera de même dans la vie future.

1. Op. cit., p. 218.

On comprendra aisément que, pour un gouverneur tout puissant, exclusivement habitué à entendre: « Oui, Monsieur le Gouverneur... », « A vos ordres, Monsieur le Gouverneur... », de telles paroles étaient inadmissibles. Au comble de la colère et de l'indignation, il décréta immédiatement la déportation du Chérif. On ne permit même pas à celui-ci de retourner à Nioro voir sa famille. On lui passa les menottes et, séance tenante, il fut conduit sur Saint-Louis-du-Sénégal où il fut placé en résidence surveillée.

En 1924, des incidents survinrent à Kiffa (actuelle Mauritanie). Bien que le Chérif se trouvât à cette époque en résidence à Saint-Louis, on l'en rendit personnellement responsable. On en prit prétexte pour le retirer de Saint-Louis où son influence commençait à rayonner sur la population et à entraîner de nombreuses conversions et on le transféra à Muderdra, en Mauritanie.

En 1930, alors qu'il se trouvait toujours à Muderdra, des bagarres éclatèrent à Kaedi (Sénégal) entre des membres de l'ethnie marka. Le promoteur de ces incidents était parfaitement connu. Mais c'était un Hamalliste. Aussi en imputa-t-on la faute à Chérif Hamallâh qui, de Muderdra, fut déporté en Côte-d'Ivoire, à Adjopé, dans une zone particulièrement humide. Sans doute n'ignorait-on pas que la meilleure façon de tuer un Maure, habitué à vivre sous une tente, au grand air, était de le faire vivre dans une maison humide...

Dès lors, l'accès de la Côte-d'Ivoire fut interdit à tous les Maures afin que nul ne puisse prendre contact avec le Chérif. C'est pourquoi jusqu'en 1936, date du retour du Chérif au Soudan, les Maures furent constamment expulsés de Côte-d'Ivoire.

Pendant toute cette période, la vie devint intenable pour les Hamallistes. Toute difficulté rencontrée par l'Administration où que ce soit leur était imputée. Si quelqu'un refusait de payer ses impôts, on l'accusait de hamallisme. Pour se venger d'un ennemi, il suffisait de le dénoncer comme « dangereux hamalliste » et il était embarqué sans autre explication. Les fidèles de Chérif Hamallâh, notamment tous ses principaux moqaddem, furent déportés et dispersés aux quatre coins de l'Afrique occidentale et équatoriale française. Mais par un curieux retournement du sort, ces mesures allaient à l'encontre du résultat recherché. Partout, en effet, où les exilés s'installaient, ils prenaient racine et fondaient des zaouïas qui connurent, par la suite, un grand essor. De chaque anneau que l'on séparait de sa chaîne sortait une chaîne nouvelle. Ainsi l'activité des ennemis de Chérif Hamallâh, qui éperonnaient une Administration mal éclairée sur ces problèmes spirituels, paraissait-elle vouée à un échec perpétuel.

En 1936, grâce à l'avènement du Front populaire, tous les détenus politiques furent libérés par décision du gouvernement français. Chérif Hamallâh put enfin quitter la Côte-d'Ivoire et rentrer à Nioro.

Mais ses ennemis étaient toujours là et ils n'avaient pas désarmé. Les grands marabouts toucouleurs, voyant l'Administration nouvelle se désintéresser du Chérif, craignirent que les prérogatives dont ils jouissaient ne passent à ce dernier dont l'audience populaire ne cessait de croître. Aussi décidèrent-ils une nouvelle fois de lui nuire et cherchèrent-ils un prétexte sur lequel s'appuyer. Ils ne tardèrent pas à le trouver.

Chérif Hamallâh, à son retour, avait déclaré à ses élèves qui lui faisaient fête: « Ce ne sera pas pour très longtemps. Je me considère comme encore en voyage. » En raison de l'insécurité permanente dans laquelle il se trouvait, il avait abrégé la durée de ses prières canoniques, les ramenant de quatre rekkat à deux rekkat [1] ainsi que le permet la loi islamique pour les cas de voyage, de danger ou de guerre. Il n'avait conseillé à personne de l'imiter, ce qui n'empêcha pas certains de ses élèves — particulièrement ceux qui appartenaient à l'ethnie marka et qui étaient perpétuellement en voyage pour leur commerce — de suivre son exemple.

1. Cf. note 2, p. 39. Sur les cinq prières quotidiennes de l'Islam, trois sont constituées de quatre rekkat qui peuvent être ramenées à deux en cas de voyage, de danger ou de guerre.

Dès qu'ils apprirent la chose, les antagonistes de Chérif Hamallâh coururent prévenir les autorités françaises que Chérif Hamallâh préparait la « guerre sainte » puisqu'il priait par deux rekkat au lieu de quatre. Ils oubliaient simplement de préciser que cette pratique, effectivement valable en temps de guerre, était également valable pour les simples voyages et l'état d'insécurité.

Le Chérif fut convoqué. Là encore, l'entretien fut mémorable, le Chérif ayant demandé au commandant combien la France avait prescrit de rekkat, pour savoir s'il avait enfreint à ses ordres. Heureusement, le Chérif fut renvoyé chez lui sans suites fâcheuses.

L'attention de la nouvelle administration coloniale issue du Front populaire n'en avait pas moins été attirée sur Chérif Hamallâh dont le dossier prit un caractère politique. On ne lâchait pas en vain, à l'époque, les mots fatidiques de « guerre sainte » ! De ce jour, la surveillance redoubla envers les Hamallistes qui, désormais, furent considérés comme « anti-Français ». Les vexations à leur encontre se multiplièrent. Certains d'entre eux commencèrent à s'énerver.

Cet état de persécution latente se poursuivit sans que, pour autant, l'Administration française prît une décision nette à l'encontre du Chérif. Déçus, les ennemis de ce dernier cherchèrent un nouveau moyen de lui créer des difficultés dont, autant que possible, il ne pourrait se sortir. Ils le trouvèrent en organisant une provocation cruelle qui devait aboutir aux incidents fatals d'Assaba. C'était en 1940.

Une famille maraboutique de Nioro (les Kaba Diakité), opposée à Chérif Hamallâh, chercha à provoquer un incident. Il se trouvait que les Kaba Diakité étaient les hôtes (logeurs) traditionnels d'une tribu maure ennemie du clan de Chérif Hamallâh. Cette opposition ancestrale s'était encore accentuée du fait que les tribus apparentées au Chérif avaient, avec lui, embrassé la Tidjaniya alors que les autres tribus relevaient de la Qadriya. Comme toujours, la religion servait de prétexte à un conflit d'origine purement humaine, en l'occurence une rivalité tribale.

Les Kaba Diakité demandèrent à leurs hôtes de provoquer leurs adversaires ancestraux, ce qui n'était pas pour leur déplaire. Ils n'y allèrent pas de main morte. Un jour où leur tribu s'était déplacée, ils croisèrent une caravane que conduisait le fils aîné de Chérif Hamallâh. Immédiatement, ils se jetèrent sur la caravane, s'emparèrent du jeune homme et se mirent à l'insulter : « Toi et toute ta famille êtes de faux Chérifs. Mais nous allons en avoir le cœur net. Le feu de Dieu ne devrait pas brûler un chérif, n'est-ce pas ? Eh bien ! Nous allons te soumettre à son épreuve. » Et ils maintinrent le jeune homme debout, nu-pieds, sur le sable brûlant qui venait de servir à préparer un méchoui.

Avant d'être saisi par ses ennemis, le fils de Chérif Hamallâh avait interdit à ses compagnons d'intervenir pour le défendre. Ils étaient en effet moins nombreux que leurs assaillants et il craignait que l'affrontement ne se termine par un massacre. Ils ne bougèrent donc pas, rongeant leur frein. Après le supplice, ils recueillirent le jeune homme dont la plante des pieds avait été très gravement brûlée et le transportèrent à Nioro où son état nécessita une hospitalisation. Une enquête fut ouverte.

Craignant peut-être des troubles ou de nouvelles provocations, Chérif Hamallâh interdit à tous ses partisans, même aux membres de sa famille, de rendre visite à son fils à l'hôpital, leur conseillant d'attendre que l'Administration fasse son travail et que justice soit rendue, les coupables étant connus. La zaouïa resta donc totalement en dehors de cette affaire.

Ce mutisme inquiéta l'Administration, qui se demanda si quelque chose ne se préparait pas. Pour tâter le terrain, le commandant convoqua Chérif Hamallâh. Il lui demanda ce qu'il pensait de cette affaire et ce qu'il convenait de faire. A cette question inattendue, le Chérif répondit à sa manière coutumière, toujours aussi directe et dépourvue de toute diplomatie : « De qui, lui demanda-t-il, relève donc la justice ? Certainement pas de moi. Je ne suis d'ailleurs pas personnellement la victime. La victime est majeure, et connue. C'est à elle qu'il convient de poser la question. Puisque c'est à vous de rendre la justice, que vous avez vu la victime et également vu les bourreaux qui sont arrêtés, je ne vois pas pourquoi vous me demandez ce qu'il convient de faire. »

Les responsables de l'incident avaient en effet été arrêtés, puis assignés à résidence à Nioro dans un campement où ils vivaient comme à leur ordinaire et où on leur apportait tout ce dont ils avaient besoin. Deux mois plus tard, ils furent purement et simplement relâchés.

Heureux de s'en être tirés aussi facilement, ils composèrent alors un poème au titre évocateur: Autour de la rôtisserie, poème qu'ils firent diffuser dans toute la Mauritanie par des chanteurs accompagnés de tambours. Or, la tribu maure à laquelle appartenait l'épouse du Chérif, mère du jeune supplicié, était une tribu guerrière. Il existe en effet, en Mauritanie, trois catégories de tribus: les tribus maraboutiques, les tribus guerrières et les tribus commerçantes. Ces rudes guerriers, fouettés dans leur orgueil, avaient en vain attendu une réaction de la part de Chérif Hamallâh. Excédés, ils étaient venus le trouver pour lui demander ce qu'il fallait faire. « Laissez à Dieu le soin de rendre la justice », s'était-il contenté de leur répondre.

Sur le moment, ils acceptèrent de temporiser et les choses auraient pu en rester là si leurs adversaires, ne voyant rien venir, n'avaient renchéri en composant un nouveau chant encore plus insultant que le précédent, adressé à tous les Maures non Tidjani et intitulé: Venez à la rescousse, il n'en résultera rien — c'est-à-dire « vous ne risquez absolument rien ». Ce nouveau chant fut, lui aussi, diffusé à travers tout le pays.

Cette fois, c'en était trop pour les oncles du jeune homme, particulièrement visés à travers le poème. « Si Chérif Hamallâh accepte de se laisser traîner dans la boue, dirent-ils, nous, nous montrerons à nos adversaires que, de tout temps, nous avons été leurs vainqueurs. » Cela dit, ils réunirent une troupe de guerriers et partirent en campagne contre la tribu qui avait attaqué leur neveu. La provocation portait ses fruits.

Ils trouvèrent ceux qu'ils cherchaient au lieu-dit Assaba, un site de dunes mortes. Hélas! Ivres de fureur, ils massacrèrent tous leurs ennemis sur place. Il n'y eut presque pas de rescapés.

Ayant le sentiment d'avoir vengé leur neveu, ils se calmèrent aussitôt et lorsque sept gardes civils accompagnés d'un médecin vinrent pour les arrêter, ils n'opposèrent aucune résistance alors qu'ils auraient pu n'en faire qu'une bouchée, ce qui montre bien que leur action était purement privée et n'avait rien à voir avec la « révolte antifrançaise » dont on les accusa.

La réaction de l'Administration fut sévère. Nous étions, rappelons-le, en 1940, à un moment où la France était déchirée entre vichystes et gaullistes. Être accusé d'hostilité envers la France revenait à être accusé de complicité envers l'ennemi — en l'occurrence les gaullistes.

L'Administration, sensibilisée par les événements d'Europe, poussée à bout par les ennemis du Chérif qui présentaient celui-ci comme un dangereux rebelle, ne pouvait imaginer que la réserve de cet homme venait avant tout de son détachement à l'égard des événements purement temporels, lui qui n'avait même pas voulu réagir devant le supplice imposé à son fils et qui s'efforçait d'appliquer en tout l'enseignement du Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani: « Si vous recevez des coups, ne les rendez pas. » Faute de comprendre, on supposait le pire.

Une fois encore, on le considéra comme personnellement responsable des événements d'Assaba. Ne trouvant, et pour cause, aucune preuve de sa participation aux événements, il ne fut pas possible de le déférer devant le tribunal, mais on lui appliqua une formule administrative qui donnait au gouverneur le droit de déporter qui il voulait, sur décision personnelle.

Un matin, très tôt, un groupe de gardes vint le chercher. Vêtu d'un léger boubou de coton, il s'avança au-devant d'eux. Là encore, il s'interdit de réagir. Alors qu'un seul mot de lui aurait pu dresser des milliers d'hommes pour le défendre, il ne voulut même pas rentrer dans sa maison pour y chercher des vêtements, de peur de réveiller sa famille et que les cris des femmes ne provoquent une émeute. Il suivit donc les gardes pour ne jamais revenir. Les rares témoins de cette scène rapportèrent que ses seules paroles furent celles que l'on prononce au pèlerinage et devant la mort: Rabbi labaïka! Rabbi labaïka! Seigneur, me voici! Seigneur, me voici!

Il fut d'abord emmené à Gorée, au Sénégal, puis à Casseigne, en Algérie, ensuite à Vals-les-Bains, en Ardèche, avant d'être transféré à Évaux. Il y contracta une maladie de poitrine et fut transporté à l'hôpital de Montluçon où il mourut en janvier 1943 [1]. Il repose à Montluçon, au Cimetière de l'Est où sa tombe connaît un afflux de plus en plus grand de pèlerins africains.

Tel fut le destin extérieur de Chérif Hamallâh, l'homme « dont les pieds reposaient très haut au-dessus de cette terre ».

Il nous a paru nécessaire de retracer sa vie afin d'éclairer les événements dont sera victime Tierno Bokar, événements qui se déclenchèrent au lendemain de sa rencontre avec Chérif Hamallâh.

Rencontre de Tierno Bokar avec Chérif Hamallâh

C'est en 1937, soit un an environ après le retour du Chérif de la Côte-d'Ivoire, que Tierno Bokar eut l'occasion de se rendre à Nioro, comme il le souhaitait depuis si longtemps.

Cette année-là, Tierno avait été appelé à Bamako pour présider au partage de la succession de son demi-frère aîné, Amadou Salif Tall. Son ami fidèle Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam l'accompagnait.

A soixante-deux ans, Tierno Bokar se rendait dans une très grande ville pour la première fois, ses précédents déplacements l'ayant mené au plus loin à Ségou et à Mopti. A Bamako, il découvrit les techniques nouvelles; il connut l'électricité, la voie ferrée; il vit des avions. Il n'en retira que des satisfactions de curiosité et quelques images qu'il sut incorporer avec bonheur dans ses enseignements ultérieurs.

Une fois la succession heureusement réglée, Tierno m'appela auprès de lui. Il me déclara :

— Amadou, il me faut maintenant faire la lumière sur la situation de la Tidjaniya. De Dinguiraye, de Nioro, de Kayes, de Ségou et de Bamako, on me pose sans cesse des questions sur l'orthodoxie des « onze grains » au regard de la Tidjaniya. J'ai toujours répondu que je ne pouvais porter un jugement en cette affaire sans avoir vu personnellement le Chérif Hamallâh, qui est devenu l'un des maîtres les plus populaires de la Voie Tidjani. J'ai donc l'intention de profiter de ce voyage pour me rendre à Nioro.

1. Le docteur Charles Pidoux, qui devint plus tard notre ami, était, à cette époque, incarcéré à Evaux pour raisons politiques. Il y connut le Chérif Hamallâh et nous fournit un précieux témoignage sur la fin de la vie du Maître. C'est grâce à lui que nous avons pu retrouver la tombe du Chérif à Montluçon.

Fort de mon expérience personnelle de fonctionnaire auprès de l'Administration française, j'estimai de mon devoir de mettre Tierno en garde sur les conséquences qui pourraient en résulter pour lui :

— A tort ou à raison, lui dis-je, le Chérif de Nioro a une fâcheuse réputation auprès de l'Administration. Il a été présenté comme un « antifrançais » par d'éminentes personnalités religieuses dont la parole ne saurait être mise en doute par l'Administration qui les considère comme ses alliées. Aujourd'hui, le divorce est consommé. L'intransigeance des Toucouleurs d'un côté, l'enthousiasme des Marka et des Maures de l'autre ont compliqué le problème. Des querelles totalement étrangères aux questions religieuses se sont surimposées à l'affaire. Les « onze grains » sont maintenant aux prises non seulement avec les « douze grains » de même obédience Tidjani, mais encore avec des membres de la confrérie Qadri. Il vaudrait mieux que tu t'abstiennes, ou que tu demandes à voir le Chérif officiellement, avec l'accord des autorités.

— Je ne répugne pas à demander quoi que ce soit, tu le sais, me répondit-il. Mais si l'on savait que je vais à Nioro, toutes les parties de ce procès prendraient je ne sais quelles dispositions. Je préfère surprendre tout le monde.

— Tu risques de récolter bien des ennuis, Tierno, et des ennuis venant de toutes parts.

— Connais-tu un homme de Dieu qui ait vécu et qui soit mort sans ennui? Trouve-moi plutôt une occasion de partir incognito à Nioro.

J'accédai à sa demande et réussis à organiser son voyage comme il me le demandait.

Laissant à Bamako son ami Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam, Tierno embarqua dans un méchant camion. Pendant vingt-quatre heures, il cahota sur une piste qui étire sur quatre cent cinquante kilomètres son sillon de sable et de cailloux à travers les épineux. Le camion arriva à Nioro vers onze heures du matin, une heure avant la prière de zohour (prière du milieu du jour).

Le jour même, peu après la prière de l'aurore, Chérif Hamallâh avait appelé son homme de confiance, Amadou Ould Brahim, le plus instruit de ses élèves, et lui avait dit :

— Amadou, je recevrai aujourd'hui un étranger. Ce sera ma part dans la succession d'El Hadj Omar. Veillez tous à ce qu'il ne connaisse pas la nostalgie (c'est-à-dire qu'il n'ait pas à regretter sa propre maison).

Aussi, lorsque Tierno se présenta à la zaouïa vers onze heures, Amadou Ould Brahim et d'autres élèves se précipitèrent pour le recevoir. Lorsqu'il eut décliné son nom (Tierno Bokar Salif Tall), Amadou Ould Brahim, reconnaissant un membre de la famille d'El Hadj Omar, fut au comble de l'étonnement :

— Cheiknâ (Notre Maître) nous a annoncé ton arrivée aujourd'hui, s'exclama-t-il.

Immédiatement, Amadou Ould Brahim envoya prévenir Chérif Hamallâh que l'étranger annoncé par lui était arrivé. Chérif Hamallâh n'ayant pas coutume de sortir de sa demeure avant la prière de zohour, on installa Tierno dans une case de la concession. Il fit sa toilette, changea de vêtements puis, ses bagages rangés, vint attendre dans la zaouïa au milieu des élèves.

Peu avant l'heure de la prière de Zohour, le Chérif apparut. Chacun put voir qu'il portait exactement le même vêtement que Tierno : même boubou, même tourtil (léger boubou de dessous), même bonnet. On eût dit qu'ils étaient le reflet l'un de l'autre, Tierno, comme il me le raconta, en resta sans paroles. Chérif Hamallâh se précipita vers lui, lui donna la main et sourit :

— Eh bien, dit-il, nous sommes habillés de la même façon.

A ce moment, l'appel à la prière retentit. Chacun se disposa en rangs derrière le tapis de prière du Chérif, qui avait coutume de diriger la prière [1]. Un adepte d'origine chérifienne, Moulaye

1. Quand la prière musulmane est collective, un homme doit toujours se placer à l'avant pour « diriger » la prière. C'est l'Imam. Les fidèles se disposent derrière lui en rangées horizontales bien régulières, au coude à coude, et le suivent dans ses mouvements.

N'importe qui peut être Imam. Dans les mosquées, un Imam nommé par la communauté exerce en permanence. En général le choix se porte sur un homme réputé pour sa piété.

Ismaïl, était placé au premier rang, juste derrière le Chérif. Il céda sa place à Tierno et passa lui-même au second rang, chacun de ceux qui étaient derrière lui se décalant également d'un rang.

Le Chérif vint prendre place. Avant de commencer la prière, il se retourna, vit Tierno derrière lui et, le tirant par un pan de son boubou, le fit venir à sa droite, sur son propre tapis. Moulaye Ismaïl et tous ceux qui s'étaient décalés avancèrent d'un rang et reprirent leur place habituelle.

Il ne s'agissait pas là, de la part du Chérif, d'un simple geste de courtoisie. Il entendait, par ce geste de grande considération spirituelle, imposer Tierno Bokar à ses élèves. Certains d'entre eux, instruits par une dure expérience, voyaient en effet en tout étranger, et particulièrement en un Tall, un agent à la solde des Toucouleurs envoyé pour espionner leur Cheikh. Le patronyme de Tierno le rendait tout spécialement suspect à leurs yeux. En faisant prier l'étranger à sa hauteur, le Chérif le couvrait, en quelque sorte, de son manteau.

Après la prière rituelle, Chérif Hamallâh, comme à son accoutumée, resta trente minutes à prier à voix basse. Puis il donna sa bénédiction à tous et, se tournant vers Tierno Bokar, il lui dit :

— J'aurais voulu te loger chez moi, mais tes parents toucouleurs de la ville pourraient s'en froisser et se sentir gênés s'ils voulaient te rendre visite. Tu logeras donc au sein de la concession, mais dans la demeure de Bouyed Ould Cheikh Siby.

Il se tourna vers Moulaye Ismaïl, celui qui avait cédé sa place à Tierno :

— Moulaye Ismaïl, tu vas te mettre au service de Tierno Bokar pendant tout son séjour chez nous. Ne considère pas ta qualité de Chérif et sers-le.

Puis, comme il en avait l'habitude, il rentra dans ses appartements pour n'en sortir qu'à la prière de asr (milieu de l'après-midi).

Une fois Tierno installé chez Bouyed Ould Cheikh Siby, Moulaye Ismaïl vint se mettre à son service. Il veillait à la satisfaction de tous ses besoins domestiques, lui faisait son thé et lui tenait compagnie. Apparemment, Tierno et le Chérif ne se voyaient qu'aux heures de prière.

Tierno était là depuis trois jours quand, une nuit, Moulaye Ismaïl fut frappé de dysenterie et obligé de sortir plusieurs fois de la case pour se rendre aux toilettes. Comme dans beaucoup de concessions africaines, celles-ci se trouvaient en plein air, entourées d'un petit muret. Or, à trois heures du matin, par-dessus le petit muret, Moulaye Ismaïl vit Tierno Bokar sortir de sa case et se diriger vers la maison de Chérif Hamallâh. Sa curiosité éveillée, il voulut voir jusqu'où Tierno irait. Au même moment, il vit apparaître, du côté de la maison du Chérif, un rai de lumière provenant de la torche que le Chérif avait coutume de porter sur lui une fois le soir tombé. Le rayon de lumière se rapprocha de Tierno. C'était bien le Chérif. Ils se rejoignirent à mi-chemin et commencèrent à parler à voix basse, tout en cheminant lentement. Moulaye Ismaïl n'entendait pas ce qu'ils se disaient mais, cloué par la surprise, il resta là à les regarder. Il les vit se diriger à pas lents, tout en parlant, vers la porte du Chérif, puis revenir vers lui, repartir et revenir sans cesse. Il en fut ainsi jusqu'à ce que retentît l'appel à la prière du matin, après quoi chacun rentra chez soi.

C'est ainsi que Moulaye Ismaïl découvrit que Tierno Bokar et Chérif Hamallâh se voyaient chaque nuit, à partir de trois heures du matin, quand toute la zaouïa était plongée dans le sommeil. C'est dire que, durant son séjour, Tierno dormit fort peu. Il n'utilisa d'ailleurs jamais le lit que le Chérif avait fait préparer pour lui. Quand le sommeil le prenait, il s'allongeait sur la peau que son hôte lui avait offerte en guise de tapis de prière [1].

Tierno resta quinze jours dans la zaouïa de Nioro. Plus tard, il me dit avoir eu quinze entretiens avec le Chérif, ce qui signifie

1. Tous ces détails m'ont été rapportés par Moulaye Ismaïl. (Cf. note 1, p. 70.)

qu'ils se virent chaque nuit, et dès le début. Au cours de leurs entretiens nocturnes, il put, me dit-il, poser au Chérif toutes les questions qu'il voulut en vue de déterminer sa position. N'oublions pas que, depuis la lettre de Alpha Hassim Tall, il était informé de certains moyens occultes permettant de reconnaître le nouveau Pôle de la Tidjaniya. Toujours est-il que Tierno, qui n'était pas un naïf, fut entièrement convaincu de la validité spirituelle de Chérif Hamallâh, tant sur le plan de la Tidjaniya que sur le plan islamique en général. Aussi lui demanda-t-il de lui renouveler son wirdou dans la formule des « onze grains », ce que le Chérif accepta.

Une grande réunion rassemblant tous les élèves fut organisée à cet effet quelques jours avant le départ de Tierno. Celui-ci s'assit sur ses talons, face au Chérif, les mains croisées sur les genoux, le buste affaissé, le menton sur la poitrine.

Chérif Hamallâh — qui était plus jeune que Tierno — lui demanda :

— Tierno Bokar, de nous deux, lequel est le plus âgé ?

— Je suis né avant toi, mais tu es plus âgé que moi [1].

— Nous aurions souhaité que la descendance d'El Hadj Omar fût toute à ton image. Mais ce que Dieu fait est bien fait. Tant qu'il existera des descendants d'El Hadj Omar sur cette terre, il y en aura toujours au moins un qui héritera l'amour de son ancêtre pour le Prophète et pour sa descendance.

Après un instant de silence, le Chérif attaqua le vif du sujet :

— Bokar Salif, t'est-il arrivé de faire une retraite spirituelle ? T'est-il arrivé, pour lever une hésitation, de faire l'Istikhar [2] ?

Tierno, qui avait jusque-là gardé la même position, se redressa.

Quelle coïncidence ! dit-il. Je savais que ce serait la première question que tu me poserais. Effectivement, j'ai fait une telle retraite, et voici pourquoi.

1. Ce qui signifiait : « Dans la Tidjaniya, j'ai débuté avant toi, mais tu es parvenu plus loin que moi. » C'est là une façon de rendre hommage et de reconnaître la supériorité de quelqu'un. Le mérite de la supériorité spirituelle est considéré, en Afrique, comme un âge. On dira, par exemple, d'un jeune homme particulièrement sage : « Ce jeune homme est plus âgé que son père. »

2. Cf. note 1, p. 63.

« Depuis quelque temps, l'obscurité régnait au fond de mon cœur. Je recevais des lettres de mes parents foutanké [1] et même du Chérif El Moktar, me disant qu'il ne fallait pas suivre le chemin de Chérif Hamallâh et que ni eux ni l'Administration ne souhaitaient voir les foules s'engager derrière lui.

« Je lisais ces lettres, dans ma zaouïa, à certains de mes amis. Mais le poids inconnu qui pesait sur ma poitrine s'alourdissait. Mes compatriotes se réjouissaient sans que je connaisse le motif de cette joie. La doctrine Tidjani, que j'interrogeais, restait muette. Les oulémas toucouleurs que je questionnais lançaient l'anathème contre toi et tes partisans. C'est alors que je décidai de faire l'Istikhar pour que Dieu me fasse connaître qui tu étais en réalité.

« Sept jours après que j'eus terminé l'Istikhar, Dieu m'envoya un rêve. Je vis onze hommes qui marchaient dans une forêt au crépuscule et, parmi eux, je reconnus le Chérif El Moktar. Ils étaient tous couverts de bourbouille [2] et souffraient de fortes démangeaisons. Ils allaient titubant dans le sable, déchiraient leurs vêtements et se grattaient jusqu'au sang. Je me suis joint à eux et, aussitôt, j'ai contracté leur mal. Nous arrivâmes sur une éminence et nous aperçûmes, au-delà, une vaste plaine dans laquelle un étang s'étendait à perte de vue. L'eau de cet étang était blanche comme du lait. " Nous allons nous laver et boire ", dit l'un d'entre nous.

« Nous pressâmes le pas. Un homme ailé sortit de l'eau. Il étendit les bras et nous dit : " Il est interdit d'entrer dans cet étang. — Un Chérif est parmi nous. Laisse-nous boire. — Je vous connais tous beaucoup mieux que vous-même, répliqua-t-il, mais vous n'entrerez pas dans l'étang avant l'arrivée de son propriétaire. "

« Un vent de tornade se leva qui fit monter de l'horizon un nuage scintillant. De ce nuage s'échappait un chant. Nous reconnûmes la formule du dhikr : Lâ ilâha illa'Llâh [3]. — Figés

1. Foutanké : originaire du Fouta, au Sénégal, ce qui est le cas des Toucouleurs.

2. Éruption de petits boutons qui apparaissent sur le corps lors des grandes chaleurs et qui démangent énormément.

3. Il s'agit ici de la récitation psalmodiée de la première partie de la profession de foi islamique, Lâ ilâha illa'Llâh, qui signifie : « Il n'est de dieu que Dieu » ou : « Pas de dieu, si ce n'est Dieu. » Ce Dhikr est une partie essentielle du wirdou de toutes les confréries islamiques en général.

de crainte, nous regardions venir sur nous cette étrange nuée. Elle arrivait dans le ciel comme un cheval au galop. Lorsqu'elle fut parvenue au zénith elle se désagrégea. Elle était faite d'une foule d'hommes ailés et le mouvement de leurs ailes provoquait le scintillement qui nous avait frappés. Les hommes pénétrèrent dans l'étang et s'évanouirent. D'un seul mouvement, les douze que nous étions se portèrent en avant pour les suivre. Le gardien s'y opposa d'un geste. Une autre rafale de vent nous apporta un second nuage d'hommes ailés qui reproduisirent les gestes des premiers. Puis un troisième. Les nuages étaient toujours plus scintillants et les voix qui chantaient la formule sacrée devenaient, à chaque renouvellement des nuées, toujours plus harmonieuses. Derrière le troisième nuage, un homme à cheval parut. Le cavalier était masqué et il tenait un chapelet dans sa main. A la tête du cheval, El Hadj Omar tenait la bride.

A ces mots, le Chérif interrompit Tierno :

— Comment as-tu reconnu El Hadj Omar ?

Tierno répondit :

— Son nom était inscrit en lettres de feu sur sa poitrine. Le cheval se cabrait dans le vent. El Hadj Omar s'accrochait à la bride. Une rafale retroussa la crinière du cheval et fit glisser le chèche sur le visage du cavalier. J'atteste devant Dieu que le visage qui m'apparut alors, je m'en aperçois aujourd'hui, était le tien.

« Le cavalier dit au gardien : " Que veulent ces gens ? — Ils veulent boire ", répondit-il.

« Le cavalier descendit de cheval et s'avança vers la mare. Un souffle d'une violence inouïe se leva alors, à côté duquel les rafales précédentes n'étaient que brises légères. Les douze furent dispersés dans la poussière. L'homme qui avait ton visage prit de l'eau lactée dans le creux de ses mains et m'en aspergea. Ma soif et mes démangeaisons cessèrent. J'entendis une voix qui dominait celle du vent crier à mes oreilles : " Tu boiras et tu te laveras ; mais plus tard, pas aujourd'hui... "

« Je me suis réveillé, brisé par ce rêve. Depuis, j'ai cessé de lire en public et de copier pour les diffuser ces lettres qui te condamnaient et qui avaient ainsi jeté le trouble en mon âme. Ce rêve date de quatre ans. Il est tellement présent à ma mémoire que j'en arrive à douter qu'il s'agisse d'un rêve.

« Mes tourments ne cessèrent pas, cependant, du jour au lendemain. L'importance de la décision que je venais de prendre m'apparut au grand jour. J'avais rompu avec les miens. J'en souffrais si fort que, trois jours après la réponse à mon Istikhara, j'en fis un autre, simple celui-ci ; j'eus le bonheur de voir en rêve El Hadj Omar lui-même, qui me rassura. Le désir de te connaître n'avait fait que grandir en moi depuis quatre ans. La mort de mon frère aîné m'a donné l'occasion d'aller à Bamako et, aujourd'hui, je viens jusqu'à toi.

— N'as-tu pas peur de la colère des tiens ? demanda le Chérif à Tierno. Ils en auront le cœur gonflé. Ils te traiteront comme quelqu'un qui a humilié leur famille. Ils te combattront.

« Vois ma main, ajouta-t-il. C'est comme si elle contenait une braise rouge et que la main de toute personne que je rencontre soit remplie de poudre. Il suffit que je lui donne le Tajdid [1] pour que cela explose. N'as-tu pas peur ?

— Cela m'est égal, répondit Tierno.

Trois fois, le Chérif lui posa la même question. Trois fois, Tierno répondit : « Cela m'est égal. »

Le Chérif se concentra un moment puis, levant le front et se tournant vers les élèves maures qui remplissaient la salle, il dit :

— Je prends Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani et vous tous à témoin. Je donnerai aujourd'hui à Tierno Bokar la clef qui lui permettra d'ouvrir les secrets contenus dans la demeure de Cheikh Tidjani.

Puis, prenant les mains de Tierno Bokar dans les siennes, il procéda au Tajdid :

« Je renouvelle ton wirdou. Je renouvelle ton grade de moqaddem, cette fois-ci dans le rite des " onze ". Une fois de plus, je déclare que le " douze " n'est pas une erreur.

« Tout moqaddem que tu as déjà nommé et qui consentira à te

1. Tajdid : renouvellement du wirdou.

suivre dans le rite des " onze ", s'il te demande le Tajdid, donne-le lui ; je le confirme dans son grade de moqaddem. En revanche, tu ne nommeras pas de nouveaux moqaddem.

Tous les élèves s'approchèrent, prirent à tour de rôle la main de Tierno Bokar et lui demandèrent sa bénédiction.

Moulaye Ismaïl me raconta plus tard que Chérif Hamallâh, parlant un jour de Tierno à ses adeptes, avait dit : « Parmi tous les hommes qu'il m'a été donné de rencontrer, Tierno Bokar est l'un de ceux qui ont pénétré le plus profondément les secrets de la Tidjaniya contenus dans la Djawahira-el-Maani (Perle des significations) et dans Er-Rimaa (les Lances), le livre d'El Hadj Omar.

Quelques jours avant le départ de Tierno, après la prière de asr, alors que le soleil commençait à perdre de son ardeur, Chérif Hamallâh demanda à tous ses élèves de l'accompagner dans la promenade qu'il avait coutume de faire en dehors de Nioro pour aller prendre l'air. Il se rendit dans les champs d'arachides qui avoisinent la ville et proposa aux élèves de glaner les fruits restés enfouis dans le sol après la récolte.

Quand ils furent parvenus dans un champ, chacun se dispersa pour ramasser les fruits. Le Chérif mettait dans le creux de sa main ceux qu'il trouvait. Quand il en eut une poignée pleine, il la tendit à Tierno :

— Tiens ! lui dit-il, voici une bonne provision.

Ce que voyant, dès que les élèves avaient réuni une poignée d'arachides, ils venaient la remettre au Chérif qui la tendait à son tour à Tierno en disant :

— Ajoute-la aux autres.

Lorsque le pan du boubou de Tierno fut rempli par plusieurs kilos d'arachides, le Chérif donna le signal du retour. Selon les grands élèves, qui connaissaient la retenue habituelle de leur maître dont les gestes n'étaient jamais dépourvus de signification, le Chérif avait, ce jour-là, fait montre d'une extrême sympathie envers Tierno. Par la suite, Tierno conserva précieusement ces arachides, n'ayant jamais voulu les partager avec qui que ce soit.

La veille du jour fixé pour le départ, le Chérif fit apporter des provisions de route.

— Je vais vers le pays où l'on trouve du sucre, dit Tierno. Garde tes provisions.

— Je tiens à ce que tu emportes un peu de tout ce que je mange, lui répondit le Chérif.

Les serviteurs apportèrent des couffins pleins de dattes, des quartiers de viande séchée et une outre pleine de beurre de vache. On apporta trois kilos de thé, cinq pains de sucre et aussi des pommes venues de la métropole, que le Chérif appréciait.

Le lendemain, à l'aube, quittant le Chérif qu'il ne devait jamais revoir, Tierno Bokar Salif montait dans un camion qui devait l'amener, au terme de sa première étape, à Koniakari, dans le Kârta de Diombogho. Pour aussi rapide qu'ait été son véhicule, plus rapide encore avait été la nouvelle qui le précédait :

« Un Tall a trahi la cause des "douze" ! »

Début des persécutions

A peine Tierno avait-il reçu son Tajdid que la nouvelle en avait été connue dans toute la ville. Le chef des Tall de Nioro avait immédiatement télégraphié dans toutes les cités et toutes les régions où se trouvaient des Tall pour leur apprendre que Tierno Bokar venait de trahir la cause d'El Hadj Omar et qu'il convenait de rompre tout lien de famille et toute relation avec lui. A toutes les étapes de la route entre Nioro et Bandiagara, les descendants d'El Hadj Omar attendaient leur cousin. Tierno entrait dans l'épreuve.

A Koniakari où résidait une branche de sa famille, Tierno ne fut pas reçu. Pour qui sait ce qu'est l'hospitalité africaine et quelle obligation sacrée elle représente pour ceux qui la doivent, c'était là une offense on ne peut plus grave.

Les choses auraient pu cependant être pires et basculer vers le drame car les Tall de Koniakari avaient décidé de provoquer Tierno dès son arrivée dans la ville. Ils en informèrent le Chef de canton, Dembasadio Diallo. Heureusement celui-ci, qui avait été initié à la Tidjaniya par Tierno, lui était fort attaché. Ses fonctions ne lui permettaient pas de montrer ouvertement cet attachement, mais il sut désamorcer le complot.

— Vos différends entre « onze grains » et « douze grains » ne me regardent pas, dit-il aux Tall. Je suis Chef de canton, je représente l'autorité française dans ce pays et j'enfermerai quiconque essaiera de troubler l'ordre public de quelque manière que ce soit.

Rafraîchis par ce langage, les Tall de Koniakari se tinrent cois. Tierno pu traverser la ville sans encombre et poursuivre sa route.

A Kayes, les Toucouleurs se rendirent en cortège chez leur chef Bassirou Mountaga Tall et l'invitèrent à réagir contre la présence de Tierno. Bassirou, plus sensible aux traditions familiales qu'aux rivalités de l'heure, même affublées de l'épithète « religieuses », refusa de les entendre.

— Si j'ai à combattre mon cousin Tierno Bokar, dit-il, je le combattrai personnellement et j'en prendrai seul la décision.

Tierno, soulagé dans une certaine mesure, prit à Kayes le train de Bamako et arriva dans la capitale du Soudan dans les derniers jours de juin 1937.

Dès sa sortie de la gare, il me fit convoquer. Inutile de dire que je l'attendais avec impatience. J'accourus dans la maison où il s'était installé. Après avoir prononcé les salutations d'usage, je le questionnai sans attendre :

— Tierno, as-tu vu le Chérif ?

— Je l'ai vu, dit-il.

Pendant quelques longues minutes, il m'enveloppa d'un regard intense qui trahissait sa préoccupation. Puis, rompant son silence, il ajouta :

« J'ai vu l'homme. Je l'ai trouvé et je me suis retrouvé en lui. Je l'ai reconnu. Tout ce que j'avais, je l'ai déposé à ses pieds [1]. Je lui ai demandé de me donner ce qu'il avait, et il me l'a donné.

« Je n'obligerai ni élève, ni parent, ni ami à me suivre dans cette voie. Mais quant à moi, même si ma peau devait se séparer de ma chair, ma chair de mes nerfs, mes nerfs de mes os et mes os de ma moelle, si ma moelle lâchait Chérif Hamallâh, je lâcherais ma moelle !

Voyant combien sa décision était ferme, je lui demandai :

1. Sous-entendu : les chaînes de transmission qu'il avait reçues au préalable.

— Depuis que Chérif Hamallâh t'a donné le Tajdid, l'as-tu toi-même donné à quelqu'un ?

— Non.

— Tierno, ajoutai-je, j'ai eu l'honneur de faire partie des quatre premiers petits écoliers de ton école coranique. De nous quatre, je suis le seul survivant. Aujourd'hui, je voudrais être le premier de tes adeptes. Je voudrais être ton tiolel [1].

Il me regarda longuement.

— Je te demande de bien réfléchir, me dit-il. Le Chérif m'a dit que sa main contenait une braise et que la main de ceux à qui il donnait le Tajdid contenait de la poudre. Il m'a prévenu du danger. Je lui ai répondu que cela m'était égal. Mais toi, as-tu bien réfléchi ?

— Puisque cela t'est égal, cela m'est égal à moi aussi, lui répondis-je. Mon vœu est d'être derrière toi en toutes choses. Même dans le paradis, je voudrais que tu entres avant moi et que je ne fasse que te suivre. Je serai partout avec toi et inconditionnellement avec toi. Aussi je te demande maintenant de me renouveler mon wirdou.

Et je lui tendis mes mains ouvertes, dans l'attitude de celui qui reçoit.

Il procéda au Tajdid, puis énonça la chaîne de transmission :

— Abou Bokar Salif (c'est-à-dire lui-même), Amadou Hama'Ullâh (Chérif Hamallâh), Cheikh Mohammad Lakhdar, Cheikh Tahar, Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani et Seïdnâ Mohammad, le Prophète de Dieu.

Telle est la chaîne que j'ai reçue de lui.

Puis il me bénit.

Je ne pouvais m'empêcher, cependant, de m'inquiéter pour lui et je lui fis part de cette inquiétude :

— Tierno, te rends-tu compte que tu viens toi-même de jeter la braise dans la poudrière ? Ta famille ne te le pardonnera pas. On te créera les pires difficultés, on salira ta réputation.

— Je te croyais plus mûr, me dit-il. Aurais-je perdu mon temps à te préparer ? "Mon" honneur, "ma" famille, "ma" poule, "mon" cheval, mon... mon... et toujours non. Vois-tu, Amadou, l'écume ne se forme à la surface des eaux que lorsque les vagues s'élèvent hautes, se cognent durement entre elles et vont finalement heurter le rivage.

1. Le tiolel est le premier petit poisson que l'on prend après une pêche dont on est rentré bredouille.

« De même, tant que des formules analogues à "Donne-moi", "Tu ne m'as pas donné", "Tu ne dois pas avoir ça", "Il a eu", "Je voudrais être", etc. s'agiteront dans notre cœur comme des vagues en furie ou des moutons effarouchés, il s'élèvera, pour obscurcir nos yeux et boucher nos oreilles, de gros nuages sombres, chargés d'éclairs et de tonnerre. Ces nuages, porteurs de calamité, terniront pour nous le ciel et l'horizon. Et nous ne discernerons plus l'aspect serein du firmament semé d'étoiles, ni les pelouses d'herbe fine sur le flanc des collines qui dévalent vers les régions où Dieu est adoré pour lui-même.

— S'il en est ainsi, tout est bien, dis-je.

Et je lui demandai l'autorisation de me rendre à Dakar car, à ma connaissance, la source de toutes les difficultés des « onze grains » se trouvait en cette ville, en la personne de certains grands marabouts toucouleurs qui avaient l'oreille du gouvernement général. L'idée me vint, au moment même, de réaliser dans cette ville une conférence publique sur l'Islam et sur la Tidjaniya de manière à mettre au clair une fois pour toutes cette affaire. Je me proposai d'y aborder une étude approfondie des rites de la Tidjaniya et de leur signification, les adeptes se contentant, le plus souvent, d'une adhésion superficielle ou insuffisamment éclairée. J'espérais, naïvement peut-être, que cela contribuerait à dissiper les malentendus. Quoi qu'il en soit, je ne parlai pas à Tierno de cette idée qui m'avait traversé.

— Je vais faire l'Istikhar à propos de ton voyage, me dit-il. Je te demande d'attendre, pour décider quoi que ce soit, que j'aie reçu un éclaircissement.

Trois jours après, il me dit qu'il avait reçu une réponse favorable et que je pouvais partir. J'étais prêt. Je pris le train le soir même.

Il vint m'accompagner à la gare. Je le revois encore, tout de blanc vêtu comme à son accoutumée, portant un simple tourtil de dessous, sans coiffure. Il tenait à la main un long bâton de bambou. Dans la gare, il me donna sa dernière bénédiction et nous nous séparâmes. Je vis s'éloigner son visage au front si brillant. Je partais plein d'enthousiasme, la tête emplie d'idées et nourrissant l'espoir de pouvoir arranger les choses. Je ne savais pas que je ne le reverrais jamais.

Lors de mon séjour à Dakar, je pus réaliser, sous l'égide d'une association qui venait de se constituer sous le nom de « Fraternité musulmane », ma première conférence publique sur l'Islam et la Tidjaniya. Cette conférence connut un grand succès. Hélas, ce succès ne fit qu'exaspérer davantage les grands marabouts Tall qui étaient déjà acharnés à la perte de Tierno.

De son côté, Tierno avait repris le chemin de Bandiagara. Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam, son fidèle ami, l'accompagnait à nouveau. La première grande ville où ils s'arrêtèrent fut Ségou, la vieille cité au bord du fleuve où Tierno avait passé les années de sa jeunesse.

Dans cette ville se trouvait Mountaga, petit-fils d'El Hadj Omar, fils d'Amadou Chékou le Lamido dioulbé qui avait quitté le pays devant la conquête française. Les Tall, prévenus de l'arrivée de Tierno, savaient que, conformément à la coutume, la première chose qu'il ferait serait de venir saluer Mountaga en tant que chef de la maison Tall à Ségou. Ils organisèrent donc, chez ce dernier, une grande réunion pour l'accueillir à leur façon. Les griots eux-mêmes étaient là. Dans toute l'assistance, il n'y avait pas un seul lettré, pas un seul homme qualifié pour une discussion d'ordre religieux.

Comme prévu, Tierno Bokar, accompagné de Tidjani Amadou Ali, se présenta chez Mountaga dès son arrivée dans la ville. Lorsqu'il entra dans la salle, le silence se fit. Il prononça les salutations d'usage, auxquelles il fut répondu du bout des lèvres. D'emblée, Mountaga, en tant que chef des Tall, le questionna :

— Il nous est revenu que tu as demandé le Tajdid à Chérif Hamallâh et que tu l'as reconnu pour le Maître général de l'Ordre Tidjani. Est-ce vrai ?

— Oui.

— Chérif Hamallâh vaut-il davantage qu'El Hadj Omar, ou bien le vaut-il seulement ?

— A quel point de vue ?

— Au point de vue de la connaissance, de la sainteté, et à tous les points de vue.

— Ta question est mal posée, dit Tierno, car en aucune façon un saint mort ne saurait être comparé à un saint vivant dans le temps du vivant [1]. Il est dit qu'un saint vivant prime toujours un saint mort, mais le saint vivant doit respect et considération au saint mort et doit l'imiter dans les réalisations propres à son temps.

Ce fut un brouhaha indescriptible. On entendait fuser de tous côtés les cris des courtisans : « Renégat !... Tu as abandonné ta famille... Tu as rabaissé El Hadj Omar... Tu es contre El Hadj Omar !... »

Mountaga, bien qu'illettré, était un homme très pieux et, par ailleurs, raisonnable et mesuré. Il imposa silence à l'assemblée. Puis, se tournant vers Tidjani Amadou Ali Thiam, il lui dit :

— A mon sens, si quelqu'un, ici, a droit à la parole, c'est toi. Or tu es là et tu ne dis rien. Que penses-tu de l'action de Tierno Bokar ?

— Je pense, répondit mon père, que si Tierno Bokar avait ramené de son voyage une caisse pleine d'or, tous ceux qui, en ce moment, sont en train de le condamner sans avoir aucune connaissance des questions dont il s'agit, par simple imitation, se seraient partagé son or sans lui en demander l'origine et sans se soucier de sa pureté [2]. Or, quand il s'agit de religion, Tierno Bokar est juge, et non inculpé. Vous vous indignez que Tierno Bokar récite son chapelet avec onze grains au lieu de douze, mais vous-mêmes, pour la plupart, vous ne priez pas plus à onze grains qu'à douze et vous ne vous inquiétez pas de voir aujourd'hui vos enfants fréquenter davantage le cabaret que la mosquée. C'est cela qui, pour vous, est acceptable !

Sur ces mots, il se tut.

1. Sous-entendu : lorsque les temps changent, les conditions exigées changent également, de même que les caractéristiques et les réalisations extérieures. Seuls les principes et valeurs fondamentaux demeurent immuables.

2. Au sens islamique, un bien est pur, ou licite, s'il a été acquis honnêtement non seulement par son actuel détenteur, mais par ceux qui le lui ont transmis. D'où la nécessité de connaître l'origine d'un bien pour savoir s'il est licite.

Pour l'assistance, composée uniquement de Tall, c'était là non un langage de bon sens, mais une simple réaction de Thiam. Les Thiam n'étaient-ils pas la famille traditionnellement rivale des Tall? N'étaient-ils pas connus pour ne jamais tenir de propos flatteurs? Quoi qu'il en soit, ces paroles déplurent beaucoup à Mountaga qui s'en blessa.

— Puisque je connais maintenant, dit-il, la position de Tierno Bokar et la tienne, Tidjani Amadou Ali, séparons-nous. Désormais, il n'y aura plus rien de commun entre vous et nous!

Tierno et son ami se retirèrent. Le lendemain, ils quittaient la ville et prenaient la direction de Mopti, dernière grande étape avant Bandiagara.

A Mopti, la nouvelle du ralliement de Tierno Bokar à Chérif Hamallâh était déjà connue des autorités françaises. Informé par les grands marabouts Tall, le gouvernement général de Dakar avait fait parvenir au commandant de Mopti des instructions précises: il lui fallait veiller à ce que le retour de Tierno Bokar ne troublât pas l'ordre public. A la moindre menace de troubles, il fallait le déporter et le placer en résidence surveillée loin des territoires de la boucle du Niger.

Le « grand interprète » du commandant de Mopti était alors Oumar Sy, lequel était fort attaché à Tierno qui était son marabout. Comme tout grand interprète, il était dans les secrets des dieux et des commandants. Il eut donc vent de l'affaire bien avant l'arrivée de Tierno. Dans son désir de le protéger contre le coup monté que l'on préparait contre lui, il entreprit une manœuvre astucieuse.

Dès qu'Oumar Sy apprit que Tierno avait quitté l'étape de Ségou, il se rendit incognito à Bandiagara, la nuit même, dans la voiture d'un ami. Il demanda une entrevue à Tidjani Aguibou Tall, fils de l'ancien roi de Bandiagara, qui était alors Chef du canton de Bandiagara et Chef du clan Tall de la ville.

— Tidjani Aguibou, lui dit-il, ton cousin Tierno Bokar va arriver à Mopti demain, sans doute dans la soirée. D'après ce que j'ai appris, il risque d'être déporté en raison du Tajdid qu'il a reçu de Chérif Hamallâh et l'on compte se servir de toi contre ton cousin. Je suis donc venu te demander de ne pas te laisser manœuvrer. Dans cette affaire, je serai avec toi. Si tu acceptes mon assistance, je puis me charger, par exemple, d'informer le commandant que tu as décidé de venir chercher ton cousin, que tu as toute influence sur lui du fait de ta position familiale et que tu donnes ta parole au commandant qu'il n'y aura aucun trouble. J'ajouterai que c'est là une affaire de famille dans laquelle l'Administration n'a pas à intervenir et que tu comptes régler cette affaire toi-même. Nous dirons que ceux de Dakar, de Nioro, de Kayes et de Ségou ne connaissent pas vraiment Tierno Bokar, n'ayant jamais vécu avec lui, alors que toi tu le connais, ayant toujours été auprès de lui et lui ayant même donné l'un de tes fils comme élève. Si tu viens, fais-toi accompagner par quelques notables. Mais attention! Lorsque tu te trouveras en présence de Tierno Bokar, dis seulement que tu viens le chercher et rien d'autre. Que ni toi, ni ceux qui t'accompagneront ne parlent de religion devant Tierno pour ne pas provoquer une réaction de sa part ou une parole imprudente.

Tidjani Aguibou Tall, qui aimait bien Tierno, donna son accord. Oumar Sy revint à Mopti la nuit même, les deux villes n'étant distantes que de soixante-dix kilomètres. Le lendemain matin, comme chaque jour, il se rendit au bureau du commandant. Le soir, Tierno Bokar arrivait à Mopti où il passa la nuit, ne devant rencontrer le commandant que le matin suivant.

Au début de cette seconde nuit mouvementée, Oumar Sy vint trouver Tierno pour le prévenir qu'un complot avait été monté contre lui:

— On veut te faire passer pour un agitateur, prêt à faire parler la poudre dans la montagne, lui dit-il. Ne te prête pas à ce jeu. Écoute mes conseils pour éviter que l'on ne déclenche sans toi une bagarre qui porterait ton nom. Ton cousin Tidjani Aguibou Tall va venir au-devant de toi. Tu connais sa droiture. Je te demande de le suivre au nom de la tradition familiale. Dès lors qu'il s'agit de tradition familiale, aucune question de religion ne se pose.

— En effet, répondit Tierno, dès lors que nous nous situons dans ce seul cadre, je me considère comme un serviteur de Tidjani Aguibou Tall. Il peut faire de moi ce qu'il veut, cela n'a effectivement rien à voir avec la religion.

Oumar Sy poussa un soupir de soulagement. Assuré maintenant que Tierno Bokar ne refuserait pas de suivre Tidjani Aguibou Tall, il fit savoir à ce dernier qu'il aurait à se présenter chez le commandant le lendemain matin. Après ces deux nuits bien remplies, il rentra enfin chez lui prendre un peu de repos.

Le lendemain matin, il se rendit très tôt au Cercle afin d'être sûr de pouvoir parler au commandant avant l'arrivée de Tierno. A peine le commandant était-il installé à son bureau qu'il attaqua le sujet :

— Mon commandant, je crois que les craintes du gouvernement général de Dakar ne sont pas fondées et que les renseignements qui ont été donnés sur Tierno Bokar sont inexacts. En fait, nous n'aurons aucune histoire.

A cette époque, les grands interprètes jouissaient généralement de toute la confiance des commandants de Cercle qui tenaient grand compte de leurs avis. Le commandant de Mopti, qui s'appelait Levavasseur, se sentit plus à l'aise après cette déclaration. Comme tout commandant qui se respecte, son seul souci était d'éviter que son Cercle ne fût troublé par la moindre complication.

De son côté, Tidjani Aguibou Tall, qu'accompagnaient Alpha Ali le vieil ami de Tierno, Sada Wane et Mamadou Ibrahima Ali ses cousins directs, plus quelques notables, était arrivé à Mopti tôt dans la matinée. Il s'était rendu directement dans la maison où logeait Tierno.

— J'ai appris, lui dit-il, qu tu es revenu. Je suis venu au-devant de toi pour te ramener à Bandiagara. Je désire qu'après ta visite au commandant de Cercle nous quittions immédiatement la ville. Je ne veux pas que tu séjournes ici ne serait-ce qu'une heure de plus.

Tierno ayant donné son accord, ils partirent tous ensemble pour la Résidence. Dès leur arrivée, on fit entrer Tierno dans le bureau du commandant. Celui-ci lui posa, en français, la question suivante :

— Tierno Bokar, es-tu prêt à retourner à la pratique dont tu es l'un des grands chefs (c'est-à-dire les « douze grains ») et que tout soit dit, oui ou non ?

Le grand interprète Oumar Sy se tourna vers Tierno comme pour s'apprêter à lui traduire les propos du commandant mais, réalisant toutes les fâcheuses conséquences que pourrait entraîner une réponse sincère de Tierno, il prit sur lui d'inventer une phrase anodine, l'essentiel étant que Tierno puisse répondre « oui » en hochant la tête d'une façon bien visible. Il lui « traduisit » donc la phrase suivante :

— Tidjani Aguibou Tall, le Chef de Bandiagara, accompagné de notables, est venu au-devant de toi pour que tu partes avec lui à Bandiagara. Es-tu prêt à le suivre ?

Tierno répondit « oui » d'un grand geste de la tête que le commandant put voir de ses yeux. L'interprète se retourna alors vers ce dernier :

« Tierno Bokar va suivre son frère, qui est tout à la fois son chef et son aîné. Il ne peut aller contre les ordres que lui donne son frère. Celui-ci lui demandant de réintégrer la famille, c'est ce qu'il va faire.

Dans l'esprit du commandant Levavasseur, cela signifiait que Tierno rompait avec les « onze grains » et réintégrait sa famille en reprenant les « douze grains ». Pour lui, tout était donc réglé.

Une difficulté restait à régler pour Oumar Sy. Dans le même bureau se tenait en effet un commis africain qui, parlant le français, avait tout entendu et tout compris. Toujours plein d'astuce, Oumar Sy se tourna vers lui :

« C'est là une question purement familiale, lui dit-il. Et nous ne devons pas, en tant qu'africains, aider à la détérioration d'une famille ; sinon nous en serions les complices. Je voudrais que tu échanges quelques mots avec Tidjani, puis que tu dises au commandant : "Tidjani Aguibou Tall m'a confirmé lui-même que Tierno Bokar est d'accord avec lui".

Le commis — de connivence avec l'interprète, comme tous les commis — s'entretint brièvement avec Tidjani, puis dit au commandant :

— Mon commandant, Tidjani Aguibou Tall il est venu chercher son frère [1] et son frère il accepte de le suivre en tout. Comme ça, pas d'histoires !

Oumar Sy avait trouvé un témoin.

C'est ainsi que le commandant Levavasseur, à l'insu de

1. En Afrique, les cousins sont couramment appelés « frères ».

Tierno, fut induit en erreur par une astuce de son grand interprète. Ce dernier, dont la seule intention était d'éviter que son Maître ne fût déporté, ne pouvait prévoir que cette erreur se révélerait, beaucoup plus tard, très lourde de conséquences pour Tierno Bokar.

Dans le « registre-journal » du Cercle, le commandant écrivit :

« Ce jour, Tierno Bokar Salif Tall et les membres de sa famille se sont présentés à moi. Le marabout Tierno Bokar reprend les "douze grains" et abandonne la pratique des "onze grains". Les siens sont venus le chercher. Tout est réglé, l'affaire est close. »

Et il envoya un télégramme en ce sens au gouvernement général de Dakar pour l'informer que l'affaire était terminée [1].

Les grands marabouts toucouleurs de Dakar apprirent l'événement par leurs amis du gouvernement général. Connaissant la fermeté de caractère de Tierno, ils doutèrent de la réalité de son reniement. Voulant en avoir le cœur net, ils actionnèrent leurs partisans à Bandiagara afin de vérifier si, effectivement, Tierno Bokar était revenu à la pratique des « douze grains ». Bien entendu, on constata que Tierno continuait à réciter tranquillement son chapelet à « onze grains » dans la mosquée, avec la bénédiction du Chef de canton, son cousin Tidjani Aguibou Tall.

Ne pouvant attaquer ce dernier de front, les marabouts firent porter leur offensive sur un autre plan. Ils imaginèrent de brouiller Tierno Bokar avec Chérif Hamallâh en envoyant à ce dernier des lettres injurieuses signées « Tierno Bokar ». Quand ces lettres arrivèrent à la zaouïa de Nioro, certains élèves, méfiants par principe à l'égard de tout ce qui était Tall, mordirent à l'hameçon et essayèrent d'indisposer le Chérif contre Tierno. Mais le maître avait éventé le piège.

— Non, leur dit-il, l'homme que j'ai vu ne trahira jamais la parole donnée. D'ailleurs, ces lettres ne sont pas de son écriture, que je connais. Or, s'il avait à m'écrire, il le ferait de sa main. Ne vous laissez donc pas induire en erreur par des gens qui ne cherchent que ce résultat.

1. Je tiens tous ces détails d'Oumar Sy lui-même, qui est mort à Mopti voilà quelques années.

Devant ce nouvel échec, les marabouts se décidèrent à aller trouver Tidjani Aguibou Tall, le Chef de Bandiagara.

— Tierno Bokar t'a induit en erreur, lui dirent-ils. Il n'a pas cessé sa pratique des « onze grains ». Nous devons agir contre lui, ainsi que tous nos parents nous l'ont prescrit.

La réponse de Tidjani Aguibou fut sans équivoque :

— Les Tall qui me poussent à sévir contre Tierno Bokar, dit-il, l'ont eu entre leurs mains avant qu'il ne rentre à Bandiagara. Pourquoi n'ont-ils pas agi eux-mêmes et ne l'ont-ils pas supprimé chez eux ? Tant que je vivrai, en tout cas, personne ne touchera ici à Tierno Bokar. Il est mieux placé que nous tous pour savoir ce qui est valable ou non en matière de religion.

L'affaire en resta là. Tierno avait repris ses habitudes d'antan, ses cours à la zaouïa et ses prières à la mosquée. Lorsqu'il récitait sa wazifa, il égrenait les onze grains de son chapelet et tout le monde fermait les yeux. Il vivait là, sans le savoir, ses derniers jours de bonheur et de paix, bien loin des mesquineries des hommes.

L'épreuve

La paix ne dura pas un an. Le 21 mai 1938, Tidjani Aguibou Tall mourait et la succession à la chefferie de Bandiagara était ouverte. Désormais, le cousin conciliant et bien placé ne couvrait plus Tierno. Celui-ci allait subir le contrecoup des incidents qui accompagnèrent et suivirent la désignation du nouveau chef.

A la suite de diverses manœuvres tendant à évincer deux autres candidats présentant des titres à la succession, un receveur des postes, Moktar Aguibou Tall, fut nommé Chef du canton de Bandiagara par l'Administration française, grâce à une action directe des grands marabouts Tall de Dakar dont il devenait ainsi l'obligé.

Jusque-là, Moktar Aguibou Tall avait entretenu d'excellentes relations avec Tierno Bokar. On peut même dire qu'il lui était dévoué. Mais un vieux Diawando [1], qui avait un compte personnel à régler avec Moktar, allait mettre le feu aux poudres.

Ce vieux Diawando, appelé Aguibou Ousmane, avait tout d'abord soutenu un autre candidat à la chefferie. Victime d'une ruse de la part des marabouts Tall de Dakar qui lui avaient fait craindre une imaginaire mesure de déportation, il avait finalement été contraint de se rallier publiquement à Moktar Aguibou. L'indiscrétion d'un commis d'administration lui permit, mais trop tard, d'apprendre le tour qui lui avait été joué. Aussi jura-t-il de se venger et de trouver le moyen de rendre Moktar Aguibou le plus impopulaire de tous les chefs ayant jamais existé à Bandiagara ou devant y exister jamais.

1. Les Diawambe (pluriel de Diawando) sont une ethnie non peule, mais foulaphone (de langue peule), vivant surtout auprès des Peuls. Ils sont réputés pour leur intelligence et pour leur ruse.

Il commença par pénétrer dans l'intimité de Moktar Aguibou, ne le quittant plus d'une semelle, affichant un dévouement total, se rendant indispensable. Bref, il fit tant et si bien que Moktar finit par le considérer comme son meilleur conseiller. Tout était en place pour pousser le nouveau Chef de canton vers une mauvaise affaire.

Le vieux Diawando entrevit la possibilité de rendre Moktar très impopulaire dans Bandiagara s'il parvenait à l'opposer à Tierno Bokar. Celui-ci était en effet très aimé dans la ville où l'on jugeait sévèrement les reniements, quels qu'ils soient. Il espérait qu'un revirement de Moktar en faveur des ennemis de Tierno lui vaudrait le mépris de la population, sans penser aux conséquences qui pourraient en résulter pour le vieux maître.

Aussi, un jour où il se trouvait seul avec Moktar Aguibou Tall, lui tint-il ce discours :

— Moktar, il est une chose qui risque de ternir ton commandement. Je regrette d'avoir à t'en parler, mais puisque j'ai promis de t'aider et que tu as promis de m'écouter, mon devoir est de te mettre en garde. Il s'agit de ton cousin Tierno Bokar. Il a instauré dans Bandiagara une chose qui n'a été faite sous aucun des anciens chefs de la cité, tes prédécesseurs. Et s'il a osé le faire sous ton commandement, c'est parce qu'il n'a aucune considération pour toi. Tout le monde dit que tu es faible et que tu ne vaux rien. Mais c'est confondre ta politesse avec de la faiblesse. Mon devoir est de te dire que, lorsqu'on est chef, on doit mettre la politesse de côté. Crois-moi, si tu ne sévis pas contre Tierno Bokar en lui interdisant de pratiquer les « onze grains », tu seras le dernier des Tall.

Tel était le moyen le plus rapide que le rusé Diawando avait trouvé pour placer Moktar en mauvaise posture [1].

Hélas, Moktar Aguibou n'avait pas la sagesse de son prédécesseur Tidjani Aguibou Tall. Au lieu de se renseigner, d'aller se confier à Tierno ou même de discuter avec lui, il se laissa prendre au jeu du vieux Diawando et n'écouta que son indigna-

1. Plus tard, une fois sa vengeance achevée, Aguibou Ousmane raconta lui-même à de nombreux notables de Bandiagara comment il s'y était pris pour manœuvrer Moktar et s'en vanta jusque sur la place du marché. C'est ainsi que, de diverses sources, j'ai pu connaître le fond de l'affaire.

tion. Pensait-il, de surcroît, qu'en agissant contre les « onze grains », bête noire de l'Administration coloniale et des marabouts Tall dont il était l'obligé, il entrerait dans leurs bonnes grâces? Toujours est-il que le premier vendredi suivant cet entretien, à la mosquée, alors que venait de se terminer la grande prière en commun à laquelle assistaient Tierno Bokar et ses élèves, il se leva et prit la parole :

— Assalaam aleïkoum! Le salut sur vous !

— Aleïka'salaam! Le salut sur toi ! répondit la foule des fidèles.

— Je suis Moktar Aguibou Tall, Chef de Bandiagara par la grâce de Dieu et chef de la famille d'El Hadj Omar. Ce qui n'a été fait sous aucun de mes prédécesseurs ne sera pas fait sous Moktar Aguibou. Je parle de la pratique des « onze grains ». Ceux qui ne veulent pas respecter la voie tracée par El Hadj Omar, je les déplumerai comme on déplume un poulet sacrificiel, à commencer par leur chef. Pour être plus direct, c'est à toi que je m'adresse, Tierno Bokar Salif, puisque c'est toi qui veux instaurer ici ce qui n'y a jamais été instauré avant.

Ces dernières paroles tombèrent dans un silence total. L'assistance était sidérée. Chacun attendait ce qui allait suivre.

Tierno Bokar était assis au premier rang des fidèles. Dès qu'il entendit Moktar prononcer son nom, il se leva, ramassa ses babouches et sortit par la porte du sud de la mosquée, sans dire un mot et sans se retourner. Imitant son exemple, ses élèves se levèrent également sans rien dire et le suivirent. Pour la dernière fois de sa vie, Tierno franchit la porte de ce lieu de prière où il avait passé tant d'heures de son existence.

Il n'a pas dit, plus tard, pourquoi il s'était tu. On peut cependant supposer, étant donné qu'il n'avait jamais accepté de participer à aucune polémique, que ce jour-là plus que tout autre il n'avait pas voulu jeter de l'huile sur le feu et risquer un incident dont, finalement, ses élèves auraient été les victimes. Il se dirigea donc silencieusement vers sa demeure, accompagné de ses élèves. Ceux-ci me rapporteront qu'une fois rentré chez lui, il s'était exclamé tristement :

— Qu'ont-ils donc contre le nombre onze ? Ne voient-ils pas que la mosquée elle-même repose sur onze piliers ?

Après la sortie de Tierno, Moktar, rendu plus furieux encore par ce silence auquel il ne s'attendait sans doute pas, avait continué de vitupérer :

— Bon ! Ils sont sortis de cette mosquée. Eh bien ! ils n'y rentreront plus jamais. Je leur en interdis désormais l'accès ! Je leur interdis de se réunir pour prier en commun où que ce soit ! Je leur interdis de se promener deux à deux !

C'était presque une excommunication. Moktar Aguibou étant considéré comme une émanation du puissant clan des Tall, protégé de surcroît par les autorités françaises, il n'était pas question, pour la population, de contrevenir à ses ordres. Ce fut, pour Tierno et ses amis, le début d'une quarantaine inflexible qui allait conduire le doux homme de Dieu à vivre ses derniers jours dans une solitude presque totale.

En sortant de la mosquée, le chef Moktar Aguibou Tall s'était précipité chez le commandant de la subdivision de Bandiagara, le commandant Ortoli, pour lui dire que l'on assistait à une recrudescence des « onze grains » et que Tierno Bokar, bien qu'ayant accepté de réintégrer les « douze grains », était revenu à la pratique des « onze ».

Or, il se trouvait que le commandant Ortoli était adjoint au commandant de Cercle de Mopti à l'époque où Tierno avait été reçu par ce dernier. Ortoli avait vu lui-même, sur le registre-journal du commandant, le procès-verbal indiquant que Tierno avait renoncé aux « onze grains » pour revenir dans le sein des « douze ». Convaincu que Tierno était un fieffé hypocrite, il le convoqua à son bureau. Dès qu'il le vit, il l'attaqua :

— Eh bien, Tierno Bokar ! Il paraît qu'après être revenu aux « douze grains » tu les as abandonnés de nouveau pour retourner aux « onze grains » ?

— Je ne comprends pas, répondit Tierno qui, bien entendu, ignorait tout du subterfuge auquel s'était livré l'interprète Oumar Sy à Mopti. Depuis que j'ai pris les « onze grains » à Nioro en 1937, ajouta-t-il, je ne les ai jamais abandonnés et n'ai pas cessé de les pratiquer jusqu'à ce jour.

Ces paroles mirent le commandant Ortoli hors de lui. Il rappela à Tierno la conversation de Mopti où il avait paru abjurer. Tierno, fort étonné, répliqua qu'en aucune circonstance il n'avait jamais renié le Chérif de Nioro. Bien entendu, il ne put convaincre Ortoli. Aux yeux de l'Administration française, Tierno passa désormais pour un homme de mauvaise foi. La petite tricherie d'Omar Sy, inspirée par un bon sentiment, tournait au drame.

Ortoli écrivit au commandant de Cercle de Mopti pour lui signaler que Bandiagara connaissait une recrudescence du Hamallisme. Son rapport fut transmis au gouvernement du Soudan. En retour, des instructions furent données pour que l'on sévisse durement contre Tierno Bokar et ses adeptes. C'était le début de la persécution ouverte.

Pour commencer, toutes les femmes toucouleurs qui avaient épousé un élève de Tierno Bokar reçurent, de leurs parents, l'ordre de quitter leur mari et de réintégrer leur famille. Or, à l'époque, personne, homme ou femme, ne pouvait s'opposer à un ordre reçu de ses parents, quelles que soient les circonstances. Les procès intentés par les maris auprès de l'Administration n'aboutirent évidemment à rien. Une épidémie de divorces s'abattit sur la ville. Les enfants, quand il y en avait, furent attribués d'office à leur mère.

La zaouïa fut fermée. Les externes durent rejoindre leur famille en ville. Les élèves qui vivaient dans la zaouïa furent dispersés aux quatre coins du pays. Certains jeunes gens furent inscrits d'office sur le registre du contingent, recrutés et envoyés dans l'armée. Dans la seule famille d'Ali Bodiel, à Bandiagara, on appela sous les drapeaux le même jour, contrairement aux règlements militaires, quatre frères de même père et même mère.

Jour et nuit, Tierno fut épié. Les entrées et les sorties de sa concession étaient enregistrées, ses visiteurs inquiétés ou déportés. Dès ce moment, Tierno ne sortit plus jamais de sa concession. Il ne la quitta qu'au jour de sa mort. La pression exercée sur ses visiteurs fut telle que, bientôt, seule une poignée de fidèles amis osaient venir le voir.

La vie matérielle devenait de jour en jour plus difficile. Personne ne lui vendait plus rien. On peut imaginer la détresse de cette famille comptant environ vingt personnes, mise dans l'incapacité de sortir et de s'approvisionner et n'ayant, de toute façon, plus aucun revenu pour assurer sa subsistance. Alors que les membres du propre clan de Tierno Bokar, de sa propre confrérie, de sa propre religion, l'abandonnaient sans remords, ce furent ses amis les Dogons de la falaise, dont certains étaient convertis de fraîche date, qui assurèrent sa subsistance et celle des siens. La nuit, ils venaient se glisser furtivement auprès de sa concession et jetaient pas-dessus le mur des outres pleines de mil et de condiments qui leur permirent de survivre.

En dépit de ces terribles conditions d'existence, Tierno, qui ne vivait plus qu'au milieu de sa famille et de quatre ou cinq élèves, restait le même. Il continuait d'enseigner à son entourage et demeurait toujours aussi serein. On est cependant en droit, étant donné la sensibilité extrême qui était l'une des marques de sa nature, d'imaginer que derrière cette sérénité, fruit de sa communion avec Dieu, la souffrance n'était pas absente.

Se souvenait-il alors de ces paroles qu'il nous avait dites en 1933 ?

« En vérité, la langue de celui qui adore Dieu est comme un tison ardent. Pour les esprits idolâtres des valeurs matérielles, elle est un motif de trouble constant. Par peur qu'elle ne les brûle, ils déversent sur elle l'eau bourbeuse de la calomnie, croyant ainsi pouvoir sauver la case de chaume où s'abrite l'idole de la convoitise et du mensonge. Frère en Dieu qui viens au seuil de notre zaouïa, es-tu décidé à chanter à n'importe quel prix l'hymne de la Vérité ? Souviens-toi de ces versets :

"Malheur au vil calomniateur qui amasse des richesses et qui les compte !
Il pense que ses richesses le rendront immortel.
Non ! Il sera précipité dans Houtamah !" (l'un des noms de l'Enfer).

(Coran CIV, 1 à 4). »

De mon côté, j'ignorais tout de ce qui se passait. Au retour de mon voyage à Dakar, j'avais été affecté à Bamako où, depuis juillet 1937, j'étais plus ou moins en résidence surveillée, ne pouvant quitter la ville. Revenant de congé, je ne pouvais espérer prétendre à une permission avant trois ou cinq ans.

Aucune nouvelle ne nous parvenait de Bandiagara, distante de Bamako de huit cents kilomètres. Ce n'est qu'après la mort de Tierno que je pus me rendre à Bandiagara, grâce à la compréhension et à l'aide de mon commandant de Cercle, André Morel, un homme de bien [1].

Marcel Cardaire, au cours de son enquête sur la vie de Tierno Bokar, avait rencontré à Mopti, comme nous l'avons dit, les veuves de Tierno et les avaient interrogées sur les derniers jours du Maître. Écoutons son témoignage, tel qu'il figurait dans la première édition de ce livre [2].

> Le petit nombre de ses fidèles, plus réduit chaque semaine, souffrait de la situation qui lui était faite et ne s'en cachait pas. Ces gens se plaisaient à la pensée que leur maître dominait les mesquineries qui le visaient. Ils étaient transportés à l'idée que la méchanceté des hommes avait amené Tierno à se réfugier toujours plus intimement dans les bras de son Créateur.
> Ses entretiens avec Dieu ne cessaient pratiquement plus. Perpétuellement serein d'apparence, il se tenait de l'aube à la fin du jour dans les coins de la maison qu'il aimait, parmi les autres. Ramassé sur lui-même, les yeux clos, il s'évadait. Tout ce qui lui restait de vie se concentrait dans ses mains amaigries entre lesquelles le chapelet roulait tout au long du jour. Parfois, il allait dans la zaouïa déserte et les siens pouvaient s'étonner de son apparente insensibilité au spectacle qui les torturait. Les cases étaient vides, les cours abandonnées. Les bandes de coton ne séchaient plus sur les pierres et sur les cordes, serpents

1. Lors de ce voyage à Bandiagara, j'aurai d'ailleurs un entretien avec le commandant Ortoli et pourrai lui expliquer tout le fond de l'affaire. C'était un homme honnête. Il se rendit compte qu'une erreur avait été commise et remit les choses en ordre dans la ville. Jusqu'à son départ de Bandiagara, les « onze grains » n'y furent pas inquiétés.

2. Tierno Bokar, le Sage de Bandiagara, op. cit., p. 65. Je signale toutefois que j'ai dû, par endroits, rectifier certaines petites erreurs du récit ou lui apporter certains compléments.

> blancs qui égayaient autrefois l'école comme l'auraient fait des banderoles de fête. Les grands feux étaient éteints, les marmites renversées, les portes béantes comme des bouches dans un visage effrayé. Le vent secouait les nattes inutiles.
> En fait, le maître était frappé à mort. Un petit d'hirondelle tombé du nid avait jadis mis cet homme au bord des larmes [1] ; les pleurs de l'enfant le choquaient comme une blessure ; sa parole avait prêché la tolérance et l'amour et, aujourd'hui, le sectarisme et la haine l'abattaient. Il retrouvait ses vieux ennemis au soir de sa vie, au moment où sa voix s'affaiblissait. La parole elle-même ne lui était-elle pas interdite ?
> Les trahisons se multipliaient autour de lui. Son propre neveu, l'ancien élève d'Alpha Ali qu'il avait désigné comme moniteur de son école coranique, l'homme qu'il avait peut-être le plus choyé, était passé au service de Moktar. Les plus intimes ne venaient plus que par les nuits sans lune, puis ne vinrent plus du tout. La calomnie et la haine avaient fait le vide autour de la concession. Aux yeux des croyants ignorants ou trop attachés à la lettre mal comprise de la confrérie omarienne, il passait pour un hérétique relaps, orgueilleusement retiré sur son erreur. Aux yeux de l'indifférent, il était celui que l'on devait éviter parce qu'il était en disgrâce auprès de la Chefferie locale et de l'Administration coloniale. Aux yeux des Tall, enfin, il avait trahi sa famille, faute que l'on ne pardonne pas. Lui rendre visite devenait un acte de courage, voire de témérité.
> Sans que l'on y mît la moindre malice, les échos de la ville lui étaient parfois rapportés ainsi que les propos de ses ennemis. Chaque fois, il répondait :
> — Ils sont plus dignes de pitié et de prières que de condamnation et de reproche, parce qu'ils sont ignorants. Ils ne savent pas et, malheureusement, ils ne savent pas qu'ils ne savent pas.

1. On trouvera ce récit p. 159.

Tierno se réfugiait de plus en plus dans la prière et la méditation; mais au cours de ses exercices pieux, son corps le trahissait parfois.

Le prochain hivernage devait abattre l'une ou l'autre de ses cases dont l'argamasse demandait à être rechargée. Le prochain hivernage. Tierno savait bien qu'il ne le verrait pas, mais il ne fallait pas donner sa faiblesse en spectacle. Il usait ses dernières forces à donner sa dernière leçon en un dernier exemple. L'orgueil n'avait rien à voir dans son comportement; l'orgueil était aussi loin de Tierno qu'il pouvait l'être. Il absolvait la haine et pardonnait les trahisons. Ceux qui l'écoutaient avaient l'impression que, pour lui, l'homme n'existait que pour être pardonné et Dieu pour qu'on lui rende grâce... Et son pardon aux hommes était sincère et sincères aussi les remerciements qu'il adressait à Dieu pour toutes les nouvelles épreuves qui s'abattaient sur lui.

Ce qu'il vécut alors dans le secret de son cœur, nul ne le connut car il ne voulut le partager avec personne. Ses épouses pleuraient, ses serviteurs étaient des simples qui l'admiraient, souvent sans le bien comprendre.

Il dépensait ses dernières forces. Il était brisé irrémédiablement. Sa santé déclinait de jour en jour. Il ne mangeait plus, dormait à peine, maigrissait à vue d'œil. Son entourage s'efforçait vainement, avec candeur, de le soutenir en le nourrissant.

La fraîcheur de décembre et de janvier n'améliora en rien son état. Aux souffrances morales s'ajoutèrent bientôt les souffrances physiques. Il se couvrit de furoncles. Un anthrax lui vint à la tempe droite, puis un autre à la tempe gauche. Avec un rasoir, il coupa celui qui lui semblait le plus mûr. Sa tête se mit à enfler. On appela un médecin, mais il était trop tard. La septicémie s'était déclarée. D'horribles maux de tête le prirent qui ne lui laissèrent désormais, et jusqu'à la fin, aucun répit. Il se coucha pour ne plus se relever.

Seul, allongé dans sa case, Tierno vivait des journées et des nuits fiévreuses. Glacé sous sa couverture ou ruisselant sur sa natte, le mourant écoutait, entre deux prières, les bruits qui jalonnaient le temps. C'en était bien fini du rire des élèves, de la psalmodie du Coran et du bourdonnement des conversations qui berçait le sommeil très avant dans la nuit. La fraîcheur du matin et l'appel du muezzin qui venait de la mosquée interdite le tiraient de la somnolence. Un coq chantait. Des tourterelles, puis un coq de pagode, saluaient le lever du soleil. Dans la cour, Néné ou Fatumsuka, la servante, pilait le mil. Ceux qui passaient près de la porte parlaient à voix basse. Le chien, fils ou petit-fils de celui qui avait jadis escorté le maître, paraissait sur le seuil. L'odeur malsaine de la fièvre l'arrêtait et il repartait la queue basse. Le matin passait. La chaleur de midi rétablissait le silence, puis la vie reprenait. Pilons dans le mortier qui ajoutaient encore au martèlement du sang à ses oreilles. Batailles de coqs, de chats, de chiens. La cour vivait. La vie continuait tandis qu'il s'éteignait dans une solitude douloureuse. Le chant du muezzin marquait la fin du jour. C'était l'heure triste entre toutes. Là-bas, au pied du palais royal, l'appel à la prière s'élevait pour tous, sauf pour lui et les siens. La nuit tombait.

Chaque soir, les maux de tête se faisaient plus intenses. Son visage était enflé, ses traits déformés, mais ses yeux brillants de fièvre gardaient la même douceur. Aucune plainte contre son mal ne sortait de ses lèvres. Néné, sa première épouse, nous confia:

— Il allait à la mort comme à une fête.

Quelqu'un proposa d'appeler un guérisseur puisque la science des Européens s'avérait inefficace. Tierno s'y opposa:

— N'en faites rien. Ce n'est pas de ces remèdes que j'ai besoin. Le médecin lui-même ne pouvait rien pour moi. Je lui ai demandé de venir, non pas pour qu'il me guérisse, mais pour que l'on ne dise pas que vous n'avez pas fait tout ce qu'il fallait faire.

— De temps à autre, poursuivait Néné, la douleur se faisait plus violente. Elle tordait son pauvre visage. Et Tierno, à haute voix, demandait à Dieu le courage de supporter ses peines.

Un soir, le 8 ou 9 février 1940, Néné vint écouter sur le seuil. Tierno parlait :
— Mon Dieu, prends-moi en pleine vie. Tue-moi, arrache-moi à cette existence et recueille-moi dans la mort. Je sais que tu me rendras la vie dès que tu me l'auras prise. »
Le vent d'est, frais et sec, secouait la natte qui fermait la porte. Une bouffée de vent apporta jusqu'au moribond quelques échos de la ville. Tierno sortit un instant de son entretien avec Dieu :
— Pauvre Bandiagara... Si Bandiagara savait ! Si les gens de Bandiagara avaient su... Ils auraient sorti beaucoup d'argent de leurs bourses pour prolonger ma vie. Mais ils ne savaient pas... Mon Dieu, pardonne-moi et pardonne-leur parce qu'ils ne savaient pas. »
Nous pouvons attester, sans risque d'erreur, que la pieuse Néné n'avait jamais entendu parler des lamentations de Seïdna Issa (Jésus) sur Jérusalem.
Néné poussa la natte et entra dans la pièce. Elle s'effondra aux pieds de son époux et fondit en larmes.
— Non, ne pleure pas, lui dit-il.
Mais Néné ne pouvait arrêter ses sanglots. Elle ne pouvait pas davantage arrêter ceux qui l'étouffaient en nous rapportant cette scène :
— Aujourd'hui, c'est son corps qui est parti ; mais c'est notre âme qu'il a emportée. Son départ nous a plongées dans l'obscurité. Il n'y a plus de lampe dans la maison. La lumière matérielle n'éclaire que les demeures : mais lui, il était la lumière de nos âmes.
Cette femme avait repris le vocabulaire de son époux. Quinze ans après la mort de Tierno, ses propres mots emplissaient la petite case de Mopti et nos gorges se serraient. C'est ce soir où il se lamenta sur Bandiagara que Néné entendit son époux s'adresser à elle pour la dernière fois :
— Je m'en vais... Je vous confie à Dieu à qui mon père m'avait confié.

A sa deuxième femme, il avait dit :
— Aminata, je te pardonne. Sache bien que si mon corps vous quitte, mon âme reste près de vous. Quand vous aurez un doute, étendez les mains et si, de l'endroit où je serai, les âmes peuvent répondre, vous m'entendrez.

Dans la nuit qui suivit, les douleurs de Tierno ne lui laissèrent aucun répit. Il passa la nuit en prière. Au matin, il était épuisé mais toujours lucide. Il sentit que sa fin était proche. Dominant sa souffrance et son abattement, il se mit sur son séant et demanda à faire ses ablutions. Fatumsuka, sa servante, apporta de l'eau.
Cette femme nous a dit elle-même le bonheur qu'elle avait lu dans le regard de son maître lorsqu'il avait constaté qu'il pouvait encore procéder à ces rites sacrés auxquels son grand-père l'avait initié aux jours lointains de Ségou. Épuisé par l'effort qu'il avait déployé, Tierno s'effondra sur sa natte et, dans le courant de la matinée, entra en agonie. C'était le 19 février 1940.
Les femmes étaient sorties de sa chambre. Les épouses s'étaient retirées chez elles. Fatumsuka se tenait de l'autre côté de la cour, sur le seuil de la case qui faisait face à la chambre de l'agonisant. Près de Tierno se tenaient les quelques amis restés fidèles : Samba Bâ, Thiamba, l'élève et le serviteur, et aussi le père de Youssouf. Lorsque Tierno perdit connaissance, ils pensèrent que la fin était venue. Il ne s'agissait que d'un évanouissement. Le mourant ouvrit les yeux, mais le regard paraissait fuir. Le père de Youssouf, pieux homme, se pencha sur la natte :
— Tierno, dit-il, prononce la Shahada [1].
Le maître avait souvent parlé de ces derniers instants de l'homme et il avait toujours dit que si la langue se paralysait, si la bouche refusait de s'ouvrir pour prononcer les paroles suprêmes attestant l'existence et l'unicité de Dieu, le croyant pouvait toujours attester silencieusement

1. « Il n'y a de dieu que Dieu », le dernier témoignage du croyant, les derniers mots qui doivent sortir de ses lèvres avant sa mort.

en touchant sa propre poitrine avec son index, symbole d'unité.

— Tierno, prononce le Shahada!

Alors les trois hommes virent le poing droit et l'index tendu de Tierno se porter lentement à la hauteur du cœur; le regard se voila et, lentement, comme le sable file entre les doigts, la vie s'échappa de ce vieux corps usé, douloureux, misérable. Les trois amis constatèrent la mort. Un je-ne-sais-quoi alerta Fatumsuka qui comprit avant qu'ils ne fassent le moindre geste que Tierno n'était plus. Elle sortit et parcourut la zaouïa déserte en annonçant la mort. Les poulets, les cabris s'enfuyaient sous les pas de cette femme en pleurs. Des sanglots se firent entendre chez les épouses du maître. Fatumsuka allait toujours de cour en cour comme si les disciples dussent sortir en foule pour s'associer à sa douleur; mais elle ne voyait que des portes béantes, des foyers froids, des cases vides. Elle revint près de Néné et d'Aminata.

L'un des trois témoins de la mort s'en fut prévenir Alpha Ali, puis le Chef de Bandiagara: Moktar Aguibou Tall. Comme il est de coutume en Afrique, la mort éteignait la querelle. Tierno, abattu par la méchanceté des hommes, comparaissait à l'instant même devant Dieu. La grandeur de ce moment écrasait les épaules de ceux-là mêmes qui s'étaient consacrés à sa perte.

C'est alors que les voix des femmes s'élevèrent, entamant un chœur spontané en l'honneur du défunt:

« Tall! Tall! Tall![1] Tu t'attendais à la venue de ce jour, tu t'es préparé à ce voyage.

« Déjà, tu as envoyé devant toi les provisions nécessaires. Devant toi tu ne trouveras que réception honorable.

« Tu as travaillé en prévision de ce voyage. Tu ne seras pas déçu car une belle réception t'attend.

1. La répétition du nom clanique en guise de salutation est, en Afrique, une façon d'honorer un homme et, à travers lui, d'honorer toute sa lignée dont il est censé n'être jamais séparé.

« Tu as recueilli l'orphelin, tu as nourri l'affamé, tu as calmé le désemparé, tu as répondu à chaque appel qui te fut adressé.

« Et toujours, tu as répondu dans la seule intention de plaire à Dieu et à son Prophète, et non pour t'en faire une gloriole. »

En Islam, on a hâte de rendre à la terre ce qui, quoi qu'on en ait, n'a pas cessé de lui appartenir. Le corps de Tierno, enveloppé d'un linceul, fut déposé sur le brancard des morts. Conformément à la tradition, on demanda à ses femmes de venir pardonner à leur mari les offenses qu'il aurait pu commettre envers elles de son vivant. Mais elles répondirent:

— C'est à nous de lui demander pardon. C'est nous qui l'avons fait souffrir. Il a toujours été un mari fidèle, un frère aîné bienveillant et un éducateur averti. Voici tout ce que nous avons à dire : "Tall! Tall! Va en paix!"

C'était la fin de la matinée. Le corps fut transporté jusqu'au cimetière. La ville entière suivait, derrière son chef, cousin du défunt, qui conduisait la dépouille jusqu'à sa dernière demeure. O inconséquence humaine!

Seuls manquaient les élèves de Tierno qui se trouvaient encore à Bandiagara, car Moktar avait interdit leur présence. Se conformant une dernière fois aux enseignements et à l'exemple de leur maître, ils ne protestèrent pas. Ils se retirèrent dans la cour de Tierno. Avec ferveur, ils se mirent à psalmodier la Shahada : Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh, Il n'y a de dieu que Dieu, la grande Parole de l'Islam à laquelle Tierno avait conformé et sa vie et son cœur.

Ainsi, Tierno Bokar fut enfoui dans la terre aux pieds de sa mère, sous l'arbrisseau, comme il l'avait prédit un jour. Bandiagara prit le deuil pendant trois jours sur l'ordre de la chefferie locale. Les esprits se troublèrent alors. Où était la vérité? Les amis du défunt reçurent quelques visites, qui allèrent en se multipliant. Des gens venaient demander le pardon de Tierno à ses amis. Et Tierno recommençait à vivre...

Comme Chérif Hamallâh, Tierno Bokar fut victime de l'ignorance et de l'obscurantisme des hommes qui confondirent l'esprit de clan avec l'esprit religieux, oubliant que la tolérance est un principe fondamental aussi bien de l'Islam (« Point de contrainte en religion [1] !... ») que de la Tidjaniya qui interdit de rester trois jours sans parler à quelqu'un par colère, sous peine d'être exclu de la Tariqa.

Mais ne leur jetons pas l'anathème. On aura vu, au cours de ce récit, comme une sorte de fatalité a enchaîné les événements les uns aux autres, brouillant toutes les cartes. Au fil des années, mal informés, les hommes se prirent au jeu et crurent peut-être sincèrement qu'ils défendaient une juste cause. « Ils ne savaient pas qu'ils ne savaient pas... »

Quoi qu'il en soit, l'intolérance, étroitement liée à l'ignorance et au manque de maturité spirituelle, n'est le privilège d'aucune race, d'aucune communauté particulière. C'est une maladie humaine générale. Tous les temps et tous les cieux l'ont connue. Aujourd'hui même, plus ou moins tapie dans certaines zones obscures de notre être, elle menace toujours de montrer les griffes dès que nous rencontrons, chez l'autre, une différence que nous ne pouvons comprendre. C'est pourquoi il nous faut des maîtres spirituels qui soient, en même temps, des médecins du cœur. C'est ce que fut Tierno Bokar, dont l'appel à l'union et à la compréhension s'adressait, par-delà son entourage, à tous les hommes :

« Je souhaite de tout mon cœur la venue de l'ère de réconciliation entre toutes les confessions de la terre, l'ère où ces confessions unies s'appuieront les unes sur les autres pour former une voûte morale et spirituelle, l'ère où elles reposeront en Dieu par trois points d'appui : AMOUR, CHARITÉ, FRATERNITÉ. »

1. Coran II, 256.

2

La parole

Dans ce pays où, pendant des millénaires, seuls les sages eurent le droit de parler, dans ce pays où la tradition orale a eu la rigueur des écrits les plus sacrés, la parole est devenue sacrée. Dans la mesure où l'Afrique noire a été dépourvue d'un système d'écriture pratique, elle a entretenu le culte de la parole, du « verbe fécondant ».

Aïssata avait dit à son fils : « Apprends à couvrir la nudité matérielle des hommes avant de couvrir par ta parole leur nudité morale. » Les tisserands traditionnels, initiés au symbolisme de leur métier à tisser où chaque pièce a une signification particulière et dont l'ensemble symbolise la « création primordiale », savent tous qu'en faisant naître sous leurs doigts la bande de tissu qui se déroule comme le temps lui-même, ils ne font rien d'autre que reproduire le mystère de la Parole créatrice [1].

L'importance du verbe, le souci de sa valeur, bonne ou mauvaise — nouvelle langue d'Ésope — revêt, chez Tierno Bokar, une importance essentielle :

> La parole est un fruit dont l'écorce s'appelle « bavardage », la chair « éloquence » et le noyau « bon sens ».
> Dès l'instant où un être est doué du verbe, quel que soit son degré d'évolution il compte dans la classe

1. Cf. mes Aspects de la civilisation africaine, Paris (Présence africaine, 1972) et « Africanisme » in Enciclopedia del Novecento, Rome, Instuto dell'Enciclopedia Italiana, 1976.

des grands privilégiés, car le verbe est le don le plus merveilleux que Dieu ait fait à sa créature.
Le verbe est un attribut divin, aussi éternel que Dieu lui-même. C'est par la puissance du verbe que tout a été créé. En donnant à l'homme le verbe, Dieu lui a délégué une part de sa puissance créatrice. C'est par la puissance du verbe que l'homme, lui aussi, crée. Il crée non seulement pour assurer les relations indispensables à son existence matérielle, mais aussi pour assurer le viatique qui ouvre pour lui les portes de la béatitude [1].
Une chose devient ce que le verbe lui dit d'être. Dieu dit : « Sois ! » et la créature répond : « Je suis. »

Nous avons été amenés, dans la première partie de cet ouvrage, à rapporter certaines paroles de Tierno. Il aurait été malaisé, en effet, de se pencher sur sa vie et d'en tenter l'exposé en s'abstenant de mêler des fragments de sa parole aux incidents qui jalonnèrent son existence. La parole du maître est le fait principal de son histoire. Comment apporter, maintenant, une meilleure définition du « message » qui nous a été laissé sinon en donnant la parole à celui qui l'a développé ?

Nous ne dirons jamais assez que le caractère primordial du verbe de Tierno est qu'il a été donné dans l'un des lieux les plus simples du monde, le maître étant assis sur un sol ingrat que, tour à tour, le soleil cuisait ou la pluie faisait fondre. Tierno parlait généralement en foulfouldé (peul). Bien qu'il fût bon arabisant — ce qui lui permettait d'étudier le fond des textes — il ne cessa jamais de prêcher dans les langues du terroir. Outre l'arabe, il connaissait quatre langues africaines ainsi que les connaissances traditionnelles des principales ethnies de la savane.

1. Allusion à la vertu spirituelle de la récitation des textes sacrés et des noms divins.

Il avait horreur de ceux qui s'exprimaient dans une langue autre que la langue du commun. L'une des caractéristiques des « sorciers » étant d'utiliser un langage hermétique, Tierno, par dérision, désignait souvent de ce nom ceux qui, par snobisme intellectuel, affectaient de ne s'exprimer qu'en arabe alors même qu'ils s'adressaient à des gens ignorant cette langue, pensant ainsi mieux les éblouir.

Son message était fait pour être entendu. Le Prophète n'avait-il pas dit : « Parlez aux gens à la mesure de leur entendement » ?

Les récits et les paroles qui vont suivre, je les ai recueillis personnellement de la bouche de Tierno Bokar auprès de qui j'ai vécu depuis ma plus tendre enfance. Je naquis, comme on dirait en Afrique, « dans ses mains ». Combien de fois, lorsque j'étais tout petit, ne m'a-t-il pas promené sur son dos, dans la cour de mes parents ! Et que d'histoires merveilleuses il me racontait que je ne pouvais encore comprendre ! Ma mère m'a souvent rapporté que, bébé assez maussade, mon visage ne s'éclairait que lorsqu'il venait me prendre dans ses bras.

Dès que j'eus atteint l'âge de sept ans, on me confia entièrement à lui afin qu'il prenne en main mon éducation religieuse aussi bien que la formation de mon caractère et de mon comportement social. Je ne le quittai que le jour où, comme tous les fils de chef, je fus « réquisitionné » par les autorités pour être envoyé loin de Bandiagara, à l'école française qui était alors appelée très officiellement « École des otages. » Mais je revenais auprès de lui passer toutes mes périodes de congé.

Il en alla ainsi jusqu'à l'époque où, devenu jeune homme, je fus nommé fonctionnaire et affecté en Haute-Volta. Ne pouvant plus m'enseigner directement, Tierno me transmettait, par correspondance, les réponses aux questions que je lui posais. Il dictait ses lettres à un ami, Mamadou Sissoko, qui savait écrire le français.

C'est surtout en 1933 que je reçus son enseignement de la façon la plus intensive et la plus approfondie ; jusque-là, en effet, il avait toujours tenu compte de mon âge et de mon degré de compréhension. Cette année-là, la Haute-Volta avait été supprimée en tant que territoire administratif. Ayant été mis en congé de longue durée en attente d'une nouvelle affectation, j'en profitai pour rejoindre immédiatement Tierno et eus la chance de pouvoir passer auprès de lui, à Bandiagara, la majeure partie de cette providentielle année de congé.

C'est surtout durant ce séjour de 1933 que je pris note des enseignements et des anecdotes qui vont suivre. Tierno me chargea, par ailleurs, de la mission de faire connaître l'enseignement schématique qu'il avait inventé sous le nom de Maddîn et qui figure à la fin de cet ouvrage. Il va sans dire que je n'ai pu y présenter que l'aspect extérieur, exotérique, de cet enseignement, celui qui peut s'écrire et s'inscrire dans des schémas. La science ésotérique, elle, ne saurait être exposée selon un plan logique. En Islam, comme dans beaucoup d'autres traditions religieuses, elle s'enseigne de bouche à oreille et se rapproche beaucoup plus d'une expérience vécue que d'un enseignement de type intellectuel.

Nous avons bien conscience de ce que l'essai de « classification » et d'étiquetage de l'ensemble de ce message peut avoir d'incomplet, voire d'artificiel, et de ce qu'il aurait fait sourire le maître. Une Parole toute vibrante de vie et d'amour comme celle qu'a entendue Bandiagara, ce n'est pas un livre qui peut la restituer dans toute sa force. Mais c'est pourtant notre devoir, à nous qui avons hérité d'une tradition orale, que d'essayer d'en transmettre ce que nous pouvons avant que le temps et l'oubli ne la fassent disparaître de la mémoire des hommes.

Une difficulté particulière a résidé dans le passage du peul au français, du fait des différences de structure qui caractérisent ces deux langues. Le peul, comme l'arabe, est une langue synthétique où chaque mot peut comporter de nombreux sens différents (quoique liés) selon sa position dans la phrase et le niveau de signification auquel on l'appréhende. Au contraire, dans la langue française — langue analytique par excellence, mais non synthétique — chaque mot possède un sens unique et précis. D'où la difficulté de faire passer une idée d'une langue à l'autre sans porter atteinte à la concision de l'expression, à l'allure du style ou à la saveur de l'image. Le lecteur voudra bien nous pardonner ces inévitables défauts.

Pour Tierno Bokar, la puissance du Verbe divin créateur — comme, d'ailleurs, de toute parole proférée — était liée aux vibrations.

> Dans l'univers, nous enseignait-il, et à tous les niveaux, tout est vibration. Seules les différences de vitesse de ces vibrations nous empêchent de percevoir les réalités que nous appelons invisibles.

Et il nous donnait l'exemple de l'hélice d'un avion qui, à partir d'une certaine vitesse de rotation, devient invisible.

Mais dès lors que la parole créatrice est écrite, son mystère peut être approché à travers la science traditionnelle des lettres et des nombres. Les perspectives que nous ouvraient ses explications en ce domaine nous permettaient de pressentir, d'entrevoir parfois, comme un immense édifice, d'une cohérence stupéfiante, où des principes primordiaux sous-tendaient l'ensemble du monde vivant et se trouvaient à l'œuvre au sein même de réalités apparemment anodines.

Plongé dans la mystique — entendons par là non une vie coupée du monde, mais une vie où la relation intérieure avec Dieu accompagne et éclaire chaque moment vécu en ce monde — Tierno Bokar était l'incarnation même de l'amour et de la bonté. Amour pour Dieu, d'abord, absolu, sans réserve; puis amour pour toutes les créatures vivantes, depuis l'homme jusqu'aux créatures les plus modestes de la nature, animales ou végétales.

Tierno Bokar aimait tous les hommes, sans considération de race, de religion ou de rang social. La distinction qui lui paraissait la plus futile était celle qui consiste à regrouper les hommes sous des emblèmes religieux différents qui se croient ennemis les uns des autres. Tous les hommes, et plus particulièrement ceux qui sont animés d'une foi sincère, ne renferment-ils pas une « parcelle de l'Esprit de Dieu » ? La tolérance devait donc devenir le souci permanent des élèves, comme elle avait été le fondement de l'enseignement du Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani, et l'un des principes fondamentaux de l'Islam.

Tierno Bokar se penchait sur la société au milieu de laquelle il faisait son voyage terrestre et dont l'équilibre est si souvent compromis. Mais, pour lui, l'Amour et la Charité donnaient la clé de tous les cœurs et la solution de tous les problèmes.

Gigantesque programme ! Celui qui s'attache à le suivre doit se reporter souvent à une source rafraîchissante, vivifiante, pour trouver la force de progresser toujours davantage dans la voie spirituelle. Pour Tierno Bokar, il n'existait qu'une source capable de revigorer constamment ceux qui s'affaiblissent. C'était la Source mystique aux abords de laquelle on rencontre les hommes religieux de toutes les confessions et de tous les temps.

— Tierno, lui demandai-je un jour, quels sont les rôles respectifs de la sharia (loi révélée) et de la Mystique ?

— La sharia et la Mystique (enseignement initiatique), me répondit-il, sont deux aspects différents de la Religion, mais qui se complètent et ne doivent pas aller l'un sans l'autre.

L'objectif essentiel de la sharia est, par sa sévérité même, de préserver l'homme du libertinage de l'irréligion. Elle est comparable au rabot qui dégrossit la planche. Elle oblige le fidèle à améliorer sa conduite et l'empêche de tomber dans les bas-fonds de la vie déréglée où ne peut fleurir aucune culture spirituelle.

Sans une sharia puissante, les tares morales ont vite fait de s'extérioriser et de favoriser la dépravation des mœurs. Les piliers fondamentaux [1] de la sharia

1. Les piliers fondamentaux de la sharia sont, d'abord, les obligations canoniques de l'Islam (foi en l'Unité de Dieu, prière, aumône, jeûne, pèlerinage), puis les diverses interdictions, tant morales que matérielles, que le croyant doit respecter et, enfin, l'ensemble des recommandations tirées de l'exemple du Prophète et de ses compagnons.

sont comme autant de drains par lesquels les imperfections qui imprègnent les cœurs sont amenées à s'écouler.

Si l'on compare la sharia à un réseau de drains, la Mystique, elle, sera semblable à une irrigation. Son rôle consiste à ouvrir l'esprit humain à la Connaissance en Dieu (ma'rifat), laquelle est comparable à une eau subtile. Vient-elle à manquer, l'esprit devient tout pareil à un sol aride et brûlant.

La Mystique procède de deux sources :

Premièrement, d'une Révélation faite par Dieu à un élu de son choix : un Prophète qui l'enseigne et la propage ;

Deuxièmement, de l'expérience du croyant ou, chez un individu prédestiné à la Lumière divine, d'une intuition directe, fruit de sa longue observation méditative et de sa pratique religieuse.

Sous son premier aspect, il s'agit d'une émanation directe de la Source, contenue et conservée dans les Livres sacrés. Dans chaque forme de La Religion [1], ces Livres sont comme les réservoirs dans lesquels on recueille l'eau de pluie. Tout comme pour l'eau matérielle, ces réservoirs doivent être préservés de toute pollution, dans l'intérêt de la vie même de la communauté.

Sous son deuxième aspect, la Mystique est comparable à une eau que l'ingéniosité de l'homme fait dériver au moyen de barrages et de canaux. Chaque théologien peut tirer des Livres saints — réservoirs

1. La Religion éternelle dont les diverses religions historiques connues ne sont que les manifestations dans le temps et dans l'espace.

bien gardés — des éléments de semence spirituelle. Mais il peut aussi creuser une dérivation adaptée à la forme du terrain, c'est-à-dire correspondant à la mentalité et à l'évolution de ses contemporains.

Désireux de bien nous faire comprendre les limitations d'une attitude de simple imitation (taqlid) aveugle et bornée, il nous donna la parabole suivante :

Le puits

Le puits qui ne reçoit ses eaux que du dehors reçoit en même temps mille choses que le courant entraîne. Il se trouve exposé à toutes les ordures et à un danger plus grave encore : se trouver à sec à peine y a-t-on puisé. En revanche, le puits dont l'œil [1] est en lui-même n'a pas besoin des pluies pour se remplir. Ses eaux filtrées par les interstices de la terre restent abondantes, pures et fraîches, même au moment des plus grandes chaleurs. Il en est ainsi de ceux dont la foi en Dieu dépend des apports extérieurs et de ceux qui tirent leur foi de leur propre méditation et de leur conviction intime. Les premiers sont sujets à variation et leur foi n'est pas exempte de doute. Les seconds demeurent immuables. Ils sont dans la pleine Lumière, la pleine lune de leur foi, laquelle ne connaît jamais l'obscurité.

Le puits qui ne reçoit que de l'extérieur, Tierno l'appelait « le puits du Taqlid ». Il est le propre de ceux qui ne font que suivre

1. En peul comme en arabe, « œil » et « source » s'expriment par le même mot.

aveuglément des exemples extérieurs : « Untel a dit ceci », « Untel a fait cela », au lieu de tirer d'eux-mêmes une certitude née de l'expérience intime, ou même une réflexion personnelle devant une circonstance imprévue.

Tierno nous rappelait, à cet égard, le hadith [1] suivant :

Un jour, le Prophète voulut envoyer au Yemen un de ses compagnons, appelé Mo'az boun Jabal, pour y enseigner l'Islam. Il lui demanda :

— Comment appliqueras-tu la loi ? Comment rendras-tu la justice ?

— Je rendrai la justice selon le Coran, répondit Mo'az.

— Et si le cas auquel tu auras à faire face n'a pas été prévu par le Coran ? demanda le Prophète.

— J'appliquerai ta Sunna [2], Prophète de Dieu.

— Et si la Sunna n'a pas prévu le cas ?

— Je me référerai à l'Idjmâ (Consensus) [3].

— Et si l'Idjmâ n'a jamais eu à faire face à un tel cas ? reprit le Prophète.

Mo'az fut un peu désemparé car, en Islam, le Coran, la Sunna et le Consensus sont les trois seules sources de la Loi et de la jurisprudence. Mais comme c'était un homme qui priait et qui méditait, il avait trouvé en lui le chemin de l'inspiration divine (ilham). Aussi répondit-il, après un moment de réflexion :

— Alors, je ferai l'Ijtihad (effort de réflexion personnelle).

1. Hadith : récit rapportant une parole du Prophète ou une anecdote vécue par lui.

2. Sunna ou « Coutume » : ensemble des dires et des faits du Prophète que l'on se doit d'imiter ; la Sunna est source de jurisprudence.

3. Idjmâ, ou « Consensus » : ensemble de l'opinion ou des coutumes des compagnons du Prophète ; également source de jurisprudence.

Le Prophète le regarda, puis lui dit :
— Va, et fais l'Ijtihad chaque fois que ce sera nécessaire. Tant que l'Islam comptera des hommes comme toi, il ne deviendra pas tel un arbre au tronc élancé, mais privé de branches. (C'est-à-dire qui ne donne ni ombre ni protection.)

L'attitude taqlid est généralement le propre des marabouts ou des croyants purement exotériques. Il ne s'agit pas, ici, de rejeter l'imitation consciente et volontaire des prophètes et des saints, laquelle est, au contraire, hautement profitable à la vie spirituelle, mais de dénoncer l'imitation aveugle, bornée, au nom de laquelle on condamne tous ceux qui ne se conforment pas à la norme établie.

Un jour, désireux d'obtenir une confirmation sur ce point, Tierno Bokar se rendit à Ségou afin d'y visiter Niâro Karamogo, le plus grand marabout de son temps, l'un des « grands élèves » d'El Hadj Omar. Il avait l'intention de lui demander son sentiment sur le taqlid.

Lorsque Tierno arriva devant la concession de Niâro Karamogo, trois cents élèves au moins étaient réunis pour écouter le marabout. Tierno franchit la première porte, sa question en tête. Or, dès qu'il se présenta devant la deuxième porte et qu'il aperçut, au fond de la cour, le marabout, celui-ci, la tête penchée en avant, se mit à marteler les coussins sur lesquels il était appuyé en disant avec force :

— Taqlid! Taqlid! Dites tous, sans doute ni controverse, que celui qui ne fait qu'appliquer le taqlid en dévotion musulmane ira en enfer! Le seul point de divergence, c'est de savoir s'il en sortira ou non.

Tierno nous racontait cette anecdote avec le sourire, en précisant, bien sûr, qu'il ne s'agissait que d'une image pour bien montrer la gravité du taqlid.

Certes, le taqlid est une tendance que l'on rencontre sous tous les cieux, et pas seulement en Islam. Elle a sévi, et sévit sans doute encore, dans bien des milieux qui ne sont pas nécessairement religieux. L'histoire de l'humanité, ancienne ou contemporaine, nous en apporte maints exemples. C'est une faiblesse inhérente à l'homme et c'est pourquoi Tierno Bokar insistait tant auprès de nous sur ses dangers, nous incitant toujours à nous informer pleinement avant de prendre une position, à ne jamais nous arrêter à la surface des choses et à faire appel à ce don que Dieu nous avait fait : l'Intelligence, la Raison supérieure, sujet qu'il développera dans sa leçon Maddîn [1].

Les trois lumières

L'œil ('ayn) qui est au fond de chaque homme a besoin d'une lumière pour voir le monde dans sa vraie réalité et, surtout, pour percevoir les Réalités divines. Mais tous les sentiers ne sont pas accessibles à tous.

Un jour, alors qu'il était en train d'enseigner sur la notion de Lumière (nour en arabe), je lui posai une question :

— Tierno, combien y a-t-il de lumières mystiques ?

— Ô mon ami, répondit-il, je ne suis pas l'homme qui a vu toutes les lumières. Je vais néanmoins t'entretenir de trois lumières symboliques :
La première est celle que nous tirons de la matière en la frottant, en la mettant en combustion. Cette lumière ne peut réchauffer et éclairer qu'un espace limité. Elle correspond symboliquement à la foi de la masse des individus peu évolués dans l'échelle mystique. A ce degré, les adeptes ne peuvent aller au-delà de l'imitation (taqlid) et de la lettre. L'obscurité de la superstition les entoure, le froid de l'incompréhension les fait trembler. Ils restent blottis dans un petit coin de la tradition et ils y font le moins de bruit possible. Cette lumière est celle qui anime les croyants lorsqu'ils se trouvent au degré de la foi dite sulbu (solide)[1].

1. Cf. p. 209.

La deuxième lumière est celle du soleil. Elle est supérieure à la première en ce qu'elle est plus générale et plus puissante. Elle éclaire tout ce qui existe sur la terre et le réchauffe. Cette lumière symbolise la foi du degré médian dans la voie mystique. Tout comme le soleil, elle dissipe les ténèbres dès qu'elle entre en contact avec elles. C'est une source vivifiante pour toutes les créatures. Elle symbolise les lumières que détiennent les adeptes au degré mystique de la foi dite Sa'ilu (liquide). De même que le soleil matériel éclaire et réchauffe tous les êtres qui, dès lors, sont frères, de même, les adeptes parvenus à la lumière médiane voient et traitent en frères tout ce qui vit sous le soleil et reçoit sa lumière. Ils ne méprisent pas la première lumière, en raison de son rôle préparatoire indispensable, mais ils ne sont plus telles des bestioles qui dansent autour d'une flamme et qui parfois s'y brûlent. La première lumière, tout comme celle qui la symbolise, peut, au gré des circonstances, être éteinte ou rallumée ; elle peut être transportée d'un lieu à un autre ; autrement dit, elle peut changer de forme et de puissance, tandis que la seconde lumière demeure fixe et immuable dans sa pérennité, comme celle du soleil. Elle viendra toujours de la même source et restera égale à elle-même à travers les siècles.

La troisième lumière est celle du centre des existences ; c'est la lumière de Dieu. Qui oserait la décrire ?

1. Cf. p. 137.

C'est une obscurité plus brillante que toutes les lumières conjuguées. C'est la lumière de la Vérité. Ceux qui ont le bonheur d'y parvenir perdent leur identité, deviennent ce que devient une goutte d'eau tombée dans le Niger, ou plutôt dans une mer infiniment plus vaste en étendue et en profondeur.

A ce degré, Jésus est devenu Esprit de Dieu, Moïse son Interlocuteur, Abraham son ami, et enfin Mohammad (Mahomet) le Sceau de Ses missions[1].

Les trois degrés de la foi

Ayant réfléchi à ce qu'il venait de dire, je lui demandai :
— Tierno, combien y a-t-il donc de sortes de foi ?

— O mon frère, répondit-il, je ne sais pas au juste. La foi n'est ni comptabilisable comme les habitants d'une basse-cour, ni mesurable comme la distance de Bandiagara à Mopti. On ne peut la peser comme le mil de Bankassi ou les fruits du marché de Dourou. Pour moi, la foi, c'est la somme de la confiance que nous avons en Dieu et le degré de notre conviction ; c'est aussi la fidélité à notre Créateur. La foi se réchauffe ou se refroidit ; elle varie suivant les gens et suivant les milieux.

Pour simplifier, je schématiserai volontiers la foi ainsi : la foi sulbu, la première, que j'appellerai la foi solide ; la foi sa'ilu, la seconde, que j'appellerai la foi liquide ; enfin la foi ghaziyu, la plus subtile, qui est comme une vapeur gazeuse.

1. Tous ces qualificatifs appliqués aux prophètes sont tirés du Coran.

1. Le premier degré de la foi convient au commun, à la masse, aux marabouts attachés à la lettre. Cette foi est soutenue et canalisée par les prescriptions imposées par une Loi elle-même tirée des textes révélés, qu'ils soient judaïques, chrétiens ou musulmans. A ce stade, la foi a une forme précise ; elle est intransigeante, dure comme la pierre d'où je tire son nom.

La foi au degré sulbu est lourde et immobile comme une montagne. S'il le faut, elle prescrit la guerre par les armes, pour assurer sa place et se faire respecter.

2. La foi sa'ilu (liquide) est la foi des hommes qui ont travaillé et affronté avec succès les épreuves du sulbu, de la loi rigide qui n'admet pas de compromis. Ces hommes ont triomphé de leurs défauts et se sont engagés dans la voie qui mène à la vérité. Les éléments de cette foi sa'ilu découlent de la connaissance ; ils se rapportent aux vérités d'où qu'elles viennent, sans que l'on ait à considérer leur origine ou leur ancienneté. Ces vérités, recueillies et assemblées, forment un corps animé d'un perpétuel mouvement, d'une constante marche en avant, une marche de molécules d'eau qui sortent des creux de la montagne, ruissellent à travers diverses terres, s'accumulent aux obstacles, puis grossissent de rivières en fleuves pour, enfin, aller se jeter dans l'océan de la Vérité divine. Cette foi, tout comme son symbole liquide, mine les défauts de l'âme, ronge les rochers de l'intolérance et se répand partout, en prenant toujours la forme de son récipient. Elle pénètre les humains selon les accidents de leur terrain moral. La foi sa'ilu discipline l'adepte. Elle en fait un homme de Dieu capable d'entendre et d'apprécier la voix de tous ceux qui parlent du Créateur. Elle est vivifiante ; elle peut se solidifier et prendre l'aspect de la grêle lorsqu'il faut traiter des âmes qui en sont restées au degré primaire. Elle peut se sublimer et s'élever en vapeur, comme la foi ghaziyu, dans le ciel de la Vérité. Elle établit le régime de la cité de paix où l'homme et l'animal vivent côte à côte, où les trois règnes vivent en frères. Ceux qui la possèdent s'élèvent contre la guerre.

3. La foi ghaziyu est le troisième et dernier terme. C'est l'apanage d'une élite dans l'élite. Ses éléments constituants sont si purs que, dégagés de tout poids matériel qui les retiendrait à la terre, ils s'élèvent comme de la fumée dans le ciel des âmes pures et tendent à les remplir. Ceux qui parviennent à cette foi adorent Dieu en vérité et dans la lumière sans couleur. La Vérité divine fleurit dans les champs de l'Amour et de la Charité.

Pour Tierno, aimer et servir Dieu, c'est un peu, si peu, lui rendre ce qui lui est dû, car devant l'infinité du don qui nous a été fait, tout ce que nous pouvons offrir demeure nécessairement infime.

Le commerçant avare

— Est-il raisonnable, nous demandait-il, de refuser une petite portion à celui qui vous a tout donné ?

Un commerçant qui, par cupidité, resserre le cordon de sa bourse et refuse un denier à celui qui a financé ses débuts, peut être considéré comme un exemple de laideur morale. Mais combien plus grande est la laideur de l'homme qui refuse son adoration à Dieu, de qui il a reçu le principe même de la vie, source et aboutissement de l'Amour. A Dieu appartient tout ce qui est dans les cieux et sur la terre; peut-on refuser une partie à Celui qui a créé et donné le tout? Certes non, et c'est pourtant ce que font les égarés dans les dédales de la vie terrestre.

Les êtres pensants

Bien des gens venaient à Tierno dans l'espoir d'obtenir, grâce à ses bénédictions ou à ses prières, des bienfaits matériels ou des pouvoirs thaumaturgiques.

— Donne-moi le secret de tel ou tel Nom de Dieu, ou de telle prière, lui demandaient-ils.

Il répondait:

Adepte, toi qui viens au seuil de notre zaouïa, ne pense pas que nous disposions de moyens miraculeux pour guérir les âmes. Nous soumettons à nos frères des versets saints. Applique ton esprit au suivant:

« Que la vie illusoire de ce monde ne nous égare point et que la tentation ne nous détourne pas de Dieu. »

(Coran XXXI, 33.)

Sois entre les mains de Dieu comme l'enfant est entre les mains de sa mère. Ne cherche pas autre chose que le désir de Lui plaire.

Toi qui viens à nous, et que nous considérons non pas comme un élève, mais comme un frère réfléchi, avant de pénétrer dans la zaouïa où l'on recherche l'Amour et le savoir, médite bien sur ce verset et tire avantage de ses lumières:

« L'une de Ses Merveilles est de vous avoir créés et répandus sur la terre en êtres pensants. »

(Coran XXX, 20.)

Demande-Lui de faire de toi selon Son bon plaisir.

Tierno se révoltait à l'idée qu'un être quelconque puisse être exclu de l'amour de Dieu. Il méprisait les distinctions que font les « attachés à la lettre » et voulait ignorer ceux qui font de cet amour le privilège des seuls croyants orthodoxes.

De mon côté, je n'arrivais pas à comprendre que seuls les musulmans puissent être bénéficiaires de la miséricorde de Dieu. Je réfléchissais à la petitesse de leur nombre par rapport à l'ensemble de l'humanité, dans le temps comme dans l'espace, et me disais: comment Dieu, devant un tas de graines, pourrait-il prendre une seule poignée de ces graines et rejeter toutes les autres en disant: « Celles-là seules sont mes préférées »?

J'avais souvent entendu dire, autour de moi, et notamment par certains marabouts, que les non-musulmans étaient des koufar (infidèles) et qu'ils iraient en enfer. Cela m'indignait comme si j'avais été moi-même l'un de ces malheureux infidèles. Aussi, un jour, profitai-je d'un cours pour l'interroger sur ce sujet qui me tourmentait:

Dieu aime-t-il l'infidèle?

— Tierno, tu parles toujours de l'amour de Dieu qui embrasse tout. Mais Dieu aime-t-il aussi l'infidèle?

Il répondit:

— Dieu est Amour et Puissance. La création des êtres procède de son amour et non d'une quelconque contrainte. Détester ce qui est produit par la Volonté divine agissant par amour, c'est prendre le contre-pied du Vouloir divin et contester Sa sagesse. Exclure un être de l'Amour primordial, c'est faire preuve d'ignorance capitale. La vie et la perfection sont contenues dans l'Amour divin qui se manifeste en Force rayonnante, en Verbe créateur qui anime le Vide-vivant[1]. De ce Vide-vivant, il fait apparaître des formes qu'il répartit en règnes.

Que notre amour ne soit pas centré sur nous-mêmes ! Qu'il ne nous pousse pas à n'aimer que ce qui nous ressemble ou à n'épouser que les idées semblables aux nôtres ! N'aimer que ce qui nous ressemble, c'est s'aimer soi-même, ce n'est pas aimer.

L'infidèle, en tant qu'homme, ne peut être exclu de l'amour divin. Pourquoi le serait-il du nôtre ? Il occupe le rang auquel Dieu l'a élevé. Le fait, pour un homme, de s'abaisser peut entraîner un châtiment sans pour cela provoquer une exclusion de la source dont il est issu.

Il faut réfléchir à la légende de Karoun et de Moïse : Karoun était le plus pervers des êtres ; il avait reçu en partage les plus belles richesses dont un homme peut jouir sur terre. De ces dons, il avait fait un paradis pour lui-même, un paradis dont l'accès, disait-il, était interdit à Moïse et à son Dieu. Moïse demanda à Dieu de châtier Karoun. Dieu répondit :

1. Tierno comparait ce Vide-vivant, potentialité pure, à la notion mathématique du zéro, point initial qui contient en germe tous les nombres qui sortiront de lui. Il ne s'agit donc pas ici de « néant », mais plutôt de « non manifesté ».

« Je t'ai confié la terre. Agis à ta guise. » Le Prophète Moïse s'adressa alors à Karoun : « O infidèle ! Amende-toi et reviens à ton Seigneur, sinon tu recevras une punition qui sera citée en exemple. — Appelle sur moi tous les malheurs que tu voudras et que tu pourras, je ne crains rien », répliqua Karoun.

Alors, Moïse ordonna à la terre d'engloutir Karoun et tous ses biens. Karoun, happé par les pieds et ne pouvant desserrer l'étreinte, comprit qu'il était perdu. Il se repentit et demanda pardon à Moïse. « Tu t'es cru plus fort que Dieu, lui répondit Moïse ; tu as repoussé l'Éternel et moi, Son envoyé. Maintenant, tu es abattu et tes richesses ne sont plus rien. La terre t'engloutira lentement ; tu subiras cette peine jusqu'à la fin des temps. »

Ainsi, Moïse excluait l'infidèle de l'amour de Dieu. Il le faisait périr après avoir prononcé son jugement et s'attendait à l'approbation du Tout-Puissant. Mais les desseins de Dieu sont impénétrables et le Seigneur lui fit de sévères remontrances : « O Moïse ! Karoun repentant t'a invoqué soixante-dix fois. Tu es resté sourd à son appel. S'il m'avait appelé ne fût-ce qu'une seule fois, je l'eusse secouru. » Moïse resta confondu. Dieu ajouta : « Sais-tu pourquoi tu n'a pas eu compassion de Karoun ? C'est parce qu'il n'est ni ton fils, ni ta créature. »

Cette confusion volontaire de « fils » et de « créature » nous montre sans doute que Dieu, qui n'a pas engendré et n'a pas été engendré [1], a, pour ses créatures, l'amour qu'un père éprouve pour ses enfants.

1. Allusion à un terme coranique : sourate CXI, verset 3.

> Il a été généreux pour les enfants d'Adam, sans différencier leurs états.

Et Tierno nous raconta un épisode majeur de la vie de Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani. Celui-ci vivait alors au Maroc où il bénéficiait de la protection du Sultan. Au cours d'une conférence publique, un provocateur, désireux de lui nuire, lui posa une question piège : « Dieu aime-t-il l'infidèle ? » Étayant sa réponse de commentaires de versets coraniques, le Cheikh osa répondre : « Oui, Dieu aime l'infidèle. » Réponse redoutable, à l'époque. Ce fut un beau tollé. Indignés, les assistants quittèrent la salle. Seuls demeurèrent autour du Cheikh onze disciples fidèles, ceux-là mêmes qui, plus tard, seront à l'origine du développement de la Tidjaniya.

Marcel Cardaire, lui-même fervent catholique, avait été touché par l'attitude d'ouverture et d'amour qui rayonnait de l'enseignement de Tierno Bokar. Laissons-lui la parole :

> La première leçon que les « frères en Dieu » apprenaient était une leçon de tolérance religieuse.
> Dans les cases des disciples de Tierno, l'enseignement que l'on nous rapportait, au rythme des saisons, prenait une valeur nouvelle. Il devenait une nourriture authentique. Dans ce pays de l'élémentaire technique, nous avons entendu des phrases simples qui tombaient de lèvres simples. Les mots pénétraient mieux que s'ils avaient été prononcés dans un de ces temples ou une de ces mosquées qui rendent plus hommage à la technique ou au raffinement de l'homme qu'à la majesté du Créateur. Et d'ailleurs, ces mots que nous avons recueillis ne ressemblaient en rien à ceux que l'on entend dans d'autres lieux de prière. C'était de la parole à l'état pur, de la parole qui n'était pas faite pour exalter l'homme — celui qui parle ou celui qui écoute — mais une véritable parole créatrice, celle qui, en honnête réciprocité, fait vivre Dieu au cœur du mécréant, anime la foi de cet autre et donne un sens à la vie de tous.
> Dans ces cases, nous avons entendu des sentences que nous eussions aimé voir s'inscrire en lettres d'or sur tous les frontons de tous les temples du monde. Quelle Université religieuse, quel al-Azhar, donnera la réponse au Sage de Bandiagara [1] ?

Parmi ceux qui venaient entendre Tierno, tous n'étaient pas toujours de l'Ordre Tidjani. Un jour, de nombreux Qadri — appartenant à la confrérie qadriya, l'une des plus anciennes de l'Islam — avaient assisté à son cours. Quand vint le moment d'effectuer le grand dhikr (psalmodie en commun du nom de Dieu), un élève demanda à Tierno :

— Ceux qui ne sont pas Tidjani vont-ils assister au dhikr ?

> — Faites le dhikr sans vous préoccuper d'eux, répondit-il. Si certains d'entre eux veulent y participer, vous n'avez pas le droit de les en empêcher. Et s'ils préfèrent partir, vous n'avez pas le droit de les retenir.

Le dhikr eut lieu, en présence de nombreux Qadri. Quand il fut terminé, Tierno dit :

L'arc-en-ciel

> L'arc-en-ciel doit sa beauté aux tons variés de ses couleurs. De même, nous considérons les voix des divers croyants qui s'élèvent de tous les points de la terre comme une symphonie de louanges à l'adresse de Dieu qui ne peut être qu'Unique.
> Nous déplorons amèrement la méprise de certains religieux sur la forme des choses divines, méprise qui les amène souvent à rejeter comme discordant

1. Tierno Bokar, le Sage de Bangiagara, op. cit., p. 80.

l'hymne de leur voisin. Pour lutter contre cette tendance, frère en Dieu, quelle que soit la religion ou la congrégation à laquelle tu es affilié, médite longuement sur ce verset :

« La création des cieux et de la terre, la diversité de vos langues et de vos couleurs sont autant de merveilles [1] pour ceux qui réfléchissent. »

(Coran XXX, 22.)

Il y a là de quoi méditer pour tout le monde.

A une certaine époque, des missionnaires protestants américains étaient venus au Soudan. Ils aimaient aller prêcher dans les pays où l'église catholique n'avait pu s'implanter. Bandiagara étant dans ce cas, le chef de cette mission protestante arriva un jour dans la ville, s'installa sur la place du marché et se mit à parler de Dieu en langue bambara.

Stupéfaits et, à la limite, amusés d'entendre ainsi un pasteur étranger s'exprimer dans leur langue, de nombreux curieux vinrent l'entourer. Lorsqu'il se mit à parler de Dieu avec chaleur et force et, surtout, lorsqu'il traduisit des psaumes de David en bambara, les gens furent touchés. Les musulmans sont toujours émus par le langage biblique, surtout lorsqu'il est traduit dans leur langue. Mais il se trouvait, dans l'assistance, quelques bigots qui s'offusquèrent de la scène et qui entreprirent de détourner la foule, criant : « C'est un chrétien ! C'est un chrétien ! »

L'un des élèves de Tierno avait assisté à la scène. Lorsqu'il arriva au cours, il nous rapporta les faits en se félicitant du sort fâcheux qui avait été réservé au pasteur.

1. Le mot arabe ayat signifie à la fois « merveille », « miracle », « signe » et « verset ». Si les versets révélés sont des « signes » de Dieu, à l'inverse, on peut également dire que toutes les « merveilles » qui existent dans la création sont également des « signes », donc un autre mode de la Révélation divine. Selon cette perspective, tout est Révélation. C'est nous qui ne savons pas lire.

— Aujourd'hui, dit-il, un pasteur a voulu nous parler de Dieu. Mais nous l'avons tellement ridiculisé qu'il a été obligé de partir.

Tierno fut révolté par ce comportement. Voulant mettre ses élèves en garde contre tout manquement envers des hommes qui s'expriment au nom de Dieu, il lança, ce jour-là, un véritable appel à la tolérance :

Les enfants d'un même père

— Les enfants d'un même père, pour être différents physiquement, en sont-ils moins frères et fils légitimes de leur géniteur ?

Nous fondant sur cette vérité-loi, plaignons ceux qui refusent aux croyants des différentes confessions une identité spirituelle et la fraternité en un même Dieu, Créateur unique et invariable.

Pour nous, n'en déplaise aux attachés à la lettre, une seule chose compte par-dessus toutes les autres : confesser l'existence de Dieu et Son unicité.

Donc, frère en Dieu qui viens au seuil de notre zaouïa, cellule d'amour et de charité, ne bouscule pas l'adepte de Moïse ; Dieu lui-même est témoin qu'il a dit à son peuple : « Implorez le secours de Dieu et soyez patients. La terre appartient à Dieu et Il en fait hériter qui Il veut parmi ses serviteurs. L'heureuse fin sera pour ceux qui le craignent. » (Coran VII, 128.)

Non plus, ne bouscule pas l'adepte de Jésus. Dieu, en parlant du miraculeux enfant de Marie, Vierge-Mère, a dit : « Nous avons accordé à Jésus, fils de Marie, le don des miracles et nous l'avons conforté par le Saint-Esprit. » (Coran II, 253.)

Et les autres humains ? Laisse-les entrer et, même, salue-les fraternellement pour honorer en eux ce qu'ils ont hérité d'Adam, de qui Dieu a dit, s'adressant aux Anges : « Quand je l'aurai perfectionné et aurai insufflé en lui de mon Esprit, prosternez-vous devant lui en signe de vénération. » (Coran XXXVIII, 72.)

Ce verset implique que chaque descendant d'Adam est dépositaire d'une parcelle de l'Esprit de Dieu. Comment donc oserions-nous mépriser un réceptacle qui contient une parcelle de l'Esprit de Dieu ?

Par ailleurs, il avait coutume de dire :

Toi qui viens à nous et que nous considérons, non pas comme un élève, mais comme un frère, réfléchis ! Médite sur ce verset du Livre de la Guidance :

« Pas de contrainte en religion !
La Vérité se distingue par elle-même de l'erreur.
Celui qui se détourne des fausses divinités pour croire en Dieu aura saisi une anse solide, incassable.
Et Dieu est Celui qui entend tout, qui connaît tout. »
(Coran II, 256.)

Relations avec les autres religions

— Tierno, lui demandai-je un jour, est-il bon de converser avec les gens d'une autre foi pour échanger des idées et mieux connaître leur dieu ?

Il me répondit :

— Pourquoi pas ? Je te dirai : il faut causer avec les étrangers si tu peux rester poli et courtois.

Tu gagnerais énormément à connaître les diverses formes de religion. Crois-moi, chacune d'elles, quelque bizarre qu'elle te paraisse, contient de quoi affermir ta propre foi. Certes, la foi, comme le feu, pour être ardente doit être entretenue au moyen d'un combustible approprié. Sinon elle s'appauvrit, diminue d'ardeur et de volume, se transforme en braise, de braise en charbon et de charbon en cendres.

Croire que sa race, ou sa religion, est seule détentrice de la vérité est une erreur. Cela ne saurait être. En effet, la foi est d'une nature comparable à celle de l'air. Comme l'air, elle est indispensable à la vie humaine et l'on ne saurait trouver un seul homme qui ne croie véritablement et sincèrement en rien. La nature humaine est telle qu'elle ne peut pas ne pas croire en quelque chose : Dieu ou diable, force ou fortune, chance ou malchance.

Lors, dès qu'un homme croit en Dieu, il est notre frère. Traite-le comme tel et ne sois pas du nombre des égarés. Si l'on n'a pas la certitude de posséder entièrement toutes les connaissances, il faut se garder de contredire. Certaines vérités ne nous paraissent invraisemblables que, tout simplement, parce que notre connaissance ne les atteint pas.

Il ajoutait :

Évite les contestations. Lorsque quelque chose choque ton esprit dans une religion ou une croyance, incline plutôt l'oreille de la compréhension. Peut-être Dieu viendra-t-il à ton secours et te donnera-t-il l'intelligence de ce qui te paraît étrange...

Non seulement Tierno Bokar n'interdisait pas à ses élèves de s'entretenir avec d'autres croyants, mais il considérait cette pratique comme une véritable médication de l'âme. Il demandait aux hommes de « frotter leurs cervelles » et « d'emmêler leurs liens de pauvres serfs » afin de se mieux comprendre.

Dans cet ordre d'idées, il nous raconta un jour une sorte de vision qu'il avait eue :

> J'ai vu, en esprit, un homme gigantesque couché sur le dos. Des religieux de plusieurs confessions s'affairaient autour de lui. Les uns lui parlaient à l'oreille, d'autres lui ouvraient la bouche, d'autres le forçaient à respirer des parfums, d'autres lui appliquaient un collyre, etc.
> Quel est ce spectacle, quel est cet homme ? m'écriai-je en moi-même. Une voix me répondit :
> — C'est le bienheureux qui se souvient de l'Unicité de Dieu et de la fraternité qui doit unir Ses adorateurs, d'où qu'ils viennent. Il reçoit, comme tu le vois, tous les enseignements. Le résultat n'en est que meilleur pour lui. Il est perméable comme le sable. Dieu lui a donné le pouvoir de conserver et d'assimiler.

Il ajoutait :

> L'enseignement religieux dispensé par un Prophète ou par des maîtres spirituels authentiques est comparable à une eau pure. On peut l'absorber sans aucun danger pour la santé morale et spirituelle.
> Un tel enseignement sera supérieur et intelligible. Telle une eau limpide, il ne contiendra rien qui vienne l'altérer en modifiant sa saveur, son odeur ou sa couleur. Il mûrira l'esprit et purifiera le cœur parce qu'il ne contiendra aucun détritus venu de l'extérieur dont l'effet pourrait être d'obscurcir l'âme et de durcir le cœur.
> Nous ne saurions assez recommander d'étudier les enseignements des religions révélées. Elles sont pour tous comme une eau potable. Nous conseillons cependant de les assimiler lentement et d'éviter les théologies bourbeuses qui sont propres à donner le « ver de Guinée » spirituel [1]. L'adage dit : « Quand vous êtes en sueur, n'absorbez pas d'eau froide. » A notre tour nous recommandons : « Quand votre âme est en chaleur mystique, ne lisez pas n'importe quoi. »

Il s'efforçait constamment de nous inculquer l'esprit de tolérance et de nous faire comprendre que seule compte la qualité spirituelle intrinsèque d'un homme :

> Notre planète n'est ni la plus grande ni la plus petite de toutes celles que notre Seigneur a créées. Ceux qui l'habitent ne peuvent donc s'affranchir de cette loi : nous ne devons nous croire ni supérieurs ni inférieurs aux autres êtres de l'univers, quels qu'ils soient.
> Les meilleures des créatures parmi nous seront celles qui vivront dans l'Amour et la Charité et dans le respect de leur prochain. Droites et lumineuses, el-

1. Ver de Guinée, ou « filaire de Médine » (dracunculus medinensis). Les larves vivent dans les eaux stagnantes. Elles se fixent chez l'homme, vivent dans ses tissus cellulaires sous-cutanés et s'y développent, particulièrement dans ses jambes où apparaissent d'énormes abcès, constitués, en fait, par la fixation de la femelle et l'accumulation des micro-filaires. Au moindre contact avec l'eau, la plaie s'ouvre et la femelle libère dans l'eau la masse des micro-filaires qui renouvelleront le cycle.

les seront comme un soleil qui se lève et qui monte droit vers le ciel.

Se méfier de sa propre poussière

Éducateur spirituel attentif, il n'oubliait pas de nous mettre en garde contre les dangers d'une complaisance envers soi-même qui peut insidieusement accompagner l'âme jusqu'aux plus hauts niveaux :

> Quelle que soit la race d'un homme, lorsque l'Esprit cristallise en lui par l'effet de l'adoration [1] de Dieu, son âme devient semblable à un diamant mystique. La couleur ou la naissance d'un tel homme n'influe en rien sur la qualité de sa lumière spirituelle. Quels que soient sa dimension sociale ou le poids de sa naissance, s'il est parvenu à ce degré, aucun élément extérieur ne sera plus assez puissant pour le désagréger.
>
> Aux adeptes qui ont atteint ce degré, il ne reste qu'une recommandation à faire : se méfier de sa propre poussière, c'est-à-dire de l'admiration pour ce qui vient de soi-même. L'admiration de soi, si subtile et cachée soit-elle, peut pervertir l'âme de l'adorateur, même s'il est parvenu au degré spirituel dit « de diamant » où irradie la Lumière sans couleur et sans forme du Nom caché de Dieu.
>
> (...) Quand une âme accède à la vraie foi, elle se tient inclinée par modestie, tel un cavalier sur un coursier lancé à grande vitesse.
>
> Une âme emplie de Dieu ne se tient jamais droite et hautaine sur sa pointe. Craignant une chute toujours possible, elle s'inclinera, tout en tournant rapidement autour de la Vérité. Cette inclinaison lui donnera la tempérance et l'assurance nécessaires pour ne pas perdre l'aplomb.

1. Le mot arabe 'ibadat signifie à la fois adoration et service.

Il était lui-même d'une parfaite simplicité et étranger à toute pédanterie ou suffisance. Sachant considérer les choses de la vie avec humour, il aimait enseigner en amusant et nous répétait souvent, comme une mise en garde : « Toujours trop sérieux n'est pas très sérieux ! »

La Religion est Une en son essence

Pour Tierno Bokar, on l'aura compris, il n'existait qu'une seule Religion, éternelle, immuable dans ses principes fondamentaux, mais pouvant varier dans ses formes d'expression pour correspondre aux conditions du temps et du lieu de chaque Révélation. Cette Religion primordiale était, pour lui, comparable à un tronc dont les religions historiques connues seraient sorties comme les branches d'un arbre.

C'est cette Religion éternelle qui a été enseignée par tous les grands Envoyés de Dieu et modulée en fonction des nécessités de chaque époque. Mais trop souvent la plupart des hommes n'en ont saisi ou retenu que les formes extérieures au nom desquelles ils se sont opposés les uns aux autres.

Une telle conception est conforme à l'enseignement même du Coran qui met l'accent sur l'unité de la Révélation divine à travers le temps :

« Dites : Nous croyons en Dieu, à ce qui nous a été révélé, à ce qui a été révélé à Abraham, à Ismaël, à Isaac, à Jacob et aux tribus ; à ce qui a été donné à Moïse et à Jésus ; à ce qui a été donné aux prophètes de la part de leur Seigneur. Nous n'avons de préférence pour aucun d'entre eux et nous nous soumettons à Dieu. »

(Coran II, 130.)

« Certes, ceux qui croient, ceux qui pratiquent le Judaïsme, ceux qui sont Chrétiens ou Sabéens, ceux qui croient en Dieu et au dernier jour, ceux qui font le bien, voilà ceux qui trouveront leur récompense auprès de leur Seigneur. Ils n'éprouveront plus alors aucune crainte, ils ne seront pas affligés. »

(Coran II, 59.)

« Oriente ta face vers la Religion pure, la religion de la fitrat (nature primordiale originelle)
par/pour laquelle Dieu a créé les hommes.
Point de changement dans la création de Dieu.
Voilà la religion immuable, mais la plupart des hommes ne le savent pas. »

(Coran III, 29.)

« O Envoyés de Dieu (...) votre religion (dîn) est Une.
Je suis votre Seigneur, craignez-moi. »

(Coran XXIII, 51 s.)

Et Tierno précisait :

> Ce qui varie dans les diverses formes de La Religion — car il ne peut y avoir qu'une Religion — ce sont les apports individuels des êtres humains interprétant la lettre dans le louable dessein de la mettre à la portée des hommes de leur temps.
> Quant au principe même de la religion, c'est une étincelle pure, purificatrice et invariable dans le temps comme dans l'espace, étincelle que Dieu insuffle dans l'esprit de l'homme en même temps qu'il le doue de la parole.
> Il faudrait donc, contrairement à ce qui se passe, non pas s'étonner de rencontrer la richesse spirituelle chez le représentant d'une peuplade considérée comme arriérée, mais être troublé de ne pas la rencontrer en un individu civilisé qui a tant œuvré pour faire évoluer sa vie matérielle.
> (...)
> Dans son Essence, la Foi est une, quelle que soit la religion qui l'exprime. Mais dans ses manifestations elle présente, nous l'avons vu, trois états essentiels : solide, liquide, gazeux. La foi est l'essence de la religion, laquelle est comparable à une atmosphère entourant un univers peuplé de trois catégories d'hommes : une masse crédule ; des prédicateurs aveuglés par des luttes de clocher ; enfin, des initiés qui ont trouvé Dieu et l'adorent en vérité et en silence.

Dieu, embarras des intelligences humaines

Si ce Dieu doit être adoré en vérité et en silence, au plus profond de soi-même, c'est qu'il ne peut être enfermé dans aucune définition intellectuelle. C'est ce que Tierno me fit comprendre, un jour où je lui posai une question aussi naïve qu'audacieuse.

Il était en train de nous commenter un texte théologique de Cheikh Ibrahim Laqâni. L'auteur citait différentes écoles : « Untel a dit ceci, untel a dit cela... » Au milieu de toutes ces formules, dont certaines me paraissaient contradictoires, je ne m'y retrouvais pas. J'étais incapable de choisir. Aussi, prenant mon courage à deux mains, me tournai-je résolument vers lui :

— Tierno — puisse Dieu prolonger tes jours ! — je veux te faire un aveu. Personnellement, je ne me retrouve pas dans le labyrinthe des théologiens, qu'il s'agisse des attributs de Dieu ou de son Essence. Chaque fois que je crois comprendre d'après un théologien, un autre vient m'embrouiller. Je ne sais auquel faire confiance, puisque je ne les connais pas. Aussi, Tierno, si tu ne me l'interdis pas, je voudrais mettre complètement de côté tous ces théologiens et me référer à toi, puisque tu es mon modèle. Je ne dis pas que je refuse ma confiance aux autres, mais toi, je te vois, et ce n'est pas à travers un ouï-dire ou à travers un papier écrit que je te connais. Je voudrais que, d'après ta propre expérience, tu répondes à ma question: Qu'est-ce que Dieu?

Ce fut comme si je l'avais plongé dans les abîmes d'un océan. Il resta immobile, les yeux fermés, comme pétrifié. Comme l'on dit en Afrique, « il s'avala ». Il resta en cet état plusieurs minutes, puis revint à lui-même, comme s'il remontait de mystérieuses profondeurs. Il ouvrit les yeux, me fixa d'un long regard. Enfin il dit, appuyant longuement sur chaque mot:

— Amadou, Amadou! Dieu... Dieu... Dieu... (Allâh... Allâh... Allâh...) c'est l'embarras des intelligences humaines.

— Excuse-moi, Tierno, repris-je, mais je ne suis pas plus avancé. Je te dis que je ne m'y retrouve pas dans le fatras des théologiens, je te demande une réponse précise et tu me déclares que Dieu est « l'embarras des intelligences humaines ». Cela ne me tire pas de mon propre embarras. Pourquoi Dieu est-il l'embarras des intelligences humaines?

— Je suis bien heureux que tu aies précisé ta question, me répondit-il, car c'est la question bien posée de l'élève qui propulse le maître et l'aide à trouver la bonne réponse. Pour que la réponse soit précise, la question doit l'être également.

Dieu est l'embarras des intelligences humaines parce que, d'une part, si tu affirmes son existence, tu ne peux pour autant la prouver ni matériellement ni mathématiquement; d'autre part, si tu nies son existence, alors tu nies ta propre existence qui n'est qu'un effet de la sienne. Or, tu existes. Et si l'on ne peut prouver Dieu matériellement, il faut se souvenir que la non-visibilité, la non-palpabilité et la non-sensibilité d'une chose ne sont pas pour autant des preuves absolues de sa non-existence.

Enfin, Dieu est l'embarras des intelligences parce que tout ce que tu conçois dans ta pensée et matérialise dans ta parole comme étant Dieu cesse, par là même, d'être Dieu pour n'être plus que ta propre manière de le concevoir. Il échappe à toute définition.

L'hypocrite enturbanné

Tierno Bokar avait horreur de l'ostentation sous toutes ses formes et, plus encore, de l'ostentation religieuse. Un jour, je lui demandai:

— Tierno, quelle est la conduite que tu hais le plus?

Il répondit:

— Mon ami, je n'aime pas haïr, mais la conduite que je désapprouve le plus et que je prends en pitié est celle de l'hypocrite ridicule. Il s'agit de cet individu qui, affublé d'un turban entortillé huit fois autour de la tête, porte ostensiblement au cou un chapelet à gros grains, marche appuyé sans nécessité sur l'épaule d'un disciple et sur un bâton plus fétiche que bourdon [1]. Cet homme prononce avec beaucoup plus de bruit que de ferveur la formule de la Shahada [2] et prêche avec une ardeur qui n'est motivée que par l'espoir d'un gain immédiat. Un tel homme

1. Bourdon: bâton de pèlerin.
2. Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh (il n'y a de dieu que Dieu).

corrompt l'esprit et pervertit le cœur. Il est mille fois plus abominable qu'un assassin qui ne s'attaque qu'au corps.

Les luttes religieuses

Il n'aimait pas haïr, et la haine religieuse était, à ses yeux, une insupportable monstruosité. C'est à propos d'elle, et d'elle seule, qu'il lança l'unique « A bas... » qui soit jamais sorti de ses lèvres. Jamais rassasié de ses réponses, je lui demandai un jour ce qu'il pensait des luttes qui étaient ordonnées au nom de la religion.

Personnellement, dit-il, je ne m'enthousiasme que pour la lutte qui a pour objet de vaincre en nous nos propres défauts. Cette lutte n'a rien à voir, hélas, avec la guerre que se font les fils d'Adam au nom d'un Dieu qu'ils déclarent aimer beaucoup, mais qu'ils aiment mal puisqu'ils détruisent une partie de son œuvre.

En Dieu, frères de toutes les religions, abaissons les frontières qui nous séparent. A bas toutes les créations artificielles qui opposent les humains les uns aux autres !

Nous nous sommes éloignés de Dieu, nous nous sommes fourvoyés dans les labyrinthes de notre sinistre édifice bâti des briques du mensonge et du mortier de la calomnie. Vite, sortons des pièces si malencontreusement disposées par notre orgueil et notre égoïsme, par la lassitude de nos mœurs et la dureté de nos cœurs. Volons comme un aigle aux ailes puissantes vers l'union des cœurs, vers une religion qui ne tendra pas à l'exclusion des autres « credo », mais à l'union universelle des croyants libres de leur personne et moralement libérés des appétits de ce monde.

Du haut d'un ciel d'amour, en commun, nous attesterons pieusement l'Unicité de Dieu : Source de Vie qui répand la lumière et que l'on ne peut enfermer dans une définition humaine.

La Religion, celle que veut Jésus et qu'aime Mahomet, est celle qui, comme l'air pur, est en contact permanent avec le soleil de Vérité et de Justice, dans l'Amour du Bien et de la Charité pour tous.

Ces paroles, rappelons-le, sont sorties d'une modeste case de terre séchée, au cœur de l'Afrique noire, en 1933.

Les chevaux de bataille

D'ailleurs, pour Tierno Bokar, la violence était dénuée de toute réelle efficacité morale. Il prononça à cet égard des paroles qui conservent, de nos jours, tout leur poids :

Quand donc l'homme comprendra-t-il que les chevaux de bataille haletants et les armes qui font jaillir un feu de mort et de destruction ne peuvent détruire que l'homme matériel, jamais le principe même du mal qui habite l'esprit méchant dépourvu de charité.

Le mal est comme un souffle mystérieux. Lorsque l'on tue par la violence ou par les armes un homme animé par le mal, le principe du mal bondit du cadavre qu'il ne peut plus habiter et pénètre dans le meurtrier par ses narines dilatées. Il prend en lui une racine nouvelle et devient plus tenace encore en redoublant ses forces.

Le mal doit être combattu par les armes du Bien et de l'Amour. Quand c'est l'Amour qui détruit un mal, ce mal est tué pour toujours.
La force brutale ne fait qu'enterrer provisoirement le mal qu'elle veut combattre et détruire. Or, le mal est une semence tenace. Une fois enterrée, elle se développe en secret, germe et réapparaît plus vigoureuse encore.

L'oiseau tombé du nid

L'amour de Tierno Bokar pour les hommes dépassait largement le cadre de son groupe confessionnel, il s'étendait à l'ensemble du genre humain. Mieux, il débordait cet ensemble pour embrasser la création tout entière, jusqu'aux plus humbles des créatures de Dieu.

Un jour de cette année 1933 que je passai auprès de lui, il était assis dans la case où il devait mourir sept ans plus tard. S'adressant aux aînés de ses élèves, il développait la signification ésotérique du chapelet Tidjani. Nous étions tous sous le charme. A l'extérieur, le vent soufflait. Il faisait courir le sable dans la cour et retroussait les plumes du coq qui s'obstinait près du pilon. Une rafale plus violente ébranla la charpente. Sous le choc, un nid d'hirondelle, qui était situé en équilibre en haut du mur, sous l'avancée du toit, s'entrouvrit. Un poussin tomba en piaillant. Nous lui jetâmes un regard indifférent; l'attention de l'auditoire n'avait pas faibli un instant. Tierno termina sa phrase, puis se tut. Il se dressa, promena un regard attristé sur ses élèves et tendit les doigts, qu'il avait longs et fins, vers le petit oiseau :

— Donnez-moi ce fils d'autrui.

Il le prit dans ses mains réunies en forme de coupe. Son regard s'éclaira :

— Louange à Dieu dont la grâce prévenante embrasse tous les êtres ! dit-il.

Puis, déposant l'oisillon, il se leva, prit une caisse et la posa au-dessous du nid. Il sortit et revint peu après. Entre ses doigts, nous vîmes une grosse aiguille et un fil de coton. Il monta sur la caisse, déposa le petit d'hirondelle au fond du nid qui s'était déchiré et répara celui-ci avec le même soin qu'il mettait autrefois à broder les boubous. Puis il redescendit et reprit sa place sur la natte. Nous attendions impatiemment la suite de sa leçon; mais au lieu de reprendre le chapelet qui servait de base à ses explications, il le laissa de côté. Après un moment de silence, il s'adressa à nous :

Il est nécessaire que je vous parle encore de la Charité, dit-il, car je suis peiné de voir qu'aucun de vous n'a suffisamment cette vraie bonté du cœur. Et cependant, quelle grâce !... Si vous aviez un cœur charitable, il vous eût été impossible d'écouter une leçon, portât-elle sur Dieu, quand un petit être misérable vous criait au secours. Vous n'avez pas été émus par ce désespoir, votre cœur n'a pas entendu cet appel...
Eh bien ! mes amis, en vérité, celui qui apprendrait par cœur toutes les théologies de toutes les confessions, s'il n'a pas de charité dans son cœur, il pourra considérer ses connaissances comme un bagage sans valeur. Nul ne jouira de la rencontre divine s'il n'a pas de charité au cœur. Sans elle, les cinq prières ne sont que des gesticulations sans importance; sans elle, le pèlerinage est une promenade sans profit.

La scène de ce jour-là s'est gravée à tout jamais dans ma mémoire. Je le revois encore, dressé dans son tourtil blanc, réparant délicatement la demeure de ce « fils d'autrui » dont nous n'avions pas su entendre l'appel, tout préoccupés que nous étions de nous-mêmes.

D'une manière générale, il nous enseignait de ne jamais tuer un animal sans nécessité, fût-ce un simple moustique. Pour lui, la nature entière, animaux et végétaux compris, devait être respectée car elle était non seulement notre Mère nourricière, mais encore le grand Livre divin où tout était symbole vivant et source d'enseignement.

Le petit chien et le Paradis

Une anecdote touchante se rapportant à son petit chien montre comment la moindre circonstance était, pour lui, matière à réflexion et comment il percevait à travers toute chose, même la « moindre plantule », des réalités supérieures.

Voici l'anecdote, telle qu'il nous la raconta lui-même :

> Un jour, je m'en allai aux champs, accompagné de mon chien fidèle, ennemi juré des singes dévastateurs des plantations. Le moment était celui des grandes chaleurs d'avril. Mon chien et moi avions si chaud que nous arrivions à peine à respirer. Je m'attendais à ce que l'un de nous deux finisse par tomber en syncope. Enfin, Dieu merci, je vis un tiayki [1] dont les branches serrées offraient une voûte de verdure rafraîchissante.
>
> Mon chien poussa de petits cris de joie et joua des pattes en direction de l'ombre bienfaisante. Quand il l'eut atteinte, au lieu d'y rester il revint vers moi, la langue tirée, la lèvre pendante laissant à découvert ses dents blanches et pointues. A voir ses flancs

1. Balamite : arbre qui conserve son feuillage même à l'époque des grandes chaleurs, quand tous les autres arbres sont dénudés.

> palpiter frénétiquement, je compris combien il était épuisé.
>
> Je m'avançai vers l'ombre. Mon chien témoigna sa joie. Puis, durant un instant, je fis semblant de continuer mon chemin. La pauvre bête grogna plaintivement mais me suivit quand même, la tête basse, la queue fourrée entre les pattes. Elle était visiblement au désespoir, mais décidée à me suivre, quoi qu'il puisse advenir.
>
> Cette fidélité me toucha profondément. Comment apprécier à sa juste mesure le geste de cet animal prêt à me suivre dans la mort sans aucune nécessité pour lui et sans y être contraint par quoi que ce soit ? Il est dévoué, me dis-je, parce qu'il me considère comme son maître. Il me prouve son attachement en exposant sa vie dans la seule intention de me suivre et de rester à mes côtés.
>
> Seigneur, m'écriai-je, guéris mon âme troublée ! Rends ma fidélité semblable à celle de cet être que j'appelle dédaigneusement chien. Donne-moi, comme à lui, la force de maîtriser ma vie lorsqu'il s'agira d'accomplir Ta volonté et de suivre, sans demander « où vais-je », le chemin sur lequel Tu me dirigeras !
>
> Je ne suis pas le créateur de ce chien ; pourtant, il m'obéit aveuglément et me suit docilement, au prix de mille souffrances qui peuvent lui coûter la vie. Cette vertu, c'est Toi, Seigneur, qui l'en as doté. Donne, donne, Seigneur, à tous ceux qui te le demandent, ainsi qu'à moi, la vertu de l'Amour et le courage de la Charité !
>
> ... Puis je revins sur mes pas et me réfugiai à l'ombre. Tout heureux, mon petit compagnon vint se coucher devant moi de manière à avoir les yeux tournés vers les miens, comme pour me parler sérieusement. Les deux pattes de devant étendues parallèlement, la tête relevée bien droit, tout en se reposant il m'épiait pour ne pas perdre un seul de mes mouvements.

Quelques minutes plus tard, ni mon compagnon ni moi ne ressentions plus la moindre fatigue.

Ainsi protégé et revivifié par l'ombrage bienfaisant, je me mis à réfléchir. L'ombre procurée par un feuillage verdoyant et vivant répand, sur toute la surface qu'elle recouvre, un élément vivifiant qui neutralise l'élément irrespirable produit par la chaleur solaire. Un arbre couvert de feuilles mortes ne procure pas le même bien-être, je l'avais maintes fois éprouvé. Il existe donc dans le vert végétal, me dis-je, un principe assainissant nécessaire à l'entretien de la vie de l'homme et de l'animal. Ce principe vivifiant, qui se dégage des végétaux verts sous l'action de la chaleur, me fit songer au paradis, tel qu'il est métaphoriquement décrit dans les versets coraniques.

Le « vert » paradisiaque, songeai-je, n'est autre chose qu'une Réalité spirituelle dont le vert végétal d'ici-bas est l'une des manifestations au niveau matériel. Le rapprochement fit jaillir de mon esprit une flamme brillante de compréhension. Le paradis, tel qu'il est décrit, est un jardin symbolique [1] dont la verdure est éternelle. Cette verdure éternelle atténue

1. Le terme coranique pour « paradis » est djennat : jardin.

pour nous les rayons de la Lumière divine, trop forte pour être supportée par notre vue. Dans ce jardin spirituel toujours vert, les élus peuvent contempler la Lumière de l'Essence divine et assimiler les effluves de la Source de vie éternelle. De leurs oreilles purifiées de toute lourdeur, ils écoutent la voix de leur Seigneur. Ils entrent ainsi dans l'état de béatitude décrit aux versets 10 et 11 de la sourate LXXXVIII :

« Ils seront dans un paradis sublime (un « jardin élevé ») où l'on n'entendra aucune parole frivole. »

Frère en Dieu ! En attendant la chance de pénétrer dans le Jardin céleste de demain, respecte aujourd'hui le grand jardin que constitue le règne végétal. Garde-toi d'en détruire sans raison la moindre plantule ! Elle est une allégorie que Dieu fait sortir de terre pour notre instruction, notre nourriture et notre confort.

Tierno Bokar avait conscience de son devoir d'éducateur envers la communauté qui l'avait choisi pour guide, mais sa délicatesse était telle que l'on aurait du mal à trouver, dans l'ensemble de son enseignement, un « faites ceci... » ou « ne faites pas cela... » Dans son esprit, seule la Parole divine avait pouvoir d'ordonner ou d'interdire, seule elle pouvait fixer des impératifs d'ordre moral. Aussi l'aspect moralisateur était-il fondu dans l'ensemble de son enseignement. Il suggérait plus qu'il n'exprimait. Il modelait les âmes, il ne les brutalisait jamais.

Traitant du problème des passions, il en parle comme d'im-pulsions à guider et non d'ennemis à abattre. Jamais son langage n'est celui d'un « inquisiteur ». Avant tout, son enseignement se veut constructif et éducateur.

Pour Tierno Bokar, les passions sont le propre de tous les hommes. Elles sont comme des moutons que le berger doit parvenir à maîtriser et à diriger :

> Quand les moutons s'emballent, le berger ne peut plus les conduire. Alors, on le voit s'agiter pour éviter l'éparpillement de ses bêtes. Nous sommes chacun le berger de nos passions. Il nous appartient de les dompter et d'éviter qu'elles ne nous sautent par-dessus la tête, ne nous débordent et ne nous entraînent dans un abîme moral.

Il attirait constamment notre attention sur les valeurs réelles, durables, par opposition au caractère éphémère des attraits de ce monde. Un jour, l'entretien roulait sur la beauté. Il nous fit comprendre qu'il existe deux sortes de beauté : l'une extérieure, illusoire et éphémère, l'autre tout intérieure et spirituelle :

Les deux sortes de beauté

> La féerie des nuages multicolores qui saluent le soleil à son lever et à son coucher s'évanouit quelques instants après l'aurore ou le crépuscule. De même, les charmes de la vierge ne tardent pas à se faner. Au cours des ans, la jouvencelle devient une laideronne aux traits ravinés. Et qu'en est-il des mets délicieux ? A peine la bouchée de nourriture a-t-elle dépassé la luette qu'elle se noie dans les liquides organiques du corps.
> O toi, adepte encore au seuil de cette zaouïa où nous souhaitons voir briller pour nous tous et pour tout ce qui vit la flamme sacrée du bon conseil, sache que la beauté purement physique est aussi éphémère que les feux du crépuscule ou le rougeoiement de l'aurore. Détourne tes efforts de la recherche exclusive de cette beauté et dirige-les vers l'acquisition de la véritable et immuable beauté : la beauté intérieure, celle qui fleurit dans les prairies spirituelles.
> Cherche en vérité et cherche encore ! Cherche dans les ténèbres de la vie matérielle et, quand tu l'auras mérité de Dieu, l'étoile brillante dont il est question dans le Livre saint te guidera dans le jardin des beautés réelles et éternelles. Alors, tu seras apte à te souvenir de ton Dieu [1] qui a dit : « Souviens-toi (de Dieu) car le Souvenir [2] est utile. »
>
> (Coran LXXXVII, 9.)

Tierno s'abstenait toujours de juger autrui. Un élève ayant rapporté la conduite d'un jeune fils de famille qui se faisait passer pour un descendant d'El Hadj Omar et dont la conduite

1. L'expression « ton Dieu » peut paraître surprenante. Il s'agit ici de Dieu entendu dans sa relation particulière à chaque être, relation personnelle, unique et spécifique, celle à laquelle fait précisément allusion le hadith du Prophète : « Qui se connaît connaît son Seigneur » (ou « connaît son âme »).

2. Le mot dhikr, traduit ici par « souvenir », signifie à la fois : mention, rappel, remémoration, commémoration, souvenir. Dans la tradition islamique, ce mot désigne la mention du nom de Dieu, soit à haute voix, soit silencieusement, mention destinée à évoquer, à rappeler Sa Présence, ou, dit autrement, nous rappeler nous-même à Sa Présence. Il s'agit donc ici de quelque chose de beaucoup plus actif qu'un simple souvenir intellectuel, lequel ne constitue qu'une étape sur le chemin du dhikr. La multiplicité des sens possibles de ce mot explique la diversité des traductions qui en ont été données. Toutes ces significations tournent cependant autour d'une idée unique, celle du rapport entre le Nom et le Nommé.

n'était pas, semble-t-il, sans reproche, demanda l'avis de Tierno. Il s'attira cette réponse :

> Parler avec volubilité de la chasteté, de la probité, du courage et de la sagesse est plus facile que d'être soi-même chaste, probe, courageux et sage.
> Tonner contre la conduite déréglée ou paraissant telle de son prochain et la condamner à coups de versets coraniques quelquefois mal digérés ou de hadith [1] d'authenticité douteuse est plus facile que de corriger ses propres défauts et de pardonner les offenses que l'on subit.

Les oiseaux blancs et les oiseaux noirs

Non seulement il s'abstenait de juger autrui, mais encore il essayait de nous faire comprendre qu'une bonne pensée est toujours préférable à une mauvaise, même lorsqu'il s'agit de ceux que nous considérons comme nos ennemis. Il n'était pas toujours facile de nous convaincre, comme le montre l'anecdote suivante où il fut amené à nous parler des oiseaux blancs et des oiseaux noirs.

Ce jour-là, Tierno nous avait commenté le verset : « Celui qui a fait le poids d'un atome de bien le verra ; celui qui a fait le poids d'un atome de mal le verra » (Coran XC, 7 et 8). Comme nous le questionnions sur les bonnes actions, il nous dit :

> — La bonne action la plus profitable est celle qui consiste à prier pour ses ennemis.

— Comment ! m'étonnai-je. Généralement, les gens ont tendance à maudire leurs ennemis plutôt qu'à les bénir. Est-ce que

1. Hadith : faits ou dires du Prophète, dûment recensés dès les débuts de l'Islam et donnant lieu à la « science des hadith », branche de connaissance islamique exigée d'un bon marabout.

cela ne nous ferait pas paraître un peu stupides que de prier pour nos ennemis ?

> — Peut-être, répondit Tierno, mais seulement aux yeux de ceux qui n'ont pas compris. Les hommes ont, certes, le droit de maudire leurs ennemis, mais ils se font beaucoup plus de tort à eux-mêmes en les maudissant qu'en les bénissant.

— Je ne comprends pas, repris-je. Si un homme maudit son ennemi et si sa malédiction porte, elle peut détruire l'ennemi. Cela ne devrait-il pas plutôt le mettre à l'aise ?

> — En apparence, peut-être, répondit Tierno, mais ce n'est alors qu'une satisfaction de l'âme égoïste (nafs, l'ego) donc une satisfaction d'un niveau inférieur, matériel. Du point de vue occulte, c'est le fait de bénir son ennemi qui est le plus profitable. Même si l'on passe pour un imbécile aux yeux des ignorants, on montre par là, en réalité, sa maturité spirituelle et le degré de sa sagesse.

— Pourquoi ? lui demandai-je.

C'est alors que Tierno, pour m'aider à comprendre, parla des oiseaux blancs et des oiseaux noirs.

> Les hommes, dit-il, sont, les uns par rapport aux autres, comparables à des murs situés face à face. Chaque mur est percé d'une multitude de petits trous où nichent des oiseaux blancs et des oiseaux noirs. Les oiseaux noirs, ce sont les mauvaises pensées et les mauvaises paroles. Les oiseaux blancs, ce sont les bonnes pensées et les bonnes paroles.

Les oiseaux blancs, en raison de leur forme, ne peuvent entrer que dans des trous d'oiseaux blancs, et il en va de même pour les oiseaux noirs qui ne peuvent nicher que dans des trous d'oiseaux noirs.
Maintenant, imaginons deux hommes qui se croient ennemis l'un de l'autre. Appelons-les Youssouf et Ali.
Un jour, Youssouf, persuadé que Ali lui veut du mal, se sent empli de colère à son égard et lui envoie une très mauvaise pensée. Ce faisant, il lâche un oiseau noir et, du même coup, libère un trou correspondant. Son oiseau noir s'envole vers Ali et cherche, pour y nicher, un trou vide adapté à sa forme.
Si, de son côté, Ali n'a pas envoyé d'oiseau noir vers Youssouf, c'est-à-dire s'il n'a émis aucune mauvaise pensée, aucun de ses trous noirs ne sera vide. Ne trouvant pas où se loger, l'oiseau noir de Youssouf sera obligé de revenir vers son nid d'origine, ramenant avec lui le mal dont il était chargé, mal qui finira par ronger et par détruire Youssouf lui-même.
Mais imaginons qu'Ali a, lui aussi, émis une mauvaise pensée. Ce faisant, il a libéré un trou où l'oiseau noir de Youssouf pourra entrer afin d'y déposer une partie de son mal et y accomplir sa mission de destruction. Pendant ce temps, l'oiseau noir d'Ali volera vers Youssouf et viendra loger dans le trou libéré par l'oiseau noir de ce dernier.
Ainsi les deux oiseaux noirs auront atteint leur but et travailleront à détruire l'homme auquel ils étaient destinés.
Mais une fois leur tâche accomplie, ils reviendront chacun a son nid d'origine car, est-il dit: « Toute chose retourne à sa source. » Le mal dont ils étaient chargés n'étant pas épuisé, ce mal se retournera contre leurs auteurs et achèvera de les détruire.

L'auteur d'une mauvaise pensée, d'un mauvais souhait ou d'une malédiction est donc atteint à la fois par l'oiseau noir de son ennemi et par son propre oiseau noir lorsque celui-ci revient vers lui.
La même chose se produit avec les oiseaux blancs. Si nous n'émettons que de bonnes pensées envers notre ennemi alors que celui-ci ne nous adresse que de mauvaises pensées, ses oiseaux noirs ne trouveront pas de place où loger chez nous et retourneront à leur expéditeur. Quant aux oiseaux blancs porteurs de bonnes pensées que nous lui aurons envoyés, s'ils ne trouvent aucune place libre chez notre ennemi, ils nous reviendront chargés de toute l'énergie bénéfique dont ils étaient porteurs.
Ainsi, si nous n'émettons que de bonnes pensées, aucun mal, aucune malédiction ne pourront jamais nous atteindre dans notre être. C'est pourquoi il faut toujours bénir et ses amis et ses ennemis. Non seulement la bénédiction va vers son objectif pour y accomplir sa mission d'apaisement, mais encore elle revient vers nous, un jour ou l'autre, avec tout le bien dont elle était chargée.
C'est ce que les soufi appellent « l'égoïsme souhaitable ». C'est l'Amour de Soi valable, lié au respect de soi-même et de son prochain parce que tout homme, bon ou mauvais, est le dépositaire d'une parcelle de la Lumière divine. C'est pourquoi les soufi, conformément à l'enseignement du Prophète, ne veulent souiller ni leur bouche ni leur être par de mauvaises paroles ou de mauvaises pensées, même par des critiques apparemment bénignes.

En raison même du principe qui veut que « toute chose retourne à sa source », il nous exhortait à ne générer que les plus pures vibrations spirituelles en consacrant notre pensée et notre langue à la récitation du Nom de Dieu (dhikrou-Allâh) :

Le dhikr

La puissance de Dieu est comparable à une enceinte immense qui entourerait terre et ciel. Tout se meut à l'intérieur de cette enceinte et finit par se cogner à ses parois éternelles pour retourner à son point de départ.
Bonnes ou mauvaises, nos actions, une fois en mouvement, évoluent et finissent par heurter l'obstacle. Le heurt augmente leur puissance, mais modifie leur direction et les fait revenir à leur point de départ. Ainsi les effets de nos actes nous reviennent-ils, telle une onde qui, après avoir heurté la rive, retourne sur elle-même et revient au centre de la mare d'où elle était partie [1].
Frère en Dieu qui désires être adepte de la zaouïa de Communion vraie, prononce, en raison du retour des effets de nos actes, le Nom sacré de Dieu (Allâh) sans cesse, de nuit comme de jour, doucement dans ton cœur, intérieurement dans ton esprit, ou de tous tes poumons en soufflant dans une trompe en corne de bœuf !

1. Si l'on y a jeté une pierre, par exemple.

Plus que tout autre, ce Nom évoque l'Essence de la Divinité. Il agite et fait émaner du hawa'il asfa (le « ciel des Attributs divins ») des flots de bien-être spirituel. Ces ondes de paix s'élèvent, puis reviennent vers ton esprit, centre émetteur de l'invocation. Ainsi notre malheur et notre bonheur dépendent-ils de ce que nous émettons.

Comme tous les soufi, Tierno attachait une grande importance au dhikr, lequel tient une place centrale dans les pratiques spirituelles des tourouq, ou confréries.
Il incitait ses élèves à se livrer non seulement au dhikr extérieur (le « dhikr de la langue »), qui est une première approche, mais encore au dhikr intérieur permanent, celui qui remplit l'être tout entier de la Présence de Dieu et que la tradition soufi appelle le « dhikr du cœur » ou « dhikr de l'intime [1] ».
Écoutons-le :

Frère en Dieu qui viens nous demander conseil, fais de la citation intime du nom de Dieu ton porte-bonheur. Laisse de côté l'homme qui veut ruser avec la foi. Au terme du voyage des âmes, il rencontrera une désagréable déception : celle de se trouver frustré de ce qu'il croyait avoir gagné.
(...)
Chaque croyant a pu constater qu'à certains moments l'ardeur de son adoration est très vive, et qu'à d'autres cette ardeur est moindre, en dépit de toute sa bonne volonté. Sache qu'il est une chaleur mysti-

1. Cf. note 1, p. 81 et p. 250.

que qui procède de Dieu par l'effet de la citation de son Nom un grand nombre de fois. Elle pénètre l'adepte et réchauffe son âme. Sous l'effet de ce feu, l'âme croît en capacité d'adoration, tout comme le fer augmente de volume sous l'effet du feu de la forge.

Chaleur et refroidissement mystiques dépendent donc, en nous, de la manière dont nous récitons le Nom de Dieu (ou les noms de ses attributs) et du nombre des répétitions. Heureux celui qui, en une journée, peut réciter le grand Nom de Dieu (Allâh) 34 560 fois au maximum et 960 fois au minimum [1] ! (...)

La lumière qui jaillit du nom Allâh, lorsqu'on le mentionne, avive la puissance de la flamme spirituelle qui a été déposée par Dieu en chaque âme, à sa venue à l'existence.

Répéter constamment ce Nom ou la formule de l'Unité de Dieu (Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh) est un moyen sûr d'introduire en soi le souffle qui attisera le feu intérieur. Sans ce feu, la braise spirituelle qui a été déposée en nous s'éteint progressivement et finit par devenir un charbon noir, inerte, dans lequel réside un acide corrosif.

Du fond de sa modeste concession, Tierno avait observé les hommes. Aucune nuance de leur âme ne lui avait échappé. Appliquant à merveille le conseil du Prophète : « Parlez aux gens

1. Le nombre des répétitions est lié à une connaissance numérologique, en rapport avec la valeur simple ou décomposée des lettres qui composent le nom. Sujet trop vaste pour être abordé ici.

à la mesure de leur entendement », il savait adapter son enseignement à la compréhension de chacun.

J'avais observé sa façon de faire et ne pus me retenir, un jour, de lui faire part de mon étonnement :

— Tierno, lui dis-je, quand je t'écoute parler avec les petits enfants de la cour, je m'aperçois que, finalement, tu leur dis la même chose qu'à nous, mais d'une façon telle que cela devient comme un conte de fées. Quand tu parles à mes tantes, je te vois prendre encore un autre langage. Finalement, tu peux dire la même chose au vieux marabout Alpha Ali et à Gabouli, la petite fille de huit ans, mais avec une forme et une couleur différentes. Pourquoi ?

Il me répondit :

Les trois sortes de vêtements

Il y a trois manières de laver les vêtements. Les tissus épais et grossiers sont frappés avec une planchette ; les tissus moyennement épais sont foulés aux pieds et les tissus très fins sont pressés à la main. On ne saurait laver de la même façon une épaisse couverture de laine et un boubou de fine étoffe européenne.

Il en va de même pour les âmes humaines. Les épreuves par lesquelles elles doivent passer pour parvenir au degré où l'esprit est constamment occupé à louer le Nom du Seigneur sont plus ou moins violentes en fonction de leur état.

Tierno, qui aimait tous les hommes, aimait aussi les pécheurs qu'il ne se reconnaissait pas le droit de juger. Celui qui s'est lamenté sur Bandiagara avant de mourir estimait qu'il avait un devoir à remplir envers ceux qui s'étaient écartés des voies divines, mais il ne les condamnait pas.

Lorsque l'un de nous lui demanda :
— Tierno, que dis-tu de ceux qui s'adonnent uniquement aux choses temporelles ?
Il se contenta de répondre :

> — Ce sont des âmes pour lesquelles il faut faire une prière de sauvegarde.

Jusqu'à l'éclatement du drame qui devait marquer les dernières années de sa vie, Tierno Bokar était resté le guide spirituel incontesté de la communauté musulmane de Bandiagara. Aussi était-il fréquemment invité à donner son avis sur la valeur de tel ou tel comportement dans une situation donnée de la vie sociale. Qu'il s'agisse du petit garçon qu'on lui avait confié, ébauche sociale primaire, ou du puissant chef qui lui expliquait un problème complexe de petite ou de grande politique, ses réponses étaient toujours puisées dans ce fond de santé morale, de pureté d'intention et de parfait détachement qui marquaient tous ses rapports avec ses semblables.

Aux enfants de toutes origines sociales qu'il instruisait, il disait, pour les inviter à pratiquer une modestie vivante :

Le palais et la chaumière

> J'ai vu en rêve un homme monstrueux qui criait de ses soixante-douze langues : « Je suis fils de chef, je suis fils de saint, je suis fils de savant, je suis riche et puissant. » Gens de bon sens, prononcez ces mots à mi-voix, même si vous ne dites que la vérité. Ne creusez pas trop autour des racines du tronc illustre dont vous êtes issus car vous risquez, après quelques couches de terre, de découvrir qu'elles prennent naissance dans une masse de détritus. Soyez moins fiers car, si vous cherchez bien, à partir de chaque palais royal vous trouverez une ruelle qui mène à la chaumière d'un pauvre [1]. Méditez plutôt le premier verset de la sourate IV :
> « O hommes ! Craignez votre Seigneur qui vous a créés > à partir d'un seul être... »

Pour lui, la société humaine, participant de la Réalité divine, formait un tout, comme une immense caravane dont les membres sont obligatoirement solidaires parce qu'ils courent les mêmes dangers et qu'ils marchent vers un même but. Il disait :

> Partout dans la brousse où les plantes s'entrelacent dru, le feuillage répand sur la terre une ombre épaisse qui donne de la fraîcheur et répare les forces. Que ne profitons-nous de cette leçon pour nous rapprocher spirituellement et nous unir les uns aux autres, en un vaste bosquet (toggéré) dont l'ombre immatérielle reposerait nos âmes !

A ceux qui s'insurgeaient contre certains abus des grands, il prêchait le calme et la patience et recommandait de commencer par se transformer soi-même. Aux enfants, il parlait comme si, de ces enfants, il avait pu espérer pouvoir faire des frères à jamais liés, et aux hommes, comme si ces hommes, parfois déjà aigris par la vie, ne pouvaient que retrouver le calme dans la douceur, la simplicité et la tolérance.

> Voir et critiquer les inégalités sociales, les dénoncer avec de grands gestes et de grands mots est plus facile que de se faire humble soi-même à l'égard des

1. Si l'on remonte assez loin, on découvre que toute lignée royale prend origine, à un certain moment, dans une famille modeste.

moins favorisés. Aussi voit-on les fils de ceux qui furent grands jadis [1] ne pas se résoudre à dire aux fils des sujets d'autrefois : « Vous êtes hommes comme nous, nous avons les mêmes droits car, aux yeux de Dieu, nous sommes tous des créatures identiques. »

Responsabilité des chefs

S'il conseillait aux hommes la tolérance et la patience, il n'en condamnait pas moins pour autant les abus des chefs qui manquent à leurs devoirs. Lorsque je lui demandai :

— Tierno, pourquoi voit-on la plus petite faute d'un chef ?

Il me répondit, avec l'humour souriant dont il usait souvent :

— Parce que, mon ami, la gravité de toute faute commise par un chef temporel ou religieux est proportionnelle à la superficie de son pays. L'efficacité en est multipliée par la densité des habitants de cette chefferie ou des adeptes de cette obédience, multipliée encore par le poids de la faute et augmentée de l'exagération des conteurs ambulants. Le tout est majoré du volumineux poids de la crédulité des masses.

Il se fit plus grave dans une autre image qui traitait du même sujet :

Un jour, je fis un plongeon dans la rivière. Soudain, je sentis que je m'enfonçais dans un abîme et qu'une charge d'eau écrasante pesait sur moi, comme si les esprits peuplant les hauteurs d'où je m'étais détaché appliquaient sur moi tout leur poids. Un grand effort

1. Il faisait allusion aux descendants des grands chefs religieux ou temporels qui se croyaient alors — et souvent encore maintenant — supérieurs aux autres.

me fut nécessaire pour remonter à la surface. Une fois hors de l'eau, un autre effort me fut nécessaire pour trouver, dans la vie morale, le correspondant de l'étrange malaise dont j'avais souffert. En y réfléchissant, je vis que les conséquences de nos fautes se mesurent à la hauteur de notre rang social, d'une part, et de notre situation personnelle à l'instant de la faute, d'autre part. Plus notre rang social est élevé et notre situation honorable, plus l'abîme de notre chute sera profond et plus violente notre asphyxie morale ou publique.

Toujours scrupuleux et soucieux de justice, il n'accablait cependant pas le chef lorsque la faute incombait à ses intermédiaires ou mandataires :

Il est une inconséquence qui m'étonne plus que beaucoup d'autres : je me demande pourquoi les sujets s'attaquent au chef quand quelque serviteur manque à ses devoirs. Le chef, le roi ne peuvent être raisonnablement mis en cause quand leurs commissionnaires commettent des indélicatesses. Tant qu'un serviteur reste fidèle à sa consigne, on doit le considérer comme un serviteur. Mais dès l'instant où il se détourne de son devoir, il cesse d'être l'agent de celui qui l'a envoyé et celui-ci devient une victime au même titre que les autres.

Au moment où Tierno Bokar tenait ces propos, nous étions en 1933 ; il n'avait pas encore eu à souffrir personnellement de l'action de tels intermédiaires. Mais plus tard, lorsque quelqu'un lui dira :

— La France n'aime pas les « onze grains », elle donne des ordres pour les poursuivre et les persécuter.

Il répondra :

— Es-tu certain que c'est vraiment la France qui a dit cela ? Ne seraient-ce pas plutôt nos antagonistes qui, ne pouvant avoir raison de nous ni par leur propre force, ni par leur science, ni par leur prestige, ont choisi de nous desservir auprès de la France afin d'utiliser contre nous sa force, son prestige et sa science ?

Comme dit le proverbe : « Ils battent le tambour pour pousser deux groupes, qui n'ont rien à se reprocher mutuellement, à s'exterminer l'un l'autre à leur profit. » Cela s'appelle : « Battez-vous, moi je battrai le tam-tam pour vous. »

Il considérait le pouvoir comme une drogue puissante qui peut se révéler dangereuse entre des mains inexpérimentées. Il racontait à cet égard une parabole pleine d'humour qui, hélas, n'a rien perdu de son actualité :

Le trône et le garçon boucher

Un jour, un volcan se mit à vomir du feu pour châtier les hommes de leur iniquité. Ce feu se répandit sur toute l'étendue d'un vaste pays, consuma tout et fit périr les derniers des hommes valeureux de ce royaume, ne laissant que quelques survivants.

Un ver bizarre et tout hérissé de poils, qui vivait jusqu'alors dans les entrailles de la terre, se trouva projeté sur le trône d'or du monarque, dans une salle du palais miraculeusement restée intacte. Atterrissant sur le trône royal, il y trouva une vilaine mouche de fosse d'aisances. La mouche dit au ver :

« Coquin, vulgaire citoyen des souterrains obscurs, que viens-tu faire sur ce trône ? Va au large ou je te fais envoyer en pâture aux citoyens de la basse-cour ! »

Sans mot dire, le poilu cylindrique ondula vers la mouche ordurière. Puis, ramassant et repliant son corps sur lui-même, il lui dit : « Espèce de la plus basse origine, trop vite et trop haut placée en raison d'une calamité générale, tiens, voici pour ta morgue et ton insolence ! » Et détendant son corps tel un ressort, il frappa d'un coup sec la mouche nauséabonde. Celle-ci, roulant sur elle-même et perdant l'usage de ses ailes, alla s'écraser contre un mur de la salle. Tout fier de son exploit, le ver se disposa pour s'installer le plus confortablement possible sur le trône.

Survint alors un gros chien noir, rescapé de la catastrophe. Fuyant les flammes et enragé par la peur, il sauta sur le trône, écrasant le ver sans même s'en apercevoir.

Sur ce, un misérable garçon boucher, échappé lui aussi de la tourmente, entra précipitamment dans la salle. Trouvant le chien juché sur le trône, il s'arma d'un grand bâton et, sans autre commentaire, le chassa à coups violents et redoublés. Furieux mais impuissant, le chien s'enfuit et courut à travers les rues de la ville en aboyant à tous vents, comme pour ameuter les survivants contre l'usurpateur.

Pendant ce temps, le garçon boucher, installé à son tour sur le trône, se mit à monologuer : « Vraiment, mieux vaut tard que pas du tout, se dit-il. Seule l'injustice humaine m'avait condamné à ma servile profession. Plutôt que de besogner comme un boucher, je me sens capable de gouverner le monde ! »

Ayant dit, il revêtit les effets royaux qui se trouvaient encore dans la salle et se saisit du sceptre de commandement.
Les survivants, qui étaient venus s'amasser dans la cour du palais, virent apparaître le garçon boucher, somptueusement vêtu et brandissant le sceptre du commandement. Aussitôt ils se soumirent à lui, attentifs à ses ordres car, pensaient-ils, cet homme ne pouvait être que le nouveau roi envoyé par Dieu à leur pays dévasté.
Le nouveau roi se mit à donner des ordres. Hélas ! Il ne savait tenir que le langage des abattoirs. Aussi chacun de ses ordres était-il ponctué de cette phrase typique :
— Ceux qui me résisteront seront débités comme de la bidoche de première qualité !...
Cette parabole, ajoutait Tierno, est valable pour toi comme pour moi-même, ô Frère en Dieu. Elle nous enseigne beaucoup de choses. Elle nous avertit que tout le monde n'est pas bon pour n'importe quelle tâche. Les rôles sont partagés par la Providence intelligente.
Quand l'occasion de jouer un rôle de chef advient à un homme à l'âme vulgaire, il ne sait qu'instaurer une dictature mégalomane. Au lieu de faire régner la paix pour tous, ce sera le commencement de la terreur sombre. Les fripouilles deviendront financiers et les canailles frapperont la monnaie. La morale tanguera dangereusement sur la mer en furie des passions déchaînées.

Avec toute sa lucidité, Tierno Bokar avait déjà perçu la menace de déséquilibre qui pesait sur la société africaine, écartelée entre des courants qui arrachaient ses enfants à leur milieu originel. Le phénomène de désagrégation culturelle qui s'amorçait sous ses yeux paraissait infiniment fâcheux au sage de Bandiagara pour qui le remède résidait dans le fond culturel des ethnies elles-mêmes, dans ce ciment qui avait été assez fort pour assurer, pendant des millénaires, la cohérence de la société africaine.
Avant que le jeune Africain ne se laisse aller aux attraits de telle ou telle culture étrangère, il devait, pour Tierno Bokar, méditer sur le trésor légué par ses ancêtres et non, comme on le fait trop souvent aujourd'hui, l'ignorer ou le tenir pour quantité négligeable. Son conseil pouvait se résumer ainsi : « N'allez pas chercher fortune en mendiant au loin, vous qui êtes assis sur un sac d'or. Servez-vous de cette fortune. Faites-la prospérer en commerçant avec elle. » Tierno Bokar était riche de plusieurs expériences africaines. Toucouleur par ses parents, successivement Haoussa, Bambara, Peul, Marka et Dogon d'adoption, il avait puisé dans chacun de ces groupements ethniques une parcelle de son expérience d'ensemble. Il avait enrichi cette récolte à la faveur de ses connaissances religieuses orthodoxes. L'enseignement coranique avait fait de lui un maître du soufisme africain. Les hommes auxquels il s'était frotté de-ci de-là, au cours de sa jeunesse mouvementée, lui avaient transmis le précieux enseignement des traditions de maints terroirs africains. En fin de compte, il ne distinguait aucune opposition foncière entre les deux mondes qui l'avaient formé.

Tradition et évolution

A une question sur les traditions, il répondit :

> Respectez-les. Elles constituent l'héritage spirituel de ceux qui nous ont précédés et qui n'avaient pas rompu avec Dieu.

Les traditions peuvent se présenter sous forme de contes plus ou moins longs de différentes natures : contes pour enfants, contes didactiques ou initiatiques. Quels qu'ils soient, méditez-les, cherchez à dévoiler le secret qui est enveloppé en eux. Creusez-les profondément, comme le feraient les chercheurs d'or dans les mines du Bourré [1].

Chaque conte, chaque devinette est comme une galerie dont l'ensemble forme une mine de renseignements que les anciens nous ont légués par région, race, famille, et souvent d'individu à individu. Mais il va de soi que pour travailler profitablement dans cette mine et y circuler à l'aise, il faut y voir clair, autrement dit posséder une clef, ou un maître.

(...)

Lorsque des spéculations hasardeuses prévalent sur les lois divines et les coutumes instituées par la sagesse traditionnelle — coutumes que nous apprécions mal, faute de connaissances suffisantes — alors les malheurs inéluctables viennent frapper le monde, contre lesquels les contemporains ne peuvent rien.

(...)

Toutes les bouches, en ce temps, conjuguent le verbe « vouloir gagner » à la première personne de l'indicatif présent. Gagner devient un devoir impératif. Quant à la manière de gagner, on se préoccupe peu de savoir si elle est licite ou non.

Ce temps est celui où l'honnête homme pauvre vit et meurt ignoré. Heureux est-il, encore, s'il n'est honni de tous, voire de ses propres parents !

1. Région aurifère du Mali.

Même dans l'isolement relatif de Bandiagara, cité protégée par sa falaise, Tierno Bokar avait deviné l'impatience des jeunes gens du pays à conjuguer le verbe « évoluer ». Il en avait mesuré et la nature et la nécessité. Il était trop sage pour s'y opposer mais, de ce verbe aux attraits presque magiques, il corrigeait la définition simpliste que certains en donnaient de façon un peu trop hâtive. Évoluer, oui, mais à partir d'un point de départ solide.

Certains, disait-il, croient qu'évoluer c'est rompre carrément avec toutes ses traditions pour adopter celles d'une race dont on admire, souvent par « snobisme », le comportement. Pour nous, évoluer, c'est perfectionner notre patrimoine qui n'est pas fait seulement de nos demeures et de nos champs ; c'est aussi aménager notre pensée, notre manière d'être tout entière.

Ce qui vaut pour un pays tempéré ne peut convenir entièrement à un pays tropical. On voit nos enfants soudanais copier plus ou moins maladroitement Arabes ou Européens, selon leur formation. Ils sont pareils à ces chutes d'eau qui se perdent en ruisselant inutilement sur des dalles de pierre sans jamais rencontrer un lac pour apaiser leur course folle et stérile.

La tradition, ce point de départ, doit être assez solide dans l'esprit de ceux qui se mettent en route pour leur permettre de revenir sur leurs pas et de prendre un nouveau départ en cas de heurt, en cas de chute, en cas d'erreur. Elle est le point d'ancrage et de référence qui permet de savoir qui l'on est et d'avancer hardiment sur des routes nouvelles ou lointaines sans pour autant perdre son équilibre et son identité.

L'imitation aveugle des autres (le taqlid se glisse partout...) ne nous fait pas devenir eux, mais nous fait nous oublier nous-mêmes. Comme dit le proverbe : « Le morceau de bois a beau flotter sur l'eau, il ne devient pas caïman. »

« Sources » est le titre qu'un jeune Africain, El Hadj Abdulwahab Doukouré, donna à un article inspiré par l'enseignement de Tierno Bokar et que publia le Soudan français dans son numéro 96 du 11 juillet 1952. Il écrivait :

> Ce qui m'a le plus frappé, c'est de constater que (Tierno Bokar) a digéré les idées progressistes contenues dans le Coran. Il les a enseignées en se servant de matériaux locaux, sans pour cela violer l'essence pure de la Révélation, ni outrager l'orthodoxie établie par le canon des Imams. L'enseignement de Tierno Bokar Salif était oral. Il se donnait en fulfudé, langue peule, dont la richesse et la poésie ne sont plus à démontrer... Je n'exagère pas en disant qu'aucune bibliothèque arabe — et nombreuses sont celles que j'ai visitées au Maroc, en Algérie et en Tunisie — ne possède un ouvrage qui soit aussi synthétique, pratique, vivant et à la fois à la portée du lettré et de l'illettré... (Tierno) a compris que la miséricorde de Dieu dépasse sa rigueur. Cette miséricorde embrassante permet d'affirmer que Dieu ouvre à ses créatures des portes larges et multiples pour leur faciliter le retour à Lui...
>
> Avec Tierno, le néophyte commence par prendre conscience de sa propre existence, puis de celle des autres. Le maître lui fait sentir la supériorité de sa propre nature et les conditions de développement et d'épanouissement de cette nature. Aux dons exceptionnels faits à l'homme, correspondent des responsabilités morales ; tout cela est étayé par des versets coraniques et des hadith authentiques...
>
> Je sais, par expérience personnelle, combien de jeunes Noirs assoiffés de savoir Divin se sont expatriés... et sont revenus peut-être — je ne le nie pas — versés en littérature arabe, mais totalement délestés de leur simplicité naturelle, de leur foi ardente et de la charité qu'ils ont vu pratiquer par leurs anciens sans calcul... Le Prophète ayant dit : « Travaille pour le salut de ton âme comme si tu devais mourir le lendemain, travaille pour ton bien-être matériel comme si tu devais durer une éternité », je conclus que nous devons, d'une part, raffermir nos traditions et renforcer notre foi et, d'autre part, chercher à améliorer notre train de vie matériel par l'acquisition des sciences modernes dont les sources se trouvent en Occident.

Pour clore ce chapitre consacré au « message » propre à Tierno Bokar, écoutons une fois encore cet appel qu'il adressait, au nom de l'unité spirituelle, à tous les hommes :

> De tout mon cœur, je souhaite la venue de l'ère de réconciliation entre toutes les confessions de la terre, l'ère où ces confessions unies s'appuieront les unes sur les autres pour former une voûte morale et spirituelle, l'ère où elles reposeront en Dieu par trois points d'appui : Amour, Charité, Fraternité.
>
> Il n'y a qu'un seul Dieu. De même, il ne peut y avoir qu'une Voie pour mener à Lui, une Religion dont les diverses manifestations temporelles sont comparables aux branches déployées d'un arbre unique. Cette Religion ne peut s'appeler que VÉRITÉ. Ses dogmes ne peuvent être que trois : Amour, Charité, Fraternité.
>
> Cette réconciliation plusieurs fois prédite, préparée et tant attendue, que ne l'appellerait-on : « Alliage véridique » ?
>
> En vérité, une rencontre des vérités essentielles des diverses croyances qui se partagent la terre pourrait se révéler d'un usage religieux vaste et universel. Peut-être serait-elle plus conforme à l'Unité de Dieu, à l'unité de l'esprit humain et à celle de la Création tout entière.

3

L'enseignement

Avant tout, Tierno Bokar fut un maître enseignant. Lorsque, au début de ce siècle, il ouvrit son école coranique, la communauté de Bandiagara lui confia ses enfants pour les instruire et les éduquer. Il les enseigna comme il l'avait été lui-même dans sa jeunesse, leur dispensant au fil des années, conformément à ce que la communauté attendait de lui, les connaissances qui constituent la base de la culture islamique proprement dite : écriture, langue et grammaire arabes, étude du Coran et de son prolongement, le Tawhid (théologie [1]), étude de la Sunna et des systèmes qui en découlent (jurisprudence, règles de vie religieuses, morales et civiques), rhétorique, histoire musulmane générale, etc.

Trois jours par semaine, les élèves de l'école coranique avaient congé. Pendant ces trois jours, Tierno tenait chez lui des réunions ouvertes à tous, consacrées aux enseignements de la Tidjaniya. Tous les marabouts de la ville venaient l'écouter. Le vieux Alpha Ali, à l'époque le plus grand maître d'école coranique de Bandiagara, lisait des passages de Diawharatul-Maani (Perle des significations), le livre majeur de Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani. Tierno Bokar, qui était Cheikh de la confrérie, commentait et interprétait ces passages, d'abord selon les enseignements de Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani lui-même, ensuite selon le livre d'El Hadj Omar Er-Rimaa (les Lances), enfin selon le fruit de ses propres méditations, de son Ijtihad (effort de réflexion personnelle). C'est à la qualité et à l'originalité de son Ijtihad qu'il devait sa réputation de maître enseignant.

1. Tawhid : Unité (de Dieu). Ce terme couvre l'étude des qualités et attributs de Dieu et de ses rapports avec la création, particulièrement avec l'homme.

Quant aux aspects plus spécifiquement ésotériques de l'enseignement de la Tidjaniya (science des nombres, des lettres, des formes géométriques, etc.), il les dispensait individuellement, selon les aptitudes de chacun. De même, c'est individuellement qu'il nous guidait sur le chemin du perfectionnement intérieur.

En fait, c'était sa personne tout entière, sa vie même, qui étaient enseignement. Les vérités les plus hautes ou les plus subtiles, il les abordait au détour des événements les plus courants de la vie quotidienne, sachant se servir des images les plus simples pour nous aider à comprendre ce qui nous demeurait obscur. C'est ainsi qu'au fil des jours nous nous imprégnions peu à peu de ce qui irradiait de lui, à travers ses paroles comme à travers ses silences.

Lorsqu'il parlait, il s'efforçait de se mettre à la portée de ses auditeurs et de trouver un langage qui puisse être entendu de tous. Un jour, un vieux Dogon illettré [1] appelé Antiamba était venu le trouver pour être enseigné dans l'Islam. C'est alors que Tierno inaugura, pour lui transmettre les principes de base de la religion, une méthode mnémotechnique qu'il conserva par la suite pour ses autres élèves, particulièrement pour ceux qui ne connaissaient aucune langue écrite.

Au fur et à mesure qu'il développait les principes et enchaînait les raisonnements, il traçait sur le sable, avec son index, une série de points qui peu à peu, s'ordonnaient en un schéma simple qui frappait l'attention et se gravait aisément dans la mémoire.

Cet enseignement de base se divise en trois parties essentielles, ou « leçons », dont chacune est illustrée par un schéma particulier que le lecteur trouvera aux pages 196, 211 et 221.

Le titre de la première leçon : « le Pacte primordial », fait écho au verset 171 de la sourate VII où Dieu, dans le monde mystérieux de la préexistence, avant la descente dans le temps, pourrait-on dire, pose aux âmes des hommes la question « Ne suis-je pas votre Seigneur ? » (alastou bi Rabbikoum ?), question à

1. « Illettré » du seul point de vue des langues écrites française et arabe ; ce mot ne signifie pas ignare et n'a rien, ici, de péjoratif.

laquelle les hommes répondent : « Oui, nous l'attestons. » Ce « oui », qui fut le premier acte existentiel de l'âme humaine, la reconnaissance originelle de son appartenance, constitue l'essence même de cette « Intelligence profonde » dont il sera question dès le début de la première leçon. Au plus profond de chaque âme réside la connaissance, souvent endormie et comme recouverte de voiles, de « qui » elle est et « d'où » elle vient ; c'est cette Intelligence profonde, cet instinct spirituel, qui va lui permettre de distinguer la vérité de l'erreur et de s'engager, puis de progresser, dans la voie du Retour. « Certes, nous venons de Dieu et nous lui faisons retour. » (Coran II, 156.)

Après avoir ainsi posé ce qui fait la noblesse intrinsèque de l'homme, Tierno Bokar situe d'emblée celui-ci dans un rapport de solidarité et de responsabilité envers ses semblables, à commencer par ses proches, en rappelant le hadith du Prophète : « Chacun de vous est un berger et chaque berger doit un compte de son troupeau. »

Puis, évoquant les conditions particulièrement troublées et difficiles de notre temps, il place l'homme devant la nécessité d'un choix qui engage tout son être et qui est comme l'écho du « oui » primordial : le choix entre la voie ascendante, voie d'effort et de courage qui le mène à l'accomplissement de lui-même en une éternité retrouvée (la voie de la cité Qarârin, la cité éternelle), et la voie descendante, toute de facilité, qui le mène à la dissolution et à la perte de lui-même (la voie de la cité Bavârin, la cité périssable).

Dans la deuxième leçon, Maddîn, (« Qu'est-ce que la religion ? »), Tierno Bokar expose les principes de base de l'Islâm (soumission à Dieu), de l'Imân (la Foi) et de l'Ihsân (le comportement parfait) puis il énonce les attributs de Dieu et de ses Envoyés. C'est, en quelque sorte, le catéchisme de l'Islam.

Le chemin de la Foi y apparaît déjà comme édifié sur trois piliers. Ces trois piliers, nous les retrouverons dans la troisième leçon (« la Loi intérieure ») où ils correspondent aux trois degrés successifs qui jalonnent la progression spirituelle. Celle-ci, en effet, chemine de la périphérie vers le centre ou, pour employer l'image de Tierno Bokar, elle va de l'écorce du fruit (premier degré) vers la chair (second degré) puis vers le noyau (troisième degré), ce dernier étant seul porteur de vie et de renouvellement.

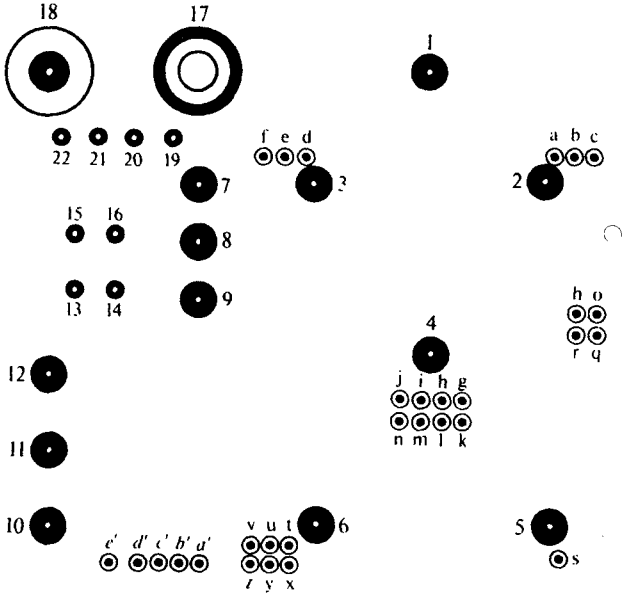
Bien entendu, ces trois leçons ne constituent qu'une base d'enseignement. Elles posent les principes, mais ne les développent pas dans toutes leurs implications. Comme nous le disons plus loin, chaque point de cet enseignement pouvait faire l'objet, de la part de Tierno Bokar, de développements approfondis et variés, correspondant à différents niveaux de compréhension tant exotériques qu'ésotériques. Quelle que fût l'évolution des élèves, ils devaient souvent revenir, pour ne point s'égarer en chemin, à ces premières leçons qui leur fournissaient les points de référence nécessaires.

D'un bout à l'autre de ce chapitre, c'est Tierno Bokar qui parle à travers la bouche de Cissé, maître religieux que nous retrouvons tout au long des leçons. Tierno avait inventé le personnage de Cissé pour ne point se mettre en avant et éviter d'utiliser les pronoms « moi » et « je » dont, à son gré, nous n'avons que trop tendance à abuser.

Écoutons donc Cissé.

première leçon



Le pacte primordial

Un vieux Dogon, les yeux dessillés par de nombreux et longs voyages et par le contact avec d'autres ethnies, revint parmi les siens et leur dit :

— O mes parents ! Nous sommes dans l'erreur. Nos pratiques religieuses n'ont aucun sens. J'ai vu les religions de bien des pays, mais jamais je n'ai trouvé, en deux endroits, deux objets de culte strictement identiques. Chaque pays a les siens. On trouve même des idoles individuelles, l'une pour la mère, l'autre pour l'enfant. Idoles de la tribu, idoles du clan, fétiches particuliers, tantôt faits d'un éclat de pierre ou d'un morceau de bois, tantôt matérialisés par un poisson ou un serpent. Seule l'erreur peut être aussi multiple. Chez les musulmans, au contraire, tout est homogène ; paroles et gestes sont identiques. Les heures, les lieux et les appels à la prière sont semblables. Quand un musulman guérisseur trace les signes efficaces, tous les autres initiés peuvent les déchiffrer alors que, chez nous, les poudres et les éléments de nos philtres ne sont reconnaissables que de leurs seuls auteurs.

« J'en conclus que la Vérité est une et ne doit pas manquer d'harmonie dans sa manifestation. Je veux pratiquer l'Islam.

Ses auditeurs, sceptiques et très attachés au culte de

Le pacte primordial

leurs ancêtres, culte vieux de plusieurs milliers d'hivernages, lui dirent :

— Si tu es gagné à l'Islam, va à Bandiagara, tu y trouveras tes partenaires.

Antiamba — c'est ainsi que s'appelait le vieux Dogon — vint donc à Bandiagara. Il aborda un passant et échangea avec lui les mots usuels de bienvenue. Il s'ouvrit de son désir d'être instruit dans la tradition islamique. Son interlocuteur lui dit :

— Va chez Cissé. Il n'a d'autre occupation que d'enseigner la religion. Par lui, tu seras satisfait si Dieu le veut.

Antiamba se rendit chez Cissé, entra et salua :

— La paix sur vous, ô ceux d'ici !

Cissé répondit :

— Nous n'avons que la paix, la paix seulement [1]. Que cette paix soit sur toi. Sois le bienvenu ! »

La requête ayant été exposée, Cissé se disposa à instruire Antiamba, mais il se heurta à une difficulté majeure : Antiamba ne savait ni lire ni écrire ; il ne parlait pas la langue rituelle, l'arabe ; il ne savait que le dogon et le peul. Or, nul n'ignore la peine que l'on a à se faire entendre d'un être inculte, surtout lorsqu'il s'agit d'un entretien portant sur la religion. Mais Cissé, qui n'ignorait rien de la tradition musulmane, n'était pas sans connaître cette sentence du Prophète de Dieu : « Parlez aux gens à la mesure de leur entendement. »

Il se dit : « Cet homme ne peut lire dans un livre, mais si je me servais de la langue qu'il parle et de figures que je tracerais sur la terre, sa mémoire ne perdrait rien, ma

1. Formule traditionnelle de réponse à une salutation.

tâche serait facilitée et le vœu de cet homme exaucé. »

Il pensa alors à ce mot de notre Seigneur Mohammad (Mahomet) à propos des guides spirituels : « En chaque homme de Dieu est scellée une parcelle du secret de la Puissance divine. La vertu de cette parcelle lui permet de tirer la vérité d'entre le doute et le mensonge, comme on tire le lait d'entre le sang et les excréments [1]. »

Sur le conseil de Cissé, le vieux Dogon apporta du sable fin et le répandit sur le sol. Celui qui, ignorant cette méthode, surprendrait un homme traçant des lignes et des points sur le sable en articulant des paroles croirait avoir affaire à un géomancien ou à un dément. Pourtant, la méthode de Cissé, en dépit de son étrange aspect, est la seule qui soit compatible avec les conditions intellectuelles et matérielles de la masse. Celui qui voudrait instruire les siens selon les règles de la scolastique ne rencontrerait que l'échec. La méthode de Cissé est conçue à l'usage de la masse illettrée, en prévision de la mort qui n'attend pas et de l'ordre divin qui ne s'abroge point. Elle aplanit toutes les difficultés. Linguistiquement, elle universalise l'enseignement et le rend accessible à tous les âges, à tous les goûts, à toutes les capacités, avec les plus grandes promesses de succès et dans le minimum de temps.

Cissé prit la parole [2] :

1 Néophyte, le Maître [3] te créa. Il accomplit en toi

1. Les pasteurs et nomades de jadis croyaient que le lait de vache était situé entre le sang et les excréments.

2. Au fur et à mesure que Tierno développe son raisonnement, il déplace son index sur le dessin (voir p. 196) selon un ordre que nous avons représenté ici par des chiffres et des lettres.

3. Mot peul qui, comme le mot arabe rabb, signifie à la fois « Seigneur » (le suzerain) et « Maître » (celui qui possède).

l'image d'Adam, la plus honorable et la plus belle des formes. Cette forme a été celle de notre Seigneur Mohammad (sur lui la prière et la paix !). Allâh préleva le plus précieux de ses diamants, te l'attribua et dit : « Voici, prends-en soin. Mais souviens-toi que je te le reprendrai. En attendant :

2 utilise-le,

3 commerce avec.

a. Si tu l'entretiens bien,

b. si tu l'accommodes,

c. et si tu en retires un bénéfice, le total du gain sera pour toi. Je n'en ai point usage. Par surcroît, je te donnerai un Royaume tel que jamais monarque n'en eut de semblable : le Paradis après la mort.

Il est écrit dans le Livre de Noblesse : "Quant à celui qui aura redouté de comparaître devant son Seigneur et qui aura préservé son âme des passions, en vérité, pour celui-là, le féerique Djanna (jardin) sera le lieu d'asile." (Coran LXXIX, 40-41.)

Mais :

d. si tu le négliges,

e. si tu le taches,

f. si tu le souilles,

je t'accablerai de tortures, plus accablantes que nul n'en subit jamais : le supplice de l'Enfer après la mort. »

Il est écrit dans le Livre de Noblesse : « ... Lors, quiconque aura outrepassé et aura préféré la vie de ce monde, en vérité, pour celui-là, le brasier Djahim sera le lieu d'asile. » (Coran LXXIX, 37.)

4 Le diamant en question, c'est la RAISON [1]

1. Il ne s'agit point ici de la « raison raisonnante », purement intellectuelle, mais de cette Intelligence profonde, parcelle divine insufflée par Dieu en

g. C'est cette Raison qui différencie l'homme de la bête.

h. C'est cette Raison qui, parmi les hommes, différencie le croyant de l'incrédule.

i. C'est cette Raison qui, parmi les croyants, différencie l'érudit de l'ignorant.

j. C'est cette Raison qui, parmi les croyants érudits, différencie le juste du méchant.

Parmi tous les animaux de la création réunis, qu'est-ce qui rend l'homme supérieur?

k. la Raison.

Par quoi, dans l'ensemble des hommes, le croyant est-il considéré comme supérieur à l'incroyant?

l. par la Raison.

Par quoi, dans l'ensemble des croyants, le savant a-t-il l'avantage sur les dévots?

m. par la Raison.

Par quoi, dans l'ensemble des savants, le Juste [1] a-t-il l'avantage sur l'érudit?

n. par la Raison.

Certes, il est juste de célébrer la valeur de tout ce dont tu fus doté par ton Maître. Il a parfait en toi l'image d'Adam. Il t'a pourvu d'un diamant plus précieux que toutes choses. Par ce don, tu t'es différencié de la bête, du mécréant, de l'ignorant, et enfin du méchant. Il est juste que tu connaisses le Seigneur qui fit tant pour toi. Sa l'homme, qui demeure parfois endormie chez certains hommes même s'ils peuvent paraître intellectuellement brillants.

Le mot peul employé correspond au mot arabe 'aql et désigne à la fois ce qui est apte à comprendre (comme le mot fahm, intelligence), à réfléchir et à raisonner.

1. C'est-à-dire l'homme bon, charitable.

connaissance t'est d'ailleurs une obligation. Quand tu le connaîtras, alors tes deux vies [1] seront pleines de félicité.

Mais si tu le dénigrais, tu manquerais le but de cette vie et l'autre ne te serait point garantie.

o. C'est par la Raison que l'on entretient la religion.

p. C'est par la Raison que l'on gouverne le monde.

q. Sans la Raison, point de religion.

r. Sans la Raison, point de relation.

5 Consacre ta Raison à la religion:

s. la vie matérielle te sera chose plaisante.

6 Voue ta Raison au monde matériel:

t. tu courras de grands risques,

u. tu te porteras tort,

v. car tu auras bravé l'Invincible.

Pourquoi?

Parce que, à tout ce qu'Allâh créa, il préféra la Raison (l'Esprit) et, dans ce qu'Il créa, c'est le monde matériel qu'Il abandonna le plus à lui-même.

Or, il prit ce qu'Il estime par-dessus toute valeur et Il te l'impartit, afin que tu en uses et en tires profit; mais toi, en insoumis, tu vas consacrer ce trésor à ce qu'Il néglige le plus; au temporel, à l'acquisition éphémère.

x. Tu fais donc l'imprudent;

y. Tu t'égares.

z. Puisse Allâh me venir en aide, ainsi qu'à toi.

C'est la Raison qui te fit connaître:

7 Le Livre (le Coran)

8 La Tradition (la Sunna)

9 Le Consensus (idjmâ)

1. La vie d'ici-bas et la vie future.

Quel est le commandement du Livre ? 7

Il est écrit en commandement dans le Livre :

« O vous qui croyez en Dieu ! Préservez vos âmes et celles des vôtres du feu. »

De ce fait, il est obligatoire pour chacun de se connaître, de se conduire selon la Loi Divine (sharia) et de veiller à ce que sa famille fasse de même.

Notre Seigneur Ali [1] (Que Dieu l'ait en sa miséricorde) a dit :

« Enseignez à vos parents [2] les préceptes du bien. »

C'est là le sens du verset précité.

Donc, chacun a la mission divine d'enseigner à sa famille la théologie [3], la purification rituelle et la prière. Alors seulement sa responsabilité vis-à-vis de sa famille sera dégagée. Il n'y aura pour lui aucune admonestation au jour du Jugement dernier.

Quel est le commandement de la Sunna (tradition) ? 8

Il est écrit dans la Sunna :

« Chacun de vous est un berger, et chaque berger doit un compte de son troupeau. » [4]

Le chef d'État, le maître de la cité, les chefs de famille et les individus isolés, tous auront à fournir une justification. Celui qui rendra un compte clair et facile obtiendra une récompense qui tiendra compte du nombre et de l'importance de ceux qui lui avaient été confiés. La qualité de cette récompense n'amoindrira en rien la rémunération des serviteurs.

1. Gendre du Prophète et ancêtre des Chérifs.
2. Il s'agit ici de toute la parenté, enfants et collatéraux compris.
3. Tawhid : tout ce qui se rapporte à l'Unicité de Dieu et à ses Attributs.
4. Hadith du Prophète.

A celui qui sera mauvais pasteur, Dieu (qu'Il soit exalté !) dira : « O mauvais pâtre ! Tu t'es nourri de la chair des tiens, tu as sucé leur lait jusqu'à vider leurs mamelles, puis tu les as laissés à la merci des hyènes. J'ai confié à ta garde quelques-uns de mes serviteurs. Tu as joui de leurs services et tu ne leur as pas enseigné leur religion. Tu les as livrés à Satan qui les a égarés. » Et le mauvais pâtre endurera un supplice égal à la somme des supplices de tous ceux qu'il aura laissé s'égarer. Mais cette punition n'atténuera en rien celle des sujets eux-mêmes.

Quel est le commandement du Consensus ? 9

Le Consensus dit :

« Ordonner le bien et interdire le mal est une obligation pour tout croyant. »

Il faut donc, d'abord, s'ordonner le bien à soi-même, s'interdire tout acte d'iniquité et persévérer. Puis il faut agir de même avec tous nos parents et toutes les bonnes volontés qui se mettent à notre écoute. Il est clair que celui qui ordonne ce qu'il ne fait pas lui-même ne sera point obéi, non plus que celui qui interdit ce qu'il se permet à lui-même.

Maintenant que tu as entendu ce que le Livre, la Tradition et le Consensus ont prescrit, considère le comportement des hommes et examine comment ils se conforment actuellement à ces prescriptions. Force sera pour toi d'avouer que notre siècle est celui du relâchement, celui pendant lequel on assiste à :

10 la diminution du nombre des instructeurs (des guides),

11 l'éclipse de la Science religieuse vraie.

Pour ces raisons :

12 la Religion se trouve négligée [1].

Cela fait de notre siècle un siècle des plus terrifiants. Les sages de tous les temps ont souhaité ne pas être d'une pareille époque qui, par rapprochement, est celle durant laquelle :

13 le Bien n'est pas séduisant,

14 le Mal n'est pas repoussant,

15 la Vérité n'a pas d'effet,

16 le Mensonge n'a point de méfaits.

Le contemporain d'un temps si misérable vit dans la peine et dans l'inquiétude. A nous qui y vivons, puisse Allâh nous :

a'. sauvegarder,

b'. affranchir,

c'. assister,

d'. protéger,

e'. et nous faire triompher des embûches de ce temps.

Toutefois, en dépit de toutes les apparences et de la corruption du temps, les prescriptions du Livre, de la Tradition et du Consensus demeurent pures et immuables. Celui qui se laissera séduire par les attraits du monde se perdra par son propre mouvement, à moins qu'il ne reçoive une assistance occulte de Dieu (qu'Il soit exalté !).

Celui qui se souvient que des temps plus dépravés que le nôtre ont passé, sera conforté par la certitude que la Vérité Divine seule est permanente. Celui-là se conformera aux prescriptions des trois sources [2]. Il abandonnera

1. Littéralement : « égarée », abandonnée, comme une personne sortie de sa route qui erre dans une forêt. Se dit d'une chose qui, ayant perdu sa juste place, se trouve méconnue.

2. Coran, Tradition et Consensus.

le monde au sort qui lui est prescrit par la Suprême Volonté.

En conclusion, il n'est, sur terre, que deux sortes de voies, menant vers deux cités :

17 La cité Qarârin (éternelle),

18 La cité Bavârin (périssable).

La cité Qarârin est une demeure de séjour stable et tranquille.

La cité Bavârin est une demeure de ruine et de perdition éternelle.

Quand Allâh créa le paradis, il dit aux anges :

— Allez et voyez. J'ai créé quelque chose.

Les anges allèrent voir, puis revinrent, épanouis. Ils dirent :

— O excellent Maître ! Nous avons contemplé le paradis. Jamais nous n'avons vu séjour aussi agréable.

Allâh (qu'Il soit exalté !) leur dit :

— Retournez et regardez.

Avant que les anges ne fussent arrivés sur les lieux, Allâh entoura le paradis d'un cercle constitué de tout ce que l'âme repousse le plus.

Les anges virent le lieu et en furent accablés. Ils revinrent vers Allâh et dirent :

— O excellent Maître ! Nous avons trouvé le paradis enfermé dans un cercle d'épreuves impossible à franchir sans l'assistance de Ta Magnanimité.

Allâh leur dit :

— Allez, j'ai créé autre chose.

Les anges retournèrent sur les lieux. Ils y trouvèrent l'enfer obscur, lugubre, puant, expression du châtiment ultime. Ils en furent consternés. Puis ils revinrent.

— O Maître ! dirent les anges, nous avons vu l'enfer. Il ne nous a jamais été donné de voir un lieu aussi effroyable. Quiconque verra l'enfer se gardera d'y pénétrer.

Allâh leur dit :

— Retournez et regardez.

Les anges retournèrent et trouvèrent l'enfer ceint d'un cercle de plaisirs irrésistibles. Ils revinrent vers Dieu :

— Excellent Maître ! Nous avons visité l'enfer ; mais avec les éléments qui l'entourent, nul n'échappera à ce précipice sans Ta Divine assistance, tant les plaisirs de ses rives sont désirables et attirants.

Le Prophète de Dieu a dit, en effet :

« Le paradis est entouré d'un cercle d'épreuves pénibles et l'enfer d'un cercle d'éléments attrayants. »

Nous pouvons en inférer que les prescriptions du Livre, 7
de la Tradition, 8
du Consensus, 9
constituent les épreuves pénibles qui entourent le paradis. Les facilités de la vie sont les éléments qui circonscrivent l'enfer.

Et toi, néophyte, grâce à :
ta RAISON, 4
tu as pu juger et conduire tes déductions jusqu'à ces trois conclusions :

1) Quelle que soit la rigueur des épreuves périphériques du paradis, les tourments de l'enfer (18) sont plus effroyables et plus durables ;

2) Quelles que soient les délices des éléments circonscrivant l'enfer, le paradis (17) est plus délectable et plus durable ;

3) Enfin, subir une épreuve éphémère (17), rétribuée par une délectation éternelle, est plus avantageux qu'une jouissance éphémère (18) [1] suivie d'un supplice perpétuel.

Alors, dis-toi : je ne m'intéresserai désormais qu'à mon salut. Je ne suis l'intercesseur de personne. Je ne puis ni ne dois rien imposer à quiconque. Quant à moi-même, je suis décidé à m'appliquer les prescriptions du Livre, de la Tradition et du Consensus, et ce jusqu'à ma mort.

Si oui, ami, écoute, ne te leurre pas. Sache avant toute chose, car le fait est avéré, que quiconque se propose de vivre conformément aux prescriptions du Livre, de la Tradition et du Consensus, choisit une vie de prisonnier.

Pourquoi ?

Parce que le Prophète de Dieu a dit :

« La vie terrestre est une prison pour le croyant et un paradis pour le mécréant. »

Tu vas entreprendre la conquête de la Science religieuse et commencer par le Coran.

19 Acquiers-en le premier soixantième ; à défaut, la connaissance des onze sourates suivantes : I, CV, CVI, CVII, CVIII, CIX, CX, CXI, CXII, CXIII et CXIV, suffit largement ;

20 Acquiers des notions sur la théologie (tawhid), ne serait-ce que le sens ésotérique de la shahada [2]. Cette connaissance est indispensable et elle est largement suffisante ;

1. Chaque fois qu'il mentionnait un nom déjà porté sur le tableau, Tierno Bokar revenait en arrière et posait le doigt sur le point correspondant.

2. Shahada : littéralement « témoignage ». Profession de foi musulmane. Sa première partie est « Je témoigne qu'il n'y a de dieu que Dieu, unique et sans associé » et sa seconde : « et je témoigne que Mohammad est Son serviteur et Son envoyé ».

21 Acquiers la science des prescriptions de la purification rituelle et, enfin,

22 Fais-toi initier au soufisme.

Cette initiation te fera connaître la vraie figure de notre Seigneur Mohammad. Tu sauras comment s'écoula sa prodigieuse vie sur terre, le vrai sens de son enseignement et la portée de sa réforme religieuse et sociale.

Quant au monde matériel, notre Seigneur Mohammad le compara à un dépotoir, à une charogne, et ceux qui le convoitent à des chiens.

Il te sera donc facile, connaissant l'exemple de notre Prophète, de te garder des tentations terrestres en dépit de tes appétits matériels.

deuxième leçon

Maddîn [1]

Cissé nivelle le sable, y imprime un point et dit : « Interroge-moi. » Antiamba questionne et Cissé répond [2] :

9. Qu'est-ce que la religion ?
   — La religion est une voie (un chemin).
8. Combien y a-t-il eu de voies ?
   — Il y en a eu 73.
7. Quel est leur état ?
   — Les 72 premières sont des voies de l'erreur.
6. La soixante-treizième seule est le sentier de la rectitude,
5. l'unique menant à DIEU.
4. Depuis notre père Adam jusqu'à notre Seigneur Mohammad, tous ont longé le même sentier :
3. Il a nom ISLÂM [3].
2. C'est le sentier de la délivrance.
1. C'est la voie du salut, la voie Hanafiya [4].

1. Littéralement : « qu'est-ce que la religion ? » (contraction de mâ ed-dîn).
2. Voir tableau, p. 211.
3. Le mot Islâm signifie littéralement « soumission à Dieu », acceptation totale de Sa volonté. Le mot ne désigne donc pas ici la seule religion historique révélée à La Mekke, mais la Religion primordiale, immuable, éternelle de soumission à Dieu qui a été pratiquée par tous ceux qui se vont voués à Son adoration depuis Adam.
4. Hanif (les purs) : nom donné à certains hommes de Dieu qui vivaient dans le désert avant l'apparition historique de l'Islam et qui s'adonnaient à l'adoration

Sur quoi ce sentier est-il édifié ?

Il est édifié sur trois piliers qui sont :

A. ISLÂM (soumission à Dieu)

B. IMÂN (foi)

C. IHSÂN (comportement parfait)

En quoi consiste l'Islâm ?

L'Islâm comporte cinq actions obligatoires.

Quelles sont-elles ?

Ce sont :

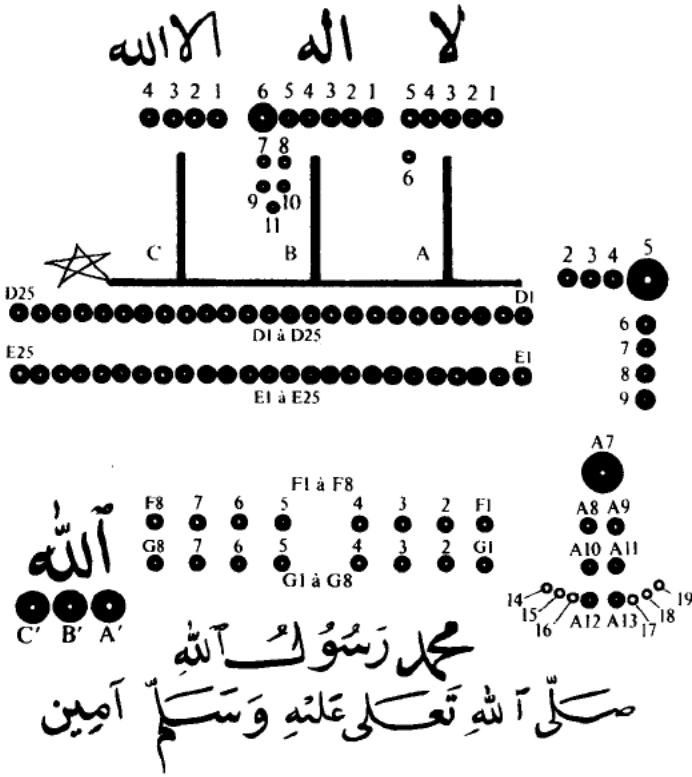
A1. L'articulation de la double formule de profession de foi, sans laquelle aucun acte ne peut être valable :
« Je témoigne qu'il n'y a de dieu que Dieu, unique et sans associé ;
je témoigne que Mohammad est Son serviteur et Son envoyé. »

A2. L'accomplissement des cinq prières quotidiennes.

A3. Le paiement de la zakkat (dîme annuelle destinée aux nécessiteux).

A4. Le jeûne du mois de Ramadan.

A5. Le pèlerinage à la Maison sacrée, à La Mekke.



A6. Quant à ce pèlerinage, c'est pour celui qui peut le faire [1].

Tels sont les dogmes fondamentaux du degré Islâm (résignation, soumission à Dieu).

---

du Dieu unique. Les hanif sont censés avoir toujours existé. Abraham est considéré, en Islam, comme le plus grand des hanif. La Hanafiya est donc la voie de la Religion pure, éternelle, la voie de l'adoration de Dieu pour Lui-même.

1. C'est-à-dire celui qui a les moyens, tant physiques que matériels, de l'accomplir.

Qu'est-ce que la religion?

En quoi consiste l'Imân (Foi)?

L'Imân consiste à croire à six principes :

B1. en Dieu,
B2. au Jugement dernier,
B3. aux Anges,
B4. aux Livres révélés [1],
B5. aux Prophètes de Dieu [2],
B6. et au décret de Dieu.

B7. Que ce décret comporte quelque chose de réjouissant
B8. ou de pénible,
B9. réjouissant comme le fait d'avoir un bon fils,
B10. pénible comme l'union avec une mauvaise épouse,
B11. croire, dans les deux cas, que toutes choses nous viennent de Dieu.

En quoi consiste l'Ihsân (le comportement parfait)?

L'Ihsân ordonne :

C1. Adore Dieu
C2. comme si tu Le voyais,
C3. car si tu ne Le vois pas,
C4. Lui te voit [3], [4].

1. Le musulman doit croire aux livres qui ont été révélés par Dieu avant la révélation du Coran. Cf. p. 153 et 154.

2. Il doit croire également aux Prophètes que Dieu a envoyés sur la terre avant le Prophète Mohammad et leur accorder le même respect qu'à ce dernier. Leur nom est précédé de la même formule Saïdnâ (Notre Seigneur) et suivi de la même salutation : « Sur lui la Paix et le Salut ! »

3. Il s'agit de vivre dans la certitude que nous sommes placés sous ce Regard, certitude qui mène à la conscience vécue de la Présence permanente de Dieu. Ces quatre points de l'Ihsân sont tirés d'un hadith du Prophète.

4. L'Islâm parfait est, bien entendu, celui qui réunit ces trois niveaux, les deux derniers étant contenus en puissance dans le premier.

Antiamba poursuivit :

— Je t'ai consulté sur les voies. Tu m'as dit qu'il y en avait soixante-treize. Tu en as choisi une et tu as affirmé qu'elle était la vraie, la seule menant droit à Dieu. Tu m'as dit que ce sentier était édifié sur trois piliers : ISLÂM, IMÂN et IHSÂN. J'ai appris que chacun de ces piliers se composait d'actes et de principes. Ainsi l'Islâm en comprend cinq, l'Imân six et l'Ihsân quatre. Sois patient, Cissé, je suis novice. Il importe beaucoup pour moi de te questionner afin de mieux préciser mes connaissances.

Cissé, toujours complaisant, lui dit :

— Interroge-moi sans te gêner. Je ne te cacherai rien de tout ce que je sais.

— Quel est, dit Antiamba, l'enseignement ésotérique de la double formule de profession de foi, la Shahada?

Cissé posa d'abord son doigt sur ISLÂM (A1), puis le descendit et fit un nouveau point (A7) pour le développer :

A7. Le Créateur fit pour toi deux miracles notoires :

A8. Il te donna la vie,
A9. Il la développa en toi.

L'homme est tenu d'en témoigner.

L'une et l'autre de ces manifestations divines ont chacune leur terme.

A 10. Dieu modèle l'homme dans une poche située dans le ventre de sa mère et l'y tient en vie par l'effet de Sa Puissance, jusqu'au terme prescrit ;
A 11. Puis, Il lui fait voir le jour par la naissance. Il l'assiste de Son efficacité jusqu'à la consommation de la croissance.
A 12. A l'âge qu'Il choisit, Il le dote d'un Esprit (Raison) et lui impose des devoirs.

A 13. Le premier acte, avant tout devoir, est l'articulation de la formule de profession de foi (Shahada).

Les docteurs ont affirmé que quiconque ignore l'enseignement ésotérique de la Shahada ne jouira point des privilèges attachés à l'Islâm.

— Quel est dont l'enseignement caché de la Shahada ?

— C'est la connaissance en Dieu.

— Que connaît-on en Dieu ?

— Ce que l'on peut connaître en Dieu n'est pas tangible. On peut connaître de Dieu TROIS ÉTATS :

A 14. ce qui Lui est nécessaire,

A 15. ce qui Lui est impossible,

A 16. ce qui Lui est contingent.

— Qu'est-ce qui est nécessaire à Dieu ?

— Vingt-cinq attributs sont nécessaires à Dieu :

D 1. l'existence,
D 2. l'éternité,
D 3. la possession,
D 4. la transcendance,
D 5. l'indépendance,
D 6. l'unicité,
D 7. la puissance,
D 8. la volonté,
D 9. la science,
D 10. la vie,
D 11. l'ouïe,
D 12. la vue,
D 13. la parole,
D 14. être puissant,
D 15. être voulant,
D 16. être savant,

D 17. être vivant,
D 18. être entendant,
D 19. être voyant,
D 20. être parlant,
D 21. être sans besoin,
D 22. être non astreint à l'œuvre,
D 23. être non soumis à une obligation,
D 24. être non soumis à une coutume,
D 25. être promoteur de la création [1].

— Qu'est-ce qui est impossible à Dieu ?

— 25 attributs sont impossibles à l'égard de Dieu :

E 1. l'inexistence,
E 2. le début,
E 3. l'envie,
E 4. la concurrence,
E 5. le besoin,
E 6. l'existence d'un pair (d'un semblable à Lui),
E 7. la pauvreté,
E 8. la nécessité,
E 9. l'ignorance,
E 10. la mort,
E 11. la surdité,
E 12. la cécité,
E 13. le mutisme,
E 14. l'insuffisance (faiblesse)
E 15. la contrainte,
E 16. être ignorant,
E 17. être inanimé,
E 18. être sourd,
E 19. être aveugle,

1. Ces attributs sont tous tirés du Coran.

E 20. être muet,
E 21. être dans le besoin,
E 22. être astreint à une œuvre,
E 23. être contraint à quoi que ce soit,
E 24. agir par habitude,
E 25. être postérieur à la création.

— Qu'est-ce qui est contingent à Dieu ?

— Le contingent, pour Dieu, constitue une sorte de voie médiane entre les attributs nécessaires et les attributs impossibles. Le contingent peut soit exister (comme le « nécessaire ») soit ne point exister (comme l' « impossible »). Par exemple, le fait, pour Dieu, de créer ou de laisser dans le néant est contingent [1].

Les vingt-cinq attributs nécessaires, plus les vingt-cinq attributs impossibles, constituent les cinquante articles de l'enseignement caché de la première partie de la Shahada : « Je témoigne qu'il n'y a de dieu que Dieu, Unique et sans associé. »

— Quel est donc l'enseignement ésotérique de la seconde partie : « Je témoigne que Mohammad est le Serviteur et le Messager de Dieu » ?

— C'est la connaissance des Prophètes [2].

— Comment connaît-on les Prophètes ?

— Les Prophètes se reconnaissent à TROIS ÉTATS :

A 17. à ce qui leur est nécessaire,
A 18. à ce qui leur est impossible,
A 19. à ce qui leur est contingent.

1. C'est pourquoi le « contingent » (ou « potentiel ») ne figure pas dans le tableau, sinon sous la forme du vide qui sépare les deux lignes « D » et « E » des attributs (p. 211).

2. Le Prophète Mohammad typifie, ici, l'ensemble de tous les autres Prophètes envoyés par Dieu.

— Qu'est-ce qui est nécessaire aux Prophètes et qu'est-ce qui leur est impossible ?

— Sont nécessaires aux Prophètes :

F 1. la Foi,
F 2. l'intégrité,
F 3. la transmission.

De ce fait, leur deviennent impossibles :

G 1. la mécréance,
G 2. la perfidie,
G 3. la dissimulation.

— Qu'est-ce qui est contingent aux Prophètes ?

F 4. Les Prophètes sont soumis aux contingences humaines ;
G 4. il leur est donc impossible d'être au-dessus des contingences humaines.

— En quoi consiste la foi des Prophètes ?

— Elle consiste, pour eux, à croire :

F 5. aux Prophètes devanciers,
F 6. aux Anges,
F 7. aux Livres révélés,
F 8. au Jour de la Sentence.

Il est donc impossible aux Prophètes de nier :

G 5. les Prophètes devanciers,
G 6. les Anges,
G 7. les Livres révélés,
G 8. le Jour de la Sentence.

L'ensemble de ce qui est nécessaire, de ce qui est impossible et de ce qui est contingent pour les Prophètes, ajouté à leurs articles de foi, constitue les seize articles de l'enseignement ésotérique [1] de la seconde formule de

1. Dans toute cette leçon, ce qui est appelé « ésotérique » ne constitue, en fait, que les « portes » de l'ésotérisme, une première approche destinée à être profession de foi : « Je témoigne que Mohammad est le Serviteur et le Messager de Dieu. »

Nous avons rapporté l'assertion des Docteurs : « Quiconque ne possède pas la connaissance de l'enseignement caché de la double formule de profession de foi l'articule sans effet. » Or, celui qui l'articule sans effet n'est pas croyant, et l'incrédule n'est pas dans la voie du salut.

Nous sommes donc heureux de savoir — et nous en remercions Dieu — que l'enseignement de la Shahada comprend CINQUANTE articles pour la première formule et SEIZE pour la seconde, soit au total : 66 [1].

Puisse Dieu, qui nous a fait connaître ces soixante-six points, nous faire proférer la Shahada au moment de notre mort, comme dernier acte de notre vie. AMÎN.

---

suivie d'un long approfondissement, tant par la voie de l'enseignement que par la voie de l'expérience. Chaque attribut mentionné comporte tout un développement. Par exemple, wujud, que l'on traduit par « être » ou « existence » (D1) traite non seulement de l'existence de l'Être suprême, absolu, mais aussi de l'existence des êtres contingents, de leurs rapports avec l'Être suprême et de leurs rapports entre eux. Chaque être, en effet, existe non seulement en lui-même, mais aussi par rapport aux autres êtres contingents et, surtout, par rapport à son Créateur. L'aspect ésotérique de wujud recouvre donc tant le mystère de la communion entre l'Un et le multiple (entre le Créateur et ses créatures) que le mystère de la communion secrète et de l'interrelation des êtres contingents entre eux, unis par le Un qui les contient tous.

Nous projetons de publier ultérieurement cet enseignement plus approfondi qui nous a été donné par Tierno Bokar.

1. L'intérêt de ce nombre 66 est qu'il correspond à la valeur numérale du grand nom de Dieu ALLÂH, selon l'arithmologie dite « maghrébine » des lettres arabes : Alif = 1, Lam = 30, Lam = 30, Hâ = 5. La connaissance de la Shahada est donc liée à la connaissance de Dieu.

troisième leçon

Synthèse de l'enseignement ésotérique

Sharia bathénienne (Loi intérieure)

a. Le soufisme

L'enseignement qui va suivre est celui des soufi. En effet, le Prophète de Dieu — sur lui la paix et le salut ! — vint vers l'Univers avec un enseignement à trois degrés, de façon à satisfaire tous les types d'aspiration religieuse. Ce sont :

la Loi (divine)	(sharia)
la Voie	(tariqa)
la Vérité	(haqiqa) [1]

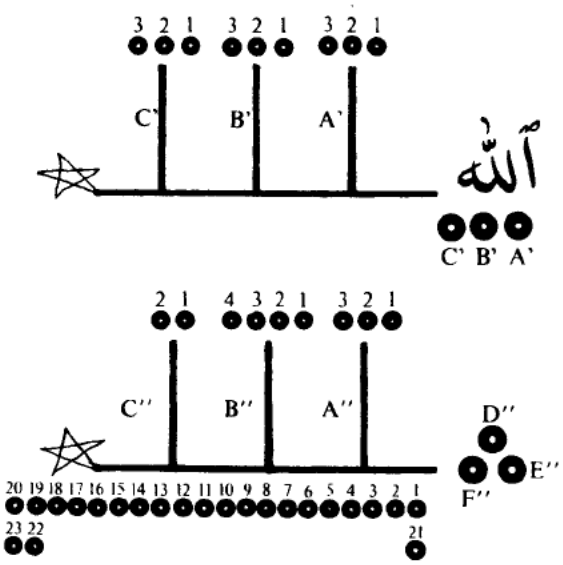
Au sens de la Loi, la religion est bâtie sur trois piliers : ISLÂM, IMÂN et IHSÂN.

L'enseignement élaboré à ce degré est celui des oulémas, ou docteurs de la Loi extérieure (sharia). Au-dessus

1. Le mot haqiqa comporte le double sens de vérité et de réalité. C'est la Vérité réelle, ou la Réalité vraie. Il ne s'agit donc pas, ici, d'un concept purement intellectuel, mais d'une Réalité spirituelle. C'est la connaissance directe de « ce qui est », au-delà des formulations ou des représentations intellectuelles, si élevées soient-elles.

d'eux se trouvent les soufi, ministres du culte intérieur initiatique. Leur conception de la Religion est vaste, rationnelle [1] et universelle.

Le premier point à retenir est que les représentants de la voie extérieure et les représentants de la voie intérieure ne se contredisent point. Ils se reconnaissent mutuellement l'orthodoxie. La seule différence entre eux, c'est que l'enseignement des oulémas est approprié à la compréhension de la masse des hommes alors que celui des soufi s'adresse à une minorité [2].



En effet, quand Mohammad fut choisi pour transmettre et révéler les préceptes de l'Unité divine, les fidèles le comprirent et l'imitèrent de différentes façons, chacun selon ses aptitudes de compréhension et ses facultés d'assimilation. C'est ainsi que les oulémas trouvèrent, dans le message coranique, une Loi qui leur servit de pierre de touche dans leur quête religieuse et leur permit d'atteindre la rencontre sublime. Mais, de la sorte, le chemin est long et la marche lente. Quant à l'essence de cette Loi, oulémas et soufi ont une même opinion à son égard. Point de divergences entre eux à ce sujet.

Les soufi, plus avisés [3] et plus observateurs, réfléchirent sur la manière d'être de notre Seigneur Mohammad.

1. « Rationnelle », au sens où, dans la Voie, on peut discuter, chercher à mieux comprendre, à approfondir, alors que, dans la sharia, la discussion n'est pas admise : on se soumet à la Loi ou elle vous exclut. Dans une tariqa, on peut ne pas être d'accord avec son Cheikh, et même le quitter, sans que cela ôte rien à la qualité de musulman. On pourrait définir la tariqa comme étant la voie de l'approfondissement, de la compréhension et de la connaissance, la sharia étant celle de la fidélité et de l'obéissance. Il va de soi que les deux voies ne s'excluent pas, mais se complètent.

2. L'histoire de l'Islam a connu, et connaît encore, des oulémas qui sont docteurs aussi bien pour les sciences « extérieures » que pour les sciences « intérieures ».

3. Littéralement : plus « réveillés ».

Sharia bathénienne

Ils furent frappés par le peu d'attention qu'il accordait à la vie présente. Alors, ils mirent le monde contingent dans leur main gauche [1] et décidèrent d'imiter le grand Prophète dans sa renonciation. Ils suivirent son exemple quant à l'abnégation. Ils n'agirent plus que dans le seul dessein de plaire à Dieu et non dans l'espoir calculé d'une récompense, de quelque nature qu'elle puisse être.

Les soufi se ceignirent donc et livrèrent trois guerres sur des plans superposés :

ils combattirent contre leur âme (contre eux-mêmes : nafs) ;

ils combattirent contre Satan ;

ils combattirent contre le monde.

Sortis vainqueurs de cette triple lutte, ils se lancèrent sur les traces du Prophète, soucieux du verset coranique :

« Si vous aimez Dieu, suivez-moi. Dieu vous aimera. » (II, 29.)

Il est facile de comprendre que la subtilité spirituelle d'un initié ne puisse se contenter d'un dogme destiné à réveiller, à catéchiser et à discipliner la masse des croyants.

Les soufi tracèrent une voie dont les degrés multiples conduisent non pas à un paradis quelconque, mais à Dieu, Lui-même Essence de tout.

Les représentants de la loi extérieure enseignent que l'Islâm impose cinq actes obligatoires, que l'Imân exige six actes de foi et que l'Ihsân suppose quatre conditions.

Les soufi eux aussi professent Islâm, Imân et Ihsân, mais ils les envisagent selon une définition plus profonde. Pour eux, bien que les oulémas soient véridiques, la religion totale comprend trois degrés successifs qui correspondent aux trois stades d'Islâm, d'Imân et d'Ihsân [1] :

1. C'est-à-dire « au second rang ».

A'. Taqlid : comportement par simple imitation,

B'. Nazaré : compréhension des principes (litt. : « voir »),

C'. Zawqi : expérience (littéralement « goûter », c'est-à-dire ressentir, absorber, assimiler, « devenir un » avec).

A son tour, chacun de ces degrés comprend trois états :

A'1. la conversion (tawbat),
2. la rectitude (istiqamat),
3. la crainte révérentielle (taqwa),

B'1. la différenciation (ikhlass),
2. la sincérité (siddouqou),
3. la sérénité (tumâninat),

C'1. la méditation perceptive (muchahadat) [2],
2. le face à face (la Présence) (muraqabat).
3. la Connaissance de Dieu et l'Amour (ma'rifat) [3].

Ces neufs états ne s'acquièrent que successivement. On ne jouira de la connaissance de Dieu qu'après le face à face (la Présence), de la Présence qu'après la méditation perceptive, de la méditation perceptive qu'après la sérénité, de la sérénité qu'après la sincérité, de la sincérité qu'après la différenciation, de la différenciation qu'après la crainte révérentielle, de la crainte révérentielle qu'après la rectitude, de la rectitude qu'après la conversion.

Donc, tout dépend de la conversion. Elle est la condi-

1. Voir points A', B' et C' des tableaux II et III.
2. Muchahadat : le terme signifie à la fois « vision véridique » et « témoignage », « être témoin de ».
3. La Connaissance et l'Amour sont comme l'endroit et l'envers d'un même rond de paille. C'est pourquoi ils sont comptés comme un seul point (C'3) et compris dans le seul nom de ma'rifat (connaissance).

tion essentielle et première de toutes les acquisitions futures.

Le troisième état de chaque stade est, en même temps, le degré extrême des deux premiers et la récompense de l'effort déployé pour les acquérir. Par exemple, l'état « Connaissance de Dieu » est l'apogée de la méditation et de la Présence (face à face) et, en même temps, la récompense de l'effort déployé pour y parvenir.

Depuis le jour de la conversion, le but que vise l'adepte est l'état C'3 : AMOUR-CONNAISSANCE.

Il existe bien d'autres stades et degrés, mais leur vastitude et leur transcendance ne permettent pas de les développer ici. Ils sont l'apanage d'une élite, et même de l'élite de l'élite. Quiconque connaît l'amplitude du domaine spirituel ne saurait être choqué par cette affirmation.

Le trajet entre la conversion initiale et la connaissance de Dieu est le grand voyage mystique que les soufi effectuent spirituellement. Son symbole extérieur est le pèlerinage à La Mekke que chaque fidèle doit accomplir au moins une fois dans sa vie, s'il remplit les conditions requises.

Telles sont les neuf stations de la marche vers Dieu; elles constituent la voie intérieure, toute puissante et bienfaitrice.

Nous pouvons donc conclure que :

— l'ISLÂM (soumission) correspond, pour les soufi, au degré sharia (Loi) qui procure la foi d'acquiescement.

— l'IMÂN (foi) correspond, pour les soufi, au degré tariqa (Voie) qui procure la foi de connaissance.

— l'IHSÂN (comportement parfait) correspond, pour les soufi, au degré haqiqa (Vérité), qui fait atteindre la foi de certitude, par la contemplation directe.

Le mystère est dans ces trois voies. Les grands Prophètes et les vrais initiés de toutes les religions le savent. Ceux qui l'ignorent doivent se taire. Prions pour eux.

Le Prophète a dit :

« A celui qui aura conscience des limites de sa science, Dieu lui facilitera l'acquisition d'une autre science, plus profonde et plus divine... »

Il nous paraît opportun de reprendre un instant la parole et de livrer ici quelques réflexions se rapportant aux deux premières leçons.

Dans l'un de ses commentaires du Maddîn, Tierno a dit, parlant de l'itinéraire spirituel : « Le néophyte découvrira ces richesses comme l'on découvre successivement l'écorce, puis la chair, puis la graine du fruit. »

On pourrait donc, schématiquement, présenter cette progression selon le tableau de la page suivante.

La progression se fait tout naturellement selon une marche ascendante. Les stades soufi sont considérés comme d'un degré supérieur aux stades correspondants dans le canon des oulémas, étant entendu que ces derniers sont toujours supposés connus et atteints avant d'accéder au degré soufi correspondant.

Les trois plans de cette recherche en profondeur correspondent à ce qui a été dit précédemment des « trois lumières mystiques » et des « trois formes de la foi ». L'initié qui ne touche qu'à l'écorce n'est animé que par la foi sulbu (solide) ; celui qui mord dans la chair du fruit mystique atteint la foi sa'ilu (liquide) ; enfin, celui dont la foi se sublimise au point de devenir ghaziyu touche à la graine.

Ce symbole du fruit peut également donner lieu à un autre développement. Comme nous l'expliquait Tierno, la chair du fruit ne sert qu'une seule fois. On la mange et il n'en reste rien ; il faut chercher un autre fruit. La graine, elle, ne doit pas être

Canon des oulémas	Image de Tierno Bokar	Initiation soufi
Islâm Soumission aux cinq piliers de la foi (cf. p. 210)	Écorce Apparence sensible Corporalité	Sharia (Loi) ou donne la foi d'acquiescement Taqlid (comportement par simple imitation) Trois degrés : — conversion — rectitude — crainte révérentielle (désir de progresser, crainte de ne le pouvoir ; sentiment de sa petitesse et de son impuissance devant la Majesté divine.)
Imân Foi dans les six points du dogme (cf. p. 212)	Chair Nourriture vivante Sensation Compréhension	Tariqa (Voie) ou procure la foi de connaissance Nazaré (compréhension des principes) Trois degrés : — différenciation (sensation spirituelle soumise à l'analyse de la Raison-Esprit que Dieu a déposée en nous, pour nous permettre de différencier les degrés successifs et de ne pas tomber dans l'illusion) (cf. note 2, p. 227) — sincérité — sérénité
Ihsân But suprême : comportement parfait : « Adore Dieu comme si tu Le voyais, car si tu ne Le vois pas, Lui te voit. » (cf. p. 212)	Graine Esprit Parfaite compréhension Sublimation de la foi	Haqiqa (Vérité, Réalité essentielle) ou mène à la foi de certitude Zawqi (goût) (expérience intérieure, assimilation) Trois degrés : — méditation perceptive (voir, témoigner) — face à face (Présence) — Connaissance/Amour mangée, mais plantée en terre. Alors elle germe et, produisant un végétal porteur de nouvelles graines, elle se perpétue et se multiplie.

Souvent, ayant atteint un « état » (hal) particulier, on s'en satisfait, dans l'illusion d'avoir atteint le but, d'être « arrivé » quelque part ; en quelque sorte on s'en nourrit, on le « mange » comme on mangerait la chair du fruit, oubliant que la chair n'est là que pour mener au noyau. Il arrive que l'on touche au noyau. Mais il convient de se souvenir que celui-ci, pour porter fruit, exige de n'être ni mangé, ni possédé, ni déposé bien en vue, avec d'autres, sur une étagère. Sa seule et unique vocation est d'être enfoui dans la terre profonde, obscure, impersonnelle et d'y germer dans le secret, sans aucun signe extérieur dont on puisse se glorifier ou se satisfaire. Pour que la graine porte fruit, il faut, en quelque sorte, y renoncer [1].

Le chemin qui s'ouvre alors est un chemin de dépouillement et de renoncement. Le makarou (illusion, mirage [2]), toujours à l'affût, suggère [3] à notre âme : « Tu perds ton temps, retourne mordre dans la chair du fruit ! » C'est alors qu'il est nécessaire d'écouter non plus son ego, son nafs, toujours avide « d'être plus », mais sa Raison profonde, que la prière et l'ilham (inspiration) peuvent éclairer.

Tierno disait : « Une fois que la graine est mise en terre, avec quelle eau doit-on l'arroser ? Avec l'eau de nos bonnes œuvres, de nos repentirs, de nos méditations et de nos prières. Lorsqu'elle germe et donne un arbre, il nous faut encore patienter [4] jusqu'à ce que l'arbre donne lui-même des fruits. Alors, nous découvrons que nous avons gagné tout ce à quoi nous avions

1. Si le grain ne meurt... (Évangiles).

2. C'est la faculté de différenciation (Ikhlass), qui permet, lorsqu'on croit avoir atteint le but parce que l'on a vécu un « état », d'en percevoir les limites et d'opérer le « lâcher prise » nécessaire pour s'élever (ou se purifier) davantage. Le mot Ikhlass comporte d'ailleurs également l'idée de pureté. Par opposition, tout ce qui arrête dans la progression parce que l'on se réjouit d'avoir « atteint » quelque chose est « l'illusion », le mirage (makarou) qui distrait de Dieu.

3. Dans la dernière sourate du Coran (CXIV), Satan est appelé le « suggestionneur » (waswas) « celui qui suggère (souffle) le mal dans la poitrine des hommes, puis se dérobe furtivement ».

4. Dieu dit, dans le Coran : « Je suis avec les patients. » (II, 153.)

renoncé, car non seulement nous recevons des fruits mais, dans ces fruits, nous retrouvons des noyaux pour produire autant d'arbres qu'il y a de fruits. »

Dieu n'a-t-il pas dit, en comparant l'homme à une graine, qu'il multiplierait ses bonnes actions par sept, puis par cent, puis par deux ? (Coran II, 261.)

Le chemin qui correspond à la graine, c'est le chemin du renoncement : renoncement total à la récompense de nos actes ou de nos bonnes actions, renoncement aux « résultats » de nos efforts. Ainsi qu'il est dit dans toutes les traditions : L'effort est pour l'homme, non le résultat[1]. C'est d'ailleurs cette conception qui est à la base du tawakkul (abandon à la volonté de Dieu), lequel n'est nullement fatalisme passif, mais détachement quant au résultat de notre effort, le résultat étant entre les mains de Dieu. Il appartient à l'homme d'agir en recourant à toutes ses facultés, mais de garder un cœur serein devant l'issue de son action.

Toujours dans l'optique du renoncement, le sacrifice du fils d'Abraham, abondamment rappelé dans le Coran, appelle ici notre réflexion. Le fils bien-aimé d'Abraham, tard venu, était le fruit de la promesse divine et annonciateur d'une postérité à venir. Et pourtant, lorsque Dieu, dans une vision, demande à Abraham de le sacrifier, celui-ci accepte sans hésiter, considérant que rien ne lui appartient. Et parce qu'il accepte, non seulement l'enfant est sauvé, mais il devient, par là même, postérité innombrable.

Sur le plan spirituel — comme peut-être aussi sur bien d'autres plans humains — c'est le renoncement actif et serein qui est porteur de fruits, libérateur d'énergie et ouvreur de portes, selon un processus qui n'est pas de l'homme, mais de Dieu.

Cette division de la progression spirituelle en trois étapes fondamentales, adoptée par Tierno Bokar, est très courante dans tous les enseignements soufi de tous les temps, soit sous la même forme, soit avec d'autres symboles.

1. D'où le danger spirituel d'une quête systématique d'états spirituels, de « résultats », voire de prodiges, par le biais de techniques variées qui, souvent, confortent l'ego plus qu'elles ne l'aident à se dépouiller.

Tierno employait souvent une autre image : « Il y a trois manières, disait-il, de connaître le fleuve :

— Il y a d'abord l'homme qui a entendu parler du fleuve et qui devient capable, par imitation et répétition, de le décrire sans l'avoir lui-même jamais vu. C'est un premier degré de connaissance.

— Il y a ensuite l'homme qui a entrepris le voyage et qui est arrivé au bord du fleuve. Assis au bord de la rive, il le contemple de ses propres yeux et est témoin de sa majesté. C'est un deuxième degré de connaissance.

Enfin, il y a l'homme qui se jette dans le fleuve et devient un avec lui. C'est le troisième et suprême degré de la Connaissance. »

La troisième leçon se poursuit par le développement de « la Voie Tidjani ». Nous redonnons la parole à Cissé.

b. La Voie Tidjani

Une raison secrète fit de Mohammad (Mahomet) le Sceau des Prophètes, de telle sorte qu'il n'apparut qu'après ses précurseurs. Ceux-ci, selon le temps, le pays et les circonstances de leur manifestation, reçurent une Loi révélée et enseignèrent à l'ensemble des êtres l'existence du Dieu unique.

Quand il entra dans le dessein du Créateur de clore le cycle de la Prophétie, il députa Mohammad. Il lui révéla le Coran, résumé hermétique de toutes les révélations et religions antérieures.

Mohammad appela vers le Sentier de la rectitude. Sa réforme accomplit un miracle sans précédent dans l'histoire des religions. Il y eut, parmi ses adeptes, une série d'Imams (guides spirituels) qui apparurent au cours des temps. Parmi tous ceux qui reçurent la mission de guider la communauté musulmane, Cheikh Tidjani instaura l'une des voies les plus éclectiques, parce qu'elle représente la somme, ou la quintessence, de toutes les tourouq (pluriel de tariqat) qui l'ont précédée depuis l'apparition de l'Islam [1].

Le fondateur de la Tariqa Tidjani fut honoré, en 1196 de l'Hégire (1782), au cours d'une de ses retraites spirituelles, par l'apparition très sainte du Prophète Mohammad. Il reçut de lui la mission occulte et mystique de pouvoir commenter les passages mystérieux du Coran, de la Sunna et des enseignements des oulémas et des chioukh [2].

Cette mission fait du Cheikh Tidjani un Pôle, une grande figure de l'Islâm. Sa Tariqa joue, dans l'Islâm, le rôle que l'Islâm joue parmi les religions [3]. C'est dire que le fondateur de la Tidjaniya occupe, parmi les saints, la place que Mohammad occupe parmi les Prophètes.

1. En effet, avant de recevoir sa mission particulière, Cheikh Tidjani avait été initié à presque toutes les tourouq de son temps. Dans chacune, il avait reçu le grade de Cheikh. A ce titre, il avait le droit non seulement de transmettre l'initiation de chacune de ces tourouq, comme le font les moqaddem, mais également de nommer lui-même des moqaddem. Il y avait donc en lui la convergence de tous les courants spirituels qui s'étaient déployés depuis le Prophète à travers les différentes tourouq (du moins pour l'Islam sunnite). Au cours de sa vision, le Prophète lui avait dit : « A partir de maintenant, tu es affranchi de tous les autres chioukh. Je suis ton initiateur. » (Sur les confréries, voir p. 240.)

2. Le Cheikh avait en effet le don d'accéder aux significations les plus profondes des textes sacrés et de les mettre à la portée de ceux qui l'écoutaient.

3. Pour les musulmans, l'Islam, dernière « religion révélée » de notre temps, récapitule et contient en lui les principes et les valeurs de toutes les religions antérieures. De même, pour les Tidjani, la Tidjaniya récapitule les vertus des tourouq antérieures et, dernière apparue, correspond aux conditions de notre époque.

Aussi, lorsque nous parlons de « la Tariqa », nous sous-entendons la Tariqa de Cheik Ahmed Tidjani. Et si nous en parlons, ce n'est pas parce qu'elle est la nôtre, mais parce qu'elle présente une analogie parfaite avec les trois piliers de l'enseignement des oulémas et des soufi.

En effet, la Tariqa Tidjani, tout comme l'enseignement des oulémas et des soufi, est édifiée sur trois piliers :

A″. LAZIM
B″. WAZIFA
C″. TAHLIL [1]

Le Lazim [2] comprend trois récitations :

A″1. 100 fois la formule Astaghfirullâh (Je demande pardon à Dieu),

A″2. 100 fois la Salatul-Fatihi (la « Prière ouvrante ») : « O Dieu ! Répands tes grâces et ta paix sur notre Seigneur Mohammad, celui qui ouvre ce qui était fermé, qui clôt ce qui a précédé,
qui fait triompher la vérité par la Vérité, et qui guide sur le chemin de la rectitude (la voie droite)
et (répands tes grâces) sur sa famille, selon la mesure qui lui est due,
(mesure) immense. »

A″3. 100 fois Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh (il n'y a de dieu que Dieu)

1. L'ensemble constitue le wird propre à la Tariqa Tidjani. Voir tableau III, p. 221.

2. Le Lazim doit être récité deux fois par jour : dans l'après-midi et le matin, avant l'appel à la prière de l'aurore. Il représente un premier stade.

La Wazifa [1] comprend quatre récitations :

B″1. 30 fois la formule :

Astaghfirullâh el-azim, ellazi lâ ilâha illa Hou, el Hayou el Qiyoum :

« Je demande pardon à Dieu, l'Immense,
Celui en dehors de qui il n'est point de dieu,
le Vivant, l'Éternel [2]. »

B″2. 50 fois la Salatul-Fatihi (indiquée en A″).

B″3. 100 fois la formule : Lâ illâha illa Allâh (point de dieu, si ce n'est Dieu).

B″4. 11 ou 12 fois la prière djawharatul-kamal ou Perle de la perfection [3].

Le Tahlil [4] comprend deux récitations qui, du point de vue ésotérique, n'en font qu'une :

C″1. 1 000 fois la formule Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh

C″2. 600 fois le nom sacré : ALLÂH [5].

1. La Wazifa représente un deuxième stade. Elle doit être récitée en plus du Lazim, avant la prière du matin et, facultativement, après la prière du soir.

2. Ce dernier mot, el-Qiyoum, est extrêmement difficile à traduire. C'est un mot dérivé de la racine Qa'ama : « se mettre debout », « se tenir debout de par son propre équilibre », avec une idée d'équilibre entre le vertical et l'horizontal. El-Qiyoum (nom donné seulement à Dieu), c'est donc Celui qui se maintient par lui-même, à tout jamais, sans dépendre d'aucune cause et par qui toute chose est maintenue. D'où la possibilité de traduire par « l'Éternel », comme le font certains arabisants. Mais il va de soi que le contenu du mot est plus complexe.

3. Voir l'encadré, p. 234.

4. Le Tahlil se récite uniquement le vendredi, avant le coucher du soleil, généralement en groupe ; mais on peut aussi le réciter seul chez soi. Lorsqu'il est récité en groupe, le nombre des invocations peut être illimité.

5. Les trois piliers de la Tidjaniya (Lazim, Wazifa, Tahlil) correspondent, analogiquement, aux trois degrés du tableau de la page 226. Ce tableau peut donc être complété de la façon suivante :

Canon des oulémas	Enseignement soufi	Voie Tidjani
Islâm	Sharia - taqlid	Lazim
Imân	Tariqa - Nazaré	Wazifa
Ihsân	Haqiqa - Zawqi	Tahlil

Nous avons vu, dans le chapitre traitant l'ISLÂM, que le fait de prononcer la double formule de profession de foi ne suffisait pas, à lui seul, pour fonder la qualité musulmane de quelqu'un, mais qu'il était nécessaire d'en connaître l'enseignement profond. De même, le seul fait de réciter les litanies et d'égrener le chapelet Tidjani ne suffit pas à faire de quelqu'un un véritable adepte Tidjani.

L'affiliation Tidjani est subordonnée à trois conditions :

D″. l'orthodoxie de la chaîne [1]

E″. l'ordination

F″. le respect des commandements.

Les 23 commandements qui suivent doivent être respectés par tout adepte Tidjani. Les 21 premiers sont péremptoires. Ils constituent les statuts de la Tidjaniya. Celui qui manque à un seul de ces 21 commandements doit faire renouveler son affiliation.

L'adepte Tidjani est tenu de savoir :

1. Que le moqaddem qui donne l'affiliation doit être consacré dans sa fonction par le Cheikh fondateur ou par un de ses représentants notoires [2].

2. Que le postulant doit se libérer de toute obédience envers une autre tariqa [3].

3. Qu'il est absolument interdit d'invoquer l'intercession de tout saint étranger vivant ou mort, mais

1. Il s'agit de la chaîne de transmission dont nous avons parlé au cours de cet ouvrage, chaîne qui doit remonter jusqu'au fondateur et, à travers lui, jusqu'au Prophète lui-même.

2. Un moqaddem ne peut être nommé que par un Cheikh.

3. Cet article, qui a souvent été mal compris, n'a nullement pour objet de dire qu'en dehors de la Tidjaniya il n'y a point de salut, ou que cette voie est la seule valable. Il s'agit d'inciter le novice à mieux se concentrer dans une seule discipline, car qui trop embrasse mal étreint.

La Perle de la perfection

La Djawharatul-kamal est une prière traditionnelle de bénédiction sur le Prophète. Toutefois, à travers le Prophète de l'Islam (dont le nom ne figure pas dans ce texte, contrairement à toutes les autres formules du même genre), on s'adresse ici à la Réalité prophétique éternelle (le Logos, dirait-on en d'autres lieux) appelée en arabe la Nûr mohammadiya, la Lumière mohammadienne, Prime Intelligence créée par Dieu, antérieure à toute manifestation, qui tout à la fois contient et pénètre toutes choses et dont le Prophète Mohammad est la typification et la manifestation dans le temps et dans l'histoire, où il apparaît le dernier. Pour l'Islam ésotérique, c'est cette même Lumière prophétique éternelle qui s'est exprimée à travers tous les Prophètes et Envoyés de Dieu.

En fait, le texte de cette oraison est intraduisible, et ce pour deux raisons. D'abord, il est rédigé dans un arabe particulièrement condensé et synthétique où chaque mot contient une richesse de sens qui n'a pas sa correspondance dans des mots français. Plutôt que d'essayer de faire des périphrases qui s'éloigneraient du texte, nous avons préféré rester près des mots (quitte à ne pas faire « littéraire ») et donner des explications en notes. Enfin, le sens apparent des mots correspond à un sens ésotérique bien précis dans le langage des mystiques soufi où certaines réalités tangibles sont les symboles de réalités supérieures. Chaque fois que nous l'avons pu, nous l'avons indiqué en note.

Ce travail est donc nécessairement imparfait. Que le lecteur le considère comme une « approche » du texte original et que les savants arabisants nous pardonnent nos insuffisances.

« O Dieu, répands tes Grâces [1] et ta Paix, sur la source de la Miséricorde divine, étincelante comme le diamant [2], certaine dans sa vérité [3], embrassant le centre des intelligences et des significations [4]
(sur) la Lumière du monde [5], (celle) qui est et fait être [6], la Lumière adamique (primordiale) [7];
(sur) celui qui possède la Vérité divine [8]
(sur) l'éclair irradiant les nuages-porteurs-de-pluie et les vents [9] qui remplissent tout ce qui se présente (à eux) [10], depuis les vastes océans jusqu'aux plus petits réceptacles [11];
(sur) Ta Lumière brillante dont tu remplis ton Univers [12] (Lumière) qui contient tous les lieux des lieux [13].

O Dieu, répands tes Grâces et ta Paix
sur la source de la Vérité [14] à partir de laquelle se manifestent les tabernacles [15] des Réalités (divines) [16];
(sur) la source directe [17] des connaissances, Ta voie la plus complète et la plus droite [18].

O Dieu, répands tes Grâces et ta Paix
sur la manifestation [19] du Vrai par le Vrai,
(sur) le Trésor incommensurable ton effusion (émanation) [20] de Toi vers Toi [21]
(sur) le cercle [22] de la Lumière sans couleur [23]

O Dieu, répands tes Grâces et ta Paix sur lui et sa famille [24], d'une grâce par laquelle tu nous le fasses connaître. »

1. Sally, impératif de salla. Lorsque ce verbe s'applique à l'homme, on le traduit couramment par « prier », au sens de « célébrer la prière canonique » plutôt qu'au sens de « demander ». Lorsque le verbe s'applique à Dieu, il comporte l'idée de bénédiction, de grâce et de rémission des péchés.

2. Yaqqout. Exotériquement, désigne les pierres précieuses et tout ce qui brille du plus vif éclat. Dans le langage mystique des soufi, désigne l'Ame universelle, l'Ame primordiale qui est en rapport à la fois avec Dieu et avec la création.

3. Mutahaqqiqat : mot intraduisible, tiré de la racine haqq : le Vrai, le réel, le droit. C'est le Vrai qui s'affirme par lui-même, qui est à lui-même sa propre preuve et le fondement de son droit.

4. El-fuhûm : les intelligences (l'acte de comprendre) et el-ma'any : les idées, les sens, les significations. Au sens ésotérique, ma'any est à rapprocher des Idées de Platon. Avec fuhûm et ma'any sont ici embrassés, d'une part, ce qui peut comprendre et, d'autre part, ce qui est à comprendre.

5. Akwâny, pluriel de kawn : tous les existants, donc tous les êtres, les univers et les mondes à tous les niveaux. C'est la Lumière de tout ce qui est, à tous les degrés de l'existence.

6. El-mutakawwinat : mot intraduisible. Forme intensifiée et pronominale du verbe takwin : faire exister. C'est ce qui se fait être et qui fait être par excellence.

7. Pour les Soufi, tout ce qui existe, y compris la matière, n'est en fait constitué que de Lumière divine, c'est-à-dire d'énergie divine. Dans la progression, il y a : 1. la Lumière de Dieu ; 2. la Lumière de l'Adam primordial (en tant qu'Ame primordiale et non en tant qu'Adam d'après la chute) ; 3. la Lumière de tout ce qui est, étant entendu qu'il s'agit d'une seule Lumière. Pour les Soufi, la nûr adamiyia (lumière adamique) et la nûr mohammadiya (lumière mohammadienne) sont identiques. Il s'agit de la Prime Lumière, de la Prime Intelligence créée par Dieu, qui est la source de LA Révélation à travers l'histoire, depuis Adam jusqu'au Prophète Mohammad, en passant par tous les grands Envoyés de Dieu.

8. Haqq, implique à la fois la notion de vrai, de réel et de droit.

9. La pluie symbolise ici la Miséricorde divine. Les vents (souffles) sont ce qui propulse cette pluie bienfaitrice dans toutes les directions.

10. « Se présenter » comporte ici l'idée de « faire face ». La Miséricorde divine est censée embrasser toutes choses (selon un hadith) mais pour remplir plus particulièrement un récipient, faut-il encore qu'il ne lui tourne pas le dos, comme une calebasse renversée.

11. Pour les Soufi, les océans symbolisent les prophètes et les grands saints et les petits récipients (littéralement « les vases ») symbolisent les croyants ordinaires. Mais quelle que soit l'envergure du réceptacle, le verset signifie que s'il s'ouvre à la Miséricorde divine, celle-ci le remplira.

12. Kawn (cf. note 5) : univers, monde (littéralement : existant, ce qui est).

13. Amkinati-l-makânŷ : expression qui désigne la totalité de ce qui est localisable, aussi bien au sens matériel (espace) qu'au sens spirituel (rangs et degrés existant dans l'échelle de l'être).

14. Haqq (voir note n° 8).

15. Urûsh : littéralement ruches (en tant que lieu où le miel est concentré).

16. Haqâ'iq, pluriel de haqiqa : vérité-réalité essentielle, divine.

17. Aqwam : droit, non au sens longiligne du terme, mais au sens de verticalité et d'équilibre. C'est l'axe vertical qui relie le haut et le bas. La racine qâma signifie « se tenir debout » et, par extension, « ressusciter ».

18. Ici figure un mot, asqâm, qui est tiré de l'arabe dialectal maghrébin où il signifie « ce qui est le plus droit ».

19. Tal'ati. Littéralement « face », « visage ». C'est ce par quoi une réalité se montre, la face d'elle-même par laquelle elle apparaît (théophanie).

20. Littéralement « débordement ». Idée de flux et de surabondance. La Lumière divine, source de vie, est considérée comme un flux jaillissant de par la volonté du Créateur.

21. Rappel de la notion coranique selon laquelle tout fait retour à Dieu : tout vient de lui et retourne à lui.

22. Cercle : idée de ce qui englobe tout, embrasse tout.

23. Littéralement : « lumière talismanique », c'est-à-dire mystérieuse, énigmatique, se situant au-delà de toutes différenciations (telles les couleurs) qui permettraient de la déterminer.

24. Reprise de la formule traditionnelle de bénédiction sur le Prophète et sa famille.

que tous les saints doivent être considérés et respectés [1].

4. Que les adeptes du sexe masculin doivent faire les cinq prières canoniques en assemblées, et autant que possible à la mosquée. Les adeptes du sexe féminin prieront à la première heure de la période correspondant à chaque prière. Les adeptes des deux sexes se soumettront aux lois établies par la Sharia.

5. Qu'il faut aimer le Cheikh d'un amour puissant et toujours croissant.

6. Qu'il faut se garder de la superstition, car elle fait dévier l'âme en lui faisant mettre sa confiance en des phénomènes vains, souvent dus à des rêves ou à des phantasmes démoniaques.

7. Qu'il ne proférera jamais d'injures ou de critiques à l'adresse du Cheikh.

1. Cet article également a été fort mal compris. Tout d'abord, il convient de s'entendre sur la notion d'intercession. Ce mot est employé faute d'un autre mieux approprié. En fait, l'intercession des saints n'est pas admise en Islam. On ne doit demander qu'à Dieu et à nul autre, même pas au Prophète. Dans la coutume, l'intercession consiste à demander quelque chose à Dieu en ajoutant : « A cause de Untel » (sous-entendu : en considération de la Grâce que tu as accordée à Untel, ou de ton amour pour lui). Mais jamais, à moins d'une méconnaissance profonde de ce qu'est l'Islam, on ne doit demander à un saint ou à un prophète de faire quelque chose pour soi. On ne demande qu'à Dieu.

Cela étant dit, l'homme a souvent besoin d'appuyer sa foi sur quelque chose de tangible, de plus proche de lui, et il faut bien constater que le respect et l'amour dus aux saints dévient parfois vers un véritable « culte ». On attend des saints des « bénédictions » de toutes sortes et l'on entreprend la tournée des mausolées dans l'espoir de faire une belle récolte. Les pratiques qui entourent les tombeaux des saints ne sont pas toujours toutes très acceptables. Ce contexte doit être présent à l'esprit lorsque l'on aborde cet article qui, comme certains autres, a pour objet de préserver le novice de la dispersion spirituelle.

Avant qu'il ait atteint un certain degré, l'adepte est considéré comme un enfant, comme le fils de son Cheikh. C'est donc vers son père qu'il doit d'abord se tourner. Mais une fois qu'il aura atteint sa maturité spirituelle, non seulement il pourra visiter tous les tombeaux des autres saints de l'Islam, mais cela lui sera même recommandé.

Cette interdiction n'est d'ailleurs pas particulière à la Tidjaniya. Beaucoup d'autres chioukh l'ont également formulée.

8. Qu'il risque un grave désagrément (spirituel) en abandonnant l'ordre après y avoir été affilié [1].

9. Qu'il faut avoir la ferme conviction de l'efficacité de la Voie.

10. Qu'il doit, en toute circonstance, se garder de tout ce qui peut nuire à la Tariqa ou la discréditer.

11. Qu'aucune personne non affiliée ne doit réciter les oraisons sans une autorisation spéciale d'un des moqaddem ou chioukh Tidjani.

12. Qu'il faut assister chaque matin à la récitation de la Wazifa et chaque vendredi soir à la réunion solennelle pour la récitation du Tahlil.

13. Qu'il ne faut jamais réciter la Djawharatul-kamal (Perle de la perfection) sans ablutions rituelles.

14. Qu'il est interdit à l'adepte de se brouiller avec tout être humain et, surtout, d'obéir à sa colère au point de cesser de parler à l'un de ses semblables pendant plus de trois jours [2].

15. Qu'il faut éviter toute négligence dans la pratique.

16. Qu'il ne faut invoquer l'intercession que des dignitaires de la Tariqa et, plus particulièrement, de ceux qui y ont acquis des grâces particulières de Dieu [3].

17. Qu'il ne faut jamais, sans investiture, s'attribuer le titre de moqaddem.

1. A entendre, comme précédemment, dans la même optique de préservation contre la dispersion.

2. L'adepte qui cesse de parler à un homme, par colère ou animosité, pendant plus de trois jours doit confesser sa faute, demander pardon et solliciter le renouvellement de son affiliation, laquelle est censée être invalidée. C'est une occasion, pour lui, d'exercer son humilité et de recevoir des conseils de la part de son maître, ou de son guide.

Si ce règlement majeur de la Tidjaniya (fondé sur un hadith du Prophète) avait été respecté, les tristes événements que nous avons rapportés dans ce livre n'auraient pas eu à être déplorés.

3. Voir les notes relatives aux articles 2 et 3.

18-19. Qu'il faut veiller à la propreté rigoureuse de son corps, de ses habits et de son domicile.

20. Qu'il faut, pendant la récitation des oraisons, se tourner vers la Kaaba (temple sacré de La Mekke), sauf dans les cas d'exception prévus [1].

21. Qu'il ne faut jamais, sauf cas de force majeure, interrompre la récitation par d'autres paroles.

Ici s'arrêtent les commandements obligatoires.

22. Qu'il faut, pendant la récitation, se concentrer et essayer de visualiser en esprit l'image du Cheikh ou, mieux, celle du Prophète (sur lui la paix et le salut !) si on les a vus en rêve ou si l'on en a vu une représentation.

23. Qu'il faut, si on le peut, saisir le sens de ce que l'on récite. Si cela n'est pas possible, écouter avec attention de manière à distinguer le son de ce que l'on récite.

Et que le salut de Dieu soit sur la meilleure des créatures, le dernier des Prophètes après qui point de Prophète !

1. Par exemple si l'on est en voyage, à cheval ou en pirogue.

Annexe

Soufisme et confréries (tourouq) en Islam

Mon intention, en présentant cet ouvrage, s'est limitée à faire connaître au lecteur qui fut Tierno Bokar Salif, « le Sage de Bandiagara », et quels trésors de spiritualité recèle l'Afrique noire pour qui veut bien les y chercher en abandonnant tout préjugé. Je n'entends donc nullement faire ici un exposé exhaustif sur l'Islam ou sur le soufisme, mais il m'a paru nécessaire d'ajouter, pour le lecteur européen peu familiarisé avec ces notions, quelques précisions sur ce que sont, en Islam, les confréries, ou tourouq (voies), ces grands véhicules de ce que l'on a appelé le « soufisme ».

Et d'abord, quelle est l'origine de ce terme ?

On s'accorde à le faire dériver du mot sûf (laine) en raison de la robe de laine grossière dont se vêtaient les premiers saints et ascètes de l'Islam. Ces saints hommes, qui vivaient une vie de dépouillement et qui, se fondant sur les versets coraniques et les hadith du Prophète, appelaient à l'amour passionné de Dieu, furent appelés des soufi (sûfi). Le terme tasawwuf (soufisme) désigne à la fois la voie soufi et l'état intérieur qui lui correspond.

Une autre étymologie fait dériver ce mot de la racine S-W-F, qui signifie « pureté ». Selon cette étymologie, les soufi seraient « les purs », les héritiers des hanif dont nous avons parlé précédemment [1].

1. Cf. note 4, p. 209.

Les IIe et IIIe siècles de l'Hégire, qui furent l'âge d'or du tasawwuf, virent éclore une floraison de grands soufi dont la vie et les propos furent à la fois transmis par la tradition orale et consignés dans de nombreux recueils. Ces grands saints (waly [1]), outre leur très haute réalisation spirituelle propre, furent les dépositaires d'un enseignement ésotérique et initiatique qui s'était transmis sans interruption jusqu'à eux et qui continua de l'être jusqu'à nos jours. Chaque chaîne de transmission (silsila) remonte jusqu'au Prophète par l'intermédiaire de chaînons plus ou moins nombreux. Dans presque tous les cas, cette chaîne passe, au sommet, par Ali, cousin et gendre du Prophète (quatrième khalife de l'Islam [2]) et, dans quelques autres cas, par Abou Bakr (très proche compagnon du Prophète et premier khalife de l'Islam). Chaque Tariqa conserve précieusement la mémoire de sa chaîne, qui constitue son arbre généalogique spirituel.

Le VIe siècle de l'Hégire (XIIe siècle de l'ère chrétienne) vit le soufisme s'organiser. Les premiers grands ordres apparurent. Spontanément, des adeptes s'étaient regroupés autour d'un maître, qu'il s'agisse du maître fondateur lui-même ou de l'un de ses successeurs ou khalife (représentant, lieutenant). Le lieu de leurs réunions fut appelé zaouia, c'est-à-dire l'endroit où l'on s'assemble pour étudier, recevoir l'enseignement et pratiquer le wird, ensemble de prières et d'oraisons composant le chapelet propre à la Tariqa.

Parmi les plus connues de ces tourouq, je citerai, dans leur ordre d'apparition :

1. La Qadiriya, ou Qadriya, du nom de son fondateur Abd-el-Qadir El-Jîlânî, né en Perse en 472 de l'Hégire (1078 de l'ère chrétienne) et décédé en 561 (1166 J.-C. [1]).

Saint d'une très grande envergure, qui a profondément marqué le soufisme et dont les enseignements sont encore très vivants aujourd'hui, Abd el-Qadir El-Jîlânî était l'aboutissement d'une chaîne de transmission qui passait par de très grands soufi, tels Ash-Shibli, le grand Al-Junayd, tous les saints Imams (descendants du Prophète par Ali et Fatima), Ali et, à travers ce dernier, le Prophète lui-même. Par une autre branche se ramifiant à partir de l'Imâm Jafar as-Sadiq, il était relié au célèbre saint Abû Yasid al-Bistami et, par une autre, à l'un des premiers soufi connus : Hasan al-Basri [2].

La Qadriya, dont le centre est à Bagdad où se trouve le tombeau du saint, s'étend du Maroc jusqu'à l'Inde.

2. La Suhrawardiya, du nom de Omar Ben Abdallâh al-Suhrawardî (539-632 H./1144-1234 J.-C.). Le poète persan Saadi fut l'un de ses élèves. Cet ordre se répandit en Perse et en Inde et l'on retrouve son influence dans le Pakistan moderne.

3. La Shadiliya, qui doit son origine à un mystique et savant du Maghreb, Abu Hasan Ash-Shâdilî (593-656 H./1196-1258 J.-C.). Cet ordre eut un grand succès en Afrique du Nord, en Égypte et en Arabie. Les Derqawî du Maroc et de l'Algérie sont ses héritiers. Le Cheikh Esh-Shadilî était disciple du maître Ibn-Mashish, lui-même héritier d'une lignée spirituelle remontant au Prophète par Abd el-Qadir el-Jîlânî et Ali.

4. Citons encore l'ordre des Mewlevi, fondé en Turquie par Jalal ad-dîn Roumi, dit « Mawlâna » (Notre Maître), qui mourut en 672 H./1273 J.-C. Jalal ed-dîn Roumi, maître spirituel incomparable et grand poète mystique tant en langue persane qu'en langue arabe, introduisit la pratique systématique de la musique et de la danse sacrée dans les réunions soufi, notamment la danse giratoire, d'où le nom de « derviches tourneurs » donné à ses disciples. La chaîne spirituelle de Jalal ed-dîn

1. Waly : littéralement « ami » de Dieu, « proche » de Dieu, « protégé » de Dieu. Le terme comporte à la fois l'idée d'amour, de proximité et de sécurité. La walaya est le nom de l'état correspondant. Faute de termes correspondants en français, on traduit généralement par « saint » et « sainteté ».

2. Ali ibn Abi Talib, jeune cousin du Prophète, se tint constamment à ses côtés depuis son plus jeune âge et fut l'un de ses meilleurs soutiens. Il épousa sa fille Fatima. De leur union naquirent Hassan et Hussein, qui furent les deux premiers de la lignée des « onze Imams » (douze avec Ali), hautes et nobles figures spirituelles de l'Islam, particulièrement vénérées par les Shi'ites.

1. Dans la suite du texte, pour simplifier, les dates de l'ère hégirienne seront symbolisées par la lettre H et les dates de l'ère chrétienne par les lettres J.-C.

2. Sur le fondateur de la Qadriya, voir Mehmmed ali Aïni, Un grand saint de l'Islam : Abd al Kadir Guilâni, Librairie orientale Paul Geuthner, 1967.

Roumi remontait au Prophète par l'intermédiaire d'Abou Bakr, premier khalife [1].

A la vérité, ces grands saints n'ont pas « fondé » les congrégations qui portent leur nom comme on fonderait aujourd'hui une association. Attirés par leur rayonnement spirituel, les hommes s'assemblèrent autour d'eux et c'est ainsi qu'apparurent spontanément les tourouq qui prirent peu à peu la forme que nous leur connaissons aujourd'hui. Parfois elles s'organisèrent du vivant du Maître, parfois du vivant de leurs successeurs. Quoi qu'il en soit, ce qui compte, ce n'est pas tant l'existence extérieure et organisée d'une tariqa que la permanence de la « chaîne », c'est-à-dire la transmission ininterrompue de la vertu spirituelle héritée du Maître et, à travers lui, du Prophète lui-même.

5. La Tidjaniya fut l'un des derniers ordres apparus puisqu'elle prend sa source en Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani qui naquit en 1150 H./1737 J.-C. à Aïn-Mahdi en Algérie. Il mourut en 1230 H./1815 J.-C. à Fès, au Maroc, où se trouve son tombeau.

Comme il a été dit précédemment, Cheikh Ahmed Tidjani, en plus de l'inspiration personnelle qu'il reçut directement du Prophète, était également l'héritier des tourouq les plus importantes de son temps : Qadriya, Shadiliya, etc.

Son enseignement, outre l'enseignement de base commun à tout le soufisme, se caractérisait par une grande tolérance (« Dieu aime aussi l'infidèle... ») et une ouverture d'esprit qui, à son époque, ne furent pas toujours comprises.

Avant d'aller plus loin, il convient de dissiper un malentendu qui règne encore, dans certains milieux occidentaux, à l'égard du soufisme. Certains orientalistes, faute de pouvoir vivre l'expérience soufi de l'intérieur, ne l'appréciant qu'à travers ses expressions écrites et aussi, il faut le dire, animés parfois d'idées préconçues, voulurent à toute force voir dans le soufisme un phénomène extérieur à l'Islam proprement dit, incarnant une dimension mystique dont ce dernier aurait été dépourvu.

1. Sur Jalal ed-dîn Roumi, voir Aflâkî, Les Saints des derviches tourneurs, traduit du persan par Clément Huart, Paris (Éditions orientales, 1978) et les ouvrages de Mme Eva de Vitray-Meyerovitch, Mystique et Poésie en Islam, Djalâl-ud-Dîn Rûmi, Paris, Desclée de Brouwer, 1968 et Le Livre du dedans, Paris, Sindbad.

Or, non seulement les tourouq dont je viens de parler ne se situent pas « en dehors » de l'Islam, mais elles en représentent, bien au contraire, la sève intérieure et la dimension spirituelle. Il serait tout à fait faux de les croire en rupture avec la loi islamique et la Révélation coranique dans son ensemble. En fait, c'est dans cette Loi et dans cette Révélation qu'elles puisent leur inspiration, liée à un constant effort d'approfondissement et d'intériorisation. Au sein de ces tourouq, on respecte comme ailleurs — et quelquefois plus qu'ailleurs — les commandements de la sharia, mais en les percevant en même temps à une autre hauteur, pourrait-on dire, celle de leur dimension spirituelle. Ainsi, l'ablution rituelle (wudhu) à laquelle tout musulman doit procéder pour pouvoir accomplir valablement la prière canonique sera-t-elle considérée comme la première phase, sur le plan extérieur, de la purification intérieure qui est nécessaire pour se rapprocher de Dieu. L'une n'exclut pas l'autre. Il s'agit d'une même réalité vécue sur différents niveaux.

De même, le pèlerinage à La Mekke symbolisera le cheminement intérieur vers Dieu, centre suprême vers lequel doit converger tout notre être, et aidera à cet accomplissement. L'interdiction de la thésaurisation sera comprise comme liée à une attitude de dépouillement intérieur et de « non attachement ». Quant à la parole majeure de l'Islam : Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh (il n'y a de dieu que Dieu » ou « point de divinité, si ce n'est Dieu ») elle sera inlassablement vécue et méditée non seulement comme négation de toute divinité extérieure autre que Dieu, mais aussi comme négation et dissolution de toutes ces divinités intérieures auxquelles nous nous accrochons et que nous adorons sans nous en rendre compte, à commencer par notre propre « moi ».

En réalité, depuis les premiers siècles de l'Islam jusqu'à nos jours, l'enseignement des grands maîtres soufi fut constamment et intimement lié à la méditation des versets coraniques et des hadith du Prophète. Quant aux préceptes de la sharia, ils les observèrent généralement avec une minutie et un scrupule dont peu d'hommes sont capables [1].

Il est vrai que, dans certaines tourouq, on a vu apparaître un abandon progressif des pratiques de base de l'Islam au bénéfice de la seule appartenance à la tariqa, appartenance considérée comme suffisante pour assurer les bénéfices spirituels que l'on en attend. Mais il s'agit là d'une dégradation apparue avec le temps et liée, le plus souvent, à une méconnaissance des enseignements réels des maîtres fondateurs, quand ce n'est pas à une certaine ignorance de l'Islam lui-même. Il est hors de doute qu'un tel phénomène existe en Afrique ; les événements rapportés dans cet ouvrage en sont une illustration.

On trouve également, au Moyen-Orient ou en Extrême-Orient, des sectes ou congrégations appelées « extrémistes » et qui, elles, ont rompu volontairement — et non seulement par ignorance ou par paresse — avec les données de la sharia, sortant ainsi du giron de l'Islam. Mais elles constituent une exception et non la règle [2].

Par ailleurs, certains orientalistes ont avancé la thèse que le tasawwuf étant étranger par nature à la vocation de l'Islam, il était né de la seule influence d'autres courants religieux existants, en particulier le christianisme et le judaïsme. C'est, là encore, méconnaître les racines purement coraniques de tout l'enseignement soufi et l'incessante méditation des hadith et des versets dont il est nourri.

Certes, à première vue, le soufisme peut paraître différent de

1. Un symbole très courant dans l'enseignement soufi fera mieux comprendre la position des tourouq. L'Islam, avec ses trois niveaux fondamentaux, est symbolisé par un cercle, ses rayons et son centre. La circonférence représente la sharia, la loi extérieure. Les différents rayons sont les tourouq, qui sont autant de voies pour se rapprocher du centre mais qui, toutes, prennent appui sur la circonférence sans jamais se séparer d'elle. Le centre lui-même est la haqiqa, la Vérité-Une, la Réalité essentielle, but ultime de toute voie spirituelle authentique. On peut remarquer que plus les rayons se rapprochent du centre, et plus ils sont proches les uns des autres. Les rares élus qui parviennent au centre tiennent, pour ce qui se rapporte à l'essentiel, un même langage, celui de l'Unité et de l'Amour.

2. Je n'entends formuler aucun jugement à leur encontre ; je dis simplement qu'elles ne représentent pas un courant strictement islamique.

l'Islam tel qu'il est couramment vécu ou compris par la masse. Mais c'est là, nous nous en sommes déjà expliqué, une différence de niveau et non de nature. Cette pluralité des niveaux de compréhension ou des axes de recherche à l'intérieur de l'Islam témoigne, précisément, de sa richesse et de sa vitalité. Le raisonnement qui consiste à expliquer cette diversité par la seule influence de courants extérieurs est, à la vérité, un peu simpliste, et peut-être pas toujours exempt de paternalisme.

Que des échanges extrêmement riches aient eu lieu, à partir d'une certaine époque, entre les musulmans et d'autres cultures religieuses et philosophiques, nul ne saurait le nier. Le Coran lui-même, qui fourmille de récits concernant les autres prophètes, suscite un tel esprit de recherche, sans parler du hadith du prophète : « Allez chercher la science, fût-ce jusqu'en Chine. » Mais plutôt que de parler d'influence, je préfère, pour ma part, utiliser le mot rencontre qui me paraît beaucoup plus exact.

Que de grands esprits, parvenus à un très haut niveau spirituel, se soient reconnus dans les expériences et les expressions de leurs homologues d'autres traditions religieuses, quoi d'étonnant puisqu'il n'y a qu'une Vérité et que le but ultime est le même pour tous les hommes, par-delà la gangue des mots et des étiquettes humaines ? Ce serait faire offense à ces grands spirituels que de ne pas faire confiance à l'authenticité de leur expérience religieuse propre et d'y voir en tout le résultat d'une « influence » ; mais on peut comprendre que certains d'entre eux, découvrant ailleurs une expérience de même nature que la leur ou s'en approchant, en aient éprouvé à la fois joie et enrichissement. Selon les temps, le phénomène semble d'ailleurs avoir joué dans les deux sens.

La similitude du langage peut également créer une confusion. Tierno Bokar, par exemple, n'avait pas lu les Évangiles et ne connaissait de Jésus que ce qui en est dit dans le Coran. Il ne lisait d'ailleurs pas le français. Pourtant, dans ses paroles, que de résonances « évangéliques » qui n'auront pas échappé au lecteur ! Par ailleurs, des chercheurs ont relevé, dans l'enseignement de certains grands soufi, des concordances étonnantes avec des enseignements du Tao ou du Zen dont, à l'évidence, ces grands maîtres n'avaient jamais eu connaissance. Il s'agit donc bien, non d'influences, mais de rencontres [1]. Par-delà l'écran des mots et des images mentales, l'esprit se fraie, par l'expérience, un chemin vers la Vérité-Une, vers ce « Cercle de la Lumière sans couleur » dont il est parlé dans la Perle de la perfection.

Mais revenons aux différentes confréries. Celles-ci pourraient être comparées, d'une certaine manière, aux ordres monastiques qui existent à l'intérieur de la chrétienté, à cette différence près qu'il s'agit ici d'ordres laïcs, les « frères » des tourouq étant généralement mariés et participant à la vie de ce monde. La zaouïa est un lieu de rencontre souvent quotidien mais non permanent, sauf pour certaines périodes de retraite spirituelle (khalwa) vécues sous la direction d'un maître, périodes à l'issue desquelles l'adepte retourne dans sa famille. On ne saurait donc parler d'une vie monastique à proprement parler.

Le chercheur qui aborde pour la première fois l'étude du soufisme peut se trouver déconcerté par le nombre des différentes branches existantes. Rappelons que ces branches, pour la plupart, ne sont que des ramifications issues d'un tronc commun et qu'elles ne diffèrent bien souvent que par leur nom.

Il arrive en effet que, dans la lignée d'une tariqa, apparaisse un maître spirituel hors du commun, un Pôle (qûtb), qui lui donne une nouvelle impulsion et introduit parfois une innovation dans ses exercices spirituels. Les disciples de ce maître donneront dorénavant son nom à leur tariqa, bien que celle-ci demeure une émanation de la tariqa originelle. Seul le nom changera. La plupart des tourouq sont, en quelque sorte, sorties les unes des autres, ce qui se comprend du fait de la continuité de la chaîne de transmission.

Prenons un exemple. Au sein de la Shadiliya apparut un jour un très grand maître spirituel, le Cheikh al-Darqawî. Tous ceux

1. Ne pas confondre « rencontre », qui est reconnaissance et respect de l'autre menant à un enrichissement mutuel, avec « syncrétisme », qui est mélange extérieur des signes distinctifs, menant à l'abandon de ses propres racines. Sur toutes ces questions, cf. les ouvrages de René Guénon et de Frithjof Schuon, notamment L'Unité transcendante des religions, Paris, Éditions du Seuil, 1979.

qui relevaient de son obédience prirent désormais le nom de « Derqawî ». Dans la branche des Derqawî apparut plus tard le Cheikh al-Alawî qui vécut en Algérie au début de notre siècle (décédé en 1934). Il donna son nom aux zaouïas qui se réclament de lui [1], mais il s'agit toujours de la même lignée shadiliyenne.

Les « Hamallistes » (nom donné, je le rappelle, par l'Administration française mais conservé par les adeptes), ne sont, en fait, que des Tidjani ; et ainsi de suite...

Il s'agit donc bien de branches se ramifiant à partir d'un tronc commun qui remonte, nous l'avons vu, jusqu'au Prophète lui-même. A quelques détails près, la doctrine enseignée est partout la même, puisque essentiellement fondée sur la méditation du Coran et des hadith du Prophète, sur l'enseignement des fondateurs, puis sur celui des grands « maîtres à penser » du soufisme : Ibn el Arabi, Ghazali, etc.

L'objectif est toujours le même : dans le respect de la sharia (loi révélée), entreprendre l'itinéraire spirituel (tariqa) qui mène à l'union à Dieu par la mort à soi-même, en passant par des stades successifs et graduels de dépouillement intérieur et de purification de l'âme (nafs). Les différences entre les tourouq ne portent que sur certaines modalités de détail de la méthode proposée.

Venons-en donc à la méthode. Outre l'étude des enseignements des maîtres, elle est essentiellement fondée sur la répétition de prières ou de formules constituant le wird (ou chapelet) propre à chaque tariqa.

Là aussi, on retrouve un fond commun à toutes les confréries. Le wird comporte en effet toujours, pour commencer, une demande de pardon à Dieu, ce qui correspond au niveau individuel ; puis une prière de salutation sur le Prophète, ce qui correspond au niveau de l'Homme universel ; enfin le dhikr, ou mention répétitive de la formule Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh (point de dieu, si ce n'est Dieu), ce qui correspond au niveau divin. S'y ajoute le dhikr du grand nom de Dieu Allâh ou de certains de ses autres noms ou attributs, tous tirés du Coran. A cette base commune peuvent se surajouter d'autres oraisons ou formules particulières propres à chaque tariqa.

1. Cf. Martin Lings, Un saint musulman du vingtième siècle : le Cheikh Ahmad al-Alawî, Paris, Éditions traditionnelles, 1973.

Bien entendu, ces pratiques n'ont pas pour objet de supprimer ou de remplacer les pratiques de base de l'Islam que sont les cinq prières canoniques, le jeûne, l'aumône et le pèlerinage à La Mekke. Elles ne font que se superposer à elles. Il s'agit d'un effort spirituel supplémentaire entrepris à titre personnel pour intensifier et approfondir sa vie religieuse et non pour l'annuler, ce qui n'aurait pas de sens. Les rites de base de l'Islam ont été révélés par Dieu et ne sauraient être abrogés par qui que ce soit. Ou alors, il ne s'agit plus d'Islam à proprement parler et il convient de le reconnaître clairement.

La pratique du dhikr répond à une injonction divine plusieurs fois répétée dans le Coran, sous différentes formes : « Invoque le nom de ton Seigneur et consacre-toi à Lui avec une parfaite dévotion » (LXXIII, 8); « Dis : Dieu (Allâh) et laisse-les (les hommes) à leurs jeux vains » (VI, 91); « Souvenez-vous de moi et je me souviendrai de vous » (II, 152), verset que l'on peut également traduire : « Mentionnez-moi, et je vous mentionnerai. »

Le mot dhikr est lourd de sens. Il signifie à la fois mention, souvenir, commémoration, rappel. Il peut donc s'entendre soit au sens extérieur consistant à mentionner à haute voix le nom de Dieu (ce sera le « dhikr de la langue »), soit au sens intérieur de commémoration en soi du nom et de la présence de Dieu jusqu'à ce que le dhikr prenne possession de l'être tout entier (ce sera le « dhikr du cœur »). Dans l'étape ultime, le soufi se trouvera immergé dans la « Présence sans dualité » (ce sera le « dhikr de l'intime », en rapport avec l'état d'Ihsân parfait).

Dans les tourouq, le dhikr est à la fois individuel et collectif. En plus de la récitation quotidienne solitaire, les frères se réunissent régulièrement pour les séances de dhikr collectif. C'est à l'occasion de ces séances collectives que l'on observe des différences entre les tourouq. Dans certaines — notamment chez les Derqawî et certaines confréries d'Orient — le dhikr collectif est accompagné d'une sorte de danse, ample mouvement rythmique du corps d'avant en arrière, en rapport avec un contrôle du souffle; dans d'autres, c'est la tête qui bouge (en avant et sur les côtés) avec visualisation du souffle en certains points du corps, notamment lors du dhikr de Lâ ilâha ill'Allâh, en rapport avec le symbolisme des différentes syllabes. Ailleurs, au contraire, notamment chez les Tidjani, on s'efforcera à l'immobilité (bien que le mouvement de la tête y soit également connu). La prière Perle de la perfection, en particulier, devra être récitée dans un état d'immobilité totale qu'il ne faut rompre à aucun prix. Signalons encore la danse giratoire particulière aux Mewlevi, disciples de Jalal ed-dîn Roumi.

Comme on le voit, il s'agit surtout de différences extérieures qui correspondent à des tempéraments différents et, parfois, à des héritages culturels différents. Le fond étant pratiquement toujours le même, les musulmans ont ainsi toute chance de trouver, à l'intérieur de l'Islam, la tariqa qui correspond le mieux à leurs affinités ou à leur type de famille spirituelle.

La vertu première du dhikr tient au fait qu'il s'agit, nous l'avons dit, de Noms sacrés tirés du Verbe révélé lui-même, donc porteurs d'une intense énergie spirituelle [1]. Cette énergie se trouvera comme actualisée, déployée, par le nombre des répétitions, ce nombre ayant un rapport avec la valeur numérale des lettres qui composent le Nom divin.

Le grand danger serait toutefois de considérer le dhikr, en raison même de sa puissance, comme une « recette » pour accéder systématiquement à des états extatiques ou supérieurs. C'est d'ailleurs pourquoi il ne doit être pratiqué que sur autorisation expresse d'un moqaddem ou d'un maître. Lorsque le dhikr est collectif, donc plus intense, il doit être effectué sous la direction et le contrôle attentif d'un maître. L'objectif n'est pas de rechercher systématiquement des « états » (hal), mais de se rapprocher de Dieu en se vidant, grâce au dhikr, de tout ce qui n'est pas Lui.

« Tout acte, a dit le Prophète, ne vaut que par l'intention » (niyya). Il convient donc d'être très vigilant quant à son intention profonde lorsqu'on se livre à un exercice spirituel tel que le dhikr. Ce dernier est un moyen pour réaliser la purification progressive du cœur et réchauffer la foi, tout comme le souffle

1. Dans l'un de ses dérivés, le mot dhikr signifie également « énergie ».

de la forge active le feu qui fera fondre le métal. Mais le moyen ne saurait être considéré comme une fin en soi. La seule fin, c'est Dieu, qui doit être adoré pour Lui-même et non pour les dons qu'Il est libre de nous octroyer ou non.

Le dhikr contient d'ailleurs en lui-même son propre antidote. La mention perpétuelle du nom de Dieu, qui mène à percevoir progressivement sa réelle présence, conduit en effet le cœur à s'abaisser et à s'abîmer devant son Créateur et, finalement, comme le demande l'Ihsân, à « vivre sous son regard ».

Selon une définition du grand mystique Al-Junayd, le tasawwuf (soufisme) consiste en ce que « Dieu fait mourir l'homme à son moi afin qu'il vive en Lui ». Un autre grand soufi, Abou Yazid al-Bistami, disait : « Je me suis desquamé de mon moi comme un serpent de sa peau. »

Cette mort à soi-même est appelée fanâ (littéralement extinction, comme s'éteint la flamme d'une bougie) tandis que la Vie en Dieu et par Dieu, qui est son corollaire, est appelée baqâ' : surexistence (continuité, permanence).

« Le rôle des soufi, disait Mohammed Abduh [1], est de guérir les cœurs et d'éliminer tout ce qui voile l'œil intérieur. Ils s'efforcent d'établir leur demeure en l'Esprit, devant la Face de Celui qui est la très haute Vérité, jusqu'à ce qu'ils soient, par Lui, retirés de tout ce qui est autre, leur essence étant éteinte en Son Essence, et leurs qualités en Ses Qualités [2]. »

Mais quelle parole pourrait mieux exprimer cet état de fanâ/baqâ' (extinction de soi/vie en Dieu et par Dieu) que ce hadith qudsi ou « hadith saint » dans lequel Dieu, par la bouche du Prophète, parle à la première personne, hadith qui a été médité par les soufi de tous les temps :

« Que mon serviteur ne cesse de s'approcher de Moi par des œuvres surérogatoires [3] jusqu'à ce que Je l'aime. Et quand Je

1. Grand penseur et réformateur musulman, né en 1849, qui fut nommé Mufti d'Égypte en 1899. Cf. Son célèbre ouvrage : Rissalat al Tawhid traduit par B. Michel et le cheikh Moustapha Abdel Razik, Librairie Orientale Paul Geuthner, 1965.

2. « Ne dites pas que je suis bon, seul le Père est bon », a dit Jésus.

3. Les œuvres surérogatoires (ou « supplémentaires ») sont celles qui sont accomplies en plus des prescriptions canoniques, en vue de plaire à Dieu.

l'aime, Je suis l'ouïe par laquelle il entend, la vue par laquelle il voit, la langue par laquelle il parle, la main par laquelle il saisit. » Une variante ajoute : « Quand Je l'aime Je le tue, et quand Je le tue, c'est Moi qui suis sa rançon. »

On pourrait dire que tout le soufisme est basé sur ce hadith, tant pour la méthode (les œuvres surérogatoires) que pour l'objectif suprême : l'investiture divine (baqâ') après la mort à soi-même (fanâ).

Certes, avant d'atteindre de tels degrés, il existe bien des étapes intermédiaires et bien des épreuves, sur le chemin où nous guette constamment le Makarou, l'« illusion divine [1] ». C'est pourquoi l'aide d'un maître est nécessaire. Les limites de chacun dépendront de ses dispositions propres, de la qualité de son effort, et, finalement, de la libre grâce divine.

Par une attitude de tawakkul (abandon conscient à la volonté divine), le croyant sincère s'efforce de réaliser en lui, selon la parole de Hallaj [2], une « totale conformité aux décrets de Dieu sur lui » et de vider son cœur de tout ce qui est « autre que Dieu », afin de s'offrir à sa Présence.

Dans un autre hadith qudsi, Dieu dit : « 70 fois par jour (ou 70 000 fois, selon une variante), Je regarde dans le cœur de mon serviteur pour y entrer. Hélas, le plus souvent, Je le trouve plein de lui-même, et Je me retire. »

Croire que cette mort à soi-même doit nécessairement s'accompagner d'un retrait hors du monde et d'une fuite de ses responsabilités serait cependant une erreur — encore que la retraite spirituelle puisse parfois être nécessaire à une certaine étape. Ce serait contraire à l'esprit même de l'Islam qui se veut totalité et qui engage l'être dans tous ses aspects. L'Islam n'est pas fuite vers le sacré, mais intégration consciente du sacré dans tous les plans de l'existence. Il s'agit de vivre au milieu du monde, là où l'on se trouve, non plus au nom de son ego mais avec Dieu, en Dieu et par Dieu.

« Toute la vie, la vie de chaque jour, doit être remplie de la

1. Cf. note 2, p. 227.

2. Autre grand mystique de l'Islam. Cf. les œuvres de Louis Massignon, notamment La Passion de Hallaj, martyr mystique de l'Islam, Paris, Gallimard, 1975.

présence de Dieu et du désir de Le servir» (Ghazali). C'est au cœur même de la vie et de l'action qu'il nous faut nous tourner intérieurement vers Dieu. Tel est, précisément, l'objet suprême du soufisme : faire participer au Sacré non seulement les pratiques canoniques prescrites, mais, selon la parole d'Hasan el-Basri, « tous les gestes de la vie quotidienne » ; « faire de sa propre vie un lieu de la manifestation divine », disait Ibn el Arabi.

Un jour, un homme vint trouver Tierno Bokar et lui dit :

— Tierno, je suis inquiet pour moi-même. Je n'ai pas le temps de réciter beaucoup de Coran, ni de pratiquer de longs dhikr, ni de faire beaucoup de retraites spirituelles ou de jeûner en dehors du Ramadan. Qu'adviendra-t-il de mon âme ?

— Que fais-tu dans la journée ? lui demanda Tierno.

— Chaque jour, je travaille dans les champs du matin au soir pour nourrir ma nombreuse famille, répondit le brave homme.

— Sois tranquille, lui dit Tierno. C'est ton travail qui est ta prière. Si tu accomplis ton travail le plus parfaitement possible et dans l'intention de plaire à Dieu qui te l'a imposé, alors, ton travail devient adoration, au même titre que les dhikr ou les jeûnes de ceux qui n'ont rien d'autre à faire.

Il n'y a donc, pour la vie spirituelle, ni époques ni lieux privilégiés. Au sein même du travail le plus astreignant, il est toujours possible d'accomplir chacune de ses tâches « au nom de Dieu » (Bismillâh [1]) et de s'efforcer de vivre chaque instant en sa Présence. Les soufi ne se sont-ils pas appelés eux-mêmes les « fils de l'instant » ?

La vie en Dieu, liée à l'abandon confiant en sa Volonté, est équilibre entre le haut et le bas, entre l'intérieur et l'extérieur qui s'unifient en elle. Selon la parole du Prophète :

« Travaille pour la vie de ce monde comme si tu devais vivre mille ans, et pour la vie future comme si tu devais mourir demain. »

1. La formule Bismillâh (Au nom de Dieu) qui ouvre chaque sourate du Coran, doit être prononcée par les musulmans au moment d'accomplir tout acte, quel qu'il soit, afin de le consacrer à Dieu.

Table

Avant-propos 7

1

La vie

Racines 15
Le maître 37
La zaouïa de Bandiagara 37
Origines de la pratique des « onze grains » et des « douze grains » 57
Destin de Chérif Hamallâh 72
Rencontre de Tierno Bokar avec Chérif Hamallâh 86
Début des persécutions 96
L'épreuve 108

2

La parole

Le puits 132
Les trois lumières 135
Les trois degrés de la foi 137
Le commerçant avare 139
les êtres pensants 140
Dieu aime-t-il l'infidèle ? 141
L'arc-en-ciel 145

Les enfants d'un même père 147
Relations avec les autres religions 148
Se méfier de sa propre poussière 152
La Religion est Une en son essence 153
Dieu, embarras des intelligences humaines 155
L'hypocrite enturbanné 157
Les luttes religieuses 158
Les chevaux de bataille 159
L'oiseau tombé du nid 160
Le petit chien et le Paradis 162
Les deux sortes de beauté 166
Les oiseaux blancs et les oiseaux noirs 168
Le dhikr 172
Les trois sortes de vêtements 175
Le palais et la chaumière 176
Responsabilité des chefs 178
Le trône et le garçon boucher 180
Tradition et évolution 183

3

L'enseignement

Première leçon. Le pacte primordial 195

Deuxième leçon. Maddîn 209

Troisième leçon. Synthèse de l'enseignement ésotérique 219
a. Le soufisme 219
b. La Voie Tidjani 229

Annexe. Soufisme et confréries (tourouq) en Islam ... 241

Du même auteur

Koumen
Textes initiatiques des pasteurs peuls
EHESS, 1961

L'Éclat de la grande étoile
Classiques africains, 1974

Jésus vu par un musulman
NEAS, 1975
Stock, 1994

Petit Bodiel
Une poignée de poussière
NEAS, 1976
Stock, 1994

L'Empire peul de Macina
NEAS, 1984

Njeddo Dewal, mère de la calamité
Conte initiatique peul
NEAS, 1985

Mémoires
Vol. 1. Amkoullel, l'enfant peul
Vol. 2. Oui, mon commandant !
Actes Sud, 1991, 2000
et « Babel », 2001

Contes initiatiques peuls
Stock, 1994
et « Pocket », 2000

Aspects de la civilisation africaine
Présence africaine, 1995

Sur les traces d'Amkoullel, l'enfant peul
Actes Sud, 1998
et « Babel », 2000

Il n'y a pas de petites querelles
Nouveaux contes de la savane
Stock, 1999
et « Pocket », 2002

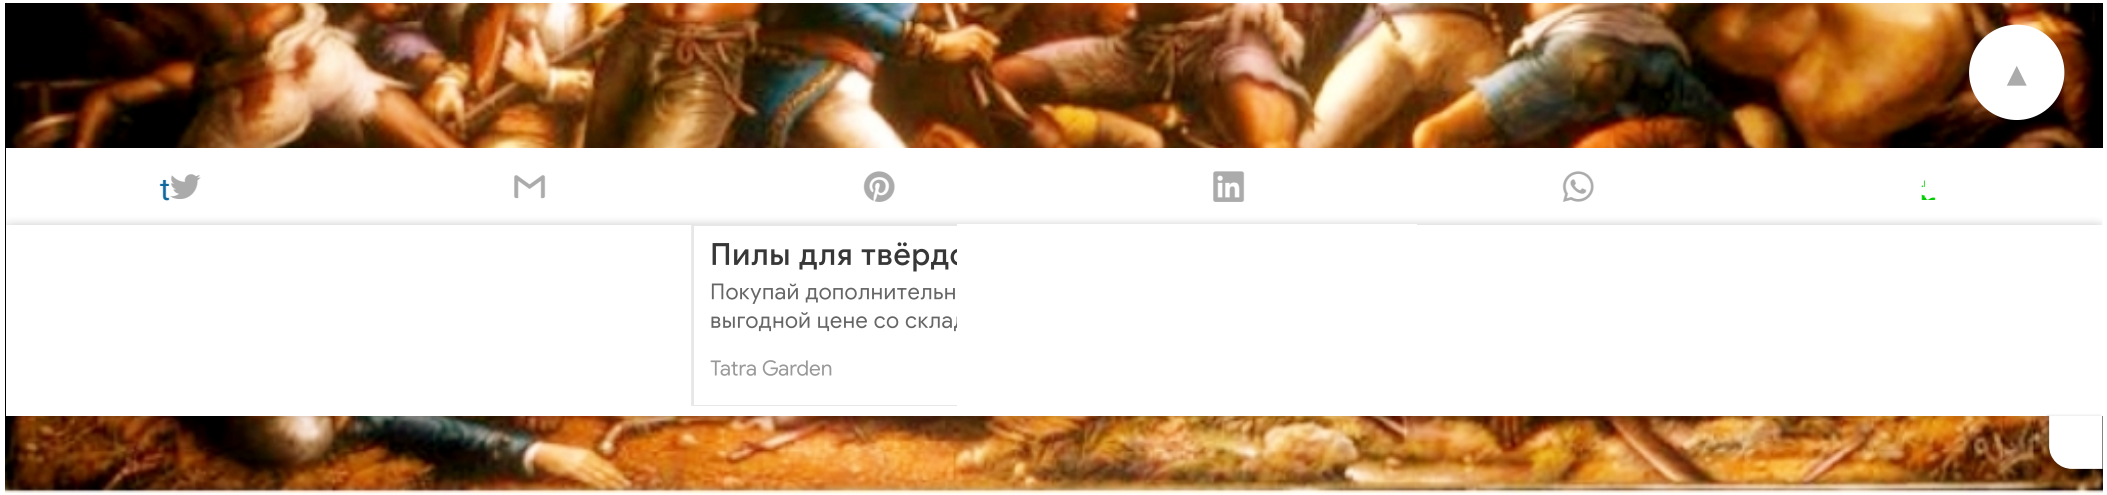
Contes des sages d'Afrique
Seuil, 2004

COMPOSITION : MAME IMPRIMEURS À TOURS
IMPRESSION : NORMANDIE ROTO IMPRESSION S. A. S. À LONRAI
DÉPÔT LÉGAL : OCTOBRE 1980 - N° 5657- 12 (100245)
IMPRIMÉ EN FRANCE

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со склад
Tatra Garden

efco

African History



Voodoo Empowered Enslaved Africans To Defeat European Colonizers In The Haitian

Revolution

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со склад
Tatra Garden

efco

Voodoo Empowered Enslaved Africans To Defeat European Colonizers In The Haitian Revolution

SHARE

29 150 UAH
32 efco

Mlunok.com.ua

RELATED POST

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

The Story Of Eleni, Ethiopian Queen Who Became One Of The Nation's Most Brilliant Military Leaders

Archaeologists Discover A 9th Century Yoruba City With Incredible Architecture & History – Eredo

Brown University's Kona Shen outlines in detail how voodoo played a crucial part during the Haitian Revolution in History of Haiti:

"Despite strict regulations, voodoo was one of the few areas of unlimited autonomy for African slaves." It was a source of psychological liberation as a religion and a crucial spiritual force because it allowed them to express and reinforce that self-existence they objectively acknowledged via their own efforts…

Voodoo also allowed slaves to psychologically break free from the very real and literal ties of slavery and consider themselves as independent creatures; in essence, it provided them a feeling of human dignity and allowed them to survive."

Advertisement

How Voodoo Became Haiti's Predominant Spiritual Practice

David Geggus writes in Marronage, Voodoo, and the Saint Domingue Slave Revolt of 1791:

3 African Scholars Who Were Abducted, Shipped To, And Enslaved in The U.S.

The 1976 Assassination Attempt On Bob Marley And Wife Rita That Nearly Took Their Lives

One Of The World's Oldest And First Universities Was In Timbuktu, Mali

700,000 Ancient African Books

"Haitian voodoo, along with other Afro-American faiths in Brazil and the Caribbean, is one of the most spectacular manifestations of neo-African culture in the Americas." The slave

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

were exiled in 1803, as well as the country's prior and post-expulsion religious traditions, help explain why voodoo became the majority religion of Haiti. In the 1790s, Africans made up well over half of the non-white population. "Efforts to Christianize the black populace were negligible between the expulsion of the Jesuits in the 1760s and the end of the schism with the Vatican in 1860."

Advertisement

Dutty Boukman's Voodoo Instigated A Revolution

"The god who created the earth; who created the sun that gives us light. The god who holds up the ocean; who makes the thunder roar. Our God who has ears to hear. You who are hidden in the clouds; who watch us from where you are. You see all that the white has made us suffer. The white man's god asks him to commit crimes. But the god within us wants to do good. Our god, who is so good, so just, He orders us to revenge our wrongs. It's He who will direct our arms and bring us the victory. It's He who will assist us. We all should throw away the image of the white men's god who is so pitiless. Listen to the voice for liberty that sings in all our hearts."

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

How Enslaved Africans Were Used For Heinous Medical Experiments in America In The South

14 Black Inventors Who The World Owes Gratitude For Their Inventions

The Maji Maji Rebellion Of Tanzanians Against German

Advertisement

He had traveled from Jamaica to Saint-Domingue, where he had become a maroon in the Morne Rouge jungle. "grotesque-looking man… with a 'awful countenance,' a visage like an overdone African carving," says the author. (P. 39, Parkinson) He was a fearless and inspiring leader.

While Boukman was not the first to organize a slave uprising in Saint-Domingue, as others such as Padrejean in 1676 and François Mackandal in 1757 had done before him, he provided the spark that helped to ignite the Haitian Revolution. "Boukman Dutty (dubbed "Book Man" in Jamaica because he could read) was sold by his British owner to a Frenchman (his name was changed to "Boukman" in Haiti). He was a Vodou priest, a giant with imposing presence and courage to match, with undeniable authority and command over his followers, who known him as "Zamba" Boukman."

Advertisement

Tanzanians Against German Brutality 1905 to 1907

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со склад
Tatra Garden

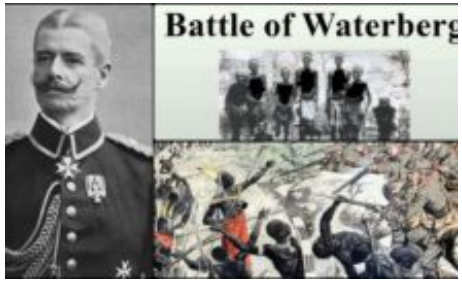
4 African Kings Who Were Exiled To Seychelles For Their Bravery In Fighting European Colonialists

Meet Black Woman Who Invented The GPS (Global Positioning System) – Dr. Gladys West

How Bridges Were Built Over Crocodile-Infested Rivers By

efco

PREVIOUS
« The African Origins Of Baphomet And How Europeans Turned It Into An “Evil” Symbol



NEXT
The Resilience Of Henrietta Henrietta Wood, Formerly Enslaved Who Sued Her Captor After 25 Years And Won »

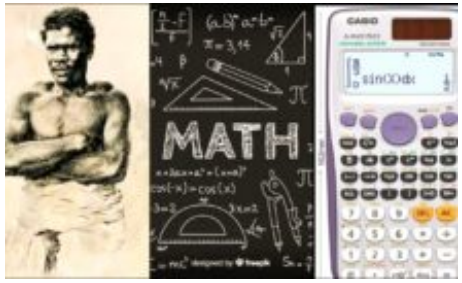
African Pygmies In Central Africa In The1930s [Video]

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

How The British Nearly Eliminated The Entire Aborigine Tasmanian Population Of Australia In The 1800s

How German Government Murdered Over 100,000 Namibian People In A Genocide In 1904-1908

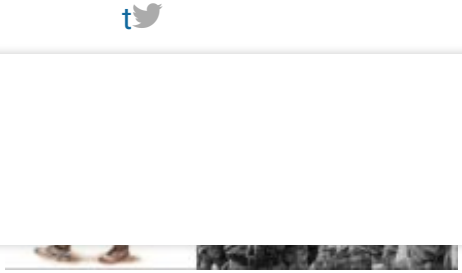
How Cecil Rhodes Killed Millions



How Cecil Rhodes Killed Millions Of Southern Africans For Diamonds And Lands

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со склад
Tatra Garden

How King Leopold II Of Belgium Killed 10 Million Africans In The Congo – Read the Harrowing Details



An Archaeological And Scientific Account Of How Black People Produced The Caucasian Race

Meet Thomas Fuller, Enslaved

African Mathematical Genius, Who Was Known As The ‘Virginia Calculator’

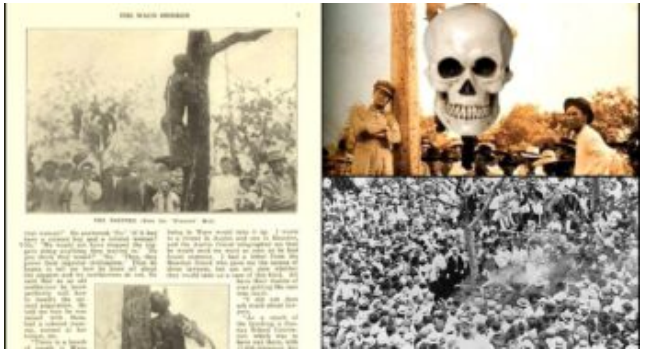
Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

For the Ìgbò, 15th January Should Not Be Armed Forces Remembrance Day

RECENT POSTS

AFRICAN HISTORY

The Story Of Eleni, Ethiopian Queen Who Became One Of The Nation’s Most Brilliant Military Leaders

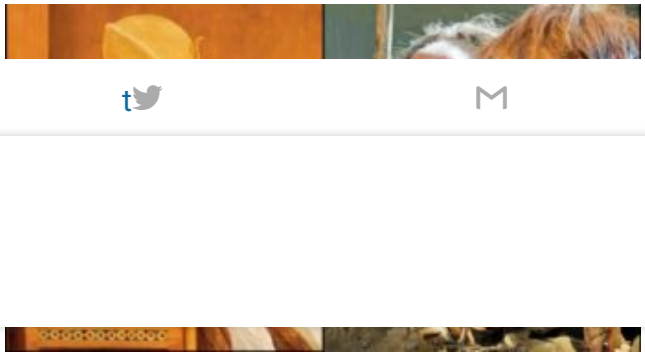


Many years ago, when most women around the world were relegated to housework, Ethiopian women…

NEWS

11-Year-Old Boy Who Launched a Golf Apparel Company to Cope with His Autism Has Been Given a Full Scholarship to Florida Memorial University

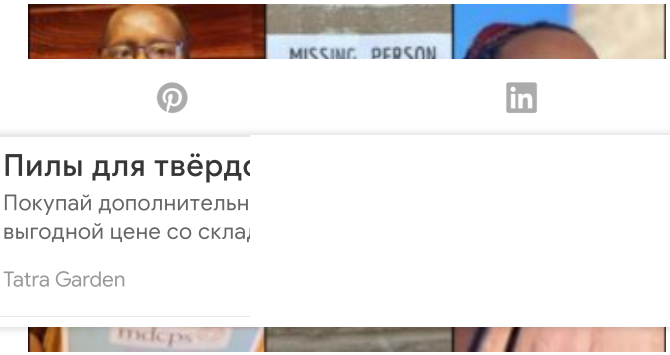
A scholarship from a historically Black college and the



AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

The Brutal Waco Lynching Of Jesse Washington

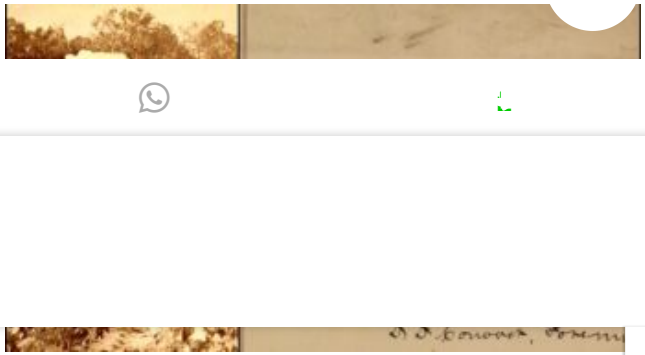
For over three centuries, violence and white supremacy have coexisted in the United States. This…



university will pay for an 11-year-old…

BLACK CONSCIOUSNESS

How Ancient Africans Helped Civilize The Cave Men



The original, the founders of civilization, the mothers and rathers of Humanity, the initial people…

NEWS

Father Makes Desperate Plea for Public's Help to Find Missing Son, FBI Joins Local Law Enforcement In Search

An entire Mississippi community is on high alert in the hope of finding a missing…

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

The Resilience Of Henrietta Henrietta Wood, Formerly Enslaved Who Sued Her Captor After 25 Years And Won

The date was April 17, 1878. A jury of 12 white men arrived in an…

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

BLACK CONSCIOUSNESS

The African Origins Of Baphomet And How Europeans Turned It Into An "Evil" Symbol

BLACK CONSCIOUSNESS

Legend Of Medusa: Story Of European Fear Of Black Women With Spiritual Power Like The Sibyls

NEWS

Brooklyn Judge Overturns Convictions of Three Men Jailed With Questionable Police Testi

An "Evil" Symbol

The popular image we now know as "Baphomet" was designed by Eliphas Levi, but did…

Spiritual Power, Like The Sibyls

The quest to properly comprehend why there has always been dislike of Africans by Europeans and…

With 'Questionable' Police Tactics And False Confessions In 1996

Three New York men who spent more than 25 year… jail for the heinous…

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

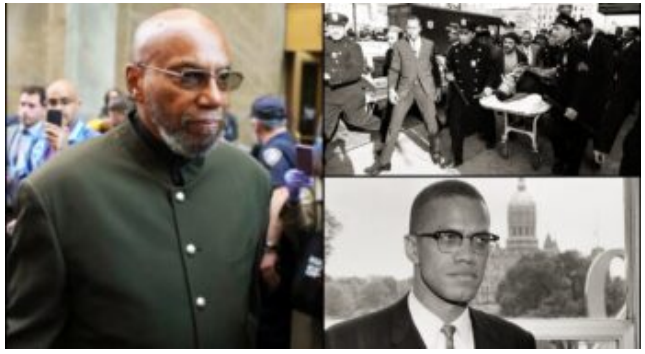
AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

Bahamians Were Among The First Settlers In Miami – Here Is Their History You May Not Know

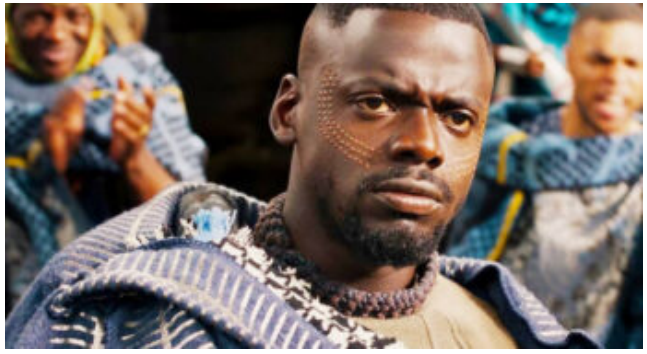
When the city of Miami was created in 1896, historians estimate that 367 individuals voted…

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

Remembering The Lynching Of Two Black Men And Their Pregnant Wives In Georgia, In 1946



This is one of the most heartbreaking and upsetting narratives of lynchings in American history…



AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

The 1992 'Watts Truce' Between Bloods And Crips, Vowing To Reduce Violence And Challenge Police Brutality, In Los Angeles, California

The Watts Truce was a peace deal reached between the Blood and Crips street gangs…

NEWS

NEWS

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

Muhammad Aziz Exonerated In Malcolm X's Murder Sues New York For $40 Million In Damages

Why Daniel Kaluuya Will Not Be In 'Black Panther 2' – We Will Miss Him

According to Variety, the British-Ugandan actor Daniel

These Black Men Found Hangin From Trees Proves That Lynchin Still Exists In America

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

Black Woman Who Bankrupted The KKK For Lynching Her 19-Year-Old Son, Michael Donald In 1981

On March 21, 1981, Michael Donald, the 19-year-old son of Beulah Mae Donald, was kidnapped,...

NEWS

Emmett Till Protesters Search North Carolina Senior Home For Woman Accused In His Death After Finding Unserved Arrest Warrant

Protesters seeking justice for Emmett Till, a 14-year-old Black boy killed in Mississippi in 1955,...

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

How Police Hung And Murdered Black Athlete Ron Settles 3-Hours After They Arrested Him In 1981

For a long time, the black community has been marching, protesting, and demanding justice. For...

AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY

How Samuel T. Wilcox Acquired

NEWS

Melanin Café: The Alabama Coffee

Пилы для твёрдс
Покупай дополнительн
выгодной цене со скла
Tatra Garden

All Rights Reserved

Please register to participate in our discussions with 2 million other members - it's free and quick! Some forums can only be seen by registered members. After you create your account, you'll be able to customize options and access all our 15,000 new posts/day with fewer ads.

View detailed profile (Advanced) or search site with Google™ Custom Search
City, County or Zip Code Find

Search Forums (Advanced)
Find

06-01-2012, 01:32 PM

The Unbreakable Original Poster

219 posts, read 818,706 times
Reputation: 153

Advertisements

Applied Biosystems™
MicroSEQ™ Detection System
LEARN MORE

Quote:

> Originally Posted by hornet67
> Let's be frank; all of this " afro-centric" pseudo -history is a historically invalid , desperate attempt to attach some sort of veneer of civilization to sub-saharan Africa, vs. the actual "cradles" of civilzation in the Near East, China, etc.
> Since there are no historically significant cultures in sub-saharan Africa, like Egypt, Greece, Rome, Babylon, Assyria, etc., why, we'll just say that they depended upon influence from Africans for their historic achievements, and, of course, supressed their reliance on African "civilization" lo these many years.

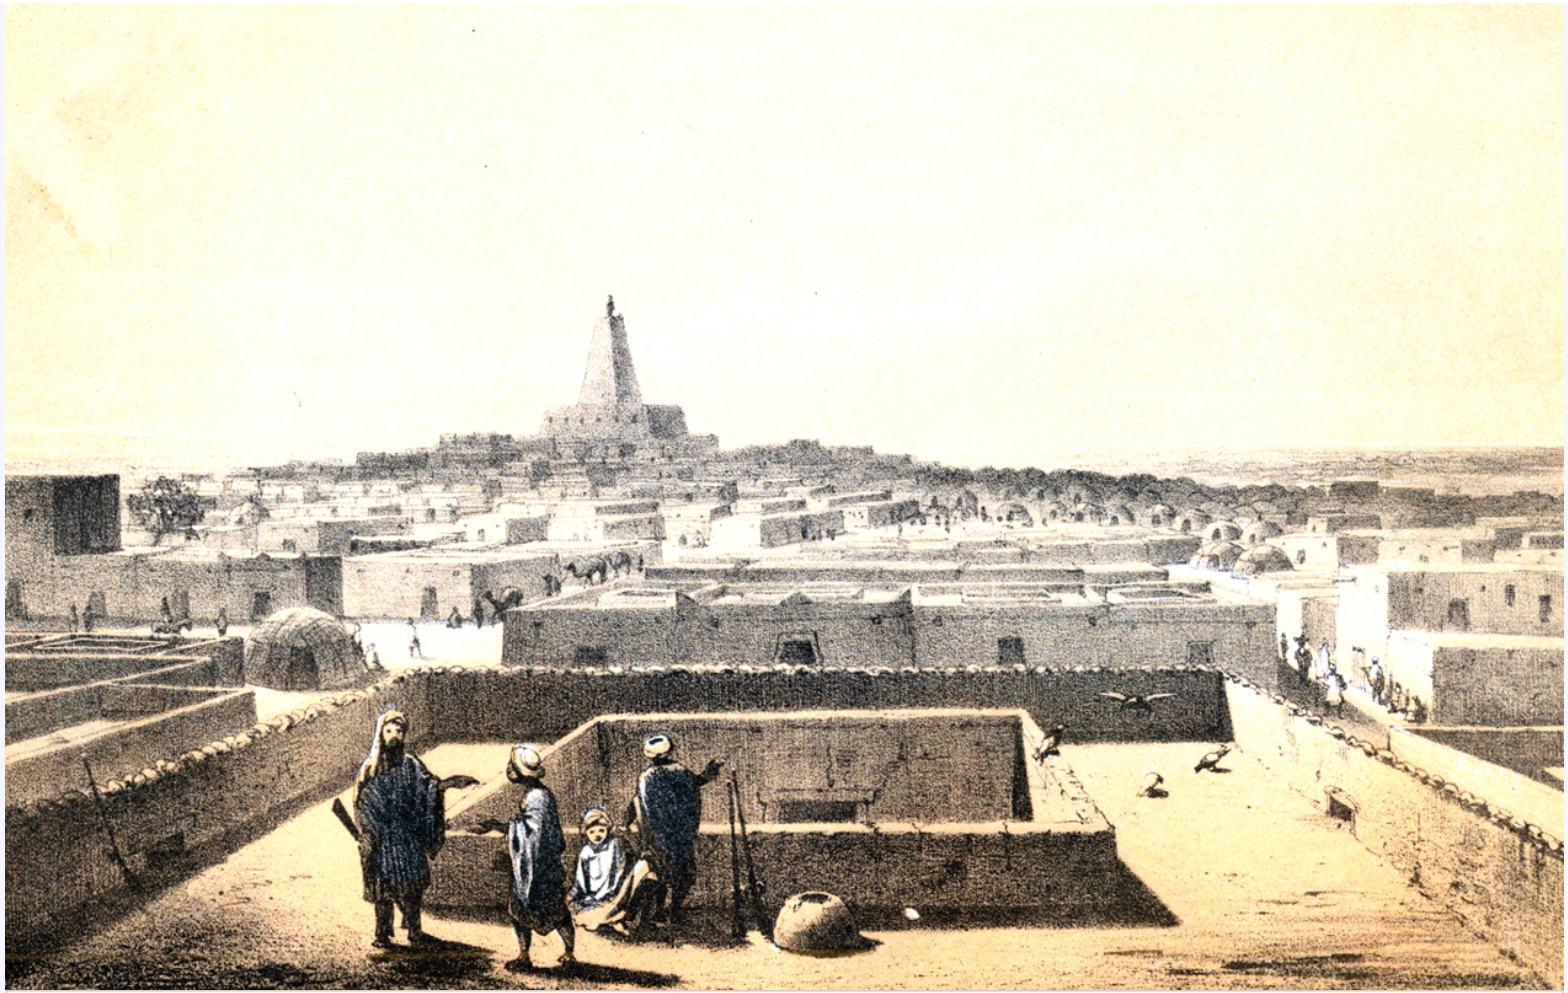
^^ Classic example of a child who got his education from the History Channel as opposed to College or even picking up a couple of peer reviewed books. Funny thing though he mentions a lack of ancient civilization in Sub Saharan Africa:

Similar Threads

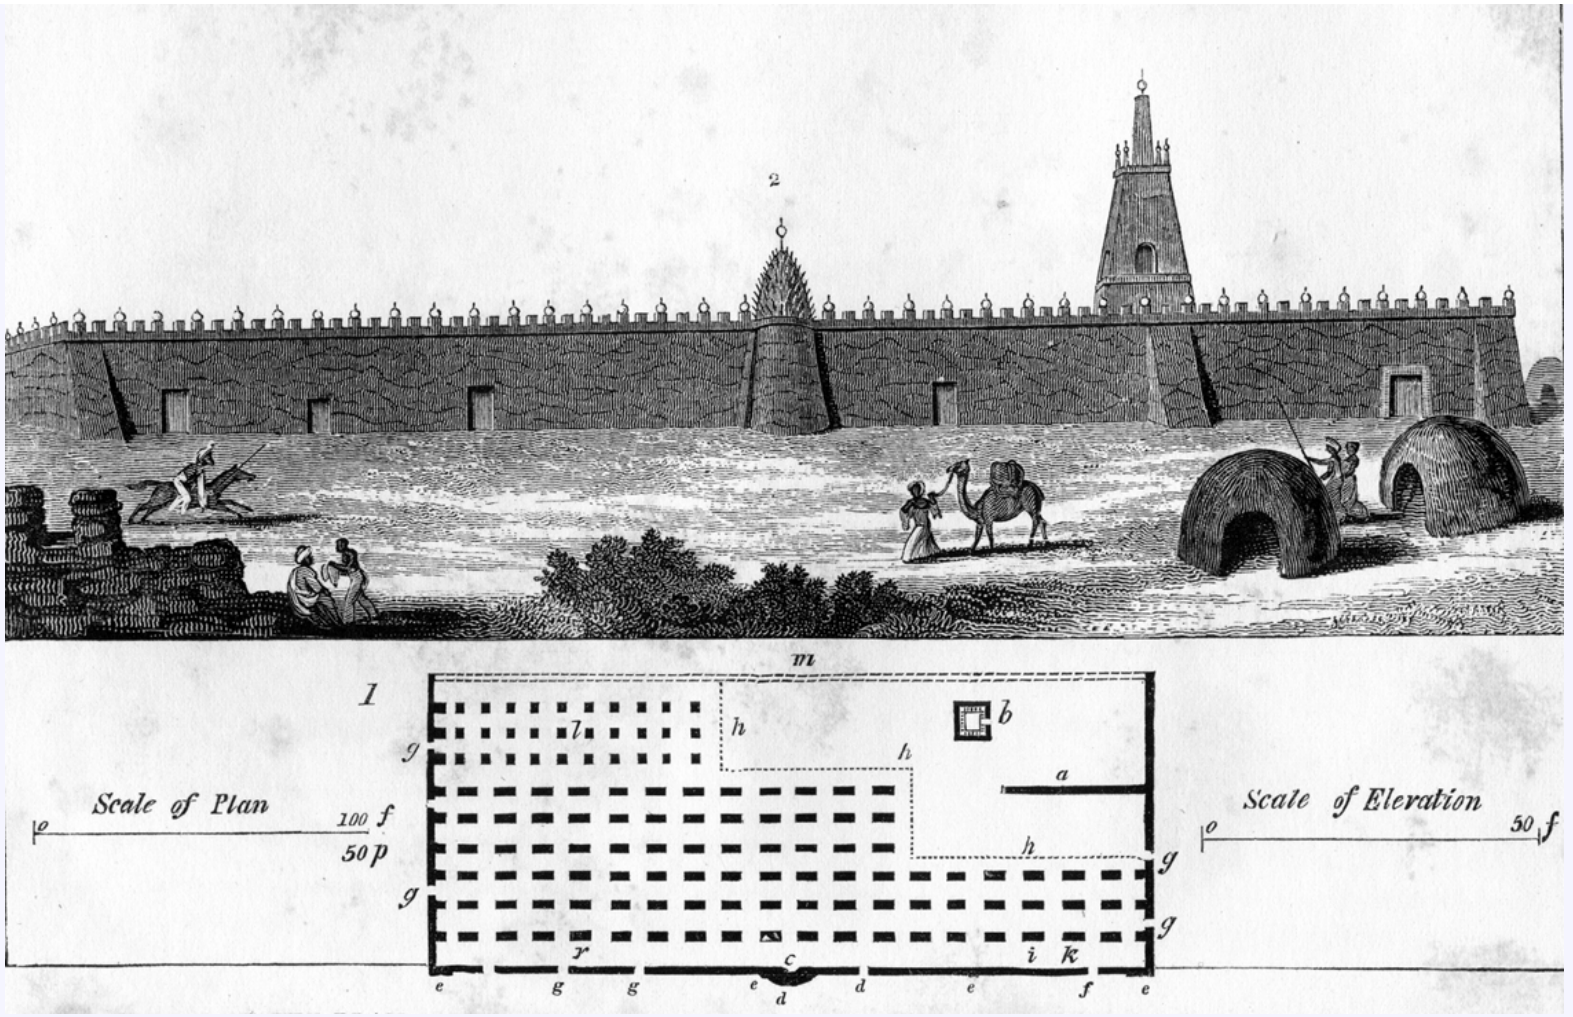
- Why do we hide African ancestry in European countries? Why do we whitewash history?, History, 50 replies
- Why Do African Americans Have European Ancestry?, History, 66 replies
- The Remarkable History of African Americans Serving in the Armed Forces., History, 8 replies
- the first Russian Tsar Ivan IV, History, 23 replies
- Anyone Else Find 20th Century History More Interesting Than Ancient/Medieval History?, History, 10 replies
- Some African History, History, 0 replies

Active threads from around the forum

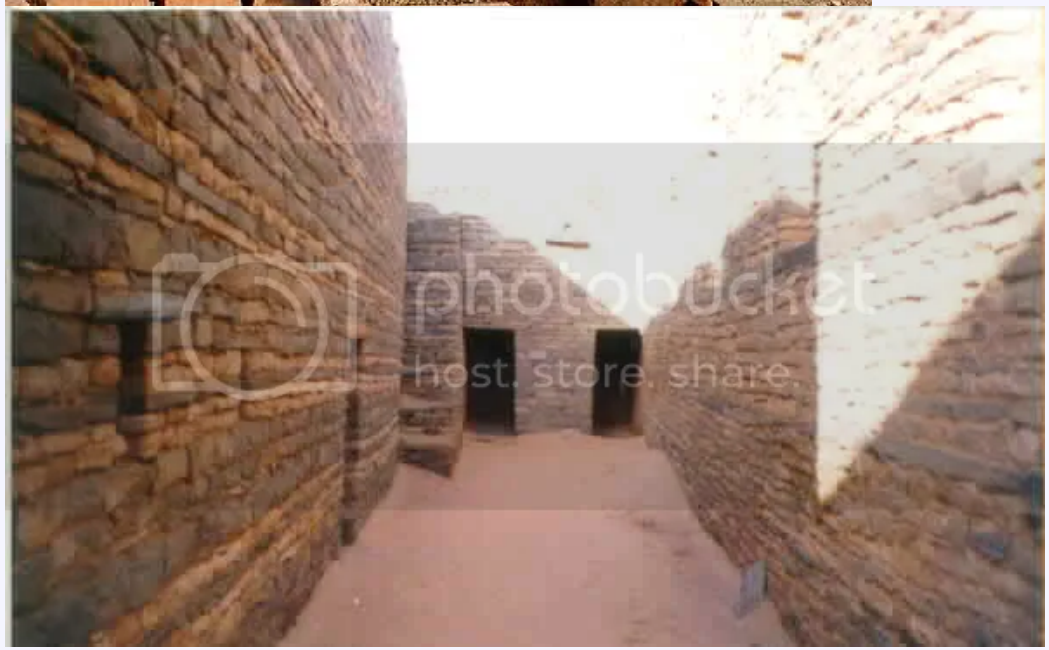


- Proof of Life App for People Living Alone?, Retirement, 61 replies
- , , replies

PDFmyURL



This image has been resized. Click this bar to view the full image. The original image is sized 1267$sx803$s.



NeatInvoices™
One simple tool for every invoice & every payment
Sign up now, it's free....really!
neat

This image has been resized. Click this bar to view the full image. The original image is sized 1133$sx734$s.

2
1 m l
h
h b a g
g
g
h
Scale of Plan
o
100 f
50 p
Scale of Elevation
o
50 f r c i k
e g
g e d
d e f
e

Yet doesn't seem to realize the utter lack of advanced ancient civilizations (BC) in Western, Central, or Northern Europe. The last group of photos above are from the BC Ghana empire in West Africa. I can picture spam many many many more ancient civilizations in "black Africa"

Rate this post positively

Today's Refinance Rate lendingtree
APR 15 Year Fixed | $400K
Terms & Conditions apply. NMLS#1136

06-01-2012, 01:42 PM

Grandstander

Location: Parts Unknown, Northern California
48,565 posts, read 21,272,750 times
Reputation: 21060

So, Unbreakable, what in your opinion were the reasons why Africa was so successful in spawning superior civilizations in ancient times, but was eventually reduced to the least successful continent it remains in modern times?

Rate this post positively

06-01-2012, 01:50 PM

hornet67

1,020 posts, read 1,583,753 times
Reputation: 754

Quote:

> Originally Posted by The Unbreakable
> ^^ Classic example of a child who got his education from the History Channel as opposed to College or even picking up a couple of peer reviewed books. Funny thing though he mentions a lack of ancient civilization in Sub Saharan Africa:
>
> Yet doesn't seem to realize the utter lack of advanced ancient civilizations (BC) in Western, Central, or Northern Europe. The last group of photos above are from the BC Ghana empire in West Africa. I can picture spam many many many more ancient civilizations in "black Africa"

I have a B.A. in History, completed long before the "History Channel" existed.
Yeah, all of these African "civilizations" were so advanced, while the white man lived in a cave. That's why Africa is so advanced today, and the rest of the world toils in darkness & misery.
You must have done well in 'Black Studies", at least.

Rate this post positively

06-01-2012, 04:41 PM

Location: Los Awesome, CA

SHABAZZ310

8,654 posts, read 5,619,331 times
Reputation: 3363

Quote:

> Originally Posted by Grandstander
> So, Unbreakable, what in your opinion were the reasons why Africa was so successful in spawning superior civilizations in ancient times, but was eventually reduced to the least successful continent it remains in modern times?

Did you sleep through world history Grandstander? Have you forgotten about colonialism? Do you not recall the middle passage? What do you think the side effects would be from the greatest genocide in the history of mankind? How do you think an area would develop when a large portion of their population was removed in a short period of time? Do you not know about the tribal boundaries that were replaced by borders based on European interest?

Africa lost badly to an aggressive force that saw our people as subhuman. A lot of the descendants of these European aggressors to this day still see Africans as such. You can log into the political forum and do a case study to see what's in their minds. There is ample evidence!

Rate this post positively

06-01-2012, 05:01 PM

SHABAZZ310

Location: Los Awesome, CA
8,654 posts, read 5,619,331 times
Reputation: 3363

Quote:

> Originally Posted by Grandstander
> So, Unbreakable, what in your opinion were the reasons why Africa was so successful in spawning superior civilizations in ancient times, but was eventually reduced to the least successful continent it remains in modern times?

Lets not forget about this as well.

A Chronological List of Independence Dates for Africa.

Country Independence Date Prior ruling country
Liberia, Republic of 26 July 1847 -
South Africa, Republic of 31 May 1910 Britain
Egypt, Arab Republic of 28 February 1922 Britain
Ethiopia 1, People's Democratic Republic of 5 May 1941 Italy
Libya (Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya) 24 December 1951 Britain
Sudan, Democratic Republic of 1 January 1956 Britain/Egypt
Morocco 2, Kingdom of 2 March 1956 France 2
Tunisia, Republic of 20 March 1956 France
Ghana, Republic of 6 March 1957 Britain
Guinea, Republic of 2 October 1958 France
Cameroon 3, Republic of 1 January 1960 France
Senegal, Republic of 4 April 1960 France
Togo, Republic of 27 April 1960 France
Mali, Republic of 22 September 1960 France
Madagascar, Democratic Republic of 26 June 1960 France
Congo (Kinshasa), Democratic Republic of the 30 June 1960 Belgium

Somalia, Democratic Republic of 1 July 1960 Britain
Benin, Republic of 1 August 1960 France
Niger, Republic of 3 August 1960 France
Burkina Faso, Popular Democratic Republic of 5 August 1960 France
Côte d'Ivoire, Republic of (Ivory Coast) 7 August 1960 France
Chad, Republic of 11 August 1960 France
Central African Republic 13 August 1960 France
Congo (Brazzaville), Republic of the 15 August 1960 France
Gabon, Republic of 17 August 1960 France
Nigeria 4, Federal Republic of 1 October 1960 Britain
Mauritania, Islamic Republic of 28 November 1960 France
Sierra Leone, Republic of 27 April 1961 Britain
Tanzania, United Republic of 9 December 1961 Britain
Burundi, Republic of 1 July 1962 Belgium
Rwanda, Republic of 1 July 1962 Belgium
Algeria, Democratic and Popular Republic of 3 July 1962 France
Uganda, Republic of 9 October 1962 Britain
Kenya, Republic of 12 December 1963 Britain
Malawi, Republic of 6 July 1964 Britain
Zambia, Republic of 24 October 1964 Britain
Gambia, Republic of The 18 February 1965 Britain
Botswana, Republic of 30 September 1966 Britain
Lesotho, Kingdom of 4 October 1966 Britain
Mauritius, State of 12 March 1968 Britain
Swaziland, Kingdom of 6 September 1968 Britain
Equatorial Guinea, Republic of 12 October 1968 Spain
Guinea-Bissau, Republic of 10 September 1974 Portugal
Mozambique, Republic of 25 June 1975 Portugal
Cape Verde, Republic of 5 July 1975 Portugal
Comoros, Federal Islamic Republic of the 6 July 1975 France
São Tomé and Principe, Democratic Republic of 12 July 1975 Portugal
Angola, People's Republic of 11 November 1975 Portugal
Western Sahara 5 28 February 1976 Spain
Seychelles, Republic of 29 June 1976 Britain
Djibouti, Republic of 27 June 1977 France
Zimbabwe, Republic of 18 April 1980 Britain
Namibia, Republic of 21 March 1990 South Africa
Eritrea, State of 24 May 1993 Ethiopia

Chronological List of African Independence

Rate this post positively

06-01-2012, 05:01 PM

Grandstander

Location: Parts Unknown, Northern California
48,565 posts, read 21,272,750 times
Reputation: 21060

Quote:

> Originally Posted by SHABAZZ310
> Did you sleep through world history Grandstander? Have you forgotten about colonialism? Do you not recall the middle passage? What do you think the side effects would be from the greatest genocide in the history of mankind? How do you think an area would develop when a large portion of their population was removed in a short period of time? Do you not know about the tribal boundaries that were replaced by borders based on European interest?

Africa lost badly to an aggressive force that saw our people as subhuman. A lot of the descendants of these European aggressors to this day still see Africans as such. You can log into the political forum and do a case study to see what's in their minds. There is ample evidence!

In your rush to respond, you have failed to understand the concept under discussion. The failure of Africa to keep pace with the progress of other continents took place long before the days of the slave ships. African slavery wasn't the cause of their lack of progress, it was their lack of progress which left them vulnerable to such exploitation by outsiders. Answering my question would be more of a matter of explaining why instead of European ships arriving to colonize and enslave portions of Africa, African ships weren't arriving in Europe to colonize and enslave them. Why did other places evolve sophisticated polical institutions and organizations as well as advanced technology, while Africa did not?

If Unbreakable is correct in what is being presented here, then that suggests that Africa had a tremendous head start in terms of organizing civilizations. So, it seems logical to ask what went wrong, how was that advantage squandered?

And I await Unbreakable's response.

Rate this post positively

06-03-2012, 01:50 AM

The Unbreakable

Original Poster

219 posts, read 818,706 times
Reputation: 153

Quote:

Originally Posted by Grandstander
So, Unbreakable, what in your opinion were the reasons why Africa was so successful in spawning superior civilizations in ancient times, but was eventually reduced to the least successful continent it remains in modern times?

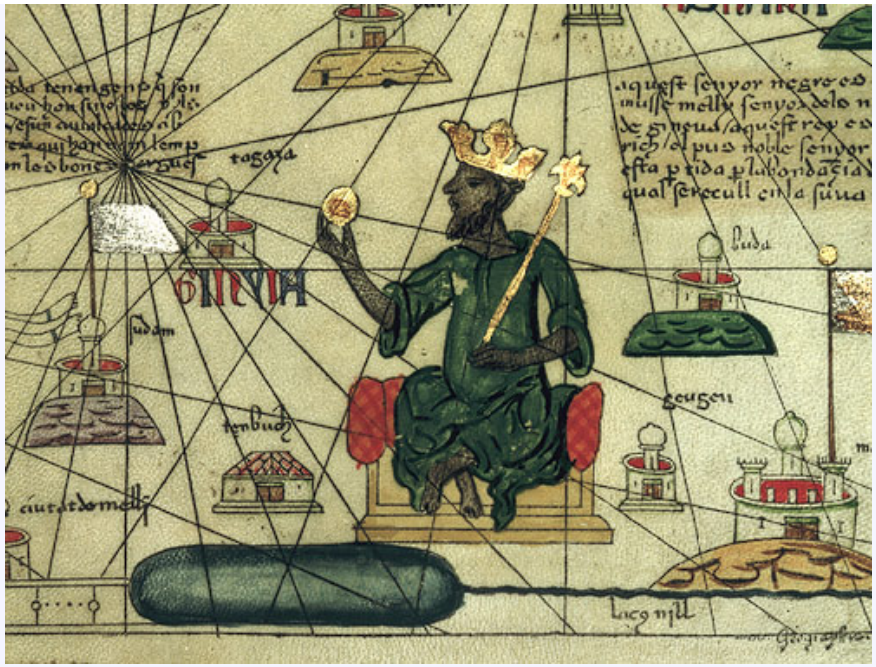
Well Grandwizard for one if you'd watched the lecture that this thread was based on then you would have heard Sertima's response to such a dumbass question. Secondly I've never stated that Africans or African civilizations were "superior" to others. I simply pointed out to the * Hornet in his blatantly racist and sickeningly ignorant analysis of African history, that the history of most of Europe (outside of Greece and Rome) wasn't exactly the nucleus of developed world culture in ancient times that it is today.

Interestingly you point to the current conditions of most African states today and baselessly infer that the continent (particularly the tropical regions) has always been the basket case that it is today, but you don't point out that the modern European nations that many claim serve as the basis for Western (European) civilizations (Greece and Rome) are now a peg above "third world" status. Is there an explanation for their sharp decline, and if so what happened? Like wise did ancient and medieval Africa (outside of Egypt and Nubia) have world renown civilizations:

[SIZE=2]Dahomey[/SIZE]

Rate this post positively

06-03-2012, 02:45 AM



The Unbreakable Original Poster

219 posts, read 818,706 times
Reputation: 153

Quote:

> Originally Posted by Grandstander
> The failure of Africa to keep pace with the progress of other continents took place long before the days of the slave ships.

Really? Tell me, do you know who this is:

Probably not so I'll tell you, It's Mansa Musa. This man ruled the West African Mali empire two centuries before the first slaves and was reported to be the wealthiest man on the face of the Earth:

Learn

Now tell me what events propelled Western Europeans to the top of charts 5 centuries ago from virtually nothing of importance? Could it have been the technologies and exchange of ideas that resulted from the Silk Road stretching from Europe to China?

Yes,Silk, Ivory, Jade, Glass, Spices (Black Pepper, Curry, Cloves), cloths, oils, Gold, and oh WEAPONS (i.e gun powder). What would Europe have been if not for exchange with other world culture?

Even with most of Africa excluded from this trading network with the res of the world, local technological ingenuity (some which had not been replicated until modern times) was still there (as explained by Sertima in his lecture).

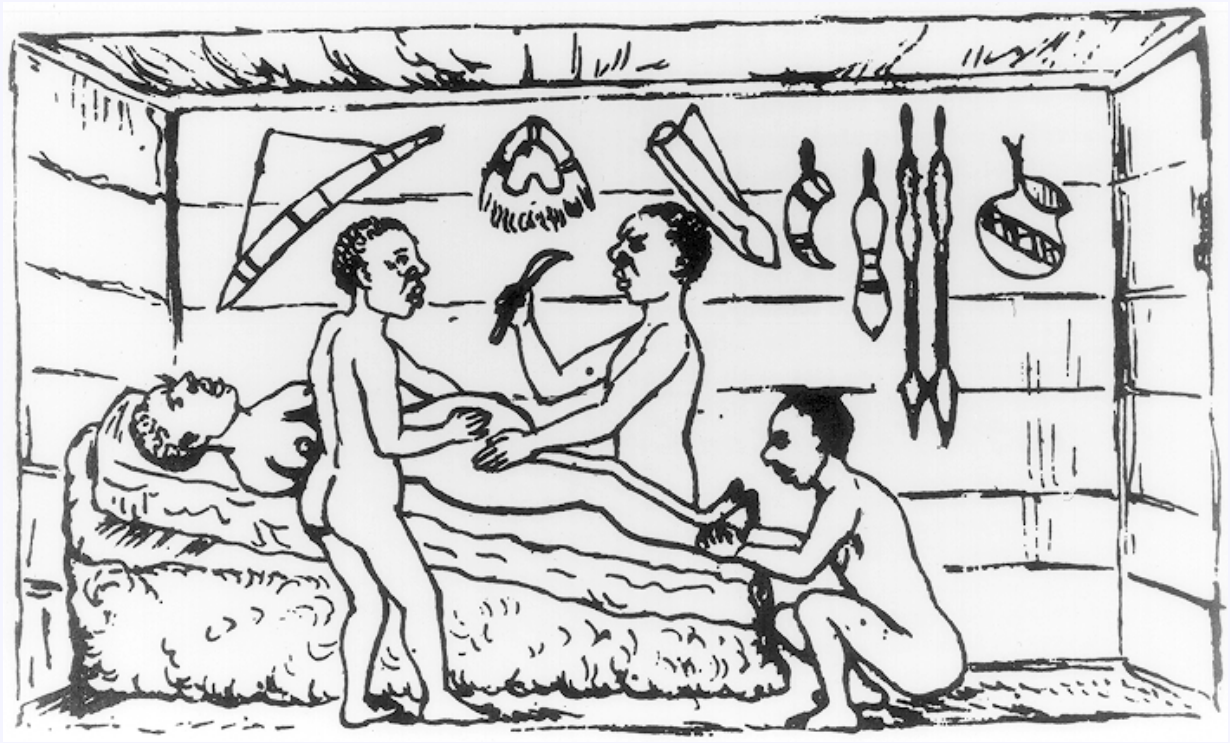
> Quote:
>
> African slavery wasn't the cause of their lack of progress, it was their lack of progress which left them vulnerable to such exploitation by outsiders.

Why did Europe go into an intellectual drought for almost 1,000 years after the fall of the Roman empire? Who were those people who conquered (yes conquered) a large chunk of Europe during that period? I believe that they were a north African group of people called the Moors comprised of a mixture of black Africans and Arab Muslims. Back in that time period could it have been said by those people who conquered Europe for almost half a millennium, that Europeans were "backwards" or "incapable" of this or that, in the same manner that some Europeans now view Africans?

> Quote:
>
> Why did other places evolve sophisticated polical institutions and organizations as well as advanced technology, while Africa did not?

Pick up a *ing book rather than salivating over your own baseless assumptions. But just to have fun with you, which continent was the last to practice agriculture....Europe. Who taught the "superior" Europeans how to cultivate their food via demic diffusion....the Natufians from the Levant. Who were the Natufanians....recent black African migrants into the Levant.

Who were the first astronomers on Earth:



(Napta Playa) Sudanese Africans

Where was the oldest mathematic tool on Earth found....Central Africa.

How early were West Africans smelting iron....12,000 BCE. Hell the ancient African way of iron extracting iron was used in Brazil until 19th century, when Europeans finally found a better way.

How long were Europeans performing Cesarian sections?

These are just random facts that I'm sure you weren't aware of, and I will gladly post more.

> Quote:
>
> If Unbreakable is correct in what is being presented here, then that suggests that Africa had a tremendous head start in terms of organizing civilizations.

You are suggesting that civilizations do not fall. You are suggesting that because a peoples are powerful now, that they will be powerful in 200 years or have always been powerful. You are suggesting that people who might be down trotten at the moment have always been down trotten. Look at Mongolia during Khan's era and look at it today Can those * poor people today be the descendants of such an ancient and mighty kingdom? According to your logic they cannot. Your logic appears to be that which supports the juvenile notion of inherent supremacy of a group of people to always succeed above others. As history clearly shows it does not work that way.

Rate this post positively

06-03-2012, 07:15 AM

Grandstander

Location: Parts Unknown, Northern California
48,565 posts, read 21,272,750 times
Reputation: 21060

Unbreakable...

Wow, you are all over the place with the above, yet you still managed to avoid the central question. plus you seem to be having emotional control issues in responding.

Your above repsonse is another presentation of how Africa once enjoyed a position of advantage in terms of having organized civilizations. Obviously, well apparently not to you, the answer to the question "What happened to that advantage?" is not going to be another review of those advantages, that is just repeating the premise which inspired my question.

Now, before you respond, take some time to think and avoid the silly stuff which you have above, like "You are suggesting that civilizations do not fall" which since I suggested nothing of the kind, is an idea taking place only in your head. Respond to what I write, not what you imagine your dumbest opponent would be writing, okay? Otherwise there is not point in discussing anything with you.

Back to the question at hand.....if Africa had such a head start, why was it European ships arriving to exploit Africans rather than African ships arriving to exploit Europeans? Why did African societies fail to develop sufficient political unity and technology so that they could have kept pace or passed those civilizations which wound up expoiting them?

I'm looking for a clinical, thoughtful answer, not another emotional knee jerk response such as you provide above.

Rate this post positively

06-03-2012, 09:03 AM

The Unbreakable

Original Poster

219 posts, read 818,706 times
Reputation: 153

Quote:

> Originally Posted by Grandstander
> Your above repsonse is another presentation of how Africa once enjoyed a position of advantage in terms of having organized civilizations. Obviously, well apparently not to you, the answer to the question "What happened to that advantage?"

You are avoiding applying your racist logic to any of the other situations that I've presented. What happened to Greece and Rome? Why have they went from being the beacon of what we now call Europe both economically and culturally to now being a peg above third world status and experiencing violent uprising? Why is the nation most often credited with creating Western civilization, now the one which could be the reason why the combined ecomony of the Westernized world will collapse? What happened to their advantages? You're not going to answer this question, because it would force you to reassess your racist views on Africa's crucial role in world and subsequently European history.

Here is a good website explaining why civilizations fall.

Quote:

> like "You are suggesting that civilizations do not fall" which since I suggested nothing of the kind, is an idea taking place only in your head.

No it's not "only in my head". You are presenting the typical racist view that some ignorant Westerners have of Africa and African history/culture and basing it entirely on the dire state of many present day African nations. You're saying that because much of Africa is poor today that it is indicative that they have always been poor, and I have proven this assertion to be incorrect. You state that because other regions of the world (particularly western Europe and east Asia) have passed Africa up technologically that Africa and Africans could have never lead the world in this sector, and this was obviously not the case:

What were Europeans (especially western, northern and central ones) doing during this time in history? During antiquity when black Africans of the Nile (Egypt and Nubia) dominated the world for thousands of years, could the reversed racist arguments have been made against Europeans who had been in place for almost 30ky's yet "accomplished" little to nothing at that period of time? Also make no mistake that it isn't a question this these are the facts of the matter, and it's not a question of "if I'm telling the truth". Obviously I have contemporary scholarship to validate everything that I'm asserting.

> Quote:
>
> Why did African societies fail to develop sufficient political unity and technology so that they could have kept pace or passed those civilizations which wound up expoiting them?

Again in your quest to label black people as inferior you are running from the examples that I have given throughout most of world history in which Europe (the vast majority of it) wasn't *. Why not acknowledge the fact that black Africans and Arab muslims ruled Europe for close to 1,000 years. Better yet in your notions of inherent superiority/inferiority how on Earth can you even explain how Europe fell into an intellectual drought (the DARK AGES) for close to 1,000 years? Why did it take that long for non Mediterranean Europeans to pick up where Rome and Greece left off? When you answer these questions then if your biased permits it, you would have a clue as to the purpose of this thread.

Rate this post positively

Please register to post and access all features of our very popular forum. It is free and quick. Over $68,000 in prizes has already been given out to active posters on our forum. Additional giveaways are planned.

Detailed information about all U.S. cities, counties, and zip codes on our site: City-data.com.

Closed

« Previous Thread | Next Thread »

City-Data Forum - Most Informative Forum Poster Contest
Over $104,000 in prizes was already given out to active posters on our forum and additional giveaways are planned! Register now!

City-Data Forum > General Forums > History

All times are GMT -6.

© 2005-2021, Advameg, Inc. · Please obey Forum Rules · Terms of Use and Privacy Policy · Bug Bounty

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

ТЕХНОЛОГИИ И НАУКА

Ученые создали самое большое генеалогическое древо: раскрывает происхождение человечества

04 января 2023 в 15:25 | 10329 | Поделиться

Фото: Google Maps/IFLS | 19.4N, 33.7E - место происхождения всех ныне живущих людей

Исследователи уверяют, что им удалось реконструировать геномы наших предков и создать с помощью них обширную сеть взаимоотношений на планете.

RELATED VIDEO

комы с идеей отслеживания генеалогического древа с помощью
— сегодня они активно используются для поиска родственных ытии резонансных преступление, пишет IFL Science.

В новом исследовании ученые из Института больших данных Оксфордского университета замахнулись на более глобальный и амбициозный анализ — по сути ученые работают над созданием обширного генеалогического древа всего человечества.

У Фокус. Технологии появился свой Telegram-канал. Подписывайтесь, чтобы не пропускать самые свежие и захватывающие новости из мира науки!

По словам ведущего автора исследования доктора Энтони Уайлдера, они с коллегами занимаются тем, что реконструируют геномы наших предков и используют их для создания обширной сети взаимоотношений. В ходе исследований они пришли к выводу, что участок пустыни на северо-востоке Судана, недалеко от реки Нил, может быть прародиной всех людей, живущих на планете.

Генетик-эволюционист и главный автор исследования доктор Ян Вонг отмечает, что им удалось создать самое масштабное и детальное генеалогическое древо, включающее генеалогию всего человечества. Это позволило им взглянуть, как генетическая последовательность каждого отдельного человека связана со всеми остальными по всем точкам генома.

В общей сложности исследователи использовали данные из восьми различных баз данных, содержащих геномы человека. Это позволило им создать сеть из почти 27 миллионов геномов. Отметим, что исследователи использовали образцы не только остей генетической изменчивости ученые использовали

– это позволило им "предсказать", где общие предки могли бы ическом древе. По сути ученым удалось максимально точно
, породившую все генетические вариации, присутствующие сегодня у людей.

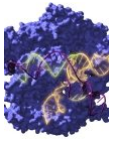
Однако это еще не конец исследования — анализ продолжается. В дальнейшем ученые намерены дополнить и улучшить имеющееся генеалогическое древо, используя миллионы дополнительных образцов геномов человека.

Исследователи полагают, что с дальнейшим развитием технологий им удастся создать максимально полную и точную карту, которая позволит объяснить происхождение абсолютно всех имеющихся вариаций генома человека.

Впрочем, даже это не станет финальной точкой исследования — авторы генеалогического древа человечества уверены, что в дальнейшем смогут применить этот анализ и для других видов — от орангутангов до бактерий. В перспективе подобная карта может дать толчок развитию медицинской генетики и позволит вылечить ряд генетических заболеваний.

Ранее Фокус писал о том, что древняя карта Земли покажет, где находился ваш дом во времена динозавров.



Читайте нас в:

Теги: #ДНК #УЧЕНЫЕ #ИССЛЕДОВАНИЕ #ГЕНОМ #ГЕНЫ #ГЕНЕАЛОГИЯ #ЛЮДИ

МАТЕРИАЛЫ ПО ТЕМЕ

Вчера 10:44

Древние зомби. Воскрешенные белки возрастом 2,6 миллиарда лет все еще могут редактировать клетки

СТАТЬЯ 30 декабря 2022 11:36

Всем бедам назло. Топ-11 важнейших научных открытий, сделанных в непростой 2022 год

23 декабря 2022 13:37

Шпилька от рака. Ученые разработали новое лекарство на основе искусственной ДНК необычной формы

Вчера 14:11

Путешествие в прошлое. Древняя карта Земли покажет, где находился ваш дом во времена динозавров

воде

23 декабря 2022 10:32

Сумеречная зона. Ученые обнаружили новые крошечные гены, появившиеся в ДНК человека

подости и долголетия. Ученые между обезвоживанием и старением

03 января 2023 в 11:22 | 104755 | Поделиться

Фото: Shutterstock | Недостаточное количество воды в день может привести к раннему старению ı человеческий организм на 65% состоит из воды — ые десятилетиями пытаются понять, как на организм влияет ыток воды, а также пытаются найти золотую середину —

, которую нам следует выпивать в сутки, пишет New Atlas.

В исследовании 2019 года ученые из Национального института здоровья (NIH) изучали влияние длительного ограничения воды на здоровье мышей. Тогда исследователи обнаружили, что хроническое лишение мышей достаточного количества жидкости приводит к сокращению продолжительности их жизни на полгода, что эквивалентно 15 годам человеческой жизни.

У Фокус. Технологии появился свой Telegram-канал. Подписывайтесь, чтобы не пропускать самые свежие и захватывающие новости из мира науки!

Ученые вдохновились исследованием коллег из NIH и решили изучить, как недостаточная

1980-х годов. В ходе исследования ученые наблюдали за более 15 ий возраст которых был более 25 лет.

ратации исследователи использовали уровни натрия в сыворотке крови. Отметим, что у здоровых людей этот фактор уже давно признан эффективным способом измерения гидратации человеческого организма. Нормальным уровнем натрия в организм человека считается — от 135 до 146 ммоль/л.

Уровни натрия измерялись в несколько периодов времени в течение 25 лет, ученые также отслеживали 15 других маркеров человеческого здоровья (давление, уровень сахара в крови и т.д.). Проанализировав результаты исследования, они пришли к выводу, что:

- уровень натрия в крови выше 142 ммоль/л связан с быстрым биологическим старением;
- уровень натрия в крови выше 142 ммоль/л на 15% повышает шансы, что биологический возраст будет больше хронологического;
- уровень натрия в крови выше 144 ммоль/л на 50% повышает шанс того, что биологический возраст будет больше хронологического.

Кроме того, ученые обнаружили взаимосвязь между недостаточной гидратацией организма и хроническими заболеваниями. Например, уровень натрия в сыворотке выше 142 ммоль/л связан с 64% увеличением риска хронических заболеваний, в том числе сердечную недостаточность, диабет и деменцию. При этом ученые обнаружили, что у реципиентов с самым высоким уровнем натрия в крови (144,5–146 ммоль/л) вероятность преждевременной смерти на 21% выше, чем у лиц с самым низким показателем натрия.

Однако ученые с осторожностью относятся к данным результатам — во-первых, корреляция не обязательно подразумевает причинно-следственную связь, во-вторых, данные результаты не могут прямо указывать на то, что хроническое снижение гидратации вызывает сокращение продолжительности жизни.

Исследователи допускаю, что низкий уровень ежедневного увлажнения фактически лишь является приличным показателем здорового образа жизни, а те кто лучше увлажняются, также больше заботятся о своем здоровье, лучше питаются и тренируются.

Впрочем, исследователи также отмечают, что существуют некоторые лабораторные данные, к5оторые свидетельствуют, что низкий уровень гидратации человека может вызвать признаки старения в клетках животных и человека. Данные результаты исследований свидетельствуют о том, что высокий уровень натрия в крови приводит к провоспалительной активности и повреждению ДНК, которые ответственны за ускорение старения. В результате ученые пришли к выводу, что результаты нового исследования выглядят весьма правдоподобно.

Ранее Фокус писал о том, что ученые назвали идеальное количество воды, необходимое человеку в день.

Читайте нас в:

Теги: #СМЕРТНОСТЬ #ЗДОРОВЬЕ #ВОДА #УЧЕНЫЕ #ИССЛЕДОВАНИЕ #ПИТЬЕВАЯ ВОДА #СТАРЕНИЕ

Поделиться:

МАТЕРИАЛЫ ПО ТЕМЕ

08 июня 2022 14:30

Голод в Сомали. ЮНИСЕФ просит перестать концентрировать внимание только на войну в Украине

18 января 2022 17:06

В Украине в прошлом году увеличилась смертность населения: данные Госстата

03 ноября 2021 16:22

"Какой будет ноябрь, не хочется думать": в Украине смертность превысила рождаемость в пять раз

03 января 13:46

Действительно ли чай помогает пищеварению: что говорят ученые

30 декабря 2022 14:11

Не будет видеться с журналистами: Песков заявил, что здоровье Путина — "вопрос госбезопасности"

Сегодня 11:05

Марсоход Curiosity нашел драгоценный камень на Марсе: из него можно добыть воду

Сегодня 12:02

Мрачное будущее. Ученые обеспокоены, что мир захватят бессмертные пожилые миллиардеры

ФОКУСУ нужна ваша поддержка!

Поддержите нас

на данном
ІА". Какое-либо
го разрешения
ООО "ФОКУС МЕДИА" — запрещено. При использовании материалов с данного ресурса гиперссылка focus.ua обязательна.

Данный ресурс — для пользователей возрастом от 18 лет и старше.

FOCUS.UA — больше чем просто новости.

Перепечатка, копирование или воспроизведение информации, содержащей ссылку на агентство ИнА "Українські Новини", в каком-либо виде строго запрещены.

Все материалы, которые размещены на этом сайте со ссылкой на агентство "Интерфакс-Украина", не подлежат дальнейшему воспроизведению и/или распространению в любой форме, кроме как с письменного разрешения агентства.

Материалы с плашками "Р", "Новости партнеров", "Новости компаний", "Новости партий", "Инновации", "Позиция", "Спецпроект при поддержке" публикуются на коммерческой основе.

© 2023 Фокус. Все права защищены.

сделано в

الكاتبة : روميساء لعياضي
#الخناقون

اغرب طقوس العالم

الأقرب للمنطق كانت الرواية «الهندوسية» التي أرجعت القتل الطقسي بالخنق إلى الآلهة الهندوسية «كالي» التي تقول الرواية الميثولوجية الهندوسية عنها إنها إلهة الموت والدمار التي تدمر الشرور – وليس كما يشاع أنها تحب الموت والدمار – والتي كانت تخوض معركة ضد العِفريت الأسطوري «راكتابيجا» الذي أعطاه الـ«براهما» – سيد الآلهة الهندوسية – قدرات خارقة بأن يولد ثانية فور موته أقوى بألف مرة، والذي لم تستطع «كالي» أن تهزمه؛ لأن كل قطرة من دمه تلمس الأرض كانت تلد «راكتابيجا» جديدًا ومستقلًا، ولكنها نظرًا لقوتها ودهائها أخذت في فرد لسانها – كما تظهر في الرسومات – لتشرب كل الدماء الساقطة من جسد «راكتابيجا»؛ كي لا يولد منها مقاتلون جدد، ومزقت من ثوبها الأصفر قطعًا من القماش – سميت القطعة «الرومال»، واستخدمه الخناقون فيما بعد في كل خنق تقريبًا، وباللون نفسه- وأمرت الآلهة الأخرى أن يساعدوها في قتل العفريت خنقًا، دون إراقة الدماء، ومن ثَم جاء الطقس الذي يدعو للقتل، ولكن دون أن يراق الدم.

بينما ذكرت الدراسة التاريخية نفسها للدكتور «ظافر قدوري»، مستعينة بمصادر قديمة، أن العرب – حتى قبل الإسلام – عادة لم يقتلوا الناس أو الخصوم غدرًا، مثلما الحال في الخنق:

لم تُشر الروايات التي بين أيدينا على الأقل إلى أن العرب عرفت عادة القتل خنقًا، وربما يكون مرد هذا الأمر هو ما جُبل عليه العرب من الفروسية التي تتمسك بالقتال وجهًا لوجه، ولا تُقر حتى ملاحقة الهارب، فقد كان من عادة فرسان العرب قبل الإسلام أنهم إذا صادفوا خصمًا لهم يخاطبونه بالقول «خذ حذرك فإني قاتلك»، وهو ما جاء موافقًا للأحاديث التي وردت عن النبي – صلى الله عليه وسلم – في عدم القتل غيلةً وغدرًا، أو القتل بالخديعة، وقرن ذلك الأمر بالإيمان في أحد أحاديثه «الإيمان قيد الفتك، لا يفتك مؤمن».

ولتأكيد نسب الرواية للهندوس مقارنة بالعرب القدامى الذين عبدوا إلهة مؤنثة أيضًا «العُزى»، ولكن الأمر اختلف في طقوس التقرّب وأصول المُعتقد، حيث كانت القرابين تُقدم إلى الآلهة العربية في شكل ذبح، بالإشارة إلى ما جاء في المصادر التاريخية الواردة في الدراسة السابق الإشارة إليها:

«يبدو ان العزى هي الإلهة التي اقترن تاريخها بالقتل عند العرب قبل الإسلام، إذ ذكرت الروايات أن المنذر بن ماء السماء كان يُعظمها، وقدّم لها أربعمائة امرأة يحدّهن ضحايا، بعد أن أسرهُنَّ في حروبه مع الغساسنة، وكانت قريش فيما بعد قد وضعت للعزى مكانًا خاصًا، ومنحرًا ينحرون فيه هداياها، يقالُ لهُ الغبغب،

وكانوا يزورونها ويتقربون إليها بالذبح».

المنصورية الخناقون

ولكن بالطبع عندما ذاع صيت تلك الفرقة، أدخلها الرواة والمؤرخون ضمن الفرق المُسلمة الذين كانوا كثرة في تلك الأزمان البعيدة، وحتى أول ظهور مُسجل تاريخيًا لبعض الخناقين بعد انتشار الإسلام لأهداف تختلف، وتحديدًا في أيام الدولة الأموية، عندما نشطت طائفة سميت «المنصورية»، أسسها أبو منصور العجلي، عُرف عنها انتهاج القتل بالخنق، كما ورد في دراسة «الخناقون جذورهم وآثارهم» للدكتور«ظافر قدوري:

وبعض الروايات تصر على أنهُ أول من استحدث ظاهرة القتل خنقًا، وأجازها في حق المخالفين، لأنهُ كان من أهل الكوفة، ومن عبد القيس، ولهُ فيها دار،» وكانت نشأته في البادية، وكان أميًا لا يقرأ، ولم يكن وجماعته ممن يعارضون حكم الدولة الأموية، الذين كانوا يستهدفون الرؤوس والقيادات البارزة، هذا الأمر لم يكن شائعًا عند الخناقين، إلا في النادر، فهم لم يظهروا كمغتالي رؤوس السلطة وزعمائها، وكلُ ما وصل إلينا يشير إلى ممارستهم الخنق وسرقة مال المخنوق، كما جاء في (تاريخ الطبري) و(المِلل والنِحل) للشهرستاني».

#روميساء_لعياضي

See translation

Mobile Uploads · Monday at 22:21 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

102

21 shares

Write a comment... Post

D Alobaidy Fatih Fatih

تاريخ ملفق وسيء 1

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

أبو جعفر الغزي

والصحيح هم فرقة تابعة للحاكم العباسي أبو جعفر المنصور وظيفتهم خنق المعترض على حكومته سرا لكي لا يتهم الحاكم بأمره ، هم فرقة إغتيالات بهذه الطريقة 8

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

View previous replies

Author

الكاتبة : روميساء لعياضي

أبو جعفر الغزي الذين تتحدث عنهم ليسوا الخناقين بل الحشاشين وهم فرقة مختلفة تمااما عن الخناقين ولا ينتمون الى اي جهة سياسية 2

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

View next replies

Write a reply... Reply

ابو سليمان عبدالله

ارجو النشر مختصر مفيد مع الشكر 3

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

Author

الكاتبة : روميساء لعياضي

ابو سليمان عبدالله هناك مقالات تستوجب التفصيل .

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

View next replies

Write a reply... Reply

Elsadig Guma

حكايات من الماضي مازال الخناقون موجودون حتي الان في المجتمعات العربية،، رؤساء وملوك وعصابات مااكثرهم اليوم، يقومون بخنق المواطن حتي الرمق الاخير ومن شهد علي خنقة اخية فر هاربا الي اروبا بحثا عن سلامة الرقبه 4

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

جلال الدين

سلمت أناملك

محتوى أكثر من رائع 1

See translation

on Mon Like Reply More

يعقوب احمد الفهداوي

معلومة اكثر من رائعة . 1

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

Ro Se

متألقة كعادتك 1

See translation

on Mon Like Reply More

Author

الكاتبة : روميساء لعياضي

Ro Se شكرا لك 1

See translation

on Tue Like Reply More

Write a reply...

Reply

عبدالله الهاشمي
محتوى جميل ورائع 1

See translation
on Tue Like Reply More

EL Assag Laarbi
حكايات جميلة
ماذا عن وأد البنات؟ 2

See translation
on Tue Like Reply More

Mohamed Belkhodja
شكرا جزيلا على الإفادة

See translation
15 hrs Like Reply More

Amin Ahmad
ومادا عن اغتيال الصحابة لبعض أعداء الرسول اللدين كانو يهجونه 5

See translation
on Tue Like Reply More

Amin Ahmad replied · 8 replies

Ben Ben Almon
كالعادة عراقي شيعي ولبناني مسيحي وبربري مغاربي 1

See translation
on Tue Like Reply More

Author
الكاتبة : روميساء لعياضي
Ben Ben Almon بربري ؟ مسيحي؟ شيعي؟!!

See translation
on Tue Like Reply More

View next replies

Write a reply...

Reply

Article Menu

Article Overview

- Abstract
- Open Access and Permissions (/openaccess)
- Share and Cite
- Article Metrics
- Order Article Reprints (/2304-6775/10/4/33/reprints)

Article Versions

Related Info Links

More by Authors Links

(https://serve.mdpi.cc

Open Access Review

What the Neuroscience and Psychology of Magic Reveal about Misinformation

by Robert G. Alexander (https://sciprofiles.com/profile/2123770) * (mailto:please_login) (https://orcid.org/0000-0002-5555-6554), Stephen L. Macknik (https://sciprofiles.com/profile/author/TmhXSkt0bzY4QytWTHI2Q0VVbys5SVJjUks1Kys3NmlWTlh4MkdoUFlvST0=) and Susana Martinez-Conde (https://sciprofiles.com/profile/author/d0thSGlCQmlFVnc2VHVVY1F1aHQ2N2c2MUZsbmwrNDlRMnNJejZTZlc3WjRDajhaTVAyRWNLdUQ2ZEJjS1dhVQ==)

Departments of Ophthalmology, Neurology, and Physiology & Pharmacology, State University of New York Downstate Health Sciences University, Brooklyn, NY 11203, USA

* Author to whom correspondence should be addressed.

(https://sciprofiles.com/discuss groups/public/10.3390/publicat

Academic Editor: R. Grant Steen

Publications 2022, 10(4), 33; https://doi.org/10.3390/publications10040033 (https://doi.org/10.3390/publications10040033)

Received: 25 May 2022 / Revised: 12 August 2022 / Accepted: 25 August 2022 / Published: 23 September 2022

(This article belongs to the Special Issue Science Information, Media Misinformation, and Public Trust (/journal/publications/special_issues/sci_misinformation))

View Full-Text (/2304-6775/10/4/33/htm) Download PDF (/2304-6775/10/4/33/pdf?version=1665746316) Browse Figures

(/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g001.png) (/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g002.png) (/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g003.png) (/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g004.png) Review Reports (/2304-6775/10/4/33/review_report)

Citation Export

Abstract

When we believe misinformation, we have succumbed to an illusion: our perception or interpretation of the world does not match reality. We often trust misinformation for reasons that are unrelated to an objective, critical interpretation of the available data: Key facts go unnoticed or unreported. Overwhelming information prevents the formulation of alternative explanations. Statements become more believable every time they are repeated. Events are reframed or given “spin” to mislead audiences. In magic shows, illusionists apply similar techniques to convince spectators that false and even seemingly impossible events have happened. Yet, many magicians are “honest liars”, asking audiences to suspend their disbelief only during the performance, for the sole purpose of entertainment. Magic misdirection has been studied in the lab for over a century. Psychological research has sought to understand magic from a scientific perspective and to apply the tools of magic to the understanding of cognitive and perceptual processes. More recently, neuroscientific investigations have also explored the relationship between magic illusions and their underlying brain mechanisms. We propose that the insights gained from such studies can be applied to understanding the prevalence and success of misinformation. Here, we review some of the common factors in how people experience magic during a performance and are subject to misinformation in their daily lives. Considering these factors will be important in reducing misinformation and encouraging critical thinking in society. View Full-Text (/2304-6775/10/4/33/htm)

Back to TopTop

Keywords: misinformation (/search?q=misinformation); magic (/search?q=magic); disinformation (/search?q=disinformation); science communication (/search?q=science%20communication); fake news (/search?q=fake%20news); science reporting (/search?q=science%20reporting); attentional misdirection (/search?q=attentional%20misdirection); deception (/search?q=deception); inattentional blindness (/search?q=inattentional%20blindness); critical thinking (/search?q=critical%20thinking)

▼ Show Figures

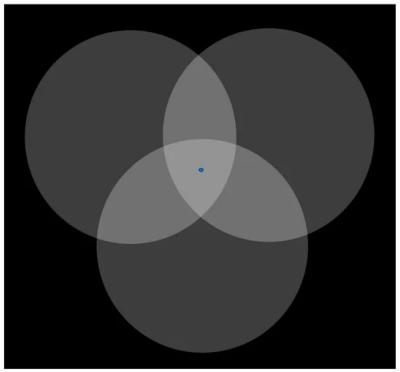

Figure 1

(/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g001.png) (/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g002.png) (/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g003.png) (/publications/publications-10-00033/article_deploy/html/images/publications-10-00033-g004.png)

© This is an open access article distributed under the Creative Commons Attribution License (https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/) which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original work is properly cited.

(/2304-6775/10/4/33/scifeed_display)

Share and Cite

(mailto:?&subject=From%20MDPI%3A%20%22What%20the%20Neuroscience%20and%20Psychology%20of%20Magic%20Reveal%20about%20Misinformation"&body=https://www.mdpi.com/1846558%3A%0A

(https://twitter.com/intent/tweet?text=What+the+Neuroscience+and+Psychology+of+Magic+Reveal+about+Misinformation&hashtags=mdpipublications&url=https%3A%2F%2Fwww.mdpi.com%2F1846558&via=Public_MDPI)

(http://www.linkedin.com/shareArticle?mini=true&url=https%3A%2F%2Fwww.mdpi.com%2F1846558&title=What%20the%20Neuroscience%20and%20Psychology%20of%20Magic%20Reveal%20about%20Misinformation%26source%3Dhttp

(https://www.facebook.com/sharer.php?u=https://www.mdpi.com/1846558) (https://www.reddit.com/submit?url=https://www.mdpi.com/1846558)

(https://www.mendeley.com/import/?url=https://www.mdpi.com/1846558)

MDPI and ACS Style

Alexander, R.G.; Macknik, S.L.; Martinez-Conde, S. What the Neuroscience and Psychology of Magic Reveal about Misinformation. Publications 2022, 10, 33. https://doi.org/10.3390/publications10040033

AMA Style

Alexander RG, Macknik SL, Martinez-Conde S. What the Neuroscience and Psychology of Magic Reveal about Misinformation. Publications. 2022; 10(4):33. https://doi.org/10.3390/publications10040033

Chicago/Turabian Style

Alexander, Robert G., Stephen L. Macknik, and Susana Martinez-Conde. 2022. "What the Neuroscience and Psychology of Magic Reveal about Misinformation" Publications 10, no. 4: 33. https://doi.org/10.3390/publications10040033

Find Other Styles

Type a publisher, journal or format name

Note that from the first issue of 2016, MDPI journals use article numbers instead of page numbers. See further details here (https://www.mdpi.com/about/announcements/784).

Article Metrics

No citations were found for this article, but you may check on Google Scholar (https://scholar.google.com/scholar_lookup?

Back to TopTop

title=What+the+Neuroscience+and+Psychology+of+Magic+Reveal+about+Misinformation&volume=10&doi=10.3390%2Fpublications10040033&journal=Publications&publ Code)

Article Access Statistics

For more information on the journal statistics, click here (/journal/publications/stats).

Multiple requests from the same IP address are counted as one view.

Publications (/journal/publications), EISSN 2304-6775, Published by MDPI

RSS (/rss/journal/publications) Content Alert (/journal/publications/toc-alert)

Further Information

Article Processing Charges (/apc)

Pay an Invoice (/about/payment)

Open Access Policy (/openaccess)

Contact MDPI (/about/contact)

Jobs at MDPI (https://careers.mdpi.com)

Guidelines

For Authors (/authors)

For Reviewers (/reviewers)

For Editors (/editors)

Back to TopTop

MDPI Initiatives

Follow MDPI

Subscribe to receive issue release notifications and newsletters from MDPI journals

Select options

Enter your email address...

Subscribe

© 1996-2022 MDPI (Basel, Switzerland) unless otherwise stated

Vinz Moon
Wednesday at 7:21 AM

THE BLACK SPERM
ft. The Mark of the Beast in the Anime "One Punch Man" this is it's definition. "Black Sperm is an odd-looking humanoid monster of diminutive stature. He has a completely black body and a pale white face with black eyes and a tail-like protrusion on the top of his head."

since then I am repeatedly teaching that these Famous Animes, Music and Hollywood Movies are always giving us all clues of some hidden reality and truth that is been taken away from us by our oppressors that led the humanity to astray resulting "Forgetfullness and Ignorance".
#SubliminalMessage #PredictiveProgramming

I always tell one of my students about my kind of theory regarding the Graphene Oxide or what we called "Black Goo" is the Sperm or Seeds of the Archons/gods and their Dark Angels. this black substance is always attracted to golds, magnets and other warm and cold matters, in the famous coming new season of the anime "One Punch Man" they will face a powerful villain called The Golden Sperm, inside of this Golden Sperm contains an enormus fusion of trillions of BLACK SPERMS. so the hidden message is those Black Sperms are living "inside a body" of a powerful villain.

Graphene Oxide is a nano particle that are being inserted in secrecy to our body via frozen foods, can goods, medicines, air and rain (via chemtrails) and specially of all the .. this is the method of the Archons in manipulating our DNA so that they can change us from a normal human being to a transhuman being because when this nano particle entered our body it can be easily manipulated and controlled through frequency and radiation from 'signal towers' specially through 5G. and this is their dark and hidden agenda to manipulate us to take away our rights as a Superior Designed Creation by the Most High. (Superior than the Archons).

specially of all what they are targeting through this Graphene Oxide is your "Pineal Gland" and that is why you always feel you're so far away and dry from the 'True Spirituality' because of this manipulation. when you will be changed soon because of this hidden agenda by our oppressors you will have a very hard time accessing the Spiritual Realm and cannot be able to Ascend in the place you should have Ascended. (if you know what I mean). and this is why there are many people like me who believed that this is possibly the Mark.

having the Mark of the Beast is not just a plain disobedience and then it will just result to a condemnation, it's not like that! it is a kind of a manipulation process to your body for your body is the "Temple of the the Most High" and bacause of that your body is so precious for it reflects the health of your Spirit, the more they or you abuse your physical body the more you are dryer in your Spiritual Life. and I know many Truthers can testify that.

what are we going to do if we already have Graphene Oxides inside our bodies? I tell you, our body is a self healing machine that can get rid of any unwanted cells and bacterias if we are just doing the right and healthy lifestyle. so am I saying that the Mark of the Beast can be remove or dismounted? just like I said it is not just a simple Disobedience it is a Process! and that is not a simple thing to do for our lifestyle in this generation is already so toxic! the only clear message for me through the Scriptures is to live in a very healthy lifestyle with the Nature. detoxify yourselves..

there is always a way but that way is so very narrow that the majority cannot avail to do it. because they believed they are okay in their comfort zones. but the truth is they are not. please always be safe everyone and may the Prime Creator bless you all!

if you wanted to learn more about the nature of "Graphene Oxide" watch this video. (click) https://web.facebook.com/vinsmoke7777777/videos/642526176754254

Thank you for reading.
Glory and honor belongs to JESUS CHRIST!

#BlackSperm
#ShareTheNews
#TakeCareOfYourBody
#TheGospelOfTheKingdom

You and 63 others 14 comments 58 shares

Like Share

58 shares

View previous comments…

Dan Leppek
Thanks for Sharing, will do the same across other platforms! 1

on Wed Like More

Author

Vinz Moon
Dan Leppek you are welcome brother. keep up the good work. 1

on Wed Like More

3

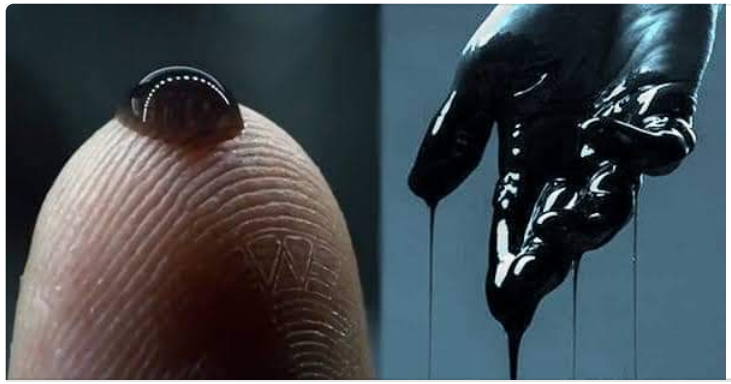
Like

2

Like

3

Like



2

Like

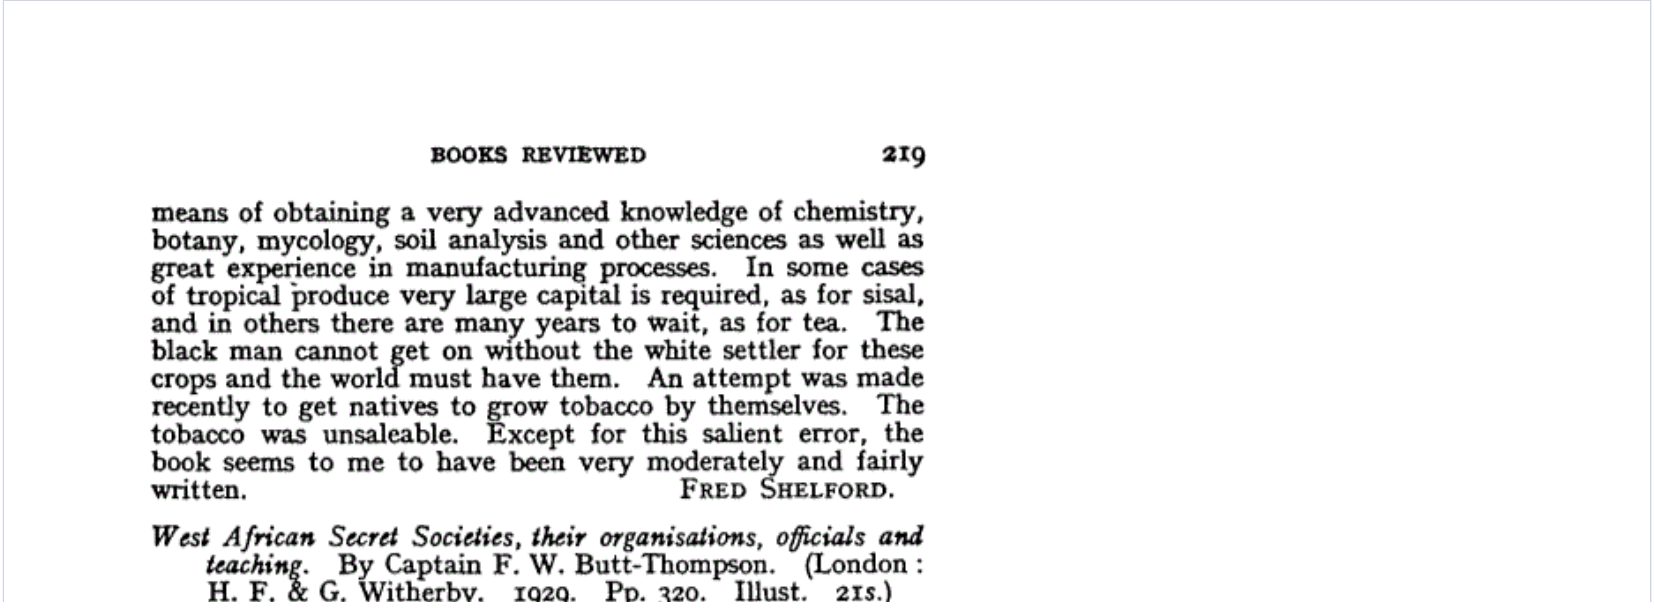
2

Like

2

Like

West African Secret Societies, their organisations, officials and teaching



West African Secret Societies, their organisations, officials and teaching. By F. W. Butt-Thompson. (London: H. F. & G. Witherby. 1929. Pp. 320. Illust. 21*s*.)

A. E. R.

African Affairs, Volume XXIX, Issue CXIV, January 1930, Page 219, https://doi.org/10.1093/oxfordjournals.afraf.a100214
Published: 01 January 1930

Issue Section: Books Reviewed

Article PDF first page preview means of obtaining a very advanced knowledge of chemistry, botany, mycology, soil analysis and other sciences as well as great experience in manufacturing processes. In some cases of tropical produce very large capital is required, as for sisal, and in others there are many years to wait, as for tea. The black man cannot get on without the white settler for these crops and the world must have them. An attempt was made recently to get natives to grow tobacco by themselves. The tobacco was unsaleable. Except for this salient error, the book seems to me to have been very moderately and fairly written. FRED SHELFORD.

West African Secret Societies, their organisations, officials and teaching. By Captain F. W. Butt-Thompson. (London: H. F. & G. Witherby. 1929. Pp. 320. Illust. 21s.)

THIS is a text-book of the numerous secret societies in the West Coast of Africa and includes many known as Ju-Ju, Mumbo Jumbo, etc. to early writers. The work is intended for use by District Commissioners on the West Coast, etc., as it is dedicated to them, and is written on the assumption that most of the details of the various practices are known to the reader. There are numerous resemblances to the Bantu practices described by Mr. Hobley, and it is interesting to note that Islam has not suppressed many of these ancient customs. In the Eastern Sudan, Islam has refused to assimilate or tolerate any secret societies, and even the "tariqas" are regarded by many of the orthodox Moslems as heretical. Traces of these West African customs are found in Sennar, Kordofan, Dar Fur and Kassala, where they seem to have been introduced by pilgrims from Nigeria, who have settled there. It is extremely difficult to understand how these secret societies, to which presumably Europeans are not admitted, can be developed under the guidance of the government to produce beneficial results, but such would appear to be the case in Nigeria. A. E. R.

Nuer-English Dictionary. By Ray Huffman. (Berlin: D. Reimer [Ernst Vohsen]. 1929. Pp. 63.)

NUER is a language belonging to the Sudanic family, spoken by over 400,000 people in the southern parts of the Egyptian Sudan, between the Sobat and the Nile. It appears to be more or less cognate with Dinka. Miss Huffman, who has worked for four and a half years with the American Mission among these people, at Nasser on the Sobat, has prepared this Dictionary with the skilled assistance of Professor Westermann. As Nuer is one of the more important languages suggested as "group

This content is only available as a PDF.

You do not currently have access to this article.

Comments

0 Comments

Sign in

Don't already have an Oxford Academic account? Register

Oxford Academic account

Email address / Username

Password

Forgot password?

Don't have an account?

Royal African Society to African Affairs members

ROYAL AFRICAN SOCIETY
120 YEARS OF CHANGE

Sign in via society site

African Studies Association of the UK members

Sign in via society site

Sign in via your Institution

Sign in

Purchase

Subscription prices and ordering for this journal

Short-term Access

To purchase short term access, please sign in to your Oxford Academic account above.

Don't already have an Oxford Academic account? Register

West African Secret Societies, their organisations, officials and teaching - 24 Hours access

EUR €37.00 GBP £29.00 USD $47.00

Rental

This article is also available for rental through DeepDyve.

LISAPO YA KAMA

AFRICAN HISTORY HISTOIRE AFRICAINE

"Le Noir ignore que ses ancêtres, qui se sont adaptés aux conditions matérielles de la vallée du Nil, sont les plus anciens guides de l'humanité dans la voie de la civilisation" Cheikh Anta Diop

Obtenez votre propre compte Les sites de African History - Histoire Africaine en quelques secondes

IDENTIFIANT :

lisapoyakamaorg

(Doit contenir au moins 4 caractères, uniquement des lettres ou des chiffres.)

ADRESSE E-MAIL :

Nous enverrons votre confirmation d'inscription à cette adresse. Vérifiez donc bien qu'elle est correcte avant de continuer.

- DONNEZ-MOI UN SITE !
- UNIQUEMENT L'IDENTIFIANT, S'IL VOUS PLAÎT.

SUIVANT

Le site que vous cherchez https://lisapoyakamaorg.www.lisapoyakama.org/ n'existe pas, mais vous pouvez le créer dès à présent !

Bush, l'11 settembre, la CIA e le società segrete

Scritto da Redazione

Ecco il tre grandi chiavi di Nesara / o Archimedi per costruire the Nuova pilling truce che visualizza molte volte che possono essere ripetuti per proteggere i nostri amici e famiglia. E, come al solito, la verità è la nostra migliore difesa.

Allora chi sono i veri pericoli per costruire e difendere la nazione?

Ignora che attraversano molte altre chiavi!

Continuiamo a far crescere il cylinder cause!

Bush, l'11 settembre, la CIA, le società segrete

Collegamento a Infowars

Origine: (superficialmente) infowarsh.com/p/Truth-are-the-enemy-movieinside-a-911-conspiracy.html

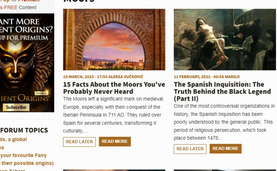
Origine: (Archive.is) https://archive.is/wip/vwaHa#selection-1F-1F

— HTTPS://GUARDIANLIBERTY.ORG/BLOG/

Ecco che cosa sta succedendo! Abbiamo bisogno della tv' ensemble. Facendo ciascun gioco che, fa' ensemble' e' stato un lavoro davvero, ma questo guarda i media mainstream sono un disastro totale e completo.

Immagine di non equivalente.

E questo tutto e' il MSM volevano dirlo Gli stai ascoltare Bill.



Ci sono 3 cose sopra cui vorrei parlare e vorrei condividere con il Gruppo oggi. Ho da tempo voluto condividere questo video di Bush che parla di 9/11 e come anche lui sembra convinto che ci sia in un modo o in un altro. Ho sentito molte persone dire che Bush non è abbastanza intelligente per pianificare qualcosa del genere, ma penso che sia un errore colpevole.

Qualcuno può davvero non apprezzare veramente del numero per cui i nostri fratelli e sorelle sono stati uccisi in quel giorno? Ho perso un buon amico di famiglia che lavorava nelle torri e non ho mai smesso di pensare a lui e a tutti i suoi colleghi che sono morti quel giorno.

Bush ha in parte di una storia ingiusta e fatti storici di mentenere sulle vendite e ha fatto un lavoro molto buono nel farlo. Ma ci sono alcune cose che non sono vere e alcune cose che sono vere e alcune cose che sono vere e alcune cose che

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

ACTIVE FORUM TOPICS

- Pyramids, a global phenomena
- What's your favourite Fairy Tales (and their possible origins)
- The Green Sahara
- Is -A Black Sea/Egypt Link?
- Please introduce yourself
- World's Oldest Writing

More

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

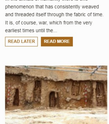
NORSE MYTHOLOGY

ANCIENT EGYPT

SUGGESTED BOOKS

PARTNERS

Moors

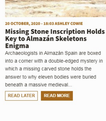


15 MARCH, 2023 - 17:59 ALESSIA TUCKOVIC

15 Facts About the Moors You've Probably Never Heard

The Moors left a significant mark on medieval Europe, especially with their conquest of the Iberian Peninsula in 711 AD. They ruled over Spain for several centuries, transforming it culturally...

READ LATER | READ MORE



11 FEBRUARY, 2023 - 08:58 MARIUS

The Spanish Inquisition: The Truth Behind the Black Legend (Part II)

One of the most controversial organizations in history, the Spanish Inquisition has been poorly understood by the general public. This period of religious persecution, which took place between 1478...

READ LATER | READ MORE

18 APRIL, 2022 - 12:41 JAKE LEIGH-WORSHIP

Aeons of Battle: The 5 Longest Wars in History

In the annals of humanity there is one phenomenon that has consistently weaved and threaded itself through the fabric of time. It is, of course, war, which from the very earliest times until the...

READ LATER | READ MORE

23 MARCH, 2021 - 21:52 ZHIVITY

El Cid: Christian Champion or Mercenary for the Moors?

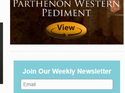
Rodrigo Diaz de Vivar, more commonly known as El Cid, was an 11 th century Spanish knight, military leader and mercenary. This larger-than-life figure is celebrated as a champion of Christianity...

READ LATER | READ MORE

20 OCTOBER, 2020 - 18:03 ASHLEY COWIE

Missing Stone Inscription Holds Key to Almazán Skeletons Enigma

Archaeologists in Almazán Spain are bowled into a corner with a double-edged mystery in which a missing carved stone holds the answer to why eleven bodies were buried beneath a massive medieval...



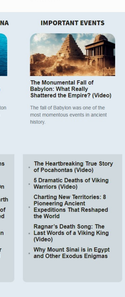
READ LATER | READ MORE

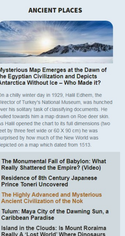
11 NOVEMBER, 2019 - 03:03 SUDIPA SARTHI

Forgotten Moorish Sites in Murcia Hold Treasures Yet to Be Discovered

The city and Taifa (emirate or petty kingdom) of Murcia were founded during the period of Moorish occupation in Spain. When the Moors occupied the Iberian Peninsula in 711 AD they were able to hold...

READ LATER | READ MORE





Join Our Weekly Newsletter
Email
Name
I approve receiving emails
Please verify your request
I'm not a robot
reCAPTCHA
Privacy - Terms
Sign Up Now

MOST READ TODAY

- Mysterious Map Emerges at the Dawn of the Egyptian Civilization and Depicts Antarctica Without Ice – Who Made It?
- From Babylon to Christianity: Feeding into the Eucharist
- Island Near Spain Reveals Evidence of Hallucinogenic Use in 1,000 BC
- An Elaborate Affair: Getting Dressed as an 18th Century Gentleman (Video)
- The Riches in Your Cup: Why These 4 Beverages Cost a Fortune (Video)
- Medieval Warfare Unleashed: Discovering the Arsenal of a Knight (Video)

Sign Up for Premium
Ads-FREE Content

VIRAL ARTICLES

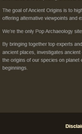
Legends | Technology | Ancient Places

The Ancient Pagan Origins of Easter
Easter is a festival and holiday celebrated by millions of people around the world who honor the resurrection of Jesus from the dead, described in the New Testament as having occurred three days...

The Stolen Treasure of Montezuma

Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site

Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom

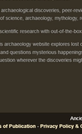


What is Shambhala? Understanding the Mysterious Kingdom of Shambhala

The sacred symbol of the Djed pillar

Ancient Origins has been quoted by:

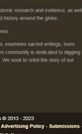
NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC · Smithsonian · HISTORY · theguardian · CNN · FOX NEWS · THE SUNDAY TIMES · The New York Times · The Washington Post · Daily Mail · DER SPIEGEL



GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Greek Mythology

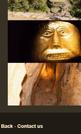
As Greek mythology goes, the universe was once a big soup of nothingness. Then, two things happened: either Chaos or Gaia created the universe as we know it, or Ouranos and Tethys gave birth to the first beings.



FAMOUS PEOPLE

5 Dramatic Deaths of Viking Warriors (Video)

The Viking Age, spanning from the late 8th to the mid-11th century, was a time of conquest, exploration, and mythic heroism.



UNEXPLAINED PHENOMENA

Mysterious Lake Monster Causes Underwater Eruption (Video)

In June 2017, kayakers in Washington encounter a strange occurrence on Yale Lake.

IMPORTANT EVENTS

The Monumental Fall of Babylon: What Really Shattered the Empire? (Video)

The fall of Babylon was one of the most momentous events in ancient history.

- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- Greece's East Attica In Antiquity: Playground Of Gods, Heroes And Heroines
- Mother and Child Reunion Of Thetis And Achilles
- Seductive Sirens of Greek Mythology and How Heroes Resisted Them
- Celestial Goddess Selene: The Ancient Greek Goddess of the Moon
- The Enduring Legacy of Confucius: 10 Insights into the World's Most Influential Thinker
- Did Nero Really Fiddle While Rome Burned?
- The Greatest Speech in History? Alexander the Great & The Opis Mutiny
- Beethoven Died of Alcoholism, Promiscuity and a Weak Liver
- Thutmose III, the Famed Warrior King of Ancient Egypt
- Tracing the Unknown Origins of the Enigmatic Nomoli Figures
- Starseeds: Psychologists On Why Some People Think They're Aliens Living On Earth
- The Haunted Plague Island of Poveglia: A Dark and Twisted Past
- 10 Great Mysteries Hidden in Famous Paintings (Video)
- Archaeology Enigmas: Four Mystery Doors That Should Never be Opened (Video)
- The Heartbreaking True Story of Pocahontas (Video)
- 5 Dramatic Deaths of Viking Warriors (Video)
- Charting New Territories: 8 Pioneering Ancient Expeditions That Reshaped the World
- Ragnar's Death Song: The Last Words of a Viking King (Video)
- Why Mount Sinai is in Egypt and Other Exodus Enigmas

TOP NEW STORIES

From Citizen to Soldier: Inside the Roman Army's Basic Training (Video)

The Roman Army was one of the greatest fighting forces the world has ever seen. It was an army defined by the discipline, strength and skill of its soldiers.

HUMAN ORIGINS

The Secret Life of an Ancient Concubine

In many ancient cultures and religious traditions, rulers and elite members of society not only had wives, they also had concubines. Concubines normally served a dual purpose – to increase a man's...

ANCIENT PLACES

Mysterious Map Emerges at the Dawn of the Egyptian Civilization and Depicts Antarctica Without Ice – Who Made It?

On a chilly winter day in 1929, Hallt Edhem, the Director of Turkey's National Museum, was hunched over his solitary task of classifying documents. He pulled towards him a map drawn on fine deer skin. As Hallt opened the chart to its full dimensions (two feet by three feet wide or 60 X 90 cm) he was surprised by how much of the New World was depicted on a map which dated from 1013.

- Why Masks Depicting England's Guy Fawkes Were Banned in Saudi Arabia
- The Ancient Art of Balinese Salt Production: A Tradition Preserved (Video)
- An Elaborate Affair: Getting Dressed as an 18th Century Gentleman (Video)
- Island Near Spain Reveals Evidence of Hallucinogenic Use in 1,000 BC
- From Babylon to Christianity: Feeding into the Eucharist
- Easter Rebirth: How Rabbits and Eggs Came to Symbolize New Life (Video)
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- The origins of human beings according to ancient Sumerian texts
- The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I
- Evidence that Noah's Ark Landed on a Mountain 17 Miles South of Ararat
- The Monumental Fall of Babylon: What Really Shattered the Empire? (Video)
- Residence of 8th Century Japanese Prince Toneri Uncovered
- The Highly Advanced and Mysterious Ancient Civilization of the Nok
- Tulum: Maya City of the Dawning Sun, a Caribbean Paradise
- Island in the Clouds: Is Mount Roraima Really A 'Lost World' Where Dinosaurs May Still Exist?

MYTHS & LEGENDS

The Ancient Pagan Origins of Easter

Easter is a festival and holiday celebrated by millions of people around the world who honor the resurrection of Jesus from the dead, described in the New Testament as having occurred three days...

ANCIENT TECHNOLOGY

Medieval Warfare Unleashed: Discovering the Arsenal of a Knight (Video)

The medieval knight was known for their impressive arsenal of weapons, each with its own unique purpose on the battlefield. Swords were the most iconic weapon of the knight , but other melee weapons...

OPINION

The Truth Behind the Christ Myth: Ancient Origins of the Often Used Legend – Part I

What is the origin of the legend of the Greatest Son who was born of a virgin on December 25th? I am sure you are familiar with this legend which states that he was born in a manger surrounded by shepherds ...

- The Stolen Treasure of Montezuma
- Adventist Adventurer Claimed to Have Found Ark of the Covenant Beneath Crucifixion Site
- Theia—Greek Goddess of Light, the Sun, the Moon, and Wisdom
- What is Shambhala? Understanding the Mysterious Kingdom of Shambhala
- The sacred symbol of the Djed pillar

- The Evidence is Cut in Stone: A Compelling Argument for Lost High Technology in Ancient Egypt
- Unleashing the Fury of the Khopesh: A Look at Egypt's Deadliest Weapon (Video)
- 150,000-Year-Old Pipes Baffle Scientists in China: Out of Place in Time?
- 6,000-Year-Old Fishhook Indicates Shark Was on the Menu
- The Chilling Messages Encoded in Egyptian Tombs (Video)

- Library in Stone: The Ica Stones of Professor Cabrera – Part I
- Two Sides to Every Story: The North American Martyrs Stones and Indigenous/ Roman Catholic Relations
- The Origins of the Faeries: Encoded in our Cultures – Part I
- Curse of the Buried Pearl: The Hunt for Ancient Treasures – Part I
- The Enigma of the Shugborough Inscription

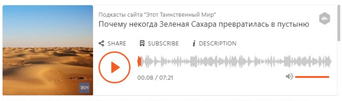
OUR MISSION

At Ancient Origins, we believe that one of the most important fields of knowledge we can pursue as human beings is our beginnings. And while some people may seem content with the story as it stands, our view is that there exist countless mysteries, scientific anomalies and surprising artifacts that have yet to be discovered and explained.

The goal of Ancient Origins is to highlight recent archaeological discoveries, peer-reviewed academic research and evidence, as well as offering alternative viewpoints and explanations of science, archaeology, mythology, religion and history around the globe.

We're the only Pro-Archaeology site combining scientific research with out-of-the-box perspectives.

By bringing together top experts and authors, this archaeology website explores lost civilizations, examines sacred writings, tours ancient places, investigates ancient discoveries and questions mysterious happenings. Our open community is dedicated to digging into the origins of our species on planet earth, and question wherever the discoveries might take us. We seek to retell the story of our beginnings.



ANCIENT IMAGE GALLERIES

Почему некогда Зеленая Сахара превратилась в пустыню?

11.08.2021 от RandomV

Некогда читать? Тогда слушай:

Сахара, самая большая пустыня в мире, занимает треть африканского континента. В древности, несколько тысяч лет назад, эта обширная территория была плодородным и зеленым миром.

Потом что-то случилось, и Зеленая Сахара превратилась в гигантскую пустыню.

Сегодня есть достаточно доказательств того, что пустыня Сахара когда-то была экосистемой пастбищ и была гораздо более влажным местом, чем сегодня.

Итак, что вызвало это серьезное изменение климата?

Большинство ученых считают, что Сахара высохла из-за изменения орбиты Земли. Это изменение повлияло на солнечную инсоляцию и количество электромагнитной энергии, которую Земля получает от Солнца. Инсоляция показывает количество солнечного света, падающего на определенную область поверхности в определенное время. Это, в свою очередь, зависит от таких факторов, как географическое положение, время суток, время года, ландшафт и местная погода.

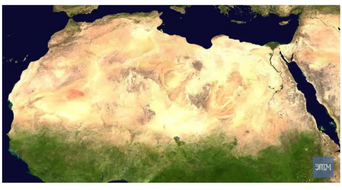
Ученый-климатолог Гэвин Шмидт из Института космических исследований имени Годдарда (НАСА) сказал, что около 8000 лет назад орбита Земли немного отличалась от сегодняшней. Наклон изменился с 24,1 градусов до нынешних 23,5 градусов.

"Кроме того, раньше Земля наиболее близко подходила к Солнцу в северном полушарии летом в августе, – сказал Шмидт. – Сегодня максимальное приближение происходит в январе. Получается, что раньше лето на севере тогда было теплее, чем сейчас".

Изменения наклона орбиты Земли и прецессии (или колебательного движения) происходят из-за гравитационных сил, исходящих от других тел Солнечной системы.

Чтобы понять, что именно происходит, представьте вращающийся волчок, который слегка потревожили. Как и волчок, Земля тоже немного покачивается вокруг своей оси вращения. Этот наклон изменяется между 22 и 25 градусами примерно каждые 41 000 лет, в то время как прецессия изменяется примерно за 26 000 лет. Эти циклы были достаточно точно определены астрономами и подтверждены геологами, изучающими записи океанических отложений.

"Если вы возьмете достаточно длинный временной ряд, который будет хорошо датирован, вы сможете увидеть частоты в данных, которые соответствуют периодам, предсказанным этой теорией", – пояснил Шмидт.



Хотя исследователи и согласны с тем, что Сахара когда-то была зеленым местом, но до сих пор широко обсуждается, как произошел переход.

Из-за отсутствия палеоэкологических данных ученым часто приходится прибегать к моделированию климата.

Так, в 1999 году группа немецких исследователей использовала компьютерное моделирование для создания модели климата Земли тысячи лет назад. Они пришли к выводу, что изменение климата в Сахаре произошло внезапно, в течение возможного периода, длиною примерно всего в 300 лет.

Однако есть и другие ученые, которые не согласны с этими расчетами. Новые данные показывают, что восточная часть пустыни Сахара, особенно район возле озера Йоа в Чаде, высыхала медленно и постепенно с середины голоцена.

"Результаты этого исследования заключаются в том, что седиментологические и геохимические свойства озерных отложений подтверждают, что Сахара начала медленно высыхать шесть тысяч лет назад, чтобы достичь нынешнего состояния около 1100 лет назад", – сказал Пьер Франкус, профессор Национального университета. Институт научных исследований в Квебеке, Канада.

А вот Гэвин Шмидт принадлежит к группе ученых, которые считают, что существует достаточно свидетельств, доказывающих внезапные изменения в Сахаре:

"Учитывая очень сильную зависимость растительности от наличия воды, конец "Зеленой Сахары" наступил довольно неожиданно, около 5 500 лет назад, – сказал Шмидт. – Таким образом, очень медленное изменение орбиты привело к резкому коллапсу в этой экосистеме".

Но Сахара – обширная территория, и мы не должны исключать возможность того, что некоторые ее части высохли внезапно, в то время как другим регионам потребовалось больше времени, чтобы превратиться в пустыню.

"Кажется, что высыхание было прогрессивным в нашей области, но это автоматически не означает, что так было и в других регионах, таких как Западная Сахара, – сказал Франкус. – Мы тоже не можем полностью исключить возможность резкого высыхания. Поэтому понимание региональных различий в изменении климата – следующая задача для климатологов".

В качестве примера Франкус упоминает ранний дриас, когда между 12 800 и 11 500 лет назад произошло неожиданно резкое изменение климата на нашей планете.

По данным Национального управления океанических и атмосферных исследований, конец этого периода был особенно резким. В те времена, например, в Гренландии температура повысилась на 10 градусов Цельсия примерно за десять лет.

"Многие ученые считают, что и в будущем возможны резкие климатические изменения, но характер, направление и интенсивность этих изменений, скорее всего, будут зависеть от региона", – сказал Франкус.

Он также отметил, что есть некоторые модели, согласно которым предсказать резкий сдвиг климата вообще не представляется возможным. Кое-кто из ученых считает, что у нас еще недостаточно знаний, чтобы понять процессы, вызывающие эти изменения, прежде всего потому, что трудно смоделировать влажность почвы и покров.

И пока неясно, сколько времени прошло на самом деле, прежде чем вся Сахара превратилась в сплошную пустыню.

Сахара могла высохнуть постепенно или внезапно

Что мы действительно знаем, так это то, что самая большая пустыня в мире всего несколько тысяч лет назад была зеленым цветущим миром. Поэтому, понимая, как изменился климат в прошлом и какие природные силы повлияли на эти изменения, можно определить точную роль, которую поведение человека играет в текущем изменении климата.

"Модели, которые используются для прогнозирования климата в будущем, необходимо протестировать, и использование информации из прошлого – один из способов достижения этой цели", – сказал Франкус.

Сегодня ученые НАСА оценивают изменения наклона оси Земли примерно в 2,6 сантиметра в год. Теперь мы знаем, что изменения наклона орбиты Земли влияют на погоду и наш климат. И эти изменения могут произойти внезапно. Но из всего из этого есть положительный вывод. Возможно, однажды в будущем Сахара снова покроется густыми лесами и плодородными пастбищами.

Конечно же, очень хотелось бы, чтобы остальные континенты при этом не превратились в Сахару.

Читайте также: Пустыне Сахара всего 400 лет, а не 4 тысячи

Email (обязательно)

ПРЕДОСТАВЛЯЯ СВОИ ДАННЫЕ, ВЫ СОГЛАШАЕТЕСЬ НА ПОЛУЧЕНИЕ СООБЩЕНИЙ ПО ЭЛЕКТРОННОЙ ПОЧТЕ. ВЫ МОЖЕТЕ ОТКАЗАТЬСЯ ОТ ПОДПИСКИ В ЛЮБОЕ ВРЕМЯ.

Подписаться

Мы на Яндекс.Дзен

Тоже интересно

Пустыне Сахара всего 400 лет, а не 4 тысячи

Стекло пустыни сформировано ударами древних атомных бомб?

Структура Ришат: "Глаз Сахары" – одно из странных чудес света

Поделиться

Древности, Наука, Статьи

древние катастрофы

Ставение и эмоциональная устойчивость к нему

Чтение книг может улучшить ваше психическое здоровье

Вы должны авторизоваться чтобы опубликовать комментарий.

Любое использование материалов допускается только при соблюдении правил перепечатки и при наличии гиперссылки

© 2023 Этот Таинственный Мир • Создано с помощью GeneratePress

Поиск

Поиск

Популярные записи и страницы

Землей 240 тысяч лет правили 8 царей, пришедших с небес

Что случится, если линии Наска нанести на глобус Земли?

Гораздо проще объяснить отсутствие Луны, чем ее существование

Сверхтяжелая тайна древнего Баальбека

Города, построенные гигантами

Тайна Черной пирамиды на плато Гиза

Массовое заблуждение: реальная причина, по которой мы не можем превысить скорость света

Геополимер против древних высокоточных технологий: Как были сделаны мегалиты?

Чаша Ликурга – доказанные нанотехнологии Древнего Рима

Монолит на Фобосе

Архивы

Выберите месяц

Выберите рубрику

Hapatey Greco
24 Dec 2022

روح النباتات والكائنات وكيفية عمل الخيمياء
الفرعونية القديمة بستخدام الشمس

سعى الخيميائي إلى إعادة ترتيب العناصر الاربعه (هواء, نار, ماء, ارض) لإظهار خصائص مختلفة لنفس المادة من الجوهر ،وهو مبتهج, عندما يعيد شرارة الحقيقة الخفية للمادة الميتة إلى الحياة, على مستوى جديد من الوجود
عندما يتم تنقية العناصر ، يمكن تجميعها مرة أخرى وإنشاء جسم كامل وثابت منها ، والذي يتم تمجيده بعد ذلك, ويكون له تأثير خارق ، وهو التأثير الرائع الذي قصده الله وقام بتضمينه في كل الأشياء التي خلقها "هو" من العناصر الأربعة, بإعادتها إلى كيانها الأول وقوتها الكاملة
واني سأعلمك في المحاضرات القادمه أن تعرف أرواح الأعشاب والأشجار, سر الفنون ، وهو السر الذي يكمن في قلب كل الأسرار المخبأة في فن الخيمياء، وهنا يفهم المرء هذا العمل الرائع
وصف العديد من الأساتذة القدامى الخيمياء بأنها نوع من "الزراعة السماوية". أنا أحب هذا التعريف.لانها معرفه واحده تتفرع الى العديد من الفنون والعلوم ، بما في ذلك الطب وعلم العقاقير. لهذا ايضا, أطلق على الخيمياء اسم "أم العلم والحكمة"
إنه لأمر مدهش أن الخيمياء، التي كانت تعتبر ذات يوم فن وعلم مقدس ، قد سقطت في غموض لدرجة انه البعض يعتقد انها خرافة او اسطورة او درب من السحر. بينما الخيمياء في الحقيقه فن قديم وعلم يتعلق بأسرار الحياة والوعي وتطوره. بتعبير اخر, الخيمياء مرتبطة بتحويل شيء لا قيمة له إلى شيء ذو قيمة كبيرة
من خلال النظريات والممارسات البسيطة التي يمكن لأي شخص القيام بها لإعداد المستخلصات العشبية والمعدنية وارجاعها الي اصلها القديم النقي ومصر تعتبر مسقط رأس الخيمياء من قدم الزمان كما هو معروف في العالم الغربي
ومن هنا نبدأ استكشافنا. فنحن نعمل على توضيح ما اخفوه قديما بما يتعلق بفنونهم ، وتطوير مهاراتهم في علم المعادن والسيراميك والطب والتحنيط العطور والزيوت والاطياب وصناعة النبيذ، الألوان والاحبار الطبيعية، الهندسة وعلم الفلك والتنجيم، هاذا على سبيل المثال لا الحصر.
فان أهمية البحث بعناية في الخيمياء كمصدر للأدوية يتجاوز
بكثير ما يمكن أن تنتجه التكنولوجيا الصيدلانية الحالية, من خلال الخيمياء وجدير بالذكر ان الشمس تعتبر مصدر من المصادر الاساسيه لكل أشكال الحياة والضوء في نظامنا, فهي تشع اشعتها,. والكواكب الاخرى تمتص ما تحتاجه منها ثم تشع الفائض
ذكرت هذا كبدايه ومقدمه للجدد, فيجب رؤية كيف ان الإنسان عالم مصغر لا ينفصل عن بيئته الكونية. مؤكد، وبدون باطل ، أن كل ما في الأسفل له علاقه بما فوق ؛ وما فوق يعتبر قرين ما في الأسفل, ومادتنا تخضع للتخمير وتعفن او تموت من أجل إطلاق جوهرها, وبهذا نقوم بأيصال الأشياء إلى حالة أكبر من الكمال, بالتفوق على المدار, فالبدايه قرينة النهايه, والحياه قرينة الموت, ويجب ان تواجه الماده نار الموت لكي تسمو الى المرحله الروحانيه
كل ما ينتج من عناصر ينقسم إلى ثلاثة ، وهي الملح والكبريت والزئبق. إنه عمل الخيميائي لفصل وتنقية وإعادة توحيد هؤلاء الثلاثة. واحدها هي الخمور، ويرمز له بالزئبق. والاخر هو الزيت, الكبريت, واخيرا يأتي الملح القلوي وتتجلى من خلال أشكال معينة منسجمة مع طبيعتها. يسعى الخيميائي الى عكس تركبها وامالتها الى الحاله الاسمى, بحلها وفصلها وتنقيتها واعادت تجميعها فينتج عن ذلك شيء عظيم, تضاعف قوتها مئات المرات
بمعنى اوضح, يمكن أن توفر لك بعض العلاجات القوية جدًا على طول الطريق. يعد تعلم تحضير الأعشاب بشكل سبارتيجي نقطة انطلاق نموذجية للخيمياء

المخبرية, لان العمل على حجر النبات يوفر الخبرات الازمه للوصول للحجر, لانه يشبه الى حد كبير حجر الفلاسفة.

You, Hapatey Greco and 17 others

1 comment

Like Share

Hapatey Greco

1 mth Like More

Like

HERMETIS
TRISMEGISTI
PHOENICUM-ÆGYPTIORUM
Sed et aliarum Gentium
MONARCHÆ CONDITORIS

sive
TABULA SMARAGDINA à situ temerarijsq;
nunc demum pristino Genio
Vindicata per
WILHELMUM CHRISTOPHORUM
KRIEGSMANNUM.

DEUTER: XXXIII. vers: 13. 14. 16.
Benedictum est à DOMINO terræ ejus pretioso
Coeli fructu, Rore; et ex abysso cubante infer-nè: pretioso fructu proventuum Solis; et pretioso fructu influentiæ Lunæ: pre-tioso deniq; fructu terræ, uberta tes ejus.
Adjectum est
Testamentum Arnoldi de Villa Nova

Like

Sal in genere
acidum: concentratum, dilutum
m. Acidum minerale
Acidum Vitrioli
c concentratum, d dilutum
Acidum Nitri
Aqua fortis
Acidum Salis
Aqua Regis
Acidum floris minerale
Acidum Arsenici
v Acidum Vegetabile
Acidum tartari
Acidum Sacchari
Acetum
a Acidum animale
Acidum urinæ, phosphori
Acidum formicarum
Acidum aereum, atmosphæricum
Sal alcalinus
p Sal alc. purus (Cauſticus)
v. Alcali fixum vegetabile
m Alcali fixum minerale
Alcali volatile
Terra
Lapis
Arena
Calx, p pura (ſufflata)
Calx attrahata (intenſis ignibus)
Terra ponderoſa
Magneſia
FOURFOLD MIRROR OF THE

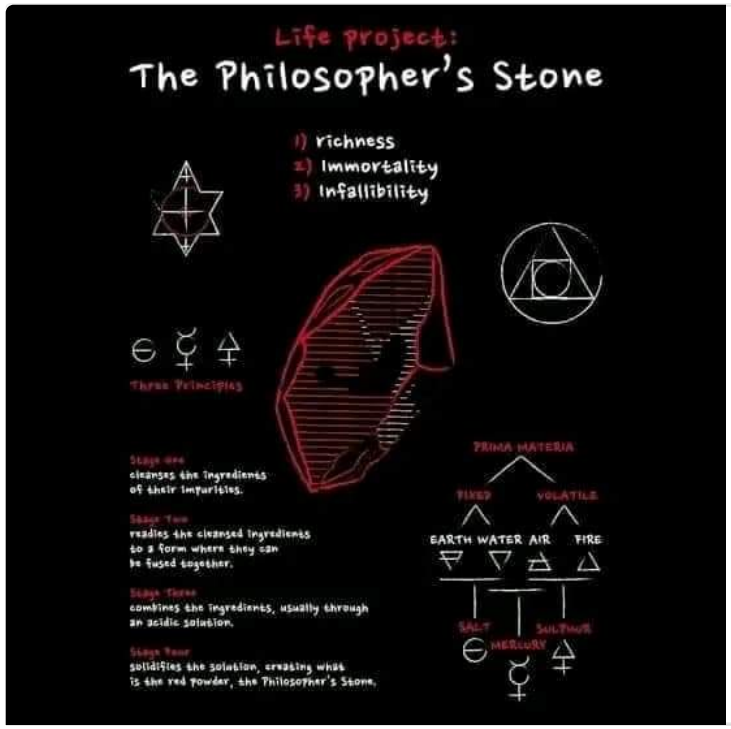
Like



Like

والمشابهة وقد ذكرها دوشام الكاهن في
كتابه الذي وضعه في خواص النبات والاحجار المعدنية
وجعله خاصًا مكتوبًا بهذا القلم فاعلم ذلك واكتمه
فانه من الاسرار المخزونة في صور الاشكال المعدنية حجر
فضة ذهب معدن نحاس مها زيبق جوهر مغنيسيا مرقشيتا
مرقشيتا ذهبي
نحاسي انتيمون
ماء معدني
اسرنج طلق اسرب مغناطيس زهر حديد
جوهر الحديد

Like

Like

Life project:
The Philosopher's Stone
1) richness
2) immortality
3) infallibility
Three Principles
Stage one cleanses the ingredients of their impurities.
Stage Two
readies the cleansed ingredients to a form where they can be fused together.
Stage Three combines the ingredients, usually through an acidic solution.
Stage Four
solidifies the solution, creating what is the red powder, the Philosopher's Stone.
PRIMA MATERIA FIXED VOLATILE EARTH WATER AIR FIRE
SALT
SULPHUR
MERCURY

Like

facebook Sign Up
Email or Phone
Password
Log In
Forgot account?

Moorish History - التّاريخ المَغربي المُورِي
14 hrs ·

#تفاحات_ذهبيات_لاحظهن_مؤرخون_بمراكش؟

▪عندما نفتح كتاب Relation de captivité dans les royaumes de Fez et de #Maroc لمؤلّفه الفرنسي "جيرمان مويط" #Germain_Mouette الذي سقط أسيرًا في يد المغاربة بالقرن 17م.. وقصّ لنا مغامرته والمعاناة التي كابدها هناك.. نلاحظ في وصفه لمدينة #مراكش أنه تحدّث عن قصرها العظيم وقدّم له وصفًا على النحو التالي:

▪""وهناك قصر جميل يحتوي على مساكن نساء الملك، وهو أفخم ما في أفريقيا بأسرها"".. ثم يستمر Mouette في وصفه:

▪""خصص له مولاي #أحمد_الذهبي كل ما كان يملك من ذهب.. جعله صفائح تغطي جميع جدران القاعات وحائطياتها. المسامير والمحاور والمساحيق والمزالج والأقفال كلها من الفضة المموهة بالذهب"".. ثم يضيف: ""وفي أعلى البرج الكبير #ثلاث_تفاحات من ذهب في #غاية_الضخامة، مثقبة في عدة مواضيع بطلقات بندقيات، تعتبر مرصودة""

▪وعندما نفتح كتاب #ليون_الأفريقي - الحسن الوزّان "وصف أفريقيا" نجد ذكرًا أيضا لنفس التفاحات الثلاث الذهبية في الفصل الذي تحدث فيه المؤرخ المغربي عن مدينة مراكش #Marrakech إذ يقول:

▪"" تملك هذه المدينة قصبة لا يقل اتساعها عن مدينة، مع أسوار سميكة ومتينة وأبواب بديعة جدًا بني جانباها وأسقفها من الحجر المنحوت وصنعت مصاريعها من الحديد».

▪ثم يضيف "ليون الأفريقي" قائلًا: ""ويقوم في وسط القصبة جامع جميل جدًا.. تعلوه منارة فخمة رشيقة، في قمتها ساق من حديد انتظمت فيه #ثلاث_تفاحات من الذهب تزن مائة وثلاثين ألف دينار افريقي"".

▪وكما هو واضح... فلقد لاحظ كل من "جيرمان مويط" بالقرن 17م و"ليون الأفريقي" بالقرن 16م.. هذه التفاحات #الذهبيات_الثلاثية الضخمة الموجودة بقصر مراكش كما عند مويط أو قصبة مراكش كما عند الحسن الوزّان...

▪والحديث هنا عن ما يعرف بـ"الجامع الكبير" أو "جامع القصبة" أو "جامع مولاي اليزيد" الذي يعود زمن تشييده إلى فترة #الموحدين خلال حكم "يعقوب المنصور الموحدي".

▪إذن... ما سر تلك التفاحات الذهبية الثلاث التي إختفت الآن؟ ... والتي قال عنها "جيرمان مويط" أنها #مرصودة أي أنها #محمية الى حد ان هذه الحماية ارتبطت بالأرواح والأساطير.. مما يوحي بأهميتها؟!

▪المصادر بالتعليق الأول!

Moorish History - التّاريخ المَغربي المُورِي
#Moorish_History

> #تفاحات_ذهبيات_لاحظهن_مؤرخون_بمراكش؟ ▪ When we open the book of Relation de captivité dans les royaumes de Fez et de #Maroc by his French author ' ' Germain Mouette " #Germain _ Mouette who fell captivated in the hands of Moroccans in the 17th century. His adventure and the suffering he

Pages Liked by This Page

- The Rise of Moroccan Patriotism
- Khansa Batma
- Al-Mohaid المحايد

Recent Post by Page

Moorish History - التّاريخ المَغربي المُورِي
Today at 11:01 AM

وصفه▪ #شلخ_كلخ_أغبى_ثائر_وأشنق_الكلاخ_من_إسمه أحمد بن خالد الناصر... See More

617 87 Comments 121 Shares

Share

Moorish History - التّاريخ المَغربي المُورِي
Today at 8:30 AM

؟ ▪عندما#تفاحات_ذهبيات_لاحظهن_مؤرخون_بمراكش نفتح كتاب Relation de ... See More

480 64 Comments 140 Shares

Share

PDFmyURL

suffered there.. We note in his description of the city of #Marrakesh that he talked about its great palace and described it as follows: ▪ "" There is a beautiful mansion that contains the dwellings of the king's women, which is the most luxurious in all of Africa "".. Then Mouette continues to describe it: ▪ "" My Lord #Ahmed _ Al-Zahaby devoted to him all the gold he had.. He made it laminate covering all the walls and walls of halls. Spikes, axes, powders, powders, lapses, and locks are all gold camouflaged silver "".. Then he adds: "" And at the top of the big tower #three _ apples _ of _ gold #very _ huge, perforated in several topics with shots Guns, considered spotted "" ▪ When we open the book #LeonAfrican - Al-Hassan Al-Wazan " describe Africa " we also find a male of the same three golden apples in the chapter in which the Moroccan historian spoke about the city of Marrakech #Marrakech says: ▪ "" This city has a cane that is no less than a city, with thick and solid walls and very cool doors built its side and ceilings from stone carved and made its iron shutters ". ▪ Then the African Lyon adds: "" And in the middle of the reed, he rises a very beautiful mosque.. He is a luxurious, graceful lighthouse, at the top of a leg of iron in which a #three _ apples of gold weighs a hundred and a hundred Thirty thousand African dinars "". ▪ As it is clear... Germain Moyt, in the 17th century and African Lyon, have noticed these apples. #hugethreesomeindictions At the Palace of Marrakesh as at Moyt or the Marrakesh reed as at Al-Hassan Al-Wazan ▪ Talking here about what is known as the " Grand Mosque " or " Mosque of Kasba " or " Mosque of Moulay Yazid " whose construction dates back to the period of #Al-Mawhdin during the " Yacoub Al-Mansour Al-Mawhdi " rule. ▪ so... what's the secret of those golden apples that are gone now? ... Which Germain Moyt said is #spotted, meaning it is #protected to the extent that this protection has been linked to souls and myths.. suggesting its importance?! ▪ Sources in the first comment! @[1192631567562675:274:Moorish History - التّاريخ المَغرِبي المُورِي] #Moorish_History

Translated

Moorish History - التّاريخ المَغرِبي المُورِي

Yesterday at 11:37 AM

أخطأ الرومان ▪..#الرومان_و_الأمازيغ_وجها_لوجه كثيرا.. لما هبّ...س# See More

811 110 Comments 146 Shares

Share

English (US) · Español · Português (Brasil) · Français (France) · Deutsch

Privacy · Terms · Advertising · Ad Choices · Cookies · More
Facebook © 2021

480 64 Comments 140 Shares

Share

See more of Moorish History - التّارِيخ المَغرِبي المُورِي on Facebook

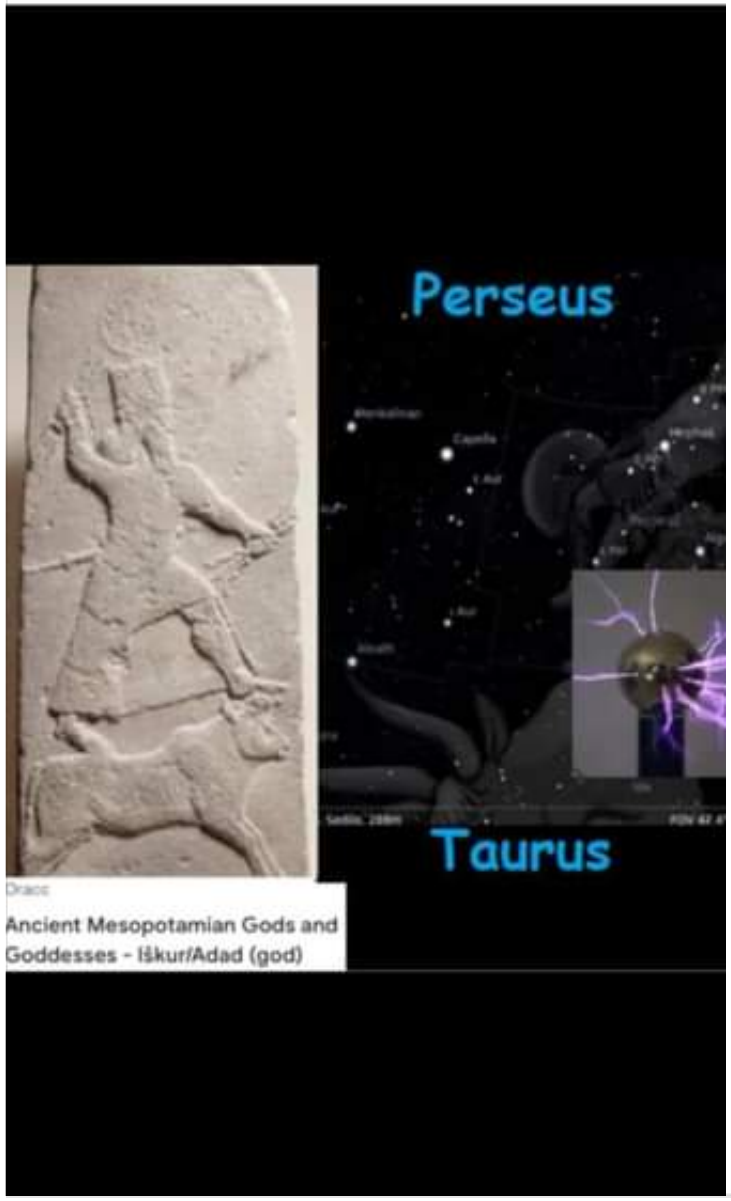
Log In or Create New Account

PDFmyURL.com - convert URLs, web pages or even full websites to PDF online. Easy API for developers!

Mediterranean Ley Lines
9 hours ago

Cold plasma

You and 1 other



3 shares

Like Comment Share

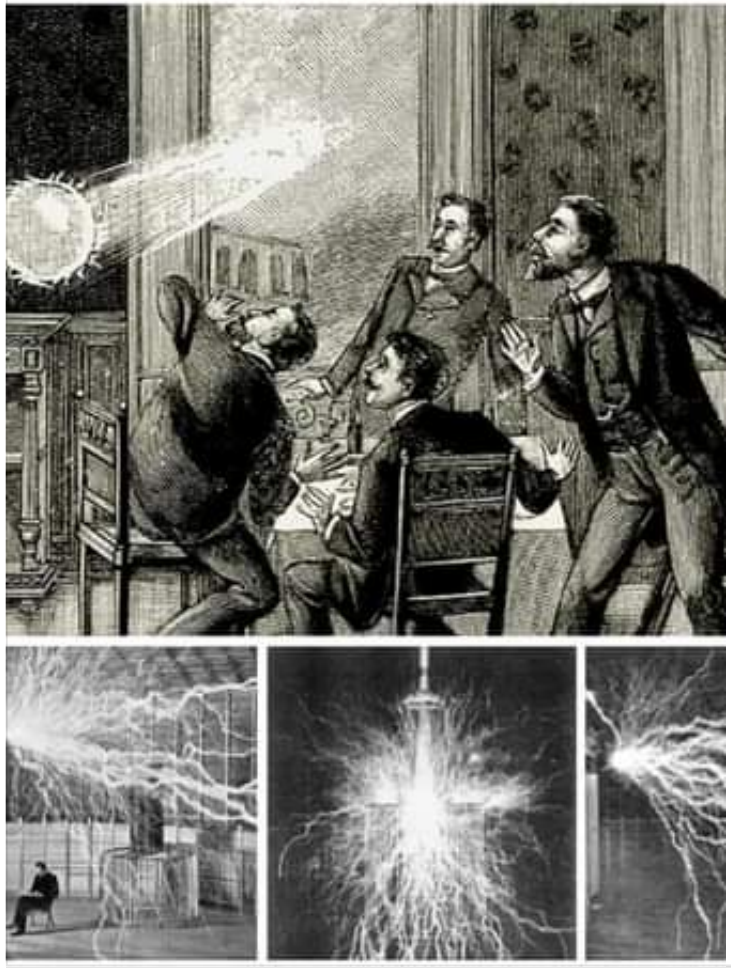
3 shares

Write a comment...

Mediterranean Ley Lines's post

1

Like Comment



Write a comment...

Dr. Nikola Tesla · Follow

4 d ·

Nikola Tesla Produced Ball Lightning In Hi
Experiments At Colorado Springs

... See more

1

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Mediterranean Ley Lines
17 Oct ·

n Ley Lines to Oudin Coil and the current rest of the science for the Cold Plasma, sing through Saint Erasmus (... See more

WORTHOPEDIA® • TO

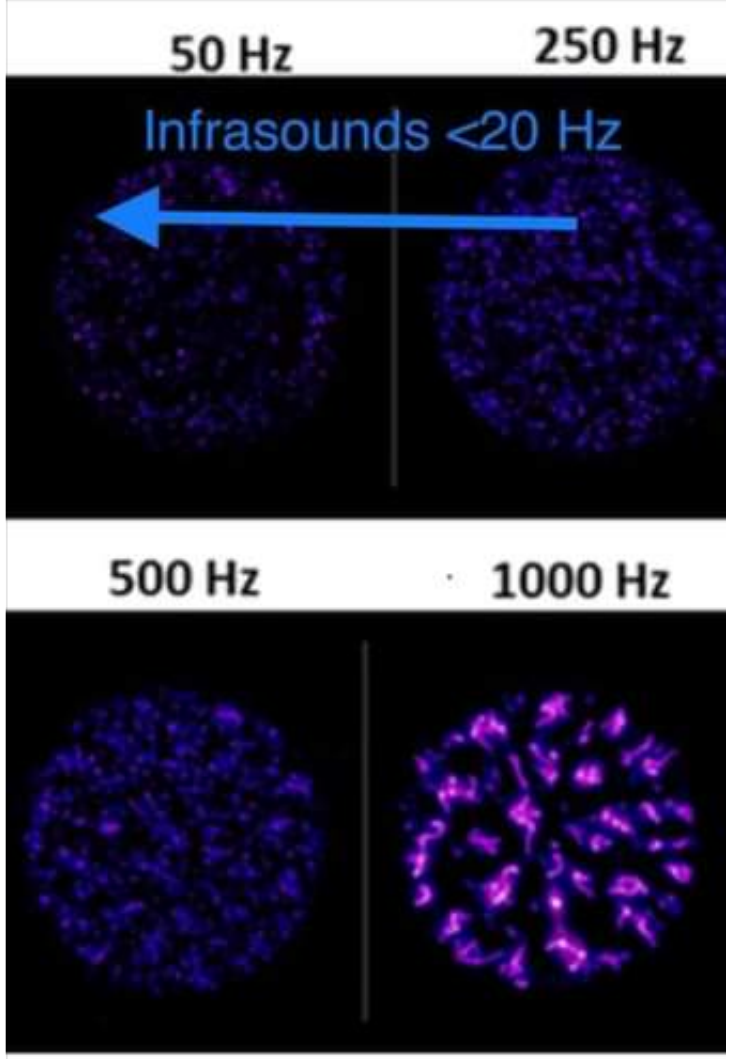
HV OUDIN
DEMONST
APPERATU
COMPLETI

2

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Mediterranean Ley Lines's post



1

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Mediterranean Ley Lines's post

isposizione dei filamenti di plasma freddo a verse frequenze di impulsi a microsecondi. Cred aboratorio di Theresa Freeman presso la Thoma efferson University.

2

Like Comment

Write a comment...

Mr. Imhotep
This coincides with everything we've been saying for a long time. The "Mediterranean race" is the Black African race that we still see today in the southern parts of Africa. People either assimilated, got exterminated or migrated south. That's what happened over there.

Black people originally lived in the green Sahara. When the desert appeared they migrated towards the closest hospitable spots. Some of them went north and started over. Black people have always lived there. When describing Libya next to the southern sea, Herodotus says that it is the country of the Ethiopians, meaning Black Africans.

Mobile Uploads · 12 Jan at 13:57 ·

View full size · More options

Like Comment Share

3K

1,951 shares

Write a comment...

Post

Rahn Wesleigh

Careful Misterhotep. One thing I've learned from your page is that the white people stalking it, strongly believe that calling someone Black could mean anything. But calling someone white is perfectly legit

52

on Wed Like Reply More

John Bender-Sa... replied · 21 replies

Kip Humphreys

So the story of Troy from Homer's Iliad and odyssey states that Hector and Paris were cousins to a lesser king of Egypt, Memnon. Memnon was a warrior king that ruled Ethiopia and rivaled the might of Achilles. He was sent under a defensive pact to protect a vassal of Egypt, which was Troy. The ruins of Troy were found in northwest Turkey. This puts the borders of the Egyptian empire much further than historians care to admit. They had sophisticated ship technology as well, that goes back prior to 4500 years ago.

It's easy to speculate that they were spread across the entirety of the Mediterranean, and just based off genetic trees that lead back to Africa. This could be how the America's and Australian continents were inhabited. Is it coincidence that both the pantheon of the native Americans and Egypts chief deity were God's of the sun and great pyramids were built in both civilizations? There's alot more but give me yalls thoughts?

36

on Wed Like Reply More

Kip Humphreys replied · 33 replies

Ashenafi Debele

what is the meaning of migration you always repeat you are wrong my brother black are indigenous but Australia's and other white living in south Africa, Kenya and Zimbabwe etc are migrant people Aethiopia is the Afro-Asiatic word Aethiopia (Atoobiyyaa) means the largest area and the largest population but you always try to convince us Aethiopia is black which is completely wrong definition used by evil society my brother refer strabo geography according strabo geography Aethiopia the the second largest country in the world as to when the world is divided in to four parts and there is no the word Africa in his book but Aethiopia

12

on Wed Like Reply More

Nathan Dill replied · 19 replies

Sam Albert

The original inhabitants of North Africa at the time of Herodotus were Berber or Amazigh related peoples the Egyptians depicted 'Lybians' in their art if you want to see how they looked. The Berber langauage and genetic lineages are unique to North Africa and distinct from Eurasians.

10

on Thu Like Reply More

Sam Albert replied · 4 replies

Davis W Clark

Explore the true history rather than the history they told us. It is right before our eyes hidden in plain sight because they knew we would listen to what they told us rather than research it for ourselves. That's how they indoctrinated us and undermined historical events and facts. They taught us to trust what they said only to trick us into believing they had our best interests at heart. When in essence they only desired to control us by what they limited us from learning

2

on Thu Like Reply More

John O Afolayan

The "Ancient Aethiopia" simply represent and described the vast "Atlantic Ocean" hemisphere. And it would be a Complete error for any historian or Philosopher to limit it to the present Ethiopian state or North Africa region only.

The vastness of the Ancient Aethiopia was bigger than the present African geographic representation. It shares borders with the Indian Ocean, the Pacific Ocean and the Mediterranean.

The word "AFrica" did not exist and was not Applicable THEN to describe the Ancient Indigenous Aethiopians or Atlantic Negroes...

But the Fact is that ... The Ancient Aethiopia or Atlantic hemisphere is bigger and vast than the present African geography and No greek or western historian will come and tell us False narrative of our historical heritage.

We know who we are and we are proud of our heritage.

10

on Wed Like Reply More

View previous replies

Author

Mr. Imhotep

John O Afolayan I think you didn't understand the message. The post is proving that the majority of Black people lived in North Africa before migrating south.

3

on Wed Like Reply More

View next replies

.

Write a reply...

Reply

Mrmyau Matspispispis

1st Africa and Asia ,as well Caucas were on the Balcans. Europe is Thracian name too. Later many names were ,,moved"" to new location. Also, bear in mind, many indigenous peoples that once lived and later disappeared were replaced by others who adopted their name and so on.

2

on Wed Like Reply More

Reece Pridgen

1000%. The Etruscans, Iberia even Troy! This is why King Memnon of Ethiopia whom the GREEKS called a DEMI GOD was written out of the Epic of Troy. The question would have been asked, WHY WOULD A ETHIOPIAN KING ASSIST TROY! Answer: Family Ties.

17

on Wed Like Reply More

Joe Smith replied · 12 replies

Monad Unimundal

'Africa' as a word & concept did not exist at the time discussed. Up until the 16th century it was known as 'the land of Prestor tor John ' . 'Aethiopians' were never considered 'black' (as stated before 'black' does not exist in nature & is a political term). You need to understand culture & language before making gross generalisations.

9

on Wed Like Reply More

Banele Smooth... replied · 15 replies

El Urban

Did you know that the Greeks referred to North Africa the Maghreb as Aethiopia in that era so of course the people of north Africa when they called it Aethiopia were indigenous to it. In this era they never travelled any further south of the Sahara so they weren't referring at all to it's inhabitants they were speaking of the Maghreb/North Africa and notice he also speaks of reaching the shores of Aethiopia? Yeah not crossing the Sahara.

5

on Wed Like Reply More

Michelle Edwards

Wheres the descendants of the North African race?

5

on Wed Like Reply More

on Wed Like Reply More

Room Byll Guer... replied · 5 replies

Top fan

Vusi Innocent Mahlangu

Let the Ethiopian people comment coz they are the ancient uncolonized people 3

on Wed Like Reply More

Ashenafi Debele replied · 11 replies

Top fan

Cheikh Alamina Nga

In what books did he say that please. Need thé information for my work

21 hrs Like Reply More

John Smith replied · 1 reply

Mansa Diogu

Take a look. If you do not recognize the names of the people, then you have some work to do. The same people who are/were in Ancient Mauritania, Numidia, Zeugatania, etc. can be traced all the way back to Ancient Arabia. During that time, it was only the dark skinned race. You have to know who they are/were. There is a researcher who is proving this today. She teaches her research and it so far can not be disputed. Zoom in with your browser so that you can blow the map up. Look at the names of the people. They are there. https://upload.wikimedia.org/wikipedia/commons/5/54/1855_Spruneri_Map_of_North_Africa_in_Ancient_Times_%28_Carthage%2C_Numidia%2C_Alexandria_%29_-_Geographicus_-_AfricaNorth-spruneri-1855.jpg

upload.wikimedia.org

upload.wikimedia.org

on Thu Like Reply More

Andrew Adejo Audu

Africans lived everywhere including north Africa and south Sahara inclusive... #ProudlyAfrican 13

on Wed Like Reply More

Kuni Kuptah Lengtu

I still don't believe with Greek philosophers, they're all layers and destroyers of Africa with there false his-story 8

on Wed Like Reply More

Štěpán Pytlík replied · 1 reply

Oyetunde Adeyi Thomas
Truth about the Black race crushed to the ground is rising up again. I am black and proud of my Ancestors. 6

on Wed Like Reply More

Oyetunde Adeyi... replied · 4 replies

Bee-Fry IV
Herodotus'NEVER' existed

He's nothing more than Greek Mythology (lies) 12

on Wed Like Reply More

Tanirt Dihya replied · 11 replies

Marcus Aaron Anderson
It wasn't always a desert it was once called the fertile valley for a reason.

on Wed Like Reply More

Yaw Annor
Lesson come home and help make Sahara a forest thank you

on Thu Like Reply More

Diandre Smith
Andaman and Nicobar Islands,who are the inhabitants? 1

on Wed Like Reply More

Akash Krishna... replied · 1 reply

Louis Gaweseb
Wow, and he believe that? 1

on Wed Like Reply More

Roy Morien
Fascinating history. But why are Europeans north of the Mediterannean white and not black?

on Thu Like Reply More

Max Her replied · 4 replies

EA Hewett
Might want to brush up on your geography, bubba...Etheiopia..ie the horn of Africa is not Northern Africa..it is very much sub Saharan. Why are you so unhappy with who you are and where you come from ....seems to me this is cultural appropriation. Guess maybe you need to do that because no sub Saharan African ever invented the wheel or a written language. Could be a few people with Negroid features ended up in Egypt because even back then they were selling one another into slavery

on Fri Like Reply More

Vin Dimitry
The elevation of today's generation if I can make em

on Wed Like Reply More

Top fan

Eng'r Atodo Isaac
Black Africans never invested in historical research those that did used it to their advantage to write the false narrative we see today.

3

on Wed Like Reply More

Tony Opondo replied · 8 replies

Izuchukwu Enemuoh
Africa continent is the mother of all continents cause she never shifted in her position during the division of earth. Africans have 3 skin colors the dark , light and albinos, Africa is mother of all race.

10 hrs Like Reply More

Sallie Hadley
Why is it to hard for people to accept that black man was the original man?

7

on Wed Like Reply More

Max Her replied · 7 replies

Lila Brown

Duh what do you know about America? We are not Africans. We are ENGLISH speaking (thanks to the Moors, ENGLISH/Christian order) and indigenous to America.

on Thu Like Reply More

Ricky Bobbey replied · 2 replies

Cepheus Agenor

Ethiopia; Land of Origins

on Fri Like Reply More

View more comments…

ВОЕННЫЙ ФОКУС РОССИЙСКО-УКРАИНСКАЯ ВОЙНА

"88 дней ада": в США выпустили комикс о волонтере, вывозившем людей из Мариуполя

09 января 2023 в 15:37

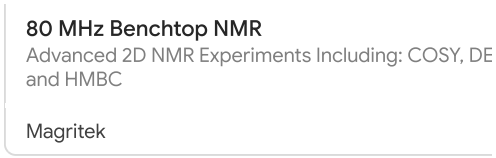

Фото: Insider | Обложка комикса

Волонтер Игорь Талалай был задержан российскими военными на блокпосте 18 марта, после чего почти три месяца провел в пыточных на оккупированных территориях Украины.

Американское издание Insider опубликовало комикс под названием "88 дней ада" об украинском волонтере Игоре Талалае, который почти три месяца провел в пыточных на оккупированных территориях Украины. Рассказ написал лауреат Пулитцеровской премии Энтони Дель Коль.

После начала полномасштабного вторжения России мужчина начал эвакуировать людей из Мариуполя. 18 марта 2022 года российские войска задержали его на блокпосте и доставили в фильтрационный лагерь.

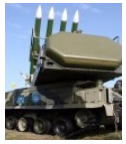
Игорь Талалай рассказал, что ему и другим пришлось пережить жестокие допросы, ужасные условия и произвольные задержания российскими войсками. Он провел почти три месяца в "фильтрации" в Донецкой области и рассказал о том, что происходит с украинцами, попадающими в систему, и какова жизнь, когда ты выходишь из нее.

После освобождения из плена его свидетельства задокументировала организация "Медийная инициатива за права человека".

Историей украинского волонтера заинтересовался американский автор Этони Дель Коль, который в 2022 году получил Пулитцеровскую премию за комикс о женщине, сбежавшей из китайского лагеря для уйгуров. Он записал интервью с мужчиной и превратил его в комикс.

В комиксе описывается жизнь Игоря Талалая за месяц до полномасштабного вторжения РФ и ее изменения после 24 февраля: волонтерство, задержание, фильтрационный лагерь, пытки. Россияне перевозили мужчину в разные колонии, постоянно били и допрашивали. Однако 14 июня оккупанты освободили его и отправили на улицу без денег и вещей. 27 июня он смог добраться в Днепр и увидеть своих родных.

Напомним, 28 ноября стало известно, что новым героем популярных комиксов DC Comics стал персонаж-украинец по имени Павло Ступка. Он может генерировать ядерную энергию и оставаться вечно молодым. По сюжету украинец будет сражаться с суперзлодеем Вагнером.



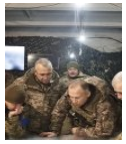
Шукаєте Якісну Мете
Simvolt

Теги: #УКРАИНА #КОМИКСЫ #ВОЛОНТЕР #ВОЙНА В УКРАИНЕ #ФИЛЬТРАЦИЯ #ФИЛЬТРАЦИОННЫЙ ЛАГЕРЬ

Материалы по теме

Сегодня 12:56

Киев запросил у Тбилиси ранее переданные комплексы "Бук": Грузия отказала, — дипломат



Сегодня 12:51

"Первоисточник — власти": в Кремле прокомментировали новости о новой волне мобилизации в РФ

Сегодня 11:17

Репортаж из Соледара. Штурмовые группы российских зэков идут вперед до полного уничтожения

28 ноября 2022 18:59

Новым героем комиксов DC стал украинец Павло Ступка (фото)

07 ноября 2022 20:11

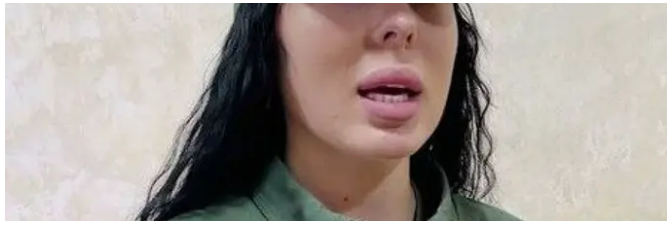
Маникюр из комикса. Тренд осени 2022

24 декабря 2022 09:58

"Кое-что вкусное": Сергей Притула рассказал о планах на следующий большой сбор средств

над Россией

НОВОСТИ ПАРТНЕРОВ



В Москве зверски убита ведущая "Русского радио"

Охранник Зеленского стал настоящей звездой интернета

Роскошный отдых во время войны: Плантовская попала в скандал

Чемпионка из РФ проговорилась, зачем россияне воруют стиралки

ФОКУС

Все права на материалы, опубликованные на данном ресурсе, принадлежат ООО "ФОКУС МЕДИА". Какое-либо использование материалов без письменного разрешения ООО "ФОКУС МЕДИА" — запрещено. При использовании материалов с данного ресурса гиперссылка focus.ua обязательна.

Данный ресурс — для пользователей возрастом от 18 лет и старше.

FOCUS.UA — больше чем просто новости.

Перепечатка, копирование или воспроизведение информации, содержащей ссылку на агентство ИнА "Українські Новини", в каком-либо виде строго запрещены.

Все материалы, которые размещены на этом сайте со ссылкой на агентство "Интерфакс-Украина", не подлежат дальнейшему воспроизведению и/или распространению в любой форме, кроме как с письменного разрешения агентства.

Материалы с плашками "Р", "Новости партнеров", "Новости компаний", "Новости партий", "Инновации", "Позиция", "Спецпроект при поддержке" публикуются на коммерческой основе.

© 2023 Фокус. Все права защищены.